Hobby wins fifth term

AUSTIN (AP) - Democratic Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, winning reelection again in seemingly effortless fashion, pledged to "do my best to make our state world-class in every way.

Hobby never doubted he would win, according to campaign leaders, and late in the race campaigned for other Democratic candidates almost as much as for himself.

With 98.5 percent of the precincts reporting early today, Hobby had 1,922,391 votes, or 61.28 percent, compared with 1,211,573 votes, or 37.26 percent, for Republican David Davidson of Austin, a former Libertarian Party candidate Bill Howell, a Dallas bookkeeper, received 47,025 votes, or 1.44 percent.

Hobby, first inaugurated in 1973, now has won five terms to the job considered by many the most powerful in state government. His new term extends to 1991, which would give him 18 years in office, far longer than anyone else who has served as lieutenant governor.

Mattox wins in tight race

AUSTIN (AP) - Democratic Attorney General Jim Mattox, who boldly talked of a 25-point lead only a week ago, was re-elected in a race so close that GOP challenger Roy Barrera Jr. went to bed early today without conceding.

With Tuesday's votes counted in 98.5 percent of the state's precincts, Mattox had 1,698,751 votes, or 51.48 percent, to Barrera's 1,559,283 votes, or 47.26 percent. Libertarian Mike Stephens of Dallas had 41,301 votes, or 1.25 percent.

Mattox was satisfied with his win, but acknowledged Barrera, a San Antonio state district judge, did surprisingly well.

"I think the Republicans were stronger in the state than what we expected," Mattox said, referring to Republican Bill Clements' win over incumbent Democratic Gov. Mark White.

Hightower keeps ag post

DALLAS (AP) - Wisecracking Democrat incumbent Jim Hightower triumphed over the more somber campaign of his GOP challenger to keep a firm grasp on his post as Texas agriculture commissioner, capturing almost 60 percent of the vote.

With 99.3 percent of the state's precincts reporting today, Hightower had 1,924,878 votes to Texas Poultry Federation executive Bill Powers' 1,225,931 votes. Libertarian candidate Rebecca Reed trailed with 64,943 votes, or 2.02 percent.

Hightower, who calls himself "Whole Hog," dubbed Powers "Chicken Man II," since the Democrat defeated a poultry expert in the 1982 general election.

He says he sees the vote as a mandate to continue his high-profile work in Austin.

Powers, 44, a Texas A&M graduate who also raises beef at his Austin home, said Hightower's presence and high-profile personality simply overpowered his campaign.

Bullock, Richards re-elected

AUSTIN (AP) - Election Day was no sweat for two Democratic state officials, Treasurer Ann Richards and Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Neither faced a Republican opponent, and returns today showed each with more than 90 percent of the vote in their races. Bullock, the Democrat who has served as the state's chief fiscal officer and tax collector for a dozen years, stormed over Libertarian

George Meeks, an auto parts salesman from San Antonio. With 98.5 percent of the the precincts reporting, Bullock had received 2,375,782 votes, or 90.04 percent, to 262,596 votes, or 9.95 percent, for Meeks

Ms. Richards, who won her first bid for statewide office in 1982 after serving as a Travis County commissioner, bested Libertarian Robert F. Reid, a Fort Worth pension consultant and actuary.

With 98.5 percent of the precincts reporting in that race, Ms. Richards received 2,274,556 votes, or 91.62 percent, compared with 217,102, or 8.37 percent, for Reid.

Mauro to keep land seat

DALLAS (AP) - Texas voters finally woke up and realized they weren't voting for a famous clinic in the race for state land commissioner, Democrat incumbent Garry Mauro says.

Mauro won the name game and re-election as land commissioner Tuesday by defeating famous-named political neophyte M.D. Anderson Jr.

With 99.3 percent of the voted counted today, he had 1,953,153 votes, or 61.33 percent, to Republican Anderson's 1,168,803 votes, or 36.7 percent. Libertarian candidate Honey Sue Lanham of Austin trailed with 62,456 votes, or 1.96 percent.

"Most Texans probably know the land commissioner is not a character out of the TV show 'Dallas' any more," Mauro said. "And they know M.D. Anderson isn't just a clinic. They know it takes more than a famous name to become Texas land commissioner."

Mauro contended throughout the campaign that Anderson was trying to trick people into voting for him by using the initials of the famed hospital rather than using his full name, Marion Dudley Anderson

Anderson, who operates a dance hall in Seven Points, a small town about 50 miles southeast of Dallas, defeated two opponents in the Republican primary despite spending virtually no money and making few campaign appearances.

Sharp wins rail seat

DALLAS (AP) - Democratic state Sen. John Sharp says straight talk on the issues of trucking safety and the state's oil and gas problems helped him defeat GOP state Rep. Milton Fox in the race for Texas Railroad Commissioner.

With 99.3 percent of the state's precincts reporting in Tuesday's election, Sharp had 1,715,830 votes, or 55.34 percent, to Fox's 1.318,810 votes, or 42.53 percent.

Libertarian candidate Chloe "Jack" Daniels of Farmers Branch had 65,590 votes, or 2.11 percent.

Clements, 69, who waltzed through the Republican primary and led White in opinion polls throughout the campaign, soundly defeated the manwho had ousted him from office.

With 98 percent of the vote counted by the secretary of state's office, Clements had received 1,764,235 votes, or 52.69 percent, to 1,542,396 votes, or 46.10 percent, for White. The third candidate on the ballot, Libertarian Theresa Doyle of San

White, 46, said little during a brief speech to his supporters. Flanked by his family, the governor said he felt good about the educational improvements made during his term.

"I'm very proud of the work we've done and the accomplishments we've made. I hadn't really planned on having to make this speech tonight," White said. "But tonight the election did not go for us, and I congratulate Bill Clements."

The Clements win followed a bitter advertising and harsh words from each candidate.

Clements said the key issues were the state's record unemployment and White's supposed inability to lead. He also hammered constantly on the two major tax increases White signed into law - in 1984 and in September - after promising during the 1982 campaign not to raise taxes.

White said the jobless rate was the fault of Republicans in Washington because President Reagan refused to impose a tariff on imported oil. He provements he made in education, highway construction and passage of a statewide water plan.

Clements, a self-made millionaire who built his fortune in the oil business, said he would begin applying his business know-how to the state's oil-battered finances.

The Legislature held back-to-back special sessions in August and September to deal with a $2.8 billion budget deficit, but despite spending Deaf Smith County voters helped elect Bill Clements as the new governor and also gave strong support to Republican candidate Roy Barrera Jr. in the attorney general's race in the general election here Tuesday. Most of the 4,198 voters went with Democrats in the other races.

County voters gave hometown candidate Gerald McCathern the edge in his unsuccessful bid to unseat Republican Larry Combest in the 19th Congressional District race. Mc-Cathern's margin was only 492 votes here, however, while Castro County gave him a 620-vote margin.

In the county's only contested race, Democrat Johnny Latham defeated Republican Ronnie Hathaway Sr. for Commissioner of Precinct 4. Latham garnered 620 votes to Hathaway's 345. Latham had defeated incumbent James Voyles in the Democratic primary.

The turnout of 4,198 votes in the cold and wet weather Tuesday was probably better than most political observers had hoped for with only one local contested race. With a total of 8,866 registered voters, the turnout represented 47 percent of eligible

In the commissioner's race, Latham won three of the four voting boxes, in addition to the absentee vote total. Hathaway won the Wildorado voting box by 32-23. Latham had a 411-225 edge in the Community Center box; 77-36 at the Ford box, and 35-18 at Simms. Latham also won the absentee vote box 74-34.

County voters favored Clements by 2,635 over White's 1,299 in the governor's race. Deaf Smith voters went with Barrera, 2,178 to 1,668, over Mattox in the attorney general's race. Mattox, however, was reelected statewide. County voters supported all four proposed constitutional amendments.

Republican John Smithee was unopposed for state representative. 86th District, and drew 2,456 votes here. The district includes Deaf Smith and Randall Counties.

County officials elected in unopposed races included Wesley Gulley, district judge; Roland Saul, district attorney; Tom Simons, county judge; Lola F. Veazey, district clerk; David Ruland, county clerk; Vesta M. Nunley, county treasurer; Ken Hagar, county surveyor; Johnnie Turrentine, justice of the peace: and Austin Rose, commissioner of Precinct 2.

Vote totals ranged from 2,737 to 2,943 for the county candidates. Veazey, Nunley and Turrentine claimed the high vote totals.

McCathern falls to Combest

Hereford's Gerald McCathern fail- heavy financial support. His biggest ed in his bid to unseat Republican Congressman Larry Combest of Lubbock in the 19th District race Tuesday, as Combest swept to a decisive win in taking 62 percent of the votes in the district.

McCathern ran a close race in the early rural-county returns Tuesday night, but the large Lubbock and Odessa votes were captured by Combest. At 9 a.m. this morning, the vote total showed Combest with 67,321 and McCathern with 41,211. Combest had 62 percent of the votes with 249 of the 251 voting precincts reporting.

Despite the discontented state of the area's agriculture and oil people, McCathern failed to draw the necessary support to challenge Combest, who wins his second term as the 19th District Congressman. Mc-Cathern had hoped for overwhelming support in the rural counties and a split of votes in the large cities of Lubbock and Odessa

Combest is the first Republican to hold the 19th District seat, held from its creation in 1933 until 1978 by the late George Mahon. He was succeeded by Kent Hance who retired in 1984 to mount two losing campaigns-first for the U.S. Senate and later for governor.

McCathern fought an uphill battle from the beginning, failing to overcome Combest's advantages of incumbency, name identification and hurdle was convincing voters he was more than a one-issue candidate for the farming community.

McCathern also failed to receive financial support from the Democratic Party. The American Agriculture Movement hosted his lone fundraiser and made the largest political action committee contribution to his campaign. McCathern had won 60 percent of the vote in the Demo primary, easily defeated Mary Nell Mathis of Lubbock. He won all the counties in the district except Lubbock in the primary. Combest overcame a crowded field of Republican contenders to win his first term over Democrat Don Richards of Lubbock. Combest was unopposed in the Republican primary this year.

The Brand was unable to contact either candidate this morning. Mc-Cathern was sure to be disappointed at the margin of victory for Combest. Deaf Smith County, while giving Mc-Cathern the edge, was carried only by a 56 percent tally. Castro County gave McCathern 65 percent of its votes McCathern did not win every box in his home county. The La Plata box gave Combest a narrow edge, 495-467, and the Northwest school box showed Combest with 191 and Mc-Cathern 170. McCathern carried all the other boxes in the county.

Put To Rest

Ballot boxes county voters used yesterday will be put to rest until the next election. Almost 46 percent of the county voters managed to endure the cold weather and rain and made it out to cast ballots.

Bank amendment, 3 others pass

HOUSTON (AP) - Passage of a controversial amendment allowing branch banking will make banking in Texas more convenient, but consumers won't see immediate changes, its proponents say.

The proposal was one of four constitutional amendments approved overwhelmingly by voters Tuesday. With 99.3 percent of the vote counted, the branch banking proposal was approved 1,922,671 to 697,526, or 73.37 percent to 26.62 percent. Other amendments approved Tuesday grant some mutualinsurance companies permission to sell policies to political subdivisions, change the state Legislature's bill-caption rule, and allow the value of railroad rolling stock - tanks, boxcars and engines - to be apportioned among counties by general law, rather than the state comptroller. State Rep. Ralph Wallace, a co-sponsor of the bill to get branch banking on the ballot, said the Legislature will work out specifics in the next session.

"I think it's going to make it more competitive, more advantageous for the consumer - he'll be able to pick and choose now,"

But Gary Tongate, a White Hill independent banker opposed to the amendment, said he believed branch banking eventually will result in higher service charges.

"Obviously, we feel like it's going to be detrimental to Texas," said Tongate, a member of Independent Bankers of Texas. "I think the well-managed independent banks will still have a place in Texas, but they will find it difficult to compete."

Bookman Peters, president of the Texas Bankers Association and chairman of First City Bank in Bryan, said Tuesday night he did expect immediate developments.

"It'll be a cautious thing because each investment has to be calculated by the bank," he said.

With 99.3 percent of the vote counted, an amendment to repeal the "one-subject rule" relating to the caption title of a bill was approved 1,792,184 to 648,223, or 73.43 percent to 26.56 percent.

Democrats hold seats, GOP drops two

By GARTH JONES Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP) - Former Gov. Bill Clements' decisive victory over Democratic incumbent Gov. Mark White apparently had little coattail effect on state House and Senate

Unofficial, and sometimes incomplete, results had all Democratic incumbents in the House and Senate winning, but two Republican House members lost and several other GOP incumbents escaped with only narrow victories.

The GOP incumbents ousted included Rep. Bob Richardson of Austin, who was defeated by Democrat John Keel, also of Austin, 51 percent to 48 percent, and Rep. Gene Haney of Houston, who lost to Democrat Weldon Betts, 56 percent to 44 percent.

Rep. Larry Don Shaw, D-Big Spring, had trailed Republican John Anderson of Gail, but pulled ahead to win with 50.9 percent.

Democrat Froy Salinas, who lost in 1984 to Rep. Ron Givens, R-Lubbock, led until the end, when Givens surged ahead to capture 53 percent.

In extremely close races, however, some challenges already were under Democrat Janey Lack of Victoria. who received 49.9 percent of the vote in a loss to Republican Steve Holzheauser, also of Victoria, said early today she was seeking a recount.

But more typical were races like House Speaker Gib Lewis, who led the Democratic parade in winning his first challenge at the ballot box in eight years. Lewis eased by K. Wayne Lee of Southlake with about 58 percent of the vote.

Here are the unofficial and in some cases incomplete results of the contested races for House and Senate District 10, Sen. Bob McFarland, Arlington, Republican, defeated Jerrold Strickler, Flower Mound, Libertarian, with 93.4 percent of the vote. 11, Sen. Chet Brooks, Pasadena, Democrat, defeated H.R. Herman, Seabrook, Republican, with 56.8 percent.

Iran claims to have expelled U.S. advisor

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) - Iran says it expelled a former White House national security adviser and four other Americans sent on a futile mission to mend U.S.-Iranian relations. The envoys reportedly arrived on a plane carrying military equipment and brought a Bible

The speaker of Iran's parliament, Hashemi Rafsanjani, made the claim Tuesday in a speech marking the seventh anniversary of the takeover of U.S. Embassy in Tehran, according to the official Islamic Republic News Agency.

Rafsanjani's statements followed published reports in the Middle East that David Jacobsen, an American held captive for more than 17 months in Lebanon, was freed Sunday as a result of negotiations between Iran and the United States. The United States broke diplomatic relations with Iran in 1979 when the U.S. Embassy was seized and dozens of Americans were Reagan, McFarlane and U.S. government officials had no comment on the Iranian report. Rafsanjani said that upon arrival at Tehran's Mehrabad Airport, the uninvited guests told immigration officials they were Americans "with a special message for Iranian officials from the U.S. president."

The five Americans were confined to a hotel for five days and then deported after Iranian leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini advised officials not to meet with them or receive their message, Rafsanjani

Tehran Radio, in a report monitored in London, quoted Rafsanjani as saying McFarlane and the others "were terrified and informed us later that the U.S. Rapid Deployment Force had been put on alert. Of course, we do not know whether this was so or not." Rafsanjani said they arrived aboard a plane carrying military supplies Iran had bought from international dealers, and brought a Bible signed by Reagan and a cake to be presented as "a key to open Iran-U.S. relations. Tehran Radio quoted Rafsanjani as saying he was not "100 percent certain" that the man who claimed to be McFarlane was who he said Rafsanjani did not mention any negotiations and the news agency did not say when the alleged visit occurred. But the Beirut magazine

Al-Shiraa reported that McFarlane went to Tehran in September. Al-Shiraa, which is pro-Syrian, said McFarlane's mission in Tehran was to discuss an end to Iran's support for terrorist groups and that U.S. military spare parts were provided as encouragement.

White receives majority of Hispanic vote

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Mark White received 87 percent of the Texas Hispanic vote compared to 13 percent for Republican challenger Bill Clements, the president of the Southwest Voters Research Institute says.

Those were the results from statewide exit polls conducted in 50 precincts in 21 counties scattered across Texas, William C. Velasquez, the organization's president, said Tuesday night. Those precincts were selected by computer to reflect different ages, education and income, Velasquez said at White's headquarters. Velasquez said the percentages were almost identical to the 1982 Hispanic vote but an upswing in registered Hispanic voters translated into 50,000 to 60,000 more votes for White this year. According to the poll, he said, Attorney General Jim Mattox received 68 percent of the Hispanic vote to 32 percent for his GOP opponent Roy Barrera. But Velasquez said the 32 percent for Barrera was the greatest Hispanic vote ever for a Republican candidate, exceeding the 27 percent given President Reagan in 1984.

In the Texas Supreme Court race for Place 4, Justice Raul Gonzalez received 91 percent compared to 9 percent for John Bates of Waco, the GOP candidate.

government price supports and huge stockpiles of surplus grain are putting a dent in the farm value of this fall's corn harvest, according to Agriculture Department economists.

A preliminary forecast by the department's Economic Research Service shows corn receipts may average about $225 per planted acre, down 13 percent from $260 grossed per acre in 1985.

The figures show cash expenses for corn planted this year will drop to around $189 per acre from more than $205 in 1985. That would put 1986 net cash returns to corn producers at a little more than $36 per acre, down by more than a third from $55 in 1985.

for a baseball game, according to the Nielsen ratings, and helped boost NBC's numbers, though the network needed no help, having won all five previous weeks of the new season.

The World Series rated a 38.9, replacing "The Cosby Show" in the No. 1 spot for the first time since June when the family-style situation comedy was up against the "Liberty Weekend" celebration on ABC. "Cosby" was No. 2 last week with a rating of 34.9. ABC's "Monday Night Football" between the Washington Redskins and the New York Giants went up against the rain-delayed series between the Boston Red Sox and the New York Mets and dropped to 67th out of 74 with a rating of 8.8. Seven of the top 10 shows last week were on NBC: "Family Ties," a family sit-com that follows "Cosby," was No. 3; "Cheers," a sit-com set in a Boston bar that follows "Family Ties," was No. 4; "Night Court," a sit-com set in a New York courtroom

Ann Landers

Four cheers!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You would be doing all airline passengers and particularly 70,000 flight attendants a great service if you could publish the enclosed editorial from the Rochester, Minn., Post-Bulletin. Here it is:

Airline passengers who gripe about the air quality in aircraft cabins now have new basis for their complaints. A report by the National Academy of Sciences confirms that the air inside many airplanes is barely breathable. One sure way to ease the problem, says the academy, is to ban smoking on domestic flights.

That sensible suggestion was rejected several times by the nowdefunct Civil Aeronautics Board which bowed to the argument that separate smoking and nonsmoking sections are sufficient to keep all passengers comfortable.

The academy's report requested last year by Congress contradicts that claim. It notes that ventilation in most crowded planes is already poor, and that cigarette smoke reduces the quality of air throughout the cabin to unhealthy levels. The still and smoky air contains dangerous amounts of carbon dioxide and ozone. Moreover, it creates an excellent environment for the spread of infectious diseases.

The report's findings are especially worrisome because of mounting evidence that second-hand smoke causes heart and respiratory ailments in nonsmokers and may be responsible for as many as 46,000 deaths a year in the United States. The hazard of aircraft air is greatest for frequent flyers and flight atten-

Smoking is already prohibited on commuter planes, which are too small to accommodate separate sections for smokers and nonsmokers. Lawmakers can heed the academy's advice by passing a new bill, introduced by Sen. Orrin Hatch of Utah. It would ban smoking on commercial aircraft and other public conveyances-J.A.B.

DEAR J.A.B.: As a frequent flyer and non-smoker, I am heartily in favor of that bill. Four cheers for Or-

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this letter. I hope anyone who reads it will understand that they are not alone, there is life after depression. And there is help, too, but the most important help must come from within.

I am a 17-year-old girl who has been in several mental hospitals. I have been to court seven times. Once I was put in the county jail. Another time I was placed on juvenile probation, although I never had a criminal

My problems were a lot more common than I had imagined and I am willing to share them with you. I was brought up by an alcoholic mother and I had a twin sister with whom I fought constantly. When I was 12, I was raped by my uncle and never told anyone. I attempted suicide

But through all these horrifying experiences I learned that I had to be responsible for myself and that I was stronger than I thought.

It has been three months since I was discharged from the last institution. I now have a job, good friends and a 3.25 average in school. I'll graduate with my class in 1987. My plans are to go into child psychology and help others the way I was helped.-ALIVE AND WELL IN GRAND FORKS, N.D.

DEAR A&W: Wunnnnderful! Good luck and God bless. Stay in touch with me. I want to know that your life stays on track and all is well.

Dallas Mavericks blitz L.A. Clippers 118-86

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP)-The Dallas Mavericks emphasized two things during training camp: Defense and more victories at home. They are accomplshing both.

The Mavericks, utilizing a trapping defense that forced 23 turnovers, blitzed the Los Angeles Clippers 118-86 on Tuesday night to open their NBA season 2-0 in Reunion Arena.

It's the Mays' first 2-0 home start since they went 11-0 during the 1983

"Playing better defense and winning on our homecourt were our major goals," said Dallas Coach Dick Motta. "We weren't intense enough last year and gave some games away. We got after them tonight."

The Mays took advantage of the Clippers lack of depth at point guard. Both Norm Nixon and Darnell Valentine are injured.

"We knew coming in that they had just one point guard so we used that to our advantage," Motta said.

"I thought Mark played very well," said Motta. "He made some great passes."

Clippers' Coach Don Chaney was livid at his team's performance. Marques Johnson scored a game-high 21 points for the Clippers but received little help. "It was a devastating loss,"

Chaney said. "We did not play aggressively. We played very selfish basketball. That is something that I would not think of this team doing."

Chaney said the Mavericks "outplayed and outhustled us everytime down the floor. They killed us on the boards and defensively were all over us."

Chaney added "the first five guys played bad, but the bench played worse. If the starters don't play well, I will go to the young guys and take my chances. If they don't start playing better, I'll go find some players who will. I will not be a part of it."

Detlef Schrempf came off the bench to add 18 points and Al Wood scored 13 points for the Mavericks before 16,421 fans in Reunion Arena.

Motta said "I thought Detlef played one of his best games as a pro. He was under control and hit his shots."

Dallas outrebounded the Clippers

54-33 and outshot them 51 per cent to 38 per cent from the field.

Blackman said "We practiced on defense 75 per cent of the time in training camp. It was the main the reason for better defense.

"I think a lot of credit should go to Coach Adubato," Haper said. "Last year we learned our weakness was our defense. So the coaches have Dallas guard Derek Harper said really emphasized it this year."

Rockets defeat Sacramento 100-84

Houston forward Jim Petersen has graduated with honors from the Akeem Olajuwon-Ralph Sampson school of aggressive inside play.

The 6-foot-10 Petersen filled in a void left by Sampson, sidelined with a sprained ankle, against the Sacramento Kings on Tuesday night. He grabbed 15 rebounds and scored 12 points in the Rockets' 100-84 National Basketball Association vic-

Petersen kept the Kings at bay throughout the contest, allowing Houston to outrebound Sacramento 47-37. Ten of his rebounds were off the defensive boards.

"I'm not surprised at all at how well Petersen played," Sacramento center LaSalle Thompson said. "You can't help but be good when you practiced against players like to block a Rodney McCray shot. Akeem and Sampson every day for two years."

Thompson said the Kings were unable to capitalize on Sampson's absence from the Houston lineup due to Petersen's aggressive play.

'Petersen is doing a great job," Houston coach Bill Fitch said. "I was blue collar player." The Houston coach said Petersen both Olajuwon and Sampson.

Fitch expects Sampson to return to YMCA flag the Houston lineup by the Rockets'

Nov. 12 game at Dallas. Petersen, entering his third season in the NBA, is averaging 12.5 points for the Rockets in just two games. "I thank the good Lord I'm able to contribute to the team," Petersen said. "I wasn't pleased with my overall performance. I can always do better. I'm really happy to be associated with players like Akeem.

Dallas signs ex-Browns' quarterback

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys don't feel they have to lower their Super Bowl sights just because they are now led by a quarterback who has started three NFL games in three years.

Asked if he thought Dallas could get to the Super Bowl with young Steve Pelluer at the helm, Coach Tom Landry said flat out, "Sure."

Landry said the Cowboys will miss the experience of injured starting quarterback Danny White "tremen-

But Landry added there is no "wait until next year" posture on the team. 'We think Steve has that (Super Bowl) type of ability," Landry said. "He has the ability to get out of trouble, has a tremendoius arm and is smart. The team feels very confident with him. However, Landry's not sure the Cowboys have a shot at the Super Bowl with Phil Pozderac at right offensive tackle, and changes loom for Sunday's 3 p.m. meeting with the Los Angeles Raiders in Texas Stadium.

"We might have to make a change," Landry said. "It's a tough business, and you have to produce."

Pozderac was flagged with three holding penalties and was in illegal motion on a 30-yard pass completion that could have set up Dallas for a winning touchdown or tying field goal in a 17-14 NFL loss to the New York Giants on Sunday.

Asked if Pozderac's reputation as a holder had influenced the officials, Landry said, "There's always that possibility. You hate to think that's true, but it's very possible. You can become a marked man in this league

Landry said Pozderac had played "very well in the normal stream of things, but it all comes down to what you do when the game is on the line. Sometimes the pressure is too great, and you have to sit down before you can come back."

Landry said he might promote Jim Cooper to start against the Raiders.

'Jim has been a solid player," Landry said. "We had felt that Pozderac was more strong and powerful. But Cooper doesn't make mistakes.

Landry said he thought about putting Cooper into the game last week. 'Jim was just so cold we couldn't do it," Landry said. The Cowboys also announced Tuesday the signing of former Cleveland Browns' quarterback Paul

McDonald, who worked under offensive coordinator Paul Hackett both McDonald, 28, led USC to two Rose Bowl victories and a national championship and was drafted in the fourth round by the Browns in 1980. Cleveland released him in June, and he went to camp with Seattle, which later cut him. "Paul's the third-string quarterback today, but we've got two unknowns here," said Hacket, referring to untested Reggie Collier and McDonald. McDonald played behind Brian Sipe at Cleveland, then became the starting quarterback in 1984. But after the Browns signed Bernie Kosar in 1985, McDonald never threw another pass in an NFL game.

McDonald went to training camp with Seattle this season and was the next to last man cut in August.

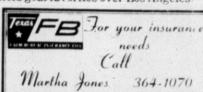

With White on the injured reserve list with a broken wrist for six to eight weeks, the Cowboys are taking no chances.

of rapport," Landry said. "McDonald would know Hackett's system. He's a very intelligent quarterback. He doesn't have an extremely strong arm, but he's the type who can get the ball to the receivers effectively.

Landry made it clear that Reggie Collier, who played for the USFL Orlando Renegades, was his second string quarterback.

'We'd have to cut the game plan down a lot for him, but he sure would make it exciting," Landry said. "He is probably as good a running quarterback as there is in the league. Oddsmakers rated the Cowboys field goal favorites over Los Angeles.

Burstyn's show had rocky start

NEW YORK (AP) - Ellen Burstyn's dressing room is painted a soothing pastel peach. She has returned from a long, therapeutic walk and is playing a compact disc of soft music called "The Art of Relaxation" on a portable stereo.

But this serenity is no match for the tension of starring in a network television series plagued by bad reviews and poor ratings.

Nevertheless, the Academy Award-winning actress laughs easily and talks matter-of-factly about the rocky start for "The Ellen Burstyn Show."

The 30-minute comedy, airing Saturdays on ABC, was rejected by critics upon its debut this season and has been near the bottom of the Nielsen ratings since.

"It's so hard to get it all together," Ms. Burstyn said. "Our first shows were our weakest shows, and each show gets better than the one before. A show needs time to grow.

"In the six weeks we've been on, once we were pre-empted and twice we were opposite the World Series."

she said. "So it's been pretty hard for the audience to find us."

She hopes ABC will give the show the benefit of the doubt. The network has said no series will be canceled before December.

Ms. Burstyn has never been in a comedy series before, but she has done television. She was a regular on the daytime soap "The Doctors" early in her career and has been featured in TV movies, including this season's "Something in Common" with Tuesday Weld.

Ms. Burstyn won an Oscar in 1974 for her starring role in "Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore" and a Tony in 1975 for the stage production of "Same Time Next Year." She has also appeared in such films as "The Exorcist" and "Resurrection."

On TV, she is a wise-cracking college professor whose mother, daughter and 5-year-old grandson

The shows "haven't all been wonderful," she said. "But out of 13, there are probably seven or eight that I really like a lot."

60! STOP! RUN!

BITE! COME BACK!

In one, her character gets hooked on amphetamines, she said.

Another, airing Nov. 8, features the television debut of film and stage actor Harvey Keitel, a long-time colleague of Ms. Burstyn. Both teach at the prestigious Actors Studio founded by Lee Strasberg.

"We had this script on illiteracy which we thought a lot of, and we sent it to Harvey," Ms. Burstyn said. "There are very few actors of Harvey's stature in film and on the stage who would do a guest shot on a 30-minute comedy show, but Harvey's that kind of actor. He liked the character, and he was willing to do it. He's never done television before, so I think that's a real tribute to us and the show."

Her production company co-owns the series. She said she agreed to do it because she was offered an "attractive package" that included shooting in New York, where she lives; taping in front of a studio audience, which she insists on for comedy; and getting several months off each year for other projects.

Landscaping hints given at program

Landscaping and other helpful hints on gardening and growing flowers was the topic of Van Earl Hughes' talk before the Bud to Blossom Garden Club meeting held recently at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center.

Wilma Bryan was hostess and during the business meeting she reported on the recent horticulture show. Jane White and Patricia Robinson were co-chairmen working with Bryan as chairman, and judges were Ursalee Jacobsen, Bessie Hill and Lois Ethridge.

The educational division exhibit on litter control was done by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Nunley and Mr. and Mrs. Dean Henson.

White displayed a study of horticulture through pictures.

Naoma Spann displayed wildflower and litter control posters made by children from West Central School. She also displayed the garden club's activities and awards from state and district for 1985-86, together with the scrapbook which won second in state.

Those participating in the junior division were Tyson and Toby Duncan, Robert and Elizabeth Brockman. Tyson won the sweepstakes award.

A design division was provided to enhance the beauty and add distinction and completeness to the show and the winners were Spann, first place; Bryan, second; Tommie Savage, third; and Robinson, fourth.

At the conclusion of Bryan's report, President Spann told about the recent fall convention in Abilene, which she attended together with Bryan and Jacobsen. Plans were made to attend the zone meeting in Dumas Nov. 10.

Guests for the meeting and luncheon were Naomi Hare, Thui Carnahan and Addie Cunningham. From the Hereford Garden Club were Mary Stoy, Carmen Angel, Jacobsen and Hill

Bud to Blossom members in attendance were Elaine Mason, White, Phyllis Brown, Kathlee Brockman, Spann, Bryan, Paula Hamby, Tracey Duncan and Mildred Fuhrmann.

Cook with low-fat dairy products for less calories

If you're already drinking skim milk to cut calories, you can save even more by cooking with other lowfat dairy products.

"Yogurt can be substituted in just about any dish that calls for sour cream," says Dr. Alice Hunt, a nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. It works well in cold dips, or to stretch mayonnaise-based dressing in cole slaw, tuna and potato salads.

In cooked foods, yogurt tends to separate and become watery, she says. But this can be avoided by whisking some flour into the yogurt before cooking, or adding the yogurt to cooked foods after removing them from the heat.

By using a cup of plain low-fat yogurt for a cup of sour cream you save 375 calories, the nutritionist

Imitation sour cream can be made by blending low-fat cottage cheese along with several tablespoons of skim milk or yogurt until smooth. This mixture is suitable for dips or dessert recipes.

Cottage cheese also makes a good substitute for ricotta cheese and sour cream in casseroles, Hunt says. Using 1 cup of low-fat cottage cheese for an equal amount of whole-milk ricotta, saves 250 calories. Replacing the ricotta with regular cottage cheese still cuts 190 calories.

Low-fat ricotta cheese has less fat and fewer calories than regular ricotta, but is still higher in both than regular or low-fat cottage cheese, she adds.

For sauces, casseroles and omelettes, Hunt suggests low-fat processed cheeses. In addition to american cheese, low-fat versions of Swiss and Monterey Jack are now available.

Using 1 ounce of low-fat processed cheese for an ounce of cheddar cheese saves 60 calories. However, the nutritionist cautions people on low-sodium diets to avoid processed cheese, since it is high in sodium.

"By substituting low-for high-fat dairy products, dieters can get the nutrients and calcium they need without adding extra calories," she

Treatment of lung problems mention the title.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT - I was recently diagnosed as having emphysema. I had a drain inserted to remove fluid from the pleural cavity. There was no infection, so I received no antibiotics. There's no new liquid forming, but enough was left in so I'll probably have to have another drain. Is this the most appropriate treatment?
DEAR READER — Not for emphysema. Emphysema is a form of chronic lung disease characterized by a loss of the feathery air sacs within the lungs, where oxygen and carbon dioxide pass between the bloodstream and the air.

In the normal lung, there are billions of these tiny air sacs. The thin linings of the sacs provide an enormous surface area for the diffusion of gases. In emphysema, these air sacs coalesce to form larger sacs that are less efficient for gas exchange be-cause of decreased surface area. In addition, emphysema patients have difficulty exhaling stale air because the abnormally large air sacs do not empty; there is a bottleneck where they meet the smaller bronchial

In effect, emphysema causes an overinflation of the lungs, so that patients cannot expel used-up air and replace it with oxygen-rich air. Treatment usually is directed toward improving the mechanics of breathing (with exercises), reducing spasm of the bronchial tubes (opening the tubes widely to enhance exhalation) and increasing the amount of oxygen in inspired air (by administering oxygen from a machine).

Pleural effusion - the presence of liquid in the chest cavity — is not ordinarily a part of emphysema. Obviously, with fluid present, lung tissue is compressed and shoved aside. Therefore, breathing becomes more difficult. Emphysema patients, who al-ready have trouble breathing, will have further reduction in breathing capability if there is fluid in the chest cavity - as there may be with heart failure. However, the presence of a pleural effusion usually indicates another disease or late complication of emphysema.

Although pleural effusion can sometimes be "medically" drained using diuretic drugs (kidney stimulants), surgical drainage with a tube or catheter is preferable when there is a large amount of fluid. The drainage will improve breathing and can be lifesaving, but it is not, strictly treatment speaking, a emphysema.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report, LIVING WITH CHRONIC LUNG DISEASE. Others who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to

DEAR DR. GOTT - What exactly does Feldene do?

DEAR READER - The precise action of Feldene, aspirin and the whole class of anti-inflammatory medicines remains a mystery. However, this much is known: Feldene blocks the production of prostaglandins.

When tissue becomes injured, a complex series of chemical events takes place. Chemical messengers circulate through the bloodstream to activate the body's defenses. Once the site of injury has been identified, a cascade of reactions ensues, during which toxic substances are released to combat the injury. Blood-cell scavengers are drawn to the injury, proteins are deposited at that location. blood circulation increases and inflammation results.

Prostaglandins are chemical components of that cascade. They are fatty acids that affect muscles, hormones and nerves. Without prostaglandins, the body cannot mount an efficient inflammatory response. Feldene blocks the production of prostaglandins and thereby reduces inflammation.

Some forms of injury - for example, rheumatoid arthritis - are believed to be due to the body's misperception that normal tissue has become foreign and must be destroyed. This so-called autoimmune reaction is thought to cause pernicious anemia, some thyroid diseases, lupus, colitis, kidney ailments and certain types of arthritis. By using anti-inflammatory drugs - Feldene, for instance — doctors hope to blunt or turn off the body's abnormal reaction to itself without compromising a person's ability to fight real injury

(such as infection). The anti-inflammatory drugs are useful because, by blocking the formation of prostaglandins, they reduce pain, swelling, stiffness, fever and destruction of tissue by the body's overenthusiastic defense mechanisms.

TO ALL INTERESTED PERSONS AND PARTIES:

You are hereby notified of the opportunity for written public comment concerning the amendment of the Construction Permit No. C-9371 by Valley View Energy Corporation in connection with its electrical generating plant near Hereford in Deaf Smith County, Texas. The Plant will be on the south side of U.S. Highway 60, southeast of the Hereford Airport on Section 17. This amendment will allow increased emissions of hydrogen chloride. The Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board has made the preliminary determination to amend this permit. Before the amendment can be issued for this facility, all emission sources must demonstrate compliance with all Rules and Regulations of the Texas Air Control Board and all applicable Federal Regulations. This includes the application of "best available control technology" to each emissions source and compliance with all ambient air quality standards. A copy of all materials submitted by the applicant is available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board, Lubbock Regional Office at Briercroft South No.1. 5302 South Avenue Q Drive, Lubbock, Texas 79412, telephone (806) 744-0090, and at the Texas Air Control Board 6330 Highway 290 East, Austin, Texas 78723. All interested persons may inspect these materials and submit written comments to the Executive Director of the Texas Air Control Board. Any person who may be affected by emissions of air contaminants from the facility may request a hearing from the board. All comments received in writing by November 21, 1986 shall be considered by the Board in making its decision on the application. All comments will be made available for public inspection at the Texas Air Control Board office in Austin.

Low prices force lenders 'back to future'

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) -The new era of energy lending which began with the oil price collapse of 1986, has taken banks "back to the future" in terms of the criteria they use in lending money for oil and gas operations. Not since before the Arab oil embargo of 1973 have financial institutions been so cautious in their application and approval processes, according to Marvin Schiebout, executive vice president of energy lending for Republic-

Few things are more alarmng to a woman than finding a breast lump. Immediately the thought of cancer crashes into

But most breast lumps aren't cancerous, especially in younger women. In fact 80 to 90 percent of breast lumps are found to be benign (noncancerous). As many as one in four women develop "lumpy" breasts just before their period arrives. Many doctors believe that lumps, swelling, and pain are normal responses to the hormonal changes occurring in the menstrual cycle. These symptoms usually go away in a few days after your period is Cysts, another type of breast lump, are fluid-filled. A cyst is usually soft and movable and may feel something like a lima bean. Lumps that are hard and fixed to one spot are more likely to be tumors, but not always.

If you discover a breast lump, don't panic, but do call your doctor. After a physical examination, the next step, if needed, is a simple office procedure Single, free copies of "Deteccalled aspiration, in which the doctor will try to remove the contents of the cyst. If fluid comes out and the lump disappears, you know it's a cyst. When dealing with breast lumps, many doctors recommend a mammogram or x-ray of the breast. The mammogram gives the physician some idea of what type of lump it is and any surrounding changes. A lump can also be biopsied.

> Many women with chronically lumpy breasts are often told that they have what is called a fibrocystic breast condition. In the past this was believed to be a disease but is not considered so now. It was also thought in the past that women with fibrocystic breasts have a greater chance of developing breast cancer, but recent studies show this not to be true. By doing a monthly breast self-examination, you can become familiar with your breasts so you can recognize an unusual lump if it forms. It's important to examine each breast after your period when your breasts are free from swelling and tenderness. Women past menopause also should examine their breasts monthly - especially since 85 percent of women with breast cancer are over age 40. In most cases, that terrifying lump will prove to be benign. This is all the more reason to see your doctor right away if you find a lump. Chances are that you will have worried for

The price outlook bankers are planning with these days is a base case of $14 per barrel oil prices escalating to $18 to $19 by year-end, where prices will remain flat through mid-1989.

However, bankers have learned the lesson of the unpredictability of oil prices and the adverse effects rapid movements can have on their loan portfolios. So, each base case economic evaluation is run in conjunction with two price sensitivity analyses: one based on flat $14 per barrel prices through mid-1989 with 4 percent annual escalation from there; and, an acid test "worst case" scenario of $10 a barrel prices remaining flat for the remainder of the

These economic criteria are used to evaluate the effect on the applicants' future cash flow and their ability to repay the loans.

Gas project economics are founded on a base case of current prices remaining in effect for one year and then adjusted up to $2 per thousand cubic feet (Mcf) through Ju-gas price scenarios of current prices remaining in place for the next year and moving to $1.62 per Mcf through mid-1989 and another scenario based on prices flat at $1.25 per Mcf for the remainder of the decade. Local bankers say that loan demand for financing of new drilling projects is virtually nonexistent and that the bulk of current loan business is refinancing of existing debt.

Bankers note that most borrowing is for maintenance of operations, as experienced operators adjust to current economics.

Because of low prices, production costs of proved reserves are being factored in as a degree of the risk analysis on new loans. With price levels falling to near the break-even point, a high-cost producer becomes a higher risk borrower

"Cash flow is the key." says Schiebout. An increasing number of banks are lending on the basis of the applicant's balance sheet position. rather than on the basis of inthe-ground reserves.

The importance of bank financing as a source of drilling funds is growing because competing sources of outside capital are drying up at an alarming rate.

GOD MOVES IN MYSTERIOUS WAYS "God gave Joseph unusual wisdom, so that well as putting him in charge of all the affairs of the palace. But a famine developed in Egypt and Canaan and there was great misery for our ancestors. When their food was gone, Jacob heard that there was still grain in Egypt, so he sent his sons to buy some. "The second time they went, Joseph revealed his identity to his brothers, and they were introduced

Then Joseph sent for his father Jacob and all his brothers' families to come to Egypt, 75 persons in all. So Jacob came to Egypt, where he died, and all. his sons. All of them were taken to Shechem and buried in the tomb Abraham bought from the sons of Hamor. Shechem's father. "As the time drew near when God would fulfill His promise to Abraham to free his descendants from slavery, the Jewish people greatly multiplied in Egypt; but then a king was crowned who had no respect for Joseph's memory. This king plotted against our race, forcing parents to abandon their children in the fields.

"About that time Moses was born--a child of divine beauty. His parents hid him at home for three months, and when at last they could no longer keep him hidden, and had to abandon him, Pharaoh's daughter found him and adopted him as her own son, and taught him all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and he became a mighty prince and orator.

energy fund sales of $2.884 billion. In 1985, those funds shrank to $371 million in drilling funds from total placements of $698 million.

Reclassification and less favorable treatment of passive investments under the reformed tax code may further contract the funding pool in 1987 and future years.

Technical energy expertise is important for lenders. Many of the city's smaller banks are unable to finance the staff necessary to do an effective job of energy lending, notes Steve Holt, senior vice president of Midland

American Bank. What effect the advent of insterstate banking may have on the availablity of energy credit remains open to debate

Backers of interstate banking, including the state's largest banking associations. note that 38 other states already permit interstate banking. They argue that the Texas economy needs the immediate influx of money that interstate banking may allow, and note that deregulation in the national banking industry has broken down old, geographic barriers. Opponents, including consumer groups, say out-of state banks won't have the best interests of Texans at heart and would allow large New York-based banks to drain Texas institutions of their deposits. In addition, they point to the disastrous consequence of inexperienced. traditional lenders getting involved in energy loans during the 1973-81 boom. Out-of-state holding companies coming in to Texas at the bottom of the oil ecomony cycle could have the reverse impact of the boom, they say, with those unfamiliar and unaccustomed to the oil field dismissing all energy lending out of hand, without considering the merits of individual lending proposals.

Check chimney before building fire

Preventative measures can help reduce dangerous creosote and tar buildup in your fireplace chimney and flue, says a Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service housing specialist.

"Both flue and chimney units should be cleaned before the first fireplace fire of the season," says Dr. Susan Quiring. "It also may require cleaning again during the winter, especially if you burn wood that has not been air-dried or season-

The specialist says a fourth-inch accumulation of creosote indicates the flue needs cleaning.

She suggests checking the fireplace by hanging a flashlight from the top of the flue to a third of the way down the flue. Then, look up the lighted flue from the fireplace with a mirror to get an estimate of the buildup.

Wood stove distributors and some home improvement stores sell wire and plastic cleaning brushes that fit square, rectangular or round chimneys, for do-it-yourself cleaning. Or you can hire a professional chimney sweep to perform this service, Quiring remarks.

Then, every time you start a fire, allow a small quantity of dry wood to burn hot for at least 20 minutes before adding more fuel, she advises. This small, hot fire will burn off some of the creosote, reducing

Abundant Life

GOSSIP HURTS By Bob Wear

MOST OF US may, at one time or another, be guilty of gossip. We seem inclined to want to repeat what we hear, even though we know that doing so is unwise. Even when what we hear is true, there will be, in most instances, good and sufficient reasons for not repeating it. Then, when what we hear is nothing but 'gossip'-groundless rumor - we are being wise to let it die, so far as we are concerned.

WE KNOW that 'gossip' is one of the most hurtful of all of the hurtful influences in the human scene. It is not easy to deal with, but we can make sure that we do nothing to keep it alive; however, once it is started it is very difficult to stop. We can help by refusing to listen, and making sure that we never start the 'gossip' In this connection, we would do well to remember that people who gossip to us will usually gossip about us.

"TO LISTEN to gossip both creates and encourages gossip. No listeners, no gossip. It is as simple as that."-AP.O Gouthey.

GOSSIP HAS BEEN defined as 'idle tattling', 'groundless rumor' and 'all unwise talk about others.' Most of us may do some of this, and we may have been involved in the unpleasant situations created by 'gossip'. Nevertheless, all of us are fully aware of the fact that 'gossip hurts'. It hurts us, and it hurts others, and some of the hurt is tragic.

THE EVIL in 'gossip' is almost indescribable. It has the possibility of ruining a 'good reputation'; destroying 'a friendship'; breaking up 'a marriage'; and doing untold damage in all areas of human thought and ac-

GOSSIP CAN CAUSE confusion, mis-direction, distortion, erosion of values, discouragement, terrible misunderstandings, and weaken the whole social structur. There is nothing good to be said for 'gossip.' IF WE MUST talk about others, let us speak a good word.
