Cycling champion UW gets official kickoff

visits Hereford

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

The third-ranked woman cyclist in the world, who has competed around the world after a multi-sport childhood, has been a visitor in Hereford this week.

Mindee Mayfield-Gurtis, who has been visiting with her grandmother, Roberta Caviness of Hereford, placed third in the individual pursuit competition at the world championships in Vienna, Austria, on Aug. 27-28. Her husband, J.W. Gurtis, accompanied her during her visit to Hereford. They were married this summer.

Mayfield-Gurtis, a member of the U.S. National Cycling Team, is in her third season in cycling, both on velodromes and in road racing. She is the daughter of Buddy and Kay Mayfield of Lubbock.

In March 1985, Mayfield-Gurtis became serious about cycling. She wanted to compete in triathlons, which include swimming, running, and cycling, but later quit swimming and running and concentrated on bicycling.

She participated in track and soccer for nine years before going into cycling. Her days in track and soccer included competition in junior high school in Lubbock, at Lubbock Monterey High School, plus the Lubbock Soccer Association and a semester of track at North Texas State University.

"I thought I would get into triathlons, but I just ended up staying on the bike," she said. "I had the most success in track and cross country, but I liked all of them equally. If I had to choose and go back to one of them, I'd go into soccer."

Bicycling led her into the individual pursuit competition on velodromes. She explained, "The individual pursuit is a time trial. There are two people on opposite ends of the track. You try to go as fast as you can for 3,000 meters."

"It's kind of like a round-robin basketball tournament. When you catch someone on the track you eliminate them. Someone is eliminated in every race until the final four."

"Since I'm ranked third in the world, I'll get a fast seed in the first round. The top eight times in the first round continue to compete."

"In the next round, you have to eliminate them. If you catch them or beat their time, they are eliminated," she adds.

The 1986 World Championships were held in Colorado Springs, Colo. Mayfield-Gurtis placed fifth in individual pursuit. She won the 1987 U.S. championships at Trexlertown, Pa.

A teammate on the U.S. national team, Rebecca Twigg-Whitehead, did not compete in the U.S. championships this year. At the world championships in Austria, Mayfield-Gurtis qualified for the final four, where she had to go against Twigg-Whitehead in the semifinals.

Mayfield-Gurtis lost that semifinal race, but came back to win the third place race.

Her bicycling schedule takes her to races throughout the U.S. from March through October. She has a winter training program the rest of the year.

Also a Pan-American team alternate, Mayfield-Gurtis notes that her training includes 150 to 200 miles per week during the season and 250 to 300 miles per week during the off-season. Lifting weights, swimming, and climbing hills are also part of her training.

She has escaped serious injuries in her bicycling career. "I've had no injuries other than a few scrapes and bruises."

In addition to racing at velodromes in Colorado Springs, Trexlertown, and Vienna, Mayfield-Gurtis has competed at Baton Rouge, La.; Detroit, Mich.; Northbrook, Ill.; Indianapolis, Ind.; and Moscow in the Soviet Union. The races in the Soviet Union were in the Goodwill Games in the summer of 1986.

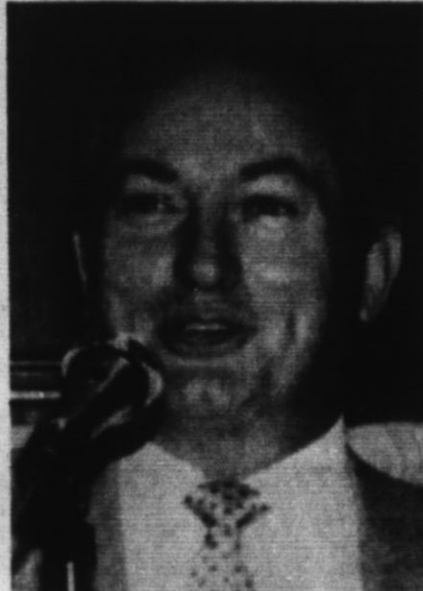

Mayfield-Gurtis met her husband in 1986 when they were practicing in Colorado Springs a month before the start of the world championships. J.W. emphasizes, "We met while we were working out on the track."

Mindee has an associate degree in business management from Oakland Community College in Detroit. J.W., who is originally from Danville, Va., has an associate degree in psychology from North Carolina State University. He was fifth in the nation in AAU power lifting during his senior year in college.

About her future in cycling, Mayfield-Gurtis said, "I'll probably race five more years. I'll try to make the Olympic team. I'll give three years of commitment to racing, and see what I want to do - but I'll probably race five or six more years."

"It depends on how well I do, but I want to stay with the sports. I might help others out with the knowledge I have, on a part-time or full-time basis."

"The federation is expanding to bring more people into the sport," she notes.

WDIC backs moratorium

The Waste Deposit Impact Committee of Deaf Smith County will not support specific legislation before Congress on changes in the Nuclear Waste Policy Act but it will support the concept of a moratorium, directors decided Thursday night.

In preparation for testimony before a Congressional committee, WDIC directors had considered four bills Wednesday but took no action. Directors asked their legal counsel to review the legalities of WDIC taking a stance on a specific issue.

The motion approved last night was "to not support specific legislation before Congress but to support the concept of a moratorium to allow time to complete the collection of socioeconomic and technical baseline data and secure funding for taxing entities resulting from site characterization-and to promote expanding the Nuclear Waste Policy Review Commission beyond three members."

Dan Smith, acting director of the Governor's Nuclear Waste Programs Office, attended last night's meeting to clarify the state's position in the matter. Smith did not participate in the discussion, but he approved the action taken by the committee.

Directors also authorized WDIC executive director Phil Niedzielski-Eichner to present testimony before the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee on Sept. 18 in Washington, D.C. The committee will be chaired by Congressman (See WDIC, Page 2)

Mass site towers collapse

Costly project gone with the wind

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A month of hard work at Pope John Paul II's Mass altar disintegrated in seconds when gale-force winds toppled two tapestry-decorated towers that were supposed to withstand high winds.

The 150-foot towers came crashing down about 5:30 p.m. Thursday after a storm packing winds estimated at 70 mph winds shoved the structures backward onto power lines, doing about $100,000 in damages.

The crumpled towers will not be rebuilt and a damaged helium-filled plastic balloon will not hover over the pope when he celebrates Mass on Sunday, archdiocese spokesman Dick Hemberger said.

Almost miraculously, no injuries were reported because crews working on the altar cleared out moments before the collapse when a volunteer firefighter cried out that a storm was approaching, he said.

"The towers met specifications. It was just one of those freak winds that came out of nowhere," Hemberger said.

"The towers were supposed to withstand winds of 41 mph," assistant site manager Jim Smith said. "I don't know what the winds were. We are shocked by this, but this is not a total setback."

Despite the mess left by the storm, the Rev. Larry Stuebben, chairman of the Texas Papal Visit Committee, said the Mass site will be ready and the ceremony will go on as scheduled.

"This is like our Good Friday, but resurrection comes and we believe in that," a tearful Stuebben told reporters. "When Sunday comes, it will be like an Easter Sunday because there will be the sense of resurrection."

Construction workers labored through the night to clear the crumpled scaffolding so officials could to assess the damage to the altar, which appeared to have sustained only minor foundation

The $120,000 United Way campaign for 1987-88 in Deaf Smith County was kicked off Thursday with a luncheon at the Hereford Community Center.

Chris Bell, a news reporter with KVII-TV in Amarillo who has won national awards with his "Waiting Child" series on featuring area children through the Big Brothers-Big Sisters program, including several Hereford children.

BB-BS is a member agency of the United Way of Deaf Smith County.

Members of the Hereford Kiwanis, Lions, Rotary and Pilot Clubs held a joint meeting for the kickoff luncheon.

"We are all workers, givers or both," said UW President Howard Birdwell. "We should put United Way at the top of our list. We can help countless individuals, agencies and clients through our United Way agencies."

Birdwell and campaign co-chairmen Buddy Peeler and Margaret Bell reminded the 300-plus people at the luncheon of the campaign's theme, "United Giving Brings United Giving."

"Some people say 'I can't give much, so I won't give anything,'" Bell said. "All contributions are our power source. If one quarter of the residents of Deaf Smith County give $50 to United Way, we will have $250,000. We need to tap our power source, to get all contributions big and small, and bring our dreams to fruition."

"Some people may ask what United Way has done for their family. We are all givers and receivers, from swimming classes through the Red Cross to Camp Fire Girls, Boy Scouts, and the Senior Citizens."

"Some of these programs haven't directly touched me, but they have touched my friends."

Benefiting agencies also include YMCA, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army, Family Services Center, Domestic Violence and Rape Crisis Center, Hi-Plains Epilepsy Association, and the Children's Rehabilitation Center.

Bell admonished everyone not to "bury their heads in the sand and say that all news is negative. You can take the negative parts—the homeless, hungry, elderly, people who are in need, and look at how you can help them."

"It's better if you open your eyes and look for ways to change things."

"It scares me that historians will look back at my generation and generations before me and say that those people had a lot of talent, they bettered themselves, had nice homes and nice cars, but they didn't help other people."

"We have heard about United Way forever, seeing football players talking about United Way helping people. Now we need to tell the message, and tell other people they need to get involved."

Bell recounted how he began the "Waiting Child" feature, and how one boy, B.J., had been one of the first children featured by Bell.

"After we had played some miniature golf, I went over and talked with his caseworker. I said that B.J. seemed like a nice boy."

"The caseworker said that B.J. had a lot of problems, and that one night, while he and his mother were watching television, he turned to her and said, 'Mommy, I can get a gun and we won't have to worry about our problems any more.'"

"B.J. was six years old. 'Not long ago I was in the BB-BS office and saw a newspaper clipping on the bulletin board, and the face looked familiar. I asked someone who it was and they said it was B.J., and he was doing great now.'"

"There are problems out there that need to be dealt with, and we can change many things for the betterment of our community through the United Way."

"It can't be done by one person or one group—it takes all of us."

State plans SSC ad blitz

DALLAS (AP) — A two-month, $800,000 public relations blitz will try to sell Texas voters on putting money where the state's bids are to lure the "super collider" to the Lone Star State.

The campaign will feature television commercials, direct-mail appeals and the participation of some of the state's top business and political leaders, political consultant Karl Rove said Thursday.

"You name it, they're involved," he said. The campaign will be financed with private funds solicited by the group, called the Yes On Prop. 18 Committee, he said.

The committee's goal is to persuade voters to approve a constitutional amendment on the Nov. 3 ballot to issue $800 million in general obligation bonds to help Texas win the national super collider sweepstakes.

"The message will be that this is the most significant laboratory being built within the United States in decades and possibly in the next decade or two," said Houston oilman Jack Blanton, chairman of the committee. "We want it located in Texas."

Of the $800,000 planned blitz, Rove said $450,000 of that will be spent on television commercials and as much as $180,000 for direct-mail appeals.

In May, the Texas Legislature approved the sale of $500 million in general revenue bonds to support construction of the project. In November, voters will decide whether to issue another $300 million in bonds.

The state that wins the $4.4 billion project get its 2,500 permanent jobs and $275 million annual operating budget. In addition, estimates are that it would create 4,500 short-term construction jobs and 5,000 jobs among suppliers and vendors.

More than 50,000 visitors a year are expected to tour the scientific campus.

Local Roundup

Thursday slow for HPD

Hereford Police Department officers issued 15 citations, investigated two minor accidents and four offense reports on Thursday.

Officers were dispatched to the 600 block of Irving to what was reported as an attempted suicide. At the scene, officers found an elderly woman in the home alone, and the house was full of gas fumes.

Officers determined the incident was accidental. It appeared the woman had been cooking something and one of the burners did not light and was letting raw gas into the home. The woman was not harmed, but had fallen asleep.

Other offense calls include a prowler reported in the 300 block of Bradley; a domestic disturbance on Adeleto Calle; and trespassing in the 300 block of Ave. B.

Demos oppose proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democrats are lining up in opposition to the administration's new aid request for the Nicaraguan Contras, contending the proposal could scuttle the Central American peace process.

Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., a longtime critic of the administration's Central America policy, said Thursday the request was "the worst possible signal" the administration could send to the region.

He said the administration may be embarking on a "significant, profound, historical mistake."

Dodd made the statement after hearing Secretary of State George P. Shultz outline the administration's plan to seek $270 million for the Contras over an 18-month period to head off "a communist victory" in Nicaragua.

Testifying before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Shultz said additional aid to the Contras is the best insurance that Nicaragua will comply with terms of the Central American peace agreement it signed last month in Guatemala.

"Just because an agreement has been signed that calls for some waiting, you can't let them (Contras) starve," President Reagan said in Miami on Thursday in response to reporters' queries about Shultz's remarks.

House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, said it was inappropriate for the administration to make a request for more Contra money while the peace process was under way.

"Such a request would anticipate the failure of the peace process. I don't anticipate the failure of the peace process. I anticipate success," he said.

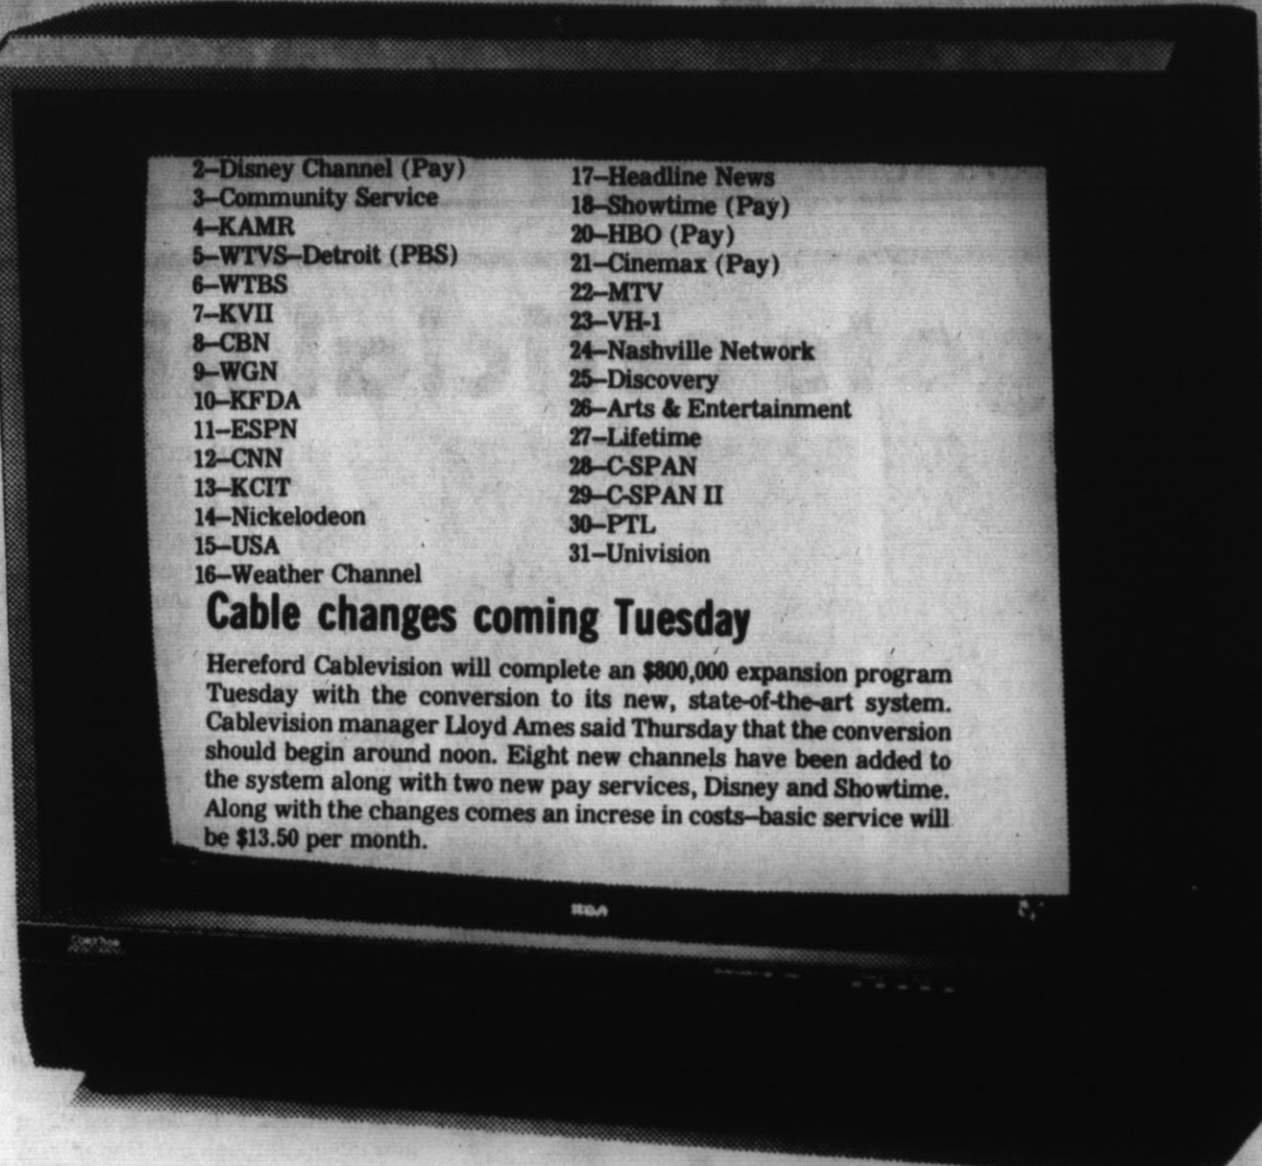

Before Shultz's announcement, Costa Rican President Oscar Arias, the main architect of the Central American peace plan signed Aug. 7 in Guatemala City by five Central American leaders, said he would not support additional aid to the Contras even if the Sandinistas fail to comply with the agreement.

"I will never defend that," Arias told television interviewer John McLaughlin. "I am not in favor of a military solution."

Sen. Terry Sanford, D-N.C., said approval of more Contra aid would be interpreted as a signal of bad faith by the United States in Central America.

Rep. David Bonior, D-Mich., a member of the House leadership, said, "The administration is preparing to use the club of Contra aid on the dove of diplomacy."

The Guatemala agreement, among other steps, calls on the Sandinista government to arrange a cease-fire and implement democratic reform measures by Nov. 7, about five weeks after the current $100 million Contra aid allotment expires.

Cable changes coming Tuesday

Hereford Cablevision will complete a $800,000 expansion program Tuesday with the conversion to its new, state-of-the-art system. Cablevision manager Lloyd Ames said Thursday that the conversion should begin around noon. Eight new channels have been added to the system along with two new pay services, Disney and Showtime. Along with the changes comes an increase in costs—basic service will be $13.50 per month.

Reagan says U.S. ready to cutback strategic weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan says the United States stands ready to reach another sweeping arms accord with the Soviet Union, one that would slash the superpower arsenals of long-range strategic weapons in half.

The president's spokesman, Marlin Fitzwater, bolstered Reagan's assessment, saying a strategic missile pact could be reached by the end of next year.

Reagan on Thursday also said a pact to eliminate medium-range nuclear missiles now depends on "Soviet willingness to get down to ... hard work."

The president's upbeat comments on the status of the superpower arms control talks followed his nearly hour-long meeting with Pope John Paul II at a lavish villa in Miami. Reagan and his wife, Nancy, traveled to Florida to greet the pontiff at the outset of the pope's coast-to-coast U.S. pilgrimage.

Noting that the two men had discussed prospects for improved U.S.-Soviet relations, Reagan said he told the pope: "The United States is unshakably committed to the establishment of an enduring world peace and to the expansion of human freedom around the globe. Indeed, without freedom there can be no peace."

"On arms control, Reagan said, 'His Holiness and I discussed the nearness of an agreement that would eliminate all American and Soviet INF (intermediate nuclear force) missiles. ... Of course, all this depends upon Soviet willingness to get down to the hard work of completing an agreement."

The president said the United States also stands ready "for another historic agreement — one that would reduce strategic arms on both sides by half."

On Wednesday, the president told reporters at a state dinner in Washington that he believed "there are grounds for great optimism" for an INF accord. The president also said that while several issues remain unresolved, he believes a November summit with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev is possible.

Fitzwater, who accompanied the president on his journey aboard Air Force One, cautioned reporters Thursday about expecting a summit date to be fixed during next week's visit to Washington by Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze.

Fitzwater confirmed that Reagan plans to meet at the White House with Shevardnadze prior to the Soviet minister's talks with Secretary of State George P. Shultz.

The spokesman voiced optimism that if agreement on eliminating medium-range weapons is reached, progress on the tougher issue of long-range, strategic (START) weapons could be made.

"START is the next step after INF," Fitzwater said, adding that the administration has "done a lot of thinking" about the issue.

Reagan and Gorbachev discussed slashing the strategic missile weapons arsenal by half at the Reykjavik summit last fall, but the talks fell apart when the Soviet leader linked such cuts to curbs on Reagan's proposed "Star Wars" missile defense system.

The pope and president met for 35 minutes in a private session, held without translators or notetakers. They were joined later by the first lady and discussed the problems of drug abuse.

Reagan said afterward that he and the pope had been able to "share our views on the progress that has been made toward the establishment of a genuine peace in Central America."

Reagan, asked by reporters how his administration could seek military aid for the Nicaraguan Contra rebels and still say it sought peace, replied, "Just because an agreement has been signed that calls for some waiting, you can't let them (Contras) starve."

WDIC

Morris Udall of Utah.

Eichner said he felt the action was a compromise and was not a "pro" or "con" choice. "Within the current context of Congressional activity, the question has now shifted from 'should the program be changed?' to one of 'how will it be changed?'"

Eichner pointed out that WDIC was established to protect the interests of the member taxing entities and the community it represents. "From its inception, the committee has not taken a position regarding the implementation of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act except as it relates to issues that would ensure the necessary local protections, should characterization proceed at this site."

In recognition that the NWSA may undergo major changes, Eichner said the committee believed it needed to evaluate the alternative concepts being considered in light of their potential impact on the taxing entities and the community. "After detailed consideration—with consultation with members of participating governmental entities—and while not taking a position on a specific piece of legislation, the committee has concluded that the moratorium concept is the preferred choice to be supported in the community's best interest and that a fair, impartial, representative and exceptionally well qualified commission be appointed to carry out the review task."

Eichner listed some of the possible benefits of the WDIC position. They included: The community would be able to "catch up" in establishing its socioeconomic and geotechnical baseline data; an independent commission would be able to take the time to hear the local concerns regarding participation and oversight and potentially establish recommendations to Congress for changes to be made; the community economic picture could stabilize, providing a more certain environment for investing in the housing and retail markets; concerns for the adequacy of site characterization plans could be addressed, and greater protection for the landowners could potentially be secured and procedures established for handling property and liability claims.

One of the specific issues considered was the Johnston proposal for sequential characterization. If viewed in relation to that proposal, Eichner pointed out that the site designated as preferred for characterization also becomes the repository site, unless disqualifying factors eliminate it from consideration. Also, work would be suspended at the remaining two sites, but in a "hold" status, reactivated for consideration should the preferred site be disqualified or not be licensable. A cloud of uncertainty would remain over these sites for up to 10 years, said Eichner, with the subsequent social and economic impacts.

The WDIC executive director said the committee's strength has been its ability to represent all community interests and he thought it had been able, "sometimes tenuously", to maintain a united front. "As a consequence, WDIC has commanded the attention of the Department of Energy," added Eichner. "If the taxing jurisdictions become fragmented, the influence of the WDIC and the community on DOE activities could be reduced."

Alleged fraud operation broken

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Newly arrived undocumented aliens allegedly were able to buy falsified documents from a South Texas business showing they had lived in this country long enough to be eligible for amnesty under the new immigration law, officials say.

Eight people have been charged with falsifying documents, visa fraud and inducing aliens to enter the country illegally, including 54-year-old Ernesto Castaneda of McAllen, believed to be the leader, authorities said.

Castaneda remained in the Cameron County Jail late Thursday in lieu of $100,000 bond, while two of the people charged had not yet been arrested, officials said.

"If you just crossed the river yesterday and went into his office, he would sell you these documents," said Roy Sutton, supervisory special agent with the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service's Harlingen District.

INS agents seized a notary seal, duplicating and laminating equipment, typewriters, records and allegedly falsified documents from offices in McAllen and Brownsville, Sutton said Thursday.

Forty customers were waiting when agents made arrests at the McAllen office, he said.

"You're talking about thousands of dollars," Sutton said.

The organization — operating as Immigration and Nationality Assistance Inc., among other names — also had an office in Pharr and a location in at least one other undisclosed Texas city, he said.

The INS allegedly discovered in an investigation involving informants, undercover agents and surveillance that the suspects allegedly sold for various prices a "complete package" of documents for gaining amnesty.

"They wanted $850 from us to take one of our people all the way through the process," Sutton said.

In addition to the packages, the group allegedly sold letters for $100-$125 stating that the individuals had lived in the United States since 1961. The documents were used to travel north or to get work in South Texas, Sutton said.

Allegedly false documents included letters from purported landlords and employers.

INS Special Agent Philip Tutak said investigators believe some farmers, ranchers, business owners and property owners were paid to participate in the scheme.

Tutak said the investigation showed several unrelated applicants to have worked for a particular employer "pruning and harvesting" on the exact same dates.

"At one little residence, we must have had 500 people living there," Sutton added.

The Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986 offers temporary legal residency to aliens who can prove they have lived in the United States since Jan. 1, 1982.

A one-year amnesty period began in May, while an 18-month amnesty period began in June for certain aliens able to prove they worked in agriculture in this country before May 1986.

Another man was charged with harboring illegal aliens in connection with the organization.

In another case, a Pharr couple were arrested Thursday on charges including allegedly coaching aliens to make false statements in amnesty applications and selling invalid work authorization letters.

Charges against Joe Vera Jr. and Gloria Vera are: visa fraud, making false claims and statements, aiding and abetting aliens to obtain immigrant visas illegally, procuring immigrant visas with false claims and statements and withholding information from the INS.

Joe Vera Jr. also was charged with inducing aliens to enter the country illegally.

The Joe Vera Jr. Amnesty Center in Pharr is a "qualified designated entity" that was authorized to assist aliens in applying for amnesty until its credentials were suspended Aug. 13.

Advertisements for the Vera Amnesty Center, however, continued to appear this week in Rio Grande Valley newspapers.

INS Special Agent Robert Runyon said because Vera had to be treated at McAllen Medical Center after falling ill during the arrest Thursday, the spouses were released on their own recognizance, and will appear before a U.S. magistrate Monday.

Memorial to honor Constitution built of rocks from 50 states

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Chips off old blocks from all 50 states are arriving for a "Fountain of Freedom" envisioned as a lasting monument to the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution.

Delaware sent granite from a historic quarry, Arizona sent petrified wood and Nevada sent a 10-ton silver ore boulder.

The multi-hued rocks are to be blended into the as-yet-undiscovered fountain that planners hope will reflect the unity of diverse elements under the Constitution's framework.

The bicentennial celebration has revolved around special programs and will culminate Thursday with a $3.5 million parade, a star-studded gala and black-tie dinner, a picnic for 800,000 people and a fireworks display.

But no lasting structure has been built. By contrast, about $30 million was spent to develop Independence National Historical Park for the 200th birthday of the Declaration of Independence in 1976, said the park's superintendent, Hobart Cawood.

"We felt we needed some lasting memorial after the celebration (of the Constitution) was over," Cawood said.

Besides the monument, planners envision a center for the study of the Constitution to provide exhibits and information about the document, he said.

The Knight Foundation and the federal Commission for the Celebration of the Bicentennial of the Constitution have donated $50,000 each toward the monument. This fall, an architect will be chosen and plans drawn up for completion of the monument by 1990.

Rocks from at least 26 states already have arrived.

Five are scheduled to arrive on a flatbed truck Monday, two days before a dedication in front of the temporary Constitution Pavilion, where the monument is planned, two blocks from Independence Hall.

The truck started out in California with a piece of green and gray marble quarried near Sutter's Mill, where the California Gold Rush began in 1849, said Ray Kabaker, spokesman for the California Bicentennial Foundation. It has stopped to pick up sandstone from Utah, travertine from Montana, red quartzite from Wyoming and granite from North Dakota.

New Mexico already has sent pinkish brown limestone with fossil patterns and yellow veins caused by iron oxide, said Frank E. Kottowski, director of the New Mexico Bureau of Mines and Mineral Resources.

Cawood said prospective architects will be asked to design a monument incorporating the 50 stones, although some may be cut into smaller pieces.

The Constitution's text may be part of the monument, Cawood added.

A person visiting the monument should come away with a sense of what the Constitution is all about, he said.

Cold front heads for Texas

By The Associated Press

Showers and a few thunderstorms developed in the Hill Country and parts of South Texas today as a weak cold front moved across the state and forecasters expected scattered rainfall to continue into the weekend.

The front stretched across the central plains and western Oklahoma into the Texas Panhandle near Amarillo. Showers and thunderstorms dampened parts of the Panhandle and the northwest section of the South Plains.

Skies were clear over the Permian Basin and far West Texas and partly to mostly cloudy over the rest of the state.

Winds were northerly across the Panhandle behind the front at 10 to 15 mph and variable elsewhere at 5 to 10 mph.

Early-morning temperatures were mostly in the 60s and 70s, with 50s in the Permian Basin and far West Texas. Extremes ranged from 52 degrees at Marfa in the Davis Mountains to 84 degrees at the Naval Air Station in Corpus Christi.

More thunderstorms were expected to develop, some possibly severe, in parts of South and West Texas this afternoon and tonight. Skies should be mostly fair far west and partly to mostly cloudy elsewhere through Saturday.

MR. AND MRS. SAM NUNNALLY

Couple to celebrate golden anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Nunnally will be honored at a reception from 4-5 p.m. Sunday at the First Christian Church in celebration of their 50th wedding anniversary.

The event will be hosted by members of the Adelpia Woman's Sunday school Class of First Christian Church where Eva Nunnally is a member.

The couple married Sept. 13, 1937, while both were senior students at East Central State Teachers College in Ada, Okla. They have lived in Hereford and have attended First Christian Church for 40 years. Their children are James Robert Nunnally and Sandra Sue Nunnally. They have eight grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read with interest the letter written by Worried Wanda in California regarding her geriatric father's driving abilities.

Our grandfather was 86 years old, also a successful businessman and an all-round wonderful person. His driver's license should have been revoked many times based on his record of mishaps.

Grandpa was blind in one eye and could not see very well out of the other one. He had more minor accidents in one year than most people have in a lifetime. Once he hit an armored car, paid for the damages and avoided having a police report filed.

When his license came up for renewal, he was terrified that he would not pass the test. We all prayed he would fail. Unfortunately Grandpa charmed the examining officer and the Commonwealth of Kentucky renewed his license. We were shocked. After checking, we learned that as long as he had a valid license and had not harmed anyone, there was no way the authorities could prohibit him from driving.

One Friday evening, as Gramps was traveling along the Watterson Expressway in Louisville, he didn't realize he was on the shoulder and not in a lane. While going 55 miles an hour he slammed into a steel guardrail, the car flipped over twice and Grandpa was killed. We thanked God that he didn't take anyone with him.

Ann, the police are not at all cooperative when it comes to grounding the elderly, incompetent drivers. This is a very serious problem and we must find an answer. Please help us by printing this letter.—D.M. in Louisville officers think they are being generous when they take it easy on the old folks. In reality they are making it possible for them to kill themselves and others.

This happens not only in Louisville but all over the country, especially Florida, Arizona and California because of the greater senior citizen population. Thanks for giving me the opportunity to speak out about this horrendous problem.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How did a supposedly intelligent woman get herself in such a mess?

I am a widow going out with a widower. We've been seeing each other for three years. In the beginning, I thought "Sam" was the answer to my prayers. After several months, against all my religious beliefs and moral upbringing, I went to bed with him. Now I don't know how to get rid of the man.

Sam takes it for granted that he can come to my house for dinner whenever he feels like it. Occasionally he will take me to a restaurant but not very often. He is quite stingy. The last straw was when he asked me to put his name along with mine on the gifts I send to mutual friends and my relatives.

We have gone to many weddings and christenings together, and he has pulled this stunt on me a lot. I am disgusted with his cheap ways and need to know what I should do.—No Location Please, Just "Daisy"

DEAR "DAISY": Do you want to salvage the relationship and proceed on your terms or would you prefer to dump him totally?

If it's salvaging you want, explain in a forthright manner what the new ground rules are and stick to them. If you want to unload the last of the Big Spenders, tell him to get lost and not to call you anymore.

Louis Napoleon was elected president of France in 1848.

LEMURS ARE THREATENED

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Scientists at the Duke Primate Center here are concerned about the fate of Madagascar's lemurs.

Considered primates (or monkeys) which are native only to Madagascar and a few nearby islands, the lemurs appear to have their existence threatened by an agricultural technique used on the island.

Through the use of slash-and-burn agriculture, more than 90 percent of Madagascar's woodlands have been cut down. This has resulted in habitat destruction, as lemurs spend most of their time eating and sleeping in trees.

Two teams play first games

SWC goes into second week

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

Preseason favorite Arkansas and Houston, idle during the Southwest Conference's opening "Black Saturday," take on two non-conference toughs this weekend.

Arkansas was a five-point favorite over Mississippi in a meeting at Jackson, Miss., while Houston was an underdog by the same margin to Oklahoma State in a noon (Raycom TV) matchup featuring Jack Pardee's Cougar debut in the Astrodome.

In other games, Air Force was a two-point pick over Texas Christian in a 1 p.m. game at the Academy, Texas Tech was a 14-point selection over Colorado State in a 7 p.m. game at Lubbock, Texas was a four-point favorite over Brigham Young in a 7 p.m. game at Austin, Baylor was a seven-point choice over Missouri in a 1 p.m. game at Columbia and Indiana was a 15-point favorite over Rice in a 1 p.m. game.

Arkansas was idle while Ole Miss lost 16-10 to Memphis State last week.

"Playing at Jackson is an eye-opener," says Arkansas noseguard Tony Cherico. "We know we're not welcome there because of the rivalry. We have a bonus in that we have an experienced team and we will have a lot of fans there. But playing at Jackson is always difficult."

Arkansas is 72-14-4 in season opening games since 1894.

Razorback Coach Ken Hatfield said Ole Miss has "most of their team back from last year when they finished second in the Southeastern Conference and upset LSU at Baton Rouge."

Hatfield is not well liked at Mississippi, where some players believe he led to the Rebs being placed on two years' NCAA probation.

"Everything that happened is over as far as I'm concerned," Hatfield says. "I think some Ole Miss people are trying to get everybody fired up and create animosity toward us."

This Saturday, for the first time in 25 years, Bill Yeoman will not be coaching the Houston Cougars.

"I'm ready, this is what I've been waiting for," said Pardee, a former Texas A&M All-America who made All-Pro in the NFL and coached in both the NFL and USFL. Pardee brings a wide-open "run-and-shoot" offense to the Cougars.

Texas Tech's Spike Dykes celebrates his home opener as head coach of the Red Raiders. Also, the Masked Rider's horse will be named in pregame ceremonies. Happy VI has been retired.

Baylor and Rice were the only winning survivors of last Saturday's massacre of four SWC teams.

The Bears are 1-1 against Missouri, which is just now opening its season.

"The difficult thing about preparing for Louisiana Tech was the fact we didn't know much about them and we face the same thing this week," Baylor Coach Grant Teaff said. "Missouri has changed its offense. They scouted us last week and we have zero. They also have a big homefield advantage."

Texas is coming off a 31-3 loss to Auburn, the worst opening defeat in Longhorn history. Should the 'Horns lose to BYU, it would mark the first 0-2 start by Texas in 20 years.

Angles edge Rangers, 8-7

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP) — In the middle of the action, the umpires paid a visit to pitcher Don Sutton of the California Angels.

Near the end of Thursday night's game between the Angels and Texas Rangers, the goonies visited both teams.

Something went haywire between the time the Angels were within one strike of a calm 3-2 victory and the end of their wild 8-7 miracle comeback in 10 innings.

Pinch-hitter Darrel Porter singled to drive in the tying run for Texas on an 0-and-2 pitch from DeWayne Buice in the top of the ninth. The Rangers went on to score four more runs in the inning to apparently put the game away.

But the bottom of the ninth was even crazier, as Mark Ryal hit a game-tying pinch-hit grand slam homer after the Angels loaded the bases without a ball leaving the infield.

"That was a lousy way to lose a game," moaned Texas Manager Bobby Valentine, who couldn't have been surprised by the time Devon White decided things with a one-out homer in the bottom of the 10th off Steve Howe, 2-3.

But it began with Sutton, a frequent suspect of ball-doctoring who received his first formal inspection of the season from plate umpire Steve Palermo in the fifth inning.

Sutton threw a sinker to Oddibe McDowell that prompted Palermo's visit.

"That pitch did something funky," said Palermo, adding that he'd already removed three of Sutton's baseballs from the game. "The ball looked scratched. But there was nothing in his glove. If there had been, he would've been ejected immediately."

After the inspection, the game continued without incident and Sutton was in line for his 320th career win until the Rangers' uprising.

Buice took over after singles by Pete O'Brien and Larry Parrish chased reliever Greg Minton. Tim O'Malley's bunt turned into a force play at third and McDowell struck out before Porter's single.

After Bob Brower walked, Jerry Browne's infield singled delivered the lead run, and three more runs scored on Scott Fletcher's two-run double and Ruben Sierra's single. Sierra now has 100 RBI this season.

In their ninth, the Angels loaded the bases on singles in front of the mound by White and Jim Eppard sandwiched around a walk to Tack Wilson.

Astros suffer 8-7 loss, fall five games behind Giants

SAN DIEGO (AP) — San Diego Manager Larry Bowa just wanted pinch-hitter Rob Nelson to be comfortable in his first National League at-bat. But Nelson's game-winning RBI single ended up making Houston more than uncomfortable.

The Astros' 8-7 loss Thursday night knocked them five games behind San Francisco in the NL West pennant race.

"This is a game we would have liked to have had because we could have gained a little ground," said Glenn Davis, who hit three homers to bring in five runs for the Astros. "At this point, you just have to take advantage, you just have to."

Nelson, who came to San Diego last week in a trade with Oakland for pitcher Storm Davis, got his first major-league RBI when he singled in Garry Templeton from third with one out in the bottom of the ninth.

With his 25th homer this year, Davis became the third Houston player and first since Lee May on June 21, 1973 to hit three homers in a game.

Davis hit a solo homer in the second inning and a two-run shot in the fourth, both off Padres starter Mark Grant, and added a two-run homer off Mark Davis in the sixth, giving Houston a 6-4 lead.

The Padres rallied in the bottom of the sixth when Tony Gwynn hit his seventh homer, off reliever Larry Andersen, cutting Houston's lead to 6-5.

In the seventh, Gwynn and Randy Ready hit consecutive RBI singles. The winning rally started when Templeton singled off Hernandez, 0-3, the last of six Houston pitchers. After a sacrifice bunt by Marvell Wynne, Templeton went to third on a wild pitch.

Nelson then bounced a single down the right field line.

HHS JV loses to Vega varsity 27-0

Hereford High School's junior varsity football team played a close first half battle against the Vega High School varsity Thursday at Vega, but the second half was a different story as Vega scored a 27-0 win.

Vega had just a 6-0 halftime lead after a good defensive effort by Hereford.

Hereford Coach Craig Yenser said, "Offensively, we made too many mistakes, fumbles, interceptions, and penalties. Our defense was forced to be on the field too much."

Hereford's next junior varsity contest will be at Lubbock Monterey at 4 p.m. on Thursday, Sept. 17.
