Tax rates:

HISD board proposes rate of $1.239 for 1993-94 fiscal year

By GARRY WESNER
Managing Editor

It took just a few minutes, but the Hereford Independent School District board of trustees on Tuesday voted unanimously to propose a tax rate for the 1993-94 school year of $1.239 per $100 valuation.

Although the proposed tax rate is the same as was collected last year, it is technically a 305 percent increase, since the district only charged 30 cents per $100 valuation last year.

The remaining 93.9 cents last year was collected by the County Education District, which no longer exists, requiring the district to reincorporate those taxes into the local rate.

The district will hold a public hearing on the tax rate at 4 p.m. Sept. 15 in the school office.

After that, trustees will meet at noon Sept. 21 to officially adopt the tax rate.

Business office manager Bobby Moudy said that, while the district has lost some net taxable value over the past year, the addition of the now-defunct CED homestead exemption should offset the loss of revenue.

He said the net taxable value last year was $413.5 million, which has dropped to $404.4 million this year, a drop of $8.6 million.

However, $9 million will be returned through the loss of the $5,000 CED homestead exemption.

As a result, he said, the 1992 tax levy of $5,075,902 will increase this year to $5,150,492.

The vote to propose the tax rate and set the hearing was unanimously in favor on a motion made by Trustee Raymond Schlabs.

Also on Tuesday, trustees voted unanimously to apply for a waiver for the Junior High on Oct. 6, so the entire junior high staff could attend a middle school seminar in Amarillo.

If approved, junior high students will have that day off, while teachers attend the workshop as an in-service day.

All trustees were present at the meeting. They are: Ron Weishaar, president; Mike Veazey, Jim Marsh, Schlabs, Steve Wright, Raul Valdez and Joe Flood.

Going over the music

Hereford High School band xylophone player Bethany Townsend, left, and marimba player Michelle Emerson look over the music while leaning on Townsend's xylophone at the band practice field Tuesday night. The two play in the marching band, but their instrument size prohibits them from marching along. Instead, they play from the sidelines.

Walcott trustees to approve 13-cent decrease in tax rate

Walcott Independent School District trustees gathered Tuesday night for a public hearing on their proposed $9847 per $100 valuation tax rate, but nobody came to complain.

Officially, the district is raising taxes 576 percent from the $.171 levied last year, but with the addition of County Education District taxes collected separately last year and reincorporated into the district this year, the actual tax rate in Walcott is dropping.

Superintendent Bill McLaughlin said the total tax rate last year was $1.11 including both the CED and district taxes.

But because the new education funding law did away with CEDs, that money had to be reincorporated into the district.

Overall, the district is lowering its tax rate by 13 cents per $100 valuation.

McLaughlin said the district's rate "to my knowledge, may be the lowest in the Panhandle," adding that he does not know of an area school that has a rate of less than $1 per $100 valuation.

McLaughlin said trustees waiting about 10 minutes after the start of the 9 p.m. meeting, then adjourned for the night.

They will meet at 8 p.m. on Sept. 16 to officially adopt the tax rate.

Benefits would counteract $124 billion in Medicare cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Clinton administration is looking to save $124 billion in Medicare costs over five years, while proposing to provide the elderly with new drug and long-term care benefits worth $152 billion, administration officials say.

The White House insists its Medicare savings will be achieved not by scrapping existing benefits but by ratcheting down health care inflation across the board.

"Every nickel of (Medicare savings) and then some goes into new benefits," an official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Tuesday. The long-term care benefits for both the elderly and younger Americans with disabilities would cost $80 billion and the drug benefits $72 billion over five years, the official said.

John Rother, legislative director for the American Association of Retired Persons, said White House officials told him the drug benefit would be worth $32 to $35 a month to the average senior citizen. Their Medicare Part B premiums, now $36.60 a month, would go up by about $8 to help pay for it.

The drug benefit will be part of the basic benefit package Clinton will seek to guarantee for all American citizens and legal residents. It will come with a $250 deductible and 20 percent co-insurance.

The drug benefit will start in 1996, while the long-term care benefits will be phased in over five years with an emphasis on home- and community-based care instead of institutions.

Rother said he was told the long-term care benefits would be worth $80 a month to the elderly and they would have to pay $20 a month for them.

Both will be major selling points with the elderly, who have been hammered by rising medical costs despite being the only age group that now enjoys almost universal coverage.

Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., a former Gray Panthers leader, said Clinton had put his finger on the two biggest health care headaches afflicting the elderly.

But "it's not clear how those benefits are going to be financed," Wyden said. The White House must "ensure that this doesn't become a shell game that cuts from core, needed basic Medicare in order to (pay for) long-term care and prescription drugs."

Medicare was already hit with $56 billion in cuts over five years as part of the deficit-reduction bill Clinton signed last month. Most of that money is supposed to come out of doctors' pockets and hospitals' profits.

Dr. James S. Todd, executive vice president of the American Medical Association, said that until Clinton's entire package is seen in the light of day, it was too soon to say whether the Medicare cuts would hurt.

"There are some very significant savings to be achieved (by introducing) economic discipline into the whole system" and cutting back on paperwork, regulations and administrative hassles, Todd said.

Medicare, which insures both the elderly and disabled workers, is projected to spend more than $1 trillion over five years.

Todd, Rother and other health care leaders were summoned to the White House in recent days for briefings on Clinton's still unfinished plan, and the administration has begun sharing details with congressional aides. Clinton is supposed to address Congress on the need for health reform in two weeks.

Ron Pollack, executive director of Families USA Foundation, another advocacy group, said the long-term care benefits will go to people who have trouble with at least three of five essential daily activities: getting out of bed, dressing, washing, using the toilet and eating.

States would get grants to support adult day care centers and provide support for people in their homes, including help with cooking and cleaning, the advocates said.

Medicare will "be under a lot of cost containment pressure" under the Clinton health plan, said Rother, but "it looks right now like a worthwhile tradeoff."

Two teens charged in shootings of two girls at Plainview High

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) - Two teen-agers have been charged with attempted murder in the shootings of two girls in the parking lot of Plainview High School, authorities said.

Kevin Polk, 19, and Timothy D. Uddley, 17, both of Plainview, were being held Tuesday night in the Hale County Jail on $100,000 bail bond each, said Plainview Police Capt. William Mull. Each is charged with two counts of attempted murder.

Veronica Cordero, 17, and Esparanza Lucio, 14, were in guarded condition at area hospitals, police said. Ms. Cordero was being treated at University Medical Center in Lubbock. Ms. Lucio was at Methodist Plainview Hospital.

Also arrested was a man suspected in a retaliatory drive-by shooting that occurred about 45 minutes after the first.

Lorenzo Cordero, 21, who police said is the uncle of Ms. Cordero, was charged with attempted murder for allegedly shooting at four teens in another car. He was being held in the county jail on $50,000 bond.

The first shooting occurred at 3:55 p.m. after a red Ford Escort pulled into the school parking lot, witnesses said. One witness said she heard shots "and everybody started running."

Ms. Lucio, a freshman, was hit in the neck and Ms. Cordero, a sophomore, was struck just above the right ear, said Nancy Carthel, house supervisor at Methodist Hospital Plainview.

Police said the two girls were not the targets of the suspects' gunfire.

"Evidently it is just an argument between two groups of boys," Mull said. "The two ladies were more or less bystanders. It appears the only involvement they had was standing in the wrong place at the wrong time."

Polk is a former Plainview High School football star, and Uddley is a student at the high school.

Police said they were checking rumors that the shooting may have been in retaliation for one youth chasing another with a gun at a carnival several weeks ago.

Meanwhile, police suspect the second shooting was meant as revenge to the first, Mull said. "We really suspect it was in retaliation to his niece being shot," he said.

One man, Francisco Juanes, suffered minor cuts from flying glass in the second incident, said Lt. Michael Carroll.

A full-time police officer was assigned to the Plainview High School last spring following several incidents of violence.

New column has angle on science

Beginning today, The Hereford Brand unveils a new weekly column that will teach everyone a little bit about science.

"Ask Mr. Oz" is written by Mel Holubec, a retired Hereford High School science teacher, who now travels the city in his Ozmobile, teaching science to intermediate school students as Mr. Oz.

"Ask Mr. Oz" will appear every Wednesday in the Brand. Mr. Oz will answer different science questions each week on a variety of subjects. If you have a science question you would like Mr. Oz to answer, write it down and mail it to: Ask Mr. Oz, c/o The Hereford Brand, P.O. Box 673, Hereford, Texas 79045.

In addition, the public is invited to stop by the Ozmobile while it is at one of the three intermediate schools and look in on Mr. Oz as he brings science to children.

Panhandle farmers getting good weather

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - Some farmers on the Texas Panhandle couldn't have asked for more perfect weather.

In a year when crops sizzled downstate and fields flooded in the Midwest, nature provided conditions that set the Panhandle on track for bumper corn and cotton yields.

"We have a few spots that aren't perfect, but by and large we have an excellent crop," said Jay Vaughn, who expects to harvest two bales per acre on his cotton farm north of Lubbock.

Rain - although spotty - fell at near-normal levels. Hail storms were rare.

And get this: The National Weather Service at Lubbock International Airport marked just 12 hours of blowing dust during the first seven months of this year. The average is 110 hours.

"What I've generally heard, from people who keep up with ag, is that the farmers are happy with what's fallen and how it's fallen," said forecaster Steven Parker.

"Our ranchers and cowmen are really happy," said Robert Harris, county agriculture extension agent in Dumas. "A lot of times we need to grow grass late in the season, to keep the pasture in good shape. It's kind of unusual when you stay green this late."

But not everyone on the South Plains got the moisture they needed.

Agriculture officials said most irrigation pumps ran nonstop during August, particularly west and south of Lubbock. Dryland fields, meanwhile, withered.

"The weather has been extremely kind to growers with sufficient irrigation, but brutal to those dryland," said Kater Hake, cotton agronomist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Irrigated fields could yield up to twice the output from dryland fields in 1993, Hake said.

Ken Carver, assistant manager for the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District No. 1, predicted the Ogallala Aquifer dropped slightly from the heavy pumping. The 15-county district, which stretches from Lubbock to Amarillo, won't measure its water table until January, Carver said.

"I've had to water and water and water and water," Vaughn said. "This is probably my most expensive year ever, in 20 years."

"The Central Texas area went 60-plus days without rain and the temperature 95 to 100 degrees," said Dennis Findley, state statistician for the agriculture service. "That definitely parched the soils and pasture conditions and deteriorated the grazing potential."

What Panhandle farmers want to see now is warm, sunny weather to coax open the cotton bolls. Rain would not help.

Modeling hobby occupied free time during Army duty

Models become more than hobby

A modeler who took up the hobby while in the U.S. Army, Scott DeBord, has carried the pastime a step further, designing models which are advertised in the magazine he holds. On the shelf behind DeBord is a collection of completed artillery scenes and figurines.

Hereford man's pastime offers possibility for additional income

By LINDSAY RADFORD
Summer Intern
A pastime that relieved boredom of off-duty hours and occupied Scott DeBord's hands and mind while serving in the U.S. Army in Germany has become more than a mere hobby.

DeBord's remarkable talents as a model-builder and creator surfaced three years ago as a result of boredom.

"I was stationed on a military base in Germany during my enlistment. There wasn't a whole lot to do so I bought a model kit," he said.

Models can be replicas of individual soldiers, artillery, and various military scenes.

"Building models gave me something to do and I loved it," emphasized DeBord.

While in Germany, he completed kits and sold the finished replicas.

"The models were especially popular on military bases. I seriously doubt they would sell in an area such as this," he said.

On average, an uncompleted model kit costs between $20 and $30.

"It becomes an expensive hobby once you buy the kit and then paint it," stressed DeBord.

Model kits require assembly, detailing and painting.

"To create the perfect scene, you use anything from dental-floss to clay," said the army veteran. "I've even made my own plants from paper."

His forehead wrinkled in concentration, DeBord painstakingly details each figure with oil-based paints.

"Painting a scene can take anywhere from 30 to 40 hours. It's a tedious task but I thoroughly enjoy it," remarked DeBord.

His success with paints allows him to place advertisements with numerous catalogs.

"After reading the ads, people send me their finished models for painting," he said.

Customers are charged by each hour of work.

In competition with his work in Dallas and France, the 24-year-old has received two second place and two third place awards.

"A large number of people attend the shows and competitions. I was certainly one of the youngest," he said.

DeBord and his wife, Yvette, continuously battle the curiosity of their two children, Tiffany, four and William, two.

"The kids destroyed an army truck which was part of a scene I had finished. The only way I could save the model was to make the truck look like there really was an accident," he said.

"Honestly, I'm surprised they haven't tried to play with them more often."

The young man is adding his own creations to the line of available model kits.

"I sent in six Napoleonic figures I designed and produced to a catalog company," he said.

The magazine, "Fine Model Scaler," selected the original pieces for publication in a sales catalog based on the quality of the product.

"I'm excited to see what the response will be. Not everyone is lucky enough to make money off their hobby," he said.

Producing each figure required several steps for the DeBord.

First, a figure is carved out of wax.

A rubber mold is then formed over the wax. The dry mold is cut in half and then filled with lead or white metal. Finally, excess materials are trimmed off.

"The kits I've created are sold as-is. Everyone can finish their own according to their individual tastes," DeBord said.

The next challenge for him will be to complete a model of a shelled city.

"I have a feeling it's going to take me years to complete this one. I hope I can finish it quickly and surprise people at the next show," DeBord remarked.

After graduating from Hereford High School in 1987, DeBord enlisted in the United States Army.

He served during the Desert Storm war.

"I was stationed in Kuwait City on a base that had once served as a storage facility," said DeBord.

Model building was impossible in Kuwait under those conditions.

"Hackysack and volleyball served as our entertainment instead," he remarked.

DeBord returned to Amarillo where he worked as a salesman for Ron Clark Ford after completing his tour of duty.

Currently, he is living in Hereford and is now employed by Stevens Chevrolet.

DeBord's hobby has been put on a shelf until his materials are located after another move.

"I can't believe how misplaced everything becomes when you move. I still haven't figured out where half of my paints are," emphasized DeBord.

After settling in, he plans to continue building models.

"If my models sell well through the catalogs, I will design more," he said.

Senate GOP to fight nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) - Senate Republicans are gearing up for a fight over President Clinton's nomination of a former Nixon administration national security aide to a top civilian Pentagon post.

Morton Halperin, tapped for the newly created job of assistant defense secretary for democracy and human rights, parted ways with former President Nixon in September 1969 over the administration's policy on Vietnam.

Since then, Halperin's career has stretched from Harvard University to the American Civil Liberties Union to the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, and he has written extensively on U.S. covert activity and military intervention.

He also waged a 20-year legal struggle over the FBI's late 1960s wiretap of his telephone, prompted by suspicions that Halperin was the possible source of a leak to The New York Times about the secret U.S.

bombing of Cambodia.

The struggle ended last year when Halperin accepted an apology from former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

It all adds up to a liberal record that has conservative Republicans seeing red.

The White House announced its intent to nominate Halperin in March but did not submit the nomination to the Senate until Aug. 5. Republicans wasted no time in responding.

Texas provided blueprint for plan

WASHINGTON (AP) - Texas provided more than just a blueprint for the White House's ambitious plan to streamline the federal bureaucracy and provide better value to taxpayers.

The state also supplied some of the manpower for the six-month audit conducted by a national task force under the direction of Vice President Al Gore.

At a White House ceremony Tuesday to unveil the panel's recommendations, President Clinton singled out Gov. Ann Richards and Texas Comptroller John Sharp for their "terrific work."

While governor of neighboring Arkansas, Clinton consulted with both Richards and Sharp about the Texas Performance Review and later used many of those findings in shaping the national effort.

Sharp, who was an adviser to Gore's task force, predicted that the national plan would be as successful as the Texas review. The state audits, conducted in 1991 and 1993, resulted in some $6.2 billion in savings and averted the need for new taxes.

"I think it's going to pay off for the people of this country," said Sharp, who was in Washington for the ceremony.

The White House estimates the task force recommendations would result in $108 billion in savings by century's end and 252,000 fewer federal jobs. Recommendations also included closing hundreds of government offices outside Washington, merging some agencies, overhauling the budget process and making it easier to fire incompetent employees.

Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, who with Sharp was instrumental in pushing the Texas audit, questioned how Congress would receive the report. "I think you're going to have a lot of posturing by Democrats and Republicans alike when it hits their home districts," he said. "That's when it's going to be up to the people of the country whether they tolerate it."

Bullock, who didn't draw the national credit that Sharp and Richards did for the Texas review, said he wasn't bothered by being out of the limelight. "Twenty years ago, it would have. Today, I'm 64 years old. I'm afraid I'm going to die ... There's no telling what can be done in this country if nobody's worried about getting the credit," he said. Sharp and others predicted that Democrats and Republicans alike will rally to the results of the six-month review.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, said he is skeptical when Democrats talk about reducing the size of government. "But I think we ought to give the president a chance," he said.

The House's third-ranking Republican, Dick Armey, said he was "very enthusiastic" about the report. "The goals that the vice president has outlined ... are doable - eminently doable - and we ought to be able to get it done this year," the Lewisville lawmaker said.

Success of the review depends on "real assertive leadership from the White House," he said. "And we, of course, will stand ready to help."

The task force targets several programs with significant Texas ties, including:

- An end to the wool and mohair subsidy, which largely goes to Texas producers. The task force projects savings of $923 million through 1999 if the long-running program is killed.

- Examination of the federal helium program, centered outside Amarillo, to evaluate the need for government involvement. The program, whose roots date to World War I, frequently is cited by lawmakers as proof that government programs continue long past their usefulness.

- The Customs Service and Immigration and Naturalization Service should improve their management of the border.

Are skirt lengths up or down for this fall?

By FRANCINE PARNES
For AP Special Features
The fickle finger of fashion is at it again.

When hiked-up hemlines made headlines at the fall European haute couture shows in July, miniskirts zoomed back into vogue practically overnight. Chanel designer Karl Lagerfeld raised eyebrows with his microminis, barely visible beneath thigh-length blazers, while hemlines also soared northward at Gianni Versace, Christian Dior and Yves Saint Laurent.

Now, with Concorde-like speed, the trend has traversed the Atlantic.

Now Bloomingdale's, poised to nab a trend on a nanosecond's notice, has been stocking its New York store with thigh-high skirts.

"The thing about fashion is it's not brain surgery - it can turn on a dime," says Kalman Rutenstein, Bloomingdale's senior vice president for fashion direction. "And in our business, the latest news is often the best."

Rutenstein said Bloomingdale's placed orders with French producers even before returning to New York. In addition, the first domestically-produced line, A.B.S., hit the racks on Aug. 1 - dresses, skirts and minis priced between $50 and $500 retail.

The consensus?
"At the moment they're the best-selling item in the store," Rutenstein says.

This time around there's a change afoot. If you want to look like fall '93, nuke those high heels. Minis are mixing with clunky work boots or hiking boots, such as Lagerfeld showed at his fall couture collection for Chanel, with tights and cuffed socks.

Donna Karan says miniskirts have a brand new attitude.

"It's not about a real high, skinny heel like in the '80s," says the designer. "It's more grounded."

Ann Taylor, meanwhile, is stocking up on short wool-cashmere blanket wrap skirts, about $78.

"It's evolving as a look, not just a short skirt, not just a piece here and there," says Sally Frame Kasaks, CEO of Ann Taylor in New York.

"We saw them on the streets in Europe last year and loved them, so we continued to make them for fall," says Kasaks. "As the season moves on, you'll see gals wearing short skirts with a silk or merino wool turtleneck, ribbed tights and flat shoes - always flat shoes. It almost looks like the skirt is simply a piece of color, with two or three inches sticking out from underneath a longer jacket."

They fare best as a weekend look. "We're not suggesting that a woman going to office every day is going to be wearing them. It's a weekend alternative, perhaps even an option for casual Friday dressing. It's a segment of the business, and it's not the only way to look."

Karan, Ann Taylor's Kasaks and Bloomingdale's Rutenstein all see minis sailing straight into spring.

Yet skirt lengths are going up and down so fast it makes you dizzy. Now that designers have finally coaxed women into longer skirts, hemlines are about as short as some women's patience is going to be.

"Unfortunately, this confuses the customer, who is just getting her bearings on the big switch from short to long," says Norma Kamali. "She's just made some investments in longer skirts, and now she's hearing that mini and micromini skirts are in again. That's big news to most of the population that wears skirts."

Kamali still isn't sold on short. "As a 48-year-old woman, I think my legs are pretty decent," she says.

"But I think that it's a prettier look for me to wear pants or a longer skirt because I don't sit like a lady, and I don't like to sit with my legs crossed all the time."

"The last time was 1970," she says. "I don't remember how to do that anymore."

Coke party set Saturday

Hereford will be the site of the Miss Top of Texas Area Pageant Saturday, Nov. 6. The reigning Miss Top of Texas is Arian Archer of Borger. All young women who are Hereford High School graduates are invited to compete in the pageant. A Coke party is planned at 2 p.m. Saturday at the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center for prospective contestants. For additional information call Julia Laing at 364-8871 (at work) or 364-6856 (at home) or Donna West, 364-3740.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) - Miss America Leanza Cornett wants to trade her crown for a contract with "Entertainment Tonight."

Cornett, 22, of Jacksonville, Fla., said she's negotiating for a job with the syndicated show after her reign ends on Sept. 18. She said she'll move to Los Angeles and continue her studies in communications at UCLA. She already has been filling in for "ET" host Mary Hart.

Cornett, who has spent the past year promoting AIDS awareness, is proud of what she has accomplished.

"From the very beginning I expected people to have a perception of what a Miss America is and does, based on history," she said in a telephone interview from Houston.

Women's health

People tend to pay close attention to physical flaws and attributes inherited from their parents, but when it comes to assessing potential health risks, they often forget to consider heredity. This could be a dangerous oversight since many medical conditions run in families.

Some disorders have clearly established family links, such as genetic disorders that are passed on through abnormal genes carried by the parents. Other problems have an observed tendency to occur in families, but the significance of this tendency is not always clear.

Below are some medical conditions that appear to have a family link.

Cancer: Most cancers are believed to be caused by a mix of heredity and environmental or lifestyle factors. Some cancers, including breast cancer, seem to have a stronger familial component than others. The risk of getting breast cancer doubles for a woman whose mother or sister has or has had the disease, although many women who have no family history also get it. Some types of colon and brain cancer also appear to have a strong family tie.

Heart disease: A tendency toward heart disease seems to be hereditary. Race plays a role too; blacks have a higher risk of heart problems than whites.

Hypertension: Research has shown that children of parents with high blood pressure have a greater chance of developing the disease than those with no family connection. Not all children of parents with the disorder will have it themselves, however, but they may be more susceptible.

Diabetes Mellitus: There are two main forms of diabetes, type I (childhood) and type II (late onset). Both tend to run in families. Those with a family history of type I are less likely to actually develop the disease than those with type II. In a third of all cases of type II diabetes, there is a family history.

Osteoporosis: This disorder, which is the progressive loss of bone mass mostly affecting older women, is more common among those whose sister, mother, grandmother or aun-had it. Small body type, including being slender and having small bones, is also a factor that can increase risk.

Asthma: Children born to parents with allergic problems have a tendency to have allergies, an important trigger of asthma.

This is only a partial list of disorders that run in families. If you have questions about your risk of inheriting family health problems, you should discuss them with your doctor. You should also work with your doctor to develop a lifestyle plan that will reduce your risks of developing family disorders, or minimize the ill effects of conditions you may already have.

4-H Council meeting held

Members of the Deaf Smith County 4-H Council met recently at the Hereford Community Center.

During the business session, those present discussed the Annual 4-H Achievement Banquet planned Friday evening. They also discussed various fund raising projects as well as a livestock clinic.

The next meeting will be held Oct. 18 at the Community Center. All council officers and delegates are encouraged to attend.

Those present were Kinann Campbell, president; Jay Johnson, adult leader; Houston Smith, reporter; and Jerred Johnson, delegate.

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) - The trip Eddie Kidd is planning across the Mississippi River on New Year's Eve won't involve any rowing.

The British daredevil intends to jump across the mighty river on a motorcycle.

"We plan to have him in the air at the stroke of midnight," said Guy Gardner, executive producer for Majorplay Ltd., a Biloxi entertainment and event management firm.

Kidd and his crew were in Vicksburg on Friday to look at possible jump sites. At its widest point in the Vicksburg area, the Mississippi is about a mile across.

Sandie spikers best Herd

By JAY PEDEN
Sports Editor

The Amarillo High volleyball team came into Whiteface Gymnasium Tuesday and took a 15-13, 15-7 win over the Lady Whitefaces.

Hereford, which falls to 13-2, was plagued, particularly in the second game, with an inability to score. Hereford was able to gain plenty of sideouts, but didn't always score when it had the serve.

Amarillo High also confused Hereford blockers with a wide variety of sets.

"In the first game, we had our ups and downs, but overall I was pleased with how we handled their quick attacks," Hereford coach Brenda Reeh said. "In the second game, I felt like we got rattled early. We just never got control. We sided out several times but failed to score when we had the serve. That will eventually wear a team down."

"As far as the entire match went, their sets had us off-balance," she said. "They were very successful with several different offensive sets. We seldom see that in 4A."

Amarillo High is in Class 5A and, like Hereford in 4A, went to the state tournament last season.

The first game was close throughout. Hereford held a lead once, at 6-5, but Amarillo High led by one or two points most of the way. Hereford tied it at 13-13 with three points in a row—two on Danielle Cornelius kills and one on a Sandie error—but Amarillo High gained a sideout with a kill after a long rally. The Sandies soon ended the game with an ace.

In the second game, AHS pulled away from a 4-4 tie and scored the next nine points, but not all on one run. Hereford had many sideouts during that run, but the Herd couldn't score. Hereford got three straight points to pull within 13-7 but didn't get any closer.

Cornelius led the Herd with eight kills. Michelle Brock had a good night passing with seven serves-passed-to-setter, and Melissa Berend and Deanna McCracken each had six digs.

In the first match of Tuesday's doubleheader, the AHS junior varsity beat the Hereford JV 15-11, 15-6.

In both games, AHS jumped out to big leads and Hereford comebacks fell short: AHS was up 14-4 in the first game and up 11-1 in the second.

It was the same way in Saturday's finals of the Amarillo Junior Varsity tournament, in which AHS beat Hereford 15-11, 15-12 for the title.

"We played well against Amarillo High in the finals, but it was just like tonight (Tuesday): we got behind and couldn't catch up enough," said Herd JV coach Royce Spies.

Hereford beat the Caprock JV 15-11, 13-15, 15-5 in the first round, then beat the Palo Duro JV 15-3, 15-5 in the semifinals.

Cornelius led the Herd in kills in each match of the San Angelo Central Tournament, which Hereford won Saturday, but Katie Young was close behind.

Cornelius had nine kills in the finals against Monahans, while Young had eight. Cornelius had seven in the semis with San Angelo Central, while Young had five. Young and Cornelius tied for the lead with seven kills against Odessa Permian.

Also from the tournament: Kara Sandoval stood out with 11 digs in the Central match.

Hereford's freshmen volleyball teams did well in weekend tournaments, but scores were not available.

The A team finished fourth in the Randall freshmen tournament, and the B team won consolation in the Amarillo freshmen tournament.

Courier, Becker join list of ousted seeds at Open

By BOB GREENE
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - In the beginning, the top half of the men's draw of the U.S. Open read like a Who's Who of tennis. Now it looks like a Who Was.

Courier, the world's No. 1 player and the top seed, is gone.

So, too, is Boris Becker, the 1989 winner and this year's fourth seed.

No. 5 Sergi Bruguera, No. 10 Richard Krajicek, No. 11 Goran Ivanisevic and No. 13 Ivan Lendl. Gone, gone, gone and gone.

Still in the title chase today in the year's final Grand Slam tournament are instant-killers Cedric Pioline of France and Magnus Larsson of Sweden, Wally Masur of Australia and eighth-seeded Andrei Medvedev of Ukraine.

Oh, what a Tuesday it was!

Courier was the first to depart, driven out by the scintillating stroke production of Pioline, the tournament's 15th seed, 7-5, 6-7 (4-7), 6-4, 6-4.

"I was just more consistent and I played very good on the important points, the key points," said Pioline, emulating the effort in 1927 of Rene Lacoste, one of the famed Four Musketeers, who beat No. 1 Bill Tilden in the 1927 U.S. Open final.

After Steffi Graf, the women's top seed, escaped Gabriela Sabatini 6-2, 5-7, 6-1 in a lengthy battle, Becker followed Courier to the sideline, falling to Larsson 6-2, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5.

Those were the headline-grabbers.

But Masur made news when he came back from a 5-0 fifth-set deficit to outlast Jamie Morgan 3-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5 and Medvedev eliminated Becker 6-4, 3-6, 6-1, 7-6 (7-4).

With all the upsets, the top two men's seeds left in the tournament - No. 2 Pete Sampras and No. 7 Michael Chang - face each other tonight in a quarterfinal matchup.

Graf and No. 11 Manuela Maleceva-Fragniere will face each other in a women's semifinal. The match advanced by stopping the remarkable run of unseeded Kimiko

Date of Japan 7-5, 7-5.

Befuddled by Larsson's pressure and his own mistakes, Becker had no problem understanding why he's on the outside looking in.

"I was the opposite of being nervous," he said. "In a fourth-round match at night before a full house, you should be nervous. Today, I was very calm, almost flat out there."

A clay court specialist, Larsson has played only six hardcourt tournaments this year. Yet it didn't seem to matter at the National Tennis Center.

After the Swede took the first two sets, Becker appeared ready to make another of his patented comebacks. But his serve failed him in the end, and he was out-aced by Larsson 15-10. The red-haired German also double faulted eight times to the Swede's one.

"He was a little flat at the beginning," Larsson said. "After two sets, he started to come back. But in the fourth set I made some big shots, and I think that was the key."

"I know he's been down two sets before and come back, and I wasn't taking anything for granted. I have seen it so many times on TV. He always gets better. One or two levels more."

This time was different.

Trailing 6-5 in the fourth set, Becker double faulted to trail 30-15. Two points later, his forehand sailed long by three feet. Then he hit a first serve long by five feet, and finally knocked a forehand wide to lose the match.

Courier's loss was historic. The Australian Open winner, who reached the final of the French Open and Wimbledon, will lose his No. 1 ranking if Sampras reaches the final.

Against Courier, Pioline played an attacking baseline game with just enough forays to the net to keep Courier honest.

"I kept the pressure on him," the Frenchman said. "He made some mistakes that maybe he is not making every day, but I think it is because of the pressure."

Hereford's Rickman takes all-around title at Stinnett

Hereford's Chasity Rickman took all-around cowgirl honors at a Tri-State High School Rodeo Saturday in Stinnett.

Rickman got 29 points from first place finishes in poles and breakaway roping; a second place in barrels and a third place in goat tying.

Justin Henderson also placed in bareback with 69 points, and Misty Meyer was seventh in breakaway roping.

The next rodeo is at Boys Ranch, with performances at 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. Team roping starts at 1 p.m.

Cardinals' Whiten joins great company with monster game: 4 homers, 12 RBI

CINCINNATI (AP)—Gil Hodges, Willie Mays, Mike Schmidt, Bob Horner, Lou Gehrig, Rocky Colavito, Mark Whiten.

Mark Whiten? What's he doing in such company? He belongs there now, and he's got a bag full of baseballs to prove it.

Whiten hit four homers Tuesday night for one of the greatest offensive performances in baseball history. He tied major-league records for most homers in a game, most RBIs in a game (12) and most RBIs in a doubleheader (13) while leading St. Louis to a 15-2 victory over the Cincinnati Reds in the second game of a doubleheader.

The overlooked outfielder became the 12th major leaguer to hit four homers in a game and the first since Horner in 1986. He was the first in 69 years to knock in 12 runs - the Cardinals' Jim Bottomley did it in 1924. And his 13 RBIs in the doubleheader tied Nate Colbert's major-league record of 1972.

It was as unexplainable as it was unexpected. Whiten, a 25-year-old switch hitter known for his defense, had trouble describing the swings that produced the four souvenir baseballs sealed into a plastic bag in his dressing cubicle.

"It's like when Michael Jordan didn't matter what the fans were doing. Didn't even matter that everyone else was frozen by tension as he came to bat in the ninth inning against Rob Dibble with history on the line.

Whiten wasn't nervous. It was just another incredible opportunity on a night that had started with so little promise.

Whiten misplayed Reggie Sanders' line drive to center into a two-run triple in the ninth inning of the opener to give the Reds a 14-13 win. Whiten didn't do anything offensively in that game - 0-for-4 with a bases-loaded walk from Dibble for his only RBI. Somehow, he found "the zone" between games.

He hit his second career grand slam in the first inning off rookie Larry Luebbers (2-4). After fouling out in the fourth, he got to face another rookie - Mike Anderson, making his major-league debut. He hit a three-run homer off Anderson in the sixth and another in the seventh.

"Things were happening so fast. Right there, I was really in the zone and it really didn't matter," Whiten said.

Everyone knew what was on the line when he faced Dibble for the second time of the night in the ninth inning. The few thousand fans left from a crowd of 22,606 stood and cheered Whiten as he dug into the left-handed batters' box.

History was just one more homer away.

"I didn't think about it," Whiten said. "Well, I thought about it when I was on the field, but not once I stepped into the box and put the bat on my shoulder."

And not after Dibble, going through the wildest spell of his career, went to a 2-0 count.

"I thought he was going to pitch around me," Whiten said.

Not a chance. Dibble, who has hit 100 mph on radar guns numerous times, never backs down from a challenge like that.

"I was warming up in the bullpen when he hit the one before that," Dibble said. "I knew I'd probably face him, and I'd give him a chance. I was going to go right after him."

"I knew it was history." Dibble gave Whiten one of his best fastballs, right down the middle. Whiten lined it deep to center - a no-doubter. It was the farthest of the four.

"I was impressed by that one," Whiten said. "It was the best of the four, I think. It was straightaway."

It went 441 feet, by the Reds' estimation, an impressive way to enter the record books.

Avery helps Braves gain on Giants

By The Associated Press

While Mark Whiten of the St. Louis Cardinals was putting on one of the best individual performances in baseball history, the Atlanta Braves inched ever closer to the San Francisco Giants in the NL West.

In the second game of a doubleheader Tuesday night, Whiten became the 12th player to hit four homers in a game and matched the record of 12 RBIs as the Cardinals beat the Cincinnati Reds 15-2.

The Braves' 1-0 victory over Los Angeles, coupled with the Giants' 4-3 loss to Pittsburgh, moved Atlanta within 2 1/2 games of first place. San Francisco's lead hasn't been slimmer since it was two games on May 17.

Steve Avery keyed the Braves' victory with his arm and bat. He pitched eight innings of six-hit ball, doubled in the eighth inning and scored the only run on Jeff Blauser's single off Pedro Astacio (11-8) as Atlanta won for the 22nd time in 27 games.

"I don't know if it's the sign of a championship ballclub, but it's the sign of great pitching," outfielder

David Justice said. "Avery was great. Runs were hard to come by, and he just kept doing it."

When Atlanta manager Bobby Cox wasn't admiring Avery (16-4), he was watching the scoreboard.

"It wouldn't be fun if we weren't," Cox said. "That's the drama of a pennant race."

What he saw was Pittsburgh take the lead for good on Don Slaught's two-run homer in the eighth inning.

After the Giants came back from a 2-0 deficit to lead 3-2 in the sixth on homers by Matt Williams and Royce Clayton, reliever Mike Jackson (6-6) issued a two-out walk to pinch-hitter Dave Clark and allowed Slaught's 10th home run.

"You can't take it back, but that one hurts," Giants manager Dusty Baker said.

Tony Menendez (1-0) pitched 1 1/3 scoreless innings for his first major league victory.

Elsewhere in the NL, Cincinnati and St. Louis split a doubleheader with the Reds winning the first game 14-13 and the Cardinals the second 15-2; Montreal beat Colorado 4-3, Chicago beat Philadelphia 5-4; Houston beat New York 4-3 in 10 innings and San Diego beat Florida 6-4.

Astros 4, Mets 3

Jeff Kent's throwing error on a potential double play in the 10th inning allowed the winning run to score. Kent's homer had given visiting New York a 3-2 lead.

After Houston loaded the bases with one out in the 10th off John Franco (3-3), Steve Finley grounded to shortstop Jeff McKnight, who threw to Kent at second for the force. Rick Parker scored the tying run and Chris James scored the winner when Kent threw wildly past first base.

Todd Jones (1-1) pitched the final two innings.

Expos 4, Rockies 3

Charlie Montoyo's pinch-hit single in his first major league at-bat capped a four-run rally in the seventh inning as host Montreal won for the 11th time in 12 games.

Montoyo, recalled from Class AAA Ottawa earlier Tuesday, helped the Expos pull within 7 1/2 games of first-place Philadelphia in the NL East.

Expos starter Dennis Martinez (14-8) moved within one victory of becoming the seventh pitcher in major league history to win 100 games in each league. The 17-year veteran won 108 games with the Baltimore Orioles.

Marcus Moore (2-1) took the loss.

Cubs 5, Phillies 4

Jose Guzman (12-10) snapped his three-game losing streak as visiting Chicago won its fifth straight.

Phillies starter Ben Rivera (12-8) gave up Chicago's five runs on six hits in four innings.

Padres 6, Marlins 4

Brad Ausmus doubled in the go-ahead run in the sixth as host San Diego ended a five-game losing streak.

With the game tied 4-4, Derek Bell led off the sixth with a single off reliever Luis Aquino (6-8). Ricky Gutierrez singled one out later and Ausmus doubled to score Bell.

Trevor Hoffman (4-5) pitched 2 1/3 scoreless innings of relief against his former teammates.

A's come back to beat Jays

By The Associated Press

It turned out to be just a terrible night for the Toronto Blue Jays.

Not only did their woeful bullpen blow a big lead again, but a player they traded away in June 1991 hit four homers and drove in 12 runs to tie major-league records.

At the SkyDome Tuesday night, the Blue Jays took a 5-0 lead in the first inning against last-place Oakland and went on to lose 11-7 in 11 innings. Despite the devastating loss, Toronto stayed one-half game ahead of New York and two in front of Baltimore as both the Yankees and Orioles lost.

It almost stung as much when the Blue Jays found out Mark Whiten hit four over the wall for St. Louis at Cincinnati in the second game of a doubleheader. Toronto general manager Pat Gillick traded Whiten to Cleveland on June 27, 1991, along with pitcher Denis Boucher and outfielder Glenallen Hill for knuckleballer Tom Candiotti and outfielder Turner Ward. Earlier this season, the Indians traded Whiten to the Cardinals.

The Blue Jays, however, are more concerned with the present and their inability to beat losing teams lately.

"Blowing a 6-1 lead is uncalled for," Toronto pitcher Al Leiter said. "I didn't do my job and that's frustrating."

After a 4-6 road trip to the West Coast, the Blue Jays hoped they could solidify their slim lead in the East by playing the A's and California Angels, both sub-.500 teams.

With the score 6-6, Jerry Browne hit a pinch-hit double to drive in the go-ahead run in the 11th off Tony Castillo (3-1). The A's (53-83) tacked on four more runs.

Rick Honeycutt (1-4) worked one scoreless inning for the victory as the Athletics won for just the second time in their last 17 games.

Elsewhere in the AL it was Texas 5, New York 4; Seattle 3, Baltimore 2; Boston 4, Chicago 3; Detroit 10, California 6; and Minnesota 6, Cleveland 0.

Rangers 5, Yankees 4

Gary Redus' RBI single in the eighth inning broke a tie and lifted Texas over New York at Arlington. The victory, coupled with Boston's win over Chicago, moved Texas within five games of the first-place White Sox in the AL West.

Doug Strange led off the eighth with a double off Paul Assenmacher (2-2). Pinch-hitter Doug Dascenzo bunted in front of the plate and the ball rolled off the glove of Assenmacher. Don Mattingly's throw to first was too late to get Dascenzo and Strange moved to third before Redus singled.

Cris Carpenter (1-1) allowed one run and a hit over 1 1/3 innings and Tom Henke pitched the ninth for his 33rd save.

Red Sox 4, White Sox 3

Mo Vaughn and Bob Melvin each hit two-run homers as Boston defeated Chicago at Comiskey Park.

Dallas player shines in place of slain teammate

By JAIME ARON
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) - DaShon Peck transferred to Dallas Adamson expecting to play alongside all-district running back Jerome Gordon.

But the day before the season opener, Gordon was shot and killed during an early morning argument. Peck was left to mourn the loss of a good friend - and replace him in the backfield.

He did a great job on each, rushing for 149 yards and two touchdowns to lead the Leopards to a 28-6 victory over Fort Worth Polytechnic. The performance earned Peck the top spot on the season's first Associated Press honor roll.

"He's trying to find positives by helping himself and his teammates stay focused and out of trouble," said

Adamson coach James Argenti. "He tells the other guys to be in the right place at the right time and to stay away from the bad stuff going on in society."

Peck can be a role model to his teammates in many ways. He has a 3.9 grade point average, he's a member of the National Honor Society and he has art work hanging in Dallas' City Hall.

Other stellar individual performances last weekend included: -Junior quarterback Jason Carter completed 16 of 30 passes for 332 yards and three touchdowns as Lufkin, which went 1-9 last year, beat perennial playoff contender Beaumont Central 25-18.

-El Paso Jesus Chapel handed perennial six-man power Fort Hancock its first regular-season loss, 46-38, since 1986 behind 314 yards and six touchdowns by David Moore. -Harper opened its second season in Class A by matching its 1992 victory total behind a 50-yard interception return for a touchdown by Scott Fielder in a 6-0 victory over Leakey.

-Dalhart's James Harris accounted for 36 points in a 62-28 victory over Boys Ranch. He scored on touchdown runs of 51, 36, 9 and 6 yards, returned a kickoff 86 yards for another touchdown and kicked six extra points.

-Emilio Salcido defeated El Paso Ysleta 24-0. His El Paso Burges teammates helped, of course, but Salcido scored all the points on touchdown runs of 2, 17 and 59 yards. He also kicked three extra points and a 37-yard field goal.

-Anthony Schlichler of Orangefield returned two kickoffs for scores and had six touchdowns in a 48-23 victory over Hardin. Two scores came on kickoff returns of 80 and 81 yards. He had two 3-yard scoring runs and others from 4 and 40 yards.

-In Quanah's 41-0 victory over Mangum, Okla., Germont Jackson scored three times: on a 90-yard kickoff return, an 85-yard touchdown run and on a 14-yard reception.

-Ranger ended a 29-game losing streak with a 34-31 victory over Millsap, paced by 385 yards passing and five touchdowns from quarterback Todd Hatton. John David Johnson caught 11 of Hatton's passes for 231 yards and four touchdowns.

-Sophomore linebacker Aisali Faapouli shined in his first varsity game, recording 12 tackles, recovering two fumbles and returning an interception 32 yards in Killen's 21-19 victory over San Angelo Central.

-Another sophomore standout was Brett Parrish, who had three interceptions in his first start to help New Braunfels Canyon defeat Leander 27-7. Two of the interceptions came on the Cougars' 10- and 1-yard lines.

-Yet another soph star was Chad Avants of Mabank, who recovered two fumbles, had nine solo tackles and returned a blocked punt 12 yards for a touchdown in a 47-18 victory over Grapeland.

-Cedric Hodge rushed for 278 yards and touchdown runs of 84, 65 and 5 yards as Kemp rallied from a 17-point deficit for a 26-20 victory over Clifton.

-Burkeville's Damon Spikes made the most of 10 carries, turning them into 266 yards including touchdown runs of 64 and 2 yards in a 27-12 victory over Deweyville.

-Danny Nieves rushed for 243 yards and three touchdowns in Corpus Christi Tuloso-Midway's 48-14 victory over CC West Osco.

-Arlington Lamar's Jeff McCall preserved a 24-22 victory Richardson Lake Highlands by recovering a fumble on Lamar's 10-yard line with less than three minutes remaining. He also had 10 tackles and a sack.

A&M's Thomas finds spotlight

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) - It was Rodney Thomas' chance to shine and he didn't miss the spotlight.

Thomas stepped into the starting tailback position for suspended starter Greg Hill and rushed for a career-high 201 yards on 25 carries and scored on an 80-yard run Saturday, jolting the No. 5 Texas A&M Aggies past LSU 24-0.

He earned the appreciation of his offensive line and also earned The Associated Press Southwest Conference offensive player of the week honor.

Although the Rice Owls lost to No. 16 Ohio State 34-7, safety Nathan Bennett did his part to turn back the Buckeyes with an interception, a pass defensed and 13 tackles to earn defensive player of the week honors.

Thomas and redshirt freshman Leeland McElroy filled in with flare for the Aggies. McElroy caught touchdowns of 26 and 58 yards and rushed for 30 yards on six carries.

"Those guys make our job a lot easier," offensive tackle Dexter Wesley said. "You just have to give them a crease and they can take it to the house without the defense even knowing it."

Thomas is ranked among the top running backs in the country but he's had to play second string to Hill, who rushed 1,339 yards last season, an average of 112 yards per game.

"We all have our own running styles but I think we complement each other," Thomas said. "We're in a good situation, coming off two championships. We just go out there and try to have a little fun."

Thomas' fun last Saturday came on his 80-yard run. He used his strength to get through the line, then turned on his speed for a sprint to the goal line.

Thomas rushed 894 yards on 154 carries and scored 13 touchdowns as a backup last season.

As Rice coach Fred Goldsmith sifted through Saturday's loss, he found Bennett among the brightest performers.

"He was making tackles all over the field," Goldsmith said. "He was flying around and making plays with no recklessness. He looked like the roadrunner. He feels comfortable and knows exactly what to do."

Goldsmith thinks more of Bennett's teammates should play like him. Bennett just preferred the victory.

"I was pleased with my effort. I made a lot of plays," Bennett said. "I only remember a couple of mistakes. Basically I had a good game but it was just a consolation prize. I'd rather have won the game."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Thank you for printing the letter from "Trouble in Toledo," whose husband of 26 years is experiencing an outbreak of genital herpes. She wanted to know if it was possible for her husband to have contracted herpes without having had an affair. You said it was unlikely but possible.

The American Social Health Association would like to offer some additional insights into this woman's situation. Symptoms of herpes usually develop within two to 20 days after contact with the virus, although it may take far longer. In some people, the herpes virus causes a first attack so mild that it goes unnoticed. In other words, Ann, it is possible that "Trouble's" husband had a primary outbreak so mild that he carried a dormant infection for several years without knowing it, and the stress of serving in Desert Storm may have caused the virus to reactivate.

In addition, sometimes people contract genital herpes from contact with a cold sore during oral sex. (They never consider this the source of genital herpes because they don't associate cold sores with herpes simplex virus). There are many possible explanations, including the ones you suggested in your response to "Trouble." The problem is, it's often impossible to know.

Many thousands of your readers

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) - Dennis Weaver and his wife, Gerry, put their home up for sale to move to a solar-powered Colorado house made of recycled cans and tires.

Weaver, who played Chester Goode in "Gunsmoke" and Sam McCloud in "McCloud," recently created the Institute of Ecconomics, a fund-raising organization for environmental projects. He also is a director of ECO, or Earth Communications Office, a non-profit activist group.

The new home, on 22 acres near Telluride, has nearly 10,000 square feet and 3-foot-thick walls that keeps the temperature at a cozy 65 to 75 degrees inside without heating or air conditioning.

"He loves to work in the garden, and they even grow food inside," said the actor's spokeswoman, Alice Billings.

have genital herpes infection, Ann. For all of them, the issues surrounding this infection are deeply felt and complicated. Please tell them that help is available. The American Social Health Association provides pamphlets, tapes, books, telephone counseling and referral services to people concerned about herpes.

For free, confidential information, please ask your readers to send $1 (for postage and handling) to: ASHA/HRC, Dept. A., P.O. Box 13827, Research Triangle Park, N.C. 27709. Sincerely—Peggy Clarke, executive director, American Social Health Association

DEAR PEGGY: Your letter is going to be a boon to thousands of readers who had no idea what to do or who to turn to. Thanks for all the good you did today.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I desperately need your help. My husband insists that his share of responsibilities is to bring home the paycheck and EVERYTHING else that needs to be done is my responsibility.

Besides taking care of 2-year-old twins and a 6-year-old, I have to do all house and yard work, take care of all the shopping, handle all the bills, oversee all repairs, write his parents once a month, etc. You name it, and it's my job.

A few times a year, he will do the big projects. Last fall, he used a power washer to clean our decks and stairs, but I had to seal them. I raked the leaves last fall, but he wouldn't help me bag them, so most of the leaves are still out there.

My husband is a busy executive and works long, hard, stressful hours. But shouldn't he still have some regular chores around here? Please survey other busy execs and find out what chores they do regularly. My husband insists that all households are this way. I say that's a lot of applesauce.—Lake Oswego, Ore.

DEAR OSWEGO: The absence of harmony and genuine friendship in your marriage is apparent. You feel he is not doing his share, and he thinks he is. I suggest joint counseling.

It would be worth the money to hire a little help since you sound overworked. Weekends, your husband should assist with the children. It would be a relief for you and build closer family ties.

Prepare your wall before wallpapering

By READER'S DIGEST BOOKS For AP Special Features

Once you've selected your wallpaper and assembled the tools you'll need, wall preparation is the next step in wallpapering. Remember that the condition of your walls makes a big difference in the final look. Walls should be clean, smooth and sound.

Strip the old covering from the wall if possible; however, if it's in fairly good condition and firmly stuck to the wall, you can leave it on.

Remove Old Wallpapering Remove wallpapering that's peeling or has more than two layers, and vinyl covering that strips off easily. Old covering must be removed if you are hanging vinyl. Otherwise it will pull the old covering off when it dries. If a wallpapering is strippable vinyl, you can remove it by simply grasping a corner and peeling it off.

To remove a nonstrippable wallpapering, score it with a utility knife or razor blade. Then apply chemical wallpaper remover, or a solution of equal parts vinegar and hot water, with a sponge or spray bottle until it is wet but not dripping. Or rent an electric steamer which you hold against the paper until the steam softens the adhesive. As soon as the glue is loosened, scrape the paper from the wall; be careful not to gouge the surface.

Wash, Dry and Seal Well After removing the old wallpapering, wash the walls with warm water and scrape off any remaining glue with a putty knife. Rinse and allow the walls to dry thoroughly.

Next, seal the wall surfaces; otherwise they will draw water from the paste and weaken the adhesion. Alkyd primer-sealer is usually recommended for vinyls and foils because they don't adhere well to latex coatings. Or apply wallpaper sizing, a glue designed to seal and form a base for wallpaperings. Apply it with a roller just like paint.

Painting Paint the ceiling and trim before you paper a room. It is easier to wipe paste off fresh paint than to remove paint splatters from new wallpaper.

Remember Grandparents' Day

Showing appreciation for Grandpa and Grandma is important and fun to do any day of the year with a letter, a visit, or a phone call. But your kids might think it's extra special to show how much they care this Sunday, Sept. 12, National Grandparents' Day.

If grandparents live far away, send a cassette recording of your children reading a favorite story to them. Then let the kids tell a bit about what's been happening in their lives. Brothers and sisters, as well as Mom and Dad, can get involved to record a favorite song, too. Grandma and Grandpa will love to hear a chorus of voices.

For grandparents close by, reading a story together is one of the best activities to share with one another. Your kids can make a special bookmark for their grandparents to remind them of the pleasurable and memorable time they spend reading.

To make a bookmark, cut a strip of cardboard 1 1/2 inches wide and 4 inches long. (Light cardboard that comes with new shirts is perfect.) Glue a 1 x 1 inch copy of your child's school photo at the top of the bookmark. Write a message on the bottom half such as "From your No. 1 reader, with love" or "Here's a picture of your reading partner to remind you that reading TOGETHER is the most fun." Color the edges or decorate the bookmark with stickers.

On Grandparents' Day, bring along a book or two to enjoy reading together. Invite Grandma or Grandpa to read the more difficult book to their grandchild. Then reverse roles and let Grandma or Grandpa be the audience as your child reads a second book aloud. The grandparents may keep the bookmark for future "read alouds."

After the Revolutionary War, Florida was the only part of Southeastern North America that did not belong to the United States.

Make reading fun for kids

Did you know that children who read for fun in their spare time have higher reading achievement levels than those who do not? Or that 13 percent of the nation's teenagers join the ranks of the illiterate each year?

To help make reading fun and educational for your youngsters and to encourage them to read books throughout their childhood, here are five simple tips:

-Set aside a special time of day for family reading. It may be before a nap, after dinner, at bedtime—whatever works for your family.

-Personalize stories by substituting your child's name for one of the characters. It's okay to shorten or skip over parts or add your own details to the story.

-Let your children choose the books. They're more likely to read and enjoy books they select for themselves. Let them choose books for you to read aloud, too.

-Show an interest in what your youngsters read. Ask if they enjoy the book, or which character or part they like best.

-Take your children to the library regularly. The librarian can help them find and check out books they will enjoy. Ask about story hour.

A family tradition...

Explanation of Conversion from County Education District Taxes

County Education Districts have been abolished. In order to compare school tax rates from last year to this year, it is necessary to compare the combined school tax rate below to the school district's proposed tax rate for this year.

Last year the HEREFORD ISD School District's tax rate was .30.

Last year the DEAF SMITH County Education District's tax rate was .939.

The combined School District and County Education District tax rate was 1.239.

The proposed tax rate for HEREFORD ISD School District for this year is 1.239.

This notice is required by the Texas Legislature.

*The percentage increase shown in the first paragraph below may appear unusually high because it does not reflect 1992 taxes levied by the now-abolished county education district (CED). In 1992, the CED levied a portion of the taxes used for school purposes, and the school district levied the remainder of school taxes. In 1993, school districts will levy all school taxes. For an explanation of the increase, attend the public hearing scheduled below or call your school district.

Notice of Public Hearing on Tax Increase

The HEREFORD ISD will hold a public hearing on a proposal to increase total tax revenues from properties on the tax roll in 1992 by 305.3 percent. Your individual taxes may increase at a greater or lesser rate, or even decrease, depending on the change in the taxable value of your property in relation to the change in taxable value of all other property.

The public hearing will be held on September 15, 1993 at Administration Office - 4 p.m. FOR the proposal: (Ron Weishaar, Steve Wright, Raymond Schlabs, Raul Valdez, Mike Veazey, AGAINST the proposal: None PRESENT and not voting: None ABSENT: None

The statement above shows the percentage increase the proposed rate represents over the EFFECTIVE tax rate that the unit published on 8-24-93. The following table compares taxes on an average home in this taxing unit last year to taxes proposed on the average home this year. Again, your individual taxes may be higher or lower, depending on the taxable value of your property.

	Last Year County Education District	Last Year School District	This Year School District
Average home value	$ 50,000	$ 50,000	$ 50,000
General exemptions available (Amount available on the average home, not including senior citizen's or disabled person's exemptions)	$ 15,000	$ 5,000	$ 5,000
Average taxable value	$ 35,000	$ 45,000	$ 45,000
Tax rate	$ .939	.30 /$100	1.239/$100 (proposed)
Tax	$ 328.65	$ 135.00	$ 557.55 (proposed)
Total 1992 School Taxes	$ 463.65	Total 1993 School Taxes	$ 557.55 (proposed)

This paragraph compares last year's CED and school district taxes with this year's proposed school district taxes:

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would increase by $93.90 or 20.25 percent compared with last year's total school taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the tax rate would not change by $ -0- per $100 of taxable value or -0- percent compared to last year's total school tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.

This paragraph compares last year's school district tax with this year's proposed school district taxes:

Under this proposal taxes on the average home would increase by $ 422.55 or 313 percent compared with last year's school district taxes. Comparing tax rates without adjusting for changes in property value, the school district tax rate would increase by $ .939 per $100 of taxable value or 313 percent compared to last year's school district tax rate. These tax rate figures are not adjusted for changes in the taxable value of property.
