WDIC postpones decision on bills

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The Waste Deposit Impact Committee will meet Thursday at 6 p.m. to further consider possible testimony before Congress asking for a moratorium in all work concerning high-level nuclear waste repositories, including a site in northern Deaf Smith County.

WDIC met this morning to consider four bills pending before Congress, including two bills that would call for at least an 18-month work stoppage while a panel reviews work done by the Department of Energy and considers changes in the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982.

WDIC, however, could face a sticky legal issue. It is unclear whether the committee may, according to its by-laws, support specific bills or even lobby or testify in behalf of major policy changes, including a moratorium.

The scene was further clouded by calls each WDIC member received Tuesday from Danny Smith, acting director of the Governor's Nuclear Waste Programs Office in Austin.

"We each probably had a different interpretation of his call," said WDIC Chairman Troy Don Moore. "There has been a changing of the guard since Danny assumed Steve Frishman's position, and he raised the question of whether this was in the scope of our contract with the state, to support specific legislation."

Most WDIC members felt that the committee could support specific issues, but would be remiss in supporting specific legislation.

"House Bill 2888 is the one the state supports," said Troy Sublett, who represents the High Plains Water District. "HPWD wants to do anything that would slow the process down and allow us to collect the necessary baseline data. DOE is project plans.

Wunderlich said, "They are being handled through the workshops so, in essence, the state has three opportunities to comment on any issues they feel are not being resolved."

He explained that comments heard now are addressed in workshop meetings and a second chance for input will be given in January, when the draft plan is released, with a third opportunity given when the final plan is released later in 1988.

Wunderlich was also questioned about possible future use of land which DOE will acquire during the site characterization process. "That land will be sold, under the GSA, on the market," he said.

General Services Administration is responsible for administering federal government procurement and bidding policies such as the sale of excess goods—in this case, land.

"The original landowner will not have first option to re-purchase the land," Wunderlich said. The chance the land would be converted to some other federal agency for other use is not likely, according to Wunderlich, because of the remote location and relatively small size, nine-square-miles.

In response to a question about an on-site facility re-package spent waste for storage, which the questioner claimed had been kept quiet, Wunderlich said, "It is in the Environmental Assessment, Chapter Five. It has been openly talked about and has always been a part of the plan."

He added that it is possible that if a packaging plant is established at a Tennessee location, being considered for a Monitored Retrievable Storage facility, the plan to re-package hazardous waste at the site ultimately chosen for a nuclear waste

DOE questioned at morning meet

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

Department of Energy Salt Repository Project Deputy Manager Robert Wunderlich provided an update this morning on the status of site characterization activities being conducted in Deaf Smith County and answered questions relating to the project from the audience.

He reported that 189 of an expected 373 employees are now reporting to DOE and project contractor offices in Hereford.

Fifty-six of the employees reside in Hereford, a gain of three over last week, with the majority of the rest commuting to work each day from Amarillo or Canyon. 30 of those residing in Hereford have transferred into the area, and the remainder are local hires.

Amarillo has 88 staff members in residence, including four Stone and Webster employees working on technical aspects. 69 of those are transfers to the area. Canyon has 25 in residence with all but one being transfers. 18 of the project personnel reside in outlying areas or are undecided about residence at this time.

A total of 93 school age children with parents working on the project will be in area schools this year. Nineteen of those reside in Hereford.

Procurement commitments for the project have totaled $4.4 million since mid-February.

Pending the January release of a Consultative Draft of the Site Characterization Plan which will allow for comment from state representatives and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, Gary Raap, of the Governor's Nuclear Waste Programs Office, questioned Wunderlich regarding the method comments from the state are being handled and incorporated into DOE

UW kickoff is Thursday

Hereford's civic clubs are holding a joint meeting Thursday at the Community Center to serve as a kickoff luncheon for the United Way of Deaf Smith County's 1987-88 campaign.

Chris Bell, an Amarillo television personality, will be keynote speaker for the event—a "Dutch-treat" lunch for interested United Way volunteers along with the civic club members.

With a theme of "United Giving Brings United Living", the UW campaign goal this year is $120,000. The funds will help support 12 worthwhile agencies which serve the community. They include: Senior Citizens, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, YMCA, Camp Fire Inc., Red Cross, Salvation Army, Big Brothers/Big Sisters, Family Services Center, Domestic Violence and Rape Crisis Center, Hi-Plains Epilepsy Association, and the Children's Rehabilitation Center.

Margaret Bell and Buddy Peeler are co-chairmen of the campaign. Other UW officers are Howard Birdwell, president; Rocky Lee, vice president; Morgan Cain, secretary; Tony Calkins, treasurer; LaJean

Henry, publicity; and Lloyd Ames and Jeryl Baker, communications.

The volunteer division chairmen this year are: Judy Williams, agriculture; Jim Ward, general; Leona Kimball, Golden Age; Sid Shaw, major; Greg Banner, metro; Donna West, pacesetters; Marjorie Mims, professional; Tony Calkins, special; and Dempsey Alexander, Whiteface.

Bell, the featured speaker for the Thursday luncheon, is the noon anchorman for Channel 7 in Amarillo, where his duties also include assignments editor, political editor and general reporter. He is also well known to viewers for his "Waiting Child" series—award-winning segments on children who are waiting for a Big Brother or Big Sister.

Bell graduated from the University of Texas in 1962 with a degree in broadcast journalism. He serves on the Amarillo Big Brothers/Big Sisters board and on the United Way communications committee.

HISD facing room shortage

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Despite a decrease in enrollment, The Hereford school district is out of room, and has a shortage of room for Kindergarten classes for both four- and five-year-olds.

Mark Williamson, assistant superintendent for instruction, told the Hereford school board Tuesday night that the district is looking at transfers and readjustments in the Kindergarten program to bring the classes under the state-mandated 1:22 teacher-pupil ratio.

"Many students will not enroll until this week," Williamson said, "because many of them just wait until after Labor Day to enroll in school. We don't know how many more we will have."

Williamson also said K-4 and K-5 are the two fastest-growing grades in the Hereford schools.

The problems will multiply over the next few years as the teacher-pupil ratio begins to apply to more grades. Currently, the ratio extends through the third grade, and the district will probably have to look at re-arranging schools, renting or buying portable buildings, or more construction to meet classroom needs.

There is only one vacant classroom in HISD, and that room will soon be occupied by another Kindergarten class following the hiring of a new teacher Tuesday night by the board.

"What I wish was that the Department of Energy had given us that $3 million they promised us. Then we would have enough money to build what we're going to need," said Board President John Fuston, alluding to a promise he said was made by Salt Repository Project Manager Jeff Neff during an April visit to project offices in Columbus, Ohio.

DOE came up several times during a discussion by the board about what the Waste Deposit Impact Committee should support in four bills being considered by Congress concerning changes in the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982.

The board, in a 4-2 decision, voted to support a moratorium in the site characterization process; to support a 13-member panel to review DOE work to this point at sites in Deaf Smith County, Nevada and Washington State; and to fund monies for local mitigation during site characterization work.

"The moratorium will give us more time to do studies to discuss the impacts," Fuston said. "Neff promised us everything in the world earlier, and now he says he has no authority to disburse any money. We're all treading on thin ice."

"I think some type of a moratorium has a good chance of passing through Congress. A moratorium would give us a chance to get things back on top of the table with DOE. I'm convinced DOE hasn't shot straight with us, and could do a better job of leveling with the citizens of Deaf Smith County."

The board also approved classes to instruct students on "how to take" ACT and SAT tests, necessary for college, through Amarillo College at a cost of $20 per student; voted to reopen bids for a house constructed by the Hereford High School vocational department; will accept bids for resurfacing the track at Whiteface Stadium, with at least a bulk of the costs to be paid by local citizens; and instructed Supt. Charles Greenawalt to approach the City of Hereford to do something to repair the traffic light near HHS, which does not always function well, according to several board members and school personnel.

State schools show increase

If the downturn in the oil economy has had an effect on college enrollments in Texas, it generally has been to boost the number of students, some university officials say.

In an informal survey Tuesday of major Texas universities, Texas A&M, Pan American and Tarleton State universities showed the largest enrollment increases.

Southern Methodist University posted a 3 percent decline that officials attributed to a deliberate effort to reduce the size of freshman classes.

Some schools, Texas Christian for one, said they would release enrollment figures later.

Most universities indicated small increases in the number of students over last fall's enrollment. Three — SMU, Stephen F. Austin and Lamar University — reported smaller enrollments. Most schools attributed the rise or fall in enrollment to non-economic factors.

Preliminary figures show that enrollment at Pan Am jumped about 8 percent, from 9,984 last fall to 10,791 this year, David Zuniga, registrar and admissions director, said. He attributed the rise to population growth in the Rio Grande valley, site of the Edinburg campus.

"Of course, we have more students graduating from high school than ever before," Zuniga added.

A&M's increase of almost 7 percent is due mostly to the quality of the academic program, registrar Donald Carter said.

"We're an excellent school," he said. "Kids want to come here. We're just the 'in' school right now."

Preliminary enrollment figures show that 39,092 students have enrolled at the College Station campus, compared to 38,561 last fall, spokesman Lane Stephenson said.

At SMU, preliminary enrollment is 8,728 students, compared to 9,019 last year, but officials said they expect this year's final count to be a little higher.

Admissions director Andrew Bryant said the school has been cutting the size of its freshman classes the last three years to raise academic quality.

Negative publicity from SMU's pay-for-play football scandal played a role in a 11 percent drop this fall in the number of applications, Bryant said. But a larger-than-usual percentage of applicants enrolled, he said.

"We were prepared for the worst, quite honestly," he said.

Bryant said the slumping Southwest economy hasn't affected SMU this year, although it did have an impact on last year's applications.

Five procurements upcoming for DOE

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

Battelle Memorial Institute's award of almost $18,000 last week to an Amarillo data processing firm brings current and upcoming procurements to five.

The bid for automatic data processing was awarded to Executions of Texas for a total of $15,997.94.

Battelle is a contractor for the Department of Energy's Salt Characterization Project being conducted north of Hereford.

Three Hereford firms were solicited to bid on the data processing but none chose to participate, according to Ken Schmader, manager of contracts and procurements.

Schmader says he hopes some upcoming procurements will entice Hereford vendors to join the bidding process. The largest of these will be to provide telephone systems for the local Battelle offices. Bidding for this process will be broken into several parts.

"The first bid will be for wiring the building for telephones," says

Schmader, who expects the specifications for this bid to be issued later this week.

The second portion of the telephone bids will involve the switching and networking equipment, and is expected to go out in late September or early October.

Also expected out this week are specifications to bid on janitorial services for the Lo-Mart building, which Battelle has leased for office space.

The fourth procurement coming up will be for a communications network linking the various Hereford and Amarillo program offices. This bid is expected to be sought in late October along with bids for security guards for all Battelle facilities.

"On any of our solicitations we always have a point of contact listed. If any questions come up or if there are any problems with handling a requirement, if something appears unfair, potential bidders should contact us before the deadline so we can address the problem and make things right," says Schmader.

Survey needs readers' input

What do you think of the news media and advertising? Published on page 3 of this issue of The Hereford Brand is a questionnaire survey in which the public is given the opportunity to share their views.

These questions are asking to determine advertising habits and reading habits, as well as the public's opinion of the news media. Although it's not necessary to answer every question, there's no charge for local respondents to further detail their views.

The names of respondents are needed to verify the authenticity of the survey and the identity of each will be protected on a totally confidential basis.

If you have a marketing interest, results of the poll will determine the nature of advertising in this area, and you are requested to consider participating in this survey.

SCHOOLS

Texas Tech, with about 23,400 students, and Rice, with 3,890 students, reported enrollment increases of around 1 percent.

Houston spokesman Eric Miller said he didn't expect enrollment to change much from last fall's 29,000. He said the school has suffered from the downturned oil economy, which struck the Houston area particularly hard.

"People are leaving Houston and we're a commuter school," he said. "Also, we have raised our entrance requirements in the past three years or so and we're still feeling the effects of that."

repository might be eliminated. Wunderlich told the audience at last week's briefing that he would check into a complaint that tourists and visitors to the town cannot get a hotel room in Hereford because of the number of project staff living in rented rooms.

"We visited with Sutter's Inn and Best Western and they said they were unaware of any conflicts with booking as long as prior reservations are made.

"We did advise them if an event important to the community arises and they need the rooms, they should let us know and we would make other arrangements for our staff."

He said that his people are aware of the upcoming need to house hunters during pheasant season and added that he sees no problems preparing for this because the hunters make advance reservations.

moving too fast, and I believe it is in the realm of WDIC to support an 18 month or two year moratorium."

"I have a problem with Danny Smith calling the day before the meeting and trying to dictate what the committee votes on," said John Fuston, who represents the Hereford Independent School District. "I believe we need a 13-member panel instead of just a three-member panel, and I believe an 18-month moratorium can do nothing but good for the community."

Eventually, Sublett moved that WDIC support, in testimony before Congress, an 18-month moratorium, a larger-than-three-member committee to review work already done toward siting a repository, and to restore funding to local entities during site characterization activities.

That motion, however, was tabled until Thursday evening to allow local attorney Rex Easterwood, WDIC's legal counsel, and that state to review the legalities of WDIC taking a stance on those issues.

"I think it behooves us to get a clarification from the state and our legal counsel to make sure we are legal," Moore said.

To explain tax changes

IRS issues booklets

WASHINGTON (AP) — April 15 is more than seven months away, but as the Internal Revenue Service sees it, it is never too early to get concerned about your federal income taxes.

So the IRS today urged taxpayers to write or call for two free publications that explain some of the hundreds of major changes brought about by the big tax overhaul enacted in 1986.

"We are trying to get out the message that you can't wait until next April to acquaint yourself with the new law," IRS spokesman Wilson Fadely said.

The IRS also used release of the new publications as an occasion to point out another, closer deadline. All employees are required to file a 1987 W-4 or W-4A form by Oct. 1 to bring taxes withheld from their paychecks into line with the new tax law. The withholding form must be submitted to the employer — not to the IRS.

The new 55-page Publication 920 explains major individual tax changes in the new law, which the IRS says represents the most sweeping rewrite of the federal tax code since it was enacted in 1913. Publication 921 explains the business changes in 36 pages.

The 1986 law cut individual and corporate tax rates, almost doubled personal exemptions, reduced or eliminated several itemized deductions and boosted the standard deductions for non-itemizers.

The new booklets are written in a less formal style and are more understandable than the usual IRS document.

The booklet for individuals has 15 sections, each outlining significant changes. One 10-page section deals with deductions; changes in individual tax credits are explained in 1 1/2 pages. Two pages are devoted to the new method of taxing children's income.

The final two pages of Publication 920 are a revised version of a worksheet on which individuals may calculate whether they are having enough tax withheld from their paychecks.

An employee who fails to file a new W-4 or W-4A before Oct. 1 runs the risk of having too much withheld — meaning less take-home pay — after that date.

If you filed a new withholding form earlier this year, you need not file again by Oct. 1 unless you determine that too little or too much is being withheld.

Publication 921 offers extensive explanations of business changes in 10 areas, including tax treatment of travel expenses, business use of homes, depreciation and the new 80 percent limitation on the deduction for business-related meals and entertainment.

Copies of the new publications may be obtained free of charge by calling the toll-free number, 800-424-3676. They also are available by mail.

Texas among best retirement places

NEW YORK (AP) — Two places in Texas are ranked among the top 10 retirement places in America, according to a new book.

The Brownsville-Harlingen area, in the Rio Grande Valley of Texas, was ranked the seventh-best retirement spot in the United States, and San Antonio was ninth, according to "Rand McNally's Retirement Places Rated."

The No. 1 retirement place in America isn't in Florida or California or Arizona. The top spot to spend one's golden years, according to the book, is the Murray-Kentucky Lake region of western Kentucky.

The states with the most retirement places were Florida, with 15; California, 10; Texas, nine; and Michigan, six.

The other Texas retirement spots that rank among the book's top 131 places nationwide are Athens-Cedar Creek, 14th; McAllen-Edinburg-Mission, 24th; Canton-Lake Tawakoni, 27th; Fredericksburg, 58th; Kerrville, 68th; Burnet-Marble Falls-Llano, 69th; and Austin, 82nd.

According to the book, No. 1 Murray ranks 17th of 131 cities in money matters; 55th in climate; 11th in personal safety; 31st in services; 19th in housing; and 93rd in leisure living.

"There are places with better climate in the book, and there are places with a lower cost of living, and 92 of them have more things to do. ... But on balance, Murray-Kentucky Lake has more to offer in general," said David Savageau, co-author of the book with Richard Boyer.

For most, the ideal retirement place is the town in which they live. But for the 250,000 retirees who move each year, Savageau and Boyer examined the options, giving equal weight to the six factors.

The authors said they used demographic evidence and the advice of experts to choose the 131 areas they examined. A previous edition in 1983 looked at 107 locations; 85 are profiled in both editions.

Also in the top 10 were Clayton

Clarksville, Ga., second; Hot Springs-Lake Ouachita, Ark., third; Grand Lake-Lake Tenkiller, Okla., fourth; Fayetteville, Ark., fifth; Saint George-Zion, Utah, sixth; Bloomington-Brown County, Ind., eighth; and Port Angeles-Strait of Juan de Fuca, Wash., 10th.

The bottom 10 include three spots in New York State and New Hampshire and two in New Jersey. The 131st-rated area is Portsmouth-Dover-Durham, N.H., but that doesn't mean it is the worst place to retire.

The authors surveyed only a quarter of the 515 locations identified by the federal government as retirement places, and did not list places in 12 states: Alaska, Kansas, Illinois, Louisiana, Minnesota, Nebraska, North Dakota, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Dakota, West Virginia and Wyoming.

Some of the traditional Sun Belt retirement spots have lost stature because of escalating crime rates in recent years, the book says.

West Palm Beach-Boca Raton-Delray Beach, Fla., for example, is ranked 130th for personal safety, because of a crime rate far higher than the national average; overall, the area rated 112th.

Police protection for Pope is pricey

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Deputy Police Chief Robert Heuck has protected hundreds of dignitaries during his career, but the Catholic policeman says his latest assignment to protect Pope John Paul II will be professionally challenging and spiritually uplifting.

Heuck, a 27-year veteran who has been coordinating the police's papal security effort, will be in the lead patrol car in the pope's motorcade on Sept. 13.

"I consider it an honor to have been chosen to participate in this and have looked forward to putting the thing together," said Heuck, a former police chief. "I've done other things like this before, but in magnitude it's different."

Hundreds of Vatican and U.S. Secret Service agents will protect the pope during his nine-city U.S. tour and are keeping mum about their security plans.

In San Antonio, federal agents must contend with more than 500,000 people at a 144-acre Mass site and with hundreds of thousands more worshippers along several parade routes.

Agents have been visiting the sites for months and some businessmen along the parade routes are seeking their permission to be in their stores when the pope passes in his bullet-proof popemobile.

Secret Service agents did not return repeated telephone calls from The Associated Press.

"I think you can appreciate the importance of security and that it really is an important factor in the whole visit," said the Rev. Thomas Murphy, chairman of the papal visit security committee.

He declined to say how much security is costing the Catholic Church.

Meanwhile, thousands of city, county and state law enforcement officials and National Guard troops are preparing for crowd control and traffic coordination.

Heuck said 800 policeman, including 500 within the Mass site, will be on duty, along with 400 sheriff's deputies and 800 National Guard troops. Fifteen sheriff's deputies on horseback will patrol the Mass site.

Also, 150 Texas Department of Public Safety troops will be stationed at the Mass site and at major roads leading to San Antonio. More than 125 deputy constables will work in the downtown area.

Heuck said the police department will spend about $300,000 for papal security and crowd control.

Gov. Bill Clements, who will greet the pope upon his arrival, has said the cost for the National Guard will be about $180,000.

Spokesmen for the other agencies say they don't know how much they will spend.

DPS Capt. Oscar Armstrong of San Antonio said troopers from outside the district will be needed, and all troopers will receive compensatory time off instead of overtime.

"I have never seen anything this big before," Armstrong said. "This is one of the largest things of this type that has happened in Texas. I really don't know how much it's going to cost us."

Heuck, however, said the various agencies are accustomed to working together for previous dignitary visits.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Those of us living in this area have a lot of reason to be concerned about the possibility of a nuclear dump in our midst. There are many unpredictable factors involved in a project of this kind. Unfortunately, despite all the best technology and current knowledge, the DOE cannot predict the unforeseeable.

Despite all the best technology and their greatest efforts, the Germans could not win when nature showed her power. Freezing could not hold back the intense pressures when they tried to drill through a water supply. Obviously, no matter how hard they try to do a good job, that firm still has a 40 percent rate of failure. They would probably have more success if they were able to see below the ground and anticipate each crack and flaw in the earth. However, it is impossible to do so.

Just as it is impossible to know everything before it has been tried. I'm sure the DOE attempts to use as much theoretical knowledge and up-to-date data as they can when approaching a problem. Before digging the WIPP site in New Mexico they plugged all their data into all the right equations to predict the rate of flow of the salt bed they were digging into. When they had actually excavated a cavern, they found that the ceiling was sagging and the walls were moving in rapidly. In spite of theory and equations, the salt bed was flowing four times faster than they had anticipated. Those theoretical rates happen to be very near the rate predicted for our own salt bed.

But there are some other things about our site which we do not have to predict. Many landowners are well acquainted with the stability of our area. It came as no surprise when the Texas Tech study showed that the area is not completely stable. More than one person has been deprived of use of a well because a ground shift had severed the well casing. It is no secret that the earth is capable of many strange and unpredictable phenomena.

Such unforeseeable shifts or flaws could seriously endanger our water supply and our safety. We need to move to protect them now! There have been no cases of the DOE returning land once it has been condemned. Even if they decide not to put high-level waste here, if they have the land they can do anything they want to with it, including storing other wastes. We should not sit back and wait until they have control. Regardless of all the best intentions there is still a high failure rate and a great chance that our land and our lives may be damaged forever.

Study club participates in road rally recently Toujours Amis Study Club recently marked its opening night for the new year with a road rally. The road rally featured a treasure hunt with members following clues and piecing together a treasure map. The rally concluded with a meeting at the home of Pam Perrin where a meal was served. The winning team, dubbed The Rock and Roll Express, consisting of Judy Barrett, Terri Laing, Leisa Lewis, Donna Tidmore, Camille Williamson, and Marsha Winget, were awarded T-shirts.

Yearbooks were distributed and the new calendar year was discussed. The club's theme for the year's programs is 'Hereford Industry.' The club's next project, Benefit Bridge, was also discussed.

Hostesses for the evening were Pam Perrin, Shannon Hagar, Patti Brown, Elaine McNutt, Ange Lauderback, and Cathy Carthel.

Members present were Nanette Ashby, Kim Bigham, Cindy Black, Marilyn Leasure, Karen Keeling, Becky Reinart, Cindy Cole, Tricia Workman, Leisa Lewis, Camille Williamson, Donna Tidmore, Judy Barrett, Terri Laing, Rhonda Nieman, Judy Barrett, Diana Gerk, and guest Marcia Boyer.

Ann Landers

Pet abuse unforgiveable

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please print this for the woman whose husband slammed their poodle against the wall and pushed her around a lot.

If that flea-brain wants to be beaten black and blue, that is her business, but when it comes to abusing a pet, it becomes everybody's business.

She must find a safe home for her dog, before he is killed by her crazy husband. I can't believe people like this exist. Thanks, Ann.—Mason City, Iowa

DEAR IOWA: They exist, all right. That nut has a "twin brother" in California. The following item from the Los Angeles Times came in the same mailbox as your letter.

Man Arrested After He Kicks Toy Poodle

A Beverly Hills man was arrested Tuesday after he kicked a toy poodle on a West Hollywood street, breaking the dog's back and puncturing its lung, authorities said.

Investigators said Christopher Michael, 30, approached a woman who was walking her poodle in the 700 block of San Vicente Boulevard and asked her for a cigarette. When the woman, Marilyn Northcott, said she had no cigarettes, Michael kicked the tiny dog. Witnesses detained Michael until the deputies arrived. Veterinarians said the dog is not expected to live. Hello, readers, it's Ann again. Didn't that news item make you furious? I'm so angry my hair is about to catch fire. I'd love to know how this person is dealt with. Keep me posted, Los Angeles readers.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm worried about my stepchildren, who spend weekends and holidays with us.

The 14-year-old girl cries for her mommy every night and wants to go home. When I try to comfort her she goes berserk, screaming and flailing her arms. "Joyce" is much larger than I. She is 5-foot-9 and weighs 175 pounds. The girl has hurt me by kicking and punching when I have tired to hold her.

The other child, a 9-year-old boy, cries if someone tells him to get a tissue and blow his nose. When his dad suggests that he slow down his eating, he becomes angry and says he wants to go back to his mother. Despite tons of attention and affection from both families, the boy clings to everyone, even people he has just met.

I have told my husband that his children need professional help, but he thinks I am being "critical." Perhaps if you tell him he will listen. He thinks you are very smart and I am a dummy. Please give me some help, Ann, I'm having a rough time and I feel sorry for the kids.—Somewhere in Florida

DEAR FLORIDA: Those youngsters sound pathetic. Can you speak to their pediatrician? How about their mother? Someone must intervene on their behalf. Sounds as if they are getting too many "things" and not enough discipline and structure in their lives.

Show this column to your husband. It is essential that he get those children to a therapist. And soon. He needs to understand what their real needs are.

DEAR READERS: It's asthma time for many children. I want to recommend a book that will help you help your asthmatic child. It will also dispel some myths that used to produce a lot of guilt. The book is "Children with Asthma" by Dr. Thomas Plaut. It's really wonderful. Send $9.95 (includes postage and handling) to: Pedipress, P.O. Box 828, Amherst, Mass. 01004.

What's the story on pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, downers, speed? Can you handle them if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2, plus a No. 10, self-addressed, stamped envelope (30 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Brunch held Friday morning for members of garden club

Members of Garden Beautiful Club opened a new club year with a brunch Friday morning in the home of Jean Dowell. Serving as co-hostesses were Hilda Haven and Bessie Story.

President Marguerite Newell called the meeting to order and gave a gardening tip to divide perennial plants and flowers in the late summer and early fall. She noted that this will increase the spring flowers and plants.

Also, yearbooks were distributed and it was announced that this month members are to furnish transportation for King's Manor Retirement Home residents.

Jean Reinauer was welcomed as a new member by those present. They included Louelle Cowser, Audine Dettman, Ina Mae Gilbreath, Louise Axe, Phung Emmons, Camelia Jones, Margaret Young, Inez Witherspoon, Helen Spinks, Dorothy Noland, Nadine Hill, R. Gilbreath, Dottie Darden and hostesses.

'I Can' course to begin

The "I Can" course is being offered to all teens beginning Monday at the First Church of the Nazarene. The classes, which cost $25 per person, will be held each Monday after school.

The course is geared to help fight teen peer pressure and to help teens make better grades, have better home relationships, and to find better friends.

If interested, sign up at the church or call the church office as soon as possible.

KPAN Radio Station will be presenting a lawn and gardening program from 9-10 a.m. each Saturday.

Second win of season for HHS varsity

Whiteface spikers beat Lubbock High

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

Mental preparation and intimidating the opponent were keys in the Hereford High School varsity volleyball team's victory over Lubbock High Tuesday night in Hereford.

Hereford beat Lubbock High in two games, 15-13 and 15-8. It was the second win of the 1987 season against five losses for the Whiteface varsity girls.

In the junior varsity match, Hereford fell to Lubbock High, 15-7 and 15-12. It was the first loss of the season for the junior varsity after winning its first five matches of the season.

Hereford moved out to a 5-0 lead in game one of the varsity match before Lubbock High scored its first points. Two kills by Cande Robbins boosted the HHS lead to 7-2, and later a service ace by Libby Kosub made the lead 9-2.

Lubbock High closed the gap to 9-5 and later moved to within three points at 11-8 and 12-9. A dink by Kristi Wells gave Hereford a 13-9 lead, and a service ace later made the lead 14-9.

Lubbock High closed to within a point at 14-13. Krystal Sims was brought in the game to serve, and she responded with an ace to give Hereford its 15-13 victory.

Game two was tied 2-2 and 4-4, and Hereford held narrow one and two-point leads until gaining a 9-6 lead. Three good serves by Libby Kosub helped increase the Whiteface lead to 12-6.

The rest of the Hereford points were scored this way: a kill by Alma Gonzales; Lubbock hitting the ball out of bounds; and the match point on a block by Kristi Wells. Wisty Mars went up for the block attempt, giving additional intimidation against the Lubbock opponent.

Hereford Coach Brenda Reeh said, "The varsity accomplished a major goal tonight. We wanted to go out and intimidate from the beginning and we did."

"The last points are always the toughest to accomplish mentally and out kids wouldn't let up. Our communication was good and things ran smoothly because of it.

"We're real happy with the size of our crowd, too. I think that's the most people we've had here at a volleyball match in the past three years," Coach Reeh continues.

"The kids are proud of what they're accomplishing, and the people of the community are recognizing their hard work," she adds.

Mars led Hereford in kills with six, and Robbins had three kills. Kosub served nine points, Robbins served four points, and Mars and Nikki Self each served three points.

Service reception statistics included these: Mars, 16 of 18 were good; Robbins, 13 of 15; Kamille Martin, 11 of 11; and Kosub, 10 of 12.

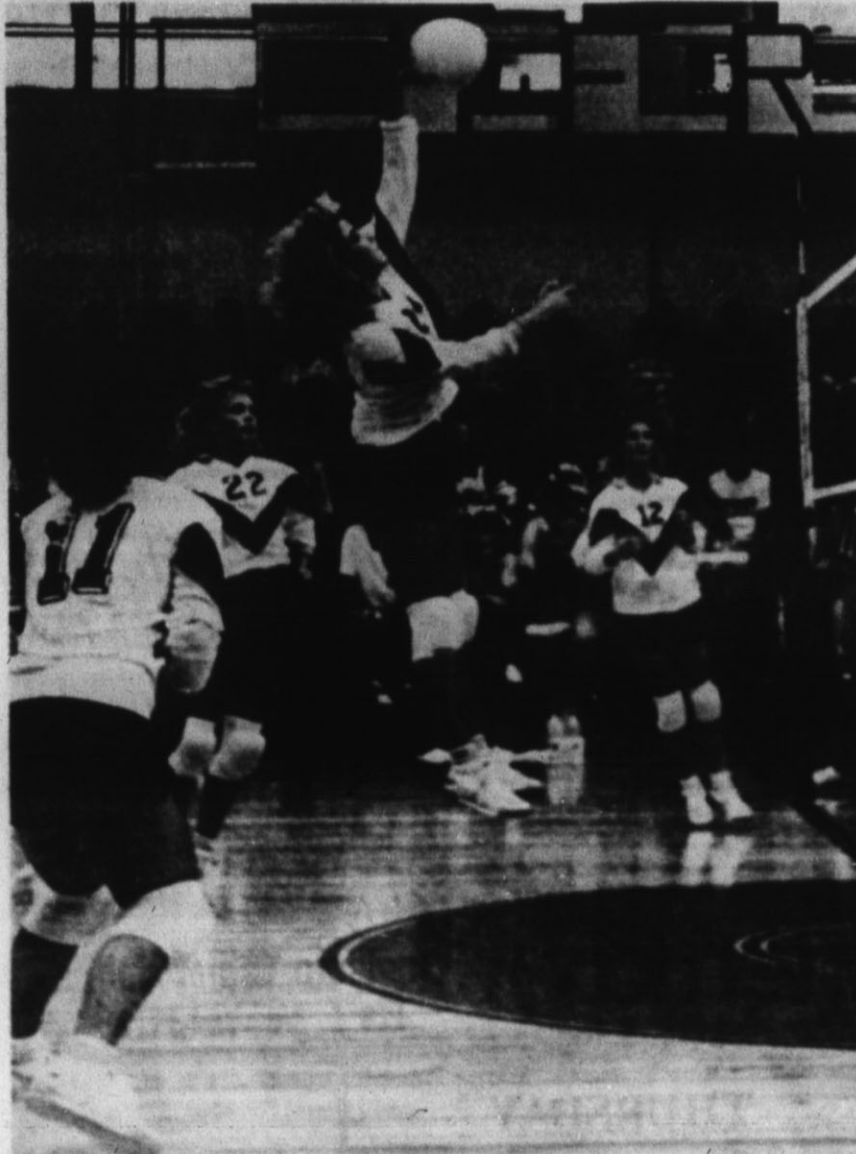

About the HHS junior varsity team, Coach Reeh said, "We had some super play by a number of individuals -- Jill West, Poppy Richardson, and Jessica Dearing.

Everyone else came up and played beyond our expectations. Overall, I'm very pleased with our play."

Statistical leaders for Hereford were Richardson with six kills; Dearing with four kills and four points served; Linda Cera with two kills and three points served; Kelli Thames with four points served; and West and Brianna Townsend each with three points served.

Good service receptions included 20 of 23 by Richardson, 11 of 14 by Thames, nine of 11 by Townsend, and six of eight by Cera.

On Saturday, Hereford hosts Clovis. The junior varsity match is scheduled for 2 p.m. and the varsity match is set for 3 p.m.

A Spike For a Side Out

Wisty Mars of Hereford spikes the ball for a side out early in Tuesday's match against Lubbock High. No. 11 of Hereford is Kamille Martin, No. 22 is Tricia Kahlich, and No. 12 is Kristi Wells. Hereford defeated Lubbock High, 15-13, 15-8 and plays Saturday afternoon at home against Clovis.

Oklahoma is near unanimous in poll

By The Associated Press

It's just about unanimous for Oklahoma as the nation's top college football team this week.

Following a 69-14 rout of North Texas State, the Sooners were named No. 1 on 54 of 58 ballots cast by a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters.

The Sooners received 1,154 points to 1,064 for Nebraska and 947 for UCLA — who all remained 1-2-3 Tuesday in The Associated Press' second college football poll of the year and first during the season.

The only movement in the Top Five took place when Auburn, a 31-3 victor over Texas, flip-flopped with Ohio State. The Tigers collected 937 points for fourth place while Ohio State, which has not opened its season yet, had 857 for fifth.

The remainder of the Top Ten included: No. 6 Louisiana State, 821; No. 7 Miami, Fla., 792; No. 8 Florida State, 744; No. 9 Michigan, 723, and No. 10 Clemson, 674.

Numerous friends and relatives attended the ceremony from Hereford: Mr. and Mrs. D.C. McWhorter, Steve McWhorter and Mr. and Mrs. Coneway.

Born in Denison, Texas, Capt. Coneway, a 1961 graduate of Hereford High School, graduated from the University of Texas in Austin in 1966. He was commissioned through the NOTC program. He received a masters degree in nuclear physics from the Naval Postgraduate School in 1971. He was selected for promotion to the rank of Captain in 1966.

His awards and decorations include the Meritorious Service Medal, Navy Commendation Medal, Combat Action Ribbon, Navy Unit Commendation, Meritorious Unit Commendation and various Vietnam and Indian Ocean service medals.

Capt. Coneway is married to the former Greta Jacobs of San Francisco, Calif. They have two children, Jennifer Kaye and Chad James.

40th anniversary to be celebrated by club

Members of the Dawn Music Club will be observing their 40th anniversary from 3-4:30 p.m. Sunday at the Dawn Community Center.

Past presidents will be honored.

All past and present members and guests are invited to come and take part in the festivities.

Dawn Music Club was organized in the fall of 1947 to fill a need in the lives of the people in the Dawn community. Twelve charter members adopted the object of elevating musical standards and presenting programs to meet tastes in music, poetry and dance.

The club has been active in bringing programs ranging from folk music to opera.

Historians say the word "Yankee," meaning an American comes from the Dutch word for pirate, which the settlers in New Amsterdam (now New York) applied to their shrewd New England neighbors.

All-time football record is 160-97-9 in that month

October has been best month for Herd

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the seventh in a series of articles on Hereford High School football history. Part 7 deals with HHS records according to calendar dates.

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

Analyzing Hereford High School football records according to calendar dates reveals that October has been the best month and Oct. 25 one of the best days, for winning percentage.

The all-time Whiteface football record for the month of October is 160-97-9, according to all available information. September is the next best month, with a 112-80-6 record.

Hereford High School has played 500 ball for the months of November and December combined -- 101-101-10.

The most wins on one calendar date without a loss is just two -- Sept. 2, Sept. 3, and Sept. 4. The 2-0 record for Sept. 4 includes Friday night's 26-0 victory over Andrews in the 1987 season opener at Andrews.

The most wins on one calendar date in school history is nine on Oct. 25, in 10 outings. Four other days are ones with 6-1 records -- Sept. 9, Sept. 27, Oct. 3, and Oct. 19.

The all-time Whiteface football record, including all information that has been found in research, plus Friday's win over Andrews, is 373-278-25. Friday is of course the most common playing night, and the Friday HHS record is 327-245-20.

In the more modern era of HHS football, the only other days of the week that games have been played are Thursday and Saturday. The all-time record for Thursday is 17-14-2 and the record for Saturday games is 18-13-2.

Early in school history, 18 games were played altogether on Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays.

The Hereford Whitefaces have played football games on every calendar date from Sept. 1 to Dec. 13, except for Dec. 2, Dec. 9 and Dec. 10. The Herd has a winning record on 60 of the 101 calendar dates on which games have been played.

Here is a compilation of the HHS won-loss records according to the calendar (again, including the first game of the 1987 season):

Bob Sims named 'Fan of Week'

Bob Sims, Tri-State Cattle Feeders, was named as "Fan of the Week" at Tuesday night's Whiteface Booster Club meeting. Booster club president Terry Bromlow made the announcement.

Coach Don Cumpston named Marcus Brown and Lee Young as the top offensive and defensive players in the opening game against Andrews.

Bull heads were also presented to Rodney McCracken, Michael Phibbs, Brent Berry, Keith Brown, Clint Cotten, Joe Medrano, Jason Scott, Tommy Ramirez, and Johnny Beltran. The "bull-head" decals go on the players' helmets.

Running back Gilbert Juarez and linebacker Moses Casas were named the offensive and defensive standouts on the junior varsity for the opening week. Taking the honors on the sophomore team were fullback Burt Noland and linebacker Bryan Wagner.

Cumpston said he was pleased with the Herd's first-game performance except in the area of penalties. A scouting report on Clovis shows the Wildcats have five starters returning on both sides of the ball.

Cumpston said the team has good speed "and they will be the toughest team we've faced, including the scrimmage games and the Andrews game."

Lewis, Johnson run in separate 100-meter heats

RIETI, Italy (AP) — American Carl Lewis ran a faster 100 meters than world record-holder Ben Johnson of Canada as the two ran in separate heats at the Rieti track and field meet.

According to the meet organizer, Johnson refused to race in the same heat as Lewis on Tuesday, saying he was too tired and did not want to face the tougher competition.

Lewis beat Ray Stewart of Jamaica, who was finished at 10.23. Desai Williams of Canada was second at 10.41, and Henry Thomas of the United States third at 10.44.

Johnson, who was clearly slowed at the end of his heat, was followed by Americans Harvey Glance at 10.41, Mark Witherspoon at 10.44, and Lee McRae at 10.68.

Whitefaces JV football team wallops Caprock 37-0

Hereford High School walloped Caprock 37-0 in the first junior varsity football game of the 1987 season last Saturday.

This Thursday, the HHS junior varsity plays the Vega High School varsity at 8 p.m. at Vega.

Hereford moved out to a 17-0 lead in the first half in defeating Caprock 37-0. The first points for Hereford were a 25-yard field goal by J.T. Heaton, in the first quarter.

Gilbert Juarez rushed 16 yards for a touchdown, also in the first quarter. Carl DeLozier completed a pass to John Tohm for a two-point conversion.

In the second quarter, Kelvin Brown scored with a 33-yard run to make the lead 17-0. The two-point attempt failed after Brown's touchdown.

Juarez scored his second touchdown of the game in the third quarter, with an eight-yard run. Heaton was successful with his extra-point kick, and the lead stood at 24-0.

Jim Eric Andrews rounded out the Hereford scoring with a one-yard quarterback sneak in the fourth quarter. The extra-point attempt was not good after the touchdown. Jared Victor led the HHS defense with two pass interceptions. Hereford defensive Coach Bill Bridge said Victor, Billy Siever, Todd Collier, and Moses Casas were among the team's defensive leaders for the game.

HHS offensive Coach Craig Yenser said, "Our offensive line did a heck of a job, opening up holes and giving us the time to pass." Members of the offensive line in the contest were Scott Devers, Bud Shirley, Edward Castillo, Randy Iruegas, and Ricky Rieves.

After playing the Vega varsity this week, the Hereford junior varsity plays at Lubbock Monterey at 4 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 17. The next home game will be against Friendship on Thursday, Sept. 24, at 7 p.m.

Between the Covers

By REBECCA WALLS
This week I would like to tell you about a couple of biographies we have. The first, Emergency Doctor, is written by Edward Ziegler in cooperation with Lewis R. Goldfrank, M.D.
Dr. Goldfrank is the director at Emergency Medical Services at Bellevue Hospital Center & New York University Medical Center. As director, Dr. Lewis R. Goldfrank is in a unique position, serving as physician, administrator, teacher, author, board examiner, lecturer, fund-raiser & patient advocate.
"In emergency medicine," he has said, "you make no assumptions. You come to expect the unexpected." This is the account of just such a succession of unexpected cases...a crane falling on a hapless pedestrian...a policeman with multiple gunshot wounds...a victim of an East River helicopter crash...it's all here in an account of daily events.
The next biography is Oprah! by Robert Waldron. This is more than a book for Oprah fans, it's an adventure into the heart and soul of an original celebrity.
As part of her success as talk show host, Oprah says, "I've found that the more I am able to be myself, the more honest and open my guests tend to be. I don't hold anything back; therefore they don't." When asked about her loves Oprah replied, "I think I'd really be great with some guy, but I'm not going to go around hoping and praying for it."
If it happens, it happens. If it doesn't, I'll get a kitten." Oprah reflected a most refreshing philosophy when she said, "I think we all are victimized or feel victimized at some point in our lives, but we have to be responsible for claiming our own victories. I try to live my life so that other people can see the light in me. And that's all anybody can do - be the best they can be." This is a delightfully refreshing book.
The fiction selection for this week includes Legacy by James A. Michener. Legacy is a novel as timely as today and as timeless as truth & justice.
Major Norman Starr, attache to the National Security Council, is told he will shortly be called before a Congressional Committee. Through a tense, reflective weekend, Major Starr talks over the situation with his wife and street-wise Washington lawyer. As he begins to think back over the long line of Americans from whom he is descended, he remembers one, a Supreme Court Justice, who was involved in the unofficially debated about drafting a new document to unify & help guide the affairs of the young United States. One by one, others parade through the officer's mind, the soldier, the Roosevelt hater, the slave owner.

Here is a powerful story that can be read in an evening & remembered for a lifetime, James Michener demonstrates why he has become one of the most widely read and respected of American writers.

Another of the fiction selection this week is A Green Flash by Winston Graham, the author of Marina and the Poldark series.
For the organized and think-ahead people we have seven craft and holiday books available for your Christmas gift planning.
We have started our fall programming and everyone with preschoolchildren left at home with nothing to do, is invited to join our Story Time each Thursday morning at 10:00 a.m.

Select milk for school lunches

COLLEGE STATION - There's no doubt that children and teenagers need plenty of calcium, but they're now less likely to get it from the small square milk carton that used to be a part of every school lunch.
"The availability of fruit drinks in pouches or individual serving size cartons means children don't have to buy milk to go with their snack lunches. In many high schools, students also have the choice of getting a soft drink from a machine."
"The question for parents is whether they think their child is getting enough calcium each day for good health," says Dr. Dymple Cooksey, a nutritionist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.
"Children ages one through 10 need 800 milligrams of calcium a day," she says. "This requirement can be met with three servings of dairy foods as part of the everyday diet."
"Due to increasing bone length and development, adolescents 11 to 18 years old need 1,200 milligrams of calcium, which can be met by eating four servings of dairy foods daily," she adds.
One 8-ounce cup of milk, which is the amount contained in a milk carton served in schools, is one serving. A 1 1/2 ounce piece of cheese or a cup of yogurt are also equivalent to one serving, according to the nutritionist.
"According to recent U.S. Department of Agriculture studies, many young people don't get enough calcium daily," states Cooksey. "In fact, females over 11 years of age were reported as one group at greatest risk of calcium deficiency, which can lead to osteoporosis in later years."
"If your child drinks milk at breakfast and dinner and eats other dairy foods throughout the day, a sweetened fruit drink at lunch may not interfere with adequate calcium intake," she notes.
When children and teenagers don't drink milk at school or home, the nutritionist suggests that they be offered more dairy products in meals and snacks.

Cheese sandwiches, cheeseburgers, cheese and crackers, string cheese, cheese pizza, flavored yogurts, milk shakes, ice cream and milk-based puddings all add calcium to the child's diet, she explains.
"Giving children calcium supplements in pill form is generally not a good idea," warns Cooksey. "Calcium supplements can have side effects, so you should check with a physician before giving them to your child."
"Dairy foods are the best and most abundant source of calcium in our food supply," says the nutritionist. "In addition, they contain lactose and vitamin D which enhance calcium usage by the body."

Insulin reaction signs listed by foundation

A person who works, lives, or goes to school with a juvenile diabetic should be aware of the first signs of an insulin reaction. Sometimes, it can be a sudden reaction. Sometimes, it comes on more slowly. It can be signaled by sweating, weakness, dizziness, headache, heart pounding, a fast and weak pulse, irritable behavior, and mental confusion. The important thing is to get the person to quickly eat something containing a lot of sugar, such as candy or non-diet soda.
If a person is found staggering, unable to speak clearly, or is already unconscious, many people assume he or she is drunk and not in need of immediate help. This is a potentially dangerous situation because the staggering, confused or unconscious person may be in a severe insulin reaction or entering a diabetic coma. It is easy to know if a person is drunk: You can smell alcohol. But if a person's breath smells sweet (or "Fruity"), and if the person's skin is flushed, hot and dry, think of a diabetic coma. If the skin is pale, cold, damp with perspiration, think of an insulin reaction. In either case, the person needs immediate medical attention. If there is doubt, treat a conscious diabetic with sugar. This relatively small amount won't hurt.
If you would like more information, please call the Texas Panhandle Chapter of the juvenile diabetes foundation at (806)352-6418.

Farm and Ranch

Government aids exports; other factors still hurting

WASHINGTON (AP) — Government subsidies, credit and foreign aid programs have helped soften the plunge in U.S. farm exports but may not be enough to offset other factors that have chewed into commodity sales abroad, an Agriculture Department analyst says.

Mark Smith of the department's Economic Research Service says, for example, the relatively new Export Enhancement Program (EEP) has boosted sales of selected commodities, mostly grain, to targeted countries.

"Determining the effectiveness of the Export Enhancement Program is difficult, partly because this program is only about two years old," he said. "A simple before-and-after analysis may be all that is possible, but we must recognize that the EEP may not be solely responsible for the changes."

Even so, he said, the before-and-after figures for wheat and flour sales to the targeted countries "suggest that the U.S. share has increased slightly in those countries as a whole."

Under EEP, the department awards bonuses to U.S. exporters in the form of certificates redeemable in free surplus commodities owned by the Commodity Credit Corp. The bonuses, or subsidies, enable exporters to sell specified farm products to targeted countries at less than the U.S. market prices.

The program was started, in part, as a response to the export subsidies of other countries, mainly those in the European Economic Community.

As of Aug. 20, more than $1.5 billion in bonuses had been awarded to help sell U.S. commodities to selected or targeted foreign countries, including sales to the Soviet Union, China and many others.

Smith said in the September issue of Farline magazine that other analysts have found that U.S. wheat shipments to North Africa and the Middle East increased after the program began. Commodity exports by the EEC declined initially, but then recovered, although still trailing U.S. sales.

Without EEP assistance, agency analysts have concluded that U.S. shipments to those areas would have remained at 1984-85 levels or lower and that the European shipments would have been much larger, he said.

The subsidies provided under EEP are by no means the only aid given farm exports by the government. Older credit programs have been expanded recently, and the 33-year-old Food for Peace, or P.L. 480, program is still a mainstay for needy countries that cannot buy U.S. commodities outright.

An example is the CCC's Export Credit Guarantee Program, called GSM-102, which provides short-term credit guarantees of up to three years for exports of farm commodities.

But Smith said that while liberal credit terms have helped the United States retain foreign customers, lower prices from competitors can lure them away.

"For example, South Korea has long received CCC credit and credit guarantees," he said. "The United States provided 100 percent of Korea's commercial wheat and flour imports in trade years 1980-82, but by 1984 had lost about 30 percent of that market, mostly to Australia."

Smith added: "The United States supplied 99 percent of Peru's commercial wheat and flour imports in 1980-81, but fell below 45 percent in 1984, losing sales mostly to Argentina. This shows the difficulty credit programs have in the face of stiff price competition."

It would be unrealistic, he said, to expect export programs alone to counter all the economic forces that have weakened world demand and damaged U.S. competitiveness in recent years.

given discretion to put them in effect for wheat, feed grains and soybeans as well.

Secretary Richard E. Lyng so far has declined to do so despite periodic pressure from some of the producers.

If implemented for the 1987 wheat and feed grain crops, the report said, "exports and domestic use would only rise modestly but costs would total an additional $920 million to $1.55 billion above current expected outlays."

It said estimates for a soybean marketing loan depend on world price.

GSPA adds animal nutritionist

In an effort to increase grain sorghum use and sales worldwide, the Grain Sorghum Promotion Federation of the National Grain Sorghum Producers Association has added an animal nutritionist to its staff.

Bruce Boren, who recently completed his doctorate in poultry nutrition at Texas A&M University, is the new animal nutritionist for National GSPA. Boren, who also has an M.S. in ruminant nutrition and has studied swine nutrition, will specialize in grain sorghum utilization.

Boren will work closely with foreign and domestic livestock producers, animal nutritionists, and feed manufacturers to demonstrate the advantages of feeding U.S. yellow sorghum in livestock rations.

"Dr. Boren's background makes him uniquely qualified for this position," said Elbert Harp, executive director of National GSPA. "We deal with all species of livestock in our market expansion work, so his diverse knowledge will be a real asset."

Boren will also be responsible for directing and coordinating sorghum utilization research funded by the Federation. He is compiling a computer library of research information on sorghum utilization so that the information will be readily available to sorghum users.

In addition, Boren will develop least-cost rations that reflect savings to feeders when sorghum prices are favorable. According to Boren, most feeders in the U.S. are using least-cost feed formulation, but feeders in some parts of the world need to know about it.

Higher cattle, cotton prices help

Higher cattle and cotton prices are expected to improve the 1987 agricultural income for Texas, according to an economist in marketing with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

These two commodities account for more than half of the state's farm income, says Dr. Carl G. Anderson of the Texas A&M University System.

Livestock receipts may exceed $6 billion, an increase of 11 percent from a year earlier. Crop marketings are expected to total about $3 billion to remain about steady with a year ago.

"In addition, large government payments and agriculturally-related income from hunting leases, horses, and other outdoor recreation, and off-farm income will likely increase net farm income some 5 to 10 percent this year," Anderson estimates.

Farm expenses overall will probably remain stable, he predicts. Energy and chemical expenses may increase slightly, while depreciation, capital and land costs are expected to remain low.

Anderson notes that land values are showing signs of stabilizing, the credit crunch appears to be easing, and with the weaker dollar, export prospects are improving.

"Farm commodity markets the first half of this year, compared with the same period last year, show prices 25 percent higher for calves and lambs, wool is up 20 percent, beef cattle and sheep are showing a 15 percent increase, hogs are posting a 12 percent rise, and milk is up 3 percent. Partially offsetting these increases, however, are 7 percent lower egg prices and 4 percent lower broiler prices," Anderson says.

He points out that most crops are marketed in the second half of the year. At mid-year, however, prices for cotton are substantially higher, and rice is up slightly from levels of a year earlier. Sorghum and corn prices are considerably lower, with wheat down moderately.

The keys to restoring farm prosperity lie partly beyond the farm gate, Anderson says.

With low agricultural returns, producers are striving to use more and better production and market information to manage a business.

Marketing loan helps, but costly

WASHINGTON (AP) - Marketing loans for rice and cotton have allowed the United States to regain the world market share it enjoyed in the early 1980s but at a cost of $635 million, according to a USDA report to Congress.

Expanding these federal subsidies to include wheat, feed grains and soybeans "could be very costly," according to the report, which lawmakers required as part of a crop insurance bill approved earlier this year.

The rice and cotton subsidies were established under the 1985 farm act and the agriculture secretary was
