ting every day and yields of around 1,000 50-pound bags per acre. The success of the cucumber (above right) crop has yet to be determined. Potatoes (right) are enjoying a solid season, according to Wes Fisher of Fisher-Barrett. Lance Martin of Raymond Schlabs' farm displays a couple of especially large 'taters.

Congress leaves behind unfinished business

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has packed up for a five-week summer recess, leaving behind a full platter of unfinished legislation, including a $186 billion defense bill, a major farm program, and a rescue package for the International Monetary Fund.

The House and Senate recessed Thursday until Sept. 12, after last minute procedural delays snarled efforts by leaders to complete action on a variety of major bills near passage.

The biggest item left hanging was the defense bill, a multi-program measure that would authorize the MX missile plan sought by President Reagan and allow the Pentagon to go ahead with the production of nerve gas for the first time in a decade. Senate Majority Leader Howard Baker, R-Tenn., had vowed to keep the Senate in session as long as it took to complete action on a compromise version of the legislation.

But House and Senate negotiators were unable to accommodate him, reaching an agreement hours after the Congress adjourned.

No dollar figure was immediately available for a total of all projects authorized. The House version had stood at about $189 billion and the Senate version at about $186 billion for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

Major items already had been agreed to earlier in the week, notably the selection of the House figure of 21 MX missiles for the first year's manufacture of that controversial weapon. Members also agreed to the first production of nerve gas in more than a decade.

Baker had no better luck in getting other major bills to the floor.

He was forced to postpone until next month a long-debated administration-backed bill to cut federal support for grains and overhaul the nation's multibillion dollar dairy program.

Wheat-state senators opposed to the legislation blocked a final vote on the measure, prompting Sen.

Jesse Helms, R-N.C., chairman of the Senate Agriculture Committee, to pronounce the legislation "lying dead in the water."

Also blocked by the delaying tactics of opponents was a bill providing funds for Interior Department programs. And efforts to win final Senate money of an administration-backed bill to provide an additional $8.4 billion for the International Monetary Fund also collapsed. The bill squeaked through the Democratic-run House late Wednesday on a 217-211 vote.

The House had problems of its own winning approval of major measures on the final day before the recess. For several hours, it wrestled with legislation giving the Environmental Protection Agency more authority to regulate the dumping of hazardous wastes, then gave up and quit.

However, the House earlier in the day did pass a five-year extension of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission — a move that could block the president's attempt to fire three members of the panel.

Both houses unanimously approved legislation to protect states with declining unemployment rates from suffering sharp reductions in federal funds to pay unemployment benefits and to extend for two years a program for distributing free surplus cheese and other foods to the needy.

Caught in the time crunch as Congress rushed to begin its recess were House-passed bills to create a new federal holiday in January to honor slain civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr. and to extend for three years federal revenue sharing payments to local governments — a program that expires at the end of September.

Vandals damage golf course

An estimated $1,080 damage was done to the Hereford Public Golf Course Thursday between 9:30 p.m. and 11:30 p.m., Hereford police reported this morning.

Though several poles were taken and a few cups were dug out, the most serious damage was the words "Rock and Roll" carved into the seventh green, police said. There was also evidence of mischief on the first, second and third greens.

Gone from her unlocked house from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. Thursday, Virginia Rodriguez of 305 Avenue K returned to discover $767.71 missing. Police said there are no suspects in the burglary.

The windshield of a 1964 Ford pickup was busted from inside the truck's cabin at approximately 9:45 p.m. Wednesday, police reported. The victim is Laura Smith of 308 Jowell. "Flesh and blood" was found on the broken glass, said police, who have one suspect in the case.

The local law enforcement agency made two arrests Wednesday: one for DWI and the other for disorderly conduct. Police also reported two incidents of minor burglary and one each of criminal mischief, minor theft and shoplifting. There was one minor motor vehicle accident.

Lot owners elect Jackson

Clinton Jackson was elected president of the board of the Restlawn Lot Owners Association, Inc. when that group held its annual meeting Thursday evening at the community center. Jackson succeeds Dwaine Walker as head of the organization.

Some 50 lot owners attended the meeting, electing two new board members and re-electing association secretary Marian Kreig to a second term. Other new board members include Norman Gray and Bartley Dowell.

Elected vice president of the board was John Schneider, while Pauline Howard was elected treasurer.

Holdover directors of the association include Revella Skypala, Jackson, Mrs. Howard, and Schneider. A review of the past year was presented at the meeting, while plans for the upcoming year were formulated. Charles Schlabs was named chairman of a building project aimed at erecting a new equipment storage shed at the cemetery, while Helen Parsons was named head of a committee to update the mailing list of lot owners or relatives.

The association reviewed a scrapbook put together by the Hereford High School Key Club, which used the cemetery and its renovation as a club project last school year.

Mrs. Kreig said that the association will conduct a "work party" from 8:30-11 a.m. Saturday at the cemetery. Workers are urged to bring their own tools, with the exception of lawnmowers, Mrs. Kreig said.

Cyclists to visit Hereford

Three young men who are bicycling across the United States to publicize American Red Cross disaster relief work will be passing through Hereford today.

A covered dish supper will be held at the Community Center at 7 p.m. this evening to give Red Cross volunteers and local residents a chance to visit with the men. Everyone is welcome to come and bring a covered dish.

The cyclists will spend the night here and leave early Saturday for their next stop in Clovis, N.M.

T&C Jubilee curtain opens Saturday at beauty pageant

The curtain opens on Hereford's Town & Country Jubilee Saturday night, and it couldn't open on a more eye-catching scene than the Miss Hereford Pageant of 1983.

Eighteen lovely and talented candidates will vie for the Miss Hereford crown now worn by Lisa Snyder. The pageant, sponsored by the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, begins at 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the high school auditorium.

Tickets are priced at $2.50 each and are available at the chamber office or at the door. Preliminary talent competition will be held Saturday beginning at 2 p.m. in the auditorium, and this presentation is open to the public. Tickets are also $2.50 each.

Only the top eight finalists will be presented in talent competition Saturday night. The judges will rate the beauties in three areas—talent, personal interview, and evening wear.

Emcee for the pageant will be Phil Woodall, former television newsman and current Randall County JP.

Pageant judges include Lila Buske Vars, director of development at West Texas State University who has worked with the Miss Canyon Pageant 15 years; Don M. Vars, chairman of the board of the First National Bank of Canyon; and Lisa Watkins, Plainview speech and drama teacher and a former Junior Miss of Kentucky.

Special entertainment will be presented by Donann Cummings of Hereford and Kimmie Joe of Amarillo, both of whom placed in the National Tumbling and Trampoline Finals in Cleveland, Ohio.

Keith Ann Gearn is the pageant director and Janis Kelley is chairman of the Miss Hereford steering committee.

The 18 candidates are: Cheri Barker, Ronda Batenhorst, D'Nan Brannon, Dana Cabbiness, Susette Edwards, Gina Griffin, Kellie Howell, Buffy Ann Huckert, Michelle Hughes, Kari Maddox, Amy Mason, Teresa Phibbs, Dallas Ann Phillips, Amy Quillen, Angela Roddy, Elizabeth Rudd, Charlein Springer, Cathie

Weldon. The annual Jubilee week stretches over a nine-day period, starting with the pageant and ending Sunday night, Aug. 14, with the Gospel Singing Jubilee. All of the other events are packed into the Thursday-through-Saturday days of Aug. 11-13.

Thursday sees the beginning of the Hall of Fame All-Girl Rodeo, set for three performances, and a musical show by the Hereford Chamber Singers. A Rocking Chair marathon and an outdoor square dance are scheduled Friday, along with the Jubilee of Art, the Senior Citizens Quilt Show, and the second rodeo performance will feature the crowning of the Rodeo Queen.

The big parade is set for 10:30 a.m. Saturday, and Jubilee Junction gets underway immediately after in Dameron Park. The Junction will feature games, food and activities for the family. The YMCA will sponsor a 10K and 2-mile Fun Run Saturday morning, and the Art Show and Quilt Show continue at the Community Center.

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says these days you have to learn to take the bad with the worst.

The trouble with some politicians is that they think they've been appointed instead of appointed.

"Let's Get Physical" is the big slogan in Hereford this week, but it's not an invitation to do battle. That's the theme of the 1983 Miss Hereford Pageant, sponsored by the Women's Division, Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

The pageant steering committee is excited about the show this year, and it could be the best yet. The Women's Division started the pageant in 1972 and it has been a big production every year. Many hours of preparation and work go into the production each year.

Monica Herring Stauffer, Miss Hereford 1975, was visiting here from Arizona recently and she claims the local pageant is bigger and better than the statewide Miss Arizona Pageant!

The papers had just hit the news-stands Wednesday when we had a call from a reader. "Shame on you," she said. "The front page had a glaring error in the outline under the broken-windows picture. You used the word 'busted,' which is not good grammar. 'Broken' would have been the proper word," she advised us.

"You're right," we responded. "We really should be more careful with our selection of words." Then we confronted the reporter who wrote the outline. He wasn't convinced, so he went to the dictionary.

Well, folks, Webster includes "busted" right along with other good words. We add words to our language each year through common usage, and "busted" has apparently won approval.

One of our old dictionaries defined the word as "archaic and inelegant," but the Webster Collegiate Dictionary makes no such distinction. It is acceptable to say, for instance, that a window was "busted," that a marriage is about to "bust up," or that a baseball player "busted up" a possible double play.

The word has a double meaning, of course. You could also say that a woman is "busty."

Psychiatric examination sought for defendant

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — Lawyers for a man charged with murder plan to ask for a psychiatric evaluation of him, while a district attorney says he is seeking capital murder indictments against Kenneth A. Venne.

Defense attorney John Green said Thursday his co-counsel, Warren Heagy, was preparing a motion in district court to commit Venne to a mental hospital for a psychiatric evaluation.

At the same time, District Attorney Mike Holmes said he is considering seeking three different indictments for capital murder.

"If the evidence is there, I'll probably seek three different (capital murder) indictments," Holmes said, adding that he still is waiting for some evidence. "I'm going to have to wait and see if there was another felony involved."

Holmes received results of an Odessa police investigation on Monday, but the district attorney said Thursday he needs more evidence.

"There has been a thorough investigation, but as is often the case, some further evidence takes time to develop," he said, refusing to elaborate.

Venne is charged with three counts of murder and is being held in the Ector County Jail on three $100,000 bonds. He was arrested July 14, the day after the bodies of 50-year-old Ruby Kay Fiesler and her sons, Paul, 17, and Keith, 13, were found in their beds at the family's east side home.

According to autopsy reports, the three had been beaten to death. A blood-stained aluminum baseball bat was found in the living room of the victims' home, police have said.

Police said Venne was arrested after he admitted committing the killings.

Highway Commission sets 10 percent goal

AUSTIN (AP) — Highway authorities say they will offer minority-owned businesses 10 percent of the highway construction projects during the business year of 1984, the State Highway and Public Transportation Commission said Thursday.

The commission increased its goal for disadvantaged businesses to 10 percent for 1984, compared to the 1983 goal of 7.9 percent.

Mark Goode, state engineer-director, said the new goal would mean about $80 million in contract work available to disadvantaged businesses, compared to $65 million for 1983.

The commission also agreed to a goal for women-owned businesses would remain at 0.5 percent level for 1984, as it was for 1983.

The commission was told there has not been a significant increase in the number of certified women-owned businesses. About $4.7 million in contract work will be available to women-owned businesses.

Fifth child born to Houston program

HOUSTON (AP) — A 6-pound, 10-ounce girl was born in the Denver area to a couple participating in a "test-tube" baby program here.

The baby was the fifth to be delivered in the program, Ina Fried, director of public affairs at the University of Texas Health Science Center, announced Thursday.

Neither the infant nor her parents were identified.

The 34-year-old mother and her husband have been married 4½ years, Ms. Fried said. She said the woman had one blocked fallopian tube. The other failed after an ectopic, or tubal, pregnancy, she said.

The child was born after the woman's second attempt to become pregnant through the "in vitro" process, in which sperm and an egg are mixed in a glass dish, then placed in the mother's body to develop.

Ms. Fried said five women other treated by the program are pregnant. She said the program has treated about 200 women.

Researchers try insemination of ants

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Researchers at Texas A&M University are launching a new project to control the mating habits of the fire ant through artificial insemination.

Dr. Brad Vinson, head of the fire ant project and professor of entomology, said that by artificially inseminating the female, the male ant eventually becomes sterile.

Vinson said the operation is a "tricky little process" conducted under a microscope.

"You sometimes have to have even better hands than a surgeon when you're working at such a small level," he said.

He said that although developing the sterile male ant may not totally eradicate the insects, which have been plaguing the South and Southwest, it could control their mating habits.

This process was highly successful 20 years ago, when Texas scientists sterilized the screwworm.

A&M researchers also say they have perfected a technique for tagging worker ants and thus determine which males are sterile — something they were previously unable to do.

Working with funds provided through the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, part of the Texas A&M University system, Vinson and his associates will begin work in September.

Plague cases worry would-be visitors to New Mexico

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — With more cases of human plague reported here this year than in any state since 1925, would-be visitors are wondering: Is it safe to visit New Mexico?

The disease that wiped out a quarter of Europe's population in the Middle Ages has been contracted by at least 18 people in New Mexico since January, and one has died.

In addition, the 13-year-old daughter of a college president died Tuesday of plague in South Carolina, and officials believe she contracted the disease in New Mexico.

Many people considering visiting New Mexico or worried about the disease once known as the "Black Death" have been calling or writing state officials.

"We don't keep a record of the calls, but it's fair to say we're getting more than we've ever gotten," said Dr. Jonathan Mann, an epidemiologist with the state Health and Environment Department.

"They're all very basically the same question," he said, "a variant of 'Is it safe to come to New Mexico?' and 'Is the plague a big danger?'"

New Mexico's roadside welcome centers are getting the same questions. A visitor from France told a welcome center employee his friends had warned him that if he caught the plague he couldn't return to his homeland.

But Mann said the answer to all the questions is still the same: "Yes, it's safe and the risk is incredibly small."

Ever since the first case of human plague in the state was reported in 1949, New Mexico has led the nation in the number of cases. Officials speculate that the state's climate is good for fleas, which can act as carriers.

Mann said instances of people getting plague have been reported only in Western states. Other states with cases this year are Arizona with eight and Utah and Oregon with one each, according to the national Centers for Disease Control. Three of the Arizona cases and the Oregon case resulted in death.

A spokesman for Greenville Hospital System in Greenville, S.C., said bubonic plague, the most common form of the disease, had caused the death of Donna Delattre, Miss Delattre, the daughter of Edwin Delattre, president of St. John's College in Annapolis, Md., and Santa Fe, might have contracted the disease near her former home in New Mexico, officials said.

She was moving with her family from Santa Fe to Annapolis and became ill last Friday in South Carolina. The number of New Mexico cases reported this year is the highest in one state in a single year since California had 38 cases reported in 1925, officials said.

A 56-year-old New Mexico woman who caught bubonic plague in 1980 said she didn't "feel that bad" when she was sick and didn't doubt she would survive.

"They have a misconception of what New Mexico is anyway," she said. "Half those people don't think we're part of the United States. So when they heard I had the plague, well, you can imagine what they thought." A prolonged winter has been blamed for some of the cases this year.

Most people who come down with human plague get it from the bites of fleas that have bitten plague-infected animals, such as rats, officials say.

"The first half of the year, yes, we think the wet weather helped," Mann said. "But we're not sure how to explain the rest of the year. We don't know enough about the disease to explain why there have been so many cases."

Mann and tourist officials have predicted that tourism probably won't suffer. "We let (tourists) know what to do and what to avoid and then they're usually OK," Mann said.

Plague is only contagious if the bacteria that cause the disease go into the lungs. Then "if someone has it, you can get it if they cough on you," he said. "When it's spread from person to person, that's a public emergency."

About 25 percent of plague cases develop into the pneumonic form, but the last time the disease was known to have spread from one human to another was in 1924 in Los Angeles, Mann said. Most deaths from plague are caused by the pneumonic form.

Bubonic plague, which includes all the cases in New Mexico this year, has symptoms that include high fever and a painful lump or swelling under the skin in the groin, underarm or neck, Mann said. Another form of plague, septicemic, is harder to diagnose because there are no swollen lymph glands, he said.

Mann said people can guard against getting the disease by dusting their pets weekly with flea powder and by avoiding contact with sick or dead animals.

Strongly worded sign catches attention

HONDO, Texas (AP) — Police Chief Jerry Smith likes to watch the cars whizzing through Hondo on U.S. Highway 90 — whizzing, that is, until drivers spot a brightly colored sign by the roadside.

"THIS IS GOD'S COUNTRY," the sign proclaims in bold block letters. "PLEASE DON'T DRIVE THROUGH IT LIKE HELL."

"You can just sit there and watch people slow up or slam on their brakes," Smith said. "Especially if they haven't been through the area before. I guess you could say it's a tourist attraction."

The Lions Club printed up 100,000 postcards showing the eye-catching sign in 1968 and the local Chamber of Commerce already has gone through several more printings.

"People write to ask for them and local people come in to get a handful of them when they're going on vacation," said Lillian Porter, manager of the chamber.

"We've even had some of the cards put up in places in Europe." The first weather-beaten sign was erected at the west-bound entrance to Hondo in the 1930s as a Lions Club project, but members of a local church weren't too thrilled about the use of the word "hell," Ms. Porter said.

"The sign was either covered up or taken down for several years," she said. "Then they put up a new sign and added the word 'please,' which seemed to make it all right."

"I don't see how anyone could be offended now, or at least they don't complain," she said. "We get enough requests for postcards."

Identical green-and-white wooden warning signs now mark both highway entrances to this Southwest Texas town of 6,000 — in conspicuous view of motorists driving the 40 miles east to San Antonio or continuing west to Uvalde and Del Rio.

Passengers returned to U.S.

Drunk hijacker unsuccessful

MIAMI (AP) — About 11 hours after their Capitol Airlines flight was hijacked to Cuba by a "very drunk" Spanish-speaking man who sprayed gasoline around the cabin, 263 people returned to the United States today aboard two separate jetliners, officials said.

The man was taken into custody by Cuban authorities Thursday night after the hijacked DC-8 landed at Havana's Jose Marti Airport, but the return of the passengers and crew was delayed by a flat tire.

No injuries were reported in the hijacking, the third time this year that Capitol Flight 236 from San Juan, Puerto Rico, to Miami was diverted to Cuba. It was the ninth successful air piracy since May 1.

Two other attempts to divert jets to Cuba — including one on Tuesday — failed when passengers overpowered the air pirates.

A passenger, Jeff Hite, 26, of Atlantic Beach, Fla., described the hijacker as "very drunk."

"He had a lighter. That was his trick," Hite said after returning to Miami. "We saw him flicking the lighter."

After the plane landed in Cuba, the man "slipped and he poured gas on himself" and then was subdued and tied up by passengers, he said. A Boeing 707 jet chartered by the airline to carry spare tires to Havana landed at Miami International Airport at 5:18 EDT with 128 people aboard, including a seven-member crew that was not on the hijacked jet.

Twelve minutes later, the Capitol jet, its tires replaced, touched down with 125 passengers and the original crew of 10. It had taken about a half-hour to carry out the repair and Cuban authorities were cooperative, said Bill Blaughter, pilot of the chartered plane. "Everyone was easygoing and very helpful," he said.

The total of 263 people on board the hijacked jet — plus one hijacker — was higher than previously reported. Airline spokesman Robin Matell said the discrepancy was due to undercounting of infants.

The captain radioed a control center at 7:05 p.m. Thursday saying a passenger with a pistol was demanding to go to Cuba, said Federal Aviation Administration spokesman Dennis Feldman in Washington.

The jetliner arrived safely in Havana at 8:42 p.m. although a tire went flat upon landing, said FAA spokesman Jack Barker in Atlanta.

Entrepreneur has corner on market

DALLAS (AP) — In the quiet of the afternoon, his hands still dirty from pulling weeds in the back alley, Joe Williams looks at his empire. He walks inside Joe's Barber Shop, his first business, which opened in 1969. A little black-and-white television flickers soundlessly in the corner, and William McKinley, who now runs the shop, wipes a bead of sweat off his cheek and says, "Lot of flies in here today, Joe."

Next door is Joe's Washateria, and around the corner is Joe's Beer and Wine. Right beside that is Joe's Liquor. In the back of Joe's Liquor, behind the chicken wire that Joe put up to keep people from leaning over the counter and stealing things, is Joe's Bail Bonds, and at the other end of the small strip of stores is Joe's Barbeque, where the kids like to hang out.

Joe's Grocery Store used to be there, but he closed it, along with Joe's Chicken and Joe's Cafe. In the parking lot is a big yellow truck and tractor, the machinery that makes up Joe's Construction. Across the street is a little house where Joe one day hopes to set up his latest venture, Joe's Insurance.

It is one of the more complete business monopolies in Dallas, servicing a closely knit, predominantly black neighborhood just east of Love Field and only a few blocks from two of the richest white areas in the city — University Park, to the east, and the million-dollar homes of Bluffview, just to the north.

Williams, 44, has made his stand in what is called the old Elm Thicket neighborhood, one of the few black areas in North Dallas. Beginning in the 1930s, blacks moved into a small cluster of frame houses in the area. During the mid-'60s, when a black minister, the Rev. T.L. Young, bought one of the brick homes a couple of blocks east of the black section, others gradually followed.

Now, the middle-class neighborhood, where real estate agents say an average two-bedroom home sells for about $65,000, extends eastward. Among the prominent residents are state Rep. Sam Hudson, former state Rep. Zan Holmes, Terminal Cab Co. owner Ezell Randall, the Rev. I.B. Loud of St. Paul United Methodist Church and artist Willard Watson. Watson, known as "The Texas Kid," has put so many unusual animal sculptures in his front yard that the street is often blocked with people who have stopped their cars to gawk.

Significantly, one of the largest houses in the neighborhood has just been constructed by Williams. It has five bedrooms, 20-foot ceilings, and cost $500,000 to build. For Williams, married and the father of four daughters, a burly but soft-spoken man who wears plain, inexpensive work clothes and drives a beat-up 1973 red Oldsmobile, the house is the only sign that he has become wealthy from his storefront shops.

"My banker said to me one day, 'Joe, why are you spending so much money on that house?' And I said to her, 'Because I want a big house like white people.' She said most white people never get close to a house like that, and the sad thing is I've spent so much money on it that now I'm more or less broke."

But Williams never stops trying, in his words, "to figure out ways to make some money." After waking up at 5 a.m. to clean his stores ("I think it's still my duty to be the janitor"), he does construction or landscaping work besides overseeing the businesses on the dilapidated, concrete-wall shopping strip. Throughout the night, he takes calls placed to Joe's Bail Bonds from people wanting out of jail. He is always hustling.

"He never takes the time to act big," says Robert White, who frequents Williams'

Says real estate agent Arnold Blair, whose family started one of the first black real estate companies in Dallas, "Joe is one of your basic entrepreneurs. He just sort of popped up as a small businessman, and he went from one business to the next. Everything he starts he sticks his name to, and it seems to go along."

After graduating from Prairie View A&M University, Williams taught high school math for two years, then came to Dallas. When he realized he could make more money cutting hair than working as a machinist at the LTV Corp., he moved to Elm Thicket and opened Joe's Barber Shop. Thus began what Williams now calls "the Joe stores."

Williams recently took his insurance test "because there are a lot of people around here who need automobile insurance." Williams even wanted to start a Joe's Day Care Center, "because all these kids are running around the neighborhood with their hair uncombed and nothing to do, waiting for their parents to get home from work."

Setting on sure things is why bookies ride Caddies and bettors walk home from the track.

Ann Landers
Queasiness in class

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 13 years old and have a big problem. I have a very weak stomach. Whenever we talk about the body in science class, I get kind of sick. Sometimes I become nauseated. Other times I just get weak and dizzy. Once I fainted.

Pretty soon we will be talking about the spinal cord and all the nerves and blood vessels, and I know I am going to drop right to the floor. Worse yet, we will have biology soon and I will have to cut up a frog. That will flip me out for sure.

Please tell me how to handle these problems. Nobody else in class seems to be bothered. In fact, they look at me like I am some kind of nut. Please help me, Ann.—I Am Embarrassed In Binghampton, N.Y.

once from the dog and once from the echo. The hospital authorities never did one thing about it, although I'm sure it must have annoyed many patients.

What we need, Ann, is a consensus — knowledge that other people feel as we do. If individuals who have dog problems would go door-to-door with a petition, they'd be surprised at how eagerly their neighbors would sign it.

So please tell your readers they are not being selfish or cold-hearted when they decide to take legal steps to make dog owners keep their pets quiet. They are performing a service to their neighborhood and helping to reverse the notorious phenomenon of urban flight by making the suburbs a more pleasant place to live.—Want Peace And Quiet Like Everyone Else

DEAR BING: Talk to your teacher about counseling. You can and will get over your queasiness, but it will take some time. It might help you to know that some medical school students faint when they have to work on a cadaver for the first time. They laugh about it later. And you'll get over your queasiness, too.

DEAR E.E.: I'm with you. I hope your letter succeeds in getting people to move on this.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have concluded that almost everyone is annoyed by barking dogs, but few people realize that everyone else is as annoyed as they are.

In the past you have told readers to get tough with the owners. I wonder how many do?

I lived for one year across the street from a nine-story hospital. Next door to me was a huge dog that barked his head off three hours a day. I heard every bark twice —

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am curious about the so-called suntan pills I see advertised in tabloid newspapers. I suspect the pills contain some coloring agent, but my friend says they stimulate the body's production of melanin.

Are these pills safe to take?—Sulphur Springs, Tex.

DEAR TEX.: According to Dr. Robert Stolar, my dermatologist-consultant in Washington, D.C., the pills do not stimulate the body's production of melanin. (Melanin is the dark pigment that is produced when the sun hits the skin.)

The pills make the skin much more sensitive to the sun's rays. They are not dangerous to take if you stay in the sun no more than 10 minutes. Should you stretch it to 30 minutes or more, you could get a severe burn.

Twenty-six birds fall to bat, ball of Yankee star

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Dave Winfield disposed of 25 Blue Jays with his bat and one seagull with a baseball.

The New York Yankees, who seem to get involved in one bizarre incident after another these days, had one for the birds — Thursday night.

Winfield drove in two runs with a single and double as the Yankees ended a four-game losing streak with a 3-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays. But the hit everyone will remember was a fowl ball.

As the Blue Jays were coming to bat in the bottom of the fifth, Winfield attempted to throw a warmup ball off the field. Instead, it struck and killed a low-flying seagull.

After the game, the Yankee outfielder was taken to a police station, where he posted a $500 bond and was released in his own recognizance and ordered to appear in Provincial Court on Aug. 12. The maximum penalty for cruelty to animals in Canada is a $500 fine and/or six months in prison.

"All I can say is that it is quite an unfortunate incident because one of the fowls in Canada is now no longer with us," Winfield said. "I had finished playing catch with (left fielder) Don Baylor and turned and whipped the ball to the batboy and the seagull happened to be there and caught it in the neck. It's unfortunate, but it was an accident. It wasn't intentional. From then on, the fans were on my case and they threw things at me and tried to hit me."

Yankee Manager Billy Martin, able to smile for the first time in the series, quipped, "It's the first time he's hit the cutoff man all year."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Birds of Baltimore — alias the Orioles — edged the Cleveland Indians 4-3 in 10 innings, the Chicago White Sox downed the Detroit Tigers 4-2, the Kansas City Royals trimmed the Milwaukee Brewers 6-2, the Texas Rangers ended an eight-game losing streak with a 6-1 victory over the Boston Red Sox, the Seattle Mariners trounced the California Angels 11-5 and the Minnesota Twins nipped the Oakland A's 4-3.

While Winfield was getting the birdie — and the bird from Toronto fans — Shane Rawley scattered seven hits in his third consecutive complete-game victory over Toronto. Dave Stieb lost for the sixth time in his last seven decisions.

"We had to stem the tide basically," Winfield said of the Yankees' skid to fifth place in the AL East. "They (Toronto) have been playing and it's been like trying to hold water back with your hands. I'm hitting the ball well now. It doesn't matter who's throwing or what they're throwing if they throw it where I can hit it. We ran into a buzzsaw in Chicago (last weekend), and it continued in Toronto."

White Sox 4, Indians 3
At Cleveland, Eddie Murray doubled home the winning run in the 10th inning, making Scott McGregor the first 14-game winner in the AL, although Texas' Rick Honeycutt matched him shortly thereafter. McGregor, 14-4, held the Indians to seven hits in nine innings for his sixth straight victory. Dan Ford led off the 10th against reliever Bud Anderson with a single and, after Cal Ripken struck out, Murray drove a run-scoring double to right field. Jim Essian homered for Cleveland while Gary Roenicke and Rick Dempsey connected for Baltimore.

White Sox 4, Tigers 2
At Chicago, Richard Dotson scattered six hits in eight innings and Julio Cruz's RBI double highlighted a four-run sixth for the White Sox. Doug Bair relieved Juan Berenguer to start the sixth and walked Vance Law with one out and gave up a double to Scott Fletcher. Law scored on a passed ball by Lance Parrish and Fletcher scored the go-ahead run on Cruz's double. Rudy Law followed with a triple and Carlton Fisk beat out an infield single to score. Law, Kirk Gibson and Larry Herndon homered for Detroit.

Royals 6, Brewers 2
At Milwaukee, Kansas City's Bud Black pitched a five-hitter for his first complete game in the majors and Pat Sheridan capped a four-run first inning with an RBI triple. The Royals quickly jumped on loser Don Sutton when U.L. Washington singled, stole second and scored on a single by George Brett. One out later, Willie Aikens lined an RBI double before Sheridan tripled and scored on a throwing error by shortstop Ed Romero. The Royals built their lead to 6-1 with two sixth-inning runs on a single by Sheridan and Amos Otis' homer.

Rangers 6, Red Sox 1
At Arlington, Honeycutt scattered 11 hits in eight innings, George Wright hit a two-run homer and Jim Sundberg drove in three runs as the Rangers won for the first time in nine games. Wright followed Buddy Bell's two-out single in the third inning with his 12th home run to make it 3-0 and Sundberg rapped a two-run single in the fifth.

Mariners 11, Angels 5
At Seattle, Tony Bernazard's two-run homer triggered a seven-run sixth inning as Seattle erased a 5-0 deficit. Ricky Steiner blanked the Mariners on one hit until the sixth, when Manny Castillo led off with a single and one out later Bernazard homered. The Mariners used three errors, a walk and four singles — including a two-run hit by Steve Henderson and Castillo's second hit of the inning — to score five more runs.

Twins 4, A's 3
At Minneapolis, Ron Washington's pinch single in the eighth inning drove in the winning run following singles by Gary Gaetti and pinch-hitter Dave Engle off Oakland reliever Tom Burgmeier. Tom Brunansky's two-run single in the sixth had given the Twins a 3-1 lead. But the A's tied it in the eighth on Mike Davis triple, a double by Carney Lansford and Rickey Henderson's single.

Braves roll 8-1

Change in order aids Murphy

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Atlanta's Dale Murphy was dropped from No. 4 to No. 6 in the batting order — but it didn't make him any less dangerous.

In a slump lately, Murphy suggested a personal demotion in the batting order to Manager Joe Torre. The end result was Murphy's 23rd home run and an 8-1 victory for the Atlanta Braves Thursday night.

"I told him (Torre) the other day, 'If you want to move me, go ahead,'" said Murphy, who was hitting .187 in his last 67 at-bats. "I'm sure he had already thought of it, and he said, 'Well, don't worry if I decide to.' So I wasn't suprised."

Murphy, who tied Montreal's Andre Dawson and Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt for the National League lead in homers with his two-run shot against the Giants, said he doesn't feel any different hitting lower in the order, and thinks it may help the team.

"If it's a psychological thing for me that's gonna help, that's fine," he said. "Maybe it has relaxed me."

Asked if his pride was hurt, he said: "Not on this team."

In other National League action, Montreal edged New York 2-1; San Diego turned back Houston 4-2; Philadelphia tripped Pittsburgh 5-1; Chicago trimmed St. Louis 9-6 and Cincinnati nipped Los Angeles 4-3 in 11 innings.

Murphy's homer came in the ninth and capped Atlanta's scoring. Mike Jorgensen also had a two-run double for the Braves.

Phil Niekro, 7-6, scattered eight hits in seven innings and got relief help from Steve Bedrosian as Atlanta won its third game in the four-game series. Fred Breining, 6-9, was the loser.

Expos 2, Mets 1
In New York, Charlie Lea allowed four hits over eight innings and Bryan Little singled home the winning run in the fourth to pace Montreal over the Mets.

Lea, 8-8, struck out two and didn't walk a batter. One of the hits he yielded was Danny Heep's fourth pinch-homer this season and sixth overall leading off the seventh. Jeff Reardon pitched the ninth inning for his 16th save, giving up only a leadoff single to Hubie Brooks.

After taking a 1-0 lead in the third inning on Mike Stenhouse's RBI single, the Expos scored their winning run in the fourth on a double by Gary Carter and singles by Tim Wallach and Little.

"No club in the division has been able to put anything together yet," said Montreal Manager Bill Virdon. "Our pitching has been good, but I can't say the same about the offense. Except for a few isolated stretches we haven't come through. It's more a matter of scoring runs than getting hits."

Padres 4, Astros 2
In San Diego, Luis Salazar's three-run homer in the sixth inning helped Dave Dravecky gain his elusive 13th victory as the Padres defeated the Astros. Dravecky, 13-8, lasted 7 1/3 innings before getting relief help from Gary Lucas, who finished up for his 11th save.

Dravecky had made five starts since winning his 12th game on July 3, and was 0-3 with a 7.78 earned run average during that stretch.

"You tend to think about it (the slump) a little too much, and maybe that's why I had a shaky start today," said Dravecky, who allowed three hits and a walk in the first inning but escaped without yielding a run when two Astros were caught stealing. "After the first, I concentrated on taking every pitch and every inning one at a time."

Phillies 5, Pirates 1
In Pittsburgh, Joe Morgan hit a three-run homer and Joe Lefebvre and Ozzie Virgil added solo shots as Philadelphia cooled off the Pirates.

Charlie Hudson, 6-3, gained his fifth consecutive victory despite giving up nine hits before being lifted with two out in the seventh. Al Holland worked the final 2 1/3 innings for his 12th save.

Hudson, a rookie brought up from the minor leagues on May 31, worked out of jams in the second, third and fourth innings as the Eastern Division-leading Pirates lost for just the eighth time in 30 games since the All-Star break.

Cubs 9, Cardinals 6
In St. Louis, Jody Davis and Ron Cey each hit two-run homers in the first inning and the Chicago Cubs held on to beat the Cardinals.

The triumph completed a three-game sweep for the Cubs over the defending World Champions. Chicago is 7-2 against St. Louis this season after winning only six of 18 last year.

With the help of the homers by Davis and Cey, Steve Trout, 9-9, was spotted an early 6-0 lead after two innings. But it took four Chicago pitchers to keep the Cardinals at bay, including Lee Smith, who got his 17th save.

Reds 4, Dodgers 3
In Los Angeles, Ron Oester slugged a leadoff homer in the 11th inning to boost Cincinnati over the Dodgers. The victory gave the Reds a split in the four-game series in Los Angeles and dropped the Dodgers 6 1/2 games behind Atlanta in the National League West.

Ben Hayes, 3-2, the fourth Cincinnati pitcher, earned the win. Tom Niedenfuer suffered his first loss in six decisions after giving up Oester's eighth homer of the season.

Oester's homer broke a tie that existed from the seventh inning, when the Dodgers' Bill Russell made it 3-3 with a two-run single.

Leads PGA after one round

Sutton shoots for major crown

By KEN PETERS AP Sports Writer

PACIFIC PALISADES, Calif. (AP) — Hal Sutton, who seems destined for golfing greatness, figures time is running out for him to win a major tournament — this year.

Sutton, a strapping 25-year-old in just his second year on the men's golf tour, fired a 6-under-par 65 Thursday to take the first-round lead in the final major tournament of 1983, the PGA Championship.

"I have two goals for this year, to finish in the top five on the money list and to win a major," he said after his sparkling round at Riviera Country Club gave him a one-stroke lead over Scott Simpson and club pro Buddy Whitten.

"I have three rounds left to get the major."

Sutton, who set a rookie earnings mark on the tour last year ($237,434), also is well on his way to realizing his other goal. He currently is atop the 1983 earnings list at $297,684.

Although a relative newcomer to the tour, Sutton has learned to handle disappointment, too, and is coming off the most frustrating tournament of his brief tour career. In his last previous outing, the Anaheim Busch Classic, his game fell apart after he led by six strokes.

"I worked as hard as I ever have before this tournament," said Sutton, a 6-foot-1, 180-pounder from Shreveport, La. "I'm just trying to chalk up the ... collapse to experience."

A throng of golfers were within close striking distance of Sutton heading into today's second round of the 72-hole tournament at the 6,946-yard, par-71 Riviera layout.

John Fought, Bruce Lietzke and Danny Edwards were two strokes off the pace with opening 67s. A group of five — Ben Crenshaw, Keith Fergus, Jay Haas, Jim Thorpe and Pat McGowan — were tied at 68.

PGA defending champion Ray Floyd carded an opening 69 to join a group of seven, including Calvin Peete, at 2-under-par.

Tom Watson, winner of every major title but the PGA Championship and one of the favorites in the tournament, struggled to a 75 with a round that included a pair of 7s.

Masters champion Seve Ballesteros matched par for the first round, U.S. Open winner Larry Nelson finished at 72, and Jack Nicklaus, who has won the PGA Championship five times, had a double bogey on No. 18 for a 73.

Among the surprises on the first day of the $600,000 tournament, which carries a $100,000 winner's prize, was the play of Whitten.

A 36-year-old teaching pro at Grand Rapids, Mich., and a former Army medic in Vietnam, Whitten was among the early starters and had the lead in the clubhouse for a brief period.

"I've only been playing about twice a week at the club," he said after his round. "I'm extremely happy with my round, no matter what any of the later finishers do."

Soccer player denies charges

DALLAS (AP) — Lauriber to Ignacio, taking the stand in his trial on drug smuggling charges, told jurors he made trips to Brazil to make a profit selling American goods and to visit his parents — not to smuggle cocaine.

The former soccer player, who is charged with conspiring to smuggle Brazilian cocaine to Dallas, told jurors Thursday during three hours of testimony that he had never imported cocaine to the United States.

"Cocaine is bad stuff," Ignacio said when he took the stand on the third day of the trial.

Ignacio's case is the first to come to trial in connection with an alleged drug conspiracy ring involving seven people, including Ignacio, who are charged in the case. Five have pleaded guilty and one remains at large in Brazil.

Ignacio's attorneys have subpoenaed Dallas Cowboys football players Tony Hill and Harvey Martin, who are at the Cowboy's training camp in Thousand Oaks, Calif. Both players have denied any connection with cocaine, and their lawyers have asked U.S. District Judge Robert W. Porter to quash the subpoenas.

But Porter has delayed ruling on enforcing the subpoenas, saying he first wanted to see if government witnesses implicated the players.

Ignacio, 39, told jurors that he frequently traveled to Brazil, his country, to sell cameras, jewelry and television sets for a profit. He said he was once there for his parents' wedding anniversary and for a South American festival.

When Ignacio's attorney, William McGarvey, asked him if he had ever sold cocaine in the United States, Ignacio firmly replied, "No sir, I didn't."

Prosecutors rested their case Thursday morning after testimony from Terry Baldwin, a U.S. Drug Enforcement Agency agent.

Baldwin indirectly testified that defense witness Waldier Martins told him he had sold cocaine to Hill, but he added that he never questioned Hill about the alleged transaction.

Hill's name was not mentioned in open court, and Baldwin's testimony was based on an investigative report in which another man implicated in the case, Emilio Rafael Fares, said he had seen Hill buy cocaine from Martins and Ignacio.

McGarvey handed Baldwin a copy of the report and asked whether Baldwin had confirmed that cocaine had been sold to the individual named in the report, who was Hill.

Baldwin testified that he questioned Martins about the alleged sale and considered the allegation confirmed.

The first paragraph of Baldwin's report states that Fares was present "in about June 1982 at the home of Dallas Cowboys professional player Tony Hill when Hill purchased two grams of cocaine from Waldier Martins ... Fares observed the purchase of two grams of cocaine by Hill for $200 cash from Martins," the Dallas Times Herald reported.

The report has not been offered into evidence. It quoted Fares as saying Hill had made other cocaine purchases from Martins and paid him with a personal check, the Times Herald said.

Another paragraph of the report said Fares, who also was indicted in the case and pleaded guilty to cocaine possession, told Baldwin he was present in December 1981 when Ignacio sold an unspecified amount of cocaine to Hill, the newspaper reported.

Murback, Fares and Martins originally were indicted in the case and had testified against Ignacio in the trial. In plea bargains with prosecutors, the three were allowed to plead guilty to lesser charges in exchange for their testimony and cooperation in the investigation.

On Wednesday, when McGarvey attempted asking Martins about alleged sales to Hill, Porter interjected, saying the question was "irrelevant."

McGarvey subpoenaed Hill and defensive end Martin on July 6 to refute anticipated government testimony that the players either knew Ignacio was involved in smuggling or had bought cocaine from him.

Two straight triumphs

Colts down Oilers

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The Baltimore Colts are on a roll. They defeated the world champion Washington Redskins in a scrimmage last week and now they have earned a 15-0 shutout victory over the Houston Oilers in the National Football League exhibition opener for both teams.

The leaders of Thursday night's charge were a couple of players who weren't around to suffer the indignities of last season's laughable 0-8-1 record — quarterback Mark Herrmann and rookie linebacker Vernon Maxwell.

Herrmann came on in the third quarter to complete six of seven passes for 114 yards and help the Colts to their first victory since a 26-17 victory over Chicago in the final exhibition game of the 1982 season.

The Colts had not won again until Thursday night.

"I feel I can make a contribution to this team," said Herrmann, who came to the Colts as part of a trade that sent first-round draft choice John Elway to Denver. "I feel we are off in the right direction."

"I hope this thing will snowball. I was impressed with the Colts. I know they took a lot of guff last year but we have talent. I don't know what was missing last year but once you win, you can get something going."

Maxwell, a second round draft choice from Arizona State, made his pro debut by sacking Oiler quarterbacks three times for 26 yards in losses. The Colts decked the Oilers eight times for 87 yards in losses.

Houston suffered 39 sacks in nine games last season.

"I felt confident that I could compete against the Oilers," said Maxwell, a former Arizona State star said. "At times, I just had the right defensive called. I was lining up too close to the tackle and when I moved out away from the tackle was when I got all three of my sacks."

Baltimore took a 3-0 lead at the half on Dan Miller's 29-yard field goal. They added a safety on Oiler quarterback Oliver Luck's fumble out of the end zone and Johnnie Wright's 4-yard run in the third quarter and a 41-yard field goal by Brian Happell in the fourth period.

Houston, which posted a 1-8 record last season, reached the Baltimore 25 in the second quarter, but Florian Kempf missed a 42-yard field goal attempt. It was Houston's best chance at a score of any kind.

"I was disappointed, obviously, with the offense effort," Oiler Coach Ed Biles said. "We'll learn, evaluate and go on. We were sluggish. We just didn't adjust as well as we will later on down the line. Baltimore is better defensively now than we are offensively."

Rookie first-round draft choice Bruce Matthews, tasting his first pro competition, has plenty to learn. He heard unfamiliar boos from fans impatient for a return to the years when the Oilers went to the playoffs three consecutive years.

"Booting is a new thing to me," Matthews said. "It kind of made me mad. But then you have to perform to get the cheers."

Honorary Mayor

Guy Lawrence presents the honorary mayor's award to Mrs. Fannie Fudd at the annual Westway Community reunion held Sunday in the Westway Community Building.

Over 80 people attend reunion

Mrs. Lizzie Wilson and Mrs. Fannie Rudd registered 86 residents and former residents at the Westway Reunion held Sunday at the Westway Community Building. Now an annual event, the reunions were started in 1959 when Mr. and Mrs. Merlin Kaul celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary.

Joe Landers, a present Westway resident, gave the blessing for a bounteous carry-in dinner.

Homer Rudd, president, called the meeting to order and the Rudd family, consisting of Elizabeth, Rebecca and Wesley along with Steve Monyhan, opened the program with several instrumental numbers. Elizabeth and Rebecca, students at Texas Tech, are talented violinists, Wesley plays cello and Steve plays guitar.

Leta Kaul gave the historian's report. Listed as this year's high school graduates were Rhonda Batenhorst, Patricia Bartles, Michelle DeHart, Joseph Diller, Daria Duggan, Lesly Wade Hamby, James Ed Kaul, Raymond Martinez, Missy Merritt, Kathy Morrison, Jim Owen Zetsche.

Also, Kollen McCathern, Marilyn Kay and Michelle Osborn, Jo Ann Meiwes, Lorian Schwertner, Barbara Mae Lucero, Sam Drake of Cloudcroft, N.M., and Jeanine Cassels of Guymon, Okla.

List in the Navy is Robert B. Jackson, son of Robert Jackson of Amarillo and Sylvia of Hereford and grandson of Jerry and Clinton Jackson.

There were 15 babies, including the twin sons of the Chris Coopers, Phoenix, Ariz., grandsons of Melba Gay (Lawrence) and Benny Cooper of Midland and great-grandsons of Bessie and Guy Lawrence.

There were 14 weddings and anniversaries listed including Cecil and Eunice Boyer, 40 years; Lawrence and Faye Ward, 25 years; and Guy and Bessie Lawrence, 50 years.

Feature stories included those of Jewell Hargrave, Rhonda Batenhorst, Carla West, Dixie West, Leta Kaul, Terri Johnson Long, Johnnie Turrentine, Gladys Flood, Anna Conklin, and Nancy Templeton and Sherri Templeton of Junction.

A scripture reading, prayer and moment of silent honored those who had passed away during the year. These included Melvin Joe Burges, Albert Lewis Lamb, Bob M. Osburn, Arkansas City, Kan., Floyd A. Tucker, Earl Wayne Head.

Also, Amanda Baca, Ada Houser, Herman Conley McCutchen, Lizzie Melvina "Crickett" Edmonson, Jeanine Cassels, Arvell L. "Bud" Hopson, Hobart, Okla., and N.P. Sykes, Portales, N.M.

Wilma Nell Pierce read a poem which was written especially for Ada Houser by Mildred May of Friona. It was entitled "Portrait of Ada Houser." She also gave a review from Voice magazine distributed by the Church of Christ Bible Chair of New Mexico University at Portales of which her father, Mr. Sykes, was a founder.

Many memorial contributions were sent for a scholarship fund to the Bible Chair in his name. He was the father of 11 children, 39 grandchildren, 43 great-grandchildren, and a great-great-grandchild. He built the original house where Joan Jesko and her family now live west of the Westway Store.

Paul Mattensen and his sister, Bonnie Musolf, of Clinton, Okla., were recognized for coming the farthest distance, along with Edna and Edwin Skypala of Temple and Gloria and David Sowell of San Angelo.

Joe Landers, 82, was the oldest man present and Irene Owens, 85, the oldest woman. Little Casey Marie Willingham, daughter of Cheryl (Rudd) and Steve Willingham of Amarillo was the youngest.

The descendants of J.B. Little were the largest family present. They include Fannie Rudd; Homer and June Rudd, their children, Rebecca, Colleen, Elizabeth,

E.H. LITTLE
Westway President

Vaavia, and Wesley of Hereford; Marcia and E.H. Little of Texline; Patricia Quillen of Dalhart; Harold and Alice Rudd, their children, Kit and son, Joshua; Lynn Rudd Stengel; Steve and Cheryl (Rudd) Willingham, Kellie and Casey; and Trace Thomas, all of Amarillo.

Guy Lawrence presented the honorary mayor's award to Mrs. Fannie Rudd. New officers elected for 1984 include E.H. Little of Texline, president; Jim Thomas, vice-president; and Marjorie Thomas, secretary-treasurer.

The meeting closed with the singing of a number of songs familiar to young and old alike under the direction of June Rudd.

There are three capitals of the Republic of South Africa: Cape Town for legislative affairs; Pretoria for administrative affairs, and Bloemfontein for judicial affairs. Johannesburg is the country's largest city, with a population of 654,232, according to Rand McNally's "International Atlas."

The Newspaper BIBLE

MY, WHAT A DIFFERENCE!
When Adam sinned, sin entered the entire human race. His sin spread death throughout all the world, so everything began to grow old and die, for all sinned. We know that it was Adam's sin that caused this because although, of course, people were sinning from the time of Adam until Moses, God did not in those days judge them guilty of death for breaking His laws--because He had not yet given His laws to them, nor told them what He wanted them to do.
So when their bodies died it was not for their own sins since they themselves had never disobeyed God's special law against eating the forbidden fruit, as Adam had.

What a contrast between Adam and Christ who was yet to come! And what a difference between man's sin and God's forgiveness! For this one man, Adam, brought death to many through his sin. But this one man, Jesus Christ, brought forgiveness to many through God's mercy. Adam's one sin brought the penalty of death to many, while Christ freely takes away many sins and gives glorious life instead. The sin of this one man, Adam, caused death to be king over all, but all who will take God's gift of forgiveness and acquittal are kings of life because of this one man, Jesus Christ.

Yes, Adam's sin brought punishment to all, but Christ's righteousness makes men right with God, so that they can live. Adam caused many to be sinners because he disobeyed God, and Christ caused many to be made acceptable to God because He obeyed.

The Ten Commandments were given so that all could see the extent of their failure to obey God's laws. But the more we see our sinfulness, the more we see God's abounding grace forgiving us. Before, sin ruled over all men and brought them to death, but now God's kindness rules instead, giving us right standing with God and resulting in eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

Mattox surprises reporters, sees need for coverage

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox told news reporters he had come to the Travis County courthouse merely to talk to them, but at first the Capitol press corps did not believe him.
"I just came to see you all," a smiling Mattox told about a dozen reporters late Thursday afternoon.
A few feet away, behind closed doors, a grand jury investigating the attorney general's affairs was in the process of interviewing two of his top assistants and his secretary.
For the last two weeks, grand jurors had been investigating Mattox' 1982 campaign finance reports and an allegation that he made a threat against a Houston law firm.
Mattox called the probe a "charade." He said the grand jurors had his bank records and those of his sister and "all my campaign accounts."
"I've got absolutely nothing to hide. I'm not worried about it," Mattox said. "I haven't done anything wrong."
Two lawyers from the attorney general's staff — Dave Richards and Tom Green — and Mattox' secretary

Patricia Manly testified during the grand jury's afternoon session, which ended shortly before 9 p.m.
Later, District Attorney Ronnie Earle said the investigation was "by no means" complete. "We have ways to go," he said.
Earle said it was probable that the grand jury would "invite" Mattox to testify at some future session.
But when Mattox stepped off the third floor elevator at the courthouse, news reporters, assuming he had come to testify, repeatedly asked what he was doing in the building. Five times he said he had come to see the press corps.

"That sounds like a very flippant answer. It doesn't sound like a serious answer," one reporter said.
"I'm telling you exactly the case. I came to see y'all," Mattox insisted.
Later he said, "How else could a fellow get $100,000 worth of free press coverage unless he goes where the press is?"
The investigation into his affairs was held up a week ago when the attorney general refused to turn over records sought by the grand jurors. Under threat of arrest, he agreed to surrender his office files to a court for safekeeping.

Mattox has since agreed to let prosecutors look through the files on the condition that Earle would show the grand jury only those documents pertinent to the investigation. Mattox' legal counsel Arthur Mitchell said if there were any disagreement as to which documents were pertinent, the attorney general would go back to court and let a judge settle the matter.

Earle said Thursday his staff was still going through the records, and that it would take "a few more days." Grand jurors have not seen any of the records.

Last week's subpoenas for Mattox' records and those of his pilot, secretary and others in his office has led to speculation that grand jurors are expanding their investigation into the attorney general's relationship with South Texas oilman-rancher Clinton Manges.

Manges, a $50,000 contributor to Mattox' 1982 campaign, and the attorney general are on the same side in a $1.7 billion lawsuit Manges filed last year against Mobil Oil Corp. over disputed leases on ranchland Manges owns in Webb and Duval counties.

The state joined Manges in the suit because it owns the mineral rights to a portion of the land.

Mattox has said his grand jury troubles were started by lawyers representing Mobil who Mattox said leaked unfavorable information about him to the press in an effort to pressure the attorney general to be more cooperative in the lawsuit.

"This whole charade is an effort by Mobil Oil to try this case in three presses, and to allow Mobil Oil to force me out of this case," Mattox told reporters Thursday.

He repeated his call for a boycott of Mobil products.

"People who would like to assist the attorney general in bringing a conclusion to this case could assist us by putting pressure on Mobil Oil perhaps by not consuming their products," he said. "They could also write the company and they would talk to dealers."

POLLY'S POINTERS
Polly Fisher
Bug out bugs!

DEAR POLLY — I have a problem with bugs in my home-grown broccoli. It's too late to kill them in the garden (I don't like strong sprays on my food), but how can I get rid of them before cooking it. I certainly don't want to serve boiled bugs with the broccoli! — PAUL

DEAR PAUL — Bugs can be a problem even in store-bought fresh broccoli, cauliflower and brussels sprouts. You can get rid of the critters easily by soaking the raw vegetables in salted water (one tablespoon salt to one quart water) for 10 to 20 minutes. After the salt treatment, thoroughly rinse the vegetables in clear fresh water, then proceed with your favorite culinary technique. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I live in an apartment where space is very limited. I keep my luggage under the bed, storing many items inside the suitcases. To provide easy access and also to keep from scratching the sides and bottoms of the luggage. I put an old clean throw-rug underneath. This way everything can be slid out easily. — MRS. C.C.P.

DEAR POLLY — Stretch your magazine subscriptions by trading with your friends and neighbors. Attach a sheet of paper to the magazine cover and put everyone's name on this sheet. As each friend or neighbor reads the magazine, they in turn give it to the next name on the list. If the subscriber wants the magazine back, this can be noted on the sheet. If not, the last reader can drop the magazine off at a hospital or nursing home. — MRS. V.E.

DEAR MRS. V.E. — I think this is a capital money-saver and a marvelous way to share your interests along with the magazines. Your Pointer of the Week earns you an autographed copy of Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Hints for Making Everything Last Longer. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's an easy way to moisturize your skin after a day in the sun. While you're bathing, put a little oil on your soapy washcloth. You'll moisturize while you wash. — MARY

LET FAITH BE YOUR GUIDEPOST AT THE CROSSROADS

Have you come to a fork in the road? Are you confronted with a major decision which you must make and make wisely, in order to travel the road of greater benefit to yourself and your loved ones? Each of us must at some time decide whether to move, to change jobs, to begin a new life in a different area, or some such question of far-reaching consequences. As others before you have done, let your faith in God give you the wisdom, strength and resolution to make the correct choice. Beginning this Sunday, go to your Church and trust Him to point your footsteps in the right direction for all concerned.

Have you come to the Red Sea place in your life. Where, in spite of all you can do, There is no way out, there is no way back, There is no other way but through?
— Annie Johnson Flint

"But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering, for he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed."
— James 1:6
