Government reports economy on rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's economy, beginning recovery from the long recession, grew at the fastest pace in two years during the first three months of this year, the government reports.

Figures on the first quarter's inflation-adjusted gross national product — the broadest measure of U.S. economic activity — were being released today by the Commerce Department.

Commerce officials had estimated last month — before

Commerce officials had estimated last month — before the quarter was even over — that real GNP was rising at an annual rate of about 4 percent during the January-March period, the fastest pace since the 7.9 percent rate of the same quarter of 1961.

The economy had sunk at rates of over 5 percent in the final quarter of 1962 and the first three months of 1962 before rising slightly in the second and third quarters and then declining slightly in the October-December period.

Some economists say continuing relatively high interest rates could help slow growth again in the current April-June quarter.

However, Donald Straszheim, acting president of Wharton Econometries, said in advance of today's report that he expected the first quarter gain to be at an annual rate of 4.1 percent — to be followed by "a second quarter that will be better than that." Robert Ortner, Commerce's chief economist, said "It's still very much up in the air" as to whether the second quarter will measure up to the first. Whatever the growth in the next few months, conomists agree the 1961-82 recession is indeed over, though they also say the recovery could be weak or could even be cut short by a variety of factors.

federal budget deficits in the next few years could set in motion an economic chain of events that would drive interest rates higher and severely cramp economic expansion.

Shultz, Weinberger testify for MX plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is sending two ranking Cabinet members to Capitol Hill in a drive to win congressional approval of his plan to build 100 MX missiles and deploy them in existing launch silos.

Some congressional critics concede the proposal has a

The already lengthy effort to sell Congress on MX deployment begins anew with testimony by Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Secretary of State George P. Shultz before the Senate Armed Services Com-

Brent Scowcroft, head of the President's Commission on trategic Forces which drafted the new MX proposal, also was to testify, before the House Armed Services Commitgan embraced the Scowcroft commission's report uesday, saying the plan will mean "a safer, more secure merica" and put pressure on Moscow to negotiate iclear arms cuts.

The plan calls for putting the MX, each armed with 10 nuclear warheads, in Minuteman missile silos near Warren Air Force Base in Wyoming. It also provides for beginning work on a new, smaller, single-warhead missile to be ready for deployment in the early 1990s.

The two programs would cost an estimated $19.9 billion over the next five years in addition to $4 billion already spent on MX research.

Water expert says repository won't be located in county

MANAGING EDITOR Wayne White, General Manager of the High Plains Underground Water Consegvation District told members and guests of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce's Water Committee Tuesday that he doesn't think that a nuclear waste repository will ever be located in this area.

Speaking to the group at a noon luncheon, White said that the water district is taking a look at all the technical information available concerning the nuclear waste repository question before taking a stand on the issue.

"In my estimate, however, the site will never be located in Deaf Smith County because of the hydrology of this area," he added. "From

In addition to addressing the nuclear waste site issue, White brought the local committee up to date on pending federal and state legislation which will or could have an impact on the area's water He mentioned two pieces of

He said the water district had undertaken a project about a year ago to find out the amount of water stored in the areas which lie above the water table.

The experiment was done on a 140-acre site in an effort to "break the surface tension and release the water so that it dropped down to the water table," White explained.

By using large air compressors and forcing air into the area. White said that the water table over a section of land was increased noticeably.

The operation ran for seven days, with the compressors running 24 hours a day, forcing the compressed air into the area at a depth of around 120 feet.

Changes due in district court

AUSTIN (AP) - The Senate has approved two proposals that could result in the first widespread changes in state district court lines in more than 100 years.

Since 1876, when the Legislature last reapportioned districts, population increases and shifts in populations have made it more difficult for the courts to deliver 'speedy justice," according to Sen. Kent Caperton.

State gross sales down 10 percent

By BOB NIGH MANAGING EDITOR According to figures released by State Comptroller Bob Bullock's office, gross sales in the state of Texas during the fourth quarter of 1982 were 10 percent under those recorded during the same period in 1981. The comptroller's figures showed gross sales of $100,283,132,017 for that period in 1982, under the $110,378,700,459 for the previous year. Those figures came from 400,294 reporting outlets. The state's mining industry suffered the most from one period to the next, with a 45.8 percent decline in gross sales according to the industry's 2,170 reporting outlets. Other areas which suffered included durable goods, down 27.6 percent, miscellaneous retail, down 23.6 percent. The state's automotive retail sales was the only area which remained virtually unchanged in comparing the two periods. That industry had gross sales of $6,468,308,045 for the final quarter of 1981, and $6,428,365,423 a year later for a decline of 0.6 percent.

The areas which showed the biggest gains in sales were financial services, up 40.1 percent; public administration, up 15.6 percent; and transportation-utilities, up 9.2 percent.

reported at $6,540,340,900, 23.6 percent under the $8,562,617,525 generated during the same period in 1981.

Company to reduce

HOUSTON (AP) - Shell Chemical Co. says it is planning to abolish 700 work positions and terminate the services of 575 workers employed by

The chemical company also said Tuesday that two chemical production units at the firm's Norco Manufacturing Complex near New Shell said the work force reduction will occur at a number of locations and include job categories in manufacturing, corporate offices and support facilities. No starting date for the reductions was announced.

Henderson said the cutback and job reductions are a result of an extensive evaluation of the chemical business

"Our cost reduction program is the result of a thorough and orderly examination of our chemical business and the changing environment in which we compete," said J. B. Henderson, president of Shell

The two chemical production Orleans are a 700-million-pound vinyl chloride monomer unit and an olefins unit with a capacity of 550 million pounds. Similar units at the company plant in Deer Park will continue to operate and the company said there should be no interruption of supplies to its customers.

may join Japanese firm

DALLAS (AP) - Diamond Shamrock and a Japanese chemical and pharmaceutical firm have reached a preliminary agreement to form an agricultural chemicals and animal health business, officials say.

The Dallas-based oil company said it would bring its worldwide agricultural chemicals business, animal health business and research facilities into the joint venture with Showa Denko, K.K.

"This joint venture will capitalize on each company's existing product lines, research capabilities and marketing expertise agri-products," said Diamond Shamrock Chairman William H.

The preliminary agreement is subject to execution of a definitive agreement and approval from the appropriate Japanese and U.S. government agencies. Diamond Shamrock said a definitive agreement is expected by mid-1983.

Showa Denko will contribute technical and marketing resources and an undetermined amount of cash to the new company, according to a Diamond Shamrock release.

The venture aims at carrying on Diamond Shamrock's existing business in the industry and will try to expand that business to Asian and Pacific Rim countries, Bricker said.

The two companies have operated a joint agreement in Japan for 15 years for the production and marketing of a fungicide. The new business will be Showa Denko's first joint venture in the United States.

House considers sodomy ban

Dallas; TX 75245

F. O. Box H5H36

AUSTIN (AP) - A member of a House committee that heard testimony about bizarre homosexual activity says a 1982 federal court ruling makes it impossible for the state to enact a new sodomy ban.

"We just can't, no matter how badly we want to, outlaw homosexual conduct between consenting adults," said Rep. Terral Smith, R-Austin.

Smith's comments came late Tuesday at the close of a two-hour hearing on Richardson Rep. Bill Ceverha's bill that would re-enact the state ban on homosexual conduct.

Last August, U.S. District Judge Jerry Buchmeyer of Dallas struck down the state sodomy law as unconsti-

Texas had such a law on the books since 1860, according to Ceverha. Attorney General Jim Mattox decided not to appeal Buchmeyer's decision, but Potter County District Attorney Danny Hill has appeal-

Ceverha was joined by witnesses who said homosexuals are a public health threat because they contract certain diseases at high rates.

"The only real mystery is that any of them live at all," said Cameron, chairman of the Institute for the Scientific Investigation of Sexuality of Nebraska.

Cameron contended homosexuals become a public health threat when they work in restaurants and medical facilities.

The Dallas lawyer who successfully challenged the state's old sodomy law said banning homosexual activity because of related diseases is as silly as "criminalizing hand-shaking during flu season" or banning "all intimate contact between American Legionnaires and their wives because of Legionnaire's Disease."

"It's totally inept in dealing with a medical problem," attorney Bill Barber told the House Criminal Jurisprudence Committee.

Committee Chairman Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, referred the bill to a "committee of the whole," meaning the entire panel will work on it before deciding if it should go to the full House.

plaintiff in the case that went to Buchmeyer's court, called the Ceverha bill, "an insult to me as a person."

Two Dallas police undercover officers told committee members about bizarre sexual activities at gay bars and bath houses, shopping center rest rooms and parks.

Mike Thomas of the vice control division said he saw. an "orgy room" at a bath house in which "as many participants as the bed would hold" engaged in sex on a 20-foot by 20-foot bed. He said there are lines to get into the men's rest rooms in some Dallas parks during the lunch

Some bookstores have stalls in which "the filth is indescribable," Thomas testified.

"A normal citizen has no concept of what it is like to slip and slide across a semenstained vinyl floor," he said. .

There was conflicting testimony on homosexuals and AIDS. Dr. Clem Mueller of Dallas said, "There's obviously a large increase of disease-bearing in this relatively small group of people due to their deviate behavior."

He said AIDS is a "rampant epidemic" in the homosexual community.

But Dr. Peter Mansell of Houston said there is "no absolute evidence" that AIDS is a sexually transmitted disease. He said he has seen 217 "suspected" AIDS cases, 70 percent of which were confirmed - all in homosexual Mansell said the figures are somemwhat misleading because his AIDS work has been intentionally aimed at homosexuals.

"You never control a disease by making laws against the people who suffer from it," Mansell testified.

Rep. Debra Danburg, D-Houston, was vociferous in her opposition to the bill. She called it unconstitutional and ineffective in helping AIDS victims. Danburg's district probably has the state's largest concentration of homosexuals. Ceverha defended the bill as proper because the state does have laws against 'private acts that have public consequences."

Judge rejects attempt to seize millionaire's property

SHERMAN, Texas (AP) -Rex Cauble, a millionaire Denton rancher convicted of marijuana smuggling, has fended off an attempt by the govenrment to seize holdings that include his western wear stores and six Texas ranches.

Prosecutors told U.S. District Judge William Steger that Cauble has not complied with a court order to disclose financial information to the U.S. Justice Department. The government claims Cauble has squandered millions of dollars over the past three years in commodities, futures, stocks and bonds trading, and lost $50,000 while gambling in Las Steger ruled that the federal government could not seize Cauble's property.

One of the slain Americans was Robert Clayton Ames, the CIA's Near East and South Asian analyst, officials in Washington announced in a rare identification of a U.S. intelligence agent working abroad.

U.S. Marine warrant officer Bill Henderson said Marines were trying to recover the log book used at the bulletproof glass guard booth in the embassy lobby. The names of everyone enter-

Transportation-utilities showed a shopping 109 percent increase, with gross sales in 1982 of $190,656,428 as compared to $91,244,758 in 1981.

In contrast, mining in the Amarillo area took an opposite swing with $573,077 generated in 1981, and only $50,267 in 1982, a decline of 91.2 percent. The Amarillo area's total retail trade fell 6.5 percent from 1981 to 1982, with $75,051,780 in 1982 as compared to the $80,283,139 a year earlier.

Deaf Smith County's 509 reporting outlets showed over $20,000 less in gross sales for the final quarter of 1982 over 1981, with figures of $76,543,066 and $96,849,755 respectively. That's a decline of 21 percent. Gross sales in Castro County, meanwhile, stayed virtually even, with $52,649,055 in 1981, and $52,953,340 for the same period a year later, an increase of 0.6 percent. Parmer County's figures showed a 14.7 percent drop in gross sales from one quarter to the next with sales of $80,125,478 in 1981 as compared to only $68,377,544 a married a woman with a fiveyear-old daughter. After two years of marriage my wife gave birth to another girl. When my stepdaughter Lucille was about 7 I started to play some harmless games with her, like tickling her to make her laugh and swinging her in the air and down between my legs. This sort of thing led to more intimate touching. The sex act was never completed, but I know I went way over the line of decency. I stopped when she was about 10 years old. Lucille is 15 now. Her mother and I have been separated for quite awhile. Every month I pick up Lucille and her sister and they spend the weekend with me. We have a lovely relationship and I enjoy being with my daughters.

Lucille has never brought up the subject of our early "game playing," but I am sure she still remembers. Whenever I see her I remember, too, and feel guilty and ashamed. Should I have a heart-to-heart talk and ask for her forgiveness?-Heavy On My Mind In California.

DEAR HEAVY: My consultant, a well-known California psychoanalyst, says under no circumstances should you rake up the past with your stepdaughter. You may not be aware of it, but the temptation to hold such a discussion might also include the temptation to explore the possibilities of picking up where you left off.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 18, a male, doing well in school and have many good friends. I know it is stupid, but I am so superstitious it is ruining my life.

I go to extreme lengths to avoid black cats and ladders. I never step on a crack in the sidewalk if I can help it and am scared to death of the number 13.

A while back I dropped a box and cracked the mirror in it. For a whole week I was a wreck, certain I would get hit by a truck or come down with some awful disease. This morning I received a chain letter and am worried stiff that I'll suffer some serious harm if I break the chain.

I know none of this makes sense, but I am still a slave to

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I these crazy superstitions. Please tell me what to do.-Victim in Vancouver

> DEAR VIC: I applaud you for recognizing that superstition is illogical and makes no sense. This does not, however, solve the problem. You have some deep-seated fears that need to be verbalized to a counselor, teacher or some understanding person who will listen. Talking about elings may uncover what frightens you and why you feel the need to be punished. Good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been going with Joe for six months. Everything was beautiful until two weeks ago.

He told me he got a girl pregnant before he met me and asked her to have an abortion-but she refused.

After that she wanted nothing more to do with him. Two weeks ago she sent him a picture of the baby. He went to see them the next day. Now he says he feels he must support the kid and stop seeing me. Please tell me how to get Joe back. I love him a lot and he loved me until his old girl things messed up.-Nightmare in Ky.

DEAR KY: The mother of Joe's child is going to win. Bow out and consider yourself lucky. You need this guy like a giraffe needs a sore

Herd rips Rebs, 15-0

Mike Scott and Robert Martinez combined on a sixhitter, while Hereford raked a pair of Tascosa pitchers for 11 hits and took advantage of four errors en rout to a fiveinning, 15-0, District 3-5A baseball victory yesterday here. Scott, in winning for the second time in three decisions this season, went the first four innings, before Martinez pitched the final frame.

The Whitefaces, in running their district record to 5-7 and their season mark to 8-10, pushed across five runs in the bottom of the first, then exploded for eight more in the third to grab a comfortable 13-0 lead. They added two more in the fourth to complete the rout.

Brian Taylor's fifth homer of the season, a high drive over the fence in right field into a cross-wind, highlighted Hereford's eight-run third.

The shutout was the second for Hereford this season. Earlier, the Herd had blanked Caprock, 1-0, behind Mickey Stengel:

Yesterday's win was Hereford's second in the last three games. And, it was the Herd's most lopsided victory this season. In the first round of league play Hereford edged Tascosa by a 4-3 margin in Amarillo.

Elsewhere yesterday, Caprock upset Coronado, 10-8, to drop the Mustangs out of a share of the league lead. Plainview belted Lubbock High, 13-4, and moved into a tie with Monterey for first place. Both are 9-2, while Coronado is 8-3. Amarillo High kept its slim playoff hopes alive with a 12-6 win over Palo Duro. The Sandies improved to 7-5.

Hereford returns to action Friday when it hosts Coronado at 4 p.m. Saturday, the Whitefaces host Caprock at 1 p.m., then close out the regular season next week by playing at Amarillo High Friday and hosting Plainview

Should fans be punished for ump abuse

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

If George Steinbrenner can be fined $50,000 for making a critical remark to a friend about an umpire's call in spring training, what sort of punishment should be inflicted on the baseball fan who yells, not once but 100 times during a game, "Kill the umpire!?"

Hanging or the electric chair would seem too merciful. The umps have been out to get the impetuous, outspoken New York Yankee owner for years and they finally did-it. prevailing on Commissioner Bowie Kuhn to give George more than a slap on the wrist - a hefty blow to the pocket-

It's a knee-jerk reaction by the outgoing commissioner, who is not too fond of George anyhow, and a decision that seems to violate every tenet of freedom of expression for the country in which baseball purports to be the national

Most of us have had it up to our ear lobes with the archaic explanation that it's "in the best interest of the

That's the official explanation used in the $100,000 fine in 1979 against Ray Kroc, the hamburger king who owns the San Diego Padres, and the $10,000 fine and year's suspension assessed against Ted Turner, owner of the Atlanta Braves, for what was termed "tampering."

If the cited offenses occurred in any other area, penalties would be ludicrous. The Constitution gives everyone the right to express his opinions - negative or positive. The game can't be sacrosanct. It's a business.

There is no place for "gag" rules. The Steinbrenner incident happened at spring training in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., March 25. The Yankees were playing Montreal. There was a close play at first base and NL ump Lee Weyer ruled for the Expos. Whereupon, the iconoclastic Yankee boss yelled out, 'National League umpires will always give close plays to the National League." Steinbrenner said it was a remark he made to a friend. A newsman overheard and printed it.

The incident provoked Richie Phillips, head of the umpires union, to call for Steinbrenner's suspension. The $50,000 fine was Kuhn's response.

Phillips also argued that Steinbrenner heated up the feud by bringing back Billy Martin and putting the premier umpire-baiter on the cover of the Yankees' media guide sticking a finger under an umpire's nose.

Harassment, charged Phillips. The word isn't harassment. It's paranoia. Phillips should know that, in the great American game of baseball, the umpire is fair game. By tradition, he's everybody's target, everybody's villain.

Organize a "Be Kind to Umpires" crusade, bridle Billy and put a gag on George Steinbrenner, who by his own admission pops off too much, and you rip the very spine out

NBA playoffs

Celtics, Suns victorious

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD AP Sports Writer

Just when then Atlanta Hawks were on the verge of an upset victory, Larry Bird snatched it away for the Boston

"You could see for a time that they got the smell of victory," the Celtics' Kevin McHale said of Atlanta's 85-81 lead midway through the fourth quarter. "They were like wolves smelling blood."

But Bird scored eight of his 26 points in the final 31/2 minutes and Quinn Buckner hit three long jumpers to rally the Celtics to a 103-95 victory in the opener of their bestof-3 National Basketball Association Eastern Conference playoff series.

In Tuesday night's Western Conference playoffs, Phoenix beat Denver 121-108 for a 1-0 lead in their miniseries. In tonight's other openers, New York is at New Jersey in the East and Portland is at Seattle in the West.

"I thought we played well and they played excellent," Bird said. "If we had played this one in Atlanta we would have lost. Atlanta's defense was tough. They forced us into a lot of bad shots and turnovers."

"Atlanta's slowdown pace is tough," said McHale, who scored 12 points for the Celtics. "It's tough for the other team to get into a running tempo. I'm glad it didn't come down to a basket at the end where one shot could be the Buckner tied the score for the sixth time at 87-87 with the first of his three open jump shots. The Hawks never caught up after Bird put Boston in front 89-87 with two free throws.

Forward Dan Roundfield led Atlanta with 24 points and 20 rebounds, earning praise from Boston Coach Bill Fitch. "Roundfield was effective from outside early," he said. "He was the only one hitting for them and he kept them in the game. His inside game is as good as any power forward in the league. He's an excellent player.' Dominique Wilkins added 21 points and Johnny Davis 18 for Atlanta, while Robert Parish had 18 points and 16 rebounds for Boston.

The game was close in the first three periods, with the Celtics never leading by more than eight points until the final moments. It was 22-22 after the first quarter, and Boston was ahead 48-45 at halftime and 72-70 going into the Game 2 will be Friday in Atlanta, with the third game, if ecessary, back in Boston Sunday.

Suns 121, Nuggets 108
Guard Dennis Johnson had 28 points, 12 rebounds and eight assists while Phoenix held NBA scoring champion Alex English to 16 points to win the first game of its series

The Suns, who lost four of five games to the Nuggets in the regular season, surrendered 32 points to Kiki Vandeweghe and 25 to Dan Issel. But English, who averaged 28.4 points and had 31 points and 20 rebounds in Denver's playoff-clinching victory over Kansas City Sunday, was held in check.

Johnson had eight points in the second period as Phoenix erased a 32-23 first-period deficit to take a 62-56 halftime edge.

Maurice Lucas, who had 12 of his 17 points in the second half, and Johnson both scored eight points in the third period as the Suns built a 90-77 advantage. But the Nuggets, behind Vandeweghe and Issel, pulled to within three points twice in the fourth period, the last time at 104-101

The Miami Dolphins set a Super Bowl record they didn't want, completing only four passes against Washington in their 27-17 loss to the Redskins in the 1983 game.

Farmers urged to look beyond short-term effect

"It really doesn't make ... much difference in the longrange economic life of most American farmers whether or not the corn loan goes up 10 cents or whether it's frozen

A harsher fact, he said, is that 25 to 30 percent of U.S. farm income comes as a result of exports and other developments in the world over which farmers at the moment have little control.

'This internationalization of agriculture, the dependency upon decisions - political and economic - made in the capitals and marketplaces around the world are what really make our economy tick in agriculture," Jaenke said.

Jaenke is a former governor of the Farm Credit Administration and previously served as a senior official in the Agriculture Department during the 1960s. He is currently president of E.A. Jaenke & Associates, Washington, D.C.

One of the problems as seen by Jaenke is that government agricultural and trade leaders, and farm organizations have focused much attention on the short-term solutions to farm problems and are overlooking the

Hightower assails PIK program as insufficient

WASHINGTON (AP) -Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower has criticized as insufficient the Reagan administration's payment-in-kind program, under which farmers got surplus crops in return for cutting production.

"When Chrysler was in trouble, did they give Chrysler cars?", Hightower asked Monday, addressing the 30th annual meeting of the Newspaper Farm Editors of Hightower said that in fact "Ronald Reagan himself has no farm policy" and the president's "idea of a good farm program is (the television program) 'Hee Haw.'"

"...We've got to have a farm policy for a change that focuses on the farmer," said Hightower, a Democrat and self-described populist elected to office last year. Hightower called the family farm the "most efficient economic performer we have in our economy" and said the government must move to preserve it by "establishing a floor beneath which we're not going to allow farmers to Hightower said he supported returning to a proposal once made by Charles Brannan, agriculture secretary under President Harry Truman.

The Brannan proposal called for the government to pay farmers the difference between the market price they got for their goods and a minimum fair price determined by the government.

The basic problem of farmers is "a cost-price squeeze of costs continually going up and prices going

Slaughter cattle up four percent

The Agriculture Department says that the number of cattle being fed for the slaughter market in 13 major beef states on April 1 totaled 9.15 million head, up 4 percent from a year ago and 6 percent more than two years ago.

According to a quarterly inventory report issued Monday, farmers and feedlot operators placed 5.05 million cattle in feeding pens during the January-March period, down 9 percent from the same quarter a year earlier but 9 percent above the level two years ago.

The report said that marketings of fed cattle during the quarter totaled 5.71

Brucellosis quarantine AUSTIN (AP) - Quick legislative action on new brucellosis control laws would guard Texas from a potential quarantine of its cattle by the federal government, state animal health officials say. Texas Animal Health Commission Chairman John Armstrong circulated on Monday a letter from the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the first threat of a quarantine that Texas officials have received in writing.

Two lawsuits have sidelined state testing for brucellosis, a contagious disease that causes cattle to miscarry or bear weak

A federal brucellosis control program aimed at keeping potentially infected cows from spreading the disease requires states to test their cattle if they want them allowed to go to out-of-state markets.

"Unless the (Texas) commission is able to participate fully in the joint State-Federal Brucellosis Eradication Program, the risk with respect to the dissemination of brucellosis will require that this department quarantine the state of Texas," said the letter, written by James O. Lee, acting administrator of the Animal and Plant

Health Inspection Service of

USDA. Dr. James Alexander, assistant executive director of the Texas Animal Health Commission, said USDA has not yet put a time limit on Texas, but said, "They (USDA) have indicated that if the lawsuits weren't settled they would be forced to quarantine us. They've been talking about it quite a while. Now we've got it in writing."

Rep. Bruce Gibson, D-Godley, last week postponed until next Monday floor action on his bill to conform the state brucellosis control program to federal regulations.

Assistant Attorney General George Warner said passage of Gibson's bill, or similar legislation, would throw out the two lawsuits that precipitated the quarantine threat.

The first suit was filed in 1979 by Uvalde rancher R.J. Nunley. Nunley challenged brucellosis testing, arguing he could not afford to round up all the cattle on his 12-county range.

A district court judge agreed and granted Nunley a permanent injunction, exempting him from brucellosis testing of his cattle.

Nunley is partners with former Gov. Dolph Briscoe in a cattle venture. Gibson said he postponed his bill so he could talk to Briscoe to try to work out a compromise satisfactory to cattlemen who see Gibson's present bill as too economically burdensome on them.

After Nunley won his injunction against the Texas Animal Health Commission, ranchers became worried that his exemption from the brucellosis program could mean a quarantine of all Texas cattle. But a suit seeking to make Nunley subject to the program backfired, and a judge declared the commission's brucellosis regulations unconstitutional. Austin State District Judge Harley Clark said the commission exceeded the authority given it by the Legislature. Clark's decision did not stop the program, said Warner, because it is on appeal:

Nunley, however, remains exempt from the current law until a new one is passed.

Foreign investors continue to nibble at U.S. farmland, according to the Agriculture Department.

Based on report submitted to the department, foreigners added a million acres to their holdings in 1982, raising the total to 13.5 million acres. Peter DeBraal of the department's Economic Research Service said Tuesday that compared with 12.5 million acres owned by foreigners at the end of 1981 - an 8 percent increase.

But despite the gain, foreign ownership still accounts for only slightly more than 1 percent of the total U.S. agricultural base of about 1.25 billion acres.

The 1982 growth might have showed up smaller than the 8 percent increase had it not been for a computer error a year ago. At that time, the annual report - which is required by law - showed that 12.7 million acres were in foreign ownership.

However, DeBraal said that it really should have been 12.5 million acres because a computer translated 28,000 acres into 280,000 acres.

The annual analysis is based on reports submitted to the department under the Agricultural Foreign Investment Disclosure Act of 1978.

DeBraal said that 424,000 acres of the 1982 total growth of one million acres were actually acquired prior to 1982 but were not reported in time for the 1981 figures.

In all, he said, the 13.5 million acres owned by foreigners were estimated to have a current value of about $11 billion. According to the filed reports, foreign owners plan to keep 92 percent of their acreage in agricultural production. "They also reported no change in tenancy or rental arrangements on 42 percent of the acres, some change on 29 percent of the acres and 'no response' for the remaining 29 percent," Debraal

Forest land accounts for 55 percent of all foreign-owned land, cropland for 13 percent, pasture and other agriculture for 27 percent, and nonagricultural and unreported uses for 5 percent. Some other highlights:

Two bodies unearthed at murderer's home muddy yard at the former home of a paroled killer is expected to yield more bodies, say authorities who unearthed the corpses of two young women and are investigating three more slayings in New Jersev.

The remains of two victims were dug up Tuesday from a shallow, common grave at the former home on Staten Island of Richard Biegenwald, who murdered a Bayonne, N.J., prosecutor in

Biegenwald has been held in Trenton State Prison for the past three months on charges stemming from the shooting death of a New Jersey woman last summer. "We have reason to believe there are more bodies out there, based on information provided to us." said William Murphy, the Staten Island district attorney. Five bodies - three in New Jersey and the two on Staten Island - have been uncovered so far in the investigation, authorities said.

The remains were found about 30 inches beneath a pile of debris next to the Biegenwald garage in a quiet, wooded neighborhood of singlefamily homes. Authorities said digging would continue

Murphy would not say how authorities learned there were bodies buried in the backyard of the home where Biegenwald had lived with his mother since his 1977 parole. But Biegenwald's lawyer, Lewis Diamond, said his client's co-defendant in the recent murder case, Dheran Fitzgerald, 52, provided the information. Biegenwald and Fitzgerald were arrested Jan. 22 and charged in the murder of An-

> The investigation of that murder led to the discovery of the two bodies on Staten Island, one of New York City's five boroughs, as well as two other bodies discovered in New Jersey during the weekend. authorities said.

Murphy declined to say how many bodies were thought to be buried at the site. The Staten Island Advance newspaper said it had information from a source it declined to identify that as many as 25 bodies might be found around the 100-footsquare homesite.

But a New Jersey prosecutor, Alexander Lehrer, who alerted Staten Island authorities to the graveyard, called that report 'spurious." He said there was "the possibility of at least one more body" at the Staten Island site. Neither Murphy nor Lehrer described Biegenwald as a suspect in any of the newly-uncovered slayings. Lehrer said he hopes to file charges by the end of the week or after the bodies are identified. Biegenwald, 42, had returned to the house to live with his mother, Sally, after serving 18 years of a life term for the 1958 shotgun murder.

"WE'VE SEEN STRANGE THINGS TODAY!"

One day while Jesus was teaching, some Jewish religious leaders and teachers of the Law were sitting nearby. (It seemed that these men showed up from every village in all Galilee and Judea, as well as from Jerusalem.) And the Lord's healing power was upon Him.

Then--look! Some men came carrying a paralyzed man on a sleeping mat. They tried to push through the crowd to Jesus but couldn't reach Him. So they went up on the roof above Him, took off some tiles and lowered the sick man down into the crowd, still on his sleeping mat, right in front of lesus.

Seeing their faith, Jesus said to the man, "My friend, your sins are forgiven!"

"Who does this fellow think he is?" the Pharisees and teachers of the law exclaimed among themselves. "This is blasphemy! Who but God can forgive sins?"

Jesus knew what they were thinking, and He replied, "Why is it blasphemy? Is it any harder to forgive his sins than to heal him?

"Now I will prove My authority to forgive sin by demonstrating My power to heal disease." Then He said to the paralyzed man, "Get up, roll up your sleeping mat and go on home."

And immediately, as everyone watched, the man jumped to his feet, picked up his mat and went home praising God!

Everyone present was gripped with awe and fear. And they praised God, remarking over and over again, "We have seen strange things today." Luke 5:17-26

CBS wins TV ratings

LOS ANGELES (AP) -ABC had the miniseries dazzle, NBC had the sports muscle, but CBS won the television ratings season on the staying power of its regular

It was the week-in, weekout strength of such CBS series as "60 Minutes," "Dallas, "M-A-S-H" and "Magnum, P.I." that brought home the title for the fourth straight year.

Even as it won the A.C. Nielsen Co. ratings for the season, CBS lost the final week to ABC because of sports event on ABC or NBC.

Rumors fueled run on bank, newspaper says

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) -Depositors fearing the First National Bank of Midland was about to fail because of bad energy loans withdrew more than a fifth of the bank's deposits within a few weeks last fall, the Wall Street Journal says. Charles Fraser, then the bank's chairman, labeled the rumors "vicious" and "unfounded." But the depositors still withdrew $300 million of the bank's $1.4 billion of deposits, the newspaper reported Tuesday.

The Journal said the institution - one of the nation's largest energy lenders - was forced to take out as much as $250 million in emergency loans from the Federal Reserve System to meet the withdrawals. First National, at the time the 115th largest U.S. bank, was in "a classic liquidity squeeze," the Journal said, with few available reserves and an unusually high percentage of its deposits tied up in loans. Telephone calls Tuesday to bank spokesman Guy Mc-Crary were not returned.

First National's problems were only beginning with the September bank run, the newspaper said. The bank eventually class cent to 10 percent of its loans as problem credits, the second-highest problem rate of any big U.S. bank, the Journal said.

And although the bank is on stronger footing now, it had to increase its loan-loss reserve nearly fivefold and had to sell its headquarters building to avert a large 1982 loss, the newspaper reported. Fraser resigned unexpectedly but voluntarily April said bank director and Midland oilman John Hen-

First National's gamble was in concentrating its lending in energy without adequate loan controls, a gamble many other energy banks also took, the Journal said.

"If you search this out, you'll be appalled by the number of bad decisions made by the banks," one New Mexico banker said. "They got delusions of grandeur."

When Fraser became the bank's president in January 1980, Midland - which had been booming since the 1973 Arab oil boycott - began experiencing a frenzy of drilling and production activity set off by the doubling of oil prices after the 1979 Iranian revolution.

At the time, the bank had $750 million in assets and a reputation as a shrewd energy lender. A Forbes magazine search for the 400 wealthiest people in the United States found eight of them in this West Texas city of 90,000, three of them on the bank's board, which Hendrix described as "strong as an acre of garlic."

Under Fraser's leadership, the board began an aggressive strategy of financing sharp energy-loan growth with out-of-town deposits bought through brokers and other banks. Because regulations prohibited First National from lending more than 10 percent holding company, the Journal

In two years, the bank more than doubled in size, to $1.64 billion in assets by the end of 1981. Its profitability put it in the top five among banks its size, as its earnings nearly tripled to $21.5 million.

But about half the bank's liabilities, almost $800 million, were in potentially volatile $100,000-plus deposits, the Journal said.

The bank, assuming oil prices would double by 1990, also was eager to lend to shaky companies, with junior officers making large loans without adequate reviews, some First National borrowers now contend.

In an interview just before his resignation, Fraser conceded that "loan controls should have been tighter, sooner.

He acknowledged that some junior loan officers were making loans before appraising collateral and making $1 million loans without reviews.

By last June, "the blind could see there was a pro-Hendrix said.

In August, First National raised an additional $30 million of capital by selling stock, much of it to its own directors.

But the bank's big depositors were ready to move and on Sept. 2, "the phones started to ring off the wall," Fraser recalled.

Institutions that had placed deposits through Merrill Lynch Pierce Fenner & Smith were the first to go, quickly reducing their holdings by as much as $150 million, or 50

Almost overnight, the bank shut down most new-loan activity and refused to advance more money to customers, the Journal said. And under orders from the Comptroller of the Currency, it refused to buy back troubled or questionable loans it had sold to with CBS' "Dallas." CBS won the season with a rating of 18.2, a half rating point ahead of ABC's 17.7 rating. NBC was third with a rating of 15.1.

ABC, with an assist from the Academy Awards, won the final week ending April 17 with a rating of 18.4. The networks say this means that in an average prime-time minute, 18.4 percent of homes with television were tuned to ABC. CBS was second with 16.9 and NBC was third with

Psychiatrist Joel Kutnick of Corpus Christi examined defendant Paul Wolf, 21, of La Feria, on State District Judge Darrell Hester's orders last month, Cantu said. Wolf is charged with murdering Leticia Castro, 26, a fourth grade teacher from Pharr. He faces trial later for the slaying of his wife's former husband and Miss Castro's fiance, Billy Staton. Wolf has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity to the killings. Psychologist Curtis Wills of Beaumont testified Tuesday that Wolf was insane when he clubbed Miss Castro with a hammer and bludgeoned Staton with an iron bar July 16. 1982. Cantu challenged Wills' diagnosis and read from a publication titled the American Psychiatric Association Statement on the Insanity Defense.

"The line between an irresistable impulse and an im-For the past season CBS pulse not resisted is probably no sharper than that between twilight and dusk," the statement said. Wills agreed and said it's 'a very thin line."

Wolf's attorneys rested their case after Wills testified

Two other mental health professionals testified last week that Wolf was unable to handle the stress caused by the screams of his wife's child over having to visit her natural father.

Staton was divorced from Wolf's wife, Sherry, and is father of their daughter, Melanie, who was 21/2 when the killings occurred.

Melanie was taken to a psychologist after she began displaying fear over visiting her father.

Her psychologist, Bert Levine of McAllen, testified Melanie suffered from "severe panic reactions" when she was with Staton or his parents. He said he advised the Wolfs to keep the child away from her father.

The mothers of the two victims testified Tuesday. however, that Melanie was happy when she was with her father.

Staton's mother, Neta Staton, said Melanie would be crying when she went to the Wolf house to pick her up, but would "be laughing and happy as she could be" as soon as she and Melanie drove away.

Miss Catro's mother, Maria Castro, said Melanie "was very happy" when she was with Staton and Miss Castro.

Cantu alleges that Wolf and his wife ambushed Staton and Miss Castro using Melanie as "bait" the last time Staton came to visit his child at the Wolf house that mid-July evening.

Mrs. Wolf will be tried later for the two slavings.

Staton had concealed a mini-cassette recorder under his shirt hoping to gather evidence showing the Wolf's displayed animosity toward him over his visitation rights.

Instead, he recorded his own slaying on a tape Cantu calls "23 minutes of murder."

Wolf, who testified in his own behalf, says the so-called "murder tape" actually depicts an unplanned attack.

He said he and friend Glenn Henderson planned to videotape the visit between Melanie and Staton to demonstrate how the child

Instead, he said, he got so 'enraged' when Melanie began to cry that night that he bludgeoned Staton in the head with an iron bar. He then went outside where Miss Castro was waiting and he and Henderson each clubbed her with a hammer. They then dumped the bodies in separate Rio Grande Valley drainage canals, where they were discovered three weeks later.

Henderson, who has pleaded guilty to Miss Castro's murder and is serving a life sentence, has testified the attack was planned and that he helped Wolf commit the kill-

Briar citizens want town back

Caspar

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) - The former North Texas city of Briar is making at least a partial comeback less than a month after voters abolished the local government.

A petition to the Tarrant County commissioners proposes to re-create the city in 1,243 acres - about a tenth the size of the original Briar - with about 800 residents, said Fort Worth attorney Henry Kerry, who wrote the "Briar just keeps coming back, doesn't it?" he said. Briar, just outside Fort Worth, officially was disincorporated last week by the commissioners. Residents voted April 2 to abolish the city of 1,810. But on Monday, Tarrant County Judge Mike Moncrief authorized a reincorporation election August 13.

A petition bearing the names of 64 registered voters was submitted - 44 more than required to call an election, said county legal adviser Marvin Collins.

Former Briar Mayor Sparky Pearson, who opposed the disincorporation, predicted his side will win this time.

"Some of us us never really wanted to do away with the city," he said. "... We need to provide our own police protection for the people in the area."

Concerned Citizens of Briar, which was behind the disincorporation effort, had claimed residents would receive better law enforcement and road maintenence services by disassembling the city government and reverting to county govern-

The group also said that if Briar had been left intact, a city property tax would have been inevitable. "I feel it is ridiculous that people will have to be put through this again," group spokeswoman Sherry Davis said of the reincorporation country was taking a chance on a new kind of leader for a new era.

Trudeau, 63, is now the longest-serving head of government in a Western democracy. And while he has maintained his ability to charm an international audience, the charm has worn thin at home. An insoucient attitude and willingness to unleash a biting tongue once was part of the Trudeau appeal. But now, they provide grist for regular eruptions of outrage in the Canadian media over what is seen as the prime minister's insensitivity. Canadians looked to Trudeau, the bilingual offspring of a French-Canadian father and English-Canadian mother, to hold their country together when separatists seemed to be gaining strength in Quebec.

In the crisis sparked by Front for the Liberation of and then in the province-wide independence referendum in 1980, Trudeau stood firm as champion of a united Canada.

But at the same time he presided over increasing economic troubles, with unemployment cresting recently over 12.5 percent.

Despite the advantage of undistinguished opposition leadership, Trudeau and his Liberal Party have sunk to new lows in the polls - the choice of only 30 percent of the electorate in the latest Gallup Poll.

Less than two years remain in Trudeau's fourth term in office. It is likely to be his last, although a harsh and sometimes dirty leadership squabble among the Tories has revived speculation that Trudeau might run again, especially if former Prime Minister Joe Clark regains his party's top job.

Trudeau first became prime minister on April 20, 1968, to a chorus of praise from Canadian and foreign observers.

"We find ourselves attracted to Mr. Trudeau because he is a thoughtful, articulate man, probably one of the most brilliant, joyous intellectuals that have ever appeared in Ottawa," The Toronto Star wrote in an editorial. "His cool, logical mind - along with his obvious charm and wit - would make any Canadian proud to have him speak for Canada at home or abroad."

Last summer, after Trudeau was seen on television gesturing with his middle finger at a group of protesters, the Star commented: When the prime minister himself resorts to loutish behavior, he sets a vile example, demeans his office and contributes mightily to a coarsening of our political debate." Many other Canadian newspapers called for his resignation. When Trudeau joined the Liberal Party and entered career seemed at an end in politics in 1965 as a member of Parliament, he was known in Montreal from his days as editor of the magazine Cite uncommonly clumsy prime Libre, part of the intellectual renaissance that transformed Quebec - formerly a conser-

Among other functions, he said, the computer will allow church officials to more easily plot financial growth and determine the age breakdown of congregation, total membership, average number attending church school and age-sex relation-their expertise to use." The machine will allow officials to run a list of all the female members, or only those members who attend Sunday school. And it will be easier to maintain an accurate mailing list, Fagg said. The idea of merging computers with churches is not a
