HISD rewards 'perfect' kids

Students with perfect attendance in Hereford's public schools are, for the third consecutive year, receiving special rewards.

Perfect attendance is especially important in October, because attendance this month is what the Texas Education Agency uses to base funding for the entire school year.

The higher attendance is, the more money the Hereford Independent School District will receive from the state.

Every day missed by a student means there will be less money from the state to fund local education-which leads to either cutbacks or increases in local taxes.

To encourage attendance, each Hereford elementary school is giving children who attend school every day of every week ice cream cups at the end of the school day on Friday.

Students in all Hereford schools who have perfect attendance for the entire month will have their names entered in a drawing, with radios, jamboxes, and other prizes going to students whose names are drawn.

Rescuers near trapped girl

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) - Rescue workers feverishly drilled through solid rock today toward a crying toddler who tumbled into an abandoned backyard well and was trapped more than 20 feet down, officials said. Eighteen-month-old Jessica Mc-Clure had been inside the well since about 9:30 a.m. Wednesday and the effort to retrieve her was still under way early today. 'The emergency room doctor at the scene last night said the baby can last as long as 36 hours. We hope it doesn't take that long," said Midland

Police Cpl. Jim White. "It is solid rock right now. It is pretty slow going," said paramedic David Felice, one of the diggers. He said the girl was getting adequate ox-ygen and was believed to be on her back in a relatively comfortable position.

Rescue workers said it was not known when they would reach the child, and at mid-morning they reported about 8 inches of solid rock still separated them from her.

White said the girl's mother talked to her this morning, and "(Jessica) is still crying and making noise."

"I've known her since she was born - she's rambunctious," said Jessica's uncle, Tommy Johnson of Midland. "She's a fighter."

"Whenever they're drilling she'd cry," he said. "Whenever they quit she goes to sleep."

She slept during the night after heaters were installed to blow warm air into the narrow entrance of the 8-inch-wide well. Jessica was believed to be lying on her back with her knees drawn up in a relatively comfortable position, Felice said.

Gathered around the site were friends and neighbors who waited and prayed with Jessica's mother, Reba Gayle McClure.

Pat Brister, a neighbor, said everyone was confident the child would be rescued. "You don't get tears as long as there is hope."

Rescue workers said the job of drilling through solid rock at the bottom of an alternate shaft was slowed because drill bits they were using were not strong enough to rapidly cut through the solid rock.

One worker said that at times they were only able to drill through a few inches in an hour and at other times they "make pretty good progress."

This morning they appealed for more volunteers to relieve those who had been drilling the tunnel since 11 a.m. Wednesday, about 11/2 hours after the child tumbled in. They also were trying to locate stronger drill

At the bottom of the parallel shaft was a chamber wide enough to be able to lift the child up on a backboard or neck collar after reaching her.

The well, in the backyard of a private day-care center operated by the child's mother and aunt, is about 8 inches in diameter at the top and widens farther down until it narrows to a 6-inch opening below the spot where Jessica came to rest.

Police had reports the well was covered by a large rock or a flower pot. White said that would be a violation of a city ordinance requiring wells to be permanently covered.

Harvest activities in the area have stopped until Saturday or Sunday after some portions of the county picked up over 1.5 inch of rain in storms Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

Officially, Hereford received 1.34 inch, recorded at KPAN, from sprinkles that started about 4 p.m. Wednesday that turned into a downpour for a few minutes Wednesday about 9 p.m.

Unofficial reports in Hereford were around the 1.5 inch mark. Reports varied, through, in portions of the county.

The top report came from the J.E. McCabe farm, two miles east of Dawn, where they received over 1.6 inch of rain. Summerfield Fertilizer recorded 1.1 inch of rain in the western part of the area.

To the south, Easter Grain recorded .95 inch.

West-northwest of Hereford, less rain was picked up. Eldred Brown, at bootleg, recorded a half inch, while Northwest Grain received .55 inch. Dan Hall, near Walcott, recorded just .10 inch, "not enough to help our wheat any at all."

Holly accepts Plum offer

Holly Sugar Corp. today announced it has accepted a bid from New York-based Plum Associates to pay $95 a share in cash in a $106 million plan to acquire control of the com-

The tender offer and the merger agreement have been approved by Holly's board of directors, Holly officials said in a written release.

The announcement came one day after the Colorado-based Holly Sugar Corp., one of the nation's leading sugar producers, postponed its annual stockholders' meeting after receiving a second bid from Imperial Sugar Co. of Sugar Land, Texas.

Plum Associates, a New Yorkbased partnership which alreadys owns about 7.4 percent of the common shares outstanding in Holly, last week made an offer of $91 a share to purchase two-thirds of the beet sugar manufacturer's 1.12 million outstanding shares as a step toward acquiring the entire company.

But Plum Associates increased that offer to $95 a share on Tuesday. A managing partner for L.F. Rothschild & Co., the investment adviser for Plum Associates, perial bid played a role in the $4 dollar per share increase.

"It was a competitive situation," said Franklin Chu, managing partner for Rothschild in New York. "The (Holly) board finally accepted our bid because they felt it was the best package for the shareholders." He estimated the value of the total transaction at $106 million. The cash purchase will be followed by a merger in which each remaining Holly share will be exchanged for 3.8 of a preferred stock of a subsidiary of Plum Associates with a liquidation preference of $25 per share, Holly officials said. The preferred stock will mature on the 16th anniversary of the merger and will not be callable for the first five years after the merger. Imperial, whose offer was set to expire today, offered to pay $68 in cash plus one share of common stock in the combined company for each of Holly's 1.12 million outstanding

Following the merger, the stock in the combined company would be sold acknowledged today that the Im- to an employee stock ownership plan for $29 a share, giving the offer an indicated value of $108.6 million.

Sugar industry analysts said it was difficult to place a precise value on Imperial's offer.

Today's announcement was made jointly by Charles Azarow, president and chief executive officer of Holly, and Peter R. Harvey, a partner in Plum Associates.

"We believe the merger of Holly Sugar and Plum Associates is in the best interest of the company and all its shareholders, its employees and growers," Azarow said.

In its original proposal, Plum said its intention upon acquiring Holly "is to leave operating management substantially intact and to provide the key managers with appropriate performance and equity incentive to maximize the long-term value of the business."

That intention has not changed,

In the written release, Harvey said, "We look forward to joining with the current management team at Holly Sugar."

Plum Associates is a partnership formed by Harvey, Solo Management Inc., and Schnittman & Schnittman to invest in Holly Sugar.

Chu said Plum agreed to extend its offer through Tuesday to allow Holly directors time to respond. The offer was set to expire Monday morning. Holly's board of directors considered the two bids in a closed meeting Tuesday afternoon. For the year ended March 31, Holly earned $4.9 million, or $4.38 a share on sales of $317.1 million.

The company has been the target of a series of failed buyout bids this year. One offer collapsed in August when the company's former chairman, Michael S. Buchsbaum, postponed a $134 million bid following death threats against him and his

The Holly offer is the second $100 million takeover bid in a year for Harvey, who is president of Artra Group Inc. Artra, a medical and consumer products firm based in Northfield, Ill., last November acquired the Sargent-Welch Scientific Company for $100.

The first time I saw his work was in Muleshoe, when I was in Dimmitt. Muleshoe had always been a whipping boy for Dimmitt. We had a very bad team my senior year, but we beat Muleshoe like Buddy Rich beating drums.

Muleshoe used to have about 18 kids on the varsity team. They were in the old 3A, what's 4A now. They not only didn't have enough on the varsity to scrimmage, but they had to combine their freshman and other underclassmen for one team to be fielded.

When Oral, I mean Don, arrived, he walked the halls, did a little recruiting down on the drag, and had about 500 kids, it seemed out for football in Muleshoe.

Dimmitt went over to play Muleshoe, which was now in Dimmitt's district, and it was a close game just before the half. Muleshoe was driving the ball, and had no time

The Mules completed a pass with about 10 seconds left in the half. It was enough for a first down, which stopped the clock for about 10 seconds to move the chains.

Don ordered his field goal team-11 players he had gathered next to him on the sideline-onto the field. The ball was snapped, just before the clock went all zeroes, and the field goal was good. I was supposed to be doing play-by-play on the radio. All I said was "hubba-duh-hubbaduh-hubba-duh."

'Course, from what I know now, Don was probably just saying, "Hubba, hubba."

Don finally got the Mules, those lowly Mules, into the playoffs, and left them a successful program to come rebuild things at Hereford.

derable personal energy and Under the 1964 reform bill, an siderable personal energy and resources at his disposal, H. Ross Perot is trying to convince Texans that the State Board of Education referendum is the most important item on the Nov. 3 ballot.

"The voters, by and large, look upon this as a yawn," he told an Austin Chamber of Commerce luncheon Tuesday.

"I'm worried that college graduates will have trouble finding it on the ballot."

Perot offered voters a map to Referendum 1, in which Texans will decide whether to keep the appointed State Board of Education or return to an elected panel.

"It's right above horse racing," he said.

Perot said the 1984 school reforms he helped usher through the Legislature could die if the appointed board, also established in 1984, is abolished. The old 27-member elected board was replaced with a 15-member board appointed by the governor, working from nominees you can't get upset."

"They really believed the world is flat." he said. He told reporters that the districts in which board candidates would run are as big as Pennsylvania.

"It's a bottom-of-the-ballot item. You go around and talk to people that you personally woul dhave confidence in as board members and they are not about to spend the huge sums of money it would take to run for a bottom-of-the-ballot item,". Perot said.

"So you wind up with the Flat Earth Society, the pet rock crowd, so on and so forth," he said.

State delays decision on new area prisons

AUSTIN (AP) - Thirty-three Texas communities that want a state prison probably will have to wait until November to find out if they will get one, says a Texas Department of Corrections spokesman.

The Texas Board of Corrections has called a Monday meeting to discuss prison construction, but spokesman Charles Brown said Wednesday the discussion will be limited to privately built and operated prisons.

The for-profit prisons, Texas' first, are part of the state's plan in the continuing battle against overcrowding in the 38,000-inmate system. The Legislature approved the concept earlier this year.

Rider Scott, general counsel to Gov. Bill Clements, said the private prisons would be similar to proposed state-built pre-release centers. FOur 500-bed private prisons are planned.

"They will take inmates who are soon to return to society and give them intensive training and education and help re-orient them with their famlies and help them find jobs," Scott said.

The Legislative Budget Board on Tuesday cleared the way for prison board consideration of private prison bids by setting $41.67 per prisoner per day as the state cost of running such prisons. Under the legislation approved this year, private prisons must operate at a cost of no more than 90 percent of the state cost.

Scott said private prisons could open as soon as fall 1988.

The big economic prize sought by the 33 communities is a 2,250-inmate medium and maximum security prison planned by TDC. Also planned are up to four, 500-bed pre-release centers to be built by the state.

Community interest in getting a prison is a change from past years when prison officials had difficulty finding areas that would accept a penitentiary.

"It's economics, I think," prison board Chairman Al Hughes of Austin said of the change of heart. "There's a tremendous amount of employment based around a prison system."

Hughes is on the board's site selection committee which is reviewing the applications.

Brown predicted no decisions would be made until after the Nov. 3 general election. Voters will decide whether to approve the issuance of $200 million in general obligation bonds to pay for new prisons. If the proposal fails, the money would be raised through the sale of revenue bonds, which cost the state more because they carry a higher in-

Gramm-Rudman cuts begin anew

WASHINGTON (AP) - The impact of $23 billion in spending cuts threatened by the Gramm-Rudman budget law is coming into focus with the release of the first official figures on how government programs would be hit.

The $23 billion in deficit reduction was aimed at reducing the government's red ink to $144 billion in the fiscal year that began Oct. 1, more than $10 billion below last year's

But the new CBO estimates show the fiscal 1988 deficit at $179.3 billion before the cuts are made. That's about $4 billion below the nonpartisan agency's last projection two months ago but still would leave more red ink than the law promised.

The lower deficit estimate is largely the result of some cost-cutting changes in Medicare regulations and President Reagan's decision to limit federal pay raises to 2 percent next

The CBO figures are just preliminary, a yardstick for Congress to monitor the final decisions made by the Reagan administration under the law's guidelines. The administration's preliminary estimates are due Oct. 20.

The spending cuts won't become permanent until Nov. 20. Democrats in the House and Senate have been working to come up with alternative budget proposals before that date.

However, Weaver's attorney says Lucas has nothing to be concerned about because his client owns no such manuscript. The attorney, Ron Yandell of Wichita Falls, said Wednesday the only Lucas papers he knows of are notes Weaver wrote himself while a jailer in Montague County in 1983.

"He doesn't have the right to sell my stuff," said Lucas, who in 1983 confessed to some 600 murders but later recanted all but one of the con-

U.N. Security Council decided to endorse today a proposal linking a cease-fire in the Iran-Iraq war to several other peace moves, sources say. The plan could remove a major obstacle to a truce in the 7-year-old

The endorsement is contained in a four-paragraph text worked out by the 15 council members in confidential negotiations over the past two weeks, said the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The proposal, formulated by the U.N. secretary-general, is significant because it contains elements that have been supported by Iran. The government of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini did not embrace an earlier U.N. cease-fire proposal, which Iraq had backed.

The text, which needs only formal approval, marks the first time the council has stated its view on the timing of peace moves in the 7-year-old Persian Gulf war.

The peace steps were spelled out in a Security Council resolution passed July 20, but the sequence of their implementation was not specified. Differences on the sequence became the principal problem in getting Iran and Iraq to stop fighting. The new Security Council document makes no mention of any threat of sanctions, indicating the United States lost its drive to have the council warn it would impose a worldwide arms embargo on whichever side didn't comply with the U.N. peace

CANYON - A Hereford native is among the 26 former West Texas State University students who began studying at health profession in tions this fall.

Beverly D. Nixon is enrolled at the College of Osteopathic Medicine in Missouri. She graduated from Hereford High School in 1980 and received bachelor of science degrees in biology and chemistry in 1985.

Students are also enrolled at the University of Texas Medical School at Houston, University of Texas Medical School at San Antonio, Baylor College of Medicine at Houston, Texas College of Osteopathic Medicine, University of Texas at Austin graduate school, University of Houston College of Optometry, University of Texas Dental School at San Antonio, St. Anthony's Hospital and Northwest Texas Hospital in Amarillo, Texas Tech Universith Health Sciences Center School of Medicine in Lubbock and University of British Columbia School of Medicine.

Doug Bingham, chairman of the WT Health Professions Advisory Committee, said he is "very pleased" with this year's results.

"We got 100 percent of our dental applicants in and 80 percent of our medical applicants in. We're doing significantly better than the national average almost in all areas," he

The current national average of universities placing students in health profession institutions is 51 percent in medical schools and 78 percent in dental schools, he said.

Bingham, associate professor of biology, attributes the high placement rate to the advising students receive. Professors in the preprofessional departments begin advising those students considering medical or dental school as soon as possible. As a result, some students may discover they're better suited for medical or dental technology schools, rather than medical or dental schools.

A five-member committee actively advises an average of 100 students per year, Bingham said. Also, they fill out the evaluation forms that accompany students' applications.

A "hodge-podge mixture" characterizes this year's crop of WT graduates in medical and dental schools in terms of age variation. Bingham said the filtering down of an Equal Opportunity standard - no age discrimination - has opened the door for older-than-average applicants like Leonard G. Nepper from Amarillo. Nepper received a bachelor of science degree in biology in 1973 and a bachelor of science in nursing in 1976, both from WTSU.

Now You're Cooking

When Tracey Duncan of 145 N. Texas cooks, it is often a family

"We are a cooking family. My husband. David, is a better cook than I am, and our sons are learning to cook since they see their Dad in the kit-chen," she laughed. "I am a sporadic cook; lately I've been in a baking mood, but I always enjoy collecting Preparing Mexican food is Duncan's favorite type of cooking.

"I've finally perfected a flat type of enchilada with a fried egg on top and David makes the best flour tortillas anywhere by using part wholewheat flour and part unbleached flour. He also makes bread, and he has started experimenting with Oriental cooking," she added.

Residents of Hereford for the past six years, the Duncans moved from Manteca, Calif., after living in Colorado Springs, Colo. She is a native of Farmington, N.M. while he is a native of Clovis, N.M.

"David went to work right after college 15 years ago with Holly Sugar; he is the local plant's assistant fac-tory manager," she said. "We met in Portales, N.M. while attending Eastern New Mexico University. I graduated with a business degree and he received his masters degree in chemistry."

According to Duncan, the move to Hereford was the easiest of all the relocations. "The people here are so kind and friendly, and with David's parents in Clovis only 50 miles away. we felt like we were coming home."

Upon moving to Hereford, the homemaker became involved in various organizations. "I served as second vice-president of Newcomers Club for two years and I have remained semi-active with the Bud to som Garden Club," she said. But after Lark arrived, I knew I had to get my priorities straight and I am not as active in other clubs." The Duncans are the parents of two sons, Tyson, age nine; Toby, age seven; and a daughter, Lark, 14-months-old.

In addition to family obligations, Duncan notes: "My relationship with the Lord is the most important thing in my life; He is the center of my life." The family attends the Church of the Nazarene.

As for hobbies, Duncan enjoys sewing, needlepoint, and gardening. "I put more emphasis on the people around me; I'm not a true hobby person. I really enjoy being around peo-

Perhaps Duncan's outgoing personality is reflected in her choice of recipes. In keeping with the approaching cooler weather, Duncan's recipes are seasonal and according to her, "real crowd pleasers. My Harvest Loaf recipe is unique as it combines pumpkin and chocolate chips and men seem to love the Tang Spread, which can be used on the Harvest Loaf and other fruit breads. Gauchos is a complete meal-we once invited friends over for Monday night football and served it then." Following are these recipes:

HARVEST LOAF

1/2 c. butter 1 c. sugar % c. pumpkin pie filling 1 tsp. baking soda 1/2 tsp. salt 2 tsp. pumpkin pie spice % c. chocolate chips % c. pecans 2 c. flour

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have a puzzle for you. Most women need to take calcium to prevent osteoporosis. But my doctor is concerned because my calcium level is too high, rather than too low. He told me not to take done a lot of blood tests and asked osteoporosis. me to come back in six weel more tests.

I'm 68 years old and have never been ill. He even said something about an operation if my calcium level didn't go down. I don't understand this and really thought it would be good to have a high calcium level to protect my bones. Any information would be appreciated.

DEAR READER: Under normal circumstances, even when a person is consuming a lot of calcium, the blood calcium level is fairly constant. If there is a need to elevate the blood calcium level, more calcium is simply taken out of the bones. That is actually what happens in osteoporosis. Since there is not enough calcium absorbed, in order to maintain the right blood level of calcium, some calcium is taken from the bones. Then the bones start

Versus Dumas in another must-win contest

Herd plays homecoming game Friday

By GARY CHRISTENSEN Sports Editor

It's homecoming week at Hereford High School, and part of the festivities will be another in a series of must-win football games --Hereford versus Dumas on Friday at 7:30 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

The Whitefaces are 2-2 in District 1-4A games, having won two straight after suffering a defeat and having a district win forfeited. The visiting Dumas Demons are 0-3 in the district after winning a pair of non-district Tonight's battle at Lubbock between Canyon and Lubbock Estacado has no bearing on the Whitefaces' season, as Coach Don Cumpton pointed out: "That game doesn't really affect us. Our destiny is still like it has been.

"Our backs are to the wall. We've got to win the rest of the way, and if we do, we'll have an excellent chance for the playoffs. We're just thinking about Dumas now."

The preparations for Friday's game include strategies to stop

Dumas running back Cliff Williams and quarterback Kacey Cain.

"We're going to play against the best running back we've faced so far this season. He's had more than 100 yards rushing in almost every game," Cumpton said.

"Dumas' record doesn't indicate how good they are. We must be prepared mentally and physically to play Dumas. This game is critical. We can't look past this game. We can't go into it with the wrong frame of mind," Cumpton adds.

The district losses that Dumas has are 20-17 to Levelland, 62-19 to Canyon, and 33-12 to Lubbock Estacado. Hereford is coming off a 28-6 victory over Levelland in which the Whitefaces raced to a 28-0 halftime

"I thought we executed very well offensively in the first half. We feel like we're improving every time we go out on the field," Coach Cumpton

"We've been real happy the last two weeks with our overall execution on offense and defense. Defensively, we're getting to the ball real well. Offensively, we're executing well, but we turned the ball over two times last week," he continues.

"I was happy also with our overall kicking game," he adds, noting that Chris Bullard averaged about 40 yards per punt. Bullard's punts included a 53-yarder and a 48-yarder.

Six Hereford defensive players each recorded a quarterback sack against Levelland - Edward Martinez, Derrell Page, Russell Brownlow, Adam Reyna, Karl Schumacher, and Billy Burnam. Michael Phibbs had two tackles for losses, and Keith Brown and Pat Rhodes each had one tackle for a

Since every game is a must-win game, the progress offensively and defensively is of course very important in the Whitefaces' climb toward a playoff berth. Hereford is averaging about 300 yards total offense, while opponents have averaged 190 yards against the Herd defense.

In the all-time series between Hereford and Dumas, the Demons hold a 21-15 advantage over the Whitefaces - but Hereford has won three of the last four games between the two schools.

Hereford beat Dumas 28-22 last year. The two schools played in 1976 and 1977, with Hereford walloping Dumas 52-12 in 1976 and Dumas beating Hereford 36-25 in 1977. Hereford scored a 21-7 win over Dumas in 1971.

Hereford defeated Dumas in the first 10 games played between in 1934 and from 1939 to 1948. Dumas won 15 straight over Hereford from 1956 to

NEW YORK (AP) - The largest

"We would be willing to return to work. We would be willing to play under the 1982 agreement," Upshaw said. "But everything must expire February 1. If we took their agreement, all the rights under the standard player contract would vest for an additional year, so we're not going to have that."

Is NFL strike winding down?

Among Wednesday's defectors were such stars as Lawrence Taylor, Steve Largent, Ozzie Newsome and Andre Tippett, with the prospect of Eric Dickerson, Jim Everett and 11 of their Los Angeles Rams teammates reporting today.

Upshaw, while minimizing the numbers, conceded the defections were having an effect, particularly if a full team like Washington were to cross the line. He noted that 16 Cleveland Browns reported Wednesday and they play Cincinnati, with only two defectors, on Sunday.

"If you consider one full genuine team, say the Cleveland Browns playing the Cincinnati scabs, I don't think that would be very fair and wouldn't be good for competitive balance or for the integrity of the game." Upshaw said.

But most of Wednesday's action was on the telephone lines as the union seemed to be running out of both time and support.

The two chief negotiators, Upshaw for the union and Jack Donlan for management, talked twice during the day. Upshaw said he also had had conversations with Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who he said was working "quietly ... behind the scenes."

Donlan also spent the day talking to owners while Upshaw spent much of the late afternoon and evening in conference calls with the 28 player representatives.

But whether the union could get the players back in time to forestall another round of replacement games this weekend was a question.

"There has been progress made," Mike Lynn, general manager of the Minnesota Vikings said Wednesday. "It can be resolved at any time. But time is running out to play this Sunday. I would say if there wasn't anything done tonight, it would be difficult to get the players ready for Sunday."

But one management source cautioned: "There's still a lot of difference of opinion. Everything still has be approved by the owners and there are some who don't want to take the players back without a new contract.

Still, the pressure was on the union.

The 89 players who beat Wednesday's 1 p.m. deadline for reporting brought the total of players who have returned to their teams increased to 228, more than 14 percent of the 1,585 players under union jurisdiction.

In the second half of a doubleheader in 1967, the New York Mets and Chicago Cubs hit 11 home runs between them to tie a major-league record. The Cubs won the game, 18-10.

Pat Ewing of the New York Knicks played his college basketball at Georgetown but was born in Kingston, Jamaica.

More Dallas Cowboys return

By DENNE H. FREEMAN AP Sports Writer

IRVING, Texas (AP) - Starting offensive guard Nate Newton and two wide receivers on injured reserve became the most recent Dallas Cowboys to cross the picket line - and linebacker Garth Jax indicated he would join the team today.

Rumors swirled around the league Wednesday that a resolution to the strike was near at hand, and Jax said the only reason he didn't report with Newton and wide receivers Kelvin Martin and Ray Alexander was because he felt the end of the strike was imminent.

"I talked to someone of high authority and decided I didn't want to go in today if there was a chance of the whole team coming back tomorrow," Jax said Wednesday.

"Nobody has said this, but I would imagine that a lot of players around the NFL have elected to wait until

Players had been told to report by noon Wednesday to qualify for pay this week and to be eligible for this weekend's games. The Cowboys host the Washington Redskins on Monday

Cowboys president Tex Schramm said he did not know of any way barring a major development in the strike - that Jax or other Cowboys could be paid or activated this week if they waited until today to show up.

"If the union sent everyone back to work, that could change the situation. But the way the rule is right now, the deadline is passed," Schramm said.

When Newton, Martin and Alexander reported Wednesday, it brought to 19 the Dallas Cowboys who have crossed the picket line in the 22-day work stoppage. Nine are on injured reserve and 10 are on the Martin, a rookie, was the team's fourth-round draft pick from Boston College. Alexander has Canadian Football League experience.

Only Martin was given a doctor's go-ahead to be available for Monday night's game against the Washington Redskins in Texas Stadium.

Newton underwent arthroscopic knee surgery three weeks ago, and offensive line coach Jim Erkenbeck said he didn't think Newton would be ready to play by Monday. However, if team doctors clear Newton, he will definitely use him, Erkenbeck said.

"I feel like I would have to. He needs the work," the coach said. Newton said said financial obligations became too great for him to stay out. "I didn't want to do it, I hated to do it," Newton said. "I'm just trying to help me and my family. The bottom line is it was what Newton has got to come across until minutes before the noon deadline. Newton strolled into the weight room and weighed himself.

Newton said he didn't decide to

Then he ate a sandwich and made his decision.

"I really wasn't sure what I was going to do until I got here," Newton

Even when he was walking the picket line, Newton said, "you didn't hear me saying that 'scab' stuff. I knew there might come a day that I'd have to walk across, too."

Dallas bolstered its offensive lineman ranks Wednesday by signing free agent veteran George Lilja, who was with the Cleveland Browns in 1983.

HEART DISEASE, CANCER ARE LEADING KILLERS

Heart disease and cancer continued in 1986 to lead the "top 10" causes of death in Texas, together accounting for more than half of all deaths in the state.

According to the Texas Department of Health (TDH), heart disease claimed 39,965 lives, while there were 24,598 cancer deaths, out of a total of 118,637 deaths from all causes last year.

Ranking third and fourth most lethal, cerebrovascular disease and accidents caused 8,283 and 6,992 fatalities.

Completing the top 10 list of death causes were (5). chronic bronchitis, emphsema, asthma, and allied conditions-3,668; (6) pneumonia and influenza-3,499; (7) homicide-2,348; (8)suicide--2,269; (9) diabetes mellitus-1,958; and, (10) certain conditions originating int he perinatal period-1,431. All other causes accounted for 23,606. The list of 10 killers were in the same order as in 1985, with one exception. Homicide edged into the seventh spot ahead of suicide.

The death rate last year was 7.1 per 1,000 population, based on an estimated population of 16,682,000. The 1985 death rate was 7.2.

Individuals can lessen deadly risks of heart disease and cancer, through sound health practices and habits, according to Dr. Robert Bernstein, Commissioner of the Texas Department of Health.

He said that people can benefit from these life-style changes at any age. Young people, Dr. Bernstein said, should be aware that most heart disease in older people is the result of many years of bad habits.

He said that smoking is the single most preventable cause of both heart disease and cancer.

Indicators of possible heart ills such as diabetes, high blood pressure, and tendencies toward obesity usually can be detected and controlled with the help of a physician, Dr. Bernstein said. In addition, high blood cholesterol levels and lack of exercise can be corrected by the individual, he said.

Dr. Bernstein said preventive measures for cancer include: having regular checkups, since early detection is a key to curing cancer; maintaining a proper diet, by avoiding high fat foods and eating more fruits, vegetables, and cereals; using a sunscreen and protective clothing in the sun, since skin cancer is directly related to the amount of exposure to the sun's rays; and avoiding exposure to chemicals and other cancer-causing substances such as tabacco, asbstos, vinyl chlorides, and polychlorinated biphenyls

Mental health should be a concern

For years the American public has been inundated with reasons to stay physically fit. While most people agree with the idea of being aware of physical health, a Texas Christian University psychologist said people must also be aware of their mental

Dr. Hap Klinefelter is particularly concerned with adults who grew up with an alcoholic or drug-abusing parent.

"Anyone who has grown up in a family with substance abuse has been affected by that experience," said Klinefelter. "Even if the substance-abusing parent began recovery when the child was very young or didn't begin abusing drugs or alcohol until the child was in its teens, the person's emotional health was affected."

OTTOMAN TREASURES
ON DISPLAY AT MET
NEW YORK (AP) — The first major exhibition in the United States of the art

from the height of the Ottoman Empire

The Age of Sultan Suleyman the Magnificent — is on view at New York's Metropolitan Museum through Jan. 17, 1988.

The display includes illuminated and illustrated manuscripts from the imperial painting studios, batiles and kaftans from the imperial wardrobe, jewel-encrusted weapons, and decorative objects and ceramics from the reval kilos the royal kilns.

Some 200 objects are featured in the exhibition, most of them from the Topkapi Palace Museum in Istanbul. They were shown at the National Gallery of Art in Washington and the Art Institute of Chicago before moving to the Met.

Twelve of the 39 U.S. vice presidents have become presidents.

Statistics show there is a genetic predisposition to becoming chemically dependent, said Klinefelter. But even if the child does not turn to alcohol or drugs, the effect of his/her childhood environment will show itself in some area of adult life.

"People who grew up in this type of dysfunctional family have learned rules unhealthy communicating," explained Klinefelter. "It's very rigid and inflexible communication."

In addition, Klinefelter said adult children of alcoholics or drug users often exhibit compulsive or destructive behavior including eating disorders, workaholism or a certain level of depression that never totally goes away.

"I must point out that children in this environment develop many strengths, but they do so at the expense of not developing in other areas that are important for them to live a balanced, healthy life," said Klinefelter. "They must realize that they didn't become the person they are overnight, and they can't expect to overcome these problems without a clear understanding of the disease and its effect on their behavioral development."

Six Oilers' players discontinue strike

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) - The solidarity of the striking Houston Oilers has started to crack with six regular players crossing the picket lines to prepare for Sunday's game against New England.

Nose guard Doug Smith had been the only member of the Oilers 45-player roster to cross the striking players' picket line.

He was joined Wednesday by punter Lee Johnson, rookie linebacker Walter Johnson, offensive lineman Doug Williams. kicker Tony Zendejas, defensive end Ray Childress and first round draft choice Haywood Jeffires.

Jeffires was the lone returning regular who would comment. When all these guys (regulars) come back, if I've lost their respect, I'll just have to deal with it," Jeffires said. "I'm not going to feel different to them when they come in. If they want to spit on me, I'll spit back." Nose guard Charles Martin also is among the veterans on the Oilers roster. He was obtained after Green Bay waived him. Nose guard Tony Fitzpatrick is on the team's injury Jeffires, one of two first round

Oiler quarterback Warren Moon, the club's player representative, has worked hard to keep the entire team on strike. He was unhappy with the

"If you look at all the guys situations that went in there, except for the two kickers, were all well paid guys," Moon said. "It's so close to being over and these guys go in. They could have waited two days." Zendejas' return likely means the departure of rookie kicker John Diet-trich, who kicked six straight field goals without a miss in two games. indejas has a string of five in a row before the strike.

Tackle Eric Larkin and wide receiver Roger Coleman, who miss-ed the Oilers' plane for Cleveland last week, were waived.
