Local migrant project

Group appeals decision

Calling most living quarters in the San Jose Labor Camp little more than shacks, a group of Hereford-area residents renewed efforts Thursday to seek funding for a $1.8 million housing project for migrants here.

The appeal hearing was held before Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) district officials in Amarillo Thursday, and the hearings continue today.

The Hereford group was turned down in its initial application in June despite a favorable recommendation from FmHA officials in Washington, D.C.

Charlie Ruiz, president of the Amistad Housing Development Corporation, said "there are water problems, sewage problems, not enough space. The proposed housing project is one-of-a-kind in the state of Texas."

"It would have a ball field, a community center, day care center and several bedrooms for large families."

Most of the quarters would be tailored for families of about five persons.

Current plans call for the development to be built along Texas Street, just off U.S. 60. The San Jose area is just outside the city limits southwest of Hereford.

Some residents in the area proposed for the new development have lobbied against it, saying their property would lose value and children in the area could be endangered by numerous trucks that would be driving through the area.

Ruiz, however, said discrimination locally and at the national level is preventing funding for the project.

"It's ridiculous that the national office says Deaf Smith County qualifies for this project and then we're denied application in the district office," Ruiz said. "I hate to say it but prejudice is what is keeping the project from being built."

Testimony should continue most of today, but no decision is expected to be rendered in the near future.

UW holds training

An orientation meeting for United Way division leaders and their aides was held Thursday at noon in the Senior Citizens Center with campaign co-chairmen Margaret Bell and Buddy Peeler previewing plans for the drive and distributing information packets.

The kickoff luncheon for the United Way drive is scheduled next Thursday when local civic clubs will get together for a joint luncheon. Chris Bell, an Amarillo television personality, will be keynote speaker for the event.

While the campaign formally begins on Monday, Sept. 14, Wayne Amstutz, executive director, announced Thursday that advanced gifts now total about $10,000. The new campaign goal is $120,000 and this year's theme is "United Giving Brings United Living."

Bell, the featured speaker for the kickoff luncheon, is the noon anchorman for KVII-TV in Amarillo, where his duties also include assignments editor, political editor and general reporter. He is also well-known to viewers for his "Waiting Child" segment, an award-winning feature on children who are waiting for a Big Brother or Big Sister.

Bell graduated from the University of Texas in 1962 with a degree in broadcast journalism. He serves on the Amarillo Big Brothers/Big Sisters board of directors and on the United Way communications committee.

The joint luncheon next Thursday is open to all civic club members and interested United Way volunteers on a "Dutch" treat basis. Civic clubs will all meet on Thursday next week.

Cancer high among Marines

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Veterans Administration study found 58 percent more lung cancer among Vietnam Marine veterans than among Marines who did not go into the war, providing what a veterans group called "the first very clear scientific data" implicating Agent Orange.

The rate was even higher, 110 percent more than expected, for non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, a category of several types of cancers of the lymph system other than Hodgkin's disease. Both excess rates were termed statistically significant.

The mortality study reviewed the causes of deaths of 50,000 military personnel, approximately one-third of the U.S. Army and Marine Corps ground troops who have died since the Vietnam War.

Although the study, conducted by the agency's Office of Environmental Epidemiology, was not designed to determine a cause of the higher death rates, the report said "exposure to Agent Orange may be suspected."

"That's dynamite. It's astounding information," said Mike Leaveck, spokesman for the Vietnam Veterans of America, a congressionally chartered organization that has sued the VA seeking compensation for Agent Orange victims.

"That's the first very clear scientific data that would confirm our suspicions, that there really is a reason to fear Agent Orange," he said.

When all types of cancers were considered, Vietnam veterans did not suffer excessive rates, the VA study said.

The higher cancer rates noted among Marine veterans who served in Vietnam were not found among their U.S. Army counterparts. Although reasons for the difference were not clear, the scientists said environmental exposure in Vietnam was different according to location and duties.

Most Marines served in what was known as I Corps, in the northernmost part of South Vietnam. Army units generally served in other areas. Leaveck said there is evidence I Corps was "where the biggest hits were" of Agent Orange spraying.

Dick Christian, director of the Army and Joint Services Environmental Support Group, said no records exist for much of the spraying, however, as both the Marines and Army did not record all Agent Orange use.

The Centers for Disease Control said in July it was unable to proceed with a separate Agent Orange study because it could not determine exposure to the defoliant among troops.

Agent Orange was one of the herbicides sprayed from U.S. aircraft in Vietnam to defoliate dense jungle hiding places. Its use has been suspected by veterans as the cause of various ailments, including cancer and birth defects in the veterans' offspring. An ingredient, dioxin, has been shown to be a potential source of cancer.

Saudi ship attacked

MANAMA, Bahrain (AP) — An unidentified Saudi Arabian vessel was attacked and some of its crewmen killed or wounded in the Persian Gulf, shipping sources said today. There was no official confirmation of the report.

The sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said two people were killed and seven wounded in the attack late Thursday.

The reported attack occurred as another convoy of U.S. warships and Kuwaiti tankers steamed south through the gulf. It was the latest incident in fighting between Iran and Iraq that has damaged at least 20 ships since Saturday.

Meanwhile, the Kuwaiti Defense Ministry said a long-range missile crashed at 4 a.m. today into southern Kuwait, close to the Al-Ahmadi oil terminal, where two reflagged tankers flying U.S. flags were anchored for loading.

No damage to the ships or casualties were reported, and it was unclear whether the missile was related to the gulf war between Iran and Iraq.

The Kuwait News Agency, monitored in Nicosia, quoted a Defense Ministry source as saying the origin of the unidentified missile was unknown. Stray missiles have often struck Kuwait during the 7-year-old gulf war.

Saudi-based sources, speaking anonymously, said they had no direct information on the reported attack on the Saudi ship. They said their registers indicated there were no tankers flying the Saudi flag in the gulf at the time, but that several supply vessels and other craft were sailing in the waterway.

The Spanish maritime radio network, Onda Pasquera, quoted a Spanish ship captain as saying a Saudi Arabian ship near his own in the gulf was "attacked and sunk by unspecified boats" late Thursday.

Iraq said Thursday its warplanes raided a tanker, and shipping sources said Iranian fighters on speedboats hit a Japanese tanker and an Italian motorship.

Since Saturday, when the so-called tanker war was renewed, fire from Iraqi warplanes or Iranian speedboats has hit at least 20 ships registered in nine different nations, according to gulf-based shipping sources.

The sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said that number at least doubles the average for a month in 1986.

Iran and Iraq have been at war since September 1980.

Also Thursday, Britain reflagged its first Kuwaiti tanker, located off Khor Fakkan port on the Gulf of Oman. Sources in the United Arab Emirates said the 263,679-ton supertanker Al-Faiha, renamed the Tonbridge, will be accompanied at least partway up the gulf by British warships.

The United States has given its flag to 11 Kuwaiti vessels so the U.S. Navy can protect them from attacks by Iran, which regards Kuwait as an ally of Iraq.

On Thursday, Iran and Iraq reported air strikes on each other's territory, and Iraq claimed its gunners downed an Iranian plane.

On July 24, during the first of seven U.S.-escorted convoys, the supertanker Bridgeton hit a mine off the island, which Iran uses as a speedboat base. Early Thursday, the Italian motorship was attacked near Farsi, the sources said.

Thursday night, two crewmen of the supply ship Big Orange 14, flying the Panamanian flag, were killed when Iraqi missiles hit the vessel, under charter to Iran.

One minor accident was investigated and one fire call, involving boxes burning behind Park Ave. Florist, was answered.

Cactus man dies after siege

CACTUS, Texas (AP) — A man was found dead inside a grocery store after he tried to rob it, took four hostages, shot at police and then set the store on fire, authorities say.

"This is the worst thing that's ever happened in Cactus in my 11 years as city secretary and probably since we were founded back in 1969," Glennis Ruby said after the Thursday incident in this Panhandle town.

Authorities said the as-yet unidentified Hispanic male entered the Cactus Service Co. in this town of about 1,000 shortly before 10 a.m., fired several shots and ordered the clerk to give him the store's money.

Mrs. Ruby, who works at City Hall, told the Borger News-Herald she got a phone call about 10 a.m. from store clerk Maria Herrera, 23, after convincing the man that someone at City Hall could open the safe.

Mrs. Herrera said the man had a gun, a pocketful of bullets and a large knife and was extremely upset, according to Mrs. Ruby. She said he spoke no English.

"I've never done anything like this before," Mrs. Ruby said. "I tried to talk to him on the telephone and I didn't do a bit of good."

Meanwhile, five Moore County deputies, two Department of Public Safety troopers and a Texas Ranger staked out the store, Moore County (See CACTUS, Page 2)

Food stamp numbers increase in Hereford

The number of residents of Deaf Smith County receiving assistance through the federal Food Stamp program increased from 2,797 in 1984 to 3,306 by January of 1986, according to figures recently released by the Department of Agriculture.

The percentage of the county population receiving food stamps is twice as high as the state and national ratio. For Deaf Smith County, 16.2 percent of the population received food stamps in January of 1986, compared to 8.1 percent for Texas and 8.1 for the nation.

The number of food stamp recipients in Texas was 1.3 million in January of 1986, while the national total was 19.5 million. The food stamp program is the largest and most important federal nutrition program. During fiscal 1986, expenditures through the food stamp program were $12.6 billion.

Food stamps are provided to individuals and households using a formula largely based on income. Virtually all individuals or households with incomes less than the poverty level qualify for food stamps assistance as do a number of persons with incomes greater than the poverty level. According to the Census Bureau, 72.9 percent of all households nationally receiving food stamps had incomes below the poverty level. State and local percentages were not available.

While the percentage of the local population is higher for food stamps, there is a marked difference in the national average for families receiving other forms of public assistance. In Deaf Smith County, 18.5 percent of food stamp recipients lived in households where all members of the household received some other form of public assistance—such as Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), social security or other general welfare assistance.

National figures indicate that 47.5 percent of all food stamp recipients lived in households where all members received another type of public assistance.

In Deaf Smith County, the average monthly value of food stamps provided per individual increased slightly from $44.29 in 1984 to $44.58 by January of 1986 or by 0.7%. Nationally, the level of individual food stamp assistance increased by 1.1% from $44.74 to $45.23. In Texas, the average monthly value of food stamps provided per individual increased from $40.50 to $47.54 or by 17.4% during the period.

Total federal expenditures for the Food Stamp program declined slightly from fiscal 1984 through fiscal 1986. However, most analysts attribute this decrease in spending to the fact that national economic conditions generally improved during the period.

The legislation providing for most federal nutrition assistance programs, including the Food Stamp program, is based upon income (means) qualifications. Those individuals who qualify for assistance through the Food Stamp programs are automatically entitled to such assistance if they qualify.

The federal government has budgeted $12.6 billion dollars for food assistance during fiscal 1987 and some $12.8 billion dollars is proposed for Food Stamps in the projected fiscal 1988 budget. If the funds budgeted for the program are insufficient, the Congress has always provided additional funding.

It appears that a substantial number of those individuals legally entitled to assistance through the Food Stamp program are not currently accepting such assistance. At the end of 1985, only 58.9% of American households receiving some form of means-tested public assistance also received food stamps.

While comparable state and local figures are not available, after state and local personal income statistics are taken into consideration, it appears that a number of residents of both Texas and Deaf Smith county qualifying for food stamps do not accept them.

CACTUS

Chief Deputy Z.Q. Bingham said.

Two men and an elderly woman in the store when the gunman entered the store escaped a short time later and Ms. Herrera escaped about 10:30, he said.

After a three-hour standoff, the man set fire to the store using matches and "anything else he could find," Bingham said. The man shot out the store's front doors and began firing at the officers outside the store, but authorities did not return his fire.

When the gunfire stopped and the fire was extinguished, the officers were able to enter the partially destroyed store, where they found the gunman dead, officials said. The suspect's body was sent to Amarillo for an autopsy, Bingham said.

"The smoke suffocated him or maybe he shot himself," Bingham said.

A&M hopes for good 1987 season opener

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON

AP Football Writer
COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Home openers, Yogi Berra once said, are always exciting whether they're at home or on the road.

In Coach Jackie Sherrill's five seasons at Texas A&M, home openers and road openers alike have produced little in the way of excitement.

In Sherrill's 1982 debut, Doug Flutie led Boston College to a 38-16 victory in College Station. The next year, California came to town and nipped the Aggies 19-17.

In 1984, Texas A&M eked out a 20-17 triumph at home over lowly Texas-El Paso when the a last-gasp field goal attempt by the losers hit the upright.

Two years ago, Alabama, Sherrill's alma mater, embarrassed the Aggies 23-10 in Birmingham, and last year LSU hammered them 35-17 in Baton Rouge.

Opener No. 6 for Sherrill is scheduled for Saturday night when 15th-ranked Texas A&M entertains No. 6 LSU in 34-year-old Mike Archer's first game as head coach of the Tigers.

LSU is a slight favorite in what Sherrill terms "the toughest opener we've had, for a lot of reasons. The biggest reason is we're going to play 20 players who have never played before. When you play that many kids who have never been on the field, you've got some unknowns."

Although the teams have played 40 times since 1899, with LSU holding a 23-14-3 lead, this is the first meeting in College Station since 1922 and just the fourth overall on the Aggies' turf.

Since 1922, the teams have met 27 times in Baton Rouge, once in Miami and once in Dallas. LSU certainly didn't want to play in College Station, where the Tigers are 0-3-1 and have been outscored 110-5.

Besides, Texas A&M currently owns the longest major-college home winning streak at 14 games.

"In both of our places, the crowd certainly gives the home team an edge," Sherrill says, adding:

"There are two ways you can approach an opener. There are a lot of people who get ready for one game. There are other people who get ready for the season.

"It's always been my approach that you get ready for a season instead of just one game because you've got an 11-game schedule."

It's hard to dispute Sherrill since the Aggies have gone to the Cotton Bowl by winning the last two Southwest Conference championships.

And despite the loss of 12 starters, this is not considered a rebuilding year since Texas A&M and Arkansas have been picked in most quarters as the top two teams in the conference.

Texas A&M's biggest loss is quarterback Kevin Murray, who led the Aggies to a school record 4,842 yards in total offense last season but elected to bypass his senior year.

His successor is fifth-year senior Craig Stump, who started the last eight games in 1984 after Murray suffered a broken ankle. That year, Stump completed 94 of 189 passes for 1,135 yards and 10 touchdowns, but he has thrown only 76 passes in the last two seasons.

Sherrill says that Lance Pavia, a highly touted redshirt freshman, also will see action, perhaps as early as the first period.

LSU's key area is an inexperienced defensive line.

"What concerns me is that our defensive line is young while their offensive line is big and experienced," Archer says. "Their runt on the offensive line is 6-foot-4 and 255 pounds. Most have started for two years."

But Sherrill points out that "four or five on the offensive line have not worked together as a unit during two-a-days because of injuries."

In 1970, a new translation of the Bible, known as the New American Bible, was made public by Roman Catholic authorities in New York. It was designed to replace the Douay version of the Bible, standard in English-speaking Roman Catholic churches for 220 years.

Ann Landers

Life with an overeater

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have read many letters in your column about the hell of living with an alcoholic, but I rarely see anything about living with an overeater. I grew up in an alcoholic home and am convinced that life with an overeater is worse.

My husband is the stereotype jolly fat person, regularly called on to play Santa Claus. Life behind closed doors with this man is far from ho-ho-ho.

Living within our food budget is a nightmare. I must go to the store every day to feed our children. I can never stock up on specials because the stock never lasts. I have had to send the children to school without breakfast because "Ho-ho-ho" used up all the cereal and milk during the night.

It is impossible to keep fresh fruit on hand. When the compulsion to eat hits my husband, he will devour every apple, orange or banana and then go for the box of brown sugar, mix it with water and that's gone, too.

I do love this man. He has many fine qualities, but the pervasiveness of his compulsion is destroying us all. I do not encourage him to diet because he becomes mean and nasty when he is hungry.

Do you see a solution? If so, send it my way.— Mrs. Claus (Stockton, Calif.)

will be glad to print them. Thanks for a brand-new problem.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How can a grandmother convince the rest of the family that she doesn't want doodads no matter how well chosen or expensive?

The gifts I would really appreciate cannot be purchased in a shop. I'd love to have my car washed and cleaned inside and out. (I'd be happy to supply the cloths and detergents.) I'd be ever so grateful if someone offered to wash my windows in my home. My two daughters and their teenage granddaughters could do it in one weekend.

I love my family and appreciate the flowers, jewelry, dusting powder and cologne. But if I had my choice, I'd ask for a gift that came not from a shop, but from the heart and their strong young backs. Sign me — Grandma (No City Please)

DEAR GRAM: Show them this column and say you feel the same way. What a great idea for people who want to give a present and have limited financial resources. What better gift than several hours of service? Money cannot buy such a gift and it's always the right size and color. Thanks for sharing a great idea.

Planning a wedding? What's right? What's wrong? "The Ann Landers Guide for Brides" will relieve your anxiety. To receive a copy, send $2.50 plus a No. 10 self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Aloe leaves can help treat burns

DEAR POLLY — My neighbor gave me an aloe plant recently. How is the plant used to treat burns? — V.I.

DEAR V.I. — Aloe does provide a soothing ointment for sunburn and other minor burns causing only reddened skin. However, for more serious burns, consult a doctor before self-treating.

To use the aloe plant, pluck one of its spiky leaves and either crush it or split it open. Then spread the liquid from the leaf liberally on the affected skin. The aloe juice does feel good and takes away some of the sting. Some say it promotes healing.

You can also make a salve from aloe by mashing the leaves or chopping them finely with a food chopper or blender, then blending them with an equal quantity of petroleum jelly. Store the salve in a tightly covered jar in the refrigerator.

I'm sending you a copy of my newsletter "Home Beauty Spa," which contains formulas for aloe vera salve and ointment as well as homemade moisturizers, oatmeal scrubs, facials, hair treatments, bubble bath and other beauty and grooming aids. Others who would like a copy of this issue should send $1 for each copy to POLLY'S POINTERS, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 93863, Cleveland, OH 44191-5863. Junk dealer to hang himself to prove outlaw escaped the noose

By KEN HERMAN Associated Press Writer
GIDDINGS, Texas (AP) — Junk dealer Woodrow Wilson is going to hang himself on a gallows he and his wife built alongside U.S. 290, but only because it would cost $100 to hang someone else.
 Wilson plans to survive the Sept. 20 hanging. It's part of his effort to prove that outlaw Bill Longley also survived when he was hanged here in Lee County in 1878.
 It is Wilson's hypothesis that Longley paid off the local sheriff, donned a life-saving harness under his clothing and walked out of his coffin shortly after the hanging.

 "He headed for Louisiana. I've got proof that he's buried and died down there in Louisiana," he said, pointing to photographs of a grave bearing Longley's name.
 Wilson, 67, pictures a festive celebration complete with entertainment. The hanging will be the highlight of what he hopes will be the first Bill Longley Day.
 Wilson's decision to portray Longley was based on pure economics.

 "I had two men that would do it for $100 apiece. But I've put a lot of money in this thing here. If I can save $100 I'm going to do it," he said.
 The official word is that Longley, a murderer and all-around outlaw, was around 30 when he died by the noose. Wilson, whose grandfather married Longley's sister, claims his no-good uncle died at age 71 from complications after prostate surgery.
 The junkman named for the man who was president when he was born said his version of the non-death of Longley is based on local lore and a cousin's research.

 "One man that buried the coffin said, 'Let's open up the coffin and see if he's still in there.' But the sheriff said, 'The first SOB that opens up that coffin is going to get shot,'" Wilson said.
 The hanging re-enactment is touted on a roadside sign near the homemade gallows. "Bill Longley Hang Out. Dedicated to His Memory and Giddings History," the sign says.

 "There's some people in town who are not happy about this. Some people think it's not becoming to the history of Lee County," Wilson said.
 "I'm not trying to immortalize him, but this is Lee County history. It doesn't show no more violence than what TV would. In 10 minutes on TV I've seen two killings," he said.
 Wilson is working out the final details of his hanging. He plans to have a "good friend" slip the noose around his neck. There should be no real danger, he added.

 "The only thing is with that rope slipping up and snapping my neck. You've got to allow for that. It's just a stunt. With my own life in jeopardy I aim to practice it more than just once," he said.
 It's good clean fun, Wilson claims.
 "If anybody gets hurt I'm going to be the one to get hurt. I'm putting my neck on that line," he said with a hint of gallows humor.

Little League coach loves the game

By JOHN WERNER Waco Tribune-Herald
WACO, Texas (AP) — When Butch Henry started coaching Little League baseball, John F. Kennedy was president, Dallas had two pro football teams, and Houston's baseball team was called the Colt .45s. Pete Rose was 4,191 hits behind Ty Cobb.
 That was 25 years ago. While many Little League coaches come and go with their sons, Henry has stayed with the game. Henry knows almost every baseball player to come from Waco in the past three decades.
 This summer, Henry coached in his fourth Little League state tournament. He also took teams to state in 1963, 1973 and 1978 and out of more than 400 contests has won almost five times as many games as he's lost.
 "You'd be hard-pressed to find someone who has coached three decades in the state tournament. They're either dead or quit coaching," Henry said.

 "This keeps you young at heart. I really enjoy working with the kids. I like getting a kid who can't catch very well when he is 10 and seeing him progress when he is 11 or 12."
 Henry's players are like a roll call of Waco athletes. Pat Zachry, a former major league pitcher, was a Little Leaguer in the mid-1960s. Bill Goss and Richard Gough played for Henry and went on to McLennan Community College and Baylor. Johnny Tusa played baseball for Henry as a teen-ager, long before he became Waco High's football coach.
 In the late 1970s and early in this decade, Henry did like most many fathers — he coached his sons. Keith and Kelly now coach for their father.
 "Our whole family life centers around Little League in the summer," Henry said. "I really enjoy having Keith and Kelly out there. And you've got to have an understanding wife to do it."

Keith said, "Seeing the enjoyment he got, I wanted to do the same thing."
 Henry grew up in Stephenville, and in the spring of 1962, he took a break from his studies at Tarleton State to visit Waco. He could not understand why his younger brother, Jack, was not more interested in baseball.
 "Jack thought he was Roy Rogers," Henry said. "I thought he should be playing baseball. I signed him up, and I signed up, too."
 Later that summer, Henry moved to Waco and became an assistant coach for a team. The next year, Henry helped a Waco all-star team reach the state finals. In the 1965 city tournament, Henry's squad lost to the team that reached the national tournament in Williamsport, Pa.
 But Henry's best team was in 1973. In the state finals, Waco beat an Austin team headed by Lee Tunnell, who later pitched for Baylor and who now pitches for the St. Louis Cardinals. Waco scratched three late runs off Tunnell to make the regional tournament in St. Petersburg, Fla.
 After rolling past Mississippi in the opening round of regionals, Waco lost to Tampa, 4-2.

 "That was the first or second best team I've seen from this area," Henry said. "Whoever won that game between us and Tampa was going to Williamsport."
 Although Henry is quick with a joke, the joking stops once his team hits the field. His teams are disciplined and built on strong fundamentals.
 "Baseball should be a fun time in their lives," Henry said. "But I'm a poor loser. I just ask them to give me their best shot."
 Henry has not decided if he'll return next season. After leaving coaching in 1963 and 1964, he returned in 1965. Henry, who is 47, doesn't know how much his hairline can take.
 "Little League is directly responsible for my hair loss," Henry said. "You don't see any Little League coaches who have been around a while with hair."

Kindermusik now offered

Amarillo College now offers Kindermusik, Levels I, II and III for children ages four through six.
 Kindermusik is a two-year curriculum divided into four semesters designed to develop children's enthusiasm for music. Areas of instruction include ear training, reading musical notation and note values, voice training, ensemble experience, improvisation and creative activities, acquaintance with musical instruments and literature from different historical periods, and preparation for private instrumental lessons.
 Karen Vandivere will teach these classes beginning the week of Sept. 6 meeting at Tolzien Music Co., 3800 I-40 West. Parents' orientation session will be held Sept. 1, 2 or 3 depending on which section of Kindermusik children are enrolled in. Complete information is available in the AC Adviser. Questions regarding the program can be directed to the college at 371-5200. Registration is going on now in the Registrar's Office.

One-Yard Touchdown Run

Hereford sophomore running back Ron Hathaway (30) bears down against a Canyon defensive player in his effort to carry the ball for a one-yard touchdown run in the third quarter of a game Thursday at

Whiteface Stadium. No. 19 of Hereford is Burt Noland, also a running back. The HHS sophomore team suffered a 20-6 loss to Canyon. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

Held 6-0 lead in third period

HHS sophomores lose 20-6

The Hereford High School sophomore football team held a 6-0 lead over Canyon in the third quarter, but failed to score the rest of the way as Canyon scored a 20-6 win.

The game was the season opener for the HHS sophomores, who have their next game at home on Saturday, Sept. 12 versus Lubbock Coronado at 11 a.m.

Thursday's game went scoreless in the first half. Running backs Burt Noland and Ron Hathaway played key roles in a scoring march in the third quarter, with Hathaway crossing the goal line on a one-yard run with 3:38 left in that period.

Canyon tied the game with nine seconds left in the third quarter with a 31-yard touchdown pass. Canyon's other touchdowns were a three-yard pass with 4:17 left in the game, and a 40-yard touchdown run with 2:09 left. A two-point conversion was scored after the three-yard touchdown pass.

Hereford Coach Stan Carter said,

Firm offers bat X-ray

for major league baseball

By KEN HERMAN
Associated Press Writer
AUSTIN (AP) — A Texas firm says it has a better way to check for bat tampering, but the major leagues are happy with the X-rays now used to look into bats suspected of doing more than wood should.

But Tim McCleary, American League spokesman, and Mary Lou Risley, National League spokesman, said Thursday that Scientific Management Systems Inc.'s offer had been rejected.

"We're happy with the facilities we're using now," McCleary said.

Scientific Management Systems of Austin uses a process called computed industrial tomography to check jet-engine turbines, automobile engine blocks, space shuttle parts and other equipment. The system is an X-ray-like process that produces an inside look at a item without damaging it.

Jim Kay, the company's vice president and a former Austin High School teammate of major leaguer Don Baylor, said the process is better than medical X-rays, such as the ones used by the leagues, for bat checking.

"The integrity of baseball is at stake in the corked-bat controversy. We hopefully have a solution they can fall back on to eliminate this problem," Kay said Thursday.

The National League Thursday suspended Billy Hatcher of the Houston Astros for using a corked bat Tuesday night. Kay said the company proposal was developed before the Hatcher incident.

The company offered to check suspected bats at no charge.

Kay said X-rays produce "images that are various shadings of gray and white." The Austin company's computer industrial tomography process, demonstrated Thursday for reporters, produces a computer-screen image of the bat's inside.

"The evidence is incontrovertible," Kay said. "I have some belief that a qualified person could possibly feel an X-ray."

"This is an issue that is clearly right now in front of the American sports fan. Are the bats being "Jeremy Gowdy played a great defensive game. Brian Wagner and Jared White also played real good on defense.

"Offensively, Burt Noland played a real good game. He probably had a 100-plus yard game, even 130 yards," Carter continues.

"Overall, we could give a lot of excuses, but in the critical plays we had too many mistakes or it would have been a different story. We'll iron out our mistakes and have a good ball team.

"The kids played real hard, blocked hard, tackled hard, and hustled. I was real pleased. We'll do all right this year," Coach Carter adds.

Game complicated by Tolliver's injury

Tech opens at Florida State

By BRENT KALLESTAD
Associated Press Writer
TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Texas Tech visits eighth-ranked Florida State in a tough opening assignment Saturday night complicated by an injury to junior quarterback Billy Joe Tolliver.

Tolliver, who passed for 1,602 yards and seven touchdowns last season, broke a small bone in his left foot during an agility drill.

The junior quarterback could be fully recovered in three weeks, but he isn't likely to play against the Seminoles, said Tech sports information director Joe Hornaday.

Scott Toman, a 5-foot-9, 180-pound senior, is expected to handle the quarterback assignment. He transferred to Tech two years ago after playing two seasons at North Texas State, and he came into the team's summer training camp as the No. 3 quarterback.

Aaron Keesee, who began training camp as Tolliver's backup, was ruled ineligible.

Florida State may also be without two of their top offensive players Saturday.

Tailbacks Sammie Smith and Victor Floyd returned to practice Wednesday, but are not expected to play. They combined for 1,265 yards a year ago while sharing tailback duties. Smith twisted his knee in practice last week and Floyd has been slowed by a stress fracture in his foot.

Five-foot-eight, 180-pound sophomore Dexter Carter will start at tailback for Florida State.

Despite the key injuries, both teams come into the season with high expectations.

Bowden, one of college football's most successful coaches, says this team has the potential to be his best club in 12 years at Florida State.

"If you say the best potential we've had at Florida State, yes it's the best potential," Bowden said. "But is it the best team? We can't answer that until the end of the year. Because if it is not a team, we won't win."

The Seminoles, who finished 7-4-last year following an All American Bowl victory over Indiana, return 18 of 22 starters. Texas Tech has 14 starters back off last year's 7-5 season that ended with an Independence Bowl loss to Mississippi.

The Florida State coaches have made a couple of position changes, moving reserve linebacker Odell Haggins into the starting nose guard position and David Palmer to a starting inside linebacker spot from fullback, where he had been used sparingly.

Tech likes to throw the ball. The Raiders have two diminutive receivers — 5-3, 130-pound Tyrone Thurman, and 5-9, 170-pound Wayne Walker. Thurman is also one of the nation's top punt return specialists, averaging 13.5 yards on 64 returns over the past two years.

The Seminoles ran through a light workout Thursday and the players were scheduled today to attend the dedication of the renovated Burt Reynolds football dormitory. Reynolds, now a well-known actor, played for the Seminoles in the mid-1960s.

Texas Tech was scheduled to arrive in Tallahassee today and hold a light workout at Doak Campbell Stadium.

Florida State has won three of the four previous meetings between the two schools, including a 40-17 Tangerine Bowl victory in 1977.

CANYON, Texas (AP) — Here's a look at West Texas State University's football game scheduled for Saturday:

S.F. AUSTIN STATE (5-6, 1-3) at WEST TEXAS STATE (7-4, 6-0), 7 p.m., Saturday, Kimbrough Memorial Stadium (20,000), Canyon. WTSU begins defense of its 1986 LSC title with Lumberjacks, former LSC members who edged WTSU 36-31 last season. Coach Bill Kelly's Buffs picked runner-up in 1987 LSC race. Offense lost record-setting QB Tod Mayfield and is now under the leadership of senior QB Steve Kragthorpe. The running game looks solid thanks to RBs J.R. Compton, James Morton and Wesley Wood.

Kelly expects defense, which gave up 378.2 yards per game in 1986, to be improved. Senior DB Kevin Ludwig returns after missing 1986 with broken leg. WTSU, which is ranked 20th in 1987 NCAA Division II first poll, returns 25 lettermen (8 starters). SFA coach Jim Hess has 34 lettermen (10 starters). Radio: KMML-FM and KIXZ-AM, Amarillo.

Final game of preseason

Cowboys to battle Oilers

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach Jerry Glanville realizes playing the Dallas Cowboys Saturday is more than just another NFL exhibition game.

"The first time I coached in the game was as an assistant coach and I realized right way that the tempo was dialed up," Glanville said. "Everybody's going at it a little different speed on both sides."

The Oilers will go into the final preseason game with a 1-2 record. The Cowboys also are 1-2.

The Cowboys hold a commanding 15-5 lead in the preseason series. They've won seven of the last eight games, but the Oilers won last year's game 17-14 to finish the preseason unbeaten.

"We like to say the Oilers are Texas tough and Houston proud, and I hope we can carry that into the ball game. I think the people of Houston like to claim we are Texas' team. We never claimed to be America's team."

The Cowboys have long been referred to as America's Team.

Glanville, the Oilers defensive coordinator before becoming head coach, also realizes the Cowboys present special defensive problems.

"Their defensive schemes are entirely different from any team we'll play," he said. "You don't go out there and block Dallas without a lot of preparation."

"They take away plays by alignment. Just the way they line up their strong safety and bring their free safety up, there are plays you can't run."

The Oilers have been running the ball much better this season and the reason is betting blocking in the offensive line, Glanville said.

"I'd say it's a pleasant surprise we're running so well," Glanville said. "In all fairness, people have been bragging on (Mike) Rozier, but the offensive line has done some good blocking when he's been in there."

Glanville said the first units for both teams have played well.

"Everybody was saying the Raiders killed them, but when I turned off the camera at the half, it was 7-3," Glanville said. "They didn't kill the guys who play (starters). When they were in there, it was still a game."

The Oiler regulars can expect more playing time this game.

"The biggest thing that we haven't done is keeping playing the No. 1 people," Glanville said. "The biggest change in the offense will be the No. 1 people will stay in place."

The Oilers open the regular season in the Astrodome against the Los Angeles Rams.

Bannister, White Sox blitz Rangers, 5-2

By PHYLLIS MENSING
AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Floyd Bannister felt comfortable, but the Texas Rangers felt they were attacked by a big rattler.

Bannister, backed by a good defense, scattered eight hits over 7 2-3 innings and struck out nine batters Thursday night as the Chicago White Sox blitzed the Rangers 5-2.

Bannister, 11-10, walked none en route to his third straight victory. Bobby Thigpen finished the game for his eighth save.

"It's one of those years when you feel snake-bit from the start, and the bite just keeps getting deeper," moaned Texas Manager Bobby Valentine, whose club has lost three of its last four games.

Bannister might have felt the same way in June, when he was 3-7. But he has won eight of his last 11 starts.

"I felt the most important thing for me to do was go out and pitch quality ball," he said. "I felt comfortable out there tonight. Overall, it was a good defensive game."

"I think in the middle innings he threw as good as he has all year," White Sox Manager Jim Fregosi said. "He's had three very good starts in a row now. He's changing speeds and used a very effective change-up."

Daryl Boston, who was sent to the minors Aug. 5 and recalled Monday, tripled to right field in the second inning to score Ron Hassey, who had walked, for Chicago's first run against Bobby Witt, 7-8.

Donnie Hill made it 2-0 in the third when he singled in Gary Redus, who had walked. Hill led off the fifth with a single, and scored on Ivan Calderon's double, to put Chicago ahead 3-0.

In the White Sox's sixth, Fred Manrique singled, stole second, and scored when third baseman Larry Parrish threw away Redus' grounder. Redus took second on the error and scored on Harold Baines' single.

Texas scored two runs off Bannister in the eighth on Tom Paciorek's two-run single. Paciorek entered the game for outfielder Pete Incaviglia, who bruised his left leg while running the bases in the second inning. X-rays later showed it was a sprain.

But the White Sox defense robbed the Rangers of more runs. With two more runners on base in the Rangers' eighth, Redus made a running catch of Pete O'Brien's shot to left field to end the inning.

Calderon's throw to the plate from right field in the fourth was in time to get Ruben Sierra, and Boston snared Bob Brower's shot to center with a leaping catch in the sixth.

"Golly, they made some great plays," Valentine said.

"Redus' eighth-inning catch was one," he said. "Calderon makes a big play when he throws the ball home to get Ruben."

"That's baseball. You've gotta make the plays and hit where they ain't!"

DR. GOTT

Peter
Gott, M.D.

X-rays are sometimes best

DEAR DR. GOTT — Is it possible to diagnose lung and heart disorders without the use of X-rays?
DEAR READER — X-rays are simple tools that help doctors diagnose a variety of disorders. X-ray tests can be very useful in identifying conditions that cause lung congestion and inflammation. However, they are not magic. Other methods can accomplish the same goal, but they are often cumbersome and more expensive than X-rays. For example, magnetic resonance imaging, or MRI, is a non-radiation technique that shows great promise in the diagnosis of lung and heart ailments. However, the MRI machine is complicated, expensive and not widely available. Cardiograms and ultrasound examinations are additional non-nuclear methods that are used in diagnosis.

As with any tests, the doctor and the patient must examine the risk-/benefit ratio of X-ray examinations.
For the average patient, X-ray tests are a safe way to obtain the most information in the shortest time.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My husband is a diabetic and injects himself with insulin daily. He also smokes almost two packs of cigarettes a day. Aside from the obvious health effects, will smoking affect nutrient absorption in diabetics?

DEAR READER — To my knowledge, cigarette smoke will not reduce diabetics' absorption of nutrients.
Nevertheless, cigarettes are dangerous for a number of reasons.

Tobacco smoke increases the tendency of the blood to clot within the body. This is one reason that heart attacks and strokes are more common among smokers than among non-smokers. Since diabetics have less efficient circulation than other people, smoking can accentuate this unhealthy consequence. Of course, diabetics are susceptible to the standard problems of smokers: cancer, emphysema and bronchitis. Because diabetes causes premature arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) and smoking contributes to this problem, diabetics have even more reason not to smoke.

If your husband is genuinely concerned about his health, he should give up cigarettes and closely follow his doctor's advice with respect to diet, exercise and medication.

"AM I THE ONE?"

Then Judas Iscariot, one of His disciples, went to the chief priests to arrange to betray Jesus to them.

When the chief priests heard why he had come, they were excited and happy and promised him a reward. So he began looking for the right time and place to betray Jesus.

On the first day of the Passover, the day the lambs were sacrificed, His disciples asked Him where He wanted to go to eat the traditional Passover supper.

He sent two of them into Jerusalem to make the arrangements. "As you are walking along," He told them, "you will see a man coming towards you carrying a pot of water.
Follow him.

At the house he enters, tell the man in charge, "Our Master sent us to see the room you have ready for us, where we will eat the Passover supper this evening!"

He will take you upstairs to a large room all set up.
Prepare our supper there."

So the two disciples went on ahead into the city and found everything as Jesus had said, and prepared the Passover.

In the evening Jesus arrived with the other disciples.

And as they were sitting around the table eating, Jesus said, "I solemnly declare that one of you will betray Me, one of you who is here eating with Me."

A great sadness swept over them, and one by one they asked Him, "Am I the one?"

He replied, "It is one of you twelve eating with Me now.

I must die, as the prophets declared long ago; but, oh, the misery ahead for the man by whom I am betrayed. On that he had never been born!"
