Twister explodes Perryton home, kills 1, injures 4

PERRYTON, Texas (AP) - A tornado roared out of a stormy sky over the Texas Panhandle, leaving a child dead and four other family members injured when it demolished a mobile home authorities said.

Ochiltree County Sheriff Joe Hataway said the tornado touched down at 6:20 p.m. CDT and "apparently hit right on top of a mobile home, exploding it into many thousands of small pieces and scattering it in a narrow trail."

"In town...trees were broken, lumber from the local lumberyard was scattered everywhere," Hataway said.

Texas Department of Public Safety dispatcher Dwayne Collins identified the dead child as 18-month-old Elizabeth Vela.

The injured were identified as the mother, Christina Vela, 38; Raquel Vela, 10; Rafael Vela, 8; and Jose Vela, 12.

Raquel Vela underwent surgery late Wednesday in Northwest Baptist Hospital in Amarillo, where she was reported in critical condition. Jose Vela was listed in stable condition and Mrs. Vela in serious condition, said a nurse's supervisor at the hospital, who asked not to be identified. They suffered head injuries and broken bones, she said.

The nursing supervisor said Rafael Vela was less seriously injured and was being kept for observation at Ochiltree Memorial Hospital in Perryton.

Sheriff Hataway said the father and two other children were away from the isolated home about a mile northwest of Perryton harvesting wheat and were not injured.

"When the officers got there, two of the children were covered up with parts of the mobile home," he said. "All of them were cut, beaten up, bruised. They got some gashes."

Perryton is located in the northeastern Texas Panhandle, 120 miles northeast of Amarillo and 15 miles from the Oklahoma border.

The twister struck just one day after the oil-dependent town had staged a champagne party to celebrate crude oil's price topping $20 per barrel.

The tornado was the only twister reported as an intense thunderstorm moved through the northeast Texas Panhandle, Oklahoma Panhandle and western Oklahoma, according to National Weather Service spokesman Laurence Smith in Amarillo.

The storm also knocked out power in the Panhandle communities of Canadian and Miami, but a spokesman for the Hemphill County Sheriff's office said there was no other major damage.

Wheeler County deputies said tree limbs were blown through the streets of Wheeler after winds gusted to 60 mph.

High probability of attack

CIA warns of Gulf danger

WASHINGTON (AP) - The CIA is warning Congress there is a high probability Iran may sponsor an attack against U.S. ships in the Persian Gulf if the navy protects Kuwait tankers, congressional sources say.

The intelligence agency suggested that either tankers unprotected by the U.S. flag may be attacked or Iranian-sponsored terrorists might hit Navy ships in a way that would be difficult to trace back to Iran, the sources said Wednesday, speaking only on condition of anonymity.

The warnings were made in closed-door meetings of the House and Senate Armed Services Committees, the sources said.

Rep. Les Aspin, D-Wis., chairman of the House panel, said the types of threats the Pentagon is planning to defend against are the least likely to occur.

"An aerial assault or a missile attack provide the most dramatic scenarios, but not the most reasonable scenarios," Aspin said. "The last thing the Iranians want to do is leave their fingerprints on any attack upon Americans."

He suggested the Iranians may use mines to attack U.S. ships. He cited two instances, one on May 17 and another 10 days later, when a Soviet tanker and then a Liberian tanker hit mines near Kuwait. The source of the two mines has not been determined.

At the Pentagon, officials issued a statement late Wednesday which said there was "no difference in opinion" between the CIA and the Navy about the risks in the gulf.

President Reagan has said the United States will begin protecting 11 Kuwaiti tankers starting next month by putting the ships under U.S. flags and captains. In addition, the tankers will be accompanied by Navy ships.

Administration officials have made clear in testimony to Congress that the Navy will defend only its own ships and the Kuwaiti tankers.

The plan has raised congressional worries that the United States will become embroiled in the 6½-year-old Iran-Iraq war because Kuwait is an Iraqi ally.

Those fears increased after the May 17 attack by Iraq on the Navy frigate USS Stark in which 37 U.S. seamen died.

Although U.S. officials say they accept the Iraqi explanation that the attack was a mistake, members of Congress have pressed the Pentagon for assurances the Navy ships will be as safe as possible. In response, Defense Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger sent Congress a report Monday which said the risks to U.S. naval forces are "low."

In other developments:

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee decided to delay a vote scheduled for today on a bill which would halt the reflagging unless Congress first approves the plan. The panel pushed back a decision until at least June 25, said Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., chairman of the panel.

Pell, sponsor of the bill, explained that "we need a few more days to think about it."

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the administration's reflagging plans are proceeding on schedule. No formal date has been announced for the U.S. convoys to begin.

Committee to forge agreement for North's public testimony

WASHINGTON (AP) - The congressional Iran-Contra committees will attempt to forge an "iron clad" agreement for Oliver L. North's public testimony next month but are prepared to initiate contempt proceedings if there's a snag, the chairman of the Senate panel says.

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, said he expected the chief counsels for the House and Senate committees to be getting together with North's lawyers to arrange the public testimony currently scheduled for July 15.

Inouye's announcement Wednesday night followed a private meeting of the Senate panel. The meeting was triggered by North's surprise refusal to undergo closed-door questioning prior to his public appearance.

Testimony by other witnesses has indicated that North, while a White House aide assigned to the National Security Council, was the central figure in secret efforts to support the Nicaraguan Contra rebels during a period in which Congress banned U.S. military aid. He also played a lead role in secret arms sales to Iran, which were used to help underwrite the Contra supply effort.

The House Iran-Contra panel met Wednesday but did not formally decide on a course of action to compel North's testimony. Inouye indicated the House would agree to the Senate's approach.

Inouye made clear on several occasions Wednesday that lawmakers were angered by North's refusal to testify privately. But he said the concession of waiving closed-door testimony was preferable to a months-long contempt process that could bog down in the courts and ruin Congress' plans for a recess beginning Aug. 8.

North, Inouye said, was "questioning the authority and power" of Congress. "I am personally prepared to do whatever it takes to compel testimony," he said.

Barry Simon, one of North's lawyers, said when reached by telephone, "I don't comment about any aspect of our representation of Colonel North."

In other Iran-Contra developments:

-North's former boss at the White House, rear Adm. John M. Poindexter, answered congressional investigators' questions in private for a second day Wednesday.

-The chairman of the House Iran-

Contra committee, Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., said the hearings are still "in the middle of the game," and have not yet absolved President Reagan of wrongdoing. He said, in an interview, there are "multiple possibilities" that still could lead some lawmakers to think about impeachment proceedings.

-Independent Prosecutor Lawrence E. Walsh, in an interview published in The Washington Post today, said he is determined to pursue the investigation to its conclusion, even if it takes years. "I have no limitations on my commitment," Walsh said. "I certainly hope that it's not going to take anything like that. But if there are trials, appeals and retrials, it could theoretically take a long time."

BUS STOP ROMANCE...
Bob and Bea Monical

The Branding Iron

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

Bob and Bea Monical have been involved in a "Bus Stop" romance for 39 years.

"We meet at a bus station in Roswell, New Mexico," Bob says. He was a driver and Bea worked in the office of the station - they squeezed dates in between his trip.

"We didn't have very many of them, we married six weeks after we met," he explains.

The couple moved to Hereford and began managing the local bus depot on June 17, 1967. They celebrated their 30th anniversary as Hereford's depot managers on Wednesday, but there won't be a 21st anniversary - they are retiring the end of June.

"It's been good to us but I think we are both tired," he says. Bea adds, "It will be nice not to have to meet an eight o'clock schedule every day."

When they first moved to Hereford, Bob had accrued 21 years as a driver. After the move, he continued to drive for seven more years and Bea managed the station. "He would work at the depot on his days off to give me time off," she remembers.

For the past 13 years they have alternated working days at the depot, with each working three days a week.

When the couple first moved to Hereford the bus station was by City Hall. It moved to the current location, 923 East First, on Aug. 31, 1967. Many other changes have taken place in the busing industry.

"There has been a depot in Hereford since, I believe, the late '30s," he says. At that time and later many residents relied on the bus to take them to Amarillo and other cities.

"When we took over," Bob recalled, "there was a period when business was booming, but today people own their own cars and we aren't as busy as we used to be."

Bea agrees. "Not very many people catch the bus here anymore. The driver picks up more packages than people here, anymore."

In spite of competition from UPS and other package delivery business, the local bus station remains busy with package pick-ups and shipping. Bea, who handles the paperwork, estimates that 100-150 packages go through the local station daily. "It used to be many more," she says.

Currently six buses a day run through Hereford, three from Amarillo to El Paso and Amarillo to Las Cruces and three headed the reverse direction.

Though the Monical's are retiring, they say the bus depot will remain open. "The owners haven't put out the word to us yet, but I think they have chosen an agent," Bob says.

The couple's immediate plans include a trip to Bartlesville, Okla., to be on hand for the birth of grandchild No. 5. "After we get that taken care of who knows what we will do," he laughs.

Bea adds that she is looking forward to having time for sewing, quilting, and gardening. Bob agrees and plans to enjoy his short-wave radio hobby when they are not working in the yard or traveling.

And when they travel will they go by bus?

"Oh, no," says Bob. "I don't think so."

Researcher gives explanation of supercollider idea

What is a super conducting supercollider?

With the possibility of attracting the Department of Energy's $4.5 billion project to a site near Happy, many area citizens have become more interested in the SSC but still cannot explain just what it is.

"You could call it the world's largest microscope," according to Dr. Russ Huson of the Texas Accelerator Research Center in Houston. "To physicists, SSC is of profound importance as a research tool." Dr. Huson has been working on the project since 1982.

The researcher adds that "SSC would enable us to look for the fundamental building blocks of nature and be capable of revealing a wide spectrum of information, from new sources of power stronger than nuclear energy, to unknown elements and substances of benefit to mankind, and discoveries that would improve medical technology."

SSC would be housed in a 52-mile long tunnel, buried 20 feet below ground level and containing two one-inch diameter, stainless steel, copper-lined vacuum tubes encased by more than 8,000 two-foot diameter, 55-foot-long magnets which pump electromagnetic charge into the tubes. The tube and magnetic apparatus is within a thick, concrete-walled tunnel, nine feet in diameter, large enough for workers to drive service carts through.

One of the tubes would carry accelerated hydrogen protons and the other anti-protons. The proton beams, traveling at near light speed, collide in "interaction halls." At these "halls," computers would record millions of events, or collision-related phenomena every second, using sophisticated data-sensing equipment. The researcher says there is no danger of explosion and although limited radiation is involved, it would be secure and contained underground.

Less-powerful versions of the SSC are located in Japan and Switzerland and draw thousands of scientists for research. China is reported to have a SSC project, and Russia is building a big machine.

The Panhandle site is one of two sites chosen by the Texas National Research Laboratory Committee in May to be submitted to DOE Aug. 3. The second site is near the Dallas-Fort Worth area. After reducing the number of sites from 30 or 40 down to a short list of 5 to 10 sites, DOE is expected to make a recommendation to the President by January 1989.

Legislators eyeing budget amendment

WASHINGTON, D.C. - Legislation to add an Amendment to the U.S. Constitution requiring a balanced Federal budget was introduced today in both the House and Senate, Rep. Larry Combest (R-Texas) said.

Combest, an original cosponsor of the balanced budget/tax limitation legislation, said the bill has nearly 230 cosponsors - more than half the membership of the House and more than any Balanced Budget Amendment bill in any past Congress.

At a press conference on Capitol Hill Wednesday, Combest joined with other cosponsors of the measure to announce its introduction and to sign a letter to Congressman Peter Rodino (D-NJ), chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, urging immediate hearings on the legislation.

A strong supporter of a balanced budget amendment, Combest is also a member of CLUBB (Congressional Leaderse United for a Balanced Budget). This bipartisan coalition includes a membership of about 145 Members of the House and Senate who favor overhauling the budget process with a balanced budget amendment.

"The congressional budget process simply does not work. It is time to force the Congress to be responsible and stop the unnecessary and unending federal spending," said Combest.

The major provisions of this proposed Amendment include:

- The President would be required to submit a balanced budget to Congress.
- Congress and the President would be required to establish, by Joint Resolution, a single revenue estimate that total outlays for that fiscal year may not exceed, unless Congress so provides by a roll call vote of three-fifths of the total membership of both the House and Senate.
- Congress is required to provide, by law, for the repayment of any actual deficit incurred during the previous year. The public debt may not be increased unless approved by a three-fifths roll call vote of both Houses.

Demos call meeting to plan political season

County Democratic Chairman Helen Rose, and Precinct 1 Chairman Nancy Hill will attend the 31st District Regional Conference for their political party on Saturday in Levelland. The two announced their decision at a recent meeting of the Executive Committee.

Also at the meeting, Raymond Schlabs and Bill Gudgel were elected to fill vacancies as Precinct Chairmen for Precincts 4 and 9, respectively.

The committee also planned to participate in the Town and Country Jubilee, Aug. 9-15.

Other precinct chairmen attending the meeting were Rinaldo Garcia, Roddy Allred, John A. Smith and Eldred Brown.

At the district conference on Saturday, about 125 party members will prepare for the coming political season.

Congressman John Bryant, of Dallas, will be the key note speaker. Bryant has taken a leadership role in the Texas delegation, and is recognized by many to be an up and coming force in the Texas Democratic Party ranks.

Representative Jim Rudd, of Brownfield, will speak on the state financial crisis. Rudd, Chairman of the powerful House Appropriations Committee, has received praise for his tough, yet fair, treatment of the state budget.

Representative Pete Laney, of Hale Center, will address the group on such issues as tort reform and insurance reform.

Issues affecting Agriculture will be addressed by Senator Bill Sarapallus, from Amarillo. Chairman of the Senate Sub-Committee on Agriculture, Sarapallus has waged a largely successful campaign to restrict the ability of the DOE to place a nuclear waste dump in Deaf Smith County.

Democrats will also participate in training seminars on candidate recruitment and GOTV (get out the vote) techniques in rural counties during the day long event.

The 31st District of Texas, composed of 29 Panhandle counties, elects five State Representatives, two Congressmen, and one State Senator. In June of 1985, the district divided itself into four organizational regions, with each region hosting a regional conference on a quarterly basis. Region 3, composed of Bailey, Castro, Farmer, Hale, Lamb and Hockley Counties, will play host for the June 20th meeting. Laura Garner, County Chair for Hockley County, says that more than 125 Democrats from all over the High Plains of Texas are expected to attend. A $10.00 fee will be charged, with a meal and entertainment provided. Persons interested in attending the event may contact Mrs. Garner at 806-894-3491 after five, or 806/245-6643 during the day.

Democrats challenge Reagan

WASHINGTON (AP) - Democrats, needed by President Reagan's fiscal attacks, are uniting behind a $1 trillion budget that challenges the president's most frequent vow: no tax increase.

House and Senate leaders on Wednesday announced they had broken through weeks of deadlock between their two chambers and a final fiscal 1988 budget resolution was at hand.

The Democratic plan would rearrange the priorities Reagan sought but, like his, doesn't meet the limits of the Gramm-Rudman deficit-cutting law.

It rejects Reagan's deep cuts in domestic spending programs such as education and health care and the president's plan to sell off billions of dollars in government assets.

The resolution, expected to be ratified by a House-Senate conference committee, would restrain military spending and then trim it back sharply from Reagan's request unless he goes along with more than $19 billion in taxes for next year.

Reagan has said repeatedly he will veto a tax increase.

Democratic leaders, who shaped the budget plan without Republican participation, have said they would not be able to muster enough votes to override.

The Pentagon budget would be about $296 billion, with estimated cash outlays of $289.5 billion, enough to keep pace with inflation. If the taxes are not enacted, the defense program would be frozen essentially at about current levels, with $289 billion in spending authority and outlays of $284 billion.

Spending authority, the legal ceilings in the budget, often exceeds the estimated outlays because it includes obligations paid out over more than one fiscal year.

The spending plan calls for $19.3 billion in new taxes next year and $65 billion over the next three years, said Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., chairman of the Senate Budget Committee.

The Democrats said their plan would reduce the deficit by $37 billion, a billion more than the budget Reagan submitted in January.

But Gramm-Rudman calls for a deficit no larger than $108 billion in balanced budget in fiscal 1991. The Democratic plan, like the president's, would leave red ink in the neighborhood of $134 billion.

As a result of compromise, freezes would be imposed in many areas of domestic spending, but there would be selected increases for education, job training, research on AIDS and other congressional priorities.

The Democrats rejected Reagan's request for deep cuts in many of those accounts.

The budget is a congressional resolution that does not require the president's signature. However, it serves as a guide for spending and tax bills that are sent to the White House.

House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, said he expects final congressional approval early next week.

The House then will proceed quickly with action on some of the 13 annual spending bills for government agencies.

Another Ribbon Cutting

On Wednesday, Hereford Hustlers welcomed Porky's Liquor Store as the newest member of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce. The store is located at 421 North 25 Mile Ave. and is owned and managed by Dick and Marie Rogers.

Congresswoman calls for changes

Airports fail security test

WASHINGTON (AP) - A congresswoman is calling for tighter inspection at major airports after security checks missed one in five guns, hand grenades and other weapons sneaked onto airliners in a federal test.

The guns used were unloaded and the grenades defused, officials said.

Rep. Cardiss Collins, D-Ill., head of the government activities and transportation subcommittee, urged new testing standards after the release of a General Accounting Office report on the random tests at 28 airports.

The test, involving 2,419 attempts to carry weapons onto planes, was aimed at seeing how well screening systems work. Security workers and screening devices failed to catch 496, or 20 percent, of the weapons.

"These test results demonstrate the need for the FAA (Federal Aviation Administration) to set minimum screening requirements and to penalize airline for loose security procedures," Ms. Collins said. Her subcommittee is considering the report today.

The GAO did not identify any of the airports in the report, citing security reasons.

The report said the highest rate of success for detecting the weapons was 99 percent.

Only four airports detected weapons in more than 90 percent of the tests, while two airports found them less than half the time: one caught them on only 34 percent of the tests; another had a 45 percent success rate.

FAA spokesman Fred Farrar said Wednesday that the agency is trying to improve screening technology to the point where machines and not people would perform all the searches.

"We're aware that we're talking about human failings," he said. But he said the agency was doing all it could to improve the current system of inspections.

"We haven't had a successful hijacking in the country in almost a year and a half," he said. "When we do run the tests and the screeners fail, we can and do take enforcement action against the airline. We would like to do better and we're striving to do better but on balance it's pretty good."

The FAA has required inspections of airline passengers and their carry-on luggage since 1973. The procedure is usually carried out by private security company workers hired by airlines.

Ann Landers

Unwanted mail

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am at my wit's end and don't know where to turn.

I hope my letter isn't so long that you will stop reading, but I feel that I must tell you the whole story.

I sold my home in August and have been staying with my cousin. Since I have been here I have received at least 20 magazines that I did not order. Some of the titles are: Economist, Organic Gardening, Financial World, Consumers Digest, Newsweek, Road & Track, Pennsylvania, New Yorker, Time, McGraw Hill Book Co., Practical Management, Inc., The Hockey News, Consumer Reports, Business Week, Europe and others.

Some magazines are addressed to me at my cousin's home and others were forwarded from my previous address. The mailman told me to write to the postmaster of this city. I did but heard nothing I have also put several magazines back in the mailbox and written across them REFUSED and DIDN'T ORDER.

I have called some toll-free numbers to complain, explained the situation and was told they would "get busy on it." A week would pass and I'd get another four magazines. I have even received some duplicates—one at my old address and one at my cousin's place.

Every day when I come home from work there is another magazine or a bill. Today I received a card from Road & Track saying they received the magazine I had sent back and will be sending me another one at my "new address." I am ready to scream.

I have written to the business offices of all these magazines and said the same thing: "I did not order your magazine. Please send me a copy of the original order which I was supposed to have signed but didn't." No response.

I am afraid that the magazine people will turn my name over to a collections agency and my credit will be ruined. Then I'll have to fight with THEM. Please, Ann Landers, save my sanity and tell me how to put an end to this ongoing nightmare.—Mrs. M.I.G., Washington, Pa.

DEAR MRS. M.I.G.: I went right to the top—Postmaster General Preston Tisch. By the time you read this, one of his chief honchos, Jeff Kanoff, will be at work solving the problem.

According to Jeff (we got on a first-name basis at once) there is a federal law (Section 3009, Title 39 of the U.S. Code) that prohibits shipment of unordered merchandise. This constitutes an unfair trade practice. A person who receives unordered merchandise may treat it as a gift. He has the right to use it, discard it or dispose of it in any manner he sees fit. He is under no obligation whatever to the sender.

The sender may not pester him for payment. If he does, he is in violation of yet another law.

If any of you out there should find yourselves the recipients of unordered merchandise, write to the Bureau of Consumer Protection, Federal Land Commission, Washington, D.C. 20580.

My thanks to Postmaster Tisch and Jeff for saving Mrs. M.I.G.'s sanity.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Settle a bet: Is the tomato a fruit or a berry? My $50 says it is a fruit.—Horny Harry in New Haven

DEAR HARRY: It's a standoff. The tomato is a fruit and also a berry because it grows on a vine.

Many donors gave blood

Blood was given by 75 donors during Tuesday's Blood Drive at the Community Center sponsored by the Women's Division of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce.

"We were very pleased with the large turnout—we usually average 30-35 donors," said Carol Kelley, one of 12 local volunteers assisting in the blood drive. "We appreciate everyone who came by and donated blood."

A mobile unit out of Coffee Memorial Center of Amarillo received the blood. Only three potential donors were rejected during the screening process.

In 1418, women's headgear was so tall that the doorways of the royal castle of Vincennes, France had to be raised to allow the ladies of the court to pass through.

California wins by 6-2 margin

Witt pitches Angels over Rangers

By TIM LIOTTA
AP Sports Writer
ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — Mike Witt's formula for winning when he's not at his best — make the right pitch at the right time. Although the 6-foot-7 right-hander couldn't make it look easy Wednesday night, he managed to win for the third time in June, as the California Angels beat the Texas Rangers 6-2. "I wasn't throwing that hard, but I seemed to get the ball where I wanted to," said Witt, who won for the third time in his last four decisions to improve his record to 8-5. "I walked a few guys, which isn't like me, but I worked out of a couple of jams I had to." Struggling, Witt held a Texas ballclub that came into the game hitting .299 over its last 14 games to just four hits in eight innings. In 11 of those contests, the Rangers rang up 10 or more hits. Witt struck out six and uncharacteristically walked five. In June, Witt has posted a 3-1 record, giving up four runs in 35 innings. He came within an inning Wednesday night of his fourth complete game of the month. The string runs his record this season to 8-5 with a 3.35 ERA. In his first 15 starts last year, Witt was 8-5 with a 2.08 ERA. He finished with an 18-10 mark and a 2.84 ERA, both were bests of his six-year career. In his last start, Witt lost a 1-0 decision to Kansas City's Bret Saberhagen at Kansas City on June 12. The Angels took advantage of four Texas errors to score four unearned runs. In 61 games this season, the Rangers have committed 69 errors, the most in the major leagues. In a four-run third, California sent nine men to the plate, stringing together six singles, with a pair of Ranger errors leading to two unearned runs. Run-scoring singles by Devon White and Doug DeCinces gave California a 2-1 lead. Texas starter Greg Harris, 2-6, then picked DeCinces off first, but first baseman Pete O'Brien threw wildly to second, allowing DeCinces to advance and White to score from third. O'Brien's throw was retrieved by Fletcher, who threw wildly to second, allowing DeCinces to take third. DeCinces then scored on a ground-ball out by Jack Howell. The Angels got two more unearned runs in the fourth. After Brian Downing walked with one out, White hit a double that got past right-fielder

Ruben Sierra, allowing White to take third and Downing to score. White scored two batters later when reliever Paul Kilgus' pickoff throw to first hit DeCinces, who had walked, in the helmet. In other American League games, Kansas City defeated Oakland 10-5, Detroit downed Toronto 3-2, New York beat Baltimore 4-3, Milwaukee defeated Minnesota 8-5, Boston beat Cleveland 5-0, and Seattle stopped Chicago 2-0. Royals 10, Athletics 5. In their time of despair, the Kansas City Royals tried to overcome their sadness by doing what came most naturally — playing baseball. Five hours after hearing that former Manager Dick Howser had died following a year-long fight with brain cancer, the Royals beat the Oakland Athletics 10-5 Wednesday night. "Once the game starts, you have to be able to put aside everything else," said George Brett, one of Howser's closest friends on the team. "I thought about it occasionally. I think we had to go out and put Dick out of our mind." Brett, Bo Jackson and Frank White hit home runs, helping Bret Saberhagen become the first 12-game winner in the major leagues. The crowd of 26,780 at Royals Stadium observed a minute of silence in memory of Howser, who began spring training as Kansas City's manager. The Royals will wear armbands in tribute to Howser starting July 3, the day the team had previously planned to retire his uniform No. 10. Saberhagen and Brett, who helped carry Howser and the Royals to the World Series championship in 1985, again led the Royals. Saberhagen, 12-1, gave up seven hits in his eighth complete game. He struck out seven and walked two. Brett, who had three hits and scored three runs, put Kansas City ahead 6-5 in the fifth inning with his second homer of the season. Jackson hit his 14th homer in sixth. Red Sox 4, Indians 0. Roger Clemens pitched a four-hitter and struck out a season-high 12 for his first victory in three weeks as Boston won in Cleveland. Clemens, 5-6, pitched his third shutout and sixth complete game of the season. He raised his career record against the Indians to 5-0. Clemens had gone 0-2 in three starts since beating Cleveland 1-0 on May 27. Mike Greenwell homered and drove in all four Boston runs. Brewers 8, Twins 5. Robin Yount hit a two-run homer and Milwaukee ended a 10-game losing streak against Minnesota in a brawl-interrupted afternoon. After Gene Larkin's home run gave the visiting Twins a 5-4 lead in the top of the sixth inning, reliever Mark Clear hit Steve Lombardozzi with the next pitch. Lombardozzi tried to charge Clear, but was restrained by home plate umpire Ken Kaiser. Dan Gladden, who left the Minnesota dugout, was ejected. Later in the inning, Sal Butera grounded into a double play and Lombardozzi wrestled with Brewers second baseman Jim Gantner, triggering a bench-clearing incident. Gantner and Twins coach Tony Oliva were ejected. Milwaukee had not beaten Minnesota since last Aug. 26. Tigers 3, Blue Jays 2. Lou Whitaker homered on the first pitch of the game and Matt Nokes also hit a solo home run, leading Detroit past Toronto before a crowd of 46,227, the second-largest at Exhibition Stadium. Whitaker hit his ninth homer, the 22nd time he has led off a game with a home run, against Jim Clancy, 7-4. Clancy has lost six straight decisions to the Tigers since Sept. 14, 1984. Detroit's Alan Trammell went 0-for-4 and ended his hitting streak at 21 games, the longest in the majors this season. Yankees 4, Orioles 3. Gary Ward hit a tiebreaking sacrifice fly in the seventh inning and Dave Winfield followed with an RBI single, leading New York over visiting Baltimore. The Yankees won their third straight while the Orioles lost for the 13th time in 14 games. Mariners 2, White Sox 0. Scott Bankhead pitched four-hit ball for 8 2-3 innings and Seattle sent visiting Chicago to its fourth straight loss and 15th defeat in 18 games. Bankhead, 7-4, held the White Sox hitless for 4 2-3 innings. He left after Harold Baines singled and Greg Walker doubled in the ninth. Edwin Nunez struck out Ivan Calderon to end the game for his eighth save.

First start after 100 relief appearances

Robinson leads Reds past Astros, 9-1

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Cincinnati starting pitcher Ron Robinson had a flashback to his former bullpen assignment in the first inning of Wednesday night's game against Houston.

"I felt like I was still a reliever with men on first and second base and nobody out and pitching out of the stretch," Robinson said.

Robinson, who made his first start after 100 relief appearances, yielded consecutive singles to Billy Hatcher and Bill Doran to start the game.

But he pitched his way out of the jam and the Reds blasted Houston with 19 hits for the second time this season en route to a 9-1 victory.

"I'm fatigued," said Robinson, who hadn't pitched more than three innings this season. "I feel worse than I've ever felt after a game."

Robinson pitched six innings, gave up six hits and one run, evening his record at 2-2.

"Robbie pitched well because he wanted to start," Reds Manager Pete Rose said. "He was mentally in the game. He's been indicating to me for a couple of weeks he wanted a shot at starting."

Robinson and Houston starter Nolan Ryan made it a close game through five innings.

Ryan allowed seven hits and three runs and left after five innings trailing 3-0 on Kal Daniels' double in the third inning and Buddy Bell's two-run double in the fifth inning.

Aurelio Lopez replaced Ryan in the sixth and gave up six hits and four runs in two-thirds of the inning. He served up a three-run homer to Tracy Jones and Kurt Stillwell's run-scoring single.

The Reds scored two more runs in the eighth off Dave Meades on a triple by Stillwell and a single by Jones.

Jones and Daniels, who platoon in left field, both started against the Astros because of center fielder Eric Davis' injury.

Daniels drove in one run and had the first four-hit game of his major league career, and Jones had three hits and drove in four runs.

"I just do my job, I do everything I can to help the team win," Jones said. "We can't look at the Giants or the Astros. We've just got to win every game we can."

Ryan, 4-6, suffered the loss and the end of a two-game winning streak that encompassed 23 strikeouts over 14 and 2-3 innings.

"I didn't have very good stuff tonight," Ryan said. "I was wild in the strike zone and you can't be that way against the type of hitters they have."

"I'm disappointed that I didn't pitch better. We had a chance to go into first place and we didn't do it."

In other games, it was Montreal 9, New York 1; San Diego 8, Los Angeles 7; Atlanta 6, San Francisco 1; Pittsburgh 4, St. Louis 1; and Chicago 5, Philadelphia 3.

Expos 9, Mets 1

Mike Fitzgerald just kept on doing what he does so well against the New York Mets. Bryn Smith simply did something he thought he might never do again.

Fitzgerald and Smith were key figures as the Montreal Expos routed the Mets 9-1 Wednesday night. The Expos are 4-2 against the Mets this year.

"I'm tired of beating up on the Mets," said Fitzgerald, who was New York's regular catcher in 1984 before being included in the trade which sent Gary Carter to the Mets. "I wish I could do some of that against some of the other clubs."

What Fitzgerald did Wednesday was hit a grand slam and up his average against his former team to .295 with three home runs and 25 runs batted in. Against the rest of the NL, he is hitting .220 with 14 homers and 95 RBI.

Smith pitched his first complete game since last Aug. 30, losing his shutout in the ninth inning. The right-hander had undergone elbow surgery in the off-season and didn't get past the seventh inning in his nine starts this year.

While Smith was prospering, New York's Sid Fernandez was having his worst outing of the year. Fernandez, 8-3, allowed seven earned runs, the most he has ever surrendered in a major league game, and Fitzgerald's slam was the first Fernandez has yielded.

Padres 8, Dodgers 7
San Diego, which had won only 15 games a week ago, now has won 20. The Padres' fifth consecutive victory also was the Dodgers' third straight loss.

John Kruk's two-run single in the seventh inning was the decisive hit for the Padres. Kruk broke an 0-for-17 slump with his hit off Ken Howell.

Fernando Valenzuela lasted six innings for Los Angeles, giving up seven hits, including home runs by Carmelo Martinez and Kevin Mitchell. John Shelby hit two home runs for the Dodgers.

Braves 6, Giants 1
Slumping San Francisco lost its fifth game in a row — did anybody say June Swoon? — as Rick Mahler retired 18 of the 19 batters he faced and Dale Murphy homered for Atlanta.

Pirates 4, Cardinals 1

Rick Reuschel pitched an eight-hitter for his first win in St. Louis since 1980. Reuschel, 5-3, struck out one and walked one. He carried a shutout into the ninth inning, but Willie McGee tripled, Terry Pendleton was hit by a pitch and Curt Ford grounded into a fielder's choice for the only St. Louis run.

Catcher Mike LaValliere, a former Cardinal, had two RBI with a sacrifice fly and a single.

Vince Coleman had two hits for St. Louis and now has reached base in 46 straight games.

Cubs 5, Phillies 3

Jamie Moyer, 7-4, won for the fifth time in his last six decisions and, in that same stretch, he has not walked a batter in five games. Moyer allowed six hits in eighth innings and struck out seven before Lee Smith pitched the ninth for his major league-leading 17th save.

Keith Moreland drove in three runs and Andre Dawson had three straight singles for host Chicago.

Double Winner

Amber Brooks, competing in the intermediate girls' division, won two events last weekend during the Hereford YMCA-TAC Track Meet. She won the 100-meter dash and the long jump. Members of the Hereford Track Club will compete this Saturday in the Texas Classic in Amarillo, and on June 27 in a meet in Borger. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

Ways with Wine

by David Hutchins

WINE-ENHANCED FOOD

It is not necessary to be a professional chef in order to use wine in cooking. A knowing dash of wine in the pot seasons, tenderizes, and imparts flavor and bouquet. The alcohol in wine quickly evaporates when heat is applied, leaving the blessing of wine's flavorful bouquet. The French are recognized as the world's best cooks. They make most of the ingredients they use to create superb dishes. Their use of wine in cooking gives the simplest dish and elusive, subtle flavor. They know from long experience that wine will produce the best results if handled delicately. Too much wine will spoil the effect. It is not the wine that is tasted in the finished dish, but rather the goodness of the food itself which the wine enhances.

At THE STORE you will find a terrific selection of domestic and imported wines to complement just about every meal. If your menu for Father's Day will include a simple Bar-B-Que or something more elaborate, take some time and talk with our knowledgeable staff about wines. We're here at 400 N. 25 Mile. Call 364-7882. Open: Mon.-Sat. 10-9, use our drive up door until midnight for beer and wine, on Sun. only beer and wine is available from 12-12. We wish all Dads a happy Father's Day!

20/20 Interview reveals

Rice feels exploited

NEW YORK (AP) — Donna Rice admits her involvement with Gary Hart set her up for unwanted publicity but says she was treated unfairly by the news media.

In an interview with Barbara Walters, to be broadcast tonight on ABC's "20/20," Rice is asked point-blank if she ever slept with Hart, according to ABC.

Rice's much-publicized involvement with the Colorado Democrat led to his withdrawal from the presidential race last month.

ABC released excerpts from portions of the hour-long interview.

The interview was the first time Rice talked at any length about her relationship with Hart. Both denied any impropriety after The Miami Herald ran a front-page story saying Rice had spent the night with Hart in his Washington townhouse while his wife was out of town.

ABC said Walters also asked Rice

if she had heard from Hart and what she thinks of him, but would not release her responses to those questions, either.

"I feel like I've been exploited," Rice says at one point. "I've been painted as a person that I'm not. It isn't fair. And that makes me angry. I think it's unfair. I don't think the media has the right to make a private person a public person."

Walters: "A public person? And you were the person he was involved with?"

Rice: "Right ..."

Walters: "You're saying that the press has gone too far?"

Rice: "Well, I was involuntarily made a public person."

Walters asks Rice about photographs, including one of Rice on Hart's lap, taken during a yacht trip from Miami to Bimini.

"When you were on the boat, there were pictures taken. Who took them?" Walters asks. "Lynn Armandt," Rice said, referring to a friend who was along on the yacht trip and later accompanied Rice on the trip to Washington. "She took them. She encouraged the taking of the photographs, and she suggested the shot to sit on Gary Hart's lap."

Walters: "Didn't you think it was strange at the time?"

Rice: "I didn't think anything about it at the time. Plus, it was my camera, my film."

Walters: "Then what happened to the pictures?"

Rice: "I had them developed, and Lynn kept asking me for prints, so finally I lent her a set of the prints to show to her boyfriend, and I never got them back."

Walters asks if they are the photographs she presumes Armandt sold to The National Enquirer.

"Presumes?" Rice responds. "That she sold!"

Greatest Show On Earth

"The Greatest Show on Earth" was the theme of the recent Camp Lani Wa Day Camp held in Hereford. Sponsored by the Hereford Camp Fire Council, the camp featured special events daily along with crafts, games, hiking, and Indian Lore dances. A few spots remain open for Camp Summerlife in New Mexico which will begin Sunday and end June 27. To register for this camp, call the Camp Fire Lodge at 364-0395.

'Fit For Life' combines eating , exercise

Weight control is a concern of many Texans, who realize that they can win by losing.

Since 1985, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service has helped more than 3,000 Texans control their weight and improve their overall fitness and eating habits through a comprehensive 12-week educational weight control program called "Fit for Life."

According to Beverly Harder, Deaf Smith County home economics extension agent, there are no plans to participate locally in the "Fit for Life" program until January, 1988. "We realized that the local YMCA has a similar fitness program, so we intend to modify our program to include a change of eating habits coupled with exercise."

"The goal of any successful weight control program is not only to lose weight but also to maintain long-term, permanent weight control," explain Dr. Mary Ann Heussner, health education specialist, and Dr. Alice E. Hunt, nutrition specialist, both with the Extension Service. After the lesson series, those taking part had lost an average of 4 pounds for a total of 12,000 pounds—or six tons!

A follow-up survey with participants of the "Fit For Life" program showed that they not only maintained weight loss but continued to lose an additional 3.7 pounds each and 5.6 percent of body fat one year after completing the program, the specialists add.

Heussner and Hunt note that although Americans spend billions on weight loss programs, most of those who lose weight gain it back within a few months.

The "Fit For Life" program not only helps individuals and their families lose weight and keep it off, the lesson series also focuses on control of blood pressure, following dietary guidelines, improving cardiovascular fitness and increasing flexibility.

"These improvements in health and fitness equate to improved economic health for Texas," the specialists emphasize.

"Good eating and exercise habits are critical to the control of obesity. In addition, obesity is a risk factor for at least of the 10 leading chronic diseases which account for the majority of health and medical dollars. Controlling weight and improving fitness reduces the risk health problems," say Hunt and Heussner.

Since cost of health care is one of the major financial concerns of families today, the Extension Service began a two-year research study in 1984 which involved 50 counties throughout Texas. Extension health and nutrition specialists developed the 12-week weight control lesson series incorporating research-based nutrition, exercise and behavior modification principles.

These Extension specialists in turn trained county Extension agents to conduct the lesson series throughout the state. The impact of the weight control and fitness program was evaluated by measuring changes in body weight, percent body fat, flexibility, muscular strength and endurance, and cardiovascular fitness. At the end of the 12-week program, participants had achieved statistically significant improvements in these fitness areas.

"Success of the program is based on making small, practical, easily adopted changes in exercise and eating habits, which add up to lifelong weight control," the specialists say.

They note that economic implications of being overweight and under fit can be severe. Obesity, they ex-

Names in the News

PARIS (AP) — Brigitte Bardot got a standing ovation when she came out of seclusion to sell jewelry, art, clothing she wore in films and other belongings at auction to help animals.

"I gave my beauty and my youth to men," the 52-year-old Miss Bardot said, "and now I am giving my wisdom and experience, the best of me, to animals."

Wednesday's auction raised about $580,000, exceeding the $500,000 needed to gain official non-profit status for the animal protection foundation that bears Miss Bardot's name. About 1,100 people gave her a nearly five-minute standing ovation.

The 1950s sex symbol, who left public life in 1973, lives as a near-recluse in Saint-Tropez.

Among the first items sold was a poster from her 1956 film "And God Created Woman" that fetched $905. A well-known picture of Miss Bardot posing on the beach at Cannes in a skimpy bikini brought $1,151.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — "Hee Haw" star Archie Campbell was in good condition after a surgery to improve circulation in two arteries, a hospital spokeswoman said.

Doctors at the University of Tennessee Memorial Research Center and Hospital on Wednesday performed a balloon angioplasty on the 72-year-old comedian, who suffered a heart attack Sunday night, said spokeswoman Lisa McNeal.

A balloon-type catheter inserted in the main artery of the neck was inflated against the walls of the two arteries near the heart to reduce obstruction, Ms. McNeal said. He was returned to the hospital's acute care unit after the procedure.

Campbell is known best for his performances on the TV show "Hee Haw," and has appeared regularly on the Grand Ole Opry.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Willie Nelson and the mayor of Lincoln, Neb., say they have agreed to hold Nelson's Farm Aid III concert in Lincoln.

After two months of on-again, off-again negotiations between the singer and the University of Nebraska, Nelson said Wednesday his third benefit concert for farmers would be Sept. 19 at the university's Memorial Stadium.

Some problems have been solved but "there's still a couple of sort of major ones that haven't been," Nelson said. "I'm being assured by both sides that everything will be worked out. ... It's nice to be wanted."

"Well, we sure want you. And that's the reason I'm here," Lincoln Mayor Bill Harris told the singer.

The first Farm Aid concert was at the University of Illinois. Farm Aid II was last July 4 near Nelson's hometown of Austin.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rock star Rod Stewart and model Kelly Emberg have a new daughter.

"The mother and baby are doing fine," Cedars-Sinai Medical Center spokesman Ron Wise said. He said the 8-pound, 2-ounce girl, whose name was not immediately disclosed, was born early Wednesday.

Stewart, 42, has two children, Kimberly, 7, and Sean, 6, from his previous marriage to Alana Stewart. The rock star and Miss Emberg, 28, are not married.

His hit recordings include "My Girl," "Maggie Mae," "Do Ya Think I'm Sexy?" and "People Get Ready."

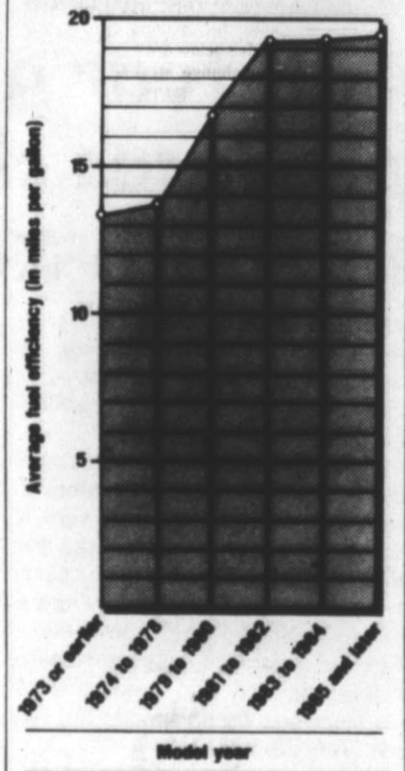

JACKSON, Tenn. (AP) — Miss America Kellye Cash returned to this city where she was crowned Miss Tennessee and said winning the state honor excited her more than her national victory.

As she watched a rehearsal of this year's contestants for the Miss Tennessee Scholarship Pageant, she said Wednesday that "At Miss America, when I won, I was very calm...I had built up to it. I expected to win Miss America, probably more than Miss Tennessee."

"Miss Tennessee for the moment was much more exciting than Miss America," said Miss Cash, a great-niece of singer Johnny Cash.

Tammy Bakker: 'They've made our family suffer'

TEGA CAY, S.C. (AP) — Tammy Faye Bakker is accusing PTL of rummaging through her home, sending her dogs to the pound and selling her son's go-cart, and says she wishes the ministry's new leaders had killed her instead.

A PTL official denied Mrs. Bakker's tearful allegations and said it was embarrassing to do so.

Mrs. Bakker, wife of deposed TV evangelist Jim Bakker, vowed Wednesday to fight a PTL attempt to evict the couple from the $1.3 million home she claims the ministry gave them.

Addressing reporters outside the palatial parsonage she has called home since 1981, she also said she and her husband have started a new ministry.

Despite millions of dollars in compensation the couple reportedly received from PTL before Bakker stepped aside in March because of a sex scandal, Mrs. Bakker said they have only $37,000.

She also accused PTL's new leaders of shredding letters from PTL contributors and maliciously burying hundreds of record albums she recorded, and said she and her husband have been "hunted like a scared animal" since the Rev. Jerry Falwell took over PTL at Bakker's request.

"I hope that Jerry Falwell and his family never have to suffer the way that they've made our family suffer. I wake up every morning wishing that they had killed me and Jim does too. It would have been much kinder for them just to have put a bullet in us. But they didn't and so we're still here."

Falwell's spokesman, Mark DeMoss, denied the allegations.

"I'm embarrassed, frankly, to stand here and answer them," DeMoss said. "Mrs. Bakker's books and records remain on sale at Heritage USA, and the ministry's new managers have not entered the home."

"We're talking about an enormous problem with millions and millions of dollars and she keeps talking about albums and go-carts."

PTL officials have said it was the Bakkers' mismanagement that caused the ministry, saddled with a $72 million debt, to file for protection from creditors under Chapter 11 of the federal bankruptcy code.

An associate of the Bakkers, meanwhile, said Wednesday he resigned as their security chief after they announced their intention to fight for the home instead of collecting their belongings.

"I see the war coming, and it looks like ... unless there's a miracle it's going to happen," said Don Hardister, a Bakker associate for 11 years. "It's going to come to a showdown and I don't think either side wants that."

PTL stands for Praise The Lord, or People That Love.

The Bakkers returned to the lakefront home near PTL headquarters a week ago from their home in Palm Springs, Calif., where they had been in seclusion since March.

Mrs. Bakker said she and her husband will try to talk to PTL before filing a lawsuit seeking to keep the house. Asked why they don't buy the house, she said, "Well, we don't have any money. And that's the honest truth."

The couple's new ministry is called New Covenant Partners. Mrs. Bakker said. "The reason that we call it New Covenant is we made a covenant with our partners, with the PTL partners," the term for PTL contributors.

"I want to tell our partners that we love you more than anything in the whole world," she said. "We miss you. I don't know how God is going to work this whole thing out. But I know somewhere he has a great plan."

Anti-tear gas day produces clash in South Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Police fired tear gas today at thousands of anti-government protesters taking part in "Anti-Tear-Gas Day" rallies.

Witnesses said several thousand people gathered in the center of Seoul and tried to march toward a church for a rally to protest the use of the irritant, which has been heavily employed by police during more than a week of daily street protests.

Police sent tear gas canisters hurtling toward the demonstrators while passers-by shouted, "No, no, don't fire tear gas."

With demonstrations against the government of President Chun Doo-hwan going into their ninth day, the country's 120,000-man national police force was on maximum alert.

The National Coalition for a Democratic Constitution, an alliance of opposition, religious and dissident groups, called for today's "Anti-Tear Gas Day."

In the southern port city of Pusan, about 300 people, mostly students, kept up their protest in the city's Roman Catholic center for a third day.

That city of 3.5 million people was mostly quiet early today, with residents hosing down streets in an effort to wash away traces of tear gas left from the previous day's demonstrations.

Thousands of protesters surged through the streets Wednesday shouting "down with the dictatorship!"

The crack of gas launchers could be heard until after midnight.

The Yonhap News Agency and Seoul newspapers reported about 300 Pusan taxi drivers joined the protests, using their vehicles to block a main street. They were joined by others in shouting anti-government slogans, the reports said.

The reports said other protesters burned five city buses and commandeered a garbage truck, which they used as a makeshift barricade against police who fired barrages of tear gas.

In Taejon, 85 miles south of Seoul, about 6,000 people, mostly students, were reported to have fought running battles with police for six hours Wednesday night. Two police stations were reportedly set ablaze by firebombs thrown by protesters. As in other incidents, police fired tear gas to disperse crowds.

The bitter confrontation centers on the refusal of Chun's authoritarian government to bow to opposition demands for direct presidential elections.

Chun, who is to step down in February, on April 13 called a halt to debate on the question until after Seoul hosts the 1988 Summer Olympic Games.
