

New farm package may be opened soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some farm lobbyists and others think the Reagan administration soon may unveil a package of goodies to help farmers just in time for the Nov. 4 general election.

The package, which could be announced shortly before or after Congress adjourns on Oct. 3, was said by one source to be "a remodeling of existing programs to help put a good spin" on administration policies as GOP House and Senate candidates face the final weeks of campaigning.

No specifics were suggested except that further liberalization of some credit programs and easing of debt collections by the Farmers Home Administration might be considered. A boost in soybean price supports and an increase in grain storage fees paid to farmers are other possibilities.

One move that reportedly is almost ready would be the appointment of a special assistant to the president for agricultural trade and food aid. The new post was created by Congress in the Food Security Act of 1985 and was to have been filled by May 1.

According to sources among farm organizations, on Capitol Hill and in the Agriculture Department, all of whom asked not to be identified by name, the appointment of a special assistant could be of some help in polishing the administration's image among those who feel not enough has been done to boost agricultural exports.

But there are mixed feelings about creating another high-level farm post within the White House.

According to several of the sources interviewed on Wednesday, Agriculture Secretary Richard E. Lyng has been opposed to the idea, maintaining that he is Reagan's farm spokesman and that another would just add confusion and second-guessing.

One source said Lyng would go along with the appointment of a USDA official to the White House job and that one is under consideration: Alan T. Tracy, who is deputy assistant secretary for marketing and inspection services.

Tracy, a Wisconsin native, joined USDA in 1981 as general sales manager and associate administrator of the department's Foreign Agricultural Service.

Another of the sources said some in the White House would like to put one of their own into the new job, probably from the Office of Management and Budget, to keep an eye on costs involved in promoting and subsidizing U.S. farm exports.

But some farm groups want someone from the outside in the job. A coalition of organizations under the umbrella of the Agriculture Council of America, a private association headed by Orville L. Freeman, who was secretary of agriculture in the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, has proposed a number of candidates.

Those include: Bill Pearce, former deputy U.S. trade representative, now a senior executive with Cargill Inc.; Rep. Cooper Evans, R-Iowa, who is not seeking reelection; Robert Delano, a Virginia farmer and former president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; and Al Quile, a Minnesota farmer and former congressman and governor.

Card check cancels 1,027 from rolls

More than 1,000 citizens in Deaf Smith County, or listed as residents, lost their right to vote this week. If they are still around, however, it is an easy process to regain that right.

County Clerk David Ruland reported Wednesday that 1,027 voter registration cards were cancelled, or purged from the list. Some of these have moved out of the county and some have died, but others changed addresses within the county and did not notify the clerk's office. It is not enough just to notify the post office.

"I personally know some of the people on the list are still residing in the county, but I cannot do anything unless they sign a change-in-address form," said Ruland.

The clerk's office mailed out more than 10,000 voter cards on Jan. 15 of this year, and Ruland estimated there were about 9,900 eligible voters. Ruland said a few citizens had told him they didn't sign up because they didn't want to be eligible for jury duty. Prospective jurors are taken from the poll list.

To be an eligible voter, a citizen should have a canary yellow voter registration card. If a citizen does not have this card and wants to be eligible, he should contact the clerk's office at the courthouse. To vote in the Nov. 4 election, a voter must secure his card 30 days prior to that date.

Suspicious package only parts

AMARILLO, Texas (AP) — A suspicious package bound for the Pantex nuclear weapons assembly plant that forced the evacuation of a United Parcel Service center turned out to be hardware parts, officials said today.

Police were called to the UPS distribution center shortly after 6:30 p.m. Wednesday after doubts arose about the parcel, which was in a delivery truck.

But FBI special agent U. Specht said the package was legitimate and was supposed to go to the plant.

"It was suspicious because the address label was missing," Specht said.

Employees at the distribution center were evacuated from the building, and officers cleared the area while a police bomb squad was summoned to the scene, officers said.

Bomb technicians removed the parcel from the truck and packed it in sand before turning it over to FBI agents, who arrived on the scene shortly after 9 p.m., police said.

The package was transported in a container on a truck escorted by a convoy of law enforcement patrol cars to the Pantex plant, located 17 miles northeast of the city, police said.

Board remains, assessor moving

Members of the San Jose Fresh Water District No. 1 decided not to quit after all.

The entire Labor Camp water board had threatened in late August to resign from office because of harassment, however, decided recently to give the board another chance.

The only person who did hold to her resignation was tax assessor Blanca Hernandez, but Hernandez said she was forced to resign because she was moving out of the Labor Camp.

Turmoil in the Labor Camp started when the residents there felt that water bills were too expensive and the water board members were unsympathetic toward them.

"We have been trying to explain that the bills are high because the water board was in very bad shape when we took over," said secretary Susie Perez. "We feel that the people are beginning to understand what we are having to do just to get by."

Water board members are Maria Alejandre, president; Salavador Mireles, supervisor; Francis Arendondo, supervisor; Maria Vasquez, supervisor; and Martin Flores, water operator.

Advocates cutting budget first

Time not right for sales tax, Lewis says

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas House will pass a tax increase if that's the only way to keep state government from writing hot checks, but the time hasn't arrived yet, Speaker Gib Lewis says.

"Some people's attitude is tax, then cut. Our attitude is cut, then tax," Lewis said Wednesday.

Lack of House support for a tax increase was blamed for the failure of the Legislature's first budget-balancing special session to solve the deficit now estimated at $2.8 billion.

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, a Senate majority and Gov. Mark White have urged since Aug. 6 that a sales tax increase be enacted with spending cuts to balance the books.

Lewis, D-Fort Worth, said the House would back temporary increases in the sales and gasoline taxes if all possible spending cuts are made, with numerous accounting and cash-management techniques enacted, and the state still is short on money.

"If that shortfall is still there and that (spending reduction plan) does not bridge the gap, we will probably go to those two forms of taxes," he said.

"I'm not saying that we will. I'm just saying, 'if that happens.'"

Asked if he would vote for those taxes, Lewis replied: "If necessary, and if I found that the state would be writing hot checks, yes I would vote for them. Under those conditions and those conditions only."

After saying he would like to see the latest special session wrap up within two weeks, Lewis said a tax bill — if needed — could be passed within that time.

"I think you'll see things move very fast," he said.

Lewis labeled as "speculation" a speech he made Tuesday to the White Settlement Chamber of Commerce, in which he predicted a temporary tax hike would pass.

House Appropriations Committee Chairman Jim Rudd, D-Brownfield, head of House budget negotiators who are dealing with the Senate on a spending cut plan, said it appears legislative momentum may be shifting from cuts to taxes.

"Had they (senators) taken all of our program a month ago, there would be no need for a tax bill. The longer they can hold out, the more they're moving us in that direction," Rudd said.

Sen. Bob McFarland, R-Arlington, said it appears many House members are beginning to realize that cuts alone can't solve the problem.

'Senate tax bill' sent to committee

AUSTIN (AP) — A so-called "Senate tax bill," with two-thirds of the Senate listed as co-sponsors, has been sent to the Senate Finance Committee for a possible public hearing.

The resolution was introduced by Sen. Kent Caperton, D-Bryan.

"I have not asked a hearing on the resolution," Caperton told reporters. "We just want to have something here we can talk over and gather testimony on so we will be ready to act when a tax bill comes over from the House, if one does come over."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said Tuesday the resolution was merely a means of

"expediting the procedure."

According to the state constitution, any tax bill must originate in the House. The Senate cannot vote on a tax bill unless it is sent one approved by the House.

Hearing on voting system set

A public hearing on Deaf Smith County's proposed new automated voting system has been called for Sept. 16, it was announced today by County Clerk David Ruland.

The commissioners court has proposed a change from the present "paper ballot" system to an automated tabulating system. The new system is expected to be more cost effective, reliable and give faster results on election day.

Ruland pointed out that voters will still mark their own ballots, but the ballots will be "read" by an automated machine process. The action will permit the county to change the number of voting precincts from 12 down to 7 or 8. The hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 16, at the Community Center.

Task Force starts ad campaign

The Nuclear Waste Task Force, headquartered in Dimmitt, is launching an advertising campaign in newspapers, radio and television.

Delbert Devin, head of the Task Force, said the advertising is to educate the public on the nuclear waste issue.

Spending on newspaper advertising has totaled over $4,000 in area papers. The same amount has been budgeted for radio advertising. Television commercials explaining the nuclear waste issue will begin to appear nationally on Sept. 21.

Funding for the project has come from donations to the Task Force, Devin said.

State Company allegedly overcharged

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A tool company and a General Dynamics Corp. engineer have been accused of overcharging the U.S. government, including $2,500 for a cutting device that was available from the manufacturer for $14.35.

Greer Industries Inc. of Fort Worth, a distributor that sells F-16 fighter jet maintenance tools to General Dynamics, Greer president Robert J. Greer, and a Greer manager, Anson J. Walker, were named in the indictment returned by a federal grand jury Wednesday.

The indictment said Greer Industries is a distributor that sells tools actually made by other companies.

Greer and Walker could not be reached for comment. Harry B. Brand of Fort Worth, an engineer at General Dynamics' Fort Worth division who was named in the indictment, declined comment.

The indictment charged Greer, Walker and Greer Industries Inc. with conspiring since 1979 to defraud the U.S. Department of Defense by overcharging it for drills, cutting tools and other items used mostly for maintenance on F-16 fighter jets, which are manufactured by General Dynamics.

The indictment charged that Greer Industries took Brand out to lunch, gave him gifts and lent him money in exchange for approval of lucrative contracts to supply General Dynamics with tools for the jets.

National Top Star Wars scientist quits

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — One of the top physicists working on President Reagan's "Star Wars" program has quit, and scientists say the loss will deal a severe blow to the project.

Peter Hagelstein, creator of the basic theory for building an X-ray laser at the heart of the space-based missile defense system, is leaving Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory on Oct. 1, officials said Wednesday.

Hagelstein, who has accepted a teaching and non-military research post at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, refused to say why he is leaving Livermore, a key research facility for the defense program.

But a colleague at MIT, where Hagelstein received his degrees, said Hagelstein had problems with the management style at Livermore, was troubled about working on weapons and wanted to return to an academic environment.

"I'm not in a position to say," Hagelstein said of his reasons. "A lot of people are in an awkward position, and I am too."

Hagelstein, 32, won the Department of Energy's top award for his work on the X-ray laser weapon in 1984.

His work was the basis for Reagan's call for a defensive shield against ballistic missiles.

Hearing today on Hunt venue

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals was to hear arguments today over whether the billionaire Hunt brothers of Texas should hold bankruptcy proceedings in New Orleans or Dallas.

Companies owned by William Herbert Hunt, Nelson Bunker Hunt and Lamar Hunt have filed in New Orleans for protection under federal bankruptcy laws against 23 banks that are trying to foreclose on $1.5 billion in past-due loans.

Last week, U.S. District Judge Barefoot Sanders of Dallas gave the Hunts until Thursday to transfer the cases back to the bankruptcy court in Dallas.

On Wednesday, the Hunts filed a motion in Dallas seeking reconsideration of an earlier motion charging Sanders with a conflict of interest and seeking his removal from the case.

The Hunts had previously asked Sanders to disqualify himself because he owns stock in Allied Bancshares of Houston, which is not one of the banks involved in the suit. Wednesday's motion said Sanders also owns 13.7 percent of stock worth $165,000 and serves on the board of Texas-based Industrial Investment Corp. with C.P. Storey and E. Taylor Armstrong.

Storey and Armstrong are partners in the law firm Storey, Armstrong, Steger and Martin, which represents First National Bank of St. Paul, Minn., one of the 23 banks involved.

Sanders could not be reached for comment.

CBS revamps executives

NEW YORK (AP) — William S. Paley, the 84-year-old founder of CBS, has returned to lead the network after turbulent months marked by hostile takeover bids, a stunning ratings drop and public criticism by some of its stars.

The CBS Inc. board named Paley and Laurence A. Tisch, who controls the largest block of CBS stock, to replace Thomas H. Wyman, who resigned Wednesday under pressure. CBS said Paley would be chairman and Tisch chief executive officer until a replacement could be found for Wyman, who held both posts.

The first word of the shakeup came in a dramatic, ad-libbed announcement by anchor Dan Rather at the end of the "CBS Evening News."

An industry source with access to some occurrences at the board meeting said Wyman came to the meeting with proposals to relieve the tension within the board and the company. The proposals were well-received, the source said, but Paley and Tisch were immovable and irresistible.

The Paley-Tisch faction didn't have a majority of votes, but had 33 percent of the stock and was able to influence the proceedings, and Wyman's resignation was a surprise, said the source, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The moves, during a nine-hour meeting of the 14-member board, would seem to put in jeopardy executives closely aligned with Wyman, who had been president and CEO since 1980 and became CBS' second chairman in April 1983.

Release of Daniloff favorable

MOSCOW (AP) — KGB investigators like the idea of releasing jailed American reporter Nicholas Daniloff into the custody of the U.S. ambassador pending his trial on charges of spying, a colleague of the newsmen said.

Daniloff called his wife Wednesday at the Moscow office of U.S. News & World Report where he has been bureau chief for 5½ years, and fellow magazine reporter Jeff Trimble listened in with their approval.

"What is needed is a cooling-off period," Trimble said Daniloff quoted his interrogators as saying.

Soviet authorities did not mention directly the case of Gennadiy Zakharov, a Soviet U.N. employee arrested last month in New York and indicted Tuesday on three counts of espionage, Trimble quoted Daniloff as saying.

But they made it clear that any release pending trial would have to be reciprocal, Trimble said.

Teen-age suicide linked with TV news

By DANIEL Q. HANEY AP Science Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Television movies that try to prevent suicides by increasing awareness of the tragedies may instead have the opposite effect, prompting teen-agers to kill themselves in imitation, a new study concludes.

Another report released today suggests that news accounts of suicides and even feature stories about the subject seem to trigger these deaths as well.

Both studies found increases in suicide attempts and deaths after the movies and news reports were broadcast. However, another researcher noted that neither of them showed that the victims had actually seen the programs.

"I think the important thing we have to do is examine the relationship between those stories and individuals," said Dr. James Mercy of the Centers for Disease Control in Atlanta. "We need to know whether a specific teen-ager watched the program and the effect it had on him."

The two studies were published in the New England Journal of Medicine, along with an editorial by Dr. Leon Eisenberg of Harvard Medical School, who said it's unclear how news and entertainment should handle suicide differently.

"I don't think we should tell the public that the suicide rate is going up. That would be ridiculous," Eisenberg said in an interview. "Yet if this is right, that may be some sort of stimulus to people who are thinking about it. I don't know what the solution is."

The study by Dr. Madelyn S. Gould of Columbia University found that teen-age suicide attempts in the New York City area increased significantly after three of four made-for-television movies about suicide.

The study found that in the two weeks before three of the TV movies, there were 14 teen-age suicide attempts, but afterward, there were 22. After another movie about suicide, however, there was no significant change.

The other study, directed by Dr. David P. Phillips of the University of California at San Diego, found that the nationwide suicide rate among teen-agers was 7 percent higher than usual following 38 television news and feature stories about suicide.

Cattlemen claim more than $200 million in damages from dairy buyout

WASHINGTON (AP) — Beef cattle producers, disgruntled over the Agriculture Department's wholeherd dairy buyout program that has dumped additional meat on the market this summer, wants Congress to pay them more than $200 million in damages.

"We are here to ask you to make right a wrong that has been done," John Lacey, president of the California Cattlemen's Association, told the House Agriculture dairy subcommittee on Wednesday.

Cattlemen complained bitterly after the USDA began the program in April that too many dairy cows were going to market at once, depressing prices for beef cattle. The program pays dairy farmers to kill their cows and go out of business in an effort to control milk surpluses.

Markets did not recover for four months, causing ranchers who sold animals during that period to lose at least $260 million, the cattlemen said. The primary impact was on markets in the South, Southwest and West.

"The effect on our members was disastrous," Lacey said.

Subcommittee Chairman Tony Coelho, D-Calif., said he was interested in pushing legislation to compensate cattlemen for their losses, but added that it is unlikely anything can be done in the few weeks remaining before Congress' scheduled adjournment for the year.

The Reagan administration vigorously objected to the idea, saying steps already taken, such as government purchase of 400 million pounds of red meat, has more than offset any harm to the cattle industry.

"In fact, cattle prices are higher now than before the program," said Darwin Carter, a top program official at the Agriculture Department. "No restitution to the cattle industry or to any other group or individual is required or advisable."

Baylor honors woman orthopedist

By JOHN SARE

The Dallas Morning News DALLAS (AP) — Dr. Ruth Jackson scanned X-rays and examined patients on Monday, just as she has on thousands of days since she opened her orthopedic surgery practice in 1932.

To visitors, she pointed out the diplomas that line the walls of an examining room in the Oak Lawn clinic she designed at the end of World War II.

And she remembered — her voice still tinged with anger — the day in 1924 when she started work on her medical degree at Baylor University's College of Medicine.

"There were four women in the entering class, and the dean told us, 'You women, we don't want you here. You'll have to make 10 points higher than the men do to get the same grade they do,'" she said.

Ms. Jackson met Baylor's challenge, and on Tuesday, the same institution — now the Baylor University Medical Center — named its orthopedic library and conference center for the 83-year-old woman who once failed a class because she demanded the right to treat male patients.

She may have lost the battle, she said, but finally she won the war.

She became the first woman accredited by the American Board of Orthopedic Surgeons. Her pioneering book on neck ailments — The Cervical Syndrome, now in its fourth edition — has brought her international praise and dozens of speaking engagements. And her expertise has earned the respect of three or four generations of some Dallas families.

Surgery is the only professional function Ms. Jackson no longer performs; she gave that up in 1974.

In connection with the library dedication, Baylor officials sponsored an open house in the doctor's honor at the orthopedic surgery floor of Hobbittelle Hospital at Baylor.

But the doctor talked on Monday not about the honor but about her work, smoking one cigarette after another — but not inhaling the smoke into her lungs, she said — and looking intently at X-rays.

"That man is in pain," she said, pointing to bone spurs on the patient's vertebrae.

She complained that joggers do themselves at least as much harm as good and said foot problems are among the ailments she treats most frequently. Neck injuries, she said, have escalated in direct proportion to the hazards of Dallas traffic. She estimated she has treated 18,000 of them.

Her practice is nothing fancy, she said. She cuts her own orthopedic pads for patients' shoes, and she doesn't use any computers or lasers in her examinations.

"All this high tech just drives people up a tree," she said. "When they come here seeking a second opinion, they have been photographed and X-rayed but never touched. The pa-

SENATE

30-day first special session, the House held out for deep budget cuts to solve the state's financial woes. Hobby and most senators have contended an increase in taxes is needed, to augment the budget cuts.

The resolution introduced by Caperton, which numerous senators said looked a lot like a tax bill, calls for an increase in the state sales tax from 4.125 cents to 5.25 cents, plus a 5-cent increase in the gasoline and motor fuels tax.

The resolution proposes that the new taxes be effective Oct. 1 if approved by two-thirds of the Legislature, or on Jan. 1, 1987, if the two-thirds approval is not given.

The tax hikes would automatically expire Dec. 1, 1987.

tients just love the fact I will touch them. They trust that.

"He cures most successfully in whom the people have greatest confidence," she said, quoting the Greek physician and writer, Galen.

The quotation suggests that all doctors are men, and that assumption has affected Ms. Jackson's career at least as strongly as Galen's message.

"When I started at the University of Texas in 1920, I decided to take pre-med courses, and my father said, 'No. Absolutely not,' she recalled.

She honored his wishes by studying sociology and economics for a couple of years, but her resolve to be a doctor was strengthened when she traveled to an impoverished part of East Texas as part of a charity project. There, she met a man whose family was going hungry while he sat at home, immobilized by a knee injury.

"On my way back to Austin, I told myself, 'Ruth Jackson, anybody can do that charity work. You want to find out what's wrong with that man's knee so he can take care of his family on his own,'" she said.

So, she changed her major, wrote her parents to let them know and took summer school classes to graduate on time.

Victim of suicide

DEAR ANN LANDERS: There is one victim of suicide you've never dealt with in your column. The friend.

"Marie" spoke of suicide whenever things went wrong. I learned that people who speak of suicide often attempt it and need someone who will listen. So I listened to Marie. I also learned that speaking of suicide is a cry for help. So I tried to help her.

Writing is my hobby so I wrote her long letters. I did everything in my power to make Marie feel needed and important. To me she was both. I tried to get her to see a doctor, but she wouldn't go and I didn't have the power to make her.

One evening, after I had made my nightly call, Marie called me back and told me she had just taken the pills and drank the alcohol that would end her life. "It won't be long now—thank God," she said.

I felt as if I were in some strange way responsible because I had failed to convince her that life was worth living. I felt guilty for not staying close enough to prevent that awful deed. But the story had a happy ending. Marie survived and you figured in the rescue.

I had just finished an Ann Landers column and I kept my drugged friend on the phone, reading it as slowly as possible while my dad called the rescue squad and sent them to her home. When I hung up the phone I prayed feverishly that they would get there in time. They did. I am happy to report that Marie is in therapy, doing beautifully and there is every reason to believe she will be O.K. from now on. — S.D. IN TUCSON, ARIZ.

DEAR TUCSON: Thanks for letting me know. Your letter makes some excellent points, not the least of which is the guilt of friends because they didn't recognize the symptoms and stay closer.

Don't be too hard on yourself. Would-be suicides can be very clever as well as extremely deceptive. No one is responsible for anyone's life but his own.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd greatly appreciate your opinion on a disagreement I had with my boss. She's the nurse in the office where I am a medical assistant.

A man about my age (35) came in for a physical which included an EKG. As usual, I instructed him to undress above the waist. At least that's what I thought I said. When I returned, he was on the table stark naked.

My first impulse was to tell him to put on his pants, but I decided to go ahead and do the test without saying anything for fear of embarrassing him.

During the EKG, the senior nurse came in. Her eyes widened and her jaw dropped, but she said nothing until she got me alone. Then she let me have it.

She accused me of needlessly embarrassing the patient and told me I was lucky she didn't report me to the doctors and recommend my dismissal. She told me not to "try that again."

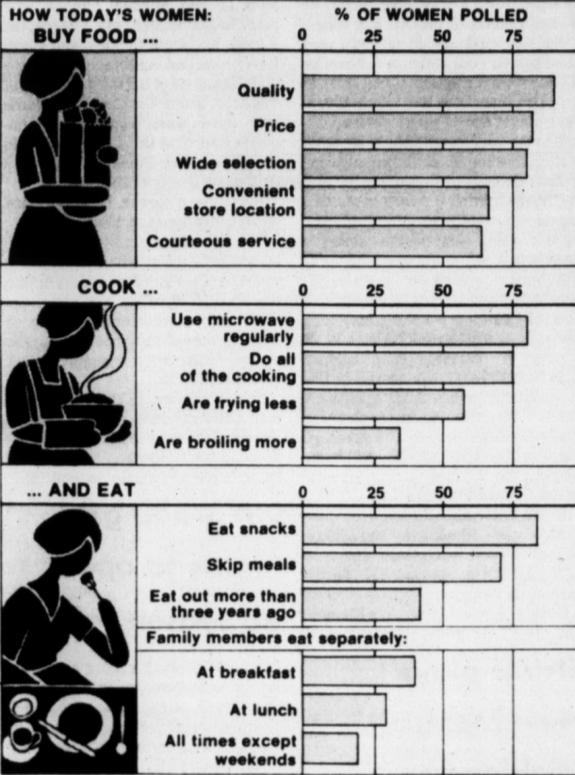

Ann, I believe I did the right thing under the circumstances. My husband agrees. He says if he was a patient and understood he was supposed to undress, he would feel like a fool if he was suddenly told to put his pants on. He says I handled it in such a way that spared the man a lot of humiliation. Please comment.—PROVIDENCE, R.I.

DEAR R.I.: You did the right thing. Next time be more explicit in your instructions.

How young is too young for a child to learn about sex? That's just one thing you'll find in Ann Landers' new booklet, "How, What and When to Tell Your Child About Sex." WHAT WOMEN BUY AND EAT

(Source: Conde Nast Publications) NEA GRAPHIC
The vast majority of women do all of the family cooking, base their food buys on quality and price, and tend to skip meals — but snack to make up for it.

No need to overcook pork

Overcooking pork as a safety measure is no longer necessary, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service nutrition specialist.

The Food Safety and Inspection Service (FSIS) of the U.S. Department of Agriculture recommends cooking pork to an internal temperature of 160 degrees Fahrenheit, says Dr. Dymple Cooksey.

The FSIS says that today's pork is safe when cooked to "medium doneness." Its previous recommendation was for the meat to be cooked until "well done" at 170 degrees.

Shelton presides at meeting

Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 met in regular session Tuesday evening with Noble Grand Glessie Shelton presiding.

Lodge Deputy Lydia Hopson gave a school of instruction including a reminder of the aim and work of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows which is based on concern for fellow men. Members are committed to care for others.

Thirteen visits to the sick and 14 cheer cards were reported.

Those attending included Shelton, Hopson, Susie Curtsinger, Ana Conklin, Wallace Shelton, Ada Hollabaugh, Kee Ruland, Karrol Rettman, Dorothy Lundry, Dora Lea Howell, Faye Brownlow, Verna Sowell, Peggy Lemons, Sadie Shaw and Leona Sowell.

Cooksey reports that FSIS officials consider 137 degrees F as the temperature at which Trichinella Spiralis, a parasite that may be present in one-tenth of 1 percent of the pork supply, is destroyed instantly.

"The new recommendation should encourage consumers to enjoy today's tender, flavorful pork without overcooking," she says. "Since pork today is much leaner than it used to be, it also cooks quicker."

Garden Beautiful Club attends coffee Friday

Garden Beautiful Club members met recently for a coffee in the home of Rosalie Gilbreath.

Refreshments of cream filled croissants, fruits, melons, coffee and tea was served from a table overlooking the hostess' landscaped backyard.

President Inez Witherspoon presided over the meeting and asked for garden tips. Also, club yearbooks were distributed and Marguerite Newell discussed the programs for the coming year.

The next meeting was planned Oct. 3 in the Energas Flame Room. Jim Phillips, a horticulturist from Boys Ranch, will be the guest speaker.

Those present included Mmes. J.W. Witherspoon, Wilbur Axe, Wayne Jones, Charles Newell, Louis Spinks, Bill Emmons, J.T. Gilbreath, E.W. Dettman, Troyce Carmichael, Joe Story, C.V. Darden, W.B. Dowell, Charlie Noland, Hilda Havens, Ray Cowsert, S.H. Sides, Francis Hill, E.W. Young and hostess, W.W. Gilbreath.

Wyche Extension members meet recently in Jesko home

"Charity" was the opening exercise used when members of Wyche Extension Homemakers Club met recently in the home of Beverly Jesko.

Audrey Rusher conducted the business session after the members presented the T.E.H.A. prayer. Roll call was answered by "A Class I would like to take if I could go back to school."

Esther Thuett gave the council report and Laverne Worley was elected secretary-treasurer.

Argen Draper introduced Maudette Smith who gave an informative program on silk flower arranging. She told how to make the flowers in various shapes and also made an arrangement of pink shaded and light orchid flowers.

Refreshment of a fruit bowl, three kinds of sweet breads, punch and coffee were served. Others attending were Louise Axe, Camelia Jones, Ethel Logan Carol Odom, Pet Ott, Clara Trowbridge, Lorena Ward and Wynema Wheeler.

The next meeting was scheduled at 2:30 p.m. Sept. 18 in the home of Camelia Jones.

Guests welcome

Visitors are invited to attend the Deaf Smith County Genealogy Society meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the Heritage Room of Deaf Smith County Library.

The program will be "What Our Members Have Done in the Summer."

Each member will be given an opportunity to talk about his ancestor tracing experiences. Members and guests may pick up new ideas for research sources and methods to use in looking for distance relatives.

The group meets the second Thursday of each month, except during the summer and meetings are open to the public. Membership is $5 a year. Memorial gifts are welcome. Donations are used for the purchase of genealogy books.

Herd battles Clovis Wildcats Friday

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
 Sports Editor

Coming off a great defensive effort against Andrews, the Hereford Whiteface varsity football team hosts Clovis Friday night at 7:30 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

Clovis is 1-0-1 after defeating Portales 14-6 on Aug. 29 and tying Amarillo High 6-6 last Friday. Hereford's victory, with the Whiteface offense also putting together a great effort, was 28-0 over Andrews.

Friday's game puts the 11th ranked team in Texas in class 4A (according to the Harris Rating System this week) against the school that has won five straight class 4A state titles in New Mexico.

Texas Tech has big challenge at Miami

"Air McMail" goes against "Air Miami" Saturday when Texas Tech plays at Miami, Fla.

Coach David McWilliams and his offensive team, dubbed "Air McMail," opened the 1986 season last week with a 41-7 victory over Kansas State.

Starting Red Raider quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver completed 19 of 40 passes for 204 yards. Altogether, Texas Tech quarterbacks threw 55 passes, completing 24 of them.

Miami's offense could be called "Air Miami" because of the presence of quarterback Vinny Testaverde, who has completed 29 of 55 passes this season for 394 yards, with two touchdown passes and three interceptions.

Miami is 2-0 with a 34-14 win over South Carolina and a 23-15 victory over Florida.

Miami leads the all-time series against Texas Tech at 2-1, defeating the Red Raiders 6-0 in their last meeting, in 1941.

McWilliams said about his first win at Texas Tech, "I'm excited about winning my first game, but it's time to move on to other things now."

"I was nervous before the game started but once things got going it just became another game."

"I feel alot better about our kick-

Hereford has a 3-3 record against Clovis since 1956. The Whiteface players back from last year will be seeking some revenge for a 30-21 loss at Clovis in the 1985 season.

Two years ago, Hereford overran Clovis 31-7 at Whiteface Stadium.

Hereford Coach Don Cumpton said about playing Clovis, "It's a good game for us. They've got a good team. They're similar to us as far as size and quickness. It should be a good football game."

"They've got a lot of tradition over there. They'll be a contender for the state title again in New Mexico, I would guarantee."

Hereford totaled 343 yards in offense against Andrews while limiting the Mustangs to 180 total yards. The Whiteface offense had 211 yards rushing and 132 yards passing.

One problem Cumpton and his fellow coaches have been working on this week is one regarding penalties. Thirteen penalties, including several illegal procedure calls, were called against the Whitefaces last week, resulting in 125 yards.

"We got some hustlin' penalties. But what concerns us is something like jumping off sides. We can't continue to do that," Cumpton said, emphasizing the importance of discipline.

Continuing his discussion of last week's season opener, the coach said, "We'd like to be able to keep a balance between our running and passing each week. And we didn't turn the ball over."

"That's a big plus and we want to continue that week."

Cumpton agreed that turnovers and penalties are two big factors in losses in football games, but added, "But this week, we've got to be very disciplined on defense, because Clovis runs the option."

"It's important that each defensive player knows where he's supposed to be on the offense," he said, noting that the Wildcats will also use other offensive formations.

"We're looking forward to playing again. We hope to improve, that the critical thing early in the season is improvement," Cumpton continued. "We've got to work on not giving up any long runs. Clovis has good speed and they can score on long runs, like they did against Amarillo High."

After a scoreless half against Amarillo High, Clovis scored in the third quarter when John Ainsworth rushed 43 yards for a touchdown. Amarillo High tied up the game in the fourth inning, and the Wildcats blocked the Sandies' extra point attempt to keep the game tied.

In the Wildcats' 14-6 win over Portales, Vorado Silivongxay and Danny Dameron each scored with six-yard runs. Dameron gained 131 yards rushing in that game.

Eleven Hereford defensive players had five or more tackles each

ENMU plays

New Mexico

Highlands

The unofficial small-college championship for the state of New Mexico will be played Saturday when Eastern New Mexico University plays New Mexico Highlands University at Las Vegas, N.M.

Game time is 7:30 p.m. ENMU defeated Western New Mexico University 49-7 last week, and NMHU will be opening the season Saturday.

ENMU Coach Don Carthel, in his second year with a 6-5 record so far, said, "It's going to be a tougher week for us, and it'll be doubly tough in Las Vegas. Highlands will air the ball out pretty good."

"They've got tremendous receivers. They've also got a good running game. Our motto this week is 'Dominate the State.'"

Last week, the Greyhounds had 262 yards rushing and 193 yards passing, compared to 118 yards rushing and 93 yards passing for Western New Mexico. ENMU led 24-7 at halftime.

Eastern New Mexico holds a 19-7-1 advantage over New Mexico Highlands in the all-time series between the two schools. ENMU won the last meeting, 27-0, in 1983.

against Andrews, led by Tim Long with 12 and Michael Phibbs with nine. Robby Collier, who intercepted a pass, had eight tackles, and Brent Berry also had eight tackles.

Perhaps one of the most significant statistics from the Andrews game was third down conversions. Andrews had nine third down plays in the game, and failed to achieve a first down in any of them.

Hereford, however, had nine third down conversions in 13 attempts.

The 11th ranking in the state by the Harris Rating System may not mean much to the Whitefaces early in the season, as Coach Cumpton declared: "I'm really more interested in where we're ranked at the end of the season instead of the beginning. But I think it's an honor."

Friday's game is the last before the District 1-4A battles begin. Hereford plays at Pampa on Sept. 19 in a district opener, and returns home to play Frenship on Sept. 26.

WTSU Buffaloes aim to rebound from loss

The West Texas State Buffaloes will attempt to rebound from last weekend's 38-32 loss to Troy State when they host Central State of Oklahoma Saturday.

Kickoff is set for 7:30 p.m. at Kimbrough Memorial Stadium in Canyon. The game will be the season opener for Central State.

Central State leads the all-time series with WTSU, 3-2. Those five games were all played in the 1930s.

West Texas State scored a 7-0 victory in 1931 and a 12-0 win in 1935. Central State defeated WTSU 17-0 in 1930, 6-0 in 1933, and 9-0 in 1934.

The Buffaloes came from behind twice in the second half against Troy State, but did not hold onto their lead and suffered a 38-32 defeat.

Troy State rushed for 402 yards and had 520 yards total offense. The Buffaloes had 354 yards passing and 58 yards rushing for 412 total yards.

It was the 11th straight game in which WTSU passed for more than 200 yards. Quarterback Tod Mayfield had 29 completed passes, including three for touchdowns—the 11th straight game in which he has completed at least 20 passes.

The leading pass receiver for WTSU was Votie Patterson with seven passes caught for 183 yards and three touchdowns.

Running back Wayne High of Hereford caught four passes for the Buffaloes, for 11 yards in gains. He carried the ball just one time, for no gain.

Last year, Central State had a season record of 7-2-1. Since 1981, Central State has won at least seven games per season, including a 10-2 record in its 1982 NAIA national championship season.

The Bronchos were an NAIA quarterfinalist last year. Thirty-one lettermen return this year for the team's season opener, including 18 on offense and 13 on defense.

Graduation took away 10 Broncho lettermen. Central State uses the pro and veer offenses and the 5-2 defense.

PUBLIC NOTICE

BRIEF EXPLANATORY STATEMENTS OF PROPOSED

CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS

GENERAL ELECTION

NOVEMBER 4, 1986

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 15 proposes a constitutional amendment that would permit the legislature to provide by general law for the apportionment of the value of railroad rolling stock among the counties in which the property of the railroad is located for purposes of property taxation, and would delete the requirement that the Comptroller participate in making the allocation. To comply with both statutory and constitutional law, the apportionment currently is being made by the State Property Tax Board in conjunction with the Comptroller.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows: "The constitutional amendment to allow the legislature to provide by general law for the apportionment of the value of railroad rolling stock among counties for purposes of property taxation."

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 33 proposes a constitutional amendment that would replace the constitutional requirement that the subject of a bill be expressed in its title with a mandate that each house of the legislature adopt rules of procedure that would require the subject of each bill to be expressed in its title in a manner that gives the legislature and the public reasonable notice of that subject. Determining compliance with the rule would be the responsibility of the legislature. Currently, a law is invalidated if a court finds its caption is defective. The amendment would provide that past and future enactments may not be held void on the basis of an insufficient title.

The amendment also would eliminate the suggestion that the state's laws be revised every ten years, and instead would provide for continuing revision of state laws.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment requiring each house to include in its rules of procedure a rule that each bill contain a title expressing the bill's subject, and providing for the continuing revision of state laws."

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

House Joint Resolution 73 proposes a constitutional amendment that would permit the Legislature to authorize any county, city, town, or other political subdivision to use public funds or credit to pay insurance premiums on nonassessable life, health, or accident policies. Due to the prohibition in the constitution against the lending of, credit and granting of public money, political subdivisions currently are prohibited from becoming shareholders in associations such as mutual-insurance companies, in which policyholders are shareholders. A nonassessable mutual insurance policy does not allow a company to raise capital by assessing the policyholder an extra amount on a premium. This amendment will allow mutual insurance companies and stock companies to bid for life and health group policies of political subdivisions. Public liability will be limited to the payment of premiums specified in the contract.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment allowing political subdivisions the opportunity to engage in and transact business with authorized mutual insurance companies in the same manner as with other insurance companies."

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT

Senate Joint Resolution 4 proposes a constitutional amendment that would repeal the prohibition against branch banking by state banks and would allow state banks and national banks domiciled in this state to establish and operate banking facilities at locations within the county or city where they are domiciled. The amendment would also authorize the Legislature to permit a state bank or a national bank domiciled in this state to engage in business at more than one place if it acquires a failed state bank or national bank domiciled in this state.

The proposed amendment will appear on the ballot as follows:

"The constitutional amendment to provide that a bank may offer full service banking at more than one location within the city or county where its principal facility is located, subject to limitations and restrictions provided by law."

Estos son los informes explicatorios sobre las enmiendas propuestas a la constitucion que apareceran en la boleta el dia 4 de noviembre de 1986. Si usted no ha recibido una copia de los informes en español, podra obtener una gratis por llamar al 1/800/858/8683 o por escribir al Secretario de Estado, P.O. Box 18887, Austin, Texas 78711.

Hostile Herd Sideline Notes

By Shawn Cockrum

Clovis has won the New Mexico state football championship the last five years. Clovis head coach Eric Roanhaus was named by USA Today as the 1985 High School Coach of the Year.

Clovis tied defending 3-5A champion Amarillo High 6-6 last weekend, and defeated Portales 14-6 the week before. Clovis rolls into Hereford Friday night to meet the Whitefaces and the Wildcats are going to be ready to play some football.

But the almighty New Mexico champions may have reached the end of their reign of terror. Clovis returned only two starters from a team that sneaked into the state playoffs last year.

"We are young and very inexperienced," said Roanhaus. "Our scouts say Hereford is real tough team who showed a lot of poise against a bigger Andrews team."

Being a former resident of eastern New Mexico I can honestly say that Roanhaus has been known to be just a little modest. This is going to be Hereford's first true test of the season.

Take it from me, Clovis will be ready for the Herd.

It is going to be a close game, I saying it's going to be decided by a Hereford field goal.

Hereford lost captain Westley Brown to a broken right leg during the Andrews game. Doctors told Brown that surgery may not be necessary but they are going to have to keep a close eye on the injury.

Brown is the second Whiteface to break bones in their lower right leg. In the Maroon-White scrimmage, defensive player Gilbert Tijerina also suffered a break. Tijerina required surgery, but Dr. Leon Fong of Amarillo said the leg is in good shape and will heal normally.

Junior offensive tackle Edward Martinez will also be out for the season. He broke his ankle over the weekend in a non-football accident.

Senior cornerback Keith Herrera sprained an ankle and is listed as a questionable starter for Friday's game.

District 1-4A rival Frenship moved from 110th in last week's Harris Poll all the way to the number 36 spot after defeating Brownfield 49-6.

The Herd will square off against Frenship on Sept. 26 at Whiteface Stadium.

The CYO dance that is usually held at the Knights of Columbus hall after each home game, has been moved to the Community Center for this week. The KC hall was already booked. The dances will be moved back to the KC hall following the next home game to be held Sept. 26.

The senior class will be serving a taco salad, dessert, and a drink prior to Friday's game.

The meal will cost $3.50 and will be served in the high school cafeteria from 5 to 7 p.m.

Take a friend.

Don Ho better watch out. Ted Taylor of the Nazarene Church has slated a luau (that means party Hawaiian style) following the game.

Taylor said that there will be some great food and live music for the low cost of $2.

Book him, Dano. Be careful and we'll see you on the sidelines.

Pitcher George Mullin, born on the Fourth of July, celebrated his 32nd birthday with fireworks on that day in 1912. He pitched a no-hitter for Detroit against the St. Louis Browns.

Joe Lapchick, a member of the Naismith Memorial Basketball Hall of Fame, did not play either high school or college basketball.

Lefty L'Doul pitched in 34 major league games during his career. But in 1929 he led the National League in batting with an average of .398 for the Philadelphia Phillies.

Ard Schenk of the Netherlands won three gold medals in the 1972 Winter Olympics at Sapporo, Japan, and earned the nickname of the "Flying Dutchman."

The Baltimore Orioles led the American League in team slugging percentage in 1985 with a .430 average.

On the second day of the decathlon competition in the 1968 Olympics in Mexico City, it was so hot that the ultimate winner, Bill Toomey of the United States, drank several gallons of water and became ill.

Louis Novrazz of Switzerland won a silver medal in yachting at the age of 67 in the 1968 Olympics.

Ways with Wine
by David Hutchins

CHARTING CHARDONNAY
The intense, distinctive fruit of Chardonnay produces some of the best full-bodied and powerful dry white wines. They go best with fish and shellfish. The lighter wines from southern Burgandy, near Macon, are fine with anything that is not overly pungent or spicy. They are refreshing by themselves as aperitifs. Chardonnay is California's best white wine. Styles of Chardonnay have taken new directions in recent years. They have moved away from ponderous alcohol levels and the over-zealous use of oak in aging. They are still big, powerful wines. However, the best wines of recent vintages show more balance and finesse. They still possess that great burst of fruit that makes them irresistible.

Brimley stars in 'Our House'

NEW YORK (AP) — TV viewers who adopted Bill Cosby as their favorite father should be ready for Wilford Brimley as their surrogate grandpa. Brimley, the round man with the walrus moustache, is the real McCoy.

Brimley, 51, who played much older in "Cocoon," stars as 65-year-old Gus Witherspoon in NBC's new drama, "Our House." While Cosby raises his family with humor, Brimley specializes in no-nonsense common sense.

The Cosby connection is apt. NBC will introduce the hour-long series tonight following the hit "Cosby Show," before "Our House" moves to its regular, more precarious Sunday night slot against "60 Minutes."

Gus is a refreshing character, particularly in this era of precocious TV kiddies, because he is wise equal to his years. "Our House," a blend of "Grandfather Knows Best" and "The Waltons," is compassionate without being sappy. Gentle, warm and amusing, it's a family show suitable for framing.

Other old folks seek youth cosmetically. Gus, a retired widower, rock-solid but hard-set in his ways, is forced into a lifestyle-lift by welcoming into his tidy suburban home his newly widowed daughter-in-law and three grandchildren.

When asked by his cynical friend and breakfast companion Joe Kaplan (Gerald O'Loughlin) why he's tossing away his relaxed retirement, Gus doesn't bat an eye. "They're family," he says, the way others might say, "It's the law."

Deidre Hall, who is keeping her day job on the afternoon soap "Days of Our Lives" while doing "Our House," stars as Jessie Witherspoon, a career homemaker who, six months after her husband dies, takes her children from Indiana to her father-in-law's California home. Her adjustments include a job and living alongside an older man, under his roof and with his rules.

For his part, Gus must adapt to young attitudes, blaring rock 'n' roll and having around another adult with her own childrearing ideas.

"At your age, you don't need this crap," Jessie says to Gus.

"Honey, I'm crap-proof," he says.

The children face struggles, too. Fifteen-year-old Kris (Shannen Doherty) has to share a room with her 8-year-old sister, Molly (Keri Houlihan), not an ideal situation for a teen-ager. Headstrong like her grandfather, Kris is set on a career in the Air Force.

David, 12, played by Chad Allen from "St. Elsewhere," is rebellious and resistant to the transplant. He likes loud video games and louder music.

In 1877, Henry O. Flipper was the first black to graduate from the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

Moslem mathematicians used the cipher, or zero, 200 years before it appeared in 12th-century Europe.

Search begins for Mrs. Texas 1987

The search is on for Mrs. Texas, the woman who will represent the Lone Star State in the 1987 Mrs. American Pageant, to be telecast nationally by ABC-TV. Mrs. America will win prizes and awards valued in excess of $100,000 and will represent the country in the 4th annual Mrs. of the world pageant.

The Texas state finals will take place at the Wyndham Hotel (Greenspoint) in Houston the weekend of March 21-23, and, as usual, will be the largest of all state pageants in the Mrs. America system. In addition to her 12-day trip to the U.S. finals, the new Mrs. Texas will receive a prize package valued at $5,000.

To qualify, prospective entrants must be married, living with their husbands, at least 18 years of age, in good health, U.S. Citizens and must be residents of Texas. Contestants will be judged on the basis of beauty of face and figure, poise, personality and overall appeal. There is no talent competition involved.

The Mrs. Texas Pageant is an at-large competition. Any qualified applicant may be selected to compete for the title. One needs not have to win a local competition to participate.

For free 1987 entry information, prospects should send their name, address and telephone to Glynda Gregory, Administrative Director, Mrs. Texas Pageant 11259-D Lockwood Drive Silver Spring, MD 20901 (Washington, D.C. Suburb) or call (301)589-0505 or (301)681-3322 between 10-6 Daily, Eastern Time.

The reigning Mrs. Texas is Kerry Dinges of Spring, who was a runner-up in the 1986 Mrs. America finals. Texas is the only state to have two Mrs. America winners in the 10-year history of the event.

Program concerning senior citizens set in Lubbock

Issues facing senior citizens and resources for help will be addressed in an October program series sponsored by Texas Tech University Health Sciences Center (TTUHSC) and Lubbock General Hospital.

A "Seniors Are Special" program will be presented each Wednesday during the month from 2-4 p.m. in classrooms 1A and 1B of the hospital. Transportation and courtesy valet parking will be provided.

Each session will be in two parts with the first segment focusing on lifestyle issues and the second devoted to medical care updates.

On Oct. 1, the first topic will be "Aging with a Positive Attitude—Planning Ahead—A Family Affair." Dr. Gail House, assistant dean for external affairs in the College of Home Economics at Texas Tech, will be the featured speaker.

"The Aging Brain: Alzheimer's and Parkinson's Disease" will be presented afterward by Dr. J. Thomas Hutton, medical and surgical neurology professor at TTUHSC.

Certified public accountant Sharon Goldston will detail financial planning strategies in her presentation Oct. 8. She will be followed by Richard Trussell, director of the medical practice income plan at TTUHSC, whose topic is "Medicare Assignment: What Does This Mean?"

The medical segment will be by Dr. Bruce Bartholomew, chief of rheumatology at TTUHSC, who will speak on advances in rheumatism and arthritis treatment.

On Oct. 15, Lubbock Village director Carol Anderson will speak on "Exploring Alternative Living Arrangements and Understanding Home Health Services." Dr. James Buell, TTUHSC chief of cardiology, will then provide an update on managing hypertension and heart disease.

"Looking at the Whole Issue of Diet of Diet and Nutrition" will be the first topic Oct. 22. That presentation will be by Kay Thompson, director of food and nutritional services at Lubbock General Hospital.

The medical segment by Dr. William Reed, TTUHSC adjunct professor in internal medicine, will be "Understanding Drug Interactions." A diabetes update will follow by Dr. Martha Elks, TTUHSC chief of endocrinology.

On Oct. 29, Peter Laverty, director of the seniors program for the city of Lubbock, will speak on identifying community opportunities for senior citizen activities. Peggy Forgason, director of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program at Texas Tech, will join in that presentation.

The medical segment will be by Dr. Davor Vugrin, chief of oncology and hematology at TTUHSC. His presentation will be "Progress in the Treatment of Cancer."

At each session, a free testing or screening will be provided, including blood pressure, diabetes, glaucoma, hearing and respiratory.

The sessions are free and open to all senior citizens, caregivers and health professionals. Registration information may be obtained by calling Judy Schultz, director of volunteer services, Lubbock General Hospital, (806)743-3349.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

Reports

AUSTIN — We might as well get one thing straight from the start. The just-completed 30-day special session of the Texas Legislature was a disaster, a flop, a colossal waste of time and the taxpayer's money.

Oh, a few worthwhile things were accomplished. We passed legislation to allow interstate banking and limited branch banking in the state, moves that should provide a needed infusion of cash for some Texas banks.

The Legislature also approved bills giving public schools more authority to discipline their students and reduce paperwork for teachers. Both those measures will help educator morale and come just in time for the 1986-87 school year.

But, when you compare what was accomplished with what wasn't, the Legislature's track record looks pretty poor. We passed nothing that significantly addresses our $3.5 billion budget deficit. We neither cut state spending nor increased state revenue. In short, we didn't do what we came here to do.

By the time this column finds its way into print, the Legislature will be beginning another 30-day special session. By the end of that session, we almost certainly will have addressed our budget problems in some fashion and will have put the state back on the road to financial solvency.

It shouldn't have taken this long. There is no reason we couldn't have done our business in the first 30 days, no reason we couldn't have been responsible stewards of the state on the first try. And, while no one person or group was entirely responsible for the impasse the House of Representatives must take the lion's share of the blame for the Legislature's ineffectiveness.

House members would not be reasonable in dealing with this financial crisis. They claimed to be opposed to a tax increase, yet they only trimmed the budget by $689 million, less than one-fifth of the total deficit. If that's not political double-talk in action, then we don't know what is.

Scientists have found that people dream four to six times a night. Each dream lasts between 15 and 20 minutes.

Mary, daughter of James V, born in 1542, became queen of England when she was one week old.

Olympic gifts

As late as 1912, at Stockholm, victors of the modern Olympic Games were crowned with wreaths fashioned with leaves — in addition to receiving trophies and medallions. Olympic champions in Berlin in 1936 were awarded oak-tree saplings, suitably potted for replanting in the victor's homeland.

Rapid weight loss diets have hazards

Following a diet that promises to help you lose up to a pound a day can lead to a hazardous loss of nutrients.

"Health professionals have a good reason for recommending that dieters try losing only one to two pounds in a week," says nutritionist Mary K. Sweeten. "Dropping food intake to lose seven pounds a week threatens to disturb the dieter's nutritive balances."

To lose a pound in one week, dieters must reduce their calorie intake by 500 calories each day which adds up to 3,500 calories for the week, says the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service specialist.

Losing seven pounds in a week on a rapid weight loss diet requires eliminating 24,500 calories from your weekly food intake, she adds.

The body needs a certain number of calories just for basic metabolism and more for work. Women usually need 1,800-2,000 calories a day and men about 2,700 depending upon build and activity level.

"In general, this means that rapid weight loss diets short-change women on important nutrients, especially calcium, iron, some of the B-vitamins and vitamin A," cautions Sweeten. "Men are less vulnerable to nutrient deficiencies on these diets, since they are allowed more food."

But both men and women lose muscle as well as fat on these diets, she points out. Then when weight is regained, it is regained first as fat.

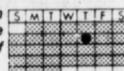

Quick weight loss rarely has any permanent effect and often sends dieters into a cycle of quick weight loss and rebound weight gain when normal eating is resumed, says the nutritionist.

NEW YORK (AP) — The contents of two recent documents suggest big financial problems for America's growing population of renters.

And, because many renters already are at the outer limit of their budgets, their problems inevitably become the problems of society in general.

The first document is The Tax Reform Act of 1986, soon to be passed by Congress and signed by the president. The other is a study entitled "Home Ownership and Housing Affordability" by the Joint Center For Housing Studies.

As written, the tax overhaul measure is likely to result in higher rents. But even now, according to the Joint Center study, one-quarter of those in the lowest income classes have rent burdens of more than 75 percent of income.

The Joint Center, operated by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard University, terms "ominous" the outlook for such renters.

The rental impact of the tax act is likely to result from several changes in the law.

By general consensus, the law will be death on tax shelters which, in spite of any adverse affects on society, did result in lots of housing construction. The impact, in terms of less rental real estate construction, already has begun.

While new housing financed by tax-shelters almost never is available to those lowest on the economic scale, it does add to the supply of housing stock, and allows the poor to inhabit the least-desirable units as others vacate them.

In addition to killing off tax shelters, the act would lessen depreciation of real estate assets for all investors and place limitations on deductibility of interest, in addition to raising capital gains taxes.

Deloitte Haskins & Sells, a large accounting firm, sums up the impact with this terse view: "As the tax benefits of rental real estate are removed or reduced, rents will have to rise if the rates of return are to be maintained."

The Joint Center findings document the already precarious situation of many renters.

—Thirty-five percent of U.S. households rented their own housing in 1983, the latest year used in the study.

—Households in the lowest income class made up 40 percent of all renter households.

—The median rent burden of all renters went from 20 percent of income in 1970, to 27 percent in 1980, to 29 percent in 1983.

—The share of households with rent burdens below one-quarter of income dropped from 60 percent in 1974 to 30 percent in 1983.

—The share of households with rent burdens above 75 percent of income rose to 13 percent from 8 percent in the same 1974-1983 period.

PAUL HARVEY Lives enriched

During our nation's Statue of Liberty birthday party we were reminded of the very many ways in which immigrants have enriched American life.

Lime-lighted for that occasion was an impressive procession of uncommon men and women in the arts, sciences, commerce, politics and professions who have been "transplanted" here.

Though some still speak with an accent, significantly all of these immigrants who have accomplished much have developed a masterful command of the English language.

Yet, presently we are engaged in a public debate over whether English should be made "the official language" of the United States.

All Americans, as Homer McKee used to say, "are mostly something else."

Several of our great cities and rivers have Spanish names.

The all-American menu now includes pasta and bratwurst, gyros and tacos, moussaka and espresso.

But in our passion for ethnic homogenization we have forced bilingual education on public schools and the result is a national disaster.

In response to the largest influx of immigrants in this century many schools pressed into service teachers neither trained nor experienced as long as they could speak two languages.

Director Ron Perlman of the Illinois Resource Center says, "In our rush to put bilingual teachers into classrooms in the '70s we sacrificed academic integrity."

Further, the Chicago experience has been that bilingual teachers who have to give both native language instruction and English instruction may not have the time to dwell on the English.

Further contributing to permanent isolation of the immigrant population are radio and TV stations which broadcast exclusively in a language other than English.

Already, in some court proceedings involving non-English-speaking principals, jurors are being challenged if they can speak only English.

Unless a concerted effort is made-through law or however-to make English our official language, bilingualism is turning out the fire under the melting pot.

We have learned that immigrant students who do not learn English are more likely to drop out of school, have trouble competing for jobs, add to welfare rolls and pass on to the next generation problems in learning and living.

Robert Orben has a way of shucking right down to the cob. He says, "Aliens must learn to speak English or they can only wind up as laborers, dishwashers or economists."

The Newspaper BIBLE

INTRIGUE! CONSPIRACY! FOILED BY A LITTLE BOY!

That night the Lord stood beside Paul and said, "Don't worry, Paul; just as you have told the people about me here in Jerusalem, so you must also in Rome."

The next morning some 40 or more of the Jews got together and bound themselves by a curse neither to eat or drink until they had killed Paul! Then they went to the chief priests and elders and told them what they had done. "Ask the commander to bring Paul back to the Council again," they requested. "Pretend you want to ask a few more questions. We will kill him on the way."

But Paul's nephew got wind of their plan and came to the army and told Paul. Paul called one of the officers and said, "Take this boy to the commander. He has something important to tell him."

So the officer did, explaining, "Paul, the prisoner, called me over and asked me to bring this young man to you to tell you something."

The commander took the boy by the hand, and leading him aside asked, "What is it you want to tell me, lad?" "Tomorrow," he told him. "The Jews are going to ask you to bring Paul before the Council again, pretending they want to get some more information. But don't do it! There are more than 40 men hiding along the road ready to jump him and kill him. They have bound themselves under a curse to neither eat nor drink till he is dead. They are out there now, expecting you to agree to their request." "Don't let a soul know you told me this," the commander warned the boy as he left.

Tax bill could worsen problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's civic leaders have a budget-balancing prescription: Cut foreign aid and defense, trim cost-of-living increases for retired people, and raise taxes on beer, wine and cigarettes.

But don't touch Medicare or Medicaid benefits or highway and mass transit subsidies, they agree.

Groups of local leaders and activists, chosen to represent different interests, met Wednesday in all 50 state capitals and played "Debtbusters," a game based on Washington's budget process.

To win: choose among 41 options to find the $111 billion in combined cuts or taxes to produce a balanced budget in fiscal 1991, the same year President Reagan and Congress have promised to erase the red ink.

The Roosevelt Center for American Policy Studies, a non-partisan foundation, invented the game. Its first nationwide effort was to create a "People's Budget," to be presented today to the chairmen of the House and Senate budget committees and White House budget director James C. Miller III.

"This is a microcosm of America. We had nurses, teachers, small-town bankers, farmers, advocates for the poor, anti-tax activists — even the fire chief of Topeka (Kan.)," said William Galston, who invented the game. "When America speaks, elected representatives should listen to what they have to say."

Most of the states met or exceeded the deficit-reduction goal and 13 of the options — totaling $75.2 billion in savings — were supported by more than half the states.

"There were clear winners and clear losers among the deficit-reduction options," said Galston, the center's director of economic and social programs. "The fact that you didn't get mosh out of this process ... is a politically significant result," he said.

Reagan says he'll veto any tax increase, but only three Midwest neighbors — Missouri, Illinois and Indiana — avoided all the levies. The game required a two-thirds vote for taxes, the same margin Congress would need to override the president.

By far the most popular choice was increasing the "sin taxes," as levies on beer, wine or cigarettes were supported in 41 states. Nebraska approved $90.3 billion, the most of any group. There was no support for a surtax on personal income taxes and only one adopted a value-added tax on manufactured goods.

Increasing gasoline taxes or a new fee on imported oil were supported in only a handful of states.

User fees for the Coast Guard, national parks and other federal services raised money for 40 of the 50 groups.

Every state cut the defense and foreign aid budget. Foreign aid was unpopular, with 36 groups calling for deep cuts.

Opportunities for saving money were seen by more than 30 groups in several military proposals, including eliminating the Midgetman missile, slowing Reagan's "Star Wars" defense program, and reducing military construction and maintenance budgets.

The most popular option of all, with only 8 states dissenting, was to trim cost-of-living adjustments for retired federal employees.

Nearly as popular was a plan to restrict COLAs for younger military retirees.

And Social Security may be a sacred cow in Washington, but it's apparently fair game elsewhere. The tally was 29-21 in favor of limiting those COLAs, and 20 states supported new taxes on Social Security benefits.

And speaking of cows: 28 states said they would go along with trimming or eliminating farm price supports.

The first successful, long-distance transmission of television took place April 7, 1927, in the United States with the sending of the image of Commerce Secretary Herbert Hoover from Washington to New York.

Prohibition in the United States ended in 1933.

President Woodrow Wilson signed a declaration of war against Germany April 6, 1917, and took the United States into World War I. The move came after two years of rising indignation which began with the sinking of the Lusitania by a German submarine off the south coast of Ireland.

The 450,000 tons of shattered rock that lay at the base of Mount Rushmore after four American presidents' faces were carved away, and there it remains.

Lecture on Indian art planned

Southern Plains Indian art will be the subject of a lecture at the Panhandle-Plains Historical Museum in Canyon on Sunday.

Richard Conn, Curator of Native Arts at the Denver Art Museum, Denver, Colo., will speak at 3 p.m. in the Audio-Visual Gallery, according to Bill Brown, the Museum's Curator of Ethnology. A reception will follow at 4 p.m.

Conn is a noted expert in the field of North American Indian art. After receiving bachelor's and master's degree in anthropology from the University of Washington, Seattle, he served as Director of the Eastern Washington State Historical Society; as Chief of the Division of Human History in the Manitoa Museum of Man and Nature, Winnipeg; and as Director of the Heard Museum of Anthropology, Phoenix.

He also presently serves as Adjunct Professor of Anthropology and Fine Arts both in the University of Colorado at Denver and in the University of Denver. Conn's numerous publications include articles on Cheyenne beadwork design, Blackfeet necklaces, and Southern Plains beadwork in general. He is the author of "Circles of the World: Traditional Art of the Plains Indians," published by the Denver Art Museum in 1982.

"In conjunction with Conn's lecture, the museum has on permanent exhibit a fine collection of Southern Plains Indian art and artifacts," said Brown. Representing the Comanche, Kiowa, Cheyenne, and Arapahoe nations, the exhibits illustrate the beauty and imagination with which Southern Plains peoples adorned themselves, their homes, and their household belongings. Their nomadic lifestyle required their art to be portable as well as utilitarian, he added.

Beginning with the migrations which brought each group into the Panhandle-Plains region, the exhibits use materials from these peoples' everyday lives to interpret different aspects of their cultures. The Southern Plains Indian hall continues to be one of the most popular areas in the museum, Brown noted. "Conn's lecture provides us an opportunity to learn more about how these artifacts convey each people's need to be surrounded by beauty," he said.

Both Conn's lecture and the reception are open to the public free of charge.

Top seniors eligible for scholarships

Top Texas high school seniors are eligible for $16,000 four-year Texas Excellence Awards for Scholarship and Leadership sponsored by The Ex-Students' Association of The University of Texas at Austin.

In addition to the top awards, $8,000 four-year Awards of Distinction and $1,000, one-year Awards of Recognition will be awarded to other finalists.

Applicants must be in the top five percent of their class and demonstrate leadership ability in the classroom and/or extracurricular activities. Applications for the Texas Excellence Awards will be available from high school counselors by mid-September with a November 1 application deadline.

More than 1400 high school seniors made application last year, and during the five year history of the Texas Excellence Awards, more than 6000 Texas students have applied for the annual scholarships. For additional information, contact The Ex-Students' Association, P.O. Box 7278, Austin, Tx. 78713, or call (512)476-6271.

DR. GOTT Medication isn't 'catching'

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am sexually involved with a man who is having chemotherapy treatments for lung cancer and a liver tumor. Is there any way the drugs he takes could be transmitted to me?

DEAR READER — Your partner's chemotherapy will not affect you. However, anti-cancer treatments often reduce a patient's resistance to infection, and it's possible that he could contact an unusual infection that might be transmitted to you. I think this is unlikely if your immune system is normal. The drugs he is taking should not directly influence your health.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My doctor says I have irritable bowel syndrome. What is this and what can I do to cure it?

DEAR READER — Irritable bowel syndrome (spastic colon) is a common condition that causes periodic diarrhea, cramps and gas. In many people, the situation is stress-related. It may be made worse by certain foods, like roughage and fruits.

Experts now believe that some people have overly sensitive intestinal tracts that are easily stimulated. When this happens, food moves too rapidly through the bowel, digestion is incomplete, liquid is not reabsorbed back into the system and symptoms develop. Sometimes antispasmodic drugs — to reduce bowel contractions — help control irritable bowel. Often, minor changes in diet may be effective.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report on IRRITABLE BOWEL SYNDROME. Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 plus their name and address to P.O. Box 2597, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband and I are planning to start a family and are concerned about the effects of stress on the baby during pregnancy. I am a recovered agoraphobic, so you can see there was at one time a great deal of stress in our lives. Do you have any suggestions about stress reduction during pregnancy?

DEAR READER — Physically normal, well-fed pregnant women are able to withstand a great deal of stress without risking the unborn baby's health. Agoraphobia (a fear of crowded or restricting environments) is not genetically transmitted. Therefore, from the information you have provided, I think that you and your husband need not worry about starting a family. Put yourself under the care of a good obstetrician, relax and enjoy a very special time in your life. Incidentally, "The Well Baby Book" by Mike & Nancy Samuels (Summit Books, 1979) lists stress-reduction exercises that you might find interesting.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am a 27-year-old female on the thin side. I get lots of black-and-blue marks on my legs, and once in a while, I have poor circulation in one leg or another. Is this something to be concerned about?

DEAR READER — Bruising and poor circulation, although normal in many people, can indicate a blood disorder or a dietary deficiency. I suggest you have an examination and blood tests by your doctor in order to make sure that there is no serious cause for your problem.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is rice constipating?

DEAR READER — Rice is not generally considered to be constipating. Although starchy foods are not effective bowel stimulators, they will not ordinarily cause constipation unless a person takes too little fluid in the diet or has a tendency to sluggish bowels. Constipation has less to do with what we eat than with physical activity, adequate fluid intake and normal bowel function. As they age, some people experience constipation no matter what they eat. At this stage, increasing dietary roughage and potassium-containing fruits (like apricots and prunes) may help.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Are natural and anabolic steroids related?

DEAR READER — The term "steroid" usually refers to a group of cortisone-like drugs. But, in fact, many compounds made in the body are steroids. These include cortisone and related substances, sex hormones and bile acids. Some hydrocarbon carcinogens (cancer-producers) are members of the steroid family. Anabolic steroids are synthetic drugs that are derivatives of the naturally occurring male hormone testosterone. These compounds are sometimes used to promote tissue growth in patients who are debilitated and chronically ill. Although anabolic steroids are related to testosterone, they don't work in precisely the same way.

DEAR DR. GOTT — After I lost 40 pounds, my blood pressure returned to the normal range. I take 50 milligrams of Hydrodiuril and 40 milligrams of Lasix, but still get fluid retention in my ankle and one leg. What can I do for this problem?

DEAR READER — Unilateral edema (one-sided swelling) may be caused by circulatory abnormalities in one leg and not the other. Venous blockage or vein damage can cause this. Hydrodiuril is a mild diuretic compared to Lasix. I doubt that you need to take both. Elevate the swollen leg when possible, and check with your doctor to determine if your treatment can be altered or reduced.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 61, about 25 pounds overweight (and trying to lose) and work standing up all day. I have phlebitis in my ankle. What is the outcome of this disease. What can I do to help it?

DEAR READER — Phlebitis means inflammation of a vein lining. It can progress to phlebotrombosis, when a blood clot may form and adhere to the inflamed segment. This causes pain and swelling — ordinarily not a dangerous situation unless the affected vein is deep in the leg muscle. I suggest that you wear elastic support stockings or anklets while you are standing and try to elevate the leg whenever possible while at home or after work.

Luncheon choices packed with nutrition, good flavor

Nutritious and delicious need not be at the opposite ends of the dietary scale. With a bit of planning, they can both come together. This is especially true at lunchtime, which so often consists of hurry-up junk food choices.

For a lunch eaten at home or carried, consider this creamy golden carrot soup. It combines carrots rich in vitamin A with milk, an excellent source of calcium, riboflavin and protein. It's then carefully seasoned with onion, bay leaf, chicken bouillon and nutmeg.

The sandwich spread blends with peanut butter, a plant-based protein, with Cheddar cheese, an animal-based one. Together, the two make a high-quality protein sandwich which is also delicious. Sour cream adds tang while holding the mixture together. Orange juice and peel along with a handful of raisins contribute a pleasing contrast in flavor.

No time for all this? Both soup and sandwiches can be made ahead at your leisure and frozen. All that's required is that they be thawed, the soup heated and a curly lettuce leaf slipped into the sandwich just before eating.

CREAM OF CARROT SOUP (6 servings)

- 1 pound carrots, pared and thinly sliced
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 bay leaf
- 1½ cups water
- 1 tablespoon instant chicken bouillon
- ¼ cup (½ stick) butter
- ¼ cup all-purpose flour
- Dash pepper
- ½ teaspoon nutmeg

1½ cups milk

Chopped parsley
Place carrots, onion, bayleaf, water and chicken bouillon in a 3-quart saucepan. Bring to a boil; cover and simmer 15 to 20 minutes or until tender. Meanwhile, melt butter in a 2-quart saucepan. Blend in flour, pepper and nutmeg. Cook, stirring constantly, until roux bubbles for 2 minutes. Remove from heat; gradually stir in milk. Bring to a boil over medium heat, stirring constantly; boil and stir 1 minute. Remove bay leaf from carrot mixture; pour mixture with cooking liquid into blender or food processor and process just until coarsely chopped. It may be necessary to process a portion at a time. (Or, press through coarse sieve.) Combine carrot mixture and cream sauce; heat just to boiling. Garnish with chopped parsley.
