Candidate For Governor Outlines Campaign Issues

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer
Don Yarbrough, one of three democratic candidates for governor, made a brief stop in Hereford Wednesday and met a number of persons at a meeting held at the Cason House. Arriving from Amarillo, Yarbrough held a small meeting where some 15 persons were in attendance. He outlined his ideas for the governorship, discussed some of the main problems that the state of Texas is facing and what must be done to eliminate them.

Stressing the point of the willingness and enthusiasm of the people of Texas to help improve the state, he said, "We have an unlimited amount of people who want to assist in the improvement of the state but this amount has not as yet been tapped for use. And because of the lack of assistance on the part of the state, this group has lain dormant all this time and it is now the time for this source of power to be put to use."

Soil Fertility Workshop Is Set

A Soil Fertility Workshop meeting will be held at the Community Center in Hereford on Tuesday, March 12. The afternoon session will last from 1 to 5 p. m., according to Justin McBride, the Deaf Smith County Agriculture Agent.

The meeting will open with James Valentine, an Extension Area soil chemist of Lubbock, speaking on the subject "Important Consideration in Fertilizing Crops in Deaf Smith County." The meeting will open with James Valentine, an Extension Area soil chemist of Lubbock, speaking on the subject "Important Consideration in Fertilizing Crops in Deaf Smith County."

At 2 p. m. Dr. Frank Petr, area agronomist for District I, Amarillo, will speak on "Production Management Practices in Corn, Milo, Soybeans (Wooler Use of Chemicals in Weed Control)." Following a 20-minute coffee break, Lyndon Almand, extension area entomologist from Lubbock, will present "Insects and Their Control in Milo and Wheat." To be followed by Dr. Robert Berry, area extension plant pathologist of Lubbock, on the subject "Important Diseases of Crops in Deaf Smith County (Latest Information on Maize Dwarf Mosaic Virus)."

One of the 12 items which he is considering is the problem of encouraging police departments throughout the state to re-hire, on a part-time basis, former policemen to help with the number one time consumer of the law enforcement force, and that is the time required to take drunks to the station and thus leaving their "beat" where they are needed more.

He stated that one-third of the policeman's duty time is spent in bringing in drunks, and while this is being done, their territories are left open and they can't give the protection and assistance that is needed.

Striking on the problem of poverty, Yarbrough commented that with all crime "there is a direct connection with poverty in some way." He went on to "Texas has more people in poverty than any other state in the United States and the per capita income of Texas is among the lowest in the United States," he explained.

In discussing the highly controversial issue of the importation of water from the Mississippi River to the High Plains, Yarbrough stated, "Unless Texas assures adequate water storage in underground cisterns, the richest agriculture area is in danger."

"Long range Panhandle needs must be considered for irrigation and growth. New bond funds are needed for the High Plains and the whole West Texas area."

"We can't afford to sit around and economize on the life blood of the richest irrigated agriculture area in the nation," he said.

He went on to say that one billion dollars was needed to bring this program to a realistic stage in order to make the High Plains an "agricultural Garden of Eden."

After leaving Hereford Yarbrough was then scheduled to make appearances in Dimmitt and Tulia.

HOUSTON WINNER — Ken Laing of the Hereford FFA exhibited the first place barrow in the lightweight Purebred Breeds class and the Reserve Champion of the barrow division during the Houston Stock Show last week. Steve Robbins of the Hereford FFA had the 12th place lightweight Hereford calf, and others exhibiting commercial calves from Hereford were Otis Robinson, Charlie Stone, Mike Stone, Tommy Bezner, Steve Olson and Jimmy Mize. All of the calves graded good and choice.

Bigger Budget Is Approved For City

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer
The General Budget for the City of Hereford, May 1, 1968 through April 30, 1969, has been set and unanimously passed by the City Commission with a total of $1,007,515. This amount was derived from total revenues and surpluses and is $147,901 more than the 1967-68 budget.

Mayor Ray Cowsett, who presided over the Commission meeting Monday night, said that Hereford has become "quite a business proposition." He also said that a revenue bond — not tax — election for water and sewer improvements would probably be held here within the next 30 to 60 days.

City manager Dudley Bayne told the commissioners that the city "hasn't revised its tax rate" but that the new budget "has included many services to the city." Without the tax raise expected from the city one percent sales tax which was defeated six weeks ago, he said, "we will be using up most of the surplus now on hand."

The tax rate of $1.40 per $100 remains unchanged from last year's rate, with an estimated total taxable property valued at $68,600,000 total estimated assessed valuation (at 45 percent) $30,870,000, total estimated tax roll (at $1.40) of $432,180, and total estimated collections (at 92 percent) $397,606.

Bayne said that the increased progress in city building would help offset a future raise in taxes. He also explained that, unlike other cities such as Dallas, the City of Hereford has but one tax roll. Other cities will have two — one which carries a record of taxes actually paid and another for unpaid taxes. "The unpaid tax list is filed in the waste basket," he said. "But here we have but one that includes everything. Our collection percentage may not appear to be as high as Dallas in this system, but it is a much more honest record."

There was a delinquent total of $22,258.39 in the 1967 tax levies and collections, which gave a percentage of 7.53 uncollected. The total collected was $369,863.81 with $9,878.67 in discounts.

A discussion was made on payments for the seven tax bonds now outstanding, including the 1949 Waterworks and Sewer Bonds in two series, the 1957 Airport Bonds, the 1958 Street Improvement Bonds, the 1961 Street Improvement Bonds, the 1964 Street Improvement Bonds, and the 1966 Water and Sewer Bonds.

The proposed administrative expenses has been estimated at $55,754 — including salaries, supplies and all miscellaneous expenses. It was lower than the 1967-68 budget figure.

Past, Present, Future Of Vietnam Detailed Here By Marine Veterans

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer
Two Marine veterans of the war in Vietnam spoke Tuesday night at the American Legion Post No. 192 to a very receptive audience.

Sergeant Major Walter A. Buttrick and Gunnery Sergeant Earl S. Mitchell answered many vital questions on the present highly misunderstood conflict in the Far East, following the showing of a color motion picture subject depicting the Marines in action in the I Corps area in South Vietnam, narrated by actor Jack Webb.

Sgt. Maj. Buttrick, a most direct spokesman following a career of nearly 28 years in the Marine Corps, substituted for Major Dale D. Dorman when it was discovered that the major had the assignment of meeting a train carrying the body of a Marine casualty elsewhere.

A strong point in the question and answer period was the treatment of news releases from the battle area, to which Sgt. Maj. Buttrick told his audience to treat it with an open mind. He illustrated it as "they are telling you one thing and you are thinking another." But he said that The Today Show, Walter Cronkite and Huntley-Brinkley present actual news clips.

"As far as morale goes" with the fighting men in Vietnam, Sgt. Maj. Buttrick pointed out, "the morale is high. The Stars and Stripes and The Sea Tiger gives out the news to the serviceman as it is going on. And there is a press headquarters in Saigon, a big outfit, pools the news."

and Stripes and The Sea Tiger gives out the news to the serviceman as it is going on. And there is a press headquarters in Saigon, a big outfit, pools the news.

But Buttrick said, "I blame the American people for Vietnam. It started in 1945. Nobody here would listen and let the Communists put it over on us. We had Communist infiltration (while Russia was our 'ally' in World War II) and then the war was over. 'Bring the boys home!' was the cry, and we did. And 5 years from that date we could not muster a fully-equipped division to go to Korea."

He said that if we had kept the G. I. in Europe and the Far East then "we wouldn't have this trouble today." And he pointed out that between 1950 and 1953 the U. S. had its first turncoats, with prisoners of war selling each other out for the first time in the history of the country.

In April 1955, President Eisenhower started a new Physical Fitness program and an education of the youth in the foundation of our country. It was done in churches, clubs and sports. Today, we have a pretty good American boy. They're good. They're fine. There is nothing wrong with them."

In regard to the minority who are protesters and the older people who are so bitterly opposed to the war, Buttrick remind his audience that a slogan since the beginning of the United States has been: An American fighting man will gladly give his life for his country.

"That's (Vietnam) is the only war we got," he quipped, "we've got to make the best of it."

He described the vast population of Vietnam as people who cannot fight for themselves, that most of them never heard of other countries, knew absolutely nothing about the weapons of war. "By the time they could be educated and trained," he emphasized, "their war would be lost and they would be defeated." This, in the face of the fact that the South Vietnamese army numbers 500,000 men, plus

Veteran Teacher Of Forty-Three Years Recalls Career, Friends, Experiences

By TYLER VANCE
Staff Writer

Miss Ethel Womble got into teaching by "chance" as she puts it. Although she never really thought seriously about becoming a teacher, she applied for a teaching job in 1925, got it, and has been teaching ever since.

Miss Womble was to accompany her uncle when he took his daughter to a new job at Kimball school in Hansford County. "I was looking forward to the trip," she recalls. "That is, until the school had an opening for another teacher and my cousin suggested I apply for the job. I dreaded going after that."

The young teacher's father suggested she accept the job if it paid as much as $75 a month. It paid $90, and Miss Womble suddenly found herself in the teaching profession.

"I was 18 when I started at Kimball. I enjoyed teaching, and the rural life was a new experience to me. We had dances at various homes in the community, and would gather to sing on Sundays. The Literary Society would meet on Friday nights, once or twice a month."

Miss Womble added that she and her cousin lived with a family of five children in the small community. The residence was a house of three rooms and a bunkhouse. The two teachers shared the living room as a bedroom. They paid $25 a month rent.

"The lady we stayed with was a good cook and prepared tasty dishes," said the long time teacher, adding, "But there was a lack of variety. Foods produced on the farm, including pork, chicken and dairy products, along with plenty of syrup, made up our usual diet. We took our lunches to school in syrup buckets with holes punched in the lids for air. Gravy sandwiches and baked beans is the lunch that stands out in my memory."

"For water at the school, a pupil would bring water in a two gallon keg. He shared it with all attending. All drank from a hole in the side of the keg. When there was snow, the pupils and teachers would eat it to quench their thirst."

The school was furnished with double desks, a coal burning stove in each room, and Coleman gasoline lamps. There was a small stage for which my cousin and I made curtains," said Miss Womble.

"I had a niece that taught in Spearman in the 1950's, and I went there to see a play her senior class was putting on. A lady tapped me on the shoulder and asked in a southern draw, 'Didn't you used to teach somewhere around here?' It was a girl I had taught in the first grade at Kimball school, and I remembered her by the drawl in her voice. Her son was in the play we were watching."

In the summer of 1924, Miss Womble returned to West Texas State Normal College, where she qualified for a first grade certificate. This, combined with her present second-grade teaching certificate, enabled her to qualify for a salary raise up to $100 a month. She then returned to Kimball school, and taught for two more years.

"By the fall of 1926, I had deecided that I should start my college education, so I returned their own marines, air force and navy.

 "This is the first time in history that an Asian country has fought another Asia country for their independence. But all they know how to do is be rice paddy farmers — and their total life expectancy now is only 33 years."
 Buttrick also pointed out that the original 13 colonies of this country had a period of years where they were in disagreement before they formed "a more perfect union." He continued, "How can we make a bad impression on the Vietnamese? We defeated Japan and Germany and they can see how each were rebuilt."
 The Marine sergeant major told how the Marines are holding classes there to educate the people. He also told how our young fighting men had seen the starving children, naked and diseased — "like dogs."
 He told how many of them had formed the Civil Action Fund, and had gotten catalogues from CARE, so that sewing machines, cement mixers, needles and thread could be ordered. "We also have to adjust our thinking to the way they think," he said. "That's the way it's got to be done."
 Buttrick said, "The Marines teach, but the Buddhists teach them the most."
 Sgt. Mitchell, a 15-year Marine veteran, told the group that an estimated ten per cent of the Vietnamese children were in school. "We are building schools and hospitals for them. We have a long way to go before we can bring these people up to the level of the people of Japan and Korea. Vietnam funds and resources are unlimited."
 Mitchell had spent most of his time in Vietnam in a 30-mile radius of Da Nang.
 The people complain about the bombing of Hanoi, Mitchell said, but nothing is reported to any extent on the Viet Cong bombings of Saigon.
 But Buttrick explained that bombing is of very little use in Vietnam, that the people scatter themselves in small groups, that it is guerrilla warfare on the ground. "Guerrilla warfare is planned assassination. It is done with terror — 'Either you take this village or we will cut your mother's throat.' The Viet Cong say. And they hijack 12 to 14-year-old boys to do their fighting. They have even chained them to trees with guns and are told that the Americans will to Canyon where I attended two years, after which I received my Permanent Elementary Certificate. Through the teacher placement bureau at the college, I was contacted by Mr. C. A. Cryer, Superintendent of Schools at Dimmitt, who offered me a job as sixth grade teacher and assistant coach of the high school girls' basketball team, subject to approval by the members of the board of trustees. I was required to call on each of the seven board members individually before my application would be considered. I was accepted at a salary of $100 a month for the first school year."

The basketball team which Miss Womble coached was runner-up at the State Tournament for girls' basketball held at Celeste, Texas in 1929.
 "The last two years that I taught at Dimmitt, 1930-32, I had to accept vouchers in lieu of money for my $110 a month salary," said Miss Womble. "With some of these vouchers I purchased my first car, a 1931 Chevrolet."
 In the fall of 1932, the elementary teacher accepted a position as teacher and principal of the Bethel School, located ten miles southwest of Dimmitt.
 "I received $100 for teaching, until the hard times of the depression forced a reduction in my salary to $85 a week. However, I was never obliged to accept vouchers, as the school remained on a cash basis throughout the depression."

"One Christmas at Bethel, another teacher and I gave the older kids a tennis set, and the smaller children a croquet set. We would get there early in the morning and play tennis, play at recess, at noon, and after school. I had a lot of time in the rural schools to read, give plays and other things. I never have been able to understand why I had more time then that I do now."
 "It was during my stay at Bethel that the dust storms of the 1930's were at their worst. There were many days when I had to dismiss school and take the kids home, because it was too dark to teach. We had to sweep not only the floors, but also the walls after each of these severe storms. We would remove dirt from the building by the bucketful. Sometimes when I was taking the children home in the car, I would have to watch the edge of the bar ditch to stay on the road. The dust covered up the roads at times, and we would make new roads through the fields."
 After teaching at Bethel and gaining more experience, the teacher took a position at Wyche, a two-teacher rural school about seven miles southeast of Hereford. Here again, she held the position of teacher and principal. Miss Womble spent one year in Wyche, and then moved to Flagg, about 15 miles southwest of Dimmitt in Castro County and taught there the 1937-38 school term.

"While at Flagg, I took two correspondence courses, and that, combined with my studies in college the two summers previous, enabled me to get my BS degree at the end of the summer of 1938," said Miss Womble.
 "I then started teaching at Central school, where many years before I had started to school in the first grade. It was still the only elementary school in Hereford."
 Miss Womble's school life as a student was not unusual. She enjoyed the elementary years of her education, and made good grades. She even found time to teach her little sister what she was learning in school. When her sister entered school, she passed from the first to the second grade in two weeks because of the training given to her by Miss Womble.
 There have been only four pupils that have given a lot of trouble. — two sets of twins that she taught. "One set of twins belong to the Russell family, and the other to Robert Thompson," said Miss Womble.
 "The only way I could tell the two Thompson children apart was by remembering which one of them sat on the south row. They didn't even know their school pictures apart!"
 "When my sister got to high school, she made better grades than I did, but I told her it was because of her better foundation in education."
 Miss Womble believes her basis in education that she received at Central in the elementary grades was the most helpful item in her career.
 "Because of our large family, I would have to help with the dishes at noon. I would wash until I heard the school bell at Central, and get to school before the bell stopped. The Womble family lived on what is now 25 Mile Ave.

 "Some of my high school grades weren't the best," Miss Womble recalls. I usually made C's, even in Citizenship. One time I brought home a "B" in Citizenship, and my father became upset and wanted to know why I got a "B" in the subject. He said he didn't want to see any more B's on my report card!"
 "At one time I had 48 pupils to teach in my fifth grade room," said Miss Womble, commenting on the growth of the town at the time.
 "I've never, even to this day, had a real problem in discipline. Most people say I'm rather strict. I try to be friendly with the pupils. I like them and they know it. Most of them like discipline."

To take care of the steadily increasing enrollment Hereford began building other elementary schools. Since I have been teaching in Hereford four new elementary schools have been added, a junior high school building, and a new junior high school. At the present time, our enrollment in the intermediate grades averages 28 pupils to the room.
 "In order to keep pace with surpluses of increased enrollment at various times, I have taught in converted barracks buildings, shop buildings and church basements. My assignments in Hereford have all been in the intermediate grades. During the years of department work, I taught a self-contained room of fifth grade pupils at Northwest Elementary."
 In 1949, Miss Womble began work on her masters degree, and completed the requirements for it in 1951.
 She is presently employed at Northwest Elementary school, teaching a fifth grade class. The long time teacher will retire in 1970 in compliance with the school system policy.
 "I can truly say that my chosen profession has been a rewarding one — a profession in which I have made errors, but at the same time a profession of service to others and of never ending satisfaction to myself."

bid was received on the two chlorinators the city had advertised for, from Wallace and Tiernan with offices at Dallas. Their bid was $5,100.
 However, City Manager Bayne said, their price was lower than what they had expected to pay for the chlorinators.

Washington Report
from Congressman
BOB PRICE 18TH DISTRICT, TEXAS
 1322 LONGWORTH OFFICE BUILDING, WASHINGTON, D. C. • 223-5706

In commenting on anti-war sentiment among troops at Fort Jackson, North Carolina, to a Washington Post writer, one of the officers implied that there might, indeed, be something amiss among the troops.
 "I don't think you can ask from the peon what you're not getting from the leadership. When your luminaries of the country like Robert Kennedy, when their loyalties are expressed the way they are, what can you expect?" this Colonel asked.

"The President of the United States can't refer all his knowledge of these situations to the lesser leaders. That would be a violation of secrets with out allies," the Colonel continued.
 "The secondary leaders should know that and not raise these questions. They've got the people so divided they don't know what's morally right and morally wrong," he concluded.

And in Washington there is a continued cry of divisiveness and disunion even as the President renewed his plea for unity. Men may debate and dissent, he said, "but there comes a time when men must stand — and for America that time has now come."

Representative L. Mendel Rivers, Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, put it plainly and bluntly when he said that probably no war in our history has been more poorly managed from a civilian viewpoint than the war in Vietnam.

"The question is not whether we should remove General Westmoreland — the question is whether we will ever start listening to General Westmoreland and start taking his advice," Rivers said.

I have contended both before and since coming to Washington that the U. S. could and should utilize its full military capabilities, particularly our air and naval superiority, to bring this cruel, costly and frustrating conflict to an end.
 During a visit with President Eisenhower last summer, he said that when a nation applies force, as we have in Vietnam, then the force should be overwhelming.
 This nation has the capability of applying such force and should have done so long ago rather than allowing the Communists to counter each move we have made by infiltrating more troops, armaments and supplies into South Vietnam and build up one of the strongest and most effective anti-aircraft defenses in history around Hanoi and Haiphong.

 And surely there can no longer be any doubt that while the enemy we are fighting is the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong they are merely the conduit for Red China and Russian aggression.
 I agree wholeheartedly with a House Armed Services Committee report that says U. S. military forces must take the offensive if the war is to be brought to an end. The report says the enemy should be denied access to all war material and supporting supplies, and if necessary to achieve this end all routes, whether by land, sea or air should be closed or destroyed.

"For the successful conduct of the war, the enemy should be given no sanctuary or reprieve," the report concluded. A few days ago, the President delivered his farm message to Congress. Main proposals of the program are for permanent extension of the commodity legislation enacted in 1965; a three year extension of the Food for Peace or PL 480 program; and a bill to create a "food bank" of government-held stocks of wheat, feed grains and soybeans. The President also called for Congressional hearings on "farm bargaining" and repeated earlier requests for a variety of more Great Society programs for rural areas.

By and large, the farm message was received without any great enthusiasm on Capitol Hill. Senator Ellender, Chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee was quoted as saying that he did not feel that Congress would or should enact "permanent" commodity programs. The Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee on which I serve, Rep. W. R. Poague, did not introduce the President's proposals. Many members considered the message rather partisan in tone, but in a "presidential election year" this type of political appeal isn't surprising. Portions of the message were, I felt, quite misleading and I believe it is especially important that farmers understand some of the implications.
 In describing the 1965 Act, the President said: "To terminate the 1965 Act would bring catastrophe and ruin to many farmers. Cash prices would fall — and there would be no government payments to cushion the impact. Farm income would drop by as much as one-third — back to 1959 levels." By these words the President leaves the clear implication that the refusal by Congress to extend the Act this year would cause catastrophe and ruin in rural America.

In plain and simple language, this is HOGWASH! The fact is FIRST that the programs covered by the 1965 Act run through 1969. New or modified programs aren't necessary — at least by the calendar — until 1970. So any changes could be made next year — after the elections. In the SECOND place, and in the unlikely event that Congress failed to act before the termination of the 1965 Act, each of the major commodities — feed grains, wheat and cotton — have permanent "back-up" programs on the law books.
 For wheat, there would be another farm referendum on a mandatory wheat certificate program with price supports on domestic and export up to 90 per cent of parity; for feed grains, the Secretary could set price supports at anywhere from 50 to 90 percent of parity; in the case of cotton, there would be a marketing quota program with price supports from 85 to 90 percent of parity. So it seems to me that the dire prediction of "catastrophe and

The Fire Department is listed as $22,525; The Health Department at $107,494; the Park Department at $72,224; The Police Department at $140,377; the Street Department at $20,676; Water and Sewer at $31,431; and the Airport at $10,396. The total came to $880,867.
 The City of Hereford now has 58 fulltime employees.

ruin" to farmers if the 1965 Act is not extended this year is on the outer fringe of the credibility gap.
 I don't believe that the major commodity programs are doing all they can for farmers and I don't think farmers are satisfied with them.
 Better farm prices are certainly needed and as Committee hearings proceed, I plan to do what I can, either in PL 480 Legislation, a grain reserve bill, or more commodity programs to prevent government manipulations which depress farm prices and are responsible, along with continually rising farm operating costs, for the present low level of farm income.

Residents Use Plenty Of Water

The Water Production and Usage Report of 1967 was presented during the regular meeting of the Hereford City Commission Monday night.
 The total gallons pumped was 981-million for the year, with an average of 1,866 gallons pumped per minute and 2,687, 671 pumped per day. The peak month was August with 147-million gallons pumped in that 31-day period.
 Hereford had 3,801 water meters in service.
 But the total precipitation recorded for 1967 in Hereford was 15.25 inches, 3,787.71 acre feet or 1,234,935,918 gallons, "which was more than was pumped and run through the faucets last year in Hereford," according to City Manager Bayne.

Hereford High School was first occupied in January 1926.

Planning Begins On Pioneer Days

The Mid-Plains Pioneer Association held its first meeting for the planning of the annual celebration Monday night, in the home of Ezra Norton at 443 N. McKinley in Hereford. John Douglas Pitman, president, and Cecil Boyer, secretary, were in charge.
 The celebration will be held on May 30 at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn, it was announced, with the 70th anniversary of Hereford to be featured.
 Also present at the meeting were members of the steering committee, Frank Bezner, Boyd London, Louie LeGrande, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ball, Mrs. Ral Sears and Mrs. A. L. Manjeot.
 Registration for the celebration will begin at 9:30 a. m. by the Pioneer Study Club, which will also sponsor the coffee hour. It was announced that prizes would be offered.
 Frank Bezner will be program chairman; Mrs. Manjeot, in charge of publicity and courtesy and Mrs. Sears will head the food committee. The nominating committee chairman is Ezra Norton and the head of the nominating committee for the next term is Boyd London. L. L. LeGrande is the membership dues chairman.
 The Bud and Blossom Club will attend to the decoration of the stage.
 The group voted a gift of money to buy additional furnishings for the Bull Barn.
 The Pioneer Celebration served over 600 people last year.

 Officers of the Lions Club discussed the location of a hut for the Campfire Girls with the commissioners, whether it could be located at the Community Center or North Park. The commission had previously discussed this project some years ago with the Rotary Club and agreed to cooperate again at this time. However, it was decided that the Campfire Girls — all 33 local groups — would have to decide upon the hut's location, while the city would take steps to investigate these possibilities.
 And the firemen asked for a new drill field for their necessary practice sessions, explaining that Southwestern Public Service and REA had already agreed to aid them in any way they could. A field would be needed, it was explained, where there was a supply of water available to the firemen. The commission agreed to investigate this plan at the earliest possible date.
 The city will take steps to annex the actual street property of Highway 385 (25 Mile Ave.) to the present city limits on the east side of it, for the purpose of speed regulation in the vicinity of Bluebonnet School. The speed zone is now 70 miles per hour, under supervision of the Texas Highway Department, and through the city's annexation will graduate the limits of speed from Fifteenth Street to 30 miles per hour.

Glady's Garden

By Gladys Howton Manjeot

THANKS
My mail has been heavy the past few days, and it consists largely of letters and notes from garden friends, who were delegates to The District One Texas Garden Club Convention.

Expressions of gratitude for the wonderful hospitality extended; the wholesome spirit of Garden Club members and townspeople alike; the GOOD food, and the coffee breaks; fine co-operation of chairmen and committees; sharing of youth on the programs and entertainment; generous wonderful publicity of The Hereford Brand, KPAN and Chamber of Commerce; co-operation of other clubs and civic organizations; merchants; to ALL we extend our sincerest THANKS and deepest appreciation.

Glad was proud and glad that The Hereford Garden Club received a nice number of District Awards. Those received were first place for Best Club program, Year Book, History, Press and Publicity, and the Governors Citation to the President for written report, and the Achievement Award by local member. Adding the two special awards, our club led the District in the number of awards received. Our president Mrs. Ray Johnson, has served her club well, and inspired it to work and do our best.

The District Convention is now past history, so now our attention turns to the Texas Garden Club Inc., annual convention which convenes in Corpus Christi. The Hereford Garden Club is sponsoring a bus to the convention. The bus will be filled with club members, local people, and then if there are vacancies other club members will be invited to share.

For years the Hereford Garden Club has worked and placed earnings in a savings account, and this money will be used to finance the transportation of members to the convention. A well-planned itinerary is being set up by the local committee. San Antonio will be the first stop, then while in Corpus Christi a boat trip will be featured, and a trip to Padre Island. Returning by way of Austin, the members will tour the newly landscaped grounds at the Governor's mansion. This has been the major project of The Texas Garden Clubs for two years, and the local club shared in the project.

Now down to earth. How does your garden grow? What are your plans? Let us all keep in mind that we are not to get in too big a hurry to start planting, and working outside. Indoor gardening, and planning should have first place now. It is a waste of time and money and effort to plant seeds or plants until the earth warms. Even if we do have enough warm weather to cause the seed to germinate, there will be more cold weather, and for successful gardening the growth of plants should not be abated, but rather they should grow naturally and this can only be done when nature co-operates.

Cold nights, and damp cold ground do not promote growth. However the ground work can be done. Flower beds and vegetable plots should be spaded deep, adding some humus and fertilizer to the soil while turning the soil. Another thing that should have attention are the old plants, shrubs, etc. which we have had for years and have spent their cycle. These should be dug up and destroyed and newer and better plants selected and planted. Also give attention to those perennials which have a lot of root system and spread. These should be checked, so that they will not take over choice places for selected plants or plantings. Study seed catalogues, confer with local authorities, and add some new introductions to the garden.

Then too we should give attention to some of the newer designs for interest and beauty. Also check color relationship of existing plants. A spotty effect caused by color is never effective. If thought and study are used a place of beauty and appeal can be created. Also ever be mindful that as we plant, plan and garden we are doing it for our neighbors, and the passers-by as well as for ourselves and our families.

If you have not planted sweet peas, (they should have been planted in February) then do so now. They are a lovely, sweet annual to grow, they add fragrance to the garden, and are very good for arranging especially good for filler, and for small old fashioned, or period arrangements. Last year we derived so much pleasure out of the sweet peas, and I HOPE to get some planted this week.

Early vegetables which should be planted now are English peas and onions, and maybe a small bed of radishes. These will really satisfy the appetites for fresh vegetables on early spring days.

It makes a lot of sense to start certain flower and vegetable seeds indoors. In our area, it is particularly recommended, a six-or-seven week start before the safe date for setting tender annuals outside can easily make a difference between enjoying flowers or vegetables for months instead of weeks.

It is advisable to start petunias, and ageratium indoors. The seeds germinate within one week or so, but are slow to develop substantial sturdy top growth. Perennials such as painted daisies, columbine, and lantana are very sluggish starters. Various vegetables, especially tomatoes and peppers will pay off with earlier yields if begun indoors. Other vegetables which can be started indoors, if you have plenty of room, are squash cucumbers, and melons. After two or three leaves are developed they start growth quickly and will need room.

There are new innovations for starting seed indoors, and they can be used or one can make their own starter mixture, to plant seed for early transplanting. If this later method is used, some of the things needed are: soil mixture (study this carefully) either wooden or clay pots plastic flats, fiber flats or Aluminium tins.

Other musts are a long spout watering can or bulb syringe (I like the later, and have found it good for house plants) For a mist spray to be used on the tender plant, use some of the sprayers which you have emptied, for instance window cleaner bottles. Some pieces of plastic or glass for covering.

At the convention Mrs. Hammock demonstrated the making of a small hot house. She used the bottom of a tin container, laced wire across the top extended several inches above the rim of the container, then she placed this in a plastic bag, and closed it. The humidity created is wonderful for rooted plants, or for small growing plants, and for those plants which are to be transplanted from the flats to the individual container for growth, from this contrived hot-house the plants can be hardened by placing in sunshine in spaced intervals to harden for outdoor planting.

To promote proper growth, light is an essential. This can be from sunshine. If however you do not have adequate windows, then use one or more fluorescent lighting units. It would be fine if the lighting of these could be automatic, maybe friend husband will help and wire the light fixture for such. Approximately 14 hours of light is recommended for plant growth in this method.

Distance from the light should be regulated. This can be done by using the lowering of shelves on which the flats are placed. Over turned pots can be used under the flats or shelves, to provide different heights in regulating light requirements.

When seed start coming up, and it is over crowded then thin out to have strong sturdy plants. Turn flats or pots so that the plants will grow straight. This may sound a bit complicated, but when one gets into the project it is fun. As I write I am planning to take over some of Art's Dog House room, and HOMECOMING SERVICES — Rev. Graham Jarrell, former pastor of the Greenwood Baptist Church in Hereford, will return to Hereford for the Sunday Homecoming Services. With Rev. Jarrell will be Mrs. Jarrell and their five children. They are going into the mission field in Old Mexico. He will preach the final Missionary Conference services, according to Rev. Al Baum, who succeeded Rev. Jarrell at the Greenwood church.

Baptists Continue Missionary Confab

The Missionary Conference at the Greenwood Baptist Church on Moreman and Greenwood is now in its second night, according to Rev. Al Baum, and Missionary Bill Tarter from India will speak tonight at 7:30.

On Friday night Missionary Clifford Fishcarb of New Mexico will speak, and will try to turn from Corpus Christi on Saturday in time for the showing of slides at the church, with special reports made on the mission fields.

On Sunday, Rev. Graham Jarrell, the former pastor of the Greenwood Baptist for nearly two years, will preach the Homecoming services.

Rev. Jarrell, it was reported by Rev. Baum, was approved last week by the Baptist Bible Fellowship for his missionary work in Old Mexico.

The Greenwood church will present Rev. Jarrell with a check for $100 to be applied on his new heavy-duty pickup truck, which he will use in the rugged mountain country of Mexico.

Rev. Jarrell preached his first sermon in February to the Navajo Indians in New Mexico, with an interpreter. It is understood that there are few interpreters who are available for translation between the two languages.

With Rev. Jarrell will be his wife and 5 children.

Whiteface Nine Slips By Longhorns To Take Second Non Conference Win

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

The Hereford Whiteface baseball nine continued on their winning as they downed the Caprock Longhorns by a score of 5-4, on the home field.

In the initial inning, the visitors managed to push two men across the plate to take a quick two-run lead before the Herd came to bat for the first time. When the locals came to bat in the bottom of the first inning, bats began to swing and before the frame was over, the Whitefaces had taken the lead on a three-run homer by Sid Shaw as the score stood at 3-2 in favor of Hereford.

Scoring went into a stalemate from then on until the fifth inning when the Herd managed to load the bases and Lenny Peetree connected for a two-run single and what proved to be the winning runs.

Caprock came back in the top of the sixth frame to rally for two runs before they were shut down. From then on the Herd managed to hold off the charging Longhorns and take the game by a final score of 5-4.

Sheldon White was credited with the win on the mound for the Herd as he evened his record up at 1-1.

In last Saturday's game, the Whitefaces collected their first win of the season as they defeated the Borger Bulldogs by a 6-4 score.

The Whitefaces started the game off when they tallied a hit in the top of the first inning before the side was retired. The team managed to hold off the Bulldogs in the bottom of the initial frame but were unable to add anything to their own score in the top of the second inning.

Trailing 1-0 going into the bottom of the second inning, the Plainview managed to push across a run to tie the game up at 1-1. The Herd then went into the top of the third inning and connected for timely hits and took a two-run lead as the score stood at 3-1 in favor of the locals.

Plainview failed to score in the bottom of the third and the Herd followed their pattern as they did not add to their score in the top of the fourth. In the bottom of the fourth, the host team again managed to tie the game up as they pushed two runs across the plate to even the score up at 3-3. The score remained tied until the top of the sixth inning as the Whitefaces rallied for three runs and took a 6-3 lead going into the bottom of the seventh and final frame.

The Bulldogs, not giving up, added one lone run to their score before the side was retired and the game ended up with the host team coming up short by a 6-4 score.

While committing four errors to Plainview's two, the winning factor proved to be good pitching and key hits for the Whitefaces. Each team was even on hits at 7 each, but the local team managed to come up with the hits that counted. The winning pitcher for the Herd was Jim Scott who was aided on the mound by Lynn Betts.

The next game for the diamond boys will be Friday when they play host to Plainview at 4 p. m. They will then take a weekend's rest before they meet Borger on the home diamond next Tuesday. The Borger game will begin at 2 p. m.

WINNING FORMS — Sheldon White combined his pitching form with the batting form of Sid Shaw to pull out a non-conference win over the Caprock Longhorns last Tuesday. Shaw connected for a three-run homer in the bottom of the first inning that snapped a lead held by the Longhorns.

Cindermen Grab 8th Place At Snyder With 40 Points

By MARSHALL DAY
Staff Writer

The flying Whiteface track team found little opposition from area 3-A schools as they finished eighth in the entire meet at Snyder last weekend and were third in the meet in 3-A behind powerful Lubbock Dunbar and Sweetwater.

Dunbar came out the winner of the entire meet as they collected an even 100 points while Odessa Permian was second, Abilene High third, Midland Lee, fourth, Monterey fifth, Sweetwater sixth, Odessa High seventh, and Hereford eighth with a total of 40 points.

Taking places for the cindermen were the 440-yard relay team which consisted of Elgen Williams, Bobby Burwick, Steve McAndrews, and Gary Goodin. The team placed in the finals with a time of 44.6 behind Dunbar and Sweetwater.

The same group of boys also ran the 880 yard relay and again placed third behind the same two teams as they were clocked at a time of 1:33.3.

Richard Lyons, Charlie Inman, David Kelley, and Willie Holmes combined their efforts to nab a fourth place spot in the two-mile relay with a time of 8:42.2 while Jim Childers

Tony Malouf, Mark Golden, and Bobby Burwick grabbed another fourth in the mile relay with a time of 3:37.8.

Also on the running field, David Waggoner and Percy Mays ran in the 880 and were timed at 2:17.4 and 2:10, respectively. Both of these were termed as good by the coaches.

Others that showed well were Bill McMinn, in the open mile, and McAndrews who reached the semi-finals in the 100-yard dash.

In the field events, John Frank Martin heaved the shot 44 feet while Johnny Cornelius and Tony Gorman threw the shot 43 and 41 feet respectively. In the discus, Cornelius tossed the plate 134 feet, Donny Fangman threw it 126 feet and Gorman let the plated sail for 120 feet.

The next meet for the cindermen will be Saturday when they go to Dumas, where about 10 teams are entered. The preliminaries are set to begin at 9:30 a.m. Most of the district 1-AAA teams are expected to be there.

DISCUS MEN — Discus throwers who represent the flying Whitefaces are, from left to right, Johnny Cornelius, Tony Gorman, and Donny Fangman. In last weeks meet at Snyder, Cornelius led the plate boys as he threw the discus for 134 feet. Fangman came in behind him as he let it sail for 126 feet, and Gorman threw the plate 120 feet. They are now preparing for the meet which is to be held in Dumas this weekend.

St. Anthony's Is Awarded Trophy

Sister Aquinas and Albert Scumbato accompanied a nd coached the boys and girls basketball teams of St. Anthony's Parish last Friday when they traveled to Amarillo to participate in a three day basketball tournament.

Though they did not come out on the winning end of their games, they did show a great deal of sportsmanship and were thus rewarded righteously for their efforts with the presentation of the sportsmanship trophy. On the boys team, Johnny Tigerina, Kevin Betzen, Frank Bezner, Wayne Koelzig, and Lou is Baros were pointed out for their spirit and participation while Julie Urbaczky, Kathy Koozer, Karen Koozer and Kathy Loerwald were cited for their participation in the girls games.

Those who accompanied the students, were Sister Aquinas, Fr. Timothy MacDonald, S. A., Mark Koenig, Albert Scumbato, Mrs. Kenneth Walterscheid, Sister Mary Nell, and Brother Ralph Dally, S. A.

LET'S COOK SOMETHING

Children Pace Family

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

Activities of two school-age daughters set the pace for family life in the Carl Armstrong home, 231 Ave. J, and Mrs. Armstrong expects it to quicken next year when son Robert, now in kindergarten, is old enough to enroll in school.

"IT SEEMS LIKE there has been something doing every minute since Debbie (now 12) started in the first grade," explains the cinnamon-haired housewife.

"So far it's been all girls' activities, so it didn't add too much when Shelly began school, but we're going to have to branch out and add Cub Scouts and Little League to our program next year", she laughs.

Mrs. Armstrong is a group leader of Camp Fire Girls and works with the Girls Auxiliary of Temple Baptist Church. And she observes, "In my spare time I sew to keep the girls dressed".

She has energy left over for some interests of her own, works with women's organizations in her church and is acting president of Young Homemakers Home Demonstration Club this winter. Elected vice president, she advanced in office when the club's president left Hereford for a stay of several weeks.

HER MEMBERSHIP in the H. D. Club began soon after the Armstrongs moved here two years ago from Lamesa. A neighbor invited her to a meeting and she considered it an opportunity to become acquainted with a group of women her age.

Born in Columbus, Kan., she was Darlene Fewin, who moved with her parents to Odessa before she started school, and was a student there through all 12 grades. Attending Texas Woman's University, she majored in business education.

She put her business skills to work as an employee in the registrar's office at Texas A&M while her husband completed his college education.

THE ARMSTRONGS likes Hereford and have found it an easy place to become acquainted. The bustling air of a growing town with new people arriving so often that they are no novelty, reminds Mrs. Armstrong of Odessa, where frequent transfers of oil company employes keep the population fluid.

"It's a friendlier, more casual attitude that you can feel, different from an older, more settled place", she says, and she enjoys it.

As a cook Darlene Armstrong plans menus to appeal to her meat-and-potato-loving husband, including vegetables or fruit in the form of a salad which he likes. Corn is his choice of vegetables, and she has a recipe which combines it with pork chops.

PORK CHOP CASSEROLE
Brown 6 pork chops and arrange them in a casserole. Season 2 cans cream style corn and add 1/2 cup chopped onions and 1/2 cup chopped green pepper.

Pour the corn mixture over the pork chops and bake in a moderate oven, about 350 degrees, until browned.

With this dish, a baked potato and a congealed salad can complete the meal. A salad that is a favorite with her family makes a dessert unnecessary.

COKE SALAD
Mix 1 pkg black cherry flavored gelatin with 1 cup boiling water, and when dissolved add 1 cup Coke. When the mixture begins to jell, add a small canbing cherries and a small can crushed pineapple, both well drained, and about 1/2 cup chopped pecans. Jell and serve.

Whipped cream or dream- whip may be folded in to make a more elaborate salad.

Plant Swap Slated For Garden Club

Exchange of plants and seeds by members of Hereford Garden Club will be a feature of its meeting at 2 p. m. Friday in the home of Mrs. R. L. Layman, 207 Baltimore. Mrs. Milton Adams, chairman of Deaf Smith Chamber of Commerce beautification committee, will be guest speaker.

Mrs. A. O. Thompson, plant bank chairman in the club, will be in charge of the exchange. She has asked members to bring surplus seed and plants for a swap session.

Mrs. Adams' topic is "Are We a Nation of Spoilers?". The problem of littering will be discussed, with a check of how this city and county rate in the control of litter in public places.

Afternoon Tea-Shower Is Compliment To Bride

A bridal shower complimenting Mrs. Charles Danely, who was Miss Linda Kay Blackburn before her marriage last month, was given in First National Community Room. Decorations were in her wedding colors, white and yellow.

Hostesses were Misses Ralph Paul, Carl Schroeder, R. L. Ethridge, W. H. Andrews, Jack Gray, Luther Ellis, Gerald Townsend, Dale Barkley, A. E. Barnett, Hubert Ballard, G. W. Duncan, Floyd Rickman, Don Houle, C. C. Renfro and Andrew Batterman.

They greeted guests and served refreshments in turn during the afternoon calling hours. Mrs. Danely was assisted

Dawn Music Pupils Are In Recital

A spring recital sponsored by Dawn Musettes, junior music club, was presented in Dawn Baptist Church Sunday afternoon for an audience of families and friends. Voice and piano students were heard, with Mrs. Carl Wimberley and Mrs. Ray Stewart as accompanists.

Kathy Carter played flute solos, Battle Hymn Of The Republic and a hymn, Sweet Hour of Prayer. Phyllis Richardson's vocal solos were God Is My Shepherd (Dvorak) and Climb Every Mountain, from the musical show, Sound Of Music.

Linda Stewart sang two numbers, Christ Went Up Into The Hills and Who Is Sylvia? Dianne Golden's song was The Dances, and Jerry Stewart's the ballad, Black Is The Color. Denny and Danny Brillhart sang duets, This Little Light and Do, Lord.

Piano solos were presented by Carol Ann Bavousett, Sharon Owens, Melissa Miller, Vicki Heck, Wesley Strain, Susan Cox, Christi Husmann, Bette Stewart and Terri Owens.

The program opened with an invocation by Edgar Sowell and audience singing of America.

Nine of the participating students, one in high school, will enter the Junior Music Festival in Hereford Friday. Four, high school and junior high pupils, competed in Interscholastic League solos at Canyon last Saturday.

BIRTH ANNOUNCED

Birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Steve Swan, 9014 Concho, Houston, has been announced to friends here. Mrs. Swan is a former Hereford resident, who grew up and graduated from high school here as Jeanie Drever. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Drever, now of Clearwater, Fla. The baby, born Feb. 28, was named Stephanie Helen.

along streets and highways and around homes and business houses.

Reports on the recent convention of District I, Texas Garden Clubs Inc., at which Hereford Garden Club was a host group here, will be made by Mrs. Ray L. Johnson, club president who was co-chairman of convention arrangements, and other committee heads.

by her mother, Mrs. Arthur Blackburn, in receiving callers. Pom-pom mums in yellow and white centered the tea table, and made corsages for the honoree and hostesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Danely are at home at 114 Northwest Drive after a honeymoon in the New Mexico mountains which followed their marriage here Feb. 10.

Priest Closes Work, Leaving For New Post

The Rev. Timothy MacDonald, S. A., associate pastor of St. Anthony's Catholic Church the past six months, celebrated his final mass in the Hereford church Sunday before leaving for a new assignment at Brockton, Mass.

Response for the mass was sung by the congregation. Father Timothy gave a short homily, saying goodbye to friends he has made in the congregation here and expressing his pleasure at the work he has had a part in during his first year as a priest. His closing remark was a hope that "some will say, 'Y'all come back'".

Members of St. Anthony's Parish honored him with a basket dinner, one of several social events in appreciation for his services as a teacher and a pastor.

He was one of the newly elected officers in Hereford Ministerial Association, and in St. Anthony's Church he worked with the Antonion Circle, Young Adults Club and Youth Club.

Young Adults, entertaining with a dance at the Knights of Columbus Hall Sunday evening, presented Father Timothy a trophy engraved with all their names. He had served the club as moderator.

A supper at the Hickory Log was held before the dance which was attended by 25 members, the honoree and the Rev. John Vanderquill, S. A., and Brother Ralph Dally, S. A.

Change Of Date For Federation Luncheon Made

A change in date for the spring meeting of Deaf Smith County Federation of Women's Clubs is announced by Mrs. C. D. Kelton, president, in order that performers wanted for a Fine Arts program may be available.

Originally scheduled on April 30, the covered dish luncheon and program will be held instead a week earlier on Tuesday, April 23. Mrs. R. C. Godwin is program chairman.

This is the final meeting of a season, and officers elected Jan. 30 for the 1968-69 year will be installed. Mrs. W. T. Carmichael will take office as president.

Hostess clubs are Bud To Blossom Garden Club, Summerfield and El Llano Study Clubs. As at all Federation meetings, not only members of the affiliated clubs, but all women of the county are invited to bring a dish for the luncheon and come to the meeting.

Model 220

Makes indoor black and white pictures without flash.

Lowest priced Polaroid Color Pack Camera ever offered!

This automatic camera has the basic features of the most expensive Polaroid models; same great film, same fast loading, same electric eye operation, same big 3 1/4 x 4 1/4 inch prints. And the same fun and excitement of seeing your finished color pictures in just one minute, black and whites in seconds. It's an honest-to-goodness Automatic Color Pack Camera at an economy price.

An "expensive" camera at a low price.

In addition to all the things the Model 210 can do, this Color Pack Camera can make automatic time exposures up to 10 seconds, take black and white pictures indoors without flash, has four film speed settings, and two exposure ranges for color and two for black and white. The deluxe coupled range and viewfinder utilizes a superimposed double-image principle to give you an accurate range setting. The viewfinder automatically corrects for parallax as you focus, insuring proper framing, regardless of the distance of your subject from the lens. The difference is easy to see.

HORSES GIVEN TO GIRLSTOWN — On their way to Girlstown USA for the pleasure of young cowgirls in that West Texas residence home for girls, the sorrel mare Pet and the little Shetland, Fury, went Friday as the gift of Mr. and Mrs. Inman Larsen, who farm south of Hereford. O. M. Hill of the Girlstown staff brought a double horse trailer up to take the horses to their new home in the farm area of Girlstown near Whiteface Hill, left, and Larsen are shown just prior to loading the horses in the Larsens' barn yard.

Party Cotsumes Suggest Songs

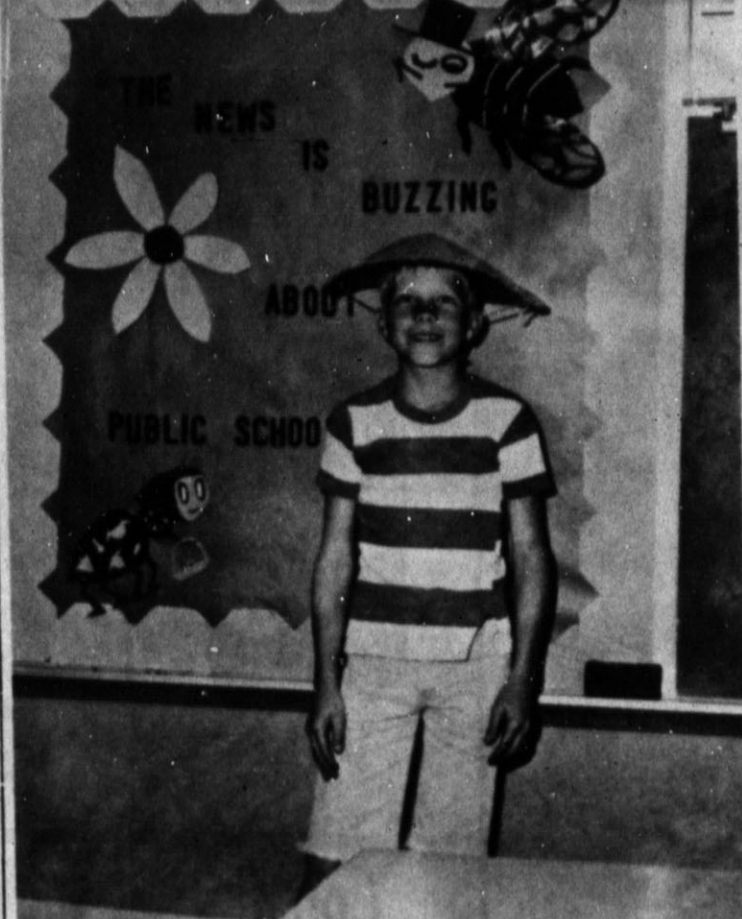

Song titles were suggested by costumes worn to a record party Tuesday evening by members of Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi. Hostesses at Community Center were social committee members headed by Mrs. Larry Summers, chairman.

Clever costumes included those of Mrs. J. D. Greeson, in a dress with drawings of eyes for the title, "I Can't Take My Eyes off You"; Mrs. Pat Parker as a "Dolly With a Hole In Her Stocking"; Mrs. C. D. Fitzgerald in a "Deep Purple" costume; Mrs. Dean Hacker in Chinese dress and conical hat suggesting "Slow Boat To China"; Mrs. Summers with roses pinned over her dress to suggest "Ramblin' Rose".

CARD OF THANKS

We cannot find words to express our thanks to Doctors Rush, Hicks and Johnson and the nurses, to our minister, to Mr. Gilliland for their service to us during the sickness and death of our beloved husband, father and grandfather. To all our friends who expressed so sweetly their love and sympathy in the many flowers, food, letters and cards. Truly, you have done what you could to help us bear our sorrow. May God richly bless each of you.

In a brief business session the group discussed a benefit style show to be staged at Gaston's Mall Store March 22. The ways and means committee, with Mrs. Gilliland as chairman, is in charge of arrangements.
Mrs. Gore is chairman of ticket sales, being conducted by all members. Theme of the show will be March Into Spring. Women's, men's, children's and teens' fashions will be displayed.

BEES IN RICE PADDY — Gerald Robbins of Bluebonnet School is not really a Chinese rice paddy boy but a hat designer. The sixth-grader displays his own creation here, as a project for his geography lesson during Public School Week. The bees aren't real, either.

HHS Chooses 7 Entries For Fair

Hereford High School has announced the seven students who will join students from the other local junior high and elementary schools in the Texas Panhandle Science Fair exhibits, to be presented at Amarillo on April 5, 6 and 7.

For chemistry and bio-chemistry are Frank Nobles (division Grand Champion here) and Laurel Davis. For medicine and health, Glynda Landers; zoology Kelly Walker; and physics, David Jolly, Bryan Knox and Galen Evans.

The 11th annual Texas Panhandle Science Fair will be held in the Commercial Exhibits Building on the Tri-State Fair grounds. Exhibits will be shown by student representatives of schools in 26 counties in the Panhandle area.

Chambers Plan Area Workshop

Tuesday, March 19th has been set as the date for the annual Area Leaders Workshop, which is to be sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Scheduled to begin at 9:30 a. m., the workshop will be held in Amarillo at the Herring Hotel with the key speaker to be Frank Mueller, of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The purpose of the workshop is to enable area Chamber leaders to clinic local chamber problems with men in similar positions in other chambers and to hear an outstanding speaker on chamber of commerce organization.

A six-hour course in child care has just been completed by A-Ay-Wa-Ki-A Junior High Camp Fire group, with Mrs. M. C. Knox, registered nurse, as instructor. The course was designed to prepare the girls for service in baby-sitting.

It was given in three sessions, one illustrated with use of a film. Girls plan now to take a test on content of the course.
Mrs. Eugene Brink is leader of the group.

Quarter Horse Judging Clinic To Be Saturday

AMARILLO — A Quarter Horse Judging Clinic and practice judging contest will be held on Saturday at Cockrell's Indoor Arena, which is located approximately one mile east of Amarillo on U. S. 287.

Deaf Smith County residents will have an opportunity to participate. W. W. Grisham Jr., district agriculture agent, said the events will be held for Extension District 1 county agriculture agents, adult 4-H Club leaders and 4-H Club members.

The events are being sponsored by the Golden Spread Quarter Horse Association, of which Jack Streun of the Summerfield community is president, and the Texas Agriculture Extension Service.

The clinic will begin at 8:30 a. m. and the judging contest will be held during the afternoon. Each of the 22 counties in the district may enter two 4-H teams — one junior and one senior — in the judging contest.

The judging clinic will include sessions on conformation (horses at halter), western pleasure, reining, cutting and roping. The afternoon contest will consist of these same classes.

About 250 participants are expected for the day-long event. Following the judging contest, classes will be discussed and awards will be presented to the top judging teams.

Kappa Iota Has Model Meeting

Prospective pledges of Kappa Iota Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, were honor guests at a model meeting of the sorority group Tuesday evening in Community Center. Mrs. Wendell Maloney sketched the history of Beta Sigma Phi and explained its program and aims.

Introduced by Mrs. Max Go-forth, chapter president, the honorees were Mrs. Joe Frank Huckert, Mrs. Keith Henderson and Mrs. Leland Dean. A preferential dinner for pledges is planned for March 21 at Hereford Country Club.

The membership committee, Mmes. Maloney, Johnny Griggs, Duke Powell and Martha Hill, acted as hostesses for the model meeting. Mrs. Jim Aldridge gave the program on Pictures.

Another in a series of informal teas for residents at Kings Manor was scheduled for 3 p. m. Monday in the Manor dining room. Chapter members agreed to observe as hostesses during open hours at Deaf Smith County Museum March 16-31.

Officers for next season are to be elected at the next meeting, March 19 in Community Center.

Girls Exhibit Show Champions

Johnette and Jackie Kelly, granddaughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Kelly Sr. and Mrs. Geneva West, all of Hereford, made excellent showings recently in the Carson County Junior Livestock Show.

Johnette, 11, exhibited the Grand Champion Angus Steer and Jackie, 13, showed the Reserve Champion in the Angus class. Both animals were from

Easter Seals Are Adding To Services

Because of the steady growth in numbers of crippled children and adults in Texas, the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas has stepped up its rehabilitation services.

According to J. A. Hodges, Jr. who is the Easter Seal Representative for Deaf Smith County, a total of 17,622 handicapped Texans received Easter Seal treatments during 1967.

"Despite medical and scientific advances," Hodges explained, "the ranks of the crippled are growing. This is because of population growth, increased number of accidents and medical treatment which saves victims of crippling diseases who might not have lived in past years."

State-wide Easter Seal services were provided for 17,622 Texans last year, he pointed out. Quoting the annual report of the Easter Seal Society for Crippled Children and Adults of Texas he said that 21 affiliated treatment centers are in operation in Texas. They include treatment and rehabilitation centers, sheltered workshops, recreation and educational programs and many others.

"Through these programs persons with a wide variety of handicaps receive the help they need to lead normal lives," Hodges said.

The largest group served include those with major deformities of bones and joints, severe speech defects, cerebral palsy, arthritis, muscular dystrophy and multiple sclerosis and stroke. The Easter Seal Campaign which provides funds for continuation of these services began March 1 and continues through April 14, Easter Sunday.

Couple Wed In Home Ceremony

The marriage of Mrs. Mariene Cronin, daughter of Mr. and Jimmie Allred, and James Ivey Durham of Bryan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Durham, was solemnized Sunday morning in the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Anderson, 483 Westhaven.

Dr. W. H. Clark, Plainview Baptist minister, conducted the ceremony as the wedding party stood before a large window between baskets of white gladiolas and pompom mums.

Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Bill Clark of Lubbock, and best man was the bridegroom's father. Wedding music was by Mrs. Lynton Allred, vocal soloist, accompanied by Mrs. B. Y. Crosthwait.

The bride wore a dress of springtime green with matching full-length coat and had a double gardenia corsage. Mrs. Clark was dressed in olive green.

A reception in the home followed the ceremony. The couple went to a home in Tropicana Apartment 22, 2701 Kent, Bryan. Durham is a teacher in A&M University. Mrs. Durham has been employed as secretary by a bakery firm at Lubbock.

Honoring the couple on the evening before the wedding was a dinner in the J. J. Durham home. The bride-elect was complimented with a coffee Saturday morning in the home of Mrs. Ed Warren.

Mrs. Norman D. Bartlett, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Baylor Durham of Waco, his aunt, poured coffee and Miss Mary Eva Durham of Austin, a cousin, was at the guest register.

Out-of-city guests for the wedding included Tommy and Jimmy Cronin, Bill Clark and Norman D. Bartlett of Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Shirley McLarty of Dallas and Mrs. Florence Hogg of Claude.

Talk of Texas

By Jack Maguire
FREEDOM'S FORGE — When Texas celebrates the 132nd anniversary of its independence this March 2, not many will remember that the delegates met in a blacksmith shop to declare their freedom from Mexico.

When it was decided to hold the Texas Convention of Independence at Washington-on-the-Brazos, the only building large enough to hold the delegates was Noah T. Byars' blacksmith shop. Byars wasn't even a delegate, but he moved the forge and tools out of the shop and installed split logs for seats.

Byars went on to serve in Sam Houston's army, was the first sergeant-at-arms of the Texas Congress and was elected an associate judge of the Travis County Court. Later he tried politics and then became a Baptist missionary. He is buried in Brownwood.

And his blacksmith shop? It has been reconstructed on the original site, and may be visited today at Washington-on-the-Brazos.

ONE OF A KIND — Serbin, in southern Lee County, is one of two Wendish settlements remaining in the world. (The other is in Australia).

Wends are Germans of Slavic descent who emigrated from southeast Germany in 1854 and settled in more than a dozen communities in Texas. Except for the village of Serbin, however, the Wends (or Serbs, as they prefer to be called) have no recognizable settlement left in the state.

BIG MONEY — Texas' three largest banks have more than one-fifth of all of the funds on deposit in the entire state.

A TV GHOST THAT'S REAL — More than 14 years after it happened, scientists still can't figure out why the test pattern of a Houston television station was picked up in England — three years after the station went off the air.

On September 14, 1953, English viewers began picking up the test pattern and call letters of KLEE-TV of Houston. The station had been sold three years before to KPRC-TV. Since that time, the KLEE call letters had not been assigned to any other station in the world. No KLEE test pattern or call letters had been transmitted for 36 months.

What really happened has never been determined. However, scientists who have studied the phenomenon are convinced that it was some kind of a hoax — but they can't explain it.

THE BIG SHOW — When Houston's Roy Hofheinz and some associates bought the Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey Circus last fall, the Texan proved that he was the kind of showman worthy of running an enterprise that calls itself "The Greatest Show on Earth."

With a press agent's sense of the dramatic, Hofheinz insisted on completing the deal at the main gate of the Colosseum in Rome — the spot where the world's first circus was held in the first century.

Former Adrian coach Don Johnson and the Darrrouzett Longhorns are the Champions of Region 1 B.

Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Gainer and boys of Borger visited in Adrian Sunday. They are former Adrian residents.

There were around 50 people from Adrian at Red River for a weekend of snow skiing. There were a few of us that stayed home.

The Adrian Lions Club donated $1,000 toward a tennis court. We need all the help of the community to build it. We will be asking for donations. The school has agreed to furnish the balance.

VOLLEYBALL
Adults Only — every Tuesday and Thursday night in the Adrian Gym, starting at 7: p.m. Adults Only.

Funeral was held Friday afternoon for Mrs. Nannie Gruhkey, 78, of Adrian, in the N. S. Griggs and Sons funeral home, in Amarillo. Mrs. Gruhkey died Wednesday afternoon in her farm home about 5 miles West of Adrian.

A native of Mississippi, she had lived in the Adrian area since 1938. She was a member of the First Baptist Church in Adrian. Survivors include six sons, Calvin and Albert of Amarillo, and George, Carroll, Bob and R. M. all of Adrian.

The Cub Scout banquet was held last Thursday night at the Adrian Methodist Church in the Fellowship Hall. Monty Toke of Amarillo was the guest speaker and presented the registration cards to Don Morgan, Don Travis, Bob Wood, Fred Harwood, Kate Bradley, Joyce Rich, Naomi Jobe and Wilbur Harris.

Bob Wood presented the awards to the Cub Scouts as follows: Dennis Brown-1 year pin, Sportsman pin and Athlete pin; Paul Jacobson, 1-year pin, 1 gold arrow point and Webelos Color Badges; Randy Harris-1 year pin, 1 gold arrow point and 1 silver arrow point; Richard Harris-Bob cat badge, Wolf Badge, 1 gold arrow point; Rodney Ferguson-Wolf Badge, 1 gold arrow point and 5 silver arrow points; Ernie Wood-Bear Badge and 1 year pin; and Jeff Bradley, Peter Brown and Stephen

Stanton Singers Win In Contest

Stanton Junior High captured two first place awards, and 19 second places in the North Zone Vocal Solo and Ensemble at Canyon Saturday.

Placing first were Carola Scott in solo, and Alicia Hubble, Nelda Norton and Vickie Keenan in Girls Trio.

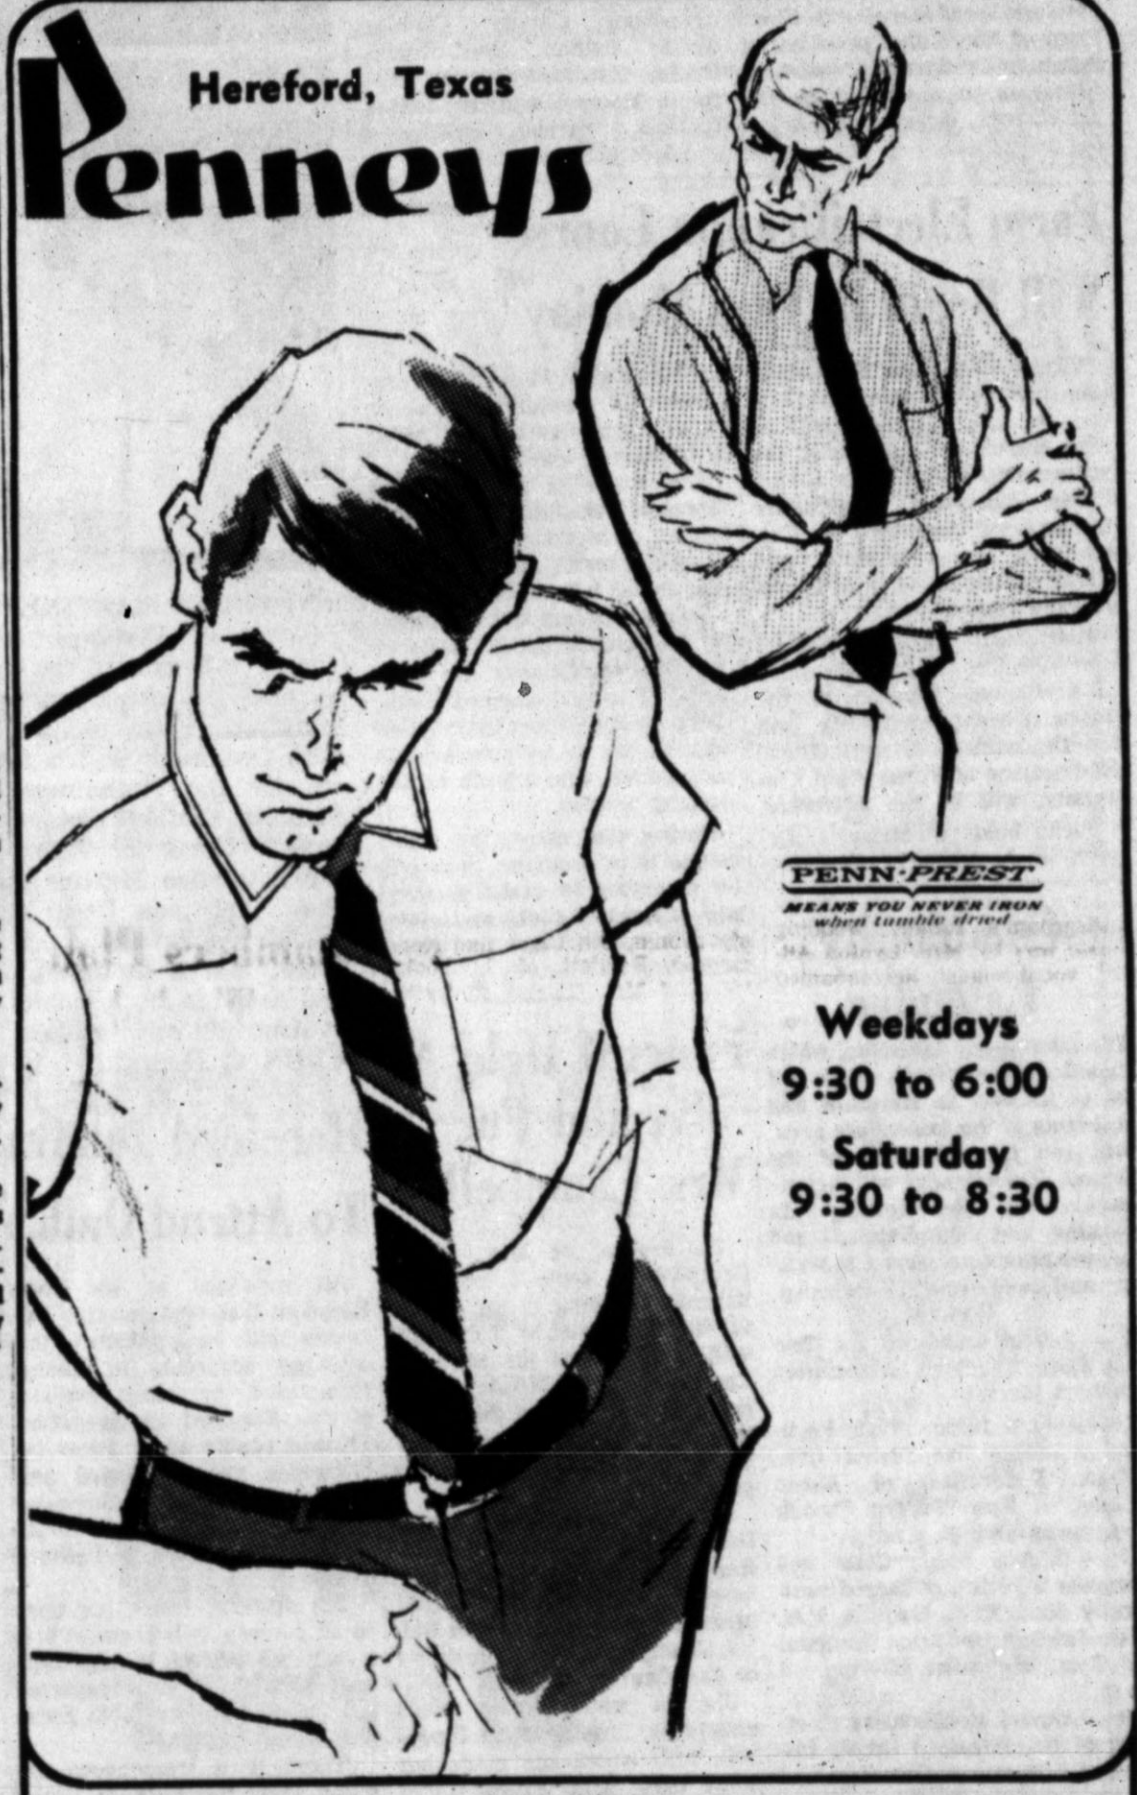

A Madrigal group placed second in that category, and nine soloists finished second. They were Kevin Young, Lester Mays, Terri Carter, Ricki Ward, John Sparks, Holly Young, Theresa Vines, Jaime Pitman and Carl Brown.

Douglas Morris, Stanton choir director, said approximately 30 students competed in the Canyon events. Mrs. Bill Devers and Miss Donna Johnson accompanied many of the soloists.

The Stanton Mixed Choir and Girl's Choir will compete in choir contests at Canyon on March 22.

The annual District 1 convention of the Texas Farmers Union in Canyon Saturday will have Leo Witkowski of Hereford, president of the Texas Wheat Growers Association, on its panel.

The convention will begin with registration at 1 p. m. at the Student Union Building and panels will begin at 2 p. m.

Panel discussions are being planned on wheat, cotton, grain sorghum and livestock. Moderator for the panel discussions will be Lewis David of College Station executive director of the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Cotton panelists will be Joe Pate of Lubbock, Cotton Oil Mill Board Director, and Joe Rardin, director of District II of the Farmers Union. Wheat panelists will be Witkowski; Ken Kendrick of Stratford, secretary of the Texas Wheat Growers, and C. L. Edwards of Panhandle, a member of the Carson County ASCS.

Grain sorghum panelists will be Bill Nelson of Amarillo, executive secretary of the Grain Sorghum Producers, and Ebert Harp of Abilene, president of Sorghum Producers Association. Livestock panelists will be Dr. Ed Uvacek, director of marketing and research at Texas A&M, College Station; Bob Lindsey of Canyon, cattle producer and president of the Randall County Farmers Union, and Earl Henderson of Morse, cattle producer.

For the ladies, a reception, entertainment, style show and tours are planned.

Some 500 Panhandle and Plains farmers are expected to attend the convention. Jay Naman of Waco, president of the Texas Farmers Union, will be present, and the principal speaker will be Ed Christianson of St. Paul, Minn., vice president of the National Farmers Union.

Christianson has been president of the Minnesota Farmers Union, has been a member of the National Farmers Union Executive Committee since 1955 and served as chairman of the Committee from 1962 until 1965. He was elected to his present position in 1966.

Christianson will speak during a banquet at 7:30 p. m. in the West Texas State East Cafeteria.

District I of the TFU includes Armstrong, Carson, Collingsworth, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Hansford, Hartley, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Potter, Randall, Wheeler, Hutchinson and Hemphill counties.

SP-4 OSCAR MARTINEZ — With the United States Army in Vietnam, the 20-year-old Martinez is shown with two of the medals he has received, and a third one displayed by parents at their home in Hereford. In one picture, Martinez (center) is shown with two other G. I.'s following decoration ceremonies for the Vietnamese Gallantry Cross and Gold Star. In another picture, he is shown receiving the Bronze Cross for Valor. At the bottom is Mr. and Mrs. Amadeo Martinez of 211 Harrah, who proudly show their son Oscar's Purple Heart citation and medal. Oscar has a brother Raul, a student at La Plata, and a brother and sister at Central, Esther and Amadeo Jr. A sister, Mrs. Mary Rodriguez, lives at Amarillo and brother Mario is with radio station KDHN at Dimmit.

Clark Describes Task Of Educators

Education and schools was described as "the most important business in this or any other community" Monday by Superintendent of Schools Johnny Clark Jr. before the Hereford Rotary Club.

"Society has become more and more dependent on education," explained Clark, "and will become more so in the future." He stressed that every boy and girl who completes high school and doesn't go on to college is lost in society today. Clark's talk was in conjunction with Public Schools Week.

Speaking of the young people and jobs, Clark explained that educators and business leaders can only predict that the future will be "vastly different. Changes are that 50 per cent of the jobs they will go into don't even exist now. And it's becoming more so in all fields."

Last year, 20 times as much money was spent on education as it had been four years before and "something is bound to come out of it if we spend money." The money spent accounts for the new programs such as the new math and a new program of English.

"We try to stay with the standards, the tried and true methods," stressed Clark, "yet we are keeping up with the changes."

The educator explained that he felt there is "a need to determine the goals and objectives in education. There is a perfection of means, but a confusion of goals."

Students also receive some of the fundamental facets of life in school, said Clark. "It presents a tremendous challenge for teachers. Children come to us with all types of needs and wants. It's a tremendous responsibility. If we don't give the youngsters what they need now and enough to take them through life, we have failed."

David E. Halstead

Former Resident Gets Decoration

Specialist 4c David E. Halstead of Sweetwater, former Hereford resident and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Rube T. Adams of 309 Ave. J, has received the Army Commendation Medal for meritorious achievement in Vietnam action.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Gilliam of Sweetwater, Halstead was decorated for action in connection with ground operations against a hostile force in Vietnam during the period from Jan. 1 to Feb. 4.

"Despite sniper fire, mortar and B4's rocket rounds, he assisted materially in the feeding, housing, resupply, and maintenance of security for more than 35,000 American military and civilian personnel stationed in the city of Saigon," the citation read in part.

Mrs. Gilliam is the former Joanna Adams of Hereford. Bob T. Adams of 309 Ave. J is an uncle of Halstead.

There were still a few Longhorns on the ranges as late as 1890.

Martin Begins Work In Movie

Gerald Martin, operator of the Hereford Flying Service, who went to Spain in January to act as pilot for one of the German aircraft to be used in the movie "The Battle of Britain," has gone into official production this month for the interior scenes and plot formation.

The script is by James Kenway and the epic World War II production is based on the version of the story called "The Narrow Margin" by D. Wood and D. Dempster. Guy Hamilton will direct for producers Harry Saltzman and S. Benjamin Fiske.

Martin is still in Spain with the picture. He has reported that everything was going fine there until it began raining. It has rained for eighteen days! Of course, no flying for the cameras during this period.

The stars of the picture have not as yet been signed.

Farm Electrification Course Will Begin In Vega Monday

VEGA — A Farm Electrification short course on electric motors for adult farmers will be held March 11 — 14 under the sponsorship of the Vega High School Vocational Agriculture Department, according to Easton Wall, superintendent, and Frank Kennedy, teacher of Vocational Agriculture.

Bob Jaska, Farm Electrification specialist with the Vocational Agriculture Division of the Texas Education Agency and the Department of Agricultural Engineering at Texas A&M University, will be the instructor.

Jaska holds a Master's Degree in Agricultural Engineering. Since 1947, he has been prominent in research work in Farm Electrification at A&M, in addition to teaching.

The course at the Vega High School is scheduled to begin at 7 p. m. on Monday. Other meetings in a series of four will be held on the following three days.

Farmers interested in attending the course should write or call Wall or Kennedy. An entry fee of $3 will be charged. Farm Electrification Short Course Certificates are to be presented to each person who attends all the training sessions.

During the dates the short course is in progress, Jaska will be available to assist farmers with individual problems and to provide on-the-farm instruction according to Kennedy.

Hereford Jehovah's Witnesses To Attend Dalhart Meeting

All meetings at the local Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses will be canceled this weekend according to George Humphries, presiding minister of the Hereford congregation. This will enable all of Jehovah's Witnesses and interested persons to attend the three-day semi-annual assembly at the Rita Blanca Coliseum in Dalhart, Texas.

The sessions, which are open to all persons, will begin at 6:45 p. m., and will run through Sunday, to 6 p. m. It is expected that many from the local group will attend.

"There is a tremendous demand upon the faith of Christians today," Humphries said. "The situation internationally, nationally, and even within the family circle is very crucial. The only freedom from these anxieties is the Christian's faith. These assemblies are in part to enhance a person's faith. The very theme of the convention: 'Strengthening One Another to Remain in the Faith,' recognizes this vital aspect of modern day life," Humphries said.

"As a source of strength, Christians would do well to reflect on the experiences of the early Christians as reported in the 14th chapter of the Bible book: Acts of the Apostles. The 22nd verse tells us how Paul and Barnabas were 'strengthening the souls of the disciples, encouraging them to remain in surrounding circumstances are on the basis for the assembly this weekend," Humphries said. Humphries said all local meetings will resume Tuesday, March 12.

The Senate has voted to establish a 501,500-acre North Cascades National Park in Washington state. The House of Representatives will consider the measure this year.

AROUND THE WORLD IN THE SIXTH GRADE — Mrs. Bill Michael's sixth grade students at Bluebonnet School have been studying Europe and Asia in geography. So it was decided that each of the 28 participating pupils would choose the country they would like to represent, dress the way they do, and be able to tell the class about the country. But it blossomed. They were so good that they were invited to appear in nearly every class in costume at Bluebonnet.

Welfare System Could Be Changed By Court Lawsuit

By VERN SANFORD Texas Press Association

AUSTIN — A federal court lawsuit filed with little fanfare may have far-reaching consequences for the state's welfare system and finances. Suit challenges the one-year state residency requirement for eligibility to receive aid to needy families with dependent children. Actually, the issue goes considerably farther than a single class of assistance. Texas attaches this residence requirement to all major types of welfare eligibility.

Welfare outlays in the state last year totaled $257,900,000 of which $85,600,000 was state money.

Attorneys for Mrs. Angelina B. Alvarez of San Antonio, mother of six children, entered the federal court suit to require the State Department of Public Welfare to grant her AFDC assistance, although she admittedly has not lived in the state a year. Suit claims the residence restriction is unconstitutional, since 76 per cent of AFDC funds are provided by federal government.

Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin, in an answering brief, vigorously defends the state constitutional and statutory provisions requiring a year's residency for welfare beneficiaries. Lack of such restrictions, contends Martin, would create a "nomad" class of state-to-state wanderers.

Legislatures of 40 states and Congress recognize a residency requirement as a condition of eligibility, Martin argues. Suit, he maintains, would compel withdrawal of money from the state treasury without a pre-existing law.

A Pennsylvania federal district court has upheld a similar restriction as the one applied in Texas, but a Connecticut court threw out that state's limitation as unconstitutional restriction on free travel. Latter suit now has gone to the U. S. Supreme Court for review.

Texas case soon will be heard by a three-judge court.

TAX BILL — Legislative Budget Board staff forecasters see a $122,800,000 tax bill as necessary to finance the $468,500,000 general revenue spending bill tentatively recommended by the Board for 1969. This is about $25,000,000 above 1968's spending level of $443,500,000.

According to staff predictions, $345,600,000 in general revenue will be available for spending in stroy important targets still untouched.

And our ground forces are entitled to full air and seapower support.

1969 after automatic deductions of money for earmarked purposes.

GOVERNORS ASKED FOR ADVICE — State Constitutional Revision Commission panel has voted to call on Gov. John Connally and ex-Govs. Price Daniel and Allan Shivers for advice on best standards for deciding how to change the governor's powers and length of term.

Executive office committee debated at length whether the governor should be limited to one or two four-year terms and whether Texas should adopt a "cabinet" form of state government with strong governor provisions.

COURTS SPEAK — State Supreme Court and Third Court of Civil Appeals in two recent decisions concluded that a former State Savings and Loan Commissioner should have granted authority for loan-savings concerns in downtown Houston and Richardson. Applications had been denied by the Commissioner.

Court of Criminal Appeals upheld a Harrison County jury verdict of life imprisonment for a man convicted of drowning his wife.

Same Court affirmed a 20-year sentence of a San Angelo man for the slaying of a cab driver in 1966.

CRIME ON RAMPAGE — Texas Department of Public Safety reports that Texas crime increased 11.8 per cent in 1967 over the previous year, for a new all-time high number of criminal offenses — one every minute and a half.

An estimated 332,986 major crimes were committed in Texas during 1967, compared to 297,810 offenses the year before, said DPS Director Homer Garrison Jr.

All major categories of crime — murder, rape, robbery, burglary, aggravated assault and theft — were up 10 per cent or more. Only 27 per cent of known offenses were cleared by arrests during the year.

APPOINTMENTS — Attorney General Martin has named former State Rep. Pat Cain of Austin to head his anti-trust and consumer protection division. Division handles anti-trust matters as well as enforcement of the new state consumer credit code.

O. N. (Newt) Humphreys, Austin, moved up to acting administrator of the State Liquor Control Board after the Board accepted the resignation of veteran Administrator Coke Stevenson Jr.

W. A. (Dub) Cowan, formerly of Coryell County, succeeds Humphreys as agent-in-charge of the Department of Public Safety intelligence section. Maurice Beckham of Hallsburg took over Cowan's old job as assistant.

Park is located where the Texas Declaration of Independence was signed on March 2, 1835.

SHORT SNORTS — Agriculture Commissioner John C. White warned Texas dairymen to proceed with caution when considering mandatory laws regulating prices of milk, saying "Price stabilization laws can be harmful if they are hastily written and poorly administered."

Texas Industrial Commission reports that seven new industries have located in West Texas since the first of the year — three in Abilene, three in Odessa-Midland and one in Fort Stockton.

Texas Aeronautics Commission will hold a hearing March 12 on application of Charles E. King of Wichita Falls for a permit to provide airline passenger service between Wichita Falls and Dallas.

Governor Connally has approved a $5,500 planning grant for Smith County-Tyler area Council of Governments and a $8,500 grant for Heart of Texas Council which includes Waco, Woodway, West, Lacy-Lakeview and Bellmead.

Attorney General Martin has held that a witness required to testify before a House committee studying liquor laws would gain immunity from criminal prosecution for unlawful acts he had to tell about.

In another opinion, Martin held that the Rio Grande Independent Rehabilitation District for exceptional children is an independent school district entitled to payment of state aid for its buses.

A record 20,684,000 out-of-state visitors visited Texas last year and spent $1,200,000,000, reports Texas Highway Department.

A $600,000 chair in Civil Jurisprudence has been established at the University of Texas law school as a 51st "birthday present" to Governor Connally.

Application for Citizens State Bank of Irving has been filed with the State Banking Department.

Senator Tower Speaks

Quarantine Of Vietnam Is Big Answer To Ending War

It is very tempting during these tempestuous days for us to bite our tongue when we come to the issue of Vietnam. There is a strong temptation to just shake our heads at past mistakes and say nothing more. After all, we have lived with Vietnam now for going on eight years. As troubling as Vietnam is, I suppose we're getting a little tired of it. Nobody seems to know what to do about it, so it is easiest not to say much about it.

You know, of course, that I have not found it easy or even possible to be quiet about Vietnam. I feel strongly that the people of South Vietnam should have an opportunity to live their lives in peace under a government of their own choice and free from communist aggression.

I have felt that while our national goal in Vietnam should not be unconditional surrender of North Vietnam it should be unconditional freedom for the people of South Vietnam.

All of us remember that our nation has in the past dedicated itself to successful resistance to communist aggression in Greece, Turkey, Iran, Lebanon, Berlin, Guatemala, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines, the Dominican Republic and today in Vietnam.

We have done so because we believe our own nation is most secure and most free in a secure and free world.

You also know that I have been troubled by what I call the "gradualism" policies of the current Administration in conduct of the Vietnam war.

That "gradualism" policy has caused us to pull our punches. It has prolonged the fighting. It has cost American lives unnecessarily. It has not brought about useful negotiations. It has not won the military conflict. I believe the war would be over today if our nation had acted with determination instead of with vacillation.

But now, as we find we are likely to be asked to endure a Reserve call-up and the sending of thousands more Americans to Vietnam, I must frankly say — as I have said before — that while supporting the basic goals proclaimed for our Vietnam effort I cannot support the committing of more U. S. troops without insisting on significant new steps to provide those troops, and the men already there, with a reasonable hope of prompt and ultimate success. I see one important new action which we can take to achieve that end.

I think we should impose a quarantine on North Vietnam. We should quarantine the shipment of supplies into that country, just as President Kennedy quarantined Cuba in the missile crisis of 1962.

This war in Vietnam could be ended in a reasonably short time if the United States imposed a tight air and sea quarantine on the Communist North. It could be ended in a reasonably short time if we conducted a more effective interdiction-bombing program. It could be ended in a reasonably short time if we effectively closed down the port of Haiphong and the rail lines from Red China.

Now, in order that we know what we are talking about, let us just recall a few of the ways in which the North Vietnamese are dependent upon the shipments they receive by sea and rail.

The blunt fact of the matter is that they cannot sustain their aggression in the South without the massive support they get from the Communist Bloc nations — primarily the Soviet Union.

North Vietnam produces virtually nothing of use in a wartime economy except a limited amount of food.

All, I repeat all, of her gasoline and oil come to her by sea from the Soviet Union, Romania and Hungary.

Virtually all of her weapons and ammunition come to her from the Soviet Union, with Red China chipping in a small amount.

All, I repeat all, of her key weapons such as missiles, aircraft and tanks come to her from the Soviet Union. The bulk of these come by rail across Red China. The more sophisticated weapons which the Soviets do not want to risk to Chinese expropriation still must come by sea. A great deal of food is shipped in by sea.

In round figures, about 80 per cent of North Vietnamese supplies come to her by sea.

Without fuel, without weapons, without ammunition, without sufficient food, North Vietnam could not sustain her aggression in the South.

I do not think we can ignore the plea of General Westmoreland for more troops. We must realistically accept the fact that the Communist buildup permitted by our "gradualism" has made possible in recent weeks enemy attacks that have forced he allies temporarily onto the defensive. We must realistically accept the fact that to regain the initiative General Westmoreland probably must have additional forces.

I believe it is important that we confront and defeat communist aggression in Vietnam and help promote creation of a series of Asian buffer states that can peacefully contain Red China but, I think we must insist that our nation commit more men only in concert with an abandonment of the restrictive policies which have prevented victory and prevented useful negotiations.

Our air and sea units have the capability to interdict and de-

Young People Are Target For 1968 Movies, Texas Theatremen Told

By EARL MOSELEY
Staff Writer
(The writer of this article was previously a reporter for Boxoffice Magazine for seven years and active in theatres for 32 years. At one time, he was employed in a Dallas theatre owned by former actor Gene Autry, another that was owned for a short time by the late Jack Ruby, and operated projection rooms there which screened pre-release features for the theatre circuits and newspaper critics. He is also a longtime member of the Baptist Church.)

At the Texas Drive-In Theatre Owners convention in Dallas early in February, Hereford theatremen Francis Hardwick heard speakers who represent movie production in the Hollywood studios advance their future plans, and business leaders of the industry sum up the attendance situation.

Among the subjects discussed was the strong influence of young people in the content of motion pictures, the warning of censorship in the industry, and television's present role in regard to moviegoers.

Samuel Z. Arkoff, chairman of the board and partner with president James H. Nicholson in American International Pictures producers for the past 13 years of low to moderate-budgeted movies which have made a fortune for the studio, told the convention, "Cost alone does not guarantee entertainment. The public wants to see what it wants to see. The public goes for pictures that generate excitement regardless of low or high costs."

AIP had begun in 1955 as a producer of horror and science fiction movies, such as "I Was a Teenage Frankenstein," then graduated into topical ones, like "Diary of a High School Bride," before making Edgar

Mexican Movies Are "Mexican!"

The Texas Theatre at 117 N. Main in Hereford is the local outlet for Mexican-made features for three days each week, Francis Hardwick announced.

While Mexican pictures are of Hollywood quality, Hardwick said, few of them are subtitled or dubbed for the American market. They have a quality too similar to Hollywood's and not enough like the earthy films from France and Italy.

Basically, it was pointed out, the Mexican movie is for the family audience — with a stronger Catholic influence toward morals than any European country.

Allen Poe stories and Frankie Avalon and Annette Funicello in the "Beach Party" series. Afterward, they made the New Breed features, beginning with "The Wild Angels" which Arkoff and said AIP "had its fattest year in history" from a financial standpoint. "The Wild Angels" had Peter Fonda and Nancy Sinatra in a story involving the Hell's Angels motorcycle club.

The AIP company has not only followed the line of such topics as the beach and the "beatnik" motorcyclists but is now on current topics of controversy, with themes of students involved in the usage of LSD and marijuana in "The Trip" and "Maryjane."

As an example, "Maryjane" was shown at the Star during the week that two Portales, New Mexico, "hippies" awaited sentencing on the conviction of possessing marijuana. They were among 14 others arrested following raids there on private residences and college dorms.

Arkoff explained that the "beach" pictures had come at the start of the so-called youth revolt. They had attractive stars a light storyline, but no authority, no teachers and no parents and represented sort of a withdrawal of youth from normal relationships with the older generation.

"In 'The Wild Angels,' there was a reflection of youth rebellion and savageness in action," Arkoff said, but added, "like the beach pictures of a couple of years ago, this era seems to be ending."

In line with AIP's policy, the motorcycle "cycle" will be junked after one more picture, because it is no longer real news headlines — as will LSD and marijuana eventually.

(Hardwick recently finished showing two features which were released but not produced by Arkoff and Nicholson titled "Born Losers" and "Hell's Angels on Wheels.")

Arkoff continued, "The public spends so many hours before the television tube that it is adjusted to visual entertainment. It is up to us in the film industry to make sure that we offer something more than the general bland diet of entertainment which television offers. That, I believe is the future of the film business."

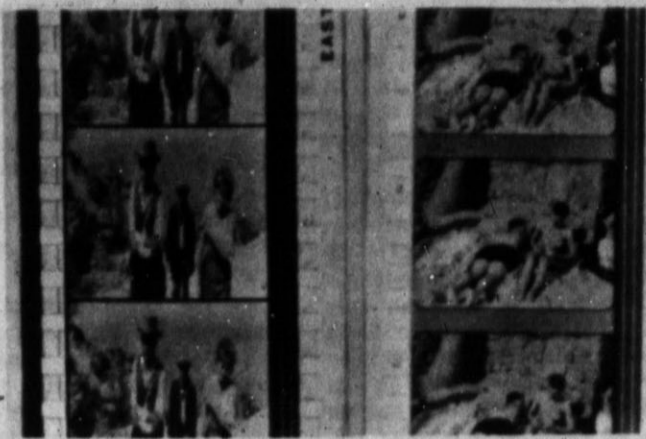

He pointed out that for a motion picture to make it financially nowadays it had to be different. "By daring to be different, I do not mean that films must violate the accepted moral standards of our times but I mean that motion pictures must cause excitement."

"There are so many pictures made today with an eye on television presentation somewhere down the line, but this results in too many standard pictures. Anyway, the public gets so much routine entertainment on television at no cost."

Julian S. Rifkin, president of National Association of Theatre Owners, told the convention, "There is the continuing danger of censorship to which we must all be alert, and there is the need for stronger cooperation within all elements of the film industry so that the producer, distributor and exhibitor (theatreman) all can profit in presenting higher quality screen

DIFFERENCES IN FILM — On the left is a strip of "flat" motion picture photography, called that because the image on the film is the same as it will appear on the screen. Beside it is a strip of "squeezed" photography that must be stretched before its appearance on the screen. The jagged lines on both strips along the left side of the picture is the soundtrack. (These are slightly larger than actual size.)

Ranger Suit Pending

"Bonnie and Clyde," which has been nominated for 10 Academy Awards, was filmed on location around Dallas, Frisco and Venus, Texas, where the two arch-criminals of the 1930's actually started their crime careers.

The film is having a re-bookings at the Star Theatre.

The suit brought against the picture by Bonnie Parker's sister, alleging misrepresentation, has been dropped. However, a similar suit, by the Texas Ranger who was active in the ambush of the pair, is still pending against the producers.

RECKLESS MOVIES? — Many motion pictures with topical subjects are shown at the local theatres and in all parts of the United States. "Maryjane," recently at the Star in Hereford, pointed up the subject of marijuana on school campuses. Its co-producer Samuel Z. Arkoff, explained such movies at a Dallas theatre convention. W. F. Hardwick, local theatre owner, attended the meeting.

Movie Magic Is Explained As Drive-In Sets Opening

The Tower Drive-In Theatre on West Highway 60 will reopen Friday night on a weekend basis for the new season, it was announced by Francis Hardwick, local owner of the outdoor movie.

The drive-in was built in the fall of 1949 and opened in the spring of '50 — "One of the first in the Texas Panhandle," Hardwick said, "as well as being among the first in the smaller cities of the entire United States." The screen tower was destroyed by fire during a snow in 1957, but it was rebuilt a short time later.

This will be the Tower's nineteenth season, Hardwick said. "Naturally, all the entertainment there is on film," Hardwick said, "and the story of this film and how it comes to the Tower is interesting. Of course, it comes to the Star and Texas the same way."

In the first place, the film itself comes into the "exchanges" at Dallas, Hardwick said one of the 26 exchange centers in the United States for distribution to most Texas and some New Mexico theatres. It comes from a film lab in rolls of approximately 1,000 feet, and the inspection department usually splices two rolls together as they rewind them onto metal reels. A complete feature will run from three to 16 reels, depending on length.

Then the theatres sign contracts for the showing of each particular feature. When this is done, the deal is turned over to the bookers — one for the exchange and another for the theatre. The exchange booker will tell the theatre booker when a particular feature will become available for showing and a date is set therefrom, Hardwick related.

Subsequently, a booking is set for the Tower Drive-In Theatre. The feature is shipped here in metal containers (4-reel cans will weigh about 60 lbs.) and delivered to the projection room. Whereupon, it is inspected by the projectionist and made ready for showing, along with short subjects and previews of coming attractions, etc.

Now, the width of this film is one and three-eighths inches, but the "picture area" covers only seven-eighths by three-fourths of an inch, with the rest of the space remaining for sprocket holes on each side — it's transported through the projector by matching sprocket teeth — and the soundtrack. From this minute area, the Tower must project a picture of 57 feet by 45 feet wide-screen or 75 feet by 45 feet on Cinema-

See MAGIC Page 2

FILM IN PROJECTOR — The reel of 35-millimeter film shown at the top of the projector will last approximately seventeen minutes on the screen. Note how the film travels downward into the first section, where the picture is projected to the screen, and into the second section, known as the soubhead. It then winds into the magazine below. Local theatre owner Francis Hardwick is shown checking the equipment at the Tower Drive-In.

entertainment to the waiting public."

Rifkin said, "The future of the motion picture industry is unlimited. Our future lies with the young people."

(The Deaf Smith County population trend is definitely toward more young people. The percentage of young people here under 20 years of age has increased from 38 per cent to 46 per cent since 1940. They are among the controlling decision-makers of Hollywood production.)

Influence from a financial standpoint was attributed to the young people over the movie industry by Jack L. Valenti, president of the Motion Picture Association of America. He said, "Persons between 16 and 24 account for 48 per cent of theatre admissions, and 74 per cent of the movie audiences are between 16 and 40. United States movie audiences buy 107,000,000 tickets per month."

Which places the theatremen in an awkward position at times.

The Star Theatre here completed its booking of a feature titled "Reflections in a Golden Eye," as an example. A major studio release — by Warner Brothers-Seven Arts. Hardwick told the Brand to advise the public "to leave the children at home," because of its adult theme.

"Reflections in a Golden Eye" has not been well received by either the newspaper critics or civic groups of the nation. It wasn't even received by the two leading theatrical journals — Box office and Variety — and has been "panned" by most of the theatre owners themselves. Yet it is listed from actual box office reports as a financial success.

But the Brand can go back 25 years with the Star Theatre — into the days when the movie plots were controlled by the adult population. At that time, the Star was showing "White Cargo" with Hedy Lamarr and Walter Pidgeon, a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, and their advertising read: The story of "White Cargo" was never intended for juvenile entertainment!

In 1943, "White Cargo" was also rated inside and out as a poor movie — and it was a financial hit.

The difference is that "White Cargo" was in a class almost all by itself in 1943. Nowadays, "Reflections in a Golden Eye" has much company.

But how many people in Hereford took the time to be entertained at the Star by "Tammy and the Millionaire" and "The Perils of Pauline" — the two clean family movies which followed "Reflections in a Golden Eye?"

Theatremen in all parts of the United States have reported repeatedly during the past 10 years that, although the adult public begs for clean family entertainment, they will not come out to see it unless it is a Walt Disney film.

(Surveys have indicated that it is not television or non-moral films that has turned the adult away from the movies. On the contrary, it has been their fast pace of living in recent years, which has left little time or patience to be entertained in any form. All forms of amusements and many of the sports have shown attendance declines — television has received as much, if not more, criticism than the movies.)

It was recently revealed in a trial involving Dallas movie theatres that the Texas Review Board, which is responsible for placing age classifications on movies shown in this state, does not see all the films which they classify. Their attorney reportedly stated that the board will consider the subject matter from plot synopses and other information. The Texas Review Board members are all adults.

If the adult, it has been pointed out, wishes to regain control, he must return to the movies in person. It is a local matter. Then it could be promised that pictures of the calibre of "The Ten Commandments" and "The Sound of Music" would replace lower grade movies.

Some phrases have changed with the times too. In 1930, "Hell's Angels" was not a motorcycle group but a World War I aircraft story about the British fighting the Germans, noted as the first million-dollar production of Howard Hughes. It starred the late Jean Harlow and was definitely adult movie fare. And it has been seen by millions of adults over the years — much more remembered than "White Cargo," not because of its raw scenes but of fabulous aerial battle action, unsurpassed by any other war film to date.

Hardwick has already told the Brand: "We stay away from ballyhoo-type sex pictures. They do not do any good in Hereford. We do not want to show that type."

At the present, there is a movie feature shortage, especially for the smaller cities like Hereford. Therefore, showmen must show almost everything that is released or it would be necessary for them to close their doors at certain times and leave their theatres dark. They are businessmen in the same vein as all other merchants and realize this situation is more to their loss than it is to show a film that is not even suited to their own tastes.

If the young people would stop buying tickets for "dirty" movies and concentrate on making good headlines — as most of them do here in Hereford — all adult classified and reckless pictures would disappear. If the adult would return, he might again learn to relax. And it would take the theatremen out of his awkward position.

Valenti summed up the film outlook ahead in remarks he made at the closing session of the convention: "Motion picture enterprise in the United States is brimming with good health and our assets promise to enlarge in the years to come. There ought to be sufficient reason for all to gather both courage and wisdom as we move into the future."

This could be the "clean" turning point: Arkoff announced that AIP would release a $5-million film titled "Cervantes."

But Morris Lefko, vice-president and general manager of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, cited his studio's experience with "Gone With the Wind" as a road show attraction in its sixth reissue.

"We were, frankly, not prepared for the public's reaction to the picture," Lefko said. "Before we opened the first engagement last October, we would have been happy if the United States rentals would have reached $10-million. But now, who can say — perhaps even $30-million is not an excessive figure for this picture — we feel sure it will earn four or five times as much as it has on any previous rounds of bookings, including the first release."

Originally released in 1938, the 30-year-old picture has been brought back on 70-millimeter film instead of the original scope. Magnified several thousand times its actual size, it travels 163 feet through the air between the projector and screen.

In order to have "motion" in the picture, the film will run through the projector at 90 feet per minute. A mile-length of this celluloid will run only 58 and two-thirds minutes. Each frame is projected on the screen only one twenty-fourth of a second. For a feature which runs 90 minutes, a total of 129,600 consecutive frames must be projected — many with only a fraction of difference compared with the frame immediately before it, but just enough difference to produce a constant flow of action.

Each reel is placed in the top of the projector, in a housing called a magazine — and it winds into a magazine at the bottom. In-between, the film is threaded through both the picture and sound mechanisms. Each film exposure is framed into an aperture plate in the picture section — a metal plate, actually, with an opening in the center small enough to release the size of the frame to be projected — and the strip continues below to a rotary drum for sound reproduction, Hardwick demonstrated.

The soundtrack is actually photographed on the same film

35mm, with new stereophonic sound recordings. (The Hereford theatres, as well as the theatres in Amarillo, are not equipped for 70mm showings. Although MGM has made no announcement, it is reasonably certain that the original 35mm version of "Gone With the Wind" will be released soon and will be shown locally. Its showing time is 3 hours 38 minutes with an intermission.)

Leo Greenfield, vice-president and general manager for Cinema Releasing Corp., said, "We are not spending money recklessly, we are spending money with great care in an effort to assure that every dollar spent will be worth an additional dollar in entertainment to our customers."

Cinerama, heretofore photographed on a special process that could only be shown in special large-city theatres on a reserved seat basis, has now gone into the making of standard film-sized features for regular theatres.

strip with the picture. It is seen as jagged lines running vertically alongside each frame and is never shown on the screen. The sound is removed by a tube called an exciter, its beam thus reflects the impulses from these jagged lines into a photo electric cell — places these waves into an amplifier, which in turn transmits the extracted voice and music through speakers for the audience.

Each reel lasts from four to 22 minutes. In order to show a feature continuously without interruption, the projection room must have two projectors. Whereupon, the projectionist makes change-overs from the ending of one reel to the beginning of the next, before an unsuspecting audience. He receives his cues from the screen itself, from markings in the upper right corner of the picture in a series of two, which are about 8 seconds apart. This gives him time enough to make all necessary changes, Hardwick said.

Behind the projector is an arc lamp. The lamp provides the light which puts the picture on the screen. The arc has an intense flame which burns between a positive and a negative carbon, its brightness reflected from a large mirror onto the aperture plate that holds the film, and forces its image through a lens for magnification to the screen beyond.

The electricity for the arc lamp comes from a 220-volt line of alternating current. But it must be changed into direct current before it reaches the arc, otherwise the picture would flicker constantly. The Tower changes this a. c. to d. c. by use of a motor generator.

The carbon arcs will burn 120 amperes at the drive-in — enough light for a picture to be projected 500 feet away, Hardwick pointed out.

The film image of the "flat" widescreen features are exactly the same as the image shown on the screen. But the Cinema-scope and other "squeezed" photographic processes have a film image which is distorted — similar to the "skinny pane" in the Hall of Mirrors. (See film examples of "flat" and "squeezed" on the A. B. I. page.) The squeezed prints are, of course, spread out on the screen — by a special anamorphic lens, which not only increases the width on the screen but removes the distortion.

When the Tower booking is ended, the film is reshipped — either to another theatre or back to the exchange. If it ever shows in Hereford again, it will have to be rebooked.

Throughout the United States, a number of prints are made on each picture — sometimes up to five hundred. Film is on acetate safety stock now and will not burn with any great intensity, as it did a few years ago on nitrate stock. All film subjects are protected under copyrights.

But as the case stands with all man-made things, the film stock which holds the picture eventually wears out — from the large number of runs it receives through the projectors, the intense heat from the arc lamps, etc. — and it is returned to the laboratory from whence it came originally, to be destroyed. Believe it or not, it is put into a furnace.

Film is listed as the cheapest item by the movie producers. Their cameramen will shoot a hundred-thousand extra feet of film, from which the editor will make his choice in the final cutting and leave the rest for "junk."

However, the theatremen usually finds that this same film is the most expensive item on his overhead list. The terms of his contract rentals are determined by the "pulling power" of this film and can sometimes run pretty high. And if this film is damaged in any way while it is being shown in his theatre, he must pay for it at so much per foot, Hardwick related.

Yet film — on negatives — can provide a more lasting record of life than any other of man's inventions. And film has provided more entertainment to the masses than any other media.

The Tower Drive-In Theatre will begin its fulltime operation in May, with 2 "film" features on each program.

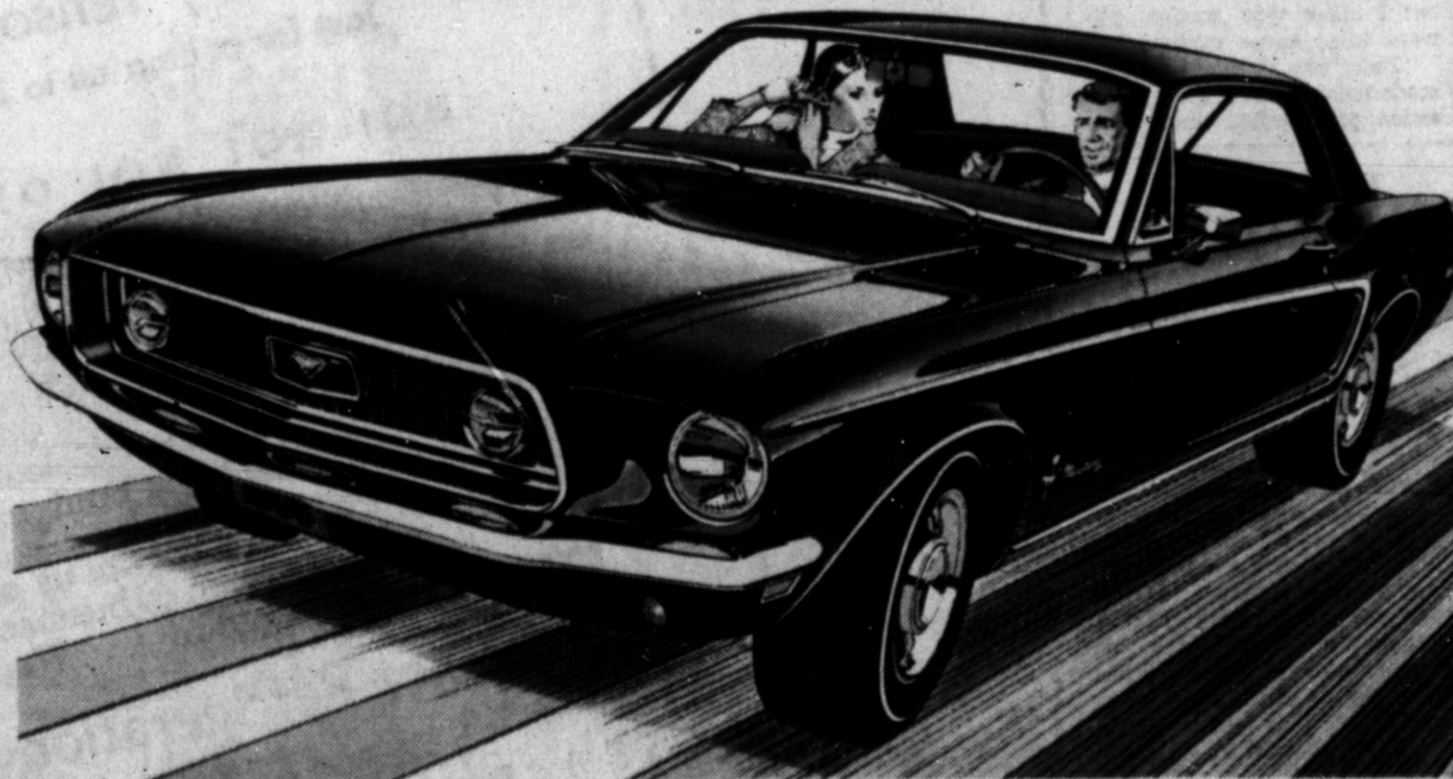

Cowan Attends National Meet

Kenneth Cowan of Cowan Jewelers, Hereford, was among a select group of jewelry experts from all parts of the country who attended the recent 1968 National Conference of Gemological Counselors, held Feb. 11-12 at Memphis, Tenn.

This conference, sponsored by the Park Avenue firm of J. Milbening, Inc., specialists in the design and production of handcrafted rings and diamond jewelry, featured a series of seminars and discussions involving the judging, selection, design, and styling of fine diamond jewelry.

The interchange of techniques and ideas at these conferences serves to keep these leading jewelry experts abreast of the changing jewelry field.

Cowan Attends National Meet

Kenneth Cowan of Cowan Jewelers, Hereford, was among a select group of jewelry experts from all parts of the country who attended the recent 1968 National Conference of Gemological Counselors, held Feb. 11-12 at Memphis, Tenn.

This conference, sponsored by the Park Avenue firm of J. Milhening, Inc., specialists in the design and production of handcrafted rings and diamond jewelry, featured a series of seminars and discussions involving the judging, selection, design, and styling of fine diamond jewelry.

The interchange of techniques and ideas at these conferences serves to keep these leading jewelry experts abreast of the changing jewelry field.

BEST MEAT IN TOWN

—Small Talk—

By SUE COLEMAN
Women's Editor

National weeks proclaimed by this and that enterprising bunch of merchants usually leave me rather disinterested, but this is National Procrastination Week and seems like it should be widely observed. I knew about it last week and guess I should have mentioned it earlier, but I just put it off. . . .

PEOPLE WHO manage to make their dreams of faraway places come true always interest me, so I was much pleased to meet Judge E. C. Nelson of Amarillo while he was here last week sitting in as presiding judge of the 69th District Court in Judge Archie McDonald's absence.

In recent years Judge Nelson revisited friends in Europe and went on to the Middle East, touring Egypt and the Holy Land. Previously he had twice spent a year in Europe, each time studying for a semester in French universities.

The small-town West Texan went abroad the first time as a soldier in World War I, when thousands of other Americans also got to France but few wanted to stay longer than necessary. Young Nelson was thinking that it was too bad he couldn't stay in France a while after the war, since he might not have another chance to come back, when his opportunity came.

ACTUALLY AT the port of embarkation, some of the U. S. officers and men were ordered back to Paris and it wasn't hard for Nelson to become one of the officers sent back, as almost everyone else was eager to get home.

To make up for the wartime interruption to their college careers, the Army offered study in France to the men stationed there after fighting was over, and the West Texan took advantage of that. He attended the University of Montpellier in Southern France.

His home there was with a French family, the pastor of the only large Protestant church in the city, his wife and three daughters. They became good friends and letters continued the friendship after Nelson came back home, completed law school studies, began practice and married.

HE WAS FLOYD County judge four years, then moved to Amarillo, filled county and district judge's offices, was an attorney for an oil firm several years, became district judge again by appointment and then by re-election until he had served nine years.

Through these years he kept up correspondence with friends in France and talked of going back, taking his wife and introducing her to his friends. At his retirement after World War II they began the trip.

Disliking the idea of being tied to a schedule they avoided planned tours, "just bought a ticket and sailed", Judge Nelson says.

AT THE PORT of Havre they were met by one of the daughters from the Montpellier family he had known, and her husband. The judge chuckles that he was happy to find the lady, after some 46 years, still attractive enough to support his reports over the years to his wife, of the pretty French girls he had known.

They went to Paris by rail and there bought a French automobile in which they criss-crossed the country several times, going to Normandy for apple-blossom time, Holland for the tulip season and elsewhere as they pleased. They traveled a day at a time, never making reservations ahead, and almost always found good accommodations.

Mrs. Nelson's sister and her husband joined them for six weeks and they repeated some of their travels to show off spots they had especially liked, particularly a boat trip up the Rhine.

THEY WERE IN Berlin before the notorious wall was completed but decided not to go into the Communist-held section "because we looked across the wall and barbed wire and it didn't appear very attractive."

A good deal of time was spent in Switzerland; they toured Scandinavia and the British Isles, missing only Finland and Ireland of the Western European countries. After the other couple went back to America the Nelsons went to Paris planning to attend the University of Paris, but fall weather was cold and damp so they went south because Mrs. Nelson suffered a heart condition which made a cold climate unpleasant.

Both attended the University of Nice while they lived in an apartment just across the coastline boulevard from the Mediterranean. They traveled around the coast of Spain and in the spring went to Monaco, Monte Carlo, through Italy and through the Mediterranean to Greece.

A PREVIOUS contact of the judge had provided a friend in Athens who helped them enjoy sightseeing. They were planning an air trip to Egypt when their dream trip ended on a tragic note with Mrs. Nelson's sudden death of a heart attack.

Judge Nelson came back to West Texas and after two years remarried. The recent trip to Britain, back to visit the old friends in France and then tour the Greek islands, Turkey and into Egypt, was made by air.

"My first crossing took three weeks in a troop transport, the second was made in six days on the liner United States, and the third in only six hours by superjet", Judge Nelson says as he talks with enthusiasm of all three stays abroad.

He has "hundreds of pictures" as souvenirs of the travels, and likes to show them (not all at once, of course) to individuals or groups. Incidentally, he has spoken in Hereford to garden club groups; when he is not traveling a favorite hobby is gardening.

Woman Goes To Wedding Of Relative

Mrs. Mary Skypala of Hereford was among guests at the wedding of her granddaughter, Miss Eivera Skypala of Temple, and Roderick Wright of Grand Forks Air Force Base, North Dakota, at Temple Feb. 24.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin R. Skypala, the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Wright, all of Temple. The marriage was read by the Rev. Fred Bomar in St. Mary's Catholic Church of that city.

Miss Ethel Skypala was her sister's maid of honor and Chris Junger of Houston was best man. The bride wore a gown of white crepe and Alemon lace with lace train and shoulder veil of lace-trimmed illusion. She carried white carnations centered with an orchid.

After a reception in St. Mary's Hall the couple left for a Gulf Coast honeymoon, then the trip to Grand Forks, where he is stationed in the U. S. Air Force and they will make a home. Both are graduates of Temple High School and Mrs. Wright has been employed in the inspector-general's office of the U. S. Agriculture Department at Temple.

Supper Party Marks Birthday

The 12th birthday of Debbie Sorrells was the occasion for a party in the home of her parents, the J. E. Sorrells, on Harrison Highway. A number of friends from the Walcott community, from which the family moved recently, were among guests for supper and an evening of 42 games.

Barbecue, beans and potato salad for the western-style supper were supplemented by dishes brought by the guests. A doll topped the birthday cake, which was iced to make the wide skirt of her costume.

Guests were Messrs. and Mmes. Elmer Northcutt, Jerry Northcutt, Kemp, Bill Page, Gene Bradley, H. D. Buse, S. U. Threault, Lloyd Battey, Mrs. John Jones, Miss Linda Sorrells, Lisa Page, Todd Kemp, Todd Bradley, Fred Henry and Jake Roberts.

Dawn H.D. Club Sets Work Day

A work day was scheduled for March 22 by Dawn Home Demonstration Club at its meeting Friday in Mrs. J. B. Caraway's home. Members will clean up Dawn Community Building and spend some time completing a sewing assignment from the Red Cross. A covered dish lunch will be served at noon.

What's New In Clothing? was the program subject and Argen Draper, County H. D. Agent, was the speaker. She discussed spring styles, new fabrics and processes used in making clothing.

The next meeting, March 15, will be in the home of Mrs. J. E. McCabe. With only one absent, 12 members were present for the Friday program.

Lewis R. Bradley was active in the organization of Deaf Smith County in 1899 and served as a commissioner while the county seat was La Plata.

Entries Total 133 For Junior Music Festival

Four groups of student musicians will be performing simultaneously during the all-day Junior Festival of First District, Texas Federation of Music Clubs, in First Baptist Church here Friday. Four experienced music teachers from Amarillo will serve as judges. Receipt of 133 entries is reported by Mrs. A. J. Schroeder, festival chairman. The number will be somewhat less than last year because Dimmitt students, who have heretofore taken part in the festival here, will have their own festival this spring. Gladys M. Glenn, president of Musical Arts Conservatory at Amarillo, has announced that judges will be Carol Lynn, Mark Lynn, Josephine Malacara and Ardath Johnson. A noon luncheon at the Caisson House will honor them; all interested adults are invited for this hour.

Students entering are from Dawn, Walcott and Friona as well as Hereford. Entries have been made in piano solo and concerto, organ solo, folk song solo and ensemble, vocal solo and trio.

Proceeding the performances for judging, an assembly will be held in the church auditorium. The group will sing the state song, Texas Our Texas, led by Mrs. W. T. Carmichael and accompanied by Mrs. Lowell Sharp on the organ. Mrs. Carl Wimberley will give the invocation.

Others assisting with the festival will be Mmes. Paul Lyons,

Trailer Caravan Trip Is Unusual Experience For Hereford Couple

Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Sumner, 515 Irving, have returned from an unusual vacation trip through Mexico with a trailer caravan. They left Tucson, Ariz., Jan. 11, and theirs was one of 427 trailers in the caravan.

The trip, and others like it during the year, was arranged by travel representatives of a firm which makes the trailers. These are design'd as homes, but also are intended to be pulled by ordinary cars so are not so large as many mobile homes.

John N. Jacobsen Jr., Ray Stewart, Tom Burdett and Wesley Fisher. Mrs. A. O. Thompson is in charge of arrangements for the luncheon.

Traveling in an arrangement so it would not cause traffic problems on the highways or in cities where the trailers parked for the nights, the caravan followed the west coast of Mexico as far as Manzanillo, then across to Mexico City and back to the U. S. border.

It arrived in Harlingen Feb. 16 and the Sumners came home via Odessa, where they stopped for a visit in the home of their daughter, Mrs. Larry Boston.

The Hereford couple has previously traveled considerably in their trailer, making trips to Canada with custom combine crews working in wheat harvest. Caravan traveling was a new experience for them and they are enthusiastic about it.

ranging by the trip directors made it possible for travel and stops to take advantage of sight-seeing opportunities, entertainment and side trips, with good living accommodations all the way, they say.

Persons of all ages were in the caravan, from small children to retired couples in the seventies.

Meat cooked to the rare stage shrinks a good deal less than meat cooked to the well done stage. Train your family to like that meat rare!

In January 1916, Hereford voted bonds for paving 14 blocks, bringing Hereford's business district out of the mud for the first time.

When you are serving liver and bacon, skillet cooked, the liver may be fried in the bacon fat or in butter or margarine. Take your choice!

 Arsonists who were believed to have set fire to the XII were among those chased out of Texas by Ira Aten, before he became foreman of the Escarbada in Deaf Smith County.
 Mr. and Mrs. James N. Askren operated a broom factory in 1911 in his enlarged barn at the farm 10 miles northeast of Hereford.

Foremost® Polyester Premium Whitewall... our finest tire!

PASSENGER TIRE GUARANTEE

GUARANTEE AGAINST FAILURE
 Penneys guarantees every Foremost® tire against all failures in use—this guarantee lasts for the entire guarantee period stated for each tire. If the tire fails during the guarantee period, return it with your guarantee certificate and Penneys will, at its option: (1) repair the tire, (2) replace it with a new tire, or (3) give you an immediate refund. If we replace the tire during the free replacement period, there is no charge; if we replace the tire after the free replacement period, you pay 50% or 25% less than the current selling price of the tire including the Federal Excise Tax (see guarantee against failure chart for details).

GUARANTEE AGAINST TREAD WEAROUT
 Penneys guarantees every Foremost® tire (except the 72 series) against tread wearout for the entire guarantee period. You benefit as follows: if your tire wears out during the first half of the guarantee period, return it with your guarantee certificate and Penneys will replace your tire with a new tire (the charge for this will be 50% of the current selling price including Federal Excise Tax); if your tire wears out during the second half, the charge will be 75% of the current selling price including Federal Excise Tax.
 These guarantees do not apply to commercial use of tires.
 Here's how your guarantee against failure works:
 Entire guarantee period... 36 months
 Free replacement period... 1-18 months
 50% off period... 19-27 months
 25% off period... 28-36 months
