Cool Relief

As temperatures rise Scott Shaw, ten-year-old son of Sid and Susan Shaw, finds chilling relief by taking a quick plunge in the pool. Scott and other Hereford children are enjoying their last half of summer vacation as teachers begin preparations for another year. The 1987-88 school year begins August 24 when teachers report for inservice. Classes will begin September 1.

Chutes open Friday on All Girl Rodeo

Some of the country's top cowgirls will be competing when the annual Hall of Fame All Girl Rodeo opens the chutes on three performances Friday in the Circle A Arena eight miles west of Hereford.

The HOF Rodeo has drawn 91 contestants from nine states, and a dozen of them will be local cowgirls. Performances are set for 7:30 p.m. Friday, 3 p.m. Saturday and 2 p.m. Sunday. Tickets are $4 for adults and $1 for children.

Added attractions for the annual rodeo will include a barbecue dinner, to be served at 5 p.m. Friday following the first performance; the appearance of Miss Rodeo Texas, Stacy Woods of El Paso; and the specialty act of Joan Wells, today's World Champion Trick Roper.

Another feature with the rodeo will be a Saturday night dance with the music of the Clyde Logg Band of Amarillo. The dance will be held from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. in the K.C. Hall, and tickets are priced at $6 each or $10 per couple.

Stacy Woods made her first appearance in Hereford last month at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame's Rhinestone Roundup. She earned her title of Miss Rodeo Texas in Fort Worth on June 13. She will make approximately 80 appearances across the country this year, then compete for the Miss Rodeo America title at the PRCA's national finals rodeo in Las Vegas, Nev., in December.

The barbecue dinner Friday evening will be served at the rodeo concession stand with Caviness Packing supplying the beef for the pit barbecue meal. Advance tickets are $3 each and are available at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame, Boots & Saddle Western Wear, and Hereford State Bank.

Joan Wells, the women's champion trick roper, is recognized as one of the top rope-spinning artists in the business. She performs the intricate butterfly routines, horseback roping, double tricks, Ocean Wave, horse catches, and other fancy rope tricks.

Police answer juvenile calls

Problems with juvenile offenders topped the list of police calls on Wednesday, including a 16-year-old boy picked up for public intoxication and a 9-year-old boy caught on top of the office at the city pool after hours.

Juveniles entered a yard on the 300 block of Hickory and damaged a trampoline and a woman on the 600 block of Star requested that officers tell her next door neighbor to keep their children off of her property.

A woman reported an attempted burglary on the 300 block of Douglas. A window screen was removed and the sliding glass door at the rear of the home was open. Nothing was taken.

A woman at Blue Water Gardens reported that a man she knows comes into her home while she is gone. The man raids the refrigerator and watches her T.V. She requested the police tell the man to stop but she did not press charges.

A man at Blue Water Gardens called police and threatened suicide. An officer talked with the man and calmed him down. The man was referred to Family Services for counseling.

Other offenses reported include theft of a 1975 Maroon Olds Cutlass from the 400 block of Blevins, theft of a milk can from East Fifth and a broken window on Ave. G.

A pit bull dog which was turned loose in the 200 block of Ave. J has been captured by the animal control officer. The dog was returned to its owner.

12 citations were issued with no fire calls and no reported accidents.

Sheriff's report

Sheriff's officers worked a criminal non-support complaint and did some house-checking Wednesday.

A person near Dallas called the Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office, worried about his mother, who did not answer her phone. Sheriff's officers went to the woman's residence and found her to be all right.

Sunny, hot forecast

Tonight should be clear with a low of 65. Southwest wind 10 to 15 mph.

Friday should be sunny and very warm with a high of 95. Wind southwest 10 to 20 mph.

Thursday's low was 63 after a high Wednesday of 90.

DOE not packing bags

Committee passes new bill

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

In spite of a Wednesday decision by a U.S. Senate committee to revise the nation's nuclear waste law, Jeff Neff, salt repository project manager for the Department of Energy, is not packing his bags. The 17-1 vote in the Senate Energy Committee to rewrite the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 calls for characterization of only one site and offers large financial inducements to the state which accepts the repository.

Neff says that even if the proposal is passed it would be several months

DOE lists procurements

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

Six upcoming major procurements for Battelle Corporation and a staff update were topics at today's early morning Deputy Manager's meeting at the Hereford Community Center.

The Deputy Manager's meeting is a weekly briefing conducted by Robert Wunderlich of the Department of Energy's Salt Repository Project office.

Wunderlich said two new staffers were added in the past week. One of the new staff members will reside in Hereford and the other has chosen Amarillo.

Hereford's total number of project personnel in residence stands at 44. 25 are local hires and 19 are transferees. Amarillo has 41 project personnel in residence, and 29 of those are transferees. Projections for staff growth over the next few months remain unchanged with averages of 30 to 40 a month and the greatest number, 56, expected in October.

Procurements are up $103,000 from last week with total project commitments to date totaling over $17 million. $592,000 have been committed in Hereford and $863,000 in Amarillo.

Treadwell listed six upcoming procurements for Battelle, a major DOE contractor on the project. He said bids were sent out on July 21 for office furniture. The bids are to be returned on August 5 and are expected to fall within the range of $700,000 to $900,000.

The bids for telephone systems will go out on August 7 with a return date of August 21 and an expected range of $300,000 to $500,000.

Janitorial service bids will be issued August 14 and be returned on August 28 with a predicted expenditure of up to $50,000.

Computer maintenance bids will go out on Friday, with a return date of August 14 and an expected range of $20,000 to $40,000.

Communications network bids will go out on Sept. 7 and be returned Sept. 21 with expected expenditures of $250,000 to $500,000.

Bids for providing security guards for four months will go out August 8 and be returned August 18 at up to $50,000.

An announcement of winners of building contract bids for Battelle office space is expected later this week pending approval from DOE's Washington office.

The Corps of Engineers planning report for land acquisition has fallen victim to schedule slippage. Wunderlich said that the report which had been expected on July 15 is now being reviewed in Washington.

"We have seen the draft copy and the report is being reworked, at DOE's request, to include additional information justifying how some of the decisions were reached," Wunderlich said.

During a question and answer period Wunderlich was asked about reports of a 40 percent failure rate for the freeze ring technique DOE

FWRP in Hereford

Office aids amnesty applicants

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Over 160 local persons have filed applications to become legal residents of the United States, and officials with the Farm Workers Rights Project expect many more applicants after the 1987 harvest is complete.

FWRP, with offices at the San Jose Labor Camp, is registered with the Immigration and Naturalization Service to assist local persons who are not legal residents to begin the process to become permanent, legal residents.

"We help everyone with the paperwork, getting the proper documentation, and helping to determine an applicants' eligibility for the program," said Oralia Flores. "It's hard to predict how many people will apply, but we've had 163 applicants in the first two months."

"We work with the applicants and the INS to help people become qualified for permanent residence. It's usually easy to determine if someone is eligible, because of the Special Agricultural Workers provisions of the Immigration and Naturalization Act of 1986."

The bill became law last November, and will, according to INS projections, lead to the legalization of around 12 million illegal aliens in the US.

The SAW provisions allow illegal residents to apply if they worked 90 days in perishable crops from May 1, 1985 to May 1, 1986, or have been in the country, without extended absences, since May 1, 1983.

"Under the one-year plan, applicants must pass an English proficiency and American History test," Flores said, "but that is not a requirement under the longer program."

Flores said many illegals in this area are waiting until they earn enough money to begin the application process—$185 for each adult member of the family and $50 for each child under 18, but no more than $420 per family.

"They're also waiting for a big rain," Flores said. "We expect to have many applications the day after the next big rain, because they can't work in the fields the next day. Most of them have been working every day because we haven't had any rain or anything else to keep them out of the fields."

Besides the money, applicants must also have physicals, pictures and fingerprints to accompany the application.

"Most of these are good families, but they need time to put their money together," Flores said. "They're good families, but they're struggling right now."

"There have been some problems with the process. Originally, the Texas Employment Commission said that undocumented workers must have their card, but that is not the case. Once an undocumented alien has begun the application process, they are okay until they are turned down by INS."

"It's also important for employers to know that undocumented workers cannot be laid off or fired because they don't have their documents."

"There could be some lawsuits against INS because of some provisions of the law. If a person was caught by INS, once or a hundred times, before last Nov. 6, they were eligible to apply. After Nov. 6, INS gave anyone who was arrested as an illegal alien 30 days from May 5 to June 5 to apply for residency."

"Many people were not aware of this provision, and there could be other changes, depending upon changes INS and courts make."

"It's important for both undocumented workers and all employers to keep abreast of the changes, and we can help them at our office."

Babbling Brooks

By John Brooks

"Hey, Brooks," more than one friend has said, "you finally get to see a good football team."

Yes, it's true, you follow whatever sport has been kindest to you. The football program in Dimmitt is beginning to come around, but, in case you haven't noticed, Dimmitt Bobcat basketball has a little more notoriety.

The rumor is not true, however, about not allowing anyone to move to Dimmitt unless they have a backboard tied atop the U-Haul.

I believe, however, I can make the adjustment to becoming a fan of the Herd. I have seen a football game before, so you won't have to explain everything.

You really haven't lived, though, unless you have taken someone to a football game who has never seen, heard or read about a football game before.

About two years ago, an Australian, who talked amazingly like Crocodile Dundee and who was named Graham Dimmitt, visited Dimmitt.

He was distant kin of the Dimmitt family. Rev. W. C. Dimmitt never saw Dimmitt, but his son-in-law did, and decided to name the town he started after his father-in-law.

By the way, and this was in about 1890, when they may not have had mother-in-law jokes, C. L. Bedford pointed out it was naming the town after his wife's dad, not his wife's mother.

Anyway, it was decided it would be great entertainment if Brooks would be kind enough to take Graham Dimmitt to West Texas State's game that night against Texas A&I.

The questions started once we entered the stadium, where both teams were beginning their pre-game workouts.

"Why are they wearing motorcycle helmets?" was the easiest question asked.

Never again will I take for granted the center snap, forward pass or first down. Have you ever explained to an Aussie exactly where the quarterback carefully places his hands and why?

I will not forget explaining why the teams can line up in just about any formation they choose, within limits, on both offense and defense, or why it takes so long between times they line up to do their plays. Why don't they just get on with it?" I'm ready for what Graham called "a little footy." Let's get on with it.

Some of you may have noticed Sandy Pankey's allusion to "hitting for the cycle" in her column Sunday.

In case you don't know, hitting for the cycle is when a player, in one game, gets a single, double, triple and home run. It's rare, but happens more often than, say, an unassisted triple play or perfect game.

An even rarer occurrence is a player being thrown out for the cycle—thrown out at first, second, third and home, on his own hit ball, in the same game.

It has happened once. To Lou Pinella, current New York Yankees manager.

Lou was a fiery player, known for bashing water fountains and toilet bowls with a baseball bat.

This particular night, Lou pleased the plumpers.

His first time at bat, Lou tried to stretch a single into a double, but was out at second on a close call.

Next time up, Lou, considered one of baseball's all-time slowest runners, tried to stretch a double, hit in Yankee Stadium's deepest recesses, into a triple. He was out at third, and it was not a close play.

Luckless Lou then bounced out at first his next time up. It's not rare for a player to be called out three times in a game, but everyone was aware that history could be made—if Lou could hit the ball far enough, and enough people threw the ball away.

Lou did, and they did, and history was made.

Sweet Lou hit a rocket that rattled the monuments in deepest center field. The players fumbled and threw, and Lou rounded third base looking at finally getting safely to the dugout.

Lou, however, never had a chance. The catcher actually dropped the ball twice before finally hanging on long enough to tag Lou as he slid by.

It was good training for Lou. It taught him how to put up with adverse situations.

PR firm seeking public involvement in nuclear waste project study

Susan Wiltshire

A woman who got her start in public life pushing for a bond issue and later became the chairman of the Board of Selectmen is visiting the area this week to get more citizen involvement in local Department of Energy activities.

"I have been hired to develop a public participation plan, asking for a few people to help design a comprehensive plan," said Susan Wiltshire, a senior associate of JK Associates of Hamilton, Mass.

The firm, and Wiltshire, have been hired by DOE to develop public policy and participation in DOE's site characterization and other processes in the Hereford area.

Wiltshire, who is speaking to civic groups this week in Hereford, Vega and Canyon, said her job is to "develop a blueprint for fitting together private interests with the program."

"We want to provide information, make it easily accessible to everyone, and know where and how to find the information. There is an information office here, but we need to have more information, all available information, easily accessible."

Wiltshire said one problem so far with the process was that "citizens and organizations would make comments and ask questions, and it could take months to receive a response to their concerns. We want to have some answers readily available."

"We would like to have more local involvement in the program. The program needs local knowledge, and the local residents need the information DOE and other people have. It is a two-way process, and both sides can gain."

"I feel very strongly that the public must have a role in the process. It is going to be real and people will be affected."

Wiltshire, who wrote A Nuclear Waste Primer for the League of Women Voters and Managing the Nation's High-Level Radioactive Waste for The Conservation Foundation, will be available through Friday at the DOE Information Office in Hereford.

"We need a few people who know the community to assist us in drawing up a plan."

Fifth consecutive month

Government economic forecast on the rise, up .8 in June

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government said today its main economic forecasting gauge rose 0.8 percent in June, the best showing since March.

The Commerce Department said its Index of Leading Indicators advanced for the fifth consecutive month in a performance that was even better than many economists had been predicting.

The 0.8 percent increase followed a revised 0.5 percent advance in May and was the largest monthly gain since a 0.9 percent increase in March.

The June index figure was another in a recent spate of economic reports showing that the economy performed better than expected this spring.

Last Friday, the government released its preliminary estimate of overall economic growth, showing that the gross national product expanded at an annual rate of 2.6 percent in the second quarter, substantially higher than had been forecast.

For the first six months of this year, the economy expanded at a 3.5 percent annual rate, as measured by the GNP, higher than the administration's original forecast of growth of 3.2 percent this year, when measured from the fourth quarter of 1986.

The rise in the leading index gave weight to the prevailing belief that the economy is expanding at a moderate rate with no sign of a new recession in sight.

The recovery from the 1981-1982 recession is now in its 56th month and if it lasts as expected through October will become the longest peacetime expansion on record, surpassing the old mark of 58 months set from 1975 to 1980.

Some economists believe that economic growth in the second half of the year may not be quite as robust as in the first half, in part because of a jump in interest rates this spring that hurt housing sales and construction. But they are not forecasting a significant slowdown.

David Wyss, of Data Resources Inc., in Lexington, Mass., predicted the GNP would expand at a rate of 2.5 percent to 3 percent in the last half of the year, very similar to the growth rate in the second quarter.

The strength in the leading index in June was led by a rise in raw materials prices, indicating increased demand was driving costs up. While this is considered a positive sign for a pickup in growth, it also means that inflationary forces are on the rise as well.

Other positive forces in June were a big rise in stock market prices, higher demand for manufactured consumer goods and a jump in building permits.

Four indicators were a drag on the overall index. The largest negative factor was a speedup in delivery times by businesses, considered a negative signal of future economic activity. Other negative influences were a slowdown in growth of the money supply, a rise in unemployment claims and a fall in orders for new plants and equipment.

Schultz, Shevardnadze to meet in September

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State George Shultz and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze have agreed to meet Sept. 15-17 in Washington, possibly setting the stage for a pre-Thanksgiving superpower summit meeting in the nation's capital.

The White House, in a one-sentence announcement today, confirmed that the two would meet at the same time the U.N. General Assembly is opening its annual session in New York, which Shevardnadze also is expected to attend.

Shultz and Shevardnadze will face the double task of trying to resolve whatever issues remain in the way of a nuclear-arms reduction agreement and working on an agenda for the long-anticipated third meeting between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Since the General Assembly session usually runs for two weeks, Shultz would have the opportunity for a convenient follow-up session with Shevardnadze in New York.

The two sides have agreed on a worldwide ban on intermediate-range nuclear weapons, but a treaty that Reagan and Gorbachev would sign on the Soviet leader's first visit to the United States depends on clearing away several remaining obstacles.

The major one is a Soviet demand, rejected by the Reagan administration, that American warheads for 72 medium-range West German missiles be destroyed. Soviet negotiator Alexei Obukhov said Wednesday in Geneva that the United States had not offered compromises on that and other issues of concern to Moscow.

At the same time, the Soviets again demanded curbs on Reagan's anti-missile program, saying long-range nuclear weapons could not be reduced without drastic cutbacks in his "Star Wars" plans.

Charles E. Redman, the State Department spokesman, emphasized on Tuesday that Shultz would not confine his discussions with Shevardnadze to arms control, but would also take up with his Soviet counterpart

U.S. concerns about human rights in the Soviet Union and a number of regional disputes.

These include the U.S. efforts to promote a withdrawal of Soviet forces from Afghanistan.

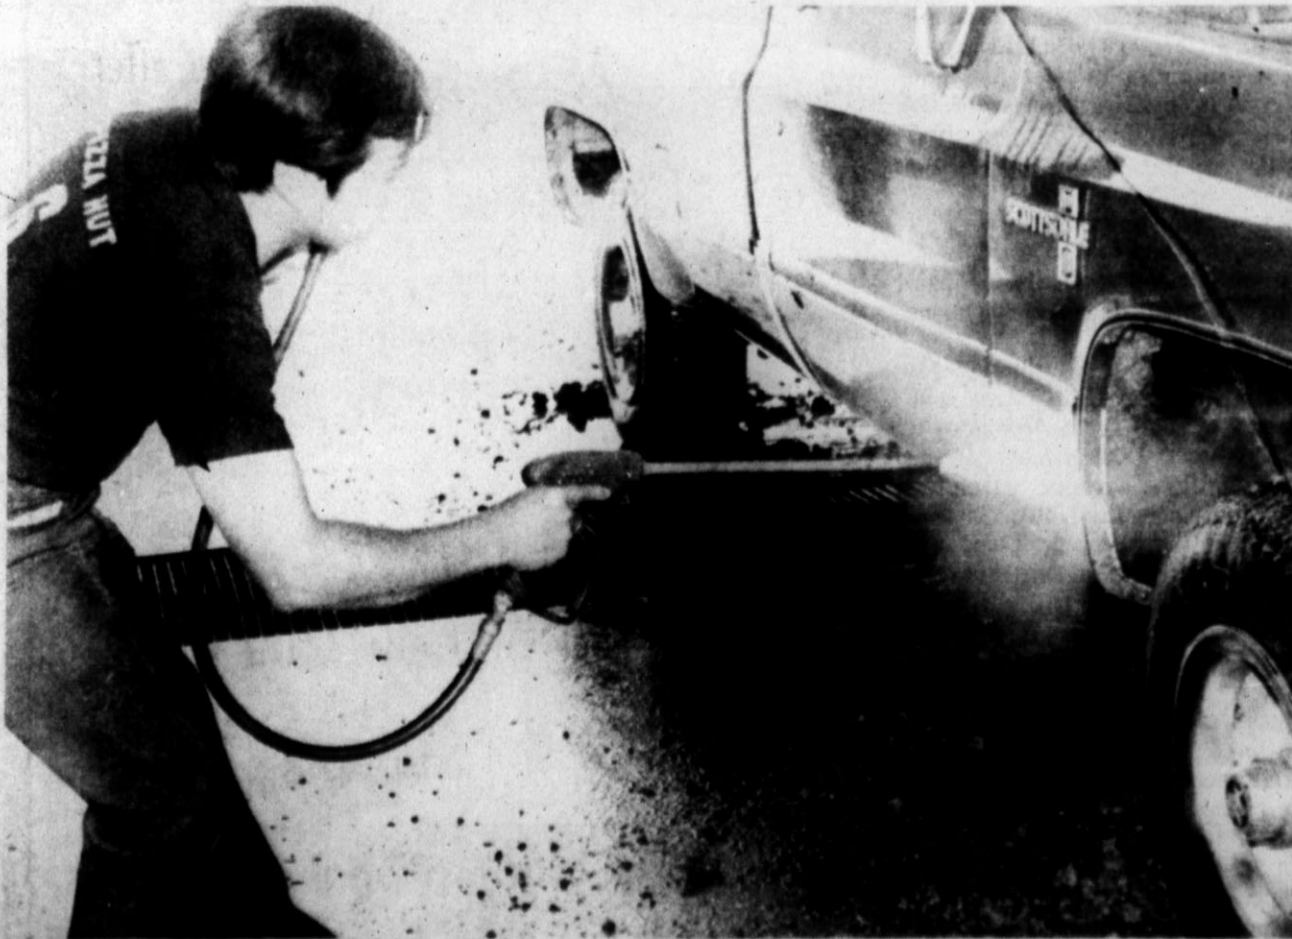

Although Gorbachev agreed in principle at his first meeting with Reagan in November 1985 to visit him here, the Soviet leader has yet to formally accept the president's invitation and told Shultz last April in Moscow that he needed a substantive reason before he would come.

Last week, the Soviet leader agreed to remove all Soviet medium-range missiles from Asia, as well as from Europe, and U.S. negotiator Maynard Giltman formally accepted the offer on Tuesday in Geneva.

This would provide for the global ban Reagan initially proposed in 1981.

That agreement could be formalized at a summit — provided other provisions are resolved.

The two sides have resumed talks in Geneva on ways to verify the accord.

Death sentence carried out in Louisiana

ANGOLA, La. (AP) — A mentally retarded man who said he was the victim of child abuse went to his death in Louisiana's electric chair early today for the 1981 rape, torture and murder of an 11-year-old girl.

John Brogdon, 25, who was pronounced dead at 12:12 a.m., was the seventh person executed in Louisiana since June and the second this week. The state has put to death seven others since it resumed executions in 1983.

Brogdon, who was 19 years old when he was arrested for the murder, was calm but apprehensive as he was strapped into the chair at the State Penitentiary.

Asked if he wanted to make a statement, he said only, "God bless ya'll." Hours earlier, the U.S. Supreme Court, Brogdon's last hope for evading Louisiana's electric chair a third time, refused on a vote of 6-2 to stay the execution.

The Louisiana Supreme Court, U.S. District Court, and the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals also refused this week to block the execution. The state Pardon Board also rejected arguments that Brogdon should be spared because he is mildly retarded and was abused as a child by his father.

PROCUREMENT

proposes to use to drill an exploratory shaft in Deaf Smith County. Wunderlich responded that the figure does not come from DOE and that to his knowledge DOE does not have a number for failure-success rates around the world.

Susan Zimmerman, of the Governor's Nuclear Waste Programs Office, requested permission from Wunderlich to address the question. She said that her office uses the figure and that it is derived from information on the ratio of shafts sunk in North America.

She said the figures come from an Environmental Assessment report and from a letter someone in DOE wrote to George Drain.

Wunderlich replied that he has requested a copy of the material used to derive the 40 percent figure and that perhaps the definition of the term "failure" is not the same for the two agencies.

Now You're Cookin' ...with an Icelandic flair

By GAYE B. REILY
Staff Writer

A visit to Iceland enabled Kathryn Ruga to see another way of life but also enhanced her appreciation of life back here in Hereford.

"I really missed the sunshine; it was cloudy and misty almost every day over there," she said. "The wind blew just like it does here, which made it seem even cooler."

Visiting with Ruga about her Icelandic experiences is fascinating and informative, as many local organizations have discovered. "I've talked to several clubs about Iceland, gearing my talks to their interests."

Traveling about the world was not always enjoyable to Ruga, however. Born and raised in Hereford to Mr. and Mrs. C.C. "Tuffy" Acker, Hereford pioneers, Ruga received her diploma in nursing from St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo, attended college in Atchinson, Kansas, then returned to Hereford. It was there that she met and married Abel Ruga, a geophysicist working in oil exploration. "We moved all over the United States: some of the places we lived besides Texas were Louisiana, California, Colorado, New Mexico, Canada, and Alaska. After being raised in one place, moving frequently was traumatic for me at first, but I gradually became accustomed to it. Thank goodness our children moved well!" Their daughter now lives in Bend, Ore., while their son lives in Sacramento, Calif.

Abel and Kathryn Ruga returned to Hereford in 1980 and she completed her final stint as a labor/intensive care nurse, culminating 25 years of nursing. "We decided to retire and, since it was just the two of us, I stopped cooking as much as I once did," she said. "I cooked up meals and put them in the freezer using small, boilable bags. When Abel, diagnosed as having cancer, died in April, 1984, I cooked even less and just wanted to stay home," she said. Also diagnosed as having cancer two years ago, she had it removed and is doing quite well, realizing the importance of staying busy in the community.

She is a member of the Calliopean Study Club, DAR, Bayview Study Club, is a member of First United Methodist Church and president of United Methodist Women, and works with the Deaf Smith County Historical Society. She is employed at Cabochon and enjoys various forms of handwork, such as needlepoint, knitting, crocheting, tatting, and sewing. She also enjoys family-oriented events as her two sisters, Ann Carroll and Helen Rose, also reside in Hereford. In fact, family members helped her arrange her adventure to Iceland.

"I went to Fairfax, Va., to visit Abel's youngest brother, Rudy, and his wife, Selma, who is a native of Iceland," said Ruga. "We went to Iceland July 12-August 16 of last year. We stayed in Reykjavik, the capitol, and toured the country via Circle Drive, which encircles the island."

According to Ruga, Iceland's landmass is the size of Kentucky and contains varied topography including lowland marshes and bogs, often used for farming, a large glacier in the center, flat wasteland devoid of people and vegetation in the island's center, mountains, fjords, lava fields, and a sandy desert. I learned to wear comfortable hiking boots because the roads never go up to whatever you want to see," said Ruga. "Also, people are advised to never travel through the uninhabited interior alone. It is a 10-hour drive on a primitive jeep track requiring a four-wheel drive vehicle. We went on a few miles of it; afterwards, I was delighted to see telephone poles as a sign of civilization."

The weather averaged temperatures of 55-60 degrees, occasionally peaking to 70 degrees. "Everyone thinks of Iceland as such as cold country, but their winters are not as harsh as ours. The Gulf Stream passes near Iceland and their mean temperature in January is 32 degrees; they have snow and ice but their temperatures don't fluctuate like ours," she said.

Ruga enjoyed a large variety of fish while there, which is the mainstay of the country's economy. "Fish and fish products comprise 70-75 percent of Iceland's export products; Iceland claims 200 miles offshore as their fishery, and carefully regulates seasons for cod and haddock. Another import is poultry. Since they have no minerals or timber, Icelanders are a frugal people, using the meat and wool of their sheep, as well as selling whale meat to Japan. Their vegetables must be imported, although large commercial greenhouses in Iceland are starting to raise fruits and vegetables. Almost everyone has a potato patch in their back yard," she said.

As for the people, Ruga said they were "quite hospitable folks who think of Texas as a hot, dry desert. They feel a kinship with Texans, since Texas was once an independent republic like Iceland." With a population of 250,000 Icelanders are not the typical Scandinavian blond, blue-eyed people, she noted but rather of Celtic origin—brown hair and brown eyes.

"One confusing custom these people practice concerns the use of surnames. If a woman is born Mary Smith, she is Mary Smith forever. If she marries, she does not take her husband's last name, then their children are given various last names," Ruga said. "I never did understand this system, but almost everyone gave only their first name anyway. The Icelanders think it is strange that women in other countries drop their maiden name and take their husband's surname, but Icelandic women will add their husband's surname on passports to avoid confusion."

Such a custom allows Icelanders to trace their lineage back to the first settlers who inhabited Iceland in 860-870 A.D. "Icelanders have no concept of our mixed heritage, as they are all pure of pure Celtic origin," Ruga said. "School children are taught sagas of Vikings, then of the first 400 families who came to the country as a result of a quarrel with their king. Anyone who was captured by the Vikings was a servant or slave to the nobility, but the slave's offspring were born free."

Presently a welfare state, Iceland boasts of having the world's first female president, who now is serving her second term. Although the country has no military and its police don't carry guns, strict import laws are followed to the letter. No meat is allowed into the country, and pets must be quarantined for months. Tourists wishing to fish must use Icelandic fishing gear or show proof that their own gear has been steam sterilized. Conversely, rules for incoming people are less stringent, as no inoculations are required.

The school system, modeled after European schools, requires students to take the English and Danish languages with French and German optional. There is only one university in the entire country, one teacher training school, and two agricultural training schools. Since there are no doctorate degrees available in Iceland, students in quest of doctorate degrees must continue their higher education elsewhere. "The United States is believed to offer the best agricultural expertise," Ruga explained.

Ruga looks upon her trip to Iceland as an experience of a lifetime, and hopes to return one day for a visit. Until then, the excellent cook will keep the memories of the northern country alive by using some recipes provided by her Icelandic friends, some of which follow:

SOUR CREAM POTATO SALAD
4 C. diced cooked potatoes
¾ tsp. celery seed

1½ tsp. salt
4 hard-boiled eggs
½ C. sour cream
¼ tsp. caraway seed
½ C. diced cucumbers
¼ C. sliced green onion
½ tsp. pepper
¼ C. mayonnaise
2 tsp. vinegar
1 tsp. prepared mustard
Separate egg yolks from whites. Dice whites and add to potato mix. Mash yolk and combine with sour cream, mayonnaise, vinegar, and mustard. Add to potato mix and toss. Let stand for 15 minutes before serving.

CRABMEAT CASSEROLE
1-6 oz. can crabmeat (may use frozen if desired)
8 slices white bread
1 C. chopped green pepper
1 C. chopped onion
3 C. milk
1 can Cream of Mushroom soup
1 C. chopped celery
4 eggs
Salt & pepper to taste
Cheese-enough to cover top of baking dish

Trim crusts from bread slices. Cut bread into small pieces, mix with celery, pepper, onion and crabmeat. Beat eggs and mix with milk. Pour milk and egg over the crabmeat mix in a baking dish and refrigerate overnight. Next day bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes. Remove from oven and pour the can of soup over the dish and bake another 15 minutes. Remove and sprinkle with grated cheese and buttered bread pieces (made from the crusts). Sprinkle with paprika and bake another 15 minutes. Serve hot.

GOLDEN ALMOND BARS

1 pkg. Pillsbury Plus Yellow Cake Mix
½ C. margarine or butter, softened
1 C. ground or finely chopped almonds
1 C. powdered sugar
1 tsp. almond extract
4 egg whites
½ C. chopped almonds
Heat oven to 350. Grease 13 x 9 pan. In large bowl combine the cake mix and margarine at low speed until crumbly. Reserve ½ cup of crumbs for topping. Press the remaining crumbs in bottom of prepared pan. In some large bowl, beat ground almonds, powdered sugar, almond extract, and egg whites on high speed for about 4 minutes. Pour evenly over the crumbs. Combine the reserved crumbs and chopped almonds and sprinkle over the egg white mixture.
Bake at 350 degrees for 20-30 minutes or until a light golden brown. Cool completely and cut into bars. Makes 36 bars.

SOUFFLES ARE A SNAP
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — You don't have to be a gourmet cook to prepare a souffle, according to Donna Higgins. Higgins, director of Del Monte Kitchens, says a few tips can make souffle preparation easier.

She recommends giving close attention to the preparation of egg whites in souffles. "Egg whites should be stiff enough to stand in upright peaks," she says. "At room temperature, egg whites will expand to greater volume more quickly than if they are chilled." "Finally, try adding a pinch of cream of tartar to help egg whites hold their stiffness."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are counting on you to settle an argument that has caused several members of our family to stop speaking. Your decision will be final.

This story by Curtis Krueger appeared in the Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette. We know you can't print every word of it but here are the highlights. We want you to decide if justice was done. Personally, I am outraged that these guys got such a light sentence. My brother says the sentence was too stiff. Here's the article:

"Three Fort Wayne men who poured gasoline on a cat and set it afire are spending the rest of Be Kind To Animals Week in jail.

"The three men ignited the cat and 'spun it around like a sparkler,' said William E. Fisher, director of the Fort Wayne Animal Control Department. Fisher said the case ranks as one of the most blatant violations of cruelty laws in recent years.

"The incident began because the three men suspected another roommate had stolen a puppy that belonged to one of them. They decided to get even by torching his cat. The neighbors saw the whole thing and called the police.

"When the police arrived, one of the men said, 'The cat scratched my arm so I killed the son-of-a-b—.' Another one spoke up, 'What's the big deal? Haven't you officers got anything better to do?'

"The three were held overnight in the City-County Lockup after pleading guilty to cruelty to animals. Each received fines of $100 and 90 days in jail."

What do you think, Ann Landers?—

Indiana Readers

DEAR READERS: I agree that the sentence was too light. It is my hope that someone will keep an eye on those creeps. Anyone who is so warped and sadistic that he would set fire to an animal should be ordered to get counseling and remain under close surveillance for several years. Sick. Sick. Sick.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am so angry at my mother that I feel it is best not to talk to her until I have cooled down.

My father is semi-retired and my parents collect Social Security, but they have money from the sale of real estate and are comfortable.

My mother asked my 25-year-old son to rescreen her porch. It meant making new frames. The job took a considerable amount of time. Mother insisted on paying him the same money that a professional would get. He said, "OK" and asked for $20. She then instructed him to prepare a bill in the amount of $300 which she submitted to her insurance company, claiming "storm damage."

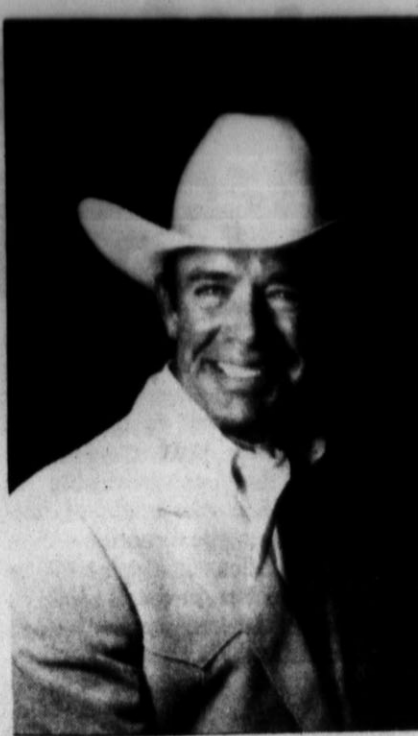

My son saw nothing wrong with this and complied with her request. My mother now has her newly screened porch plus $300 less $20 which she put out for materials and another $20 for the labor.

My sister-in-law says that since it was family it was an OK thing to do. The way I see it, my mother made a profit and used her grandson badly. What is your opinion, Ann Landers?—Marlboro, Mass.

DEAR MARLBORO: What your mother did was downright crooked.

To display such a lack of integrity is, in my opinion, nothing short of disgraceful. If no one has pointed this out to her, someone should. P.S. that son of yours sounds as if he's missing a few dots on his dice. Twenty dollars to rescreen a porch! Someone should tell him that Hoover is no longer in the White House.

Ann Landers' booklet, "Sex and the Teenager," explains every aspect of sexual behavior—where to draw the line, how to say no, the various methods of contraception, the dangers of VD, the symptoms and where to get help. For a copy, send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Resident's granddaughter weds in recent ceremony

Linda Angella Coombs, granddaughter of Shirley Wyssman of Hereford, and Tracy Lee Graham are at home in McKinney, Texas following their marriage July 18, in the home of the bride's parents in Spearman. The wedding was officiated by the Rev. John Scott.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Randy Coombs of Spearman and the groom is the son of Mr.

and Mrs. Jack Moore of Celina, Texas.

Serving as maid of honor was Patty McGuire of Spearman and the bride's brother, Kiley Coombs, was best man.

The bride was attired in a denim dress, accented with red leather and concho belt, and red roper boots. Her corsage was white silk carnations tied with red bandana ribbon accented with a miniature white western hat. In keeping with bridal tradition, the bride had something old, something new, something borrowed, and something blue. She also wore a penny in her boot minted with her birthdate.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the dining room of the home. The refreshment table was covered with a wedgewood blue cloth and napkins were fashioned from red bandana handkerchiefs. Red punch was served in miniature mason jars. The wedding cake was designed with two inter-locking hearts with the words "We've Tied the Knot", the couple's names, and wedding date. On one side of the cake was the punch bowl and the other was decorated with a western straw hat adorned with silk spring flowers.

DR. GOTT

His protection seems adequate

Peter Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband installs fiberglass insulation. He's careful to wear a respirator, gloves and overalls, but he still gets that stuff all over him. Does it remain in the body if ingested? Can it work its way through the skin?

DEAR READER — Your husband appears to be taking adequate protection against the small particles of fiberglass that break off from insulation. Despite his efforts, fiberglass is getting under his clothing, and this can cause unbearable itching and a skin rash that is difficult to control.

Fiberglass is made up of glassy filaments that break easily. Such broken filaments, usually in the form of dust spicules, penetrate the skin, producing irritation. Although the particles are too short and brittle to penetrate deeply, they tend to stick to skin made moist by perspiration and oils. This results in a superficial rash as the body responds to the foreign material, much as it would to a splinter.

Fiberglass workers can usually prevent this problem by washing thoroughly after work to remove the fiberglass that has worked its way under protective garments to the skin. Some fiberglass contractors swear by cold showers because this method closes the pores and allows the fiberglass to be more readily washed off.

Although, in theory, swallowed fiberglass could cause intestinal irritation, I am not aware of any studies linking ingestion of fiberglass particles to disease. On the other hand, inhaled fiberglass can cause pulmonary inflammation, increased mucus secretion, chronic cough and — if present in sufficient quantity — a syndrome of chronic lung disease that resembles silicosis, lung disease caused by sand particles.

If your husband carefully protects himself at work and showers thoroughly at the end of the day, he is not likely to suffer any serious consequences of industrial fiberglass exposure.

DEAR DR. GOTT — The Indians used aloe vera for all sorts of ailments. Is the liquid you get in a bottle as good as the leaf?

DEAR READER — As far as I know, the use of commercially prepared aloe vera is as useful as the leaf in treating burns and rashes.

Although this "folk remedy" has largely been superseded by more effective therapy — such as creams containing anesthetics, antibiotics and cortisone — aloe still has a place in the treatment of minor burns. I know some cooks who grow aloe vera plants in the kitchen for this purpose. In addition, manufacturers of commercial skin creams are adding aloe to their products because the substance appears to have healing qualities.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm a 71-year-old veteran of World War II and Korea, and have been taking steroids (prednisone) for about six months. I'm going blind from these drugs. My doctor tells me I can't stop the drug. He and my so-called eye specialist tell me I have the choice of going blind or quitting breathing. I don't believe this. Do you?

DEAR READER — I'm not sure. Prednisone and other cortisone drugs (steroids) can be of inestimable help in treating certain diseases, such as asthma, allergic conditions, some cancers, blood disorders and autoimmune diseases (including rheumatoid arthritis and lupus). I'd have to know why you are taking steroids before I could fully answer your question.

Apparently, you are having trouble breathing. This may mean your doctors believe that steroids are a necessary part of treating your asthma. If so, the drugs can be administered in ways that may not affect your entire body. For instance, steroids are available in hand-held nebulizers that deliver the medicine in inhaled form.

Prednisone and other steroids cause cataracts. Surely, loss of vision is too dear a price to pay when alternative therapy may be available. Ask your doctors if the medicine can be prescribed in reduced doses or by metered inhalers, or ask for a referral to a pulmonary specialist, who may determine that other, less dangerous drugs might be used for your problem.

Finally, ask your eye doctor if you are a candidate for cataract removal and lens implant in the unlikely event that the prednisone is, indeed, lifesaving, but has a negative effect on your vision.

Five of 10 worst places in Michigan

NEW YORK (AP) — Five of the 10 worst cities to reside in the United States are in Michigan, according to a survey by Money magazine.

The same survey rated Nashua, N.H. — home to lots of jobs and lots of snow — as America's No. 1 spot to settle.

Overall, suburbs and smaller Northeastern cities fared best in the survey of 300 metropolitan statistical areas, in which only two Sunbelt cities placed in the top 10.

Rounding out the places where the elite should start to meet were, in order: Norwalk, Conn.; Wheeling, W.Va.; Beaver County, Pa.; Danbury, Conn.; Long Island, N.Y.; Oxnard-Ventura, Calif.; Boston's North Shore; Scranton-Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Anaheim-Santa Ana, Calif.

The results differed sharply from other ratings — most notably Rand McNally's "Places Rated Almanac" — mainly because Money based its criteria on a poll of its readers.

Money's survey asked a sample of 226 readers to score each of 60 variables on a scale of one to 10. The survey then gathered data about metropolitan areas, using government and private sources, and applied the readers' values to the information gathered.

The respondents had a median age of 42 and a median household income of $56,000, making them older and considerably more affluent than most Americans.

According to the respondents, a low crime rate is the most important element of a good place to live, followed by a strong economy and affordable housing likely to increase in value.

Other highly weighted criteria included the quality and availability of health care, climate, leisure activities, availability of the arts, quality of schools and transportation.

In Rand McNally's 1985 "Places Rated Almanac," Nashua placed 139th out of 329 cities, while Pittsburgh — ranked 43rd in the Money survey — was the top-rated spot in the nation.

The only two places to make the top 10 in both surveys were Norwalk (second in the Money survey, ninth in "Places Rated") and Long Island (sixth in both). Both are New York City suburbs that scored points for proximity to the city's cultural attributes without the accompanying disadvantages.

New York ranked 82nd on the list, smack between Dallas and Cleveland — an indication of how the nation's largest cities fared in the rating. San Francisco was the highest-rated big city, coming in 12th. Los Angeles ranked 17th; Chicago, 48th.

Although Money surveyed 300 cities, it listed only the top 100 places and the bottom 10, Mansfield, Ohio; Saginaw, Mich.; Wilmington, N.C.; Jackson, Mich.; Odessa, Texas; Rockford, Ill.; Atlantic City, N.J.; Benton Harbor, Mich.; Muskegon, Mich. and Flint, Mich.

Money said the Northeast scored well in the survey because of the strength of its economy. Pennsylvania had more spots — 13 — in the top 100 than any other state; California, with 12, was next.

Walt Disney, the cartoonist, film producer and cinema animation pioneer, received a record 29 Academy Awards.

Rodeo Action Coming

Bull rider Tammy Materi will be one of 91 contestants in the annual Hall of Fame All Girl Rodeo which opens a three-day stand here Friday. After a 7:30 p.m. start Friday, the rodeo continues with matinee performances at 3 and 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the Circle A Arena eight miles west of Hereford. A barbecue dinner will be held at 5 p.m. Friday at the rodeo concession stand.

Alley designer mixes art, science

HOUSTON (AP) — Standing on the Alley Theater stage in her Reebok tennis shoes, white baggy pants and striped shirt, Pamela A. Gray raises her hand. The lights go up.

The crew rumbles around on the catwalks above, waiting for her signals. The lights on the stage begin to take shape. Upstage, a bright square emerges, the edges sharp, forming a well-defined box.

"Lock it," Ms. Gray, 32, says to the people above.

The pattern she's created is set into position. She raises her hand again and light moves to the edge of the stage. As she watches, it covers the entire area in front of her.

Her job is creating magic with light.

As lighting designer at the Alley, she's the person who spotlights the actors who would otherwise be disembodied voices on stage. The job is a combination of physics, mathematics, geometry and electrical engineering mixed with a large dose of artistic ability.

"It's a talent of perception to be able to visualize a lighting design," Ms. Gray said. "You're either born with it or you're not."

But it takes many hours of work to use that talent. When preparing for a show, some weeks she works as many as 110 hours. It all starts with a reading of the script. Beginning there, the vision of her finished product takes shape.

"When I read a play, I see it in my mind as if I were watching a movie. I see the way it's lit depending upon what the characters are wearing, what they are doing, what time of day it is, the whole surface impression," Ms. Gray said.

The next step is to sit down with the director and other designers to discuss color. From the costumes and set colors, Ms. Gray decides what lights she will use to best show off the actors.

The Alley has 280 lighting instruments on the Large Stage. For a recent production of the "Gin Game," she used 240 instruments. Since actors were seen from all sides of the theater, the lighting requirements were demanding.

To decide which lights to use and where to place them takes hours of work, much of it at a drafting board. Ms. Gray unfolds a lighting plot. The 180 lights she will need to do "Shooting Stars," which opened last week, on the Large Stage look like footsteps in a large garden.

But getting that garden in shape took time.

Such a lighting plot can take anywhere from six hours to 2½ days, working 10 to 12 hours a day at the drafting board. After the plot is drawn, Ms. Gray then feeds light level settings and timing cues into a computer.

The refinements come as she stands on the stage and directs her crew to tilt and turn each light to get just the desired effect.

When she does, it plays with the audience's mind.

"You can tell an audience where they should be looking, how they should look — that has to do with mood — or upset them, threaten them. To do that, you use light they don't normally run into during the course of the day."

Light shot from beneath the actors creates eerie shadows, suggesting a downbeat mood. To scare the audience, Ms. Gray says fast shifts will do the trick. She puts a dark place on the stage, then instantly reveals something unexpected to the audience.

Dazzling them is easy, she says, and that is done by focusing lights in the audience's face, then flashing them.

"You can get pretty much anything that's required," she said. "What you must remember as a lighting designer is that you shouldn't get obvious about it. If somebody in the audience says: 'Gee, that was interesting lighting,' you haven't done your job."

Ms. Gray's career rise has been rapid.

A 1976 graduate of Northwestern University, she received a master's degree in fine arts at the University of Oklahoma. She worked four years at Washington D.C.'s Arena Stage before coming to the Alley in 1982 as a master electrician. She has been involved in about 70 productions at the Houston theater, and became its lighting designer in 1985.

This summer she married Bob Bones, a stage manager for Theater Under the Stars.

Ms. Gray is one of about 35 female lighting designers in the country. She says she plans to stay in the work permanently, eventually combining teaching with theater work.

But she knows she wants to stay near the footlights.

"I think having a 9-to-5 job would bore me senseless in about three weeks," she said. "This is always challenging. You're always coming up with a new set of problems."

This results in a superficial rash as the body responds to the foreign material, much as it would to a splinter.

Fiberglass workers can usually prevent this problem by washing thoroughly after work to remove the fiberglass that has worked its way under protective garments to the skin. Some fiberglass contractors swear by cold showers because this method closes the pores and allows the fiberglass to be more readily washed off.

Although, in theory, swallowed fiberglass could cause intestinal irritation, I am not aware of any studies linking ingestion of fiberglass particles to disease. On the other hand, inhaled fiberglass can cause pulmonary inflammation, increased mucus secretion, chronic cough and — if present in sufficient quantity — a syndrome of chronic lung disease that resembles silicosis, lung disease caused by sand particles.

If your husband carefully protects himself at work and washes thoroughly at the end of the day, he is not likely to suffer any serious consequences of industrial fiberglass exposure.

DEAR DR. GOTT — The Indians used aloe vera for all sorts of ailments. Is the liquid you get in a bottle as good as the leaf?

DEAR READER — As far as I know, the use of commercially prepared aloe vera is as useful as the leaf in treating burns and rashes.

Although this "folk remedy" has largely been superseded by more effective therapy — such as creams containing anesthetics, antibiotics and cortisone — aloe still has a place in the treatment of minor burns. I know some cooks who grow aloe vera plants in the kitchen for this purpose. In addition, manufacturers of commercial skin creams are adding aloe to their products because the substance appears to have healing qualities.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm a 71-year-old veteran of World War II and Korea, and have been taking steroids (prednisone) for about six months. I'm going blind from these drugs. My doctor tells me I can't stop the drug. He and my so-called eye specialist tell me I have the choice of going blind or quitting breathing. I don't believe this. Do you?

DEAR READER — I'm not sure. Prednisone and other cortisone drugs (steroids) can be of inestimable help in treating certain diseases, such as asthma, allergic conditions, some cancers, blood disorders and autoimmune diseases (including rheumatoid arthritis and lupus). I'd have to know why you are taking steroids before I could fully answer your question.

Apparently, you are having trouble breathing. This may mean your doctors believe that steroids are a necessary part of treating your asthma. If so, the drugs can be administered in ways that may not affect your entire body. For instance, steroids are available in hand-held nebulizers that deliver the medicine in inhaled form.

Prednisone and other steroids cause cataracts. Surely, loss of vision is too dear a price to pay when alternative therapy may be available. Ask your doctors if the medicine can be prescribed in reduced doses or by metered inhalers, or ask for a referral to a pulmonary specialist, who may determine that other, less dangerous drugs might be used for your problem.

Finally, ask your eye doctor if you are a candidate for cataract removal and lens implant in the unlikely event that the prednisone is, indeed, lifesaving, but has a negative effect on your vision.

Five of 10 worst places in Michigan

NEW YORK (AP) — Five of the 10 worst cities to reside in the United States are in Michigan, according to a survey by Money magazine.

The same survey rated Nashua, N.H. — home to lots of jobs and lots of snow — as America's No. 1 spot to settle.

Overall, suburbs and smaller Northeastern cities fared best in the survey of 300 metropolitan statistical areas, in which only two Sunbelt cities placed in the top 10.

Rounding out the places where the elite should start to meet were, in order: Norwalk, Conn.; Wheeling, W.Va.; Beaver County, Pa.; Danbury, Conn.; Long Island, N.Y.; Oxnard-Ventura, Calif.; Boston's North Shore; Scranton-Wilkes-Barre, Pa., and Anaheim-Santa Ana, Calif.

The results differed sharply from other ratings — most notably Rand McNally's "Places Rated Almanac" — mainly because Money based its criteria on a poll of its readers.

Money's survey asked a sample of 226 readers to score each of 60 variables on a scale of one to 10. The survey then gathered data about metropolitan areas, using government and private sources, and applied the readers' values to the information gathered.

The respondents had a median age of 42 and a median household income of $56,000, making them older and considerably more affluent than most Americans.

According to the respondents, a low crime rate is the most important element of a good place to live, followed by a strong economy and affordable housing likely to increase in value.

Other highly weighted criteria included the quality and availability of health care, climate, leisure activities, availability of the arts, quality of schools and transportation.

In Rand McNally's 1985 "Places Rated Almanac," Nashua placed 139th out of 329 cities, while Pittsburgh — ranked 43rd in the Money survey — was the top-rated spot in the nation.

The only two places to make the top 10 in both surveys were Norwalk (second in the Money survey, ninth in "Places Rated") and Long Island (sixth in both). Both are New York City suburbs that scored points for proximity to the city's cultural attributes without the accompanying disadvantages.

New York ranked 82nd on the list, smack between Dallas and Cleveland — an indication of how the nation's largest cities fared in the rating. San Francisco was the highest-rated big city, coming in 12th. Los Angeles ranked 17th; Chicago, 48th.

Although Money surveyed 300 cities, it listed only the top 100 places and the bottom 10, Mansfield, Ohio, Saginaw, Mich., Wilmington, N.C., Jackson, Mich., Odessa, Texas, Rockford, Ill., Atlantic City, N.J., Benton Harbor, Mich., Muskegon, Mich. and Flint, Mich.

Money said the Northeast scored well in the survey because of the strength of its economy. Pennsylvania had more spots — 13 — in the top 100 than any other state; California, with 12, was next.

Walt Disney, the cartoonist, film producer and cinema animation pioneer, received a record 29 Academy Awards.

Rodeo Action Coming

Bull rider Tammy Materi will be one of 91 contestants in the annual Hall of Fame All Girl Rodeo which opens a three-day stand here Friday. After a 7:30 p.m. start Friday, the rodeo continues with matinee performances at 3 and 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday at the Circle A Arena eight miles west of Hereford. A barbecue dinner will be held at 5 p.m. Friday at the rodeo concession stand.

Alley designer mixes art, science

HOUSTON (AP) — Standing on the Alley Theater stage in her Reebok tennis shoes, white baggy pants and striped shirt, Pamela A. Gray raises her hand. The lights go up.

The crew rumbles around on the catwalks above, waiting for her signals. The lights on the stage begin to take shape. Upstage, a bright square emerges, the edges sharp, forming a well-defined box.

"Lock it," Ms. Gray, 32, says to the people above.

The pattern she's created is set in position. She raises her hand again and light moves to the edge of the stage. As she watches, it covers the entire area in front of her.

Her job is creating magic with light.

As lighting designer at the Alley, she's the person who spotlights the actors who would otherwise be disembodied voices on stage. The job is a combination of physics, mathematics, geometry and electrical engineering mixed with a large dose of artistic ability.

"It's a talent of perception to be able to visualize a lighting design," Ms. Gray said. "You're either born with it or you're not."

But it takes many hours of work to use that talent. When preparing for a show, some weeks she works as many as 110 hours. It all starts with a reading of the script. Beginning there, the vision of her finished product takes shape.

"When I read a play, I see it in my mind as if I were watching a movie. I see the way it's lit depending upon what the characters are wearing, what they are doing, what time of day it is, the whole surface impression," Ms. Gray said.

The next step is to sit down with the director and other designers to discuss color. From the costumes and set colors, Ms. Gray decides what lights she will use to best show off the actors.

The Alley has 280 lighting instruments on the Large Stage. For a recent production of the "Gin Game," she used 240 instruments. Since actors were seen from all sides of the theater, the lighting requirements were demanding.

To decide which lights to use and where to place them takes hours of work, much of it at a drafting board. Ms. Gray unfolds a lighting plot. The 180 lights she will need to do "Shooting Stars," which opened last week, on the Large Stage look like footsteps in a large garden.

But getting that garden in shape took time.

Such a lighting plot can take anywhere from six hours to 2½ days, working 10 to 12 hours a day at the drafting board. After the plot is drawn, Ms. Gray then feeds light level settings and timing cues into a computer.

The refinements come as she stands on the stage and directs her crew to tilt and turn each light to get just the desired effect.

When she does, it plays with the audience's mind.

"You can tell an audience where they should be looking, how they should look — that has to do with mood — or upset them, threaten them. To do that, you use light they don't normally run into during the course of the day."

Light shot from beneath the actors creates eerie shadows, suggesting a downbeat mood. To scare the audience, Ms. Gray says fast shifts will do the trick. She puts a dark place on the stage, then instantly reveals something unexpected to the audience.

Dazzling them is easy, she says, and that is done by focusing lights in the audience's face, then flashing them.

"You can get pretty much anything that's required," she said. "What you must remember as a lighting designer is that you shouldn't get obvious about it. If somebody in the audience says: 'Gee, that was interesting lighting,' you haven't done your job."

Ms. Gray's career rise has been rapid.

A 1976 graduate of Northwestern University, she received a master's degree in fine arts at the University of Oklahoma. She worked four years at Washington D.C.'s Arena Stage before coming to the Alley in 1982 as a master electrician. She has been involved in about 70 productions at the Houston theater, and become its lighting designer in 1985.

This summer she married Bob Bones, a stage manager for Theater Under the Stars.

Ms. Gray is one of about 35 female lighting designers in the country. She says she plans to stay in the work permanently, eventually combining teaching with theater work.

But she knows she wants to stay near the footlights.

"I think having a 9-to-5 job would bore me senseless in about three weeks," she said. "This is always challenging. You're always coming up with a new set of problems."

To coach in all-star football game

Whitefaces' Cumpton is a finalist

Hereford High School's head football coach, Don Cumpton, has been named one of the finalists to coach in the 1988 North-South all-star football game. Cumpton was named one of four finalists to coach the North team by the Texas High School Coaches Association. The other finalists to coach the North team are Gary Gaines, Odessa Permian; Mike Bailey, Plano East; and Fred West, Clyde. The four finalists to coach the South team are Ray Akins, Gregory-Portland; Jim Streety, New Braunfels; Jack Murphy, Gladewater; and Luther Booker, Houston Yates. The North-South all-star football game will be played during the coaches association's 1988 convention in Houston. Cumpton's record as a head coach Wednesday scramble ends in 2-way tie Two teams tied for first place in the Wednesday Night Scramble at Pitman Municipal Golf Course, resulting in the prize money to be carried over to next week. Shooting scores of 29 were these two teams: Rick Haggard, Scat Russell, Sammy Davison, and Mary Shelton; and Rito Duque, Bartley Dowell, Jack Chapman, and Robert Cabezueta. Four teams finished in a tie for third place, each with scores of 30.

of the Whitefaces is 49-18-1 in six seasons. That HHS record includes a 22-9-1 district record, a 21-7 non-district record, and a 6-2 playoff record. Cumpton was the HHS coach from 1978 to 1982 before going to Abilene High School for three seasons. He returned to Hereford in 1986, when he directed the Herd to the state semifinals. The 1981 Whiteface football team also reached the state semifinals. In the seasons when the Herd reached the state semifinals, the season records were 13-1 in 1981 and 12-2 in 1986. Cumpton coached the Whitefaces to a pair of 8-2 seasons, in 1980 and 1982. His record at Hereford High School includes a 24-7 home game record and a 25-11-1 road game record. The seventh season for Cumpton as the HHS head coach begins on Friday, Sept. 4 with a non-district game at Andrews, at 7:30 p.m. After a Sept. 11 non-district game at Clovis, Hereford High School begins District 1-4A play on Sept. 18 at home versus Pampa. Tee times changed for golf tourney The tee times has been changed for one of the days of the V.F.W. Post 4818 charity golf tournament this weekend. The Saturday tee time has been changed from 1 p.m. to 9 a.m., and the Sunday tee time remains at 9 a.m. Men and women interested in competing in the tournament should contact the Pro Shop at Pitman Municipal Golf Course at 364-2782.

Four errors committed in 5-3 loss

Astros 'throw away' game

By TOM SALADINO AP Sports Writer ATLANTA (AP) — Atlanta Braves Manager Chuck Tanner described his club's victory over Houston as "gorgeous," but Astros Manager Hal Lanier had an emphatically different version. Atlanta managed only four hits to Houston's 11. But Dale Murphy hit a solo home run and Gerald Perry had a pair of hits, scored twice and stole three bases and the Astros contributed four errors in Atlanta's 5-3 victory Wednesday night. "Games like that are gorgeous when you win," said Tanner. "It was a great classic." Lanier said the loss was neither tough nor disappointing. What he said next was unprintable. He repeated it and told the assembled reporters "and you can use that," as he tossed his paper plate on the floor and stormed out of his cubicle. It also was a difficult night for Astros starter Nolan Ryan, who has not won since June 12 and fell to 4-13 in dropping his eighth straight decision. "From a standpoint of having good stuff and not doing anything with it, I'm disappointed," said Ryan. "But I can't remember throwing any better and losing as consistently as I have (during the losing streak)." Ryan allowed only two hits — both to Perry — in 5 1/3 innings, but was hampered by the Astros' porous defense and his own wildness. He was leading 2-1 entering the sixth when he gave up a leadoff double to Perry, who stole third, and then walked Murphy. After striking out Ken Griffey, the Astros' right-hander induced Andres Thomas to bounce to third. In the ensuing rundown, however, Perry scored, Murphy reached third and Thomas second as Astros third baseman Ken Caminiti dropped the ball. Ryan then walked Bruce Benedict and Glenn Hubbard, forcing in another run. Pinch-hitter Ted Simmons added a sacrifice fly off reliever Dave Meads. Murphy added his 27th homer of the year in the seventh and made a leaping catch of a two-out drive to the right field wall by Caminiti in the eighth, saving two runs. Atlanta's first run in the fourth inning also was unearned as Perry singled, stole second, went to third on Bill Doran's error on Ken Griffey's grounder and scored on a wild pitch. The Astros scored on an RBI single by Glenn Davis in the first and Doran's 14th homer of the year in the third off Atlanta starter Charlie Puleo, 4-3. Gene Garber, who picked up his 10th save, allowed the Astros final run in the ninth on a run-scoring double by Doran. Perry, who has 24 stolen bases, has lifted his average from .222 to the present .273 by hitting .331 the last 38 games. This includes a current nine-game hitting streak in which he is 15-for-34 with nine stolen bases. Mets 6, Cardinals 4 The best-laid plans of men, mice and even White Rats sometimes goes astray. With the game tied 4-4 in the 10th inning and the New York Mets' switch-hitting Howard Johnson coming to bat, St. Louis Cardinals Manager Whitey Herzog decided to stick with left-handed reliever Pat Perry. The idea was to have Johnson, who has hit 13 home runs left-handed, take his swings as a right-hander. "He's been hitting both ways," the white-haired Herzog said. "He hits a little better right-handed, but still, if he hits the ground ball you've got a good chance of doubling him up." So much for strategy. Johnson lined a two-run homer, his 24th of the season, into the left-field bleachers to give the Mets a 6-4 victory and the reeling Cardinals their sixth consecutive loss. The defeat, coupled with Montreal's 11-3 romp over Chicago, reduced the Cardinals' lead over the Expos in the National League East to five games. The Mets are third, 6 1/2 games out. In other games, Cincinnati buried San Diego 15-5 as Dave Parker drove in six runs, San Francisco terrorized Los Angeles pitching for 16 hits in a 16-2 romp, and Steve Bedrosian got his major league-leading 28th save as Philadelphia shaded Pittsburgh 4-3. Even though the Mets are closer to first place than they've been for almost a month, Manager Davey Johnson was still upset that Howard Johnson's homer was needed. The Mets led 4-0 after 4 1/2 innings only to have the Cardinals draw even after nine innings. "Obviously we're disappointed, because we didn't protect the lead," the manager said. "That's what we haven't been doing. That's why we're still 6 1/2 games behind." Roger McDowell, who blew a chance for his 15th save when he surrendered a run in the ninth, improved his record to 5-3. "They've come back so many times against us that you almost say, 'Well, here we go again,'" McDowell said. "Any time you play St. Louis, you know it's going to be a fight to the end." Expos 11, Cubs 3 Tim Wallach and Vance Law hit consecutive homers in the fifth, by which time Bryn Smith, 7-4, who allowed six hits in seven innings, was breezing with a 7-0 lead. Mitch Webster added a two-run homer in the sixth as the Expos won for the fourth time in five games. Reds 15, Padres 5 Only once in 14 previous seasons had Parker driven in as many as six runs in a game. Now he's done it tithin a week. Parker, who drove in six against Montreal last Thursday, duplicated that feat Wednesday night when he singled in two runs, hit a three-run homer and was hit by a pitch with the bases loaded. Cincinnati scored six times in the first three innings off Padres starter Eric Show, 5-12, with Parker starting things with his first-inning single. Left-hander Rob Murphy, 5-3, snuffed out San Diego's fourth-inning rally. Giants 16, Dodgers 2 Mike Krukow, who hadn't won a game in nine previous starts, was the beneficiary. Krukow, only 2-6 after a 20-win season in 1986, allowed six hits in his third complete game of the season. Chili Davis paced the Giants' 16-hit attack, driving in five runs with a double and a three-run homer, his 17th. Mike Aldrete drove in three runs and Kevin Mitchell scored three times as the Giants won for the ninth time in 12 games. Phillies 4, Pirates 3 Philadelphia won its eighth in a row over the Pirates and 10th in 11 games this season as Mill Thompson hit a two-run homer and Von Hayes a solo shot. Don Carman, 7-7, allowed three runs and six hits over six innings and Mike Jackson added two innings of scoreless relief before Bedrosian came on to protect Philadelphia's fifth win in six games and pick up his major-league-leading 28th save.

Softball tourney set at Vega on August 7-8

The Vega Kiwanis Club will sponsor the Oldham County Roundup Softball Tournament Aug. 7 and 8 in Vega. Prizes will be awarded to the first, second and third place winners. For entries or more information call Kent Stevens at 267-2105 or 267-2657, or David Medlin at 267-2163. BASEBALL NO. 1 NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball, all areas of it, was the top spectator sport in 1986 for the second year in a row. A survey by the Daily Racing Form showed that major league baseball attracted 45,500,547 paying customers in 1986. The 17 minor leagues had a total turnstile count of 18,456,808. The World Series and playoffs drew 1,433,509 fans. And college baseball attracted 13,336,672 spectators. The grand total was 80,727,336. Horse racing, both the flats and harness events, was second with 69,310,835 in attendance.

Down on the FARM WATCH UP FOR POWER LINES

Power lines can be dangerous.

Touching irrigation pipe to a power line can divert the electricity through the pipe . . . and to anyone in contact with it. In this part of the country, this is the leading cause of farm injuries and deaths in electricity-related accidents. Any equipment of unusual height represents a potential danger. Lift arms on field equipment, combine auger spouts and even radio antennas can cause serious injury or death if they, and you, make contact with a power line. Keep an eye up for power lines. Watch up, for safety's sake.

ARABIAN HORSES

LA GRANGE, Ky. (AP) — There is a sharp upward trend in the number of Arabian horses in the U.S. At last count, there were 300,000, almost four times the number of a decade ago. A Polish stallion named Bask has sired 177 colts and fillies, many of whom have won national titles in the U.S. and Canada. His feminine progeny have proved especially valuable. Sixty-six mares sired by Bask have been sold for a total of $31,530,000. Star World, a national group of 50 prominent Arabian horse breeders in this country, reported that MS Santana, a son of Bask, won both the American and Canadian titles in 1986.

In 12 Innings to Milwaukee

Rangers blow big lead, suffer 9-8 defeat

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The Texas Rangers thought they had the game in the bag Wednesday night — a one-run lead and their ace on the mound — but their victory celebration proved a bit premature.

"Nothing is ever a lock, but I'll take my chances on Horse (reliever Dale Mohoric) in that situation," Rangers manager Bobby Valentine said after the Milwaukee Brewers had roughed up Mohoric and rallied to a 9-8 victory in 12 innings.

Milwaukee manager Tom Trebelhorn could sympathize with Valentine. On Monday night, he sent his relief ace, Dan Plesac, to the hill to protect a 4-3 lead in the ninth and Plesac wound up losing it 5-4.

But Plesac got his revenge Wednesday night as he earned the victory with three scoreless innings.

"I gave away the first game, so it felt good to come back and get them tonight," said Plesac, who snapped a personal four-game losing streak. "It was a long night but a great win."

Mohoric came on in the eighth with Texas leading 7-4 and couldn't close the door as the Brewers scored twice to cut the lead to 7-6.

"When it got to 7-6, we knew we had a chance," said Brewers right fielder Glenn Briggs, who had four hits on the night. "So we just kept after them."

Needing three outs for the victory in the ninth, Mohoric didn't retire either of the batters he faced as Dale Sveum, who would drive in the game-winner in the 12th, homered to tie the game and Paul Molitor tripled and scored to give the Brewers an 8-7 lead.

"I felt confident when I went out there in the eighth," said Mohoric, "but when they start hitting balls to the walls, I know I don't have my good stuff."

Plesac, however, couldn't nail down the victory, either, as he came on in bottom of the ninth with two runners on and two outs and was touched by Ruben Sierra's game-tying single.

"I have to give Sierra credit," said Plesac, "because he hit a good pitch."

He's going to be a great player."

Sierra finished the night with four RBI while Larry Parrish drove in three with a 3-run homer that gave the Rangers a 7-2 lead after three innings.

"We should have built on that lead," said Valentine, "but we didn't. They battled and we battled and they came out on top."

Four of the nine Brewer runs were unearned, including the game-winner in the 12th after second baseman Jerry Browne booted a one-out grounder off the bat of Ernest Riles.

Reliever Paul Kilgus was the victim of the shoddy fielding and he suffered the loss when Sveum lined a two-out single to center that scored Riles from second.

"We should have won the game two hours earlier," said Mohoric. But they didn't and Milwaukee leaves town having won two of three in the series and eight of the nine played so far this season.

In other games, Chicago shut out Detroit 4-0, New York beat Kansas City 4-0, Seattle defeated Minnesota 8-3, Boston got past Toronto 6-5, Baltimore downed Cleveland 7-4 and California beat Oakland 5-4.

White Sox 4, Tigers 0

The Detroit Tigers are among the few American League teams that have not expressed an interest in trading for Floyd Bannister. Maybe they'll change their attitude now.

Bannister pitched a five-hitter Wednesday night for his seventh straight victory over Detroit as the Chicago White Sox beat the Tigers 4-0.

"You can't help getting excited about pitching against Detroit — they're the hottest ballclub in the game," Bannister said after outdueling Jack Morris and stopping the Tigers' five-game winning streak.

In the last month, Bannister has been mentioned in several trade rumors involving contending teams including Toronto, Oakland and the New York Yankees.

Bannister, 6-8, pitched his first shutout since last Sept. 1 and handed host Detroit only its second shutout of the season. He has not lost to the Tigers since April 7, 1984, when Morris pitched a no-hitter.

Bannister struck out five and walked two in his fifth complete game.

"I thought Bannister pitched great — the guy deserved to win," Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson said. "He always pitches extremely well against us."

Morris, 12-5, failed in his fifth attempt to win his 13th game. He gave up 11 hits in his seventh complete game.

The White Sox scored in the fifth inning on a double by Jerry Hairston and singles by Carlton Fisk and Ken Williams.

Chicago broke the game open with three runs in the eighth. Harold Baines singled with one out, Greg Walker hit an RBI double with two outs and Hairston followed with his fourth home run.

Angels 5, Athletics 4
Oakland's Mark McGwire tied the AL rookie home run record, but Devon White's three-run homer helped California win the game.

McGwire hit his 37th home run in the fourth inning, a solo shot that tied Al Rosen's AL rookie mark set in 1950 with Cleveland. McGwire, leading the majors in homers, is one behind the major-league home run record for rookies held by Wally Berger and Frank Robinson.

White, also a rookie, put the visiting Angels ahead 3-1 in the fourth with his 18th homer, off Steve Ontiveros, 5-5.

Don Sutton, 7-9, got the victory and DeWayne Bruce earned his 11th save.

Yankees 4, Royals 0
Steve Trout, Tim Stoddard and Dave Righetti combined on a six-hitter for New York.

Mike Easler's three-run, pinch-double in the eighth inning sent the host Yankees win their third straight game.

Trout allowed three singles over six innings. Stoddard, 3-2, gave up one hit in 1 1-3 innings and Righetti pitched two-hit ball over the final 1 2-3 innings for his 19th save.

Mariners 8, Twins 3
Alvin Davis hit a pair of two-run homers for Seattle at the Kingdome.

Lee Guetterman, 9-2, gave up three runs in eight innings. Loser Mike Smithson, 4-6, allowed seven runs in five innings and was sent to the minors after the game.

Red Sox 6, Blue Jays 5

Marty Barrett's bases-loaded walk forced home the tiebreaking run in the eighth inning for Boston.

With the score 5-5 in the eighth, Dave Henderson got a pinch-single off Gary Lavelle, 1-3. Ed Romero's single against Mark Eichhorn and a grounder loaded the bases before Ellis Burks flied out. Barrett then drew a two-out walk from Eichhorn.

George Bell hit a pair of solo homers for the host Blue Jays. He has a career-high 32 home runs and leads the AL with 85 RBI.

Red Sox rookie Sam Horn hit a two-run homer and an RBI single.

Calvin Schiraldi, 6-5, pitched three innings for the victory.

Orioles 7, Indians 4
Mike Young and Ken Gerhart hit consecutive home runs and Cleveland third baseman Brook Jacoby's error enabled visiting Baltimore to break a 3-3 tie in the seventh inning.

Rookie Eric Bell, 9-7, won his third straight decision. He gave up 10 hits in his second consecutive complete game.

Young led off the seventh with a single off Tom Candiotti, 3-11, and Jim Dwyer walked. Billy Ripken then hit a high bouncer that deflected off Jacoby's glove and Young scored.

Trout allowed three singles over six innings. Stoddard, 3-2, gave up one hit in 1 1-3 innings and Righetti pitched two-hit ball over the final 1 2-3 innings for his 19th save.

The Team Eagle motocross racing team from Hereford competed in races this month at three area raceways.

The races were held at West Texas Raceway, at the Dumas raceway, and the Clovis, N.M., raceway.

On Saturday, July 4, Nate Keyes placed third in the 80cc class at West Texas Raceway. Keyes finished second in the first race, suffered a crash in the second race, but recovered for his overall third place finish.

Keyes placed second in both of the 80cc races at Dumas on Sunday, July 5. Hud Edwards placed first in the 125cc competition and became the high-point racer in his class for the series of races this year in Dumas.

At Clovis, on Sunday, July 19, Keyes placed first in races at Clovis. He defeated two expert 80cc riders in both motocross races.

Goforth gets ### hole-in-one on hole No. 3

A hole-in-one was achieved last week at Pitman Municipal Golf Course by Miles Goforth.

Goforth shot his hole-in-one on the third hole at the golf course, using a nine iron. The third hole is a 140-yard par three hole.

Jeff O'Rand witnessed the hole-in-one.

Two days later, a Hereford golfer shot his all-time best score during a round at the city course. Ken Hagar shot a 69 on Sunday.

Sports briefs

By The Associated Press

FOOTBALL
NEW YORK (AP) — Sport magazine excerpts from Lawrence Taylor's upcoming autobiography, highlighting the drug problems of the New York Giants linebacker, were "misrepresentative" of the entire book, Taylor's publisher said.

Last week, Sport released to the media a cover letter on the Taylor book which immediately created controversy. In the letter, which was based on excerpts from four chapters, Taylor said he suspected both the Giants and the NFL knew about his 1985 drug problems, but did little about it.

Jonathan Segal of Random House-Time Books said both the cover letter and the excerpt "left out key sentences" that showed that the Giants did indeed offer help to Taylor.

SWIMMING

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Megan Neyer edged defending champion Kim Fugett to take the gold medal in the women's 1-meter springboard competition, the first title of the 1987 U.S. Diving Outdoor Championships.

Neyer's 438.84 total barely edged Fugett, of Cincinnati, who had 433.89 for her 10 dives. Earlier, Greg Louganis held off Bruce Kimball's closing flurry to post the top qualifying score in the men's 10-meter platform competition.

TENNIS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ivan Lendl and Boris Becker advanced to the third round of the $232,000 D.C. Tennis Classic by struggling to straightset victories over unseeded foes.

Lendl, the world's No. 1 player, overcame a shaky start to record a 7-6, 6-3 victory over Brad Pearce, and Becker, the tournament's second seed, had a surprisingly tough time eliminating Richard Matuszewski, 6-4, 7-5.

WEST VANCOUVER, British Columbia (AP) — The United States swept both singles matches against France to move into the quarter-finals of the Federation Cup tennis tournament.

Pam Shriver, playing singles due to an injury to top-ranked Martina Navratilova — her doubles partner — defeated Isabelle Demongeot 6-0, 7-6 (7-5). Chris Evert downed Mathie Tauziat 6-1, 6-0.

Avon discovers repellent — accidentally

BEVERLY, Mass. (AP) — The Avon Lady sells it as a bath oil, but it's used as an insect repellent by some of the sweetest-smelling clam-diggers in Massachusetts.

Skin so Soft, the sweet-smelling concoction advertised as a beauty aid for the bath, is getting plenty of use in the great outdoors, retailers say.

"We sell gallons and gallons and gallons of it," Avon representative Marjorie Babcock said. "It's advertised as a bath oil, but a lot of people are using it as an insect repellent. It's marvelous stuff."

Be it bug balm or bath balm, Skin so Soft sales rise in summer like clouds of mosquitoes over a marsh.

Avon sold $16.5 million worth of the stuff in 1986, about 60 percent of that in the summer months, said Angela Marcantuno, a spokeswoman for York-based Avon Products Inc.

It is especially popular among Massachusetts residents who battle bugs to dig clams.

"We have the best smelling clambers on the North Shore," said Ipswich, Mass., resident William Craft. "You go by and they all smell like Skin So Soft."

"We usually get a shipment and it's gone within three days," said Christine Stanley of the Ipswich River General Store. "People like it a lot. It really works."

Avon dismisses all the talk of insects.

"It is a bath product," Marcantuno said. "It is not a bug repellent."

Military Muster

Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Walter L. Brooks, son of Alma L. Jobe of 311 W. 8th St., Hereford, recently returned from a six month deployment to the Western Pacific aboard the guided missile frigate USS Ramsey, homeported in San Diego.

During the deployment Brooks participated in several major exercises and made port calls to Phataya Beach, Thailand; Subic Bay, Republic of the Philippines; Pusan, South Korea; Sasebo, Japan; Hong Kong; Cairns and Brisbane Australia.

A 1977 graduate of Cimarron High School, Cimarron, NM, he joined the Navy in January 1978.

In ancient Greece it was believed bats flew at night to avoid creditors.

Rebekah Lodge meets

Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 met Tuesday in regular session. The meeting was opened with the group singing "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You", the chosen altar song of Marie Mason, president of Rebekah Assembly of Texas.

Noble Grand Anna Conklin presided as reports were made on sick members and friends. Twenty-four visits and 32 cheer cards were mentioned.

It was announced that cards would be appreciated for Nellie Beauford, a longtime member of Hereford Lodge who fell and suffered a broken leg. Cards may be addressed to her in care of her son, C.E. Beauford, 3402 South Place, Kent, Washington, 98031.

Shirley Brown was hostess to Conklin, Erma and Jim Loving, Eunice Boyer, Susie Curtsinger, Ada Hollabaugh, Dora Lee Howell, Rosalie Northcutt, Merle Boozer, Faye Brownlow, Lydia Hopson, Verma Sowell, Dorothy Landry, Marie Harris, Thama Pearson and Helen and Gene Bishop.

Lion Of The Month

Sid Shaw, a former president, was named "Lion of the Month" for July by Hereford Lions President John Bryant Wednesday. Shaw was lauded for his work with the club's annual carnival project and other club activities.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Store crayons in a soap dish

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — I have a neat idea for storing children's crayons for school. Buy one of those flip-top soap dishes at the dime store and put the crayons in for easy handling and storage. The soap dish will hold 16 regular-sized crayons and won't fall apart like the cardboard box. — SARA

DEAR SARA — I think the plastic soap box makes a dandy crayon holder. Fits easily in the child's knapsack or school bag, too. Your helpful Pointer earns you the Pointer of the Week award, a copy of my book "Polly's Pointers: 1081 Helpful Hints for Making Everything Last Longer." Others who would like this book may order it for $6.50. Make check payable to POLLY'S POINTERS and send to POLLY'S POINTERS, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When making meatloaf or meatballs, I mix all the ingredients right in the skillet or baking pan I am going to cook it in. This way I do not have a greasy bowl to wash, plus I don't have to grease the pan.

I used to dread making cake because I always got so tired mixing all the ingredients together and beating them for so long. I used to end up with back and shoulder aches. One day I tried putting the bowl in my sink (I have rubber sink protectors) and started beating away. I found it much easier with no aches afterwards. — CHRIS

DEAR POLLY — For perfect gravy, place the water and flour (in that order), salt and pepper in the blender and blend on "whip" for a couple of minutes. Then add to gravy stock or meat drippings and cook as usual. — JANE

DEAR POLLY — If fruit flies are bothering you, take a small jar with a lid, poke a hole in the lid and pour 1/2 cup vinegar in the jar. Cover the jar with the lid and let it sit on your counter, drainboard or window sill. The fruit flies will crawl into the jar and stay there. — W.A.T.

DEAR POLLY — Use toothpaste just as you would use soap on hands to rid them of the smell from seafood, cleaning products and other odorous mixtures. The smell disappears almost instantly.

Instead of a cloth or sponge, use a plastic bag to scrub pots and pans with cleanser. You don't waste cleanser because the plastic doesn't soak it up the way a cloth or sponge does.

If you like gleaming appliances, wax your refrigerator and stove with car wax. The results will surprise you. Smudges and fingerprints will slip right off when rubbed with a dry cloth. To remove sticky bugs from your windshield, dust a little baking soda on a damp cloth or on an old nylon stocking. Wipe windshield with this. It erases these critters in a hurry. — LUCILLE

DEAR POLLY — To keep baby's plastic pants soft and flexible after washing, use only pure soap flakes, never a detergent, in the laundry. For some reason, detergent makes them hard and cracks them. A little powder rubbed on the plastic pants after drying will keep the plastic from sticking together. — HELEN

DEAR POLLY — Add a tablespoon of vinegar when cooking red cabbage if you want to keep that rich red cabbage color. Improves flavor, too!

Here's a thought to share: The real secret of happiness is not what you give or what you receive, it's what you share. — BARBARA

DEAR POLLY — After cleaning thoroughly, wax window blinds lightly with furniture wax. Dust and grime will be much easier to clean off. — B.P.

DEAR POLLY — With two kids and a hectic dinner hour, I've found that if I plan and prepare as much as possible of dinner early in the day, and clean up the kitchen as I go, the confusion at dinnertime is lessened.

Guest towels are an easy size for children to use.

Shampoo can be extended by adding water. You save money and the shampoo is easier to use when diluted. — MRS. J.P.

DEAR POLLY — Here is a Pointer for people who do not eat the skin on chicken. I freeze the chicken with the skin on. When I need it, I thaw it in the refrigerator and pull off the skin while the chicken is still partially frozen. It is easier to skin this way than when it is fresh. — ROSE

DEAR POLLY — I have found a good use for small pieces of soap no longer usable in the tub or shower. Chip or sliver them and store in a container. Use these chips when washing lingerie or other delicate things. This not only cleans them, but gives them a nice fragrance as well.

When traveling with youngsters or senior citizens, take along a snack tray for serving snacks, drinks and so on. It catches all the crumbs and spills that might occur as one travels, and keeps the car cleaner inside, too. — MABEL Linus C. Pauling of the United States was the winner of the 1962 Nobel Peace Prize.

Marathon golf tourney raises money for charity

MATTOON, Ill. (AP) — When Tim Spitz put together a foursome to play marathon golf this week in a fundraiser for the American Cancer Society, he realized he couldn't be too choosy.

"It was hard just to find guys nuts enough to do something like this," Spitz said Tuesday after he and his partners drove, wedged, chipped and putted their way over 334 holes at Mattoon Golf and Country Club.

They teed off at 3:30 a.m. Monday and kept swinging until 11 p.m., using glow-in-the-dark balls when skies were dark. Each player had a personal cart, driver and caddy.

"There were balls flying everywhere," said Spitz, a two-time marathon golfer. "(But) Monday's heat (in the mid 90s) made things more difficult this time around."

The foursome of Spitz and Doug Thomas, both 25, and Brad Miller and Dan O'Bryant, both 33, averaged 80, 81, 79 and 82 respectively, Spitz said. The outing raised at least $5,000, he said.

Spitz called the marathon a warm-up for this weekend.

"I think I'll go out and play Saturday or Sunday," he said.

Carthage College of Kenosha, Wis., has 1,473 students and a faculty of 112.

3,400 quarters pays tuition

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A University of Wisconsin-Madison student who thought change was due in the school's registration process offered the bursar $850 worth.

After school officials ordered Joshua Lerner to obtain letters from two professors to verify that he was actually taking courses he had been admitted to, the college senior decided to pay his tuition in loose dollar bills.

When Bursar Marjorie Buchanan told Lerner to have the bills wrapped by a bank before payment, Lerner decided to use 3,400 quarters to pay his tuition at a late charge.

"They weighed a ton," Lerner said. "It was unbelievable; I thought there were 40 people on my back."

Ms. Buchanan said Monday she insisted that Lerner initial each roll of quarters and made him rewrap two loose rolls.

"Maybe he thought he was making a point," Ms. Buchanan said. "I thought, 'Man, you're the one who carried them from the bank.'"

Lapidary club members meet for ice cream social Monday

An ice cream social was attended by members of Deaf Smith County Lapidary Club Monday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Packard.

Thama Pearson, president, introduced visitors: Chris Kitchens, Maudie Henson, Betty Howard, and Norma Lee Cawthon.

Joe Williams reminded members that the Rock Show in Clovis, N.M. has been slated Saturday and Sunday. Also, the next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Aug. 24 in the Energas Flame Room.

Bobbie Roberson won the door prize furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Bert Brown.

Those present included Messrs. and Mmes. Bert Brown, Ralph Packard, Fred Mulkey, Bub Newell, Weldon Roberson, Roy Martin, Cecil Lady, Baxter London, Dale Henson and Lucille Naylor, Carrie Mae Doak, Mona Gee and Thama Pearson.

Speedy snails

Curious biologists have sought to determine the speed of snails. Experiments found garden snails crawling at .00036 mph, and speedsters racing a .0313-mph clip.

G.E.D. Testing

Ways with Wine
by David Hutchins

A MATTER OF CONTENT
Federal law in the United States requires every wine bottle to list its approximate alcoholic content. The exception is table wine which is between seven and fourteen percent. Most dessert wine labels have a 17, 18, or 19 percent alcoholic content. Government regulations permit table wines to vary over a range of three percentage degrees so that "alcohol 12 percent by volume" can mean that the contents may be anywhere from 10 1/2 to 13 1/2 percent. A leeway of two degrees is permitted on dessert wines. The new "light" wines have an alcohol content of seven percent, instead of the usual eleven or twelve percent. "Wine coolers", mixtures of fruit juices and flavors with wines, have ranged from three to eight percent in alcoholic strength.

"A World of Wines" credits you here at 400 N. 25 Mile, 364-7802. Let THE STORE make you in your choice of wines to complement your meals and to insure you get the best value suited to your personal taste, and budget as well as your choice of food. Hours: Mon.-Sat. 10-9, one our drive up door until midnight for beer and wine, on Sun. only beer and wine is available from 12-12.

"No-alcohol" wines usually contain up to one-half of one percent alcohol.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — British rock star David Bowie arrived to kick off the North American leg of his $10 million "Glass Spider" tour, which opens here Thursday and Friday at Veterans Stadium.

"It's the most extraordinarily expensive tour that I've ever done," Bowie, 40, said Monday. "The logistics of it are horrendous and it's something like a three- or four-day setup for each day."

A monstrous spider will be suspended over the stage between two towers flanked by video screens. In European shows, Bowie was lowered to the stage from the spider's stomach.

He said the performances will be reminiscent of his flamboyant style of the 1970s. "It has elements of mixed media ... film footage, choreography, minimalism, symbolism ... oh, and there's some rock 'n' roll," he said.

By the time the tour ends this fall, he will have performed more than 100 shows in 15 countries.

NEW YORK (AP) — Corbin Bernsen, who plays the slick divorce lawyer Arnie Becker on "L.A. Law," says he wants to settle down with a stay-at-home woman.

"I don't like being alone. It's unnatural and a waste of time," Bernsen said in the August issue of GQ magazine.

Bernsen is estranged from his wife, Brenda.

"If I could go to some place like Norway and find a 17-year-old girl, I'd be a happy man," said Bernsen. "I'd train her. She'd be gorgeous and intelligent and pure."

Bernsen's mother, soap opera star Jeanne Cooper, added: "No woman would wholeheartedly believe that he — so good-looking, so successful now — would be faithful. And that crushes Corbin, because Corbin is a one-woman man."

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — A federal judge denied he imposed a stiff prison sentence on a friend of author Norman Mailer in a drug case because the man would not implicate Mailer.

"That's absolutely ridiculous," U.S. District Judge Edward T. Gignoux said of Mailer's allegations Monday.

Richard Stratton was convicted of drug conspiracy and given the maximum, 15-year sentence after Mailer testified in 1983 as a character witness.

Stratton had claimed he was writing a trilogy about the drug world.

In Time magazine Monday, Mailer, who in 1983 professed no knowledge of Stratton's drug-dealing, denied having been an accomplice.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) —

Curtis Sliwa, founder of the crime-fighting Guardian Angels, says he'll start Angel patrols here with or without official backing if he finds enough public support.

If 70 percent of 500 residents to be surveyed later this week approve, about 30 citizen volunteers could be patrolling the streets before the end of October as part of the first Angels chapter in Tennessee, Sliwa said Monday.

The Guardian Angels started with 13 members in New York in 1979 and now has more than 5,000 members in 67 cities in the United States, Canada and Mexico.

EDEN PRAIRIE, Minn. (AP) — Alcohol is a bigger problem than drug abuse in the National Football League, says Minnesota Vikings General Manager Mike Lynn, whose starting quarterback, Tommy Kramer, is being treated for alcohol abuse.

After being charged with drunken driving Friday night, Kramer entered the Hazelden Foundation in Center City for 28 days of rehabilitation, his second stint in treatment in five years.

"I think our No. 1 problem is drinking in the NFL," Lynn said in Monday's Minneapolis Star and Tribune. "I don't think it's drugs. No question about that."

Kramer, 32, who led the NFL in passing last year, is to appear in court Aug. 6 on the drunken driving charges.

He said he agreed to go to Hazelden because of team policy. "We'll find out up there" if he has a drinking problem, he said.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Jimmy Carter, Bob Hope and Miss America 1986, Susan Akin, will pound nails with hundreds of other volunteers to help build 14 new homes for the needy.

"I'm very proud to be a part of this," Carter said Sunday night at the site where Habitat for Humanity, a non-profit group, will build the houses.

The 84-year-old Hope and Miss Akin are scheduled to visit Tuesday to hammer nails before doing a show to benefit the organization, which is based in Americus, Ga.

JOLIET, Ill. (AP) — One year to the day after the Rev. Lawrence Martin Jenco was released by Shiite Moslem kidnappers, a special mass was held in his hometown to give thanks for his return and pray for the hostages remaining in Lebanon.

Many of the 150 people who attended lit candles for the remaining hostages, said the Rev. Donald O'Connor, pastor at St. Bernard's Church, which held the Sunday service.

Jenco, a Roman Catholic priest kidnapped in January 1985 and released by his captors July 26, 1986, could not attend because he was in New York, where he has been working for Catholic Relief Services, O'Connor said.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Heather Locklear of television's "Dynasty" was hit by a bottle thrown from a bridge and suffered a cut on her forehead, police said.

The 25-year-old actress was injured Saturday while in a boat on the Cuyahoga River, police said. Officials at St. Vincent Charity Hospital, where she was treated, would not say whether the wound might leave a scar.

Locklear's husband, rock drummer Tommy Lee, was in town Saturday to perform with his group, Motley Crue.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Romina Danielson, who fainted while testifying at the Joan Collins-Peter Holm divorce trial that she had had a secret, torrid fling with Holm, says she has what it takes to be a success in show business.

"I'll be the biggest," the 23-year-old Miss Danielson said Saturday. "I do the best dancing in the world. I pose well. I dress well. I have a sense of humor. I have money and success."

"I've always had attention in my life because I always go out with a lot of powerful people and I am with them," said Miss Danielson, who testified she was Holm's "passion flower" while he was married to Miss Collins, the star of television's "Dynasty."

"Why shouldn't I have it all?" she asked.

WINDSOR, England (AP) — American actors Goldie Hawn and Kurt Russell cheered as a North American team defeated England 8-5 at the Cartier International Polo Tournament.

Queen Elizabeth II presented the Coronation Cup to the North American team after the victory Sunday. In the audience of 25,000 were former Beatle Ringo Starr, actors John Hurt and Jane Seymour, and pop music stars Barry and Maurice Gibb.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Mario Cuomo missed an appearance at the National Governors Association conference after a warning light indicating an engine fire forced his plane to turn around.

"I don't have a good reputation with the other governors because I don't make these things," Cuomo said Sunday after the twin-engine propjet with 10 passengers and two pilots landed safely at Albany County Airport. No fire was detected.

The governor was about 20 minutes into a flight from Albany to Traverse City, Mich., when the light came on. Pilots turned the engine off.

'L.A. Law' collects 20 Emmy nominations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — NBC's hot new drama "L.A. Law" swept the Emmy nominations today, closely followed by NBC's "Golden Girls" and ABC's "Moonlighting."

"L.A. Law," a skillful blend of stark realism and black comedy, captured 20 nominations, including actors for Corbin Bernsen, Susan Dey and Jill Eikenberry, and best guest performer for Jeanne Cooper, actor Bernsen's mother.

It also received two directing nominations and two for writing, including one for creators Steven Bochco and Terry Louise Fisher.

"Golden Girls," a comedy about four women living in retirement in Miami, and the fast-talking, lighthearted detective series "Moonlighting" tied at 14 nominations each for the 39th Annual Primetime Emmy Awards.

The Academy of Television Arts and Sciences announced the nominees for the Sept. 20 broadcast in a pre-dawn ceremony at the Preview House in Hollywood.

The awards will be telecast for the first time this year on the Fox Broadcasting Co. stations.

NBC's intense medical series "St. Elsewhere" won 11 nominations, and 10 went to the network's barroom comedy "Cheers."

NBC dominated the nominations with 140. ABC had 76, CBS had 74, Public Broadcasting Service had 25, Fox had five and seven nods went to syndicated shows.

The NBC miniseries "Nutmacker: Money, Madness and Murder" received nine nominations, while another NBC miniseries, "The Two Mrs. Grenvilles" got eight.

CBS' "Cagney and Lacey," named best drama series last year, earned seven nominations, including best drama series. Other shows nominated for best drama series were "Moonlighting," CBS' "Murder, She Wrote" and "St. Elsewhere."

Tyne Daly and Sharon Gless, both past Emmy winners for "Cagney and Lacey," were nominated again as best lead actress in a drama series, along with Angela Lansbury of "Murder, She Wrote" and the two actresses from "L.A. Law."

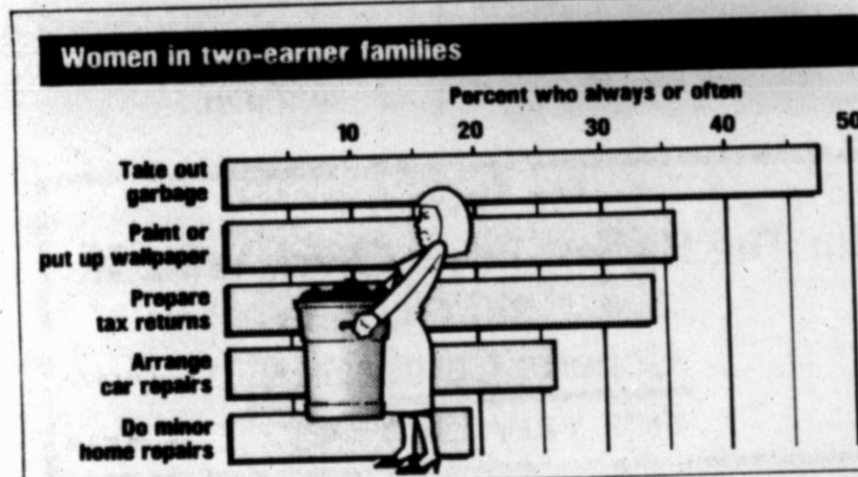

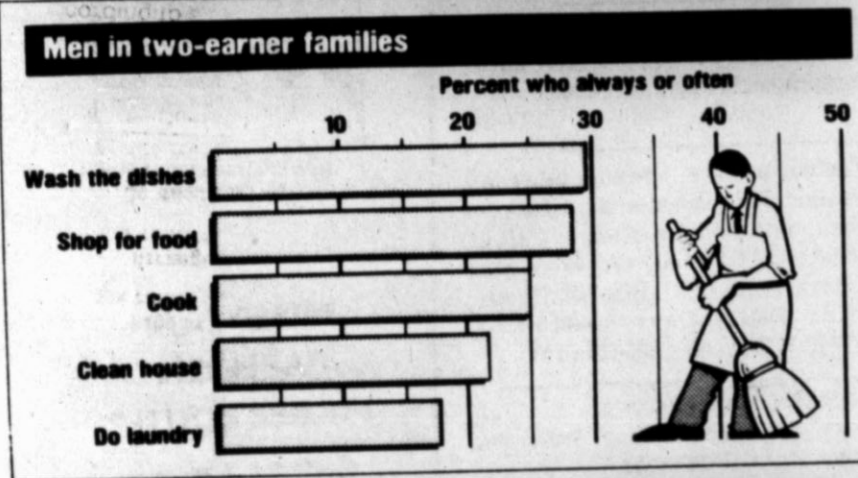

William Daniels, last year's winner for lead actor in a drama series, was again nominated for his role in "St. Elsewhere," as were Ed Flanders, also of "St. Elsewhere," Bruce Willis of "Moonlighting," Edward Woodward of CBS' "The Equalizer," and Bernsen of "L.A. Law."

The official language of the Republic of Mali is French.

Even women who work full-time outside the home still do almost all the household cleaning, cooking and other chores traditionally done by women, according to a survey of 5,000 households. The study found that men under 35 are only slightly more likely to help with household work than older men.
