

Ann Landers Irresponsible paper boy

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Tell "Mother in Oklahoma City" to please send her two "paper boy" sons to Wisconsin! I'm about ready to put out a contract on ours!

He is the most irresponsible kid I've ever seen. We live in a small town of 2,000, and if we complained to his parents, they would be enemies for life. We get rain-soaked papers, and many mornings it's like a treasure hunt to find the paper at all.

We always pay several weeks in advance, but he can never remember. Luckily, we keep our cancelled checks, but it's a hassle taking them downtown to get Xerox copies to prove that we paid.

I'd love to have a paper boy we could tip and give a gift to at Christmas. Right now I'd like to stuff ours in the mailbox.--Warmonger in Wisconsin.

DEAR WISCONSIN: Have you made an effort to talk to this lad and straighten him out? I don't mean scold. I mean a heart-to-heart chat. If this is the way he handles his first job. I feel sad about his future. Do try. If it doesn't work, you should phone the paper and complain. Subscribers are precious and they deserve better treatment than you are getting.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My problem will sound silly in these times of sexual liberation, but I need help. It is ruining our marriage.

My husband does not believe I was a virgin when we married because I did not bleed on our wedding night. I do not know the reason for this. It was very important to him that I be a virgin because he was.

Is it possible, Ann, that the hymen was broken during a gynecological exam? I have had several. Please publish my letter with an explanation. It's terrible to be on the defensive about this, especially since I am - Not Gully In Canada

DEAF CANADA: Not all women bleed when they lose their virginity. Ask your gynecologist to write a brief letter of explanation. Then show it to your husband. Obviously, your word isn't good enough for His Royal Highness, which suggests a less-than-solid-relationship.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband lost his job a year ago. For the first time in 30 years he is unemployed. He has followed every lead. So far nothing. Fortunately, we are not destitute, but it is a terrible blow to his ego.

We have always been a close family -- in-laws, uncles, aunts, cousins, etc. We used to phone each other regularly and get together several times a year. Since the job loss we have had no calls, no cards, nothing but silence.

I realize they are probably embarrassed for us and don't know how to handle it. Losing the job was bad enough, but his abandonment has made matters a lot worse. Please tell people to keep in touch. Unemployment is not contagious. They don't have to mention the job. We just want them to treat us as they always have. -- No Name, No City, Please

DEAR N.N.: Have YOU made an effort to keep in touch? I'll bet not. Get on the phone at once and set a date for a family picnic. Ask Aunt Molly to bring the potato salad, Mary can bring the cole slaw, etc. I'll bet they'll be tickled to hear from you.

Rummage Sale Slated

The parish at St. Thomas Episcopal Church will have a rummage sale beginning at 9 a.m. Saturday at the church. Small appliances, household and lawn goods, and clothes will be among the items to be sold. Proceeds from the event will be used to help defer building expenses. From left are the Rev. Charles Threewit, vicar, and Claudia McBrayer.

Georgia Sparks honored at grandmother shower

Georgia Sparks was honored with a surprise grandmother shower Wednesday morning in anticipation of the arrival of her first grandchild. The shower was held in the home of Costaline Lee in Yucca Hills and co-hostesses were Dorothy Mercer and Gladys Merritt.

A corsage containing baby booties, and a variety of "grandmother gifts" were presented to the honoree.

Table decorations included a ceramic baby buggy and baby vase filled with white daisies and English ivy. Coffee, punch, coffee cake, fruit, and sausage balls were served from a lace-covered tablecloth by Micki Baulch and Missy Merritt.

Other guests attending were Lavon Nieman, Sarah Hazelrigg, Barbara Manning, Elaine Rains, Mary Lyles, Bettye Owen, Ruth Black, and Mary Herring.

Annual Beef-a-thon scheduled Sunday

The Multiple Sclerosis Society's annual Beef-a-thon Television Auction is scheduled to be aired from 12 noon-5:30 p.m. Sunday on Channel 10.

Local support of the auction will enable the hundreds of families in the Panhandle MS Chapter area to continue to receive support services and provide dollars for research into the cause and cure for this dread disease that strikes young adults between ages 15-50.

Prior to the auction from 11 a.m.-noon, a forum of physicians representing a variety of specialties will discuss MS and its effects on families and communities.

Twenty-nine years ago a group of volunteers dreamed a dream and backed it with their efforts and material blessings. This dream was for a support group for the many families in the Texas and Oklahoma Panhandle who were affected by a diagnosis of MS. Two hundred persons each week are diagnosed with

MS. As the list of MS Families grew, the financial needs of the chapter increased. The idea of a television auction was conceived and for the past 12 years the Beef-a-Thon has been aired on a summer afternoon on Channel 10.

The name Beef-a-Thon was chosen because a large part of the auction items were beef which was sold by the quarter. Area ranchers and feedlot owners donated animals which were slaughtered and sold to include jewelry, fur, office equipment, sporting goods, furniture and a variety of services.

They're working on a marvelous new watch. No batteries, no solar power, no electronic pickup. It has a stem with which to wind it.

Best insurance for a successful cookout is to have a nearsighted chef on duty when the sun-fun crowd begins to gather round.

At World University Games

Americans being outperformed

EDMONTON, Alberta (AP) — The way things have been going for the United States at the World University Games, its unbeaten men's basketball team had better be ready tonight.

For the red-faced Americans, it has been that sort of a competition. They've simply been embarrassed by the rest of the world, particularly the Soviet Union.

Missouri Coach Norm Stewart's heavily favored U.S. squad will face Canada in the semifinals after Cuba goes against Yugoslavia in a semifinal game.

Since Canada lost to the U.S. by only one point in an exhibition game last month, the American players should be aware a major upset is a possibility.

With only four days left in an 11-event competition, the United States has only three gold medals. In 1981 in Bucharest, Romania, Americans won 29.

In 11 previous games, the Americans' lowest gold medal count was 14 — in 1965 at the first competition in Bucharest. They've had a high of 32 golds since joining this competition 18 years ago.

On Thursday night, three Nigerians who attend U.S. colleges equalled the Americans' grand total of three gold medals.

In comparison, the powerful Soviet Union went into today's competition with 42 golds, 19 silvers and 16 bronze — 77 medals.

The United States had 30 medals, including 14 silvers and 13 bronze.

The previously undefeated American women's basketball team was upset Thursday 87-71 by Romania. The score was 44-41 for the Romanians at halftime. After that, it wasn't close.

The Americans may have been guilty of looking past the Europeans.

"I thought they (the Romanians) were stronger defensively than we had anticipated," admitted U.S. Coach Jill Hutchinson of Illinois State.

"The United States did not send its best team," assessed Romanian Coach Nicolae Martin.

The question then, of course, is why. What has caused America's subpar athletic showing?

The head of the U.S. delegation attempted to answer that question Thursday.

"I'm surprised at the level of competition here," Warren Giese of University of South Carolina said. "It's very tough. We need to arrange higher priorities for these games."

The swimming competition ended Thursday night with the Soviet Union capturing three more golds to give it a whopping total of 22 golds — out of a possible 29 — and 34 medals.

Canada's Frank Baumann picked off his second gold medal but just missed breaking his own world record in the 200-meter individual medley.

American swimmer Bruce Hayes, 20, from UCLA, who has one of the three U.S. victories, pushed his medals' total to six with a bronze in the men's 1,500 freestyle.

Hayes, most decorated athlete on the sub-par U.S. squad, finished with one gold, four silvers and one bronze.

In Thursday night's track and field competition, Nigerians Yussuf Alli, Sunday Uti and Chidi Imoh posted their country's first games' victories ever.

Alli, a senior at University of Missouri, won the long jump with a leap of 26 feet, 11 1/4 inches, while Uti, a freshman at Iowa State, knocked off 1980 Olympic champion Victor Markin of the Soviet Union and U.S. champion Sunder Nix of Indiana University in the 400 dash in 45.32.

Imoh, a sophomore at Missouri, scored an upset triumph in the 100-meter dash in 10.33.

Markin lost but the Soviets' fantastic gold medal run here continued in track and field. The Soviets posted victories in the other four finals.

American athletes had to settle for one silver and three bronzes in track and field with NCAA champion Ralph Spry of Mississippi taking second in the men's 400.

On Guard

Michael Albracht tests his dribbling skills against Chad Schroeder Wednesday as part of the sixth and seventh grade boys session of the Hereford Basketball Camp. There are 73 kids enrolled in the program, which has been divided into eight sessions and lasts four weeks. Bobby Decker and Larry Sowers, Hereford High School boys and girls head basketball coaches, respectively, are conducting the annual camp.

USFL back Kelvin Bryant

MVP spreads credit to 'mates

By PHYLLIS MENSING Associated Press Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia Stars running back Kelvin Bryant is the first to give credit to others when he scores a touchdown. "And the thing about it is, he's really sincere," says Coach Jim Mora.

Bryant, who led the Stars into the playoffs with a 15-3 record, best of any team in the United States Football League's first season, was named Thursday the USFL Player of the Year by The Associated Press.

"I've never been on a team with a record as good as this one... But I can't take all the credit," Bryant said. "It's a team thing. And the award is like secondary. I want to win that championship."

The 22-year-old rookie from Tarboro, N.C., finished as the USFL's second-leading ground-gainer with 1,442 yards on 318 attempts in 18 games and was the Stars' second-leading receiver with 53 catches for 410 yards. He rushed for 16 touchdowns and caught one scoring pass, playing in every game but the final one, when he was sidelined by an ankle injury.

"Kelvin has done more for this team than anyone could have anticipated," said Mora. "His main concern is the success of the football team. He's one of the hardest workers we have."

Mora first met Bryant a week after the Stars opened training camp last February. "At first, you wonder how a guy like him is going to fit in with the team. But he just came in and put his nose to the grindstone."

The 6-foot-2, 190-pound Bryant signed with the Stars for a reported $2 million. He liked the money, and the idea of getting playing time — something he wasn't sure he'd get in the National Football League. He'd had three 1,000-yard seasons at the University of North Carolina, although he was hampered by injuries during his freshman and junior years. The word got out among some recruiters that he wasn't tough enough.

"It was just a matter of bad breaks," Bryant said of his college problems. "When I was a freshman, I hurt my shoulder because I grabbed the quarterback's shoulder pads, and they were too small. When I hurt my knee (as a junior), it was just a matter of being hit on the outside part of the leg."

General Manager Carl Peterson, who recruited Bryant with a promise that he would play behind a powerful offensive line, said, "What people notice about Kelvin is his second and third effort."

Bryant and his offensive linemen — who average 270 pounds, the biggest in the league — have a "mutual love affair," Peterson said. "He knows he needs the offensive line and they appreciate his ability to move the ball."

Hill, Martin subpoenaed

DALLAS (AP) — Subpoenas have been issued for Dallas Cowboys football players Tony Hill and Harvey Martin to appear as defense witnesses in the next month's scheduled trial of an accused cocaine dealer, the U.S. marshal's office has confirmed.

U.S. Marshal Clint Peoples said the subpoenas were issued Wednesday in the case of Lauriberto Ignacio, who was indicted by a federal grand jury in April for allegedly conspiring to smuggle cocaine from Brazil to Texas.

Ignacio, 39, of North Richland Hills, has been jailed in lieu of $50,000 bond since his arrest March 30. He is scheduled to stand trial Aug. 1.

Neither Hill nor Martin could be reached for comment at telephone numbers provided by the Cowboys organization, the Dallas Times Herald reported.

But Dan Guthrie, a Dallas defense attorney specializing in drug cases, said he was recently retained by Martin and said his client would accept the subpoena this week.

Guthrie refused to elaborate on why Martin hired him.

William McGarvey, Ignacio's defense lawyer, was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Christopher L. Milner said the charges against Ignacio were part of a larger federal investigation into Brazilian cocaine smuggling that began last year with the arrest of Elias Murback, who later pleaded guilty and agreed to cooperate with investigators.

Milner would not speculate on why Hill and Martin had been subpoenaed, but said, "If any of the Cowboys want to show up and testify under oath in court, it's sure going to be interesting."

Cowboys President Tex Schramm said he had "no idea of what the purpose behind having them (Hill and Martin) testify is."

During the last year, Martin and Cowboys running back Tony Dorsett have been questioned by federal drug agents, and the names of Martin and teammate Ed "Too Tall" Jones were mentioned in court testimony involving convicted cocaine dealers.

No charges were filed against any of the players and all have denied they were involved with drugs.

Perry, Kaat resist aging

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Gaylord Perry, the man once called the "Ancient Mariner" who now wears a Kansas City Royals uniform, believes there's still life in his 44-year-old pitching arm.

And now that he is with a contending club and has relief ace Dan Quisenberry on his side, Perry figures he can continue to add to his 310 major-league victories and help the Royals win the American League West.

"I sure am glad we've got that rascal," Perry said Thursday of Quisenberry, who was the American League Fireman of the Year last year and sports a league-leading 20 saves this season.

"The last time I won 20 games was in San Diego, when they had a fellow named Rollie Fingers in the bullpen. That can mean an awful lot to a starting pitcher."

Perry was 3-10 and had an earned run average of 4.94 when the Seattle Mariners released him shortly before the All-Star break.

Another 44-year-old pitcher, Jim Kaat, was released Wednesday by the St. Louis Cardinals. He is the only pitcher to appear in 25 major-league seasons.

Perry spent five days at his farm in Williamston, N.C., before the deal with the Royals was worked out.

"But there was never any doubt at all I would be pitching for somebody," he said before his first workout with Kansas City. "I love the game of baseball."

Perry joins an injury-ravaged club that's 4½ games out of first place in the AL West and desperately short of right-handed starters heading into the second half of the season.

Kansas City Manager Dick Howser remembered how Perry helped his New York Yankees in their drive to the Eastern Division championship in 1980 and urged the Royals to pick him up. Perry was 4-4 with Howser's Yankees in the second half of that season.

"He won some big games for us," Howser said. "He really pitched well. I saw him twice this year, and I knew he could help us. I like the way he goes about his job. He can beat the good clubs. He can beat the clubs we have to beat."

Perry said it's impossible to say how much longer he might pitch.

"I'll probably be able to pitch longer than I'll have the opportunity to pitch," said the graying hurler, whose 310 victories and 3,494 strikeouts rank him 10th and fourth, respectively, in baseball history.

Kaat, who is 22 days younger than Perry, ranks 19th on the all-time victory list with 283 and is 18th in strikeouts with 2,461.

"If I don't get to play, I'll have the rest of the year to pursue other interests," said Kaat, who said he'll try to land a spot with another team. "Broadcasting is my first choice, but coaching is a possibility."

O'Meara, Hinkle grab GMO lead

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Mark O'Meara used to think he could earn a handsome living on the pro golf tour simply with his raw abilities, which are considerable.

Now that he is refining his skills, he seems destined to fulfill predictions that he will become one of the best in the game.

O'Meara, the 1979 U.S. Amateur champion, fired a 7-under-par 65 Thursday, joining Lon Hinkle as a first-round leader in the $250,000 annual Greater Milwaukee Open golf tournament.

Wally Armstrong solved a three-year putting problem and was a stroke back at 66. Buddy Gardner was at 67.

Tied at 68 were Dale Douglass, Ken Green, Mick Solt and Dennis Tiziani, the University of Wisconsin golf coach and reigning state Professional Golfers Association champion.

Defending champion Calvin Peete, the top money winner here with $196,508, good for eighth place, was tied at 69 with Jim Colbert, Roger Maltbie, Don Pooley, Clarence Rose, Mark Calcavecchia and Chi-Chi Rodriguez.

The field was to be cut to the low 70 and ties after today's round at the 7,016-yard, par 72 Tuckaway Country Club course in suburban Franklin. The tourney concludes Sunday.

O'Meara, who played bogeyless golf in Wednesday's pro-am event, repeated that feat Thursday. He also had five birdies and eagled the 524-yard par 5 sixth hole.

O'Meara does not dispute that he may be only a few refinements away from greatness. He shot 11-under par and finished fifth at Memphis two weeks ago and lost in a playoff at Phoenix early in the year.

"I've changed my swing," he said. "I came on the tour three years ago and I didn't know anything about a swing. I was just getting by on natural talent and instincts."

O'Meara and Hinkle both played in twosomes, O'Meara with Jim Dent and Hinkle with Terry Diehl, because their scheduled threesome partners had withdrawn.

Hinkle knew that would lead to lots of idle time between shots. He said he doesn't like slow play, but this time used the leisurely pace to improve his concentration.

Hinkle suffered what he believes was a shoulder dislocation in 1981 and dropped off the tour the last months of last year to rest and work on his game.

He had seven birdies, two bogeys and an eagle on No. 6 on his first round.

The first mill to roll copper in the United States was erected by Paul Revere at Canton, Mass., in 1801. It rolled sheets to sheath the hull of the U.S.S. Constitution.

HEREFORD CABLEVISION

FCC
Washington, D.C.

Dear Commissioners:

I am writing on behalf of Hereford Cablevision with regard to the pending petition for waiver filed by the Lee Optical and Associated Companies Retirement Pension Fund Trust.

In its petition, the Trust seeks commission authorization to utilize its existing microwave system on a common carrier basis to deliver the programming of non-commercial educational television station KTXT-TV Lubbock, Texas, to cable systems in West Texas.

The citizens of our community desire to view the programming of KTXT-TV, in order to avail themselves of the PBS programming and other educational and instructional programming produced by the station Licensee, Texas Tech University. Station KTXT-TV is of special interest to the people of our community because it is the only non-commercial educational television station in West Texas, and is operated by a state institution.

Our cable system currently does not carry the signal of any non-commercial educational T.V. station, so grant of the Trust's petition for waiver would insure that the citizens of our community would have available to them on their cable system national PBS programming and locally originated programming from the nearest state university. Included in such programming is instructional programming designed specifically for curricula in Texas schools.

Therefore, we fully support the Trust's petition for waiver and ask that it be granted soon so that our cable system can begin carrying station KTXT-TV.

Yours truly,

Pick up your letter at Cablevision's office!

WTSU freshman orientation session scheduled Saturday

West Texas State University's first Saturday orientation session for prospective freshman students is expected to attract the largest group of the five sessions scheduled this summer. Orientation participants may receive materials beginning at 7:30 a.m. on Saturday at WTSU Activities Center. The program, which includes information to acquaint the beginning freshman students with campus life, will begin at 8 a.m. The Saturday session, which is the fourth of five summer orientation sessions, has been planned to allow participation from students and their parents who are unable to travel to WTSU during the week. During three orientation sessions in June, almost 400 students participated. As expected, the June 30 session involved the smallest group with 70 students who plan to enter WTSU as beginning freshmen for the fall semester. Thirty-five parents accompanied the students. Students also register for fall semester courses during the afternoon sessions of orientation. Following Saturday's session, area students have one remaining opportunity to plan for the fall semester at WTSU. The final summer orientation session will be Monday, July 25, at the Activities Center. Students who are interested in attending WTSU summer orientation sessions or taking the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) tests to gain academic credit in English, math, biology, history, or government will be invited by letter after their records and transcripts have been evaluated at the Registrar's Office. Additional information about summer orientation may be obtained from the University Counseling and Testing Center.

Museum curator gives program at Legion Hall

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit 192 met Tuesday evening at the Legion Hall. American Legion members in attendance were invited to enjoy ice cream and cake and to hear a program given by Jo Ann Arasin, curator of textiles at the Panhandle Plains Historical Museum in Canyon.

Ms. Arasin showed fashions dating back to the early 1800s, comparing fashion trends with later years, up to 1963. Following the program, Legion and Auxiliary members retired to separate meeting rooms for business sessions.

The Auxiliary will sponsor a Country Kitchen for the Town and Country Jubilee featuring a variety of baked goods and beverages.

Girls State citizens, Jennifer Jesko and Crystal Finley, will give a report to the unit Aug. 15 at 7 p.m. during a salad supper hosted by the unit. This will also be a membership dinner. Members are asked to pay dues early.

A get-well card was signed and mailed to Bernadette Wright, who is a patient in Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo.

Allen identifies his purported source

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional sources say President Reagan's former national-security adviser, Richard V. Allen, has indicated to House investigators who he believes supplied him with material from the Carter White House during the 1980 campaign.

One White House aide reported to be Allen's source, however, denies he supplied any documents.

It could not be determined whether Allen provided a name or simply a description of his purported source in his Thursday meeting with investigators from a House Post Office and Civil Service subcommittee. But the sources, who declined to be identified, said investigators were moving quickly to follow up Allen's leads.

Today's editions of The New York Times quoted an unnamed White House official as saying Allen "has suggested" to the White House that he received information from Jerry D. Jennings, a member of Carter's National Security Council staff.

Jennings, formerly with the FBI and the CIA, now works in the Office of Science and Technology Policy at the White House.

Through a colleague, Jennings said Thursday night: "Any such suggestion is untrue and absolutely ludicrous."

In 1981, Jennings reported the discovery in Allen's safe of $1,000 from Japanese journalists who had interviewed Nancy Reagan. That disclosure led to Allen's resignation.

The Times quoted Allen as saying: "I never gave the White House the name of any person." But he would not say whether he identified his source in some other manner.

The House panel is investigating how Reagan's aides received materials from the Carter White House during the 1980 presidential campaign.

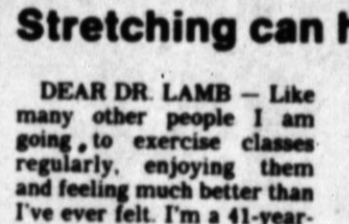

Allen has said that, while he was a campaign adviser to Reagan, he received, unsolicited, several batches of what he called "innocuous" material relating to morale and the pace of work on Carter's National Security Council.

Allen has said the material was unclassified and that he did not use it.

The House panel also has asked two more top Reagan aides, counselor Edwin Meese and deputy chief of staff Michael Deaver, for letters on their knowledge about the affair, according to the sources. Meese has denied there was any effort to obtain information from the Carter camp.

Letters answering similar requests already have been written to the panel by Chief of Staff James Baker, Communications Director David Gergen, CIA Director William Casey and David Stockman, director of the Office of Management and Budget.

In addition, the subcommittee asked White House counsel Fred Fielding for a list of the people he interviewed before the Justice Department began a formal criminal investigation of the case, for a copy of the administration's order directing campaign workers to turn over any relevant materials to the Justice Department and for a list of the campaign workers, the sources said.

Stretching can help

DEAR DR. LAMB — Like many other people I am going to exercise classes regularly, enjoying them and feeling much better than I've ever felt. I'm a 41-year-old female; 5 foot 7 and weigh 135 pounds. I'm a little overweight but not excessively so.

Lately I have been developing severe muscle cramps in the calves of my legs which leave me limping for days. I have been going to classes for about six months and am not doing anything different.

I take time to warm up thoroughly before starting to exercise and in general try to be very careful but I am getting so discouraged. I don't want to stop exercising. What can I do to prevent painful and incapacitating spasms?

DEAR READER — Muscle cramps have many causes. They can be related to a low-sodium salt content in the body. Taking diuretics can aggravate that problem. They are sometimes caused by a low potassium level. In other cases we do not know what causes them.

I wish you had told me whether your cramps come on during exercise, after exercise or at night. It would help in knowing just what you should do.

Rather than give up your exercises, see your doctor and perhaps he can give you some medicines that will help relieve muscle cramps.

In addition to warming up, you need to stretch both before and after your exercise period. As you know, stretching a muscle will often relieve a cramp in it. Your stretching program should start after some warm-up period.

You can overstretch but if you are sensible and do your stretching when your body is warm it will often help a lot. You might also stretch those calf muscles before going to bed each night.

There are many different ideas about stretching. I think the slow stretch is one of the best. I am sending you The Health Letter 19-10, Stretching and Flexibility, which explains the different concepts. Everyone who exercises should stretch. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I wonder if there is any danger of cholesterol in goat's milk. I have asked several doctors and they say they have never heard the question. I understand a person should not drink full strength milk after middle age. I love milk and do have access to goat's milk so would appreciate your opinion.

THE RIGHTS OF FREE PEOPLE INCLUDE THE CHOICE OF FAITH

The citizens of a free country never take their freedoms for granted, but have wisely provided a specific list of them in the set of rules by which they are governed. These freedoms include among other things the right of peaceable assembly, to speak and write whatever they see fit, and one of the most basic rights of all: to worship God in any manner they choose; a privilege consistent with the theory that freedom itself is man's God-given birthright. Be ever prepared to defend your freedom against anyone who would take it away from you, and avail yourself of one of its principal blessings by attending the Church of your choice every week on the Sabbath. And thank God for your right to do so, wherever you are.

"Whoso looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein...this man shall be blessed in his deed."
—James 1:25

We owe it to our ancestors to preserve entire those rights, which they have delivered to our care: we owe it to posterity, not to suffer their dearest inheritance to be destroyed.
