Dusty Saul crowned 1993 Miss Hereford

Two named second runner-up in first tie in pageant history

Miss Hereford and court

The third time was the charm Saturday for Dusty Saul, as she claimed the 1993 Miss Hereford crown in her third consecutive pageant.

Saul was first runner-up in the 1992 pageant and competed in the 1991 affair.

This year, however, it was all her show, as the daughter of Roland and Sandra Saul captured the top honors in a field of 11 young women. She was sponsored by Boots 'n Saddles Western Wear.

For the first time in the history of the 21-year-old pageant, four young ladies captured the top three spots.

County Judge Tom Simons, who was master of ceremonies, introduced the second runners-up, noting that both young ladies had the same number of points and would therefore share the title.

Emily Fuston and Beth Weatherly were named second runners-up. Simons said each young lady would receive a $150 scholarship to the college of her choice.

First runner-up was Lexi Sciumbato. She will receive a $250 scholarship to the college of her choice.

Miss Fuston was sponsored by Brown, Graham and Co., P.C., Miss Weatherly by Plains Insurance and Miss Sciumbato by AzTx Cattle Co.

As winner, Miss Saul received the crown and title for a year. She also received a $500 scholarship to the college of her choice.

Miss Saul has announced she plans to attend Texas Tech University this fall.

Miss Fuston was selected by her fellow competitors as Miss Congeniality, while Miss Sciumbato was honored as having sold the most raffle tickets.

Other contestants were: Jill Walser, Sarah Wagner, Gabriela Gamez, Jenifer Holmes, Misty Dudley, Shambryn Wilson and Fidelity Hernandez.

The pageant, held in the Hereford High School auditorium before a crowd of more than 400 people, featured the theme of "The Entertainer" and kicked off with a dance routine featuring the contestants and male dance partners.

The male dancers were: Michael Kubacak, Jason Eades, Ben Celeya, Kirk Self, Quincy Curtis, Camron Betzen, Richard Sanderson, D.J. Wagner, Chris Williams, Cody Marion and Michael Cano.

As the curtain opened on the stage, spectators were treated to a backdrop of the Cotton Club, with the male dancers spotlighted in dark purple light.

The theme "The Entertainer" sounded and the dance began with the competitors -- clad in red leotards and white fringe skirts -- strutting onto the stage.

Following the dance, the girls introduced themselves and their dance partners, then changed for the sportswear competition.

Miss Saul's sportswear entry was black jeans and boots, white western shirt by white-and-black print yoke and white cowboy hat which she tipped to the judges.

Her talent was a piano rendition of "Prelude in C Minor" by Rachmaninoff, and her evening gown was a floor length black dress with sequins and a gold sequin print.

Miss Sciumbato wore a red off-the-shoulder sequined evening gown with a halter neck and satin skirt.

Miss Weatherly's gown was a black sequined floor-length gown worn off the left shoulder, with a large white bow on her right shoulder.

Miss Fuston's gown was royal blue with silver sequined bodice design, scoop neck and teardrop hole in the back.

Also announced at the pageant was the winner of the annual scholarship fundraising raffle. Dina Crump of Summerfield was the winner of the trip for two to Las Vegas, Nev.

The opening dance routine was choreographed by Kim Porter and arranged by Jan Perrin, Kim Buckley and Bree Perrin.

Co-chairs for the event -- which is sponsored annual by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division -- were Rita Bell and Julia Laing.

Steering committee members were Lacy Mueggeborg, Betty Drake, Kim Buckley, Kim Porter and Linda Daniel.

Consumer prices go up 0.1 percent

WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumer prices edged up a tiny 0.1 percent in May as the biggest drop in energy costs in 14 months helped to offset a sharp jump in food prices, the government said today.

The small advance in the Labor Department's Consumer Price Index was welcome news after a worrisome 0.4 percent April surge. The Clinton administration is hoping that an easing of inflationary pressures will convince the Federal Reserve that it has no need to boost interest rates.

So far this year, consumer prices are rising at an annual rate of 3.5 percent.

Commissioners argue over breakdown of road funds

By GEORGIA TYLER
Staff Writer

A simmering dispute over allocation of Deaf Smith County road and bridge funds surfaced Monday in a brief budget discussion of Commissioners' Court.

Near the close of the meeting, as commissioners decided to delay further budget discussions, Commissioner Tony Castillo of Precinct 1, suggested that the "budget be adjusted" to cover road miles he now supervises.

In other business during the commission meeting, bids were opened for a new van for the sheriff's department, proposals were accepted for engineering on the Campbell Street water and sewer project, funds were allocated for a July 4th celebration and bids were authorized for purchase of chemicals.

Earlier this year, soon after Castillo took office, he reported to the court that residents of his precinct had asked that he take over road maintenance that had been supervised by Precinct 2.

Through the years, road miles supervised by commissioners have been distributed as evenly as possible, especially when certain roads are more accessible to different precinct. Precinct 4 historically has more road miles because of the large area within its confines.

Commissioner Lupe Chavez of Precinct 2 relinquished supervision of Precinct 1 roads, as requested by Castillo.

Castillo said Monday that some 60 miles were involved, pushing total roads under his supervision to approximately 244 miles.

Chavez claimed that the number is closer to 40 miles. He said he is responsible for Precinct 2 roads and about 30 in Precinct 3, for a total of approximately 187.

Castillo first raised the question of additional funds for Precinct 1 after he assumed responsibility for the miles removed from Precinct 2 maintenance. But, Commissioners' Court sidestepped the issue because the budget for the current year had been in effect since last October.

The Precinct 1 commissioner said Monday that he feels "compensation" for the extra miles should be included in a new budget.

"I think we need to look at adjusting the budget... the amount we both get," declared Castillo.

Chavez said, "I don't see how we can change... I don't think I can shorten my budget. I've been able to operate within my budget."

Castillo responded, "On the other side, you're doing less and I'm doing more."

In budget proposals prepared by County Auditor Alex Schroeter,

Precincts 1, 2 and 3 are earmarked for $195,960 each for the new fiscal year, the same amount as tagged in the current year's spending.

The budget for Precinct 4 for both years is pegged at $226,704, an amount higher than the other three because of approximately 100 more miles of roads to maintain. The precinct employs one worker more than the others and has higher spending for fuel, chemicals and other items.

County Judge Tom Simons brought the exchange between Castillo and Chavez to a close when he suggested that they "get together and discuss" the issue.

Bids received from two Hereford dealers for a new van for the sheriff's department were turned down because a firm price could not be given by either bidder. The commission decided to seek new bids later this summer.

Half a dozen proposals for engineering services for the Campbell Street work were received but no action taken. Commissioners decided to study the proposals, then meet Friday at 8:30 a.m. to retain a firm.

A request from the Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce for a contribution toward the July 4 celebration was approved. The budget item is $2,500 this year.

Flags from Gramm and Bivins presented to city on Flag Day

Hereford celebrated Flag Day on Monday with a special ceremony featuring greetings from the area's U.S. and state senators.

About 50 people -- including 14 children from Hereford Day Care -- were on hand Monday afternoon as representatives from U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm and State Sen. Teel Bivins presented U.S. and Texas flags to Mayor Bob Josserrand.

Jennifer Crabtree said the U.S. flag Gramm sent has flown over the U.S. Capitol.

In a letter to Josserrand, Gramm noted that, "The time-honored tradition of Flag Day is an effective reminder that upon each occasion we view our nation's flag we should thank God for the blessing of living free from tyranny, free from oppression, free from the rule of dictators, in a land where our opportunity is limited only by the magnitude of our dream."

Bivins, who was represented by Tammy Shaklee, wrote in a letter to Josserrand that, while the Stars and Stripes is our national flag, "those of us proud to be Texans also consider the Lone Star our national flag."

In fact, Bivins noted, the flag currently flying to represent our state once served as the flag of the Republic of Texas.

"I think all Texans would objectively agree that it's the most beautiful flag among all 50 states," Bivins wrote.

Accompanying the Texas flag was a certificate authenticating it as having flown outside the Capitol in Austin on June 9.

Following the official presentation of the flags by the senators' representatives, Josserrand turned the banners over to an honor guard from American Legion Post 192.

While the audience stood at attention and Bob Lore and Marvin Kearns held their rifles at attention, Miles Caudle and Grant Hanna carefully unfurled the flags and raised the to the tops of the two City Hall flagpoles.

The audience was the led in the pledges of allegiance to the U.S. and Texas flags.

Teel Bivins, waits to give him a Texas flag. The U.S. flag flew over the U.S. Capitol, while the state flag flew over the Statehouse in Austin. Both flags were presented in honor of Flag Day on Monday and now fly on flagpoles in front of City Hall.

Swindler was 'really, really good'

DALLAS (AP) - A man charged with swindling thousands of dollars from several Dallas residents while posing as a wealthy investor was "really, really good" at his line of work, says one victim.

"You have to give him his due," says Fay Calvery. "He is really, really good. He finds out what you want and makes you think he's trying to help you."

Detectives in Dallas and Oklahoma City are searching for Ralph Leon Hennessey, charged in April along with his alleged accomplice, Elise Fraser Hart, with defrauding five people of nearly $16,000. The Dallas Morning News reported Monday.

Hennessey and Hart were arrested by Dallas police on April 23 and charged with one count of theft by deception of more than $750, a second-degree felony. Both posted $3,000 bail and were released the same day.

Hennessey, 48, who also faces fraud charges in Oklahoma, has been wanted since he failed to appear at his first court hearing in Dallas.

Two nabbed in connection with drive-by shooting

Two men were arrested here on early Monday after a drive-by shooting incident on Hereford's east side.

According to police reports, Pablo Sanchez Valdez, 43, and Mario Muniz, 18, both of Hereford, were arrested at 1:47 a.m. Monday and charged with attempted murder.

They were arrested in the 500 block of Avenue K for allegedly driving to the 400 block of Avenue H and shooting at people in a front yard there.

Police Chief David Wagner said nobody was hit by the shots and no injuries were reported.

"Arrest warrants were issued with the assistance of the District Attorney's office" and the two suspects were arrested soon after the incident, Wagner said.

Bond was set at $25,000 each for the suspects.

Making adjustments

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I was exposed to poison ivy while clearing brush. I used an over-the-counter cleansing agent a day or two after exposure.

But the affected area got swollen with a red, tender rash. A doctor prescribed prednisone, which I have taken the past two days, and it is definitely helping. Other than staying clear of poison ivy, is there anything I can do to prevent getting it again? I like working outdoors.

Installation practice set tonight

Courtney and Beverly Brooke finished their term as worthy matron and worthy patron of the Order of the Eastern Star June 8 with the initiation of a new member, Mrs. Shirley Brown.

Doyle Busby, Mrs. Brown's brother, assisted in the ceremony.

Mildred Fuhrmann and L.J. Clark will be installed as the 1993-94 worthy matron and worthy patron during ceremonies at 8 p.m. Saturday, June 19, in the Masonic Lodge located on Country Club Drive. The installation will be open to visitors. Practice for installation is set for 8 p.m. today, Tuesday, at the lodge.

Courtney and Beverly Brooke were hosts for refreshments served after the meeting.

DEAR READER: Avoiding contact with poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac is the best approach. All of these contain the same substance that some people are sensitive to. Exceptionally sensitive people may even get it from smoke from burning plants or from the oleoresin in the wind. It can also be transmitted from oleoresin on the fur of cats or dogs.

Wash within 10 minutes after exposure. Even washing within 30 to 60 minutes is helpful. Clean under the fingernails to avoid spread and launder the clothes you were wearing.

Corticosteroid cream is very helpful for moderate cases. More severe cases may be treated with oral prednisone. Decreasing sensitivity can be accomplished by taking small amounts of the oleoresin for a period of four months. This must be repeated each year. Applying Stokogard cream to the skin before exposure also is helpful if the cream is then washed off within eight hours.

Take a bite of fresh apples

There's nothing worse than biting into an apple and discovering it has the texture of a banana. A good apple should bite back. It should crackle in your ear and clean your palate.

But by mid-summer--after months in cold storage--the only domestic apples being sold fail miserably on all counts. They've lost flavor and their crisp texture has turned to flab.

Then comes the Texas apple harvest. It's an event worth celebrating: the arrival of the country's first fresh apple crop, tree-ripened fruit that reaches the market within days of being picked.

"Texas apples are consumer friendly," said Agriculture Commissioner Ricky Perry. "They're crunchy, juicy and exceptionally sweet. Our long growing season and abundant sunshine produce apples that have up to 40 percent more sugar than apples from other states."

This year apple lovers have even more to look forward to--literally. Growers will harvest their biggest crop ever, an estimated eight million pounds or about 200,000 bushels. The bulk of the crop will be picked between mid-July and early October. However, a few apples are available in June and some West Texas growers have supplies into November.

More than half the crop will come for the Hill Country, home of Texas Hill Country Orchards and the Texas Apple Growers Marketing Cooperative. Trees are dwarf and semi-dwarf varieties, which grow on trellises to heights of eight and 12 feet respectively.

Harvest will be briefly delayed this season, starting around July 20. Ordinarily, Texas beats California to the market by a week or two and is a month ahead of Washington, the country's biggest producer.

Texas Hill Country Orchards, a former ranch located three miles south of Kerrville, is by far the estate's biggest producer. Some 225,000 semi-dwarf trees are planted on 500 acres and plans are to expand within a few years.

In its second year of production, the orchard will yield an estimated 100,000 bushels or approximately four million pounds of fruit this season. About 90 percent of the crop will be sold in supermarket chains, mainly in Texas. The apples are not waxed, they are buffed.

The apple marketing cooperative, headquartered in Medina, sells apples grown by 38 Hill Country and South Texas Producers.

The Hill Country season gets underway in July when Galas, Mollies Delicious and a few other varieties are harvested. Galas, among the most popular varieties, are a New Zealand variety with red-orange skin. Sweet and fragrant, they are excellent for dessert or snack. Mollies Delicious have red skins with a yellow blues. Like Galas, they are a sweet apple best eaten fresh.

The Hill Country produces about 15 varieties. These include Jonathans, excellent for pies; tart Granny Smiths, good cooked and fresh; and Braeburns, tartly sweet dessert-quality apples. Sweet, juicy Fujis, considered among the tastiest apples, are Japanese natives with a strong American following. Recognized by their red, green and yellow skins, Fujis are harvested in mid-to-late September along with Granny Smiths and Braeburns.

Apple production is not limited to the Hill Country. Growers in the Montague area in North Texas have raised apples for 50 years. This season they will harvest about 200 acres of Gala, Red and Golden Delicious and Granny Smith.

Production is also scattered between Lubbock and Amarillo and can be found as far west as Alpine and as far east as Port Arthur. Though most small operations market chiefly on-farm or at roadside, some West Texas apples are sold in Midland-Odessa groceries.

Texas apples, as a rule, are sought after by Texas consumers. "Stores tell us they can sell all they can get hold of," Perry said. "That's one more sign of Texas pride in a good, wholesome, home-grown product."

Special observance this week

This week has been designated as National Garden Week. In conjunction with the observance, members of the Bud To Blossom Garden Club will be working at the Hereford Garden Center located on N. Main St. Phyllis Brown, garden club president, encourages residents to help beautify Hereford.

Suns still have long way to go

CHICAGO (AP) - The thrills have faded. The bodies are rested. Triple overtime is a sweet but distant memory for Phoenix. The Chicago Bulls still control the NBA finals. They have an aroused Michael Jordan on their side and a goal of winning their third straight title by Friday night. Hanging on through three overtimes to beat the Bulls 129-121 on Sunday night cheered the Suns and eliminated the stigma of a possible sweep. But Chicago leads the best-of-7 series 2-1 going into Wednesday night's game. "It was a dramatic, memorable win," Phoenix coach Paul Westphal said Monday, "but it's just one game. I wish it counted double for all the minutes we had to play, but it doesn't." "They have to realize they needed three overtimes to beat us," Chicago's Scottie Pippen said. "I don't think they can take confidence from that." Neither is it encouraging to know that Jordan may be more pumped up than normal Wednesday night after missing 24 shots in Game 3 and hearing praise for Kevin Johnson's defense against him. "It's some sort of wakeup call," Jordan said of Chicago's first home playoff loss of the year. "I take (Johnson) seriously, but I don't see him as a defensive stopper." Jordan did score 44 points Sunday night, but made only 6 of 20 shots after the third quarter. He blamed that on fatigue rather than Westphal's pregame decision to have Johnson rather than Dan Majerle guard him. The Suns, wary of firing up Jordan, went out of their way Tuesday to heap praise on him. Johnson brushed off a question of whether he had frustrated Jordan. "You're not going to bait me into that. Whatever happened, I'm glad it happened the way it did," he said.

Westphal was even more cautious. Jordan, he gushed, "is the greatest player of all time. He's the greatest point guard of all time. He's the greatest (off) guard of all time. He's the greatest small forward of all time and he's probably up there in the top five at power forward and center. "He's an unbelievable player. I don't think even Michael can guard Michael." The Bulls' reliance on Jordan and Pippen at critical times backfired Sunday. They took 34 of Chicago's 51 shots after the third quarter and 78 of 130 for the game. But they were pooped during the overtimes and their shooting showed it. "You'll see more of a team game" Wednesday night, Chicago coach Phil Jackson said. "We played the three overtimes basically one-on-one." He gave the Bulls a day off from practice Monday to recover from the 63-minute marathon. The Suns also could benefit from the time off before Game 4. "I'm glad that we don't play until Wednesday," Westphal said. "You need time to recharge your batteries after a game like that." Charles Barkley needs time to rest his right elbow, which was drained of fluid a half hour before Sunday night's game. He still went out and had 24 points and 19 rebounds in 53 minutes. "I won't shoot in practice or play golf the next two days," Barkley said Monday. "We'll put ice on it and anti-inflammatory medicine, and hopefully it will be fine by Wednesday." He said he was told his bursar sac was ruptured when he fell to the floor in Game 2 Friday night. The Suns also have a revived backcourt of Majerle, who had 28 points in Game 3, and Johnson, who scored 25. Both had struggled in the series until then.

Oilers' owner never considered firing Pardee

By MIKE DRAGO
Associated Press Writer
HOUSTON (AP) - Houston Oilers owner Bud Adams says he was devastated by the club's historic playoff loss to Buffalo, but he never considered firing head coach Jack Pardee. Adams on Monday made his first public comments since the Bills overcame a 35-3 third-quarter deficit for a 41-38 victory, the biggest NFL comeback ever. "It was probably the most ... devastating day of my pro career in football," said Adams, who founded the Oilers in 1959. "It was not a good day for the Oilers. It's going to be a hard one for us to overcome." Adams questioned several coaching moves during the debacle, but he insisted that Pardee's future is not in jeopardy despite the Oilers' annual playoff collapses. Houston is the only NFL team to qualify for the playoffs the last six seasons, but it has failed to advance past the second round. "Jack's not on a hot seat," he said. "I told Jack I want him to be a more in-charge type guy. I think he will be." Adams added that he ordered the firings of defensive coordinator Jim Eddy and defensive backs coach Pat Thomas after the Buffalo game. "I made that decision. Coach Pardee didn't make that decision to fire them," said Adams. Also Monday, the Oilers tendered minimum offers to their transition players and said they would not try to sign the three, including three-time Pro Bowl middle linebacker Al Smith, to long-term deals. Facing a 3 p.m. deadline, the Oilers offered one-year contracts to Smith, receiver Ernest Givins and running back Lorenzo White. Under the NFL's new labor agreement, teams had to make contract offers by Monday in order to retain transition players' right of first refusal. Minimum offers must be at least the average of the 10 highest-paid players at their positions. For the three Oilers, minimum offers mean big raises, including an increase from $500,000 to at least $2.2 million for Smith. Givins' base salary will go from $800,000 to at least $1.8 million, while White's pay jumps from $575,000 to at least $1.5 million. None of the three will be offered long-term contracts, Adams said. Asked whether Houston would match other teams' offers for the three, Adams predicted there would be no need to do so. "I can't conceive of any way they would receive any offers," he said. Adams also addressed a squabble with the Washington Redskins over a proposed trade for Pro Bowl linebacker Wilber Marshall. The Redskins have asked NFL Commissioner Paul Tagliabue's office to review the Oilers' decision to drop the trade, which reportedly involved Houston sending first- and fifth-round draft picks to Washington. Marshall's agent, Richard Bennett, claims both clubs had agreed to the trade and the Oilers had offered the linebacker a contract when Houston general counsel Steve Underwood called off the deal. "It's very straightforward," Bennett said Monday. "The Oilers made an offer. We accepted that offer. We accepted the Oilers' offer before Steve Underwood phoned me." News reports said the Oilers had offered Marshall $2.75 million with the Redskins supplementing the salary by another $150,000. According to Adams, the two teams were nowhere close to a deal. "We never had a trade with them to start out with," he said. "I was not for the price or the one and the five (draft picks)." Adams, however, left open the possibility that a trade could still be worked out. "A lot could happen," he said. "We have until the sixth game of the season to trade." Redskins general manager Charley Casserly and the league office did not return phone calls from The Associated Press Monday.

Y starting softball league

The Hereford YMCA is signing up teams for a summer softball league, which will begin play July 26. Teams will play an eight-game season, followed by a tournament to determine league champions. Games will be played at 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays. Some weekends may be scheduled, depending on the number of teams entered. The league is open to the first 12 teams to pay the entry fee. The entry fee for a sponsored team is $200; for single players it's $8 for YMCA members and $24 for non-members. The entry deadline is at 6 p.m. July 22. Baxter hits ace Waldo Baxter shot a hole-in-one Friday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course. Baxter used a 7-iron to ace the 155-yard No. 6 hole. Witnesses were Joe Main, Butch White, Larry Walterscheid and Dewayne Cassels.

Banks jumps to Redskins

ASHBURN, Va. (AP) - Carl Banks, once one of the NFL's best linebackers, signed with the Washington Redskins after playing nine years with the New York Giants. Rudy York hit 18 home runs for Detroit in August of 1937, setting a record for one month.

Banks, 30, signed a three-year deal worth nearly $5.5 million, including a signing bonus. He'll make just over $2 million this season. Hub Leonard of the Boston Red Sox had a record earned-run average of 1.01 in 1914.

Former champions receive good seeds at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - Andre Agassi and Martina Navratilova can be grateful to Wimbledon's seeding committee. Agassi, the men's defending champion, was seeded five places ahead of his world ranking and Navratilova, a former nine-time champion, was elevated to No. 2 in the women's draw. At No. 8, Agassi is the lowest seeded men's defending champion in Wimbledon history. Since seedings were introduced in 1927, no men's champion who has returned to defend his title had been seeded lower than No. 6. The previous lowest-seeded defending champion was Jan Kodes, who was No. 6 the year after he won the boycott-hit tournament of 1973. The No. 8 seeding means Agassi wouldn't face a top-8 player before the quarterfinals. "It was a difficult decision, bearing in mind he has not played much in the last couple of months because of injury," said Wimbledon referee Alan Mills. "But he is the defending champion and he proved he can play on grass." Agassi has dropped steadily in the rankings since surprising the tennis world last year by winning Wimbledon from the baseline. He has not played competitively since April 9 due to tendinitis in his right wrist. Agassi missed the French Open and was considered questionable for Wimbledon, but he arrived Monday in Germany for a grass-court warmup event in Halle. Agassi was scheduled to play Tuesday against Carl Uwe Steeb. Navratilova's wish to avoid top-seeded Steffi Graf until the final was granted when she was elevated to No. 2 above higher-ranked Arantxa Sanchez Vicario. "I'm thrilled," Navratilova said. "It makes sense for me to be upgraded. There are only two former champions in the tournament and it's right they should be in opposite halves of the draw." "Her past record on grass speaks for itself," Mills said. "Her worst performance here over the years has been losing in the quarterfinals (to Jennifer Capriati in 1991). The committee thought that for a grass-court tournament she should be marginally favored over Sanchez Vicario." The seeding committee also used its own discretion in making two-time champion Stefan Edberg the No. 2 men's seed behind Pete Sampras. Jim Courier, who has won four Grand Slam titles, but had little success on grass, was seeded one place below his world ranking at No. 3. Three-time champion Boris Becker was seeded No. 4, last year's runner-up Goran Ivanisevic was No. 5, 1991 champion Michael Stich was No. 6 and Ivan Lendl was No. 7. Rounding out the rest of the men's seeds were Richard Krajicek (9), Andrei Medvedev (10), Petr Korda (11), Michael Chang (12), Wayne Ferreira (13), MaliVai Washington (14), Karel Novacek (15) and Thomas Muster (16). The only top-ranked player missing was Sergi Bruguera, who jumped to No. 5 after winning the French Open earlier this month, but is skipping Wimbledon because of a dislike for grass. Among the women, Sanchez Vicario was seeded No. 3. The rest of the seedings followed the rankings, with Gabriela Sabatini, Mary Joe Fernandez, Conchita Martinez, Jennifer Capriati, Jana Novotna, Anke Huber, Magdalena Maleeva, Manuela Maleeva-Fragniere, Katerina Maleeva, Mary Pierce, Amanda Coetzer, Helena Sukova and Nathalie Tauziat. Reggie Roby of the Miami Dolphins was the NCAA national punting champion at Iowa in 1981 and 1982.

Tigers' Fielder continues to massacre Indians

By The Associated Press
Cecil Fielder's homers off the roof at Tiger Stadium are keeping the Detroit Tigers on top in the American League East.

Fielder's latest tape-measure shot was one of three Detroit homers and David Wells won for the eighth time in nine decisions as the Tigers defeated the Cleveland Indians 7-3 Monday night. Detroit leads New York and Toronto by four games.

In his career, Fielder has 67 hits in 201 at-bats against Cleveland for a .333 average. Twenty-five of those hits have been home runs, and Fielder has batted in 63 runs against the Indians.

"He just kills us," Cleveland manager Mike Hargrove said.

Fielder hit his 13th homer, giving the Tigers a 5-1 lead in the third. The shot came within about three feet of going over the roof. It landed just to the left of the light tower and rolled back down the roof, falling into the second-deck seats.

He has put a ball on the left-field roof three times, twice this season, and cleared it once. In 1990, hitting against Dave Stewart on Aug. 25, Fielder became only the third player and the first Tiger - to clear the left-field roof at Tiger Stadium.

Wells (8-1), 5-1 lifetime against the Indians, gave up three runs on nine hits in six innings. Wells has completed six innings in 10 of his 13 starts. Kurt Knudsen and Bob MacDonald finished up for Detroit.

Loser Mike Bielecki (4-5) gave up six runs on nine hits in four-plus innings for Cleveland.

Yankees 4, Red Sox 0
Bernie Williams hit his first grand slam on the first pitch following an unusual ball check, leading New York past Boston at Yankee Stadium.

Williams connected with two outs in the fifth inning on a 1-2 pitch from Danny Darwin (5-6). Just before the pitch, third base umpire John Shulock called time and went to the mound to examine the ball Darwin had, but kept it in play.

Scott Kamieniecki (1-1) and Bobby Munoz combined on a three-hitter.

Angels 8, Rangers 2
Mark Langston (8-1) kept his major-league leading ERA at 2.26 with eight innings of five-hit ball, and Tim Salmon had three hits, including a homer, to lead California past Texas at Anaheim.

Todd Burns dropped to 0-3.

Orioles 8, Brewers 5
David Segui's homer highlighted a five-run sixth inning as Baltimore beat Milwaukee at County Stadium.

The biggest hit of the rally against Bill Wegman (4-10) might have been an RBI bloop single by Mark McLemore, a catchable ball that dropped between outfielders Greg Vaughn and Robin Yount.

Rick Sutcliffe (7-2) gave up 10 hits in six innings.

home runs to earn his first win of the year.

Loser Kirk McCaskill (2-7) was staked to a 2-0 lead on solo homers by Frank Thomas and Ellis Burks.

Twins 4, Blue Jays 3
Shane Mack, who had nothing to show for two triples earlier in the game, snapped a seventh-inning tie with an RBI on a weak grounder, rallying Minnesota over Toronto at the Metrodome.

Danny Cox (5-2) blew the lead in relief of Dave Stewart. Larry Casian (1-0), who gave up Pat Borders' sixth-inning go-ahead single, got credit for the victory.

Bucs lose Van Slyke for eight weeks

By The Associated Press
Any thoughts the Pittsburgh Pirates may have had about a fourth straight NL East title vanished when Andy Van Slyke crashed into a wall in St. Louis and broke his collarbone.

The four-time Gold Glove winner in center field was about the only player left from the Pirates' divisional domination, even though they never advanced to a World Series. Barry Bonds and Doug Drabek left after last season. Bobby Bonilla and John Smiley departed the year before.

Van Slyke was hitting .322 and led the Pirates in home runs and RBIs. Now Pittsburgh will have to do without him for at least eight weeks after he was injured Monday night in an 8-3 loss to the Cardinals.

With the Pirates 16 1/2 games out and behind everybody in the division but New York, it wasn't looking too good for another title, anyway. Now it's as bleak as it gets.

"We can't lose him," pitcher Denny Neagle said. "That's the worst thing that can happen."

The defeat was the Pirates' fifth straight and eighth in nine games.

They had just been swept by the Florida Marlins and now they face two months without Van Slyke.

Pittsburgh led 3-1 when Van Slyke went hard after a drive by St. Louis' Erik Pappas in the fourth. He got his glove on the ball, but it glanced off it and into a row of bushes just beyond the wall for a two-run homer, Pappas' first in the major leagues.

Van Slyke was down on the warning track for several minutes, then walked off the field favoring his right side.

"Andy plays in pain," trainer Kent Biggerstaff said. "But he was sore in a couple of places and you have to take what he says seriously."

The Cardinals then went wild as Gregg Jeffries added a two-run homer in the fifth and they added three in the seventh off knuckleballer Tim Wakefield, making his first relief appearance since being bounced from the rotation.

Mets 7, Braves 4
New York needed someone to shake things up and rookie Doug Saunders has stepped up. The second baseman had the second two-hit game of his two-game career and scored three runs.

Bobby Bonilla twice drove in Saunders.

Frank Tanana (4-5) allowed one run on nine hits and struck out eight in seven innings.

Braves starter Pete Smith (2-6) gave up eight hits and four runs in 4 1-3 innings.

Cubs 6, Marlins 3
Jose Guzman (6-5) allowed three runs and seven hits over six innings before leaving with a stiff lower back. He is 5-1 with a 3.83 ERA at Wrigley Field and 1-4 with a 5.02 ERA on the road.

Guzman's single in the second made it 3-1 and was the first RBI of his major-league career. Dwight Smith had three hits for Chicago.

Jack Armstrong (4-7) went five innings and gave up five runs, four earned, on eight hits.

Dodgers 9, Rockies 4
Jody Reed, who belonged to the Rockies for six hours before they traded him on expansion draft day, had four hits, including a two-run homer. Tim Wallach also drove in three runs as the visiting Dodgers ended Colorado's three-game winning streak. Pedro Astacio (5-4) scattered seven hits before needing relief help in the eighth.

Vinny Castilla had a two-run homer for the Rockies. Andres Galarraga, hitting .425, had four hits, including a solo homer.

Phillies 10, Expos 3
Terry Mulholland improved to 9-1 lifetime against the Expos as the Phillies extended their winning streak to a season-best six games. Mulholland (8-5) allowed eight hits, struck out four and walked three in 8 1-3 innings.

Pete Incaviglia's two-run single in the first started Philadelphia off and gave him 14 RBIs in his last 11 games. John Kruk added a solo homer and Jim Eisenreich capped the scoring with a grand slam in the ninth.

Moises Alou drove in two runs for the Expos.

Rickey Henderson stole two bases and scored two runs, becoming the Athletics' all-time leader in runs scored, as Oakland beat Chicago at the Coliseum. Henderson has scored 999 runs as a member of the Athletics, surpassing Bob Johnson's 997, set with the Philadelphia Athletics from 1933-42.

Rookie Brent Gates and Ruben Sierra combined to drive in five runs for the A's. Curt Young survived two

Athletics 7, White Sox 3
Randy Johnson struck out 15 in eight innings as Seattle defeated Kansas City for the left-hander's 10th consecutive victory in the Kingdom.

Tino Martinez and Jay Buhner each hit their 12th home runs against starter Mark Gardner (4-3). Martinez drove in four runs.

Johnson's 15 strikeouts gave him 121 for the season, most in the major leagues. He improved to 8-3.

Mariners 6, Royals 3
Randy Johnson struck out 15 in eight innings as Seattle defeated Kansas City for the left-hander's 10th consecutive victory in the Kingdom.

Tino Martinez and Jay Buhner each hit their 12th home runs against starter Mark Gardner (4-3). Martinez drove in four runs.

Johnson's 15 strikeouts gave him 121 for the season, most in the major leagues. He improved to 8-3.

Ozzie Canseco calls it quits
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Ozzie Canseco, twin brother of Texas Rangers slugger Jose Canseco, has quit baseball and gone home to Miami. He says he may take a job in real estate.

Canseco abruptly left the Louisville Redbirds of the American Association over the weekend. He was upset with the St. Louis Cardinals, the parent team of the Triple A club, contending he did not get enough of a chance to prove he deserved to be in the majors.

"This is a game full of surprises," Louisville interim manager Mark Riggins said. "Everyone reacts differently. Maybe he thought he belonged up there."

The 28-year-old outfielder said he was leaving before Louisville's game Saturday night against the Bisons in Buffalo, N.Y.

He had just one hit and four strikeouts in eight at-bats through the first two games of the Buffalo series. He was hitting .240 at Louisville in 44 games with 13 homers and 33 RBIs in 154 at-bats.

Canseco complained bitterly in Louisville about his demotion and asked to be traded.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a divorced father of sons. I always thought I wanted a daughter, but I also knew that my reason for this was at least partially unhealthy and dangerous. My sexual urges for very young females have long frightened me, and I feared they would include my own girls if I had any. Fortunately, I didn't.

Some time ago, I met a divorced woman who has daughters. We began dating, and the relationship progressed to where marriage was discussed. I was scared because I knew that I was physically attracted to her very young daughters. My lady friend didn't understand the reason for my reluctance to commit to marriage and convinced me to move in with her to solidify our relationship and provide the children with a father figure.

In my heart, I knew this was a bad move, but I agreed to try. Ann, I would get aroused when the girls rushed between their bedrooms and the bathroom in their nighties. Even worse, they often asked me to come into their rooms at bedtime and tuck them in. As God is my witness, never once did I touch one of them inappropriately, although I wanted to, and it was a struggle to keep my impulses in check. After several months of walking this sexual tightrope, I realized that a tragedy was on the brink of occurring. I moved out and terminated the relationship. I know that my leaving hurt this lovely woman and her daughters, but they'll never know how lucky they were to be rid of me.

I can't sign my name because I live in a small town and am now married to a wonderful woman--who, thank heavens, has sons.--Toad of the Road in California

DEAR ROAD: The klinker in your thinker has a pedophile-like twist that could cause real trouble at any time. Please get counseling at once. Good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago, you printed a letter that may have done a grave injustice to your correspondent's husband. I refer to the letter from "A Shriner For My 33rd Wedding Anniversary." The woman reported that her husband kicks her and pulls her hair in his sleep. You said he was probably exhibiting repressed hostility and should get counseling.

My husband often woke me up to say I had been shouting in my sleep. Once, a friend I traveled with said she would never go anywhere with me again because I kept her awake all night with my never-ending monologues. I have fallen out of bed several times and injured myself. Once when sleepwalking, I fell on my face, cracked three front teeth and broke my nose. I checked into a sleep disorder clinic where I was diagnosed as having REM sleep behavior disorder.

This disorder usually manifests itself when I have been traveling or eating out, especially if I have consumed monosodium glutamate, which is present in one form or another in many commercially prepared foods.

Counseling will not help people who have this problem. The good news is that there is medication that can help. With proper treatment, that reader's husband will be able to lead a perfectly normal life--Formerly Plagued in Claremont, Calif.

DEAR FORMERLY: People who are sleep-deprived or have the problems described in your letter should avail themselves of the help provided by sleep clinics. For referral, write to the National Sleep Foundation, 122 South Robertson Blvd., Third Floor-A1, Los Angeles, Calif. 90048.

Lonesome? Take charge of your life and turn it around. Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a self-addressed, long, business-size envelope and a check or money order for $4.15 (this includes postage and handling) to: Friends, c/o Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Get ready for the new tax on energy

With a new presidency typically come new policies and programs like the proposed new Energy Tax. The Energy Tax is a wide ranging fuel tax based on the BTU or heat content of each fuel being used and is designed to promote conservation and reduction in the nation's consumption of imported oil and polluting fuels. The tax is expected to collect nearly $50 billion from businesses and homeowners over the next four years. The bulk of the money is anticipated to come from the energy used to heat and cool homes.

What does it mean to homeowners?

Watson named to Dean's List

Charleine Deniese Watson is among the graduate students who is on the spring Dean's Honor Roll at the University of Oklahoma.

The list includes students who have completed at least nine semester hours and have earned a cumulative grade point average of 3.8 or higher.

The cost of natural gas, heating oil and electricity from coal, hydropower and nuclear power used to heat and cool homes will go up by an average of $100-$143 per year.

To combat the rising energy costs, the CertainTeed Home Institute suggests that homeowners prepare now by taking the time to make their homes more energy efficient. An energy-efficient home uses less energy and is more comfortable year-round.

One of the first steps a homeowner should take is to have a home energy audit undertaken. Many utilities will conduct audits for little or no cost. These audits show where a home is losing energy. Utilities then provide a written report with specific recommendations for making the home more energy efficient.

Another option is to call in a professional insulation contractor who can also inspect your home and recommend where you need extra insulation.

Generally, homes built before the late 80's do not have proper levels of insulation. An insulation contractor will evaluate the areas of a home that need insulation, the amount of insulation required based on the location in the country a homeowner lives in and then recommend the best material for the job.

Take recycling mini-quiz

Can you pass this recycling mini-quiz from Keep America Beautiful, Inc.?

True or False: It's important to recycle everything.

True or False: Most communities cover the collection and processing costs of recycling by selling their recyclables.

True or False: If everyone recycles, we can solve the "garbage problem" and stop building landfills.

True or False: You may be surprised to discover that the answer to all three is "False."

Today's interest in the environment is motivating more Americans than ever before to recycle. Recycling is one important option in managing a community's garbage. But it's not the only option and recent research asks the question: does it make environmental and economic sense to recycle as much as possible?

For material to be recycled, it must be processed and turned into a new product. The natural resources that are used to make these new products through recycling things like oil and clean water, may be more valuable than the raw materials that were used to make the items in the first place.

For instance, trucks that collect items at curbside and transport them to processing plants use gasoline and increase exhaust emissions.

Some recyclables are being transported across the country, or even abroad, to processing plants.

With so many Americans sorting their trash, recyclables are being collected faster than they can be turned into new products. Because so much material is available, its value has dropped sharply over the past several years. This means that cities and towns are actually spending more tax dollars to collect and process recyclables than is generated by selling the material - in other words, they are losing money.

According to a recent study, only 25% of the cost of collection and processing is being recovered by the sale of recyclables in some areas.

Safe options for managing our trash will always be needed. Even if we achieve the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's national goal of recycling 25% of our garbage, by the Year 2000 there still will be about 150 million tons to handle safely every year.

"Cleopatra's Needles" are two Egyptian obelisks, originally set up at Heliopolis about 1500 B.C. One now stands on the Thames Embankment in London, the other is behind the south wing of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York City.

DALLAS (AP) - Kenneth Branagh, who is at work on the movie project "Frankenstein," says the design of the monster is going to be far different from previous portrayals. "We're going for a look very far removed from the Boris Karloff, bolts-in-the-neck, square-head thing," Branagh told The Dallas Morning News. "We're trying to stick as closely as we can to the book. So there's quite a lot of preparation. It's a big movie, lots of special effects and things."

Robert De Niro will play Frankenstein. Francis Ford Coppola will produce. Branagh is directing and acting in the film.

The Irish-born actor-director-producer's new movie should be hot on the heels of his earlier four films in the past four years.
