Group looks at income tax

AUSTIN (AP) — A citizen-legislator panel should consider personal and corporate income tax and their implications for Texas because of growing sentiments for them, the group was told.

There should be no sacred cows, including an income tax, as the Select Committee on Tax Equity prepares its report for the 1989 Legislature, Carolyn Barta, editor of Viewpoints for the Dallas Morning News, said Thursday.

Committee executive director Billy Hamilton said the panel would consider a personal income tax and its implications for the state at its June meeting.

Fort Worth Mayor Bob Bolen, meanwhile, said federal aid as a source of revenue for cities totaled 19.8 percent in 1979, but now provides only about 6 percent to 7 percent of all municipal revenue.

Bolen, president of the Texas Municipal League, said the league believes the importance of the property tax will decline or remain stagnant over the short term, sales tax collections will rebound and user fees will climb.

Since 1965, Bolen said, the total of state and local tax collections in Texas as a percentage of personal income has not changed much, and was 9.8 percent in 1986.

"It seems to me that 10-11 percent of personal income is our 'fiscal elbow room' in Texas," he said.

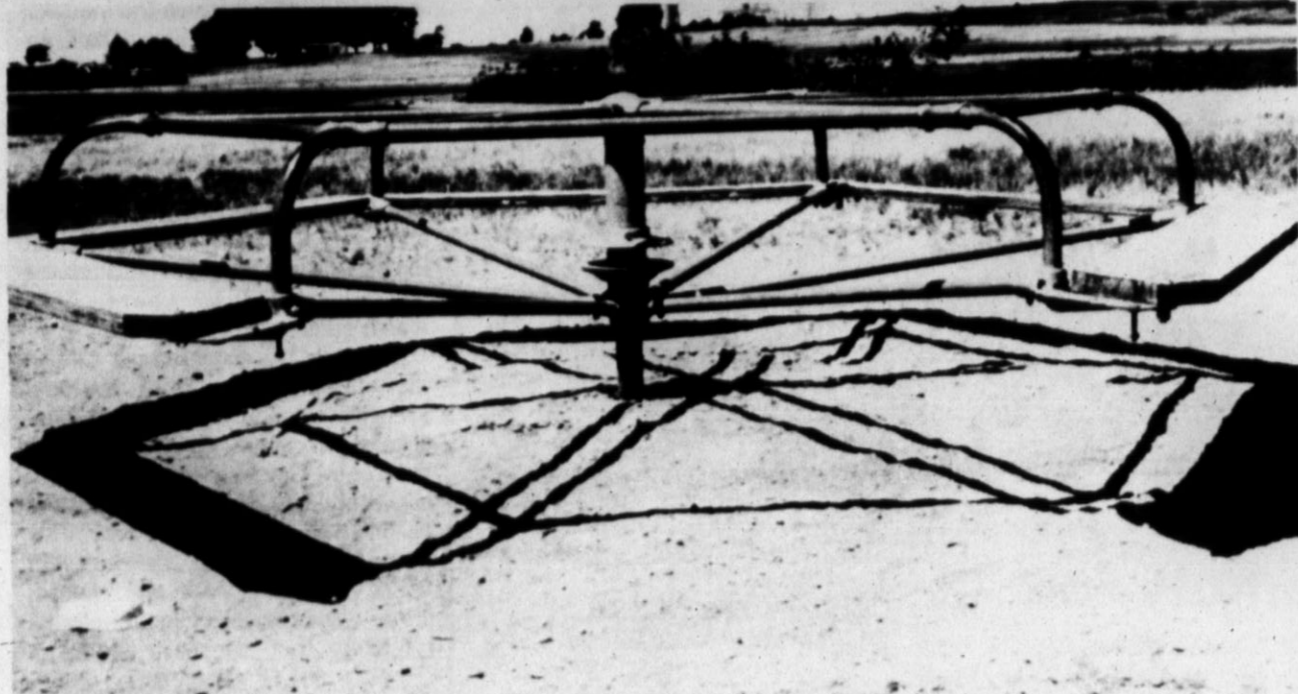

Hamilton, noting a recent special legislative session had enacted a $5.7 billion tax package, said as much as $1.7 billion was wrapped up in one-time measures that won't contribute to the revenue stream after the 1988-89 fiscal period.

He said evidence suggests that the Texas tax system up to now has been neither proportional nor progressive, and in recent years has been marked by a significant instability.

Also, Hamilton said, the U.S. Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations ranked Texas 41st among the 50 states in overall balance between state and local taxes.

"A primary cause for Texas' relative imbalance — until recently at least — is the use of severance taxes, as opposed to income taxes, to carry a large share of the tax load," Hamilton said.

Ms. Barta said the committee's work should be done without regard to political risks.

Park disrepair

Missing equipment, limited maintenance budgets and widespread vandalism have hurt Hereford's city parks. The missing bench on this ride, coupled with broken swings, graffiti and nuisance destruction are just part of the problems with parks that Brand staff writer Debe Graves will examine in Sunday's Brand.

Feds question sting

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — A West Texas sheriff's international weapons-sting operation is drawing fire from federal officials who are investigating what they say were questionable tactics.

Charles Conroy, a U.S. Customs spokesman in Houston, said Thursday that his agency will probe the sting that snared a purported Portuguese arms dealer to determine if the man or the sheriff's office broke any laws.

"We've got people involved in an international incident in the illegal traffic of the munitions of war, and the Customs Service has a vested interest in that," he said. "Customs has initiated an investigation of the events."

But Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter, who spearheaded the six-month investigation of Iranian arms deals, dismissed the federal consternation and said he believes he has a solid case to present to a local grand jury.

"I have an obligation to uphold state law. This was just a little bit further away; it's nothing special," he said. "It will be up to the grand jury whether charges will be filed. All we did was catch the dude. We have strong case."

The arrested man — Victor Manuel Fonseca, 47, of Lisbon — remained in jail late Thursday in lieu of $500,000 bond, charged with organized criminal activity.

The self-described mercenary was nabbed Wednesday while inspecting crates he allegedly believed contained stolen parts for the sophisticated Hawk missile system, Painter said. The crates actually contained barrels filled with gravel.

"We have a man in custody who came to further a crime in the U.S. that, had it been a righteous deal, would have resulted in armament and munitions that could be used against Americans," Painter said.

The charge against Fonseca is a state felony punishable by up to 20 years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Customs spokesman Dennis Murphy said that since the barrels contained gravel and not weapons, there was no evidence and no federal law broken.

Painter recruited reserve deputies Gary Howard and Ron Tucker to help in the operation, but Murphy described the two as freelancers whose actions are viewed with suspicion.

"Based on what we know now we wouldn't touch them with a 20-foot pole," Murphy said in Washington of the two Austin-based security consultants. "The whole operation is highly questionable and highly unusual."

Fonseca, who said the Iranian government had sent him to barter for $2 million in stolen missile parts, was arrested while opening crates in an airplane hangar as video cameras whirred.

Painter said his probe had been under way for six months, and started when two arms dealers from Britain, one identified as Michael Aspin, contacted Tucker and Howard to set up the deal.

Tucker and Howard are close friends who have participated in U.S. Customs undercover operation in the past, Painter said.

Conroy said Customs had been aware of Painter's operation since May, "but there had been no violation of law up to this time. It's been a sort of hypothetical situation until now, and there was no need for involvement."

Painter complained last week that federal authorities ignored information he provided them a year ago about alleged terrorist training camps in Mexico.

In return for the information, he said all he got was a warning from the FBI that he might have broken federal laws by gathering intelligence outside the country.

Concerned Citizens

Two board members quit

By DEBE GRAVES

Amid internal strife in the organization, a message of hope was brought to members of Concerned Citizens during a Thursday night meeting.

Roger Scott Jr., director of the Upward Bound Program at West Texas State University, was guest speaker and provided information on his program, which is designed to assist students from low income families in the pursuit of a college education.

Following Scott's program, Pete LaFuenta, president of Concerned Citizens, led officers and directors in a closed meeting during which two officers introduced letters of resignation.

The officers wishing to resign from the nine-month-old organization are Delia Griego, vice-president, and Sylvia Flores, who resigned her office as treasurer at a previous meeting.

Silvana Juarez, a Hereford city commissioner who is on the board of Concerned Citizens, said the two listed internal strife within the organization and the improper presentation of issues as reasons for their resignations.

"Issues were not presented through the proper channels of the organization," she said. One of the issues which has led to some disagreement within the group was the presentation of a petition, on the behalf of hispanic teens, citing the Hereford Police Department for harassment and brutality.

The petition, which was presented by LaFuenta and Irene Cantu, who is a vice-president of the organization, was not cleared through the board of directors of the organization as bylaws require.

Juarez says the resignations of the two members were not accepted during the closed session. "There are some on the board who wish to wait a little longer and give them some time to rethink their decisions," she says.

The loss of Flores and Griego is of concern to the organization, according to board member Martha Rincon, who says she requested a delay in accepting the resignations so that board members can meet and try to resolve some of the differences.

As a vice-president in charge of programs, Griego has been responsible for scheduling guest speakers to present programs.

"The purpose of the organization is to act as a clearing house for community problems, to advocate meaningful solutions and to build constructive community bridges with county, city and state government institutions and to insure the under-represented citizens have equal access for fair treatment by those institutions," says Griego.

She said a major function of the organization has been to present programs to help people with various problems. Griego has previously organized programs on available health care services, combating the

Upward Bound

Program gets student going

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

Students from low-income families and those whose parents did not graduate from college have access to a federally-funded program to assist them in preparing for and beginning college, according to Roger Scott Jr.

Scott is the director of the Upward Bound Project, offered by West Texas State University in Canyon. The WTSU program is one of 468 Upward Bound Projects on campuses throughout the United States, according to Scott, and is not limited to students planning to attend WTSU.

"If kids use the excuse they want to go to college but have not money, you tell them they are fibbing," Scott told the Concerned Citizens. "If they come to me I will guarantee I will get them the money they are eligible for."

Upward Bound focuses on assisting students in high school as they prepare to attend college. Summer sessions are offered on the WTSU campus in which participants attend learning block courses to assist them with math, economics, English, biology, developing study skills and in career guidance.

Students participating in the six-week summer sessions live on campus and all of their expenses are paid. In addition, they are given a weekly stipend of $10.

During the academic year, Upward Bound students attend programs to improve their reading ability, vocabulary, writing ability and knowledge of math and science. They are invited back to the campus to attend cultural activities and school functions, such as homecoming.

Students participating during the academic year attend programs two Saturdays a month. Transportation and meals are provided at no cost, and they receive a stipend of $7.

Scott says that Upward Bound is a successful program, with the numbers to prove it when compared to the national drop-out rates. Nationwide, 80 percent of students in the program attend college; however, Scott says that in this area the percentage is lower (68 percent) but when compared to high school drop-out rates he says his program is an outstanding success.

Texas leads in job losses

DALLAS (AP) — The oil recession helped rob Houston of more jobs than any other major U.S. city last year, and a resulting slowdown in regional commerce is partly to blame for making Dallas No. 2 in the number of job losses, a research company reports.

M-PF Research Inc. of Dallas said Houston lost 75,400 jobs between March 1986 and March 1987 for a 5.2 decline in total employment, while 31,500 jobs in Dallas disappeared for an employment loss of 2.3 percent during the same period.

Rounding out the top five were Oklahoma City, which lost 19,100 or 4.6 percent of total employment; New Orleans, 17,700 or 3.3 percent; and Odessa, 5,700 or 11.6 percent, according to the report released Wednesday.

The West and Northeast led the nation in employment growth, while the South had the lowest overall job gain owing to losses in Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma, the M-PF Research report said.

"While the results of the oil recession have been obvious in Houston, Oklahoma City, Tulsa and New Orleans for several years, the slowdown in regional commerce has begun to hurt the economies of Dallas-Fort Worth, San Antonio and Austin," the report said.

Los Angeles, with 97,100 new jobs; Washington, D.C., with 78,400; and Atlanta, with 73,600, were the top U.S. job growth markets, according to M-PF.

The Dallas job losses through the first quarter were primarily because of consolidations in construction-related industries, analysts said.

In an analysis of development and investment opportunities in the cities it surveys, M-PF Research consistently rated Houston, Dallas and Denver among the worst places for new real estate activity.

A separate report by real estate consultant Kenneth Leventhal & Co. forecasts that Houston's overbuilt office market won't be back to low vacancy levels for at least seven years.

U.S. Marshals arrest Hereford man

U.S. Deputy Marshals, assisted by Hereford police officers, arrested Jose Garcia, 53, of Hereford, Thursday for violation of his parole on a murder charge.

Garcia was arrested on federal charges of being a fugitive from justice. He was found hiding in the shower stall of his home in the 300 block of Ave. D.

Other arrests included a man, 25, charged with DWI, theft over $20 and under $200 and evading arrest in connection with the theft of beer from a convenience store at 25 Mile Ave. and Heibach.

Officer Kirk Spain spotted the suspect's vehicle heading south of US 385 and followed the man to the San Jose Labor Camp, where the man finally stopped after several warnings.

A 46-year-old man was arrested for violating a protective order, a 36-year-old man was charged with assault in connection with a domestic dispute, and a man, 23, was arrested for no liability insurance, second offense.

Other reported offenses included two cases of criminal mischief; a burglary of a motor vehicle; a case of criminal trespass; and disorderly conduct by use of profanity.

Two citations were issued and no accidents were reported Thursday.

The Hereford Volunteer Fire Department responded to a grass fire seven miles south of Hereford.

Iran admits gulf mining

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — Iran admitted planting mines in the Persian Gulf region "to defend our coastlines" against foreign fleets as wind-whipped sand delayed a convoy of American-escorted Kuwaiti tankers heading up the waterway.

The acknowledgment, made Thursday night in a Tehran Radio dispatch, was Iran's first about the mines, which the Pentagon says have damaged commercial shipping from the gulf's northern reaches to an anchorage outside its mouth.

The third convoy of American warships and Kuwaiti tankers was stopped near the spot where the super-tanker Bridgeton hit a mine July 24 and where concerns over mines delayed the second convoy for about 12 hours.

The Tehran Radio dispatch said stepped-up U.S. military presence in the region had justified Iran's placing of mines.

Iran is capable of clearing of the mines, but it cannot agree to the presence of foreign fleets in the region, the state-run radio quoted Kamal Kharrazi, the supervisor of Iran's war publicity headquarters, as saying.

Kharrazi told a news conference Thursday night that Iran is using mines for defense, not to threaten the security of shipping in the gulf, the radio said.

"Given the present situation, the fundamental question today is why the United States does not leave the region," he was quoted as saying in the broadcast.

On Wednesday, Iranian commandos firing from a motorized dinghy attacked the Bribir, a Yugoslav freighter, shipping sources said. No injuries were reported.

An American-operated super-tanker carrying Iranian oil was damaged by a mine Aug. 11 in an anchorage off the port of Fujairah, in the Gulf of Oman. Before the incident, the port had been considered a safe haven from the 7-year-old Iran-Iraq war. More than 330 ships have been attacked by Iran or Iraq since the war broke out.

"We are stressing that Iran is making efforts to use its fleet and clear mines in international waters and that by using mines, Iran is not refusing security to shipping in the gulf. Rather, we are trying to use our maritime capabilities to defend our coastlines," Kharrazi was quoted as saying.

Earlier Thursday, Iran declared the Gulf of Oman and the Strait of Hormuz, the entry to the Persian Gulf, free of mines. Tehran said its navy had destroyed four mines during a six-day operation in the area.

Bad weather Thursday had halted the third convoy of U.S. warships and reflagged Kuwaiti tankers off the coast of Saudi Arabia, about 200 miles from its destination at the Al-Ahmedi terminal in Kuwait.

U.S. Navy officers have been concerned that bad weather, particularly blowing sand and dust, could hamper the helicopters scouting ahead of the convoy for mines.

Midland 'stingers' had experience

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — Two men who helped a West Texas sheriff set up an international weapons sting have also played roles as federal operatives, security consultants and sophisticated crime-stoppers.

Ron Tucker and Gary Howard were instrumental in a Midland County Sheriff Gary Painter's operation that resulted in the Wednesday arrest of self-described Portuguese mercenary Victor Manuel Fonesca, 47, of Lisbon.

Fonseca, who allegedly was arranging a $2 million missile-parts deal for the Iranian war machine, remains jailed in lieu of $500,000 bond on a charge of organized criminal activity.

That six-month operation was nothing new for Tucker and Howard, who run a security consulting business in Austin.

Several years ago, they were instrumental in the largest U.S. Customs Service arms seizure when a $6 million cache destined for South Africa was halted at Houston's Intercontinental Airport, Customs spokesman Charles Conroy said Thursday in his Houston office.

"It was a very successful operation ... we arrested the whole crew, practically," Conroy said. The weapons, manufactured in the Northeast, were taken from a Boeing 707 aircraft.

Howard, a former U.S. Border Patrol agent, and Tucker, a former narcotics officer with the Texas Department of Public Safety, have also worked on sting operations for the U.S. Department of the Treasury, Painter said.

And for the last two years, they say, they have kept their friend Painter posted on criminal activities they hear about in his county.

Court refuses Col. North's plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court has given the independent counsel investigating the Iran-Contra affair a green light to proceed, ruling that he is operating under a valid Justice Department regulation.

In its ruling Thursday, the U.S. Court of Appeals rejected an argument by Lt. Col. Oliver L. North that the March 5 regulation authorizing independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh's work was invalid.

However, the court did not rule on the claim by the fired National Security Council aide that the independent counsel provision of the Ethics in Government Act is unconstitutional, saying that question needn't be decided in this case.

In a 31-page opinion, the court said Walsh and his associate counsel derive "the necessary legal authority from the attorney general's regulation of March 5, 1987, regardless of whether they also have this authority pursuant to their appointments under the Ethics Act."

The ruling upholds a decision last month by U.S. District Judge Aubrey E. Robinson, who also did not rule on the constitutionality of the independent counsel provision.

It also upholds the district court's order holding North in contempt for failing to comply with a subpoena issued by the grand jury. The subpoena reportedly concerns a sample of North's handwriting, which he has refused to provide.

The Court of Appeals decision was written by Judge Douglas H. Ginsburg with concurrence of Judge Ruth Bader Ginsburg. Judge Stephen F. Williams issued a concurring opinion saying he agreed with the majority "insofar as it upholds the authority of independent counsel Walsh ... under the attorney general's regulations."

However, he dissented regarding whether the court should review the constitutionality question, saying the court could rule on that issue.

North was fired from his NSC job after the diversion of funds from Iranian arms sales to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels was made public. He has said his actions, including guiding the sale of U.S. arms to Iran and the diversion, were approved by his superiors.

North, a target of Walsh's investigation, was challenging a grand jury subpoena obtained by Walsh and was appealing Robinson's ruling.

PROGRAM CITIZENS

Since the program's inception, numerous Hereford students have participated. "I still remember my first Hereford student," Scott recalls, "was Richard Benavidez, who went on to graduate from medical school and resides, with his wife, in Albuquerque, N.M."

Students residing in a 50-mile radius from WTSU are eligible to participate, and Scott says there are currently 70 enrolled, with Hereford having 14 participating. "Any sophomore or junior can enroll now for this semester's program," Scott says, "by calling my office collect or by contacting the Hereford High School counselor."

Scott's phone number is 656-2737, and he or his assistant, Mike Cook, will provide more information and applications for the program.

"If they just want to see what the program is all about they can catch the first Saturday morning bus from Hereford High School and I will give them a free lunch and let them sit in on classes," Scott says.

Once participants are out of high school the program offers a special "bridge" to assist them with the changes of lifestyle demanded by college. Scott said his program will even pay for their first semester of college so that they can monitor the student's progress and assist with any problems before they become too bad to handle.

Hispanic drop-out rate in our schools, the bi-lingual education program, new immigration laws, and available legal assistance.

"It is the opportunity to work in this way for change that attracted me to the group," she said. "I am in disagreement on how the petition was presented because the directors were not aware of that petition prior to it being presented to the media."

"If there is an incident of police brutality or harassment, then let those people involved come forth on their own and give their evidence as required by law, and not through our organization, because then we would be taking a stand without having all of the facts."

Rain hits coast, south

By The Associated Press

A tropical wave brought scattered showers to the Texas Gulf coast, while the rest of the state had continued clear skies and hot temperatures.

Associated with the weak tropical wave were thundershowers, mainly offshore the southern coast today extending south to Northeast Mexico, the National Weather Service said. Otherwise, high pressure aloft prevailed over the greater part of Texas.

Clear skies were common across the state, except in the deep South and far West Texas, where partly cloudy skies prevailed.

Southerly winds at 5 to 10 mph breezed most of the state. The Big Bend area had light and variable winds.

At 4 a.m., temperatures statewide were mostly in the 70s. Extreme temperatures in the state ranged from a cool 58 degrees at Marfa in the Davis Mountains to a mild 84 degrees at Love Field and the Naval Air Station in Dallas.

Tonight's forecast called for a chance of widely scattered, mainly nighttime thunderstorms over the far West part of the state. Otherwise, skies will be generally fair tonight.

Summer interns

'How I spent my summer: CIA spy'

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — A government agency is offering college students summer internships but won't say exactly what they'll be doing or how much they'll be paid, and none of what they learn can go on their resumes.

"You cannot talk about what you did here," CIA spokeswoman Sharon Foster said Thursday from the spy agency's headquarters in Langley, Va.

The CIA for years has had a work-study program for students and summer internships for graduate students. Now, the agency is opening its doors to up to 30 undergrads who might like to spend eight weeks next summer learning about the daily grind of espionage.

The CIA says it's looking for students who "can meet challenges with imagination." In return, the internship promises to polish students' abilities in "writing, observation, elicitation and clandestine operations."

Ms. Foster could not say precisely what the interns will be doing.

"They wouldn't be writing papers for the president of the United States as undergraduates, or they wouldn't be out recruiting agents, because they wouldn't be overseas," she said. Still, the interns could find themselves in danger.

"Anybody who works at the CIA could be in physical jeopardy," she said. "I mean, it's the nature of the beast."

To participate, a student must be a U.S. citizen with a B average and must pass CIA security, aptitude and psychological examinations. Interns also must pass a security clearance and plan to graduate by 1989 in order to work next summer.

Once the interns complete the eight-week session, they can get the CIA to pick up the cost of their last year's tuition by agreeing to commit 18 months to the agency.

They will be paid as interns, but the amount is a secret, Ms. Foster said.

"They're paid at a flat rate," she said. "We don't talk about it."

The experience is described as valuable, but won't be anything the students can brag about if they go looking for another job, although the CIA will confirm that a former employee worked there.

"Anybody who comes to work for us, no matter what their security classification, has to sign a secrecy agreement," Ms. Foster said. "They cannot talk about what they did or what organization they worked for." That, she says, is a pitfall faced by anyone from the spy agency who seeks outside work.

"You have to be creative in writing your resume," she said. "It hasn't hurt our people from getting jobs."

Hart might re-enter race

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Gary Hart may re-enter the race for the presidency, said his former campaign manager, and the Colorado Democrat refused today to confirm or deny that he is considering renewing his bid for the White House.

"I think he's likely to get back in the presidential race in the next 30 to 60 days," former campaign manager William Dixon said in an interview Thursday with radio station WORT-FM here.

Hart, who was vacationing in Ireland, told Irish Radio today he was cutting his holiday short and flying home because of the reports, the network said.

"I will not confirm or deny the claim," Hart said.

Hart had said Thursday that he was not reconsidering his decision to withdraw and had no knowledge of any effort to change his mind, Cable News Network reported. Hart said he was unfamiliar with the content of Dixon's statement, but denied the substance of it.

Hart was vacationing with his son near Galway, Ireland, according to CNN, which said it obtained Hart's comment through an Irish TV station.

He withdrew May 8, less than a month after his bid for the Democratic nomination officially began, amid reports he was involved with actress-model Donna Rice of Miami. The former senator is married.

While Dixon said he would not play a major role in a revived campaign, he said he has been in regular contact with Hart, and added that Hart's family and others close to him have urged him to re-enter the race.

"He's going to have to make that decision," Dixon said. "This is an intensely personal decision."

Dixon, who lives in Madison, told WORT-FM that Hart would be a long shot to get the nomination, but said he would enhance the Democratic field by focusing on issues such as defense and U.S.-Soviet relations.

"It's so unlikely that Gary would be the Democratic nominee, but he would make the candidates strong if he got in," Dixon said.

Dixon did not return two telephone messages left at his home by The Associated Press on Thursday evening, and there was no answer at his home later.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, a Colorado Democrat who co-chaired Hart's campaign and has explored running since his withdrawal, seemed startled to hear that Hart might be considering re-entering.

"I know nothing about it," she told reporters at a meeting of the National Women's Political Caucus in Portland, Ore. "He's on his own."

Hal Haddon, a Hart friend and former campaign assistant, said he did not think a new campaign was a good idea.

"I don't think the organization is there any longer to run any kind of a campaign," Haddon said. "You've got to have a good organization."

Col. John C. Wright to speak at Business Men's Fellowship

The local chapter of the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship International will feature Col. John C. Wright as their speaker Saturday, Aug. 22.

The meeting will be held in the Hereford Community Center beginning at 7 p.m. with the meal catered by Caison House Restaurant. Special music will be provided by Shannon Wilburn.

Wright, a born again Christian, has been working with young people as a high school Jr. R.O.T.C. instructor and teaches a rap session in his home. In this class he illustrates a way of dealing with high schoolers' problems through scriptural answers.

Born and raised in San Antonio, he graduated from Brackenridge High School, attended San Antonio College, then became an aviation cadet at Goodfellow A.F.B. in San Angelo right after the outbreak of the Korean War. He then learned to fly the first American jet fighter plane at Williams AFB in Arizona.

After a year in Korea where he flew 100 combat missions, he returned to Phoenix, Ariz., where he trained new pilots in the art of air combat tactics. He then moved to Dyess AFB to fly the B-47 Jet Bomber, then to Indiana to fly America's first Super-sonic Jet Bomber, the B-58.

He had other assignments, then retired after 28 years of service. He and his wife are the parents of four children.

Panhandle Small Business Center names new directors

Dr. Jim Owens has been named director of the West Texas State University Panhandle Small Business Development Center, according to Jerry Miller, dean of the T. Boone Pickens College of Business.

Previously a professor of finance at WT, Owens will assume his new duties Aug. 24. He replaces Bob Worthington, a noted aviation journalist, who resigned to write full-time.

Owens received both his BBA and MBA from West Texas State, and earned his DBA from Harvard University. His area of specialty is international finance.

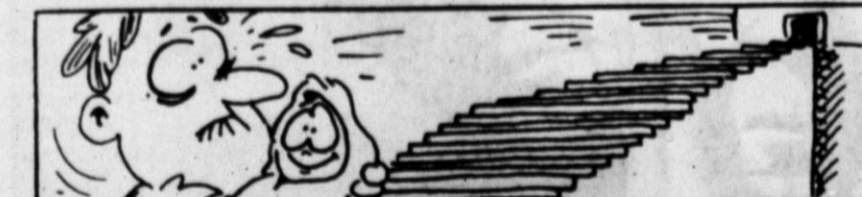

The Panhandle Small Business Development Center provides consultation services to small area businesses. Services include developing feasibility studies, marketing plans, business plans and record-keeping systems; location analysis; and other business functions. The center also works with owners and managers of existing businesses and with people who are starting new businesses. The center serves the northernmost 25 counties of Texas. All services are free.

Ben Neely, former instructor of marketing, will become the director of the Center for Entrepreneurial Studies Aug. 24.

Neely has a BBA and MBA from the University of Texas at Austin. He was an owner of Neely Oil in Amarillo and served as marketing research manager for several corporations in Dallas before joining WTSU in 1984.

The Center for Entrepreneurial Studies is a student-oriented organization that provides supervised learning experience for WT students interested in working with local small businesses.

An old superstition had it that a newborn baby must be carried upstairs before it is carried down. This act supposedly guaranteed the child would rise in the world and have a successful life.

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — Kirk Douglas says that when he looks at Wall Street executives implicated in insider trading, he wonders if their minds have been muddled from watching "too much lousy television."

"When these fellows in famous brokerage houses give themselves code names and go to secret rendezvous to exchange bags of cash, do they know who they are?" Douglas writes in this Sunday's Parade magazine. "Or have they just been watching too much lousy television?"

The problem, Douglas says, is people become confused about the line between make-believe and reality.

"What made Dennis Levine or Ivan Boesky choose to do what they did?" Douglas asks. "Do they want all this money just so they can live like characters on 'Dynasty'?"

WEST HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — A sheriff's deputy who stopped musician Ike Turner on a traffic violation noticed a cocaine pipe and a piece of cocaine in the car and arrested Turner and a companion on drug charges, authorities said.

Turner, the 54-year-old former husband of singer Tina Turner, was being held Thursday on $2,500 bail for investigation of possession of cocaine, said Los Angeles County Sheriff's Deputy Pete Fosselman.

A passenger, Willie James Smith, 40, of Cerritos, was booked for investigation of possession of cocaine for sale and was being held on $5,000 bail.

Wednesday's arrest was one of several over the years on narcotics charges for Turner. Last year, Turner, who lives in Cerritos, acknowledged he had used cocaine daily for 15 years and said he was undergoing rehabilitation.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pop star Madonna, whose tour of the nation this summer drew sell-out crowds, said she ate out of trash cans and begged for a place to stay when she first came to New York.

"I would take whatever I could take in a taxicab to wherever I went to next," Madonna, who was raised in Bay City, Mich., said in the Sept. 7 issue of Us magazine.

"I took a big breath, gritted my teeth, blinked back my tears and said, 'I'm gonna do it — I have to do it, because there's nowhere else for me to go.'"

Madonna said she still loves bad-boy actor Sean Penn and remains optimistic about their chances of staying together despite rumors of divorce that have endured almost since their wedding day.

"Let's just say I'm feeling hopeful," she said. "I love Sean and I'm feeling hopeful."

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi greeted hundreds of well-wishers on his 43rd birthday, but no public celebration was held because of a severe drought.

"There is a certain mood of austerity and he made his views known to us that there should be no fuss," said Rajeshwari Tandon, Gandhi's social secretary, said Thursday.

A drought has caused food shortages in 14 of India's 25 states.

One follower brought a cake and another a 6-foot portrait of Gandhi's grandfather, Jawaharlal Nehru, India's first prime minister, as a gift.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary William E. Brock has gone home following an operation to repair a detached retina in one eye.

Brock, who underwent surgery Tuesday, was discharged from Georgetown University Hospital on Thursday. He suffered the injury last weekend.

Astros win seventh straight

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Doran appreciates the seven-game winning streak that is Houston's longest of the season, but he's not ready to call it the launch point for an Astros pennant drive.

"We've had momentum before and it's seemed to leave us at times," said Doran, whose three-run homer helped the Astros defeat the St. Louis Cardinals 5-4 Thursday, sweeping their three-game series.

"I just hope this time it stays with us," he added. "We've just been hanging in there for it to happen. Bet-

Changes in HHS volleyball schedule made

Some changes in next week's Hereford High School volleyball matches have been announced by Coach Brenda Reeh.

On Tuesday, there will be only a junior varsity match against Wellman, beginning at 2 p.m. The scheduled originally had both junior varsity and varsity matches.

On Thursday, the site for the matches has been changed. Hereford will play at Brownfield instead of Brownfield traveling to Hereford.

Match times at Brownfield will be 2:30 p.m. for the junior varsity match and 3:30 for the varsity match.

Because of the schedule changes, the first home match for the HHS varsity will be on Tuesday, Sept. 8 versus Lubbock High at 7:30 p.m. A junior varsity match will be played at 6:30 p.m. that day.

The 1987 season begins today when the varsity plays in the Lubbock tournament. A Lubbock tournament for junior varsity teams is scheduled on Monday.

The season schedule on this page includes the changes for next week.

ter late than never, I guess."

Doran's 15th homer of the season gave the Astros a 3-0 lead in the fifth inning, but the Cardinals took a 4-3 lead in the seventh, aided by pinch hitter Terry Pendleton's two-run triple and Jack Clark's 33rd homer of the season.

Houston tied it in their half of the seventh when third baseman Jose Oquendo's throwing error allowed Craig Reynolds to score from third base. Glenn Davis followed with a sacrifice fly, scoring Gerald Young with the winning run.

Young went 4-for-4 in the game, hitting three singles and a double prior to scoring the winning run. He fell trying to catch Pendleton's triple in the seventh, allowing two runs to score.

"I didn't want to let that bother me," Young said. "We're on a roll and I want to help keep us that way."

The Cards scored five runs and got 16 hits in the series. They were shut out in the series opener 4-0, and had the best chance of avoiding a sweep with as four-run seventh inning before the Astros rally.

"They tried to give it to us and we gave it right back to them," Cards Manager Whitey Herzog said. "We finally got some hits, but we're really struggling. There will be times like this for every club."

"We're a Jekyll-and-Hyde team — we hit like hell for 100 games and — we haven't hit for about 20," he said. "It's the damnest thing I've ever seen."

Pendleton saw encouragement in the Cards' nine hits Thursday.

"We're battling back," he said. "We're showing signs of coming out of the offensive problems we've been having. That's a big plus. I hope it can carry over."

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Jose Guzman found a way to beat the 99-degree Texas heat — throw strikes and let his fielders do all the work.

Guzman turned in the best performance of his two-year American League career Thursday night, pitching a three-hitter in the Texas Rangers' 5-1 victory over the Chicago White Sox.

"Everything I threw was a strike," said Guzman, who used only 107 pitches. "I could have pitched three more innings I felt so good. I was really on top of my control."

Rookie Francis to start for Cowboys

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Rookie cornerback Ron Francis, a second-round draft pick from Baylor, will make his first start for the Dallas Cowboys Saturday night in a preseason game against the San Francisco 49ers, Coach Tom Landry said Thursday.

Landry wouldn't label Francis' promotion as permanent.

"He's surely in competition for it. It's an open position. Francis has done everything, or probably a little more than I thought he would do at this stage. We played well against San Diego last week," Landry said.

"It will be a good test for him," he added. "He won't be perfect. But as long as he's competitive, that's the thing that will sell a defensive back on you."

Wide receiver Mike Renfro, who missed the 29-0 loss to San Diego, will also play Saturday.

Danny White will start at quarterback and play a half. Paul McDonald and Steve Pelluer will also be at quarterback. Running back Tony Dorsett will play, but Herschel Walker, who has strained knee ligaments, will sit the game out.

Guzman, backed by two double plays, got into trouble only once, allowing Fred Manrique's sacrifice fly in the eighth inning after a walk and a single.

It was only the year's fourth complete game and the first complete-game victory since April for Guzman, who is now 10-11. He walked just two batters and struck out five hitters.

"I was working my curve very well," he said. "I've got to get over .500 now. I started slowly this year, but I think confidence in my changeup is better. It has really helped me when I throw it for strikes. This was definitely my best game in the major leagues."

Richard Dotson, now 10-9, was the hard-luck loser. Dotson had shut out the Rangers in May.

The Rangers were gifted with three unearned runs as Dotson's impressive won-loss record against Texas dropped to 11-6 lifetime.

"It was the best I've ever seen Guzman," said Chicago Manager Jim Fregosi. "I thought Dotson pitched well. We just didn't give him much support. It's hard to win games when you drop fly balls."

Chicago was guilty of two errors in the third inning, including Manrique's miff of Pete Incaviglia's towering pop fly that allowed two runs to score.

Texas added two insurance runs in the seventh on singles by Mike Stanley, Jerry Browne, Scott Fletcher and Pete O'Brien.

"Jose had an outstanding breaking ball to go along with his fastball," Rangers Manager Bobby Valentine said. "It's important at this time of the year to have Guzzie throwing the way he is throwing."

Guzman, now 4-1 lifetime against Chicago, had lost three of his last five starts.

Thursday night's contest was the shortest game of the year for the Rangers — 2 hours, 11 minutes — and was played before the smallest crowd of 11,213.

In the second game of the series tonight, Chicago's Bill Long, 6-6, is scheduled to meet Paul Kilgus, 2-4.

New Orleans coach to see Moon from different perspective

Saints, Oilers play in preseason game

By AUSTIN WILSON
AP Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — New Orleans Saints Coach Jim Mora will be seeing Houston Oilers quarterback Warren Moon from a different perspective Saturday night.

The Oilers and Saints meet in a preseason game in the Superdome, and Moon is expected to start at quarterback for Houston.

"I've known Warren for a long time," Mora said. "He played at the University of Washington when I was coaching there. In fact, I helped recruit him. My wife sold him his first house in Seattle."

These days, he said, Moon is quarterbacking a pretty good football team.

"I think they're much better than their record (5-11 last year) indicates," he said. "I think they're on the verge of being pretty competitive in the AFC Central."

Moon played only about two series in the preseason opener, a 32-20 loss to Kansas City. He hit eight of 12 passing attempts for 105 yards and two touchdowns.

Second-round draft choice Cody Carlson had a good pro debut at quarterback in a short relief appearance, going 6-8-0 passing for 50 yards. He also ran three times for 27 yards.

The Saints' quarterback picture was a bit cloudy. Starter Dave Wilson had a sore back during the week and couldn't throw in practices, but Mora said he'll play against the Oilers if he recovers by game time.

The New Orleans fans want Bobby Hebert, the Cajun cannon who won the starting job last preseason, but lost it to Wilson when he broke his foot in the third game.

Wilson was booed for his first incompletion in the 23-17 victory over Minnesota on Saturday, and the boos got louder when his second pass failed to connect. He finished his two quarters of work 7-16-0 for 69 yards, and the Saints trailed 17-3 at halftime.

Hebert played the second half with the Saints reserves against Minnesota's reserves and led a three-touchdown rally with a 6-7-0, 78-yard passing performance.

Dalton Hilliard, who lost his starting job to Rueben Mayes last season, had 11 carries for 62 yards and scored two touchdowns in the rally. Mayes, Rookie of the Year with 1,353 yards last year, got 13 yards on eight carries.

Both teams go into Saturday's game without first-round draft choices — two of 10 first-round picks unsigned across the league.

New Orleans is offering about $225,000 less than the $1.65 million that defensive lineman Shawn Knight has asked for a four-year contract. Houston is about $1 million shy of the $3 million that fullback Alonzo Highsmith is asking, General Manager Ladd Herzeg said.

The Oilers will still have a first-round choice in the game — wide receiver Haywood Jeffires. He caught two passes against Kansas City, but the Oilers are so deep in receivers that he's battling for a roster spot.

Saints wide receivers, except for starter Mike Jones, have been criticized roundly by Mora. Eric Martin, the incumbent at the other starting receiver slot, missed last game with a sore knee.

Houston was expected to have Mike Rozier in the starting lineup. He overslept last week, got to the stadium about 30 minutes before kickoff and didn't play in the Kansas City game.

Will Raiders become Irwindale Raiders?

OXNARD, Calif. (AP) — They were once the Oakland Raiders. Now, they are the Los Angeles Raiders. Next, could it be the Irwindale Raiders?

Raiders owner Al Davis signed an agreement Thursday to build a 65,000-seat stadium in the tiny, industrial city of Irwindale, 25 miles east of Los Angeles.

Davis was given a $10 million non-refundable check by representatives of Irwindale as part of a $115 million loan to build the stadium on an 80-acre, 160-foot-deep gravel and rock pit.

The agreement was signed by Davis, the Raiders' managing general partner, and three negotiators for Irwindale, after a day of meetings. Representing the city were Charles Martin, city manager; Fred Light, development consultant, and Xavier Hermosilla, chief negotiator.

Raiders spokesman John Herrera confirmed the signing and said the team would hold a press conference at noon, PDT, Friday at team headquarters in El Segundo, Calif.

"A memorandum of agreement has been signed between Irwindale and the Los Angeles Raiders whereby the Raiders will build a stadium to play their NFL seasons on a site adjacent to the 210 Freeway in Irwindale," Herrera said.

The agreement calls for the Raiders to build a 65,000-seat "state of the art" stadium including luxury boxes, a team hall of fame, practice facilities and executive offices, and parking lots in Irwindale, Herrera said.

Although the 11-page document covered most eventualities, it remained unclear whether the Raiders would abandon their practice field in El Segundo for the tiny, industrial city.

The biggest detail to be worked out between the Raiders and Irwindale concerns the property to be used for a parking lot, which is under the control of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

The Irwindale City Council voted 3-1 in favor of the main agreement at a council meeting Wednesday, agreeing to lend the Raiders $10 million in up-front forfeitable cash. The cash advance had been a major obstacle in the negotiations.

The Raiders have been looking for an alternative site to the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum, the team's current home, since plans fell through last April for a stadium renovation project involving luxury boxes.

The Raiders, who moved to Los Angeles from Oakland in 1982, have a lease to play home games in the Coliseum through 1991. The Raiders believe that lease was breached when the Coliseum failed to build the luxury boxes.

Molitor keeps hitting streak going, 35 games

By The Associated Press

If Paul Molitor breaks Joe DiMaggio's record 56-game hitting streak, he will have to credit teammate Rob Deer for a helping hand.

Molitor extended his hitting streak to 35 games Thursday night with two doubles and a single, tying Ty Cobb for the sixth-longest streak in modern major-league history, as the Brewers routed Cleveland 14-2.

After lining out hard to center field to start the game against Ken Schrom, 5-10, Molitor doubled to left with the bases loaded to drive in two runs in the second inning.

"At the All-Star break, I told Rob (Deer) I had noticed (St. Louis') Jack Clark and Ozzie Smith had originated a 'high-10' and so we started doing this on my first day back (off the disabled list)," Molitor said.

After his second-inning double Thursday night, Molitor doubled in another run with a shot to the gap in right-center during the Brewers' five-run third, and he singled and scored to start the six-run sixth. In the ninth, Molitor grounded out to third, finishing the game 3-for-5.

Deer capped the Brewers' sixth with his second grand slam in two nights. He was the first major leaguer with grand slams on consecutive nights since Greg Luzinski did it for the Chicago White Sox in June 1984.

YOU SHALL BE A WAY MAKER
John's father Zacharias was filled with the Holy Spirit and gave this prophecy:
"Praise the Lord, the God of Israel, for He has come to visit His people and redeem them."
"He is sending us a Mighty Savior from the royal line of His servant David, just as He promised through His holy prophets long ago--Someone to save us from our enemies, from all who hate us."
"He has been merciful to our ancestors, yes, to Abraham himself, by remembering His sacred promise to him, and by granting us the privilege of serving God fearlessly, freed from our enemies, and by making us holy and acceptable, ready to stand in His presence forever."
"And you, my little son, shall be called the prophet of the glorious God, for you will prepare the way for the Messiah."
"You will tell His people how to find salvation through forgiveness of their sins."
"All this will be because the mercy of our God is very tender, and heaven's dawn is about to break upon us, to give light to those who sit in darkness and death's shadow, and to guide us to the path of peace."
The little boy greatly loved God and when he grew up he lived out in the lonely wilderness until he began his public ministry to Israel.
Luke 1:67-80
