this drought."

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - West Texas ranchers and farmers, many of whom are liquidating their herds because of a sweltering drought unparalleled since the 1950s, are praying for rain and pleading for federal assistance.

While the appeals for percipitation have been directed toward the clouds, the pleas for federal disaster relief have been targeted at U.S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block.

"If Secretary Block is willing to act now, he can prevent the total devastation of the ranching industry in that area," Texas Secretary of Agriculture Jim Hightower said Wednesday at a Washington news conference.

Hightower, armed with a bag of parched West Texas soil, said Block's inaction has forced many ranchers to liquidate their herds.

"Timely action could have prevented" such liquidations, Hightower said.

"I'm sure it's difficult for him (Block) to consider the

2,000 miles away, so we've come here to bring the matter to his attention once again," Hightower said. "We've even brought a need of our ranchers when drews, Irion and Dawson. Officials said 24 of the 27 counties applied for federal drought relief through the governor's office. Counties not seeking federal aid were Irion. Glasscock and Crockett.

McKenzie challenged Block to come to Fort Stockton "and make a living as a rancher. If he can live for a week on $50 worth of food stamps, let him come here and see the devastation we have." He said that ranchers who depend solely on rain for moisture "are hurting."

McKenzie said the drought of the 1950s lasted seven years, but the most recent dry spell has been building for about three years and its intensity in some locations is so bad that there has been

Representatives from King's Manor Methodist Home Inc., which operates on 11 acres bordering the city's park land, were also at the commission gathering. They contended the two acres represented the only property on which their organization could feasibly expand.

Following the commission's 3-2 (later changed to 3-1-1 with Fisher "no" and Emory Brownlow abstaining) vote, Earnest Langley said it was "the worst decision" made by the commission during his 29 years as city attorney. Dudley Bayne, city manager, told commissioners, "I think you have ripped King's Manor up the wall."

Less than a week later, on July 23, a King's Manor board meeting produced a letter requesting the commission reconsider its decision. The main argument of the correspondence was King's Manor had no alternate property for possible expansion.

In the letter, King's Manor offered to contribute as much as $10,000 to purchase a different site for the senior citizens, a deal which an HSC spokesman said his group wanted no part of. The spokesman also said King's Manor officials had declined an HSC request to negotiate a settlement without aid from the city com-

Wednesday's announcement was well received by Joyce Lyons, administrator of King's Manor. "I was pleased that they realized that that land is needed by King's Manor," she said. "We were hoping that they were going to do this."

Lyons said she did not know for sure whether King's Manor ever asked HSC to withdraw its request for a lease. "I don't believe that we did," she said.

There has been no decision yet made by King's Manor to officially apply for leasing the two acres, Lyons said. Such a request might come as soon as Monday's commission meeting, she thought.

She also said, however, that a King's Manor board meeting would probably have to be called before a decision to apply is made. Lyons doubted such a gathering would occur before Monday.

Fisher said he does not know whether King's Manor will request a lease on Monday, but suspects it

Drifter judged competent to stand trial on murder charge

MONTAGUE, Texas (AP) - A drifter who claims to have killed 100 women in 16 states was ruled mentally competent and will stand trial Sept. 13 on charges he killed an 80-year-old woman. Henry Lee Lucas, charged with the killing of Kate Rich of nearby Ringgold, nodded in agreement when asked by State District Judge Frank Douthitt if he agreed with the mental competency ruling.

Douthitt said Wednesday

his ruling on Lucas' competency was based on reports from three psychiatrists that the 46-year-old former mental patient was competent to aid in his defense.

Douthitt said he would hear pretrial motions on Sept. 7.

Among the motions pending is one by defense attorney Don Maxfield calling for the trial to be moved because of strong sentiment in Montague County against Lucas, who has been charged with five Texas killings.

The judge also said he rould rule on a request by Maxfield that Lucas be transferred to the Clay County Jail at Henrietta so Max-field, of Wichita Falls, could more conveniently confer with his client.

District Attorney Jack McGaughey has said he would not object to Maxfield's request.

Lucas nodded in agreement

Wednesday when Douthitt asked him, "Do you believe you are competent to stand trial and assist your lawyer in defense of these cases?" Lucas is being held on $1 million bond in Montague County. He began talking about the slayings of other women after he was charged in Ms. Rich's slaying.

He also has been charged in the death of his 15-year-old traveling companion, Frieda Powell, a runaway from Jacksonville, Fla. whose remains were found in Denton County.

Lucas subsequently was charged in the slayings of an unidentified woman whose headless body was found near Plainview in February 1982 and the March 1981 strangulation of Beverly Joyce Luttrell, a 46-year-old Odessa woman.

Last month, he was indicted in the strangulation of an unidentified woman whose body was found near Georgetown.

Abilene police have made three trips to Montague to question Lucas about the disappearance of one woman and the slaying of another. Police said they could not elaborate further because of gag order Douthitt has issued concerning the investigation.

Lucas was convicted in 1960 of murdering his 74-year-old mother and spent six years in a mental institution before he was paroled from a Michigan prison in 1970.

He has said he killed

women in Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, Utah, California, Oregon, South Dakota,

NBC says U.S. will apologise to France

NEW YORK (AP) - A draft Justice Department report contains a United States apology to France for allowing Nazi Klaus Barble to escape prosecution for war crimes after World War II, NBC News reported today.

The Justice Department, which has been investigating U.S. ties to Barbie, was expected to release the report later in the day, NBC said.

Barbie, 69, called the "Butcher of Lyon" because of his role as chief of the Gestapo in Lyon from 1942 to 1944, was extradited to France last February from Bolivia, where he had been living since 1951. He is awaiting trial on charges of torturing and kill-ing hundreds of people and shipping thousands to Nazi death camps.

Former U.S. intelligence agents have said that Barbie was hidden by the United States after World War II and hired to provide information about communist activities in Europe. Later, the agents said, he was helped to escape to Bolivia.

Dollar strong overseas

A strong dollar gained further ground on foreign exchange markets early today in trading described as quiet and hestitant.

The dollar rose against all major currencies except the Canadian dollar, hitting new all-time highs against the French franc and the Italian lira.

The American currency, trading at its highest level against the West German marks in 9 12 years, broke through the 2.73 mark barrier in the first hour of Frankfurt trading. It later settled at 2.7285 marks, up from 2.7190 Wednesday.

Traders said the dollar was being helped by predictions of another surge in the basic U.S. money supply and a feeling that central banks had all but abandoned their recent coordinated intervention policy.

But they said most big investors appeared to be awaiting outcome of to-day's meeting by West Germany's Central Bank Council. The dollar was bolstered Wednesday by forecasts that American interest rates will rise and the central Bundesbank will take no steps to match the increase.

LAKE CITY, Fla. (AP) - When a rattlesnake bit Arlie Waldron on the forearm, he decided to get even. He bit the snake's head off, but not before the rattler nipped him six more times, including once on the tongue.

Enraged, Waldron said he set out to bite off the reptile's head, but the fatal chomp didn't come before Waldron had been bitten seven times.

He was rushed from his home near Lake City to a local hospital that night, July 16, and two hours later was transferred to Shands Teaching Hospital in Gainesville. He spent four days there before returning home.

Layoff expected to cost millions

PORT ARTHUR, Texas (AP) - The "good old days" when the economy of the Southeast Texas coastal area was propped up by the petrochemical industry are gone forever, an economist says.

The planned firing of about 400 Texaco Inc. employees later this month will cost the area at least $22 million, said Bernard L. Weinstein, an economist.

The scheduled layoffs. which could push the local unemployment up as much as two percentage points, provide an example of the need for Southeast Texas cities to diversify their economies, Weinstein said Wednesday.

'We need something to take the place of these jobs we are losing right now," he

Weinstein said the petrochemical industry will continue to be an integral part of the area's future. "Petrochemicals will still be around, but at best its going to be holding its own. Generally, it will not be a growth industry anymore,"

Texaco is set to begin on Aug. 19 the closure of greasemaking, packing and shipping, and lubrication oil blending and compounding

The loss of 400 workers could push the local unemployment rate already at 20.8 percent - to about 22.8 percent, said Cal Rutherford of the Texas Employment Commission. He said the jobless rate goes up by about one percentage point with the loss of every 286 jobs.

Weinstein, explaining the predicted loss of about $22 million to $33 million in the local economy, said the workers scheduled to be laid off generally earn between $11.90 and $13.40 per hour, $476 to $536 per week or $19,040 to $27,872 per year.

I was wearing a strapless bathing suit and used three bottles of bubble bath. The first response was from Dr. Clifton Wharton Jr., then president of the University of Michigan in Lansing, and his lovely wife Delores. They thought it was smashing.

My readers, family and friends were delighted, not only with the photo but the splendid interview by the late Judy Wax. The only negative comment came from Father Ted Hesburgh, president of the University of Notre Dame. My friend, the Reverend, considered it "out of character and inappropriate, but not indecent."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Recently my husband and I attended a wedding reception. He refused to wait until the bride and groom danced the first number. I told him it was traditional, but he insisted on dragging me out on the dance floor anyway. I felt like a fool.

Decker ahead throughout win

month.

By STEPHAN NASSTROM

AP Sports Writer HELSINKI, Finland (AP) - She's been doing it for a long time in America, but leading from start to finish has been the name of the game only recently in

Mary Decker did it for the third straight time since June 26 Wednesday night at the World Track and Field Championships, outkicking a West German and two Soviets to win the 3,000-meter final before a 50,000 throng at Helsinki's Olympic Stadium.

Decker, who turned 25 last week, led from the gun lap as she broke the American records in the 1,500 (3:57.12) in Stockholm, Sweden, June 26 and the 800 (1:57.60) five days later in another meet at Gateshead, England.

She was timed in 8:34.62 Wednesday night - far off the world record of 8:26.78 owned by Russian Svetlana Ulmasova, who was fourth here, and her American record of 8:29.71.

Decker owns one world (the championship 5,000) and six American records.

But, of course, this victory was by far the most impor tant one of her career, which started at 11 when she ran in - and won - a cross-country race in her hometown, Huntington Beach, Calif.

"I was so proud to see the American flag up on top tonight. And I want to see our flag up on top next year, too, in the Los Angeles Olympics," Decker said after capturing the first gold medal for the U.S. Women's team.

This inaugural championship in the most popular sport on the Olympic program was the closest thing to the Olympics that Decker has been involved in.

She didn't compete in the 1976 Summer Games in Montreal due to an injury and four-years later, the United States and several other Western nations boycotted the Moscow Olympics because of the Soviet Union's invasion of Afghanistan.

Winner of the Sullivan Award - the most prestigious U.S. amateur sports honor - for her remarkable performances last year, Decker recently predicted the strong Eastern Euoropeans would not run away from her if it all came down to a deciding kick. "If I have to kick I will be able to kick. I'm fast and strong enough. I think I have a good kick," she said after breaking her American 1,500 record in Stockholm last

Evans' three-run blast keys Giant win

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

After San Francisco Manager Frank Robinson cleared the air, Darrell Evans cleared the bases.

Robinson conducted a one-hour, 25-minute meeting before Wednesday's game with West Division-leading Atlanta and then the Giants got a three-run homer from Evans, his 23rd of the season, with two outs in the ninth inning to beat the Braves 7-4.

The meeting, Robinson said, was long because "it was that good. I didn't want it to end, but we had to get ready for the game. It's the best meeting I've ever been associated with. It was time to clear the air a little bit."

Evans, who was outstanding in the first half of the season, had cooled off considerably in recent weeks. But his homer was the second in two days.

"It's nice to get going again," Evans said. "It was frustrating. I only had six or eight RBI since the All-Star game and I hadn't hit a homer in a long time."

The last two days pulled Evans within three of leader Mike Schmidt in the NL homer race.

Mary Decker did it for the third straight time since June 26 Wednesday night at the World Track and Field Championships, outkicking a West German and two Soviets to win the 3,000-meter final before a 50,000 throng at Helsinki's Olympic Stadium.

Decker, who turned 25 last week, led from the gun lap as she broke the American records in the 1,500 (3:57.12) in Stockholm, Sweden, June 26 and the 800 (1:57.60) five days later in another meet at Gateshead, England.

She was timed in 8:34.62 Wednesday night - far off the world record of 8:26.78 owned by Russian Svetlana Ulmasova, who was fourth here, and her American record of 8:29.71.

AP Sports Writer After San Francisco Manager Frank Robinson cleared the air, Darrell Evans cleared the bases.

Robinson conducted a onehour, 25-minute meeting before Wednesday's game with West Division-leading Atlanta and then the Giants got a three-run homer from Evans, his 23rd of the season, with two outs in the ninth inning to beat the Braves 7-4.

The meeting, Robinson said, was long because "it was that good. I didn't want it to end, but we had to get ready for the game. It's the best meeting I've ever been associated with. It was time to clear the air a little bit."

Evans, who was outstanding in the first half of the season, had cooled off considerably in recent weeks. But his homer was the second in two days.

"It's nice to get going again," Evans said. "It was frustrating. I only had six or eight RBI since the All-Star game and I hadn't hit a homer in a long time."

The last two days pulled Evans within three of leader Mike Schmidt in the NL homer race.

"The home runs are important for me," Evans said.

"This gets me back in the race for the home run title, and I've been in that position only one other time, and that was 10 years ago."

Evans walked away from the plate in disgust after fouling a delivery from Terry Forster down the first base line, then ripped the next pitch over the center field

"I didn't get all of it, but you don't have to here (in Atlanta)," Evans said. "In Candlestick, I wouldn't be appy now."

The next afternoon that Toronto's George Bell goes out to left field at Yankee Stadium, he'll be sure to have his sunglasses with him.

Railroad depot stands empty

WINNIE, Texas (AP) -The old Santa Fe depot stands empty now. The railroad tracks on both sides are still. A few rusty pop and beer cans litter the front entrance to the depot. Loneliness marks the spot that used to be the hub of activity in Winnie. The Santa Fe Railroad closed the depot in June and rerouted all the business to its Beaumont terminal. "They pretty well stripped it," says W.E. Whitworth. He was the one-man station agent here for 17 years. He unlocks the side door to show the barren shell to visitors. "This depot is at least 85 years old," Whitworth says. His eyes wander around the old room with its wooden floor and high ceiling. A few old desks, chairs, and signs on the walls remain.

Whitworth sat in an old desk in front of the bay windows with their ripped shades. From this spot he had a good view of traffic up and down the tracks.

"At one time, they had quite an office force," says. "The depot used to have considerable shipments. There was a daily passenger train until the early '40s. Course, way back most everything that came to this area was handled by train," he said.

A full wastebasket still sits quietly by the desk. The June 1983 calendar also was left behind; in the June 19 space, the words "closing date, W.E. Whitworth" are penned in.

Whitworth talks freely about his old job. It was work he enjoyed. There was time for talk with the train engineers and freight operators then. Some of Winnie's oldtimers would stop in and talk about the bygone glory days of train travel.

Whitworth points out the window to the spot where a big rooming house stood years ago. He tells about the cattle freight that ranchers shipped out nationwide. "The cattle would sleep in the street until the trains came to get them," Whitworth says.

As he talks, he wipes grainy dust off the countertop where paperwork used to flow, and then steps out the screen door to butt a cigarette.

"Up until four or five years ago, we had 200 rail cars a week here," Whitworth says. They carried fertilizer and lumber. "We used to handle a tremendous volume of crushed limestone from Central Texas," he adds.

Trains still come through now and then, but they no longer stop here. Like Whitworth, they've been relocated to Beaumont. Whitworth has spent the last few weeks learning how to operate a computer at the Santa Fe terminal in Beaumont. He makes the 30-minute drive daily and starts work in the late after-

"It's really another world an entire change from what I'm accustomed to," he says. For 22 of his 27 years with Santa Fe, Whitworth has worked in a one-man station. Now he's surrounded by computer terminals, radios and

Well, it just doesn't seem be like the old railroading," he says. "The personal contact is gone and we handle everything by phone. It's a push button, remote control business

When Whitworth first came to Winnie in 1966, he didn't anticipate staying too long. He had used his seniority to get position and figured he and his wife would stay about

"Over the years, I could says, "but I like this area. Out here you're away from the wild crowds and everything."

As Whitworth walks around the outside of the depot, he points to the roof, which was partially torn off in last May's storm. Other than that, the depot is solid - a strong reminder of an era that has

"This old building has pretty well withstood things over the years," Whitworth says.

The structure remains, but the business has changed. "Everything is computerized," he says. "I knew it would be a drastic change, and I was trying to get prepared for it. But it's quite a transition anyway," he says.

Then he locks the door, gets in his car and drives away. He has an hour or so before he has to leave for work.

Winnie's Chamber of Commerce has requested that Santa Fe turn the depot property over to the city. Plans are in gear to move the building to the city park, where it can be fully restored and equipped with railroad memorabilia.

Sodium and potassium

DEAR DR. LAMB - I have heard so much about sait being bad for you. But I've never heard why. Also I've heard a lot about needing potassium, but why? Is there a relationship between sodium and potassium? What should I do about my diet to be sure I don't get too much sodium or not enough

DEAR READER healthy body is very capable of eliminating the sodium you don't need. It is also quite efficient at retaining the sodium your body needs We all do need sodium, despite some clever TV commercials. You need a minimum of 200 milligrams of sodium a day. And you can get that without adding salt to your food because common unprocessed foods such as milk, meat and other components of a well-balanced diet contain sodium.

If your body retains sodium, it retains water to maintain the proper concentration of sodium to water in your body. That means retained sodium causes swelling, as in premenstrual tension or in various medical disorders such as congestive heart failure, liver disease and kidney disease.

Retention of sodium may also increase your blood pressure. So diuretics are used to wash out sodium because they cause your body to eliminate water. This, in turn, lowers pressure. Not enough sodium can cause muscle cramps and in extreme situations even a Your body is not as efficient at conserving potassi-um and you lose it through your kidneys even if you are on a low potassium intake so you need to be sure and get enough. Your kidneys will get rid of what you don't Hughes said Wednesday he is writing all 181 Texas lawmakers and pushing for pay increases to get qualified teachers who will work with troubled children.

"Kids who get into trouble at school are usually the ones having problems at home or with drugs. Expell them from school and they'll end up on the streets, some of them in prison. Once they're given up on in school, it's all downhill," Hughes said.

Hughes was convicted in the 1976 shooting death of trooper Mark Frederick, 25, of Bellville. Frederick was shot as he walked toward Hughes' car to question him about a stolen credit card.

Hughes, who ran horseshoeing business in Fairhope, Ala., before his conviction, has denied shooting the trooper. He said shots were fired at him as he reached into the glove compartment to get his vehicle registration

Hospital advertises for patients

Most of the hospital's plastic surgery patients - 71 percent — are from the Dallas area, Luman said. But others come from such locations as Midland, Mount Pleasant, Stephenville, Joshua and Kirbyville.

Among the satisfied patients is a 29-year-old Dallas office manager named Carla. She underwent a breast operation in June and said she was pleased with the results. "What could have been a potentially frightening experience was extremely pleasant," she said, adding,

"They make you feel pampered - very special." Carla said she decided to have the operation at the hospital after her mother showed her the magazine ad.

"Their advertisements are extremely tasteful; so are the brochures," she said, adding, "it all fell into place."

Although admitting that the only reason for the operation was "pure vanity - plain and simple," Carla said "there's a big difference" about the way she feels about herself.

Luman says that's one of the big reasons people elect to have plastic surgery - and one of the reasons the advertising campaign has gotten a good response

"We in the health care business have to be looking forward to what the public wants in terms of health care," Luman said.

The plastic surgery ads are to run in three magazines through November - D, Redbook and Ladies' Home Journal. The full-page ad also appeared in Women's Day. "With Beginnings, you'll enjoy all the reassurance and peace of mind that goes with having your surgery performed in the comfort and safety of a major hospital with a cost comparable to surgery in a doctor's office," the ad reads. But whether any of the 88 other Humana hospitals adopt the program will depend on local needs, Luman

"They'll have to go about it the same way we did - by researching what the customers want," he said.

However, Luman is a firm believer in innovation:

"I don't think in today's society we can sit back in a hospital or any other kind of health care service in a traditional, 1950-style fashion," he

That opinion is shared by Sue Durio, director of public information for the Texas Hospital Association.

"As competition becomes more of way of life in the health care industry, were going to see more marketing," she said in a telephone interview from Austin.

However, she added, THA rules prohibit inaccurate statements or claims that one hospital is better than another.

Generally, Durio said, Ethical hospital advertising should be limited to that which informs, notifies and announces in conformance with our professional standards of conduct."

If those standards are met. then the patient will be better off by being better informed,

60 Minutes returns to first place

LOS ANGELES (AP) -CBS regained the lead in the Nielsen ratings last week on the strength of its popular "60 Minutes" newsmagazine, a tear-jerker movie and the regular menu of situation comedies, hospital and detective shows.

The network's "60 Minutes," the highest-rated show last season, was in its old spot at the head of the Top 10 for the week ending Aug. 7 after dropping during the summer rerun season.

CBS had nine shows in the Top 10, which was expanded to 12 because of a four-way tie for ninth place. NBC had two shows and ABC had one.

ABC's newsmagazine, "20-20," finished fifth, but NBC's similar program, "Monitor," was in its customary place in the bottom five of the program stan-

The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute, 12.4 percent of the nation's TV homes were tuned to CBS.

Two popular CBS comedy series, "The Jeffersons" and "Newhart," were in second and third place, and the CBS comedy-drama "Trapper John, M.D.," took fourth.

Mrs. Willis' husband, Pat, 36, may live because of the transplant. Doctors transplanted the St. Paul, Minn., man's heart into Willis in a 71/2-hour operation Sunday night at University of

Chances slight of 9. Tie-"One Day at a Texans getting Aids

TEMPLE, Texas (AP) -Of the 1,922 cases of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome reported in the United States over the past three years, 26 have occurred in Texas - most of them in Houston, Dallas and San Antonio - an infectious disease specialist says.

Although two of the cases have involved Temple men, one of whom died, chances are slight that the average Central Texan will contract the mysterious virus, Dr. Paxton H. Howard Jr. of Temple said Wednesday.

Howard said studies have shown that "active" nosexual men make up the largest risk group.

"These are men that have over 80 sexual partners a year. Fifty percent of their sexual contacts come in the bathhouses in New York. There is a high incidence of sexually transmitted disease common in the homosexual male because of this," he

Howard, head of Scott and White Hospital's division of infectious disease, called a news conference Wednesday to discuss AIDS after returning from Seattle, where he attended the 5th International Symposium of Sexually Transmitted Diseases.

"It (AIDS) is primarily found in big cities where there is a large concentration of high-risk groups. Homosexual men are high risk, IV drug users are high risk," Howard said.

One of Temple's victims recently visited San Francisco, one of the cities with a high incidence of AIDS. Howard said.

Texas' 26 cases through the first seven months of 1983 compares with 16 cases in 1982 and five in 1981. Most of the state's cases have been reported in Houston, with several in Dallas and San Antonio, Howard said.

AIDS destroys the body's immune system, making it easy prey for bacteria and carcinogens. Death is caused not by AIDS itself but by the accompanying illness. Mortality rate of the disease is 80

Of the 1,922 cases reported in three years of AIDS' known existence, 710 cases were noted in New York City, 180 in San Francisco, 113 in Los Angeles, 61 in Miami and 54 in Newark, N.J. There have been only a handful of cases in European countries, he

"We don't know why that is," Howard said. "We don't know what causes AIDS, other than it's a virus. And there is no treatment that will restore the immune system of an AIDS victim."

However, Centers for Disease Control and the National Institute for Health are making strides toward finding a cure, he said.

"This is unprecedented in public health in this country," Howard said. 'They've spent more for investigation of AIDS than they spent on Legionnaire's Disease or on Toxic Shock Syndrome. I'm confident they will identify the virus and bring it under control."

WHO ARE YOU TO CRITICIZE GOD?

God had promised, "Next year I will give you and Sarah a son." And years later, when this son, Isaac, was grown up and married, and Rebecca his wife was about to bear him twin children, God told her that Esau, the child born first, would be a servant to Jacob, his twin brother. In the words of the Scripture, "I chose to bless Jacob, but not Esau." And God said this before the children were even born. before they had done anything either good or bad. This proves that God was doing what He had decided from the beginning; it was not because of what the children did but because of what God wanted and chose.

Was God being unfair? Of course not. For God has said to Moses, "If I want to be kind to someone, I will. And I will take pity on anyone I want to."

And so God's blessings are not given just because someone decides to have them or works hard to get them. They are given because God takes pity on those He wants to.

Pharoah, king of Egypt, was an example of this fact. For God told him He had given him the kingdom of Egypt for the very purpose of displaying the awesome power of God against him: so that all the world would hear about God's glorious name.

So you see, God is kind to some just because He wants to be, and He makes some refuse to listen.

Well then, why does God blame them for not listening? Haven't they done what He made them do?

No, don't say that. Who are you to criticize God? Should the thing made say to the one who made it, "Why have you made me like

Call Mark Berryman, Recalling a visit by a death squad

CIMITARRA, Colombia (AP) - As they told the story later, residents recalled that the temperature hung in the low 90s and not a whisper of breeze moved the palms as four men, each with a submachine gun, strode side by side down a dirt street.

They said they knew immediately that the death squad was coming, and they would always remember the day, Monday July 18.

They recalled that people lingered outside the adjoining concrete-walled houses and then slipped silently inside doorways as the men headed for La Ruiz, a small restaurant with six tables.

Witnesses who claimed to have been there said the only customers at that hour were a dozen men who had come into town to buy supplies for their small farms backed out of the jungle along the Carare River.

They said the gunmen walked straight into the restaurant and ordered five men out into the street. The men were ordered to lie down in front of police headquarters, next door to the restaurant. Their hands were handcuffed behind their backs, said witnesses who asked not to be identified for fear they would be the squad's next victims.

The gunmen said they had a list of 180 people to be ex-ecuted and that they would be back, the witnesses claimed.

The five men from the restaurant were marched down the darkened street. Over a period of several minutes, gunshots punc-tuated the darkness. A few hours later, the bodies of the five men, still bearing watches and money, were found on the edge of town. Each had been shot in the back of the head.

Some Colombian newspapers have theorized that any army people involved with the death squads are operating on their own or in connection with cattle ranchers and big businessmen impatient with Colombia's turtle pace system of Justice.

The Colombian Human Rights Commission says death squads have killed 327 people in the last year. Many of those killed had been investigated by the army for suspected links with leftist guerrillas, Colombian newspapers have said.

Fifty-nine of those named were active members of the army, including two lieutenant colonels. Sixteen others were retired army soldiers. and the others were civilians.

Only one of the colonels and the 16 retired soldiers were charged with taking part in murders. The others were simply said to be members of the death squads. Special judges were named to determine if there was sufficient evidence to charge those who had not be accused of specific crimes.

The Colombian justice system is slow. It sometimes takes five years for a case to be dismissed or to come to trial.

The minister of defense. Gen. Fernando Landazabal, has denied that any members of the armed forces belong to the death squads. He said in an editorial in the army's monthly magazine that the accusations were an attempt to discredit the armed forces.

men were forced out of the restaurant there some people ran to the police barracks two blocks away and others to an army guardpost a block away where a dozen soldiers are quartered.

No one was found at either place, the witnesses said. The soldiers had disappeared a few hours before the death squad arrived, residents told the AP reporter. None of the witnesses recognized any of the gunmen, and the townspeople say they were strangers who had to arrive by car. Gen. Daniel Garcia, commanding officer of a brigade of troops for the area, referred all questions about the death squad to the the mayor.

The mayor, Salvador Lobo, later told an interviewer he had no way of knowing for sure if anyone went to the army guardpost and the police station to get help.

The police chief, Lt. Simion Mora, declined to comment beyond saying there were no clues in the executions. The police in Colombia are part of the armed forces.

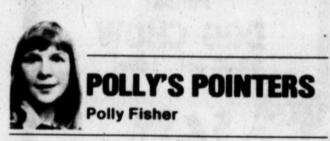

Friends and families of the five men killed in Cimitarra said each of the murdered men had been previously detained for up to 16 days at a nearby military base and questioned about allegedly hauling supplies to guerrillas in surrounding mountains. There are six leftist guerrilla groups in Colombia. The largest, with an estimated 2,000 rebels according to army intelligence officers, is the Colombian Revolutionary Armed Forces, which claims to follow Soviet ideology. Atrocities have also been attributed to some left-wing guerrilla groups. Meanwhile, the death squads continue to operate.

The Betancur government has named special judges to go to areas where the death squads operate, but so far no one has been arrested.

oofahs make magic

DEAR POLLY - I've grown some loofah gourds in my garden this summer, but I don't know how to make sponges out of them. Can you help? — PAULINE

DEAR PAULINE — Loofahs do indeed make excellent "sponges" for everything from washing delicate glassware to giving your back a vigorous, stimulating rubdown. Your loofahs are ready to harvest when the gourds dry out and

After removing the gourds from the vines, they must be peeled. This is easily accomplished in much the same way tomatoes are peeled, by blanching. Drop the gourds into boiling water for 10 minutes. (Turn the loofahs over after five minutes so both sides are "cooked.") Next, plunge the gourds into cold water. The skin can then be easily peeled off by pulling on one of the strings that run along the length of the gourd, then pulling back the skin. Wash the gourds under cold running water, squeezing to remove all the seeds and pulp. When all seeds and loose pulp have been washed out, you'll have just the spongelike loofah left. Dry the loofah in the warm sun outside for at least a day — and it's ready to use! - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - I used a mop to put down a coat of varnish on my wood floor. Gave me a nice smooth finish, quickly and easily. — MR. K.

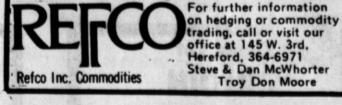

DEAR POLLY — To keep cheese fresh, wrap it in a cloth soaked in vinegar. Then overwrap with a plastic bag. Store in the refrigerator. The cheese will keep fresh for weeks. —

DEAR POLLY - When using bananas in anything, I always remove the seeds if the center appears dark. I think this looks better, tastes better and keeps better.

To improve margarine, I whip half a pound of margarine with 1/4 cup buttermilk, 1/2 cup dry powdered milk and two teaspoons of butter flavoring. The ingredients must be at room temperature for smooth mixing. I whip the mixture thoroughly with my electric hand mixer, then store it in a covered carton in the refrigerator. This mixture is always spreadable and tastes better than plain margarine. - MRS.
