Free Balloons, Cokes

Employees at First National Bank will be giving away balloons and cokes on the bank's north parking lot during the Town 'n' Country Jubilee parade which is set to begin at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. Following the parade, residents are invited to walk through Jubilee Junction at Dameron park which will feature game and food booths, a Kangaroo Court, and various live entertainment. Beginning at 7:30 p.m., a junior rodeo will be held at the Hereford Riders Club arena.

For office space

Battelle booking local motel rooms

Several blocks of Hereford motel rooms are being secured by Battelle Memorial Institute officials as they try to create adequate office space for Hereford personnel while awaiting approval from Washington for the lease of office space.

That announcement was made by Battelle officials at the Department of Energy's weekly Deputy Manager's Meeting this morning at the Hereford Community Center.

Battelle officials had hoped to obtain office space for the personnel before they were ready for the workers in Hereford, but were held up by government rules and lack of adequate appraisals for the office space.

Battelle is trying to acquire about 63,000 square feet of office space in Hereford, and officials said today that the leasing procurement is awaiting final approval in Washington.

Meanwhile, Battelle officials will be attempting to rent blocks of motel rooms for use as temporary offices.

Deputy Manager Bob Wunderlich said "they'll take the beds and everything out of the motel rooms and put desks and office furniture in there. We would hope it's a very temporary situation."

Wunderlich also said that most of the 700 workers who will be moving to the area to work with Stone and Webster, who was approved Monday as the technical and field services contractor for DOE's site characterization work for a possible high-level nuclear waste dump north of Hereford, will be living in Amarillo.

"Amarillo is better able to accept the swings, up and down, in people moving in," Wunderlich said, "and Stone and Webster already has its office in Amarillo."

Wunderlich explained that Stone and Webster will do "the hard field work. Parsons-Redpath will do the work inside the fence (the actual borehole construction for the characterization) and Stone and Webster will do everything outside the fence," including socioeconomic and geotechnical assessments, polling and other work as needed.

Stone and Webster's work will then be evaluated and judged by Battelle, Wunderlich said.

The deputy manager reported that nine new workers have joined the project in the past week, hiking the total number to 138. 48 of them, including 23 transfers, live in Hereford.

Persons living elsewhere include 52 in Amarillo, 15 in Canyon, 2 in Vega, and 21 in non-incorporated areas or in temporary lodging.

Battelle gives computers

Battelle Memorial Institute's Office of Nuclear Waste Isolation presented 7 IBM XT 20-megabyte computers this morning to the Hereford Independent School District.

The computers were presented to Superintendent Charles Greenawalt and Hereford High School Principal Terry Russell by Dr. Wayne Carbiener, Battelle Project Management Division senior vice president and ONWI program manager.

The computers were used for a short time earlier this year in a Battelle training program for secretaries during the transition of the ONWI offices from Columbus, Ohio to Hereford.

"Battelle is committed to the Hereford community and the Texas Panhandle," Carbiener said. "This continues our tradition of striving to be a responsible corporate citizen."

The computers will be used in vocational programs at HHS, according to Tom Haney, director of vocational education for HISD.

Board hires teachers, begins HHS plans

15 new teachers were hired Tuesday by the Hereford school board, which also accepted the resignations of nine instructors.

Preliminary steps were taken Tuesday remodeling of Hereford High School as the board authorized preliminary architectural plans.

Superintendent Charles Greenawalt said the plans could be approved in the fall, bids accepted during early 1988 and most of the work done during the summer of 1988.

The board also approved changes in the discipline management plan; accepted bids for milk and bread; approved additional paving near Whiteface Stadium; and set May 27, 1988 for next year's Hereford High School graduation exercises.

The board accepted the resignations of Janet Welty Stanton; Linda Thorell, West Central; Kathy Paetzold, Northwest; Elizabeth Huffaker, Bluebonnet; Bill Igal, LaPlata; Kris Adams, Tierra Blanca; and Pat Brooks, Billie Farr and Dale Matteson, HHS.

New teachers include Bobbi Capwell, Penny Hobgood, Suzanne Vasseur, Mary Parker, Greg Hazlewood, Jimmy Rowton, Key Harrison, Kris Dollar, Sharry Briggs, Kim Bigham, Becky Sharpe, Beth Revels, Julie Foster, JoAnne Johnson and Lee Seman.

Minor changes were approved in the DMP presented by Mal Manchec. The changes, recommended by the Texas Association of School Boards and local administrators, include definitions of terms including drugs, alcohol, vandalism and weapons.

"Tobacco use is also forbidden," Manchec said. "That is part of a new state law." Manchec said 5,000 copies of the new plan are being prepared for distribution to HISD students. The DMP will be accompanied by a letter that should be signed

For President

Many Americans don't favor women

WASHINGTON (AP) — American voters are still more willing to accept women on the school board than they are in the White House, according to a study released today.

The survey of 1,500 registered voters indicated 57 percent believed a woman president would do a better job or the same job as a man but 31 percent thought a woman would do a worse job in the White House. The remaining 12 percent were undecided.

At the other end of the scale, 86 percent said a woman would do a better job or the same job on the school board as a man, and only 5 percent thought a woman would be worse.

Irene Natividad, chair of the National Women's Political Caucus, which sponsored the survey, said the attitude barriers will fall as more women run for higher office.

Thousands of women hold office at the state and local level, but very few have broken into national politics. There are only 23 women in their, a Democratic congresswoman from Colorado.

"We have not had a tradition of a woman holding that post, unlike, say, England or the Philippines or Norway," Natividad said Tuesday.

"But once somebody runs for it and wins, that barrier too will be broken. The only reason you have more positive attitudes about women holding office at the lower level is indeed there has been a large influx of women holding those offices. As we move up, the barriers will continue to diminish."

Groups least resistant to a woman presidential candidate include Democrats, blacks, city residents, voters under 60 and unmarried voters, the survey found. Conversely, the most resistance came from voters outsiderking in other than white-collar jobs.

"Nobody's saying these numbers don't indicate that there still is a bias," Natividad said. "But I think there is a positive atmosphere now (for women candidates). A lot of people are tired of the old men who were somehow behind all of this mess we find ourselves in."

The survey showed little difference in voter attitudes toward women holding any office other than the presidency or the school board. Generally, more than 70 percent thought a woman could do as well or better than a man in the office of U.S. senator, U.S. representative, governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general or other statewide office, legislator, mayor or city council.

The board also invited everyone to attend a reception for Greenawalt and his family Sunday from 2 until 4 p.m. at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame.

Local Roundup

U.S. Rep. Larry Combest will hold an "office hours" meeting Friday from 11 a.m. until 12:30 p.m. in the community room of the Hereford State Bank.

"These meetings allow me to visit personally with the people I represent in Washington on current legislation and issues such as agriculture, energy, health and many others," Combest said. "In addition, local residents who are having problems with federal agencies are urged to stop by."

Chamber Singers to perform Thursday

Hereford's Chamber Singers will perform Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Hereford High School Auditorium.

The performance is part of the Hereford Town and Country Jubilee.

Admission is $4 for adults and $2 for children. Tickets are available in advance at the Hereford Chamber of Commerce office and will be available at the door.

Police busy with thefts

Hereford police are investigating several minor thefts that were reported Tuesday.

The thefts included two dogs—a seven-week-old female Chow from the 500 block of Stanton and a three-month-old male Husky from the 300 block of Lake; the theft of gas from Town and Country Convenience Store; and the taking of two 12-packs of beer from Albee's at 425 N. 25 Mile Ave.

Attempted break-ins were reported in the 180 block of Star, the 380 block of Knight and the 400 block of Sycamore Lane.

Police also reported six tires were cut at a residence in the 800 block of Grand, with $333 in damage, and said several credit and identification cards were found in the street in the 400 block of Western.

One person was arrested for public intoxication. There were two minor accidents reported with no injuries, and police issued 27 citations.

Weather

No rain was reported in Hereford Tuesday by HRA, the official National Weather Service recording station. Wednesday's low was 68 after a high Tuesday of 87.

The forecast calls for a 50 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms tonight with a low of 65. Wind will be southerly at 10 mph.

Thursday should be slightly cooler with a 60 percent chance of showers and thunderstorms. The high will be 80 with southerly winds at 5 to 15 mph.

A mother with six children went to the clothing store for some back-to-school shopping. The youngsters gave the clerk so much trouble that she said, as the lady was checking out, "If I were you, I'd leave half of the youngsters at home!"

The mother looked at the clerk sadly and answered, "I did."

The annual Town & Country Jubilee officials got underway last Saturday with the YMCA's 10K and 2-Mile Fun Run, and the next big event is set for Thursday night when the Chamber Singers present a special concert in the HHS Auditorium at 8 p.m.

The doors swing open on the Jubilee of Arts Friday at the Community Center from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., and the big show continues Saturday with the same hours. The T&C Jubilee parade launches a full day of activities Saturday, including the games and food booths at Jubilee Junction in Dameron Park. Live entertainment will also be presented. Another highlight offered both Friday and Saturday nights is the Jubilee Junior Rodeo. Held for youngsters ages 7-19, the rodeo starts at 7:30 each evening.

We enjoyed attending an old-fashioned "block party" Monday evening when neighbors in the 300 and 400 block of Douglas Street got together for fellowship and refreshments. Several families in the block planned the social as a way of welcoming new neighbors, and we recommend it for other neighborhoods.

Not only does it serve to get acquainted with some neighbors you seldom see, but the block party offers other advantages. High among those benefits would be sampling the home-made ice cream and other goodies prepared for the event. You also get to visit with some nice folks and, for me, it was a welcome reprieve from watching the "boob tube!"

Hearing bill is $2 million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The congressional Iran-Contra committees have spent more than $2 million so far, and the figure will more than double by the time the panels finish their work in October, spokesmen said today.

The House committee spent $950,000 from January through July 31, including $51,000 for the services of chief counsel John W. Nields Jr. The money was paid to his Washington law firm, Howrey and Simon, committee spokesman Bob Havel said.

The total figure also includes salaries for 45 staff members, stationary, travel expenses, equipment and telephones.

Havel added that the counter on the committee's copy machine totaled 1,605,000 as of today.

Lance Morgan, the spokesman for the Senate committee, had previously announced that his panel had spent $1.2 million as of June 30 for a staff of 52, plus expenses similar to those of the House committee.

Senate Chief Counsel Arthur L. Liman is on a salary that would amount to more than $72,000 an annual basis.

However, the figures do not include significant cost items such as police overtime, construction work in the Caucus Room of the Senate Russell Office Building and printing of hearing transcripts.

Demonstrations continue

Two men, who identified themselves as friends of Manuel Medeles and Lisa Lopez, held a bedsheet banner asking for the pair's release from jail during a demonstration in front of the Deaf Smith County Courthouse. The demonstrations, organized by farm labor activist Jesus Moya, were held Monday and Tuesday nights at the courthouse. Medeles and Lopez were re-jailed last week after E-Z Bail Bond of Amarillo forfeited their bonds.

FDIC says Texas leads in bank fraud

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas is clearly in the nation's leader in bank fraud, and a U.S. Justice Department task force in Dallas has begun what is expected to be a multi-year investigation of financial institutions in the state, FBI officials said.

The FBI has sent 20 agents to bolster the staff already assigned to the task force by the Dallas bureau and a Justice Department official said 15 prosecutors have been assigned.

"This problem has grown and our commitment to it has grown dramatically since the early 1980s," said Jeffrey Jamar, the FBI White Collar Crime section chief in Washington.

"Since 1982, the FBI has more than doubled its commitment and the number of cases has more than doubled. The number of convictions has also grown dramatically and will continue to grow."

Fraud cases are occurring nationwide, Jamar said, but they have been identified in areas that have experienced economic downturns, such as Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana, where the oil industry was rocked by a fall in price last year, because that is when bad loans are defaulted on.

"During a boom time everything gets paid off, but when that boom ends everything comes crashing down," he said.

Kansas, where farmers have been hard hit in recent years, and California, where real estate values have taken a dive, are also high in fraud cases, but Texas is clearly in a lead position at this point, Jamar said.

"Dallas has over 200 cases that we consider major bank fraud cases. The arbitrary number we use to define a major bank fraud case is over $100,000," he said.

Investigators will be working closely with the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which regulates thrifts, and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., which regulates banks, to identify fraud and prepare criminal cases.

Undercover operations, tips from the regulators and victims, and computer analyses of lending practices will be part of the federal assault on bank fraud, Jamar said.

One of the more common methods of fraud is the practice of making loans based on faulty real estate appraisals, Jamar said.

The term is "flip," where ownership of a certain parcel of land is changed several times and each time there is an appraisal that artificially increases the value of the property. Another practice is to temporarily clean up balance sheets by trading off bad loans to another institution before an examination by federal regulators.

"The term they use is to get a cow for a dead horse," Jamar said.

A third common fraud practice is called "link financing," where an institution gets a large amount of money from a source to put on its books with the condition that it be lent to specified, usually unqualified, borrowers.

"And the money given is all in CDs (certificates of deposit), so that if the bank fails it's all federally insured," Jamar said.

Investigators are seeing both professional criminals and financial officers who are seduced by an opportunity to make quick money involved in the fraud cases.

Convictions have resulted in sentences of 20 years in prison in several cases, Jamar said.

Simultaneous to a criminal case, Justice Department prosecutors will often sue the institution or those charged for damages, which are then made available to the victims of the fraudulent loan scheme.

We have finally received the 1987 college and pro football schedules. Those of you who have called may call us back.

'Back' would be better than one name I was called last week. We're at the whims of the colleges and pros on the schedules.

The whole dad-gum federal government must be in deep trouble, because they're pestering the daylight out of people with old college loans.

I never took out one of those government loans, but I know a couple of friends that did.

These loans were obtained several years ago, and the government promised low-interest, easy payments—like $20 a month for the rest of your life.

Now the government is beginning to renege on its deal.

It would be easy to understand the government's badgering if these people had not been paying on the loans, but both of these friends have been paying according to the original terms of the agreement.

Now, the government is changing the rules in the middle of the game, wanting to get its money back more quickly than the original terms called for.

If this were a banker doing this, the banker would be out on the street, possibly in prison.

Instead, it's the government and a bunch of bureaucrats acting up again.

It's little wonder many people in the world still consider revolution and anarchy the best way to change things.

Since the Iran-Contra Hearings have ended for the time being, I decided to re-read a book in my personal library—All The President's Men, the book by two reporters about the Watergate scandal.

Some of the corollaries are interesting—it's deja vu. For instance, it was obvious throughout the Watergate scandal, if you look back, that every attempt was made to insulate the President from the goings-on of his underlings who were working, wouldn't you know it, in the White House basement.

Not all of them were in the basement. Some of them were in the next office.

Both scandals involved money laundering, inadequate preliminary investigations, and semi-heroes.

Can you believe some people thought Hugh Sloan, who worked closely with Nixon and his staff, should run for President?

The similarities are absolutely eerie.

Reagan speech: Iran, future

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, breaking a long silence, addresses the nation tonight with his "personal impressions" of the Iran-Contra hearings that documented discord, deceit and possible illegal actions by top White House officials.

In his third major speech on the subject, Reagan will speak from the Oval Office at 8 p.m. EDT, talking for about 18 minutes. ABC, CBS and NBC will interrupt regular programming for it, and Cable News Network also will carry it live.

White House officials said Reagan's address would include not only his views of the hearings on arms sales to Iran and the diversion of arms-sales profits to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels, but also his agenda and priorities for the remaining 17 months of his presidency.

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Reagan would not discuss the subject of pardons for two former aides — John Poindexter and Oliver North — who have acknowledged being targets of criminal investigations.

Administration officials, speaking privately, said Reagan would say he accepts responsibility for the affair and that it's time to move on. Poindexter, who resigned as the president's national security adviser, had testified he shielded Reagan from information and that "the buck stops here with me."

On Thursday Reagan will fly to North Platte, Neb., to give a speech and then will continue to California for vacation, dropping out of public view for 25 days.

Fitzwater said the speech was completed Tuesday, "subject to last-minute revisions by the president tomorrow morning."

He refused to discuss its contents, saying, "This is a personal view ... personal impressions" of the hearings. "It's too much a personal statement by the president" for other people to discuss it.

Reagan has offered varying opinions about the hearings, once dismissing the testimony as hearsay that would not be admissible in court. Another time, he said he had not heard anything that suggested that any laws were broken — but the White House modified that statement to leave open the possibility of criminal wrongdoing.

The whole affair has stained Reagan's presidency and raised deep questions about his credibility. Numerous polls show that most Americans believe he has not told the truth about the affair.

In large part, however, Reagan has been silent on the subject since a March 4 address responding to the Tower board's investigation of the affair.

The sale of U.S. arms to Iran, conducted secretly since late in 1985, exploded into public in November when a pro-Syrian magazine in Lebanon reported that Reagan's one-time national security adviser, Robert McFarlane, had secretly visited Iran.

At the time, Reagan dismissed the story as having "no foundation" but, as evidence accumulated, was forced to acknowledge it was true. In the intervening months, the president has changed his story several times, rejecting and later accepting the notion that he traded arms for American hostages held in Lebanon.

However, Reagan adamantly has denied any knowledge of the diversion of arms-sale profits to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels, and there was no testimony in the 11 weeks of congressional hearings that contradicted that claim.

Poindexter, compelled to testify after receiving a grant of limited immunity, told Congress he never told Reagan about the diversion, but that he believed Reagan would have approved of it.

North, a former National Security Council aide and the key player in arranging the secret flow of supplies to Contra rebels, said he had assumed Reagan knew about the diversion, but never discussed it with him.

More minesweepers search in Persian Gulf

KUWAIT (AP) — A second group of American-flagged Kuwaiti tankers completed its journey through the Persian Gulf, but a new mining threat outside the waterway prompted France and Britain to send minesweepers to the region.

In Washington, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger said the United States was seeking support for an international minesweeping operation in the gulf "in the interest of all maritime nations." But France and Britain said their sweepers were sent to protect their own vessels.

Iran's ambassador to the United Nations, Said Rajaie-Khorassani, said his country would cooperate with U.N. peace efforts in the gulf but added that Tehran was not "accepted or rejecting" a Security Council resolution calling for an end to the 7-year-old war.

U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar said Iraq had accepted the resolution.

Tuesday afternoon's arrival in Kuwait of the 46,723-ton Gas King, 81,283-ton Sea Isle City and 79,999-ton Ocean City ended the second Navy-escorted trip up the gulf.

Defense Department spokesman Robert Sims said the vessels headed for Kuwait's main Al-Ahmedi oil terminal to be loaded for the return trip down the gulf. There was no immediate word on when that would begin.

Eleven of Kuwait's 21 tankers are being registered as American ships so the Navy can protect them from attacks by Iran, which accuses Kuwait of supporting Iraq.

On the first convoy trip, the super-tanker Bridgeton hit a mine off a fortified Iranian island.

In the air above the gulf Saturday, an American fighter fired two missiles at an Iranian jet after the jet ignored radio messages to steer away from a U.S. surveillance plane, Pentagon sources said Tuesday. The missiles missed.

A Navy Aegis-class cruiser, the Valley Forge, and a Navy P-3 Orion surveillance plane both tracked the Iranian F-4 Phantom starting from its takeoff at Iran's Bandar Abbas naval base, the sources said, speaking on condition of anonymity.

The confrontation occurred over the Strait of Hormuz when the Iranian jet began flying directly toward the unarmed P-3 aircraft, they said.

Asked Tuesday about Tehran's reaction to the incident, Rajaie-Khorassani told ABC News: "I think it has been something very casual. My personal reaction is that if we fire we're not going to miss, so I advise the Americans not to do it again."

In the Gulf of Oman, witnesses at the crowded anchorage off Fujairah, a United Arab Emirates port, said four U.S. and Omani helicopters swept back and forth looking for mines Tuesday.

An American-operated super-tanker, the 274,347-ton Texaco Caribbean, struck a mine there Monday and four more explosives were found Tuesday.

U.S. Navy helicopters joined the mine search at Oman's request, a diplomat said privately.

Pentagon sources in Washington said the U.S. helicopter carrier Guadalcanal and its eight Navy mine-sweeping helicopters will not arrive in the Persian Gulf until next week. The Guadalcanal's voyage was delayed by a malfunctioning electrical system, they said.

The Soviet news agency Tass said the U.S. request for an international mine-detecting force was designed to convince Americans that Washington was not politically isolated in its reflagging operation.

Tehran radio quoted Hashemi Rafsanjani, speaker of Iran's Parliament, as saying the Iranian navy would be sent to the Gulf of Oman to clear mines, but there was no elaboration.

"There's a little bit of panic" among tanker crews at the Gulf of Oman anchorage, said a shipping source. Another added: "It's a bad situation. The other tankers are now afraid to move." Both spoke on condition of anonymity.

The anchorage is being used as a staging point for the U.S.-Kuwaiti convoys. It is about 30 miles from the Strait of Hormuz, the entrance to the Persian Gulf.

The Reagan administration said it agreed to the reflagging to protect the flow of oil in the Persian Gulf. It acted after the Soviets leased three tankers to Kuwait.

State insurance board will permit AIDS testing

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas insurance companies can continue to test policy applicants for AIDS despite a new state law restricting such tests, the State Board of Insurance has ruled.

In a 3-0 Tuesday vote, the board decided the law, effective Sept. 1, does not cover insurance companies.

"We needed this action to be sure we were on safe ground," said Dave Smith of Austin, executive director of the Texas Legal Reserve Officials Association, which represents 125 insurance companies.

The new law amends the Communicable Disease Prevention and Control Act and includes a section saying "a person or entity may not require another person" to take an AIDS test. The insurance industry was not mentioned in the bill.

Under the board's emergency rule adopted Tuesday, insurance companies must do the testing on a non-discriminatory basis and use a three-test procedure.

Smith said insurance companies could lose a lot of money if applicants are not checked for AIDS.

"You could go over to your doctor this afternoon and your doctor could say, 'Sir, you have AIDS and you probably have a year to 18 months.' You could then walk across the street and, without benefit of an AIDS test, buy $500,000 worth of insurance," Smith said.

Glen Maxey, executive director of the Lesbian-Gay Rights Lobby of Texas, said he was pleased that the insurance board plans to convene a hearing next Tuesday to review proposed rules for AIDS testing by insurance companies.

He said he understands the insurance companies' need to test for AIDS, but is concerned about discrimination against all homosexuals "just for the mere fact that they are in a high-risk group, that they are gay, that they name a beneficiary of the same sex or live in a certain geographical area of the state."

Maxey added, "Men with certain occupations and who live in certain zip codes have been denied coverage."

Lyndon Olson, board chairman, said he wants AIDS treated like any other disease while making sure there is no unfair discrimination against homosexuals or other people in the AIDS high-risk group.

"Insurance is nothing but discrimination. If you're 21 years old vs. 45 years old, if you're 65 vs. 18. It may be if you're male vs. female. If you've got a sports car or if you're driving an old Ford pickup truck. ... It's nothing but discrimination. The legal, constitutional test in insurance is whether the discrimination is unfair discrimination. That's what these hearings are all about," Olson said.

Thunderstorms are forecast

By The Associated Press

Widely scattered thunderstorms are possible across most of Texas through tonight as hot weather continued statewide.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were reported at dawn today along extreme western portions of the state, mainly in northwest sections of the Panhandle, western portions of the South Plains and in Southwest Texas. The activity was being triggered by a low pressure system.

At least one tornado was reported Tuesday as moist, unstable air and afternoon heating combined to produce scattered thunderstorms, including some described as heavy from North Central Texas into the Trans-Pecos.

An off-duty Department of Public Safety trooper reported a small tornado on the ground about two miles east of Brownwood near the Brown County community of Early, Keith Mitchell, DPS communications officer in Brownwood, said.

The twister report prompted the weather service to issue a tornado warning for Brown County as a severe thunderstorm moved across the area.

Lows tonight will be mostly in the 70s and 80s except in the mountains and Southwest Texas where readings will be in the 60s.

Highs Thursday will be mostly in the 90s, ranging to as high as around or slightly above the 100-degree mark in North Texas and South Texas.

Early morning temperatures were in the 60s in the mountains of Southwest Texas and in the 70s and 80s over the rest of the state. Extremes ranged from 69 at Amarillo to 80 at Brownsville.

Other early morning temperatures around the state included 76 at Wichita Falls, 78 at Fort Worth, Waco, Austin and Corpus Christi, 79 at Houston, 71 at San Angelo, 72 at Lubbock, 71 at Midland and 73 at El Paso.

Julie Wilcox feted with shower

A bridal shower honoring Julie Wilcox, Sept. 5 bride-elect of Joe Gold, was held Saturday in the E.B. Black House.

The honoree is the daughter of Jack and Meredith Wilcox of Hereford and her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Freddie Gold of

A tall arrangement of ivory lilies and peach roses, the bride-elect's chosen colors, accented the serving table. Apricot punch was served from an antique sunburst crystal punch bowl. Other refreshments included cinnamon rolls, a coconut cheese ball with fruit bread, and a silver chafing dish filled with sausage balls.

Placed on the buffet was a replica bride, made by Meredith Wilcox, of the traditional wedding gown worn by her and her two daughters. Julie Wilcox will be attired in the same gown at her wedding Sept. 5 in Tulsa, Okla. Also, on the buffet was a Victorian fruit cascade surrounded by crystal vases in blue, peach and crystal. Those serving were Dee Anne Trotter, Karen Taylor, Shawn Gearn and Lara Blackburn.

Tourette syndrome a frustrating disease

Tourette (toor'-et) syndrome is a complex neurological disorder that disrupts an otherwise normal, healthy life and has no known cause or cure. The Texas Medical Association says that while medical treatment is becoming more effective, the support and understanding of family and friends is crucial to a person with the syndrome.

Tourette syndrome causes people to unintentionally make abrupt body movements, such as tics and jerks, produce unusual sounds and shout inappropriate words.

The syndrome does not affect intelligence level, health or life expectancy, but it can be severely disabling. The adverse reactions from other people are what restrict patients from leading a normal lifestyle.

The disease affects people all over the world and dates back to the Middle Ages. About 100,000 Americans have Tourette syndrome, although several more are either misdiagnosed or not diagnosed at all. Three-fourths of those people with the syndrome are male.

Symptoms usually emerge in childhood, around age seven, and typically begin with excessive eye-blinking and involuntary muscle contractions in the shoulders. The vocal symptoms include barks, whistles, hisses, snorts, and other bizarre noises.

Most patients learn to control or postpone the symptoms, and in mild cases, they can work and get along in the community.

Frustrating to the patient is that symptoms come and go unpredictably. Haloperidol is one medication that is effective in controlling the tics and jerks, but the side effects, including depression, loss of concentration, and development of phobias, can be more difficult to deal with than the symptoms.

For more information about Tourette syndrome or to locate the Tourette syndrome organization nearest you, write the National Organization for Tourette Syndrome, 41-02 Bell Blvd., Bayside, New York 11361 or call 718/224-2999.

Harris scatters 7 hits in 7 Innings

Rangers win over Brewers

By RICK GANO
AP Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Greg Harris, the starter, isn't the same pitcher in August that Greg Harris, the reliever, was in April.

Just ask the Texas Ranger right-hander or the Milwaukee Brewers. "When I'm a starter they see a little different me. I'm not the same when I'm relieving," Harris said Tuesday night after scattering seven hits over seven innings in a 7-1 Ranger victory.

As a short reliever in April, Harris struggled, especially on Easter Sunday when he gave up two ninth-inning homers that rallied the Brewers from a 4-1 deficit to a 6-4 victory. That win was Milwaukee's American League-record 12th straight to start the season.

"Easter Sunday is long gone, it's old stuff," Harris said after raising his record to 5-8, including 4-4 since becoming a starter in June. "If I was at my best and got beat, then I'd question it, but I was struggling, really battling and trying to find myself."

"And now that I have, this is what I can do when I'm pitching good," he said.

"His biggest plus was that he had command of four pitches," said Milwaukee's Paul Molitor, who had three hits, extending his hitting streak to 26 games — longest in the majors this season.

"When he used to be a short reliever, he threw basically fastballs and curveballs, but now that he's in the rotation he's added a slider and throws his changeup a lot more."

Molitor passed Wade Boggs, who had a 25-game hitting streak earlier. Molitor's current streak is also the longest in the majors since Boggs hit in 28 straight in 1985.

"When you have streak like this use it as a motivating tool," said Molitor, who set the Brewer club record Monday.

"It's just a matter at this particular time of having the longest streak in the majors this given year. I don't know how much significance you can give to that. It's nothing major."

The Rangers' victory was only their second in 11 meetings with the Brewers this season and was propelled by a five-run outburst in the first two innings of Milwaukee loser Mark Knudson, 2-3. Ruben Sierra had a pair of run-scoring sacrifice flies and the Rangers bunched five straight hits in a three-run second.

And although Molitor kept his hitting streak alive, he had another one stopped when he was thrown out stealing after a first-inning single. He had stolen 14 straight bases before Mike Stanley cut him down. The play also ended a string of 39 straight steals against Rangers' catchers, including 27 in a row against Stanley.

"We scored first and then throwing out Molitor was the thing. That made it a whole different game," said Texas Manager Bobby Valentine.

"That was a big play, I believe," said Harris, who walked one and struck out six. "That could have been the start of a comeback if he steals that base. With Molitor at second base, those guys are pretty good about scoring him."

Molitor said, "I didn't get one of my better jumps and he made a good throw."

Cruz hits two home runs

Astros defeat Giants, 7-3

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jose Cruz, the veteran outfielder who has been starting for the Houston Astros on a part-time basis, could have changed that with the two homers he hit in Tuesday night's 7-3 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

"Jose has hit Mike LaCoss well. That's one reason he played. I know he'll be in the lineup tomorrow. He's the type of player who can get hot and carry a club for a while," Manager Hal Lanier said.

Houston ended a four-game losing streak by beating the Giants, who were on a five-game winning streak. The Astros' pitching ace, Mike Scott, was ready to go against the Giants today in the third game of the series between the National League West contenders.

"Heathcock gave us the innings we needed. The bullpen has been tired," Lanier said.

The bullpen also is short-handed because of the absence of Dave Smith, the reliever with 19 saves and a 1.17 earned run average. Smith has been bothered by a sore elbow, and Tuesday night he felt ill three hours before gametime and was taken to a hospital for an examination before returning to Candlestick Park.

SMU homecoming to be polo, soccer

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University students will cheer for the ponies this fall, but they won't be red and blue Mustangs playing football.

The Willow Bend Polo and Hunt Club of Dallas has invited about 1,600 SMU fraternity and sorority members to polo matches this fall to fill the void left when the 1987 and 1988 SMU football seasons were canceled in the wake of a recruiting scandal.

"All (fraternities and sororities) want to do it right away. Things are very positive," said Dan Dooley, who graduated from SMU last spring and is promoting the polo matches with two partners.

Polo is the most unusual alternative planned for SMU students facing their first fall without football. School officials and student groups have arranged "a full smorgasbord of programs," including soccer matches, concerts, plays, lectures and other events, said Jim Caswell, dean of student affairs.

University officials acknowledge, however, winning hearts and minds without the pigskin will be difficult.

"You got the impression SMU was so inextricably tied to football it was incapable of doing anything without it," said Bill Johnston, director of the student center and student activities at SMU.

Willow Bend, whose matches have been open to the public on Sundays, has added public matches on Saturdays to accommodate SMU students, said Claudia Hill, special events coordinator at Willow Bend.

Dooley acknowledged that SMU is known for its wealthy student body, and having polo matches for its students won't help that.

"Willow Bend is very sensitive to that," he said. "They don't want people to think it's a bunch of rich kids from SMU."

Back on campus, the school will have plays and concerts, and soccer will become the big game. The nationally prominent soccer team will move its games from Fridays to Saturdays — a day the team had avoided so as not to conflict with football games.

Homecoming on Nov. 6 and 7 will go on as scheduled with all the traditional celebrations, but a soccer match against Texas Christian University will be the centerpiece athletic event.

"It's a normal homecoming for all intents and purposes. The only difference is we substituted a soccer game for a football game," Johnston said. "There is certainly life after football here."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been out of the country twice in the last three years and had a wonderful vacation both times. After I returned to the States, I came down with a terrible respiratory infection. I am absolutely certain that my illnesses were caused by the stale air in the planes. I'm due for another vacation but I'm afraid to risk an overseas trip.

I was told by an airline employee that the mechanism to bring in fresh air from the outside is very costly to use, so most airlines turn it on as seldom as possible.

One would think that the price of an airline ticket would entitle a passenger to good-quality air—at least good enough so that passengers wouldn't get sick.

I am tired of the smokers on planes taking the blame for the awful pollution. Will you please address this problem in your column? I am sure that other frequent air passengers feel as I do.—Constant Reader USA

DEAR READER: I went straight to the top with your complaint. Robert L. Crandall, chairman and president of American Airlines, was pleased to be able to respond publicly. This is his answer:

"The air quality aboard airplanes gets lots of attention from every airline. In fact, the FAA requires that the air in aircraft passenger compartments meet prescribed oxygen content levels.

"To ensure high-quality fresh air, commercial jet airliners change the cabin air with outside fresh air every two to five minutes. This is much more frequent than in public buildings or office areas. In spite of some perceived problems associated with smoking on aircraft, recent studies show that the cabin air is superior to the air we breathe in shopping and work locations.

"I am not aware of any data which suggests that commercial air transportation is a casual or contributory factor in infections or other forms of sickness."

So there you have it, folks. I suspect that people who get sick when they return from a trip either picked up a bug while traveling or they returned exhausted, easy prey for colds, flu, etc.

Don Brown was the first person to cross San Francisco's Golden Gate Bridge when it opened on May 27, 1937.

People once thought it good luck to carry key rings made of stone and horn.

Social Security

Have you a question about social security? Address it to Jim Talbot, Manager, social security office, Suite 16, 3601 W. 15th, Amarillo, Texas 79102. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.

QUESTION: I have heard references to 62, and/or "retirement age" for Social Security retirement benefits. What does Social Security consider as "retirement age" 62 or 65?

ANSWER: Mention of "retirement age" under the Social Security program refers to when you reach 62. The year in which you reach 62 is important. It is used to figure the number of credits you'll need and is the base for the formula used to figure the amount of your Social Security benefits.

QUESTION: My husband was taken ill last August and he still hasn't been able to go back to work. He is receiving a Social Security disability benefit plus benefits for me and our two young children. This has been a great help to us. Does everyone who works under Social Security have this kind of protection?

ANSWER: They sure do, as long as they have worked long enough and recently enough in employment covered under the Social Security program. It is not just a retirement program. It provides disability benefits to the worker and his or her family, plus survivors benefits to eligible members of the deceased worker's family. A retirement benefit is paid when the worker is eligible to retire. Social Security also pays benefits to the worker's eligible family members. It provides health insurance when the worker reaches 65, after getting disability benefits for 24 months, and when a worker or eligible family member suffers permanent kidney failure.

QUESTION: I've been called to serve jury duty next month and will be paid $5.00 for every day I serve. I get SSI payments and was wondering if this money would count as income under SSI?

ANSWER: Yes. Jury fees are considered income and should be reported to your Social Security office.

QUESTION: My daughter tells me I should apply for SSI payments. Will I have to sell my house in order to qualify?

ANSWER: No. Regardless of its value, the house where you live and the land it is on are not counted in determining whether you can get SSI payments.

QUESTION: My neighbor told me he gets both Social Security and SSI checks. How can that be?

ANSWER: People who get a small Social Security check may also be eligible for SSI. Their SSI payments will be reduced, however, to take account of their other income.

QUESTION: I found an old bill for doctor's services that I had paid more than a year ago, but I forgot to submit it to my Medicare carrier for payment. Is it too late now for me to send in a claim for this bill?

ANSWER: To have medical insurance make payments on your claim, you must submit the claim within the following time limits: For services received between October 1, 1985, and September 30, 1986, you must submit your claim by December 31, 1987; for services received between October 1, 1987 and September 30, 1988, your claim must be submitted by December 31, 1989. You always have at least 15 months to submit claims for payment to your Medicare carrier.

SPEECH WAS A SPORT
ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Sports weren't as popular an activity for 19th century college students as they are today. One way students filled free time 100 years ago was to practice writing and delivering speeches.

"Speechifying" was so much a part of campus life that students were expected to show off their talent at commencement. For much of the 19th century at the University of Rochester, for example, every graduating senior spoke at commencement, mostly on sweeping, general themes such as "optimism vs. pessimism."

Occasionally, a student ventured a more controversial topic, such as a woman's right to vote.

Mites, borers are on increase

By CARL D. PATRICK
Extension Entomologist
GENERAL SITUATION

Both Bank's grass mite and two-spotted mite are being found in corn. Southwestern corn borer eggs should be present in most corn. Continue to check for greenbugs, headworms, and midge in sorghum. Bollworm and aphids reported from cotton.

CORN

Spider mites continue to increase in area corn. Both Bank's grass mite and two-spotted mite are being reported. Identification of these two mites is important, because labeled miticides are more effective against Bank's grass mite than two-spotted. The dark green pigment spots extend along the side down the entire length of the body of the Bank's grass mite. Banks usually develop earlier in the season and produce less webbing than the two-spotted. The dark green pigment spots on the two-spotted mite stop about half way down the length of the body. They produce more webbing and usually develop late in the season.

This year Azodrin will not be allowed on corn for spider mite control. On August 3 EPA made their "final" decision to deny the Section 18 request for Azodrin.

Southwestern corn borer eggs should be present in most fields.

Pheromone trap catches of adult moths have gone over 2,000 per trap. Southwestern corn borer eggs are small, occur in masses of 2 or 3, develop three red lines, and hatch in about five days. Eighty percent of the eggs will be found on the two leaves above the ear leaf and the four leaves below the ear leaf.

SORGHUM

We are at that time in grain sorghum maturity when greenbugs tend to rapidly increase. Keep a close watch on this pest.

Sorghum midge are being reported in blooming sorghum on the South Plains.

No indication of headworm problems at this time.

COTTON

Emory Boring, Extension entomologist at Vernon, indicated first generation boll weevils are emerging from older cotton. Cotton in southern Collingsworth and Donley Counties should be checked for this pest.

Bollworm activity is up and is expected to increase over this next week. You should increase cotton scouting to twice a week in order to stay on top of the bollworm situation.

Aphid infestations are at very low levels at this time, but continue to watch this pest for we are at that time of year that they typically increase.

Crop smaller, yields bigger

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's corn crop is going to be smaller, but the Agriculture Department says record yields per acre are in the works.

Based on field surveys as of Aug. 1, the fall corn harvest is expected to produce 7.23 billion bushels, down 12 percent from last year's bumper output of 8.25 billion bushels, the department's Agricultural Statistics Board said Tuesday.

It would be the smallest corn harvest since 1983, when drought and government acreage programs reduced production to 4.18 billion bushels. Production rose to a record 8.9 billion bushels in 1985.

But U.S. grain production is still world class. A related report showed the Soviet Union's 1987 total grain harvest is turning out better than department experts had expected, perhaps around 205 million metric tons, up 10 million tons from USDA's earlier forecast.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 39.4 bushels of corn or 36.7 bushels of wheat or soybeans.

Converted to metric measure, the new U.S. corn estimate is 183.7 million tons by itself. After adding sorghum, oats and barley, the total U.S. feed grain production this year will be about 220 million tons — not counting 57.8 million tons of wheat or 54.4 million tons of soybeans.

Looking further at U.S. crop production prospects this year, the board said, "Planting of the 1987 corn crop began well ahead of normal due to the warm weather early in the spring. Development of the crop remained ahead of normal, and the crop is still one to two weeks ahead of normal."

Corn producers cut back to about 59.6 million acres expected for harvest this fall, compared with 69.2 million acres harvested in 1986. The huge 1985 harvest came from 75.2 million acres.

One factor in the cutback is participation in 1987 government acreage programs in which farmers agree to idle part of their land in return for price supports and direct payments. In all, farmers signed up to take 54.4 million acres from crop production this year, including corn, wheat, rice and cotton.

The long-term Conservation Reserve Program, under which farmers so far have agreed to idle more than 18 million acres of marginal, highly erodible land for 10 years, has been another factor.

Despite the cutback, there are huge stockpiles of corn — the most important U.S. farm crop — which will provide a reserve for livestock feed in the coming year.

Although the large buildup of corn and other grain has weighed heavily on farm market prices, it has helped ease feed costs in the production of beef, pork, poultry, eggs and milk.

Soybean production was estimated at 2 billion bushels, down fractionally from less than 2.01 billion bushels in 1986. The record was 2.26 billion bushels in 1979.

Wheat production, including winter and spring-planted varieties, was indicated at 2.13 billion bushels, up 2 percent from 2.09 billion bushels last year. The record was 2.79 billion bushels in 1981.

Cotton production, reflecting a boost in harvested acreage and yields, was estimated at 12.9 million bales, up 33 percent from 9.73 million bales produced in 1986. The record was 18.95 million bales in 1937.

The report said the "all crops" production index as of Aug. 1 averaged 107 percent of the base year of 1977, down from 108 percent last year. The index reached a record high of 117 percent in 1981 and 1982 before dropping to a 10-year low of 88 percent in 1983, a year of drought and government acreage cutbacks. It rose to 111 percent in 1984 and matched the record 117 percent level in 1985.

Meanwhile, corn yields were estimated at a record national average of 121.4 bushels per acre, up from 119.3 bushels last year, the previous high.

Soybean yields, at 34.7 bushels per harvested acre, would be up from 33.8 bushels last year and surpassing the old mark of 34.1 bushels in 1985. Wheat yields overall were estimated at 38.4 bushels per acre, compared with 34.4 bushels last year and the record of 39.4 in 1983.

Cotton yields were indicated at 615 pounds per acre, compared with 552 pounds in 1986 and a record of 630 pounds in 1985.

Consumer food prices overall are expected by USDA economists to rise an average of 3 percent to 5 percent this year, compared with a 3.2 percent increase in 1986.

The nation's farm economy is pulling slowly out of a five-year crunch, although thousands of families still are burdened by large debts and facing possible foreclosures, according to USDA analysts.

However, they say the net cash income of farmers nationally has improved dramatically the last couple of years, largely due to lower production costs and large government payments.

According to USDA projections, the net cash income of farmers — the difference between cash receipts and cash expenses — could be in the range of $52 billion to $56 billion this year, compared with a record high of $53 billion in 1986.

In a related report, the USDA said corn prices at the farm may average $1.60 to $2 per bushel in the marketing year that will begin Sept. 1. In the current market year, corn prices are expected to average about $1.51 per bushel.

The "supply-and-demand" analysis showed that the smaller 1987 crop will not quite keep pace with expected usage in 1987-88, meaning that a modest decline in the U.S. corn stockpile may occur during the coming year.

Wheat prices were projected at $2.30 to $2.60 per bushel in 1987-88, compared with $2.42 last season.

Soybean prices are expected to average in the range of $4.70 to $5 per bushel, compared with $4.80 in the 1986-87 marketing year.

US sorghum more nutritious

Yellow sorghum exported by the United States is superior in nutritional value to the brown, high-tannin, bird-resistant sorghum that is exported by other sorghum-producing countries, according to studies done by Dr. Lloyd W.

Rooney, Professor of Food Science and Agronomy at Texas A&M University.

The studies have shown that U.S. yellow sorghum has 95 percent of the feeding value of corn, while the feed efficiency of brown sorghum can be 10 to 30 percent lower than that of yellow sorghum.

Dr. Rooney reported that brown, bird-resistant sorghum contains condensed tannins which reduce the nutritional value of the grain. In general, animals fed brown sorghum consume more feed but gain no more weight than those fed corn or yellow sorghum.

The United States produces and exports little brown sorghum. USDA Federal Grain Inspection Service (FGIS) inspectors at U.S. ports have stated that U.S. sorghum for export rarely contains more than one-half percent brown sorghum.

Sorghum exported from Argentina, South Africa, and Thailand, however, usually contains high levels of brown, high-tannin grain. Brown sorghum from Argentina is often erroneously considered equal in feeding value to U.S. yellow sorghum. When the brown sorghum is used, its poor performance can convince buyers that all sorghums have inferior feeding value.

High-tannin sorghum kernels contain condensed tannins in a pigmented testa, while nontannin sorghum kernels do not have a pigmented testa. All sorghums with a pigmented testa are classified as brown sorghum according to FGIS guidelines.

"Sorghums without pigmented testa do not have condensed tannins and their nutritional value is 95 per-
