

With 3 percent tax increase

$3.9 million county budget proposed

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

The next fiscal budget and updating of the courthouse with computers and renovations topped the list of items considered by Deaf Smith County Commissioners during their regular meeting on Monday.

The required public hearing for the 1987-88 budget drew no interest from the community with only county employees and officials present for the open meeting. The $3,921,801 proposed budget calls for a raise in the tax base from the current $4,385 to $4,516 and provides across the board pay hikes for county employees and officials.

Disbursements from the General Fund totaled $2,419,407 two years ago and $2,404,433 last year. For the fund this year, $2,573,529 was budgeted and $2,675,692 is proposed for the next budget year which will begin Oct. 1.

The Juvenile Peace Officer required funds totaling $25,772 two years ago, $25,334.25 last year and was budgeted $26,730 this year. Initially application for funding for this office for the next budget was made at $25,070 however, the proposed budget allows $26,847 to finance this office.

The Deaf Smith County Jail operated with $253,795 two years ago, $239,601 last year and was budgeted to receive $328,142 this year. And $365,378 was requested for the next budget but $317,257 has been allocated in the proposal.

The County Sheriff's office spent $327,908 two years ago, $402,993 last year and was budgeted for $423,254 this year. They requested $528,063 for next year but the proposed budget allows $458,343.

The Tax Collector's office spent $68,405 two years ago, $65,574 last year and had a budget of $70,007 this year. A requested budget of $78,870 was trimmed down to $73,727 in the budget review process.

The County Clerk's office spent $95,370 two years ago, $94,847 last year and worked with a budgeted $93,785 this year. The clerk requested $101,262 for the next budget but his request was pared to $97,878.

The District Clerk's request of $61,240 was cut to $59,261. Two years ago this office spent $52,877 and $55,607 were spent last year. For the 1986-87 fiscal year $57,046 was budgeted.

The District Attorney's office expended $127,406 two years ago, $134,127 last year and had a budget of $137,355 this year. His requested $144,855 budget remained virtually untouched with a proposed $144,733.

The office of the Justice of the Peace spent $55,512 two years ago, $61,145.84 last year and, under a new judge, was budgeted for $61,746 this year. A request of $64,075, was cut to $63,561.

The County Treasurer's requested budget of $40,823, was increased to $42,036 during budget workshops. A total of $37,270 was spent by that office two years ago, $37,408 last year and $39,625 was budgeted for this year.

The County Judge requested $59,901 initially and the proposed budget for his office is listed at $61,571 which does not reflect a $500 a month raise he received on a temporary basis in April. The raise is expected to become permanent in July as it is tied to additional duties he has taken on as Social Services director. The Judge's office, under a previous judge, spent $52,945 two years ago, $46,741 last year and was budgeted for $57,781 this year.

Expenditures for the County Auditor were $29,763 two years ago, $32,129 last year and were budgeted to be $31,592 this year. His requested budget of $37,249 has been rewritten to a proposed $33,473.

The County Extension Service expended $69,812 two years ago and $68,894 last year; they were budgeted $73,645 for this year and their request for $77,983 for next year now stands at $79,034.

The final County Social Service office budget remains undecided pending analysis of a temporary arrangement with the County Judge's office, which is supposed to save the county money. Two years ago the Social Service office spent $35,210, last year the office spent $38,771.39 and $45,312 was budgeted for this year. The requested budget now stands at $54,045.

The Adult Probation office request of $4,200 for the upcoming year remained intact through budget sessions. The office spent $4,602 two years ago and $2,894.61 last year; $4,200 was budgeted for this year.

The Deaf Smith County Library budget request sought $149,318 for the next year however that figure was raised to $152,846 by commissioners. The library spent $128,647 two years ago and $136,880 last year. This year's budget was $143,993.

The Deaf Smith County Museum budget request was initially $40,137 and was upped by commissioners to $40,758. The museum spent $37,087 two years ago, $38,965 last year and was budgeted $40,087 this year.

The District Judge requested $22,012 for his 1987-88 budget. His request was increased to $23,065 in the proposed budget. His office spent $18,501 two years ago and $19,011 last year. This year, $22,012 was budgeted for that office.

The Road and Bridge Fund required $921,853 two years ago, $1,040,148 last year and was budgeted for $918,126 this year. An initial proposal of $918,126 was increased to $958,346 for the upcoming budget.

County Precincts 1, 2, 3, and 4 each initially proposed a budget of $221,344 which has been increased, during the commissioner's budget workshops, to $230,988.

Each of the precincts were budgeted $221,344 for this year. Precinct 4 is the big spender of the precincts in recent years with $259,577 spent two years ago and $299,155 last year.

Precinct 1 is next in line for expenditures totaling $237,950 two years ago and $266,807.53 last year. Precinct 2 spent $213,178 two years ago and $227,993 last year. Precinct 3 spent $211,148 two years ago and $246,191 last year.

The biggest difference between budgets requested and those which are listed in the proposed plan is that of the Sheriff's department. The difference consists of denial of a requested $60,000 to replace vehicles which are becoming worn. In that office, $20,000 was shaved off of the vehicle item leaving an allocated $40,000 for cars for the department. The other big item which commissioners denied on the original request was a 25 percent salary increase for deputies which, according to Sheriff Joe Brown, would bring their salary in line with other law enforcement officials in the county.

Other differences between requested budgets and those which made the proposed budget include errors in placing items on the budget which were accounted for elsewhere in the system and requests for personnel raises.

One of the larger dollar items which the commissioners granted as requested was $34,356 for the purchase of new books for the county library. Previous yearly expenditures for new books for the facility have ranged from $27,216 two years ago to $29,981.93 last year. The allocation this year is $32,108 for purchasing new books.

The proposed budget has not been accepted in final form as yet. Commissioners will make final alterations at the next regular meeting, those wishing to have input in the budget should contact their commissioner prior to that time or should attend the open meeting.

Associated with the budgetary process is the Court's decision during the Monday meeting to proceed with renovations of the County Courthouse and with shuffling offices around to provide better spacing for record keeping.

As accepted the plan calls for the County Extension Service offices to move to the fourth floor of the building in office space which was once used by the District Attorney's office but which is now unoccupied.

Local Roundup

Benjamin reinstated

Dr. William Benjamin has been reinstated with admitting privileges at Deaf Smith General Hospital, following an appeal to the hospital district board of directors.

The decision was made today in a 8:30 a.m. meeting of the board. Dr. Benjamin filed the appeal, which was referred to the medical staff. At the medical staff recommendation, Benjamin was reinstated. His suspension began after a May 19 board meeting.

Also at the meeting, discussion of having a physician's office building on hospital grounds was continued. Jim Bullard, hospital administrator, said the board would consult a Texas Hospital Association legal opinion on an option to lease the land, but have the doctors who want the building own the structure.

Bullard said having another clinic so close would help increase out-patient revenue.

An opinion is expected by next Tuesday's board meeting.

School board meets today

Hereford School Board members will meet at 8 p.m. today in the administration building for a regular monthly meeting.

In addition to routine business, the board is to approve the 1987-88 calendar, hear a report on Texas Educational Assessment of Minimum Skills (TEAMS) for grades 3, 5, 7 and 9; review a list of the high school advance classes, consider Deaf Smith Service Center contracts, hear a report from Bullard for renovation of school capacity, and appoint a delegate and an alternate for the Texas Association of School Administrators.

Also on the agenda is the appointment of a new superintendent.

Tax board may change policy

When and how often the Deaf Smith County Appraisal Board meets will be under consideration at this month's regular meeting at 7 p.m. Thursday. Meetings are held in the tax office at 402 W. Fourth.

The change is being considered due to each member having many meetings of their own entity in addition to Waste Deposit Impact Committee work and trips for WDIC.

Also to be considered is the purchase of computer software. The matter has been under study for about 14 months.

Sheriff's report

Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Deputies are investigating a case in which an employee held out bank deposits from a company. A subject has a certain date to return the money or charges will be filed.

Deputies also investigated an attack by a cat on a girl. The cat is under observation at a veterinary clinic.

Also reported during the weekend were a hot check case, three civil disputes and a harassment. Deputies arrested one person for public intoxication, and one for driving while intoxicated, carrying an unlawful weapon, and fleeing from a law officer.

Combust co-sponsors AIDS testing bill

Rep. Larry Combust has co-sponsored legislation to require mandatory AIDS testing of specific groups to determine the extent of the public health concern.

H.R. 2273 would require testing of federal prisoners and immigrants and would require states to institute testing of specific groups in order to receive federal funds to combat venereal disease. Those individuals to be tested include persons seeking a marriage license, persons convicted of prostitutions, persons convicted of IV drug use, and persons between the ages of 15 and 49 who are admitted to hospitals and persons being treated for venereal disease.

Combust reports that the Center for Disease Control estimates that AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome) will eventually infect 5 percent of all Americans.

Combust said that recent testing at a District of Columbia jail revealed that 80 percent of those inmates who had used IV drugs were infected with the AIDS virus.

The congressman agrees with the Immigration and Naturalization Service's consideration of not accepting immigrants with a fatal communicable venereal disease.

He also said that testing of marriage license applicants would serve as a good random survey of the magnitude of the disease.

Legal battle continues on Social Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — Further court battles are expected over the Reagan administration's handling of Social Security disability benefits in the wake of a Supreme Court ruling upholding a procedure that could disqualify hundreds of thousands of recipients yearly.

Eileen P. Sweeney of the National Senior Citizens Law Center said

Monday's court ruling favoring the administration could turn out to be "a relatively hollow victory."

"The court could have given the administration license to arbitrarily continue" denying claims by hundreds of thousands of people, she said. "It didn't."

She said future lower court cases will decide whether the administration is carrying out the review of those claims fairly.

John Trollinger, spokesman for the Social Security Administration, said the government is not denying benefits to those who deserve them. "The important thing is people who are disabled will continue to receive decisions in their favor," he said.

The Supreme Court, by a 6-3 vote, upheld a government regulation for withholding benefits based solely on medical evidence that someone is not severely disabled. The court said it is not necessary for officials to consider the individual's age, education and work experience.

Justices Sandra Day O'Connor and John Paul Stevens, who joined the majority, expressed reservations in a separate concurring opinion over the way the regulation is being applied.

"Empirical evidence ... supports the inference that the regulation has been used in a manner inconsistent with the statutory definition of disability," O'Connor said in an opinion joined by Stevens.

Three dissenting justices voted to strike down the regulation as being on its face in violation of Social Security law.

It is not clear how many would-be recipients could be denied benefits under the regulation. But court records suggest the figure could be as high as 800,000 people each year.

More than 2 million claims for Social Security disability benefits are made annually.

The rule says money may be denied to those found able to do "basic work activities" even if they are incapable of performing their past jobs.

Monday's decision was a defeat for Janet Yuckert of Seattle, who was refused benefits despite a middle-ear condition that causes her dizzy spells and other problems. She said she is unable to work.

When she applied for benefits in 1980 at age 45, she was enrolled in a computer training program and had worked as a travel agent and real estate broker.

She said her illness requires her to rest her eyes every 30 minutes while reading, and that she must take naps two or three times a day.

HHS ruled Ms. Yuckert did not suffer from a severe impairment significantly limiting her ability to perform basic work-related activities. The decision was based solely on medical evidence, without taking Ms. Yuckert's age, education and work experience into account.

Yuckert's attorney, James Douglas of Seattle, said Monday he believed the Supreme Court took a "simplified approach" to his client's case and said the decision leaves room for additional litigation in lower courts on the manner in which the disability-benefits regulation is applied.

In other action, the court:

—Ruled, 5-4, that investors who charge stock brokers with fraud may be forced to submit their claims to binding arbitration rather than having the disputes settled in federal court.

—Agreed to study the CIA's firing of a homosexual spy. The justices will hear arguments that the agency's personnel decisions are immune from federal court review.

—Refused to force the Reagan administration to adopt rules for reducing acid rain in the United States and Canada.

New Director

First Baptist Church members have hired Scott Turner to fill the position of Family Center Director for their newly completed activity building. Turner formerly owned his own business in Hereford but has returned to college to earn a degree in secondary education. He will be on hand at the center 25 hours a week and will balance his work hours with the time he spends in school and devotes to wife, Brenda, and son Dusty.

In Goetz trial

Testimony ends, judge ponders motion to dismiss

NEW YORK (AP) — Testimony has ended in subway gunman Bernhard Goetz's attempted murder trial, and the judge said he would consider a defense request to drop most of the charges.

A medical examiner completed the prosecution's case Monday by poking a sharp stick into a dressmaker's dummy to show that one of the four young men Goetz shot could have been sitting down when he was shot and paralyzed.

The defense called no more witnesses and the judge, State Supreme Court Justice Stephen Crane, scheduled closing arguments for Wednesday.

Goetz, a 39-year-old electronics technician, is charged with attempted murder, assault, reckless endangerment and weapons violations for shooting the four, all 19 at the time, on Dec. 22, 1984.

Goetz has said he fired in self-defense, thinking he was about to be robbed, after one of the four asked him for $5. One of the men said they were merely panhandling to play video games, which they intended to break into.

Defense lawyers did not call Goetz to testify.

The final witness, the prosecution's 35th, was Suffolk County Medical Examiner Dr. Charles Hirsch, called to rebut the testimony of Dominick DiMaio, a former New York City chief medical examiner.

Testifying as an expert, DiMaio had said that Darrell Cabey, the most seriously wounded of the four, could not have been seated when he was hit.

Hirsch said DiMaio's testimony was "completely false" and "unsupported by fact."

Hirsch's testimony was considered important to the prosecution, which tried to prove that Goetz attempted to murder Cabey, Troy Canty, Barry Allen and James Ramseur and did not act out of self defense.

Prosecutor Gregory Waples contends that Goetz walked over to Cabey and shot him in cold blood.

Using a wooden rod and the dummy, Hirsch said that if Cabey had moved his body slightly, the path of the bullet would be consistent with his being seated when shot.

Hirsch stuck the rod's sharpened tip into the mannequin on a diagonal in an attempt to demonstrate how the bullet could have skidded off the left shoulder blade and over to the spinal column, severing Cabey's spinal cord. Cabey was paralyzed from the waist down and suffered brain damage.

At least one witness said Cabey was seated when shot, corroborating the account Goetz gave police after he surrendered.

Khomeini's guards pose new threat to ships in Gulf

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Like modern-day pirates, Iran's Revolutionary Guards are launching attacks on merchant ships in the Persian Gulf from speedboats bearing rockets, machine guns and mines.

In the last few weeks, the Guards' "naval wing" has hit at least eight ships, including two Soviet vessels, introducing a new element into the increasingly tense situation in the gulf.

The Iranian government appears to have reduced its air and naval attacks since the Americans and Soviets strengthened their gulf forces following the May 17 Iraqi strike on the USS Stark, which killed 37 sailors. But the Guards' raids have continued unabated.

Revolutionary Guards, fanatical followers of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini, fired 21 rocket-propelled grenades into the 219,000-ton Liberian-registered tanker Gollar Robin May 18, starting a fire.

Four days later, the Guards hit the 2,600-ton Rashidia, a cargo ship owned by the Qatar National Navigation Co., with 10 rockets, wounding three crewmen.

So far, casualties aboard the targets have been minimal. But in several attacks, the raiders appeared to be aiming for quarters where seamen were sleeping.

"These are the same kind of Shiite Moslem fanatics who carried out the suicide bombings in Beirut that drove the U.S. Marines and French paratroopers out of Lebanon," said a Western military analyst who regularly visits Tehran. "With the temperature rising in the gulf and the Iranians feeling that the world is ganging up on it again (this is just the kind of climate in which the fanatics flourish. Suicide attacks in the gulf cannot be ruled out," the analyst noted, speaking on condition he was not named.

Tehran's leaders have warned they will not be deterred by superpower protection for shipping. They have said Iran will attack any bases in gulf Arab states that Washington is allowed to use.

Khomeini last year approved the formation of naval and air wings in the 400,000-strong Guards Corps, which has been built into a force that rivals the regular services.

Iran bought 50 of the 42-foot twin-diesel speedboats from Sweden's Boghammer Marin company, claiming it planned to use the lightweight aluminum craft against smugglers.

The Guards' hit-and-run attacks began in late April. The Guards use five- or six-man crews on the easily maneuverable speedboats, and arm them with machine guns and rocket launchers.

The armament is not enough to sink a big ship, but can cause considerable damage and set fire to a loaded tanker with a lucky shot.

The Middle East Economic Survey quotes Tormod Rafgard, general manager of the Intertanko Co. which operates ships in the gulf, as saying: "We believe the people on board these ships are not really under military command, but political command."

IRS plans for tax filing from computer, credit card payments

By JIM LUTHER AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Within a few years, any American with a computer may be able to file a tax return from home, getting a refund three weeks sooner or paying any balance due with a credit card.

Until the bugs are worked out, most taxpayers will have to stick with the old-fashioned way of filing — paper returns mailed to the Internal Revenue Service. But an increasing number will be able to use a system by which accountants and other professional preparers file returns to the IRS electronically.

The IRS on Monday announced the 2-year-old electronic-filing program will be expanded next year to professionals in all or part of 14 states and made available to as many as 30 million couples and individuals.

Judging by the first two years, it's unlikely that anywhere near that many taxpayers will file electronically in 1988 because there is no indication a sufficient number of professionals will take part. In 1986, the first year of the program, only a handful of firms took part and filed about 25,000 returns electronically. This year, more than 60 firms filed about 80,000 returns by this method.

During the first year of the project, electronic filing was available in parts of three states. This year, the program spread to four more areas.

Under the electronic system, an accountant or tax preparer calculates a person's tax liability and transmits the information to the IRS via telephone line. The taxpayer's signature is obtained on a separate sheet. At the taxpayer's option, refunds may be deposited directly into their checking or savings account, wiping out more paperwork.

For the moment, electronic filing is available only to couples and individuals who are getting a tax refund, and the return must be prepared by a professional, who charges a filing fee in addition to the regular preparation fee.

COUNTY

move to the space currently used by the Extension Service. A Law Library and conference area will be established on the third floor with the current room changed to a conference area for the Social Services secretary who is officed next door in the County Judge's office.

Renovations in the County Courtroom will provide for Commissioners' meeting to be held there in the future. Other renovations through several offices in the building involve only minor changes and painting. Total cost of the project is estimated to be around $6,000.

Commissioners also decided to further update the courthouse with the addition of computers in the County Clerk and County Tax Collector offices. Paul Mason prepared a written report showing the cost effectiveness of a system which will replace many of the information services the county currently must purchase.

The monthly cost of the proposed system will be around $1,600. Currently, $1,500 a month is spent for outside services. The system will be adaptable to include other offices as financing permits.

In his report Mason stated, "I firmly believe that the day and time has come that the taxpayer should not allow those agencies that are funded with tax monies to hide behind a veil of ignorance when it comes to the handling of information."

"Just as many of you probably have never learned to type," he wrote, "I do not expect you to learn how to run a computer. But if you continue to spend my tax dollars, I most assuredly expect you to understand the basics of the computer so that you can make intelligent decisions in their use. And making no decision at all is, in fact, making a decision."

Mason has been voluntarily counseling with the commissioner's court for two years regarding the advisability of lease-purchasing computer equipment.

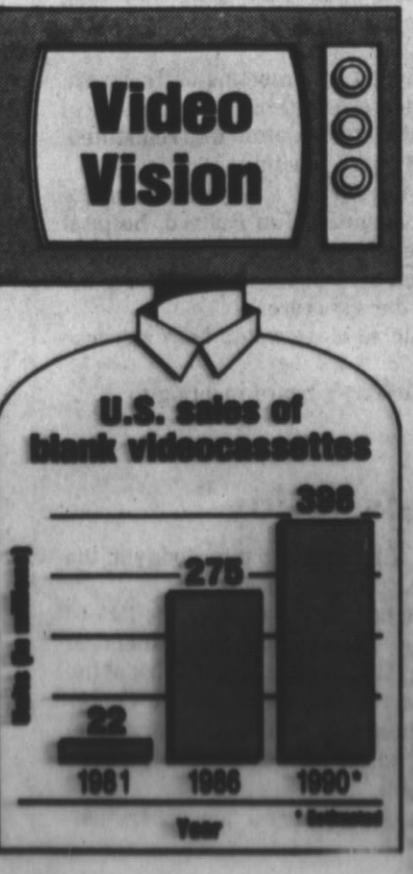

Commissioners approved Sheriff Joe Brown's proposal to join numerous other counties which charge a processing fee for issuing bonds. Brown estimates that $12,540 can be generated annually for the county, based on 1986 figures of the number of bonds issued.

The commissioners agreed to initiate a $20 per bond fee to cover cost of production beginning on July 1, however, they refrained from taking action on Brown's request of $100 per month increase of salary for himself and his secretary to cover the taking on of additional duties in regard to billing and processing the paperwork necessary to generate the revenue.

Commissioners approved the appointments of Ruben Gutierrez, Suzanne Stevens, Bob Sims and Paul Mason to the Waste Deposit Impact Committee's Issues Council.

Approval was also given to transfer funds from the Road and Bridge Fund to the General Fund, to initiate a new county purchasing policy with the county auditor to serve as purchasing agent, to purchase library equipment associated with the computerized carding system and for J. B. Noland to create a county road with a water line.

Discussions of the purchase of new county maps and of restoring LaPlata Cemetery were tabled.

CRIMESTOPPERS

Forget man with contract

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am not American-born so please help me with my English. Your advice to others is so sensible I hope you can help me also.

I am 37. He is 23, a poor man from the Philippines. I met him on a cruise ship. He is a crew member. We fell in love on the ship and everything was wonderful between us. I thought I was in heaven. He asked me if I wanted to marry him and I say "yes." He gave me a pen and a piece of paper and said, "Write down your promise." I did as he told me.

Three months have passed and I have had only two letters and a post card. He has called me on the phone once and reminded me of the contract I wrote. But he says I cannot call him because he has no home except on the ship and his boss does not like the phones tied up with personal conversations.

I have received three letters from his father asking me to send money to help the family as they have nothing. I send one check for a Christmas present and then the requests for more started to come. Now I am suspicious that my lover is just using me like I am a bank.

I still dream of him and the beautiful times we had on the ship, but my head tells me that my heart is leading me down the wrong road. Does the contract hold me to him? What should I do, Ann Landers?—A Lady from Spain

DEAR LADY: The "contract" means nothing. Forget it. Do yourself a favor and give that bozo the deep six. He's bad news. If my language is too "American," I'll put it another way: Tell him, "Basta-finito-adiso."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My wife and I have two beautiful cats. They are very playful, and we watch them by the hour.

Recently my wife pointed out that Snowball catches the ball of yarn and bats back the rubber ball with her left paw. Taffy almost always uses her right paw. We were wondering if it is possible that Snowball can be left-handed—the same as a human.

Please check with an authority and let us know.—Animal Crackers in Trenton, N.J.

DEAR CRACKERS: I checked with one of the world's most distinguished neurologists, Dr. Fred Plum of New York Hospital and Cornell Medical Center. Dr. Plum said, "Lower animals may sometimes show a preference for the use of one extremity over the other, but this sort of cerebral dominance could hardly be called left-handedness in lower animals."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband, a hard-core smoker of two to three packs of unfiltered cigarettes a day for more than 40 years, promised to quit. For six months he was terrific, then I discovered that he was starting to sneak cigars and cigarettes behind my back. I decided not to confront him because I felt this was his way of cutting down and keeping the smoke out of the house. (I quit several years ago.)

Lately, however, I am finding it harder and harder to play dumb when he gives me ridiculous excuses for running outdoors, doing errands, etc. He even keeps a close check on my bedtime so he can sneak out for one last puff.

I am sorely tempted to tell him he's not following me, but I'm afraid if I do he'll say, "OK, as long as you know, I will smoke wherever I please." What should I do?—Mouth Open or Mouth Shut on the Potomac

DEAR POTOMAC: Mouth shut. A confrontation will do no good, and it might lead to a full-scale war with no survivors. Forget it.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? Ann Landers' "New Bride's Guide" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Former Hereford residents' son honored in Arkansas

Timothy Wagner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wagner of Springdale, Ark., was honored recently at a special ceremony held at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock. The Wagners are former Hereford residents.

The ceremony was held for Arkansas seventh graders who participated in Duke University's Seventh Annual Search for mathematically and verbally brilliant students. All students invited to the ceremony had earned scores on at least one section of the Scholastic Aptitude Test equal to or greater than the scores obtained by 50 percent of college-bound high school seniors. These seventh graders took the college entrance test as participants in Duke University's Talent Identification Program.

Timothy received books and certificates for the following: having a combined SAT math, verbal and TSWE score of over 1,000; having a TSWE score of 52 or above; and having one of the four highest SAT verbal scores in Arkansas. He also received a one-course scholarship from Arkansas State University.

Tim was one of 16 students from Arkansas to be invited to the Grand Recognition Ceremony May 24. He attends Central Junior High School in Springdale.

In 1986, the principal of Veterans High School in Warwick, R.I., restricted the number of student trips to the bathroom to two a day. He said there was a link between visits and failing grades. "To a certain extent," he said, "the need to use the lavatory is not related to biological urges, but to get out of class."

Shyla Gerck, daughter of Carol Gerck, recently received the Robert C. Byrd Scholarship for $1,500. Shyla is a May graduate of Hereford High School.

She plans to attend Baylor University this fall under its honors study program majoring in psychology in order to fulfill a pre-law curriculum. She hopes to practice corporate law.

Shyla competed with more than 2,000 students from 518 Texas schools based on short essay, recommendations and financial need.

As a student at HHS, Shyla served as National Honor Society president, was a student council member and a member of the all-area band and orchestra. She received H-awards in English, calculus, biology II and Botswana, slightly smaller than the state of Texas, is in southern Africa, and has a population of 1,068,000. It was originally inhabited by bushmen, and later by the Bantus. The region became the British protectorate of Bechuanaland in 1886, when it was threatened by the Boers and Germans from South Africa. The country became independent in 1966, and changed its name to Botswana.

Botswana

San Diego rallies from 4-1 deficit

Padres edge Astros, 5-4

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — San Diego rookie Manager Larry Bowa is discovering that the mood swings for a major league manager can be devastating.

One night after his team blew a 9-run lead against Atlanta, the Padres rallied from a 4-1 deficit to beat Houston 5-4 with a 4-run eighth inning.

"Yesterday nearly killed me," Bowa said of Sunday's 13-12 loss to the Braves. "Today we came out with a lot of intensity. After losing yesterday we could have closed up shop."

"The definition of character is a 4-run inning."

Houston pitcher Bob Knepper, struggling to erase the memory of his 4-home run, 22-7 loss to Chicago in his last outing, had the Padres on the ropes until the eighth inning.

But Randy Ready and Shane Mack singled off Knepper to start the eighth inning and the rally was born.

A grounder by Carmelo Martinez to shortstop Craig Reynolds scored both runners when Reynolds threw wild to first base.

Santiago stole third base and scored the winning run when Salazar got his third hit of the game, a single to right field.

"I've got a little power," Salazar said. "I always try to hit the ball hard. I have been the last couple of days. I've been making good contact since I started playing against Montreal."

Salazar hit his third homer of the season in the second inning for a 1-0 lead but Reynolds singled in the fifth inning, went to third on a sacrifice and scored on Billy Hatcher's grounder.

Kevin Bass' double and sacrifice flies by Reynolds and Knepper gave the Astros a 4-1 lead in the sixth inning, setting the stage for San Diego's eighth inning rally.

"We still lost, that's the bottom line," Knepper said. "I felt much better tonight. On the one hand I pitched good enough to win but I made the mistake to Salazar and it cost us the game."

Reynolds sat stunned in front of his locker, long after his teammates had showered and dressed.

"I'd say throwing it in the second or third row was pretty bad," he said.

"If I made a mistake, it was not taking time to set before I threw. There's not much to say about it. I just made a bad play that cost us the game."

Knepper also credited his pitch to Salazar with losing the game.

"On one hand, I pitched good enough to win and on the other I threw a mistake to Salazar and it cost us the game," Knepper said.

Craig Lefferts, 1-2, got the victory in relief and Goose Gossage got his third save of the season. Knepper fell to 2-7.

MISL title series between Dallas, Tacoma begins tonight

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — If the Tacoma Stars are going to beat the Dallas Sidekicks in the Major Indoor Soccer League title series, they know they must stop a colorful 5-foot-6 Brazilian who goes by the name Tatu.

The Stars and the Sidekicks meet in the Tacoma Dome at 7:35 PDT tonight in the opening game of the best-of-seven MISL title series.

The teams play in the Tacoma Dome again Thursday night, with games 3 and 4 set in Dallas Saturday and Sunday.

Dallas Coach Gordon Jago has described Tatu as "a babbling extrovert who never stops smiling."

But it's not Tatu's personality that worries Coach Alan Hinton of the Stars. It's the 73 goals that Tatu scored during the regular season to lead the league in scoring.

Tatu, 25, grew up in Sao Paulo and quickly shed his formal name of Antonio Carlos Pecorari for his father's nickname of Tatu. In the playoffs this season, he has led the Sidekicks with a dozen goals and 10 assists. He has taken 83 shots in the playoffs, nearly twice as many as any Dallas teammate.

Tatu scored two goals and had three assists during the regular season against the Stars as the teams split their four-game series.

Tatu isn't the only outstanding player for the Sidekicks. Goalkeeper Krys Sobieski, a 36-year-old veteran from Poland, has a 3.75 goals-against average in the playoffs for Dallas.

Craig Lefferts, 1-2, got the victory in relief and Goose Gossage got his third save of the season. Knepper fell to 2-7.

Dallas got to the finals by surprising Baltimore 3-2 and then eliminating Cleveland 4-1.

The Stars, who are led by 32-year-old superstar Steve Zungul of Yugoslavia, made the championship series by eliminating five-time defending champion San Diego 4-3 in the semifinals after halting Wichita 3-2 in their first playoff series.

Mariners defeat Rangers 6-0

Langston pitches shutout

SEATTLE (AP) — Mark Langston believes he may pitch a no-hitter some day, but for now he's happy with his two-hit, 6-0 shutout of the Texas Rangers.

The 27-year-old lefthander allowed just singles to Ruben Sierra in the fourth inning and to Steve Buechele in the ninth, while striking out nine batters and walking one Monday night.

It was his second career two-hitter, the first coming against Detroit in 1984. And it was his third shutout of the year.

"You're always capable of pitching" a two-hitter, Langston, 7-4, said. "You've got to have a lot of luck and make every pitch perfect."

In addition to nine strikeouts, Langston got eight Rangers to ground out, and only four Rangers to hit the ball to the outfield.

"They only hit two balls really hard," Mariners Manager Dick Williams said.

Mariners pitching coach Billy Conners clocked Langston at 91 mph, his fastest speed of the year, but

YMCA schedules men's class 'D' softball touney

A men's class "D" slowpitch softball tournament has been scheduled on June 20-21 by the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA.

Entry fee for the tournament is $95 per team, plus a playable U.S.S.S.A. restricted flight softball. The entry deadline is Wednesday, June 17 at 8 p.m.

The tournament will be limited to the first 16 teams that pay their entry fees. A representative of each team must contact the YMCA on Thursday, June 18, after 2 p.m. for game times.

Awards in the tournament will be team and individual award for the first place team, a team trophy for the second place team, and a team trophy for the third place team.

Entry forms are available at the YMCA. For more information on the softball tournament, contact the YMCA at 364-6990.

Langston felt location was the key to the victory.

"Speed is meaningless unless you throw the ball in the right location," he said. "I threw all four pitches for strikes tonight."

Langston had a rough outing against Toronto last week, walking six batters, but has won three of his past four starts.

"I hope I'm in a groove," he said. "But every time you start to think that, you have a bad game and you're back to zero."

Langston's nine strikeouts threw him back in the major-league lead with 106, overtaking Houston's Mike Scott. Langston, who led the American League with 345 strikeouts last year, was 42 ahead of his pace after 12 games last year coming into Monday's game.

"You swing and miss a lot at good stuff like that," said a dejected Rangers Manager Bobby Valentine. "We had a couple of balls hit hard, but right at people."

While Langston was baffling the Rangers, his teammates had no trouble with Texas starter Mike Jeffcoat, 0-1, who was making his first appearance of the year after being called up from the minors.

Jim Presley led the way, driving in four runs with a homer and double. Presley had entered the game with just one hit in his last 21 plate appearances.

"I haven't been driving them in lately," he said. "That's what this team needs is more two-out hits."

NBA schedules international competition

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks will be going international as representatives of the National Basketball Association.

NBA Commissioner David Stern confirmed in Boston Monday that the Bucks would serve as hosts to a round-robin tournament Oct. 23-25 at the Milwaukee Arena featuring the Soviet national team and European champion Tracer Milan.

It will be the first time the NBA will be involved in international competition. The tournament was organized by the NBA and the international governing body for basketball, FIBA.

The schedule calls for the Bucks and Tracer Milan to open the tournament on Friday, Oct. 23. The Soviet team will play Tracer Milan on Saturday, with the Bucks and Soviets meeting in the final game on Sunday.

Stern said the Bucks were chosen because "we wanted a team that would win, but we were afraid it would scare off international teams" if the Boston Celtics or Los Angeles Lakers were selected.

"We want nice, friendly games that we win," Stern said.

McAllen Zone leads booming industry

McALLEN, Texas (AP) — From a distance, the McAllen Foreign Trade Zone's metal buildings with corporate logos look like a typical industrial park, but the 80-acre complex is the national leader of a booming general-purpose trade zone industry.

Such "free ports," closely regulated by the U.S. Customs Department, allow companies to bring foreign products and components into this country with customs duties charged only on items actually sold in the U.S. market.

The zones also allow firms to delay or plan their duty payments for times when they will be the lowest.

About 1,500 companies selling abroad, as well as in the United States, boosted the number of foreign trade zones to 135 at the end of last year, from a total of seven in 1970, though not all are active yet, according to the U.S. Commerce Department.

In dollar value and tonnage of products moving in and out of its gates, McAllen's FTZ has consistently been the No. 1 general-purpose foreign trade zone for the past several years, according to the department.

The department lists 59 active general-purpose zones, which are not manufacturing-oriented, and 37 active manufacturing subzones.

In 1985, the year for which the most recent volume figures are available, McAllen saw $1.28 billion in merchandise.

Paul Moffitt, president of the McAllen Industrial Board, said much of the traffic comes from U.S. companies' "twin-plant" manufacturing facilities in the border city of Reynosa, Mexico. It is known as the "maquila" industry in Spanish.

He said the city-owned industrial park is not in itself a money maker, but has aided the area's economy by helping attract companies.

The McAllen FTZ, about seven miles north of the Mexican border, serves a variety of industries including electronics, jewelry, machinery parts, medical supplies and musical instruments.

Trucks from Zenith Electronics,

General Electric Co. and other companies are regular sights, moving products and components between the Mexican plants and the trade zone.

Products are brought from the Mexican plants to the trade zone for purposes such as storage and quality-control testing. The companies only pay duties on the foreign components and value added to products destined for the U.S. market.

In addition to Zenith's Reynosa television plant and GE's small motors assembly, other maquila operations using the FTZ are Delco's automobile radio facility and the musical instrument assembly operation of McAllen American, a subsidiary of Kimball Piano and Organ Co.

The magnitude of the twin plants' effect on both sides of the border can be seen in the case of Zenith, which is Reynosa's largest employer, with 10,000 workers.

Not all of the merchandise involves the twin-plant operations, though, said Joyce Dean vice president of the McAllen FTZ. She said there isn't one specific reason the zone leads its sector of the industry.

"We just have a lot of merchandise that flows through here, some of it into Mexico for the maquila plants and some of it is being sold into Mexico."

The McAllen facility opened in 1973 under a federal act passed in 1934 and amended in 1950 to allow manufacturing. The FTZ buildings originally were designed to help companies cut storage and shipping costs, and some manufacturers still use them for repacking containers.

But many other uses have been added over the years. Foreign and domestic merchandise may be brought into the zone and stored, exhibited, repackaged, assembled, graded, manufactured or re-exported without payment of customs duties.

Items such as Christmas tree ornaments can be imported to the zones and stored year-round, even if the actual selling period is brief.

One company several years ago used the zone to test a Mexican perfume essence it was shipping to a French company that didn't trust the reliability of tests in Mexico. Security is tight at the zones, all located in designated areas legally outside the nation's customs territory. McAllen's maximum-security FTZ has a high fence, closely controlled access and signs warning that those passing through the gates are subject to search by U.S. Customs.

"When you're dealing with as much merchandise that's inside these gates — the duty has not been paid on it, and our bond is at stake — if there's any merchandise missing, customs (seeks) duties on the missing merchandise," Ms. Dean.

Sea ports were the original sites for foreign trade zones, and McAllen was the first inland port of entry to apply for such status, the Commerce Department says.

"They were very uncommon, and now it seems just a lot of them have sprung up," said Herbert Best, the U.S. Customs port director who oversees the McAllen zone from the Texas border city of Hidalgo.

The zones are popular, he said, because of the increase in foreign components, and because they allow companies to maintain cash flow by delaying duties.

They also have increased rapidly in recent years, because, with a rising interest in foreign trade, inland cities are looking at their airports as points of entry to the country, said Donald Creed, a Commerce Department spokesman.

Use of the zones probably will grow because of the increase of international trade activity, Creed said. "They help facilitate international trade and they help encourage export," he added.

Looking at six years in the life of a super rocker

NEW YORK (AP) — It is a tribute to Bruce Springsteen — albeit a backhanded one — that he most recently made headlines when his five-record "Bruce Springsteen and the E Street Band Live-1975-85" was declared "a platinum turkey" six months after its release.

That's because it only sold a mere 3 million copies. But it was only last summer that Brucemania was at its most fervent, when the nation's youth donned red, white and blue jeans, when telephone lines jammed wherever Springsteen tickets went on sale, when even your grandmother had heard of "Born in the U.S.A."?

Music critic Dave Marsh has chronicled the last six years of the rocker's full-throttle career in "Glory Days: Bruce Springsteen in the 1980s" (Pantheon, $18.95.)

Marsh, 37, is one of rock'n'roll's best-known writers, with pieces appearing regularly in Rolling Stone, Playboy and his own monthly newsletter, Rock & Roll Confidential. He is the author or co-author of 10 other books, including biographies of The Who, Elvis Presley and a previous work on Springsteen, "Born to Run: The Bruce Springsteen Story," published in 1979.

"One of the things I hoped 'Glory Days' would do would be to lend a much more human dimension to how people saw Bruce," Marsh said in a telephone interview from Los Angeles, midway through a 21-city publicity tour for the book.

"'Born to Run' was such an act of hero worship, which I've always blamed myself for. 'Glory Days' is much less of that," he said.

"It's still enthusiastic. It still sees him as a terrific person, which he is, and a really important rock'n'roll artist, which he is. On the other hand, it does not pretend that he's invulnerable to the miseries that afflict the rest of us."

But don't get the impression that "Glory Days" is a dispassionate study of the man. Marsh is not only a longtime fan and veteran of more than 200 concerts, he is also a close friend of Springsteen's, and "Glory Days" is as close to a gushing "official" biography that one can get.

The book begins with the E Street Band's first full-scale overseas tour in 1981, and the effect that traveling abroad had on Springsteen.

"Glory Days" next documents the recording of "Nebraska," whose acoustic, plaintive sound was a radical departure for the hard-rocking Springsteen as well as a disappointment to some of his fans.

One sees the soul-searching the artist underwent before work began on "Born in the U.S.A."

Then comes the making and marketing of that album, which would go on to sell 18 million records and become the second-best selling album ever. And the ensuing tour was the highest-grossing rock tour ever — $100 million in ticket sales alone.

The portrait of Springsteen that emerges from Marsh's book is an extremely intelligent and increasingly articulate artist who has matured and brought rock along with him.

DR. GOTT No danger from fillings

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I recently read two news stories linking mercury poisoning to amalgam fillings in the teeth. Is this true? What tests should be done?

DEAR READER — The amount of mercury in amalgam is small, and it is tightly bound to the other components of the filling. This does not present a health hazard because the mercury does not leach out of the amalgam.

You are probably at greater risk if you work in an occupation that involves the use of mercury, such as a farming/chemical industry. Although many types of seafood contain mercury, the levels have not — in most cases — been shown to be harmful to humans. A simple blood or urine test, ordered by your doctor, will tell you if there is an increased amount of mercury in your body.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Recently I accidentally stabbed my palm. I've been experiencing an electric-like shock and pain ever since, although the finger seems numb. Will it heal itself or should I see a doctor?

DEAR READER — The stab wound may have injured a nerve in your palm, or infection may have been introduced into the deep tissue by the penetrating object. Although the situation may heal itself, you should see a doctor to make sure that no treatable or correctable condition is present. Remember to ask about a tetanus booster; it should be given every 10 years to prevent the possibility of contracting this serious disease.

DEAR DR. GOTT — The muscles on my wrist are forming scar tissue. It seems as if, eventually, my fingers will pull towards the palm. Is there any treatment for this problem?

DEAR READER — I cannot tell from your question which of two common conditions you have: carpal tunnel syndrome or Dupuytren's contractures.

In the first instance, fibrous bands grow across the wrist in a bracelet distribution. This causes pressure on the nerves and produces pain, weakness and muscle wasting. The bands can be released during an operation that is standard for most orthopedic surgeons.

In the second condition, a painless tightening of tissues surrounding the tendons in the palm causes progressive bending of the fingers — usually the fourth and fifth fingers. This does not ordinarily require treatment until the flexed fingers interfere with normal functioning. Then the contractures can be surgically released, again by a qualified surgeon.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had my gallbladder and appendix removed three years ago. Since then, I've had discomfort from my lower rib cage to my stomach, parallel with the stitches. All tests are negative. What might be wrong?

DEAR READER — Scar tissue, at the site of previous surgery, can remain sensitive and painful for many months, particularly when the scar shrinks with time, which is normal. Your symptoms may be the result of surgery, but you'd best check with your surgeon to make sure that there isn't another cause for your discomfort.

DEAR DR. GOTT — What can you tell me about neuritis? My doctor says it will last six to nine months and he is treating me with Xanax.

DEAR READER — Neuritis is nerve swelling. It causes pain and can result from a variety of conditions, including infection and pressure on the nerve. Xanax, a mild tranquilizer, helps patients cope with discomfort.
