Nuke waste dump goal is 2003

Staff And AP Reports

The projected opening date for a high level nuclear waste repository has been delayed five years, the Department of Energy told congressional members Tuesday.

Rep. Larry Combest told The Brand Tuesday evening that the full details about the meaning of the delay were not released in the congressional briefing. A "mission plan amendment" is scheduled to be announced by DOE today.

Combest said he was only told the target date of 1998 for the first repository was changed to 2003 and that all other word would proceed as scheduled. "I feel the DOE is simply putting a more realistic timetable on the project because of delays and legal problems."

Combest said he thought the site characterization would continue in Deaf Smith County and in Nevada and Washington. "Their timetable has been delayed five years, but I don't see them backing off one bit. They are just revising the date it will

Congressmen downplayed the significance of the announcement, saying it merely acknowledged chronic delays DOE has suffered in trying to find one spot in the nation suitable for disposal of the most toxic industrial waste product produced in sion plan that says the dump won't open until the next century," said Phil Gramm(R-Tex.), one of the state's U.S. senators.

Combest said he considers the delay to be "a partial victory in that any delay gives us the chance to try to ensure the process was carried out according to the letter of the law, which I don't believe it was."

The DOE originally was required by Congress to build two nuclear dumps, one in the West and one in the East, but last year the department announced it would only build one repository in the West.

"I think this is just another example of how DOE has failed to comply with the Nuclear Waste Policy Act, said Rep. Beau Boulter, R-Amarillo. "Until DOE decides to comply with the act the search for a repository will be tainted and it will neither earn nor deserve the trust of the American people."

Gramm said the DOE decided on the five-year completion delay in order to give itself and Congress a chance to re-study the plan in light of changes in the nuclear industry that could make one of the two sites un-

"Last year DOE dropped its proposal to go with an Eastern site, inducing Western senators to cut funding for the Western sites," Gramm

Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, was instrumental in cutting more than $200 million from the Energy Department's nuclear waste disposal program last year and obtained an opinion from the General Accounting Office that said the DOE decision to drop the Eastern site was illegal.

"When that whole controversy erupted, DOE said there was less need for second site," Gramm said. "But the law calls for second site. And I said that if those circumstances have changed then let's go back to revisit issue. The fiveyear delay will allow us to do that."

The Texas site, North of Hereford, in Deaf Smith County, is on an enormous salt deposit that scientists believe would be a potentially safe geological formation to store highlevel nuclear wastes, the most enduring toxic industrial poison made by

The sites being studied in Washington and Nevada are on federally owned property near existing nuclear facilities or military installations.

The final dump site is expected to house 70,000 tons of waste that will have to remain buried for at least 10,000 years before it is safe.

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Reagan, saying "I took a risk ... it did not work," has appealed to Congress to put aside its preoccupation with the Iran-Contra controversy, but the Democrats say he still must clear away the sense of mistrust and incompetence the affair has evoked.

Reagan used his sixth annual report on his view of the nation Tuesday night to briefly express regret over the failed initiative that involved selling arms to Iran and then to plead: "Now, ladies and gentlemen of the Congress, why don't we get to work?"

It was a speech marked by Reagan's characteristic optimism, cheerfulness, nostalgia and patriotism — and his first public appearance since before Christmas but a few moments afterward Democrats were on the television screens with their response, insisting on answers to their questions about

But when Reagan had finished, the Democrats talked mostly of the arms

"The sale of arms to Iran - in direct contradiction to our stated foreign policy - raises real questions about trust," said Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va. "But it also raises real doubts about competence."

"The administration has the obligation to tell 'we, the American people' exactly what led to the armsfor-hostage deal - and what happened to accountability in the White House," Byrd said.

Still, Byrd and House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, stressed that they wanted to work with Reagan during his final two years in office.

Clements says no huge tax for Texas

AUSTIN (AP) - Texans won't face "a huge new tax bill" this year because budget cuts can be made, Gov. Bill Clements says.

But Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says the state's budget has been analyzed repeatedly and that caution is needed in any further reductions.

Recalling his campaign theme, Clements told the Texas Association of Life Underwriters on Tuesday that "I can assure you we're going to scrub the budget ... We're going to live within our means."

Due to projections of a potential 1988-89 deficit of $6 billion, the Republican governor said, many politicians are calling a tax hike unavoidable.

"You hear ... that this (deficit) represents an insurmountable problem without a huge new tax bill. I can tell you right now, that isn't going to happen," Clements said. But Hobby, speaking earlier to the same audience, said the Legislature has been wrangling with the financial crisis since 1984. All state programs have been carefully reviewed,

"Now, there's a great deal of talk about $2 billion cuts in our state budget ... But our budget has undergone a thorough scrubbing for waste and inefficiencies during the last four years. Most of that job is already done," Hobby said.

"If further cuts are to be made, great care must be exercised or we will dismantle the very institutions best-suited to help us through this crisis," Hobby added.

Clements refused to say Tuesday whether he would endorse proposals to continue the temporary sales and motor fuel tax increases enacted last

The Legislature voted then to raise the sales tax rate from 4% percent to 51/4 percent and boost the fuel tax by 5 cents per gallon to help offset income lost due to falling oil prices. Those increases, which kicked in Jan. 1, are scheduled to be rolled back on Aug. 31.

Continuing the temporary taxes would raise an estimated $3 billion, officials say, Clements said he will spell out his proposals for balancing the budget in his State of the State address to the Legislature on Feb. 4.

Most farm subsidy payments go to smaller producer

WASHINGTON (AP) - Although some large farms qualify for king-size federal subsidies, most of the payments go to smaller producers, including many who are deeply in debt, according to an Agriculture Department study.

But the report also confirmed

USDA findings over many years that the larger farms collect a bigger share of the total subsidy pie than their numbers would indicate.

In 1985, for example, the larger farms — those selling more than $500,000 worth of products a year —

School money complicated by taxes

AUSTIN (AP) — A school finance expert says property taxes are archaic and inequitable but are the only source of local school revenue until the Legislature makes a change.

Dr. Richard Hooker, a University of Houston professor, has been on the witness stand since Jan. 20 in a complex suit involving distribution of state funds to public schools.

The trial continues today.

"In my opinion, the property tax is inequitable and archaic but it is administered as equitably as we can do it," Hooker testified Tues-

"However, it is the only ball game in town," Hooker said. "Until the Legislature changes the tax structure, it is the only source of revenue for public school and we have the obligation to see that taxpayers are treated alike."

In the trial, expected to last at least a month, 67 property-poor districts are challenging the 1984 school reform act and the way state school money is divided. Forty-eight districts have sided with the state in supporting the current method.

Hooker testified earlier that public schools should have an average of $3,888 per student to provide quality education. On crossexamination Tuesday, Hooker admitted some schools might provide quality education for $3,600 per student while other other schools would take $4,000.

Earlier testimony in the trial has shown the statewide average for each student is $3,345.

Officer fired after sex for smokes

DALLAS (AP) - Twenty-four female inmates at the Dallas County detention center exchanged sex for cigarettes on 25 different occasions with three jailers who resigned and another who was fired, officials said.

No criminal charges have been filed against the officers who resigned Sunday and Monday, or a fourth officer who was fired after an administrative hearing Tuesday, said Jim Ewell, a spokesman for the Dallas County Sheriff's Department.

Ewell said the jailer, a processor in the fingerprinting section, admitted to fondling at least 40 women.

"We have elected to go the administrative route," Deputy Cmdr. Bob Knowles said. "First, to make sure it doesn't happen again, and second, to get rid of the officers now. A criminal investigation would have been lengthy.'

All 10 National Aeronautics and Space Administration centers were scheduled to observe the 73 seconds of silence.

Mutineers fail to surrender

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - Military chief Gen. Fidel V. Ramos met today with the leader of about 200 rebel soldiers holding a broadcast station but failed to persuade him to surrender. A minister quoted him later as saying he hoped to end the standoff today.

"This cannot go on indefinitely," Ramos said after his fruitless meeting with the rebels. Another government official advised reporters to stand by.

President Corazon Aquino met with her Cabinet today to review the standoff at the walled studio compound of Channel 7 television and DZBB radio in suburban Quezon City. She vowed Tuesday to punish the rebels to the "fullest extent of the law."

Government radio broadcast tearful appeals by relatives asking the rebels to give up. The 5-year-old daughter of air force Col. Oscar Canlas, leader of the rebels in the station, whimpered, "Daddy come home. Mama is waiting for you and so are my brothers."

The rebels issued five conditions for surrender: retirement of over-age military officials, "fair treatment" of all troops including Marcos loyalists, an overhaul of the armed forces, permission for demonstrations of support around the station and no use of force

The government had no immediate response. Accepting the de-nand against extended service for older officers would mean Ramos, 58, would be retired.

The station was the only stronghold still in rebel hands after a coup attempt before dawn Tuesday. Hundreds of pro-government troops in full battle dress were stationed around it.

The government said about 500 troops from all branches of the military, most from garrisons in northern and central Luzon, had planned to take over military and media installations around Manila but were thwarfed by pro-government caldiers. out were thwarted by pro-government soldiers.

Texas lawmakers react to Reagan's State of Union speech

WASHINGTON (AP) Democratic and Republican lawmakers from Texas were pleased with portions of President Reagan's State of the Union speech, but many were disappointed over the way he delt with the Iranian crisis.

Republicans in the Texas delegation said the president reaffirmed his will to fight for a balanced budget amendment and line-item veto power while dispelling fears that his physical vitality was waning.

"He was the picture of a president with a vision for America - facing the Iranian thing head on, assuming responsibility for it, but most importantly, getting on with the job of running the nation," said Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas.

Reagan reiterated his support for the Nicaraguan rebels and for a strengthened U.S. defense. He also admitted mistakes had been made by his administration in its dealings with Iran, but didn't specifically mention the arms sales for hostages. For at least one Texas Republican that was not enough.

"I had two disappointments in the speech," said Rep. Jack Fields, R-Humble: "One was the lack of a statement on energy independence.

The second was the president did not deal in strong enough language with the Iranian controversy.'

House Speaker Jim Wright of Fort Worth, who joined Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia in the Democratic response, pledged to work with the president over the next two years, but warned something would have to be done about the deficit, trade and - most quickly - the Iranian crisis.

"For the moment, our allies and our friends are bewildered and question our motives. They wonder how we can rail against terrorism - and then self arms to terrorists. Many of you are wondering, too," said Byrd, D-W.Va., the Senate majority leader.

Wright accused the administration abandoning education and warned that could be "suicidal" because educated people are the core of a strong nation.

"Education is the fuel that runs the locomotive. And the 100th Congress is determined to restore education to its rightful place at the pinnacle of our national priorities," Wright said.

Lloyd Bentsen, Democratic chairman of the trade-oriented Senate Finance Committee, said he was glad to hear the president say he planned to propose "legal and regulatory reforms and weapons" to fight unfair trade practices. 'This is a change in direction and

I'm just delighted to see it," Bentsen said. "I don't think he's talking about as tough a bill as we'll see come out of Congress, but I think we'll see Congress and the administration continue to work toward each other.

"I've seen a great deal of bipartisan support developing for the legislation I'm planning to introduce in the next 10 days or so and we welcome whatever contribution the administration has to make," Bent-

Republicans in the delegation expressed confidence in the president, and complimented him on his stands Nicaragua and the youth of America, but several criticized the lack of a mention of energy policy.

Rep. Bill Archer, R-Houston, said he was comforted by Reagan's commitment to aiding the Nicaraguan rebels fighting the Sandinistas, but was disappointed that nothing was said about the oil crisis.

"I liked the strength of his commitment to freedom in Central America, and secondly, a little chauvinistically, that he highlighted the line-item veto, of which I am the lead sponsor," said Archer.

"I think some attention should have been paid to energy as a national security issue," he added.

Rep. Tom DeLay of Sugar Land said he was also disappointed about the lack of a stand on energy, but he said he was "proud" of the president.

"I was really proud of the presiand refuted their rhetoric," DeLay said. "It was a reaffirmation of the Reagan agenda with no holds barred and no apologies."

Why did 41 percent of the payments go to farms with no apparent signs of financial stress?

The most important reason, they said, is that eligibility for current programs is not based on financial

"A second reason," Johnson added, "is that preliminary analysis of our data shows that many positive cash flow farms would likely have been in a negative position without government payments and CCC loans."

He added, "Of course, we don't know what would have happened to these farmers if they had not chosen to participate in the programs, but we can assume that participation offered the highest expected net income." Banker said the research confirmed that the biggest government payments are going to the largest farms.

"But you can look at it another way, too," he said. "The largest payments are going to the farms with the largest share of production."

Thank you for the interview with Doug Manning in the Brand on January 25. This sensitive issue must be addressed by this community, but as with many issues, there are differences of opinion. I must disagree with several points raised in the arti-

1. The statement taht people would be fighting to "get it here" if the word nuclear were not attached. Personally, I will work against ANY project that proposes to bring 70,000 tons of known carcinogens to my hometown. If it were PCB's or toxic waste or hazardous materials instead of spent nuclear fuel, the idea would be just as wrong.

2. The assertion that the Amarillo chamber committee did a "thorough study". Of the 42 persons interviewed by the ad-hoc committee, 10 had points of view different from the DOE. OF the 71 publications listed as resources for the study, 20 might be considered to have expressed viewpoints contrary to the DOE.

This committee refused to visit the proposed site and meet with affected landowners, although the Amarillo chapter of STAND chartered 2 buses and lined up several officials to meet with the committee. The slanted study resulted in predictable conclu-

Now, here's a few other "what if" questions. What if the DOE makes contracts with local businesses on the same basis as at the WIPP site in Carlsbad? During construction at WIPP, about 20 percent of the contracts were made with businesses within an 80-mile radius, 20 percent were made with other New Mexico companies, and 60 percent went out of state.

What if predictions of increased radiation exposure for the local population hold true, and we see elevated rates of cancer in Hereford? Will the DOE or CEA or WDIC provide "mitigation" to these victims and their families?

What if one of the 26 major accidents expected during the transportation of spent fuel occurs in this area?

CCA members invited to attend performance

The Hereford Community Concert Association will present Phil Coulter's Pops Orchestra of Ireland at 3 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 1, in the Hereford High School auditorium.

The second presentation of the 1986-87 concert season, the event will feature Coulter's arrangements of pops classics, hit television and film scores, memories of Mantovani, and swinging songs from the 1960s. Members of the Hereford Community Concert Association are invited to attend this premiere performance of the Irishman and his orchestra.

A classically trained musician, Coulter graduated from Queens University in Belfast, Northern Ireland and emigrated the next day to London where he began a career in popular music. His talents include those of a pianist-arranger and pet on a String" which represented the United Kingdom in the prestigious Eurovision Song Contest in 1967, bringing the coveted Grand Prix to Britain for the first time.

His American success has included country hits by Waylon Jennings and Bill Anderson. Another success came when his song "My Boy" was recorded by Elvis Presley and went on to become a hit throughout the world.

Following an American tour on which he conducted some of the major American orchestras, Coulter was invited to conduct the London Symphony Orchestra at the Royal Gala featuring Peter Ustinov, Richard Harris and Victor Borge.

During the 1985-86 season, Coulter and his orchestra played to full concert halls throughout Ireland. Now, in 1987, he conducts his Pops Orchestra of Ireland on a coast-to-coast tour in their American debut.

Meat week promotes healthy eating habits designed to sell red meat may also be promoting better eating habits, says Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutritionist.

"Through National Meat Week and other grocery-store promotions," the industry is trying to show consumers how meat fits into a healthy diet," says Mary Kinney Sweeten.

This year National Meat Week runs from February 1-7.

"The phamplets, recipe cards and advertisements encourage people to buy lean cuts of meat and use no-fat. cooking methods, steps which are recommended by the major health organizations in their dietary guidelines," she adds.

Labels identifying lean cuts of meat in the meat case are helpful to Industry marketing campaigns consumers looking for low-fat selections. At industry urging, many grocery stores are also trimming more of the outside fat from meat and packaging certain cuts in 3-ounce servings, Sweeten says.

> Since leaner cuts of meat may become dry and tough if cooked with traditional methods, industry promotions also involve recipes for marinating, braising and stir-frying

> Sweeten says red meats provide important nutrients and are a major source of heme iron.

> "By making use of some of these materials available in the grocery store meat case, consumers can learn more about including red meats ina lower-fat diet," advises the nutritionist.

Herd suffers 59-57 defeat

Walcott Girls' Basketball Team

boys' basketball team saw its district record drop further Tuesday night when it lost another close ball game - 59-57 to Canyon.

The Hereford Whiteface varsity

Hereford rallied from six points down with one minute left to take a one-point lead with 26 seconds left, but a three-point play by Canyon with one second left gave the Eagles the 59-57 lead and eventual win.

Canyon also won the junior varsity game, 59-56. Season records for the Hereford teams are: varsity, 8-16, including a 3-7 district record; and junior varsity, 13-8.

The Whitefaces trailed Canyon 33-30 at halftime, and Canyon held a 45-37 lead at the end of the third Canyon led by six points with one minute left in the fourth quarter. Four of Hereford's points in the late rally were free throws by Bobby Baker.

"The kids never gave up. They did not quit trying. We got three steals in the last minute," said Hereford Coach Mike Fields.

Canyon committed a turnover with about half a minute left, and Baker scored a field with 26 seconds left to put Hereford into the lead, 57-56.

Canyon missed a pair of shots, but rebounded the second missed shot and scored with one second left, with a foul being called on Hereford. The free throw was made, giving Canyon a 59-57 lead.

Hereford's Rodney McCracken threw a good full-court pass to Baker. Baker, utilizing his football pass receiver skills, caught the ball in the air about five feet from the basket and got off a shot.

The ball rolled around the rim and fell off, and Hereford failed in its efforts to tie up the game and send it into overtime.

This Friday, Hereford plays home games against Pampa. Game times are 7 p.m. for the junior varsity and 8:30 p.m. for the varsity. Hereford will also play Pampa in a sophomore boys' game, scheduled for 4:30 p.m. at the HHS gym.

"We haven't beaten Pampa in a long time, so we would appreciate some support," Fields said.

Baker was high scorer in Tuesday's game with 25 points, including 11 out of 12 foul shots. Baker scored 17 points in the second half and was eight-for-eight in free throw

Spurs outduel Pistons, 118-107

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — After going a frigid 0-for-6 from the floor in his last outing, San Antonio Spur Jon Sundvold heated his team up with 22 points against the Detroit Pistons.

Sundvold matched his season high point total and set his season high in assists with 11 to lead the Spurs past the Pistons 118-107 in an NBA game Tuesday night.

"It seemed cold on the bench, a lot of the guys said they were freezing," the Spur point guard said. "But, I went out and hit my first few and then I was wondering why I didn't hit all of them. When you hit a bunch, it just seems strange when they don't go in."

Sundvold scored 14 points in the first quarter and finished the game with nine of 15 buckets from the field. The victory improved the Spurs to 13-29 for the year and gave them their fourth win out of their last five home games.

The Pistons fell to 26-15. The loss was their third straight and dropped them out of a first place tie with Atlanta in the Central Division.

"I think this victory gives us an A for this homestand," Spur Coach Bob Weiss said. "I know we would have liked to have won all five, but that's not too realistic, seeing as we've played some pretty good teams."

Leading 79-78 with 3:41 remaining in the third period, San Antonio rookies Larry Krystkowiak and Johnny Dawkins led a 15-6 outburst to put the Spurs ahead 94-84 at the end of the period.

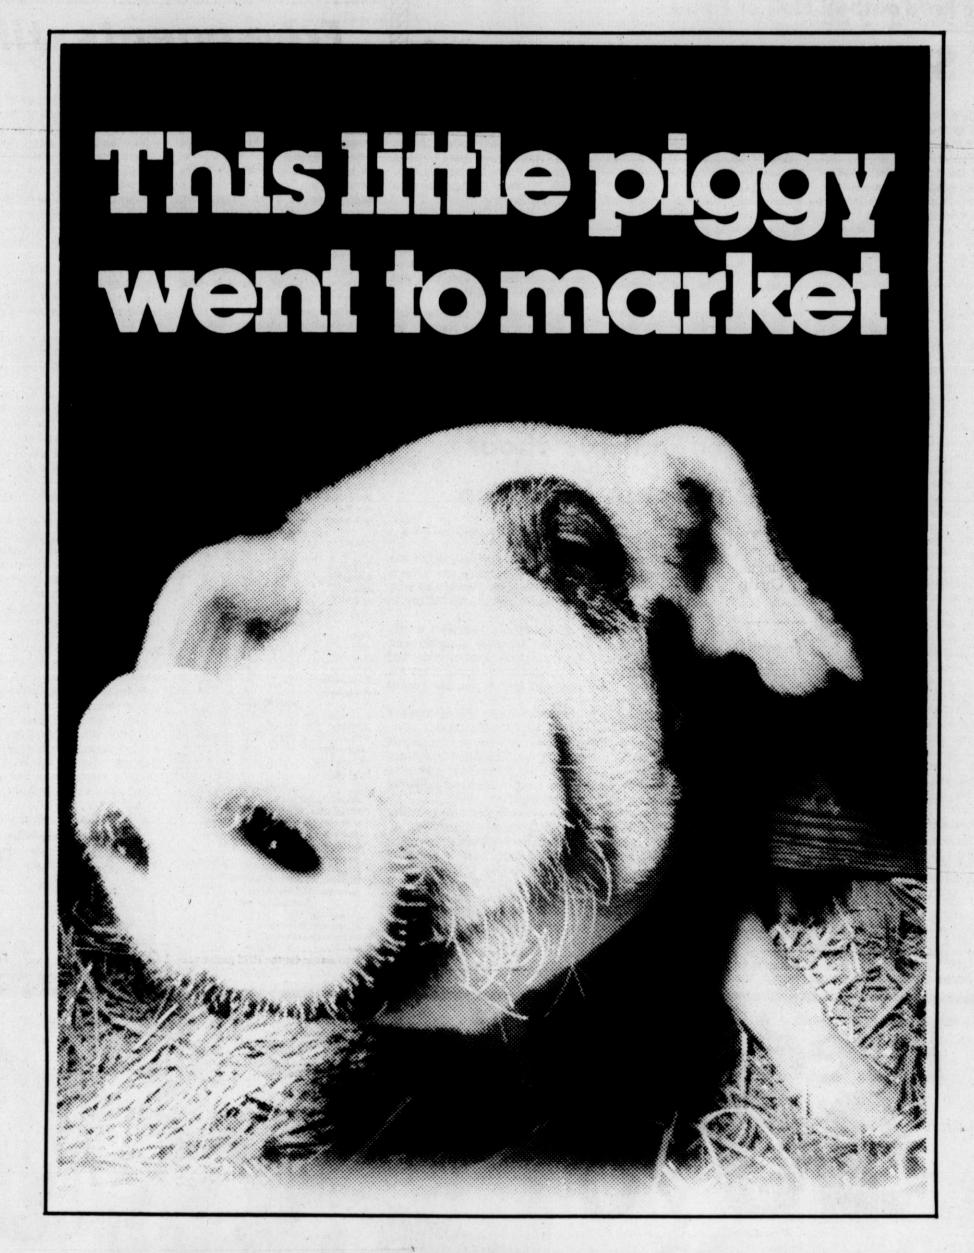

Krystkowiak sandwiched two driving layups and three free throws around Dawkins' four points to lead the surge. Detroit was not able to get closer than 100-93 in the fourth period.

"We are fairly deep on the bench at all positions and everyone is contributing," Krystkowiak said. The first year player made every moment count, scoring his seven points in seven minutes. Alvin Robertson scored 18 for the Spurs and Walter Berry added 16.

Detroit was led by Isiah Thomas with 23 points and Vinnie Johnson with 21.

"Our starters couldn't get the lead back," Piston Coach Chuck Daly said. "I have never seen us this fatigued on a road trip. The Spurs beat us down the floor all during the second half."

Of course, by then he wasn't a little piggy any more. You see, at some point during his leisurely life, he began acting like a hog, and stayed around too long! Now, to his dismay, he's being sold for a fair and equitable price in the Hereford Junior Livestock Show set for January 28th thru January 31st at the Hereford Bull Barn.

WHAT'S THE MORAL TO THIS STORY?

Well, hard work pays off in the long-run! While the little piggy was enjoying an easy life, a young entrepeneur was working diligently to establish one of the basic fundamentals of business - a good product (supply) for a future consumer (demand).

In the end this young business person provided a service and received a handsome profit for his labor! Won't you join us at the Junior Livestock Show as we applaud the efforts of these young entrepeneurs.

Seven inductees named

By RUSTY MILLER AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - All seven members voted into the 1987 class of the Pro Football Hall of Fame called their selection an honor. But Larry Csonka also called it a reprieve from the past tense.

"For the last five years, it seems that I've been talking about what was," Csonka said. "Like all old pros, the 'was' fades. To suddenly be cast into the 'is' again - to be inducted into the Hall of Fame - is like living forever."

Csonka, the prototypical fullback of the 1970s while with the Miami Dolphins, was joined by teammate Jim Langer, defensive tackle Joe Greene, quarterback Len Dawson, fullback John Henry Johnson, wide receiver Don Maynard and guard Gene Upshaw.

Csonka and Langer were both integral parts of the Dolphins' undefeated season in 1972 that ended with a Super Bowl victory.

Csonka rushed for 8,081 yards and 64 touchdowns during an 11-year career, spent with the Dolphins, the New York Giants and for a year in the defunct World Football League.

Langer was picked up on waivers by the Dolphins early in his career and went on to be named to the Pro Bowl six times.

Greene was the enforcer on the defensive line that powered the Pittsburgh Steelers to four Super Bowl championships. "Mean Joe" was twice named the National Football League's Defensive Player of the Year and was chosen for the Pro Bowl 10 times in a 13-year career.

Johnson, the recommended candidate of the Old-Timers Committee, rushed for 6,803 yards and 48 touchdowns during a 13-year career with the San Francisco 49ers, Steelers and Houston Oilers. He rushed for more than 1,000 yards in both 1962 and 1964 with the Steelers. and was the leading rusher with the 1957 NFL champion Detroit Lions.

Dawson became the third former Kansas City Chiefs player voted into the Hall, joining Bobby Bell and Willie Lanier. Dawson passed for 28,711 yards and 239 touchdowns during a 19-year career with the Steelers, Cleveland Browns, Dallas Texans and Chiefs. He led the Texans to the American Football League championship in 1962, winning league player of the year honors, then went on to be named the most valuable player in the 1970 Super Bowl as the Chiefs upset the Minnesota Vikings 23-7.

"It's terrific, it's the top. It doesn't get any better than making the Hall of Fame," said Dawson, who grew up in Alliance, Ohio, near Canton, where the Hall of Fame is located.

Upshaw, now the executive director of the National Football League Players Association, spent 15 years as a guard with the Oakland Raiders. The 6-5, 255-pound Upshaw played in three Super Bowls.

Along with Jim Parker, Upshaw became one of only two guards from the modern era to be inducted. Upshaw was the fourth Raider - following George Blanda, Jim Otto and Willie Brown - in the Hall.

Maynard joins his old New York Jet battery-mate, Joe Namath, as the only former Jet players in the Hall of Fame. Maynard spent 15 seasons with the New York Giants. New York Titans, the Jets and the St. Louis Cardinals, catching 663 passes for 11,834 yards and 88 touchdowns.

Greene ecstatic about Hall of Fame induction

By The Associated Press

Joe Greene, former football star with North Texas State University and the Pittsburgh Steelers, was ecstatic about being named to the Pro Football Hall of Fame.

Greene, who lives in the Dallas suburb of Duncanville, was elected in his first year of eligibility. His induction at Canton, Ohio, next August will be "important to me. I want my place in history. I really do," Greene

Another Texan, Don Maynard of El Paso, who starred as a wide receiver for Texas Western and the New York Jets, also was named to the Pro Football Hall of Fame on Tuesday.

"I thought I had a pretty good career. I thought I played some pretty good football," Greene said. "A few years ago, I would have had a hard time saying that, but I can say it comfortably now. I'm just thankful that other people saw it and that I was considered for this great honor. I appreciate it."

Greene is a wholesale distributor for novelty ice cream products. He is the Steelers' first Hall of Fame inductee since tackle Ernie Stautner in

In a telephone interview shortly after the induction announcement was made, Greene said, "I have had a few momentous events in my life with (the Steelers), and this is one of

Maynard said, "Sometimes I wonder why Charlie Connoly, Kyle Rote and some other great guys that haven't been named are not in there ahead of me. It sometimes makes the person going in there feel a little bit embarrassed."

He said he thinks it may be easier to be a wide receiver these days.

"They can only touch you one time going down the field. It would've been nice to play in that situation and, who knows, maybe create a bunch of penalties or maybe caught a lot of extra balls because you wouldn't have been harassed by the guy hanging on your belt or bumping you five, six or seven times going down the field."

Chicago at Boston Cleveland at Philade Golden State at Phoe New Jersey at L.A. Clipper what I see."

Well, neither do a lot of other folks. Who will be the starting catcher for the Boston Red Sox on Opening Day - Marc Sullivan, a career .200 hitter and son of the team's chief executive officer? Maybe, because Rich Gedman may be taking batting practice on some high school field that day.

How about Ron Guidry? He could be out fishing in a Louisiana bayou when the New York Yankees begin the season.

"He's handling it very well," Reggie Ringuet, Guidry's agent, said of his client. "We knew what the ramifications were when we went into this."

But did anyone really know what would happen to this All-Star collection of free agents? Does anyone know?

Later this week, an arbiter is expected to rule on whether teams that failed to sign their free agents by a Jan. 8 deadline - and are now prohibited from re-signing them until May 1 — can negotiate with them, or invite them to spring camp or give them a minor-league contract so they can work out.

That matter is part of the players union's larger case, a contention that owners have banded together to restrict free-agent movement and drive down salaries. A decision on hat grievance may not come until he summer, and it will be an imporant one for the game, not just a ounch of legal mumbo-jumbo as some would want to believe.

In the meantime, it's hard to tell whether teams are free to sign anyone they want, although the answer seems over and over to be no.

Philadelphia Phillies President Bill Giles, whose club is desperately in need of a catcher, is meeting with Parrish today on the West Coast. Giles, a baseball man and straight talker, admits "Detroit is unhappy million per season from the Tigers, and is said to be thinking in the $1.8 million range. But the Phillies may also be talking around $1.2 million.

At that rate, what would Parrish do? Does he take less to play for Philadelphia and prove a point, or does he go back to Detroit?

The players' union contends the owners will make Parrish return to the Tigers, looking like a whipped, naughty little boy straggling home after pretending to run away.

And what of Ray Knight? He made $645,000 last season, and went on to become the Most Valuable Player in the New York Mets' World Series victory. Knight wanted $1 million for next season, the Mets offered $800,000 and he walked.

But Knight's walk hasn't taken him very far. The team that has showed the most interest, the Baltimore Orioles, suggested $450,000 and bluntly told him he would not get anywhere near what the Mets offered. Players and agents say they are only asking for fair-market value. Owners say they are tired of losing money, and assert the time of spiraling salaries is over. Commissioner Peter Ueberroth says top players should still receive top dollar, and so

There was a time when many people used to say baseball should be played on grass, and that they never wanted to hear about off-the-field stuff. Right or wrong, those days are long-gone.

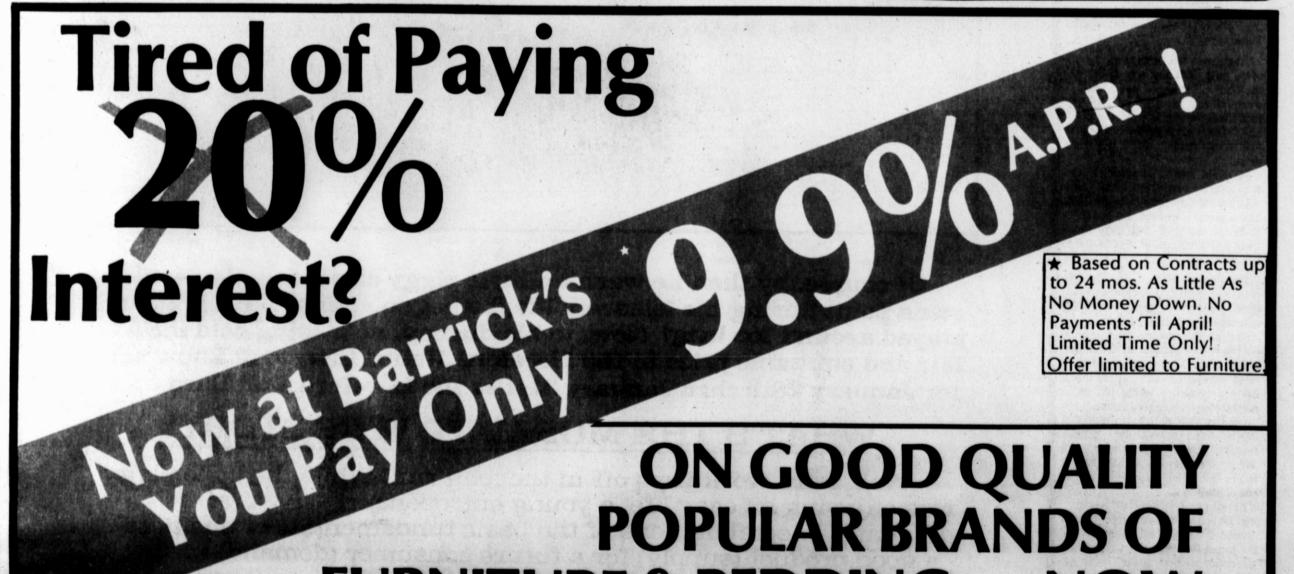

The game now includes players and agents and owners, colliding if not colluding. Whatever.

So, to all concerned, solve your problems — and then play baseball.

Pitcher "Shufflin' Phil" Douglas spent nine years in the big leagues with four teams and finished all even with Parrish already turned down $1.2 a 93-93 record. He also was 2-2 in World Series competition.

Last year I found out my husband was seeing another woman. I had suspected it for three years, but I had no proof. Because I desperately wanted to keep my marriage together I ignored all the telltale signs and made excuses for his 6 o'clock breakfasts, dinners downtown with his boss and weekends that were supposed to be business.

When I learned that he had another woman it nearly killed me. I asked myself a thousand times, "WHY?" I am a good-looking, modern wife who works, enjoys sex and have been married for 19 years.

When I told "Jed" to leave, he said he didn't want to. In fact, he begged for another chance. I told him I had stopped loving him and the damage could never be repaired.

Now he is a sad, miserable man. Our marriage is an empty shell - yet he refuses to get out of the house. I believe he stays because a divorce would mean that he would have to give me half of everything he owns. (Jed has always been very tight with money.)

I have heard him making telephone calls to his lady love, making plans to see her. Isn't this a helluva life?-Conroe, Texas

Dead oak turned into armadillo art

BRIDGE CITY; Texas (AP) - Bob Wilkinson isn't a chiseler when it comes to sculpture. A chainsaw works just fine.

And forget the Greek goddesses and biblical figures. All Wilkinson needs for inspiration is a Texas critter and a dead oak tree.

So now, instead of a stump in the back of his Hunter Creek Grocery, Wilkinson has a 7-foot oak armadillo. "It's really been a conversation piece," he says. Tourists from Canada have stopped to take pictures. A woman drove her grandchildren by after hearing talk about a giant armadillo. A man from near Nacogdoches has offered him $1,000 for the sculpture.

But Wilkinson won't part with his first — and, he says, his only — work of art.

Wilkinson and his wife, Jan, saw a small armadillo carved in a tree stump at an Austin campground in

"I thought it was cute," he says. So he took a photograph.

A huge oak tree between the store and his house was dead. After cutting down limbs and part of the trunk, he discovered the bottom of the trunk remained solid. He had the perfect wood for his own armadillo.

He started Oct. 30 and has worked off and on since then, adding finishing touches such as a few more rings on the tail and adjustments to the feet.

It's almost hard to believe that all the little markings were cut with a chainsaw.

Wilkinson says he started with a 20-inch blade then went to a 12-inch blade for the delicate work.

All that work with a chainsaw is a bit of a mental strain, he says.

"You're doing all the things with a chainsaw you're not supposed to do,"

Wilkinson doesn't have a background in art, but he still tried. At first, when he was on scaffolding carving the ears and head, the statue looked like a rat or a kangaroo. A young critic assured him of his success when he began doing the shell.

"Mister, that sure is a pretty armadillo," an 8-year-old boy told Wilkinson.

"That really made my day," Wilkinson says.

CBS wins this week

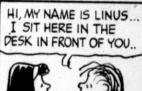

NEW YORK (AP) - CBS and NBC showcased new series last week, but NBC got more boost from the durable "Cheers" as a lead-in than CBS got from the ratings bonanza Super Bowl.

"Hard Copy," a sophisticated crime drama about reporters on the police beat, was promoted during the Super Bowl and broadcast in a 90-minute special right after Sunday's game.

But after the Giants put the game away in the third quarter, the audience begin to drift away, making Super Bowl XXI only the ninthhighest rated and hauling "Hard Copy" barely into the top 20.

NBC's "The Tortellis," a spinoff of "Cheers," was propelled into the top 10 with a special premiere following "Cheers" on Thursday. It moves to Wednesday tonight.

SUSPEND JUDGMENT By Bob Wear

IT IS UNWISE for us to pre-judge people and situations, to jump to conclusions. We must be on guard against making evaluations with insufficient information; and without permitting enough time to elapse. We must always be sure that we have the correct information. Thus we will avoid mistakes and losses.

WE CAN BE TOO HASTY, much too hasty, in forming and expressing our 'judgment'. To make this practice even worse, there is often an in- judgment'. clination to be stubborn in staying with a pre-mature statement we have made; or abiding in the untenabe position we have taken; even after we realize that we have made a mistake. In the worst aspect of this unwise action, some people try to find a way to make it appear that they are right; even when they know that they have made an error in 'judgment'. This throws everything out of balance, and is most hurtful to all persons involved.

AT THE VERY BEST, we are going to make some mistakes in 'judgments'. If, however, we follow the wise practice of 'suspending judgment', we can reduce our mistakes to a minimum. This will be one of our most helpful accomplishments, for the support of our peace of mind and for the best possible relationships with our King's Manor Methodist brown, genuine skins, size Home, Inc. is a multi-purpose 111/2 loafers. Never been facility providing nursing care, extended or short-term nursing care, child care and various retirement home choices. It consistently receives high ratings from the state and from other entities involved in the nursing/retirement home industry. Though sponsored by the United Methodist Church, residents represent many church denominations.

Westgate, the nursing center, is a part of the main building and is connected to the Manor, the retirement home, by the Administration building making it possible for residents of both areas to join together for activities and fellowship. A program of physical therapy is on-going and all residents are encouraged to participate. Currently, there are rooms available at Westgate for permanent or short term nursing care. Some of the rooms are adjacent to the rose garden containing a gazebo to be enjoyed on sunny days. Our nur-sing staff benefits from a good training program equip-ping it to give good physical care in a cheerful, compassionate manner. Both private pay and Title XIX (Medicaid) residents are accepted. Please call 364-0661 or come by the Administrative office for further information and a tour of the home. Our address

Some qualify

WASHINGTON (AP) -Families with children and earnings under $11,000 a year may reduce their taxes by as much as $550 if they qualify for the earned-income credit.

The credit may be claimed by filing either Form 1040 or 1040A. Read the instructions in your tax package to get an idea if you are eligible; ask the Internal Revenue Service for Publication 596 for all the details. In general, you qualify if you earned income last year - wages, tips, fees and the like; your adjusted gross income was less than $11,000; you had a child living with you for more than six months in 1986, and you file a joint return (if married) or as head of household or qualifying widow or widower with a dependent child. The earned-income credit is like no other in federal tax law; even if your credit is more than the tax you owe, the government will send you a check. If you are qualified, you may ask your employer to make advanced payments of the credits to you in your paychecks each pay period; this could have the effect of boosting your take-home pay by as much as $10.57 a week.

Sales of existing homes soar

WASHINGTON (AP) -Sales of existing homes, spurred by a dramatic fall in interest rates and surging demand in the Northeast, last year posted their best performance in seven years, and analysts predict 1987 could be just as good.

The National Association of Realtors said Monday that sales of existing homes totaled 3.57 million units last year. 10.9 percent ahead of 1985 and the best year since 1979, when 3.83 million homes were sold. In December, sales hit an all-time monthly high, a gain attributed to unusually mild weather in the Northeast and eager sellers taking advantage of expiring tax breaks. The Realtors' monthly survey found that December sales climbed 6.6 percent over November to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 4.17 million units, topping the old monthly record of 4.15 million homes set in November 1978.

Glenn Crellin, the association's vice president for economics, said the big surge was due in large part to the elimination of favorable capital gains tax rates in the new tax law which took effect Jan. 1.

"This change was particularly important to sellers of higher-priced properties who wanted to take their capital gains under the old tax rules," he said.

Helping sales throughout the year was a dramatic fall in mortgage rates with fixedrate mortgages dropping below 10 percent for the first time this decade. Currently, fixed-rate mortgages are averaging 9.1 percent, the lowest level since January 1978, according to a weekly survey by the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp. Many economists are predicting they could fall even lower in the months ahead, helping to keep sales of both high rates in 1987 as well.

The nationwide median price of existing homes sold in December rose $200 to $80,600, reflecting a 6.8 percent increase from the $75,500 median price a year ago. The median price means half the homes sold for more and half for less.

All of the December price increase was confined to the Northeast, a hot sales area

Prices fell in the other three regions of the country last month but were still above the levels of a year

BLEEDING DURING PREGNANCY

By Harry S. Jonas, M.D., President, The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists

Bleeding during pregnancy is probably one of the scariest things to a mother-to-be. However, bleeding doesn't always mean that there is a problem with the pregnancy, but if it occurs it should not be ignored.

Very early in pregnancy, at the time a woman would normally get her period, she may have very slight spotting. This can occur when the fertilized egg attaches to the wall of the uterus.

Spotting or staining in the first three months can mean a possible miscarriage or "threatened abortion." However, in many cases, the bleeding stops and the pregnancy continues successfully. If the bleeding continues and is accompanied by cramping, a miscarriage is likely. Most miscarriages are due to chromosomal problems with either the egg or sperm, and not from anything the mother or father has done.

A rare but dangerous condition that causes bleeding in the first three months is a pregnancy that grows outside the uterus or "ectopic pregnancy." Since this condition occurs most frequently in the fallopian tubes, it is commonly known as a tubal pregnancy. Today, thanks to ultrasound and very sensitive pregnancy tests, most ectopics can be detected before they cause problems. Again, bleeding caused by an ectopic pregnancy is very likely to be accompanied by pain, and these symptoms should be reported to your doctor immediately.

During pregnancy, the cervix, the opening to the uterus, becomes softer and may bleed after an examination or intercourse. In late pregnancy, a bloodtinged discharge usually means that labor will start soon. Heavy bleeding at this time. however, may signal a serious condition involving the placenta-the organ that passes nourishment and oxygen between the mother and baby. If the placenta is attached normally low on the wall of the uterus and covers all or part of the opening to the birth canal. it can cause painless bleeding on and off for several weeks. This condition, called placenta previa, will require-carefulwatching and may require a cesarean delivery. If the placenta tears away from the wall of the uterus causing heavy bleeding and pain, the baby' oxygen supply is threatened. This, called abruptio placenta. requires immediate medical at-

If you bleed or spot during pregnancy, don't panie but don't ignore it either. Call your doctor and describe the type of bleeding and any pain you feel. Whatever the problem, a prompt call to your doctor is the best first step to handling the situation.

Single, free copies of "Bleeding During Pregnancy: A Warning Sign" (p-038) are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed, business size envelope along with the name of the booklet to: The American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, Resource Center, 600 Maryland Ave., SW, Washington, DC

Keep food costs down by planning

If you spend substantially more on groceries in 1987 than in 1986, it will probably be to buy more convenience rather than food, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutrition specialist. "The U.S. Department of Agriculture projects that food prices will rise only 2-4 percent in 1987, marking the sixth consecutive year of low food price inflation," says

Marilyn Haggard. Last year's increase in the cost of food at home has been attributed almost entirely to high value prepared foods, especially convenience foods from the delicatessen, bakery and frozen food departments, she adds.

The Extension specialist gives the following suggestions for keeping family food costs down in 1987:

MEAT AND POULTRY - Watch for specials on meat and poultry and freeze what you can't use right away. Prepared meat patties, chicken or turkey nuggets and other breaded meat products cost mroe than similar foods prepared at home. FRUITS AND VEGETABLES -Although you may prefer fresh fruit and vegetables to their canned or fozen counterparts, there is no appreciable difference in their nutritional value. Fresh fruits and vegetables in season will typically be the best value. But frozen or canned produce may be less expensive when compared to the fresh produce imported out-of-season from warmer

If you are concerned about the added sugar in canned fruit, rinse the fruit syrup off before serving or buy those packed in fruit juices. Canned vegetables can also be rinsed to reduce sodium content for those on low-salt diets. BREADS, CEREALS AND PASTAS - Check the ingredients labels to see if you are pay premium prices for sugar, fr
