San Antonio, Houston under flash flood watch

By The Associated Press

Two people were missing and feared drowned in raging creeks in the San Antonio area as heavy rains continued to drench South Texas today, prompting the National Weather Service to issue a flood watch and flash flood watch for a vast area.

The area covered by the flood and flash flood watch included the cities of Houston, San Antonio and Austin.

Two people were reported missing in the San Antonio area. Authorities said a 20-year-old man and 12-year-old girl were feared to have been swept away in Apache Creek.

Southeast Texas authorities blamed the bad weather for two traffic deaths near Orange.

Authorities feared the two had drowned, but had to suspend the search at dark Thursday and were to resume the search early today.

Forecasters said the ground was already "super saturated" from earlier heavy rainfall and predicted more showers and thunderstorms, with some producing heavy rainfall, to continue through tonight.

An isolated thunderstorm produced four inches of rain in three hours at Lake Houston early today.

Heavy rain was reported falling during the pre-dawn hours in the Houston-Beaumont-Port Arthur area.

At San Antonio, the Leon and Helotes creeks spilled over their banks, forcing evacuations and dramatic rescues Thursday.

The intense scattered showers at San Antonio helped break the record for any 30-day period of rainfall as 18.41 inches of rain was recorded from May 13 through June 11, eclipsing the old record of 17.82 inches set from Aug. 29 to Sept. 27, 1946.

Waters rose 2 feet over the westbound lanes of Interstate 10 between Loop 1604 and Camp Bullis road, closing the lanes for two hours Thursday, officials said.

A KENS-TV helicopter rescued a Department of Public Safety trooper, who was stranded on top of his cruiser trapped on I-10 at the flooded Leon Creek bridge, and a highway worker at the same location.

Raging floodwater from Leon Creek also washed away a telephone cable at San Antonio, knocking out service to more than 10,000 customers.

Firefighters used helicopters to rescue people trapped in water crossings.

The non-stop rains have sent levels at the Edwards Underground aquifer to 695.8 feet above mean sea level, within a foot of the all-time high of 696.5 set Oct. 22, 1973, a record officials expect to be broken within days.

The latest round of pounding rains have caused at least another $300,000 in damage to San Antonio city streets and other facilities, bringing the total lost to near $1 million, City Public Works Director David Steitle said.

Police at San Antonio reported 246 minor and 40 major accidents through the evening rush hour Thursday, far more than the average of 100 minor and 20 major accidents.

About 60 people, including 40 children trapped in a church during Vacation Bible School, had to be evacuated from Leon Springs, near San Antonio, Thursday after rising waters from rain-gorged creeks swirled into the town.

"It got pretty bad," Bexar County Fire Marshal Carl Nixon said.

Senators seek 'cap' on waste dump

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators from three states, including Texas, have urged the Senate Energy Committee to retain a 70,000-ton cap on the nation's first high-level nuclear waste dump.

Several Eastern states want the cap lifted and the search for a second site halted.

But "the call to lift the cap on the first repository and to suspend 'indefinitely' work on a second site should have very little support at the Department of Energy and even shallower support in Congress," stated a letter to Energy Committee Chairman Bennett Johnston, D-La., signed by the six senators and authored by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

"Likewise, it would seem appropriate to defer action on any bill to authorize only a single nuclear waste repository," Bentsen wrote.

Others signing the letter were Sens. Phil Gramm, R-Texas; Brock Adams, D-Wash.; Daniel Evans, R-Wash.; Harry Reid, D-Nev.; and Chic Hecht, R-Nev.

Their action came in response to a "statement of principles" submitted to the Energy Committee last month by a united front of senators from seven Eastern states that face the prospect of housing the second nuclear dump.

Under the Nuclear Waste Policy Act, the nation's first nuclear waste repository is to be in a western state. After years of searching, the Energy Department settled on sites in Deaf Smith County in the Texas Panhandle, at Hanford, Wash., and Yucca Flats, Nev.

The law also states that a second site is to be in the East and that each repository is to have a capacity of 70,000 tons.

"As you are painfully aware, the assurance of regional equity in the disposal of nuclear waste was essential to the passage of the Act in 1962. Indeed, the 70,000 metric ton limitation on the first repository was an important element in providing such equity," the letter said.

Bentsen and Gramm have criticized the way the Energy Department has conducted its investigation at the three western sites, the postponement of a search for a second site and what he says is a failure to consult the states involved.

Grand jury indicts six

In the final session of the current Grand Jury on Thursday, Jose Stephen Garcia was indicted on charges on murder. Garcia will be tried for the murder of Antonio Madrid who died in Northwest Texas Hospital, in Amarillo, as the result of blows he received to his head.

Also indicted were Robert Barrientes who was charged with two counts of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon, Joe Hector Figueroa on four counts of burglary of a motor vehicle, Diana M. Guerrero for passing and possible forged instrument and Pedro Morales and Nathan Flores were indicted on criminal mischief charges. Two men remain at-large on criminal mischief charges.

Local Roundup

New superintendent on agenda

The Hereford Independent School District trustees will hold a special meeting at 9 a.m. Saturday, when the board is expected to name a new superintendent of schools. The only item listed on the agenda is "to consider and act on hiring a superintendent."

In a mutual agreement with the board, Dr. Harrell Holder ended his tenure as superintendent May 30, and the school district paid him $50,000 for the year remaining on his contract. Trustees narrowed the search to six candidates the last week of May, and are expected to name the new school chief Saturday.

Aerial spraying scheduled

The City of Hereford has announced the first city-wide aerial spraying, to control mosquitoes, for this season. City trucks have been fogging the alleyways to help control the insects but due to the heavy rains the mosquito population has grown.

A 5,000 acre area including the city and outlying perimeters will be sprayed in the early morning hours of Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday depending on weather conditions. The aerial spraying program in paid by the City of Hereford and, in part, by Deaf Smith County. Three sprayings have been budgeted for this summer.

Juveniles involved in theft

Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Deputies investigated a reported theft in which juveniles were involved. Taken were two Chow dogs, valued at $75 each. One of the dogs has been recovered, but the other is still missing.

Deputies also investigated a report of the theft of a Perfection pump, valued at $50, by men posing as salesmen.

Reception for FNB president

The First National Bank of Hereford will hold a public reception Sunday afternoon in honor of Donald R. Graham, the bank's new president. The reception will be held in the bank lobby from 2 to 4 p.m. Sunday, with directors, stockholders and staff as hosts. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Police report attempted offense

Hereford Police Department Officers are investigating a report of a man who tried to entice a child to enter his vehicle, on Thursday. The man, hispanic, was driving a small yellow pickup and frightened the child by following her and speaking with her. The incident was reported in the 800 block of Union.

Arrested were a 27-year-old female for D.P.S. warrants for failure to appear, running a red light and failure to change address; and a 50-year-old male for public intoxication.

Offenses reported included a civil problem on Lake, stolen bike on Center, prowler on the 200 block of Aspen, unstable person on the 100 block of Hickory, theft of beer on East Hwy 60, domestic problem on Vera Cruz, dog bite on the 400 block of Barrett and criminal mischief on the 300 block of Bradley and the 400 block of Ave. B.

Assault charges have been filed as the result of an argument between two women during which one slapped the other. The incident occurred by Hopkins and Brevard streets.

Three accidents, two involving minor injuries, were investigated and 13 citations were issued. The Hereford Fire Department responded to a kitchen fire by Third and McKinley streets.

Federal spending in county rises sharply

Direct federal spending in Deaf Smith County increased sharply by 15.9 percent from $40,323,000 in fiscal 1985 to $46,745,000 during fiscal 1986, according to a report recently released by the Department of Commerce.

Even with the increase, however, the county still ranked below state and national averages on per capita federal dollars spent. The federal dollars amounted to $2,291 per person in Deaf Smith County, compared to $2,976 for Texas and $3,461 for the nation.

Federal spending nationally increased from $786.9 billion in fiscal 1985 to $890.1 billion during fiscal 1986, or a 5.2 percent increase.

The federal government's fiscal 1986 began Oct. 1, 1985 and ended Sept. 30, 1986. Direct federal spending in Texas increased by 6.3 percent. Direct federal spending includes all expenditures made by the U.S. government except for federal loans and federally-guaranteed loans, interest payments on the national debt, foreign assistance programs, and expenditures by the Postal Service, the CIA and the National Security Agency.

Direct payments to individuals were the largest single source of federal spending in Deaf Smith County during fiscal 1986. These amounted to $20,014,000 during that year. Of this total, $14,347,000, consisted of retirement and disability benefits for individuals. These include Social Security retirement and disability pension payments, retired civil service and military pensions, veterans' benefits and allowances and expenditure for Medicare.

The remaining $5,667,000, in direct payments to individuals were mostly these other forms of federal assistance for individuals which are usually termed "transfer payments" or "entitlements". These include food stamp assistance and aid to dependent children.

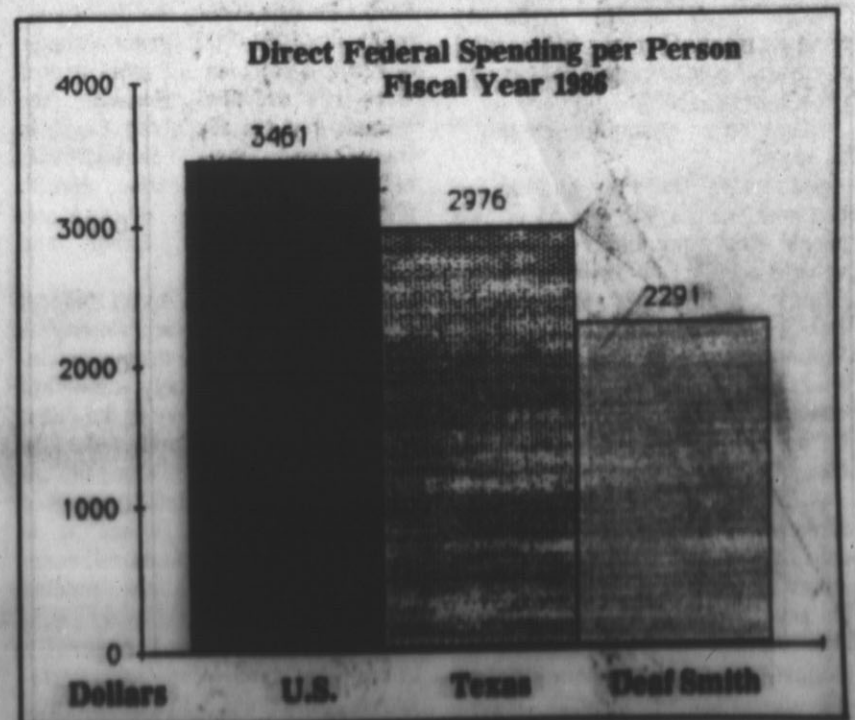

Direct payments to individuals have been the largest single item in the federal budget since 1971. These accounted for 43.9% of all direct federal spending during fiscal 1986. Direct payments to individuals were 43.9% of federal expenditures in Texas during in fiscal 1986 and 42.6% of direct federal spending in Deaf Smith County during that period. Retirement and disability payments nationally increased by 4.6% from fiscal 1985 to fiscal 1986 while other transfer payments increased by 4.5%. Retirement and disability payments in Deaf Smith County increased by 6.3% over the period while other transfer payments in the county declined by 6.8%.

There has been and continues to be considerable controversy regarding increases in defense spending by the federal government. Actual disbursements by the Defense Department did not increase from fiscal 1985 to fiscal 1986. Total federal defense expenditures were $229.8 billion during fiscal 1986 or 0.4% less than those of fiscal 1985. Defense spending in Texas had increased by 3.8% from $16.26 billion in fiscal 1985 to $16.90 billion during fiscal 1986. Defense spending in Deaf Smith County had declined to $101,000 in fiscal 1986 or by 55.3%.

Not including grant funds which account for a substantial portion of total federal spending, other departments and agencies of the federal government including the Departments of Agriculture, Commerce, Housing and Urban Development, Interior, and Transportation and the Environmental Protection Agency disbursed $19,430,000 in Deaf Smith County during fiscal 1986. US sets marriage records

WASHINGTON (AP) — That massive population bulge born after World War II has helped America set a pair of seemingly opposite records — most marriages and lowest marriage rate for young women. "The number of marriages was at a historic high at the same time the rate of marriages per 1,000 unmarried women aged 15-44 years was at a historic low," the National Center for Health Statistics reported Thursday. "A new national record of 2,477,192 couples married in 1984, 1 percent more than the number in 1983," the Center said in releasing its study, the most recent detailed statistics currently available. But despite that rise in total marriages, the most-eligible women were tying the knot at their lowest rate ever, the study added. For every 1,000 women between the ages of 15 and 44, 99 got married that year. The previous low rate was 99.3 per 1,000, set in 1983. "Currently, an unusually large number of divorced and single people who are in the age groups most likely to marry are remaining unmarried," the new study said. This phenomenon has been widely discussed by social scientists in recent years, with a debate under way over whether young people are foregoing marriage and families for education and careers or merely postponing the traditional husband-wife status. Either way, the massive post-World War II generation has helped these seemingly anomalous records to be set, since even at low rates there are so many people in the common marrying ages that they can still set records for the total number tying the knot. Even as it issued the new figures, however, the Center for Health Statistics added that "provisional data for 1985 and 1986 indicate that both the number of marriages and the marriage rate have since declined." Average age at first marriage continued an increase that has been under way in recent years, reaching 23.8 for brides and 25.7 for bridegrooms. While the marriage rate for eligible young women dropped to a new low, the national marriage rate was steady at 10.5 weddings per 1,000 people during the year, the same as a year earlier. That indicates that the increase in total marriages was about the same percentage as the overall population growth in the year. But the 15-to-44 age group was growing faster, thus resulting in a lower marriage rate for those people. One tradition remained, the study confirmed, however — the June marriage is still most popular, more than doubling the January rate of weddings.

Rejection of Saudi Missile sale is warning to Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional rejection of a proposed $360 million missile sale to Saudi Arabia should warn the Reagan administration to proceed cautiously before escalating the U.S. military role in the Persian Gulf, lawmakers say. The administration was forced to drop the sale proposal Thursday after 67 senators, the exact number needed to override a presidential veto, signed a resolution of disapproval. As his gulf policy was dealt a blow domestically, President Reagan said in Venice that he was satisfied with the limited support allies gave at the summit for his Persian Gulf security policies. Reagan did not ask, and was not offered, military help for his plan to have the United States protect Kuwaiti tankers. Instead, the summit partners issued a communique pledging limited diplomatic support for the U.S. policy in the oil-rich region. "I think it has been excellent that there was no criticism from any of our allies about this," the president said. At home, however, Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., scheduled a meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee next week to report out legislation that would prohibit the administration from reflagging and protecting the Kuwaiti oil tankers. The bill would call on the United Nations Security Council to protect shipping in the gulf and to urgently seek an end to the Iran-Iraq war. "A go-it-alone, high-risk, highly rhetorical policy will not re-establish U.S. credibility," Pell told the Senate. "It risks further damage to U.S. influence and prestige." Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas said there were many reasons for the widespread bipartisan opposition to the sale of 1,600 Maverick radar-guided, anti-tank missiles to Iran. One reason, he said, is the concern over Saudi Arabia's failure to dispatch jet fighters to intercept the Iraqi warplane that hit the USS Stark with two Exocet missiles last month, killing 37 seamen. "There were questions being raised about what Saudi Arabia did or didn't do in the Stark incident," Dole said. "It just wasn't a good time" to go ahead with the sale. Dole and other congressional leaders said the forced withdrawal of the sale underscores the need for close consultation before the White House makes irrevocable decisions to use the Navy to keep oil supplies flowing. Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., warned that such an action would raise the risk of war with Iran. "I hope the administration will learn from this and not proceed to put American flags on Kuwaiti ships without consulting very closely with the Congress," Cranston said. "If we make that move, it will be left to the Ayatollah Khomeini to decide if America becomes involved in war."

Managers forced to deal with AIDS

DALLAS (AP) — When AIDS finally forced Daryl Moore to quit his job in mainframe software support with a large Dallas-area company, there were no hard feelings. Moore alone made the decision that he was no longer capable of performing his duties. Prepared for the worst, he presented a letter from his physician to his employer, but was pleasantly surprised at his employer's empathetic reaction and active support in helping him complete the necessary procedures to obtain disability benefits. Since then, he says, his boss has telephoned him to reaffirm his support and assure him that the proper steps have been taken to continue the benefits. "Luckily I was working for a manager who was sympathetic," says Moore. "They worked with me and everything went real well. I was fortunate in that." Moore's case speaks for one employer's progressive approach to an acutely sensitive, rapidly emerging personnel dilemma: how to ascertain whether an AIDS-stricken employee remains qualified to perform his or her job and where to set standards for accommodating him or her in the workplace. Statistics suggest it is an issue human resource executives are finding increasingly hard to ignore. First detected in the United States in 1981, acquired immune deficiency syndrome is a deadly, incurable illness caused by a virus that attacks the immune system, leaving its victims vulnerable to diseases that normally would be naturally resisted. The U.S. surgeon general estimates that by 1991, 270,000 cases of AIDS will have occurred nationwide, resulting in 179,000 deaths. Once largely confined to homosexuals and drug abusers who contracted the disease by sharing hypodermic needles, AIDS cases have spread to heterosexuals. The Dallas County Health Department estimates that, based on the current spread of the disease, as many as 7,000 AIDS cases will be diagnosed in Dallas County by 1991 — a 1,145 percent leap from the 562 cases reported as of April in the county. Moore is not alone in his conviction that establishing a clear company policy, which would include informing employees of that policy, is the most important thing a company can do to deal with the AIDS issue. If nothing else, skyrocketing health benefit expenses for AIDS victims have begun to command management's attention. But beyond that, a Pandora's Box of costly complications, ranging from hysteria among co-workers to questions of discrimination, make AIDS a time bomb ticking toward detonation. "Every employee group will have to deal with it in a few years," predicts Mike Richards of the AIDS Resource Center in Dallas. Many large Dallas employers in fact already have been forced to deal with employees who have developed the disease, but most are reluctant to discuss it. Dallas-based Enserch Corp. attracted national attention for its AIDS policy more than a year ago. The oil concern was one of the first companies in the country to institute mandatory testing for the AIDS virus within a battery of other tests for infectious diseases for certain employees. The company has been testing food service employees since November 1985. "We started to review our medical procedure and came to realize that the state of Texas had no required test for food service handlers for communicable diseases," says company spokesman Howard Matson. Mandatory testing in the workplace is generally discouraged, except in certain fields such as health care, and many employers are shunning it because of the potential for invasion of privacy or discrimination lawsuits. "Employers would be foolhardy to engage in testing in the workplace," says Kevin Murphy, a Dallas physician and infectious disease specialist. "Outside unusual circumstances there really are no reasons for concern. What would an employer do with a positive test?" AIDS is transmitted through sexual contact, needle sharing, or less commonly, through blood transfusions. Also recently, the Centers for Disease Control reported that three hospital workers had tested positive for exposure to the AIDS virus after brief exposure to AIDS patients' blood, and that a dentist with no other known risk factors had contracted AIDS. But medical experts maintain the workplace generally does not pose any threat of infection. "The most dangerous misconception is it is transmissible in the workplace," said Murphy. He says testing would pose no gain and a great deal of risk from invasion of privacy allegations. "The consequences of identifying false positive test are likely to be devastating," he says. On the other hand, employers have got to be keeping a wary eye on the AMR Corp. case in which a woman is suing American Airlines for $12 million alleging she was bitten by a ticket agent who later tested positive for the virus that can lead to AIDS. Enrico Mirabelli, the lawyer representing the woman, believes the outcome could influence the push for mandatory AIDS testing. AMR officials will not talk about how they have dealt with employees who have contracted the disease, except to say that cases are handled individually.

Most Baptists believe in Adam and Eve

DALLAS (AP) — An unreleased report that tries to ease tensions in the Southern Baptist Convention says most Baptists believe Adam and Eve were real people, and that's what seminary professors should teach, the Dallas Times Herald reported in today's editions. But some Baptists who have heard about the report say such statements are the first step in forcing conformity and stifling academic freedom. The report of the Peace Committee, a 22-member panel established during the denomination's 1985 meeting in Dallas, will be presented

Tuesday night to the Southern Baptist Convention meeting in St. Louis. "There's a genuine concern that they may be moving beyond a statement of faith and telling you how to interpret scripture," said the Rev. Roy Honeycutt, president of Southern Baptist Seminary in Louisville, Ky. "That's so far from the Baptist heritage." Moderates and conservatives in the 14-million member convention have been fighting eight years. Conservatives say they are battling theological liberalism in the denomination's seminaries. Moderates say conservatives are engaged in a political-style takeover of the nation's largest Protestant denomination. Although the committee has a final meeting Sunday night, several members agreed to anonymously discuss preliminary conclusions, the Herald reported. Committee members said the most controversial section of the 18-page report concerns theology: what Baptists believe and what the Bible teaches. The section says most Baptists believe in Adam and Eve and that the Bible was written by the people cited in the text. The section also says Baptists expect these beliefs to be taught in their six seminaries. An earlier report by the committee said some Baptists believe Adam and Eve were real people, and others think the couple is a symbolic representation of the first humans. Some scholars also question whether every book in the Bible was written by the author to whom it is attributed. Peace Committee members said discussions about the theology section have stalled the report. Conservatives want a clear statement about what Baptists believe and what should be taught. Moderates argue that Baptists should be free to interpret the Bible according to their own consciences, and that scholarship should be open and free.

water, that's why we have these rescues, people are caught unawares," he said. Texas 336 south of Leakey was closed because of high water, authorities said. Flood and road damage was also reported in Val Verde County and flooding was reported in Victoria, Goliad, Calhoun, Jackson, DeWitt and Lavaca counties. More than five inches of rain fell in the Lower Rio Grande Valley Thursday, causing some flooding in extreme South Texas. The children evacuated from Leon Springs were at the Presbyterian Church Vacation Bible School. The firefighters led and carried the children and about 10 of the adults up a grassy embankment to Interstate 10 West, where waiting cars took the children to a nearby restaurant. They waited there until their parents picked them up. Heavy rains pounded Houston and other parts of Harris County Thursday, causing some flooding on streets and underpasses, weather service meteorologist Larry Vannozi said. Water levels rose in area bays, but then began to decrease some later Thursday evening. While parts of Harris County received a couple of inches of rain, some northeast sections got seven inches, Vannozi said. "That's a lot of rain for one day," he added. Authorities Thursday blamed the bad weather for the deaths of two people who were killed in a three-vehicle accident on Interstate 10 in Orange. Texas Department of Public Safety spokeswoman said two Vidor men died about 11:30 a.m. when their pickup truck spun out of control on wet roads and was struck by an 18-wheel truck, injuring two others.

A Beaumont Police Department spokesman late Thursday afternoon said much of central Beaumont was under water with flooding reported at several intersections. Officials also blamed continuous rainfall for clogged sewers along the city's west end.

TRLA Attorney to speak

Texas Rural Legal Aid attorney Debbie Smith will be the guest speaker at the next meeting of the Concerned Citizens of Deaf Smith County on Saturday. The meeting will be at 1:30 p.m. in the Hereford Community Center. The theme of the meeting will be on legal rights on the job, and a question and answer session is planned. The public is welcome to attend. Also, plans for the July meeting will be made.

federal government does not provide a breakdown of these figures on a local basis. Other federal spending in Deaf Smith County during the fiscal year included $3,364,000 in grant awards. Specific details on all local grants were not provided. However, the largest sources for grant funds in most counties are the Departments of Agriculture, Education, Health and Human Services, Housing and Urban Development, Labor, and Transportation. While the total of direct federal spending in Deaf Smith County is substantial, as noted, it does not include another extremely important source of federal money in the county: federal loans and federally guaranteed loans. These are not included in direct federal spending figures because, as loans, it is presumed that these funds will eventually be repaid to the federal government. Federal loans and federally guaranteed loans encompass a variety of programs. These include emergency farm disaster loans, rural electric loans and loan guarantees, Small Business Administration loans, student loans for higher education, community development loans, many of the various housing loan programs, as well as others. Direct federal loans in Deaf Smith County were $9,048,000 during fiscal 1986 while federally guaranteed loans in the county amounted to $19,130,000. The level of federal loans in Deaf Smith County was 40.9% greater in fiscal 1986 than during fiscal 1985. Nationally, the total of federal loans also increased sharply by 74.7% during the period in spite of the Administration's efforts to reduce or limit federal lending activity. The total of direct and indirect federal spending in Deaf Smith County was $74,923,000 during fiscal 1986. It is apparent that federal spending provided a major source of funds for the economy of Deaf Smith County during that time.

Churches keep pace with population

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. church membership still is growing gradually, almost at the same rate as the population, with a similarly growing bloc on the outside.

Both groups, slowly expanding, are staying about the same share of the citizenry.

About 60 percent of Americans are active members of churches or synagogues, a proportion that has prevailed in recent years, while the other 40 percent has remained unaffiliated.

The statistics were issued this week in the new "Yearbook of American and Canadian Churches 1987," compiled by the research department of the National Council of Churches, and published by Abingdon Press of Nashville, Tenn.

"Overall, U.S. churches are neither gaining nor losing membership," says yearbook editor Constance H. Jacquet Jr. of the council's research and evaluation office.

The figures, covering 218 religious bodies, show U.S. total membership at 142,926,363, a gain of 754,225, or .53 percent for 1985, the latest year for consolidated totals.

At the same time, government statistics indicate the population grew by almost 1 percent.

While the data collected from the church bodies themselves, which regularly cleans their rolls to remove drop-outs, show about 60 percent of Americans affiliated, polls regularly show more than 70 percent claim involvement.

The yearbook also gives other church data, including financial statistics showing the average U.S. church member gave $322, up from 300 the year before, the increase outstripping the inflation rate of 3.8 percent.

That per capita giving has increased 366 percent since 1961 when it was only $69, but when the figures are adjusted for inflation amounts to only 29.7 percent in real terms.

Seminary enrollment stayed about steady at 56,355, slightly down in the United States, the proportion growing for 13 years and now at 26.4 percent of the total student bodies.

Figures were cited from the Gallup Religious Research Center in Princeton showing 42 percent of U.S. adults attend worship weekly.

The proportion varies between Roman Catholics (53 percent), Protestants (42 percent) and Jews (31 percent).

The denomination reporting the biggest percentage gain in membership was the Assemblies of God, up 2.28 percent to 2,082,878. It is the denomination of such TV evangelists as Jimmy Swaggart and Jim Bakker.

Other groups with significant increases included the Presbyterian Church in America, up 5.75 percent to 177,917, a denominational breakaway from the now merged 3-million-member Presbyterian Church (USA), and the Seventh-day Adventists, up 2.04 percent to 651,954.

Among larger denominations with net increases were the Roman Catholic Church, up .71 to 52.6 million; the Southern Baptist Convention, up .95 percent to 14.5 million, and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, up .38 percent to 2.63 million.

United Methodists showed a loss, down .48 percent to 9.26 million, as did the Presbyterian Church (USA), down 1.42 percent to 3.04 million; the Lutheran Church in America, down .42 percent to 2.9 million, and the American Lutheran Church, down .33 percent to 2.33 million.

The Lutheran Church in America, the American Lutheran Church and the 110,000-member Association of Evangelical Lutheran Churches have since merged to form the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America. The group approved a constitution at a convention in Columbus, Ohio, April 30-May 3 of this year.

Mission Yearbook: We are asked to pray for the observance of the Soweto, South Africa Uprising that took place on June 16, 1976, in which 700 people were killed in the midst of opposition to the unjust system of apartheid. If ever there was a people and situation in need of the Gospel's touch, it is in the country of South Africa. Please pray for justice and the end of hatred.

Scripture for Lunch Bunch meets every Wednesday at church to discuss the coming Sunday's Scripture passage. This week we will be discussing Genesis 28:10-17. Bring your lunch.

This Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. in the sanctuary, the DAYSTAR singers from Sterling College in Sterling, Ks. will perform a concert of contemporary Christian music.

There will be a reception hosted by the Deacons afterward.

Junior High youth will meet Sunday at 6 p.m. at 526 Westhaven.

Youth Group: It's time to sign up for the Summer Summit at the Summit, July 12 to 18! Get your form in now.

Summer is a great time for Sunday School. Starting next week, June 21, the Adult Sunday School Class will be starting a study of that great book about our earliest forerunners, the Acts of the Apostles. There will be no preparation time needed between Sundays, so plan to come and make the most of our class times together! We will meet at 9:30 a.m. in the Small Fellowship Hall.

POLLY'S POINTERS

For garlic haters, a salt substitute

DEAR POLLY — You've printed salt-substitute recipes in the past, but they all have garlic powder in them. I can't stand garlic. Do you have a salt-substitute herb mixture without garlic? — JANET

DEAR JANET — Of course, garlic or any other seasoning may be omitted from any of these salt substitute recipes, but here is one that is flavorful without any garlic or onion.

Mix 3 teaspoons dried basil, 2 teaspoons dried summer savory, 2 teaspoons celery seed, 2 teaspoons ground cumin, 2 teaspoons dried sage, 1 teaspoon dried thyme and 2 teaspoons dried marjoram. Crush to a powder with a mortar and pestle or in a spice or coffee grinder. Use in cooking or at the table as a salt replacement.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Cooking for Health," which has this recipe plus another salt substitute formula and other recipes to help you follow the U.S. government's Dietary Guidelines for Americans. This issue details what the recommendations for a healthy diet are, and gives tips on how you can improve the quality of your family's diet. Others who would like a copy of this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 93863, Cleveland, OH 44101-5863. Be sure to include the title. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Here's my remedy for taking gas out of cooked beans. It also takes out excess salt when you've used too much. Clean and peel one large carrot and put it in the beans after they have cooked about one hour. Use the whole carrot; do not cut it up. After the beans are done and ready to serve, take the carrot out and throw it away. — DEENA

Plans Finalized

Preparations are being finalized for Saturday's upcoming Jump on the Wagon Jubilee to be held at the Hereford Senior Citizen Center from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. Chef Grant Hanna, left, carefully prepares several delicacies for the occasion under the watchful eye of Margie Daniels, executive director of the Center. The barbecue meal, to be served from 11 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. Saturday, will consist of 500 lbs. of beef, 125 lbs. of ham, and 150 lbs. each of beans and cole slaw, plus cobbler, tea, and coffee. Last minute developments in the Saturday's entertainment schedule for the Jubilee will include the Tulia Rhythm Racketeers at 2 p.m. and L.D. Combs of Hereford will play with a band from Liberal, Kan., for that night's 7 p.m. dance.

Jubilee set for Saturday

Singers, dancers, and games including dominoes, bridge, skipbo, and horseshoes will provide entertainment for young and old during Saturday's Jump on the Wagon Jubilee set to last from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m. at the local Senior Citizens Center.

A hayride, knobby knees contest, and dance will also be featured as will a meal of barbecue and trimmings set for 11 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Everyone age 60 and above is invited to attend the event, as are friends and relatives interested in visiting the facilities.

Enrollment available at academy

Limited space for enrollment is available at the Nazarene Christian Academy, according to a church spokesman.

Teachers have been hired for K-5 through 4th grade for the 1987-88 school year. Several applicants have been accepted and others are being reviewed. Grade K-4 is under consideration.

Hired as teachers are: K-5, Mrs. Mary Brinkman; 1st grade, Mrs. Peggy Behrendson; 2nd grade, Miss Kari Sanders; 3rd grade, Mrs. Eda Price; and 4th grade, Mrs. Libby Huffaker.

DR. GOTT

Real gold is a real problem

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I can wear white gold with no problem, but yellow gold turns my fingers black. What in my body chemistry causes this?

DEAR READER — I don't know. Usually the reverse is true, because white gold contains a higher concentration of other metals, such as nickel. Other readers have written me about similar problems with gold. I would appreciate hearing from anyone who can solve this mystery.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am worried about my sister. She's overweight and has borderline diabetes, gallbladder problems and intermittent high blood pressure. During the last year she's been popping blood vessels in her eyes. They look horrible and cause her pain. Her doctors aren't concerned, but I am.

DEAR READER — So am I. Obesity, diabetes and hypertension often go together. These diseases are a bad combination because they accelerate arteriosclerosis and vascular damage.

Your sister should find a doctor who is concerned about her problems and will help her do something about them. Losing weight would be an appropriate beginning.

To give you and your sister more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my Health Report, CHOOSING A PHYSICIAN: MAKE A DECISION FOR GOOD HEALTH. Other readers who want a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Do you consider the basal temperature test valid for initial diagnosis of low thyroid?

DEAR READER — If taken properly, the basal temperature will be low in patients with hypothyroidism. However, it is a cumbersome method that most people find too difficult to follow precisely.

Blood tests for thyroid disease are quicker and more accurate. By ordering a T4 test, your doctor can tell you with certainty, in a couple of days, if your thyroid gland is underactive. In addition, the basal temperature can be lower than normal in patients with metabolic diseases that are not related to the thyroid.

Therefore, even if you take your temperature in the recommended way, you still won't know exactly what the problem is.

In my opinion, blood tests are the way to go. Basal temperatures are best used by women who need to know the time of ovulation so that they can become pregnant.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband, 48, has been epileptic since a head injury at age 16. He takes Celontin, Dilantin, Mysoline and Peganone. Lately he's been having severe headaches and sleeps all the time. He staggers and can't carry on a conversation. We've been to many doctors, but none will discuss these symptoms.

DEAR READER — Celontin is an anti-convulsant that can cause drowsiness, lack of coordination, headache and dizziness. Dilantin is an anti-convulsant that can cause confusion, slurred speech, twitching and trouble walking. Mysoline is an anti-convulsant that can cause double vision, difficulty walking, dizziness and drowsiness. Peganone is an anti-convulsant that can cause double vision, trouble walking, headache and fatigue.

I think that your husband is overmedicated.

What is the matter with his doctors? Even if they can't figure out his problem, they could at least discuss his symptoms with you. Don't bother to ask them for a referral. Get your husband to a neurology clinic at a university or teaching hospital closest to you.

I am also sending you a free copy of my Health Report, EPILEPSY: THE 'FALLING SICKNESS.' Other readers who are interested in the report should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I take Synthroid. After my regular game of racquetball, I get excessive cramping all over my body. Is this related to the medication or to my thyroid condition?

DEAR READER — Muscle cramping after exercise is not caused either by the thyroid medicine you are taking or by the thyroid gland itself.

'Master forger' victimizes sellers

DALLAS (AP) — A man who wrote a book called "Nation's Master Forger" is being sought in five states in connection with thefts from people holding garage sales or attempting to sell valuable items through classified advertising, authorities say.

The man, James S. Jennings, 49, is an escapee from a federal prison at Big Spring, Texas, according to U.S. Marshal Clint Peoples.

Authorities say Jennings uses a simple ruse to rip off unsuspecting victims with a series of counterfeit cashier's checks.

"He's able to accomplish this not because his cashier's checks look so good, but because he gains these people's confidence," Dallas Police forgery investigator Ricky Smith said. He has filed two cases against Jennings in the past five months.

Authorities say Jennings frequently attends garage sales or contacts people trying to sell valuable merchandise such as electronic equipment, cameras or computers.

He then pays for the items with an authentic-looking, but phony cashier's check.

Invitation extended to children

All children in first through sixth grades are invited to participate in Terrific Tuesdays at First Church of the Nazarene. The cost is $5 per child per Tuesday.

Children may be brought to the church gym doors at 8 a.m. and picked up from 4-5 p.m. at the same location.

JAPANESE WORK CRADLE TO GRAVE
KYOTO, Japan (AP) — A Japanese high tech ceramics maker has added the ultimate "perk" to its company benefits — a corporate tomb for employees and their families at a Zen Buddhist temple near Kyoto.

Metalworking News reports that Japanese workers are encouraged to fraternize after hours, and the company's move seems to ensure that the entombed colleagues are not left out.

Teddy's bear

On Nov. 18, 1902, a Washington Star cartoon (supposedly inspired by a true story) showed President Theodore Roosevelt refusing to shoot a captive bear cub. A Brooklyn toy maker was so taken by the cartoon that he made a bear of brown plush and called it "Teddy's Bear." The Steiff Company in Germany quickly began to export a "Teddy Bear" toy to the United States.

Ann Landers Common sense lacking

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been dating a very nice, well-educated man for almost a year. A few weeks ago we went on a ski trip with another couple. The other fellow's brother and sister-in-law invited the four of us to dinner after our day on the slopes. When we arrived at their home she said we could wash up, so we took turns going upstairs to get ready for dinner. My friend stayed up there so long we began to worry. When I went up to check I found him taking a bath. I was mortified to say the least. I made him promise not to say anything about this and proceeded to clean up the bathroom.

The problem is that he doesn't see anything wrong with what he did. I believe that because we had never met our hosts before and were not overnight guests my friend was totally out of line. I'd like your opinion to settle the argument. Was it or was it not a tactless act on his part?—Mortified in Mpls.

DEAR MORT: Tactless? I'd say it was gauche. Sounds as if the guy doesn't get around soap and hot water very often. He may be "educated" but where's his common sense? You win this one, honey.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been a construction electrician for 22 years. I am terrified the way some people disregard the potential danger of electricity. No matter how often folks are warned, the insist on jeopardizing themselves and, worse yet, others.

For example, they break off the prongs on extension and appliance cords, use electrical appliances in or near bathtubs, stick metal utensils in toasters and use electrical equipment outdoors without proper protection.

Electricity will work for you night and day. It will protect you, keep your house warm in the winter and cool in the summer, wash and dry your clothes and dishes, provide you with entertainment, education, the latest news and much more.

Electricity can also be dangerous. It doesn't care who you are or how much money you have. If handled carelessly, it can and will kill or cripple you.

I strongly urge your readers to contact a licensed electrical contractor, a qualified electrician, or the building department and inspection personnel in your area for advice on writing requirements for code compliance. Paying attention to this letter could save your life.—George T. Flanagan, Local Union No. 38, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Cleveland

DEAR GEORGE: Thank you for a letter that could prove immensely valuable to millions of readers. I'm glad you took the time and trouble to write.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 60-year-old woman who is married to a loving, generous, kind man. I have a 23-year-old son who is not my husband's. This boy is the result of a brief interlude I had with a "passing fancy."

Does my son have the right to know who his real father is? I don't want to hurt my dear husband or my son, but this has been on my mind a lot lately.

I can't talk to anyone I know about this. I will be watching your column for your answer, Ann. P.S. I should mention that the man I had the affair with (and his wife) are close friends of ours.—Ashamed of the Past in Ohio

DEAR OHIO: Obviously your conscience is bothering you and you need to get this off your chest. Talk to your priest, minister or rabbi. Do not, repeat not, tell your husband or your son. It would be terribly upsetting to both and would serve no useful purpose.

YMCA-TAC track

meet is Saturday

A track meet known as the Hereford YMCA T.A.C. Junior Olympic Preliminary Track and Field Meet has been scheduled for Saturday, June 9.

The meet, sanctioned by the West Texas Association of T.A.C., will start at 9 a.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

There will be six divisions in the meet, with an athlete's year of birth determining the division to compete in.

Those divisions, and the athletes' years of birth for the divisions, are: bantam division, 1977 and later; midget division, 1975 to 1976; youth division, 1973 to 1974; intermediate division, 1971 to 1972; young men's and young women's division, 1969 to 1970; and open men's and women's division, 1968 and before.

Here is the meet schedule:

FIELD EVENTS

Morning session, starting at 9 a.m.: Long jump, north pit: youth, young women and young men, bantam; long jump, south pit: intermediate, open, and midget.

High jump: bantam, midget, youth, intermediate, young men and young women, and open.

Shot put: bantam, midget, youth, intermediate, young men and young women, and open.

Discus: young men and young women, open, youth, intermediate, and midget.

Pole vault: intermediate, young men, open, and youth.

Afternoon session, starting at 2:30 p.m.: triple jump, north pit: youth, young women and young men, and open; triple jump, south pit: intermediate, and midget.

RUNNING EVENTS

Morning session, starting at 10 a.m.: 5,000-meter run: intermediate boys, young men, open men.

In Celtics' 123-108 win over Lakers

Little things told story of the game

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Sometimes the little things tell you early just how a basketball game is going.

Take Boston's stay-alive 123-108 victory over Los Angeles in Game 5 of the NBA finals Thursday night. After the first period the teams were tied at 25 and there were no clues about how this game might turn. Then, in the second period, the little things started going the Celtics' way.

LA's Byron Scott got a step on the Boston defense and drove for an in-your-face stuff, an exclamation point basket. It never happened, though. He wound up jamming the rim instead of the basket and the Celtics made the Lakers pay for the oversight by spurling on a couple of baskets by Robert Parish and a three-pointer by Larry Bird.

Just a little sign.
Then, on a scramble under the basket, the ball squirted out of bounds. The call could have gone either way. Referee Jake O'Donnell began signaling Laker ball, then caught himself and did a 180-degree reverse, giving it to the Celtics instead.

Another little sign.
LA's James Worthy, timid after missing some early chances, had a wide open drive to the hoop. He decided on one dribble en route and the ball took off as if the Boston Garden floor was Astroturf instead of parquet.

Worthy looked a little bewildered by that turn of events. Later, though, he was downright mad. While he was engaging in some hand-to-hand warfare with Kevin McHale, the ball was stripped away from the Laker forward.

As the Celtics rushed downcourt to another basket, Worthy glared at referee Ed Rush. He was, at the time, wearing his protective eye goggles around his mouth, suggesting he had lost the ball in a less-than-forthright manner.

Through an entire time-out, Worthy's goggles remained at half-mast and he still had them positioned that way when play resumed, with the Celtics shooting free throws.

"I never comment after the game about the officiating," Worthy diplomatically said. "Just say I was frustrated with the way things were going."

Just because Danny Ainge was burying five of six three-point shots? Just because Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, perhaps caught up in Ainge's act, threw up a three-point air ball? Just because Boston was en route to a 19-point lead after three quarters?

Were those reasons to be frustrated?

"It was one of those nights," Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley said. "We came in here prepared to win a championship, but the Celtics weren't going to allow that to happen on their floor. They have pride. They are a committed team and they got an efficient performance from all five starters. All of them scored over 20 points. That's 100 points from the starters."

The killer, though, was Ainge, who played bombs away from long range. His three-point timing was impeccable.

"They came everytime at the right time," Magic Johnson noted, remembering the first-half buzzer-beater from half court that started the barrage. "Bam, he hits another one, and then another one."

LA made a nice run at Boston in the fourth quarter, cutting the lead to eight with 6:40 to play. But the Lakers could get no closer than that.

Bird helped seal the victory when he broke up a length-of-the-court pass to Abdul-Jabbar, despite having his back to the play. He made it look routine, like just another little thing, the kind Boston was doing all night.

YMCA schedules men's class 'D' softball tourney

A men's class "D" slowpitch softball tournament has been scheduled on June 20-21 by the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA.

Entry fee for the tournament is $95 per team, plus a playable U.S.S.A. restricted flight softball. The entry deadline is Wednesday at 8 p.m.

The tournament will be limited to the first 16 teams that pay their entry fees. A representative of each team must contact the YMCA on Thursday after 2 p.m. for game times.

Awards in the tournament will be team and individual award for the first place team, a team trophy for the second place team, and a team trophy for the third place team.

Entry forms are available at the YMCA. For more information on the softball tournament, contact the YMCA at 364-6990.

That was routed last week by Lakers

Boston is not same team

By HOWARD ULMAN
AP Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston team returning to Los Angeles isn't the same battered bunch that got run out of town last week. That gives the Celtics hope for a seemingly hopeless task.

The Celtics have lost six straight road games, including Laker routs by 13 and 19 points in the first two games of the NBA championship series. They are trying to become the first team to survive a 3-1 deficit in the finals.

But after cutting that to a 3-2 win with a 123-108 romp Thursday night, they said they are better prepared to beat the Lakers at The Forum than they were in the first two games.

"I expect a lot better effort out of us in Los Angeles this time," said guard Danny Ainge, who sparked Boston with five 3-point field goals.

"We had one day off and one day to prepare going into the finals. We should have three days to prepare," Celtics Coach K.C. Jones said. "Going to the finals with one day preparation spells disaster. But if we go out there and get blown out, I can't use that as an excuse anymore."

That is a distinct possibility Sunday in Game 6 of the best-of-seven series when the Lakers get their second opportunity to win their 10th NBA title and fourth of the decade. If needed, a seventh game will be played Tuesday night, also at The Forum.

The Celtics outplayed the Lakers in winning two of three games in Boston, where the Celtics are 86-3 in their last 89 games. But Los Angeles is 46-4 this season on its home court and has to win just one of a possible two games there to take the title.

"We wanted to win, but we've got two games at home," Lakers guard Magic Johnson said. "It wasn't a do-or-die situation. We've been played well out in L.A. On Sunday we are going to win."

"Maybe (by) just getting back to The Forum out players will remember what it's like to play Laker basketball," Los Angeles Coach Pat Riley said.

After seeing it for five games, the Celtics are more confident that they can handle that style, which emphasizes a relentless fast break.

In addition, center Robert Parish and forward Kevin McHale don't seem as limited by their foot injuries as they were earlier in the playoffs.

Since those games, Boston has controlled the scoring of Los Angeles starters James Worthy and Byron Scott, slowing down the Lakers' running attack.

Daughter of Rockets' McCray dies Thursday

HOUSTON (AP) — The daughter of Houston Rockets forward Rodney McCray died Thursday after battling a brain tumor.

Apryl McCray, 5, had undergone radiation and chemotherapy treatments since she was diagnosed as having an inoperable brain tumor in November. She would have been 6 later this month.

The little girl died at M.D. Anderson Hospital with her father at her side.

"She died practically in her father's arms because when her breathing stopped they were all huddled over her, trying to do everything they could," said Rebecca Tonahill, a spokeswoman for the family.

Apryl's mother, Lynn Acklin of Louisville, Ky., also was attending to her daughter when she died at 5:40 p.m.

The illness was suspected last year when Apryl's kindergarten teacher in Louisville noticed the young girl appeared to have double vision. Cancer later was diagnosed, and she was brought to M.D. Anderson in November.

Apryl, who had been an outpatient, was admitted to the hospital six days ago and used a wheelchair.

Memorial Stadium is having 'grand' times

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer

The opposition is having a grand time at Baltimore's Memorial Stadium this week.

On Wednesday, Ellis Burks and Marty Barrett hit grand slams in Boston's 15-4 victory over the Orioles. Thursday night, it was George Bell's turn.

Bell hit a grand slam and a solo homer, driving in six runs to pace visiting Toronto to a 7-6 decision over the Orioles and tie a club record with their ninth consecutive victory.

Bell has hit seven home runs and driven in 18 runs in his last 10 games, a streak that virtually parallels Toronto's surge to the top of the American League East.

It was the sixth two-homer game of the season for Bell, who tops the major leagues with 23 homers and 60 RBI. The Orioles rallied for five runs in the seventh inning, but fell short and suffered their eighth straight defeat.

Toronto and Baltimore were tied for second place in the AL East on May 28. But now the Orioles are sixth, 11 games behind the first-place Blue Jays.

Elsewhere in the AL, Milwaukee beat Detroit 8-5 and Minnesota at Chicago was postponed because of rain in the only other games scheduled.

Toronto got hot at just about the time inter-division play began, with three victories over New York and four over Baltimore during the streak. But it wasn't a conscious effort.

"We try not to worry about who we're playing, but how we're playing," said Rance Mulliniks. "We just happened to get hot in our division."

The Toronto surge of 12 out of 13 has given the Blue Jays a three-game lead over second-place New York.

Says Mulliniks: "In this division, you can never have a big enough lead."

cluding a two-run triple and a single that started a three-run seventh-inning rally, as Milwaukee topped host Detroit.

The Brewers trailed 4-3 entering the seventh when Detroit reliever Eric King walked in one run and hit a batter to force in the tying run. Then, Morris Madden came in to walk home a run and give the Brewers a 6-5 lead.

Juan Castillo's eighth-inning single drove home two more runs for the Brewers to offset Detroit homers by John Grubb, Chet Lemon and Darrell Evans.

Houston beats Los Angeles 1-0 Thursday

Astros' pitchers are on hot streak

By The Associated Press

Often, hitters go on hot streaks that catapult them to the top of the league in statistical categories.

Lately, Houston pitchers have been on a similar hot streak that the Astros hope will propel them to the top of the National League West baseball standings.

Including Thursday's 1-0 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers, Houston hurlers have allowed the opposition eight earned runs in the past seven games since giving up 22 runs during a loss in Chicago on June 3.

Left-hander Jim Deshaies and relief ace Dave Smith were the latest stars, the former pitching 6 1-3 innings of shutout ball and the latter notching his 12th save in as many opportunities.

"It's called 'turnaround,'" said Smith, who has yet to allow a run this season. "Our pitching staff has turned around."

"I think we turned around out of necessity. We're not scoring many runs and we've been in a situation where one bad pitch can cost you the game, but we've been getting the job done."

The only run the Astros managed off Los Angeles left-hander Fernando Valenzuela came in the third inning when Billy Hatcher doubled and stole third, and scored on a two-out infield single off Valenzuela's glove by Glenn Davis.

Deshaies (5-2), middleman Larry Andersen and Smith took care of the rest.

Valenzuela, who had been knocked out early in two previous starts, scattered seven hits in nine innings, while walking five and striking out six.

"I was behind the hitters tonight," Valenzuela (5-5) said after losing his third straight decision, "but I felt good. I thought I pitched well."

"I kept hearing these stories where Fernando wasn't pitching well," said Houston Manager Hal Lanier. "Giving up only one run is pitching a pretty good game. We were lucky to get that run and we were lucky to win the game."

The defeat was the Dodgers' second straight after they had put together three straight victories on the road earlier in the week.

"The momentum we had isn't there anymore," said Los Angeles second baseman Steve Sax. "We had a tough loss and we're cold now. We have to find a way to get it going again."

Houston improved its record to 30-28 with the victory. Los Angeles slipped to 28-31.

The two clubs battle again Friday night in the second game of a four-game series as Los Angeles right-hander Bob Welch (8-2) faces Houston right-hander Nolan Ryan (3-5).

In other games on a limited NL schedule, San Francisco beat San Diego 1-0 and Atlanta defeated Cincinnati 6-4.

Giants 1, Padres 0

Last season, the San Francisco Giants never got any runs for Kelly Downs. This year, he's learned how to overcome that — not let the other team score.

Downs pitched his National League-leading third shutout Thursday night, scattering seven hits in a 1-0 victory over the San Diego Padres.

"I don't think about that," Downs said of the few runs the Giants get him. "We scored a run and I was fortunate enough to hold them down."

Downs, 5-2, struck out six and walked four. He escaped two bases-loaded jams early in the game and then induced Randy Ready to ground into a game-ending double play with runners on first and third.

Downs, 26, broke into the major leagues last July with San Francisco and went 4-4 with a good 2.75 earned run average. The Giants, however, scored only 24 runs in his 14 starts.

Downs' first victory this season was a three-hit, 1-0 victory over San Diego. One of his two losses this year was a 1-0 defeat against Pittsburgh. He is tied with Boston's Bruce Hurst for the major-league lead in shutouts and is tied with Los Angeles' Fernando Valenzuela for the NL lead with four complete games.

Eric Show and Lance McCullers combined on a three-hitter and retired the last 17 San Francisco batters in a losing effort. Show, 2-8, gave up three hits in six innings.

The host Giants ran their record to 7-0 against San Diego this season with the help of a gift run.

With one out in the third, Matt Williams hit a fly ball that center fielder Shane Mack did not see. Ready ran over from left field and tried to cover up, but missed a diving catch and the ball fell for a double.

Downs followed with a bunt single. Eddie Milner walked to load the bases and Chris Speier's RBI grounder produced the only run.

Braves 6, Reds 4

Gene Garber became the sixth major leaguer to reach 200 career saves and Glenn Hubbard's two-run double broke a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning at Cincinnati.

Garber preserved the victory with two scoreless innings of two-hit relief. Rollie Fingers is the all-time save leader with 341. Bruce Sutter, Rich Gossage, Dan Quisenberry and Sparky Lyle also have gotten at least 200 saves.

CLASSIFIED ADS
 Classified advertising rates are based on cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	.14	2.80
2 days per word	.24	4.80
3 days per word	.34	6.80
4 days per word	.44	8.80
5th day FREE

Ten days (2 free) is $15.80 minimum; 15 days (3 free) is $23.80 minimum; one month is $31.80 minimum.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
 Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALIS
 Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS
 Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.
