

Diligent crews work to clear roads

Seven-inch snowfall covers area

Despite seven inches of snowfall Sunday and another light layer Monday, Hereford residents are enjoying safe driving for the most part on local thoroughfares thanks to the efforts of Texas Department of Highways and Transportation and city employees.
Highway department workers reported to work at noon

Sunday after the snow began falling that morning. Some 15 hours later they went home after sanding and salting main roads and intersections and helping clear the streets with snow plows.
Likewise, city employees kept busy Sunday after beginning work on city streets at around 6 p.m. The city employees stayed on the job through the night and much of the day Monday.

State highway department employees returned to work at 8 a.m. Monday, and worked until 2 a.m. this morning, again tackling the task of making driving conditions in the area safer.

"I think they (highway dept. workers) are real troopers," Linda White of the highway department said. "I think the public needs to be reminded of the work they do; it's taken for granted so much."

First priority in the city, according to City Manager

Dudley Bayne, is to "clear the main arteries - assuring clear paths to the hospital and fire station and other heavily-traveled streets."

The highway department takes care of both Highway 385 and Highway 60 as well as Park Ave. and Harrison Highway

The city always blades the snow to the curbs, said Bayne. "Some folks think we ought to blade it to the center of the streets, but we have found this creates a hazard as well as causing more damage to the streets."

Bayne explained that as a big bank of snow in the middle of the streets thaws, water runs to the curb and often freezes at night, and the streets are very icy and dangerous. Also, the water freezing on the streets causes more permanent damage to the paving.

After making sure that the main highways are cleared, state employees begin the job of working on the Farm to Market roads Ms. White said.

Sunday's snowfall raised the city's 1982 precipitation total to 17.20 inches, just above the yearly average of 16.95 inches. Another layer of snow Monday raised the city's total for December to 1.55 inches, over an inch above the .53 average precipitation.

After two days of snow over West Texas and the South Plains and heavy thunderstorms that flooded low-lying areas in the southeastern portion of Texas, skies were mostly fair today as another blast of cold air entered the state.

The only cloudiness reported before dawn was over the southern tip of the state and along the Red River on the Oklahoma border.

The National Weather Service called for partly cloudy skies over most of Texas today with a slight chance of snow flurries in the Panhandle. Increasing cloudiness, along with a chance of rain, was expected tonight and Wednesday in South and West Texas.

Bridges and overpasses from El Paso to Abilene and north to Childress and throughout the Panhandle remained coated with ice in the wake of a winter storm that dumped two to seven inches of snow over the area.

The snow storm blanketed Lubbock with six to seven inches of snow, Odessa with three, El Paso with six and Amarillo with up to two inches Sunday.

Two truck drivers were seriously injured when their vehicles ran off an icy Interstate 20 bridge near Big Spr-

Clearing the Way

Although the area just missed a white Christmas by one day, state highway employees and city maintenance personnel saw their holiday cut short when seven inches of snow covered the area beginning Sunday. Those two groups put in long hours Sunday and Monday getting the roads and highways cleared. (Brand Photo).

Historic tractor begins journey

A Hereford tractor was scheduled to start a historic trek to Washington, D.C., this morning from Lubbock.

The tractor, which belonged to Gerald McCathern of Hereford, will be accepted into the Smithsonian Institute as a symbol of a desperate era in American agriculture, according to leaders of the American Agriculture Movement.

McCathern's tractor led the controversial "tractorcade" in 1979 when the Hereford farmer served as "wagon-master" of the AAM march on Washington.

Marvin Meek of Plainview, AAM national chairman, said farmers from 35 states have donated money to buy the tractor from McCathern. The names of the donors will be engraved on a plaque to accompany the tractor on display.

Meek said participating farmers will drive the tractor to Washington on the same route it traveled in 1979. From Lubbock, the tractor was scheduled to go to Amarillo, then east to the Oklahoma border, with farmers in each of the states escorting the tractor along the route.

Clifford Hamilton of Shallowater, an organizer of the Smithsonian placement, said the group has been planning the tractor's acceptance into the institute of American history for about two years.

"The tractor will be driven to the Smithsonian to commemorate the 1979 tractorcade as well as to remind the American people of the importance of agriculture and rural America in the food and fiber processing industry," Meek said.

Prime rate down to 11 percent

NEW YORK (AP) - Chase Manhattan Bank, the nation's third largest commercial bank, today lowered its prime lending rate a half point to 11 percent, the lowest level for the key borrowing charge since August 1980.

It was the first reduction in the prime rate since major banks adopted an 11.5 percent rate on Nov. 22.

The prime is the base upon which banks compute interest charges on short-term business loans. It has been falling since mid-July, when it stood at 16 percent.

A weak economy has reduced loan demand from businesses and has prompted the Federal Reserve Board to foster lower interest rates, economists say.

As a result, the cost of funds for banks has fallen sharply in recent months.

The discount rate, the interest on Fed loans to banking institutions, is 8.5 percent, down from 12 percent in July.

The interest on three-month certificates of deposit in minimum denominations of $100,000, an important source of funds for banks, is 8.7 percent, down from 15.25 percent in late June.

The prime rate reached a record 21.5 percent in December 1980.

Lebanon withdrawal talks begin

KHALDE, Lebanon (AP) - Israeli and Lebanese negotiators joined by U.S. mediators gathered around a blue triangle-shaped table today and began their first face-to-face talks aimed at ridding Lebanon of all foreign armies.

The Israeli negotiator said he hoped the talks would lead to a full peace treaty between Lebanon and the Jewish state.

The opening session under the auspices of U.S. special envoy Morris Draper was broadcast live by Lebanon's state television as it started at 1:30 p.m. (3:30 a.m. EST) at the heavily guarded Lebanon Beach Hotel, where Lebanese, Israeli and U.S. flags fluttered.

Delegates met behind closed doors for five minutes to get acquainted before dozens of reporters and photographers, frisked twice by Israeli and Lebanese security men, were allowed into the conference room on the second floor.

"Our first objective is to seek the restoration of Lebanon's sovereignty and full authority over the whole of its territory," the head of the Lebanese delegation, Antoine Fattal, said in his opening statement in French.

Fattal said all non-Lebanese troops in his country "must withdraw according to a comprehensive plan of evacuation by the terms of a specific and accelerated schedule."

Delivering his opening statement in English, the head of the Israeli delegation, David Kimche, said: "The aim of these negotiations is not to any end any conflict between Lebanon and Israel for no real conflict exists between us."

Kimche, director-general of Israel's Ministry of Foreign Affairs, said he hoped the talks would produce "an agreement which we believe will be a step away from the full, final formal peace treaty we would like to see come about."

Draper, who shuttled between Lebanon and Israel for several weeks to get talks started, called for "imagination and vision on the part of the representatives at this table."

After meeting with reporters for about 45 minutes, the negotiators went

Congressmen bemoan Lame Duck session

WASHINGTON (AP) - The lame-duck 97th Congress has gone, leaving behind a nickel increase in the federal gasoline tax and a residue of bad feeling among senators forced to work until the day before Christmas Eve.

"In the name of God, let us vote and go," pleaded Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, as the Senate quashed one more conservative-led filibuster on an 81-5 vote Thursday and then voted 54-33 to send President Reagan the 5-cent-a-gallon gasoline tax increase he supported.

The administration's interest in the measure was evident.

Vice President George Bush presided over the Senate as it voted, and the White House had offered military planes to fly some senators back to Washington for the vote. The Department of Transportation assisted others by making reservations for them on commercial flights.

There was also an obvious lack of Christmas cheer among senators still at work two days after the House had adjourned.

There was almost unanimous agreement that the president should never have summoned the Congress back into a post-election session which accomplished little and stirred personal animosities in place of holiday spirit.

"We have no reason for pride as we tuck our tails and slink out of this city," said Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark. "Shame, disgust and ridicule have been visited upon this

Travelers urged to stay put as winter storms rage

By The Associated Press

Travelers from Louisiana to Nebraska were begged to stay put as blinding snow, freezing rain and flooded roads stranded hundreds of motorists, forced evacuation of more than 1,300 people and left at least 13 dead.

Snow was falling faster than snowplows could clear it in Nebraska, where a blizzard advisory remained in effect through today. "You can't even see your hand in front of your face out there," said Dan McCaslin, the town marshal in Anselmo, Neb.

Cold air sweeping south from Canada collided with mild air from the Gulf of Mexico creating weather havoc from Colorado to Minnesota and Michigan, with heavy rain continuing for a third day in the Gulf Coast states. More rain was falling today on flood-ravaged parts of Missouri and Illinois.

The death toll from the storm that began over the Christmas weekend rose to 13, including an elderly man who apparently froze to death on his way to pick up a borrowed heater in Federal Heights, Colo.

Up to 10 inches of snow fell on Nebraska in Monday's blizzard, and blowing snow reduced visibility to nearly zero in Kansas, where at least four highways were closed by up to 9 inches of snow.

"We're begging people not to travel," said Bob Munger, a spokesman for the Department of Roads in Nebraska, where drifting snow had blocked some access ramps along Interstate 80, according to amateur radio reports.

A Greyhound bus skidded off the highway near Kearney, Neb., injuring 25 people.

Frustrated state officials pulled snowplows off the roads Monday night. "It's just coming down so fast," said state patrol dispatcher Barb Viergutz in Norfolk.

In Louisiana, state police closed at least 50 roads due to flooding from a band of weekend thunderstorms that dumped as much as 16 inches on parts of the state and spawned several tornadoes in rural areas. There were no injuries from the tornadoes but severe damage was reported in some areas.

National Guard troops were helping evacuate about 400 residents of small communities along the rain-swollen Calcasieu River in

CSF total tops $8,400

Christmas was a little brighter for some needy families in Hereford, thanks to the Christmas Stocking Fund and the sharing spirit of many local residents.

Late contributions pushed the CSF total to $8,417 on Christmas Day, and the amount was about $1,000 above last year's total.

Anonymous members of the CSF organization reported that food and clothing were given to some very needy families and several people were helped with utility bills before Christmas.

There were more requests for help however than there was money to cover those needs, according to Ben Childers, treasurer of the stocking fund. "With the help of our screening committee we tried to help those whose situations were the worse," said Childers.

The screening committee had the help of social workers in getting help to the most needy families. In addition the committee found that some families were not as needy as reported.

The CSF started three years ago when an anonymous group of men decided to form a non-profit organization to help the less fortunate at Christmas time. All of the funds solicited by the newspaper are used in the program. There are no administrative costs.

Schroeter recovering at home

A.J. "Major" Schroeter, prominent businessman and well-known civic leader, was hospitalized with a heart condition over the Christmas holidays, but is expected to return home today or Wednesday to recuperate.

Alex Schroeter, Major's son, reported this morning that his father went to Amarillo Thursday for a checkup, and the heart specialist put him in St. Anthony's Hospital for tests and treatment.

He added that Major was expected to be home today or tomorrow and would be "recuperating at home." Major had lost weight and had fluid in his lungs, according to his son.

Major and his wife, Margaret, are longtime owners and managers of A.O. Thompson Abstract Co.

Pick up of books continuing

Purchasers of the Deaf Smith County history book have until 5 p.m. Friday to pick up their copy at the E.B. Black House according to the project committee.

The office will be open each day this week from 1-5 p.m. to allow book buyers to get their copies. Sue Coleman told the Brand that "quite a few" copies have yet to be picked up.

After Friday, the books will be left at the Deaf Smith County Museum, and can be picked up there.

Ms. Coleman also said that some 150 copies of the books are being prepared for mailing this week to out-of-town purchasers.

Mexican peasants remain in town hall

TOLUCA, Mexico (AP) — Peasants who seized a local town hall because they are angered by government plans to take over communal farmland negotiated with police today in efforts to peacefully end the week-old takeover.

The talks, which began Monday, were apparently proceeding well to end the occupation in Ocoyoacac, about 27 miles west of Mexico City, police spokesman Eliseo Lago Plata said in a telephone interview from Toluca, capital of the state of Mexico.

He said police on Monday released 90 people they arrested Sunday on charges ranging from extortion to property damage after a brief melee when police tried to enter the building. In turn, the peasants released five policemen and three city officials they held hostage. Lago Plata said.

In Ocoyoacac, peasant leaders said the protest stems from the authorization state of Mexico officials gave to expropriate 233 acres of communal farmland, the Mexico City newspaper Excelsior reported. It said more than 600 peasants participated in the town hall takeover.

Lago Plata did not say how many peasants were still in the town hall. He said the government wants the disputed land to build homes and work places "for the peasants' own benefits" in the rural community of 12,000.

Tylenol extortion suspect transferred

NEW YORK (AP) — James W. Lewis, accused of extortion in the Tylenol killings case, has been returned to Chicago where he wants to fight the charges against him, his lawyer says.

Deputy U.S. Marshal Vincent J. Hickey said late Monday afternoon that Lewis would be arraigned in Chicago at 2 p.m. today, but he would give no details of how the move from New York was executed or when Lewis would arrive in Chicago.

Lewis, 36, who had been held at the Metropolitan Correction Center here since his arrest two weeks ago, was taken from the center in a bus Monday morning, according to a source at the facility.

When Lewis' lawyer, Frank Lopez, arrived at the center Monday morning to confer with his client, he found him gone.

Red dye sends robber's plans up in smoke

HOUSTON (AP) — A robber's plans for wealth went up in a cloud of smoke when a packet of red dye hidden in his stolen money exploded in his pocket.

Carlos Arrick Westmoreland, 21, was charged with aggravated robbery Monday and ordered held in lieu of $20,000 bail.

Robbery detective O.G. King said the morning robbery began when a gunman entered a southwest-side savings and loan, rifled a cash drawer and took three bags of coins from a safe.

The gunman wished employees and customers of the savings and loan a happy New Year, then left, King said. He said a teller looked up a moment later to see which way the robber had gone.

"She saw him running around in circles in the parking lot in a cloud of red smoke," King said. He said the robber tried to re-enter the building, but employees locked him out.

New trade measures may ease pressure

TOKYO (AP) — U.S. officials say Japan's latest package of tariff cuts has some symbolic value in easing trade tensions, but will have little real impact on the country's huge market surpluses with the United States and Europe.

Japan acted independently on its own initiative, a U.S. Embassy official who requested anonymity said of the measures approved last Friday by the Japanese Cabinet.

Real actions like this deserve a credit.

But the third trade reform package announced by Japan in a year is expected to have minimal effect on the nation's burgeoning trade surpluses with its major trading partners, and could serve as little more than a diversion against rising anti-Japan protests in some countries.

The latest package of 28 items did not incorporate any action on the key issue of quotas on U.S. beef and citrus products, which are being handled in bilateral talks.

Also, it left for further study the question of remaining non-tariff barriers which have effectively kept a wide variety of foreign products out of Japan.

Analyzing the Japanese plan, the U.S. official said even a sizable cut in tobacco tariffs, from 35 percent to 20 percent, may not necessarily mean an increase in foreign sales in the huge Japanese market for cigarettes because "there are so many other variables."

The U.S. share of Japan's government-controlled tobacco market is only 1.4 percent, and "an awful lot depends on the rules" in determining whether U.S. sales improve, the U.S. official said. The

Burglaries top docket

Two burglaries and a possible child abuse case top the police docket for the holiday weekend.

Hereford police are investigating an incident involving a four year old girl, however enough evidence has not been found to press charges.

Burglaries include theft of a $250 tool box taken from a vehicle at 606 Star on Christmas Day and theft of an $800 color television at 325 Avenue H.

Several of the eight city accidents reported were attributed to slick road conditions on Monday.

Police issued 15 citations, arrested two persons for driving while intoxicated and one for public intoxication.

Obituaries

RUPERTA MENDOZA — Services for Ruperta L. Mendoza, 80, were at 2 p.m. Monday at St. Joseph's Catholic Church with the Rev. James O'Conner, pastor, officiating. Burial was in St. Anthony's Cemetery under the direction of Gililand-Watson Funeral Home.

Mrs. Mendoza died at 5:07 a.m. Saturday at Deaf Smith General Hospital after an illness.

She was born Feb. 19, 1902, in Laredo and moved to Deaf Smith County in 1958. She married Antonio Mendoza in 1931 in Laredo. He died in 1969. Mrs. Mendoza was a housewife and a Catholic.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. W.B. (Kathryn) Finley of Clovis; and two brothers, Sam Strader of Beaumont and R.J. Strader of Clovis.

BILLY ROBERTS — Services for Billy Hayden Roberts, 53, of Amarillo were at 4 p.m. Monday at First United Methodist Church of Hereford with Dr. Clifford Chapel of Gililand-Watson Funeral Home with Cecil Bunch, minister of the 21st Street Church of Christ in Clovis, officiating.

Burial was in West Park Cemetery under the direction of Gililand-Watson Funeral Home.

Mrs. Howe died Saturday at Golden Age Nursing Home in Clovis after a lengthy illness.

She was born May 25, 1896, in Muhlenberg County, Ky. She married Arther L. Howe on June 22, 1935, in Clayton, N.M. He died in 1980. She moved to Hereford from White Deer in 1940 and then moved to Clovis in 1970.

Storms

Allan Parish in Louisiana flooding already had freed about 500 people out of their homes in the Alexandria area and about 800 were evacuated around Monroe.

Some flooding also was reported in Arkansas and around Beaumont, Texas, where the same storm system dumped up to 9 inches late Sunday and early Monday before moving into Louisiana.

Other parts of southeastern Texas received more than 13 inches of rainfall over a two-day period. Up to 60 homes were partially under water Monday in Port Arthur, Texas, and many streets were closed in Pine Bluff, Ark., due to flooding.

In northern Mississippi, rescuers used boats and four-wheel drive vehicles to evacuate flood victims.

The torrential rains moved out of Louisiana later Monday, but thunderstorms continued to lash Illinois, western Kentucky and parts of Iowa, Missouri, Tennessee and Mississippi, including areas where pre-Christmas flooding forced thousands of evacuations along the Mississippi, Missouri and Illinois rivers.

More snow was falling today in Nebraska, South Dakota and Kansas.

Stapleton International Airport in Denver was operating at about 45 percent capacity Monday. Operations weren't expected to return to normal until at least Thursday, said John Schwartz, control tower supervisor.

Travelers were advised to stay home in New Mexico, where up to 25 inches of snow fell in the northeastern mountains and drifting snow driven by gusting winds closed U.S. Highway 87 from Clayton to Raton.

Which foods might prevent cancer

Japanese are most likely to eat fish, vegetables and salt-pickled foods.

Japanese have almost no colon cancer — but a high incidence of stomach cancer.

Japanese who migrate to the United States and start eating more meat and fat also develop a high rate of colon cancer — but a low rate of stomach cancer.

Up to now medical science has focused its attention on the foods that might cause cancer.

Now the National Academy of Sciences and the National Cancer Institute are seeking to identify the foods which might prevent cancer.

So recently did the medical profession consider "health food faddists" to be "kooks and quacks" that it is no small concession for doctors now to acknowledge evidence that the beta-carotene (from carrots) and selenium and vitamins A, C and E may help prevent cancer.

Recently the Wall Street Journal sought to update research relating to beta-carotene (which in the body becomes vitamin A).

Yes, vitamin A appears to inhibit some cancers.

But, vitamin A, in large amounts, is toxic.

As many as 60 homes in an area west of Port Arthur were partially underwater Monday, according to officials with Jefferson County Civil Defense. Water there was five feet deep in some places, residents reported.

Rainfall for the past two days measured more than 13 inches in Nederland, 12 inches in Mauriceville, and more than 10 inches in Bon Weir, Deweyville and Orange.

The heavy rains prompted the weather service to issue flood warnings for the Sabine, Trinity, San Jacinto and Neches rivers, Bayou Anacoco, Pine Island Bayou, Hildebrandt Bayou and Village Creek.

Most of the 500 people living in the community of Port Acres along Hildebrandt Bayou stayed in their homes Monday despite an advisory from the weather service that they should move to higher ground, said Orange County Civil Defense Director Dick Nugent.

There also were personal attacks on conservative North Carolina Republican Sens. Jesse Helms and John East, as well as a few others who tried tenaciously to block the legislation.

"The country burns, while Congress fiddles," said Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., calling for a reform of "arbitrary rules" which he said "invite a tiny minority of the Senate to defy their colleagues by tying chamber members to a Gordian knot."

Helms replied saying many senators had privately told him the attacks were "a lot of garbage." They said, "We're with you, Hang-in there."

The legislation passed Thursday raises the gas-line tax from 5 cents to 6 cents, effective April 1, to provide $3.5 billion a year for a program of highway, bridge and mass transit improvements. Supporters said 170,000 construction jobs would be created, as well as 150,000 more in related industries.

Soon after the bill was passed, Reagan appeared in the White House press room to tell reporters, "I applaud the Congress for their bipartisan support."

He declined to mention that highway improvement revenue legislation would increase the gas-line tax, but he did emphasize a provision of the legislation that will provide up to six weeks of additional jobless benefits for the unemployed.

Final Senate action on the bill ended a two-week struggle that began as a debate over the gas-line tax increase and wound up as a struggle between Helms and East on the one hand, and Majority Leader Howard H. Baker Jr., R-Tenn., on the other.

In Jerusalem, Prime Minister Menachem Begin followed the opening session from his office, his spokesman Uri Porat said. He described Begin's outlook as "positive" despite widespread Israeli skepticism over the value of the talks. State troopers said the accident took place about 1:30 p.m. when a truck driven by David Thomas of North Carolina collided with a cement truck. After Thomas was ejected from the cab, his truck hit a vehicle with which Leonard Posey, of Big Spring, was plowing ice off the bridge.

Both vehicles plunged into the salt bed and Posey was rescued from his burning truck by a passing motorist, troopers said.

More than 200 travelers spent Sunday night in churches and the courthouse in Dalhart, where snow and ice had made driving treacherous. However, all the stranded motorists had left by 8:30 a.m. Monday.

At Wits End

BY ERMA BOMBECK

I love you, Jane Goodall. I really do. I was filled with envy when you went to East Africa in the 60s, to observe the baboons and chimpanzees.

I said, "Why not me, God? I could take the silence, the boredom, the isolation. Why was I chosen to stay behind battling smug, bickering children and aggressive leftovers?"

From time to time I would see you on a special on PBS and for days afterward I would fantasize about climbing into a pair of shorts and faded shirt, fastening my hair in a ponytail (where do you get all those rubber bands?) and ascending to a solitary hill to write down what I saw.

No pantyhose riding around your hips, no gas gauge on E, no shaving your legs (just mangle), no video games, no newspaper in the sporting, no securing the house every night like Fort Knox—just blessed peace and a clean pair of shorts for the next day.

Sometimes, Jane, I'll go for months and not think too much about you, and then the week between Christmas and New Year's comes and I think about you a lot. Like when all the kids are home and two of them are pounding the first eight bars of "Heart and Soul" on the piano for three solid hours. When one of them is lying through the garbage trying to find a sales slip that you burnt with the trash three days ago. When you run up a milk every six hours. When the counter top has wall-to-wall glasses. When putting Christmas stickers on the dog's tail is something to do. When the traffic through your house makes you feel like you're living in a bus station restroom.

I want your job, Jane.

I want to sit quietly while two baboons, or for one another's throat and say, "That isn't my section for playground duty." I see chimpanzees running up and down a sandy beach and know that I don't have to do all the wet towels and sandy sheets.

I want to sit on a hillside and know that the moment I sit down, the phone won't ring.

The more I watch our family, the more non-threatening and civilized baboons become. Obviously you have chosen the easy way out. If you don't believe it, just watch three grown kids fight over who gets use of the car.

I'll be all right in a few weeks. I always recover. But right now, Jane, if I were you, I'd shape up. I'm willing to watch baboons and chimps the rest of my life for a scale.

But one doctor described Christopher William Lemley's chances of survival "as guarded at best."

Dr. Charles Oltorf, a neonatologist at Scott & White Hospital, said the infant, who was listed in critical condition today, stabilized after the attack Monday.

"He's a fighter and I think he'll make it," said Bob Lemley, the infant's father.

The infant, who weighed 1 pound and 13 ounces at birth, suffers from hyaline membrane disease, which prevents his lungs from expanding normally. He is on a respirator.

Dr. David Krauss, director of neo-natology at Scott & White, said the biggest problem facing the infant is low blood pressure, which could affect kidney function.

"I would assess his chances of survival as guarded at best," Krauss said. "If the baby can survive for a week and he starts showing some improvement, his chances for survival are increased."

Christopher was born 170 miles away in Gulf Coast Hospital at Baytown, but was airlifted here because the hospital was unable to provide the specialized care he needed.

Hospitals in Houston, Beaumont and Galveston had refused Christopher admission, saying they did not have enough room and had overworked personnel and too high a patient-nurse ratio.

A KPRC-TV helicopter flew the baby to College Station on Saturday afternoon, where an Army helicopter picked him up for the rest of the trip to Temple.

The infant's grandfather, Ron Broadhurst, said he felt some bitterness about his grandson being turned away from other hospitals.

"To me, it's almost criminal that we have this small baby boy that wants to live and we couldn't find a place to take him for treatment," he said.

Broadhurst said the hospital had not mentioned anything about costs, and said he has no idea how the bill will be paid. Lemley has been laid off from a job with a Houston oil well drilling company and does not have medical insurance.

Hospital Administrator Joe Dickson said the costs would be $1,000 or more each day, but added that the hospital considers medical need before financial standing.

A fund has been set up to help pay the hospital bill for the newborn, according to hospital spokeswoman Charlene Davis.

Broadhurst said steps should be taken to prevent such cases from happening in the future.

"If all this attention makes people aware there is a problem here, and it helps some other little one in trouble, then it will all be worth it," he said.

Winter in Hereford

This bird-bath statue in the yard of a home on E. Third Street was among the many beautiful scenes in the city Monday after a 7-inch snowfall. Although the snow provided many pretty winter scenes, the tough part was the cleanup of city streets which began Sunday evening and continued through today.

Virginia falls to 4th

Indiana now No. 1

By The Associated Press
A trip to Hawaii cost the Virginia basketball team plenty — in fact, three places in the Top Twenty rankings. The Cavaliers' stunning 77-72 upset at the hands of little-known Chaminade in Honolulu last week resulted in their fall today from first to fourth in The Associated Press's weekly poll. The Cavaliers, 8-1, out of the No. 1 spot for the first time this season, dropped behind Indiana, Memphis

State and Kentucky in the rankings. The Hoosiers, 8-0, received 40 ballots for first place of the 61 votes cast by sports writers and broadcasters around the country and racked up a total of 1,196 points. Indiana was No. 5 last week, but bounced into first place with a 62-59 victory over Kentucky, which was ranked No. 2 last week. Second-ranked Memphis State, 8-0, collected 14 first-place ballots and 1,118 points. The Tigers were No. 4 last week and beat Southern Mississippi 81-60 in their only game. Third-ranked Kentucky, 7-1, only had two first-place ballots but still managed to pile up 1,037 points with a strong overall showing in the voting. Despite the loss to little Chaminade, Virginia still picked up three first-place ballots and collected 992 points.

UCLA, No. 3 last week, dropped to No. 5 as the result of an 80-79 overtime loss to Maryland. The Bruins received one of the first-place ballots and 879 points. Alabama moved up two spots to No. 6 after an 88-58 victory over Texas Southern; St. John's remained No. 7 after an idle week; Tennessee moved up one notch to No. 8 after beating Oklahoma City 99-56; Iowa was inactive last week, but still gained a place to No. 9 and Georgetown jumped one spot to No. 10 after beating Southern U. 80-65. The Second Ten was, Arkansas, Missouri, Louisville, the only other team to gain a first-place ballot: Syracuse, Nevada-Las Vegas, Villanova, North Carolina State, Houston, Tulsa and West Virginia. All the teams who were in the rankings last week are in this week.

Buffalo hopes dimmed following loss to Miami

MIAMI (AP) — The Buffalo Bills didn't find Florida very hospitable. Two losses in eight days have dampened their hopes for a National Football League playoff berth. "It's frustrating. We've lost two tough games and when you look back, you realize we should be undefeated. We've got a much better team than we've shown," quarterback Joe Ferguson said Monday night after the Miami Dolphins crushed the Bills 27-10 in a nationally televised game. The loss dropped Buffalo's record to 4-4 and completed an unsuccessful two-game road trip to the Sunshine State. The Tampa Bay Buccaneers nipped the Bills 24-23 on Dec. 19. "All we can do is try to put these two weeks behind us, go back home and regroup," said Ferguson. "It'll be a real test for us to come back." Buffalo closes the season next Sunday at New England. A victory over the Patriots would put the Bills in the playoffs. "We just have to pull it together and get ready for New England," said Bills Coach Chuck Knox. "We tried hard in this game, but made too many mistakes." Turnovers set up second-half touchdown runs of 2 and 6 yards by Andra Franklin and Uwe von Schamann added a pair of field goals as the Dolphins came back from a 10-7 halftime deficit. Miami, already assured of a playoff berth, improved its record to 6-2 with Coach Don Shula's 200th regular-season career victory. A triumph next week at Baltimore would assure the team the home field in the first round of the playoffs. The Dolphins victory also guaranteed the idle Pittsburgh Steelers a play-off spot and virtually locked one up for the Cleveland Browns as well. "For two weeks in a row, the manner of winning has meant an awful lot to us," said Shula, also reflecting on a 20-19 triumph over the New York Jets. "The way we got the job done against the Jets and then tonight, after falling behind like we did." Cleveland, like Buffalo and New England, will take a 4-4 record into its final game Sunday against Pittsburgh. The only way the Browns can be kept out of the playoffs is if they lose — to finish at 4-5 — and the Bills and Patriots tie to complete 4-4 campaigns. Miami, meanwhile, will be looking for some help in its pursuit of the home field for the playoffs. If Miami beats Baltimore and San Diego defeats the Los Angeles Raiders next Sunday, the Dolphins will be assured the home field through the first three rounds.

WBA orders Weaver-Dokes rematch

PANAMA CITY, Panama (AP) — Mike Weaver will get a chance to regain his heavyweight title from Michael Dokes, thanks to a ruling by the World Boxing Association. The WBA Monday ordered a rematch of the controversial Dec. 10 fight in Las Vegas, Nev., that was stopped early in the first round by referee Joey Curtis, who awarded the fight to Dokes. WBA President Gilberto Mendoza said the decision to order Dokes to fight Weaver again was made at a special meeting of the association's executive committee during which videotapes of fight were shown three times. He said boxing experts and doctors offered their assessments of what had happened. Don Manuel, Weaver's representative, presented the petition for review to the executive committee. "We asked for the review because we were not in agreement and we thought that the decision (to stop the fight) was not fair," Manuel said. "Weaver and I are grateful to the association for the decision to repeat the fight." Weaver was knocked down in the opening seconds but appeared to have recovered when Curtis suddenly stopped the fight. The sudden ending prompted a chorus of boos and catcalls from spectators, and a charge by Weaver that a fix had been arranged by promoter Don King, a remark for which he later apologized. King's son, Carl, manages Dokes, and King promotes the fights of World Boxing Council champion Larry Holmes. Reached at his farm in Windsor, Ohio, Don King said he would have no comment until he was officially notified about the rematch from the WBA. "Carl King called the WBA ruling unfair, adding, 'I have to stand with Joey Curtis' decision to stop the fight.' He felt the effect of the ruling will be to make referees more hesitant about stopping fights. Curtis got a lot of heat from the Weaver camp for stopping the fight as early as he did, but he later said he had acted that quickly because of the death of Korean boxer Duk Koo Kim. Kim died as the result of a brain injury suffered in a WBA lightweight title fight with Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini in the same ring about a month earlier. "It is a situation that is presented when there are fights with a controversial result, and this is one of them," Elias Cordoba, president of the WBA's world championships committee, said of the order for the rematch. Mendoza said the fight must take place within 90 days, by March 27. He said Don King will have a period of 30 days starting Monday to agree on terms for the new

Cotton Bowl clash

SMU gears for Pitt

DALLAS AP — Southern Methodist players didn't have far to travel to reach all the Cotton Bowl hoopla this week. "Oh, we rented an airplane and flew all 15 miles to downtown," cracked running back Craig James. Then, with tongue in cheek, James said, "We get to tour the Dr. Pepper building tomorrow. Boy, is it exciting." If ever there was a travel-deprived team, it's the No. 4-ranked Mustangs, who play No. 6-rated Pittsburgh here New Year's Day in the annual Cotton Bowl Classic. SMU won 10 games and tied an 11th without ever leaving Texas. The Mustang's longest trip was to El Paso to play Texas-El Paso. And now they play in a bowl game almost in their backyard. "We've had some fun since we moved in to the Hyatt Regency Sunday," said SMU Coach Bobby Collins. "I'll tell you one thing — we'd like to make the same trip next year." The Southwest Conference champions are the host team for the Cotton Bowl last year because of probation. The Mustangs had been practicing at their own field but moved over to the Cotton Bowl Monday, where Pittsburgh and SMU got together for picture day.

Pitt Coach Foge Fazio said the Panthers will honor the late Todd Becker in the Cotton Bowl by wearing his number 30 with a small black circle around it on their jerseys. "Todd is in our prayers and our prayers are with his family," said Fazio. Becker, a reserve linebacker, was killed in a fall from a dormitory window last week, the day before Pitt was to leave for Texas. The Panthers worked in the rain without flanker Dwight Collins, who was in bed with the flu. "We hope it's just the 24-hour variety," said Fazio. "Several of our other players have had it, including guards Rob Fada and Ron Sams." Tailback Bryan Thomas also was suffering from a bruised hand but was expected to be ready for Saturday's game. Jim Brock of the Cotton Bowl said 500 to 1,000 tickets remained for the meeting of the 9-2 Panthers and the 10-0-1 Mustangs. "I'm very impressed with SMU," said Fazio. "We've played against Curt Warner of Penn state and Herschel Walker of Georgia and I'd have to say that Eric Dickerson ranks in that class. He has great speed." Collins returned the compliments. "Pittsburgh has one of the finest defenses in the nation against the rush," he said, "and that's what we make our living on." The 12:35 p.m. game, which will be televised by CBS, was rated even by the oddsmakers.

Bears hire coach

WACO, Texas (AP) — Duke offensive line coach Eddie Williamson has been hired to fill a similar position at Baylor University, head football coach Grant Teaff announced. Williamson, 31, replaces John O'Hara, who left Baylor to become head football coach at Southwest Texas State. Williamson has been offensive line coach at Duke since 1978 and also has coached at Furman and North Carolina. "I've looked hard at 10 coaches who I felt could fill the position," Teaff said Monday. "I feel I've got a fine coach in Eddie. He's a brilliant young coach and an excellent recruiter. I'm sure we'll have a good

An NFL first

Losers gain playoff status

An AP Sports Analysis
By BRUCE LOWITT AP
Sports Writer

There will be a great hue and cry and gnashing of teeth next week when, for the first time in the history of the National Football League, a team with a losing record is officially accorded playoff status.

Some folks have suggested that the NFL had cast itself in the image of the National Hockey League or the National Basketball Association since their playoffs, too, seem to involve every team in the standings.

But what, after all, are playoffs for?

To decide which teams deserve to contest for the right to be called the best in the league — and to pump a lot of money into the teams' and players' bank accounts in the process.

"This is a one-season aberration," Commissioner Pete Rozelle said of the expanded 16-team playoff field, of the conference (rather than division) standings deciding the qualifiers and of the certainty that at least one team will qualify with no better than a 4-5 record.

"In a shortened season like this, we realized that this was a distinct possibility," Rozelle said. "You just can't avoid it. But I think we made the right step in having eight teams qualify in each conference, because a team getting off to a slow start wouldn't have had much of a chance. That was the primary reason we made it a 16-team field rather than eight or 10, to give everybody a chance."

And to keep the folks coming to the parks on the premise that they were watching prospective champions, not just players going through the motions.

And to keep the players happy, too, with the prospect of extra game checks for six teams which normally would not advance to the playoffs, which this year have been dubbed the Super Bowl Tournament by the league.

It wasn't until 1933 that the late George Preston Marshall, the owner of the Boston Redskins, suggested that two divisions and a playoff game might be more enriching. It was then that the word "division" became part of the NFL lexicon. It was changed to "conference" in 1950, then divisions within conferences became the thing in 1967, when the league was redrawn and quartered. And who can ever forget the inception of "wild card," when the merger brought about in 1970 the league's present six-division alignment?

And once the playoff format took hold, nearly half a century ago, the best was no longer necessarily first.

Four years ago, when the NFL expanded its regular-season schedule from 14 to 16 games, the Minnesota Vikings became the symbol of either parity or mediocrity, depending on the point of view, when they won the National Conference's Central Division title, and thus a playoff berth, with an 8-7-1 record. That was the year Oakland, Seattle and San Diego had better records than Minnesota's but failed to make the playoffs.

Ferragamo enjoys super game

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Vince Ferragamo usually has been one of the last to show up at Los Angeles Rams practices and he is yet to be a National Football League starter at the opening of a season.

Ferragamo also is the quarterback who threw for 509 yards last Sunday against Chicago, the second highest passing yardage in NFL history.

There are paradoxes in the football life of Ferragamo. He doesn't hold the Rams' record for most yardage passing in a single game. That belongs to former Los Angeles quarterback Norm Van Brocklin, who passed for 554 yards in a 1951 game. This also stands as the best ever in the league. And Ferragamo doesn't even regard his 509-yard performance as his best ever.

"I don't consider it my best game because we lost (34-26)," he said. "This is a team game. I always want to win. Passing for more than 500 yards made me feel halfway good, but we lost the team effort."

Ferragamo believes his best performance came against Tampa Bay in the NFC championship game of 1979 as the Rams won 9-0 to reach the Super Bowl for the only time.

He hadn't been the starter at the beginning of that season but moved in when Pat Haden was hurt. After the Rams lost to Pittsburgh in the Super Bowl, Ferragamo came back in 1980 to find himself listed behind Haden again. Agam Haden was injured and although he was healed near the end of the season, Ferragamo kept his job.

Then came a contract argument. Vince wanted a big boost in his $57,000 pay believed to be the lowest in the league for a starting quarterback. When he and management couldn't agree, he went to Montreal for an ill-fated year in the Canadian Football League.

The 6-foot 3-inch Ferragamo's collegiate career opened at California at the same time Steve Bartkowski, now the starter for the Atlanta Falcons, was playing there. Ferragamo switched to Nebraska.

Los Angeles didn't draft him until the fourth round in 1977, and then apparently as protection against injuries at the position. Other teams passed him by even though he was a third team All-American.

Then came the four seasons with the Rams and one in the CFL. On his return from Canada, he signed for about what he had asked after 1980. But that was after Bert Jones had been acquired from Baltimore in trade and signed a bigger money pact.

So once again, Ferragamo was the backup until Jones was forced out with injuries on Nov. 28. The injury to Jones' neck was serious enough to keep him out the rest of the season. Ferragamo took over again.

Immediately, the Rams went more to a passing game. They scored 24 or more points against San Francisco, Denver, the Los Angeles Raiders and Chicago, losing each game and falling to 1-7.

Through it all, Ferragamo maintains he will start an NFL season, maybe next year.

Lucas NBA player of week

NEW YORK (AP) — Maurice Lucas, who led the Phoenix Suns to three wins in four games last week, has been named the National Basketball Association's player of the week.

The 6-foot-9 forward averaged 23.8 points, 11.9 rebounds and 5.5 assists last week while shooting 61.0 from the field and .793 from the foul line. On Thursday night, he scored 33 points, pulled down 15 rebounds and had five assists in a 125-106 win over Dallas.

College basketball roundup

St. John's, Syracuse making big noise in East

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

There's just no figuring the Big East Conference this year.

Georgetown and Villanova are supposed to be the big shots there, but St. John's and Syracuse are making all the noise so far.

Two of the Big East's darkhorse teams continued merrily on their undefeated way Monday night—seventh-ranked St. John's with a 75-64 rout of Brigham Young in the Holiday Festival basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden in New York and No. 14

Syracuse with an 87-66 "laughter" over Pitt.

"We're 10-and-0," said St. John's Coach Lou Carnesecca, "and I'm enjoying it."

Chris Mullin scored 22 points to pace the St. John's offense and Billy Goodwin paced the defense with a fine performance against BYU's Devin Durrant. The Cougars' high scorer had 19 points, but also had his pocket picked on several occasions by the exciting St. John's forward.

St. John's, the defending champion, will be gunning for its sixth Festival title Wednesday night against Wake Forest, an 88-65 victor over St. Joseph's of Philadelphia in the opening game Monday night behind Delaney Rudd's 20 points.

"We have yet to play 40 minutes this year," said BYU Coach Frank Arnold. "Tonight we played only 35 minutes. You can't play 35 minutes against the likes of St. John's and expect to win."

Freshman Rafael Addison ignited a sluggish Syracuse offense in the first half, triggering the Orangemen over Pitt for ninth victory. It is the Orangemen's second-best start in seven years for Coach Jim Boehm. They won 14 in a row to start the 1979-80 season.

In the only other action involving Top Twenty teams Monday night, No. 12 Missouri nipped Arizona State 48-47 in the Rainbow Classic in Honolulu and No. 18 Houston edged Pepperdine 83-82.

Michael Walker hit a short jump shot with 10 seconds left to boost Missouri over Arizona State in the 19th Rainbow Classic. After Walker hit the go-ahead basket for the Tigers, Arizona State set up a shot from the corner for Byron Scott, but it hit the front end of the rim as the buzzer sounded.

Forward Michael Young scored on a three-point play with 28 seconds remaining to snap a 90-90 tie and give Houston a tight victory over Pepperdine.

Pepperdine had tied the game with 1:08 to go when freshman guard Grant Gudzick hit a 17-footer, and the Waves regained possession of the ball when Young missed a short jumper with 50 seconds remaining.

Pepperdine went into a delay offense, but Clyde Drexler stole a pass and dribbled downcourt, setting up Young for a layup. Pepperdine's Mark Wilson fouled Young on the play and he made the free throw to give the Cougars just enough of a cushion.

In other tournament action, center Jeff Turner and forward James Williams tossed in 14 points apiece as Vanderbilt defeated Eastern Kentucky 82-71 in the first round of the Music City Invitational in Nashville. In the night's opening game, Tim Cain scored six points in the final three minutes, including a go-ahead basket with 22 seconds remaining, to give surprising Manhattan, 8-0, a 74-73 victory over Pennsylvania.

Glenn Rivers and Mandy Johnson sparked a second-half surge, leading host Marquette to a 57-47 first-round victory over Wisconsin-Green Bay in the annual Milwaukee Classic tournament. Cincinnati defeated La Salle 76-73 in the other semifinal game behind 23 points by Mike Williams.

A.C. Green had 22 points and Charlie Sittin added 20 as Oregon State pulled away in the final minutes to a 59-47 victory over Tennessee State in a first-round game of the annual Far West Classic. Tom Sewell scored 28 points to lead Lamar to a 66-54 triumph over Drake in another first-round game.

In other action, Jerry McMillan hit a clutch 20-foot jumper with 2:05 remaining to lead DePaul to a 68-66 win over Creighton. Leslie Rockymore and Richard Relfford combined for 23 first-half points to trigger Michigan to an 83-49 rout of Florida A&M and Ken Epperson led a balanced Toledo attack with 18 points as the Rockets shot 65 per cent from the field and fought off several Detroit rallies to claim a 77-69 victory.

title, was named Boxer of the Month by the World Boxing Association.

Biles at top of list

Oilers continuing to suffer

HOUSTON (AP)—When it comes to rating which individual is suffering the most on the Houston Oilers' team, Ed Biles puts himself at the top of the list.

Then there is Earl Campbell.

Campbell, suffering through his worst season as a pro, fumbled twice in Sunday's 20-14 loss to Cleveland and both fumbles amounted to a 14-point difference in what could have been an Oiler victory.

Campbell's first miscue came at the Browns' 4 and the second was at the Oiler 1.

"Earl wanted to get into the end zone so badly that he just didn't have a good enough grip on the ball," Biles said Monday. "There's probably only one person on this team going through a tougher time right now than Earl Campbell."

Biles left little doubt that he was that other person. With the Oilers mired in a six-game losing streak, and with a 1-7 record, Biles' job is no longer secure as it appeared earlier in the season. But he declines to speculate.

"I don't grade myself," he said. "That is up to you people to do be evaluating."

The "evaluation" of Sunday's performance is that the Oilers played well enough to win, but four interceptions and two fumbles made the difference.

"The biggest thing for us right now is to win a game and not come close like we did yesterday," Biles said. "They (Oilers) deserved to win that game."

The second quarter of Sunday's game was a microcosm of the entire Oiler season.

Campbell fumbled for the first time midway in the quarter and the Browns turned it into a 56-yard touchdown pass caught by Dave Logan.

Moments later, rookie Florian Kempf's 42-yard field goal try bounced off the uprights and as time ran out in the half, Gifford Nielsen threw an interception into the end zone to Ron Bolton.

Biles defended the strategy of going for the touch-down instead of kicking a close-range field goal for a halftime tie.

"The pass play was a four or five second play and we still should have had time to try the field goal," Biles said. "But Gifford moved out of the pocket and took too much time. It was just a little bit of inexperience showing."

Starting quarterback Archie Manning left the game in the first quarter with a hamstring injury and is not expected to play Sunday against the Bengals.

Rookie first-round draft choice Mike Munchak got into the game for one play at guard and is expected to play more Sunday.

Biles also said Willie Tullis, who has replaced J.C. Wilson at cornerback, will start in the finale.

Nuggets edge Warriors

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

The Denver Nuggets, despite being the highest-scoring team in the National Basketball Association, have been somewhat of a bust in the fourth quarter this season.

On Monday night, however, Denver won for the first time after trailing in the final period when center Dan Issel hit a 20-foot jump shot at the buzzer to give the Nuggets a 130-128 victory over the Golden State Warriors.

"We finally made a last-second shot," said Coach Doug Moe. "We really needed to win one like that. It does great things for your confidence."

In other NBA games, New Jersey outlasted Cleveland 94-82 and Washington edged Chicago 89-87. Nets 91, Cavaliers 82.

Albert King scored 24 points and Buck Williams had 13 points and 19 rebounds to lead New Jersey over Cleveland, which had only nine players because of injuries.

The Cavaliers led most of the game, but were outscored 30-19 in the fourth quarter as Geoff Huston played the entire game, and World Free and Cliff Robinson played 40 minutes.

"We played good basketball, but we just ran out of gas in the fourth quarter," said Cavaliers Coach Tom Nissalke, whose team is now 1-23.

Free and Robinson led Cleveland with 20 points apiece.

Bullets 89, Bulls 87

Greg Ballard's jumper as time expired gave Washington its victory over Chicago.

Ballard scored 10 of his 14 points in the final period, when the Bulls overcame an eight-point deficit to hand the Bulls their 14th defeat in 15 road games.

Kevin Grevey, 14-for-17 in his previous two games, led Washington with 22 points, while Dave Corzine and Reggie Theus both had 18 for Chicago. Corzine added 22 rebounds for the Bulls.

Poem gives meaning

BY PENNY REINART
County Extension Agent
This Christmas Season is very special for my family - because we have a new addition - Brittany Joyce Reinart. The joy that has found its way into our hearts is unbounded and full. To help share this with each of you is a poem written by Mother Teresa in India doing mission work.

JOY is PRAYER -
JOY is STRENGTH -
JOY is LOVE - Joy is a net of love by which you can catch souls.

She gives most who gives with joy.

The best way to show our gratitude to God and the people is to accept everything with joy. A joyful heart is the inevitable result of a heart burning with love.

We all long for heaven where God is, but we have it in our power to be in heaven with Him right now - to be happy with Him at this very moment. But being happy with Him now means:

Loving as He LOVES,
Helping as He HELPS,
Giving as He GIVES,
Serving as He SERVES,
Rescuing as He RESCUES,
Being with Him for all the twenty-four hours.

Touching Him in His distressing disguise.
Merry Christmas and peace on earth!

Viola Padilla commissioned

Viola Padilla, a senior criminal justice administration major at West Texas State University from Hereford, has been commissioned as a reserve second lieutenant in the United States Army through the ROTC program.

Padilla was one of seven students who were awarded commissions.

During the commissioning ceremony, Lt. Col. Jonathan Searles, professor and head of the WTSU Department of Military Science, referred to the commission as the first step in a military career for several of the students, a step to an "equally rewarding civilian career" to others and a culmination of a lifelong ambition to several other recipients.

He said the ROTC program provides 75 percent of new officers each year in the United States.

Victims of glaucoma seldom receive warning

Sixty thousand Americans are blind because of glaucoma although most of them could have prevented this through early detection and treatment.

That is easier said than done because glaucoma usually gives no warning to the victim until vision loss occurs, says the Texas Medical Association.

For this reason, many of the estimated 2 million Americans who have the disease do not know they do, according to the National Society to Prevent Blindness.

Glaucoma is an increase of pressure of the fluid within the eyeball. Like a tire, the eye has a normal range of pressure. Eye fluid pressure that is too high for too long will damage the optic nerve, which carries images from the eye to the brain. This gradually causes blindness.

In most cases, the person is unaware of this as it happens because vision seems normal. There is no pain or discomfort. But peripheral vision (side vision) is gradually decreasing.

The glaucoma victim may get to the point where he has "tunnel vision," meaning he can only see things straight ahead. And he still may be able to read 20-20 on a doctor's eye chart, falsely indicating normal vision.

Sometimes the undiagnosed glaucoma victim may have slight awareness of visual loss that suggests a need for glasses. Even if they are prescribed, the problem will persist. During this lost time, permanent damage may occur.

For this reason, it is advisable to have periodical checkups with an ophthalmologist - a physician who specializes in diagnosing and treating eye diseases. He has special equipment to detect glaucoma and is the only doctor who can treat the disorder.

Proper treatment at an early stage can prevent the damage to the optic nerve, but damage already done cannot be corrected.

Treatment generally involves eye drops. If not detected early enough, however, glaucoma may not respond to medicine. In this case, surgery may be necessary to lower the eye pressure.

Glaucoma occurs most frequently in people over 40. For this group, an eye exam at least every couple of years is wise.

Three year murder investigation ends

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) - A three-year investigation into a death at a Texas City nursing home that produced the state's first murder indictment against a corporation has ended in a plea of guilty to one count of involuntary manslaughter.

The owners of the Autumn Hills Convalescent Center in Texas City pleaded guilty to the lesser charge Monday and agreed to pay $100,000 by Wednesday. In exchange, murder charges filed in the deaths of eight patients were dropped.

The nursing home's action came Monday, only hours after an appeals court cleared the way for the plea bargain, which also strips murder charges against eight of the home's former or present employees.

State District Judge Larry Guss accepted the plea bargain and deferred final judgment on the Autumn Hills Nursing Home Corp. of Houston for up to 10 years.

Guss ruled that if Autumn Hills commits a crime within 10 years it does not pay the $100,000 by Wednesday; he will fine the corporation and find it guilty.

Galveston County District Attorney James Hury said the ruling amounted to a 10-year threat of bankruptcy from the judge.

"If they do something he doesn't like, all he has to do is go in and, with a stroke of his pen, bankrupt them," Hury said.

Ray Minton, attorney for the Autumn Hills, entered the plea in connection with the 1978 death of patient Ethna Mae Witt.

There is no question in my mind but that this is in the best interest of everyone involved."

Puppeteer's dream realized in work with 'The Dark Crystal'

EDITOR'S NOTE — Michael McCormick went to work for the man who created the Muppets and spent months in the fantasy world of the Skeksis and Garthims.

— By OLLIE REED
The Albuquerque Tribune

ALBUQUERQUE (AP) — For Albuquerque puppeteer Michael McCormick, the 20 months he spent working in the foam-latex and fantasy world of "The Dark Crystal" movie were some of the best of his 41 years — even if producer-director Jim Henson did his pet Landleaper.

It was three years ago in the fall of 1979 that Henson, the famed creator of the Muppets, hired McCormick to work in the $20 million puppet-adventure movie, released this holiday season.

A professional puppeteer for 10 years, McCormick admits that "when you work on puppets you sort of get stuck on being 12 years old."

It was a childlike ecstasy he felt as he mingled with the Gelflings and Garthims, Mystics and Skeksis and other fantastic creatures that roamed the London set of "The Dark Crystal."

That ecstasy nearly equalled the awe he felt when toiling elbow-to-elbow with some of the top people in puppetry and design.

"I found myself working among the gods of the business," he said. "I had an overwhelming desire to run up to someone and say, 'Sign my body.'"

The "gods" included Henson, puppeteer Frank Oz, Henson's Muppet compatriot and the man who portrayed Yoda in "The Empire Strikes Back," and Brian Froud, one of the world's foremost fantasy artists and the architect for the movie's universe.

McCormick's road to the land of Oz, Henson and company started in Santa Fe. The puppeteer, a Brooklyn, N.Y., native who grew up in New Mexico, and his son Sean, now 17, were doing their puppet show in the capital city when singer Roger Miller spotted them.

Miller, an old acquaintance of Henson, liked McCormick's work and suggested he try to hook up with Mr. Muppet.

McCormick said he did not even know "The Dark Crystal" existed when, taking Miller's advice, he set off for London where Henson was doing his syndicated Muppet television series.

He got an interview and a job.

"They hired me straightaway," he said. "There followed an incredibly intense period in which they tried to find out what I could do."

One of McCormick's first assignments was to create a large, land-roving beast. He came up with a leggy, long-haired critter that looked like a cross between a giant praying mantis and an Old English sheepdog.

The Landleaper was McCormick's pride and joy, but Henson rejected it, opting instead for the Landstrider, an animal with legs like a giraffe's, a heart like a lion's and a mustache like Gene Shalit's.

"I went into a three-day funk," McCormick recalls with amusement. "My disappointment was so exaggerated it was almost theatrical. I really was like a kid who has had his special project taken away from him."

The movie was a learning experience for everyone, because no one had ever done a movie entirely with very lifelike puppets. No human beings appear on the screen, although it sometimes took four or five people to operate one of the complex puppets.

"It looked like a strange mass of dwarves running around," McCormick said. "There was one person inside a puppet and several outside crouched around it."

The puppets' movements were controlled by rods, grips and levers. Facial expressions were made via radio controls embedded in the foam-latex skin of the characters.

Following the demise of the Landleaper, McCormick threw his creative energies into the creation of fiberglass exteriors for the Skeksis, the evil race with the beaks of birds and the bodies of reptiles. In the movie, Skeksis dominate the land of the dark crystal.

McCormick developed the same sort of devotion to the evil buzzard-men that he had felt for the late lamented Landleaper.

"The Skeksis are by far the most dynamic characters in the movie," he said. "In 'Snow White' the most interesting creature is the witch. In 'Fantasia' the most interesting sequence is 'Night on Bald Mountain.' It's always the shadow creatures that have that intensity, that clarity of definition."

"I can't see how a Skeksis can miss, because it's so completely bad."

The good vs. evil theme is so obvious in the movie that McCormick thinks it owes more to the psychoanalyst Jung than to the fantasy writer Tolkien.

"Henson doesn't even recommend the movie for preschoolers," McCormick said.

Catnip or cat-mint comes from the leaves of a plant that grows about two or three feet high. Chewing on catnip gives a cat energy and aids in digestion.

NEW ADDRESS: 313 N. LEE

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—A pea picker or a boll weevil might not know the difference between a gas cap and a gusher, but oil men are always hoping to get a straw in the ether barrel rather than hitting suitcase rock in a moose pasture.

And the mullet is always hoping for an elephant but often ends up with a junked well.

That jargon is easily understood by the denizens of the oil patch, but to the average person it doesn't mean a thing. But now Phillips Petroleum Co. has stepped forward in an attempt to act as interpreter.

The company has published a glossary of selected terms used in the energy and petrochemical industries, ranging from abandoned—a well no longer being drilled or no longer being produced—to zones of lost circulation—crevices, caverns or highly porous strata in which drilling mud is lost.

In oil terminology, a boll weevil or a pea picker is an experienced drilling rig hand. A gas cap isn't on an auto, but is a pocket of natural gas that lies above an underground petroleum pool. A gusher is an out-of-control well that is blowing oil, natural gas and water up the drilling derrick.

The oil man who has a straw in the ether barrel owns a well or has an interest in a well in a producing area. Suitcase rock is a formation that shows further drilling would be unproductive—meaning the drilling crew will pack their suitcases and move on. A moose pasture is land where no petroleum is found, land suitable only for grazing moose.

A mullet is an investor who expects to get rich from a modest investment in a single exploratory well, or a sucker; an elephant is a giant oil field and a junked well is one in which tools fell and could not be retrieved, so the well had to be abandoned.

The book describes a field as a geographic site that is underlaid by a producing or prospective oil, natural gas or combination reservoir.

A wildcat is an exploratory well drilled in "unproven territory," without direct evidence beforehand of the underlying strata, while a discovery well is an exploratory well that finds petroleum.

A dry hole is defined as a well that does not find oil or gas in commercial quantities. A duster is the same thing. Appraisal drilling is that drilling carried out after the discovery of a new field to delineate the field's extent, reserves and probably production rates. Confirmation wells are drilled after the discovery well to determine the extent of the reservoir.

The well bore is the hole made in the earth by drilling; the casing is the steel pipe that is cemented into a well bore to prevent the walls from caving in; the wellhead is the control equipment fitted to the top of a well casing; the casinghead is the top of the casing set in the well and a Christmas tree is an assembly of valves mounted on the casinghead through which a well is produced.

Mud isn't something that children play in, but rather is a carefully engineered mixture of clay, water and chemicals pumped into the well to flush out rock cuttings and to lubricate the entire in-hole system.

Barefoot isn't how children like to play in mud, but is descriptive of a well completed without casing in a sturdy sandstone or limestone formation.

The drilling rig is the complete machinery and structures needed to drill a well; a collar is a metal device for coupling two lengths of pipe while the drill string is the long assembly of drill bit, collars and lengths of pipe used in the drilling.

A battery isn't the thing that produces the electricity to start a car, but is an installation of two or more tanks connected together to receive and hold freshly produced crude oil from operating wells.

If members of a drilling crew go fishing, it doesn't mean they're goofing off. They're trying to retrieve tools or pieces of broken equipment that fell down the well bore.

Capping means sealing a well so natural gas or oil can't escape; the doghouse is a small structure on the drilling rig floor that the crew can use for shelter, and to flare is to burn off unwanted natural gas.

And you can bet that once a well is spudded—the actual drilling is started—the drilling contractor will keep a close watch on the rattletale, which is a device that records the drilling rate during an eight-hour shift.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Don't add oil to problem skin

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 30-year-old male who is still plagued by pimples and blackheads. These occur mostly on my forehead, face, neck and back. My skin is very dry in the morning after showering, although I use a moisturizing soap, but then becomes very oily as the day goes on.

I am physically active, jogging and lifting weights, and try to shower immediately after working out. I avoid sweets and fatty foods and my weight is good in proportion to my height. Can I expect this condition to stay with me for life?

DEAR READER—Acne isn't just a teen-age affair. It may begin before the teens and in some people it is a lifetime situation. I hope you are not one of those people.

Acne begins with the teens because the sebaceous glands that form the fatty sebum are activated in response to sex hormones. Despite the decline in sex hormones in later years, some people still have problems essentially for life.

The blackhead or whitehead is simply a plug of sebum. If bacteria that tend to live within the skin pore are active, they will break down the fatty sebum and the products are irritating to the skin. This causes the red pustules.

Normally the sebum should flow out on the surface of the skin. It is your moisturizer that keeps your skin from getting dry. If the skin pore is defective the pore cannot drain. That is why peeling agents are used to treat acne. They peel off the blocking surface skin that interferes with normal drainage.

Despite your observation that you have dry skin after showering, you may be making a mistake in using a soap that contains a moisturizer. That implies it contains oil or a greasy substance. Since your skin is quite oily later in the day you should try to avoid anything that adds oil or grease to your skin. Use a different soap without a moisturizer. In fact, you may need to use a drying agent or simply cleanse your face with alcohol to help control excess fatty secretions.

DEAR DR. LAMB—After my constant complaining of being unusually cold my doctor diagnosed my condition as Raynaud's syndrome. My condition includes swollen hands that often turn blue or purple in cool weather. The fall, winter and early spring months are unbearable for me as I am constantly shivering. Hot baths are the only relief.

I have met others with the same disease and there is much variation including the degree of damage to one's hands and feet. How serious is it?

DEAR READER—The more typical form is from arterial spasm. The spasm usually causes the hands to become waxy white, they turn blue later, and cold exposure produces the attacks. The primary form is just the reaction I have described. But a secondary form is caused by any number of underlying diseases, including rheumatoid arthritis. How serious it is depends upon what causes it.

But avoiding cold exposure is helpful in avoiding attacks. There are many medicines used to dilate the constricted arteries. A useful technique for immediate relief is to swing the hands like a windmill, letting centrifugal force drive the blood into the fingers.

The Newspaper BIBLE

ARE YOU LISTENING?
All that is now hidden will someday come to light. If you have ears, listen! And be sure to put into practice what you hear. The more you do this, the more you will understand what I tell you. To him who has shall be given; from him who has not shall be taken away even what he has. (Mark 4:22-25)

Young men, listen to me as you would to your father. Listen, and grow wise, for I speak the truth—don't turn away. For I, too, was once a son, tenderly loved by my mother as an only child, and the companion of my father. He told me never to forget his words. "If you follow them," he said, "you will have a long and happy life. Learn to be wise," he said, "and develop good judgment and common sense! I cannot over-emphasize this point." Cling to wisdom—she will protect you. Love her—she will guard you.

Determination to be wise is the first step toward becoming wise! And with your wisdom, develop common sense and good judgment. If you exalt wisdom, she will exalt you. Hold her fast and she will lead you to great honor; she will place a beautiful crown upon your head. My son, listen to me and do as I say, and you will have a long, good life. (Proverbs 4:1-10)

Listen to this wise advice; follow it closely, for it will do you good, and you can pass it on to others: Trust in the Lord. (Proverbs 22:17-19)

Lawmakers face tough tax decision

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — State legislators lucky enough to get elected Nov. 2 may be unlucky enough to have to make a decision on new or increased taxes for Texas in 1983.

Texas' last statewide tax increase was in 1971 but everyone agrees that another hike is the No. 1 issue of the 68th Legislature, which opens Jan. 11.

Few of the 181 senators and representatives have ever been in a tax fight before.

Budget-makers say even an expected $1.3 billion surplus will not be enough to overcome inflation, depressed economic conditions and lower federal funding during the next two years.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, chairman of the Legislative Budget Board that is preparing a preliminary budget for the 1983 session, told new lawmakers recently they might have to pass a $1.5 billion tax bill. He said the state's budget problems are the worst he has faced in 11 years as head of the Texas Senate.

Speaker Bill Clayton told the same group: "It's going to be most difficult because you could be one of the first legislative sessions that might seriously have to consider curtailment of certain programs or the passage of a tax bill."

Rep. Gib Lewis, D-Fort Worth, who is expected to be the new House speaker, is not ready to predict a tax bill but he warns, "We've got $10 billion more requested (from state agencies) than we're going to have available."

Texas government has an obligation to the taxpayers to cut the pattern to fit the cloth," says Republican Gov. Bill Clements, who will make budget recommendations before he leaves office. He points out that Comptroller Bob Bullock estimates the 1983 legislators will have $5.3 million more to spend than lawmakers in 1981.

Incoming Democratic Gov. Mark White, who will make his budget recommendations shortly after the Jan. 18 inauguration, does not think a tax fight is inevitable. "I'm going to work very closely with Hobby and the new speaker and members of the Legislature to try to avoid it, as well as members of the agencies that are asking for money," he said.

However, White would not promise to veto a tax bill, as Clements has done the past two sessions, and Democratic Gov. Dolph Briscoe did before that. "I'm not going to get cornered into a position that defies reality," White said.

Although the House and Senate will get recommended budgets from Clements and White, they likely will pay more attention to the one submitted the first week of the session by the Legislative Budget Board.

That board consists of the lieutenant governor, speaker and five members each from the House and Senate, including chairmen of each chamber's appropriations committee. The board holds several months of hearings before each session to give state agencies a chance to prove their need for money.

Each house will start out with the budget board's recommended general appropriations bill and develop and debate its own spending bill. The final draft of 1984-85 state spending will be written by a 10-member conference committee.

After approval by both houses, the bill will go to the governor.

At that point, he cannot change any figures up or down but can veto "line item" appropriations — specific allocations for a specific agency. Or, of course, he could veto the entire bill.

In the past, there have been instances when a governor vetoed one year of the two-year bill and then called the Legislature back in a special session to pass a bill for the second year.

Some sources have estimated the 1983 Legislature will have to pass a $36 billion bill, compared to $26.5 billion in 1981.

However, Jim Oliver, director of the Legislative Budget Board staff, predicts the bill will be $31 billion to $32 billion.

The exact total is indefinite because all the figures decided on by the budget board are in a computer now, preparatory to being printed in the 400-page document to be presented to legislators.

It appropriates $24.3 billion from from constitutionally authorized means of revenue such as sales taxes and excise taxes, and the rest comes from various fees and charges.

Vance DeVoe Brand. Col. Overmyer was the pilot of the latest Columbia flight and Brand, a former Marine Corps aviator, was the flight commander. Dr. Allen and Dr. Lenoir were assigned to the flight to conduct scientific research.

Today In History

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 28, the 362nd day of 1982. There are three days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On Dec. 28, 1836, Spain recognized the independence of Mexico.

On this date: In 1694, Queen Mary of England died.

In 1846, Iowa was admitted to the union as the 29th state.

In 1869, William Semple of Mount Vernon, Ohio, was granted a patent on chewing gum.

One year ago: The first American "test-tube" baby — Elizabeth Jordan Carr — was born in a Norfolk, Va., hospital.

Today's birthdays: Former major-league pitcher Bill Lee is 36. Major-league infielder Ray Knight is 30.

Thought for today: "Tis the mind that makes the body rich." — William Shakespeare, English playwright (1564-1616).
