County settles claim

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

A wrongful arrest claim against Deaf Smith County was settled in a closed session meeting of County Commissioner's Court on Monday.

According to County Judge Tom Simons, the county paid $1,308.92 to a Dallas resident who was wrongfully arrested on a warrant from Deaf Smith County. The money will cover the man's legal and bond expenses.

"There is some dispute on whether the mistake was made in the District Attorney's or the Sheriff's office," said Simons, "but basically the wrong driver's license number was placed on the warrant and we got the wrong man."

In their open session, commissioners appointed election judges and alternates for the 1987-1988 election year.

Election judges will be Cecil Boyer, Bill Devers, Charles Watson, Marian Kreig, Lorraine Fite, Donald Hicks, Gerald Parker, Loyce Brown, Elaine Bromman and Laverne Kimbell.

Alternates will be Lupe Cerda, Lazelle Fowler, Carl Straufuss, Helen Caraway, Katherine Hammock, Kate Bradley and Margaret Perez. David Ruland will serve as manager of the central counting station and Dubelia Ortiz will be tabulating supervisor.

Vacancies remaining include alternates for precincts two, three and four and a judge for the central counting station.

Commissioners agreed to advertise for bids to supply medical-hospital insurance for county employees. The bids will be opened on Sept. 14.

In other business commissioners set up the commissioner's court as a review board for social service appeals and approved a final draft of a purchasing policy which will be effective Oct. 1.

Iran-Contra hearings

Meese defends inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorney General Edwin Meese III today defended the preliminary Iran-Contra inquiry he conducted for President Reagan last fall, telling congressional investigators there was initially "no hint that criminal activity was in any way implicated."

Testifying under oath and without immunity at nationally televised hearings, Meese also said "my own counsel" was to support the secret sale of arms to Iran when his opinion was asked in January 1986. He said he advised the president it was legal to withhold notification of Congress for a brief period.

"There was no one" among Reagan's senior advisers who recommended that Congress be told immediately, Meese recalled.

Meese was the second Cabinet officer to appear before the House and Senate investigating committees at hearings that entered the 11th week today. The attorney general sat alone at the witness table while several aides occupied seats one row behind him.

Meese was expected to undergo strenuous questioning about his preliminary inquiry into the affair last November, an inquiry which many lawmakers have criticized as inept.

Meese began by reading a 17-page written statement in which he stressed his "limited role in the events" until last November. He said he began his inquiry "plain and simple" to find out what the facts were and to report back to the president.

"Indeed, on Nov. 21, 1986, there was no hint that criminal activity was in any way implicated in the Iranian arms transactions," he said.

Questioning of Meese was led by House committee counsel John Nields, who began by asking the attorney general whether he had any knowledge that the Israelis had sold American-made weapons to Iran in the summer and fall of 1985.

As he has many times before, Meese said he was unaware of those shipments until November 1986.

Nields led Meese through a long recitation of events and meetings leading to the attorney general's disclosure on Nov. 25 that proceeds of the arms sales had been diverted to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

Among the disclosures, Meese:

— Said he personally telephoned former National Security Adviser John M. Poindexter after Reagan's news conference last Nov. 19 to express concern that several of the president's answers at the session were incorrect. He said Poindexter assured him that a "correction or a clarification" had been issued.

— Described attending a session the following day in Poindexter's office at which White House aide Oliver L. North proposed having Poindexter and former CIA Director William Casey tell Congress the next day that "no one in the U.S. government" knew in November 1985 that an Israeli shipment to Iran contained U.S.-made missiles instead of oil-drilling equipment. That statement was false — and some officials present knew it — but Meese said he was unaware.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz testified last week that Poindexter and Casey were engaged in an effort during this period to hide the true facts of the Iran-Contra affair. Shultz said those two sought to have Reagan make misleading statements to bail them out of difficulty with a policy that was becoming unraveled.

In his statement, Meese said the entire policy of secret arms sales was made known within the Reagan administration on a "need-to-know" basis.

"Indeed, I was not even kept advised" after the White House meeting with Reagan and his advisers on Jan. 7, 1986, when the arms sales were discussed, he said.

Poindexter and Casey "favored the initiative; Secretary Shultz and Secretary Weinberger opposed it," Meese said, referring to the meeting in Reagan's office where Meese said he first learned details of the arms-for-hostages plan.

"My own counsel was that, while very close, the benefits seemed to outweigh the risks," he said. As for not telling Congress right away, "I had the impression that a time frame of 30 to 60 days was contemplated and that the risks were, therefore, short-term."

Meese began by reading a 17-page written statement in which he stressed his "limited role in the events" until last November. He said he began his inquiry "plain and simple" to find out what the facts were and to report back to the president.

"Indeed, on Nov. 21, 1986, there was no hint that criminal activity was in any way implicated in the Iranian arms transactions," he said.

The news staff put the "Branding Iron" on me Friday while I was out of town. We started up the "Branding Iron" feature again several weeks ago, and I reminded the staff to have one in Friday's paper, never dreaming the writer would be the topic since the articles are based on personal interviews of local citizens.

You may have noticed that the byline on the story was "Gladys Gone", which sounds a lot like "Glad he is gone." Naturally, no one admitted to using that alias on Monday morning. And, my two sons looked very innocent when I inquired where the writer got the story about me backing through the garage door!

The article "stretched" the facts a little about bad things happening when I leave town. Actually, the staff is concerned about little things going wrong and the designated janitor and repairman not being around to fix them!

Social Security cuts hurt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Staff cuts at the Social Security Administration are ruining service and morale, despite rosy statistics coming out of the agency, according to congressional testimony today from whistleblowers and retired managers.

"No matter what data you are being furnished, the fact is, service to the public is indeed suffering in some form or fashion," said Robert Thackston, retired SSA district manager from Lynchburg, Va.

Thackston was among witnesses at a hearing today by the Government Operations subcommittee on human resources and intergovernmental relations on SSA staff cuts under the Reagan administration.

Some 40 million Americans receive Social Security checks totaling more than $200 billion each year.

The administration has said it plans to eliminate 17,000 of SSA's 72,000 positions by 1990. Nearly 4,500 jobs already had been abolished by the end of fiscal year 1986.

French chicken farmers fight nuclear dump battle

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

France, like the United States, is searching for a safe, permanent way to store high-level nuclear waste.

Anywhere in the world, the same reservations are expressed. Can we store that waste safely? What are the impacts, real and imagined, short-term and long-term?

The question in France is, will people want to eat Bresse chickens raised near a nuclear waste dump?

A Bresse chicken is no ordinary chicken. It's been a culinary delight since the days of King Henry IV, who reigned from 1563 to 1610. King Henry sampled the best of Bresse and made a wish.

"A Frenchman should have a chicken in the pot every Sunday," King Henry proclaimed.

Napoleon III was so flattered that each year he presented a Sevres vase to the Bresse chicken of the year.

Not any chicken can be a Bresse chicken. The chicken, much like wine, must have a red crest, white feathers and blue feet.

But farmers, some of whom are members of several chicken raising generations in the region between Paris and Lyon in eastern France, are worried.

"You don't put a garbage can in the window of a delicatessen," Mayor Louis Jannel told The Wall Street Journal recently.

"The first tiny leak and we'd never sell another bird," said grower Gilbert Fargeot.

France produces about 600 million chickens a year, but only 1.2 million are corn-fed Bresse chickens.

"The word Bresse should be associated with fine cuisine," said chicken processor Jean Verne, "with quality, not necessarily quantity. And the word Bresse should never be in the same sentence as the word 'waste.'"

The region has only recently recovered from a scare about the Chernobyl accident, with Geiger counters prevalent—but silent—in the region. It was an effort by the Bresse growers to make sure their chickens and feed stores were safe.

Now the group is fighting French plans to store N-waste in the region. About 70 percent of the country's electricity is nuclear-generated. The government, though, is studying three other sites, and won't make a decision on the dump site for another decade.

"They can bloody well put it somewhere else," Jannel said. "There are plenty of other places in France that haven't worked 700 years on marketing one product."

"We can't raise these chickens anywhere else."

Babbling Brooks

Hello. I'm John Brooks. Some of you don't know me.

Hopefully, you will, so you will know who everyone else is mad at, laughing at or with, talking about, cussing and discussing at the beauty, barber and coffee shops.

What can I tell you about me? My politics are Democratic, my religion is Southern Baptist, and I don't believe in mixing them.

I'm single, but hopefully not for long. I'm overweight, and have been for far too long. I'm a sports freak, but must admit having never been to a curling match in my life.

I'm something of an oddity in the 1980's in America—an emotional person, one who not only feels but openly displays emotions. Some folks say that is a bad thing, but most of those folks have gout or psoriasis or get a lot of exercise or have something else basically wrong with them.

I'm also a firm believer in having fun during life. I've seen far too many lives of friends and family members snuffed out in their prime, or sooner, and no one is going to deprive me of any chance I have to enjoy everything to the utmost.

After the past two weeks, I'm also a firm believer in never having to move again.

Moving for Noah was a pain in the ark. For us, it's even harder. Noah only had to move every species of animal in existence and only forgot the unicorn.

I only forgot the vacuum cleaner and the eggs and bag of ice in my ice box in Dimmitt.

Noah had it easy. He only had to deal with giraffes, birds and butterflies, elephants and rhinos. He didn't have to fool with carefully unhooking the VCR and cable from the television, hopefully entrusting to memory exactly where every line would go.

Heh, heh, heh. I am interested in forming a chapter of VCR Anonymous, a group dedicated to those hopelessly confused about where those lines go when you can't find the instruction book. How you actually program the thing to record 14 days down the road.

Is the clock really supposed to blink forever on those things?

One advantage a VCR has over a computer, though, is a VCR does not claim to be "user-friendly."

For those little things in life, we must be eternally grateful.

POLICE

police department immediately.

A woman at Blue Water Gardens reported that while she and a friend were sitting out by the parking lot, another woman approached her and started a fight with her. She suffered mild abrasions and scratches. She said she will file charges. Charges were also filed as the result of a fight between two women on South Texas.

A woman on the 200 block of Aspen reported that she was assaulted by her husband. The woman did not file charges but she left the residence. A woman on Ave. H reported that her husband came home drunk and assaulted her by throwing her to the floor and kicking her. The husband volunteered to leave the home for the night.

Charges were filed in another family violence assault on Ave. B. The husband assaulted the wife and threatened to kill her.

In another domestic dispute, on Beach, a woman left the house to stay elsewhere until the disagreement could be resolved.

Another incident of assault was reported at the Community Center parking lot. A suspect got on the hood of the complainant's car. When he was asked to get off he began a fight. The complainant was taken to the hospital for treatment of injuries he sustained in the fight.

An elderly man accosted a younger man at Dameron park. The younger man reported the assault to the police but said he did not fight back. In deference to the man's age he did not press charges.

City officers assisted Sheriff's deputies on a call to the labor camp where it was reported that a man had been shot. No arrests were made at the time of the call and officers returned to the city.

Residents of a home on East Third returned home and saw the shadow of a person in their back yard. Upon investigation they saw a person run away. They did not see who the subject was but they did find a jam box from their home in a wheelbarrow. An inventory of the home showed two gold rings, valued at $900, were taken.

A Colt .357 Magnum was reported missing from a resident at Eldorado Apartments. A .22 revolver, brown holster and leather carrying case were taken from a truck parked at Hereford Butane. A service truck also parked at Hereford Butane was broken into and a $800 two-way radio was stolen.

A bike was taken from the front yard of a residence on Ave. B, $30 were taken from woman's billfold at the city pool and a convenience store clerk reported that a 6-year-old boy had stolen a cookie. She released him before officers arrived.

Prowlies were reported on the 500 block of Ave. H, the 100 block of Ave. E and the 600 block of Ave. K.

Charges were filed on a 29-year-old male for disorderly conduct on North Street and Fourth Ave.

Officers were called to the 200 block of Greenwood where a guest at the residence was getting drunk and being rude to everyone. Officers stopped and talked with the suspect but the complainant did not file charges. A clerk at E-Z Mart reported a woman drinking beer in front of the store, in violation of drinking an alcoholic beverage on license premises. Another subject bought beer in a store and then asked the clerk to open it for him. She refused and he opened it and began drinking it on the premises.

Officers went to an area where they found several subjects by a vehicle. Beer was found opened in the back of the truck but no one was intoxicated. The subjects left the area after talking with the officers.

A woman filed charges on a man who harassed her on Main Street. The man was saying obscene things to her. Another woman reported that a neighbor cursed her. She did not file charges but the parties were advised to stay away from one another.

Panhandle Community Services reported that a man came in and cursed the employees and was rude. They did not want to file charges but wanted to report the incident in the event it should recur.

Other offenses reported include; harassment on the 100 block of Union; barking dogs on Paloma Lane; juveniles having a cookout, within the city limits, without the proper equipment to prevent a fire hazard; a gas meter struck by a vehicle on the 200 block of North; juveniles fighting at the city pool; a loud party on Knight; reckless driving on Greenwood; children throwing rocks on Ave. B; a lost license plate; a break-in at West Central Elementary, nothing was found missing, and broken glass thrown into a yard on Ave. C.

Officers investigated an accident on Fifteenth and Blackfoot. A 5-year-old was hit by a vehicle as he crossed the street. The driver of the car saw the child and slammed on her brakes to try to avoid hitting him but he tripped and fell into the pathway of the car. The child was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital where he is reported to be in good condition.

Five minor accidents with no injuries were investigated and 44 citations were issued. The fire department made three calls to assist at the scene of an accident and responded to a grass fire at Westway.

Tax fight enters election

AUSTIN (AP) - The legislative fight over new taxes and state spending has moved into the 1988 election arena.

A group of Democratic lawmakers announced Monday they should continue the bitter controversy that divided much of the Legislature during the recent special session.

"In order to avoid public confusion on state budget and spending issues, legislative candidates should support additional revenues or accept reduced levels of new spending for programs in their districts," said a news release distributed by the Texas Democratic Party.

"This is a concerted effort to rip that mask from the myth that critical state services can be provided without additional revenue," said the release.

Most of the legislators named in the release played prominent roles in the recent special legislative session, which ended with the passage of a $5.7 billion tax bill. Much of the opposition came from Republicans and conservative Democrats who opposed new taxes.

"The responsibility equation is simple," said Rep. Ralph Wallace, D-Houston. "If you chirp 'no new taxes' you should be consistent enough to also campaign for 'no new spending.'"

The group announced plans to develop material for public distribution and to appear before newspaper editorial boards and other forums to speak on the state budget.

"The state budget should not be a partisan issue," said Sen. Hugh Parmer, D-Fort Worth. "Yet, in every session since 1984, a majority of House Republicans have injected partisan politics into every budget debate, opposing tax bills while profession great support for the programs funded by those taxes."

Wallace said some lawmakers acted as a bloc to force a long special session to generate a series of record votes on taxes for use in election campaigns.

"Many legislators finally got tired of the 'free lunch bunch' trying to have it both ways on budget and tax issues," said Wallace.

Rep. Bob Aikin, D-Commerce, said the approved budget is lean.

SOCIAL SECURITY

The cuts come at the same time the agency caseload is on the rise due to requirements imposed by new tax and immigration laws. Social Security cards now must be issued to all children between 5 and 18 years of age, and to all aliens granted amnesty to live and work legally in this country.

Social Security Commissioner Dorcas Hardy contended in her testimony that SSA performance "is significantly better today than it was a few years ago, when the agency was threatened as never before with enormous backlogs and delays in processing work."

She said claims processing times are shorter than they have ever been and payment accuracy for retirement and survivors claims is 99.6 percent. Hardy also cited a recent General Accounting Office survey that found 80 percent of clients rated service as good to very good. That was up from 78 percent in a similar survey two years earlier.

Entries sought for parade

Entries are being sought for the annual Town and Country Jubilee Aug. 15 in Hereford.

The parade, sponsored by the Whiteface Kiwanis Club, will be held at 10:30 a.m. Judging will begin for all parade entries at 9:30 a.m. at Hereford High School.

Persons and groups wishing to enter the parade may call Hawk Kreig at 364-2297, Jim Ward at 364-4407 or 364-6481, or the Hereford Chamber of Commerce at 364-3333.

This year's parade theme is "We the People."

But William Bechill, executive vice chairman of the Save Our Security Coalition, said his group did a telephone survey last month and found a few bones to pick.

Bechill said telephone lines were busy 71.3 percent of the time in the course of 150 calls to nine Social Security offices. And he said 21 hypothetical questions asked of personnel yielded nine answers that were incomplete or incorrect.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

The July 22 edition of the Brand contained an article about the effects of the judgment handed down by the US First Circuit Court of Appeals concerning groundwater standards in relation to a nuclear waste repository.

In the story, Bob Wunderlich said, "In preparing our program we found our groundwater calculations greatly exceeded the EPA standards." I wonder what program he is speaking of? Every time we have questioned DOE about contamination of our aquifers they have tried to explain away our concerns by telling us they would closely comply with the strict EPA standards. The courts have now ruled that EPA standards are not stringent enough, and DOE has pulled out something they call "our program."

The fact is, DOE repeatedly attempted to get the already weak EPA standards relaxed. This doesn't surprise me, though, since Sheldon Meyers of EPA is a former DOE employee.

The story also says the DOE doesn't anticipate any problems with the new standards. Is that because they plan to continue along the same lines. Much of their intervention is a matter of public record, and the rest was done behind the scenes among friends.

I wish you had pointed out that the court said that repository standards could not be more lenient than those put forth by the Safe Drinking Water Act. The Act says that water radiation levels cannot exceed four rems outside the controlled area. Four rems hasn't been proven safe, but at least it's lower than the 24 rems requested by DOE.

The point that concerns me most is that the court upheld standards allowing unlimited contamination within the site. This is totally unacceptable because the Ogallala is a highly transmissible aquifer. Simply put, DOE can contaminate as much water as it wants. All it has to do is keep moving the perimeter of the site.

The Congress and EPA recognize that a geologic repository is going to leak. They told DOE to find an area where the leak could be contained within the site. Their intention wasn't for DOE to pick an area within two of the world's largest aquifers.

Unfortunately, DOE put political concerns above geologic suitability. This fact flawed the site selection process.

I urge everyone to contact their elected officials as soon as possible to take needed action. A safe dump is not one where DOE goes out once a month and moves their fence.

Sincerely,
Dale Kleuskens

BRANDED WOMEN

By Sandy Pankey

In writing a news story, the reporter knows to present the facts in a concise manner. However, a column gives the writer the liberty to be more descriptive about the chosen subject.

In Sunday's publication of BRANDED WOMEN, I forgot to be descriptive in penning my column on sports. I just assumed that most readers would know what "hit for the cycle" meant: I know so little about sports that I presumed the general public would understand the terminology.

I was wrong and that makes me feel great in learning that others share my lack of knowledge of baseball.

First of all, one of the primary rules of journalism is to NEVER assume anything. The reporter should explain terms not often used. Thus, for those of you who don't know what "hit for the cycle" means, it refers to the rare event when one player hits a single, double, triple, and homerun in one game.

For some reason, avid baseball fans seem to find this phenomenon a special treat while the rest of us don't get that excited over this "happening."

At least this error in judgment in not explaining this baseball term apparently started communication between two types of people: the rabid baseball fan and the non-sports minded person. All of the sudden, disinterested individuals were actually attempting to learn more about the sport!

POLLY'S POINTERS The one cleaner we always use

By Polly Fisher

DEAR POLLY — What do you consider the most important item in your cleaning cabinet? — T.K.

DEAR T.K. — I'm sure this answer is not what you're expecting, but the one item I couldn't get along without is a roll (or several!) of naper towels. I know that paper towels are not the most economical items in the cleaning cupboard, but, to me, their advantages make them indispensable.

If I can use a paper towel to clean the sink, wipe off the toilet or mop up a spill, and then just toss it away instead of having to wash out a sponge or cleaning cloth, I'm much less likely to resent doing the job. It seems cleaner, less messy and more convenient. In other words, the ease represented by paper towels is a motivating factor toward getting the job done!

Others may not understand this and find it far more sensible to use a reusable cloth or sponge. This is purely my personal preference. I offer it because I believe we should each find whatever makes the job easy and as pleasant as possible.

As for actual cleaning products, it's hard to pin down just one. Candidates for most useful cleaner would include mild dishwashing detergent (it's great for everything from washing out a sink to hand-washing grease spots from clothes), vinegar (indispensable for cleaning out a coffee pot or deodorizing pet stains) and a good all-purpose cleaner in a spray bottle. I guess if I had to pick just one, the dishwashing detergent would be the most versatile.

Pickoff Attempt

Manuel Ramos of the Barrett-Fisher team dives back to first base when the opposing team, DeBruyn Onion, attempted a pickoff play. No. 11 is first baseman Oscar Rivera of the DeBruyn Onion team, and the first base coach for Barrett-Fisher is Richard DeLaPaz. The action came in a game played Sunday in the Summer Productive League, a softball league for people in agricultural work as shed workers, field workers and truck drivers. Barrett-Fisher defeated DeBruyn Onion 12-6, and later in the day, DeBruyn Onion beat Barrett-Fisher 12-7.

in Vega tourney

Tom and Cindy Simons of Hereford finished third in the championship flight of the Vega Couples Scramble Tournament Sunday at Oldham County Club.

Arnold and Shirley Galbraith of Vega took the championship trophy, and Larry and Monica Richardson of Vega were the runners-up.

Mary Zinser of Hereford teams with Richard Jesko of Clayton to win the second flight. Gene and Janice Coulter took second place in the third flight, while Max and Pat Goforth tied for third place in that flight.

Gene Zinser of Hereford and Sylvia Daughtery of Clayton were in a three-way tie for the top spot of the sixth flight, and Jerry and Lilly Shipman won the seventh flight.

The league is open to players who are agricultural workers — shed workers, field workers, and truck drivers, said Joe Soliz, Jr., a league officer. The league will continue until the sheds close for the summer.

Teams in the league include Barrett-Fisher, DeBruyn Onion, DeBruyn Potatoes, and Reinauer and Sons. In a women's league game, Reinauer and Sons scored a 13-4 win over DeBruyn. Nadine Herrera was the game MVP, scoring three of the 13 Reinauer and Sons' runs and batting in three runs.

The DeBruyn team, which won the championship in the league last year, is coached by Paul Maes. The coach for the Reinauer and Sons team is Melissa LaFuente. In the men's league, a one-day double-elimination tournament was played Sunday.

The 1986 league champions Barrett-Fisher beat DeBruyn Onion, 12-6. Coaches of the teams are Ramiro Ramos for Barrett-Fisher and Rey Salazar for DeBruyn Onion.

The second men's game on Sunday saw DeBruyn Potatoes defeat

Barrett-Fisher 13-8. Raul Saldana is the coach of the DeBruyn Potatoes team.

In the third men's game, DeBruyn Onion eliminated Barrett-Fisher, 12-7.

DeBruyn Potatoes then scored a 10-8 victory over DeBruyn Onion in the tournament championship game. The MVP award was shared by James Hernandez and Paul Maes.

Coaches in the men's league are all foremen at potato and onion sheds. The league is a non-profit organization and is funded by the players and coaches.

The league season will continue next Sunday.

Longest winning streak in pro baseball history ends

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP) — Even though he gave up two quick runs in the first inning against the team with the longest winning streak in the history of professional baseball, Billings pitcher Mack Jenkins wasn't worried.

"When I saw their cheap hits ... I knew they weren't world beaters," he said Monday night after ending the Salt Lake Trappers' winning streak at 29 games.

Minutes after the Trappers scored two unearned runs in the top of the first, the Mustangs powdered Salt Lake for six runs in their half of the inning and rode the lead to a 7-5 victory.

"They picked me up with six big ones," said Jenkins, a second-year free agent out of the University of Tampa.

Despite the early four-run lead, Jenkins had far from an easy time with the Trappers, who boast a team batting average of .347. Only once did he retire the side in order, and he gave up 11 hits before leaving with two outs in the eighth and the bases loaded.

Reliever Quinn Marsh came on to get the final out, preserving the two-run lead, and he shut down the Trappers in the ninth for the save.

"Jenkins did a super job in the clutch," Salt Lake Manager Jim Gilligan said. "He threw some big league pitches with two outs (and the bases loaded in the seventh). He really showed me something."

The Trappers, a Pioneer League team with no major league affiliate, started their march into history June 25, when they beat Pocatello 12-6 at home. A month later to the day — last Saturday — they defeated Pocatello at home again for their 28th straight victory.

That broke the 27-game record set in 1902 by the Corsicana Oilers of the Texas League and matched in 1921 by the Baltimore Orioles of the International League. Salt Lake added one more game to its streak, an 8-6 victory Sunday over Pocatello. The Trappers are 32-4 and are 16 games in front of their nearest competitor in the league's Southern Division.

Billings, 24-10, is leading the league's Northern Division.

Fourth straight victory for Texas

Rangers rally to defeat Brewers, 5-4

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — The last time the Texas Rangers played the Milwaukee Brewers — on April 19 — the Brewers scored five runs in the ninth inning for a come-from-behind 6-4 victory.

That gave the Brewers an American League record 13-0 start for the season, while the Rangers tumbled to 1-10.

Since then, the two teams have been gradually going in opposite directions, and on Monday night at Arlington Stadium, the Rangers scored two runs in the bottom of the ninth for a come-from-behind 5-4 victory over the Brewers.

The result leaves Texas at 49-49 and Milwaukee at 49-48. Since April 19, the Rangers have posted a 48-39 record while the Brewers have gone 36-48.

To many of the Rangers, reaching the .500 mark is just a checkpoint on the way to loftier goals.

"It's nothing special because it was never our goal to be just a .500 club," said manager Bobby Valentine after Mike Stanley doubled home the tying and winning runs in the bottom of the ninth. "Of course, it's better than being two under .500. But it's just one of 162 we've got to play."

Bob Brower, who walked and scored the winning run, also placed little emphasis on the feat.

"It's no big deal, really," he said. "It's just a numbers game. The important thing is how far out of first place you are."

The Rangers are 4 1/2 out of first and moved into a third-place tie with Kansas City and California behind the Minnesota Twins in the American League West.

"The .500 mark is just a checkpoint for us," said reliever Mitch Williams, who picked up the victory with 1 2-3 innings of hitless relief. He is now 6-3. "Now we can look ahead one game at a time instead of the next five."

Larry Parrish, who singled in the middle of the winning rally, said that while reaching the .500 mark shows how far they've come, "it's a bigger deal that we're back in the race. We always knew we were better than a .500 club, anyway."

Monday night's victory, the first for the Rangers over the Brewers in seven meetings this season, gives Texas a four-game winning streak.

"We've got it together," said Ruben Sierra, who gave the Rangers an early 2-1 lead with his 18th home run of the season, a two-run shot in the fourth. "We're getting the hitting and the pitching. Everything is clicking."

While climbing back to .500 has been a long uphill climb, winning Monday night's game was also a struggle since they had to accomplish it against one of the best relief pitchers in the American League.

Brewers left-hander Dan Plesac relieved starter Bill Wegman in the eighth and was seeking his 21st save, which would have tied him for the league lead in that category with Toronto's Tom Henke.

"I had the man I wanted in there at the end of the game," said Brewers manager Tom Trebelhorn, "but things just didn't work out. Texas did a lot of clutch hitting. They're a really talented club."

Parrish's single and a walk to Brower preceded Stanley's game-winning double.

"It was a great thrill for me," said Stanley, "and a thrill for the club to get to .500. We're on a roll."

Elsewhere, Minnesota edged Seattle 4-3, Detroit beat Chicago 4-1, Toronto outlasted Boston 10-8, and Oakland defeated California 6-1 in the only other games scheduled.

Twins 4, Mariners 3

In one action-packed inning the Minnesota Twins demonstrated why they are first in the American League West.

Seattle starter Mark Langston took a two-hitter and a 3-0 lead into the top of the ninth inning Monday night against the Twins at the Kingdome.

Greg Gagne led off with a single and Dan Gladden followed with a walk. Steve Lombardozzi then tied the game with his fourth home run of the season, a drive deep over the center-field fence.

Edwin Nunez replaced Langston and got Kirby Puckett to fly out. Gary Gaetti then gave the Twins a 4-3 victory when he hit his 20th home run of the season.

"He's (Nunez) a power pitcher, and came right at me," Gaetti said. "I was expecting a fastball and got just that."

Minnesota starter Frank Viola, 11-6, allowed six hits and struck out seven in eight innings before Jeff Reardon came on to get his 21st save.

"It's nice to get one of these once in a while," Viola said. "We battled, didn't give up, and got the win."

The Mariners didn't give up either. With two outs in the bottom of the ninth, catcher Dave Valle doubled and Luis Quinones followed with a single to center, but Puckett made a strong throw to nail Valle at the plate and end the game.

The victory kept the Twins two games ahead of second-place Oakland and 4 1/2 ahead of California, Kansas City and Texas.

Tigers 4, White Sox 1

Bill Madlock's eighth-inning single scored Tom Brookens with the tie-breaking run and Frank Tanana scattered seven hits as Detroit beat Chicago at Tiger Stadium and moved within a half game of New York in the AL East.

With the score tied 1-1, Brookens singled to lead off the eighth, Lou Whitaker followed with a single and Madlock singled and took second on the throw home. After an intentional walk to Kirk Gibson loaded the bases, reliever Bobby Thigpen came on and Alan Trammell hit a two-run single.

Tanana, 10-7, struck out nine and walked one en route to his fourth complete game.

Blue Jays 10, Red Sox

Rick Leach singled home pinch-runner Willie Upshaw from third base to snap an eighth-inning tie as Toronto rallied to beat visiting Boston.

Trailing 8-7, George Bell singled with one out in the eighth off reliever Calvin Schiraldi, 5-5. Fred McGriff followed with a single sending Bell to second and Jesse Barfield tied the game with a single to right.

Upshaw came on to run for McGriff and trotted home on Leach's single to right. Barfield later scored on an error for the Blue Jays' final run.

Athletics 6, Angels 1

Dave Stewart won his sixth straight game with a five-hitter as Oakland beat visiting California.

Stewart, 13-7, struck out six and walked none in his third complete game of the season. "Every win feels great. Each one sets a new career high for me," the right-hander said.

Stewart, in his seventh major league season, had never won more than nine games before this year. He was signed by Oakland as a free agent last year after being released by Philadelphia.

Oakland had six hits, all singles, in a four-run second inning. Alfredo Griffin, Luis Polonia and Mark McGwire had RBI singles, with McGwire raising his league-leading RBI total to 82.

Salazar Scores For DeBruyn Onion

J.J. Salazar crosses home plate to score a run for the DeBruyn Onion team during a Summer Productive League game Sunday at Veterans Park. The catcher is Porfiri Zuniga of the Barrett-Fisher team. For a report on Sunday's game in the softball league, see Page 4.

Pastors saying they need a day off

WACO, Texas (AP) — A pastor's occupation is sometimes viewed as a 24-hour-a-day, seven-day-a-week calling by congregations and by pastors themselves.

But mental health professionals and clergy members say they have found that pastors, like other professionals, need a regular day off. Ministers who feel pressured to spend all of their time tending the flock may not make such good shepherds, some say.

Ken Jordan, a consultant in the Southern Baptist Sunday School board's family ministry department, said in an article in the Baptist Press that "It's easy to become so enmeshed in the life of the congregation that we have no lives of our own. The greatest need in some ministers' families is the ability to say no."

Most people agree that pastors have a highly stressful job, comparable with the demands on a doctor. Pastors must deal on emotional and organizational levels and must be available to their congregation for emergencies.

Dr. Barry Click of the Samaritan Counseling Center in Waco, said he believes the main pressures are being a public figure and meeting the expectations of others.

"Usually, he or she is the main person, the chief staff person, and there's a tremendous pressure on them to meet everyone's expectations," he said.

Other Waco pastors agree on the need to take a break.

"In the dynamics of ministry, there is the give and take, and the minister lands most often in the posture of giving," says the Rev. Jim Johnson of Calvary Baptist Church.

The Rev. Delbert Taylor of Sparks Memorial United Methodist Church said he found he would get so involved with people and their problems that he would need to get away. And the Rev. William Anderson of Christ American Lutheran Church says he needs a day off to recuperate from the emotional drain of dealing with people, especially in crisis situations.

Pastors sometimes have to get beyond feelings of guilt in order to allow themselves needed time off, Click said.

The Rev. Jim Abel of Austin Avenue United Methodist Church said feelings of guilt are "always a real struggle. I think it's almost an occupational hazard."

"Most ministers I know are conscientious, and you could say, conscientious to a fault," Click said.

"They're trying to model God's love for humankind. It's difficult for them to let go of that ethic for 'self-indulgence.'"

"The role is so powerful in terms of expectations, one of the struggles is for them to come to terms with their limitations."

Click said Jesus himself went away from the crowds to be by himself.

"The longer I'm in the ministry, the more I realize that it really is important," said Anderson. He said he used to be concerned with taking a day off, but now advises other pastors to "take it seriously."

"Talking to retired pastors over the years, most of them will say if they had anything to do over, it would be to spend more time with their family," Anderson said.

One difficulty some may have is relaying their need for a day off to their congregations.

"The congregation has to kind of enter into a companion covenant with their pastor to look at the pastor's limitations. The pastor has to be instructive to his or her people so they learn his limitations and they learn not to make excessive demands on themselves," Click said.

The Rev. Paul Taft of St. Alban's Episcopal Church said his congregation honors his day off pretty well, and usually only intrudes in an emergency. In dealing with someone who calls on his day off in a non-emergency situation, Taft said, "Generally, I try to be tactful and not act irritated, but I also remind them that it's my day off."

"What I get hacked at is somebody calling me and saying, 'Where is the ladder at the church?'" Abel said.

Guideposts Magazine offered this hint for congregations:

"Respect his time ... And just because he's on call 24 hours a day, don't call him at all hours. Try to speak to him during his office hours, and if you must see him at home, call before you drop in. Finally, if your minister doesn't take a regular day off, encourage him to. He needs it as much as you do."

The pastors say they generally use the day off as family time.

Jordan said ministers and their wives or husbands have "difficulty seeing each other for significant, regular, quality blocks of time and therefore have a high need for time alone together." He also said ministers who "never have enough time" sometimes leave their mates and children out because they "confuse Christianity with church work."

Click said that ideally, the pastor would have a day off for himself and a day off for his family. Click urged pastors to consider days off "ministry to him or herself and family."

"The family sees the pastor caring for others, and giving his or her best, and then, if they're not careful, the minister will give the leftovers to the family," he said.

Taft said a day off "enables my family to count on me being available to be with them," but added that he "cannot use the day off as an excuse to not be with them at other times during the week."

"Days off are critical, for yourself and your family. It's certainly easy to neglect yourself and family. It has become such a phenomenon right now — about preacher burnout," said Johnson.

Abel said, "I just need to be aware that I'm my wife's only husband, and my two sons, ages 13 and six, only father." He says he sees his time off as "a witness to my people, that what I'm trying to do is authentically model Biblical faith."

Abel echoed the other pastors when he said he feels it is important to be available for emergencies at all times. He said he would in fact be upset if not notified during an emergency, such as the death of a church member.

But having a regular day off, plus mini-vacations, long vacations and sabbaticals, not only rejuvenate them, but make them better pastors, the ministers said.

Taft said time off allows the congregation to see him "as a more realistic person" and a model for the people.

"It's the concept of the Sabbath. Christian preachers don't really have a Sabbath," said Johnson. He said he tries "not to use my brain" on his day off because preaching is a lot of intellectual work.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last year you printed a column that gave my husband and me the information we needed to make our dream come true. It was about fertility problems caused by bikini underwear for men.

My husband had a vasectomy reversal awhile back. He was able to produce sperm, but the count was low. When you pointed out that switching from bikinis to boxer shorts had proven beneficial in many cases, I decided to toss out the bikinis and buy boxer shorts for my husband.

That was in June. The sperm count showed very little change the first month, but by August it was much higher. In November the count was normal, and guess what? I was pregnant. Our baby is due in August on our fifth wedding anniversary. The column that changed our lives is already pasted on page one in the baby's scrapbook.

Winning the title of Mrs. New York-America was the thrill of a lifetime. I will be giving up that title just in time to take a new title, "Mom." If you think it will help others, please print my letter and my name. Thanks a million, Ann Landers.—Vonabell Sherman (Mrs. New York-America 1986-87)

DEAR VONABELL: What a day-brightener! Congratulations and best wishes to you and the proud poppa. (P.S. Please let us know when the heir (or heiress) apparent arrives.)

hope her parents will cooperate.

When our son was 12 and our daughter 14 they quarreled constantly. I was sick and tired of it. One day I sent them both to their rooms with pencil and paper. They were not permitted to come out until they wrote down 10 things they hated about each other and 10 things they liked about each other.

I then sat them down in front of me and read first the bad things, then the good things. It was pure magic. They were especially shocked to discover the things that each admired about the other. That was the basis of a friendship that made us very proud.

Pam is now 32 and Mark is 30. They love and respect one another and have taken those fine qualities into their marriages. I'm convinced that those lists did it.—Louisville

DEAR LOUISVILLE: What a splendid idea! I'm sure thousands of battling siblings will be sent to their rooms today with paper and pencil. Thanks for sharing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I needed to find a place to live when my friend's lease expired and she moved out of town in the dead of night. (Dirty trick.)

I asked "Bill" if I could move into his place temporarily although I knew that he was sharing quarters with his same-sex lover, George. Bill said, "OK."

Bill is gorgeous looking and very sexy. He has a terrific sense of humor and we have been pals since high school (five years ago). Everything was working out swell until I realized that I had fallen in love with the guy. I think about Bill constantly and dream of him every night. I am very jealous of George and find myself thinking of ways to get rid of him. I know this is awful but I can't help it.

Is there any way to get a homosexual to switch over to normal sex?—G. in L.A.

DEAR G.: To Bill, his way is normal. If you were to get him to switch over, it would, at best, be temporary. Women who have fallen in love with homosexuals will tell you it's a special kind of hell. Find another place to live and another guy to love.

What's the story on pot, cocaine, LSD, CP, downers, speed? Can you handle them if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

KIDS PICK OWN TOYS

NEW YORK (AP)—Should children pick out their own toys?

Dale Brandon, owner of a toy chain, thinks they should. "Too often toys are bought by parents to fill their expectations and not the child's," Brandon says in Health Magazine. "We believe children ought to be able to try on toys the way their parents try on clothes."
