

Doctors denied lease to build at DSGH

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

Local physicians seeking permission to lease hospital owned land to build offices were denied their request during Tuesday's meeting of the directors of the Deaf Smith General Hospital District. The decision, made on a 3-2 split vote with one member absent, came after numerous lengthy debates and a public hearing.

Hospital Administrator Jim Bullard presented the board with a letter which formally requested a lease agreement from five local physicians to build a condominium style office building on property adjacent to and owned by the hospital. The physicians making the request were Drs. Howard Johnson, Mary Birdsong, Jesse Perales, David Baddour and A.T. Mims.

Their offices are currently at 343 Miles near downtown Hereford. They had previously cited convenience to the hospital as a prime reason for the move.

Board member Ralph Detten, who voted in favor of the lease, stated that little public opposition had been expressed at a public hearing concerning the proposition and cited revenue estimates to the hospital as incentive for accepting the lease.

"It is an opportunity for us to help out and no one has asked us for a dime," he stated in response to concerns that the taxpayers might eventually have to pick up the tab for the facility.

Bullard estimated that the land lease and monies for lab and x-ray services generated by the proximity of the offices would bring $5,000 a month for the financially strapped hospital.

Board member Dr. James Herbertson, an orthopedic surgeon who offices in the hospital building, stated, "Theoretically if you say, 'No', to this Nadir (Dr. Nadir Khuri a vascular surgeon who offices in the hospital) and I should move out too."

Board president Margie Ford responded that the situation is different for Herbertson and Khuri who are specialists, to which Herbertson responded: "Some of them are specialists too, there is no difference." Baddour is a urologist who performs numerous surgical procedures at the hospital, Perales is an internist or diagnostician, Birdsong and Johnson are each family practitioners who perform obstetrical work at the hospital.

The issue of fairness to other physicians in town is one which has been brought up in numerous discussions to which proponents of the plan have responded that no other physicians have expressed an interest in occupying the planned facility and there would be no discrimination against any wishing to do so.

Board member Dr. Gerald Payne, who practices family medicine in a private office on Park Avenue, said he had no problem with the fairness issue but expressed concern about any actual benefits to the hospital.

"I think we are tying up this land for a long time," he stated, "and I don't think we know all of the ramifications."

After a lengthy discussion, Herbertson made a motion to accept the land lease for the purpose of building a physician office building.

Detten seconded the motion. Payne, Ford and board member Frank Zinser voted in opposition. Member John Gilliland was absent from the meeting.

Following the vote Ford commented, "I'm not totally opposed to the idea but my heart is not in it."

An operations report for the month of June shows $456,196 operating revenue and $444,768 expenses for an income loss of $11,428. Collections for the month stood at $387,000.

June's admissions totaled 202 with an average daily census of 20.7 patients. Surgical procedures performed during the month totaled 131 including 28 day surgeries. Outpatient visits totaled 519 for lab, x-ray and physical or respiratory services. Emergency room personnel treated 588 patients.

Also during the operating report,

Bullard presented board members with a letter, from Texas Commerce Bank of Amarillo, updating the process of ongoing negotiations for $1.5 million as provided in an earlier bond election. Bullard said the funds will be used to address the indebtedness of the hospital. Payne stated he wants to see a line-item list of debts paid and the reason for the payment. Bullard assured the board that such a list will be provided.

Bullard was also given direction to act on the board's previous decision to advertise for bids on a computer system for the hospital.

Johnson provided a medical report relating to preparation for and upcoming Joint Commission Survey on Aug. 16. The Joint Commission is responsible for accrediting hospitals.

Lightning causes problems

Heavy, dark blue clouds hit Hereford about 8 p.m. Tuesday, blasting down lightning, rain and some hail.

Lightning caused blinks throughout town and knocked out power in the 100 through 400 blocks of Avenues A and B. That section was blacked out when lightning hit a lateral line fuse which feeds that segment.

Southwestern Public Service also reported that a transformer on Mabel Street was hit, but was fixed within about 30 minutes.

And, a power surge caused by lightning triggered the generator to kick on at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Rain gauges held from .3 of an inch at the Hornfeld Farm in far northwest Deaf Smith County, to 3.2 inches reported from a farmer 16 miles northeast of Hereford.

Westway collected 1.20 inches of rain with very little hail and not much wind.

Milo Center had 1.6 inches of rain and a little hail, but no damage.

Ford reported 2.75 inches of rain, with small hail falling for about 30 minutes of the storm.

Farmer's Elevator northwest of Dawn reported about an inch, with spot reports from farmers in the area ranging as high as 3 inches from the west and lighter reports from the northeast.

Easter Grain received 1.4 inches of rain.

In downtown Hereford, KPAN reported .7 of an inch. The high on Tuesday was 87, and today's morning low was 57.

FORECAST: A 50 percent chance of thunderstorms, low in the lower 60s. Southeast wind 5 to 10 mph. Thursday, partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms. High in the upper 80s. South wind 10 to 20 mph.

Tornado slices through Pampa

By The Associated Press

A tornado that destroyed nine mobile homes and injured 10 people — one woman critically — in Pampa struck with little warning and caused damages approaching $1 million, officials said.

High winds and hail some witnesses said was as large as baseballs caused extensive damage in Borger, about 28 miles to the northwest, while high winds damaged a feedlot and airport facilities in Spearman and Gruver in Hansford County at the top of the Panhandle, officials said.

The tornado slashed through a largely vacant seven-block area on the western edge of Pampa about 7 p.m. Tuesday, said Steve Vaughan, emergency management director for the Panhandle town.

Nine of the injured underwent treatment for minor injuries and one woman was admitted to the intensive care unit at a Pampa hospital, a nur-

Storm Moves In

A heavy, southbound storm pulled a cloudy curtain over Greenwood Street Tuesday night. The storm dropped hail, rain and blasts of lightning throughout the county with downtown Hereford received .7 of an inch of rain. County checks revealed over 3 inches in places.

Poindexter says Reagan approved arms deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former National Security Adviser John Poindexter, breaking months of silence, told the Iran-Contra committees today that President Reagan initially approved weapons sales to Iran as a straight arms-for-hostages deal.

But in dramatic, nationally televised testimony, Poindexter said he later destroyed the document bearing Reagan's signature to spare him political embarrassment. "I tore it up and put it in the burn bag behind my desk," he said.

In words that undercut Reagan's own statements, Poindexter said Reagan signed a secret document authorizing the sales on December 5, 1985. He said it made no mention of a broader diplomatic initiative that Reagan frequently has cited to explain his decision to sell arms to Tehran.

Poindexter, a Navy rear admiral, said he tore up the document as the arms-to-Iran scheme came unraveled last fall because "I thought it was a significant political embarrassment to the president and I wanted to protect him from possible disclosure of this."

Poindexter said he and former National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane also had broader diplomatic purposes in mind for the arms sale. But he said the document, prepared by CIA officials, did not reflect their thinking.

Under questioning from Senate counsel Arthur Liman, Poindexter said he decided on his own to destroy the document, and Reagan didn't know.

"We did not, repeat, did not, trade weapons or anything else for hostages, nor will we," the president said in a televised speech to the nation in November 1986.

Later, in March 1987, Reagan conceded after receiving the Tower commission report that the deal had "deteriorated" into one that was tantamount to trading arms for hostages.

Poindexter wore civilian clothes as he began his long-awaited appearance. He said he did so because the issue under investigation "is not a Navy issue." He held a separate, non-Naval commission while serving as Reagan's national security adviser, Poindexter noted.

At the outset of the hearing, Poindexter's lawyer, Richard Beckler, revealed that the former national security adviser had become the target of a criminal investigation.

Beckler tried but failed to persuade the Iran-Contra committees to withdraw a subpoena demanding testimony from the former top White House aide.

"We have recently been informed that Adm. Poindexter is the target of a grand jury investigation" by independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh, attorney Richard Beckler said as he asked the committees to withdraw its subpoena or to order the television lights turned off in the committee room.

The request to have the subpoena withdrawn was rejected by Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., chairman of the House committee conducting the investigation.

The request to have the television cameras turned off was rejected on a 13-1 vote by the House committee and a 10-0 vote by the Senate panel. Rep. Henry Hyde R-Ill., was the only lawmaker to support Beckler's request.

Hamilton took exception to suggestions by Beckler that there was a connection between the congressional investigation and the probe by Walsh.

"We have not been in collusion with the independent counsel in any way," Hamilton said. "We have respected his role."

Beckler said Poindexter "has nothing to hide," and has "committed no crimes.... We'll fight it every step of the way."

But he said the tandem investigations conducted by the congressional committees and the independent

Greenawalt welcomed

Two principals hired by board

Two campus administrative positions were filled Tuesday night following a short executive session of the Hereford Schools board of trustees.

George Ochs was moved from assistant in administration at Hereford High to the post of principal at West Central Intermediate. He takes the place of Robert Ray, who resigned after his contract was not renewed earlier this year. Ochs has a two-year contract beginning Aug. 1.

To fill Ochs' position at the high school, the board approved Kenneth Cole as assistant principal. Cole moves to Hereford from Sanford-Fritch where he was athletic director.

The board announced that its top administrator, Superintendent Charles Greenawalt, and his family will be welcomed at a reception on Aug. 16 at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame. Details will be announced later.

Most of the agenda Tuesday was for updates on projects in the district.

The two professional organizations, Classroom Teachers Association and Hereford Educators Association, announced they each would have state leadership conferences later this month. Also, Sara Pesina will be running for a Texas CTA post vacated by a resignation.

Julianne Thompson, director of the Domestic Violence Center, requested the district adopt a curriculum supplement of "WHO: We Help Ourselves" for thwarting family violence and abuse. The annual cost for materials and training would be $3,500. The item was referred to the curriculum committee.

Board members approved First National Bank, the only bidder, for the district's depository.

Corky Lockmiller, special education director, reviewed plans for the in-service day in August. Items to be presented are how to teach decision making skills, domestic violence and handling of communicable diseases in general, and specifically AIDS. Lockmiller gave the board a copy of guidelines for AIDS students from "Texas Preventable Disease News" and asked the board start considering a policy.

Several entities have asked for information on the district, according to Greenawalt and assistant superintendent Marc Williamson. The Texas Advisory Committee on Intergovernmental Relations has two persons on special assignment to help gather information on site characterization impacts. And, Texas State Technical Institute has asked for the district to consider some curriculum plans that blend academics closer with trades for students.

And, for the Superconducting Super Collider pursuit, an office in Austin requested information on the district.

Assistant superintendent Larry Wartes gave his reports, showing a 92 percent collection rate on property taxes and indicating that the cafeteria would be operated similar to this past year. Remodeling is being done in the high school cafeteria to improve the lighting and sound.

The Curriculum Committee is studying some recommendations from Family disturbances, theft checked by HPD

Family disturbance, theft and a juvenile shot with a BB gun were among the variety of calls investigated Tuesday by officers of the Hereford Police Department.

Officers were called to a home on Ave. B to investigate a domestic disturbance involving a fight between a man, his wife and a step-son. Although assault was reported, no charges were filed. During another domestic call a woman reported to officers that her parents get drunk and come to her residence and bother her. She was advised to call the police when they show up.

A bicycle valued at $119 was taken from a yard on the 600 block of West Fourth and a woman reported that someone took her purse out of her car on July 11 and wrote a check on her checking account. A man reported that renters took a mail box with them when they moved out of rental property on Ave. H.

A juvenile reported that he had a bicycle race with another juvenile. When the reporting juvenile won the race, the other one got mad and shot him with a BB gun. The case was referred to juvenile authorities.

Other offenses reported include a woman who reported that a man she does not know keeps coming to her residence on South Centre and asking for directions. A man on Lawton reported harassing phone calls and a man at Masters Apartments reported a suspicious van.

One minor accident with possible injury was investigated and 13 citations were issued. At 8:28 p.m. the Hereford Fire Department responded to a call in the 700 block of Ave. F where a person reported a lightning strike and sparks flying. They responded to a second call at 10:33 p.m. which was a structure fire at the Frio Baptist Church.

counsel's office placed an unfair burden on Poindexter.

"The national broadcast, with the hot lights beaming down and the cameras blaring away, is a violation of his due process rights," Beckler said of Poindexter.

"If there is an indictment in this case, it will not read the president of the United States versus John Poindexter, it will not read the Congress versus John Poindexter," the lawyer said. "It will say the United States of America versus John Poindexter ... and I say ... if that should happen, the Congress or Mr. Walsh should have gone one way or another."

Said Beckler: "I have never seen a situation where a primary target of a criminal investigation has been forced to testify before a nationwide audience and have that testimony dissected over and over."

Beckler's disclosure that Poindexter is a target of Walsh's investigation was a surprise. Lt. Col. Oliver North, who concluded his testimony on Tuesday, had earlier been identified as a target of Walsh's probe.

Poindexter had been subpoenaed to appear after receiving a grant of limited immunity that compels his testimony. It also means his words cannot be used against him in court except in a perjury case.

Beckler volunteered to have the transcript of Poindexter's private interrogation released to the public.

Poindexter sat silently at the witness table as his lawyer made his case.

His testimony has been long awaited at the public sessions, since he was in frequent contact with President Reagan during the period under investigation.

The legal sparring began after Sen. Warren Rudman, R-N.H., said investigators should be braced for "some disturbing" testimony today.

Interviewed shortly before Poindexter appeared, Rudman declined to speculate on how the admiral would answer questions about Reagan's role in the clandestine arms-to-Iran initiative.

Fox scores in Nielsen

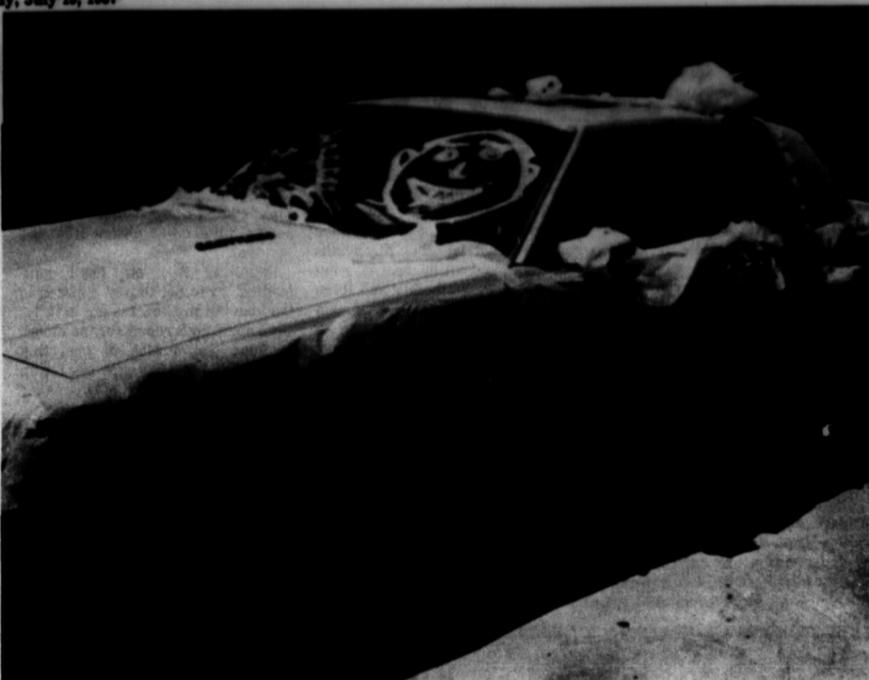

NEW YORK (AP) — Fox's "Werewolf" took a bite out of the big three networks' ratings Saturday in the fledgling network's first week as part of the Nielsen pack.

With a rating of 6.5 and a 15 share, the 2-hour premiere of "Werewolf" came in second in its time period, beating reruns on ABC and reruns and "West 57th" on CBS.

The A.C. Nielsen Co. rating is a percentage of the nation's 87.4 million households with televisions. The share is a percentage of the viewers tuned in during a particular time period.

NBC made it 24 in a row with an average, prime-time rating of 11.6 to CBS' 10.5 and ABC's 9.8.

CBS dropped back to third after rebounding for one week from an unprecedented five weeks there.

Over the Hill

Dr. Howard Johnson received a surprise birthday card from hospital staff yesterday. While he made hospital rounds, staff members wrote their birthday messages all over the popular Doctor's car. Though no one confirmed his age, the car proudly proclaims he is, "Over 40", today. Though slender, Johnson may have had trouble fitting in the car to drive it to the nearest car wash as enthusiastic staffers filled it with crumpled newspapers and balloons.

Political asylum issue unclear for Nicaraguans

BAYVIEW, Texas (AP) — Political asylum remains just out of reach for Nicaraguan aliens uncertain about their immigration status despite a Justice Department order allowing them to stay in the United States to avoid persecution.

On Tuesday, 79 Nicaraguans remained detained at the Immigration and Naturalization Service's detention camp near Bayview. Those at the camp, isolated on the coastal prairie about 22 miles north of the Mexican border, weren't sure what the new directive means.

Thousands of Nicaraguans in the United States could be affected by the order Attorney General Edwin Meese III issued last Wednesday.

The order bars deportation and calls for granting work permits for qualified Nicaraguans who fear persecution back home.

But INS officials are waiting for further instructions, and meanwhile are continuing established policies.

"Our detention policy is still the same until we get some additional guidance from above," said David Turner, INS deputy chief director for the South Texas district based in Harlingen.

The heavily secured detention center surrounded by a tall fence is nicknamed "El Corralon," meaning the big corral. It is a processing center for apprehended aliens awaiting immigration hearings.

There are 396 detainees at the center, primarily from Mexico and Central America.

Cecilio Ruiz, the INS' district director for detention and deportation, said nearly all of the Nicaraguans at the Bayview detention center have applied for political asylum.

"Out of these 79, 10 already have final orders for deportation, but I'm not going to move them," Ruiz said.

The telegram he received last week announcing the new policy toward Nicaraguans directs him not to deport anyone unless it is a criminal case. INS policy includes payment of a bond, usually of more than $1,000. Aliens are released after paying the bond and agreeing to appear before an immigration officer.

"Many of us don't have money for the bond and we're waiting to see if they'll let us get out without paying a bond or maybe a reduced amount," said Manuel Salvador Aguilar, 26, from Managua, dressed in the bright orange overalls required of all Bayview detainees.

Salvador, whose bond was set at $1,000, said he fears arrest if he returns to Nicaragua, because he left the country illegally. Being an ex-Sandinista soldier, he said he was not allowed to exit the country without the official permission he was unable to obtain.

Border patrol officials detained him in the Harlingen airport on June 16.

Ulises Amador, 30, another Bayview detainee, was caught in the same airport on April 15, two days after he crossed the Rio Grande into Texas.

Amador said he thinks the attorney general's order presents him an unexpected opportunity.

"We think it's magnificent, because we consider that Nicaragua has a communist system," he said in Spanish. Food and other goods are tightly rationed, he said, and every block is under surveillance by Sandinista informants.

He said he fears arrest in Nicaragua, because he fled to avoid military service.

"If the country was normal like a capitalist country, I would serve, but with my family dying of hunger, I can't serve," said Amador, adding that he hopes his $2,000 bond will be reduced.

Aliens' stories are similar from the Nicaraguans at Casa Oscar Romero, a Catholic Diocese shelter for Central Americans near Brownsville, 20 miles away.

"We came here to flee communism," said Casa resident 29-year-old Estela Calderon, from Masaya, Nicaragua. "It's a totalitarian state there."

administration and is continuing review of bi-lingual tests.

Blanket insurance was approved for UIL participants; Greenwall will start meeting with agents to get prices.

The house built by high school building trades students, at Hickory and La Plata, will be open for public viewing on Sunday from 1-5 p.m. Bids for purchase of the home will be accepted until 4 p.m. July 23.

Tommy Haney reported that upon getting an abstract on property where the new ag building goes, they found out that two underground fuel tanks had to be removed. He said the fence is done and dirtwork is beginning at the site near the VFW Hall.

Resignations accepted were from: Irma Medina, Martha Tipps, Christina Quintana, Leslie Paschel, Carolyn Ray, Robert Ray, Mary Stapp, Carolyn Johnson, and Shelly Smith.

Recommended for employment were: Elena Torres, Barbara Greenwall, Merlee McWethy, Micki Baulch, Juanita Champion, Eliazar Mendez, Amy Cole, Cindy Baker, Janet Lynn Welty, and Virginia McWhorter.

visibility was "line zero," he said.

A spotter south of the park saw one tornado forming, Vaughn said, and another spotter closer to the park saw power lines snapping moments later.

"That's when we hit the warning system," Vaughn said.

The severe weather was part of a line of heavy thunderstorms packing high winds, heavy rains and hail that rolled across the Panhandle Tuesday afternoon and evening.

The roof of a garden center at a Pampa discount store was blown off onto autos in the parking lot, and several residences sustained damages from 60-70 mph winds that accompanied the storm, Vaughan said.

Heavy rains flooded streets and pushed Red Deer Creek out of its banks, officials said, while there were numerous reports of fallen tree limbs and downed power and telephone lines. Much of Pampa, a town of 21,300 about 45 miles northeast of Amarillo, was without electricity or telephone service Tuesday evening.

In Borger, a storm packing golf ball-size and larger hail destroyed outbuildings and heavily damaged automobiles about 6:30 p.m., police Lt. Charles Keys said.

High winds accompanying another storm that hit the town of 15,800 about a half-hour later blew the roofs off four buildings in an apartment complex, Keys said. Downtown buildings had windows blown out and roof damage, and there were numerous reports of wind damage in homes across Borger, he said.

Downed trees and power lines blocked streets, and parts of Borger were without electricity, Keys said.

At 6:50 p.m., 60 mph winds ripped off a roof at the Pantex nuclear weapons assembly plant about 17 miles northeast of Amarillo, the National Weather Service reported.

Forty miles north, Hansford County sheriff's dispatcher Sarah Connelly said 40-50 mph winds caused some damage at a feedlot located about 23 miles north of Gruver, ripped the roof off several mobile homes and overturned a tractor-trailer truck on Texas Highway 15 about two miles west of Gruver.

No injuries were reported, but Ms. Connelly said electricity was out for about an hour in both Spearman and Gruver, and the sheriff's department was operating on generator power.

She said heavy rains had flooded several roads in the county, while Spearman had pea- and golf ball-sized hail, high winds and rains that reduced visibility to near zero and inundated streets.

Late Tuesday night, the weather service issued a flash flood warning for Lubbock County. A sheriff's dispatcher said there were numerous reports of flooding around the city of Lubbock in the wake of heavy rains from thunderstorms that rolled across the South Plains.

Leaders out of step with Hispanics

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A survey of Catholics in three Southwestern states shows that church leaders are out of step with the Hispanic laity, according to a report from the Mexican-American Cultural Center.

The survey of more than 1,500 Hispanic Catholics from Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, showed their biggest concern was poor economic conditions.

But a survey of bishops in the same three states showed the bishops believe the biggest concern of Hispanics is keeping their cultural identity, the report said.

"The No. 1 priority of the Hispanic people is survival," said Father Rosendo Urrabazo, the center's interim president.

The report was based on telephone interviews and questionnaires.

The purpose of the study was to be a springboard for further studies into specific questions, officials said.

Archdiocesan officials declined comment on the report until they had time to study it.

The differences the surveys showed was not surprising, said Robert E. Sanchez, project coordinator. Sanchez said he hoped the survey results will help change the situation.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I wish to make a statement of support for President Reagan's foreign policy and Col. North's activities concerning the freedom fighters, not the "contras"! Until this current head-hunting, I have been pretty ignorant and naive about Central America's critical position.

We should be angry and we should be fearful, but not at our President and those who are sending support to Nicaragua. Mr. Gorbachev has something in mind when he ships $2 billion in tanks, artillery, rocket launchers and helicopter gunships into a tiny country halfway around the world from Moscow, and on the doorsteps of the United States.

The Ortega brothers are bringing the revolution home to the U.S. The enemy will consolidate a military beachhead on the mainland of North America because Congress is going into a paralysis as to whether we should support Central America, whether we should protect the Persian Gulf, etc., etc.

We should be upset but with something that will make a difference! Our Congress scares me with its bleeding-heart liberals! Col. North should be applauded, not harassed. We, the American people, are in a most perilous time and are in the middle of a diversion, so the communists can continue expansion while we make fools of ourselves on national television, no less! Regardless of your position, I would encourage readers to write their senators and congressmen. You may also express your opinion by dialing 202-456-7639. We, and the media, are our own worst enemies! What do you suppose it is costing taxpayers to televise these hearings... while Congress gives only lipservice to a balanced budget?

Sincerely,
Susan Robbins, Rt. 2

Former Hereford resident Arthur Dawkins entered the U.S. Air Force Academy June 30 after also receiving an appointment to the U.S. Naval Academy.

He received both appointments after being nominated by Rep. Marvin Leath.

Dawkins, who attended school and church in Hereford before moving to Salado, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.A. Dawkins of Salado and the grandson of Ed and Irene Dziuk of Hereford, Emma Lee Moremans of Dalhart, and Foy and Lorena Dawkins of Claude.

A 1987 graduate of Salado High School, Dawkins earned the Presidential Academic Fitness Award, the UIL Scholar Award, the U.S. Army Reserve National Scholarship/Athletic Award, and was named to Who's Who Among American High School Students.

In addition to his academic awards, Arthur was named to the first team all-district football team as a defensive back, received honorable mention on the Super Centex Team, placed 2nd in district competition in the 800 meter run, and was on the sprint and mile relay teams.

He also received the "I Dare You" award at Claude along with being an alternate to Boys State.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Your new booklet on alcoholism is absolutely the best thing I have ever read on the subject. My eyes are open now as never before. You tell how to recognize it, how to deal with it and how to conquer it. I realized as I read it that I have been trying to kid myself all these years.

I wish everyone who deep down thinks he or she has a drinking problem, or who is living with a drinker, would read your booklet, Ann. It is worth its weight in gold.—A New Me In Dallas

DEAR NEW YOU: Thanks for those kind words. I worked hard on the booklet and am so pleased to know you found it worthwhile. Anyone who is interested should send $2.50 to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) and ask for "Alcoholism."

The following came too late to include in the booklet, but it will appear in the next printing.

ENABLING BEHAVIOR

Faulty Reasoning: Expecting him to be rational; expecting him to control his drinking; believing his promises; believing you are to blame for his drinking.

Justifying: Agreeing with his rationalizations; "His job puts him under a lot of pressure."

Minimizing: "Plenty of people are worse off"; "Last night wasn't so bad."

Covering up: Protecting his image; putting on a smile for the relatives and neighbors; telling the children he has the flu; phoning his place of work and saying he is sick.

Blaming: Criticizing, lecturing, threatening, dumping, accusing.

Taking over: Assuming his responsibilities; unable to let go because "everything will go to pieces"; "Somebody has to do it."

Avoiding: Using tranquilizers, food, work to escape stress.

Controlling: Canceling social events that might result in excessive drinking; pouring his alcohol down the sink or hiding it; pleasing with him to prove his love by stopping drinking.

Rescuing: "I couldn't let him sit in jail all night."

Enduring: Keeping feelings inside (loss, hurt, rejection, anger, failure); allowing fear to immobilize you ("This may be bad, but it's better than being alone"); "Where would I go?"

The alcoholic will get help when he wants to. The thing that will make him want to is PAIN.

To be able to follow the above instructions will not be easy. In fact it will be very difficult, but it's the only way to help the person you love. You have tried everything else. Now try this. What do you have to lose?

There are almost as many women alcoholics as men, so substitute the word "she" for "he" when appropriate.

4-H'ers to participate in Bread Fair Friday morning

A Bread Fair for Deaf Smith County 4-H'ers will be held from 9 a.m. until noon Friday at the Energas Flame Room.

This activity marks the beginning of the 1987 4-H Bake Show project. Any youth age 9, or at third grade level in the fall, through 19 years of age, is eligible.

The Bread Fair will promote the Panhandle's No. 1 agricultural product of wheat and will emphasize nutritional value of wheat products in the diet as well as skills of planting, preparing and evaluating these products. Each youth will make a loaf of bread by workshop completion.

Rules for the Deaf Smith County 1987 Bake Show will be explained to Bread Fair participants. The bake show will be held Aug. 11.

Lake Superior, between the United States and Canada, is 350 miles long and 160 miles wide.

Enough farmland will be left by 2030

WASHINGTON (AP) — A draft of a once-a-decade report by the Agriculture Department says enough farmland will be left to meet needs of the year 2030, even though some 48 million acres could be taken for non-agricultural uses by then.

The draft report, which will be subject to public comment and review before being put in final form, was released by the USDA on Monday.

Erosion, salt pollution in irrigation areas of the West, and reduced vegetation on livestock ranges are other threats to the U.S. agricultural machine.

Although the rate of urban growth has slowed in some areas, the conversion of agricultural land into other uses remains a disturbing problem for the future, the report said.

"Further, the effects of conversion, not only on local and regional farm income and production patterns but on the nation, may be understated if only the number of acres converted is considered," the report said.

It added: "Much of the urban growth will occur on prime farmland in counties in or near metropolitan areas. Although counties in fast-growth areas include less than 15 percent of all cropland, they account for nearly 30 percent of the dollar value of the nation's farm output."

The nation's total non-federal rural land area, not counting Alaska, is more than 1.4 billion acres, which includes 421.4 million acres of cropland, 133.3 million acres of pastureland and 405.9 million acres of rangeland, based on the department's 1982 National Resources Inventory.

About 1.5 million acres are converted to non-agricultural uses each year, the report said. Sixty-four percent is cropland.

"Assuming the current rate of conversion continued, the cropland base would be reduced by nearly 48 million acres, or 12 percent, between 1982 and 2030," the report said. "Changes in land use may have an enormous effect at the local level without becoming a problem that requires specific action at the national level."

The report said soil erosion caused by the wearing-away action of water and wind is reducing the productivity of some soils. In 1982, water erosion moved more than 3.4 billion tons of soil on non-federal rural land, and wind moved 2 billion tons.

"More than 286 million acres of non-federal land are eroding at rates greater than the soil tolerance — that is, the rate at which sustained economic production is assured," the report said.

According to a new computer analysis cited in the report, 100 years of water and wind erosion under 1982 management conditions would reduce U.S. productive capacity 1.9 percent. The report said that would be "the equivalent of losing production worth $9 billion at 1980 prices."

George S. Dunlop, assistant secretary for natural resources and environment, noted that the report's value is in its identification of "the status and condition of our soil and water resources" so those resources can be conserved and protected.

"Despite the fact that the report identifies some resource conservation problems, its findings show that the United States can meet food production demands for the foreseeable future," Dunlop said.

But some private conservationists are less optimistic and point out that USDA projections in the past sometimes have missed the mark by wide margins.

Robert J. Gray, policy director for the American Farmland Trust, said the report's projections for the year 2030 probably are "a little rosier than reality."

The draft report is the second required by the Soil and Water Resources Conservation Act of 1977 which seeks appraisals of the national situation every 10 years. The first was in 1960.

Gray said that since the first appraisal, there has been a good start on getting marginal land out of crop production under the long-term Conservation Reserve Program which is aimed at retiring 45 million acres of highly erodible land for 10-year periods. About 18 million acres have been signed up.

"But we still don't know how good a job (farmers) are going to do on compliance," Gray said in an interview.

Also, he said, farm productivity has leveled off, masked somewhat in the 1970s by millions of acres that were brought into production as exports boomed and demand seemed much greater than it turned out.

"I'm not quite as optimistic as they are (in USDA), and I think they tend to be somewhat overly optimistic in their projections," Gray said.

Under projected "intermediate" conditions, the amounts of cropland and irrigation water are expected to be adequate but would "decline significantly by the year 2000 and ... level off after that date," the report said.

In 2030 demands for food and fiber could be met on 218 million acres of cropland, 30 million of which would be irrigated, the report said.

"The decrease in projected land and water requirements results from the projection that yields per acre would double by 2030 and that the efficiency of livestock feed use would more than double," the report said.

Under "high stress" conditions reflecting reduced availability of agricultural resources, larger export demand and reduced technology, all available cropland would have to be used, with the exception of the land in the Conservation Reserve Program, the report said.

Gray said he might expect the actual development of U.S. agriculture to be "somewhere in between" the intermediate and high-stress projections.

The draft report will be open for public comment for 60 days. Copies are available for review at local offices of the department's Soil Conservation Service and the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, officials said.

Water management tour Friday at Carlson farm

The latest techniques in farm water management will be exhibited at a field water conservation demonstration day on Friday from 9:30 a.m. until 3 p.m. at the Roy Carlson farm in Deaf Smith County.

The farm is located on FM 1057, ¼ of a mile west of the intersection of U.S. 385 and FM 1057 at Milo Center.

With an emphasis on sugar beet production, one exhibit will feature Dennis Newton, Deaf Smith County Extension agent, and Leon New, an irrigation specialist with the Texas Agricultural Research and Extension Center, demonstrating low energy precision application (LEPA) and chemigation modifications on center pivots. Also, Dr.

Harold Kaugman, plant pathologist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will talk about fungicides and disease problems with sugar beets, and Dr. Carl Patrick, Extension Entomologist for TAES, will explain local pest management problems and new regulations on chemigation.

In other exhibits, featured attractions will include demonstrations of the mini mobile field water conservation laboratory for evaluation of irrigation sprinkler systems and a rainfall simulator depicting water infiltration onto the soil profile under different types of land treatments. The respective exhibits will be manned by Gail Thompson, soil conservationist with the Deaf Smith County SCS, and Ken Carver, assistant manager of the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1.

Jerry Funck, agricultural engineer with the water district, will explain pump efficiency testing, and Jerry Walker, civil engineer with the SCS, will discuss soil moisture monitoring.

The focus of the field day is to increase public awareness of the potential savings that can be obtained through increased water and energy use efficiency. Discussion will apply to the dryland producer as well as to the irrigation farmers.

The field demonstration day is sponsored by the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1 and its Deaf Smith County committeemen, the TAES, the SCS and the Tierra Blanca Soil and Water Conservation District.

Mink production shows decrease

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says mink pelt production declined further last year, along with the number of farms producing them.

Production dropped to 4,077,600 pelts from 4,170,500 in 1985, the department's Agricultural Statistics Board said Tuesday in its annual report.

Langer, Norman eye British Open title

By ANDREW WARSHAW
AP Sports Writer

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (AP) — The last 17 major golf championships have been won by 17 different players.

West Germany's Bernhard Langer thinks he could be the man to end that streak when the 116th British Open begins Thursday.

"I feel extremely confident and pretty good about my game," Langer said Tuesday after his first practice round over the Muirfield links. "I expect good things this week."

Langer, the 1985 Masters champion, is a 6-to-1 co-favorite to win his second major title along with Spain's Seve Ballesteros. Then comes defending champion Greg Norman of Australia at 8-to-1.

Langer has come close to winning the British Open in each of the last three years with two ties for third and one for second.

"Hopefully, I can do better — one or two spots," he said.

At Muirfield, a course which traditionally favors players with an all-around game, Langer is hopeful of being the man in the spotlight on the 18th green on Sunday afternoon.

He has played well in Europe this year, winning the Whyte and Mackay PGA championship at Wentworth, England, and taking the Carrolls Irish Open by 10 strokes.

At the U.S. Open, Langer finished fourth, but Muirfield, he said, will suit his game.

"It's a shotmaker's course because of the severe rough and the many bunkers and the tough greens," Langer said.

On paper, he said, between 50 and 70 players could win the title, "but if it gets windy, that comes down to 10 or 15."

Norman is bidding to become the first player since Tom Watson in 1983 to win consecutive British Open titles.

But the hard-hitting Australian has not won a tournament on the U.S. circuit this year despite losing in a playoff to Larry Mize at the Masters.

Norman thinks his problem has been trying to emulate his 1986 form.

"I've probably been trying too hard, trying to make 1987 a better year than 1986," he said. "But I'm ready to start at the British Open and forget what has happened earlier."

Norman described Muirfield as "a demanding course, even on a still day." That, he said, might explain why so few underdogs have won the title here.

"One thing about Muirfield ... it's a course that seems to isolate players from other players," Norman said.

Like Norman, Watson has been winless this year. In fact, he has not won a title since the Australian Open in 1984.

But he came within one putt of winning the U.S. Open last month and has the additional incentive of needing one more British Open title to tie Harry Vardon's record of six.

Watson also was champion the last time the British Open was staged here in 1960.

"I played well enough (at the U.S. Open) to prove to myself that I am on the way back," Watson said Monday after his first practice round. "But winning is the name of the game and I have not done that yet."

Greg Black Memorial 10-K, 2-Mile Run records listed

The Greg Black Memorial 10-Kilometer and Two-Mile Fun Runs are scheduled for Saturday, Aug. 8 in Hereford, along with a two-mile walk.

Starting time will be 8 a.m. at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA at 500 East 15th Street. Entry fees will be $9 per person in advance, and $11 per person on the day of the race.

Late registration is scheduled from 7 a.m. to 7:45 a.m. on the day of the race.

For those runners who like to have race records to shoot for, here is a list of the top five times in each division of the 10-kilometer run and the top 10 times in each division of the two-mile run (dating back to when the races were known as the Town & Country Jubilee races):

Abundant Life

WE MAKE OUR MEMORIES
By Bob Wear

Our deeds, good and bad, continue to be present in, and affect our lives, long past the time they are done. Thus it is that 'we make our memories'. Therefore, we can choose the kind of memories we wish to have. If we want good memories, happy memories, we can be busy now making the best of our present time and opportunity. "A memory without blot of contamination must be an exquisite treasure, an inexhaustible source of pure refreshment."—C. Bronte

Memories begin to affect our lives very early in the life span. They are not reserved for old age, but they soon take their place in the daily lives of each one of us. Our memories affect our happiness, our effectiveness, our drive, and are, in reality, so interwoven into the fabric of our being that they help to make us what we are. We do not have the power to change our memories once they are established, but we do have the power to choose our memories. It is wise to keep this in mind daily as we move along through time.

Although we do not want to live in the past, we must remember that there is a very real sense in which our past lives with us. Our past lives with us in our memories. The good memories help us. The memories of duties performed, of opportunities used well, of time spent wisely, of self-control in our speech and action, of kindly treatment of our fellowmen and of useful, things we may have done well strengthen us and bless us in our daily living. "The joys I have possessed are ever mine; out of thy reach, behind eternity, hidden in the sacred treasure of the past, but blest remembrance brings them hourly back."—Dryden.

To a great extent, and in many ways, we control our future; and this is especially true with our memories. Today's living experiences will be tomorrow's memories. Since we choose the nature of today's living, we choose tomorrow's memories to-day.

New stain resistant carpet has limits

The days of crying over spilled juice on the carpet are over. Major carpeting manufacturers have introduced their latest innovation—stain resistant carpeting.

"Stain resistant carpeting is a great break for the homeowner," says Dr. Peggy Owens, a housing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service. "It frees homeowners from the worry of most permanent stains, may reduce cleaning costs and allows them to decorate with light colored carpeting anywhere in the house."

According to Owens, the stain resistance is added during processing, when the chemical resistant agents are locked into the filaments of the carpet fibers.

"You should be able to clean up nearly every household spill or pet accident on this carpeting without a problem," she says. "Stains from foods, dirt or beverages—including red wine and fruit flavored drinks—should come out."

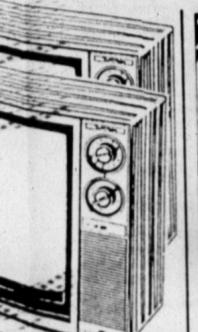

However, stain resistant carpeting also has some limitations, cautions the specialist. "Acidic products such as bleach, iodine, mustard, and acne medicine can destroy the stain resistant agents and leave spots on the carpeting," she says. "Extremely hot foods or beverages may also stain the carpeting, and high traffic areas will show dirt over time."

Before buying stain resistant carpeting, carefully read the warranty to determine its limitations," cautions Owens.

The billion-dollar carpeting industry has mounted an extensive advertising campaign to inform consumers about stain resistant carpeting.

Owens adds, "Stain resistant carpeting costs about 10 percent more than other types of carpeting, but the investment may be worth the convenience of easy clean carpeting."

TODAY'S BARBS BY PHIL PASTORET
Things change. Once upon a time, casting your bread upon the waters was laudable. Now the EPA calls it pollution.

Look on the bright side. Your stocks aren't paying lower dividends — you're just getting your share of downside profits.

TODAY'S TRIVIA ANSWERS: (a) Linda Ronstadt starred in "The Pirates of Penzance" in 1981.

The average American household watches TV for seven hours and two minutes a day according to A.C. Nielson reports.

Explaining Proper Techniques

Beverly Harder, Deaf Smith County extension agent, led a workshop on canning, freezing and preserving of foods Thursday morning in the Southwestern Public Service Reddy Room. The program covered methods of food preservation, canning changes, information on specialty recipes, and equipment to make the food preservation season easier. Before the conclusion of the program pressure canner gauges were brought in to be checked.

New officers elected recently

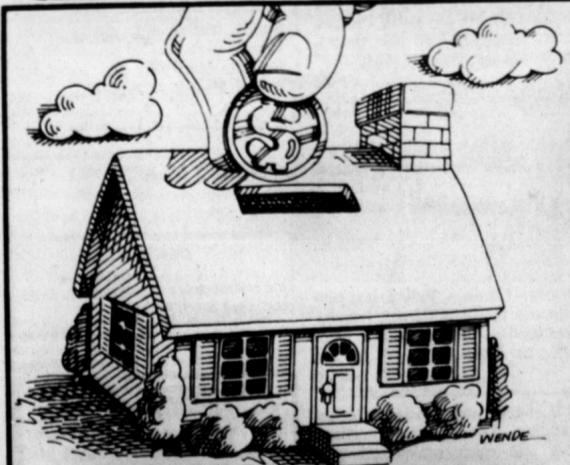

Members of Hereford Senior Citizens Association met recently to elect new officers for the year July 1, 1987 to June 30 1988.

Robert Thompson will serve as president; Shirley Garrison, vice president; Helen Spinks, secretary; and Bartley Dowell, treasurer. New directors include Roberta Caviness, Grant Hanna and Garth Thomas.

Outgoing directors are Bernard Roberson, Lucille Martin and Jim Bozeman.

The International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Motion Picture Operators of the United States and Canada has its headquarters at 1515 Broadway, New York, NY 10036.

Want to save money on your homeowners policy?

Homeowners insurance discounts are available, if you know where to look. As an independent insurance agency, we're free to consider homeowners policies offered by several major insurance companies, like CNA, so we're aware of the many kinds of discounts available. For example, there are discounts depending on the age of your home or for having smoke or burglar alarms.

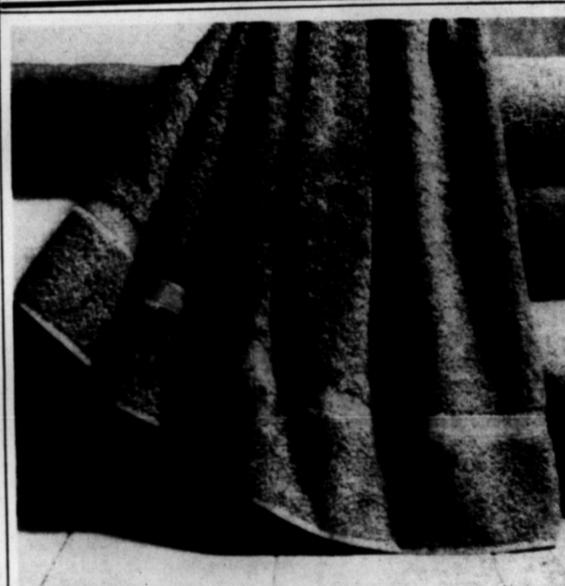

If you want to make sure you are receiving all the discounts you're entitled to, call or stop in soon.

The Newspaper BIBLE

JESUS LOVES ME, THIS I KNOW!

Later on as Jesus left the town He saw a tax collector-- with the usual reputation for cheating-- sitting at a tax collection booth. The man's name was Levi. Jesus said to him, "Come and be one of My disciples." So Levi left everything, sprang up and went with Him!

Soon Levi held a reception in his home with Jesus as the guest of honor. Many of Levi's fellow tax collectors and other guests were there.

But the Pharisees and teachers of the law complained bitterly to Jesus' disciples about His eating with such notorious sinners.

Jesus answered them, "It is the sick who need a doctor, not those in good health. My purpose is to invite sinners to turn from their sins, not to spend My time with those who think themselves already good enough."

Their next complaint was that Jesus' disciples were feasting instead of fasting. "John the Baptist's disciples are constantly going without food, and praying," they declared, "and so do the disciples of the Pharisees. Why are yours wine and dining?" Jesus asked, "Do happy men fast? Do wedding guests go hungry while celebrating with the groom? But the time will come when the bridegroom will be killed, then they won't want to eat."

Then Jesus used this illustration: "No one tears up unshrunk cloth to make patches for old clothes, for the new garment is ruined and the old isn't helped when the patch tears out again.

"And no one puts new wine into old wineskins, for the new wine bursts the old skins, ruining the skins and spilling the wine. New wine must be put into new wineskins.

"But no one after drinking the old wine seems to want the fresh and the new. 'The old ways are best,' they say."

Breaks scoreless all-star game in 13th inning

Raines' 2-run triple boosts N.L. to win

By STEVE WILSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — The All-Star Game ventured into the twilight zone again to boost television ratings and found itself back in the dead-ball era.

A string of zeros stretched across the scoreboard until the 13th inning Tuesday night when Tim Raines tripled home two runs to give the National League a 2-0 victory over the American League.

More than a dozen pitchers, part of a beleaguered brotherhood victimized by so-called "juiced-up" balls this year, took the sluggers back to a time of low scores and earned homers.

It was a brand of baseball rarely seen this year, a mound duel spiced with some spectacular defense that perhaps only a true baseball fan could really enjoy.

They played in a squinty twilight in which pitcher Jack Morris said he could hardly see the plate and .375 hitter Wade Boggs said he could barely see the ball.

Bret Saberhagen threw the first pitch at 5:40 p.m. PDT, prime time in the East. The starting time was chosen to please NBC-TV, but not the batters.

"It's frustrating when you play in twilight," said Boggs, who went hitless in three at-bats. "It wasn't too easy to see the ball."

"I just couldn't follow the ball at all," said Darryl Strawberry. "It kind of snuck up on you. It was almost impossible to see."

"You couldn't pick up the spin or the rotation," said Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt.

While home runs are up 22 percent in the majors this year, the only balls that came close were fly ball outs in the 10th by Kevin Seitzer and the seventh by Mark McGwire, the major league leader with 33 homers.

It was the third-longest All-Star Game in history, exceeded only by 15 innings in 1967 and 14 in 1950, and it kept the Nationals unbeaten in eight extra-inning games.

The NL now leads the series 37-20-1 and has won 14 of the last 16, 22 of 25. The AL, which was trying to win two in a row for the first time since 1957-58, instead was shut out for the fourth time.

In 1984, when the game was last played in twilight in San Francisco's Candlestick Park, pitchers notched 21 strikeouts. This time, they struck out 17.

Meanwhile the batters cursed the semi-darkness and marched meekly from the plate. The Nationals managed only eight hits, the Americans six in the first All-Star Game to go scoreless for more than five innings.

The Americans nearly won the game in the ninth, but the winning run was cut down at home plate after NL reliever Steve Bedrosian made a diving save of a wide throw to first base by shortstop Hubie Brooks. Bedrosian threw home where catcher Ozzie Virgil withstood a collision with Dave Winfield for an inning-ending double play.

"It was just full extension, one of those Ozzie Smith-type catches," Bedrosian said. "I just went for it. You either do it or you don't." Bedrosian walked Winfield. After a sacrifice bunt by Tony Fernandez, Dwight Evans drew another walk to put runners at first and second.

Harold Reynolds followed with a grounder to the right side. It was fielded by first baseman Keith Hernandez, who threw to second to force Evans. Bedrosian was covering first when he made his saving game-saving dive.

"You saved the game," Brooks told Bedrosian.

"I thought I was going to have a little more time," Virgil said. "I looked up and he (Winfield) was there. All I saw was his shirt. He's like a Mack truck."

The only batter to solve the pitchers was Raines, who had three hits after entering the game in the seventh. He said he promised his wife one hit, but the last one was for the guys in the dugout.

"A couple of guys told me they were about to go to sleep on the bench," Raines said.

The Montreal speedster, 0-for-7 in six previous All-Star Games, jumped up and down when he reached third base after driving home Virgil and Brooks with the winning runs off Oakland's Jay Howell.

"It was just a thrill knowing when I rounded second that I had knocked in the winning runs," said Raines, who won the game's Most Valuable Player and made the point he tried to make all winter as an unwanted free agent.

Lee Smith pitched three innings of two-hit ball with four strikeouts for the victory, and the New York Mets' Sid Fernandez, the last player left on the NL roster, pitched the 13th for a save.

Soccer is issue in Olympics talks

By LARRY SIDONS
AP Sports Writer

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — The International Olympic Committee offered North Korea five sports today in what it said was its last proposal in trying to solve the problem of the North's demand to co-host the 1988 Summer Games.

IOC President Juan Antonio Samaranch said the latest package contained women's volleyball, the entire men's 100-kilometer cycling road race, and all or parts of three sports included in an earlier plan — archery, table tennis, and a quarter of the preliminary soccer matches.

Samaranch spoke at the end of a two-day series of meetings involving delegations from North and South Korea. It was the fourth such session since North Korea demanded a co-host role in late 1985. Samaranch said time was running out to reach agreement.

"We are not thinking of a deadline," he said. But he noted that Sept. 17 will mark the beginning of the final year until the opening of the Games in Seoul.

Samaranch said the latest IOC proposal would be sent to Seoul and Pyongyang for formal review and asked both sides to respond as quickly as possible.

The North Koreans said they would study the IOC plan but were adamant about wanting to stage the entire soccer tournament.

"This is a very, very important issue," said Chang Ung, secretary general of the North Korean Olympic Committee.

Asked about the North Korean insistence on all soccer matches, Samaranch replied: "We are only making a proposal. It is up to North Korea and South Korea to answer yes or no."

Chin Chung Guk, vice president of the North Korean Olympic Committee, said the failure to reach a final agreement at this session was due to "insincere efforts on the part of the South Koreans."

South Korean Olympic Committee president Kim Chong Ha would say only that his committee and the IOC were working together to try to find a solution.

"We are just cooperating with each other," Kim said. "We are in the same boat. The success of the IOC is the success of Seoul."

North Korean Olympic officials met twice with Samaranch and other IOC mediators in the first set of joint meetings in 13 months on Pyongyang's co-host request.

South Korean officials held one closed-door session with the IOC and were to take part in another today, prior to a face-to-face meeting with the North Koreans.

The direct negotiations are set to cap two days of discussions, the fourth time since North Korea issued its co-host demand in late 1985 that the two Koreas have met with Samaranch to try to reach a solution.

Among the most popular spectator sports in the world, soccer became the center of the talks Tuesday after Samaranch presented North Korea with the IOC's latest split-Games proposal.

In June 1986, the IOC offered North Korea the archery and table tennis tournaments, the start of the men's 100-kilometer cycling road race and a quarter of the preliminary soccer matches.

North Korea accepted that plan in principle last February but kept asking for more sports before it would drop its threat to lead a boycott of the Seoul Games.

In its latest move, the IOC said it would place the entire women's volleyball tournament, along with archery and table tennis, and the full route of the cycling road race in North Korea in return for holding all of the soccer tournament in South Korea.

The South Korean team made it to the final rounds of the World Cup last year. North Korea, meanwhile, had been eliminated from the Olympic field without playing a match.

It refused earlier this year to play a qualifying game against Malaysia, with Pyongyang officials saying the team was exempt from qualifying as a host nation for the Games.

FIFA, soccer's world governing body, promptly threw the North Koreans out of the Olympic tournament and the IOC endorsed the decision.

IOC officials indicated Tuesday that the North Korean action had led to the decision to swap women's volleyball for soccer, and the North Koreans acknowledged that the Malaysian pullout had done little to help their cause.

"This is something that we have to solve," Chang said.
