North says he tried to keep diversion of profits secret

WASHINGTON (AP) - Lt. Col. Oliver North testified today he tried but failed to keep secret the diversion of Iranian arms sales profits to the Contra rebels after former National Security Adviser John Poindexter once told him it "had better never come out."

"I took steps to make sure ... (it) didn't and I failed," North said as he testified for the fourth straight day at nationally televised Iran-Contra

North said that Reagan pressed his aides to seek the release of American hostages in Beirut "as early as possible," but never suggested a target date linked to elections or any other key domestic event such as his State of the Union address.

The atmosphere in the ornate hearing room seemed cordial in contrast to the frequent legal sparring earlier in the week. At one point North jocularly asked Senate lawyer Arthur Liman if he was criticizing his shredding.

"My eyesight has suffered from reading what you left behind," Liman said, provoking laughter.

"I deserved that," North smiled in

Even as he answered questions, North was engaging - and quite possibly winning - a battle for public support.

He placed two stacks of telegrams on the witness table. And officials at the White House and Capitol said calls were running heavily in his favor - his confessions about attempting a cover-up notwithstanding.

In other developments:

-North said that he personally recommended that during a negotiating session in Tehran in May 1986, he recommended accepting an

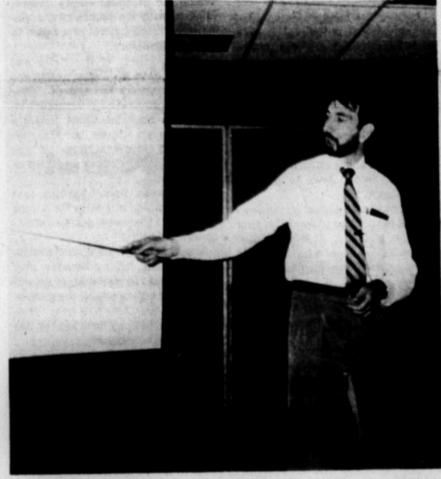

Iranian proposal to release two hostages in exchange for a previously agreed upon shipment of arms. He said former National Security Adviser Robert McFarlane, who led the delegation, rejected the offer and said he would turn over the weapons only if all remaining hostages were

-Officials at the Capitol and the White House reported a large volume of telephone calls in North's favor, while Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., said in a broadcast interview late Thursday night that lawyers had spent too long interrogating the witness, and it was time for lawmakers to take over.

Even so, North was questioned today by Senate counsel Arthur Liman, who delved in the opening moments of the session into the arms-for-

WDIC Issues Council hears review of characterization

Miner Lesson

George Sturgis explains some technical points related to the mining process which will be used to sink and exploratory shaft on the Deaf Smith County site chosen for characterization studies related to possible construction of a nuclear waste repository. Sturgis was one of several project personnel on hand to provide answers to the Geo-technical study group of the Issues Council which meet Thursday evening.

An overview of techniques which will be used in the nuclear waste repository site characterization and election of officers were the topics of Thursday evening's meeting of the geotechnical branch of the Waste sit Impact Committee's Issues Council.

Bruce Coleman was elected as chairman of the geo-technical study group with Jay Eubanks to serve as vice-chairman. The object of the issues council is to determine potential impacts of site characterization studies and to give direction to the WDIC concerning areas citizen representatives believe need to be researched.

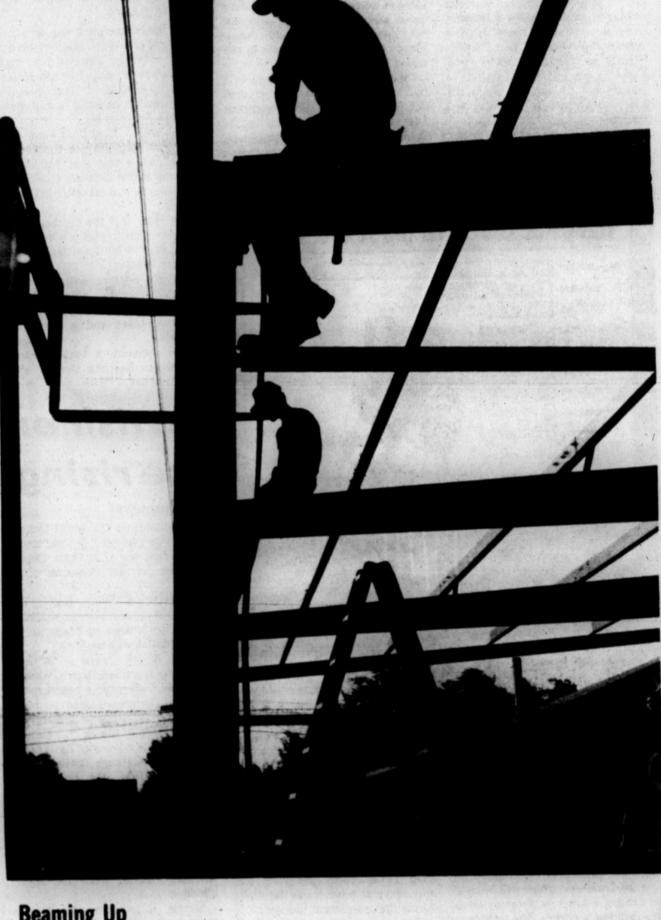

The other branch of the issues council, the socio-economic study group, met last week for a briefing by Phil Niedzielski-Eichner, executive director of the WDIC, and to elect officers. Marc Williamson will chair that study group. Helen Higgins is vice-chairman.

Department of Energy and Parsons-Redpath personnel presented an overview of technical aspects of the site characterization project to the geo-technical branch of the Issues Council during Thursday night's meeting.

"It was a very productive meeting as far as giving members an insight into the geo-technical aspects of the project," Eichner stated.

Project Deputy Manager Robert Wunderlich, of the DOE, gave a synopsis of short and long-term time schedules for various aspects of the characterization studies and provided more detailed information concerning specific areas of field activities

At both Hereford banks

Deposits over $135 million

Deposits at Hereford's two banks totalled more than $135 million, according to statements issued at the close of business June 30, 1987. The combined deposit total was down about $3 million from the same time a year ago.

Loans at the two banks showed an even more dramatic change-decreasing by approximately $24.6 million over the same period. One bank official said a depressed economy and less crop acreage were contributing factors in the decrease. He pointed out that businesses are carrying smaller inventories due to the "soft" economy, and farmers are planting less acreage because of federal farm programs. Another factor could be tighter banking stitutions to be more cautious in making loans. The latest bank call showed First Hereford State Bank listed deposits at $55,820,000 on June 30, a slight increase over last's total of $55,031,000. Loans totalled $31,596,000, reflecting a decrease of about $4 million over a year ago.

Rural dwellers drinking arsenic poison

TORREON, Mexico (AP) -Thousands of poor farmers living in northern Mexico's "Lagoon Region" are drinking water contaminated with natural arsenic, and activists say people are dying from it.

Ironically, the problem has arisen because of water depletion in this area of southwestern Coahuila and eastern Durango states that was named the "Comarca Lagunera," or Lagoon Region, because of its onceabundant lakes.

"The arsenic has always been here but we never noticed it before because there was so much water. But now that we're running out of water it's become a serious problem." said Magdalena Briones, president of the region's Environmental Defense Association.

Ms. Briones produced photographs of five people with severe lesions on their faces and bodies, which she said were caused by arsenic-linked cancer.

"All these people are dead now," she said.

Dr. Luis Maeda, a Torreon cancer dying the arsenic problem, says that cancer and other diseases attributed to arsenic poisoning are progressive.

It's impossible to tally the arsenic-related deaths, Maeda said, because there are so many manifestations of arsenic poisoning and because autopsies are rarely performed.

"Presently, 15,000 people are in serious condition due to drinking high levels of arsenic," said Maeda, an environmental association

Dr. Mario Sagaon, director of the 2-year-old arsenic program for the Coahuila state public health department, said there are dozens of symptoms of arsenic poisoning, including sores and scabs on the skin and vascular lesions that could impede blood circulation and force amputation of limbs.

"We're not going to risk ourselves by saying that arsenic causes death," Sagaon said in a telephone interview from his office in the Coahuila state capital of Saltillo.

"We're doing studies to try to find the common denominator," he said. Nearly 1.5 million people live in the 19,000-square-mile Lagoon Region, which includes the tri-city area of Torreon in Coahuila state and Gomez Palacio and Lerdo in Durango, and dozens of small "ejidos" or communal farms, which use vast quantities of water for irrigating the cotton and alfalfa grown here.

Sagaon said the cancer rate in the Lagoon Region is the same as in other parts of Mexico.

But, he said, "We're finding skin cancer (in the ejido area) and that is not common in other rural areas."

Additionally, Sagaon said, in a 1982 study of 29 people with symptoms of arsenic poisoning, 15 had to have limbs amputated.

The 300,000 people living on ejidos north and east of the major cities are most severely affected by high arsenic levels, said Horacio Rubio, federal Agriculture Department's regional manager for water system control.

The World Health Organization considers .05 parts per million the maximun tolerable level for human consumption of arsenic, Rubio said in an interview at his office in Gomez

The government is perforating dozens of new wells in the region to try to find cleaner water, Rubio said. Sagaon said a method to filter out the arsenic is being tested in Mexico

Water demands for a growing population, especially over the past 40 years, have severely depleted the region's underground aquifers that provide the area's drinking water.

But this region sits on volcanic rock, which both government analysts and citizens' groups agree is the source of the arsenic.

"The arsenic forms a part of the years old," said Rubio. "As a result of the overuse of the water supply, the arsenic is concentrated in the few reserves that remain," said Maeda.

Although they agree on the cause of the problem, the government and citizens groups are at odds about what to do about it.

The federal Agriculture Department recently awarded contracts for the construction of a nearly $8 million pipeline to carry water from the aquifer below the tri-city area to the ejidos.

But Ms. Briones and Maeda claim the federal government is not considering the longterm consequences.

"The water we use to drink comes heart of the rock that is millions of from the aquifer and it's running

But, said Rubio, "We don't think it's going to run out soon. We believe it will last a reasonable time." A university study of the water resources will be completed in 1989. "In two years we'll know how much water we have here," Rubio

The second and third phases of the project, scheduled for completion by 1991, will extend he water pipeline to the Zarco Dam southwest of the tricity area on the Nazas River.

"The country is in a crisis. We have to begin with the cheapest method possible," said Rubio. "So we have to take advantage of the closest source, the one below the

Protest rallies called referendum on Junta rule

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) -Opponents of the military-backed government said today's rallies, a resumption of protest that left 21 people dead, amount to a referendum on the ruling junta.

A visiting U.S. official said Thursday that the National Governing Council, whose resignation is demanded by the organizers of last week's often violent general strike, still has Washington's support.

Richard Holwill, U.S. deputy assistant secretary of state, told reporters the government headed by Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy is "back on track" to guiding Haiti from dictatorship to democracy. Holwill, who said he came to Haiti for a firsthand look at the situation, sidestepped questions about the government's short-lived attempt to take control of upcoming elections from an independent commission.

"The key fact to remember is they are back on track," he said. "We feel the best way out for Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy is to hold elections and turn the government over to whoever is elected."

Namphy has headed a three-man National Governing Council since

President-for-Life Jean-Claude Duvalier fled into French exile on Feb. 7, 1986. Duvalier's departure ended nearly 29 years of dictatorial family rule started by his father, Francois Duvalier, in 1957.

Elections for president and a bicameral National Assembly have been tentatively set for Nov. 27. Local elections had been set for July, then August, and have been pushed back to an indefinite date because of the unrest.

Holwill's visit coincided with hundreds of Haitians hearing a religious leader chastise the military during a memorial service Thursday for those killed during the strike.

"The Army is responsible for protecting life. They must learn that their role isn't to take life away," said Rev. Joseph Lafontant, the Roman Catholic auxiliary bishop of Port-au-Prince, in his homily.

About 1,500 people crowded into the Notre Dame Cathedral for the Mass and another 500 stood outside. The names of 21 victims of the violence - all but one reportedly shot to death by soldiers - were read during the Mass.

Afterward, about 4,000 people accompanied 21 small empty caskets labelled with the names of the victims in a mock funeral procession to a nearby cemetery.

The organizers of the strike and sponsors of today's demonstrations have proposed insta member provisional government including a Supreme Court judge, a human rights activist, an army officer and representatives of the Roman Catholic Church and the peasant sector. Strike leader Daniel Narcisse said today's rallies will show that "the majority of the people don't want this government."

Another strike leader, Jean-Claude Bajeux, said, "If by Monday they don't accept (to step down), we will find other ways to oppose the govern-

Jewish emigration figures emigration have a strong ally. Perhaps more than any of his predecessors, Shultz has identified

Ida Nudel and some other refuseniks himself with the issue. Human rights get high priority in all his talks with Soviet officials.

The prevailing theory for the upsurge in Jewish emigration in the 1970s was that Brezhnev found it politically expedient to lower the barriers in order to lower resistance in Congress to U.S.-Soviet ar trol agreements and expanded trade.

The same reasoning may apply now to Gorbachev, who wants to direct his energies to the Soviet economy. To do that, he needs a respite from expensive military buildups and transfusions of Western technology.

So far, the report said, the signals from Moscow are mixed. While no Jewish refuseniks were sent to prison this year, and most public demonstrations were not disturbed by the police, some activists have been attacked and extremist, anti-Semitic elements have emerged, the Charles E. Redman said that while emigration levels had risen through June, "we remain very aware of how far current levels are from those of the '70s. It's also a matter for concern that June was the first month this year in which absolute numbers of Soviet-Jewish immigrants did not increase." On the other hand, Redman noted that only one of 19 Hebrew teachers convicted between 1964 and 1986 remains in prison. And while emigration slipped in June to 790, that was still the highest figure for any month this year except May. "Unfortunately, however," Redman said, "there are many other Jewish political prisoners in the Soviet Union and it remains very difficult for Soviet Jews to practice their religion."

State Department spokesman

The report said almost all the Jews granted permission to leave this year were on a list of 11,000 so-called refuseniks - Jews who had been denied permission in the past.

Group applauds moratorium bill to put a hold on DOE activities

Nuclear Waste task Force, said in a news conference Wednesday that his group "applauds the action" taken last week when legislation was introduced in Congress for a moratorium on the nuclear waste repository program and calling for an independent commission to review the entire process.

Devin said he sees "a growing momentum for passage of this legislation in both Houses. Fourteen original co-sponsors are led on the Senate side by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, and 50 sponsors are on the House side, led by Congressman Morris Udall.

A statement by Sen. Bentsen last week noted that he was cosponsoring the bill "because the credibility of the nuclear waste program is in serious jeopardy." Bentsen said he had resisted, until now, the mounting pressure to become involved, "believing that the problem was too serious to play policites with, and all the DOE needed was more time."

Bentsen noted that more than 20 court cases have been filed against DOE to challenge its implementation of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act, and added: "The odds are not in the Department's favor that it enjoys public confidence and support. I have been arund long enough to know that you've got to have public support for important, community-based, life-altering programs like this one.

"When that confidence has been dermined, you may as well stop in ur tracks and start all over again. This legislation is a worthy response to that problem," said Sen. Bentsen.

"Before we go and spend billions of lars, which we simply don't have,

Delbert Devin, president of the before DOE starts to acquire precious farmland and condemn it, and before we get too far down this road, a consensus has developed to slow that train down and take a look at where we ar now, how we got here, where we are going, and what's the best way to get there," Bentsen continued.

The senator said Congress hs never before been challenged to develop a

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:

Would you please print the following statement that was made by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen on July 1, 1987? The legislation that he refers to is a significant step towards ending the Department of Energy's plans for a nuclear waste repository in Deaf Smith County.

I feel this proposed legislation is a direct result of the nationwide public protest of the way the DOE has mishandled the implementation of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982. I believe that the many citizens of Deaf Smith County who have supported the same position as Sen. Bentsen has taken should be proud to be a part of that protest and it should restore our faith in the system that this country was built on.

program with such long-lasting effects on future generations. Bentsen said politics "has seemed to influence siting decisions" and added that local government has been excluded from "meaningful participation" in this process.

Bentsen concluded: "The nuclear waste disposal program will not succeed until the public is shown that a safe method for isolating the waste is available. I know that we need a change, and I am committed to developing a program that will help us find the best site in the nation for disposal of nuclear waste and also allow for more meaningful participation in the process by the communities and people who will live closer to the sites."

Rachel Coleman feted with bridal shower

A bridal shower was held recently for Rachel Coleman, bride-elect of Brad Walser, in the home of Mrs. Roy Evans of 324 Hickory.

Receiving guests with the honoree were her mother, Mrs. C.E. Coleman, and the prospective groom's mother, Mrs. Don Walser. They were presented corsages of pink carnatins and miniature roses with mauve rib-

Mrs. Tony Edwards invited guests to register and gifts were recorded in the bride's book by Barbara Allen and Chan Spearman.

Refreshemtns were served by the bride-elect's sister, Rebbeca Coleman of Amarillo, and the prospective groom's sister, DeAnn Harris. Guests were served pink punch, coffee, tea, finger sandwiches, nuts and mixed fresh fruit from watermelons shaped in a bowl.

The table, which was covered with a pink cloth and lace overlay, was centered with an ivy plant accented with a bridal wreath. This was given to Miss Coleman as a hostess gift as was a vacuum cleaner. The table was appointed by pink napkins, and a China tea server which was painted by the prospective groom's greatgrandmother, Mrs. Ethel Curry, and owned by the late Mrs. Glenn Walser, his grandmother.

The prospective groom's father, Don Walser, made and painted carved pieces for each hostess. They included Kathy Whipple, Charlene Dickerson, Wilma Bryan, Rosie Wall, Sue Morris, Debbie Keyes, Trudy Gray, Luella Thomas, Eva McKnight, Charla Edwards, Erma Bain, Christine Evans, Delores Rowland, Barbara Allen, Mary Wyly, Bess Donaway, Thelma Cherry, Joyce Ward, Pauline Landers, Juanita Houle, Velma Carroll, Fannie Townsend, and Peggy Fitzgerald.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Use seltzer water in sugar-free soda

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY - Do you have recipes for making sugarless soda for kids? I don't like them drinking sug-ary commercial sodas. — VERA

DEAR VERA — Plain fruit juices are the most nutritious choices for kids' beverages (of course, plain water is good, too). However, most children who have been raised on commercial sodas like something fizzy. I mix fruit juice with plain seltzer water for instant, nutritious "soda" that has no added sugar.

Here's a flavorful version: Mix 1/2 cup grape juice, 1/2 cup apple juice and 4 cup seltzer water. Serve over ice. Very flavorful with just the right amount of fizz!

Another idea is to mix two tablespoons frozen juice concentrate with one cup seltzer water. The proportions of concentrate to seltzer may be varied to your own taste.

I'm sending you a copy of my news-letter "Nutritious Milk and Fruit Bev-erages," which has lots of other ideas for delicious drinks that can help wean kids from commercial sodas. Of course, they're great for adults, too! The recipes include egg shakes, fla-vored milks, fruit punches, natural so-das, spiced cider and other treats. Others who would like a copy of this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 93863, Cleve-land, OH 44101-5863. Be sure to include the title. - POLLY

DEAR POLLY - I have an easy way of freezing fish. Use any sealable plastic container, such as a two-pound margarine container. Pack cleaned, serving-sized pieces loosely in the container, then cover with water, filling the container to within one inch of the top. Be sure there is enough water covering the fish so that when it is frozen, the fish will be frozen in a block of ice. Place each container in a plastic bag and tie with a twist-tie, unless you use a zip-type bag. Good fishing and good eating! — LEONA

Benefit auction planned at Amarillo retirement center

A fund-raising auction is scheduled Friday, July 17, at the Amarillo Good Samaritan Retirement Center located in the old Northwest Texas Hospital building.

The center, which is a non-profit home for both the active retiree and the dependent elderly, has been cleared of unneeded items such as scrap metal, hospital beds and motors left over from the hospital. Other items for sale include breaker boxes, air pressure tanks, exhaust fans, a piano, porcelain sinks, exercise equipment, solid wood doors, stainless steel food carts and a large assortment of electric motors.

Area businesses have donated items or services to be auctioned in addition to the articles mentioned above. They include a waterbed, gift certificates, briefcase, electric pump, stuffed animals, boxes of steaks, convection oven, coffee percolator, hats, beauty supplies, and centennial belt buckles.

All proceeds from the auction will be used to remodel the first floor dining room and recarpet the first floor. For more information, contact Virginia Langston at (806)374-6896. For information on mechanical equipment, contact maintenance supervisor, Gary Crain.

Seal of the United States

The great seal of the United States shows an American bald eagle with a ribbon in its mouth bearing the device E pluribus unum (one out of many). In the eagle's talons are the arrows of war and an olive branch of peace. The reverse side of the seal shows an unfinished pyramid with an eye (the eye of providence) above it.

NEW YORK (AP) - A Moscow rabbi says a new Soviet law encouraging self-employment will permit private teachers - including teachers of Hebrew - to hold classes in the Soviet Union.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read the letter from An Honest, Confused Lady in New York and I had to write. In 1956, at the tender age of 17, I lost my wallet in a movie theater about 15 miles from home, with all I owned in the world, papers and $48 cash. Three days later, I received my wallet intact, with this note:

1975 in Brazil, moving his base to the United States in 1983 and establishing prayer groups among politicians in Washington and businessmen in Atlanta.

He also continues work with groups of legislators and other government leaders in Brazil and 11 other Latin American countries.

He said the meetings, including a Washington group that meets the second Tuesday of the month, follow a general structure beginning with "a short study of a biblical text" on Christ's teachings.

The studies are led by members of the group and "are not a platform for professional religious people," Young said.

The group then discusses such topics as: "What does it mean to be a congressman, or on the commission of education, responsible in that area of public life, and clearly to be a Christian?"

The Washington group consists of about 10 people, including officials of the Organization of American States and the World Bank, and is headed by Sen. Paul Trible, R-Va.

Unlike some politicians who make their Christianity a part of campaign rhetoric, Young said most of the participants in his various fellowships go about their work quietly.

Whether in Brazil or in the United States, Young said, legislation is never sought nor decisions made in the name of the group.

But if the group decides a particular action needs to be taken, or a position put forth, they will work that into speeches and votes, Young said.

In Atlanta, where he has been given office space by a downtown Presbyterian church, Young has established the Atlanta Resource Foundation, which brings influential

The foundation's goal is to tap the resources of business for use in underfunded programs for helping others pursue their aspirations.

He said the foundation allows businessmen and other leaders to undertake projects that are "not wound up in religious cliches."

Young's first missionary assignment was in 1964 in poor areas of Brasilia, but he said he began to have difficulties relating to the poor, and was asked in 1975, when another Presbyterian returned to the United States, to take over his role with Brazil's Christian leadership move-

Young came to the United States in 1983 to help establish similar fellowship groups here, to continue working with ones developed in Latin America and find ways to bring the two groups together.

Rangers fall to Indians, 10-4

By CHARLES RICHARDS Associated Press Writer

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) - After a high fly fell in front of him for a double that scored the last of three third-inning runs, Texas right fielder Ruben Sierra tried to catch the next ball hit his way.

Instead, Julio Franco's single past him and rolled to the wall for a two-base error and another run, and Cleveland went on to beat the Rangers 10-4 Thursday night.

"I tried to go harder at the ball, but I was too late because it started sinking. The wind was tricky," Sierra said. Joe Carter, who got the thirdinning double against Sierra, came back in the ninth inning with a bloop single that fell in shallow left field, scoring the final two runs of the

Another fly sailed over center fielder Bob Brower's head after he misjudged it. It was Chris Bando's double that started Cleveland's com-

Cory Snyder. On another occasion, a Cleveland pop fly fell uncaught along the first base line.

Doug Jones, 3-1, was the winning pitcher for Cleveland. He came in for starter Scott Bailes in the fifth inning. Texas starter Jose Guzman, 6-8, gave up nine of Cleveland's 11 hits before leaving in the eighth.

Doran's home run lifts Astros over Mets, 4-3

HOUSTON (AP) - Bill Doran did three things with one swing of the

He gave the Houston Astros a 4-3 victory over the New York Mets, he fullfilled a longtime fantasy and exacted a bit of revenge for being passed over as one of the reserves for next week's All-Star game.

Doran's two-out homer in the bottom of the ninth broke a 3-3 tie Thursday night and allowed the Astros to defeat the Mets.

The Houston second baseman said he had fantasized for a long time about hitting a game-winning homer in the bottom of the ninth and never had been able to do it.

"I've seen other guys hit home runs to win games in the last at-bat of the ninth inning but I've never done it in the major leagues," Doran said.

"I don't hit enough home runs to be thinking home run in that situation. I was just thinking about getting on base.

The homer came only hours after Doran learned that New York Mets manager Davey Johnson didn't select him as one of the reserves for the National League All-Star team so the homer gave him a bit of revenge.

It was Doran's 11th homer of the season and provided reliever Dave Smith with his first decision after he had converted all 15 of his save opportunities this season.

Mets reliever Randy Myers, 1-4, says the loss was his fault because he pitched a fast ball out over the plate to Doran.

"I've gotten guys out before on that pitch," Myers said, "He had to hit it good. It's my fault. If I did the job we'd still be out there playing."

The Astros picked up two unearned runs off of Mets starter John Mitchell with errors by second baseman Tim Teufel and catcher and Gary Carter allowed Jose Cruz and Doran to score in the second and fourth inn-

"Cruz ran us into a run and Billy ran us into a run and of course got the homerun," Houston manager Hal Lanier said. "(Jim) Deshaies pitched a heck of a game."

Houston starter Deshaies was sharp through eight innings with seven strike outs. Then Smith was roughed up in the Mets ninth by a fielder's choice RBI from Kevin McReynolds and a single from Howard Johnson which tied the

"Smith has picked us up a lot," Doran said. "It's time someone came along and picked him up."

Johnson says the Mets are having trouble with one-run games as they are only 16-16 in winning one-run

"That's where we used to shine," Johnson said.

"Everytime we hook up with these guys its' a great game," Doran said. 'Both teams have a lot of respect for each other, and have a never say die attitude."

Cardinals 7, Giants 6

The St. Louis Cardinals are starting to walk away with the National League East.

"That was crazy. Sometimes it seems like we have to be challenged and put in a bad spot before we come back," Willie McGee said after the Cardinals rallied for four runs in the bottom of the 10th inning Thursday night to beat the San Francisco Giants 7-6.

The Cardinals extended their winning streak to eight - their longest since winning 12 in a row in 1982 and now lead the National League East by 91/2 games over Chicago.

St. Louis' rally was fueled by three walks that loaded the bases. McGee hit a two-run double and the Cardinals won it on run-scoring singles by Tony Pena and Jose Oquendo.

Rick Horton, 4-0, got the final two outs in the top of the 10th for the victory. Garrelts, 6-6, took the loss.

In other NL games, St. Louis edged San Francisco 7-6, Atlanta beat Philadelphia 11-6, Cincinnati downed Montreal 7-2 and Chicago led Los Angeles 12-5 in a game suspended because of darkness.

Braves 11, Phillies 6

Dale Murphy's grand slam highlighted a six-run sixth inning and led Atlanta over visiting Philadelphia.

Murphy, who drove in five runs, hit his 25th homer of the season. He hit his fourth career slam and first since 1980. Ken Griffey followed with a home run as the Braves overcame a

Jeff Dedmon, 3-3, got the victory. Tom Hume, 1-1, took the loss. Reds 7, Expos 2

Nick Esasky hit a three-run homer and Tracy Jones and Dave Parker also homered as Cincinnati defeated Montreal.

The host Reds beat Montreal for the eighth straight time since July 24, 1986, including five games this season.

Bill Gullickson, 9-5, gave up two runs on five hits in seven innings. Gullickson, traded by the Expos to Cincinnati after the 1985 season, is 3-0 against his former team.

Esasky hit his 10th homer in the second inning against Neal Heaton, 10-4, breaking a streak of 20 straight scoreless innings by the Expos' staff.

Cubs-Dodgers

Paul Noce homered and drove in five runs and Keith Moreland and Manny Trillo also hit homers, giving Chicago a 12-5 lead over Los Angeles in a game suspended in the sixth inning because of darkness at Wrigley Field.

The game was to be resumed this afternoon prior to the regularly scheduled game between the two teams.
