Says rejection would hurt arms efforts

Reagan vows to fight for Aldeman's approval

By JAMES GERSTENZANG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, vowing to fight for his choice of a chief arms negotiator, says Senate repudiation of the nomination would hurt efforts to build support in western Europe for U.S. arms control proposals.

At the same time, the president declared his desire to keep out of the West German election campaign in which arms reduction has become an issue.

He added, however, that if the new German government rejects the Pershing II, it "would be a terrible setback to the cause of peace and disarmament."

Reagan, at his 16th nationally broadcast White House news conference, had strong words Wednesday night for both the Senate opponents of his nomination of Kenneth L. Adelman, a director of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and for suggestions that the planned missile deployment in Europe might not be completed.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee voted 15-2 on Wednesday to delay a vote on Adelman's nomination. The move was said by its sponsors to be an effort to spare Reagan the embarrassment of seeing his nominee defeated.

"I don't believe that they in delaying this have done anything to help us in our efforts to get an arms reduction agreement," Reagan said.

He said it would be destructive to the effort at building western European support for the U.S. position "to see me repudiated by a Senate committee" on the Adelman nomination.

Reagan vowed to support Adelman despite the senators' opposition, and said, "I will try to be as persuasive as I can and make them see the light. If that falls short, maybe I will try to make them feel the heat."

When asked the consequences of a possible refusal of a new German government to deploy the 108 Pershing IIs that NATO decided to place in that country starting in December, the president said it would cause a setback to peace. But then he added:

"We're not going to inject ourselves into anyone else's internal affairs or elections at all."

In the March 6 West German elections, Chancellor Helmut Kohl is being challenged by Hans-Jochen Vogel, the candidate of the Social Democratic Party.

Vogel has said that only "under extreme circumstances" would he station the Pershing II missiles in West Germany.

The progress of disarmament talks in Europe is an issue in the election campaign, and Reagan said that Vice President George Bush found "great support all over Europe" for the administration's "zero option" arms reduction plan. Bush returned from a 12-day European tour one week ago.

Under the "zero option," NATO would cancel its planned deployment if the Soviet Union dismantled its intermediate range missiles in Europe.

In the news conference, Reagan also said he had com-

Hart announces as Demo 1984 presidential hopeful

DENVER (AP) — Sen. Gary Hart, who masterminded George McGovern's Democratic presidential nomination in 1972, is announcing his own long-shot campaign for the White House, saying Americans face a choice between "national renewal and national decline."

"The next president must shape domestic policies that actually achieve progress — instead of perpetuating programs merely because there is a pressure group for them," Hart said in remarks prepared for delivery today.

Hart, elected to the Senate from Colorado eight years ago, is the second Democrat behind Sen. Alan Cranston of California to formally announce his candidacy for the 1984 race.

At 45, he is the youngest of six Democrats likely to seek the nomination.

Spelling out his remedy for economic recovery, Hart called for retraining millions of American workers, retooling worn out U.S. factories and opening up world trade markets, all long-term solutions.

"We now face a stark choice between national renewal or national decline," Hart said in his speech, which he was to deliver from the steps of the Colorado state house.

But Hart offered no short-term proposals for lowering unemployment, which now stands at 10.2 percent, or reducing interest rates.

One of the younger breed of pragmatic liberals who do not flinch from some of President

Reagan's budget cuts, Hart said, "We can be tender-hearted if we are also tough-minded."

Noting the economic decline of the Northeast and Midwest and prosperity in the Sun Belt and parts of the West, he said, "We must cease fighting among ourselves for the pieces of a shrinking economic pie."

Offer to hijacker will stand

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico will honor its offer to give a man who hijacked a plane from Texas safe passage to a third country, even though the United States wants him extradited, the Interior Ministry said.

The hijacker, identified by Mexican authorities as Hussein Shey Kholya, 37 and a former Iranian air force pilot, remained in custody in Mexico City late Wednesday, Interior Ministry spokesman Mauro Jimenez said.

U.S. Embassy spokesman John Walsh said Wednesday the State Department would seek Kholya's extradition. The Mexican Foreign Ministry said it has not yet received the request.

On Tuesday, the Interior Ministry said Mexican authorities were "taking steps" to find a country to accept Kholya so the Mexicans "can give him the corresponding diplomatic safe conduct" promised him.

Jimenez said Wednesday night "there is no change" in the Mexican position despite Walsh's statement that the United States would press for extradition.

He said the efforts were continuing "with various countries" to see which might accept Kholya. He declined to name any of the nations.

The FBI has issued an arrest warrant charging Kholya with air piracy, said Patrick Cowley, an FBI special agent in San Antonio, Texas.

Mexico and the United States have a hijackers' extradition treaty and are signers of The Hague Convention to combat air piracy.

Kholya was taken here by a Mexican police plane Tuesday after five hours of negotiations in Nuevo Laredo, across the border from Laredo, Texas.

He was being held at the Federal Security Administration, a police force that handles special assignments.

Meanwhile, an official source in Mexico City, who asked not to be identified, said there were doubts that Kholya was an Iranian. "He could also be an American of Iranian descent," said the source, who gave no details.

The Interior Ministry said the hijacker was a former Iranian air force pilot and activist who had opposed the late Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

He was armed with a sub-machine gun and claimed to have a bomb when he commandeered Rio Airways Flight 252, carrying 20 other passengers and crew from Killeen, Tex., to Dallas, authorities said. He said he wanted to let Americans know what was going on in Iran and demanded to go to Cuba. He was told the plane was unable to travel to Cuba.

Michael McNeil, pilot of the hijacked flight, said Kholya produced a statement that said 26,000 Iranians "have been killed for no cause."

A Mexican Federal Security source said Kholya told security agents that he had spent five years in an Iranian prison under a death sentence for plotting to overthrow the Shah.

Economists say recession is over, recovery begun

WASHINGTON (AP) — Economists, citing new evidence of strong improvement in factory output and housing construction, are declaring that the recession has ended and the recovery has begun.

"The recovery is no longer around the corner," said Jack Albertine, an economist and president of the American Business Conference. "It is here."

President Reagan, at a televised news conference Wednesday night, seemed to agree. "As a result of the economic program we already have in place, the recovery is beginning to flex its muscle," he said.

Reagan and the economists were buoyed by government reports Wednesday that showed production at the nation's factories and mines grew a solid 0.9 percent in January and housing starts by U.S. builders soared a record 36 percent.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige said the housing report, released by his department, "adds to the accumulating evidence that the 1981-82 recession is behind us."

Earlier, Treasury Secretary Donald Regan hailed the gain in industrial production as "another important signal that recovery is in progress."

Private analysts went even farther and declared the end of the recession that began in July 1981.

At the same time, Federal Reserve Board Chairman Paul Volcker told Congress that the Fed will stick with its cautious interest rate course to nurture a lasting recovery without reigniting inflation.

The Fed, he said, plans to pump just enough new money into the economy to help along a recovery that would be modest by historic standards.

In its new report on industrial production, the Fed said the seasonally adjusted 0.9 percent increase, after a revised 0.1 percent gain in December, was driven by a boost in the output of cars and defense and space equipment.

Also, the administration and Congress were to resume negotiations today in an effort to resolve just how the

Reagan orders probe of EPA

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, seeking to stem a flood of allegations enveloping the Environmental Protection Agency, is ordering the Justice Department to conduct a full probe of agency actions.

At the same time, Reagan says he is also dropping the claim of executive privilege he had used to keep dozens of EPA documents concerning hazardous waste dumps away from Congress.

"I can no longer insist on executive privilege if there's a suspicion in the minds of the people that maybe it is being used to cover some wrongdoing," Reagan told a press conference Wednesday night. "That we will never stand for."

Reagan defended the agency and its embattled administrator, Anne Gorsuch, but he said the "splendid record" of the past two years was being engulfed in a "flurry of allegations."

To see if any of the charges of sweetheart deals with industry and mismanagement have merit, Reagan said he was directing the Justice Department to investigate everything.

Meanwhile, Rita M. Lavelle, the former head of EPA's hazardous waste program, whose firing by Reagan 10 days ago touched off a series of allegations, was scheduled to appear before a House subcommittee today in response to a subpoena.

Also, the administration and Congress were to resume negotiations today in an effort to resolve just how the

Khadafy warns U.S. about entering area

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Libyan leader Col. Moammar Khadafy said today his country would not permit the United States to enter the Gulf of Sidra, the wide bay in the southern Mediterranean claimed by Libya as its territorial waters, the official JANA news agency said.

Pentagon sources reported Wednesday that the U.S. carrier Nimitz and its escorts were operating north of the Gulf of Sidra. In 1981, U.S. jet fighters shot down two Libyan planes over the gulf, which the United States considers international waters.

In August 1981, two U.S. Navy F-14s from the Nimitz participating in war games in the southern Mediterranean downed two Libyan air force jets after the Libyans fired a missile at them over the disputed waters.

Some of the waters claimed by Libya are 100 miles from shore. The United States recognizes only the traditional three-mile off shore limit. U.S. officials said at the time of the dogfight that the maneuvers were intended in part to demonstrate U.S. rejection of the Libyan claim.

On Wednesday, U.S. officials said joint U.S.-Egyptian maneuvers were under way involving AWACS airborne warning and control system planes in response to the possibility of Libyan action against Sudan.

President Reagan told a Washington news conference Wednesday night that AWACS deployment in Egypt was "not an unusual happening" and was part of longstanding arrangements for joint exercises with Egypt.

County receives $674 in bingo tax rebate

AUSTIN, Tex. — State Comptroller Bob Bullock Tuesday sent checks totaling $376,200 to 45 Texas counties and 31 cities who have legalized charity bingo and levied the optional 2-percent local tax.

Bullock said Tuesday's allocation was more than twice the size of the last rebates he sent local governments in November.

"Since we started making these payments to local governments who have approved charity bingo and levied the tax, we have sent them a total of more than $677,000," Bullock said. "At this rate we will send local governments more than a million dollars from this revenue source this year, the first year for legal bingo in our state."

Deaf Smith County received a net payment of $674.96 for the period. Total collections were $694.61, with $27.50 deducted for the service fees, and a prior balance of $7.85 added to the payment.

Biggest check Tuesday went to Harris County, where 116 Houston area organizations licensed to conduct bingo games by the Comptroller's Bingo Regulation Division brought in taxes of $50,926.

Biggest check to a city went to Arlington, which received $5,852 in revenue collected from nine organizations conducting games in that city.

As of Tuesday, a total of 104 counties, 122 cities and 103 justice precincts had legalized charitable bingo. The Comptroller had received 2,653 bingo license applications and issued 2,403 licenses, according to Bingo Regulation Director George Garland.

Residents of areas where bingo has not been legalized will have three more opportunities during 1983 to petition local governments for elections on the issue.

Textbook bill cleared for debate

AUSTIN (AP) - A bill that would give both those for and against textbooks a chance to be heard has been approved for full Senate debate.

The measure was quickly approved Wednesday 9-0 by the Senate Education Committee.

Present law and regulations of the State Board of Education allow only those against adoption of textbooks for Texas schools to be heard at hearings before the State Textbook Committee.

"All this bill does is give the same opportunity to both sides to be heard," said Sen. Ray Farrabee, D-Wichita Falls.

Joe Kelly Butler, chairman of the State Board of Education, said Farrabee's bill contained many of the recommendations made by the board after two days of special hearings on textbook selection earlier this month.

Among other things, Butler said, it would increase the textbook selection committee from 15 members to one from each congressional district, which would be 27 at the present time. Committee members would be given daily expense payments for their meetings.

"These people should be rewarded for their work for the state," Butler said. "Some of them take their vacations to serve on this committee."

Donna Muldrew, Lubbock, was the only opponent appearing. She said those speaking in support of books should have to cite page and paragraph of their comments as protesters are required to do.

"The way the bill is now it would be intimidating to protesters," she said.

Farrabee said rules adopted by the board, if the bill is passed, would take care of her objection.

Legislators call for election on districts

AUSTIN (AP) - Two East Texas legislators say the central appraisal districts set up by the Legislature have failed in some counties and voters should be allowed to get rid of them.

Rep. Mark Stiles, D-Beaumont, said Wednesday the districts have "performed admirably under adverse conditions" in some counties. In other areas, however, the districts have "failed miserably and have added more worries to the plight of the Texas taxpayer," said Stiles.

A bill filed Wednesday by Stiles and Rep. Sam Russell, D-Mount Pleasant, would allow 10 percent of a county's registered voters to force an election to decide whether the tax assessor-collector should take over the central appraisal district's duties.

The districts, run by five-member boards, were established by the 1979 Legislature. The goal was to eliminate duplication of work and differences in appraisals by several taxing entities in a county.

The board members for the appraisal districts are selected by the taxing entities within the county.

Jefferson County Tax Assessor-Collector Nick Lampron said at a Capitol news conference that the districts have shown little accountability to Texans. Lampron is president of the Texas Tax Assessor-Collectors Association, which supports the Stiles-Russell bill.

Dick Brown, Texas Municipal League director, said the districts have engaged in "bureaucratic bungling."

Stiles said his bill would not raise or lower taxes, but would "streamline" the process.

White to replace TDC board members

AUSTIN (AP) - Gov. Mark White says he will replace at least two of the three Texas Department of Corrections board members whose terms have expired.

White told reporters Tuesday that he would replace "more than one" of the three, whose six-year terms ran out Tuesday.

The three are Chairman Louis Austin of Dallas, and members Joseph LaMantia of Weslaco and T.L. Roach of Amarillo. All were appointed by former Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

White told reporters he would announce his appointees in about a week.

There are nine members on the board. The next regular vacancies will come up in 1985.

At a meeting of the Austin Leadership Council earlier in the day, White complained about poor planning and slow administration of prison building programs by the board.

Robbery mistake holds up bank customer

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) - A 24-year-old man got a surprise last week when he asked for $200 from his checking account and a bank teller began handing him piles of money.

The man, whom Fort Collins police declined to identify, had not noticed that the withdrawal slip he used at United Bank had a robbery message written on the back, said Detective Frank Russell.

The message said, "I want $10,000 in small bills. I am armed."

When the teller saw the note, she pushed the robbery alarm button and then began handing the confused customer the money from her cash drawer, Russell said.

The teller explained to the man that it wasn't what he'd requested, but it was all she had on hand, Russell said.

History full of scapegoat slogans

Jews are stingy, blacks are lazy, Poles are dumb and Irish are drunkards.

Our history is full of scapegoat slogans.

Flatter yourself by mean-mouthing the other guy.

Until the 1960s anybody could slander anybody without reproach.

But then politically impotent blacks got organized, talked back, told whitey where to go.

Today blacks are mainstreaming. Successful in business they own beauty shops and health spas, dime stores and banks, hotdog stands and supermarkets.

Twenty years ago blacks catered to their own color; now they don't mind catering to any.

And blacks are socially effective; leaders in industry, leaders in education, leaders in medicine and most everywhere else.

But they are the new kids on the block, every day having to re-prove themselves.

Social evolution, at its most accelerated pace, is agonizingly gradual. Only gradually are the biggest bullies on the block being tamed by black ingenuity, persistence, investment and hard work.

Most blacks like most others have learned that the best way to get past having to prove yourself is to prove yourself.

Inevitably, when you stop studying, stop saving, stop trying, stop breaking your back - you get stepped on or stepped over.

And when you flunk out of school, business, whatever - the easy way is to cry "foul," to protest that you are being "discriminated against," that your failure results from somebody else's racism.

Maybe today somebody will believe you.

But not twenty years from now.

The last twenty years were for catch-up. The next twenty years are for follow-up.

Follow-up self-reliance with self-discipline.

Follow-up education with experience and experience with excellence.

Follow-up affluence with compassion.

Because twenty years from now you won't be relying on others; they will be relying on you.

And if what is past is prologue, tomorrow will stick pins in yet another emerging segment of our polyglot population.

Maybe by then it will be Asians who will want more than they have of what you have. And they will protest that because of what we did to them "we owe them."

And you will be tempted to make jokes about them, to deride something unlovely about them, real or imagined.

You will be tempted to exclude them from your classrooms, your athletic teams, your clubs, your jobs, your circle of friends.

Will you? Probably. For a while.

Skeletons were found 13 years ago

WACO, Texas (AP) - A Baylor University archeologist said he deflected inquiries about the discovery of two complete 10,000-year-old skeletons in order to buy time to complete the excavation in a Central Texas cave.

A group of amateur archeologists announced the discovery last week, but Archeologist John W. Fox said the skeletons of the Ice Age man and child were actually unearthed 13 years ago.

He admitted Wednesday that he misled reporters calling about the find last week because he had to keep attention away from the find for a little more time.

"Two years ago, the groups working on the project agreed among themselves that they would announce the discovery today (Wednesday)," said Baylor spokeswoman Karen Benson.

"But one of the groups sent a kind of selective press release last week, kind of teasing the media with 'We have the skeletons but we're not going to tell you anything about it till next week,'" she said.

When reporters contacted Fox about the find, he refused to give details about the artifacts and remains, and lied about the location of the cave where the skeletons were found, Ms. Benson said.

"He deliberately misled the media, saying that it was near Lake Whitney when it was really on the Brazos," she said.

Fox said that the "archeology community" had known about the find for years, but he believed it was crucial to keep tourists away.

Healthy 'test tube' boy born

HOUSTON (AP) - A Houston woman had pregnant with her husband's sperm through "test tube baby" techniques gave birth this week to a healthy boy, hospital officials announced.

Parents of the 5-pound, 6-ounce infant were not identified, but a spokesman at the University of Texas Medical School here said Wednesday the mother carried the baby full term and had a normal delivery.

It was the first baby born in Texas using the "test tube baby," or in vitro fertilization, techniques pioneered in England.

The Houston couple were patients in a University of Texas Medical School program headed by Dr. Martin M. Quigley, the director of reproductive endocrinology and infertility at the school.

A University of Texas spokeswoman, Ina Fried, identified the mother only as a 32-year-old Houston-area resident married to a 33-year-old man.

The in vitro (Latin for "in glass") fertilization technique involves the surgical removal from the mother's ovaries of mature eggs. The microscopically-sized eggs are put into a laboratory petri for a union with the father's sperm. After two days, the embryo is placed into the mother's uterus and a normal pregnancy is allowed to proceed.

A child, Louise Brown, born in England in July, 1978, was the first to result from this procedure. A child born in Norfolk, Va. in December, 1981 was the first in the United States. There have been at least nine others in Norfolk and three at the University of Southern California in Los Angeles.

The Houston parents, said Ms. Fried, requested anonymity.

"The parents didn't want all the attention they would get," said Ms. Fried. "They want to raise him (the baby) as a normal child."

She said the couple applied to the University of Texas Medical School in vitro fertilization program after the mother experienced two problem pregnancies that resulted in removal of her fallopian tubes. These are small vessels that carry mature eggs from the ovaries into the uterus. If they are blocked or removed, a normal conception is not possible.

The couple's baby, said Ms. Fried, was born at "a Houston-area" hospital this week and the mother and baby are now home. The precise birth date was not announced.

Seven other women are pregnant by "test tube baby" techniques at the University of Texas Medical School, said Ms. Fried. One woman, identified only as from the Pacific Northwest, is expected to deliver "any day now."

The University of Texas team is accepting as candidates in the program only married couples who have not been able to conceive because of a flaw in the wife's fallopian tubes. The wife must be under 35 and have no other fertility problem.

Reagan, Hart said, has given the country "a false choice between an inefficient government frozen in the ice of inefficient programs and an insensitive government which warns only to the claims of money and privilege."

Since last summer, Hart has criss-crossed the country, building an organization and raising $225,000 for a camaign he admits is a long shot. "We have a long, difficult way ahead," he said.

In an interview, Hart said he is satisfied to remain in third place behind former Vice President Walter F. Mondale and Sen. John Glenn of Ohio until the selection process for Democratic delegates begins early next year in Iowa and New Hampshire.

The House has cited Mrs. Gorsuch for contempt, for withholding on Reagan's instructions about 100 documents involving the "superfund" program to clean up toxic waste dumps.

In his first public discussion of the controversy surrounding EPA, Reagan said, "We will never invoke executive privilege to cover up wrongdoing."

He also ordered the Justice Department to investigate all allegations of possible mismanagement of the "superfund" program.

But he said: "I think the splendid record that has been accomplished by EPA in these last two years is being overlooked in the flurry of accusations that have been made now."

Reagan also said that U.S. forces conducting military training exercises in the Mediterranean Sea off the coast of Libya, which has conducted a military buildup apparently aimed at Sudan, had the right to fire back if fired upon.

But he said he was not contemplating using U.S. forces in the event of a clash between Libya and Sudan. U.S. radar surveillance planes have been sent to

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

There are several bills pending in the State Legislature which are very important to our children of divorced parents, to the parents and to the grandparents. I would like to use this means of bringing them to the attention of your readers, and to urge people to contact their representatives in Austin regarding the need for passage of these bills.

It would be wise to also contact Lt. Gov. William Hobby and Gov. Mark White, asking for their assistance in getting these bills through the legislature and enacted into law.

Two of the bills are: House bill No. 367 by Alan Schoolcraft - relating to joining managing conservatorship of children; and Senate Bill No. 79 by Chet Brooks - relating to the rights of grandparents to have access to their grandchildren.

Local residents look forward to working with mission program

BY LINDA CAUDLE
Family News Editor

In just a few weeks, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Alexander, residents of Hereford for almost five years, will be embarking on a new adventure. Excitement and a sense of purpose are apparent in their voices as they anticipate this new phase of their lives.

The Alexanders are leaving for a training base near Elm Springs, Ark., in the northwest corner of the state, to be a part of Youth With a Mission, an international, interdenominational missionary training organization.

Youth With a Mission is not new to the Alexanders. Prior to coming to Hereford in May of 1978 they were involved in the work of that organization in Hawaii.

"There are YWAM training bases in more than 30 countries," explains Earl, "and the organization works in approximately 60 countries with as many as 10,000 volunteers at a given time assigned to short-term evangelism opportunities."

Both Earl and Olive are originally from East Texas. He was raised in Nacogdoches and she was born in Houston and grew up in Corrigan. They both went to Baylor University, and while he was earning his doctorate in physical chemistry at Brown University, she finished her degree in mathematics there.

They lived in Rhode Island for a while, then moved to Dallas, where Earl was employed by Texas Instruments for 12 years. In 1975 they moved to Hawaii, where they worked with Youth With a Mission almost three years, then came to Hereford where Earl has been associated with Arrowhead Mills in the areas of sales and management.

The couple has two children and just recently became grandparents. Their son, Eric, and his wife and new son reside in Hereford. He is assistant principal of Community Christian School. Their daughter, Paula, who graduated from Hereford High School last May, is currently majoring in biology and pre-medicine at Baylor University.

When the Alexanders leave Hereford, they will first attend discipleship training for three months, then they hope to go on an outreach mission for three months, possibly to South America or Mexico, and then come back to Arkansas as staff members or for further evangelism school.

"Later on, I will possibly be working in some way to coordinate contacts between various Christian groups in the United States and evangelism opportunities and relief needs in foreign countries."

"I have an interest in getting more into proclamation rather than just administration," says Earl, "but nothing is sure yet. It really depends on the needs: where your skills and abilities can best be used, and the needs of the places to be served through the outreach programs."

The work of Youth With a Mission is carried on through volunteers, who pay their own way or raise independent missionary support. Training is conducted in three-month-long blocks, with outreach and actual mission activity incorporated with the discipleship training and school of evangelism.

The YWAM program also features visits by prominent Christian speakers from all over the world who come and spend a week or two at the bases lecturing to participants in the program. Other time is spent working and studying and in the practice of intercessory prayer, which Earl and Olive feel is one of the strengths of the program.

In Kailua-Kona, Hawaii, the Alexanders were a part of the first such school in that area, so it was kind of a pioneering situation. This was where Loren Cunningham, the founder of Youth With a Mission, first started the program in 1960 as a base of training and evangelism in the Pacific.

"While we were there, we saw the number of people on the base grow from 125 to about 315," says Earl. "There are almost 800 now."

"There were students from a dozen or more countries, ranging from young Christians to seminary graduates and Bible translators," continues Earl, "so it was a great opportunity to meet all kinds of people with a diversity of skills."

After going through the training program in Hawaii, Earl took on an administrative position at the base. His concern was with the physical well-being of the people there and he taught in areas of food, nutrition, and ways of growing and preparing inexpensive and nutritious meals.

He also traveled frequently, and has lectured in leadership training schools in the United States and several European countries. At one point, he led an outreach team to Kauai, one of the Hawaiian Islands.

Olive taught some classes at the base in Hawaii. She and her children had spent a school year in Mexico when Eric and Paula were younger so that she could receive training on the Montessori method.

Olive has since earned her teaching certificate at West Texas State University and did her student teaching at Dawn. She has taught at Community Christian School and substituted in the Hereford schools.

Both Earl and Olive have written books. "We enjoy writing and expressing things in words," smiles Olive. She has written a book entitled "Developing Spiritually Sensitive Children." Through his work at Arrowhead Mills, Earl co-authored a book entitled "The Simpler Life Menu Planner."

While living in Hereford, Earl has been very involved in foods and nutrition at Arrowhead Mills. He notes that the family has grown a vegetable garden every year that they've been here.

"Most of our activities besides home and work, however, have been oriented toward the church," states Earl. They are members of Community Church, where he is an elder and the whole family has been involved in music. They all sing and play the piano.

This past year, Earl and Olive have been involved in the Hereford Chamber Singers, and at Christmas the year before, both had solo parts in the community performance of Handel's "Messiah."

Early this past December, Earl went to Guatemala for a few days with the director of the Youth With a Mission base in Arkansas and several other people. About 700 volunteers with YWAM have been in Guatemala recently, as the president of that country is now welcoming Christian groups. The YWAM ship, the "Anastasis," has been there as a base for relief work and evangelism, according to Earl.

"It is exciting seeing the work that is being done in countries like Guatemala and we are anxious to be a part of something like that," smile Earl and Olive. "We want to serve God wherever He wants us to be and we believe that above all, the Lord looks for a willing heart and obedience."

demonstrations at a wet lab at the King Ranch were features of this year's convention. Approximately 1400 persons were in attendance at the three-day convention.

Hutto also attended a semi-annual business meeting of the TVMA board of directors, the legislative body and voice of the 2300-member profes-

Ann Landers Statement effective

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You saved my life. A few weeks ago you printed a letter from a driver education teacher. He was emphasizing the importance of seat belts and quoted a highway patrolman who said, "I have never unbuckled a dead man." It was the most effective statement I have ever read. I decided from that moment on to buckle up and remind others to do so.

Yesterday I was involved in an accident. I suffered a mild concussion and a severe whiplash, but I didn't fly through the windshield and over the cliff. Had I not read your column, I would surely have been killed.

Please give me another two lines to tell everyone who gets into a car (driver or passenger) to please take an extra two seconds and buckle up. It may mean the difference between many years of a good life or instant death.—I'll Love You Forever In Indianapolis.

DEAR FOREVER: Your letter made my day. I hope it makes as strong an impact on others as the teacher's letter made on you. Strange how we fail to appreciate life until we come close to losing it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing to complain about your answer to the amateur photographer who snapped a picture of a bum snoozing on a park bench. The bum awoke just in time to see the camera go click. He said, "If you win a prize, I'm entitled to something." You told the lensman, "A park bench is a public place and the bum was entitled to nothing but your gratitude."

That response was not like the generous, kind-hearted Ann Landers who, in the past, has shown compassion for the less fortunate. Since the photographer, indeed, did win a prize with that photo, don't you feel his subject is entitled to a hot meal? Reconsider, please.—Jeff M. South Portland, Maine

DEAR JEFF: My response was indeed small-minded and ungenerous. For shame! P.S. If the photog sees this letter I hope he will try to find the guy and buy him a dinner.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I went shopping this afternoon for an evening dress. A saleswoman approached me and offered to help. I told her, "Thanks, I'll just browse through the racks and let you know if I find something."

While I was looking, I saw a gown I liked, took it into the dressing room, tried it on and it was perfect. I then went to the first clerk and told her I wanted the dress. Clerk 2 came rushing over and said I was HER customer. Clerk 1 backed off, but I insisted she had approached me first. Clerk 2 yelled like a fishwife. I, the customer, was caught in the middle.

When I left the store I was shaking like a leaf. Whenever I wear that gown, I will be reminded of a most unpleasant incident. Please tell salespeople to have some consideration for their customers.—Mrs. American Shopper

DEAR SHOPPER: I hope this column will be read and taken seriously by salespeople everywhere. There's a lesson to be learned here.

Fires ravaging Southern Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Firefighters choking in billowing smoke struggled today to control raging brushfires that in 24 hours ravaged 500 miles of the drought-plagued southeast coast, leaving at least 60 people dead and 8,000 others homeless.

Early government estimates put the damage at more than $97 million. Winds of 62 mph swept off the central Australian desert and pressed the reckless blaze through two states toward the Indian Ocean.

The flames left an ash trail of seven wasted towns, burned-out sheep farms and blackened skeletons of cars on the roads, authorities said.

South Australian state fire officials said the charred vehicles contained the incinerated bodies of drivers and passengers, including a family of five, imprisoned by the inferno.

"People are dying as they try to reach their homes," said a firefighter in Lorne, Victoria, where many of the townsfolk fled to the beach for safety. "We can't stop it... It's just like a holocaust. We don't know where to start looking" for bodies.

The firestorms engulfed Adelaide, a city of 1 million in South Australia, and burned out of control near Melbourne, the state capital of neighboring Victoria and Australia's second largest city after Sydney.

Huge clouds of smoke and dust forced the closure of major airports in Melbourne and Adelaide.

More than 4,000 firefighters in the two states battled the flames in 108 degree temperatures on Wednesday. Authorities said 12 volunteer firemen died near Cockatoo, a tiny hamlet 31 miles from Melbourne which was almost destroyed by the fire. While the men fought to stave off the blaze, Cockatoo mothers rushed 120 children ranging up to 12 years old to the local kindergarten school.

"The children were wonderful, they never made a sound," said teacher Iola Tilley. "They placed wet towels over their heads and never complained despite the air being thick with smoke."

"How they weren't killed by the flames or lack of air, is a miracle."

3-point shots decisive

Terps rip Tar Heels, 106-94

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

As far as the North Carolina basketball team was concerned, the Maryland Terrapins picked the wrong time to find the three-point range.

Relatively ineffective for most of the season with their long-range bonus shots, the Terps suddenly couldn't miss Wednesday night as they bombarded the nation's third-ranked team 106-94.

"The shot was there, so I took it," said Adrian Branch, who sank two of the long-range baskets to launch a 29-8 Maryland streak at the start of the second half. "Only this time, I made them."

All told, the Terps hit half of their 18 attempts from beyond the three-point line after coming into the game with a .297 average. Branch, who had been 4-for-27 from the three-point range, hit 5-of-10 this time.

"We owed them one," said Branch, referring to North Carolina's six straight victories over the Terps. "I guess the law of averages caught up with them."

North Carolina Dean Smith tipped his hat to Maryland. "Maryland deserved to win. They outthrust us and quicked us to the loose balls during their stretch run. They were well prepared. They knew what they had to do, and did it."

It was the second consecutive loss for the Tar Heels, 21-5, and their first defeat in the Atlantic Coast Conference this season after eight victories.

Maryland, 15-6 overall and 4-4 in the ACC, trailed 46-40 at halftime but took the lead for keeps with a 13-point string to go up 55-48. A three-pointer by North Carolina's Matt Doherty broke the string, but the Terps added another eight in a row to make it 63-51 and they extended their lead to 69-54 with 10 minutes remaining.

Maryland's staggering 66-point second half helped the Terps run up their highest point total ever against a Tar Heel team. The previous high was 105 in an ACC tournament game in 1974.

Meanwhile, second-ranked Indiana was upset by No. 16 Iowa 58-57. In other action involving the nation's Top Twenty, No. 8 Villanova stopped Providence 64-58; No. 17 Syracuse tripped Seton Hall 96-68 and No. 19 Oklahoma edged Oklahoma State 64-63.

Greg Stokes scored 22 points and Bob Hansen snapped a tie late in the game and then protected Iowa's slim lead with two free throws in the closing minute as the Hawkeyes edged the Hoosiers.

Randy Wittman, who scored a game-high 33 points for the Hoosiers on 16 of 21 shooting, hit a three-point field goal with six seconds left and the Hoosiers had one more chance to win after Hansen missed the first of a one-and-one free throw opportunity. However, Iowa stole a Winston Morgan pass to protect its second triumph over the Hoosiers this year.

"Both teams played really hard," said Indiana Coach Bobby Knight. "The basketball is not nearly as good as the hustle. Iowa took advantage of more things than we did and those three straight baskets by Hansen down the stretch, that kind of broke our back."

Indiana led 50-46 when Hansen went on his tear, with his final basket giving Iowa a lead it never gave up.

"It was a great win for our guys," said Iowa Coach Lute Olson. "We've got three pressure games down the road and this really helps."

John Pinone and Stewart Granger had four free throws apiece in the final minutes night as Villanova held on to beat Providence.

Villanova led 51-45 with 6:58 remaining and then was given a scare as Providence pulled within one point on two free throws by Carl Hill and a three-point play by Keith Lomax with 5:42 to go. However, the Wildcats slowed the pace and went into a stall, forcing Providence to foul.

"Down the stretch our experience really told," said Villanova Coach Rollie Massimino. "When we have enough of a lead, we can go into a stall and force fouls because we have good foul shooters."

Erich Santifer scored 15 points in the first five minutes of the second half to lead Syracuse over Seton Hall.

Santifer's second-half spurt, combined with accurate long-range jump shooting by teammate Leo Rautins, proved to be too much for the Pirates. Rautins drilled five long-range jump shots over a sluggish Seton Hall zone defense to lead the Orangemen to a 45-35 halftime advantage.

David Little hit a 20-foot jump shot with two seconds left as Oklahoma turned back Oklahoma State. Little took a pass from freshman center Wayman Tisdale and fired home the game-winner.

Elsewhere, Keith Cieplicki scored 20 points as William & Mary rolled past VMI 77-65; Brad Jergenson scored 17 points to lead South Carolina to a 61-53 victory over Georgia Tech; Kenny Green had 26 as Wake Forest withstood a Clemson rally to gain an 86-82 win; Johnny Dawkins and Chip Engelland broke open a close game late in the first half and Duke held on for an 89-80 victory over Stetson; Ernie Myers collected 24 points to lead North Carolina State past North Carolina-Wilmington 90-69; Russel Todd scored 29 points as West Virginia beat Penn State 101-84 and Dave Hoppen scored 14 of his 16 points in the second half as Nebraska beat Kansas State 56-45.

Also, Billy Varner's 21 points led Notre Dame over Pittsburgh 60-54; Marc Wilson scored Minnesota's final four points to lead the Gophers to a 49-46 victory over Cincinnati; Claude Riley had 19 points and pulled down 10 rebounds to pace Texas A&M to a 74-62 victory over Baylor and Kevin Black had 19 points as Rutgers defeated Temple 79-73.

San Diego Open

Renner returns home

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Jack Renner, victim of one of the most dramatic shots in golf history, knows he has a mental fight on his hands.

Renner returns to home surroundings this week to play in the $300,000 Lusuz-Andy Williams San Diego Open, which opens today at Torrey Pines Golf Course.

Suddenly caught under the glare of publicity, the six-year pro knows he'll be placing added pressure on himself.

"It will be testing from an emotional standpoint because I live here and everybody will be talking about what happened Sunday," said Renner, referring to Isao Aoki's astonishing finish in the Hawaiian Open.

The 26-year-old Renner, playing in the threesome ahead of Aoki, had taken a one-shot lead on the 18th hole for 19-under-par 289 total.

Bruin goaltender finally beaten

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Boston Bruins goaltender Pete Peeters had his consecutive game unbeaten string stopped at 31 games by the Buffalo Sabres — one game short of tying the National Hockey League record, which is held by his coach, Gerry Cheevers.

The Sabres, a team that Peeters beat four times during the streak, ended the undefeated skin by a score of 3-1. Peeters had won 26 games and tied five during the near-record period.

Aoki, standing in rough 128 yards from the flag, hit a wedge shot that bounced once and plopped into the hole for an eagle-3 and a one-shot victory.

"It was almost comical, because the odds against it happening were so preposterous. All you can do in this situation is laugh. He (Aoki) might hit that shot a million times without holing it again," said Renner.

The shot was one of the most spectacular since Lew Worsham won the Tam O'Shanter with a wedge shot in 1953.

"It would have been worse if I had been standing at the edge of the green and had seen it happen," said Renner, who was signing a scorecard in the scorer's tent at the time.

Renner, a former San Diego junior champion, spent considerable time at Torrey Pines, but not enough to consider it an advantage.

"People think I've played Torrey Pines South a lot, but I haven't. I don't think of it as my kind of course because they don't let the rough grow," said Renner.

His past four years have been a series of peaks and valleys. He finished 14th in money winnings ($182,808) in 1979, when he won the Westchester Classic, but then, dropped to 45th ($97,501) in 1980. In 1981 he was 11th, with $193,292 that included his other tourney title, at Pleasant Valley. Last year, he skidded to 41st with $95,589 in winnings.

He makes no secret that his inconsistency has come from off-the-course factors.

"It basically revolves around the fact that I'm single," he said. "My life on the tour is not as stable as that of the married guys. I'm at a stage in my career when what happens off the course affects me more than it does most guys.

"I had a lousy year last year, I went in the tank over a personal relationship that busted up. I didn't seem to care as much about golf as I had in the past, but now I'm eager to play again."

76ers trounce Nuggets

By The Associated Press Philadelphia Coach Billy Cunningham was concerned that his team hadn't played in a week. Not to worry.

The 76ers, led by Moses Malone's 21 points and Maurice Cheeks' 20, trounced the Denver Nuggets 116-95 Wednesday night and had the game in hand before the end of the first period, running off 19 consecutive points to open a 37-15 bulge.

"In the first five minutes, both teams were huffing and puffing trying to get back into the routine," said Cunningham, whose team was playing its first game since the All-Star break. "Then our defense came alive, and played heads-up ball. You can't relax against a team like theirs. We limited them to one shot. Everybody became outstanding, especially Moses."

It was only the second time this season the usually high-scoring Nuggets were held under 100 points.

Elsewhere in the National Basketball Association, the Utah Jazz stunned the San Antonio Spurs 112-101, the Boston Celtics defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 108-100, the Milwaukee Bucks outlasted the Detroit Pistons 126-121 in overtime, the Cleveland Cavaliers nipped the Dallas Mavericks 99-96, the Phoenix Suns downed the Kansas City Kings 111-102 and the Chicago Bulls beat the Indiana Pacers 117-113.

The 76ers treated a hometown crowd to an impressive performance in notching their 44th victory against only seven defeats. They led 44-19 after the first period and their smallest margin thereafter was 18 points.

Denver Coach Doug Moe said his team played 10 times as hard in practice as it did in the game.

"We broke down," he said. "Philadelphia didn't have to do anything. We just contributed to our downfall. You can't sit on your hands against Philadelphia."

Jazz 112, Spurs 101 At Salt Lake City, the Jazz snapped a nine-game losing streak as John Drew and Darrell Griffith each scored 33 points. The victory was Utah's first this year against San Antonio, which had beaten the Los Angeles Lakers a night earlier. Mike Mitchell topped San Antonio with 26 points. George Gervin, who averages 28 points a game, was held to 18.

Utah led 30-20 after the first quarter and increased it to 58-37 at the half. The Spurs went on a 19-6 run to start the final period and caught up at 89-81, but Drew and Griffith combined for 18 points in the last five minutes and the Jazz pulled away.

"It's awfully hard to play a game like we did last night (Tuesday) and then get up at 5:30 and do it all over again," said Spurs Coach Stan Albeck.

Celtics 108, SuperSonics 100 At Seattle, Robert Parish equaled his season high of 34 points and pulled down 11 rebounds to lead Boston. Tiny Archibald's 22-foot jumper snapped a 98-98 tie with 4:27 left and the Sonics turned over the ball five times and managed just one field goal the rest of the way. Larry Bird added 24 points and 16 rebounds for Boston.

Bucks 126, Pistons 121 At Milwaukee, Marques Johnson scored seven of his 39 points in overtime, including the go-ahead basket with 1:43 left that gave the Bucks a 120-118 lead. Detroit's Vinnie Johnson forced the overtime when he took Tripucka's inbounds pass from midcourt with one second left and sank a three-point goal to tie the score at 108.

Bubba changes to 'wide open' weight division

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Boxer Bubba Busceme will fight in the junior lightweight class, a division described by his new manager, Angelo Dundee, as "wide open."

Busceme signed a contract with Dundee and will fight March 19 here against Roger Mullins, who is 29-5, it was announced Wednesday.

The Bucks, who trailed 97-91 with 5:18 left in regulation, rallied behind Marques Johnson's eight points in the last 4:38. Detroit's Bill Laimbeer and Milwaukee's Sidney Moncrief were ejected with 7:42 left in regulation when the 6-foot-4, 190-pound Moncrief decked the 6-11, 245-pound Laimbeer with an elbow to the ribs.

Cavaliers 99, Mavericks 96 At Richfield, Ohio, World B. Free scored 23 points, including four crucial free throws in the final 19 seconds, and Cliff Robinson also scored 23 to go with 22 rebounds as lowly Cleveland recorded its fourth straight victory. The game was tied 91-91 when Free's driving layup with 1:59 left gave Cleveland the lead for good.

With 19 seconds left, Dallas was assessed a technical for an illegal defense and Free made the foul shot for a 96-94 lead. Free was fouled on the ensuing inbounds pass and was awarded a foul shot because the foul was away from the ball in the final two minutes. Free hit the foul shot and, after a missed Dallas shot, Free canned two more foul shots for a 99-94 lead with seven seconds remaining.

Suns 111, Kings 102 Kyle Macy scored 13 points and Maurice Lucas pulled down eight rebounds to spark a fourth-quarter rally that carried Phoenix past Kansas City in a game played in St. Louis. Down by 16 points early in the third quarter, Phoenix outscored the Kings 24-3 during a five-minute stretch late in the period to take the lead. Larry Nance led Phoenix with 25 points. Larry Drew had 32 and Eddie Johnson 25 for the Kings.

Bulls 117, Pacers 113 At Indianapolis, Reggie Theus scored 35 points and Rod Higgins added 23 as Chicago downed Indiana. Theus scored 10 points in the third quarter as the Bulls built a 93-84 lead. The Pacers pulled within 116-113 with eight seconds remaining, but Higgins hit a free throw with four seconds left. Herb Williams topped the Pacers with 22 points.

25th anniversary Sunday

Daytona 500 part religion

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A local Baptist minister refers to it as "the redneck's High Holy Day." For its millions of speed worshippers, largely in the South, it is part religion and part addiction. It is a lot of country fair and Mardi Gras. It is the ordinary guy's answer to those wing-tipped, low-slung, whining torpedoes on wheels at Indianapolis.

It is the Daytona 500, observing its 25th anniversary Sunday as the climax of Speed Weeks, which lures half a million people to the glistening multimillion dollar Daytona International Speedway.

Stock car racing is a sport that fires Dixie blood. Its roots go back to the days when moonshiners souped up their Model T's to outrun revenuers in the hills. It gravitated to primitive half-mile, red-clay tracks in Georgia, the Carolinas and northern Florida. Then, through the indefatigable efforts and faith of one man, it went big time.

The man is tall, rusty-haired Bill France, 74, a one-time grease monkey out of Washington, D.C., who conceived and personally rammed through plans for a modern speedway in this once lazy retirement community. He organized the NASCAR racing circuit against overwhelming odds and established himself as the indisputable godfather of stock car racing.

As large as is his shadow cast over the scene here, it must share a place with another — that of Glen "Fireball" Roberts, who perished from burns received in a crash in

The Newspaper BIBLE

PRaise THE LORD ANYWAY!

Dear brothers, you are only visitors here. Since your real home is in heaven I beg you to keep away from the evil pleasures of this world; they are not for you, for they fight against your very souls.

Be careful how you behave among your unsaved neighbors; for then, even if they are suspicious of you and talk against you, they will end up praising God for your good works when Christ returns. For the Lord's sake, obey every law of your government: those of the king as head of the state, and those of the king's officers, for he has sent them to punish all who do wrong, and to honor those who do right.

It is God's will that your good lives should silence those who foolishly condemn the Gospel without knowing what it can do for them, having never experienced its power. You are free from the law, but that doesn't mean you are free to do wrong. Live as those who are free to do only God's will at all times.

Show respect for everyone. Love Christians everywhere. Fear God and honor the government.

Servants, you must respect your masters and do whatever they tell you—not only if they are kind and reasonable, but even if they are tough and cruel. Prise the Lord if you are punished for doing right! (1 Peter 2:11-19)

By Connie Passalacqua

Long before blond, curly-haired Tony Geary became soaps' main male idol, women viewers were sighing over the charms of similarly coiffed Rod Arrants, who has been playing Travis Sentell on "Search for Tomorrow" for the past four years.

"SFT," normally a low-rated show, saw its ratings soar soon after Travis began a romance with the show's heroine Liza Kaslo (Sherry Mathis). For most women, Travis was a fantasy figure — A billionaire, swashbuckling hero and brilliant scientist who flew around the world.

Says Arrants of his small-screen character, "Travis' hero quality was something different from others in daytime television."

Although Arrants initially received the usual male idol fan letters, including marriage proposals and rendezvous offers, he soon received requests for money.

"Travis is a billionaire," he says, "so I get lots of interesting requests to finance scientific projects or to pay for operations. Sometimes you're really moved by what people

Students to speak in local service

PLAINVIEW — Wayland Baptist University will join its 71 fellow Southern Baptist institutions of higher education in observing Baptist Seminary, College and School Day on Sunday.

Some 25 Wayland spokesmen will take part in worship services in churches across Texas and New Mexico Sunday in observance of the annual occasion, which provides church members — and especially college-age and young people — with the opportunity to become familiar with the opportunities available at Southern Baptist schools.

Locally, Javier Franco and Bruce Hernandez, students at WBU, will speak during the Sunday morning service at Primera Iglesia Bautista in Hereford, where Henry Amar is pastor.

This year's observance centers around the theme, "Committed to Teaching Christian Values."

Sponsored by the Education Commission of the Southern Baptist Convention, Baptist Seminary, College and School Day recognizes the 72 educational institutions in 17 state Baptist conventions supported by the SBC's Cooperative Program.

During the 1981-82 academic year more than 176,000 students were enrolled in Southern Baptist institutions, including nearly 24,000 students who were preparing for church-related vocations and an additional 3,000 who felt that they were led to become home and foreign missions volunteers.

Since the first Baptist School began in the early 1800's, Southern Baptist institutions have produced more than one-half million graduates.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Thursday, Feb. 17, the 48th day of 1983. There are 317 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:
On Feb. 17, 1964, the Supreme Court issued its "one-man, one-vote" ruling, declaring that congressional districts in each state must be relatively equal in population.

On this date:
In 1621, Miles Standish was named military captain of the Pilgrim colony at Plymouth, Mass.

In 1813, Prussia declared war on France.
In 1934, Belgium's King Albert I was killed while mountain climbing.

In 1980, a limited state of emergency was declared at the site of the Winter Olympics in Lake Placid, N.Y., due to transportation problems and cold weather.

Ten years ago: U.S. envoy Henry Kissinger and Chinese Chairman Mao Tse-Tung met for nearly two hours in Peking.

Five years ago: At least 14 people were killed in the bombing of a restaurant in Belfast, Northern Ireland.

One year ago: Zimbabwe Prime Minister Robert Mugabe ousted coalition partner Joshua Nkomo from his cabinet and accused him of plotting to overthrow the government.

Today's birthdays: Former sportscaster Red Barber is 75. Writer Margaret Truman Daniel — the daughter of former President Harry Truman — is 59. Former pro football star and movie actor Jim Brown is 47.

Thought for today: "From the sublime to the ridiculous there is only one step." — Napoleon Bonaparte, French statesman-general (1769-1821.)

Burdett presents program

Carlie Burdett presented a musical program at La Plata Study Club's guests night on Tuesday. Members welcomed 10 guests to the meeting, which was held in the Deaf Smith County Library.

Mrs. Burdett, who is currently attending West Texas State University working on a degree in music, played several tapes of songs for which she has composed the music and words. One selection was entitled "Mary's Song" and was sung by the Hereford Chamber Singers.

She also played a cycle of music she completed in January based on the Hill Country where she grew up.

Following the program, refreshments were served from a table decorated in a Valentine theme. A large bouquet of white and red carnations centered the serving table, which was laid with a white cloth. Red napkins were used.

Finger sandwiches, brownies, cookies, hot cider, and coffee were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Sue Sims, Avis White, and Elizabeth McDowell.

The club's next meeting will be March 8 in the home of Jean Kelley. Members are to dress as they did in high school and take their school yearbooks.

Dr. Willis Carrier first laid down the engineering principles of air conditioning in 1911.

Rebekahs plan to hold chili supper

Twenty members were present Tuesday evening when Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 met in regular session. Noble Grand Lavita Fitzgerald presided at the business session.

Members were reminded of the chili supper to be sponsored by the Rebekah Lodge March 5 at the Odd Fellow Hall. Chili, pie, and coffee or tea will be served from 5 p.m. until everyone is served at a cost of $2.75 per person.

Twenty-seven visits to the sick and 15 cheer cards were reported for the past week. Karrol Rettman and Anna Conklin were elected representative and alternate to the Panhandle Association of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs to be held April 23-24 in Amarillo. San Jacinto Lodges will act as hosts for the meeting.

Leona Sowell was hostess to Ben and Ann Conklin, Guy and Bessie Lawrence, David and Karrol Rettman, Elmer Combs, Verna Sowell, Edna Mathes, Lydia Hopson, Billie Sims, Beth Hall, Susie Curtsinger, Dorothy Lundry, Peggy Lemons, Nellie Beauford, Faye Brownlow, Sadie Shaw, and Ms. Fitzgerald.

First known animal case

Leprosy found in wild armadillos

GALVESTON, Texas (AP) — Leprosy, a feared human blight since biblical times, has been found to occur naturally in the wild armadillo, the endearing, armor-plated, insect-eating critter of Texas lore.
Dr. Jerome H. Smith, of the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston, said a two-year survey of 450 wild armadillos caught in 16 Texas coastal counties showed about 5 percent of the animals are infected with naturally-occurring leprosy. The finding, said Smith, suggests the armadillo "may be a potential public health problem in Texas," but he noted that more research was needed to determine the risks.

"This is the first time we have been able to prove that leprosy exists outside of human culture," said Smith. "We don't know if armadillos get leprosy from people or people get it from armadillos or if they get it from a common source."

The researcher recommended, however, that people wear rubber gloves when handling armadillos. Armadillos are reclusive, insect-eating mammals slightly smaller than a cocker spaniel. They have long claws short legs and a small, elongated head with pointed ears and soulful eyes. Their most distinctive characteristic is the armor plating — a jointed, tortoise shell-like material that covers the body.
They are most common in Texas and Mexico, but in recent decades have migrated northeastward and are seen now as far east as Florida.

At least two festivals center on the shy creature. Kountz, Texas, has an annual "Armadillo Days" and in New Braunfels, Texas there are armadillo races every year.
Several bills have been proposed in the Legislature to declare the armadillo the official mascot of Texas. A state senator in 1981, while serving as governor for a day, signed a proclamation declaring the armadillo "a recognized mascot of the State of Texas."
The armadillo is affectionately referred to as "Texas Turkey" because its meat is said to resemble the turkey in taste and texture.

Incidence of leprosy among the captured wild armadillos ranged from zero to 15.4 percent in Willacy County. Other counties found to have infected armadillos were San Patricio, Bee, Comal, Victoria, Matagorda and Brazoria.
Geographic distribution of infected armadillos, said Smith, roughly follows the pattern of reported cases of human leprosy. He said there are about 440 Texas leprosy cases in state health records.

Leprosy is a bacteria that in humans attacks the cooler portions of the body, such as the ears, nose and extremities. It characteristically causes nodules and a deadening of nerve tissue. Humans with leprosy generally now are treated routinely and successfully as outpatients and the disease usually is arrested quickly.
Once, however, leprosy was treated by isolating the victims in colonies where they were treated as outcasts.
In humans, leprosy is thought to have an incubation period of five to 25 years, said Smith, but in the armadillo the incubation period is thought to be only about 18 months.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Exercise to keep fit

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a 30-year-old male. I have an exercise program that I do at least three times a week. This consists of 20 alternating leg lifts (30 seconds each with hands behind my head), 50 sit-ups (knees bent) and 50 push-ups. I warm up for about 10 or 15 minutes with various stretching exercises. I sometimes have lower back pain because of strenuous construction work. So I realize the importance of strong stomach muscles. I also want to keep a flat stomach. I watch my diet carefully.
I would like to know if the muscle tone, which I am now satisfied with, will lessen if I don't increase the amount of exercise.

Exercise Wise, which will help you clarify these. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.
DEAR DR. LAMB — Please help me. My womb was taken and I want very much to have a baby. With all the new things in medicine can I have a baby? I'd stay in bed for nine months if it could be done. I read where a woman had a baby 11 months after her surgery. What about test-tube babies?
DEAR READER — Without a uterus you cannot expect to carry a child. And test-tube babies are fertilized ova that have been implanted in a normal uterus so that is out, too.

There are lots of things that should be possible in human reproduction that have not really been developed. Animal studies are far ahead of human reproduction in this area.
To give you an illustration, it is common to take fertilized ova from one cow and implant them in another cow's uterus. The implanted cow then has the pregnancy but the calf has the genes of the mother that provided the ovum and of the bull. This is done so a common cow can have the calf while the high quality cow continues to produce ova on a regular schedule the year around. In this way a quality cow can produce many more calves in her life span.
The obvious implications are a woman who produces normal ova and has no uterus should be able to have an ovum fertilized as in test tube babies and the fertilized ovum implanted in another woman's uterus to bear her child. But we are not at that stage yet.

The exercise does seem easy and doesn't take much time, which is what makes it enjoyable and easy to stick with. I've been on it two years so far. I would hate to be doing 200 sit-ups, push-ups, etc. just to keep my present appearance.
DEAR READER — If you reach a nice balance and are doing enough exercise of the right kind to develop your muscles, you should not need to increase your exercise to maintain your position. You don't need to be like Alice in Wonderland and run faster and faster just to stay in the same place.
In fact, with a lot of the strength exercises, a proper routine once a week will maintain muscle strength. But remember that exercise also uses calories, so if you decrease your exercise program you will need to decrease your calories or you may start getting some fat you don't want. Maintain the balance between your exercise and diet and you will be just fine.
There are many myths about exercise. I'm sending you The Health Letter 15-12.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Polly Fisher

All steamed up
By Polly Fisher
DEAR POLLY — Is there really any way to keep glass from steaming up? I'm thinking particularly of my bathroom mirror. When I'm in a real rush to get out of the house in the morning, it drives me crazy to look into that fogged-up mirror when I get out of the shower. If I wipe it off, it just hazes up again. — L.R.N.
DEAR L.R.N. — Wiping the mirror with alcohol or a cloth lightly moistened with liquid dishwashing detergent (just wipe on a light film, don't rinse it off) can help control some of that fogging. However, if you happen to use a blow dryer in the morning, there's an easier solution at hand. Simply turn it onto the mirror for a few seconds and you'll have a crystal clear reflection in no time! — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — To save on the high cost of wash cloths, I cut an old cotton chenille robe into new cloths (using an old wash cloth for a pattern), then hemmed around the edges with a zigzag stitch on my sewing machine. From one robe I made 12 soft, fluffy wash cloths. — ANN
DEAR POLLY — If your house is too cool for bread dough to raise quickly, place an aluminum pan (not plastic) on a heating pad set on the medium setting, then put your dough in the pan. The heating pad heats the dough evenly and gently. — MRS. G.D.
DEAR POLLY — Dishwashing detergent squeeze bottles make perfect containers for drinks for the kids while traveling in the car. Just be sure to clean and rinse them very thoroughly before using. — PAM
DEAR PAM — This is a great idea for spill-proof drinking vessels. Other squeeze bottles could also be used, like those from ketchup. Your Pointer earns you the Pointer of the Week award: an autographed copy of Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Household Hints for Making Everythings Last Longer. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I wonder where John Travolta and George Bush are?
He said, "What are you talking about? I'm talking about the car and it's important for you to pay attention."
I told him I was paying attention, it's just that a few years ago you couldn't turn around without seeing John Travolta and George Bush everywhere. Not together, but certainly everywhere. Now it was like they had fallen off the face of the earth.
Well, one thing led to another and finally my husband accused me of losing my power of concentration. He said it was a symptom of old age.
Boy, do I resent that! I can concentrate on anything—for any length of time, if it's important. He doesn't know what concentration is all about until he gets a piece of meat caught in a back tooth. Now that's concentration. I don't mean your little string of meat that gets hung up on a molar. I'm talking a slab of meat that feels like a cutlet wedged permanently under your gum with a tail that is long enough to hit with your tongue and give you hope that you can loosen it that way.
Conversation, observation, the mind goes blank while you manipulate your tongue to dislodge the meat. I have been known to force a credit card between the teeth, a piece of thread from the hem in my dress and when I think no one is looking, put my entire fist in my mouth and try to grab the tail with my bare hands.
And no one can shut out everything and focus on one thing more than I can in a movie where someone is eating.
"The Guns of Navarone" couldn't even begin to compete with the sound of a viewer opening a candy bar inch by inch, tear by tear. I know without turning around what the insensitive oaf looks like. He is draped over two seats wearing dark glasses and is balancing two large Dixie cups filled with ice on both knees, a starched bag of popcorn, five candy bars (all nuts) and a bag of corn chips. He also smacks his lips.
He doesn't have to be behind me. I can hear him anywhere in the theater because I block out everything else and listen for him.
As for my husband's cheap shot about age, you can bet I'll concentrate on that for the next 20 years.

Vietnam war not over for Ken Wallingford

AUSTIN (AP) — Ten years ago this week, Ken Wallingford returned home a hero after spending almost a year in a wooden cage in a POW camp in Cambodia.

He said it took him only three or four months to readjust after his release. His only lingering effect was a disabled little finger and a few months of claustrophobic spells. "I didn't like being around large crowds of people. I felt restrained or locked in."

Now at age 35, Wallingford makes a comfortable living as a real estate broker here. He and his wife of nine years have a 5-year-old daughter and are expecting another child in September.

He said he found Christianity on the second day of that battle 10 years ago when he began praying he would live. His capture, he said, was a religious experience.

He is still the handsome, blond-haired, blue-eyed, all-American boy who once sat before the television cameras and articulately defended U.S. presence in Vietnam.

"The clouds were very low hanging. You could hear the fighting off in the distance, but right there in that little compound, it was almost like the Lord was standing over us. It was peaceful and tranquil."

But after 10 years, the war is not over for Wallingford. "It was such a life-changing experience," he said in an interview. "I think about it every day."

"I think the Lord put me in that situation," said Wallingford, because he vowed to come home and live a new life.

Wallingford, whose father retired from the Air Force just a month before Ken enlisted in the Army in 1969, is active with the local chapter of the National League of Families, who believe their relatives are still being held in Southeast Asia.

He still believes the war was justified, although "botched," and he still holds a grudge against actress and former anti-war activist Jane Fonda, who Wallingford said he heard over radio Hanoi during his captivity.

"To me it's unending — you can't close the book on it until we get an accounting of the MIAs," Wallingford said.

"I still think she's a communist and should be thrown out of the country," he said.

He was released on Feb. 14, 1973, along with 26 others captured in a battle at Loc Ninh, near the Cambodian border. The battle raged for three days. Wallingford and his company were pinned down. The 23-year-old sergeant was hit by shrapnel and received 17 separate wounds.

Wallingford said he would not change anything, except one.
"I'd go through it all over again for what it's done for me personally. But it's like going into battle with a friend and one of you going home and one of you staying behind."

Students Place in Contest

Ninth grade La Plata Junior High School students captured the first place team trophy at the Coronado Sciences-Math Contest held

La Plata students score high in recent contest

Two first place trophies and one second place team ribbon were won by La Plata Junior High School students who participated in the Coronado Science-Math Contest held recently in Lubbock.

Ninth graders winning the first place team trophy included Amanda Tackett, who also was awarded a first place ribbon; Drue Gault, fourth place ribbon; Vince Medrano, fifth place, and Brant Reid, sixth place.

The eighth grade science team also won a first place trophy. The team consisted of Dale West, who won a first place ribbon, had a perfect score of 250, and won eighth and ninth grade first place ribbons; Nathan Flood, second place; and Devany Paschel whose score helped win the trophy.

Winning a second place team ribbon were members of the seventh grade science team. They are Marcia Geiger, who also won a fifth place ribbon; Stacie Wagner, sixth place; and Alisa Hoelscher, ninth place.

Boat sinks after warnings

MORRO BAY, Calif. (AP) — A captain had been warned to cancel a whale-watching cruise and did not issue life preservers before his boat was demolished by mountainous waves, tossing 32 people into the water, a passenger said.

The 46-foot chartered fishing boat San Mateo capsized and sank in giant waves Wednesday, but all aboard were rescued in 15 minutes.

Three people who had to be resuscitated remained hospitalized today, with Captain Jerry Weaver and one passenger in extremely critical condition.

Twenty-four students from George Flamson Middle School in Paso Robles were aboard the commercial whale-watching trip with eight adults, officials said. "The captain was warned not to go, but he did not answer his radio."
