Young At Heart Choir

The Hereford Senior Citizens choir presented a special program Wednesday for the Hereford Lions Club. The choir was under the direction of Jeff Love. Former Lion President Temple Abney presented Fred Fox with a district membership award at the meeting, and the district's "Outstanding Club" plaque was shown to members.

'Junction' at Bull Barn

T&C Jubilee action gathers full steam

Festive buntings are outlining store fronts and city streets; the YM-CA has held its 10K run, and the Chamber Singers hold a concert tonight as the annual Hereford Town & Country Jubilee heads into its major weekend of activities.

Friday's program will include the opening of the Jubilee of Arts at the Community Center at 10 a.m., and the first performance of the Jubilee Junior Rodeo at 7:30 p.m. at the Riders Club Arena. The big Jubilee Parade is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. Saturday, followed by the Jubilee Junction activities which will be held in the Bull Barn instead of Dameron Park. The food and game booths were moved because of excessive rain in the park.

The Jubilee of Arts will continue from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday, and the second performance of the junior rodeo will be at 7:30 p.m.

Tonight's Chamber Singers' concert will display the community's talented and widely-known group, as well as including appearances in specialty acts by local citizens. Tickets for the show, starting at 8 p.m., are $4 for adults and $2 for children under 12.

The Chamber Singers are working to secure funds for a trip to the World Expo in Brisbane, Australia, in 1988. The group is one of 100 musical groups selected to represent the United States at the world exposition.

Tonight's program, subtitled as a "Southern Jamboree", will include choral numbers, solos, duets, a barbershop quartet, a sextet and a novelty group to entertain with various styles of music. Bill Devers is directing the group in its 13th year of performances.

The Jubilee of Arts, sponsored by the Hereford Fine Arts Association, has once again sold out its space and will have artists and craftsmen from throughout Texas and New Mexico on hand to offer citizens the opportunity to view and purchase some of the finest original and handcrafted items available.

The parade is being directed this year by the Whiteface Kiwanis Club, with Jim Ward and Hawk Kreig as co-chairmen. Categories to be judged include best overall entry, agribusiness, commercial, religious, community service, youth, service clubs, and open divisions.

At the conclusion of the parade, the action shifts to the Bull Barn. Food booths will include barbecue, steak on a stick, hamburgers, fajitas, hot dogs, nachos, cotton candy, caramel apples, snow cones, cakes, cookies and much more. Game booths include a putting course, obstacle course, wheel of fortune, and a baby-adult picture-matching contest.

Activities for the youngsters include the coin treasure hunt, wood wonders, dunking board, face painting, races and more. A bigger and better "petting zoo" is being sponsored.

Rain falls over large area

By The Associated Press

Widely scattered thunderstorms were forecast through tonight for North Texas, the Hill Country, Edwards Plateau and extreme West Texas.

The thunderstorm activity was to be triggered by a weak cool front that extended early today from southwestern Oklahoma across the Childress and Lubbock area into eastern New Mexico.

Most of the state is to have partly cloudy skies and hot temperatures through Friday and some of the thunderstorm activity could resume again Friday, forecasters say.

Lows tonight will be mostly in the 70s, ranging from the 60s in the Panhandle and mountainous areas of Southwest Texas to the 80s along the coast and in South Texas.

Highs Friday will be mostly in the upper 90s with readings in North Texas and southern portions of the state expected to approach or go slightly above the 100-degree mark.

Isolated thundershowers and patches of rain were reported at dawn today along eastern sections of the Panhandle and on either side of the weak cool front.

Skies were mostly cloudy over the Panhandle and the rest of the area around the front and mostly clear over the rest of the state.

The Branding Iron

West active in work, community

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

Donna West may not be a Hereford native but she is one of its most dedicated citizens.

The perky brunette is a Certified Public Accountant with Brown, Graham and Company, and donates much of her free time working on community projects.

Born in North Dakota and raised in Amarillo, where her parents Bob and Gwen Laminack own a floor covering business, West is a member of the Women's Division of Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, Pilot Club International and the Panhandle Chapter of the Texas Society of CPA's.

In the Chamber she is on the Christmas Carousel and membership committees and served as the chairman of the 1987 Miss Hereford Pageant.

"It was a special week for me because I got to know the girls and it was fun to watch the project come together into an exciting night," said West, who passed on praise for the successful event to her committee members.

A former school teacher, West moved to Hereford when she married her husband, Jay, a realtor, in 1981.

"I graduated from West Texas State University in 1976 with a BA in Spanish, French and English Education," she says. "I taught three years in Plains and then one year at Palo Duro High in Amarillo. I decided it was time for a career change."

She went back to WTSU and completed 66 credit hours of business and accounting courses, then passed the CPA examinations in May, 1982. West has been employed with Brown, Graham and Company since. She will be made an official shareholder, professional corporation equivalent to partnership, on Dec. 1.

West is a charter member of the Hereford Chapter of Pilot Club, an international women's service club, formed in Sept., 1984. She served the chapter as vice-president for two years and at the end of August will complete a 15-month term as presdent. She will be a director for the 1987-88 year.

She was a United Way volunteer in 1986 and, with some of her Pilot Club duties ending, she agreed to chair the Pacesetters Division in the 1987 United Way campaign scheduled this fall.

"Pacesetters include realtors, banks, insurance companies, construction companies, commodity offices, the media and civic clubs," she explained.

With the deadline for the campaign near, West has completed plans for her committee's drive.

The end of the United Way campaign will not find her twiddling her thumbs. She is chairman for the accounting and auditing committee of the CPA society.

"This year I will be responsible for putting together education and speaker programs on topics about accounting and auditing for CPA meetings," she explains.

When not working with professional and community groups, West likes to spend some time outdoors. Though fishing and snow skiing are her favorites she says she has been taking golf lessons in Canyon this summer.

"I've been taking the lessons with some friends so we can compete in the Service Club Olympics this year," she said. "We took the lessons in Canyon so no one in Hereford could see how bad we play."

A goal-orientated person, West has begun redecorating her home. She says her goal is to complete one room a week but laughingly admits it may take longer doing the work herself.

Weekends will find her trading conservative work suits for a pair of overalls.

She is upholstering cornice boards, painting, wallpapering and all other redecorating chores. She makes time for frequent trips to Amarillo where her parents, a brother and sister live. West has a twin, Debra, who is a chemist in Portland, Ore., and a younger sister who recently moved to Buffalo, N. Y.

Donna's big secret: When she has time, she confesses, she goes on an occasional binge of reading romance novels.

"Trashy novels like Harlequin and Silhouette and mysteries are my favorites," she said, though she admitted she doesn't succumb to the temptation often because of all the other journals and periodicals she must read to remain current in her profession.

Sarpalius says state missed on tax, budget

State Senator Bill Sarpalius said Wednesday that the extended 1987 legislative session "missed the boat" on the state budget and Texas taxes.

Sarpalius told a small group at the Hereford State Bank that the state "should have developed a new tax base. The tax system we have now was written in 1961, when the economy was based on oil, gas and agriculture. The economy has changed since then.

"A select committee will study broadening the tax base, and that will be a big issue in the next session."

The next session is one Sarpalius may not attend as a state senator. His seat is "No. 1 on the Republican list," and he said he is more worried about his Senate seat than he is about a possible run for commissioner of agriculture in 1990.

"I have an awful lot of support for the ag commissioner's race in 1990," Sarpalius said. "My degree is in agriculture, I taught vo-ag, all of my background is in agriculture.

"I'm just going to concentrate on (the 1988 race). Politics will be interesting this November, in 1988 and in 1990."

This year, Texas voters will be faced with 27 issues, including several amendments to the state constitution, election of members to the State Board of Education, and pari-mutuel wagering.

Sarpalius said his personal highlights of the session included the passage of his Open Container Law, which forbids Texans from drinking alcoholic beverages while driving; several ag bills, including a proposal for November's ballot that would allow issuance of up to $100 million in bonds to loan to ag-related businesses; and a handful of bills pertaining to the Superconducting

Super Collider.

"I think we have an excellent chance to land the SSC," said Sarpalius. "I also think, before it's all said and done, the SSC will be a 100-mile radius, and that would eliminate Dallas and many other sites across the nation and help us.

"I think it's obvious Hereford will benefit substantially from the SSC."

Suburban convoy set for parade

A sidelight feature of the Jubilee Parade here Saturday morning will be a convoy of Suburbans. Stagner-Orsborn Buick-Pontiac-GMC is advertising for all Suburban owners to join them at 9:30 a.m. Saturday in the high school parking lot and form a convoy of "the National Car of Texas", a title given the vehicles by Texas Monthly magazine.

Earl Stagner says the idea is to establish a first in the Guinness World Book of Records for the most Suburbans to appear in a parade!

On Iran-Contra affair

Reagan expresses regrets

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, saying he regrets the "lies, leaks, divisions and mistakes" of the Iran-Contra affair, is leaving on a 25-day vacation with a promise to return to an energetic agenda in the autumn of his presidency.

Before departing, he gave the nation a long-promised accounting that suggested his former national security adviser, John M. Poindexter, had usurped presidential power by making decisions that rightfully belonged to Reagan alone.

Leaders from both parties agreed with Reagan that the nation cannot allow itself to become bogged down in the administration's foreign policy debacle, but the Democrats said they want evidence that lessons have been learned.

Reagan arranged for two quick appearances today in the nation's heartland — stopping for speeches at North Platte, Neb. — before starting a vacation on his beloved ranch near Santa Barbara, Calif.

In the speech broadcast live to the American people, Reagan coupled a message of contrition on Iran-Contra with a hopeful-sounding enunciation of goals he wants to pursue during his last 17 months in office. These include nuclear arms reduction, budget-balancing and winning Robert H. Bork's confirmation to the Supreme Court. "The fact of the matter is that there's nothing I can say that will make the situation right," he said of the arms-to-Iran furor that has bedeviled his presidency over the last nine months. "I was stubborn in my pursuit of a policy that went astray."

Reagan repeated that he had wanted to use whatever means possible to win the freedom of Americans held hostage by pro-Iranian elements in Lebanon, but confessed that "I let my preoccupation with the hostages intrude into areas where it didn't belong."

The president went further than ever before, in two previous nationwide addresses, in accepting blame for the Iran-Contra mistakes. But at the same time, he broke very little new ground.

He did corroborate Poindexter's congressional testimony that Poindexter — not Reagan — made the decision to use a portion of Iranian arms sales proceeds to benefit the Nicaraguan rebels known as Contras.

Reagan declined to say whether he would have approved the diversion if given a say, but he castigated Poindexter's behavior. He said "the buck does not stop with Admiral Poindexter, as he stated in his testimony. It stops with me."

Reagan said, "I am the one who is ultimately accountable to the American people. ... I had the right, the obligation, to make my own decision."

Reaction from Capitol Hill was mixed.

Sen. George Mitchell of Maine, a member of the joint congressional Iran-Contra investigative committee and a former federal judge, said in the Democratic Party response that Reagan was right to acknowledge "that the buck stops with him."

But Mitchell said that cannot erase the consequences of Reagan-approved weapons sales to Iran, which have left American servicemen in the Persian Gulf facing "the terrible possibility of attack by a nation we've helped to arm."

Looking ahead, Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., said, "Congress welcomes the president's offer of cooperation" during the remainder of his term.

But Reagan was criticized by conservatives, including Rep. Jack Kemp of New York, a Republican presidential hopeful, who said he was "gravely disappointed" that the president did not express stronger support for the Contras.

Forces find more mines

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — The Gulf of Oman yielded a sixth floating mine this morning, and crews from three countries were reported searching for the mysterious explosives creating a new hazard in the busy shipping zone.

Sources said teams from the United Arab Emirates, the Sultanate of Oman and the U.S. Navy were deploying boats and helicopters to scan the area, where a mine blew a hole in an American-operated supertanker this week.

The sources, asking not to be named, said the search teams were working in different areas, and the Americans had not actually been seen. "But we understand they're out there," one said. Diplomats said this week that Washington agreed to a request from Oman to help with minesweeping.

The crews were blowing up mines with gunfire or defusing them aboard ships, then examining them for clues to their origin, the sources said.

The source of the mines in the waterway outside the Persian Gulf has not been established, but Iran is widely believed to be responsible. Shipping sources speculate that the mines were secretly laid in an attempt to disrupt the U.S. Navy-escorted convoys of Kuwaiti tankers, which are organized and depart from the area.

Iran has accused the United States of sowing the mines and offered its own navy to help clear them.

In Washington, the Reagan administration accused Iran Wednesday of obstructing U.N. efforts to end the 7-year-old Iran-Iraq war, and urged the U.N. Security Council to move toward an arms embargo on Iran.

Iran, in return, charged that Washington was increasing tension in the gulf with its call on the Security Council. On July 20, the 15-member council unanimously passed a cease-fire measure, which Iran has said it neither accepts nor rejects.

In Rome, Italy's foreign minister, Giulio Andreotti, expressed willingness in a radio interview Wednesday for a ministerial-level meeting of European allies to discuss security of Persian Gulf shipping.

France and Britain announced this week they were sending minesweepers to the gulf, but denied they were responding to a U.S. appeal for a multinational minesweeping force. Italy has also declined to join such a force.

A sixth floating mine was spotted today by the crew of an unidentified ship, shipping sources said.

The sources said ships were being warned away from the known danger zone, an area 4 miles in diameter about 9 miles off the U.A.E. ports of Fujairah and Khor Fakkan.

Both France and England dispatched minesweepers to protect their ships after the mines were sighted in the Gulf of Oman. In a commentary on Tehran radio, Hussein Musavi, Iran's prime minister, charged Wednesday they were showing support for the United States.

"If the British and French intend to stand side by side with the American forces ... we are ready, once more, to repeat the events of Lebanon which led to the disgraceful escape of the multinational force," the radio commentary said.

Divers discover Titanic's safe

PARIS (AP) — Treasure hunters have found the Titanic's legendary safe and plan to open it during a live television broadcast, a salvage expedition spokesman said today.

The safe was found Wednesday on the ocean floor 2.5 miles below the surface at the Titanic site, 350 miles southwest of Newfoundland, spokesman Daniel Puget said.

He said the safe is locked and refused to speculate on its contents.

Legend and rumor have surrounded the treasure that may have gone down with the 1,513 passengers and crew who drowned when the luxury liner hit an iceberg and sank April 15, 1912. Tales of a fortune in diamonds and other jewels from the millionaire passengers on board have circulated, despite the opinion of experts who say most of the treasure was taken out of the safe in the hours before the ship sank.

The safe will be brought to the surface "one or two days from now" and will then be transported to a special laboratory in Paris operated by the national utility, Electricite de France, Puget said.

In October it will be taken to Monte Carlo, Monaco, to be opened during the live television broadcast Oct. 28.

Reagan administration, citing the need for safe oil shipping in the Persian Gulf, agreed to reregister 11 Kuwaiti tankers and provide them with U.S. protection from Iranian attacks. It acted after the Soviets leased three tankers to Kuwait.

Iran has been accused of laying the mines in the Gulf of Oman, but the government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini blamed the United States. Iran has offered to send minesweepers to the area.

In Washington, Pentagon officials said the USS Guadalcanal with eight mine-sweeping helicopters aboard resumed its voyage to the gulf Wednesday after a delay caused by an electrical breakdown.

Babbitt keeps 'rolling the dice' as dark-horse Demo contender

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bruce Babbitt keeps rolling the dice, betting his Democratic presidential campaign on a series of high-stakes gambles and brushing off those expecting a quick bust.

"It's going to be a long vigil, because I ain't dying," the former Arizona governor says.

Low in the polls and high in debt, Babbitt is following the classic strategy of the dark-horse contender — threatening political sacred cows and attacking his opponents.

For example, Babbitt declared that incumbents have "extortionate capability," when he was asked about his own relatively small campaign war chest. It was a clear dig at Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis, the leading Democrat in money raised.

Babbitt's biggest gamble came when he called for a national sales tax to cut the deficit — at a time most Democrats think talk of raising taxes is political suicide.

"The people on my staff who were opposed said, 'You are walking off a 100-story building and you are going to splatter on the pavement,'" Babbitt said in an interview Tuesday. "The response has been rather different — 'interesting,' 'someone is actually talking about the inevitable,' 'truthful,' 'courageous,' 'foolhardy.' ... For every five adjectives, only one is foolhardy."

Earlier, Babbitt threatened another sacred cow, Social Security, by talking about changes in that largest of federal benefit programs.

Raising taxes and talking about changing Social Security are sacred cows for good reasons.

Just about everybody pays taxes and few want to pay more. Some observers say Walter Mondale's pledge to raise taxes helped drag him down to defeat in the 1984 presidential race.

Social Security also touches just about everyone in the country. For the past five years, Democratic congressional candidates have successfully bludgeoned Republican opponents with real and purported GOP plans to change Social Security.

Babbitt may have alienated the voters he needs to move from long-shot to a heavyweight contender with his policy proposals. But he may have impressed the voters with his courage — a big plus in a field of little-known hopefuls.

Babbitt went $250,000 into debt to finance another high-stakes gamble — putting ads on Iowa television and radio in the summer of 1987, months in advance of its first-in-the-nation caucuses in February 1988.

"The ads have upped the level of encounter. I'm a known quality in Iowa. I'm not walking into a town explaining where I come from and who I am," Babbitt said.

If the next series of polls in Iowa doesn't show some movement for Babbitt, he will face more stories suggesting the ads were a failure.

But more rolls of the dice are to come, he says.

"We expect to keep doing it. It's what a dark horse is all about. ... It's fun. It's my style," Babbitt said. "Is it a risk? Sure. But I think there is something very satisfying about a campaign that is based on talking about reality. And I think it is good politics."

Demos want accountability

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats say President Reagan was right to blame himself for the Iran-Contra affair, but they also strongly condemn those who carried out the policies.

Reacting to the president's speech Wednesday night, congressional opponents accepted the olive branch Reagan tossed them for a new spirit of cooperation.

But they threw back an offering of their own, asking Reagan to support Democratic policies on trade, deficit reduction, education, civil rights, clean water and overhaul of the welfare system.

At least two Republican lawmakers said they wanted to hear more from Reagan about aid to the Nicaraguan rebels they support.

Conservative activist and fundraiser Richard Viguerie reacted with the most bitterness to Reagan, saying, "The president has run up the white flag and surrendered the last of his presidency to the liberal establishment. He should have had Ollie North write his speech, but instead, he's on the defensive and his supporters are discouraged and losing heart. It was bland, bland, boring, boring, boring."

Reagan did not condemn North, the former National Security Council aide who managed the Iran and Contra operations. He did criticize former National Security Adviser John Poindexter for not telling him about the diversion of Iran arms-sale money to the Contras.

But that criticism didn't go far enough for Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., a presidential candidate. He noted that Reagan "did not condemn the breaking of laws, the destruction of evidence or the undermining of the Constitution."

It was left to Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, to write that part of the script in the televised Democratic response.

Mitchell said the affair "reminds us of the continuing need to reaffirm our commitment to the rule of law, the need for our leaders to say, clearly and unequivocally, that we condemn any violation of law, we condemn lying to the American people or to Congress, we condemn the destruction of important documents."

Mitchell, a member of the Senate Iran-Contra committee, said the president was right to acknowledge "that the buck stops with him."

But he said the policies of selling arms to Iran and trading weapons for that nation for U.S. hostages held in Lebanon were mistakes so grave that they place Americans in the Middle East today under greater risk than ever before.

American servicemen now in the Persian Gulf, he said, "face the terrible possibility of attack by a nation we've helped to arm."

Attempting to sum up a failed policy, Mitchell noted, "There are just as many Americans now held hostage in Lebanon as there were when this effort began."

House Democratic whip Tony Coelho of California said he found "a very contrite president, one who seemed to be subdued, who wanted desperately to move on. What hurts is a majority of Americans think he's lying."

Rep. Henry Hyde, R-Ill., said Reagan "made an excellent address," but, asked how he would have changed the speech, said: "I would have liked some more specifics on how he intends to continue to support the Contras."

Republican presidential hopeful Rep. Jack Kemp of New York pronounced himself "gravely disappointed that the president did not forcefully restate his principle of continued military aid to the freedom fighters if democracy and freedom are to be achieved in Nicaragua."

Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., was both supportive and critical of different aspects of Reagan's speech.

"Congress welcomes the president's offer of cooperation," he said. "The president has said he is accountable."

But Byrd said there's no need for a balanced budget amendment, when the president only needs to "work with Congress now to attack the triple digit deficit and the doubling of the public debt, which happened on his watch."

Gas leak forces Winters evacuations

WINTERS, Texas (AP) — About 1,300 Lone Star Gas Co. customers were back in their homes today after an evacuation that was prompted when toxic hydrogen sulfide contaminated natural gas lines, officials say.

After the contamination was discovered Wednesday morning, gas company employees began bleeding the line, or allowing gas to escape, said Breck Harris, Lone Star spokesman in Fort Worth. He said no injuries were reported in the town of about 3,000.

Residents of the community were allowed to return to their homes about 9 p.m., but were asked to open windows overnight, Harris said.

Hydrogen sulfide is a colorless, flammable gas that smells like rotten eggs. Low concentrations can cause irritation of the mucous membranes, bronchitis and the formation of fluid in the lungs. Larger concentrations can kill.

About 30 Lone Star employees from Abilene, San Angelo, Ballinger and Brownwood were called in to sored by the Deaf Smith County 4-H Club.

A new event this year will be a "Kangaroo Court", conducted by the county Crimestoppers organization. For a contribution, the Court deputies will arrest someone for you and take them to the judge, where a fine (another contribution) will be assessed in order for the citizen to be freed.

During the Jubilee Junction activities, the Jubilee Stage will feature live entertainment in the Bull Barn. Charlie Bell, master of ceremonies, will also present the winning floats and groups in the parade. Musical groups of all types will perform on the stage during the afternoon.

Riders from ages 7 to 19 will be featured in the Jubilee Junior Rodeo Friday and Saturday nights. They will compete in steer riding, calf roping, barrel racing, the calf scramble and more. The rodeo starts at 7:30 each night at the Riders Club Arena, south of the Bull Barn.

Expansion of program underway

Amarillo College is currently in the process of expanding its physical plant facilities to accommodate increasing enrollments and subsequent lab and surgical facility needs in the college's Animal Health Technology (AHT) Program. The AHT program is housed on the AC West Campus, 6222 W. 9th Avenue.

Renovations for the program involved expenditures of $40,000, according to AC Vice President of Academic Affairs Dr. R. Eugene Byrd. Laboratory and surgical areas have been expanded or added, as has a kennel area, a dog run, and a large animal stock pen. The additions will provide a more expansive, professional atmosphere in which students may learn and experience hands-on animal health care.

Prior to the renovation, it was necessary for the college's AHT students to travel across town to the city Dog Pound to perform some of their lab work. This lab work can now be accomplished more efficiently and conveniently on the college campus. Classroom facilities will also be improved, according to Byrd, since laboratory equipment will be vacated from those areas to be moved to specific lab sites.

In conjunction with physical plant expansions, the college has hired Dr. Jimmy Howard, D.V.M., M.S., to serve as Coordinator of the Amarillo College Animal Health Technology Program. Dr. Howard attended Amarillo College, Texas Tech University, Texas A&M University, and Mid-Western Baptist Theological Seminary.

He holds a master's of science degree in agriculture, concentrating in animal nutrition and chemistry, and a doctorate of veterinary medicine in biochemistry and nutrition.

Dr. Howard most recently has served as professor of animal health and veterinary medicine at the Botswana Agricultural College, in Gaborone, Botswana, Africa. He acquired that position through the US Academy of Education Development.

He has also served as a visiting professor for the faculty of veterinary medicine at the University of Pretoria in South Africa. He has maintained a private veterinary practice in the past as well as being responsible for the diagnostic services of Texas A&M Veterinary Medical Laboratories in Amarillo. He was assistant professor of clinical veterinary medicine at the University of Illinois, and assistant professor at Kansas State University. He has conducted extensive veterinary research and is widely published as an author and editor.

Animal Health Technology is a two-year associate degree program at Amarillo College. Information regarding the program is available by calling the college at 354-6004. soc wed quilt Janey

Charter draped in memory of Glynis Ray Tuesday night

The lodge charter was draped in memory of Glynis Ray, past president of International Association of Rebekah Assemblies, at Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 meeting Tuesday evening.

The ceremony was enacted by Karrol Rettman, Kee Ruland, Dorothy Laundry, Shirley Brown, Erma Loving, Peggy Lemons and Leona Sowell. Music was provided by Thama Pearson, Stella Hershey and Marie Harris with Eunice Boyer at the piano.

Geothermal energy literally means "earth heat." It is found where the heat is great and close to the surface. The source must be near permeable rocks that contain enough water to transfer the heat to the surface, either along fractures or through drill holes.

Noble Grand Anna Conklin presided at the business session. Seventy-one visits to the sick and 54 cheer cards were reported for the week. Also, visits to Muleshoe lodges and Under the Stars degree in Clovis, N.M. were discussed.

Ruland also reminded members of the golf clinic that was held this morning with proceeds going to the American Cancer Society.

Ann Landers

Rape should be reported

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Will you please publish one more letter on date rape? This is different.

I, too, said no and fought him with all my might, but my attempts were futile. The man, whom I had known for quite a while but never dated, overpowered me. As a result of that rape I became pregnant.

I turned him in to the authorities and filed charges. The case went to trial. I suffered through three days of unbelievable humiliation for nothing. The jury found him not guilty. I couldn't believe it.

Now the monster is taking me to court to win visitation rights. The blood tests from the rape trial are being used to establish the fact that he is indeed the father. The way the state laws read, he will probably be named the father even though I am fighting it. Next I will have to go to court and fight him on visitation rights.

I am furious. The laws in this country do not protect victims. They protect criminals. This man has put me through three years of hell and there seems to be no end to it. It looks as if he is going to be in the picture as long as I live.

My advice to all women who are raped: Don't bother to turn in the creep. You will be the one on trial, not him. His rights will be protected, not yours.—Exhibit A in Wis.

DEAR WIS: I can understand your rage but I do not go along with your advice. Women must report rape and make every effort to see that justice is done.

I checked with a highly competent Chicago attorney and he said, "The Supreme Court in Wisconsin has not yet decided the rights of a father whose child was born as the result of rape. In your case, the man was found not guilty in the criminal court but you may have a chance to win in the civil court."

I wish you luck. In the meantime, your letter provides me with an excellent opportunity to educate my readers on this subject.

Be aware that alcohol and drugs can be a significant factor in date rape. If you stay away from both, your chances will be infinitely better.

Women should steer clear of settings where date rape might occur. For example, don't invite a man you know casually to your apartment or home if no one else will be there. And don't go to his place. (Most men consider a new female friend fair game if she agrees to go to his place for dinner or for a drink after an evening's entertainment.)

Be clear in your own mind as to what you want. If you do not wish to have sex with a man make it plain early in the relationship, gentle kissing that becomes passionate (complete with "Roman" hand and "Russian" fingers) can set the stage for sexual intercourse. The woman who says no after a long period of heavy preliminaries may put herself at risk. The man may decide she led him on and become angry. Rage, fueled by alcohol, is an idea catalyst for date rape because he tells himself she changed signals on him.

Women need to learn how to say no in an unequivocal, forthright manner. Too often "no" sounds like "maybe" or even "yes." They must also be wary of males who are maladjusted and have a need to prove their manhood. Remember, rape almost always is about power, not sex.

Drivers reminded to be careful of school children

Texas Department of Public Safety officials are asking all drivers to begin thinking about the safety of school children as the beginning of a new school year commences.

The first few weeks of school are the most dangerous, according to Major V.J. Cawthon, Regional Commander for the Texas Department of Public Safety. "This time of year presents safety problems for both the school children and the driver," Majo Cawthon explained. "Many youngsters are attending school for the first time and others might be going to a different school where they are unfamiliar with local traffic conditions."

Another problem is that during the summer vacation some drivers have gotten out of the habit of being alert for both school zones and school buses.

BILL G. McCLARTY D.D.S.

The office will be closed for vacation until August 17th. At that time, Dr. David Purdy will assume Dr. McClarty's general dental practice.

Let eggs pickle in beet juice

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — Your recent pickled-egg recipe prompts me to tell you what my mother used to do and what I still do. Every time we emptied a jar of home-canned beet pickles, peeled hard-cooked eggs went into the juice. Refrigerated for a few days, the eggs turn a delightful pink color and taste super when cut in half for a salad plate. After a little experimenting, you can determine how long you want to leave the eggs in the solution. Now, since I only cook for two, we don't have quart jars of beet pickles that often. However, the juice from a can of beets with vinegar, sugar and spice added to taste works just fine. If there's not enough liquid, I add the juice from a jar of sweet pickles. — LILA

DEAR POLLY — To avoid sore ears from earrings, keep a small tube of antibiotic salve on hand. Dip the earring post in the salve before putting it in your ear.
I make lots of stuffed toys, but the necks are hard to make stiff. I cut an empty toilet-paper roll open and roll it tighter, then insert it in the neck. Fill with fiberfill. — R.K.

DEAR POLLY — If you don't have a hamburger-patty maker, try this. Spray a canning-jar ring and lid with non-stick spray and pack the meat into it. Use the loose lid to push out the finished hamburger. — JOSIE

DEAR POLLY — In both my bathrooms I have a plastic soap dish with slotted trays and bottoms that collect the drippings. When soap scum and water dry on the dishes, I just throw them into my washing machine with a load of laundry. They come out sparkling. — M.

DEAR POLLY — Is there any way to remove yellow stains from the tops of washers and dryers?

I have found a way to make hand lotion last longer. Add a spoonful of mineral oil to the bottle of lotion and shake well to mix. Add more for large bottles. This will help put the oil back in dry skin, but will not leave your hands greasy. — KATHLEEN

DEAR KATHLEEN — Thanks for the Pointer.

As far as the yellow stains on the washer and dryer are concerned, you might try wiping the stains with a solution of half water and half chlorine bleach, leaving the solution on the stains for five to 10 minutes, then rinsing with clear water.
Unfortunately, I don't know what caused the stains, so I can't offer a more specific treatment. The bleach should help, though. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My husband made a bird feeder from a small, plastic spice container. He screwed a ring in the lid for a hanger. He bored a hole through the plastic as near the bottom as possible and inserted a ¼ inch-long dowel with just enough extending out each side for a small bird to sit on, and cut a tiny hole two inches up from the dowel perch, large enough for a bird to extract thistle seeds. The same idea could be used with larger holes for mixed seeds and still larger for sunflower seeds. — H.V.

Ways to grow herbs indoor and out, suggestions for using various culinary herbs and recipes for such concoctions as herb vinegar and an herb facial are featured in Polly's newsletter "Grow Your Own Herb Garden." Send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 93863, Cleveland, OH 44101-5863. Be sure to include the title.

DEAR POLLY — I never know how much pasta to prepare for guests. Either we have tons left over or there's not enough. Do you have a suggestion? — C.B.

DEAR C.B. — A lot depends on the pasta appetites of your guests. However, you can usually plan on 3 to 4 ounces of uncooked pasta per person for a main course. I usually use 1 pound for four adults, which is fairly generous. Of course, the more ingredients — such as vegetables, meat and other additions to your sauce — the further a pound of pasta will stretch.

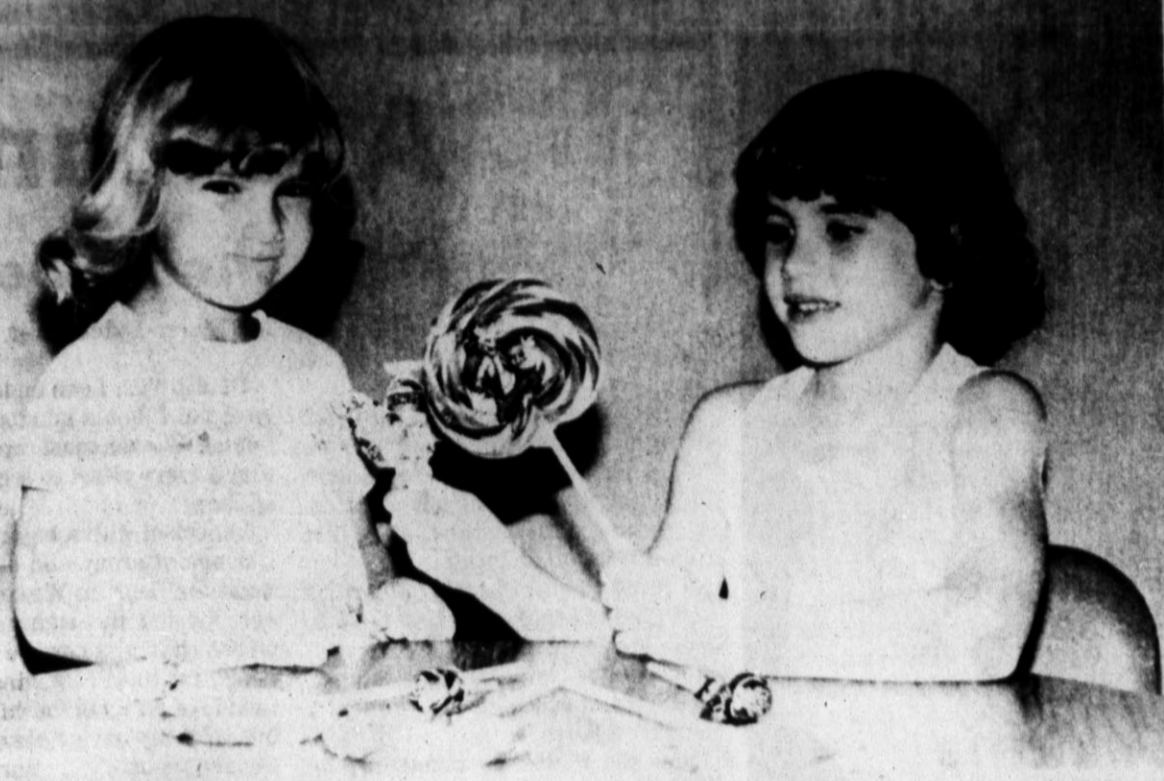

If you're serving the pasta as a side dish only, 2 ounces of uncooked pasta per person is probably plenty. But again, it all depends on the amount of food you're serving with it and the appetites of your guests.

Ways with Wine by David Hutchins

COOL REDS
There are many red wines that go nicely with grilled meats in the heat of summer. In this regard, Beaujolais is a natural. Lighter Beaujolais, such as Beaujolais-Villages, are best when chilled lightly. Chilling imparts a fresher and livelier taste to them. However, do not chill them as you would a white wine — only about 30 minutes in the refrigerator will do. More robust Beaujolais wines are those with village names: Braille, Chénas, Morgon, and Moulin-a-Vent. These are listed in ascending order of richness and body. Braille is the lightest and can be gently cooled. The others may be served as any other red table wine, at 65 to 70 degrees F.

At THE STORE we love to talk about wines so come by and let us answer any questions you may have about them. We are very proud of our extensive inventory of fine wines...domestic and imported. Whether your personal tastes lean toward wines from Napa Valley or toward French wines chances are we carry what you are looking for. Stop by 400 N. 25 Mile, 364-7802 and look us over. Mon.-Sat. 10-9, use our drive up door until midnight for beer and wine, on Sun. only beer and wine is available from 12-12.

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Edward I. Koch says he's following doctors' advice to take it easy, but he still managed to wage war on tax cheats, sign papers and meet with seven top aides.

"Not to work would be, for me, death," the 62-year-old Koch said Monday at Gracie Mansion, the mayor's official residence, where he was recuperating from a minor stroke suffered last week.

Koch awakened about 6:45 a.m., an hour later than usual. After reading the newspapers, he gave dictation to his secretary, discussed tax cheats with the finance commissioner, signed mail and a bond sale approval, and met with aides.

He had coffee, two peaches and six cherries for breakfast, and for lunch he had a salad. He is under doctors' orders to bring his weight down to 185 pounds. He weighed in at 213 Monday morning.

ATLANTA (AP) — Yoel Levi, a Romanian-born Israeli conductor, will succeed Robert Shaw as music director of the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra, a newspaper reported today.

The Atlanta Constitution said the symphony board met privately Monday and voted for Levi, then began notifying members of the orchestra. Levi and board members declined immediate comment on the report.

Levi will take over as music director beginning with the 1988-89 season, the newspaper says.

Levi, 36, of Shaker Heights, Ohio, came to the United States in 1976. He has served as conducting assistant and resident conductor of the Cleveland Orchestra.

Levi has guest-conducted numerous major orchestras in the United States as well as the Berlin Philharmonic and the London Philharmonic.

Amarillo Tri State Fair set

The 1987 Amarillo Tri State Fair, scheduled for September 21-26, will offer over $50,000 in awards to winners in the competitive judging events.

In addition to the traditional livestock judging, there will be competition between hundreds of people in the areas of art, literary, aquarium, photography, ceramics, 4-H baked goods, vegetables, canned goods, breads, cakes, cookies and pies.

Also included will be sewing, embroidery, quilts, rugs and novelty handicrafts.

Shaw, 71, has been Atlanta Symphony Orchestra music director and principal conductor since 1967. He will become director emeritus and conductor laureate upon the new director's arrival.

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich. (AP) — Gov. James Blanchard has been playing golf for only four years but already has his second hole-in-one.

The governor used a 4-iron Monday to ace the 136-yard third hole at the Grand Hotel Golf Club on this island resort, said Tom Scott, an aide to Blanchard.

"He teed it up high and said, 'Well, here goes a hole-in-one,' before he hit it," Scott said. He said that when the governor realized he had made a hole-in-one, however, "he was quite amazed."

Blanchard shot a hole-in-one on the same hole in 1985. The hole and the course have been redesigned since, Scott said. Blanchard finished with a 79 for 18 holes.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Joseph LaMotta, son of former boxing champion Jake LaMotta, has been jailed on cocaine-possession charges.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Bill Hunt said Monday that LaMotta, 38, of North Miami Beach, Fla., was arrested late Saturday following a drug purchase by undercover agents in Middletown, about 35 miles north of Cincinnati.

Federal agents seized five kilos of cocaine, Hunt said.

LaMotta was in the Boone County Jail in Burlington, Ky., pending a bond hearing, Hunt said.

Jake LaMotta, subject of the motion picture "Raging Bull," defeated Marcel Cerdan for the middleweight title in 1949 and lost it to Sugar Ray Robinson in 1951. He lives in New York.

All of the items will be judged before the opening of the fair and will be on display throughout the week for viewing by fair-goers.

Reports

AUSTIN — The past two years have not been kind to the High Plains of Texas, just as they have not been kind to the state as a whole.

Deep slumps in the agriculture and energy markets have thrown our region's economy into a recession and have left once-prosperous communities searching for new ways to get things moving again.

People made of a lesser stock might wilt under such intense economic pressure. The people of the Panhandle and South Plains instead have responded to the challenge by seeing it as an opportunity not just to regain lost ground but as a chance to push their economy to new heights.

Representatives from our region have traveled the nation in search of industries that might wish to relocate in our area. They have encouraged the creation of new businesses. Almost all of our communities have joined together in an effort to bring the prestigious superconducting supercollider here.

And, several of our communities are seeking to be home to a new medium/minimum security state prison.

A prison? Yes, surprising as it might seem, a proposed new Texas Department of Corrections facility has become one of the state's bigger economic development prizes.

Dalhart and Tulia, in our district, currently seem to show the most interest in being home to the proposed TDC facility, though Borger's civic leaders also may bid for the project. Childress, located just a few miles east of our district, is expected to bid as well.

One can't help but admire the wisdom and foresight of those pursuing the prison. Sure, it's a little bit of a longshot — all TDC facilities currently are located in east-central Texas — but if we do attract a prison, it could pay big economic dividends.

Hundreds of people are employed by a prison, and each of those people will be building or purchasing homes and buying goods and services in the community where the prison is located. Those people also pay city and county taxes, which will help local governments improve services. Improved services lead to a better quality of life in a community, and that often leads to even more businesses relocating there.

Safety is a natural worry where prisons are concerned, but it is important to keep two things in mind. Most escaped convicts are recaptured quickly, and the proposed new facility will not house the state's most dangerous criminals.

Besides, surveys done in the communities seeking the prison indicate an overwhelming majority of citizens are confident their safety will not be compromised by the presence of a prison.

The nagging question still remains, though. Is the effort to bring a prison to West Texas realistic? In our opinion, it certainly is. Maybe it won't be an easy effort but it is a goal that can be attained.

TDC traditionally has favored the Huntsville area, about 90 miles north of Houston, as a home for its prisons. TDC officials are familiar with the area and feel centralized operations best suit their purposes.

At the same time, department leaders don't have their heads buried in the sand. They realize their new prison is a prize, and they're listening to what communities have to offer. They know they just might find a home for the new prison that is more economical than any current prison site.

The opening is there, and we think our part of the state has just the communities to take advantage of that opening. Our area's candidates can offer a free construction site to TDC. They can offer land and facilities to enhance TDC's agricultural operations and even make those operations turn a profit. They even can offer closer medical facilities that are the equal of those employed by the department downstate.

Best of all, they can offer a quality of life unequalled by any other place in Texas.

We'll be working down here to convince TDC leaders of the wisdom of farming prisons out to different parts of the state. We know our communities will do a great job of convincing them our part of the state is best.

If you have any questions about prisons and economic development, or any other issues, please contact us at P.O. Box 12068, Austin Texas 78711.

Athlete's Foot can be prevented

Americans spend more than $150 million each year for the treatment of athlete's foot, when, for most people, a bit of simple prevention could save their itchy feet and relieve their pocketbook, says the Texas Medical Association.

Athlete's foot is easy to acquire. Anyone who has consistently damp, warm conditions in the shoes they wear can get the fungus.

Athlete's foot usually begins in the area between the fourth and fifth toes because it is the tightest, and therefore the warmest, web-space of the foot. It then spreads to the adjacent toes. Affected skin begins to crack, scale, and itch.

Sometimes the sole and side of the foot are affected and become leathery in texture and chalk-like in color. This form of athlete's foot may resist treatment and linger for years.

Entrants needed for quilt show

Area quilters will have the chance to display their quilts during a quilting show sponsored by the Hereford Senior Citizens in conjunction with the Town 'n' Country Jubilee.

Quilts may be entered in the event at the Senior Citizen Center at 426 Ranger or the Community Center from 1-5 p.m. Friday by checking them in with the Quilters.

Persons of all ages may enter the event. Prizes will be awarded for the oldest quilt, the most worked quilt, and the most unique design.

Abundant Life

HANDLING IMPERFECTIONS

By Bob Wear

Imperfections are part of us, and our living experience. Therefore we must handle them in some way. We must try to do this without resentment; without disappointment; without discouragement; and, above all, without bitterness. Of course, this is not always easy to do, but we must try.

Some imperfections can be overcome, some modified, and some must be accepted. In all of this, however, if we respond without hostility; or bitterness; or hatred; or in any other such unwarranted and useless way; we move in the wrong direction. In fact, we intensify and enlarge existing shortcomings.

If we concentrate on imperfections; see nothing else, and act as if nothing else exists; we have chosen a miserable, useless and, sometimes, destructive manner of life. "He censures God who quarrels with the imperfections of men."—Burke.

We can cope with imperfections quite satisfactorily, when we put forth intelligent, constructive effort to improve what we can; and then accept, with good cheer and understanding, that which remains after we have done our best. Otherwise, we create a progressive deterioration.

Some imperfection is fundamentally part of reality, and is to be accepted as such. Consider the following, "No human face is exactly the same in its lines on each side; no leaf is perfect in its lobes, and no branch in its symmetry.—All admit irregularity, as they imply change.—To banish imperfection is to destroy expression, to check exertion, to paralyze vitality.—All things are better, lovelier, and more beloved for the imperfections which have been divinely appointed, that the law of human life may be effort, and the law of human judgment may be mercy."—Ruskin.

As we work to correct imperfections in ourselves and in our surroundings, let us be tolerant and patient with the imperfections that remain.

DR. GOTT

Effects of rare syndrome

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My niece has Marfan's syndrome. Her height is 6 feet, 5 inches (she's 17), and she's still growing. What can you tell us about this disease?

DEAR READER — Marfan's syndrome is an inherited abnormality of connective tissue, the material that holds organs together. Patients with this disorder are tall and thin and have long extremities. The syndrome is marked by a high, arched palate, crowding of the teeth, poorly developed muscles, asymmetry of the chest cage and spine, inguinal hernias, emphysema, eye abnormalities (especially displacement of the lenses) and degeneration of the aorta (causing aneurysm).

Virtually any organ can be affected, depending on the severity of the disease, because connective tissue is widely distributed in the body. The most serious consequence of Marfan's syndrome is the aortic involvement. This major blood vessel may balloon out, cause heart strain or burst. Aortic disease is the leading cause of death in Marfan's patients, most of whom succumb to cardiovascular complications at an average age of 32.

Modern surgical techniques make repair of the weakened aorta a life-saving procedure. However, not all patients require surgery; a considerable amount of variability occurs among people with this ailment. In milder forms of the disease, simple restrictions — such as prohibition from strenuous activity and contact sports — may enable Marfan's patients to lead relatively normal lives.

Other medical treatment includes addressing problems as they arise: hormone therapy (to speed up maturation of bones in children), braces to prevent spinal curvature and prophylactic antibiotics to prevent heart-valve infection.

Some experts have suggested that Abraham Lincoln had Marfan's syndrome. Surely, there are many patients with the syndrome who lead long, productive lives. Although the cause of Marfan's is unknown, much can now be done to correct the abnormalities seen in the disease.

Giants beat Astros 8-1, move to first place

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It took them two months, but the San Francisco Giants finally made it back to first place — and they did it the hard way.

First, they defeated nemesis Mike Scott of the Houston Astros 8-1 Wednesday afternoon. Then they waited until the Los Angeles Dodgers downed the Reds before moving into a share of the division lead with Cincinnati.

One week ago, the Giants returned from a 2-7 trip five games behind the Reds. They proceeded to win six of their next seven games to move into at least a tie for the lead for the first time since June 13.

While Scott, 12-9, was battered for 12 hits and eight runs in 6-2-3 innings, Atlee Hammaker, 8-8, and Don Robinson combined on a three-hitter. The Giants thereby took over the National League pitching lead from the Astros with a 3.84 team earned run average.

Offensively, the Giants erupted for six runs in the seventh inning to chase Scott, who entered the game with a 10-5 career record against them. Bob Brenly landed the telling blow, his second career grand slam.

The Giants suggested their success was partially attributable to undocored baseballs. In the past, Manager Roger Craig frequently accused Scott of scuffing the ball.

"The ball didn't do tricks like it usually does," Craig said. "If Scott had any thoughts of scuffing the ball, what's happened the last couple of weeks might have changed his mind. We didn't find any scuffed balls today."

Hammaker limited the Astros to a pair of hits, one of them Glenn Davis' 18th homer, the first six innings before leaving with tightness in his left biceps. Robinson earned his 14th save.

Candy Maldonado drove in a pair of runs with his 14th homer and a sacrifice fly prior to Brenly's 13th homer. Will Clark hit for a 10th consecutive game, but had his RBI streak snapped at nine games.

Brenly's homer enabled the Astro's to tie the N.L. record of eight grand-slams yielded in one season, which was last done by the 1974 Philadelphia Phillies.

Dodgers 1, Reds 0
The National League West is getting more tangled because the Cincinnati Reds kept getting strangled on the West Coast.

Tim Leary, 3-7, and a pair of relievers teamed on a five-hitter Wednesday night and the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Reds 1-0.

Cincinnati slipped into a first-place tie with San Francisco, which defeated Houston 8-1. The Reds had been all alone in first place since June 12, when they shared it with San Francisco. The Reds were swept in four games in San Francisco and have lost two of three in Los Angeles.

Houston is only three games behind the co-leaders.

Leary took a four-hitter into the eighth against Cincinnati but left after a leadoff walk to Nick Esasky and Kurt Stillwell's single.

Tim Crews relieved and Dave Collins sacrificed the runners into scoring position. Crews then retired Barry Larkin and Buddy Bell on grounders.

In the ninth, Eric Davis opened with a walk and Matt Young replaced Crews. Young got the final three outs for his 10th save.

Leary also got two hits.

Bill Gullickson, 10-10, took the hard-luck loss. He gave up four hits in seven innings and the lone unearned run. Gullickson has lost four straight decisions since July 21.

Pirates 11, Cardinals 0

Pittsburgh's Bob Walk pitched a four-hitter and gave St. Louis its first shutout of the season in 113 games. The Cardinals had been the only team in the majors not to be shut out.

Walk, 4-1, pitched his first shutout and complete game since July 5, 1986. The host Pirates ended a six-game losing streak to St. Louis.

Walk also capped an eight-run fourth inning with a bases-loaded single, and when the ball rolled through center fielder Willie McGee for an error, Walk scored on the play.

Joe Magrane, 6-4, took the loss. Sid Bream and Bobby Bonilla hit two-run doubles and Johnny Ray went 3-for-3 with an RBI single.

Braves 2, Padres 1

Zane Smith pitched a six-hitter and Gerald Perry hit a solo home run as Atlanta won in San Diego and ended the Padres' seven-game winning streak.

San Diego's winning streak was its longest in two years. The Braves had lost three in a row.

Smith, 12-6, struck out five and walked four in his sixth complete game.

Perry hit his ninth homer in the first inning against Eric Nolte, 1-1. Murphy hit a sacrifice fly in the third. Nolte gave up three hits in six innings.

Mets 4, Expos 2

Ron Darling won his fifth straight decision and New York scored two runs in the fourth inning on a pair of Montreal misplays.

Darling, 9-7, gave up six hits in 7 1-3 innings. Roger McDowell finished for his 17th save.

The Mets snapped a 1-1 tie in the fourth with two unearned runs. Darryl Strawberry reached on second baseman Casey Candaele's error and scored when Mookie Wilson singled and the ball was misplayed by center fielder Herm Winningham. Wilson later scored on Rafael Santana's sacrifice fly.

Bob Sebra, 6-13, lost his fourth straight decision.

Phillies 13, Cubs 7

Juan Samuel's grand slam broke a 7-7 tie in the seventh inning and sent Philadelphia over Chicago.

Samuel, who also tripled, drove in five runs. He became the first player ever to reach double figures in doubles, triples, home runs and stolen bases in each of his first four seasons.

Samuel's slam off Ed Lynch, 1-7, was his 22nd home run of the season, breaking the Phillies' record for home runs by a second baseman set by Grady Hamner in 1953.

Von Hayes hit his 19th homer for Philadelphia, which won its fourth straight game. Jeff Calhoun, 1-1, got the victory.

Andre Dawson hit a three-run homer and Bob Dernier also homered for the visiting Cubs.

Noon Friday is deadline for Oldsmobile Scramble

Deadline for entering the local Oldsmobile Golf Scramble has been changed to Friday at noon, with 24 teams already signed up for the chance to win prizes and advance to the sectional round of the national pro-am tournament. Entry fee is $20 per player.

Because of the number of entries, two local teams will qualify Sunday for the sectional tourney to be held in Odessa on Aug. 31. The local tourney, sponsored by Stevens Oldsmobile-Chevrolet, will offer a free Oldsmobile to the first person to score a hole-in-one on No. 3. Free towels and tees will be presented to every contestant.

All teams should contact pro Mike Horton at the golf course for tee times Sunday. The teams will consist of four amateur players whose combined handicap is a minimum of 43. Only one member may have a handicap of 9 or less.

A Hereford professional will join the two local winners in the sectional tourney at Mission Country Club on Aug. 31. The national finals will be at Walt Disney World, Lake Buena Vista, Fla., on Oct. 15-18. The finals will be a 72-hole tourney with a PGA tour professional joining the teams in the final round.

Only second victory over Brewers this season

16-hit attack powers Rangers to 12-3 win

By RICK GANO
AP Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Texas Rangers saved their best for last in their season finale with the Milwaukee Brewers, who frustrated them for most of the year.

A six-run inning, a 16-hit attack and strong pitching from left-hander Paul Kilgus helped the Rangers to a 12-3 victory Wednesday over the Brewers, who had beaten them in nine of the first 10 meetings of 1987.

"Kilgus was great," Texas Manager Bobby Valentine said. "He had control of all of his pitches and that usually means a win."

"It was big for him personally and for the team. I think Paul has good enough stuff to get major league hitters out," he said.

Kilgus struck out seven, walked two and gave up nine hits before departing when Milwaukee's Glenn Braggs doubled with the bases loaded in the seventh inning.

One thing Kilgus didn't do was stop the hitting streak of Brewer designated hitter Paul Molitor, who had three hits to extend his tear to 27 consecutive games — longest in the majors this season.

Molitor is 48-for-112 in his streak

Wednesday

scramble ends in another tie

For the third week in a row, the Wednesday Golf Scramble at Pitman Municipal Golf Course ended in a tie as two teams recorded a low ball score of 29.

The weekly event will end its summer run next week and a winner will be determined, according to pro Mike Horton. In case of a tie, there will be a playoff.

Tommy Bowling captained one of the low teams Wednesday. It also included Cliff Arnold, Linda Stevens and Steve Landers.

The other 29 was recorded by a team composed of Gene Coulter, Steve Sanders, Scott Carr and Robert Kubacak. Two other teams shot a 30.

that began after the All-Star break.

After nine losses to Milwaukee, the Rangers won 7-1 Tuesday.

They hit a lot of pitches thrown Wednesday by Brewers starter Ray Burris, a 14-year major league veteran who began the season in the team's front office.

Burris, 1-1, gave up nine hits and six runs in his second start that lasted into the sixth inning. Texas' Pete Incaviglia drove in three runs and Darrell Porter had three hits, including his fifth homer of the year.

"I didn't expect it to be easy," Burris, 36, said of his comeback. "It hasn't been a day at the beach. They hit them out of our reach."

The Brewers stranded 12 runners

Wednesday and loaded the bases in three different innings.

Texas received some bad news when ace reliever Dale Mohorcic was rushed to a Milwaukee hospital before the game with gastrointestinal bleeding.

Mohorcic, who is 6-3 with 15 saves and a 2.83 earned-run average, was placed on the 15-day disabled list and was scheduled for tests in Milwaukee.

Blue Jays 10, Red Sox 4

Having Dave Stieb on the mound brings out the best in the Toronto Blue Jays' batters.

Every starter had at least one hit Wednesday night and the Blue Jays finished with 17 in a 10-4 victory over Boston that kept them 1½ games in front of Detroit in the American League East.

It was another case of overkill for Stieb, 12-5, who won his sixth straight decision with seven innings of six-hit pitching. The Blue Jays have scored a total of 36 runs in his last three wins.

Toronto scored four runs in the first inning and two more in the fourth before Jesse Barfield hit a three-run homer over the screen at Fenway Park in the fifth, giving the Blue Jays a 9-2 lead.

Rance Mulliniks, who joined Tony Fernandez and rookie Fred McGriff with three hits for the Blue Jays, said Stieb has pitched well enough to win regardless of his run support.

George Bell and McGriff had RBI singles and Mulliniks hit a two-run double in the first. The Blue Jays jumped on Boston starter Jeff Sellers, 4-5, for 10 hits before he was replaced in the fifth by Steve Crawford, who was greeted by Barfield's 25th homer.

Tigers 8, White Sox 7

Detroit, which rallied from a 5-0 deficit, stayed closed to Toronto as Matt Nokes singled home the game-winning run in the top of the ninth inning.

Tom Brookens and Pat Sheridan led off the ninth with singles against Bob Thigpen, 3-4. After Tim Tolman struck out attempting to bunt, Nokes lined a single to center to score pinch-runner Jim Walewander with the go-ahead run.

Willie Hernandez, 2-2, the fourth Detroit pitcher, pitched a hitless 1 2-3 innings for the victory.

The White Sox led 5-0 before the Tigers scored twice in the fifth, four times in the sixth and once in the eighth, on Alan Trammell's 19th homer.

Chicago tied it 7-7 in the bottom of the eighth on a bases-loaded walk to Jerry Hairston and an infield out.

Angels 8, Twins 2

California snapped Minnesota's five-game winning streak and seven-game home winning streak as Kirk McCaskill pitched a four-hitter for 7 1-3 innings for his first victory since April 15.

A 17-game winner last season, McCaskill, 3-4, was 0-4 with an 8.10 earned run average since returning from an elbow injury on July 11.

McCaskill allowed homers to Kent Hrbek and Roy Smalley, but California pounded Twins starter Les Straker, 5-7, and two relievers for 12 hits, including a two-run homer by Ruppert Jones and a two-run single and RBI double by Gus Polidor.

Royals 2, Yankees 1

Steve Balboni hit his 16th homer with two outs in the eighth inning, then Kansas City preserved its victory over New York when Wayne Tolleson was thrown out at home plate for the final out.

With the Royals leading 2-1 in the ninth, Charlie Leibrandt walked Juan Bonilla, then fanned Bobby Meacham for the second out.

Roberto Kelly doubled and Tolleson, running for Bonilla, was thrown out at the plate to end the game. Left fielder Lonnie Smith relayed to shortstop Ross Jones, who threw to catcher Jamie Quirk for the final out.

Leibrandt, 12-9, scattered eight hits en route to his seventh complete game. Rick Rhoden, 14-8, gave up Balboni's homer as the Yankees lost their sixth game in seven outings.

Indians 8, Orioles 6

Cleveland hit five solo homers, including two each by Cory Snyder and Joe Carter, to subdue Baltimore.

Brett Butler hit the other homer, making a winner of starter Darrell Akerfelds, 1-3, who won his first major-league game with relief help from Doug Jones, who pitched two innings for his third save.

Eddie Murray had four RBI, including a three-run homer, for the Orioles, and Cal Ripken Jr. added a two-run homer.

Mariners 4, Athletics 3

Ken Phelps hit his 18th home run and Mickey Brantley hit a two-run, inside-the-park homer, leading Seattle over Oakland.

Mark Langston, 13-9, gave up three runs on seven hits in 6 1-3 innings, and Bill Wilkinson pitched the final 2 2-3 for his sixth save. Langston struck out six, giving him a major league-leading total of 188.

Phelps homered in the second inning off Gene Nelson, 5-3, and the Mariners scored their final three runs in the third.

Harmonic convergence: Looking for 'Good Vibrations', life forms

NEW YORK (AP) — Will a "harmonic convergence" bathe the planet in good vibrations Sunday? Will the Earth slip out of its time beam? Or will pop philosophers simply be heard a little more loudly than usual?

A new book says Sunday and Monday will bring the "harmonic convergence," cleansing the planet and ushering in a new age leading to eventual contact with alien life forms.

The theory draws from pop philosophy, Mayan lore, Buddhism and 1960s-style radicalism.

Scientists have called it nonsense. Adherents said Wednesday they are hoping hundreds of thousands of people will hold hands, chant and meditate in places of scenic beauty at dawn Sunday to mark the event.

"The massive, grass-roots groundswell really says something," said Jose Arguelles, the originator of harmonic convergence. "It's way beyond anything I could have dreamed of," he said in a telephone interview from his home in Boulder, Colo.

In his book "The Mayan Factor: Path Beyond Technology," Arguelles explains that the harmonic convergence is the start of a new phase in the Earth's evolution.

It is an entry point for the return of the Mayans, "at which time their presence will be perceived by some as an inner light and by others as feathered serpent rainbow wheels turning in the air," he writes.

In the last few days, the ideas of Arguelles have indirectly reached a much broader audience, in part because of "Donesbury."

In today's strip, artist Garry Trudeau calls harmonic convergence the "gateway to a new age ... an age where Earth-plane souls merge with higher selves ... where Sean Penn is in jail."

Paul Kurtz, a philosopher at the State University of New York at Buffalo and chairman of the Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal, said, "The harmonic convergence is a non-event."

"It's based on a hodgepodge of astrology, UFOlogy, the Mayan calendar, Aztec gods and a dash of the so-called New-Age philosophy," he said. "It's like the ancient Hopi rain dance. The only thing that will bring on rain is if enough Hopis sweat, the water will condense."

"I suppose there's something charming about it if people want to get together and hold hands and talk about peace, but what's disturbing about it is it's an escape from reason," Kurtz said. "In our view, the best way to solve problems is through the use of critical intelligence and reason."

Harmonic convergence has been seized upon most enthusiastically by that loose confederation of meditators, mystics, assertiveness trainees and post-'60s counterculturalists sometimes called the New Age network.

"It's an event that represents a transition from one — if you'll pardon the phrase — vibrational rate to another vibrational rate," said Paul Andrews, publisher of Whole Life Monthly and owner of the Whole Life Expo in Los Angeles.

Arguelles said that Mayan and other Native American prophecies have led him to conclude that the period we are living in began in 3113 B.C. and will climax in 2012, at which time we will be in contact with alien beings.

As the 5,125-year cycle comes to end, we will undergo a cleansing of the Earth, beginning Sunday, that will last until 1992, he said.

He said the participation of at least 144,000 people is needed Sunday "to create a field of trust, to ground the new vibrational frequencies coming in at that time." That participation may extend into the millions, he said.

The Global Family, a Boulder organization established to advance Arguelles' philosophy, maintains a computerized list of some 200 sites in the United States and 50 around the world where celebrations are planned.

Deaf actors say Matlin opened door

By DAVID A. DISHNEAU
Associated Press Writer

DES PLAINES, Ill. (AP) — The drama school for the deaf where Oscar-winner Marlee Matlin got her start is preparing for a boom season as more hearing-impaired people seek careers in theater, the school's president says.

"I think our stock went way up, so to speak," with Ms. Matlin's Academy Award for best actress in the 1986 film, "Children of a Lesser God," said Patricia Scherer of the Center on Deafness in this Chicago suburb.

"I also have parents calling me saying they want their child to be in the Marlee Matlin school," she said. "They are seeing us as a successful theater program."

Ms. Scherer said she expects 30 to 40 people to try out in September for about 20 parts in "Fiddler on the Roof." Last year, she said, 15 to 20 people tried out for a similar number of parts in another musical production.

Ms. Scherer, who formerly headed the deafness program at Northwestern University, said a successful theater program was one of her dreams when she founded the center in 1973.

Deaf people "have such an innate ability to act out their feelings and their ideas. I thought it would be a very positive experience for them to do this and get a reward for doing it," she said Tuesday.

The center, in a residential neighborhood, also has a school for emotionally disturbed deaf children and offers training in creative writing, art and photography. It holds an annual arts festival for the hearing impaired.

At least three of the center's students have landed parts in local or regional television commercials since Ms. Matlin won her Oscar and several have won roles in local theater productions, Ms. Scherer said.

"It's about time," said Liz Tannebaum, who studied at the center with Ms. Matlin and is an assistant director at the school and a part-time actress.

"The people just don't know how much expression and intensity of feelings we have inside," Ms. Tannebaum, 23, said Wednesday through a sign-language interpreter.

Ms. Tannebaum, who like Ms. Matlin is profoundly deaf, said they have been best friends since they started performing in plays at the center during elementary school.

Ms. Matlin began acting in center productions in 1973 at age 7, then quit after seven years "because there was no place for her to go" with her talent, Ms. Scherer said.

She said Ms. Matlin finished high school and enrolled in a local junior college, then got her first big acting break in 1985 when she landed a supporting role in a Chicago production of "Children of a Lesser God."

Ms. Matlin, 21, was in Arizona finishing filming of her new movie "Walker" on Wednesday and was scheduled to leave Sunday for a benefit appearance in Australia, said her mother, Libby Matlin of suburban Northbrook.

"She's done a lot of stuff like that and I'm very proud of her," Mrs. Matlin said.

Therapy helps people

By JEAN McNAIR
Associated Press Writer
NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — When Thomas F. Cash's professor suggested studying physical attractiveness for his dissertation in clinical psychology, Cash scoffed at the idea.

"This is going to be silly," he recalled thinking. But he ended up taking the advice and, 14 years later, has become an expert who has published numerous studies on beauty, worked as a consultant for cosmetic firms and offered therapy for people who think they're ugly.

In 1980, more than 500 studies had been published on the psychology of beauty. By 1986, the number had grown to 1,000, Cash said.

"It is an area that just really took off," he said in an interview at Old Dominion University, where he is a professor of clinical psychology.

Changes in society mean that appearance will become increasingly important, so people need to learn to accept what they see in the mirror, he said.

Because of high divorce rates, many people are dating far into their adult years. Mobility and the increase in women in the workforce also have increased opportunities for people to meet. And everybody knows how important that first impression is.

Contrary to popular belief, men are nearly as concerned about their appearance as women are, Cash said. One study found that 93 percent of women and 82 percent of men were "appearance oriented."

Women still hold an edge in criticizing their bodies, particularly their thighs (too fat), stomach (same) and overall weight (too much).

But men are feeling more pressure to look good, said Cash, 39, who is blue-eyed and sandy-haired with a neatly trimmed beard.

From 1972 to 1985, the percentage of men dissatisfied with their overall appearance more than doubled from 15 percent to 34 percent, according to a

Cash study. "Men increasingly realize they live in a world that pays a lot of attention to appearance," he said. "Particularly now, when you've got women who are economically independent enough to be frivolous enough to choose men on the basis of how they look like."

More male business executives are getting facelifts, he said, to keep pace with the young MBAs in the office. With all this pressure to appear beautiful or at least attractive, Cash is ready with help for those who can't stand to look at themselves.

His beauty therapy started two years ago with a study involving 32 women who were unhappy with their appearance even though they were of average weight.

Half of the group members went through therapy sessions in which they were instructed to study themselves in the mirror. The subjects were trained to notice what they liked about their looks, instead of picking at their faults.

"People need to learn how to talk to themselves in front of a mirror," Cash said.

The women also were urged to join support groups, exercise and experiment with their looks.

"The object is not to be beautiful," he said. "The object is to like the way you look."

Those who went through the therapy increased their self-esteem, Cash said, while the women who went without the therapy kept their negative attitudes.

The study, to be published later this year, has drawn interest from specialists in eating disorders, he said. Training people who have recovered from anorexia or bulimia to like their appearance may prevent the illness from recurring, he said.

Therapy also may help people who were teased as children because they were fat or thin or had big ears, Cash said.

"All of these kinds of things can influence development," he said.

Cash is looking into how appearance is related to peer acceptance among teen-agers and whether schizophrenia develops more often among people with a genetic disposition toward the disease who also are unattractive. "It may be that unattractiveness may be one factor along with a lot of other factors that can predispose toward problems in living," he said.

Woman receives citation for work

By MARGARET PETERSON
The Indianapolis News
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — To two wallabies, Sallie J. O'Connell is the next best thing to their real mothers.

To a boa constrictor named Rusty, she makes a good substitute for a tree. To zebras, ostriches, elephants and other animals at the Indianapolis Zoo, she often is the one who feeds and cleans up after them.

To the president of the United States, O'Connell is an example of the American spirit of volunteerism. The Indianapolis native has been named a citationist in the 1987 President's Volunteer Action Awards.

"Why would they pick a zoo volunteer?" she asks. "I don't feel I do as much as they feel I do." But O'Connell, 42, admits to working more than 650 hours a year at the zoo, presenting animal programs at St. Francis Hospital every other week and spending her vacations at the zoo "pretending to be zookeeper."

That's on top of the 50 hours a week she works managing a Taco Bell on the southwest side of the city.

"Sallie O'Connell is perhaps the most committed of our volunteers," Richard M. Hurst, the zoo's director of human resources, wrote in his letter nominating her for an award. "She is truly an unpaid professional." O'Connell's nomination was one of 2,000 sent to the competition sponsored by Volunteer, a private non-profit group, and Action, a federal agency for voluntary service.

Judges picked 15 winning people or groups and 55 citationists, all of whom were honored recently at a White House luncheon.

Talking while Rusty the boa constrictor wrapped himself around her, O'Connell said she simply enjoys working at the zoo.

She started in 1962 after attending a general meeting for potential volunteers.

She was intimidated on her first day when a cockatoo — then just a strange, big, white bird to her — climbed up her leg. Now, she says, she is comfortable with all the animals and tries to make others comfortable with them, too.

The boa constrictor is one of the animals she takes on hospital visits and to educational or public relations programs.

O'Connell says she loves to watch people who don't like snakes get up the nerve to touch them.

"A light dawns in their eyes like, 'Hey, it's not so bad,'" says O'Connell, who tells people that a snake feels like a basketball.
