

Most interest in governor's, Dist. 19 races

BY SPEEDY NIEMAN
Editor/Publisher

The 1986 General Election will be held Tuesday with most voter attention in local Smith County appearing in the governor's race and the 19th congressional District contest.

Of the county level, the only contest to be held in 19th County Commission District 19 and only voter in that district is a 19th District contest for Democrat John Latham of Lufkin and Republican Bill White of Lufkin.

White will be pitted against Latham in the 19th District race. The race is expected to be very close. White has a strong following in the district and Latham has a strong following in the district.

recently the Zinser residence and the Bippus Community. Only a handful of voters had been using these boxes. Voters who formerly cast ballots at the Zinser residence will vote at La Plata and those at Bippus will now go to the Simms voting box.

The clerk's office mailed out about 1,000 new voter registration cards earlier this month to correct box numbers. The voting precinct boxes are numbered 1 through 9 this year and skip to 11. After Tuesday, the county will combine the Northwest Elementary box with that at La Plata. The changes were approved by the county in order to prepare for an anticipated turnout.

The clerk's office also determines the voters in the county party registration office. The year's registration is completed from the party's registration office. The registration office is located at the county clerk's office.

former governor Bill Clements hopes to regain the seat he lost to White in 1982. Theresa Doyle also seeks the seat as a Libertarian candidate.

The attorney general race has also drawn some interest with Democratic incumbent Jim Mattox facing the challenge of Roy Bartera Jr., Republican, and Mike Stephens, Libertarian. A sample ballot was printed in Tuesday's Brand 191, 28, which shows all the races for the election.

Candidates for Deaf Smith County offices include nine uncontested Democrats. These are Wesley Galley, district judge; Roland Saul DA; Tom Simms, county judge; Lou Veazey, district clerk; David Roland, county clerk; Aveta Nunnery, county treasurer; Kay Hagar, county supervisor; John Turentine, JP; and Avelin Beck, justice of the peace. Latham or Hahnaway. There are four proposed constitutional amendments on the ballot. No. 1 would allow the legislature to provide for the apportionment of the value of railroad rolling stock among counties for the purpose of property taxation.

No. 2, if passed, would require each house to include a rule that each bill contain a title expressing the bill's subject, and provide for the continuing revision of state laws. This is termed a "housekeeping" bill to keep embarrassing bills from slipping through the Texas House or Senate, especially in the mad rush of finishing a session.

No. 3 would allow political subdivisions the opportunity to do business with authorized companies in the state with other insurance companies.

No. 4, if passed, would allow a bank may offer financial services at more than one location within the city or county where the primary facility is located, subject to regulations and limitations of the state law.

44 percent turnout predicted

AUSTIN, AP — Secretary of State Mera McDaniel predicted Friday that only about 3.2 million Texas voters will turn out in Tuesday's general election.

She estimated 44 percent of the 7.5 million registered voters will cast their ballots at 5,764 precincts.

In 1982, when Gov. Mark White upset Bill Clements, the first Republican governor this century, there was a 56 percent turnout with 4,191,000 voters.

The presidential election in 1984 had a 68 percent turnout with 5.3 million voters.

Ms. McDaniel said if her prediction is correct, only 28 percent of the voting age population will elect state and county officials.

State officials have consistently received less than that percentage of the vote because of the decrease in turnout and the quality of the candidates, she said.

The 1986 election will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 2, at 7 p.m. at 5,764 precincts.

That's what you can expect to see on the news today. The news today is all about the election. The news today is all about the election.

Being that if you bend over backwards for people it's harder for them to sack you in the seat of the poops.

The six-year-old boy began to notice movie ratings and would tell why he couldn't see the PG and R-rated movies. His parents tried to explain what the ratings meant, but he didn't catch the reasons. Then one day he ran to his mom and exclaimed brightly, "Mom, I've figured it out. G means Good, PG means Pretty Good, and R means Rotten."

Volunteers for the Hereford Satellite Center will be conducting a "Dollar a Door" drive today (Sunday). Volunteers will be going door to door and asking only for a $1 donation at each residence. If you have an extra buck, it's a very worthwhile contribution.

Christmas Carousels, a new chamber sponsored event, will launch the Christmas-shopping season here next weekend. Tempting holiday gift items will be displayed in 22 booths at the Community Center Friday and Saturday, and a catered brunch is scheduled Saturday. There'll be more details in The Brand this week.

Merchants will also kickoff the annual "Home for the Holidays" promotion next weekend, and The Brand will publish a special section that will outline a plan for the election. The plan is to have the poll day at the Bippus office.

The recent acquisition of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce newsletter points out that there is a lot of activity around town. Some of the things going on include the new construction of a Family Life Center at First Baptist Church; the opening of an office complex, housing, Doug Manning's; In-Sight Books office in the old Pugh's Weekly building; the First National Bank's new parking area across from the post office; and other new downtown stores including Noah's Ark, The Korner Kiosket, Baskets & Things, and Merle Norman's and Onda's. The new Hereford Grain office on Hwy. 60 is a great asset too.

Did you hear the story about the U.S. customs agent down at the Mexican border? A bicyclist pulled up at the gate and the guard asked what he was carrying in the two bags slung over his shoulders.

"Sand," the cyclist replied. The guard checked and found nothing but sand. The same thing happened week after week, and sometimes the guard would carefully sift through the sand and find nothing.

Then finally, after six months, the cyclist failed to appear. Soon afterwards, the guard ran across the cyclist downtown. "Say, buddy, you sure drove us crazy at the border," he said. "We knew you were smuggling something. I won't say a word, but please tell me what it was."

"Bicycles," the guy replied.

Christmas campaign for needy children launched

LUBBOCK — In an effort to raise $500,000 for underprivileged and needy children in West Texas and New Mexico, the Furr's Foundation has launched the Share Bear Christmas Campaign.

In the first two weeks of the camaign, the Share Bear project has raised $100,000. The money is being raised through the sale of Share Bears in grocery stores that support the Furr's Foundation effort. Each Share Bear sells for $12.99 and $5 of the purchase price goes directly into the Share Bear Christmas Fund.

The Furr's Foundation, a philanthropic arm of Furr's, Inc., will distribute the funds several days before Christmas. Share Bears are being sold in 44 cities and the $500,000 will be donated in those cities. Because the Share Bears are being offered for sale in Hereford, a percentage of the fund will be donated to worthy causes here.

Roland Hasenoehrl, president of Furr's, Inc. and co-director of the Share Bear Campaign, said, "We have a team of researchers studying the social organizations in each of our target cities. We will make a donation to the organization or organizations that appear to be in the most need. Our goal is to give a gift that never ends and that's why we want to help those who help kids."

By supporting children's organizations such as shelters for abused and neglected children, low-income day care centers, recreational programs, low-income health clinics and other projects, the Share Bear Christmas Campaign hopes to give kids a chance to grow up with both strong bodies and healthy minds.

"There are thousands of children in need," said Hasenoehrl, "and it takes a great deal of money to help. I know that we can raise a half million dollars with the help of the good folks in this community."

Various grocery stores are supporting the Furr's Foundation project by handling the sale of Share Bears. Each of the supporting stores has a large Share Bear display and information about the project. The employees wear buttons that say "Ask Me For The Bear Facts" and the store's weekly advertising includes news about the project.

Share Bear himself is a cuddly 24" tall, has honey-toned fur and is decked out in a jaunty red cap and scarf. Made from plush materials, the toy exceeds all government safety standards for stuffed toys.

at the Hereford Community Center. This year's campaign passed its goal of $110,000.

Girl Scouts become newest local United Way agency

The Girl Scouts of America have become the newest agency in the United Way of Deaf Smith County, it was announced this week by M.D. Gentry, UW board president.

The addition of the Girl Scouts was unanimously approved by the board. The Girl Scouts will become full participating members in January, 1988.

Sallie Strain is the local field director for Girl Scouts, serving Deaf Smith County and Tulia. Jean Wood of Amarillo is the executive director for Girl Scouts in this region. She has been with Girl Scouts since 1968, formerly serving on the board in Mississippi.

The budget and admissions committee had recommended the admittance of Girl Scouts earlier, but the board took no action until the current fund-raising campaign had been completed.

The United Way is still accepting contributions for the new budget year. Although the formal campaign ended earlier this month and the goal of $110,000 was attained, some donor cards are still being received.

Other agencies in the local United Way include YMCA, Senior Citizens, Big Brothers-Big Sisters, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire, Inc., Red Cross, Salvation Army, Family Services, Hi-Plains Epilepsy and Children's Rehabilitation Center.

High-tech camera catches speeders

By DONNA GEHRKE Associated Press Writer

FRIENDSWOOD, Texas (AP) — Galveston County constables in Friendswood are taking traffic enforcement to a new electronic plateau.

A radar-using computer in an inconspicuous truck parked on the shoulder of busy Interstate 45 south of Houston triggers a camera that photographs speeders and their license plates.

"It shoots a picture like a flashlight beam," Lt. Danny Vinning says.

Friendswood officials send out traffic violation notices to the owners of the vehicles photographed. The owners then can pay a fine that begins at $60, ask for a court hearing or identify the person behind the wheel if not the owner of the car.

The Texas constables are believed to be the first police in the nation to use the high-tech equipment although Switzerland and other parts of Europe have used it for years.

The machine can catch a speeder each half-second, compared to a police officer's average of 14 tickets a day, clerk Barbara Gerlach says.

Friendswood constables say it has slowed traffic and improved safety on the busy route between Houston and Galveston.

"This is so much safer than the high-speed chase," Vinning says. "It's a good piece of equipment."

The county has a one-year lease with a Friendswood business, Traffic Monitoring Technologies, Inc. that imported the $35,000 equipment, the company's president Manuel Fustes says. But the lease can be broken at any time, he said. The county pays $20 to the firm for each ticket paid. The company processes the film and maintains the equipment.

Galveston County Judge Ray Holbrook says he anticipates a debate among the four commissioners when they discuss the fate of the high-tech machinery at the end of a six-month probation period later this month. The commissioners originally were not unanimous in favor of using the device.

Other officials have more philosophical concerns.

"I think there are some Big Brotherism in that particular system," Galveston County District Attorney Mike Guarino says.

Part of his worries are eased by officers being at the scene when the equipment is used to ensure it is working properly, he said.

So far, about 70 percent of some 1,750 violation notices have resulted in fines paid, Justice of the Peace James W. Woltz says. Fewer than 10 motorists have challenged the violation notices — and they all have been found guilty by juries, he says.

Woltz, a lawyer, says juries seem to trust the equipment and do not view it as an invasion of privacy.

But he says officials are careful not to send out a violation notice unless the driver clearly can be identified. The day and time of the alleged violation and the speed are printed on the picture. The machine is set to catch motorists traveling at least 65 mph — 10 mph over the legal limit.

Some owners have thanked officials because they have discovered relatives or friends have been speeding in their cars, Woltz says.

The device even beats the popular radar detectors, because the pictures are taken before a motorist can react to the buzz of the detector, officials say.

Some motorists are curious about the bulky, black equipment.

Al Jackson of Dickinson pulled his pickup over one day recently to take a look.

"Wow. It just amazes me. I think it is terrific. I haven't got a ticket by it but I'd pay it if I had," he said.

Ms. Gerlach says she now has to work overtime to keep up with the business the high-tech equipment has generated.

Traffic violation notices have more than tripled since constables started using the computer-camera in their spare time, Mrs. Gerlach says.

Still, word-of-mouth about the equipment has slowed down traffic, constables say.

About three weeks ago, 54 violators were photographed in an hour — or about 8 percent of all the cars and trucks that drove by.

"When I first started working it, I had 548 violators in a four-hour period," Deputy George Smith says.

Studies in Europe have shown the equipment slows high-speeding motorists who could be safety hazards, Fustes says.

Veterans now eligible for new loan programs

Texas veterans can now participate in all three loan programs of the Texas Veterans Land Board, expanding the loan amounts from $20,000 to $55,000.

After a four-month trial period, the board made permanent the dramatic increase in benefits. "The best veterans programs in the U.S. just got better," said Garry Mauri, chairman of the land board.

"What this means is Texas veterans can now get a $20,000 loan to buy land, and a $20,000 loan to buy a house, and a $15,000 loan for home improvements," Maura said. In the past, veterans were limited to only one loan with the land board.

The Texas Veterans Land Program will loan eligible veterans up to $20,000 for the purchase of five acres or more at 8.75 percent interest. The minimum number of acres had been 10. Reducing the number of acres is expected to make it easier for veterans to buy land closer to an urban area. Term of the loan is 30 years.

Mauri reported that more than 90,000 Texas veterans have received land loans since the program began in 1946.

The Texas Veterans Housing Assistance Program offers eligible veterans up to $20,000 at 9 percent interest to use toward the purchase of a home. The loans formerly carried a rate of 9.5 percent. Mauri stressed that the program offers the best deal for veterans in Texas because of the lower rate, there are no points charged on the loans, and the closing costs are lower.

The Texas Veterans Home Improvement Program loans are available up to $15,000 at 11.5 percent for 15 years to make improvements to existing homes. The minimum loan amount is $5,000. If the loan is $7,500 or less, the maximum term of the loan is 10 years. No down payment is required and all loans are FHA-insured. More than 15,000 Texas veterans have already been certified to participate in this program.

The loans can be applied to single-family attached and detached houses, town houses, units of a condominium development or planned unit development, as well as 2-4 family residences constructed at least five years prior to the closing date of the loan.

Interested veterans can call toll free at 1-800-252-VETS.

Developer pulls off the impossible

By RUTH RENDON Associated Press Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Developer H. Milton Howe pulled off what some said would be impossible: he managed to hush the blaring Houston traffic with his 10,000-square-foot studio of modern soundproof design.

"It's the only sound studio in the country where you can run air conditioning while shooting," Howe boasts of the mammoth room in his Houston Studios complex.

Many of his associates warned Howe that a soundproof studio couldn't be built adjacent to a freeway, but he says, "What they meant is I couldn't do it reasonably."

The 39-year-old developer poured $750,000 into the project.

A person entering the studio is swallowed by its size and transfixed by its stillness. Hanging 10 feet from the 40-foot ceiling is a wooden grid catwalk, where lights can be hung, accessible only by a steep set of stairs.

The soundproofing was made possible through a foundation consisting of 18 feet of sand, covered by a 1½ feet of concrete, a layer of rubber pads, two-by-four spacers, plywood and a final layer of particle board. The roof also has sand and insulation to prevent even rain from being heard inside. The walls consist of six inches of concrete, insulation, two layers of sheetrock, and another layer of insulation.

Howe, who owns about 10 acres in a warehouse district near downtown, first started developing the area into an artists' haven.

Before the studio was built, he said the technical question of actually having a sound studio next to Interstate 10, along with its location having the reputation as a bad neighborhood, haunted him.

"It's been a nerve-racking experience," Howe says of the project he started two years ago.

Howe said his lifelong friend Derik Rawson kept telling him Houston needed a motion picture studio.

"I didn't want to mess with a business I didn't know anything about. But they all kept saying the same thing — Houston had the potential for movies but no facility. I finally became convinced," he said.

Howe said he hopes to attract the motion picture industry to Houston and help diversify the city's oil-dependent economy.

PBS presents geology special

NEW YORK (AP) — When geologists talk about the movement of continents, they talk in terms of centimeters per year. And when they talk about an event such as an earthquake or volcanic eruption being imminent, the time frame may be a thousand years.

Slow it is, but it does move, and we all should see it, says Ron Redfern, who developed "The Making of a Continent" which starts Monday on public television.

"We've just seen it move in San Salvador. Very shortly we will see it move again in San Francisco," Redfern said on a recent visit to New York. "You have felt the flexing of the Earth in this part of the world not long ago."

The six-part series is half rerun and half new material. The last three hours appeared on public television in 1983 and won a Peabody Award.

The new programs start with the basics of the North American continent: How it has drifted and evolved over billions of years, and how the process continues.

The second segment covers the evolution of the Great Plains and the third new episode is about the Mississippi River. It's not just about geology, but about how geology influences the way people live on the land.

Redfern comes to the subject as an outsider, a businessman born in Wales who was profoundly affected by a visit to the Grand Canyon in 1969.

Six years later, he sold his business interests and devoted himself to the study of the Earth and mastering the recently accepted ideas of continental drift and plate tectonics. The first fruit of this passion was the book "Corridors of Time," published in 1980, in which Redfern brought his expertise in panoramic photography to bear on the Grand Canyon. His second book, "The Making of a Continent," was published in 1983.

"My main objective, undoubtedly, is to share the excitement of the present revolution with the general public, people like myself, who would find geology as dry as dust, when in fact it is the very opposite," Redfern said.

It's unfortunate that Redfern did not appear on camera to convey his personal sense of excitement, as Robert MacNeil has done in PBS's "The Story of English" or as the irrepressible James Burke has done on "The Day the Universe Changed."

On "The Making of a Continent," the off-camera narration by Marty Robinson can turn to a soothing drone in a drowsy viewer's ear.

"The Making of a Continent" was co-produced by the British Broadcasting Co. in association with public television station WTTW of Chicago.

Merit selection

Texas should shift to merit selection of Supreme Court and appellate court judges. The system, as observed in several other states, involves appointment of judges by the governor on the recommendation of a top-flight nominating committee. In these states, public accountability is assured by giving citizens a vote on rejecting or retaining each judge.

Integrity and experience are really the only issues in a race for judge. All that a candidate can promise is that he will be a fair interpreter of the law.

Is justice served when a potential judge has to posture himself for campaign contributors — or votes? No. Texas should take its Supreme Court out of the campaign arena.

Prison problems

Beset on every hand by court orders and litigation threats, the Texas prison system is now in danger of being held in contempt for what the Department of Justice claims is the system's failure to provide court-mandated information on prison desegregation ...

The Justice Department motion in the prison case accuses TDC officials of failing to show compliance with court orders that the racial composition of all housing units be within 70 percent of the racial composition of the entire prison system.

The thrust of the government's case seems to be that it is more important to enforce sometimes frivolous court orders in a prison system that was not designed for comfort and pleasure than to make certain that criminals pay the penalty for their crimes under adverse conditions.

Where's that macho man you married?

By DEBRA FOWLER Killen Daily Herald

Maybe someone can tell me what happens to men when they get married.

What happens to these supposedly strong and independent creatures who seemed to have it all together when they used to pick you up for a date?

If you ever overhear a group of women talking about their husbands, you'll find that married men seem to have quite a few common characteristics.

Look at married men when they're sick, for example.

When a man gets a cold, he jumps in bed and stays there for days, almost any woman will tell you. And the whining that comes out of his sick room is unbelievable. He wants soup to unstuff his nose; he wants ice cream to make his throat feel better; he wants extra pillows so he can watch TV.

"Every move he makes is painful — it must be, for all the moaning he does," a friend of mine said about her husband, who was, at the time, wallowing in misery with a sinus infection. "He says he doesn't sleep a wink all night — but his snoring keeps me awake. And he claims nothing tastes good — after he eats three pieces of pie.

"If I don't call him from work to check on him, he pouts," she declared. "It drives me crazy."

A man can play tackle for the Dallas Cowboys, drive an 18-wheeler 12 hours a day, work construction or work on Wall Street — it doesn't matter. When a stuffy nose strikes, the world stops.

But — their wives can have massive surgery and men still expect us to carry on business as usual.

I remember when I had a skiing accident and was laid up at home with a badly injured leg and ribs. My spouse, considerate though he is, finally called to check on me at 5 p.m.

"Are you doing all right?" he asked.

"No, I'm lying in a pool of blood at the bottom of the stairs," I answered.

"This is the first chance I've had all day to call you," he said. "I'll be home shortly. ... What are we fixing for dinner?"

"Gee, I don't know," I said, "and I've spent the entire day thinking about it. How do corn flakes strike you?"

Few married men I've ever met can keep up with their belongings. How they survived before they got married is a wonder to me.

"Have you seen my keys?" my spouse asks me almost every other day.

"Have you looked for them?" I used to respond.

"No," he'd say. "I figured that since you're always putting things away, I shouldn't waste my time looking — you probably put them somewhere."

This used to annoy me, especially when I could see his keys from where I happened to be sitting or standing. And they always were exactly where he threw them when he came through the door. After several years of pointing this out, however, I now just go get them and hand them to him. Why bother making a fuss when the next question will probably be:

"Have you seen my sunglasses? I know I left them right there."

Men seem to believe that we wives spend our leisure time rearranging their closets. Whenever they're not around, we sneak into their closets and begin hiding things — as if we don't have enough to do.

Although I'm a firm believer in men doing their share of the household chores, I'm also a believer in never leaving a married man alone in the house for more than a day or two at a time.

What's neat and clean to him isn't necessarily neat and clean to his wife. I learned this after leaving my spouse alone for six weeks once. It will never happen again if I can help it.

When I returned home, strange objects were alive and multiplying in my refrigerator, which contained a two-year supply of TV dinners and hot dogs and several cartons of rotting milk.

My spouse had assured me on the phone that he'd kept the house neat. I didn't know until I got there, however, that "neat" meant he'd stacked six week's worth of newspapers in a pile in the living room — as opposed to hurling them throughout the house. "Neat" also meant that the dirty clothes — some six weeks old — were, indeed, in the hamper.

"Why didn't you wash these things?" I asked in disgust.

"I didn't need them," was the simple and true answer. Who can argue with that?

Another thing most married women don't like to do is let their husbands do the grocery shopping. A bachelor is used to shopping for decent food for himself. A married man, who usually doesn't plan the meals, isn't.

In addition to buying the roast, the chicken and the vegetables you asked him to buy, he comes home with pickled artichokes, five bags of tortilla chips, seven jars of hot sauce and five cans of sardines. My mother actually has a special shelf in her pantry for my father's impulse food buys. Whenever, he says he wants "something different," she slings the pantry door open, points to his shelf and says "have at it, the salmon balls and stuffed herring you bought last week await you."

But who's complaining? These are the things that add spice — and indignation — to life.

Bootleg Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnsongrass Farm on Tierra Blanca Creek claims he has cleaned off his desk.

Dear editor:

I've read that a clean desk is the sign of a clear, efficient mind, but some of the cleanest desks in Washington are manned by some of the world's worst bureaucratic bunglers.

I partially cleaned mine off yesterday and found the following items: When the Federal government had to shut down recently because it was temporarily out of borrowed money, half a million non-essential workers were sent home at noon. If they are non-essential, you wonder what they're doing on the job in the first place.

There's a long-running TV commercial telling how a company makes money the old-fashioned way. An actor growls: "They earn it."

On the other hand, there's something to be said for the new-fangled way: make a million dollars a year as head of a car company. Make a million and a half a year as a quarterback, or a baseball player, or a basketball player. And there's something to be said for that actor who growls about making money the old-fashioned way. He probably makes $100,000 the new-fangled way for saying it.

I've never understood how a movie star making a sales pitch on television could make anybody buy a telephone or a new car or a headache pill.

Some politicians keep saying the country is in the greatest economic expansion in years. With the national debt accumulated in the last five years greater than all the combined indebtedness run up in the prior 195 years in the history of the nation, with an annual deficit of around $290 billion, and with the government borrowing 5 or 6 billion dollars every Monday morning, you reckon it's like the farmer who expanded so much on borrowed money he went broke?

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

The Penultimate Word

THE TEFLON TEST

President Reagan is incredible. They call him "The Teflon President" because nothing sticks to him. No matter what happens he grins, says "Well", and suddenly everything is fine. I do not know how he does it. Even the press, who's livelihood depends on finding scandal, somehow melt when he grins. Maybe he becomes the ultimate Father image. Maybe he becomes the image of a little boy who has done bad, but boys will be boys. What we still see him as the good guy moviestar. At his press conferences I sort of expect a twenty mule team to pull a Borax Wagon onstage and the theme music to start.

Whatever the reason, the results are beyond relief. What other president could blow a summit and come home a hero?

Can you imagine what Carter would have caught when he got home? (If he got home.) We may well have shot down his plane with one of the missiles he was negotiating about.

Or Ford? The comedians would have had a field day. All of the jokes about his playing football without a helmet would have become alive and well again.

Or Nixon? Headlines would declare "Tricky Dicky is tricked." Nixon would have to go on television and declare, "I am not a crook. I do not make money out of missiles", and no one would believe him.

Johnson would have pulled it off. He was not Teflon coated. Everything stuck to him but he did not care. He would have come home mad and ready to pull his dog's ears.

Kennedy may have gotten by, also. He would have made it because no one would have noticed. The press reports would have given first priority to what Jackie was wearing. The conference would have been on the back page.

I have hollered about the press for years. Their latching on to one mistake and ruining a president made me furious. I take it all back. It is more fun having a president with no Teflon. Matter of fact, next time lets ignore the credentials, the hype, the promises, and the platform. Let's give him a Teflon test. If it don't stick don't give them the job.

Warm fuzzies,
Doug Manning

Welfare easy, jobs difficult for aliens

Even before Congress completed action on the new immigration legislation, according to news reports, the wives of some U.S. senators in fashionable Chevy Chase—with illegal immigrant maids from El Salvador—were beginning to make other arrangements.

The invasion of illegals is only part of our immigration problem. The United States also accepts as "legal immigrants" any who claim to be "persecuted" wherever they come from.

These "political refugees are accepted in the United States in unlimited numbers.

And most of these, refugee populations quickly learn—or have already been told by friends and relatives who came here ahead of them—about "welfare."

And, even beyond welfare, special "cash assistance" is available to them for the asking.

Britain has begun deporting Asians, turning back what had become a massive influx from India, Pakistan and Bangladesh.

And British politicians, Conservative and Labor, are in support of the exodus.

France is deporting Lebanese. Even Denmark, with its much-vaunted open-door policy, is closing the door.

One nation after another is now rolling up the welcome mat.

So far all the United States has done is to make it more difficult for illegal immigrants in the United States to get jobs.

It is as easy as ever for them to get welfare benefits without working and the potentially disastrous feature of this misplaced generosity is that it attracts to our country the least-worthy immigrants.

According to one Wall Street Journal report, 56 percent of all recent refugees to the United States are now receiving both welfare and cash assistance. In California 91 percent.

Further, the recent refugees tend to have larger and younger families—more mouths to feed.

If this sounds insensitive, it is not. Those nations now faced with forcing outsiders out impose a greater cruelty.

In most states right now an immigrant family of four makes more money not working than working.

So if they don't come to our country as freeloaders, they soon learn.

This is not a far-fetched comparison: If you invite a poor family in your community to share your Thanksgiving or Christmas dinner, that is appropriate charity, mutually rewarding.

But if word gets around and people from everywhere line up at your front door—or enter through the windows—seeking a share of your dinner—there will very soon be less than enough for you or them.

That's when things get ugly.

States benefit from tax reform

By Richard L. Leshner, President

WASHINGTON — Sometimes it seems as if the world is governed by some immutable law of unforeseen consequences.

The tax reform plan recently enacted by Congress and signed by President Reagan is a good example of that law at work. During debate on the bill, politicians from states with high tax rates raised a ruckus. New York Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan and Governor Mario Cuomo were particularly outspoken, insisting loss of the federal deduction for state income taxes would make it more difficult for them to raise needed revenues.

What Moynihan and Cuomo failed to realize—what most people failed to realize—is that the new tax system will bring a major windfall to most states. For example, New York can expect to gain an additional $1.9 billion under the new system.

The reason is so simple and obvious it seems incredible no one realized what was about to take place. New York, like most states, bases its income tax on the adjusted gross income shown in federal returns. Now that Congress has eliminated many deductions, most tax returns will be showing higher gross incomes.

Of course, most federal taxpayers will come out ahead under this scheme because when Congress eliminated deductions it also lowered tax rates. But the states haven't cut their tax rates. They will be collecting the same percentage as before, but from larger adjusted gross incomes. Thus, many taxpayers who are expecting a break from Uncle Sam will see a large chunk of it gobbled up by the states.

It seems like only yesterday that President Nixon launched his famous revenue sharing plan, which funneled federal money to state governments by the barrel. That was at a time when the federal budget was healthy and state coffers were bare.

Now the reverse is true. The federal budget is knee-deep in red ink and many state treasuries are in surplus. But the revenue sharing train just keeps rolling along. President Reagan has sought to curtail revenue sharing, but Congress refuses to kill any spending program, no matter how absurd it may be.

Now through tax reform, Congress has inadvertently added insult to injury, throwing more scarce tax dollars to where they are needed least—state governments. We can only hope that state legislators will follow the lead of Congress and chop their own tax rates to bring them in sync with the federal system. If they do not, this unforeseen consequence may seriously undermine tax reform.

Lung disease facts provided by ALA

Lung diseases are the third most common cause of death in the United States today, says the American Lung Association of Texas—the Christmas Seal people. Besides the cost in human suffering, the direct economic cost of lung disease to the nation is expected to reach a staggering $40.9 billion in 1986.

Lung cancer remains this country's most deadly form of cancer. Only 13 percent of lung cancer patients live five or more years after diagnosis. It is a frightening fact that the incidence of lung cancer in American women has risen 380 percent in the last 35 years. Already the leading cancer killer among men, lung cancer has now surpassed breast cancer as the foremost cancer killer of American women.

According to the ALA of Texas, much of the premature death and disability caused by lung disease is unnecessary and can be prevented. Cigarette smoking causes 80 to 90 percent of deaths from chronic obstructive pulmonary diseases such as emphysema and chronic bronchitis. Other lung diseases—including respiratory distress syndrome (RDS) in infants and acute respiratory distress syndrome (ARDS) in adults—are still not fully understood and require additional research to find improved means of prevention and treatment.

The American Lung Association was founded in 1904 to combat tuberculosis, then the nation's greatest health menace. Today its mission is to control and prevent all lung diseases and some of their related causes, including smoking, air pollution and occupational lung hazards. It is supported primarily by public contributions to Christmas Seals, those decorative bits of paper that arrive in the mail to over 40 million American households each holiday season. Funds raised by Christmas Seals support health education and biomedical research programs in Texas.

Among the statistics cited by the Christmas Seal people regarding lung disease in America today are the following:

-19 million Americans suffer from some form of chronic lung disease including 7.7 million with chronic bronchitis and 2.3 million with emphysema, the two major disease categories within COPD (chronic obstructive pulmonary disease). The mortality rate attributed to COPD and asthma has increased 34 percent between 1970 and 1983 (latest available figures).

-Asthma, the most common serious disease of childhood, is also the major cause of school absenteeism due to chronic disease, responsible for the loss of 6.5 million school days annually.

-Occupational lung disease—such as byssinosis, which is caused by textile dust and has disabled an estimated 35,000 Americans, and asbestosis and silicosis, which endanger an estimated 106,000 workers—are the number-one cause of work-related disease and injury.

-Chronic sinusitis, a condition of the upper respiratory tract, afflicts more than 27 million of our citizens as of 1986. And hay fever, whose symptoms make the warm weather a miserable time of year for its sufferers, affects more than 19 million Americans.

-Pneumonia is the leading cause of death by infectious disease in the U.S. It is particularly dangerous to those over age 65 and those with previously existing lung illness or heart conditions. Pneumonia is expected to strike over three million Americans this year.

-Influenza, which can be prevented in most cases with annual vaccination, can also be a life-threatening illness to the elderly and those with chronic heart or lung conditions. Americans are expected to suffer about 75 million bouts of flu in 1986.

-Though tuberculosis is no longer the leading cause of death in this country, it has yet to be eradicated. In 1985 22,201 new cases of TB were reported in America and the incidence rate seems to be rising again.

-As for the common cold, a whopping 76 million episodes are anticipated before this year's holiday season is ended.

Dental problems being studied

People who binge on food and then purge themselves to avoid the consequences of overeating are very good at hiding their disorder. Their friends and relatives may not know. Their doctors may not diagnose bulimia until their health is ravaged. Their dentists or dental hygienists could be the first to suspect the problem.

"We've found that many bulimics have severe dental problems. Some of our patients have spent $5,000 or more having their teeth repaired," says Dr. David Waller, psychiatrist and co-director of the Eating Disorders Clinic at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas.

The damage is caused by repeated violent vomiting by a person who binges and purges. "The worst damage is caused by the high acid content of the vomitus. Stomach acid contains hydrochloric acid, and it just eats the tooth enamel away," explains co-director Dr. Bettie Hardy, a psychologist.

Recently the multi-disciplinary Eating Disorders Clinic added a dental hygienist to its team that evaluates new patients. Barbara Altshuler, instructor and clinical coordinator at the Caruth School of Dental Hygiene in Dallas, not only checks new patients for dental problems but also evaluates the condition of their mouths using recognized dental indexes. Over a period of time, she will try to determine if there is a relation between the severity of bulimia and the amount of damage to the teeth, and whether the patient's dental hygiene habits—brushing, flossing or using mouthwash—can help to control the damage.

Although her study will be long-term says Altshuler, the following dental problems are proving characteristic of people who binge and purge.

-Enamel erosion: The high acid content of vomitus dissolves tooth enamel and leaves teeth sensitive and vulnerable to decay. Enamel erosion first appears as an opaque line near the gums.

Altshuler hopes her study will reveal whether changes in the patient's habits of brushing or using mouthwash immediately after vomiting could slow or stop this damage.

-Sensitivity: One hundred percent of the bulimia patients I have examined said they have sensitive teeth, whether or not they had other dental problems," says Altshuler. Sensitivity to hot or cold foods is most common. Very sweet or acidic foods also may cause teeth to hurt.

-Cavities: The person who overeats and vomits is likely to get cavities because of the enamel that is weakened by erosion. The type of food he or she binges on can contribute to the problem, too.

-Vomiting three or four times a day is devastating to teeth. The upper front four teeth bear the brunt of the damage since the tongue protects the bottom teeth," says Altshuler. "Some people's teeth are a patchwork of fillings and caps. The sad part is that this type of reparative work frequently can't hold up under the stress." Teeth erode around the edges of metal fillings, leaving the fillings raised above the surface. Composite fillings used for appearance can be dissolved by the acid.

The choice of binge food also may cause cavities. "Naturally, binging on sweets is bad for the teeth, but some cases are more unusual. I remember one woman who binged on fruit—oranges, lemons and grapefruit. She thought these foods were healthier than cakes and candy, but the excess acid in the fruit was also causing destruction of her tooth enamel."

-Dry mouth: Normally, saliva bathes the teeth constantly, providing a cleansing and protective effect. If the mouth is dry, this protection against cavities is lost. In addition, drugs that may be helpful in the treatment of bulimia can contribute to dry mouth.

Because a dry mouth is uncomfortable, bulimics sometime will change their oral habits to relieve the problem. Chronic chewing of sugared gum or mints is not unusual and can contribute to cavities.

A dry mouth may be coupled with general dehydration. "Some patients purge themselves with laxatives, thinning they are getting rid of calories," says Waller. "Actually, laxatives have a diuretic effect, and the loss of water is what makes the patient feel thinner."

-Gum disease: Gingivitis, or inflammation of the gums, results from plaque accumulation. The poor nutrition that results from binging and purging leaves the gums more susceptible to gum disease. Altshuler says the gum tissue of bulimics overreacts to plaque buildup, resulting in gingivitis. If neglected, the problem can lead to abscesses and loss of bone around the base of the tooth, or periodontal disease.

Treating bulimics poses a special challenge for dentists. The main problem is recurrent decay and enamel erosion that undermines the work already done. However, the stomach acid also dissolves the cement that holds temporary crowns and orthodontic bands on teeth. "In one case, a teenaged girl had to have the bands of her braces re-cemented six times within the first two months," says Altshuler. "I asked if she binged and purged, and she couldn't imagine how I guessed."

In treating damaged teeth, dentists often prescribe a fluoride mouthwash. Altshuler says that dentists should be sure to prescribe a neutral sodium fluoride mouthwash if they suspect bulimia. The more frequently suggested stannous fluoride mouthwash has a high acid content and could compound the problems.

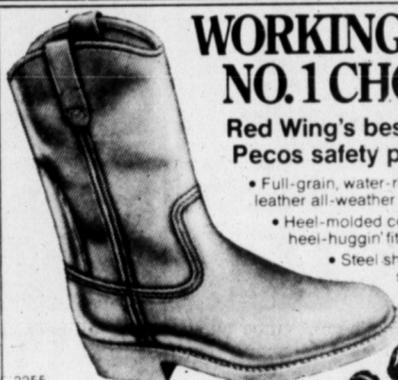

The Eating Disorder Clinic at UTHSCD, sponsored by the Department of Psychiatry, offers a comprehensive evaluation and treatment program. At the same time, these professionals are doing research into the sleep and metabolic problems of patients with psychosocial issues in eating disorders.

Ninety percent of bulimics are women. The onset of bulimia is frequently from the teen years through the early twenties. "This is a period of various stresses for women," says Hardy. "They are undergoing hormonal changes, deciding on college and careers, getting out into the world. Society tells them they can have it all—an education, a career, a home and family. Society also tells them they should be thin to be attractive. It's all too much. They may binge in part because of the stresses, and then purge to remain thin."

Christmas Carousel:

A shopper's fair with babysitting, gift wrapping, and door prizes

One stop shopping...two door prizes...free coffee and tea...a brunch and fashion show...gift wrapping available...and babysitting...Even without the display of merchandise, those are enough reasons to draw shoppers to the Christmas Carousel set for Nov. 8-9 at the Hereford Community Center.

Organized by the Chamber of Commerce Women's Division, the Christmas Carousel is designed to allow shoppers a look at what over 20 stores in Hereford have available - but in one spot with added attractions.

While shopping at the Christmas Carousel, Mom can drop off the kids at the baby-sitting room for $1 an hour per child.

The $3 tickets to the Christmas Carousel are available at the Chamber of Commerce office and at participating merchants. Those tickets are for general admission on both Friday and Saturday and will make ticket holders eligible for a door prize of a $200 silk Christmas tree.

Also, a limited number of $6 tickets are available for admission to the Carousel and to the catered brunch and style show on Friday and Saturday. The brunch and style show will be in the ballroom of the Hereford

Community Center from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. both days. The Barn House will cater the meal and holiday fashions will be modeled from The Vogue and Helen's Youth Shop.

Brunch ticket holders will be eligible for a door prize of two round-trip tickets to New Orleans on Southwest Airlines, plus $100 toward the land package, arranged by Hereford Travel Center.

During the Christmas Carousel, shoppers will be asked to vote for the most festive booth among the merchants.

And, the entry to the Carousel will be a "Home for the Holidays" scene of John David Bryant's antiques - with some for sale.

Just inside the Carousel will be a booth with free coffee and tea and when shopping is done, gifts can be wrapped at the Carousel Committee wrapping booth for a small fee.

Keith Ann Gearn, chairman of the organizing committee, said the Christmas Carousel will be a good event for men to attend to get ideas for Christmas gifts for wives and girlfriends. Ladies will have a chance to check gifts for men, also.

Cash registers will be ready at each of the following businesses:

The Barn House, Winn's, Jack's Marine, McKnight's Sewing Center, Merie Norman's, Etcetera, The Pants Cage, Radio Shack, YMCA, Touch of Class, Gloria's Bridal Shop, Buy-Wise Beauty Supply, Caryn's Hallmark, The Lemon Tree, Helen's Youth Shop, Lilies, The Vogue, Unique Ideas, Boots and Saddle, and Hereford Travel Center.

An update on 1-4A football race

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

The District 1-4A football race had 15 mathematical possibilities for the final standings among the top four teams, going into last week's games, barring upsets by the bottom five teams and barring tie games.

Now the number of mathematical possibilities is down to four after Hereford lost to Lubbock Estacado 28-18 on Thursday and after Canyon edged Borger 21-20 on Friday.

The district won-loss records for the top four teams are now these: Estacado 5-0-1, Hereford 6-1, Borger 5-1, and Canyon 4-2.

Here are the four mathematical possibilities, going from the best one for the Hereford Whitefaces to the worst one:

1. If Borger beats Estacado and Hereford beats Borger: Hereford wins the District 1-4A championship with a 7-1 record, Estacado finishes second at 6-1-1, and Borger and Canyon tie for third place at 6-2.

2. If Estacado beats Borger and Hereford beats Borger: Estacado wins the district championship with a 7-0-1 record, Hereford finishes second at 7-1, Canyon third at 6-2, and Borger fourth at 5-3.

3. If Estacado beats Borger and Borger beats Hereford: Estacado wins the district championship with a 7-0-1 record, and Hereford, Borger and Canyon finish in a three-way tie for second place with 6-2 records.

4. If Borger beats Estacado and Borger beats Hereford: Borger wins the district championship with a 7-1 record, Estacado finished second at 6-1-1, and Hereford and Canyon tie for third place with 6-2 records.

Barring an upset by Pampa over Estacado on Nov. 14, Estacado would qualify for the playoffs. An upset, however, would give Hereford a district title also in mathematical possibility No. 2 above, and in possibility No. 4 above, Hereford and Canyon would finish tied for second place with Estacado placing third with a 5-2-1 record.

Concerning Canyon, all the mathematical possibilities above would be correct if Canyon wins its last two games over Pampa and Frenship.

Borger scored a touchdown with nine seconds to pull to within one point of Canyon on Friday, 21-20, and Bulldog Coach Butch Henderson opted for a two-point conversion attempt.

Borger failed in the conversion attempt and lost the game. What if the Borger coach had chosen to go for a tie game? Here is how the mathematical possibilities above would have turned out:

1. Hereford 7-1, Estacado 6-1-1, and Borger and Canyon both 5-2-1.

2. Estacado 7-0-1, Hereford 7-1, Canyon 5-2-1, and Borger 4-3-1.

3. Estacado 7-0-1, Hereford 6-2, and Borger and Canyon 5-2-1.

4. Estacado and Borger both 6-1-1, Hereford 6-2, and Canyon 5-2-1.

What do all these mathematical possibilities come down to? It means Hereford and Borger, as well as Estacado, all have their destinies in their own hands, but Canyon does not.

The Canyon Eagles must hope for an Estacado victory over Borger and a Borger victory over Hereford if they have any possibility for a playoff berth. If so, they would have to win a some coin flips after finishing in a three-way tie for second.

The first U.S. sports figure to be paid an annual salary of $100,000 was Joe DiMaggio.

The Boston Red Sox scored 49 runs in two consecutive games on June 7 and 8, 1950.

In NFC when Cowboys meet Giants

Best offense plays best defense

By TOM CANAVAN
AP Sports Writer

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Put the best offense in the NFC against the best defense in the conference and you get the Dallas Cowboys meeting the New York Giants in a battle for at least a share of first place in the East Division.

"Every time you play Dallas it's a special occasion," said Giants guard Bill Ard. "They always seem to be one of the best teams in the conference and to win your division, you have to beat Dallas."

The Giants didn't beat Dallas in the season opener eight weeks ago, and that makes Sunday's 1 p.m. EST game at Giants Stadium more important for them.

If Dallas wins, it will have the edge in the tie breakers if the two clubs finish the regular season with the same record.

"We don't want to lose two to Dallas this year," said Ard. "A split would be very, very nice. The pressure is off Dallas though and it's on us, just like last week. A victory will really help the cause."

The Giants created a three-way tie for first place in the NFC East by defeating Washington 27-20 Monday night. That left New York, Washington and Dallas, which defeated St. Louis last weekend, tied with 6-2 records.

"It's exactly like starting from scratch," said Giants Coach Bill Parcells. "I figured this race wasn't going to be over in six or seven weeks when it started, and I don't think its going to be over six or seven weeks from now."

Dallas Coach Tom Landry agrees and said the NFC East may be won by the team that stays the healthiest. He also said the Cowboys need to stay healthy because their schedule doesn't get any easier this season.

"I know our schedule is tougher the second half," he said. "We have New York and Washington up there. We have the Raiders and they are playing much better now, Los Angeles (Rams) on the coast and we end up with the Bears. We've got our hands full."

The Giants are the problem this week and New York comes into the game with the second-best defense in the NFL and the top one in the conference. Opponents are gaining 267.5 yards per game, averaging about 14 points per game and having to contend with a rampaging Lawrence Taylor, who leads the league with 10½ sacks.

"New York has had one of the best defenses in the league the past two or three years and this year is no different," said Landry. "They are playing well. They have excellent linebackers and good overall performances by everyone so when you beat them you have to play awfully well."

And that's exactly what the Cowboys' offense is doing this season. They have scored 30 or more points in 6 of 8 games and lead the conference in both total offense, 374 yards per game, and passing yards, 245.4 per game. Danny White, who is expected to start, is the leading passer in the NFC, while newcomer Herschel Walker is second in the conference with 898 total yards from scrimmage.

Dallas manhandled the Giants' defense in the fourth-quarter of the season opener to rally for a 31-28 victory.

The Giants, who got a 181-yard rushing performance from Joe Morris against Washington, rank eighth in the NFL on offense, while Dallas ranks seventh in the league in total defense.

Dallas has won three in a row against New York and has won nine consecutive games from NFC East opponents.

ALWAYS KICKING

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Punter Barry Helton of Colorado took the old phrase "practice makes perfect" and worked overtime at it.

Helton, one of the top punters in the country, not only attended a kicking school, he punted 75 to 100 times a day during the summer vacation at a workout field near his home.

"Believe it or not," he said, "even my parents enjoyed my doing it."

Miami remembers what Oilers quarterback did last year

Dolphins not taking Moon lightly

By JOEY HOLLEMAN
 AP Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Although Houston Oilers quarterback Warren Moon is one of the lowest ranked passers in the NFL, the Miami Dolphins are mighty worried about him.

The Dolphins don't put much stock in Moon's poor statistics of 17 interceptions with only seven touchdowns passes this year. What they remember is the 270 yards he passed for last year to lead the Oilers to a season-opening 26-23 victory over Miami.

They get another chance at Moon Sunday when he leads the 1-7 Oilers against the 3-5 Dolphins in the Orange Bowl at 1 p.m. EST.

"He's a great athlete who has really come along as far as being a drop-back passer," Dolphins Coach Don Shula said of Moon. "This makes him doubly dangerous because of his tremendous ability on rollouts by design and his ability to scramble when receivers are not open. He just makes things happen."

Unfortunately for the Oilers, many of the things he has made happen this year have been negatives. In addition to the high interception total, Moon has completed only 52 percent of his passes and has been sacked 26 times for 206 yards in losses. His rating of 59.2 is 26th among the league's starting quarterbacks.

"I think I've been trying too hard to get a win," said Moon, in his third year with the Oilers after an ultra-successful career in the Canadian Football League. "We're starting to press, and that gets you in trouble. It hurts that we always seem to be playing from behind."

The Dolphins can sympathize with the Oilers on that point. They've been behind more than they've been ahead this season.

Shula said he was encouraged by Sunday's 17-13 victory over Indianapolis, partially because the Miami defense came through with several clutch plays near the end of the game.

"Hopefully, the monkey is off our back, we'll start to get some breaks and we can go from here," he said.

The Oilers have given up hope for this season, but not the individual games.

"We're just going to try to get some wins," Moon said. "We're going to put the first eight games behind us and try to see what we can salvage from this season."

Though the two teams in the Orange Bowl Sunday will be a combined 4-12, the game promises to be interesting. Moon has thrown for more yards, 2,035, than all but one quarterback in the league. The guy he's behind is Miami's Dan Marino, who has thrown for 2,326 yards.

Marino wasn't particularly sharp last year against the Oilers in his first game after a contract holdout which lasted the entire preseason. He completed only 13 of 24 passes for 159 yards with two interceptions.

Oilers Coach Jerry Glanville was impressed, nonetheless.

Texas' NFL teams go in opposite ways

An AP Sports Analysis
 By DENNE H. FREEMAN
 AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Once again, Texas' two professional football teams are headed in opposite directions.

The Dallas Cowboys are rocketing toward a possible NFC East division title, while the Oilers spiral toward the basement of the AFC Central.

The Cowboys are fueled by the innovations of a new offensive coordinator, Paul Hackett; two fifth-round draft picks, running back Herschel Walker and quarterback Steve Pelluer; and a classy first-round selection, wide receiver Mike Sherrard.

The Oilers are being pulled toward an earthbound crash by the gravity of front office fumbles and coaching decisions that burned the team out in the preseason.

At mid-season, the Cowboys had compiled a 6-2 mark and the Oilers, 1-7.

Remember August? Houston was 4-0 and Dallas 0-5. The Oilers were talking how they had turned the corner after an exhibition victory over Dallas.

In the NFL, talk doesn't block and tackle.

New Coach Jerry Glanville had Houston primed for the regular season in August, much too early with a 16-game campaign on the horizon.

The Oilers flattened out in September and October, despite a weak schedule that included the likes of Green Bay, Detroit, Kansas City, Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry took his time piecing together his puzzle of newcomers into NFL regular-season fighting shape. He listened to Hackett's advice and juiced up the Cowboys' offense with special plays for Walker, lining the former USFL star up at six different positions.

And if you believe Hackett has helped the Cowboys, can you imagine what he would have done for the Oilers?

The Cowboys went after the San Francisco 49ers' offensive mastermind in the off-season. They even called a full-scale press conference — normally reserved for the signing of first-round picks — when they brought him aboard.

But the Oilers had first shot.

Hackett, who groomed San Francisco quarterback Joe Montana into one of the best in NFL history, was one of three finalists for the job vacated by Hugh Campbell, who was fired with two games left in the season.

Glanville, the Oilers' defensive coordinator, was named the interim successor.

Ladd K. Herzog, the Oilers' executive vice president and general manager, announced an "exhaustive search" for a coach. He interviewed former USFL Coach Dick Coury, Hackett and Glanville.

Herzog, who fired Bum Phillips after the 1980 season even though he got the Oilers into two AFC championship games, ignored Hackett to keep Glanville.

History will chart Herzog's decision not to hire Hackett, and also will log Walker's performance for the next decade or so.

Remember, Herzog — and any other NFL team — could have taken Walker in 1984 before the Cowboys drafted him in the fifth round.

HHS junior varsity

loses to Estacado 13-0

Hereford High School's junior varsity football team showed some strengths on defense Friday, but not offensively, losing to Lubbock Estacado 13-0 at Whiteface Stadium.

The HHS defense recovered three Estacado fumbles and intercepted three Estacado passes in the game.

The loss dropped the Hereford junior varsity to 7-2 for the season, with the only other loss coming against the Vega High School varsity team.

Hereford closes out the 1986 season at Canyon on Thursday at 7 p.m.

Estacado scored with an eight-yard run and led 7-0 with 11:56 left in the second quarter Friday. Then with 1:23 left in the first half, Estacado scored with a 40-yard touchdown pass for a 13-0 lead. That turned out to be all the scoring in the contest.

Pat Mercer of Hereford recovered two Estacado fumbles. Both fumbles occurred when Estacado was receiving punts.

Mercer recovered one of the fumbles with 10:30 left in the first quarter, and recovered the other one with 8:36 left in the third quarter.

The other fumble recovery by the Hereford defense was recorded by Karl Schumacher with 3:07 left in the third quarter.

Keith Brown, Shaun Moore, and Stuart Mitts each intercepted an Estacado pass. Brown's interception came with 4:15 left in the second quarter, in which he returned the interception 15 yards to the Estacado 24-yard line.

Hereford failed to capitalize on that Estacado turnover, fumbling away the ball less than a minute later at the Estacado 20.

Moore intercepted a pass at the Estacado 30 with 10:03 left in the fourth quarter, and Mitts' interception came with 2:06 left in the game.

13-year-old enjoys job with Cowboys

IRVING, Texas (AP) — When 13-year-old Jon Daly of Denton tells you he's on the telephone with Dallas Coach Tom Landry on NFL Sundays in Texas Stadium, believe him.

Daly, a seventh grader at Calhoun Junior High, is down on the sidelines carrying the phone Landry uses to talk to offensive coordinator Paul Hackett in the press box.

"I had a job recently as water boy," Daly said. "Coach Landry asked my grandad to get someone to carry the phones and he asked me."

Daly's grandad is none other than Jim Myers, who has been the Cowboys' offensive coach for years.

Daly knows something about football other than what his grandad tells him.

The 5-10, 140-pounder starts as a defensive end and tight end in a city league in Denton. School athletics aren't offered at the seventh grade level in Denton.

He said his job is to "make sure he (Landry) doesn't trip over the cord or none of the players stand on it. The main thing is to make sure Landry doesn't trip over it. I also test it before the game to make sure it works."

Daly said the job has its funny moments.

"We had just scored a touchdown and everybody was running toward the end zone and he (Landry) was, too," Daly said. "Some of the players were standing on the cord, and it pulled him back and he almost tripped. It loosened just in time and he regained his balance before he fell on his face. My grandad looked at me like 'what are you doing?' and there was nothing I could do."

Myers said his grandson is doing a good job.

"He's been walking in Tom's shadow so long now, he acts just like him," Myers said. "He's more cool than Tom is, I think."

Daly said he'd like to play for the Cowboys someday.

A former waterboy is on the 1986 team — wide receiver Mike Renfro — who worked the sidelines with his dad, Ray Renfro, was a Cowboy.

Teamwork

You'll Like Our Attitude

On the football field, it's impossible for one player to win the game. It takes everyone, working together as a team, to claim the victory.

It takes teamwork in life, too.

And when you need financial assistance, you know that when you pass the ball to us, we won't fumble!

We'll plan a solid groundwork of financial advice so that you can complete the play.

Come join us... together we'll make a winning team!

Bazaar, Texas Style scheduled Friday

It's not too early to be thinking of purchasing Christmas gifts and the conscientious shopper will be able to find a variety of homemade arts and crafts at a booth chaired by Donna Warrick. Bazaar hours are planned from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Friday in the fellowship hall of First United Methodist Church. Among the many items to be for sale include needlepoint patches exhibited by D.J. Warrick.

The public is invited to a Texas-style lunch at the church from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. Tickets are priced at $5 for adults and $2 for children under six years of age. The church women will be serving beef brisket, ranch beans, sliced onions, cornbread, coleslaw and fruit cobbler. Serving on the luncheon committee are (from left) Nancy Josserand, Nancy Perrin and Deila Hutchins.

(See related story, Page 2B)

Tired of the old Christmas decorations or would just like to add to your collection? Peggy Cooper, chairman of the Christmas booth, will be glad to assist in selecting a new wreath or arrangement to decorate during the holidays. Also, to be for sale will be linen napkins and unusually decorated napkin rings.

SCHEDULE OF FESTIVE EVENTS

Friday

Beat the Christmas rush and treat yourself to an enjoyable shopping experience as you browse to your heart's content through 22 gift-laden booths.

Not only will there be gifts in every size and price range, but there will be many prizes and drawings as well. A six-foot silk Christmas tree valued at $200.00 will be given away as a door prize, and you can vote on which merchant booth is the most festive.

As an added attraction, to the festive gathering, local antique buff John David Bryant will offer a glimpse of Christmas past by his arrangement of the entrance way area. Also, a baby sitting room will be available for a modest charge.

Saturday

A catered brunch and style show will be held from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. in the Community Center Ballroom. The Holiday Brunch will be sponsored by The Barn House, while The Vogue and Helen's Youth Shop will display a glittering array of holiday fashions. And if you're a person who dreams of distant ports call, then you might be interested to know a special prize will be drawn for brunch ticket holders. Hereford Travel Center and Southwest Airlines will be giving away two round-trip tickets to New Orleans plus $100.00 toward a hotel package.

Displaying Crafts

Woven fabric lawn chairs, miniature furniture and other unique handmade articles will be for sale during First United Methodist Church's Bazaar, Texas Style slated from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Friday in fellowship hall. Courtney Brooke is chairman of the men's booth which will be selling chili made by Grant Hanna. Also, pictured is Mary Jones, general bazaar chairman, and two-year-old Wayne Milam.

Come shop at Bazaar, Texas Style

Take a break Friday and come to the First United Methodist Church for its Bazaar, Texas Style to be held from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. in the fellowship hall.

Mary Jones is general chairman of the event which is centering around the theme of the sesquicentennial celebration and Sue Sims is serving as co-chairman. Nell Hodges is treasurer and Zula Arney will be cashier.

The public is encouraged to come and eat a Texas-style lunch from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. Admission for the home-cooked meal will be $5 for adults and $2 for children under six years of age. The menu will consist of beef brisket, ranch beans, sliced onions, cornbread, coleslaw and fruit cobbler, all cooked by the women of the church.

The lunch committee includes Nancy Josserrand, Norma Walden, Della Hutchins and Nancy Perrin.

As visitors browse at the bazaar, they may come by the coffee counter, which will be open all day except during lunch hours, and treat themselves to doughnuts, sweet rolls, muffins, cookies, hot coffee, tea and cocoa. Eleanor Hudspeth is chairing the booth.

A repeat from former bazaars in First United Methodist Church, the trash and treasurers booth will be a glorified garage type sale with bargains in some really worthwhile items whose owners have grown tired as well as less valuable but still very useful articles. Virginia Garner and Mary Stoy are in charge of arrangements.

Other booths will be well-stocked with pieces reflecting the handcraft talents of church members. Many items will be appropriate for Christmas giving.

The arts and crafts booth is being chaired by Donna Warrick and Davaughn White; men's work, Courtney Brooke; Christmas decorations, Peggy Copper and Nancy Denton; children's items, Lou Ann Eubanks; and needlework, Morgan Cain and Betty Martin.

Not to be outdone, will be the food booth, which is being chaired by Cathy Moore, and will feature a variety of baked goods, casseroles, pickles, jellies, etc. Pat Walsh and Cherry McWhorter are chairmen for the homemade candy booth.

The church women aren't the only ones with culinary talents. Grant Hanna's famous chili will be one item for sale in the men's booth.

Ann Landers Charity

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My favorite uncle left me a small bequest ($5,000). I would like to make a gift in his memory to an organization that is not well known or popular. Do you know a smallish group doing wonderful work that not a lot of people pay attention to? It would give me great pleasure (and I think my uncle, too) if I could find a group that really needs friends.—M.A. IN L.A.

DEAR M.A.: Have I got a wonderful little charity for you! And it's right in your own backyard.

A small but dedicated group trains dogs to assist the handicapped. These are not seeing-eye dogs. They are for the wheelchair-bound, the deaf and the elderly. These amazing animals mean more independence for their human partners.

Not only do they provide services that reduce the hours an aide must be with the handicapped person, but they offer love and protection as well.

Since this wonderful group gives the animals to those who need them (it does not sell them), it can use all the help it can get.

If you have a soft spot for dogs and an interest in improving the quality of life for a handicapped or elderly person, you could find a better place for your money.

The name is Canine Companions for Independence, P.O. Box 446, Santa Rosa, CA 95402. The group welcomes contributions (which are tax-deductible, of course) in any amount. My check for $100 went out today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: What do you think of a father who, for his son's 20th birthday, hired a woman to come to the party and do a striptease? She ended up with a G-string and a patch of material no bigger than a silver dollar. The 20-year-old is very shy. Dad thought this would be a great way to "educate" him. The lad appeared to be terribly embarrassed. He is a high-caliber young man - bright, sensitive and classy.

The father filmed the whole party so he could show it to his friends on videotape. The mother was also at the party. She proclaimed it a "huge success." The guests drank two barrels of beer.

Evidently a successful party depends on how much beer is guzzled. Is this behavior typical of parents nowadays or am I living in another century? I thought I was "with it" until I heard about this shindig. Please comment.—PUZZLED IN NEW JERSEY

DEAR N.J.: Disgusting. The parents sound like idiots. This is additional evidence that sometimes parental influence can mean very little. How did a pair of loons like this produce a high-caliber, bright, sensitive, classy 20-year-old?

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please reconsider your answer to the young man who wrote about his inability to urinate in the presence of others. You told him the problem was not uncommon, that it was called "a bashful kidney" and could be eliminated with counseling.

Not always true. I have been to several counselors and nobody could help me. And now, because I am a government employee, I may have to produce a urine sample in the presence of a witness because of the drug tests. I am scared stiff.

What will I do if it comes to THAT? Please advise.—ALBATROSS IN D.C.

DEAR AL: I'm sure if you explained your problem to the screening authorities they would allow you to produce the specimen privately. This is no big deal. Don't sweat the small stuff.

4-H Firsthand

By DAVY VESTAL
County Extension Agent
A 4-H Family

To be a 4-H family, it takes hard work, dedication and time. But, in return you receive gratification, gain friends, have good times and broaden your horizons. For the past two decades, the Vogel Family have come to know what sacrifice it takes and what benefits can be received from being a 4-H family.

Twenty years ago Herb and Elizabeth Vogel wanted to get their family involved in showing steers. From the beginning it was a tremendous learning experience with the show steers blossoming into champion steers at the local, district, state and national level. However, livestock was not the only 4-H project. Soon to follow, leadership contests, judging contest, electric camps and just about any projects you could think of, including Llamas today.

The 4-H program has played a major role in our family's life by teaching them leadership skills, allowing them to travel and most important by expanding their educational base, not through text books, but real life situations.

Initially, the Vogel girls Linda, Julie, Kathy and Carole showed steers in Iowa. In the summer of 1968, a move from Iowa to Hereford, Texas ended the girls 4-H career. However, it was just the beginning for the 4 boys.

Oldest son Larry was interested in the horse program and became active in the Riders Club. Later, Gary, Randy and Rickie began to show much enthusiasm in the livestock portion of 4-H, which rekindled the 4-H spirit in our household.

Currently, Gary lives in Stillwater, Oklahoma, working on a PHD in reinant nutrition at Oklahoma State University. Because of Gary's leadership he was awarded a $6,000 Houston Livestock Show and Rodeo scholarship.

Randy is working on his M.S. degree in Animal Science at Texas Tech University. Randy's goal was reached in 1981 when he showed the Grand Champion Steer in Houston. Randy still uses his skills by helping younger members in the show arena.

Rickie, a senior at Hereford High, is the last Vogel to be involved in 4-H. He has held many offices and is presently the president of the Texas Club Calf Association.

In May of 1987 when this era comes to an end, it is certain that our thoughts and wishes will always be for the Deaf Smith County 4-H program to continue growing.

The Herb Vogel Family 4-H And All About It

Hey, guys and girls, you need to check out 4-H! They do all sorts of things. One thing they do is foods and nutrition. They do food show, bake shows and workshop activities. They have lots of fun.

Another thing is clothing, its coming up soon! Guys we really need you to show up ready to sew-girls too! You'll get to do fashion shows and pictures in the newspaper. Also we got to make bibs and blankets for Kings Manor Child Care Center. It's fun!

The next thing is method demonstration and share the fun skits. Last year some of my friends and I got together and did a share the fun skit on 4-H Triumphs Again. We had a fun time and we got to dress up and all the fun stuff.

Another is livestock, there we have sheep, cattle, horses, chickens, rabbits and pigs. I show sheep myself, my brothers also show sheep too. We have lots of great fun together.

Last but not least, we did a bicycle safety project in our club. We brought our bikes and had little tests on the bicycle, we learned all the parts of the bicycle and talked about them. That's really fun!

All of these and more together make up what 4-H is all about. Hope you come and join the fun!

A Flair for Design

When searching for new and interesting forms of art for your walls, don't overlook Fine Art Posters which are readily available, beautifully printed, and can be of very high quality. For several years now, we've seen the use of these posters in many commercial installations, especially in urban areas such as Dallas and Houston, but more and more are using them in home situations, also. Many are limited editions and should accrue in value, so be sure to ask for a Museum Mount from your framer.

At FINISHING TOUCHES we can help you to find the perfect art work for your walls. Just call 364-8870, or come see us at East Park, Monday thru Friday, from 9-5.

Competition deadline scheduled for Nov. 15

Hereford High School students, grades 10 through 12, are encouraged to participate in the 40th annual Voice of Democracy scriptwriting program being sponsored locally by VFW Post No. 4818 and its auxiliary.

This year's theme is "The Challenge of American Citizenship." The scholarship program offers local, district and national recognition and awards with the top national award being a $14,000 scholarship. Students interested in the program are asked to contact the HHS principal or speech teacher.

Students are asked to tape their scripts using professional equipment available at the cooperating radio stations. The recorded script must be at least three minutes and not over five minutes in length. It can be recorded on reel type magnet tape at a speed of 7½ inches per second or cassette.

Deadline for entries in the local competition is Nov. 15. Last year, there were three students from Hereford who participated among the 250,000 young people nationally.

Tapes will be judged for content, originality and delivery.

The winner from Texas will receive a five day all-expense paid trip to Washington, D.C. in March of 1987 together with winners from Germany, the District of Columbia, overseas and the 50 states. They will visit national monuments and meet high government officials. National awards in addition to the $14,000 first place scholarship include $7,000, $4,500, $3,500, $2,500 and $1,000 scholarships for second through sixth place winners.

Additional information may be obtained from Roy Wederbrook or Marie Goheen.

In 1845, Southern Baptists withdrew from the General Missionary Convention over the question of slavery and other matters. They formed the Southern Baptist Convention, the largest of Baptist bodies.

Accent on Health

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) has confirmed that four cases of dengue fever, sometimes called "breakbone fever", recently occurred in South Texas. And while the cases are not cause for alarm that a serious outbreak of the painful illness is on the way, officials warn the mosquito-borne illness can spread rapidly.

Since modern mosquito controls have been in use, dengue has joined many other semi-rare diseases which used to be common in Texas. In the five years before the latest cases, only four cases were confirmed in the state. But in 1980, 62 cases were confirmed.

Christie Reed, Acting Director of the TDH Infectious Disease Division, said that most cases of dengue, including one of this year's cases, are "imported" by infected persons returning from Central America and the Caribbean. However, one of the new cases was contracted by a Cameron County resident who had not been out of his own county for more than a month.

Forty-four percent of the cases reported in 1980 also were indigenous (locally acquired) and were the first such cases confirmed in the United States since 1945. Before modern mosquito controls, dengue epidemics struck annually. Some 41,000 Texans had the disease in 1922-23.

"The significant thing about indigenous cases is that where you have mosquitos transmitting the disease, any number of people can be affected," Reed said. "Texas' most common domestic mosquito, Aedes aegypti, as well as Aedes albopictus, which accidentally arrived in shipping from Asia, can carry the illness."

Dengue is not considered life-threatening in the Western Hemisphere, but its symptoms can be seriously debilitating. Symptoms are persistent headache and fever (101 degrees or more) that can be accompanied by muscle and joint pain, eye pain, cough, sore throat, diarrhea, or a blotchy rash. The illness usually lasts about five to seven days and may be followed by a week or two of general weakness.

Victims with mild cases of dengue often assume they have some common virus. Dengue may be mistaken for typhus or flu, unless the patient's blood is tested for dengue virus, Reed said.

Reed explained the most effective means of controlling the disease is to eliminate sources of water where mosquitoes may lay eggs. Pet bowls, water hoses, and gutters should be drained frequently, and holes in trees should be filled with sand. Window screens should be in good repair.

One-day training scheduled

United Methodists from Hereford and area churches will be attending a "Sunday School Teacher: Gifted and Called" workshop which will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Nov. 8 at First United Methodist Church, Lubbock.

Sunday school teachers, clergy, Christian educators, chairpersons of education, church school superintendents and other interested people will discover new skills, methods and resources at the one-day training event. Sponsoring the workshop are the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church, the Section on Christian Education and the Curriculum Resources Committee of the General Board of Discipleship of the United Methodist Church and Cokesbury Educational Services.

As participants focus on the special gifts they bring to teaching, they will also learn to recognize the gifts the students have and how to maximize those gifts in the classroom. Models of good teaching by age-levels will be presented.

Leaders for the event will be Dorlis Glass, of Dallas, a local church elementary coordinator, laboratory leader and writer of curriculum resources; and Marlu Scott, Joseph Crockett and Roy Ryan, all staff members on Christian Education of the General Board of Discipleship, Nashville, Tenn.

Based on their interests, participants will be able to select one of four enrichment groups. Enrichment groups that will be offered will include:

—"Spiritual Journey: Foundation for Teaching." Participants will look at the meaning and purpose of spiritual growth and discover resources and disciplines for continuing their own faith journey.

—"Making the Bible Come Alive." This group will allow participants to discover ways to engage in personal Bible study—individually or in groups. Creative ways to share and teach the Bible will be explored.

—"Release Your Creativity." Participants will explore definitions and self-perceptions of creativity. Ways to develop this gift in teaching will be identified.

Churches are encouraged to send

at least four persons, allowing for representation in each of the four age-level groups and for maximum benefit from the different enrichment groups offered.

Herbertson, Cleek recite vows recently

Marriage vows were exchanged recently in First Baptist Church in Clinton, Ok. by Dawn Marie Herbertson of Hereford and David A. Cleek of Clinton.

Officiating at the double-ring ceremony was the Rev. Charles Ivey, church pastor.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jim Herbertson of Hereford and the bridegroom is the son of Betty Meyers of Germantown, Tenn. and John Cleek of Clinton.

The church was decorated by an arched candelabrum flanked by baskets of pink and white roses adorned with pink satin bows. The couple lit a unity candle during the ceremony.

The bride's sister, Venus Herbertson of Hereford, served as maid of honor and best man was Roxie Terry of Clinton.

Escorting guests were Johnny Nightengale of Enid, Ok. and Larry Cleek of Clinton, the groom's brother.

Dena Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roxie Terry, was flower girl and the bride's brother, Jeremy Herbertson, was ring bearer.

Louise Terry vocalized "The Wedding Song" and "Evergreen" accompanied by Mrs. Terry Brooks. The traditional Wedding March was also played.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a formal gown of white chiffon featuring a fitted bodice, Queen Anne neckline and full lace sleeves adorned with embroidered lace flowers. The flowing skirt ended in a deep ruffle caught with satin bows circling into a cathedral-length train.

The fingertip veil of silk illusion was attached to a white lace picture hat enhanced by seed pearls and flowers. She carried a cascading arrangement of pink and white roses accented with baby's breath.

Her jewelry consisted of a diamond heart necklace and matching earrings.

The maid of honor wore a formal gown of pink taffeta fashioned with a deeply rounded neckline accented with a ruffle. She carried a bouquet of pink and white roses sprinkled with baby's breath and entwined with pink satin ribbon streamers.

The flower girl wore a white satin dress trimmed with lace ruffles with a pink satin bow marking the waistline.

Cheryl Geitzen invited guests to sign the registry book at the reception held at Park Inn in Clinton.

Baskets of flowers adorned the guest tables and the reception table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. Following the dinner, the groom's cake was served to guests.

Leaving for a wedding trip to Oklahoma City, Ok., the bride wore a tea-length grey satin skirt and matching jacket with a matching sweater.

The bride is a graduate of Clinton High School and is attending Southwestern Oklahoma State University in Weatherford, Ok. She is a member of Young Homemakers of Oklahoma.

The bridegroom, also a graduate of Clinton High School, is a member of the Jaycees.

The couple has established residence in Clinton.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's parents of Hereford; her sister and brother, Venus and Jeremy Herbertson; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C.J. Herbertson of Denver, Colo., and Henry C. Cytack of Detroit, Mich.; her aunt and niece, Gwen H. Reyes and Jessica Alonzo; and the groom's mother of Germantown.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY — I have several ice cream recipes that are cooked mixtures with eggs in them. The recipes say to strain the cooked ice cream mix through a fine strainer before freezing it. Is this necessary? — ALICE

DEAR ALICE — If the ice cream mixture has curdled or lumpy at all, straining will remove any unpleasant lumps that will ruin the smooth texture of your ice cream. However, I've found that if you've been careful in cooking the custard so it does not curdle or lump, straining is not really necessary. To prevent curdling, beat the eggs, then slowly pour half of the hot cream into the eggs while continuing to beat with an electric mixer. Then the egg mixture can be put back into the rest of the hot cream and gently heated just until slightly thickened. Never allow the eggs to boil. This is the same procedure that is used for making stirred custards and egg puddings.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter, "Homemade Ice Cream," which has several delicious recipes for making your own ice creams. Flavors include vanilla with and without eggs, chocolate, lemon custard and more, including an amazing frozen banana whip that is low in calories and fat, but tastes just like soft-serve ice cream. Others who would like this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

Pilot Club observes Founders' Month

Joyce Ward was in charge of the program on Founders' Month when members of the Hereford Pilot Club met recently.

Mary Harris, explained to members how the Pilot organization assisted the Columbian people following an earthquake and also gave interesting facts about the country.

The Pilot Club in Mexico was discussed by Peggy Fox as she told how the organization was founded in the country, the first outside the United States to have a Pilot Club.

Betty Taylor told of the Pilot activities in the Bahamas as well as facts about the islands and Marjorie Thomas related of the club's activities in Bermuda and Japan.

The background of Pilot Clubs in Great Britain and Canada was given by Ann Carroll. She also presented historical facts about both countries including their traditions and customs.

Joyce Ward summarized the program by telling of the founding of Pilot in Mason, Ga.

Vesta Mae Nunley reported on the Pilot Club's pecan sale. Del Cerro shelled pecans are currently being sold at the price of $4 for a one-pound package. Linda Minchew reported on the coloring book sales, an annual club project.

Before the meeting adjourned, Brenda Thomas was recognized as Pilot of the Month for August and Martha Jones was honored for September.

HOW TO LOSE YOUR TRAVELERS CHECKS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A major fear prior to the 18th century and the creation of travelers checks was losing money or having it stolen. Today's travelers worry more about losing their travelers checks.

But according to John Watanabe, director of BankAmerica Travelers Cheques, less than one percent of the certificates are ever lost or stolen.

Among the most unusual explanations about lost checks he recalls is one in which the dog ate them, and another from a woman who kept her rainy day money in travelers checks hidden in her oven.

One-day training scheduled

United Methodists from Hereford and area churches will be attending a "Sunday School Teacher: Gifted and Called" workshop which will be held from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Nov. 8 at First United Methodist Church, Lubbock.

Sunday school teachers, clergy, Christian educators, chairpersons of education, church school superintendents and other interested people will discover new skills, methods and resources at the one-day training event. Sponsoring the workshop are the Northwest Texas Conference of the United Methodist Church, the Section on Christian Education and the Curriculum Resources Committee of the General Board of Discipleship of the United Methodist Church and Cokesbury Educational Services.

As participants focus on the special gifts they bring to teaching, they will also learn to recognize the gifts the students have and how to maximize those gifts in the classroom. Models of good teaching by age-levels will be presented.

Leaders for the event will be Dorlis Glass, of Dallas, a local church elementary coordinator, laboratory leader and writer of curriculum resources; and Marlu Scott, Joseph Crockett and Roy Ryan, all staff members on Christian Education of the General Board of Discipleship, Nashville, Tenn.

Based on their interests, participants will be able to select one of four enrichment groups. Enrichment groups that will be offered will include:

—"Spiritual Journey: Foundation for Teaching." Participants will look at the meaning and purpose of spiritual growth and discover resources and disciplines for continuing their own faith journey.

—"Making the Bible Come Alive." This group will allow participants to discover ways to engage in personal Bible study—individually or in groups. Creative ways to share and teach the Bible will be explored.

—"Caregiving in the Classroom." This group will look at basic caregiving skills and ways to develop these skills in response to life situations of class members.

—"Release Your Creativity." Participants will explore definitions and self-perceptions of creativity. Ways to develop this gift in teaching will be identified.

Churches are encouraged to send

at least four persons, allowing for representation in each of the four age-level groups and for maximum benefit from the different enrichment groups offered.

Workshop tuition is $20 per person, or $15 when three or more attend from the same church. Lunch will be available for a nominal charge.

Accent on Health

The Texas Department of Health (TDH) has confirmed that four cases of dengue fever, sometimes called "breakbone fever", recently occurred in South Texas. And while the cases are not cause for alarm that a serious outbreak of the painful illness is on the way, officials warn the mosquito-borne illness can spread rapidly.

Since modern mosquito controls have been in use, dengue has joined many other semi-rare diseases which used to be common in Texas. In the five years before the latest cases, only four cases were confirmed in the state. But in 1980, 62 cases were confirmed.

Christie Reed, Acting Director of the TDH Infectious Disease Division, said that most cases of dengue, including one of this year's cases, are "imported" by infected persons returning from Central America and the Caribbean. However, one of the new cases was contracted by a Cameron County resident who had not been out of his own county for more than a month.

Forty-four percent of the cases reported in 1980 also were indigenous (locally acquired) and were the first such cases confirmed in the United States since 1945. Before modern mosquito controls, dengue epidemics struck annually. Some 41,000 Texans had the disease in 1922-23.

The significant thing about indigenous cases is that where you have mosquitos transmitting the disease, any number of people can be affected," Reed said. "Texas' most common domestic mosquito, Aedes aegypti, as well as Aedes albopictus, which accidentally arrived in shipping from Asia, can carry the illness."

Dengue is not considered life-threatening in the Western Hemisphere, but its symptoms can be seriously debilitating. Symptoms are persistent headache and fever (101 degrees or more) that can be accompanied by muscle and joint pain, eye pain, cough, sore throat, diarrhea, or a blotchy rash. The illness usually lasts about five to seven days and may be followed by a week or two of general weakness.

Victims with mild cases of dengue often assume they have some common virus. Dengue may be mistaken for typhus or flu, unless the patient's blood is tested for dengue virus, Reed said.

Reed explained the most effective means of controlling the disease is to eliminate sources of water where mosquitoes may lay eggs. Pet bowls, water hoses, and gutters should be drained frequently, and holes in trees should be filled with sand. Window screens should be in good repair.

Texas doctors testify on crises

Rising liability insurance premiums, larger settlements and awards, and fear of lawsuits are having negative effects on the health care of Texans. These and other insights to the professional liability crisis were part of Texas Medical Association testimony before the House/Senate Joint Committee on Liability Insurance and Tort Procedure on Saturday (Oct. 25) in Austin.

According to a recent TMA member survey, this fear of being sued has forced 69 percent of family doctors to limit the services they provide, said Dr. Jim Bob Brame, TMA president and a family physician from Eldorado. He added, "Thirty-seven percent said they no longer deliver babies. This means many people in Texas are not getting the services they need or they must go far from home to get them."

The survey also revealed that up to 38 percent of family doctors give patients more care than they may need because of the threat of a suit. Commonly referred to as defensive medicine, 38 percent of family doctors always order more consultations, 33 percent always order more x-rays, and 31 percent always order more lab tests. "Defensive medicine has added $15 billion to the nation's health care bill," said Dr. Brame.

Alarming increases in liability insurance premiums are necessary because of increasing numbers of suits, larger settlements, larger awards, and changing theories of recovery, according to Dr. E. Donald Webb, a Houston general practitioner. He told the committee, "You are in a position to preserve the tort compensation insurance system for those who are victims of true negligence. Sanity and predictability in the insurance mechanism must be restored."

TMA also believes that the Texas State Board of Medical Examiners, which is authorized by the Medical Practice Act to license and discipline doctors, could better protect the public from the small percentage of incompetent or negligent doctors if it had more staff and funding.

"TMA asks that those dedicated funds currently being held—but unappropriated—be immediately made available to the board to improve its ability to investigate these complaints in a timely and prudent manner. These are public funds from licensing fees paid directly by the doctors of Texas," said Dr. James Winn, a family physician from Uvalde and former member of the Texas State Board of Medical Examiners. Dr. Winn told the committee that when a doctor testifies against an unskilled or negligent physician and then is sued by that physician, the message is loud and clear—don't get involved. TMA suggested that enhanced protection against civil lawsuits of this kind would encourage rather than discourage physicians from reporting negligent doctors.

"Although good physicians are not always able to yield perfect results, this does not necessarily mean a physician is negligent," said Dr. Charles Neblett, a neurosurgeon from Houston. Dr. Tad Davis, an obstetrician/gynecologist from Austin explained, "Physicians strive for perfect babies, but when this is not the case, people blame the physician as the only reason for not having a perfect infant...but many problems are beyond the physician's control."

The House/Senate Joint Committee on Liability Insurance and Tort Procedure was appointed by Lt. Governor Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis to study the problem of professional liability and recommend solutions to the 1987 Texas Legislature. The hearing was held in the Old Supreme Court Room of the Texas State Capitol.

CHINA GROWING AS TOURIST ATTRACTION
 PEKING (AP) — China is on another "long march" and is attracting an ever-growing number of tourists, reports Travel Agent magazine.

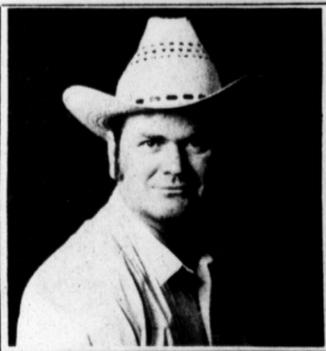

Last year the capital city received some 930,000 overseas visitors, contrasted with just a few thousand who entered China when it was opened once again to the world 12 years ago. Two million foreign visitors are expected to visit the city annually by 1990, and 4.3 million by the end of the century.

By 1990, 40,000 hotel rooms will be available in the capital for tourists, 23,000 more than were available last year, according to the publication. In addition, some 4,900 apartments and 4,200 offices will be available for overseas residents in the city.

Do what half the world only dreams about doing.

Revival scheduled at First Christian Church

A revival and session of lay witness training are scheduled at First Christian Church from Nov. 7 through Nov. 11.

Dr. Bill Iverson, noted Presbyterian evangelist, will be featured during the revival. Iverson is dean of ministry at the International School of Theology in San Bernardino, Calif.

The revival gets underway Friday at 7:30 p.m. with preaching by Iverson.

A session of witness training is set for 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday and Iverson will preach again at 7:30 p.m.

Several sessions of witness training is set for 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. Saturday and Iverson will preach again at 7:30 p.m.

Several sessions are planned for Sunday, Nov. 9, beginning with preaching by Iverson at 10:45 a.m.

Witness training will be from 2-4 p.m. Sunday followed by preaching at 6:30 p.m. A period of witnessing from 8-9 p.m. will conclude Sunday activities.

On Monday, Nov. 10, revival participants will meet for a prayer session at 7 p.m. prior to heading out for witnessing from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

On Tuesday, Nov. 11, participants will again meet for prayer at 7 p.m. prior to witnessing from 7:30 to 9 p.m.

A CHEMICAL CLUE

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A step toward understanding Tourette's Syndrome — the infamous "swearing disease" — has been made at the University of Rochester.

Scientist Suzanne Haber, working with researchers at the Harvard Medical School, analyzed the brain from a deceased Tourette's victim. They found a striking absence of a specific brain chemical called dynorphin. How this chemical is related to the disease remains unknown, but the finding points to new ways to diagnose and, possibly, treat victims.

These seriously afflicted with Tourette's Syndrome involuntarily shout obscenities and exhibit other bizarre symptoms such as barking, grunting and spasmodic body movements.

Leftover egg yolks can keep for two to three days, covered with water in a tight-lidded jar and refrigerated.

Bridal shower held for Annabeth Friemel

Annabeth Friemel of Austin, former Hereford resident, was feted with a bridal shower recently in the home of her aunt, Mrs. Gayland Ward, 401 Centre.

The honoree and Douglas Roming of Round Rock, Texas, plan to exchange wedding vows Nov. 15 at St. Anthony's Catholic Church of Hereford.

Receiving guests with Miss Friemel were her mother, Mrs. Jerome Friemel, and the prospective bridegroom's mother, Donna Roming of Austin.

Refreshments of assorted breads, punch and coffee were served by the bride-elect's sister, Karen, and her cousins, Charlotte Wieck of Hartley and Gene Gerber of Amarillo.

The table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a pastel multi-colored flower arrangement. Also, accenting the table were the crystal punch bowl, wedgewood blue tapers in crystal candleholders, and wedgewood blue napkins.

FEEDING THE ANIMALS

NEW YORK (AP) — Trying to duplicate the natural diet of wild animals in captivity is a problem faced by many zoo keepers.

To help meet the nutritional needs of the animals, many zoos now supplement daily meals with protein and vitamin additives. Curators at the Bronx Zoo are "supercharging" insects, which are later fed to birds, by adding high levels of vitamins and minerals to their feed.

Gorillas, horses and other herbivores — consumers of lettuce and leafy produce — are being fed plants grown in nutrients rather than soil. Domesticated fruits are enriched with protein and vitamins for bats and other fruit eaters.

On Jan. 7, 1972, President Richard Nixon announced he was a candidate for re-election.

Nuptial date set

Darice Jeannine Thomas and Mark Wade Shackelford will exchange wedding vows Dec. 20 at the home of the bride-elect's parents, 2031 Plains Ave.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd W. Thomas and the prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Shackelford of 212 Cherokee.

Miss Thomas, a 1986 graduate of Hereford High School, is currently attending West Texas State University and is employed at Anthony's.

Shackelford graduated from Dimmitt High School in May and is enrolled at Texas Tech University majoring in chemical engineering.

Red Cross

A first aid instructor class will begin Friday, Nov. 15, 6 p.m. to 10 p.m., at the Energas Flame Room.

The class will continue Saturday 8 a.m. to noon, at the Flame Room. Those interested in becoming instructors are asked to call the Red Cross office.

A CPR instructor class will also begin Friday, Nov. 15 at 6 p.m. at the Red Cross office. The class will continue Saturday, Nov. 16, 8 a.m. to noon, at the Red Cross office.

Special thanks to Garth Thomas, Disaster Chairman, who completed the class administration of a small disaster at the Disaster College held in Oklahoma City, Ok. Garth attended the three day seminar last week.

The terrororial meeting for this quarter will be held in Amarillo Wednesday. Anyone wanting to attend is asked to make reservations for the meeting through our office.

A first aid class will be held Nov. 10-11, 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. at the Red Cross office.

Special thanks to the Northwest PTA for inviting me to give a program on Kids in Safety Seats or K.I.S.S. and seat belt safety. Mr. Billingsley will be showing the films on seat belt safety and safety seat use to all of the children at Northwest school on Friday.

Thanks to all of the United Way volunteers. The Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross receives most of the funds that make our work possible from the United Way.

Extension Homemaker News

By BEVERLY HARDER
County Extension Agent
Brown Bag Lunch News

Once carried only by school kids and construction workers, the brown bag is now a symbol of status for millions of Americans. In fact, according to the Brown Bag Institute, 249 million lunches are packed each week, and at least 50 percent of all American households brown bag at least once a week!

Why the surge in brown bag lunches? The reasons are many: time, money, convenience and an increased interest in health and good nutrition, to name just a few. People pack lunches to save money. It is estimated that the average brown bagger saves approximately $1.80 a day. Lunches are packed for dieters, fitness fans who exercise at noon and picky kids, too, as well as heavy eating hard hat workers. It is estimated that 50 percent of brown baggers are white collar workers with higher educations and incomes of over $30,000.

Brown bag lunches can be hearty or low-cal, special diet or special taste, simple or fancy. And for most carried lunches, sandwiches are the first choice. Credit for the sandwich goes to John Montague, an Englishman who lived during the reign of George III. Legend has it that he refused to leave his gambling table for meals. His servant, therefore, brought him pieces of meat tucked between slices of bread. And, because Montague happened to be the Fourth Earl of Sandwich, others soon began to call for "the same as Sandwich!"

Sandwiches are the number one lunch choice because they can combine grain bread with meats or other protein foods, vegetables, fruits and cheeses or other dairy products needed for a wellbalanced diet.

Secrets To Successful Sandwiches

Spread bread slices with softened margarine to "seal" them and help keep the sandwiches from getting soggy as they wait in your brown bag. Cream cheese, processed cheese spreads and peanut butter are other spreads that seal the bread.

Wrap crisp or moist sandwich ingredients separately, to add when you sit down to eat.

Seasoned spreads: blend prepared horseradish, mustard, chili sauce, seasoning blends or herbs into margarine or butter for an easy way to give new zest to small favorite sandwiches. Blend some basil into margarine, for example, and use for Mozzarella cheese and tomato sandwiches; or add a pinch of tarragon to make a marvelous herb spread for chicken sandwiches. Horseradish and margarine go great with beef or ham and dill flavors tuna or salmon. Minced parsley or green onion can add color and flavor to the spread for almost every sandwich.

When combining sandwich filling ingredients, consider looks as well as taste and texture. Chopped radishes or green pepper can add a bright note to a sandwich filling. Or try leaf lettuce instead of iceberg, or deep green romaine leaves. Parsley springs, with most of the stem removed, make a good sandwich green with a peppery flavor.

You can use frozen bread for brown bag sandwiches. Just prepare sandwiches as usual and pack. The bread will be thawed by noon. Starting with frozen bread also helps keep the filling cool.

To freeze bread and retain its quality, overwrap the plastic bag in foil, heavyduty plastic wrap or plastic bag. Press the wrap tightly to the bread and seal tightly. Be sure to label and date the bread. Use within 2 to 3 months.

If you pack sandwiches in plastic bags, be sure to gently press out all the air before closing the bag. This will help sandwiches stay fresh and moist. Special note—commercial mayonnaise is an acidic substance which is a hostile environment in which bacteria do not thrive and in experiments at the Food Research Institute at the University of Wisconsin showed that mayonnaise actually prevented bacteria growth. This should not be interpreted to mean that a spoonful of mayonnaise in a sandwich will provide total and absolute protection against any kind of abuse. Food poisoning can grow in a normal mixture of food and mayonnaise, but they grow even better without it. So just because you take your lunch in a brown bag does not mean that you have to 'hold the may' on your sandwich. Education programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

Personality traits relate to ulcers

Is there an "ulcer personality"? Do some people have personality traits that may predispose them to form peptic ulcers?

Recent research suggests that the answer is "yes", according to gastroenterologists Dr. Charles Richardson and Dr. Mark Feldman, who jointly hold the Patterson Professorship in Internal Medicine at The University of Texas Health Science Center at Dallas. Besides their affiliation with UTHSCD, Richardson is chief of staff at the Dallas Veterans Administration Medical Center and Feldman is associate chief of staff for research at the Dallas VAMC.

Conducting studies both separately and together at the VA medical center, the two clinical investigators have found an entire gamut of psychological disturbances in those who form peptic ulcers, as well as an identifiable set of behavioral risk factors.

Peptic ulcers are defects or holes in the lining of the stomach (gastric ulcer) or upper small intestine (duodenal ulcer). Originally all ulcers in the upper gastrointestinal tract were believed to be caused by the aggressive action of hydrochloric acid and pepsin on the mucosal lining of the stomach. Therefore they became known as "peptic ulcers."

Feldman reported in the November issue of "Gastroenterology" that in groups of ulcer patients and normal control volunteers, the ulcer patients experienced approximately the same number of potentially stressful life events as normal subjects. But the ulcer patients perceived the events as having a far more negative impact on their lives.

Feldman's studies also confirm that there is a higher incidence of personality disorders in ulcer patients than controls although no one ulcer personality disorder was found consistently. The most prominent personality disorder in his study was "hypochondriasis"; that is, the ulcer patients tended to be hypochondriacs and were often complainers, preoccupied with their own aches and pains, and pessimistic.

He found that ulcer patients, as a group, are excessively dependent. Yet his study shows that ulcer patients have less social support than others, an area which has been largely ignored in past ulcer research.

Finally, Feldman showed a much higher frequency of emotional distress, in the form of depression and anxiety, in ulcer patients than in controls.

While the mechanisms by which emotional stress contributes to ulcer disease are unclear, it is known that certain emotions, such as hostility, resentment, guilt and frustration are associated with increased gastric acidity. Studies also show that, when stress is alleviated, acid secretion may diminish and symptoms of ulceration may disappear.

Behavioral risk factors for peptic ulcer disease, according to the doctors, include the use of tobacco, alcohol, coffee and aspirin. Smoking cigarettes, they say, is additionally harmful once ulcers form since it delays ulcer healing. Death due to peptic ulcer disease is more likely among patients who smoke than those who do not.

In their search for a cure, Feldman and Richardson found that a chief factor separating ulcer patients from the average person is a profound overproduction of stomach acid. They discovered that duodenal ulcer patients secrete twice as much acid into the stomach over a 24-hour period as do normal persons, and the amount of acid secreted is elevated both during the day and night.

The reasons for overproduction of acid in some individuals with duodenal ulcers and not in others remains largely a mystery, but the doctors have identified several mechanisms by which acid is secreted.

For example, thinking, seeing, smelling, tasting and chewing food can trigger acid secretion, their studies show. And when these factors stimulate the vagus nerve, originating in the brain, parietal cells in the stomach are given the signal to secrete acid. In addition, endocrine cells in the stomach are stimulated to release the hormone, gastrin, which then further stimulates acid secretion. Richardson and Feldman have measured increased acid and gastrin levels in normal volunteers when appetizing food was either discussed with the subjects or actually placed in front of them so that they could see, smell, and think about the food.

Peptic ulcer disease is likely caused by several different factors. For example, increased acid secretion and emotional stress may be important mechanisms leading to ulcer formation in some patients while smoking or ingestion of drugs such as aspirin may play a major role in others. Genetic predisposition may be a factor in ulcer formation in certain "ulcer families."

NEVADA LEADS IN VCR OWNERSHIP

NEW YORK (AP) — Some 35 percent of all American television households — or about 30.5 million homes — own videocassette recorders, according to a study reported in Multichannel News.

Las Vegas, Nev., has the highest percentage, with 59 percent of TV homes in the area owning VCRs, followed by its sister city of Reno with 56 percent.

The lowest percentage reported by the industry journal is 19 percent in Selma, Ala., and Parkerburg, W.Va.

Erickson to speak at Founders' Dinner

Nationally known author and humorist, John Erickson, will be the guest speaker at the King's Manor Founders' Dinner planned at 7 p.m. Nov. 13 in the Lamar Memorial Garden Room.

Tickets are available at the door and reservations may be made by calling the Manor at 364-0661. A $25 ticket includes the meal, which is being catered by K-Bob's Steak House, and a year's membership into the Founders' Association.

Publishing through his own company, Maverick Books, Erickson has written the popular "Hank the Cowdog" series about the humorous antics of canine head of ranch security. The first book of the series was produced as an animated feature for CBS Storybreak.

In addition to the Hank series, Erickson has written a number of books dealing with the traditions and life of the cowboy. He examines the day to day job of the modern Texas cowboy from the point of view of a man that has been a cowhand in the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles.

The author has also published a collection of cowboy humor and tales. "The Devil in Texas",

"Cowboys are Partly Human", "Alkali County Tales"; and "Cowboys Are A Separate Species" have received wide acclaim throughout the western ranch country.

A recent effort is the biography of Ace Reid, the creator of "Cowpokes" cartoons. This combination of two of the most popular humorists of today resulted in a book that brings the comic genius of Ace Reid to life.

Erickson is a native of Perryton and lives there with his wife, Kristine, and three children. He has spoken to groups all over the United States and Canada. He has lectured at the Library of Congress and is a member of the Texas Institute of Letters, the Philosophical Society of Texas, and a board member of the Western Writers of America.

On Aug. 27, 1883, one of the largest volcanic eruptions in centuries took place on the island of Krakatoa in Indonesia. The volcano's 2,640-foot peak collapsed to 1,000 feet below sea level, leaving only a small portion of the island standing. Ash from the eruption colored sunsets around the world for two years.

Today's Real Estate

HOUSING AFFORDABILITY
Buyers of existing, single family homes in August 1986 found housing affordability conditions better than they have been in eight years. A slower rate of home appreciation and steady mortgage interest rates boosted the NAR HOUSING AFFORDABILITY INDEX to 104.1 in August, the highest since July of 1978's index of 105.1. At 104.1, the index means that more than half the nations families could qualify for a mortgage to purchase a home costing $80,000, which was the median price for an existing home in August.

Between the Covers

DIANNE PIERSON
Director

Historical novels are featured this week at the Deaf Smith County Library. The novels featured are "110 Shanghai Road" by Monica Highland and "Secret For A Nightingale" by Victoria Holt.

In December 1926, as China seethes with civil unrest, two American boys travel from their up-country boarding school down the Yangtze River, bound for their Christmas holiday and the precarious safety of their family homes.

Dockside, Chinese bandits plan a kidnapping for ransom, but instead of Harley Fitch, the son of a wealthy businessman, they nab Matthew Granger, a rebellious missionary's son. Thus begins a lifelong rivalry, both public and personal, as Matthew and Harley compete for political and financial power that will eventually circle the globe.

Between these two men stand Jordan Logan Fisher, the British belle of Shanghai, who carves her own path of adventure to Mao's revolutionary caves of Yenan and far beyond to fame and achievement.

Sweeping from the chaos of the Chinese Civil War, to Washington during World War II and the McCarthy era, to Hollywood, and onward to London today, "110 Shanghai Road" captures sixty drama-filled years in the world's history and in the lives of the men and women who shaped it.

For more than two decades, Victoria Holt has been enchanting readers around the world with such memorable bestsellers as "The Landowner Legacy," "The Demon Lover," and the most recent, "The Road To Paradise Island." Now, her new tale of love and intrigue, mystery and adventure shows the queen of romantic suspense at her spellbinding best. Secret of A Nightingale unfolds a lavish, story of a young woman who courageously embarks on a career in a time when most women dared not venture out alone.

As a child in India, beautiful, high-spirited Susanna Pleydell first becomes aware of her special gifts to soothe the sick. But she puts aside her dream of helping others when she meets the dashing and sophisticated Aubrey St. Claire.

Only after they are married does Susanna learn of Aubrey's brooding, dangerous nature—his obsession with the occult and his weakness for opium. She is fearful of all of Dr. Damien Adair, who has a sinister influence over Susanna's husband. When Aubrey's behavior leads to tragedy, Susanna flees, vowing vengeance on the one man she holds responsible—Damien Adair.

Other new books available this week at the library are "Prizzi's Family" by Richard Condon, "Illinois" by Dana Fuller Ross, and "Choice, Changes" by Joni Eareckson Tada.

LIBRARY EVENTS:
10 a.m. - Thursday morning - preschool public story hour.

Bike Tricks

Joe Francis, top, and Dean Murphey, bottom show some bike tricks to each other at 115 S. Douglas. The two rode for each other so they could practice action shots for photography class at school. Francis does an endo and Murphey opted to perform a bunny hop.

DR. GOTT Nosebleeds and blood pressure

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I got nosebleeds for no reason from age 5 to 37. Finally a new doctor came to town and I consulted him. He asked me if I'd ever had my blood pressure checked, which I hadn't. He took a reading and has had me on high-blood-pressure pills for the past 40 years, and I've had no more nosebleeds. I hope this helps some of your readers.

DEAR READER — As you concluded, nosebleeds can sometimes be an indicator of high blood pressure. Frankly, I find it hard to believe that you had hypertension as a child and into young adulthood. In addition, most pediatricians will check blood pressure as a routine part of a child's examination. Therefore, I prefer to think that your early nosebleeds were unrelated to the ones you had later, which may have been the result of a blood-pressure problem. In any case, I appreciate your writing and sharing your views.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband has blood in his semen, and I don't know what to do about it. What does it mean?

DEAR READER — Blood in the urine or semen is always abnormal. It could be due to infection or tumors. I suggest that your husband check with his doctor and, if blood is present, be referred to a urologist.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Can erythema nodosum recur in the future? Could you describe the condition and discuss its prognosis?

DEAR READER — Erythema nodosum is a peculiar skin reaction thought to result from blood-vessel inflammation due to an allergic reaction. The condition is not a disease but is seen in conjunction with certain infections, such as streptococcus, ulcerative colitis and tuberculosis. It can occur during pregnancy in normal women. The skin reaction appears as red, painful bumps, usually on the shins. The lesions may last several weeks and are often associated with low-grade fever, joint and muscle pains and a rundown feeling.

The bumps go away with time; they usually disappear more rapidly if the associated infection is treated.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A year or two ago there was a great to-do about chelation therapy, but now I hear nothing about it. What is this therapy and what conditions can it help?

The U.S. Congress granted citizenship to all American Indians in 1924.

Queen Elizabeth II was crowned in 1953 in Westminster Abbey.

Adjustable-rate mortgage

The adjustable-rate mortgage is the newest and most complex of the new mortgage forms. The common feature of the adjustable rate mortgage is that the interest is not fixed and will vary according to an interest-rate index that is selected at the time the loan is originated.

Certificates, pins awarded during graduation ceremony

Seventeen nurses aide certification course graduates participated in special ceremonies Tuesday evening in the Lamar Memorial Garden Room at King's Manor Retirement Home.

On May 24, 1844, Samuel Morse transmitted the first public message by telegraph, sending it from Washington to Baltimore.

In 1881, the excursion steamboat Victoria sank on the Thames River near London, Ontario, with the loss of 181 lives.

President John F. Kennedy asked the U.S. in 1961 to work toward putting a man on the moon by the end of the decade.

The Organization of African Unity was formed at a 1963 meeting in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia.

An American Airlines DC-10 crashed near Chicago's O'Hare Airport May 25, 1979, killing all 272 persons aboard in the worst disaster in the history of U.S. Aviation.

Approximately 100 people were in attendance.

Steve Perkins, RN and director of nursing at the home served as master of ceremonies. The invocation was given by the Rev. Wallace Kirby and an address was presented by Joyce Lyons, administrator.

Rachel Henslee, inservice director at King's Manor, helped award certificates and pins. Those honored included Sylvia Villegas, Diane Gutierrez, Bertha Rios, Gracie Gutierrez, Dana Collier, Betty Harris, Julia Carrizales, Juanita Escamilla, Sandra Lopez, Rose Brown, Cindy Gaitan, Elery Brooke, Terry Robinson, Ruth Lawhon, Becky Ruland, Alfred Cano and Linda Hill.

Another CNA class will be held in the near future.

A strong nutrition and health program is the prescription for the optimum cattle performance, according to experts. Vaccinating calves, three to four weeks prior to weaning, is a must for cattlemen who intend to keep the calves for feeding or backgrounding, say experts. Limited creep feeding to reduce nutritional stress due to weaning is also beneficial. Limited creep feeding limits the intake of creep feed through salt or other limiters, allowing relatively high feed conversions on one or two pounds of feed per day. This adjusts the calves to grain, reducing stress of depriving the calf of its mother and her milk. Processing is also extremely important. Experts urge producers to give their calves a high quality grass or grass legume hay the night before processing. Early the next morning, processing should consist of appropriate bacterial and viral vaccinations plus treatment for parasites. Implanting at processing, along with clean and comfortable facilities, is also recommended for increased gain.

MEET YOUR REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE

GOVERNOR: BILL CLEMENTS

Born April 13, 1917, Bill Clements began working in the oil fields as roughneck and driller and founded Sedco at the age of 30. A graduate and former Chairman of the Board of Governors of Southern Methodist University, Clements is an active member and former vestryman of St. Michael, All Angels Episcopal Church, and has worked in many capacities on various Boy Scouts of America councils. Nationally, Clements has served as Deputy Secretary of Defense and as an appointee on the Presidents Commission on Strategic Forces and the Presidents Commission on Central America. The former Governor of Texas and former chairman of the Republican Governors' Association, Clements record is as follows:

Under Clements, 946,300 new jobs were created in Texas, 1 out of every 4 in America. Clements left a billion dollar surplus and reduced state bureaucracy starting with his own staff and budget. Cost of government was reduced 5 percent. There were no new taxes.

Clements proposed and signed into law "Back to Basics" curriculum reform, tough classroom discipline measures and teacher pay hikes. Clements increased funding for higher education by 56.4 percent.

Clements started the "War on Drugs" and passed tough anticrime laws, making it easier to use oral confessions and tougher to get bail and probation; and increasing sentences for rape, crimes against children and big-time drug dealing.

If re-elected Clements wants to improve HB72, return discipline to the classroom, reduce the teacher paperwork burden and return to an elected state school board. Clements will make the Texas view heard in Washington. He has a strong personal relationship with President Reagan. Clements has an economic development plan that emphasizes a new partnership between government, business, and the educational system to create jobs; and a management by objective plan to control wasteful spending.

LT. GOVERNOR: DAVID DAVIDSON

A 48 year old honor graduate of Trinity University and Woodrow Wilson Fellow, Davidson has stepped down from the pulpit of his nondenominational church to seek the office of the "most powerful man in Texas government." Davidson has prior experience in banking and points out that the Lt.

Governor of Texas is Chairman of the Legislative Board and therefore has more personal influence on budget than anyone. He controls all legislation as President of the Senate—no taxes can be passed without his okay.

The incumbent has been in office 14 years. Texas now has more employees per capita than New York or California. We are spending faster than revenues are increasing. The Lt. Governor controls the State Auditor; therefore he writes the budget and controls the auditor who is supposed to ferret out waste and mismanagement. This leads Davidson to the assessment, "Having Hobby Hurts."

On key issues, Davidson favors a Constitutional ban on State Income Tax, is in favor of stronger management on government rather than increased taxes, is against abortion, is in favor of electing rather than appointing judges, favors putting a cap on indigent health care. Davidson defends parental rights in educating their children, opposes legalized gay rights, and is in favor of prison expansion financed by private ventures so that there is capacity for criminals to serve the full time imposed by the courts.

ATTORNEY GENERAL:
ROY R. BARRERA

At 28, Barrera was appointed Judge of the 144th State District Court in San Antonio. In 1982, he was elected by 58 percent of the vote and led the entire Republican ticket. He has handled over 3,000 criminal cases, he has collected over $500,000 in fines, fees, victim compensation and restitution in the past 5 years. Over 10,500 years imprisonment have been imposed in his court. His record as an assistant district attorney and a criminal district judge exemplifies his toughness on criminals as well as his sensitivity towards the needs of the victims of crime.

A St. Mary's graduate, the San Antonio born Barrera is one of only 9 district judges in Texas with authority to issue wire-tap orders in drug cases. Barrera is a Reagan appointee to the United Nations as a National Correspondent in the Field of Crime Prevention.

The Attorney General serves as the lawyer for state agencies in civil litigation. He also issues legal opinions to public officials. As Attorney General, Roy Barrera will build that office into a hard working professional body that will enforce all the laws of the state and will return integrity, professionalism and respect to the highest law enforcement office in the state.

Candidate for 19th Congressional District Representative: Larry Combest

A 4th generation West Texan, Combest was raised on a farm near Memphis. He is a graduate of WTSU. As 19th District Representative, Congressman Combest sits on the House Agriculture Committee. Combest stresses policies which would favor fair profit for farmers and ranchers and ensure their ability to compete in world trade without unreasonable government interference.

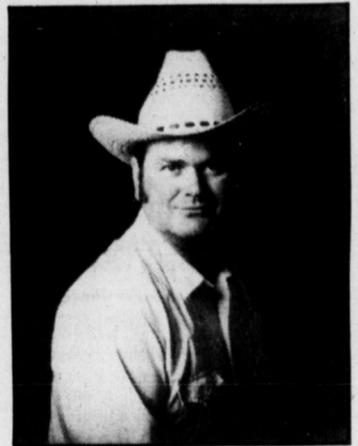

Combest has been described as a savvy diplomat with a high level of effectiveness and great potential for leadership. A former aide to Senator John Tower, Combest brings a lifetime of agricultural experience and commitment to his fight for the farmers and ranchers in West Texas. He is seeking re-election to continue his responsive representation of our agriculturally based area.

Candidate For State Representative 86th District:
John Smithee,

This Amarillo native is running unopposed for re-election. Smithee holds a bachelors degree from WTSU and a law degree from Texas Tech. He is associated with the law firm of Templeton and Garner in Amarillo and is involved with a self-owned real estate development and investment firm.

Elected in 1984, Smithee served the 69th legislature on the Judicial Affairs Committee, Science and Technology Committee, American Legislative Exchange Council and the Texas Conservative Coalition.

Candidate for Deaf Smith County
Commissioner Precinct 4: Ronnie Hathaway, Sr.

A native Texan, raised in Dimmitt, Hathaway resides one-half mile north of Hereford on Ave. K. Hathaway and his wife, Donna, have two sons.

Hathaway notes that County Commissioners are responsible for budgeting almost $4 million annually, and they do so on a part-time basis. Hathaway promises to represent Precinct 4 as a full-time commissioner and keep a lid on spending by cutting the waste out of our county budget. Hathaway has been in private business for 16 years.

Other candidates filing for office on the Republican ticket include:

- Railroad Commissioner: Milton Fox
- Commissioner of Agriculture: Bill Powers
- Justice, Supreme Court, Place 1: Charles Ben Howell
- Justice, Supreme Court, Place 2: Nathan E. White, Jr.
- Justice, Supreme Court, Place 4: John L. Bates

Don't Tie Bill Clements' Hands
With A Democratic Lt. Governor And Attorney General!

VOTE REPUBLICAN!
Tuesday November 4th
