Cablevision plans expansion to 54-channel capability

Clint Formby, owner of Hereford Cablevision, told city commissioners Monday night that the company is planning to rebuild its entire system to produce a capability of 54 chan-

The project will cost Cablevision almost $706,000.

"We decided to get the best system we possibly could," said Formby.

The current cable system has a capability of 21 channels.

Formby said that the system will be looking at adding four to six new channels at first, with the possibility of adding more as they become

Formby said the channels that will most likely be added will be C-Span, a 24-hour government channel; The Weather Channel; the Nashville Network or Country Music Television; one of two rock and roll music video channels, either MTV or VH1; the Lifetime Network, and The Discovery Channel.

"It will be a virtual salad bowl of choices," Formby said.

Formby added that the new system will insure that all the premium channels will be have clear

"We have had troubles with one channel, but with the new system we will not have to use that channel so we can guarantee that the channels will be clear," he said.

Formby asked the commission if Cablevision could get a new 10-year contract with the city to provide the cable TV service.

Commissioner Emory Brownlow made the motion to allow the city attorney to draw up a new ordinance giving Cablevision another 10-year contract. The motion was approved. Formby said the construction on the project will begin in January and should be completed by June or July. In other business, the commission accepted a bid from Texas Municipal League for the city's insurance.

The cost for one year will be almost $110,000 and will cover all facets of city property and liabilities.

The commission then appointed city secretary Bonnie Duke to serve a two-year term on the firefighters

In relaying Reagan's call to the Congress, Speakes said the president does not intend to summon Poindexter and North to the Oval Office and demand that they tell him what they knew. "I think the president would subject himself to criticism if he followed that course of action," Speakes said without elaboration.

Speakes' announcement came as White House Chief of Staff Donald Regan was testifying under oath before the Senate Intelligence Committee. The White House has been under increasing pressure in recent days from congressional leaders to compel testimony from Poindexter and North.

Sen. Dave Durenberger, R-Minn., Committee, said last weekend that his panel has 95 percent of the information it needs, and is frustrated in completing its task by the refusal of Poindexter and North to testify.

Several other witnesses have invoked their Fifth Amendment rights in the investigation, but, unlike Poindexter and North, they are not former White House aides, and Speakes made no mention of them.

Flu season started early in Texas

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Health officials say the flu season started early this year, with schools reporting increased absenteeism and medical clinics treating more severe, long-lasting

"It's causing severe headaches, almost viral encephalitis-like symptoms, the doctor says," said Melinda Graham, administrator of Medical Plus. "We're seeing high fever and vomiting. It's real bad-news stuff."

About 190 Nederland High School students stayed home ill on Monday, while the school's normal absentee rate is about 70 a day, according to the school's attendance office.

Students are staying home for three or four days instead of only one or two, officials said. Absenteeism also increased last week at Port Neches-Groves High School and the Port Arthur Independent

In the Beaumont school district, 723 students were home sick last week, but head nurse Frances Williams said that is not an unusually high number for this time of year.

Public health officials, pharmaceutical laboratories and the public were unprepared for this year's early flu season, said Dr. Paul Glezen, epidemiologist at the Baylor College of Medicine's influenza research center in Houston.

Glezen said the outbreak of a new strain, A-Taiwan, in October caught public health officials and pharmaceutical laboratories by surprise.

But he said this year's flu epidemic will not be any worse than last year's, when the B-USSR and A-Phillipines flu strains swept across

Casey stable after minor seizure

WASHINGTON (AP) - CIA Director William J. Casey is described as alert and in stable condition today after suffering a brain seizure on the eve of a new round of congressional questioning on the Iran arms deal.

Casey, who had been scheduled to testify at today's closed-door Senate Intelligence Committee hearing, was rushed by ambulance Monday from his office to Georgetown University Hospital after falling ill with what doctors later called "a minor cerebral seizure."

The hospital's medical director, Dr. John Stapleton, said Casey suffered a second seizure while undergoing tests after being admitted to the hospital.

However, Stapleton described Casey late Monday as being in stable condition, "mentally clear and resting comfortably." Hospital officials said today his condition was unchanged.

The 73-year-old CIA director will be in the hospital for several days of neurological and other tests, hospital officials said.

CIA spokeswoman Kathy Pherson said agency officials had talked to Casey at the hospital and described him as "lucid and pretty cheerful ... joking with the nurses."

When Stapleton was asked if Casey had suffered a stroke, he said he didn't believe so, but he added little further detail on what the seizures might be related to.

Merritt's Textbook of Neurology, a standard reference, says a minor cerebral seizure can be caused by any one of numerous conditions, including meningitis, encephalitis, physical trauma, tumors, abscesses, degenerative diseases of the nervous system, bloodvessel problems and carbon monoxide poisoning.

Bare breasts considered free speech

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A state law that prohibits women from sunbathing topless is constitutional, but seven women who bared their breasts to protest the statute cannot be prosecuted under it, a city judge ruled.

City Court Judge Herman J. Walz ruled Monday that the protesters who called themselves the "Topfree Seven" were exercising their right of free speech when they removed their shirts in a park in

But the judge rejected the women's contention that the state nudity law is unconstitutional because it forbids women, but not men, from going topless.

Walz said the law is not discriminatory on the basis of sex because community standards have determined women's breasts to be an intimate part of the body.

The decision, which is not binding on Rochester's other six city judges, apparently means women can take their shirts off to protest state law, but not simply to sunbathe or cool off in the summer sun. The June 21 protest was the first time the state's nudity law was challenged on the grounds of sex discrimination. The seven women said they wanted to be arrested to challenge the state law in court.

"Dick will nestle as close to the tropical disturbance as he can get because that'll give him the best winds. But he's going to be the judge of how far in he can get because of the turbulence," Len Snellman, the project's chief meteorologist, said Monday.

Snellman said Rutan had a bright moon and smooth air the first night out and "I was wishing I was with him.

Afghan resistance making advances

WASHINGTON (AP) - Afghan resistance forces, said to be using sophisticated U.S. missiles, are making major advances in air defenses and recently have increased their destruction of Soviet aircraft, the State Department says.

The department also said pro-Iranian rebels have stepped up their activities in parts of Afghanistan they control:

The comments were in the department's annual report, being released today, on the 7-year-old war that is pitting the Afghan government and an estimated 118,000 Soviet soldiers against guerrillas supported by some neighboring countries and the United

According to published reports that have never been officially confirmed by the Reagan administration, the Afghan resistance forces have been provided with Stinger missiles, shoulder-fired weapons more effective than the anti-aircraft arms previously in the rebels'

The report does not confirm the transfer of Stingers to the guerrillas but said the forces "demonstrated an improved capability to blunt Democratic Republic of Afghanistan (DRA) and Soviet operations, and they made major advances in air defense with the increasing use of surface-to-air missiles."

"Each depositor should also be sure to get a receipt for the total deposit and a weight ticket for each load. Because it is a negotiable instrument, the receipt should be kept

New Congress urging Reagan to return to SALT II

WASHINGTON (AP) - More than half the members of next year's Congress are urging President Reagan to reverse his decision to breach the SALT II nuclear arms control treaty, but the pressure is drawing sharp criticism from the administration.

Fifty-eight of the 100 members of the Senate which convenes Jan. 6 appealed Monday to Reagan to retire enough nuclear weapons to put the United States back under the numerical ceilings on various categories of weapons contained in the unratified 1979 pact.

That action follows last week's overwhelming approval of a similar appeal that was made by Democrats who will be in next year's House. The Democrats will have a 258-177 House margin in the next Congress and the appeal was in a resolution passed during a closed-door caucus of those incoming Democrats.

But the administration's Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, in a statement Monday, asserted that the move harms the United States' ability to negotiate successfully for new, verifiable arms agreements with the Soviets.

"Congressional pressure for selective compliance with SALT II undercuts the U.S. response to Soviet violations and compromises the ability of U.S. negotiators in Geneva to gain effective verification provisions in new agreements," the agency contended.

The United States violated the ceilings in the pact on Nov. 28, when a B-52 bomber converted to carry nuclear-tipped cruise missiles became operational

It was the 131st of the big bombers to be modified for cruise weapons rather than bombers. The treaty permits only 130 modified bombers unless other weapons, such as missile-firing submarines, are retired to compensate for the higher number of cruise-carrying bombers.

The U.S. action breaching the SALT II treaty was criticized by America's NATO allies and the Soviets, who pledged that they would continue to live up to the pact.

The letter from the 57 legislators called the U.S. action an "open invitation to the Soviets" to violate several of the numerical limits in the

North played role in fund raiser

WASHINGTON (AP) - Fired White House aide Oliver L. North played a behind-the-scenes role in an April 1985 dinner to aid Nicaraguan refugees that netted only $1,000 for its stated purpose, with more than $100,000 going to a variety of "consultants," according to documents and sources.

Documents on the April 15 dinner, obtained by The Associated Press, show one of its chief organizers reporting to North on plans for raising money, including a suggestion that the sultan of Brunei "might kick in a million dollars."

Although it is not clear what came of the Brunei suggestion, U.S officials said last week that the State Department persuaded the sultan of the oil-rich Asian kingdom to donate millions of dollars to Nicaraguan Contra rebels this year. The Los Angeles Times said the money went through a Swiss bank account controlled by North.

The newly obtained documents show that North participated in pro-Contra fund raising at least as early as 1984. Last year, the AP reported that North developed a plan in early 1984 to enlist third countries and private individuals to aid the Contras During the 1980 presidential cam- in the face of congressional opposition. White House sources said President Reagan gave oral approval for that plan.

Two sources have told the AP that the Nicaraguan Refugee Fund was started in mid-1984 through a secret agreement between the Miner and Fraser Public Affairs Inc. and the Contras' Washington-based corporate arm, the Nicaraguan Development Council.

Letters from Edie Fraser, Miner and Fraser president, to North suggest that he participated in detailed decisions about the fund.

One letter, dated Dec. 27, 1984, and signed by Ms. Fraser, said, "I look forward to getting with you on Jan. 3 or 4 regarding the Nicaraguan Refugee Fund and the proposed plan." In reference to choosing the fund's boards, it adds: "Perhaps it would be best to wait until after our meeting with you."

fallen between 22 percent to 35 percent during the same period.

On Nov. 6, President Reagan signed a new immigration law that includes sanctions against employers who knowingly hire illegal aliens.

"The true test of whether the bill is slowing down apprehensions will be in January or February," said Joe Garza, chief of the Laredo sector. "Once the sanctions are in place it will slow down the influx of illegals. That was the cornerstone of the bill."

The employer sanctions do not take effect for another 17 months and as that word spreads the number of illegal aliens entering Texas may once again increase, officials said.

The first six months from the bill's enactment are set aside to educate employers about the sanctions, followed by 12 months when employers will be cited, but not fined, for hiring illegal aliens. After the first 18 months, full sanctions will be in effect, said Jerry Hicks, deputy chief of the McAllen sector.

"We think there is something tied in here with immigration reform," Hicks said. "That's why things have slowed down. Employer sanctions are going to have a heavy impact, people are not going to come over if they can't get a job. If alien smugglers don't think there is going to be a market, entries are going to slow down.'

Hicks said arrests of illegal aliens by McAllen sector agents are off 28 percent in November as compared with November 1985.

For the same period, arrests were off 35 percent in the Laredo sector, 24 percent in the Del Rio sector and 22 percent in the El Paso sector, said Border Patrol officials.

Officials said winter weather and the new law may be responsible for the declining number of apprehensions in their territories.

The size of the alien pool may also be down and that also could be a factor, said Tom Leupp, Del Rio deputy sector chief.

Leupp said fewer illegal aliens who live in the interior of the United States may be going back to Mexico for the weekends because of fears about the bill's sanctions. That could lower the number of aliens crossing the broder, he said.

Increased Border Patrol personnel in Texas also may be a deterrent,

Leupp said. "I don't feel confident in saying one piece is the reason, but they all add up to the total picture," Leupp

Gus de la Vina, El Paso deputy sector chief, believes fewer aliens are crossing in his area because of cold weather and because the Rio Grande has been at a near-flood stage. Several illegal aliens have drowned trying to cross the high water, he said. El Paso agents arrested 30,786 aliens in October and 15,524 in November. In November 1985, 19,808 aliens were arrested in the sector, de la Vina said. The number of arrests traditionally declines in November and December, the sector chiefs said. De la Vina anticipates the number of aliens trying to cross into the United

Three Hereford men selected

The Board of Advisors for the Outstanding Young Men of America awards program announced that three Hereford men have been selected for inclusion in the 1986 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America.

They include Kenneth Gerard Schlabs of Route 4, Charles M. Moore of 208 W. Fifth St. and Alan Wayne Wartes of 236 Northwest Drive.

Now in its 24th year, the OYMA program is designed to honor and encourage exceptional young men between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in many fields of endeavor, such as service to community, professional leadership, academic achievement, business adcultural accomplishments, and civic and political participation. Achievements in these areas are the result of dedication, responsibility, and a drive for excellence-qualities which deserve to be recognized and remembered.

The men listed, along with fellow Outstanding Young Men throughout North America, were selected afte 150,000 nominations were received from political leaders, University and College officials, clergymen, business leaders, as well as from various civic groups and community organizations. Each young man will be represented by his biographical entry in this prestigious annual awards publication.

Garden club projects discussed Thursday

Members of Bud To Blossom Garden Club met Thursday at the Community Center.

During the brief business meeting, reports were heard concerning the club's recent projects. Members held a party for six residents of Golden Plains Nursing Home who celebrated birthdays in November. Also, it was reported that Karen Barela, Wilma Bryan and Tammy Barela had decorated both Westgate and Golden Plains for the holidays.

A letter of resignation was accepted from Barela who is moving with her family to the Dallas area.

It was reported that Naoma Spann and Patricia Robinson attended the Festival of Trees at the Garden Center in Amarillo recently. The club has ordered 40 Afghanistan

Wilma Bryan gave a short demonstration on corsage and bow making. Those attending included Elaine Mason, Naoma Hare, Addie Cunningham, Phyllis Brown, Barela, Jane White, Bryan and Robinson.

Blood tests offer DR. GOTT a wealth of data

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had my blood tested and was surprised at how much one could find out from it. I'd like to know more about the various tests. What are the calcium, chloride and BUN tests What do the readings

DEAR READER - A great deal of information can indeed be obtained from a lowly blood sample. This includes values for common body chemicals, up through and including the meticulous analysis of the genetic arrangement of blood-cell chromosomes. In addition, trace amounts of various body substances can be identified. An astoundingly useful amount of knowledge can be derived from blood analysis, depending on the sophistication of the laboratory that is analyzing the sample.

Routine blood tests, automatically performed by complicated machines, measure sugar and fats in the blood. minerals (such as calcium and potassium), liver function, kidney efficiency (blood urea nitrogen, or BUN), enzyme levels, toxic substances, general nutrition, hormone levels and cancer proteins (such as carcinoembryonic antigen, a substance that may be present in the bloodstreams of patients with certain cancers). The complete blood count (CBC) is a particularly simple way to assess whether the blood cells themselves are normal in number and appearance.

High or low readings of any component of a blood test usually mean that something is wrong. However, the prudent physician would want to correlate the abnormal value with a patient's general health and clinical state. For instance, in the routine blood tests of normal adults, I often find that the chloride - a part of the salt molecule - is elevated; ordinarithis has no significance whatsoever.

Blood tests are only one of many ways to investigate health and disease. Test results are compared to the normal levels that most healthy people have. Many healthy people may actually show slight variations from the normal average or spread of values. In addition, laboratories and technicians do sometimes make mistakes, and test results can be affected by some medications or substances, such as hormone or vitamin supplements, oral contraceptives, antibiotics and many others - so it's important to tell your doctor of any medications or supplements you've been taking. Therefore, although blood tests may seem to be wondrous ways to examine the human body, they are not magic and have to be correlated with other medical investigation.

DEAR DR. GOTT - The doctor told my husband that nothing could be done to help his shingles. We decided to try brewer's yeast, since it helped our dog's skin problem. My husband took five tablets three times a day. In a few days the irritation left and the blisters began to dry up, and it was completely gone in several weeks. Is there any medical reason that this should work?

DEAR READER - Shingles, a virus infection of the skin's nerves, clears up within a few weeks and rarely returns. I suspect that your husband's infection followed the typical course, without the brewer's yeast affecting it one way or the other. The major complication of shingles is neuralgia, a chronic form of nerve pain that can persist long after the virus blisters have disappeared. Recent evidence suggests that cortisone, if given early enough in the disease, can help prevent the severe discomfort of neuralgia. However, there is no current medical way to speed healing of the skin lesions

Christmas party held for Veleda members

For their annual Christmas party, Veleda Study Club members met recently in the home of Juanita Brownd with Norma Walden serving as co-hostess

The hostesses served a Christmas dinner with holiday dishes brought by members to those present including husbands and children.

Entertainment was provided by Imad Khuri and Nikki and Chuck Lindeman. Walden read a moving story about Christmas during World War II. Everyone was asked where they were on the day Pearl Harbor was bombed by Japan.

Santa Claus made a surprise visit and gifts were distributed to children and candy given to the adults.

Gifts were placed under a Christmas tree to be donated to the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross and it was decided that the club would give $25 to the Christmas Stocking Fund.

McKinney's Simmons scores 4 touchdowns

By GARY CHRISTENSEN Sports Editor

IRVING, Texas - It was one of those games when the opponent got the breaks, and also when not much seemed to go right for the Hereford Whitefaces.

The Whitefaces, playing in the state class 4A semifinals against McKinney at Texas Stadium, suffered a 39-6 loss, shattering the Herd's goal or dream to reach the state championship game - and win the title.

McKinney's star player, Randy Simmons, rushed 32 times for 228 yards and four touchdowns, and also caught four passes for 38 yards.

Simmons had just 50 yards in his first 15 carries, but in his last 17 carries, he totaled 178 yards.

"We did a good job on Simmons early in the game. Whey they started hurting us throwing, they got us off balance. It took the emphasis off Simmons. Simmons really opens up their offense," Hereford Coach Don Cumpton said.

"They did a good job keeping us off balance. That was as big a factor in the game as anything," Cumpton

In McKinney's first possession of the game, the Lions began at the Hereford 43 after Marc Jackson returned the opening kickoff 32 yards. McKinney drove to the 11-yard line, where it had a first down.

Simmons fumbled the ball, and Ricky Ruiz of Hereford recovered the fumble with 10:09 left in the first

But in Hereford's first offensive play, the Lions knocked the ball loose from Whiteface running back Mark Artho. McKinney's Tommy Winburn recovered the fumble at the eightyard line.

Simmons carried the ball three straight times, the first time for a four-yard gain. The Herd defense stopped Simmons for no gain in the second down play, and dropped him for a three-yard loss in the third down play.

McKinney's Jay Bob Harris atgoal - but an illegal procedure penalty allowed the Lions to attempt another field goal, since it was a "dead ball" penalty that Hereford did not have any opportunity to

Such a penalty is automatically marched off. Harris was then successful with a 29-yard field goal attempt, giving McKinney a 3-0 lead with 7:51 left in the first quarter.

Hereford failed to get a first down in its next possession. McKinney then drove 45 yards for a touchdown, utilizing the running of Simmons and the passing of Charlie Honea to Marc Jackson.

Simmon rushed the final five yards for the touchdown, with 3:06 left, and Harris' extra point made McKinney's lead 10-0.

The Whitefaces recorded a first down in their next possession, but they were forced to punt from their own 35-yard line.

McKinney put together another touchdown drive, this time an 84-yard drive. The big plays of the drive were a pair of 21-yard runs by Matthew Allen.

Simmons carried the last year for the touchdown. The lead was 17-0 with the extra point.

The Whitefaces got their offense rolling, starting from their own 20 and going 80 yards in seven plays for

A 53-yard pass completion from Todd Shire to Vincent Brown gave Hereford a first down at the McKinney 17-yard line. Shire was then sacked for an eight-yard loss, but he completed a 25-yard pass to Kyle Streun in the end zone for a touchdown in the next play.

Hereford's extra-point kick was not good, and McKinney's lead had been cut to 17-6 with 5:40 left in the first half.

The Whitefaces forced the Lions to put in McKinney's next possession, and Hereford had 2:11 left in the half to try to score.

An 18-yard run by Mark Artho and a 15-yard pass from Shire to Jimmie Hazzard were two of the plays that helped the Whitefaces move from their own seven-yard line to the mid-

Bobby Baker caught a pass for a seven-yard gain, and in the next play, McKinney was penalized for defensive pass interference, giving Hereford a first down at the Lion 32.

Hereford's efforts to moved within three points of the Lions were thwarted when McKinney defensive end Eddie Underwood picked off a

In the second half, Hereford did not get a first down until there was 2:31 left in the game. The Whitefaces failed to get a first down in their first five possession of the second half.

Simmons scored with a 19-yard run with 5:13 left in the third quarter and also with a 28-yard run with 1:43 left in the third period.

The last McKinney touchdown was scored with 9:28 left in the game. Wilford Pryor caught a 15-yard touchdown pass from Honea.

Simmons carried the ball 13 times in the second half for 122 yards, making his game total 228 yards in 32 carries. His last three carries of the first half were for 56 yards in gains.

The Whitefaces finished the game with just 38 yards rushing. Hereford had 216 yards passing, and 254 yards total offense.

Todd Shire completed nine of 23 passes for Hereford, but threw three interceptions. Vincent Brown caught two passes for 76 yards, Jimmie Hazzard had two receptions for 47 yards, and Bobby Baker caught two passes for 19 yards.

Kyle Streun, Chris Johnson and Mark Artho each caught one pass. McKinney rushed for 305 yards and passed for 169 yards - a total offense McKinney had 25 first downs compared to nine for Hereford.

'We made a run at them in the second quarter. We made a real good drive to score and then made another good drive, but threw an interception," Coach Cumpton said.

"I hope people will realize that these kids did a great job all year. Probably this group played as close to their potential all year as any group we've ever had," Cumpton said about the 1986 Whiteface team.

"They've got a tremendous amount of character and courage. They handled themselves well. They played 14 games and only one other team in Hereford's history had ever played that many games.

"I personally wouldn't trade away all the good times and the fun we tempted and missed a 25-yard field had. There will be a lot of fond memories of this team," Cumpton

> "I think back to the fourth quarter of the bi-diustrict game in Lubbock, the last-second field goal in Abilene, and the courage the kids showed the week of the Hirschi game, surrounded by that tragedy," he said, the tragedy being the death of former Hereford High School football player Casey Smith.

> "The fan support, I think, was unparalled. The people of this community take a back seat to no one in support of the young people. We appreciate it and the team appreciates

> "The 1986 chapter of the Hereford football history was one of the best." Cumpton concludes.

Vas there a Mike Renfro impersonator?

By GARY CHRISTENSEN Sports Editor

On Sunday afternoon, while I was watching the Dallas Cowboys-Philadelphia Eagles game, one of the sportscasters said, "Someone who identified himself as Mike Renfro went into the dressing room of the losing team of a high school playoff game last night, and gave

When I heard that statement, I immediately remembered hearing a Hereford High School football player, after Saturday's playoff game against McKinney at Texas Stadium say, "I don't think that was Mike Renfro. He seemed too small to be a professional football player.'

On Sunday night, I mentioned all this to a friend of mine who had been at the game. He told me that some man was going up and down the stairs on the visiting side of the stadium, among Hereford's fans, more or less enticing high school girls to stand next to him and have their picture taken with him.

I asked my friend, "Did he look like a professional football player?" My friend responded, "No. I don't know who he was, but some of the band members seemed to be talking to him more than watching the game."

I asked Coach Don Cumpton of the Hereford Whitefaces about what I heard on television. He said there was a man in the dressing room who said he was Mike Renfro. "I don't know if it was Mike Renfro, but it looked like him," Cumpton said.

Some other HHS coaches said that when they went into the dressing room at halftime, there was a man standing in there, listening intently to what was being said by the coaches to the players. Apparently he identified himself as Mike Renfro while he was in the dressing room.

Also, he apparently ran out onto the field with the Hereford players when the halftime was nearly over.

Another person said that a man was more or less going through the Hereford crowd, saying, "I'm Mike Renfro. I'm Mike Renfro."

Back to the time when I was watching the Cowboys-Eagles game: After I recalled hearing the statement by a Hereford player that he did not think it really was Mike Renfro, thoughts went through my mind something like this: "Was that a man from McKinney impersonating Mike Renfro?"

Having thought about all this a couple of days, I have this to say about this person, claiming to be Mike Renfro, going into the dressing room:

Why did Texas Stadium personnel allow that man to go into the dressing room? Just because he was a member of the Dallas Cowboys - or claimed to be - does not give him a right to intrude on the precious time that the Hereford coaches needed to talk to the Whiteface players at halftime.

If I were a coach and this happened, I would immediately ask him to leave the dressing room, especially if starts saying he is a certain professional athlete. Why? Because I would consider it to be a distraction - the athletes would be thinking too much about having met a professional football player and not concentrating on what problems they need to overcome in the second half and what the second half strategies will be.

I would also be suspicious that such a person might be a "spy." and would go tell somebody - a member of the coaching staff of the other team, or a messenger - what the Hereford strategies would be in the second half.

West Orange-Stark plays McKinney Saturday at the Houston Astrodome. If I were a West Orange-Stark coach and had heard about this happening at the Hereford-McKinney, I would ask the Astrodome security to not allow anyone into the dressing room, even if he claimed to be a member of the Houston Oilers.

My press pass at Texas Stadium was for the press box on the home side of the stadium. When I entered the press box, there was a

But after the game, by the Hereford dressing room, the person with the Texas Stadium patch on his jacket did not seem to be a security policeman. There was more need of a security policeman by the dressing room than at the press box.

If I were a coach, and my team was playing in a playoff game at Texas Stadium, I would not even want Tom Landry, head coach of the Dallas Cowboys, to be in the dressing room at halftime. I would consider that too much of a distraction.

One more thing about this man who claimed to be Mike Renfro, and what he was doing in the Hereford crowd. I have heard of celebrities, including professional athletes, having hundreds of autograph seekers around them. But this man who claimed to be Renfro was, according to what others have told me, was seeking after people to sign autographs for.

My conclusion is that somebody was impersonating Mike Renfro. He was making Renfro appear to be an egotistical person, walking around saying, "I'm Mike Renfro. I'm Mike Renfro."

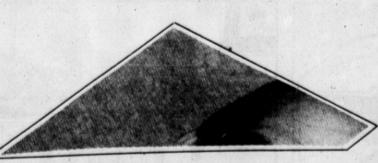

He was portraying Renfro to be a person of low self-esteem, going around seeking attention. And if he could be called a "spy" in the dressing room, then he was also distracting some of the Hereford fans from the game.

All of this seem's just too suspicious for that man to have really been Renfro. I will stick to my conclusion that somebody was imper-

In making this conclusion, I only use the word "spy" in the sense that a person not with a football team as a coach, player, manager or trainer should not be in the dressing room at halftime of such a game as a high school playoff game.

Unsportsmanlike McKinney fans

One more observation from Saturday, but first let me quote from a letter to the editor that appeared in the Brand last Friday, from Ken Hart of the Canyon Independent School District.

Hart, who volunteered to take tickets at the Hereford-Wichita Falls Hirschi game at Kimbrough Memorial Stadium, wrote this about the Hereford fans:

"I have never worked at a function such as this where the people were as understanding and cooperative. This speaks quite well of your city, county, and school system. ... I will always have good thoughts about your city and school system. And, if you ever play here again, I will volunteer to take tickets, because you are outstanding people.

Contrast that observation to what I observed of the McKinney fans Saturday night. First of all, the McKinney fans booed the officials just about every time a penalty was called against their Lions.

They booed when Kyle Streun of the Whitefaces caught a touchdown pass in the game. Also, near the end of the first half, Whiteface running back Mark

Artho was running hard for an 18-yard gain and ran hard into Marc Jackson, a McKinney defensive player who is also the Lions' leading receiver on offense

Jackson was shaken up or injured in the play, and while he was down on the turf, a good number of McKinney fans began booing.

What were they booing about, I asked a Brand newspaper employee who was with me at the press box.

Were they booing their own player for being injured, or were they booing against Hereford for possibly injuring one of their beloved Lions? I do not understand why they were booing at such a time.

With about 11 seconds left in the game, and McKinney having won 39-6, the second-string Lion quarterback John Poe took the snap from center, but did not go down with his knees to the playing field until a Hereford player already had momentum toward him.

After the Hereford player hit the quarterback hard, the booing began again by the McKinney fans. Soon a penalty flag went straight up in the air.

The McKinney fans thought that a personal foul would be called against Hereford. But the official signaled personal foul against McKinney. The booing became quite loud as the official marched off the 15-yard penalty - again, with less than 10 seconds left in the Booing the officials with such little time left and having won the game 39-6! Those McKinney fans left me with a bad impression or opinion about them, because of their unsportsmanlike conduct.

Quite a difference from what Ken Hart of Canyon saw in the Hereford football fans!

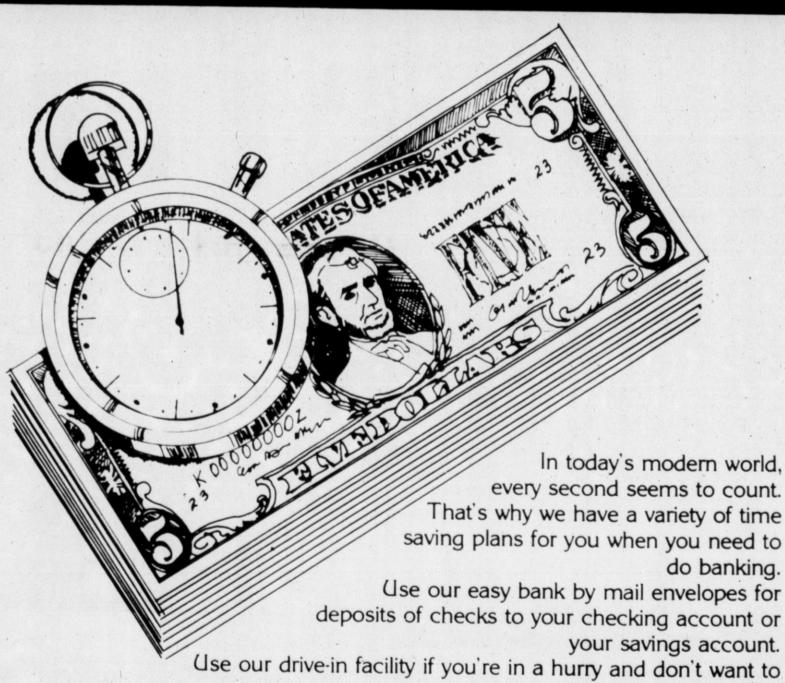

Davey Johnson, the manger of the New York Mets, has a unique distinction. He made the last regular season hit off pitcher Sandy Koufax in 1966, Sandy's final year.

Comedian Marc Price may be last of show business breed

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Marc was Joy Mann. My grandfather was Price may be the last of a breed, the show business kid who was raised in a trunk and joined his parents on stage as soon as he could toddle.

Price, who plays Skippy the teenage neighbor on NBC's "Family Ties" and stars in the heavy metal movie "Trick or Treat," is a veteran comedian at 18. He also performs at Caesars Tahoe and comedy clubs around the country.

He grew up in the mold of such show business kids as Mickey Rooney, Donald O'Connor and Judy Garland. His father is nightclub comedian Al Bernie. By the time Price was 7, they were swapping wisecracks on stage.

"I'd play the part of the smart-aleck kid," Price recalled. "He'd say, 'I've got to give you credit,' and I'd say, 'I'd rather have cash.' I remember hearing stories that my mom carried me on stage as a baby. She was a singer whose stage name a singer and agent and my grandmother was a singer."

At the age of 13 he was emcee of The Too Short for Prime Time Players" at the Roxy Theater here.

"I've been pretty much on my own since I was 14, when I started 'Family Ties," he said. "My parents were divorced. I was here and my father was on the road. I'd work. I'd go to school, too, but I never put school before work. My work was my

"This student is much different than Skippy," he said. "That's why it interested me. Being on a popular show, people think that's the way I am. In this, I'm a guy who's wrestling with his conscience about whether to do the right thing - which would mean betraying his fraternity trust."

He had a bandage over his right eye and makeup to indicate an injury. His character falls against a fireplace during the hazing.

Price started on "Family Ties" during its first season in 1982-1983 and became a regular in the third season. The show got respectable ratings, but did not become a major hit until NBC put "The Cosby Show" in front of it on Thursday nights two

Accent on Health

Toys are part of the excitement of Christmas for children around the world, and nowhere but the U.S. is there such variety. This time of year, stores display thousands of toys aimed at every age group.

But The Texas Department of Health's (TDH) Product Safety Branch, in conjunction with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), works hard to see that children will not get some toyscertain toys found to be dangerous or even life-threatening.

Throughout the year, CPSC and TDH must inspect and test thousands of kinds of toys made in this country as well as overseas. And each year, they find some toys that contain hazardous materials such as lead

Other toys are poorly designed, with small parts that can be detached or broken from the larger toy and swallowed by young children. Brittle plastic and sharp metal in other toys, and inappropriate labeling for the intended age group, add to the possibility that a child may be hurt or killed.

In 1985, some 608,000 children were injured by hazardous or defective toys in the U.S. And 22 of them died.

So far in 1986, 55 different toys have been found to be unsafe, and their manufacturers were ordered to recall them. Among them are: an assortment of baby rattles and pacifiers which could cause choking; some stuffed animals with easily swallowed eyes, noses, and ornaments; crib toys likely to cause strangulation; and a number of imported toys which contained lead paint.

Most recently publicized is the recall of 1.5 million Voltron Lions, toys imported from Taiwan. The metal toy robot, which transforms into other toys, contains lead paint, which is poisonous. It was offered in two sizes, 11 inches and six inches tall. The same toy, made of plastic and manufactured in Japan, is considered safe, but consumers are cautioned to double-check the packaging when buying the product.

Dan Sowards, chief of the TDH Product Safety Branch, said, "The majority (about 68 percent) of toys recalled as safety hazards each year are imported. American manufacturers are more conscious of safety regulations than some toy makers overseas. Some foreign manufacturers are known for making toys that have had to be recalled, and the U.S. Customs Service has begun alerting CPSC to the arrival of those products.

"There is only so much the regulatory agencies can do to ensure that toys are safe for the kids who get them," Sowards said. "The bulk of the resonsibility will always lie with the adults who buy the toys."

Sowards explained that adults should check any toy for defective material, detachable parts, and age appropriateness. "Plain common sense on the part of a parent, such as not giving a two-year-old a toy meant for older kids, often can prevent tragedy," he said.

Sowards urged parents who find toys to be defective, dangerous, or mislabeled to notify him at (512)458-7519, or call the Consumer Product Safety Commission toll-free at 1-800-638-CPSC.

Dizzy Dean won 30 games and his brother Paul captured 19, as the St. Louis Cardinals won the 1934 National League pennant. They also had nine saves in relief appearances between them, seven for Dizzy and two for Paul.

NO IS RIGHT BOSTON (AP) - Daily weather forecasting hasn't improved much over the past two decades, according to a study made by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The study revealed that while 24-hour forecast accuracy in the Boston area remained at 85 percent, any amateur simply predicting no rain every day would have been correct 65 percent of the time.

Students read Bible over PA systems

BELTON, Texas (AP) -Elementary school students are reading Bible verses over public address systems in public schools, an activity some legal experts say violates the constitutional ban on establishing a state

After the pledge of allegiance to the flag and school announcements, students read a thought for the day and cite the source from which it came. Many choose to read from the Bible.

Jeanette Kelly, principal of Lakewood Elementary, said students volunteer to read various inspirational sayings and expressions, but said she does not know if the Bible is the predominant source of

"Sometimes they don't read out of the Bible," she said. "Sometimes they do."

The practice goes on at 'more than half" of Belton's five elementary schools, said Joe Pirtle, superintendent of the Belton Independent School District, located 42 miles south of Waco. Pirtle said he is aware that Bible readings may be unconstitutional but allows it "If someone objected, I'm sure we would make changes," Pirtle said. "We're not deliberately trying to do something unconstitutional, we're just doing what our people like for us to do.' Jim Harrington, legal director of the Texas Civil Liberties Union, said the school district's position is 'kind of a stupid move' that puts it at risk of having to pay 226 Northwest, Hereford, legal fees should someone Texas, being in the County of challenge the practice in Deaf Smith and State of "That's incredible," he said, when told of the readings. "There is no way students should be reading from the Bible over the P.A. system. They can read the Bible silently in their free time. but the school can't engage in sponsorship of religion." Harrington said the Bible can be quoted as a source of literature, but only as long as it is not a "subterfuge" for bringing religion into the Harrington said. "If you have 10 readings and one is from the Bible, that probably wouldn't be prohibited. But if you read from the Bible every day or twice a week, it could be construed as an excuse for religion and would be impermissible.

Dr. James Wood, director of church-state studies at Baylor University, said the devotional practice "raises serious constitutional ques-

"A school is a place for learning, not, worship," he said. "There is no prohibition on the reading of the Bible. but this raises the question of the purpose of it. This seems to be a religious exercise clearly in violation of what the U.S. Supreme Court, with almost unanimity, has ruled unconstitutional.

Gara LaMarche, executive director of the TCLU, said he plans to send a letter to the school district to determine if it is violating the separation of church and state.

"Contrary to what our critics say, we have never tried to purge religion from the schools," he said. "But there have been a variety of gimmicks used to get prayer back in the schools and this may be one of them."

Harrington said most complaints the TCLU receives regarding the separation of church and state come from rural areas. Last year, a principal in Mission was reading the Bible over the public address system until confronted by attorneys, he said.

Glamour surveys women

NEW YORK (AP) - A growing minority of women approve of extramarital sex while most women say they have become more anxious about sexually transmitted diseases, according to a Glamour magazine survey.

The magazine questioned 800 women between the ages of 18 and 45 for its fifth annual survey on women's attitudes.

The survey found that 18 percent of women approve of infidelity, a jump from 12 percent last year. Nearly twothirds of the women said they have grown more worried about ailments transmitted through sex

Only 14 percent of all single women surveyed expressed worry over whether they would marry. The figure dropped to 11 percent for 18to 20-year-olds and rose to 21 percent for women between the ages of 25 and 39.

Separating smokers from nonsmokers not sufficient

WASHINGTON (AP) -Smoke from other people's cigarettes causes disease in healthy nonsmokers, and simply separating smokers and nonsmokers within the same air space fails to eliminate the risks, says the surgeon general's annual smoking report. This year's report, the 18th in the series mandated by Congress, focuses on the health effects of involuntary, or passive smoking - which it said injured large numbers of people because so many are exposed to it.

Dr. C. Everett Koop, the surgeon general of the U.S. Public Health Service, said smoking is responsible directly for more than 300,000 deaths annually in the nation, about 15 percent of all mor-

But while there are proven risks from involuntary smoking, the report said, there is not yet enough data to estimate accurately the sickness and death it causes.

'It is now clear that disease risk due to the inhalation of tobacco smoke is not limited to the individual who is smoking, but can extend to those who inhale tobacco smoke emitted into the air," Koop said in the report's preface. Dr. Otis R. Bowen, secretary of Health and Human Services, said in a letter to Congress that 40 states and the District of Columbia have enacted some form of legislation to restrict smoking in public.

of smokers to 30 percent of what comes from the product

the adult population and increasing concerns about the health of nonsmokers, Bowen Koop also cited these laws, saying that no more research or study is needed before taking action against environmental smoke.

While he did not specifically suggest any further restriction or ban on public smoking, Koop said "measures to protect the public health are required The tobacco industry attacked the report, saying its conclusions went beyond the data presented and imply that further smoking restrictions are desired despite little objective evidence of substantial harm nonsmokers. 'The implication is clear that they are saying we have to do something to protect the non-smoking public," said Scott Stapf, spokeman for the Tobacco Institute. "Obviously, there is only one step beyond restrictions and that is to ban smoking," Stapf continued in an interview. "This is clearly a political document, not a scientific one. They just don't have the evidence. "The surgeon general has decided to be a politician first and a scientist second, and science suffers," he said.

The report said there is sufficient evidence to show that environmental tobacco smoke, a combination of what is exhaled by the smoker and

itself between puffs, causes

lung cancer in nonsmokers. About 85 percent of the estimated 135,000 lung cancer deaths expected this year are directly attributed to cigarette smoking, but a smaller but unspecified number are caused by involuntary smoking, the report said. The same cancer-causing agents inhaled by the smoker also are in environmental smoke, although at lower quantities,

Tons of coal dumped at

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) - City officials who earlier this year were given a halfton of manure as a protest against releasing wastewater into the Russian River have now got 10,000 pounds of coal from Santa Claus.

About five tons of coal was dumped Monday in front of City Hall by a man dressed as Santa Claus. On top of the pile was a picture of Santa Claus and letters signed "Santa Assistant City Manager Jan Dolan quoted one letter "Dear Santa Rosa: For being naughty boys and girls Santa has put 10,000 pounds of coal in your stocking. Once again you greedy people have lied and deceived the people of the Russian River.

But I have a greater witness than John. I refer to the miracles I do: these have been assigned Me by the Father, and they prove that the Father has sent Me. And the Father. Himself has also testified about Me, though not appearing to you personally, or speaking to you directly. But you are not listening to Him, for you refused to believe Me--the one sent to you with God's message. You search the Scriptures, for you believe they give you eternal life. And the Scriptures point to Me! Yet you won't come to Me so that I can give you this life eternal! Your approval or disapproval means nothing to Me, for as I know so well, you don't have God's love within you. I know, because I have come to you representing My Father and you refuse to welcome Me, though you readily enough receive those who aren't sent from Him, but represent only themselves!

No wonder you can't believe! For you gladly honor each other, but you don't care about the honor that comes from the only God! Yet it is not I who will accuse you of this to the Father --Moses will! Moses, on whose laws you set your hopes of heaven. For you have refused to believe Moses. He wrote about Me, but you refuse to believe him, so you refuse to believe in Me. And since you don't believe what he wrote, no wonder you don't believe Me either. (John 5:36-47)
