New finance law could hurt or help HISD

Several factors may affect the district's 1993-94 state revenue

Hard at work

Hereford Independent School Superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt pores over some of the information he has received about Senate Bill 7, which mandates changes in the way Texas education is funded. The full impact of the measure on the district is not yet known, Greenawalt said.

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

It's been a month since Gov. Ann Richards signed into law Senate Bill 7, which revamps the way public schools in Texas are funded and is supposed to equalize funding among districts.

In that month, HISD superintendent Charles W. Greenawalt has studied the measure and its impact on the school district and last week attended a seminar on the measure.

He still doesn't know how SB 7 will affect the district.

"We could see an increase of about $80,000 in state funds or we could see a decrease of about $500,000 in state funds," Greenawalt said Monday.

It is clear that the district is one of the so-called "poor" districts in Texas.

"Hereford is in the lower 25 percent of school districts in the state," said Greenawalt.

But how the district comes out with funding depends on how the district makes out regarding its property values as certified by the state, plus the average daily attendance last year and number of people who claimed County Education District homestead exemptions.

All those are factored into an equation that may not have an answer until sometime this fall.

On the one hand, Greenawalt said, is the State Property Board, which certifies property values in the county to determine the formula for granting state aid.

Last year, that board determined the property wealth of the district was $429,614,000.

"We have been told by Austin that the State Property Board will certify our property values at $406,640,000 this year," Greenawalt said.

"We have become even poorer than what we were."

That loss of property wealth may help the district because of the promise of additional state aid.

But to complicate that formula, the state informed the district that it may accept a refined average daily attendance (ADA) that is higher than the district's numbers.

If so, that would cut state funds as well.

Greenawalt said business office director Bobby Moudy is currently working to straighten out the ADA figure with the state.

Hopefully, he continued, something on that front may be known by next week.

The district stands to lose money from several changes in the state law, Greenawalt said.

SB 7 changed the basic allotment per ADA from last year's $2,400 to $2,300.

In addition, the guaranteed yield program has been eliminated this year.

Last year, the state paid $22.50 per ADA for each penny increase in taxes above the 85 cent level, up to a total increase of 45 cents.

SB 7 reduced that rate to $20.55 per ADA, but also noted it will not take place until the 1995-96 school year, so there is no economic incentive to raise taxes.

"That little move alone cost us $455,000," Greenawalt said, while the reduction in the basic allotment will reduce district funds by $430,000.

Thirdly, the money that has been set aside for the Technology Program has been frozen.

Last year, districts received $30 per ADA for technology programs such as computers and related items.

It was to have increased by $5 a year, jumping to $35 per ADA this term.

As a result, Greenawalt said, the district will have to rework its technology program to accommodate smaller-than-anticipated revenue.

Finally, no districts will receive pro-rated funds for additional students.

In the past, districts that experience increases in enrollment will receive additional funds during the year.

Now, once a district receives its state funds, that's all.

Any pro-rated funds will not be calculated until next year, then

Grand jury eyeing possible misuse of political office

AUSTIN (AP) - A grand jury's investigation of the state Treasury under U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison is delving into possible political misuse of the agency, according to a subpoena issued to a former state Treasury planning director.

David Criss, who worked as planning director at the state Treasury under Mrs. Hutchison before resigning just over a year ago, was subpoenaed Tuesday.

He is the latest person to be called into a nearly 3-week-old investigation by the Travis County district attorney's office.

The subpoena of Criss comes amidst revelations that a former Treasury research assistant filed a letter complaining that Criss ordered him to conduct political tasks for Mrs. Hutchison and the Bush-Quayle campaign at taxpayers' expense.

Criss, who did not appear before the grand jury Tuesday, could not be reached for comment at his office or at home by The Associated Press.

"It was a subpoena for David Criss to appear and produce documents. We did not seek his testimony today," said Steve McCleery, first assistant district attorney. "But we have not ruled that out."

Criss's attorney Charlie Burton turned over a box full of documents to the grand jury and declined to comment to reporters.

Last week, the Houston Chronicle reported that Mrs. Hutchison contacted state Sen. Bill Ratliff after his son, Thomas, placed a letter in his personnel file explaining he had refused to do political work while working as an aide just over a year ago at the Treasury.

Thomas Ratliff said last week he wrote the letter after Criss asked him to make calls on behalf of Mrs. Hutchison and the Bush-Quayle presidential campaign.

Thomas Ratliff said he does not know whether Mrs. Hutchison knew what Criss had asked him to do. He added that he and Mrs. Hutchison "never discussed political stuff, on or off office time."

Months later, after Criss left the agency amid controversy, Thomas Ratliff said he withdrew the letter.

Walcott district chief says situation stable

As the Hereford Independent School District faces an uncertain future regarding its state funding, the Walcott Independent School District appears to be in better shape.

Superintendent Dr. Bill S. McLaughlin said Tuesday that the district apparently will not be affected much at all by Senate Bill 7, which changes the way school districts are funded.

"It looks like we're going to be okay. They (the state education commissioner's office) sent us a printout what the state thought we would get," McLaughlin said, that showed that state funds will be about the same as received this past school year.

"We're not a poor district and we're not a rich one either," McLaughlin said explaining the lack of change.

Because the district north of Hereford is not expected to be affected, McLaughlin said, "I'm recommending to our school board that there be no increase in taxes."

If the 1993-94 school budget is approved without an increase, the WISD rate would remain $1.11.

Analysts say economy may take off in second six months of 1993

WASHINGTON (AP) - The economy is ready to return to a healthy expansion rate during the second half of this year after taking a breather during the first half, many analysts believe.

Economic growth raced at a 4.7 percent annual rate in the final three months of last year - the fastest pace in five years - but then lapsed sharply in the first quarter of this year, to a paltry 0.7 percent rate.

The consensus of private economists, as measured by Blue Chip Economic Indicators of Sedona, Ariz., is that growth in the gross domestic product, the sum of all goods and services produced within U.S. borders, returned to a moderate 2.4 percent rate in the quarter ended June 30.

It should perk up to 3.1 percent during the second half, they believe.

"After the seesaw pattern of the last two quarters, I think we are now embarked on what is more of a longer-term trend, that is modest, gradual economic expansion," said economist Sung Won Sohn of Norwest Corp. in Minneapolis.

A profusion of factors, some partly anticipated and some wholly unexpected, combined to cause the first-quarter pause.

As the year began, virtually all economists agreed the fourth-quarter pace wasn't sustainable. They anticipated at least some slowing as consumers paid off credit card bills run up before the holidays and discovered that their tax refunds were smaller than last year because President Bush had reduced withholding.

But they could not have foreseen the blizzard that blanketed the East Coast in mid-March, disrupting retail sales and home building. Nor did many anticipate the early end of President Clinton's honeymoon with Congress, which deflated the euphoria many voters felt immediately after the election.

"First quarter growth was probably half what most people anticipated. But one of the reasons was we had extremely bad weather," said economist Mark Zandi of Regional Financial Associates in West Chester, Pa. "Economists can predict a lot of things, but they don't profess to be weathermen."

Also, the long-term factors that have been acting as a drag on growth for several years did not disappear. These include declining military spending, depressed commercial real estate markets, the overhang of corporate and consumer debt, slowdowns in the economies of major trading partners Germany and Japan, and pressure on U.S. companies to stay globally competitive by holding down employment.

Now that the effect of the temporary factors has waned and some of the long-term drags, such as the debt overhang, are showing gradual improvement, analysts expect a return to a growth rate about halfway between the fourth and first quarters.

Bivins plans meeting here to recap 73rd Legislature

With the 73rd Legislative Session now over and no special sessions called, State Sen. Teel Bivins, R-Amarillo, has announced plans to visit with Senate District 31 constituents at a series of town hall meetings throughout the 25 counties of the district.

Bivins will be in Hereford for a meeting set at 4 p.m. Tuesday, July 6, in the east banquet room of the Hereford Community Center.

"The 73rd Legislative Session was the most productive I've seen since being in office. We in the Crown of Texas fared better than we have in years, with legislation and appropriations. At the same time, Texas lived within its means, not passing a tax bill for the first time in four biennia," Bivins said.

As a member of the Senate Finance and Senate Education committees, Bivins worked throughout the session on public education finance and cutting state spending. He was appointed to the Conference Committee on the Appropriations Bill.

"We were able to bring a lot of those state dollars to the Panhandle with funding for our higher education institutions and even a pharmacy school in conjunction with Texas Tech (University). I'm excited to point out to constituents how lucky we are to have West Texans holding key positions in the legislature, and a Panhandle delegation that works together as a team," Bivins said.

During the term, Bivins was instrumental in passing legislation to reform trucking regulations in Texas, reform products liability laws, implement Caller ID and revise the state's Penal Code.

We attended the Texas Press Association's annual summer convention in San Antonio this past weekend, highlighted by an afternoon at Fiesta Texas and a guided tour of the Alamodome.

We highly recommend the Fiesta Texas theme park as great entertainment for the entire family. Naturally the rides are the big attraction for kids. But the park also offers spectacular musical productions, featuring more than 400 talented dancers and singers, that provide great entertainment for all ages.

The park has four "themed" areas--Los Festivales, Crackaxle Canyon, Spassburg and Rockville--with theaters in these areas featuring Mexican, German, country western and rock and roll music. The musical productions have great young talent--probably some of the stars of tomorrow.

There are rides for every age and nerve, including the Rattler, the world's tallest and fastest wooden coaster. There's also a water park filled with tubes, slides and an action river--almost guaranteed to cool you off!

You should plan to stay around until the sun goes down for the "Lone Star Spectacular," an unbelievable display of laser lights, fireworks and music--all staged against a towering 100-foot cliff--that celebrates the rich history of Texas.

All of the entertainment comes with your single admission price--$22.95 for adults and $15.95 for seniors and children (ages 7-11). Children 6 and under are admitted free.

Our visit to the new Alamodome was also very interesting. It's a unique structure that does not resemble a domed arena from the outside. It will seat up to 75,000 people for a boxing match and can be used for various sports and entertainment productions. It will not accommodate baseball games, but it does have two ice rinks--one for hockey and one for figure skating.

The San Antonio Spurs will be playing their NBA basketball games in the dome, and several football games are already booked for the arena--including a Cowboy-Oiler game, the Houston-Texas Tech game next season, and the first Alamo Bowl.

It was interesting to hear that the dome was funded with a local sales tax from the city and will be paid for in 1994. It took about 2 1/2 years to construct and still lacks some finishing touches.

The press convention also included some interesting programs. Featured speakers included Ag Commissioner Rick Perry; Red McCombs, San Antonio civic and business leader; and Paul J. Strelzin, principal of Bowie High School in El Paso.

Strelzin is a sports announcer on the side and has appeared on a number of national talk shows to interview about his success at Bowie High. Movie rights on his story have been sold and it is reported that Gene Hackman will portray Strelzin in a soon-to-be-released movie.

Trial witness collapses in court today

An attempted murder trial that began Tuesday in 222nd District Court was interrupted briefly Wednesday morning when a witness, Elvira Rodriguez, collapsed at the door of the courtroom.

Mrs. Rodriguez, mother of the defendant, Israel Rodriguez, 22, was called by the prosecution as a rebuttal witness. The son is accused of beating his former girlfriend.

Mrs. Rodriguez was taken to Deaf Smith General Hospital by Hereford EMS. A nurse on the jury panel was given permission by Judge David Wesley Gulley to give emergency attention before the ambulance arrived.

Testimony for the prosecution began Tuesday afternoon after a jury was seated and centered on the victim, Jamie Torres Galan, who described the events occurring in the early hours of Oct. 24, 1992.

Galan testified that Rodriguez punched, slapped and dragged Galan after forcibly removing her from her trailer home. He allegedly tried to run over her with a pickup truck.

Testimony for the prosecution was concluded Tuesday afternoon and the defense called witnesses Wednesday morning.

Criminal District Attorney Roland Saul had called Mrs. Rodriguez to the witness stand as a rebuttal to defense testimony when she collapsed.

After a recess, the trial resumed and both sides concluded testimony. The jury was expected to begin deliberations after lunch.

Networks to issue violence warning

Announcement to be made before program begins

WASHINGTON (AP) - Bending to congressional and public pressure, the major TV networks have agreed to begin warning viewers when violent programs are about to be shown.
An announcement would precede shows containing violence and the networks would provide a coding for newspaper and magazine listings to notify parents that particular programs depict brutality, officials said Tuesday.
The system could be in place for the fall season.
More details were being presented today at a Capitol Hill news conference by top executives of ABC, NBC, CBS and Fox and by lawmakers who have led congressional efforts to reduce TV mayhem.
It's the biggest step so far by the entertainment industry since Congress began exerting pressure earlier this year for action under the Television Violence Act.
The law, which expires in December, gives the TV networks an antitrust waiver to talk among themselves about jointly reducing televised violence.

Until today, the only tangible result of the anti-TV violence law was the scheduling of an industry wide meeting in Los Angeles on Aug. 2.
Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., who sponsored the law, and Rep. Edward Markey, D-Mass., chairman of the House Energy and Commerce telecommunications subcommittee, have taken the entertainment industry to task recently in a series of hearings on TV violence.
Other lawmakers also have demanded more and are primed to take tougher action if not satisfied with the industry's self-regulation.
Lawmakers say less violence on television may mean less violence on the streets.
The public also is pressing for action.
Tens of thousands of people have signed petitions calling for Federal Communications Commission hearings on a TV rating system based on violence, said the office of Sen. Kent Conrad, D-N.D., who is helping to gather signatures for the newly formed Citizens Task Force on TV Violence.

The group wants broadcast license renewals tied to station compliance with proposed guidelines for programming.
FCC Chairman James Quello has said the commission would go after TV violence - like it regulates indecent programming - if it had a statute to enforce.
Markey has been considering legislation that would require ratings. He also is interested in television technology that would block violent shows.
Other pending legislative measures would establish:
-A presidential commission on TV violence, headed by the surgeon general and attorney general, proposed by Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., who also wants the Advertising Council to fashion an anti-violence public service campaign.

-Quarterly reports from the FCC of all incidents of TV violence, proposed by Sen. Byron Dorgan, D-N.D.
-An 800 phone number at the FCC for citizen complaints and suggestions about TV violence, under legislation from Rep. Joseph Kennedy, D-Mass. Kennedy wants the comments published, sent to the stations and considered at license renewal time.
The upcoming Los Angeles meeting, sponsored by the industry-funded Council for Families and Television, is designed to raise awareness rather than produce immediate action. It's expected to attract more than 400 people from the TV and film industries.
Research will be presented showing a link between TV violence and the real thing. There also will be a forum on children's programming and other sessions.

reimbursed.
With all the changes coming out of SB 7, Greenawalt said, the district may not know for a long time exactly what it will receive from any number of sources -- including local taxes.
When the County Education Districts were formed by the Legislature to equalize funding, counties were given the option to hold an election to offer the homestead exemption to residents. Deaf Smith County voted for the exemptions.
However when SB 7 passed, the CEDs -- which had been ruled unconstitutional -- were disbanded.
"Any exemptions -- the homestead exemptions that were granted under the County Education Districts -- will no longer exist," Greenawalt said.
As a result, even if there is no tax increase approved by the HISD board, some residents will still have to pay additional taxes because of losing that exemption.
But, that also depends on whether a property owner's property value rose or fell.
The school district has to have a new budget in place by Sept. 1, the beginning of the new fiscal year. State law requires a budget be set before a tax rate for the district is set.

Because of confusion over provisions of the school finance law, however, Greenawalt said, the state education commissioner is urging districts to refrain from setting tax rates as long as possible, maybe even until Oct. 1.
When the state passed the law, it included five provisions for districts deemed "wealthy" to implement to equalize funding with poor districts.
Greenawalt said there are 115 districts that are property wealthy that must reduce property wealth to an average of $280,000 value per student.
Those five options are:
-- Consolidate with a poor district. The districts need not be contiguous.
-- Detaching and annexing territory.
-- To purchase attendance credits and give the money to the state.
-- Contract for the education of non-resident students.
-- Consolidate tax bases with a poor district.
Greenawalt said districts choosing the bottom three options must have voter approval.
If a wealthy district takes no action, the state education commissioner "can actually take property wealth from one school and give it to another," Greenawalt said.
If that does not reduce the property wealth per student to the $280,000 cap, then the commissioner then must consolidate the district with a poor one.

Hereford Independent School District could actually have property given to it" from a rich district somewhere hundreds of miles away.
"He (the education commissioner) can actually take an oil refinery in Beaumont, Texas, and place it on the tax rolls of the Hereford Independent School District."
That, Greenawalt said, is what makes it so difficult to set tax rates, since the HISD will not know until fall if it gets property from another district.
Even though funding equalization methods have been called "Robin Hood," Greenawalt said the law is not designed to take from the rich and give to the poor.
Instead, it is designed to bring the rich districts down to the level of the poor.
"I don't think you're going to see any actual increase in monies," he said.
If property from a rich district is transferred into the HISD, he said, it simply is additional local tax revenue and state aid would be reduced a corresponding amount.
Greenawalt said he is scheduled to attend a day-long seminar in Austin on July 10 that is sponsored by the Texas Association of School Boards and will provide more information about the law and its implications to school districts.

Accident victim recuperating

Kevin Hull, injured in a one-vehicle accident near Claude on June 7, is recuperating satisfactorily here at home, according to his mother, Mary Sue Hull.
Hull, 21, and a friend, Robert Babcock, 20, were seriously injured when the pickup Hull was driving left the road, hit several highway signs and rolled about two times. Babcock is in Bivins Rehab Center and "doing well," according to Mrs. Hull.
A DPS trooper reported the driver apparently fell asleep. No ticket was issued and the mishap was listed as a "no-fault" accident, said Mrs. Hull.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been involved with a man I work with for 15 years. He is married, and I am single.

When the relationship first started, I had high hopes that he would leave his wife and marry me. For eight years, I actually believed it would happen, but he always had some excuse.

As time went on and several ultimatums were given with no positive results, I started to have second thoughts about the relationship. Every time I told him it was me or his wife, he had some reason for delaying the split. Meanwhile, I never dated anyone else, nor did I cultivate other friends. This went on, remember, for 15 years.

Last Christmas, I realized that I no longer loved this man and wanted the relationship to end. When I told him I didn't want him anymore, he broke down and screamed, "If you leave me, I'll kill myself."

We argue constantly. He is extremely jealous and scares me to death. I no longer have any feelings for him, but if he actually did kill himself, I couldn't handle the guilt.

What should I do, Ann? I have to work side by side with this guy every day. He follows me home from the office and begs and cries for a reconciliation. In short, he is making my life a living hell. Please give me some advice. I am desperate.--Saginaw, Mich.

DEAR SAGINAW: Start to look for another job at once. Maybe you ought to consider another city. One thing is certain--you must get out of that office.

Meanwhile, change your phone number, and get it unlisted. Cultivate other friends. And please get into counseling. You need continuing emotional support to handle this situation. Good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: After reading all the male-bashing letters when you ran your 1984 survey about women preferring cuddling to sex, I decided to look into the subject.

Intense research among friends and close observations of my own convinced me that 72 percent of American women think making love is assuming a horizontal position and saying, "Thrill me." The message they send is: "Get this over with as soon as possible."

As dismal as this is, the other 28 percent are delightful and life-enhancing. I doubt that this will ever make it into print, but now you know the rest of the story.--Tyler, Texas doesn't square with what my readers tell me. Most women want more--not less.

DEAR TYLER: Your "research"

DEAR READERS: According to researchers at the Harvard Medical School and the Harvard School of Public Health, it is never too late to quit smoking.

The Medical news column of the Harvard Gazette says smokers who quit can substantially reduce their risk of suffering a stroke, regardless of how long they have smoked or the number of cigarettes they smoke each day. Two to four years after they kick the habit, ex-smokers' risk of stroke drops to that of people who never smoked. Studies show that substantial benefits can be gained from giving up cigarettes. The best advice is DON'T START. Resist the adds of the cigarette companies who are trying to make smoking look glamorous and sophisticated. The truth is, cigarettes stink.

Drugs are everywhere. They're easy to get, easy to use and even easier to get hooked on. If you have questions about drugs, you need Ann Landers' booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." Lamb showmanship clinic set July 10 at Nance Ranch

A lamb showmanship clinic will be held from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. July 10 at the West Texas A&M Nance Ranch. The clinic will be conducted by Ellis, Tresa, Jason and Trishelle Miller.

The cost is $20 at the door. Those participating will need to bring lambs that are washed and sheared, grooming cards, halters, clippers and block stands.

Also, on July 10, a club lamb workshop will be held from 8:30 a.m. until 3:30 p.m. at the Texas Tech University Livestock Pavilion. There will be a $15 registration fee which covers the catered lunch and training materials. The program will include selection and purchase, classification, exercise programs, and showtime preparation. Speakers include Kyle Smith, Dr. Frank Craddock and Rex Stultz.

Either one of these programs would be good to attend if you are interested in showing lambs. If you need any more information, call the extension office at 364-3573.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Keep an eye on your kids

Swimming pool safety is no accident, so never take your eyes off your child when he or she is in or near any body of water, even for a second!

That's the message from the National Swimming Pool Safety Committee's (NSPSC) "Operation Water Watch," a program formed to educate parents and pool and spa owners about the safe use and enjoyment of all bodies of water to prevent tragedy. Statistics show that drownings and near-drownings of youngsters are a very serious problem, accounting for about 300 deaths annually of children under age five. The typical drowning victim is a boy between one and three years of age, who is thought not to be in the pool or spa area at the time of an accident.

In addition to constant supervision, NSPSC recommends barriers to make the pool or spa area safer. Barriers should prevent access to the pool or spa by unsupervised children. Fences should be at least four feet high with self-closing, self-latching gates, which are kept in good working order. If the house is used as one side of the barrier, the pool or spa should be equipped with a power safety cover, or doors leading to the pool should be equipped with an alarm system or self-closing and self-latching devices. While these measures do not replace supervision, they can prevent or detect access by young children to the pool or spa. NSPSC suggests these barriers be used in "layers," each layer adding to the safety of the pool or spa.

The NSPSC also reminds parents that while many infants, toddlers and preschoolers participate in aquatic programs to make the water more enjoyable, even children who have had swimming lessons must be supervised at all times around any body of water.

DRUE CAMERON GAULT

Residents' son joins staff

Drue Cameron Gault, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Gault of Hereford, has joined the staff of KLSR Radio Station in Memphis, according to Joe Davis, station owner.

Cameron completed his studies at Texas Tech University in May where he majored in telecommunications and advertising. He is a native of Hereford where he worked for KPAN Radio Station on weekends while attending college. He also worked at KRLB in Lubbock.

Cameron will work as an air personality from 2-6 p.m. and he will operate as a sales consultant for advertisers in the area.

Cameron's mother owns Kids Alley.

Hints from Heloise

Dear Heloise: Here's a hint for items of clothing like shirts that have to be taken out of the dryer immediately to prevent wrinkling.

As the clothing is transferred from the washing machine to the dryer, put aside a hanger for each item that will need to be hung. This way you will know exactly how many items you should look for and won't overlook anything. -- Jeff Collins, Pittsfield, N.H.

Thanks for this great laundry tip! I have compiled a pamphlet chock-full of quick stain-removal hints for clothing. To receive a copy, please send $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped (52 cents) envelope to: Heloise/Stain #6, PO Box 795001, San Antonio TX 78279-5001. -- Heloise

TOOTHPASTE-TUBECAPS

Dear Heloise: A hint to parents of little tots: Replace that toothpaste-tube cap.

A neighbor's child was found choking on one. A careless habit almost cost a life. -- A Reader, Monmouth, N.J.

Courier takes care of Martin, makes Wimbledon semifinals

By STEPHEN WILSON
AP Sports Writer

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) - Jim Courier led the way into the men's semifinals at Wimbledon with a straight-set victory today over fellow American Todd Martin.

Courier, making it to the semifinals here for the first time, played steady backcourt tennis and won 6-2, 7-6 (7-5), 6-3.

Courier, the third seed, will face the winner of the quarterfinal between No. 2 Stefan Edberg and unseeded Cedric Pioline of France.

In the other quarterfinals, top-seeded Pete Sampras played defending champion Andre Agassi and three-time champion Boris Becker faced fellow German Michael Stich.

Courier has won the French Open and Australian Open twice. But he has never had much success on grass, reaching the Wimbledon quarterfinals once.

The 6-foot-6 Martin got to the quarterfinals on the strength of a big serve-and-volley attack, but Courier managed to keep him at the baseline with his strong groundstrokes.

When Martin did come in, Courier was often ready with passing shots. Courier also capitalized on Martin's double faults on several key points.

Martin's one chance to make the match interesting came when he earned a set point with Courier serving at 4-5 in the second set. But Martin squandered the opportunity, when on the fourth shot of the rally, he sailed a forehand way beyond the baseline.

Courier held serve, and in the subsequent tiebreaker, hit a forehand return winner down the line to win it 7-5. Courier dominated the third set.

The women's semifinals are set for Thursday, although virtually everyone assumes it will be Steffi Graf and Martina Navratilova vying for the title on Saturday.

Graf, the top seed and defending champion, and Navratilova, the No. 2 seed and nine-time champion, have reached the semifinals with such ease that virtually everyone assumes they will face each other in the championship match Saturday.

Neither player has lost a set so far. In five matches, Navratilova has dropped just 16 games and Graf only 15.

Navratilova had a slightly easier time in Tuesday's quarterfinals, cruising to a 6-3, 6-1 victory over Natalia Zvereva. Graf saved a set point before punishing Jennifer Capriati 7-6 (7-3), 6-1.

The other women's semifinalists are Conchita Martinez, who beat Helena Sukova 6-1, 6-4, and Jana Novotna, a 6-4, 6-3 winner over Gabriela Sabatini.

Based on past performances, Graf ought to have little trouble with Martinez and Navratilova should ease past Novotna in Thursday's semis. Graf and Navratilova both have 7-0 records against their challengers.

As Navratilova chases her 10th Wimbledon crown at the age of 36, she said she is feeling more confident and relaxed with every match.

"The closer I get, the better I feel about it," she said. "It's been a gradual ascent to better form, and it's holding. ... The tournament gets easier emotionally for me as I go on. It's much more nerve wracking getting to the semis or quarters. Once you hit the quarters, you are just playing the person, you're not playing Wimbledon any more."

Navratilova said she is thriving on the grass despite a recurring ankle injury, suffered while playing basketball in March.

"It's just hard to get out of bed in the morning, but once I get going I'm OK," she said. "I'm still moving better than 99 percent of the women out there ... I'm playing as good tennis as I ever have in my career."

Major softball champs

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Boxing Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - Fighters often talk trash during a match. That, however, is not what Ray Mercer was talking to Jesse Ferguson during their fight Feb. 6 at Madison Square Garden, law-enforcement officials charge.

Mercer was arraigned Tuesday in New York Criminal Court on a charge of attempting during the fight to bribe his former sparring partner to purposely lose the bout in exchange for $100,000.

Videotapes "confirmed that Mercer reportedly attempted to persuade Ferguson to let Mercer win," District Attorney Robert Morgenthau said at a news conference.

Mercer, a 1988 Olympic champion, lost the 10-round fight to Ferguson and was knocked out of a $2.5 million title bid against heavyweight champion Riddick Bowe, who stopped Michael Dokes in the first round on the same Garden card. Mercer's purse for the Ferguson fight was about $50,000.

The 36-year-old Ferguson, who got $10,000 to fight Mercer, got $500,000 to fight Bowe, but was stopped at 17 seconds of the first round May 22 at Washington.

"Not guilty," the 32-year-old Mercer said at this arraignment. He was released on his own recognizance and is scheduled to appear in court July 12.

He was arrested Sunday at Indianapolis, Ind., where he is living. "I'm shocked and dismayed he has even been indicted," said Dominick Amorosa, Mercer's attorney. The charge is a class D felony that carries a prison term of up to seven years.

A tape of the fight revealed the 32-year-old Mercer first offered the bribe in the third round, according to Morgenthau, who also said "it was repeated numerous times after the third round."

HBO taped the fight, but did not televise it.

"They (HBO) were practicing for the bigger (Bowe-Dokes) fight," said Daniel J. Castleman, chief of the Investigation Division of the New York Frauds Bureau. "They used four tracking systems, and we were able to get into those systems."

"The tapes confirmed that Mercer repeatedly attempted to persuade Ferguson to let Mercer win," Morgenthau said. "I don't think I want to comment on what Ferguson said."

Mercer, a flabby 238 1/2 pounds, lost by 2, 3 and 8 points on the three official scorecards. He was in danger of being stopped in the 10th round.

When asked if Ferguson would be charged for not reporting a bribe, the district attorney said: "We're not considering charging him with anything."

Ferguson, reached at his home in Philadelphia, had no comment.

Randy Gordon, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, said referee Wayne Kelly told him there had been a lot talking between Mercer and Ferguson during the fight. Talking between fighters is common, Gordon noted.

Boggs' first homer gets Yankees past Tigers

By The Associated Press
The New York Yankees didn't expect Wade Boggs to hit too many home runs, and he hasn't disappointed them.
In fact, he has only one. But what a big one it was.
"About 5,000 pounds fell off my shoulders," Boggs said after leading off the bottom of the 10th inning with a shot into the upper deck in right field to give the Yankees a 4-3 victory Tuesday night over the slump-ridden Detroit Tigers. "The guys have been giving me a lot of teasing because I was the only one with a goose egg."

"They're mistakes for me. I don't hit them and when I do it's a mistake."
Tom Bolton (1-3), who gave up the home run, agreed.
"I just threw the fastball. I left it middle-in and when he hit it, I didn't even watch it," Bolton said. "It's the first time I've ever walked off the mound like that."
It was Boggs' first homer since Aug. 4. Bobby Munoz (2-0) pitched 3 1-3 hitless innings, and struck out Travis Fryman with the bases loaded to end the seventh after the Tigers had tied it on a bases-loaded walk by Steve Howe.

Blue Jays 2, Orioles 1
John Olerud and Tony Fernandez singled in runs in the ninth inning at Camden Yards.
Ben McDonald (4-7) took a two-hitter and a 1-0 lead into the ninth, but left after a leadoff single by Roberto Alomar and a walk to Paul Molitor. Olerud, batting .405, and Fernandez hit RBI singles off Brad Pennington.
Pat Hentgen (11-2) won his seventh straight decision.

Brewers 7, Red Sox 6
Milwaukee scored four unearned runs, including the tie-breaker in the ninth inning.
The Brewers won at Fenway Park after Bill Spiers led off the ninth by reaching on second baseman Scott Fletcher's error.
With runners on first and third and one out, Kevin Reimer hit a grounder to Fletcher, who threw for a forceout at second base. But Reimer beat shortstop John Valentin's relay as a run scored.
Mike Fetters (2-0) was the winner and Doug Henry got his 14th save. Greg Harris (3-3) was the loser.

Twins 7, Mariners 5
Kirby Puckett singled home the go-ahead run in the sixth inning at the Metrodome.
The Twins rallied for five runs in the sixth for a 6-5 lead. Chip Hale, who had three of Minnesota's 15 hits, tied it with a single and Puckett singled off Jeff Nelson.
Mike Trombley (4-3) was the winner and Bob Ayrault (0-1) the loser.

Rangers 4, Royals 3
Rookie Dan Peltier, taking Jose Canseco's spot on the roster, blooped an RBI single that capped a four-run rally in the eighth inning and lifted Texas over visiting Kansas City.
Royals starter Kevin Appier extended his scoreless streak to 21 innings before the Rangers' comeback. David Hulse finished Appier with an RBI single and Rafael Palmeiro tied it with a two-run single off Bill Sampen (2-1).
Bob Patterson (2-2) pitched two innings of one-hit relief. Tom Henke struck out the side in the ninth for his 14th save.

Marlins' crew struggles with tarp

By DICK BRINSTER
AP Sports Writer
Things are so bad for the New York Mets that a grounds crew even more inept than they managed to steal the spotlight.
"That's probably the funniest thing I've seen in my career in baseball," Florida's Jeff Conine said of the crew at Miami's Joe Robbie Stadium that struggled for 15 minutes to unfurl the tarp during a third-inning rain delay.
"When those guys dumped the water off the tarp and started running with it and it got hung up, it looked like about 22 rotator cuffs went out all at once."
Even Dallas Green, who has suffered enough indignity for a whole season after relieving the fired Jeff Torborg as manager of the Mets, got a chuckle.
"It just got to be a little comical," Green said after the Mets beat the Marlins 10-9 in 12 innings Tuesday night.

After the crew nearly blew the game by turning the infield into a bog, the Mets blew a five-run lead. Then the aces of both bullpens - Florida's Bryan Harvey and New York's John Franco - blew saves.
Alas, rookie Jeremy Burnitz came to the rescue of virtually everyone - the game took 4 hours, 20 minutes, not including an 88-minute rain delay - in the 12th inning when he doubled and eventually scored on Tim Bogar's sacrifice fly.
Rookie David Telgheder (2-0) pitched three perfect innings for the victory, and Matt Turner (1-1) took the loss.
Jeff Kent hit a two-run homer off Harvey in the eighth to put the Mets ahead 9-8.
Todd Hundley and Eddie Murray also homered for the Mets.

Giants 3, Dodgers 1
John Burkett became the NL's League's first 12-game winner, and Willie McGee drove in two runs at Los Angeles.
Reds 3, Astros 0
Barry Larkin homered to back Tom Browning's 7 2-3 shutout innings, leading Cincinnati over Houston at Riverfront Stadium.
Doug Drabek (6-8) allowed five hits in seven innings.
Braves 6, Rockies 4
David Justice came out of a 1-for-16 slump with a solo home run and RBI single at Atlanta.
Cubs 10, Padres 5
Mark Grace hit a two-run homer in the seventh that put Chicago ahead 5-3, and the visiting Cubs rallied twice to welcome back Mike Morgan.

Iraqi warns of confrontation as U.S. carrier steams to Red Sea

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) - State-controlled Iraqi media warned of a long new confrontation with the United States as the aircraft carrier USS Theodore Roosevelt steamed toward the Red Sea to reinforce U.S. military units in the region.

The warning came as a U.S. jet attacked an Iraqi anti-aircraft artillery site Tuesday in southern Iraq after Iraqi radar targeted the American patrol plane. Iraqi anti-aircraft gunners also fired over Baghdad.

There was no sign of a new U.S. attack on the capital. Washington officials had no comment on the anti-aircraft fire.

An Iraqi official reached by telephone from Amman, Jordan, said an Iraqi military plane reportedly triggered the barrage over the edge capital, and might have been hit.

Iraq has vowed to retaliate for the U.S. missile attack on a Baghdad intelligence complex Sunday that it said killed eight civilians.

The United States hit Baghdad to retaliate for an alleged Iraqi plot to kill former President Bush when he visited Kuwait in April.

Iraq denied it was involved. But President Clinton said Tuesday that the evidence clearly indicates that Iraqi President Saddam Hussein's government authorized the assassination attempt.

The U.S. missile attack Tuesday occurred when an F-4G Wild Weasel, one of two Air Force aircraft patrolling the southern "no-fly" zone, was targeted by Iraqi radar, the Pentagon said.

The U.S. jet immediately fired an anti-radar missile at the Iraqi installation, and both aircraft returned safely to base.

Iraq's government-controlled news media warned Iraqis to prepare for a prolonged confrontation with the United States.

Saddam's Baath Party broadcast a call to Arabs and Muslims worldwide to join in action against U.S. policies. A party statement, broadcast by Iraqi radio and monitored by the BBC, asked for support from political, trade union and intellectual figures.

The state-run Iraqi news agency issued an Arabic translation of what it said was a U.S. government letter to Iraq, explaining why the Americans attacked and warning of a reply to any retaliation that endangered Americans, U.S. interests, friends or allies in Iraq.

Islamic nations, including some that stood with Washington during the Persian Gulf War, have criticized the attack. They accused the United States of having a double standard for Iraq, pointing to the reluctance of Western nations to help Bosnia's Muslim-led government against aggression by ethnic Serbs.

The U.S. aircraft carrier that was clearing the Suez Canal today en route to the Red Sea is positioning itself in case it needs to fire on Iraqi targets.

NEW YORK (AP) - The publisher of a biography about Sen. Edward Kennedy is withdrawing a disclaimer that says author Joe McGinniss made up some of the characters' thoughts and dialogue.

Simon & Schuster president and publisher Carolyn Reidy said Monday that all the dialogue in the soon-to-be-released book has sources. However, she said McGinniss took "biographer's license" to discuss what some people might have been thinking at certain points.

"The Last Brother" includes long monologues from the senator, even though he refused to be interviewed for the book.

Last week, Reidy defended the disclaimer, but on Monday she changed her mind after McGinniss insisted it be removed. The book could be out by mid-August, Reidy said.

Too much liquor, too much Tylenol could be dangerous

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) - Too much liquor and too much Tylenol don't mix.

A government advisory panel recommended a warning label Tuesday cautioning about the risk of rare and severe liver damage if a heavy drinker exceeds the recommended dosage of Tylenol or any other acetaminophen product.

But the advisers to the Food and Drug Administration said they plan also to examine the hazards of mixing alcohol with competing pain killers such as aspirin and ibuprofen and suggested the acetaminophen products not be singled out until those reviews are completed.

Doctors from McNeil Consumer Products Co., the maker of Tylenol, argued such a warning label might prompt people to switch to aspirin or to nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs that can cause ulcers and internal bleeding, which are far more common.

One panel member, Dr. Marcus Reidenberg, a professor of pharmacology and medicine at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, agreed that while liver toxicity from acetaminophen and alcohol "is not a common problem, gastrointestinal bleeding is."

That concern weighed heavily on the members of the Over-the-Counter Drugs Advisory Committee, which voted 9-1 to recommend some cautionary label, but only after a review of other pain-killing drugs.

Dr. Randy P. Juhl, chairman of the panel and dean of the School of Pharmacy at the University of Pittsburgh, said heavy drinkers - especially alcoholics - can use an acetaminophen such as Tylenol safely "provided you scrupulously adhere to the dosage limitations."

Acetaminophen is usually sold in 325 milligram and 500 milligram tablets. The maximum dose is eight of the extra-strength tablets - a total of four grams - in 24 hours. It also comes in combination with other medications, such as Nyquil.

Whitehall Laboratories, the makers of Advil, which is ibuprofen, brought experts to the meeting to press for the alcohol warning on acetaminophen.

The panel heard conflicting testimony over whether the liver damage can happen to people who did not exceed the recommended dosage and who were not alcoholics.

Dr. Thomas N. Gates, a retired vice president of McNeil, said there were only 68 such cases in the medical literature over 16 years, a period during which 170 million Americans took 187 billion tablets of acetaminophen.

"At the very worst we are dealing with an extremely rare phenomenon," said Gates.

But Dr. Hyman J. Zimmerman, a liver expert and retired medical professor from George Washington University, said, "My impression is that if somebody takes two to three drinks a day, they should be careful about acetaminophen."

Thelma King Thiel, president of the American Liver Foundation, said, "If a few words of warning can save even one life, it is worth the effort." She called the liver "a non-complaining organ" that gives no warning of impending disaster.

The Aspirin Foundation of America criticized McNeil for trying to shift the focus to other painkillers. "Aspirin is a proven analgesic that has been used safely by millions of consumers for over 100 years," the group said in a statement.

And Dr. Sandy Furey, senior director of medical affairs for Whitehall, defended ibuprofen, maintaining that it has "the greatest degree of gastrointestinal safety" among the pain-killing alternatives to acetaminophen.

From the Animal Shelter

Hereford Animal Control Officer Mark Loyd has announced the following animals are available for adoption from the city Animal Shelter.

All dogs listed will be destroyed after 8 a.m. Thursday if they are not adopted. Dogs might be held additional days if the department is contacted in advance.

PUPPIES
Two brown and black Shepherd mix, both male.
One white and brown Shepherd mix, male.

ADULT DOGS
One brown Shepherd mix, male, good with children.
One tan Chinese pug mix, male.
One blue heeler, male.
One chow mix, male.
One white and brown heeler, female.
One female Shepherd mix, all white.

ATTENTION-GETTER
Seven heeler mix puppies, various colors, male and female.
The cost of adopting puppies is $4, which includes a $3 pound fee and $1 city registration fee.
The cost for full-grown dogs is $15, including $11 for rabies vaccination, $3 pound fee and $1 city registration fee.
There are no cats available at the shelter this week.
The shelter also has dog traps available to place at residences. There are no cat traps available, but those interested in getting one can put their names on a waiting list.
The public is invited out to the shelter to see its newly remodeled facilities.
Information about animals or to find out about adopting them is available by calling the Hereford Animal Control Authority at 364-2323.

The Newspaper BIBLE

I TALKED WITH AN ANGEL!

The next day Peter went with the three men, accompanied by some other believers from Joppa.

They arrived in Caesarea the following day, and Cornelius was waiting for him, and had called together his relatives and close friends to meet Peter. As Peter entered his home, Cornelius fell to the floor before him in worship. But Peter said, "Stand up! I'm not a god." So he got up and they talked together for a while and then went in where the others were assembled.

Peter told them, "You know it is against the Jewish laws for me to come into a Gentile home like this. But God has shown me in a vision that I should never think of anyone as inferior. So I came as soon as I was sent for. Now tell me what you want."

Cornelius replied, "Four days ago I was praying as usual at this time of the afternoon, when suddenly a man was standing before me clothed in a radiant robe! He told me, 'Cornelius, your prayers are heard and your charities have been noticed by God! Now send some men to Joppa and summon Simon Peter, who is staying in the home of Simon, a tanner, down by the shore.' So I sent for you at once, and you have done well to come so soon. Now here we are, waiting before the Lord, anxious to hear what He has told you to tell us!"

Then Peter replied, "I see very clearly that the Jews are not God's only favorites! In every nation He has those who worship Him, and do good deeds and are acceptable to Him."
