Possible Grant Eyed For Baseball Complex

Kids, Inc. officials learned here Friday that chances are good for securing a matching grant to build a baseball complex, providing that project estimates are lowered somewhat.

The prospects were outlined by Mark McConathy, urban/regional planner for Panhandler Regional Planning Commission, in an informal meeting with Kids, Inc. officials and other interested citizens here Friday morning. County Judge Sam Morgan and three county commissioners attended the meeting.

Chuck Cosper, Kids, Inc. board president, had invited McConathy to Hereford to discuss the possibilities of securing a grant from the Texas Parks & Wildlife Commission and the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. McConathy pointed out that his role is to provide technical assistance to the county, if commissioners request his aid from the provided by the county in northeast Hereford, with the facility estimated to cost about $200,000. The costs included fencing, paving, lights, and a concession stand with rest rooms.

McConathy explained that the state grant would pay up to 50 per cent of construction costs, if approved. However, he advised the project would probably be more likely for approval at about half of the proposed $200,000. County, School Bodies To Meet

Two meetings of local governmental bodies are scheduled this week.

The Deaf Smith County Commissioner's Court meets at 10 a.m. Monday at the courthosue and the Hereford School Board of Trustees meets at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the school administration

The county court will consider a 13-item agenda including appointment of election judges, the purchase of a pickup for precinct 4, a d. cussion of the airplane downed in a recent drug case, selecting dates for the board of equalization to meet, a request for extra help for district clerk Lola Faye Veazy and a tractor purchase for precinct 1.

The trustees will establish the per cent of evaluation (tentatively set at the present 60 per cent), discuss the tax rate, set a budget hearing, hear a special committee report on Title IX (sex discrimination), and approve the resignation of nine teachers and the employment of 13 teachers.

Curriculum matters to be considered include a presentation by Betty Oglesby of the HHS business department, a brief evaluation report on the Title I Summer School, a Title VII Update, and a follow-up report on the senior class of amount might be considered "excessive" for the size of the community. He explained that the Texas Parks & Wildlife Commission has guidelines to follow, and that many communities are competing for Cosper said his board had discussed the project and "directors thinks the construction of four parks would greatly relieve our problem" He added that Kids, Inc. could start with four parks in the program, with the idea of adding four more at a later date. The funding program is a two-year project, and it might be possible to seek another grant two years later.

Cosper pointed out, however, that reducing the project to four parks would not necessarily cut the costs in half. "Some construction such as the concession stands and rest rooms, would be needed in the first stage of the

The overall proposal was for six Bronco parks, one Pony field, and one diamond for Colt, American Legion, or high school play. If the directors start with four parks. it would probably be on the south end of the county site with three Bronco and one Pony field being installed.

The site provided by the county extends from 13th street to 15th street, with Whittier as the west boundary. The baseball parks would take up more than half of the 30-acre site, leaving the north end for future development. The full tract is 660 feet wide by 1,245 feet in length.

Asked about the steps in applying for a grant, McConathy explained that the first step should be a request from the county for technical assistance. Judge Sam Morgan and three commissioners-Austin Rose, Earl Holt and James Voyles--were at the meeting and individually supported the idea. It is expected the matter will be on the next commissioner court agenda

Judge Morgan said he felt that citizens should voice their opinions to the commissioners' court. "I feel we need some input from citizens on whether they would support such a project," he stated.

Cosper pointed out that approximately 1,100 kids are involved in the Kids, Inc. program. Other directors present were Mack Tubb and Tom Simons. "The baseball and softball programs are in trouble if we don't secure more parks," Simons stated.

Attending the informal meeting were Cosper, Tubb, Simons, Judge Morgan, Holt, Rose, Voyles, Jeff Carlile, Garland Stewart, Speedy Nieman, and McCon-

Legal Efforts Halt Trail Of Suit Against Ma Bell

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)- Legal maneuvering has again stalled the trial of a $29.2 million libel and slander suit against Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans on Friday shifted the case out of state court and into federal court. The case was to have gone to trial Monday in state court at San Antonio.

The appeals court ruling which favored the telephone company, came as State

District Court Judge Peter Michael Curry turned down Bell's latest request for another delay in the trail.

Curry planned to start the trial in his 166th district court here. But the appeal's court ruling, in effect, rendered Curry's plan meaningless since the case now goes to federal court. No trial date has been set in federal

Bell attorneys tried to get the case into federal court earlier, but U.S. District Court Judge Adrian Spears sent it back to state court. The appeals court, Despite a few minor setbacks, Deaf Smith County crops are generally making excellent progress, according to several local agricultural spokesmen.

ONE OF THE major problems currently facing local farmers is getting water to thirsty crops before they suffer

The hot dry days of July prompt rapid growth on the part of many crops here, but crops show the signs of moisture stress quickly under those conditions too and many farmers are hard-pressed to get ample irrigation water to their crops

County Agent Juston McBride indicated that outside of a few isolated physiological problems, the county's corn and milo crops are making excellent progress.

"THE CORN is making tremendous growth right now is the time of year when it will grow several inches a day," said

"There are no major insect problems confronting corn and milo growers yet. There are some mite populations that are proving hard to kill, but the infestations aren't too widespread," he added.

An alarm was sounded for area beet growers to begin control measures for powdery mildew this week after the disease was discovered in three fields near Hereford.

Members of the Holly Sugar Corp. agricultural staff here found infestations of the disease in two fields on the north side of Hereford and one field on the city Wednesday.

LOCAL GROWERS have been advised to contact their aerial sprayers and have sulfur dust or flowable sulfur applied to their beet fields according to label directions, in order to halt any further spread of disease.

According to spokesmen for the local Holly plant, the disease can cut beet yields by as much as 20 per cent if left

The disease, which is relatively new to the area, is borne by air currents, and can be transferred from field to field by the wind, birds, and even on the pants legs of those checking fields. In general, the beet crop has been making excellent progress throughout the early summer, with no other insect or disease problems encountered.

The early detection of the powdery mildew infection here could lead to the elimination of the problem before it reaches serious proportions. LOCAL VEGETABLE growers can almost manage a smile these days as Harvesting of potatoes here began Tuesday, and onion harvest has already been underway over a week.

A spokesman for a local produce firm reported that both crops are "beginning to move well on the market now, and the qulity of the produce is good."

The potato market was listed at $6-6.60 per cwt. at Brand presstime and jumbo white onions were going for $3.50 per 50 pound bag. Vegetable growers, who were facing severely depressed markets as they geared up to harvest potatoes, are encouraged by the improvement in the marketplace.

According to a fire department spokesman, a short apparently occurred in the wiring for a fire alarm at the nursing home, resulting in a false alarm.

Demo Convention Begins Monday In New York

NEW YORK (AP)- Broadway gives its regards to Peachtree Street this week hen the Democratic National Convenn convenes in Madison Square Garden nominate Jimmy Carter as the party's esidential candidate.

The man from Plains, Ga., population 33, was firmly in command of the party achinery and the loyalty of a clear majority of the more than 3,000 delegates.

With Carter certain to be nominated on the first ballot Wednesday night, the principal item left for speculation was whom the former George governor would choose for his running mate.

One by one, prospects journeyed to Plains and then to New York City to be interviewed by Carter and to keep alive interest in what otherwise shapes up as the dullest Democratic Convention in

There's no likelihood of a major floor fight over seating of delegations, or rules changes or the party platform. There's no threat of a walkout by southerners or a party-rending fight over Vietnam.

Those good old Democratic brawls -

This is the year of unity, the convention of sweetness and light, where Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama and Coretta King will speak from the same rostrum, as will Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago and Sen. George McGovern.

It's also the year the Democrats hope to win back the White House after eight years of Republican control.

The convention may lack suspense, but that's a tribute to the remarkable campaign that brought Carter from relative obscurity through the long primary election season to Madison Square Garden with more than enough delegate votes for a first-ballot victory.

There still was a likelihood that other names would be placed in nomination Wednesday night. Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California still is technically a candidate. So are Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona and Ellen McCormack of New

The convention rules state that "each presidential candidate shall be allowed a total of 15 minutes time for the presentation of his or her name n in nomination by a nominating speech and not more than two seconding speeches; the time to run without interruption from the recognition of the nominator."

Party officials insist the time limitation will be strictly enforced.

The schedule also calls for convention sessions to adjourn no later than midnight.

The major speech at the opening session Monday night, the keynote address, will be shared by Sen. John Glenn of Ohio, the former astronaut, and Rep. Barbara Jordan of Texas, who gained national recognition two years ago during the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment hearings.

Most delegates were scheduled to arrive in New York over the weekend for a full schedule of social events, breakfasts, luncheons, cocktail parties and dinners as well as Broadway shows.

Democratic Party Chairman Robert S. Strauss is scheduled to call the convention to order at 8 p.m. on Monday. Then will follow two days of speeches likely to drive delegates to the nearest Broadway show or barroom and television viewers to any available summer rerun.

Highlight of the opening night session will be the Glenn-Jordan keynote address. The second session is scheduled to start at 3:30 p.m., Tuesday. The first item of business will be the Credentials Committee report and according to Sen. Alan Cranston of California, committee chairman, it will be "certainly the first time in modern history that no challenges have gone to the convention."

The best chance of a floor fight should occur during the next order of business on Tuesday, the report of the party Rules Committee.

The fight in the Rules Committee involves a proposal from the Democratic Women's Caucus to require that, effective with 1980 convention, state delegations contain equal numbers of men and women. However, the Carter forces won approval of an amendment requiring party leaders to "promote" equal representation between the sexes starting in 1980.

The party platform also comes up for delegate approval at Tuesday's session.

The 90-page document was described by Stuart Eizenstat, who directed the Carter forces at the Platform Committee, as "a Democratic party document, not a Jimmy Carter document.'

But there was no doubt the platform was the sort of noncontroversial statement of party positions that Carter

On Wednesday night, abut three-quarters of the way through the call of the roll of state delegations, the man from Plains. Ga., should get what he came to the big city to pick up: the Democratic presidential nomination.

If Carter sticks to the usual political convention routine, he'll announce his choice for a running mate sometime Thursday morning and have it ratified that evening by the delegates.

The convention is scheduled to close Thursday after the vice presidential candidate and then Carter deliver their acceptance speeches.

Ford Labels Angolan Executions As 'Unjustified, Unwarranted'

in a statement issued in Newport, R.I., where he dined with Britain's Queen Eleabeth II aboard the royal yacht Britannia, Ford said: This execution, carried out in

Ford "expressed his sincerest condolences" to Gearhart's wife and four children in the Washington suburb of Kensington, Md., Press Secretary Ron Nessen told reporters.

In a statement issued in Washington, Kissinger said Gearhart's execution "can only be regarded by the United States as a deliberately hostile act toward this country and its people."

"As such, it cannot help but affect adversely the development of relations between the United States and Angola," Kissinger added.

Neither Ford nor Kissinger made mention in their statements of the three British mercenaries who were executed.

About an hour before Ford made his announcement, a State Department source in Washington confirmed that the executions had taken place.

Gearhart, 34, and the three Britons were sentenced to death last month after they went to Angola to fight for pro-Western factions against the victorious Soviet-backed forces in that African nation's civil war.

Nine other mercenaries, including two Americans, drew lengthy prison sentences. The Americans are Gary Acker of Sacramento, Claif., and Gustave Grillo of Jersey City, N.J.

On Friday, Angolan President Agostinho Neto upheld the death sentences, leading President Ford and top British officials to make last-minute appeals to spare the men's lives.

In his statement, Kissinger said he learned of the executions "with a deep sense of shock" and said "there is absolutely no basis in national or international law for the action now taken by the Angolan authorities."

"Futhermore, no evidence whatsoever was produced during the trial of Mr. Gearhart that he had even fired a shot during the few days he was in Angola before his capture," Kissinger added.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP)-Texas Rangers shortstop Toby Harrah says he realizes it's batting prowess rather than fielding skill which landed him a starting berth on the American League All-Star team.

"Offensively, all you have to do is look at the statistics this year and last year to see that I'm ahead of other shortstops," he said Wednesday after the starting AL team was announ-

Last season Harrat hit .293, tops in the league, and his RBI total of 93 and home run production of 20 were No. 1 in the majors. He has nearly matched those levels this yearbatting .288 with eight home runs and 43 RBI.

"Defensively, I know I'm not and to play that position you have to be a good fielder," Harrah said. "I've won a few games with my glove and lost a few with my glove. I've got to try to be consistent."

"My main problem is that I've been letting the ball play me instead of playing the ball aggressively," he said. "But any shortstop in the world who hits fourth has to feel more responsibility at the plate than someone who hits ninth.

"It's not that I've been pressing at the plate because I've hit around .300 all year. It's not extra pressure- it's extra responsibility. I put pressure on myself wherever I hit."

Harrah also showed his versatility last season by stealing 23 bases, but he has only three this season after suffering injuries to both

"Playing every day in Texas makes you tired anyway because of the heat, and the ankle problems have made it tougher," he said. "But I've played well enough to make the All-Star team when some other shortstops, like Freddie Patek and Mark Belanger, have done really well."

record seven gold medals.

Now Spitz has graduated from the pool to the broadcast booth and no athlete is expected to duplicate his medal haul. But the United States swimmers still are expected to excel in the 1976 Games which open July 17 in Montreal

American athletes also are expected to accumulate their share of medals in the other Olympic glamour sports of basketball, track and field and boxing. But nowhere is the United States expected to dominate the competition as in the pool.

"I feel this is probably the best international team we've ever had," said veteran Coach Doc Counsilman.

Headlining the American men's team are six world record holders. Bruce Furniss, Brian Goodell, John Hencken, Jim Montgomery, John Naber and Bobby Hackett. And three of them, Furniss, Goodell and Hencken hold two world marks.

America's women swimmers are headed by Shirley Babashoff, who won a gold and two silvers in 1972, when she was only 15 years old.

She was the top qualifier in the 100, 200, 400 and 800-meterfreestyles and American Coach Jack Nelson describes her as "the greatest female swimmer ever for the United States."

Beside Miss Babashoff, two other Munich gold medalists are swimming for the American women again. They are Melissa Belote in the 200 backstroke and Karen Moe Thornton in the 200 butterfly.

The track and field trials provided several surprises and eliminated some of the Unted Williams: But Dr. Leroy Walker, coach of the men's team, calls the squad, "very strong..very capable."

Some of the stronger medal candidates among the men are Rick Wohlhuter, Dwight Stones and Mac Wilkins, each a world record holder.

Taiwan Team Waits

MONTREAL (AP)- Last- ditch moves began Saturday to save the Olympic Games, while Taiwan's athletes waited at Brookline, Mass., for permission to enter Canada.

A meeting was arranged between Lord Killanin, president of the International Olympic Committee, and Andre Bissonette, Canada's assistant under-secretary of state for external affairs.

It was the first face-to-face encounter between the IOC and the Canadian government since Killanin arrived to try and break the deadlock over the Taiwan-

Canada has said the Taiwanese will not be admitted unless they promise not to compete in the Olympics under the name of the Republic of China. The IOC. accusing the Canadian government of a breach of faith, has threatened to cancel the Games if the Taiwanese are not given free and unqualified entry.

The Taiwanese issue was not the only political cloud over the Games. The government of Tanzania announced its athletes would not compete because New Zealand is taking part, and a New Zealand Rug by Union team recently went on a tour of South Africa.

That means Filbert Bavi Tanzania's world 1,500-meter record holder and one of the top stars of track and field, would not run.

The IOC stiffened its stand against the Canadian government Friday after a meeting of its tripartite commission, made up of the IOC vice presidents and representatives of the States" more familiar names, international sports federations such as Marty Liquori and Steve and national Olympic commit-

Cream of World's Athletes Assemble

By WILL GRIMSLEY AP Special Correspondent

MONTREAL (AP)- The creamof the world's young athletes assemble here this week for the XXI Olympiad, a festival dedicated to good will among men of all nations, and then-if the normal pattern is followedcontroversy will break loose.

Instead of peace and understanding, the athletes will be plunged immediately into a morass of political haggling, jealousies and an inordinate display of nationalism.

The political pot began boiling two weeks before the scheduled opening with the old Taiwan issue. Canada, which has severed diplomatic relations with Nationalist China while recognizing the mainland People's Republic of China, said the Taiwanese would be unable to compete under the China

The International Olympic Committee, which recognizes the membership of Taiwan as the Republic of China, objected strenuously with one prominent spokesman threatening IOC withdrawal from the Games. The United States said it might would follow suit.

The hassle, as usual, was expected to wind up in a compromise with Taiwan athlees competing in protest under a Taiwan banner but with the Games going on as usual. The giant of mainland China, with its 800 million population, remains on the sidelines, refusing to compete beside Taiwan, which it regards as a Chinese state.

"The Olympics have become the whipping post of a thing called politics," Jesse Owens, America's greatest black star of the 1930s and now a member of the U.S. Olympic Committee, commented recently with sadness. "Nationalism has taken precedence over individualism. Some have tried to use the Olympics as the stage publicize their ideologies. Oth hers have made it a rostrum of hate and prejudice.

"But the Olympics are kept alive by man and not nations and man will prevail...There is no way to snuff out the cameraderie of athletes of all nationalities...You have to be there to appreciate it."

Although the Olympics code states that the intent of the Games is to compete, not to win, powerful countries like the United States and the Soviet Union have counted their medals with price, bragged of their superiority, and used success to further ideology. In the last Summer Olympics, the Russians, after winning more gold medals than any other country-50 to 33 for the United States-boasted that "this is proof that the socialist type of government is the best for all

When 11,000 athletes, coaches and administrators, and nearly half a million expected visitors descend on this normally peaceful and picturesque Quebec metropolis for the

"dedicated fortnight"- July 17 through Aug. 1-they will find it an armed camp.

Sixteen hundred troops-police, militia, security personnel in plain clothes, many carrying automatic weapons-will be patrolling the Olympic venues and villages. Electrically charged fences of barbed wire will form for bidding barriers. Everybody will be looking over their shoulders.

This is all a grim reminder of the 1972 Games in Munich, Germany-what the Germans had termed the "Peace Olympics"-when Arab terrorists invaded the Israeli headquarters and triggered a tragedy that left 11 Israelis, four Arabs and a German policeman Threats of similar demonstrations have placed Canadian officials on edge. As a center of world attention, the Olympics offer a perfect backdrop for fanatics eager to promote a cause. There have been reports of another terrorists strike.

What is Humus Organic Products?

Humus is defined in the Webster Dictionary as; Decayed vegetable matter, important to the fertility of soil.

Organic is defined as to or derived from plant and animal matter, containing carbon.

Humus is more of a soil conditioner than a fertilizer. It is as important to soil as nitrogen, Phor., potash. Soil with a good content of Humus of 4 to 5% is usually good fertile soil.

The following is why the soil needs Humus:

1. Natural Organic Chelating. Humus releases elements "locked up" in the soil and forms biologicalo comolexes with minerals and traces elements so plants can pick them up.

2. "Crumbles" Soil. Humus flocculates and opens heavy soil to give better penetration of water and oxygen. It offsets the packing of soil caused by running heavy equipment in Decomposes Stalks. Stalks, leaves, or manures which have been spread in the field, will break down more rapidly when Humus is applied.

5. Conserves Water. Sell improved with Humus holds water better and longer. It activates the bacteria of sponges.

Improves Crop Quality. Humus improves the firmness, color and sh Vegetables will ship and "carry" better.

7. Tree Crops. Trees respond rapidly with better color and growth to produce larger yields of better fruit. 8. Easily Applied. Humus is applied with a dry spreader like the dry commercial fertilizer

Lo-Vaca Bankruptcy Encouraged By Railroad Commission Candidate

Commission candidate Walter Wendlandt said it's time for 10-Vaca Gathering Co. and itsparent companies to go bankrupt.

All of the assets-including Producing Co. and Coastal States Gas Corp. - "should be made available to pay its obligations," Wendlandt told a news conference.

Bankruptcy may be the only answer, Wendlandt said, because the Railroad commission's order on Lo-Vaca gas contract prices "don't leave the customer any real choice."

Today was the deadline set by the commission for customers to choose between two options.

Gary claims Gross National shouldn't have released the Union State stock to Salinas. The suit is the latest challenge to Salinas' banking monopoly in Carrizo Springs. On Wednesday, Salinas' attorneys failed to save his Citizens State Bank of Carrizo Springs.

The front runners of both parties, Mr. Ford and Carter, are pledged to curtailing the bureaucracy.

The American electorate, as measured in the primaries, is overwhelmingly opposed to 'big government.'

Yet here is a recommendation by the Defense Manpower Commission--which ignores the spectacular success of the voluntary military and thumbs its nose at the public preference--urging our nation to revive and maintain the cumbersome, costly, utterly unnecessary machinery of the military draft!

As Army Secretary, Bo Callaway had to force-feed most of the Pentagon and much of the Congress on a voluntary military force. And it worked.

The uniform is back in style. The generation coming of military age has a refreshing new attitude toward military service.

At Princeton, where the ROTC was afraid to parade, where the program was suspended, it's been reinstated.

At Harvard, where the program was abolished, they're reconsidering.

The new professional military has much to recommend it. For the high school dropout it's an immediate paycheck plus a chance to complete his high school credits. For the high school graduate it's a quick way to learn a marketable trade. For young women pay and the opportunity for promotion are more nearly equal than in most private industry.

But U.S. News and World Report conducted a crosscountry survey, and where young Americans are increasingly attracted to military careers, they want no part of a return to the military draft!

After the draft was dropped in the early 1970s at the University of Florida, only 2 percent of the graduates indicated any interest in a military career; last December at the same school--5 percent.

Yet while the military uniform is now altogether as acceptable as denim--young Americans do not appreciate the duress involved in a military draft.

Nor can anybody else see any sense to it, except the disciples of big government who would regiment for the sake of regimentation--and for the preservation of their own featherbeds.

Although officials aren't giving up on the $2 bill yet, there's a lot of finger-pointing reception.

The Treasury Department blames banks and retailers; banks blame the public and the government; the Bureau of Engraving and Printing blames the U.S. Postal Service and the Federal Reserve Board.

Clarence Selin, the Treasury Department's project director for the $2 bill, said, "We have no problem in saying the bills are being accepted by the people. They are not being distributed by banks and retailers as fast as we would like to see it done."

But an official of the Riggs National Bank, the largest in the nation's capital, said Thursday that most customers won't accept twos. He called on the government to do something to promote them.

"When our tellers give them out, most people return the twos and ask for two ones," said assistant Riggs vice president

Tom Brooks. "People don't want twos because they are afraid they get them mixed up with ones," said a teller at Madison National Bank here.

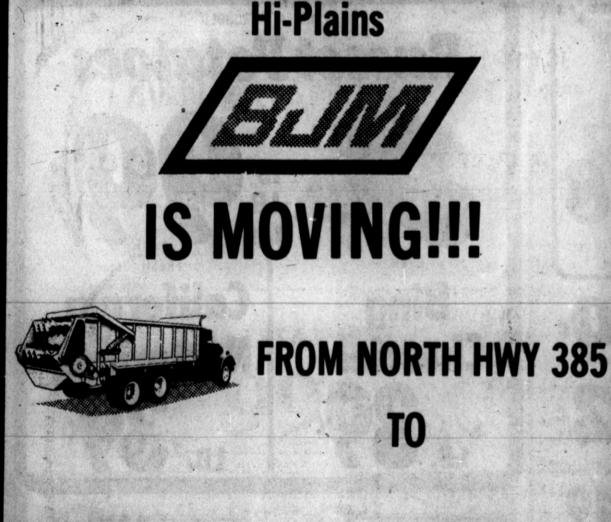

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing, which hopes to save millions in printing costs if people accept twos as a partial substitute for ones, has to yet cut back on its production of

Texas' 130 Democratic Delegates Caucus Monday

AUSTIN (AP)- Texas' 130 delegates to the National Democratic Convention gather in New York Sunday to do their part in nominating Jimmy Carter for next president of the States. United

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, who boosted the unsuccessful drive of Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., for a favorite son nomination, is titular head of the delgation. But Armstrong will be making many of the decisions as chief of the Carter cult.

Carter won 92 of the delgates in the May 1 primary election and another 20 at the July 19 state convention.

Armstrong predicts at least 125 of the delegates will be ready to vote for Carter on the first ballot.

Former Sen. Ralph Yarborough, liberal Democrat leader Billie Carr and at least three other "uncommitted" delegates have already said they will vote for Carter.

Rep. Paul Moreno, D-El Paso, and two other delgates say they will cast a first ballot for California Gov. Jerry Brown.

Break the Barriers

BY DOUG MANNING, PASTOR First Baptist Church

The problem with a rumor is that by the time it is proven untrue, our imaginations have created so. much anger that we end up about as mad as if the expected happened. Instead of a sigh of relief and gratitude, we are still upset.

Last week there rumors of a riot, the parade was to be attacked, an oil company blown up, thousands of militants imported .. you name it.

Instead it was a quite and beautiful celebration of our nation's birthday. I do not know where the rumor came from (you never can catch the one that starts those things), but I do know there are some things that became evident out of this rumor. Some things we should be grateful for and some things we should think about.

First and foremost: The overwhelming majority of the Mexican-American people in our community are great citizens. I talked to some of them during the rumor. They were more than disturbed by the whole deal. I was most impressed by the attitudes.

Second: They have no more "bad eggs" than we do. That needs no explanation.

Third: The barriers between the races must be broken down. If not, in the years to come there will be events instead of just rumors.

Fourth: One of the greatest barriers is our own attitude. We generalize and suddenly all Mexicans are slow, lazy .. you name it. We react. I saw a golfer become so angry he could not play because a foursome in front of him was slow. I am sure he had played behind slow foursomes before, but his group was Mexicans.

In the clubhouse later he was raving against all Mexicans, saying they should be barred from the golf course. My point is, he was twice as mad because the slow players were Mexican.

What about that group of while Anglo Saxon Protestants I played behind the other day? They were arrogant. They were not suppose to play six at a time. They stood on the greens for seemingly hours settling their bets. Funny thing is, no one in my group suggested they should be barred from the course. No one even said all WASPs are like that

All of them are not like that; neither are all Mexicans Matter of fact, anytime you say ALL, you generalize a lie.

College Education

One of the major, long-term problems many of the western democracies face is the high monetary cost of a college education, which bars many talented students from attaining higher education.

In many communist countries students who make the required grades automatically go to college. They are politically brain washed but also get top academic training.

What especially concerns American planners today is the recent downturn in college attendance among 18 to 24 year-old students in this country-a decline attributed to high tuition costs and the economy. The decline, of course, affects mostly middle and lower income families.

He was Alonso Alvarez de Pineda and he spent 40 days in and around what now is Brownsville exploring the Río Grande River.

Even before de Pineda arrived, Indians were visiting resacas where Brownsville now stands to get salt from the combination of fresh and sea water that forms these lagoons. Missionaries began their expeditions from there long before 1771 when Rancho Viejo became the first settlement on the site.

In 1821, the village was named Matamoros after its sister town across the river. Then both places were in Mexico. After Texas won its independence, the stateside part of the town had no official name. In 1846, the first U.S. fort on the Rio Grande was erected there and the site became known as Fort Brown, named for Maj. Jacob Brown.

For years, the YWCA Cafeteria was a favorite downtown luncheon spot for hundreds of Houstonians. The menu featured original Southern recipes for goodies like smothered chicken, enchiladas topped with cheese, ham hocks and turnip greens and buttermilk pie. In 1969, when the Y took over the defunct Ben Milam as its headquarters, it brought its cafeteria along.

In general, the feedback I've received has been favorible for the daily, which Hereford and the county have deserved for some time. The comment used by a former publisher of the Brand and some of the present employes to nip any negative reactions is that the older citizens are the ones who usually don't favor progress such as a daily newspaper and the younger set is the forward moving segment of the population.

This of course is generalized, but usually shuts the mouths of any dissenters.

Some very critical observers have praised the Brand for a quality combination of interesting wire stories while still maintianing the same emphasis on local stories. The local copy maybe spread out over more issues, but it is of the same amount as was carried int he semi-weekly editions. It allows readers to just carry one newspaper since we are offering the same items as is the Amarillo daily.

I think we do a better job of it. To help us in our coverage of local happenings, any calls on interesting pictures or stories would be appreciated. We can't answer all of them, but we will endeavor to cover the top suggestions.

I enjoy the daily because it offers me a chance to keep myself more informed of current events, I naturally read all the stories that don't make the daily editions and therefore I can keep one step ahead of Johnny Carson before he announces a news story in

Now, I can enjoy that situation again. The daily was only possible through our readers and advertisers. Thank you.

One of the news events of major significance is the Democratic Party convention beginning Monday at Madison Square Gardens. It won't be as thrilling as the approaching Republican convention, but it will still keep my interest since it only happens once in four years.

As I said before, I felt Carter could go all the way as it appears now. However, the fact that he will win on a first round vote doesn't set wil

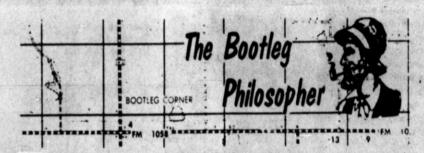

I don't like anyone getting such and overwhelming endorsement as too much confidence has destroyed many a politician. Anyway, Carter is my present choice if it has to happen.

Republicans are in the middle of a strong party battle between Ford and Reagan. Numerous voters here favor the actor, but he scares the stuffings out of me.

I am not impressed with Ford, but at least he was realtively harmless, because he never does anything.

Maybe the recent irritation of the HEW ruling to ban father-son, mother-daughter events will gain a few sideline voters for him. Even though it was stupid ruling, it sure doesn't take priority over more significant domestic problems.

Keep on trying Ford. Maybe you'll have og another chance.

Dear editor:

On reading a chart showing that if inflation continued at 6 per cent a year, a car costing $4000 now will, in the year 2000, which is only 24 years away, cost $17,000, a friend of mine said he believed he'd buy up some new cars, store them in a dry place, and clean up in the year 2000.

Another friend spoke up and said you could do the same thing with just money. Put $4000 out at 6 per cent compound interest and by the year 2000 you'd have $17,000. Besides which, he said, we may be out of gas by then and a car might not be worth anything, except maybe for kids to play house in.

A third friend joined in and said that's true, but by the year 2000, if things keep going like they are and Congress stays in session, $17,000 may not be worth anything either.

There are many puzzling things For example, the around.

And I was just wondering, if some scientist who hasn't had his name in the the paper yet came out of hiso? laboratory and announced that in mocking birds are spreading radio active waves, what sort of torment would the far-out environmentalists... go through trying to decide what to done about it? They'd be in the shape as somebody wondering if he should report a cat to the Humane Society for torturing a rat.

I'll tell you, one trouble with this country is that the Founding Fathers, in asserting that all men are endowed with certain inalienable rights, failed to insist that at least some of them 200 years later ought to be endowed with common sense.

Yours faithfully.

Carter's Optimism

Jimmy Carter told an audience in Asheville, N.C., 67 recently he had a good chance to carry every state in the Union in November. As good a politician as he is, this is a high degree of optimism.

The danger in being over-optimistic was last demonstrated in a presidential election in 1948. Republican candidate Thomas Dewey was so confident he was stuck with a rather bland appeal to the voter.

Harry Truman upset his applecart and won a close election, though the Dewey challenge was so strong Truman was forced to split the South and start the process which led to a two-party Dixie.

Carter is unquestionably the favorite against either President Ford or Ronald Reagan. But a thirteen or fourteen point lead in the polls (his margin over Ford) isn't an indication he will carry every state against the dent in November.

In fact, a danger Carter faces is a public reaction to overconfidence among Democrats. Americans tend to side with the underdog when the favorite begins to crow.

SMAP! Fresh asparagus should snap when broken.

publication. Yet in reality the nation no longer has the capacity to be shocked by the Teamsters. Lincoln Merrill says union members "don't even care anymore, so long as they're making a good living." As for other unions, they are never anxious to push for the kind of reforms all labor desperately needs. That leaves the Federal government. Capitol Hill, really. And asking Congress to clean up corruption these days is difficult to do with a straight face. So: long live Frank Fitzsimmons, and he probably will. The only place for good men in times like this is Coventry.

Tom Tiede

Coventry only place for Teamster critics

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One rarely has to reproach Teamsters' chief Frank Fitzsimmons for being vague. Usually he makes himself deadly clear. But when he recently advised some dissident union members to "go to hell," what he really meant was for them to "go to Coventry."

Coventry is a town in England where, long ago, defeated

Coventry is a town in England where, long ago, defeated soldiers were sent for penitence; since then "go to Coventry" has throughout the English-speaking world meant ostracism. The phrase is now quaint and obsolete. Except in the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, which is fascinated with rituals of the Middle Ages. Members who aren't in lock step with union policy are banished from the company of the faithful—sent to Coventry—until such time as they recognize Fitzsimmons as lord god.

Currently there are several thousand Teamsters in Coventry. They represent a handful of splinter factions who subscribe to such nonsense as union democracy. Lincoln Merrill of Winston-Salem, N.C., is among them. He calls Fitzsimmons names. He believes union hierarchy is an extension of organized crime. Worse, he has joined a union subculture called PROD which wants the U.S. government to force fundamental Teamsters reform. For this Fitzsimmons has decreed that he, Merrill is a leper not fit to so much as speak to.

Says Merrill: "The men in my local have ignored me for months. If I ask a question, they won tanswer. That is unless I ask something in a union meeting; then they will speak to me by trying to shout me down. Naturally this kind of thing leads to arguments, and one time I even got my fist broken - on to arguments, and one time I even got my fist broken — on some other guy's jaw."

Coventry entails other punishments as well, Merrill adds. He says families have been threatened, wives have received appalling phone calls. "I live in an atmosphere of guarded hostility," he says. The radicals dare not violate a rule, for instance, because the union management, which inevitably subscribes to the Gospel as written by F. Fitzsimmons, is ever seeking ways to get rid of democrats.

And if all else fails to convince men like Merrill of their sins, the end move in the Teamsters is often to pick up the gun. Before he departed society, unexpectedly, ex-Teamsters-boss Jimmy Hoffa told a reporter that "the bodies are everywhere." He did not elaborate, and did not have to. R.I.P., Jimmy. Merrill says he has not yet been personally threatened, "but after what I've seen nothing would surprise me."

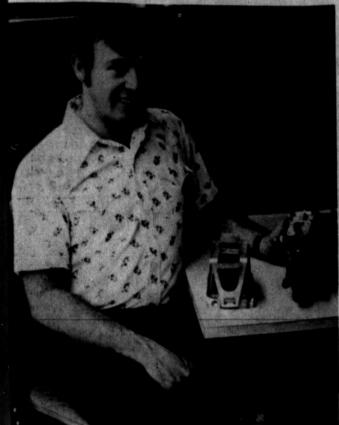

What Merrill and other PROD members have seen add-up to one of the most damning indictments of union corruption in the modern history of the labor movement. It is contained in a book-length PROD report, recently released, which charges the Teamsters with specific instances of fraud, financial chicanery and criminal influence. One accusation: a Teamsters local in New York City is dominated by a Mafia family which "profits handsomely from its two pension funds."

funds."

... Hoffa also wrote a book before he dropped out of sight. In it he bluntly accuses leader Fitzsimmons of being less than saintly. In sum: Fitzsimmons misused $7 million in union funds to buy his own political security; Fitzsimmons awarded a $1.3 million public relations program to men with criminal records, Fitzsimmons authorized vast loans from union pension funds to known mobsters. Indeed, writes Jimmy of Frank, the Teamsters are led by an abominable troll.

No doubt it was Hoffa's hope to the end that his charges would create a national reaction which would delouse Teamsters activities. This is also the hope behind the PROD

"Americans buy cars by the ound," says the executive director of the American Imported Automobile Association. His statements reflects the sad but true fact that foreign car sales are lagging way behind the surge in U.S. car sales. Total car sales jumped 29 per cent in the first six months of this year but the market share of the imports dropped from 20 per cent to 14 per cent. The big two reasons are the continuing love affair that Americans have with big cars, and the hi her prices of the foreign cars.

Three years ago European cars had 60 per cent of the market. Today, Japan has 60 per cent and the Europeans have 40 per cent. Volkswagen, the leader in previous years has been hurt the most, falling well behind Datsun and Toyota. The V Rabbit. igned to replace the Beetle, starts at $3499. Sales of VWs in this country in June were almost 50 per cent behind last year. Outof 1124 dealerships in the U.S. more than 40 have closed in

Although other European car manufacturers are not trying to introduce a new car to replace a well established model, such as the Beetle, they do have to compete with the lower priced Japanese imports and against the lower priced American compacts. Toyota, Datsun, and Honda all offer models in the $2,800 price bracket. The Japanese also offer more model choices that the European cars but with perhaps less flashy engineering. The Europeans car makers, in an attempt to blunt the lower priced Japanese cars, are emphasizing the prestige aspects of owning one of their cars. Volvo is appealing to the $6,400 to $10,000 car buyer, after feeling the competition from Chrysler's Volare and Ford's Granada.

This year, everyone forgot but me. When we packed the car, I announced, "No more driving for days to find a restaurant where grease is the beverage. This year, it's the rest areas for the Bombecks."

We were on the road only 15 miuntes, when we saw our first rest area. "Wanta stop?" asked my husband.

"No need," I smiled confidently. "There'll be another one in 30 miles."

I was right. Thirty miles later was another rest area. Another thirty miles, we saw another one. Then lunchtime came and we never saw another one.

At two o'clock, the children became restless and started to kick the back of the seat in protest. "Sit back and put your seat belt on," I commanded.

At 2:30, one child with his nose pressed against the window shouted, "Rest area swiveled around and said numbly, "Rest area acknowledged . . . negative . . . on wrong

YOU AND YOUR HEALTH 64 Peter J. Esse, MD.

WHEN TO SEE A DOCTOR

Dear Dr. Esse: When should one know it's time to visit a doctor? I don't mean there's any question when one has been in a bad accident, or gets an attack of pain, or suffers a hemorrhage. And of course it makes good sense to visit the doctor at least once a year for a checkup.

What I am referring to are the small, bothersome things that often make life miserable. There's always the feeling that the doctor is too busy for such mine complaints. I've always felt guilty about bothering the doctor in such cases.

Besides, it's so hard to get an appointment these days you're afraid of crying "Wolf" too often. Then when you really need him, he may not make time to see you.

Is there some yardstick or rule you can suggest about when to see the doctor? --- Mrs. J.

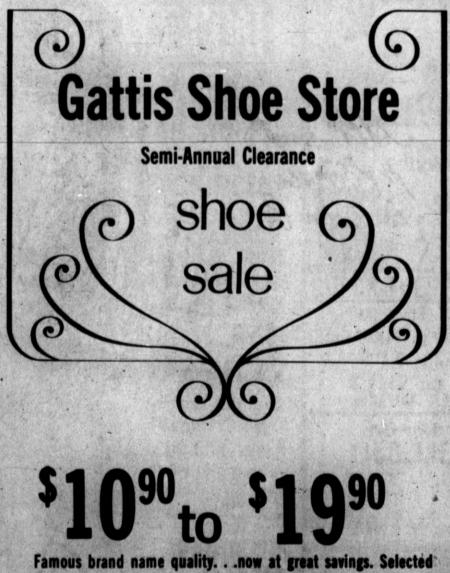

REPLY: I suppose a measure of good sense is as good a yardstick as any. But I realize this is an ambiguous suggestion. It doesn't really help you.

What do I mean by common sense evaluation of when to see your doctor? Whenever you're not feeling well and believe you need treatment, or reassurance.

Hundreds of time in practice, patients have come excusing themselves for "unnecessarily" taking up my time for a small symptom which proved to be serious, but early care produced complete cure.

Why wait to be carried in on a stretcher? It is the doctor's responsibility to determine what is important or unimportant about your symptom. If you're concerned, or don't feel well --- even though you do not feel sick to death --- it is time to see the doctor.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Attached to this letter is my personal check, made out to you for $4,000. Let me explain. Several years ago I had a small business and I did something many small businessmen do--cheated on my income tax. I forgot all about it until I became friendly with a Christian brother who awakened in me a sense of decency and ntegrity I never knew existed. Lately God has been reminding me that I have a score to settle with the Internal Revenue Service. Although I don't know exactly how much I owe, I feel certain $4,000 would more than cover it.

I talked the problem over with my wife and she became upset when I told her I wanted to send my check directly to the IRS. She was afraid I'd be prosecuted, my reputation ruined, etc.

I then went to my certified public accountant. He advised me to send my check to Ann Landers, ask you to deposit it in your personal account and write your own check to the IRS for $4,000.

Enclosed is a separate check made out to you for your trouble. Thanks and God bless. Sign Me-- Straightening Out The Books your name is on the check. So I herewith return both checks (I don't accept gratuities, but thank you very much) and suggest that you use a more anonymous transmittal agent, perhaps a Christian brother. See you in heaven!

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm only 58, in very good physical condition and everyone tells me I look younger than my years. I feel great but something has been bothering me.

Lately my mind seems to be laying little tricks. I find myself forgetting things I've known for years--telephone numbers, addresses, names of close friends and even relatives. It's embarrassing. This afternoon I went into another room and forgot what I went in there for. Can it be that I am becoming senile? I become terribly annoyed with myself when I misplace things. It seems I am always hunting for my glasses, my favorite pen, my desk scissors or the current book I happen to be reading. Any advice?

Sunshine please go away, for today

Please let the clouds bring us rainYou can come again another

This is the way I felt the other morning when I was having my breakfast on the patio, while it was raining. The rain had washed clean all the plants, trees and grasses. Result beauty and brightness.

The mockingbird on his high perch on top the light pole, burst into song, and to me all was well with the world. Presently the sun broke through the clouds and the raindrops changed to beautiful gems, the grass like a magic carpet.

So are the ways of nature...which is wonderful, so often almost like fairyland. The patterns of growth of the beautiful flowers. Some of the larkspurs reminded me of beautiful cathedrals.

The flower spikes, forming the spire at the tip top, pure white floets giving like as windows. Near by the hemorcallis, which were like georgeous birds in flight. Happy moments, which had to end as garden chores awaited.

LAWN CARE: One of the largest investments in a landscape design is the lawn. Therefore it is important that we do the right things to make it beautiful and serviceable.

Feeding, watering, keeping weeds under control, check diseases, and insect damages, also foreign grasses which are taking away some of the nutrients the grass should have. It is important that we do the right thing at the right time, to keep the lawn in good condition.

It is vital that the correct basic grasses, (St. Aug steps be taken in the establishing of a lawn. New home owners and others who are planning to have a lawn be sure that the ground is properly prepared. Plow or spade deep. Then roll and make the surface as smooth as possible, if there is slant allow for that. When completed, water thoroughly to get the weed crop up, then plow again. Water again and repeat

If weeds are removed, then there is a better chance for a good lawn. When these steps are completed, prepare the soil, until there is a pliable condition. Plant carefully. Select good seed or plants. It is IMPORTANT that the soil be of fine texture. Water carefully, and continue to keep soil moist until the tender grass comes through. Follow this plan until grass has become well established.

Maintenance is very important both for the new lawns and the old. Check lawns regularly to ascertain the needs. Brown spots will appear, if not properly watered. Diseases can be harmful, insects both above the soil and below must be treated when they appear. It is vital that a watchful eye is kept on the progress of the lawn.

Mowing is one of the chief maintenance chores. Have the mower in good repair, sharp and well adjusted. Height of the mower varies with different grasses low spreading grasses, (bermuda or zozia) look best when cut short. Low mowing slows the accumulation of thatch

Bermuda should be cut 1 to 1½ inches high. Coarser textured grasses, (St. Augustine, etc.) do better with mower set higher.

Blue grass should have higher setting of the mower, 2½ to 3 inches is recommended. It is especially important when the days become longer and temperatures higher that proper mowing is used.

How often should one mow First set a schedule, once a week should suffice. Change pattern of mowing, do not mow the same pattern every time, really the grass is very sensitive.

It is not wise at any time to let the grass grow too tall, when it is mowed, there will be a coarse stemy appearance, also color will be effected.

A good rule to follow is to try to mow each time the lawn adds another third to its height. Edge lawn carefully- this adds the finishing touch.

AFTER MOWING. Water well, watching that no dry spots are left. Also take plenty of time for the water to be effective, a hose should stay at least 2 hours, or until there has been a fall of water equalling an inch of good moisture. To test, place a container with straight sides and let the spray water fall into it and then measure the height, this is what the grass has received. It is much better to water WELL one time than to water lightly. This often causes a shallow root system which is bad for a well cared for lawn.

Grasses get hungry too, therefore they should be fed. Spring feeding and fall is recommended. Use a well proportioned food, with nitrogen being the highest percentage. Water early in the day, if later watering is practiced often disease are caused. It in well that the lawn go to sleep when it isn't drippy.

Do enjoy your lawn. Remember good maintenance is vital and with it the home setting is more attractive, and that with each job well done, value is added to the property, also enjoyment, and service.

CONGRATULATIONS TO THE WINNERS OF THE BEAUTY SPOTS: Do visit them and note the beauty. The residence selected has a beautiful Bi-Centennial planting. Grounds are all very attractive and well kept. Non-Residence is best seen at night to get the true prospective.

Hints and Helps: Keep down the weed crop. Really what is a WEED? The term weed usually refers to a plant for which mankind has not found a specific worth, or presence in lawn, garden, or field, all interfers with the appearance growth or yield of useful plants.

When growing weeds, you are also spending time and money. One of our serious horticulture pests is bindweed. It is attractive when in flower, but it can take over a lawn, field, or vacant lot. Hereford should establish some method of control for this garden enemy.

It and others will take over if not controlled. All of us must work at this. A weed, then, is a plant out of place as determined by arbitary standards of

Last evening I spent hours working in my alley cutting weeds, and getting rid of other unsightyly things. How does YOUR ALLEY LOOK??? An attractive home, a well kept lawn, beautiful flowers, shrubs etc, should have the backing of a well kept alley. CHECK YOURS... the committee which selects the Beauty Spots, not only evaluates the front appearance of the selection, but also the alley. Some unsightly alleys are in our town both downtown, the mall and residential sections. In some cases they are FILTHY. therefore are germ breeders.

RECIPE FOR CLEANING DIRTY LONG NECKED VASES: Add 2 tbls. of baking soda to 1 quart of water-pour into stained container, vases, etc. Add a few grains of rice to each container. Let stand for a few minutes then shake vigorously. Rinse thoroughly to have a sparkling and a germ free container. Couple To Marry

Miss Michelle Bea Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J.J. Moore of 223 N. 25 Mile Ave., and Mike Clevenger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Western Clevenger of 301 Douglas, plan to marry August 14. He is employed by Grain Handling Corporation. Friends and relatives are invited to attend the summer wedding.

flowers extended.

The annual flowers are showing up exceptionally well through our town. Petunias are beautiful. To keep them flowering it is important that all wilted blossoms be removed, and with this a light trimming of stems, thus their flowering period will be lengthened. In fact all blooming flowers should be carefully tended too to extend their span of life, and production.

Not only does one find beauty in the gardens, both the flower and the vegetable, that space and plantings have been planned. For instance the petunias at the First National Bank, has been interspersed with plantings of tomatoes.

In many of the vegetables gardens, flowers have been planted, and for border plantings beets, carrots, and radishes have been used.

HAPPY GARDENING TO ALL.

Honey Gives A Special Lift to Ham

By TOM HOGE AP Newsfeatures Writer Opera star Enrico Caruso ate a spoonful or two before singing a role at the Metropolitan, and Sir Edmund Hillary took a jar along to keep him in shape for his assault on Mount Everest. In fact, honey has played a part through the ages from the days of Julius Caesar, who had a weakness for Gallic honey, to the time of Madame Du Barry who used it as a skin softener. Aristotle, the Greek philoso-pher, waxed lyrical over honey, describing it as a "dew distilled from the stars and the rain-

There are many varieties of honey, ranging in color from white to red. A British beekeeper is said to have fed his swarm green sugar a few years ago. He wound up with nearly a ton of green honey that no one wanted.

European gourmets claim that the best honey is derived from thyme growing on the slopes of Mount Hymettus in Greece, but American connoisseurs insist that honey from the wild thyme of the Catskill Mountains is just as good.

Sweet clover is the greatest single source of honey produced in the United States, but dozens of regional types are made. Dark buckwheat honey is popular in the Great Lakes area, but honey made from the flower of the onion has few takers.

Honey is usually associated with desserts and candy, but it is also a valuable ingredient in meat dishes.

Study Eyes Problems Of Coping with Baby

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) -Many first-time mothers prepare themselves far better for childbirth than for the child care that comes afterward, a University of Michigan researcher says.

"They take classes, exercise and read technical manuals to prepare for the delivery. But it seems to be assumed that when the infant arrives, natural instinct will take over.

"In reality, the new mother finds she needs a lot of information and especially, reassurance," said Joan Bowker, doctoral candidate in psychology and an instructory chology and an instructor at the UM-Dearborn. "At this point, she almost invariably turns to one resource -- her own mother."

This pattern appeared again and again in Mrs. Bowker's study, "The First Baby: Crisis and Coping in the First Three Months." She interviewed 60 women two days after their babies were born and, again, after the first 12 weeks at home. Although they varied widely in age, education level and life styles, Mrs. Bowker focused her comparisons on their adjustments to motherhood. Different people play differ-ent roles in this transition, she found. Professional instructors are consulted about giving birth; the maternal grandmother is urged to come after the baby arrives; and the husband's emotional support is seen as crucial throughout the period.

But the responsibility for a smooth adjustment lies within the woman herself, Mrs. Bow-ker noted.

Most of the women in Mrs Bowker's study had worked during at least the early months of their pregnancies. Retaining ties with former coworkers and other friends helped alleviate feelings of being cut off from the active being cut off from the active

"The mothers who made happier adjustment to infant care had foreseen that the baby would not absorb every moment of their time, and planned ahead to either return to work or to get involved in some hob-by, handicraft, or other home activity," Mrs. Bowker said. "They viewed the baby's arrival as an opportunity to expand their lives, rather than limit

"Birth control has granted women an enormous power of decision," Mrs. Bowker ob-served. "This power is limited only by age. National research shows that most couples who want children want two, and for health reasons, it is advan-tageous to complete the preg-nancies before the woman is 30.

"Thus, the women feel they must decide in their mid-20s, at a time when they are most likely enjoying their freedom, relative affluence, and careers.

Adding a patio is one of the most popular do-it-yourself projects--especially where there is need to extend the use of interior space--and a well-planned patio can result in additional low-cost living space for dining, preparing foods, entertaining, and for recreation, says Mrs. Jane Berry, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

This is the first of a two-part series on patio construction, featuring Mrs. Berry's "how-

PATIO LOCATION

Selecting the best location for a patio is the step that deserves careful thought.

Where a home's design will not accomodate an attached patio, it may be located away from the house for privacy or to take advantage of a veiw.

You'll also want to orient the patio to take advantage of--or to block out--the sun. the patio facing south, for example, will likely need a roof and sun screen. An eastward-facing patio gets the morning sun, while a westward-facing patio will be exposed to the hotter midday sun.

An attached patio facing north will be shaded by the house during most of the day. Prevailing breezes should also be considered in the planning.

PATIO DESIGN

As an extension of the home, the patio should be planned to enhance existing features. Consider size and shape of the patio in relation to

Patterns, for example, can be created with flagstone or brick to harmonize with the terrain and textures of the natural surroundings and at the same time complement the lines and design features of the house. The patio should be an integral part of the house both aesthetically and functionally.

Other important factors to weigh in choosing outdoor building materials for a patio include their durability, ease of maintenance, quick drying and non-skid properties.

Although concrete traditionally has been a favorite paving material for patios, many

BRICK PATIO

Brick, because of its color, pattern, abrasion resistance, availability and relative ease of working, is a highly desirable paving material for patios.

Available in a variety of sizes and colors, brick can be set in a bed of martar over a concrete slab, with mortar applied between joints, or it can simply be laid in sand or gravel over well-tamped, compacted earth.
Many pleasing design variations are possible either way.

There are two basic types of bricks: common and face. Most patio and garden paving is done with common bricks because of their pleasant color and texture--and their lower price. Face bricks are more uniform in size and color and generally are not as widley available as common brick.

Drainage is an important factor in constructing a brick patio. When subjected to excessive moisture, brick may be susceptible to efflorescence or formation of a whitish crust caused by mineral salts in the brick risinig to the surface. Stains, growth of fungi or molds--or disintegration caused by freezing and thawing in the absence of moisture--also may plague brick when proper draingage is not provided.

To prevent drainage problems on brick patios, slope the surface at least one-eighth inch per foot away from buildings, retaining walls or other structures that will cause water to collect on the surface.

SWEETNESS - THE CHOICE IS YOURS!

For many years sucrose or common table sugar has been the traditional sweetner for foods. Recently consumers have been faced with the rising cost of sugar and are looking for alternative sweetners.

Sugar is a carbohydrate and carbohydrates are essential sources of energy for the body. Some of the common forms of sugars and food sources of them SIMPLE SUGARS

Glucose - Honey Fructose - Honey DOUBLE SUGARS Sucrose - Table Sugar Maltose - Malt

Lactose - Milk COMPLEX SUGARS Starch - Potatoes Breads and Cerals

In addition to these natural sweeteners, the artificial sweetner saccharin is available today. Artificial sweetners, which are sugar substitutes that provide sweetening without calories, were developed for diabetics, whose carbohydrate consumption must be carefully control-

Research indicated many people are eating more sugar in the form of sucrose than their bodies need. This may be contributing to such health problems as obesity, dental cavities, diabetes and heart disease. It is desirable, in many cases, to reduce sucrose consumption by substituting other natural sugars.

New Insecticides Tested For Greenbug Control

bugs start to damage tolerant sorghum hybrids or if tolerant hybrid seed was not available. research conducted at the USDA Research Center at Bushland showed that several new insecticides controlled the pests and increased sorghum yield. N.E. Daniels, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station Entomologist conducted the research in 1974 and 1975. "In addition to greenbug control, several chemicals controlled Banks grass mites" the scientist said. Both soil and foliage treatments were evaluated", he continued.

Soil treatments were made with granular formulations of Temik, Disulfoton, Carbofuran, Bay HOX, and Thiofanox. In one type of experiment, applications of granules were made 1 inch deep in the furrow above newly planted seed. In other studies, granular pesticides were sideressed 1.5 inches deep on top of beds, as close as possible to sorghum that was 15 inches tall. In 1974, sidedress treatments controlled greenbugs, corn leaf aphids and Banks grass mites better than furrow treatments according to the researcher. 'Pesticides in the furrow treatments were broken down before heavy populations deve-loped", Daniels said. Seventy per cent greenbug and 60 per cent Banks grass mite control with sidedress applications markedly increased yields. Thiofanox, Temik, and Disulfoton treatments each at 1 pound active ingredient per acre yielded more than 5000 pounds of grain per acre. Untreated

2700 pounds of grain per acre. In 1975, furrow treatments were not applied. There were no Banks grass mites in the field. Compared to 1974, only one-half or 2100 greenbugs per plant infested untreated areas. Sidedress with Carbofuran at 2 pounds active ingredient per acre increased yields from 5600 to 6300 pounds per acre. "The 700 pounds per acre difference would turn a good profit above the pesticide cost", Daniels

greenbugs but did not increase

Both sprays and granules were evaluated as folian treatments.

In 1974, sprays were applied

July 15 to 36-inch plants near heading. Greenbugs averaged 2000 per plant. Disulfoton, Carbofuran, Bay HOX and Thiofanox each applied at 0.10 pound per acre reduced greenbug, corn leaf aphid and Banks grass mite populations from 60 to 80 per cent. Yields exceeded 4600 pounds per acre of grain. Disulfoton controlled 80 per cent of both greenbugs and Banks grass mites, and grain yield was 4900 pounds per acre, according to Daniels. Control with methyl parathion and Monitor at 0.10 pound per acre was not quite as good and yields were about 4300 pounds per acre. Untreated sorghum yielded 2400 pounds per acre, and had 4800 greenbugs and 1450 mites per plant.

Two additional experiments in 1974 were applied July 22 and July 25. Carbofuran, Demeton, Parathion, Meta systox R, Cygon and Bay HOX all gave excellent control and increased grain yields about 1500 pounds

"Without effective sprays to combat these pests in 1974 much of the irrigated sorghum in the Panhandle would have produced only 1500 pounds per acre", Daniels stated.

Granular formulations applied to foliage were not as effective as sprays. "It took 1 pound per acre of Disulfoton to give the same control as 0.10 pound per acre of spray", the plants that had a seasonal Entomologist said. average of 5500 greenbugs and

900 Banks grass mites produced Spray treatments in 1975 were applied July 30- to 36-inch infested with 500 greenbugs. The untreated population grad-ually increased for 20 days after treatment to over 6000 greenbugs per plant. All of the 13 insecticides evaluated gave good initial control. Carbofuran at 0.25 pound per acre was best and gave over 90 per cent control for the entire 20 days. Good control paid off and the yield was 5700 pounds per acre. Other insecticides and pounds greenbugs and gave over 5000 pounds per acre of grain were encapsulated ethyl parathion 0.10; Thiofanox 0.12; Zolone 0.25; LS71-187 0.5; Bay NTN 8629, Bay HOX 1901, and Disulfoton 0.20. "The untreated check made 4300 pounds per acre after greenbugs had their fill", the scientist said. Inanother study applied a few days later, Bay 39007, Cygon, Nudrin and Supracide gave good greenbug control and increased grain yields about 1000 pounds per acre.

"We hope greenbug toleance in new sorghum hybrids saves the expense of a lot of spraying", Daniels said. "but if greenbug and mite populations get high enough to cause damage, there are several Insecticidal sprays that will give control".

Scabies Cases ncrease

Only one outbreak of cattle scabies--in Nebraska--was reported nationwide during June. the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) reports. This compares with four outbreaks in June, 1975.

The June outbreak brings to 77 the number of cases found in 10 states during the past 12 months. This is a sharp increase over the 45 cases in the previous 12 months.

The Nebraska case was in Fillmore County. According to officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), quarantines have been placed on affected premises. The quarantines will not be lifted until such cattle are treated with permitted pesticides under federal or state supervision and found free of scabies mite infestations.

APHIS officials said scabies outbreaks cannot be prevented without the help of ranchers. Cattlemen are urged to check their stock regularly.

Soviet Union Purchases Additional U.S. Wheat

WASHINGTON (AP)- The Soviet Union, in yet another round of grain purchases, has ordered an additional one million metric tons of U.S. wheat and corn under terms of a long-term sales agreement signed last fall.

Officials of two firms announced the sales Thursday. Continental Grain Co., sold 400,000 tons of wheat and 300,000 tons of corn. The Bunge Corp., sold 300,000 tons of wheat. A metric ton is 2,205

Agriculture Department officials said the grain was worth about $141 million at current prices of $150 per ton for wheat and $120 per ton for corn delivered to Gulf ports.

Counting 2.8 million tons of wheat and corn bought earlier. the latest sales raised to 3.8 million tons the amount purchased so far under terms of five-year agreement signed with the Soviets last fall. That accord calls for Russia to buy six million to eight million tons of wheat and corn annually. beginning with deliveries this

The Soviet Union, plagued by a short harvest last year, in addition has bought 16.5 million tons of corn and wheat-about three-fourths of it corn- from the 1975 U.S. harvest. That grain is not covered by the long-term agreement.

Also, Russia the past week bought 1.5 million tons of U.S. soybeans valued at around $375 million for delivery during the 1976-77 marketing year. Soybeans are not included in the long-term agreement.

About the only time you expect to see a Zimmatic broken down is when it leaves one of Lindsay's plants. Once assembled in your field, it seldom causes a problem. Those big, sure-footed towers power their way around the field, carrying water to crops.

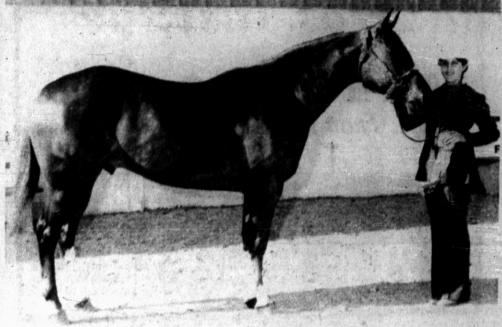

Hour after hour, day after day. Until you decide to shut down. That kind of performance doesn't just happen. It's the result of constant testing — both in the plant and in the field. Lindsay puts these rigs through the most punishing conditions— loads on more stress in a week, usually, than they re likely to see in a lifetime of normal use

Texas Crops Making Progress

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP)- Field crops and forages in Texas are making good progress where moisture is available. Dr. Daniel Pfannstiel, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, says.

Hay harvesting remained active throughout the state last week with some second cuttings being baled, he said.

Watermelons and cantaloupes are being harvested in southern and western areas. Harvesting of the Presidio cantaloupe crop is about half complete but the Pecos crop is generally behind schedule because the crop is late, Pfannstiel said.

Field beans and peas are being harvested over much of Central and East Texas and peaches are still moving to market in north central and eastern sections, he said.

Range and livestock conditions are generally good across Texas except in West Texas and the Plains where forage growth has been limited by lack of rainfall, he said.

District agricultural agents gave these reports:

Panhandle: Wheat harvesting is about complete. Yields are better than expected. Baling of the second cutting of alfalfa is generally complete. Corn, sorghum, cotton and sugar beets are making good progress. Range cattle remain in good shape.

South Plains: Farmers in southwestern counties who had not been able to plant earlier because of a lack of moisture are now planning to plant earlymaturing sorghums. Recent hail damaged some 50,000 acres of cotton, The wheat harvest is virtually complete.

Rolling Plains: Much of thearea needs rain. The peanut crop is making good progress in Jones and Motley counties. The third cutting of alfalfa is under way. Peaches are being harvested in Young and Wichita North Central: The small grain harvest is about complete. Yields and fair to good. Midge is increasing in some sorghum. Most peanuts have beenplanted and are making good growth. The peach harvest is light.

Northeast: Small grain harvesting is complete. Recent rains damaged some hay. Tomatoes, squash, beans and watermelons are being harvested. Pastures are providing good grazing. Flies and ticks are heavy in livestock.

Far West: Recent rains boosted crop and range conditions but more moisture is needed. The cantaloupe harvest in the Presidio area is halfway complete. Alfalfa is producing excellent yeilds.

West Central: Early cotton is beginning to square. Early sorghum is booting. Rain is needed but livestock remain in good shape. Hay baling remains

Central: Crops over most of the area are making good progress but peanuts in the Crosstimbers section need rain. About 10 per cent of the peanut crop remains to be planted. Insects are increasing in sorghum and cotton. Some. sorghum in the Blacklands is ripening.

East: Rains have hindered the second cutting of hay. Corn is being harvested for roasting ears. Peanut planting remains active. Pastures are making good growth. Livestock are in fair to good shape.

Southeast--and Upper Gulf

Coast: Some early corn and sorghum are being harvested. A good hay crop is being harvested in most counties. Disease areas are affecting the watermelon crop in Waller County. Some pastures and ranges need rain.

South Central: Most crops are making good growth but insects are increasing in some fields. Rain is needed to produce additional hay cuttings. Livestock are generally in good condition.

Southwest: Early corn and sorghum is maturing rapidly. Carrot and cucumber harvesting is about complete. Rain is

Cotton's Future Brightens

HARLINGEN, Tex. (AP)-Cotton has returned as king of crops in the Lower Rio Grande Valley. The crop is large and the price is good.

Grain sorghum replaced cotton last year in many of the irrigated fields of the Valley because cotton prices dropped to a level where it became a break-even crop even with ideal weather conditions. It was the first year in decades that more grain than cotton was planted in the valley.

In less than a year, the demand and price of cotton almost doubled, according to grower Jack Funk of Harlingen. The outlook for this year's crop is "real good, if we can get these rains out of here," Funk

Although the current price of cotton is about 85 cents per pound, compared with about 45 cents per pound a year ago, many Valley farmers will not receive the full price.

the only sure way of knowing Most of the cotton grown in where wild screwworm flies the Valley is sold ahead of time exist. These samples are used to on a contract basis, where by a locate wild screwworm fly cotton buyer agrees to purchase all the cotton grown by a farmer The sterile fly techinique is at a set price Through the most effective against a light contracting system, the farmer can be certain of the price he To establish this condition it is will receive, regardless of essential that animal owners market fluctuations. If he is strive to prevent infestation in willing to gamble, he can wait. But he also faces the prospect that prices could drop below the contract rate. Most of the cotton contracted this year was for 55-57 cents per pound and there is no comparison figure for 1975 since last year's crop was so small there was no contracting for it.

The future looks good, Funk said, nothing that many farmers are already selling their 1977 crop at a contract price of 65-66 cents-per pound.

Although there has been some sporadic harvesting of cotton, the main harvest will get underway July 20 and last for about 30 days, Funk said.

In addition the doubling of prices, this year's crop is more than double in acreage over the 1975 crop. In Hidalgo County. County Agent Dan Galvan said farmers planted about 80,000 acres of cotton this year, compared with only about 22,000 acres in 1975. In Cameron County, growers planted 104,582 acres of cotton this year, compared with only

47,278 acres a year ago. "We think the future for cotton in the Valley is good.

Although 1976 appears well on the way to becoming at least the third worst year in the 15 the Southwest Screwworm Eradication Program has functioned, it is doing so without heavy infestations in an area that has borne the burden of previous insect epidemics. Texas' eight southernmost counties. At least insofar as positive samples being received for identification at the Mission Laboratory is concerned.

Generally this screwworm overwintering area reports about half of all infestations. But not this year...not to date, anyhow.

In the first five months of 1976 these eight counties, all within 50 miles of the Rio Grande River, had but 27 per cent of the state's heavy caseload compared to 57 per cent for the first five months a vear ago.

During May their share was even less, declining to 26 per cent. One year ago they had 53 per cent of the month's screwworm attacks.

This isn't to imply these vulnerable counties aren't having a bunch of cases this year or that the situation won't worsen before yearend. With a much bigger screwworm year in the offing than in '75 and Gulf Coast eartick season not yet at hand things could get much stickier before winter.

Of Texas' 1,968 cases through May these eight counties had 531. A year ago they had recorded 333 at this time but the state total to that point was only

In May 1972 there were 4,197 outbreaks during May and 6,308 the same month in 1962. At the end of 1972 some 90,980 had been recorded, the worst year ever. The final count in 1962. next worst, was 49,484.

Texan Cultures Institue Provides Education

sociated Press Writer

SAN ANTONIO (AP)- The Institute of Texan Cultures, erected eight years ago as the state's Hemisfair showcase. may today be the most unusual educational facility in the nation, says its executive director, Jack Maguire.

"It's probably regarded by most people as a museum, Maguire said in an interview at the institute where he lives with his wife. "But it's not a museum, because everything cultural conflict. we have is borrowed."

Although its instructional courses, publications, films and research files are known throughout the state and nation, Maguire said the institute is still best known for its giant exhibit

Here, is 50,000 square feet of space, more than 750,000 visitors come each year to see and hear the story of their own heritage as its relates to the history of Texas.

Former Gov. John Connally, in announcing plans for the institute in 1966, set some lofty goals:

'The Institute of Texan Cy tures will be a new type of ir titution with a new approach. I will set a national pattern, if we do it properly. Its mission will be the transmission of the Texas spectrum in terms that the general public will understand, enjoy and remember.

"History belongs to all of the people, not just to scholars and researchers. It becomes important only after it gets to the

'Told in terms of people rather than dry dates, and told with authenticity, the real Texas story is more amazing and, I predict, will be more popular than the outworn, powder-burned myths we hope it replaces.'

Today, as a part of the special and supplementary services in Texas history for more than 100,000 public school students.

Because the orientation of the institute is ethnic-it attempts to present Texas history through 26 separate cultural and racial groups which settled and developed the state-it also has programs of ethnic studies, Maguire said.

When the institute opened in April 1968, Maguire noted that Texas "was in a tense period of

"Black Texans and those of Mexican ancestry particularly were disenchanted with their roles as citizens," he said.

In contrast to "Black Studies," "Brown Studies" and other ethnic group programs which were beginning to develop across the nation, Maguire said the institute 'undertook to make a study of all of the many peoples mingling in the state population in all their diversity.'

From this, the institute eventually developed exhibits, and later, publications and tape and slide presentations on the national, cultural and racial groups which have contributed to Texas history.

The stories and contributions of blacks and Anglos, Mexicans and Germans, Norweigians and Indians, Frenchmen and Czechs are all shown in exhibits in their common bond-they are Texans. As many as .1,500 school pupils from all over Texas visit the institute exhibits each day. More than 135,000 copies of institute publications are being used in Texas public schools. More than 8,000 of its film strips and slide shows are helping teachers in the classrooms and more than 50 of the institute's. traveling exhibits are touring the state constantly, Maguire said.

At the institute building, University of Texas at San guides especially trained to Antonio, the institute is home product educational tours and for dozens of instructional offen wearing ethnic costumes,

There are separate areas for each of the cultural-ethnic groups. The exhibits include relics, costumes, photographs and sometimes brief biographies of famous Texans from that particular background.

Barbecue War

In a light vain, a national magazine last month had two established food writers compare Texas beef barbecue and Carolina pork barbecue. Each writer ridiculed the other's fare.

The truth is, of course, both are excellent. Pork barbecue need not be greasy-as charged-and beef barbecue needn't be dry and charred-as charged.

Barbecue, whichever you prefer, is a unique American institution and can be enjoyed by all. Pork barbecue experts like hickory charcoaled meat. Beef people like apple wood for cooking.

Outdoor barbecuing at home can be family fun, though it takes longer to prepare good barbecue meat than to cook a steak or burgers, etc. Yet the ritual of barbecuing itself can provide much pleasure on a cool afternoon or evening; it adds entertainment and anticipation to a guest dinner because the smell of the hickory (or apple) is enjoyable in itself.

AUSTIN-Major House committees and Speaker Bill Clayton offered a grab-bag program to save 10 to 15 per cent on utility bills and renewed a call for a special legislative ses-

Clayton said he had discussed the proposals with Gov. Dolph Briscoe. Briscoe has been cool toward a special session unless he can be convinced substantial immediate savings in gas and electric bills would result.

Recommendations clude elimination of the five per cent state-local sales tax on utility bills and a new state tax credit for investor-owned utilities. The latter is supposed to save consumers 10 to 12 per cent monthly if enacted.

Tax reduction proposals would reduce state revenue about $500 million over the next three years, but Clayton said an anticipated surplus of more than $2 billion would make this painless for government. Among other recommendations: - Restructuring natural gas levies to shift $36.6 million of the burden from Texas to out-of-state consumers

- Prohibition of takeor-pay provisions for more than 80 per cent of deliverability in future natural gas sale contracts and a guarantee of makeup periods of not less than two years to use gas bought under such provisions.

- A requirement that the Railread Commission hold public hearings on redetermined prices of gas and pass-through charges to consumers.

- Uniform application of all gas cost adjustments to consumers regardless of class or amount of consumption.

ABC Head Quits

Alcoholic Commission Administrator Luke Robinson quit his job under fire.

Robinson pointed to dissension on the commission as his reason for bowing out after only a nine months trial. He said he would not "play games with the people's business ... and not break before the winds of political pressure."

The new administrator ordered a series of raids last fall and insisted on strict application of a law requiring 51 per cent of stock in establishments which sell alcoholic beverages to be owned by Texans.

Democrats Seek Truce

Democrats, troubled with friction over state party leadership, held summit truce talks here last week to discuss patching up differences for a united general election campaign.

Texas members of the Democratic Committee. State Chairman Calvin Guest, Bob Armstrong (who heads Jimmy Carter's presidential nomination campaign) and AFL-CIO President Harry Hubbard talked over plans for the fall campaign in a three-hour session.

Guest proposed joint campaign headquarters for Carter and state and local candidates in 23 major Texas counties cooperative efforts by all factions and groups in the party.

State Insurance Board members scheduled a July 16 session to explore reasons why companies are declining to sell auto and household policies to Tex-

Agents said they are having the worst time ever finding companies who will write policies on their

The high court left standing, however, conviction of California reporters for contempt of court in violating "gas orders" and refusing to reveal sources of information.

An Austin district judge turned down a request for a temporary injunction to knock Democratic Railroad Commission candidate Jon Newton off the ballot as ineligible, but set a July 9 hearing on merits of the suit brought by defeated candidate Jerry Sadler.

State Board of Pharmacy will appeal a Dallas court ruling that drug stores can advertise drug prices regardless of a state law prohibiting the practice.

Ag Opinions

Placement of a statue in the Alamo Chapel which would require an excavation four feet deep would violate state law against any change or alteration in the historic church. Atty. Gen. John Hill held. In other recent opinions

-The State Commissioner of Labor Statistics is not authorized to collect back wages owed to employees or former employees of a regulated employer.

Hill concluded:

-Information from investigative files on individuals compiled by the State Board of Registration for Processional Engineers may be withheld from public inspection.

-The Vocational Nurse Examiners Board director of training must have at east five years as a nursing
