Storm dumps 17 inches of snow here

Plowing ahead

Scott Nichols, left, and Kris Gerber pedal through the snow Sunday on Lee Street. The two said "it wasn't that hard" to ride their bikes, but, at the time, Hereford had received only four inches of snow. 24 hours later, there was 10 more inches on top of that snow.

A severe winter storm struck the area Sunday and Monday, dumping over a foot of snow in Hereford, closing down many businesses, curtailing travel and making a general mess of things across the region. Officially, Hereford received 17 inches from the storm at the official National Weather Service reporting station, KPAN. However, drifts reached over four feet high in places.

Accompanying the storm were brisk northerly winds that drove wind chills to as low as -30 degrees Monday. The winds also made for difficult work for road crews who tried to keep roads clear for the limited travel in the region Monday.

This morning, temperatures tumbled to near record low. In Hereford, the low this morning was one below zero. In Amarillo, the temperature tumbled to five below zero, breaking the record of minus four set four years ago during the "Blizzard of '83."

The storm caused widespread cancellations. Most Sunday night church services were cancelled, and all local public and private schools were closed Monday and today.

Hereford school superintendent Charles Greenawalt said the missed days will probably be made up on March 14 and 15, the two days designated for "weather days" on the official school calendar.

Greenawalt said Monday that workers were having trouble clearing entryways into schools in the city, hence the cancellation of Tuesday's classes when compounded by still-hazardous streets and highways.

Other cancellations included the Monday performance of "From The Cradle to The Cross," a Christmas musical; a dinner for deacons and their wives at First Baptist Church in Hereford; several club meetings; and the regular meeting of Deaf Smith County Commissioners, which has been moved to next Monday.

Tonight's meeting of the Walcott school board has been postponed until 5 p.m. Friday.

A second grade Christmas program schedule for tonight at Northwest School in Hereford has been postponed until 7 p.m. Thursday.

The storm also kept hotels full. Many of them had been booked for last Friday and Saturday nights for the first day of pheasant season. Many of the pheasant hunters had checked out Sunday—just in time to leave room for travelers, who opted to spend the night and wait out the storm.

"We had been full Friday and Saturday," said a spokesman at Plains Motel. "Then we started getting full again Sunday night. We were about 75 percent full Sunday night—a lot more than we normally are."

"We were full for the weekend," said Beverly Wagner at Sutter's Inn. "All of our pheasant hunters started checking out Sunday morning when it started snowing heavily. We checked people in again until about 3 a.m. Monday, and we had some more during the day Monday.

"Our place in Friona is probably more full than we are—maybe they just got that far and stopped. Most of our people are just waiting for the roads to clear."

"We had a problem getting everyone cleared out Sunday," said June Stewart at Red Carpet Inn. "We had several people, pheasant hunters, that wanted to leave and couldn't. We had quite a few new people check in as soon as we had rooms available Sunday and Monday."

Work began on the major roads in Hereford and the county about 7 a.m. Sunday, when maintenance crews lowered the "Watch for ice on bridge" signs on bridges in the county.

Snowplows and sanding crews began working Sunday at 2 p.m., and haven't stopped since.

"We have a big problem with the wind," said a spokesman at the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation office in Hereford. "The wind takes the snow and covers up what we've been able to do with the plows and the sanding."

The four plows used by the local office, and one maintainer with a "wing" on it, have made several passes up and down both federal highways, U.S. 60 and U.S. 385, in the county, and have made "at least one pass" on the farm-to-market roads.

"We didn't close any roads," the spokesman said, "although some of them, especially the farm-to-market roads, had some pretty high drifts on them. We were able to keep all of them open."

One major highway just north of the county was closed. Interstate 40, one of the nation's busiest east-west highways, was closed at Coulter Road in Amarillo because of problems with the interstate once motorists entered New Mexico.

I-40 was closed intermittently through Sunday at Clines Corner, east of Albuquerque, and was closed for the night about 6 p.m. CST at the Texas-New Mexico state line because crews could not keep up with blowing, drifting snow.

Forecasts are calling for sunny skies and cool temperatures through Thursday. Another storm system could bring rain and snow back to the region by Friday, according to extended forecasts.

Remarkably, Hereford received more snow than many ski areas in New Mexico and Colorado. Most Colorado resorts reported little, if any, new snow Monday, while many popular New Mexico resorts reported less than did Hereford.

For instance, Red River reported just seven inches of new snow. Taos Ski Valley reported only five inches of new snow Monday. However, Sandia Peak, north of Albuquerque, reported 30 inches of new snow, and Ski Apache, near Ruidoso, had 25 inches of new snow.

The tram atop Sandia Peak also reported winds up to 96 mph in sustained gusts.

Negotiators work on N-waste compromise

House and Senate negotiators met throughout the night last night and were still meeting at presstime this morning in Washington to manufacture a compromise in the nation's nuclear waste program.

The conference committee began work Monday to narrow the list of three potential sites to one site—probably Yucca Mountain, Nev. Sites in Deaf Smith County and Hanford, Wash., are also under consideration under the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982.

A provision being pushed especially hard by House negotiators and being lobbied for by Lubbock Rep. Larry Combest would name the Nevada site per se as the preferred site.

"We need to name Nevada and quit horsing around about it," an unidentified committee member told The Associated Press.

The single-site proposal, which would stop site characterization work in Deaf Smith County and Washington, would save the federal government $3.9 billion, according to supporters of the one-site plan.

The proposal currently on the table does not specify Nevada, but is "clearly tilted" toward Nevada, according to the member.

Rep. Al Swift, D-Wash., who is on the conference committee, said the proposal would specify Yucca Mountain for full site characterization. If Yucca Mountain is found unsuitable, Swift said, the entire process would begin again.

"If it is found unsuitable, the entire selection process would go back to square one and come back to Congress," Swift said.

According to the original Senate proposal, backed by Sen. J. Bennett Johnston (D-La.), site characterization would be done sequentially. One site at a time would be characterized. If that site is accepted, work would cease at other nominees.

If the first site were disqualified, then characterization work would begin at a second site.

Johnston's plan also calls for huge monetary incentives to the state eventually chosen to host the repository, which is theoretically designed to safely store high-level nuclear waste for 10,000 years.

really frustrating at times. Trying to talk with some of the IRS agents, or calling for information on one of those toll-free numbers is sometimes a problem. And those numbers are not really toll-free—taxpayers are picking up the tab.

Apparently the bureaucrats get frustrated with us, too. According to Roy McQueen in The Snyder Daily News, the Internal Revenue Service is now spending tax money to train employees on how to keep calm when handling calls from irate taxpayers. McQueen reports there is a five-week training course and the manual spells out ways to deal with us.

In typical government language, the course is called "sensitivity training sessions." One suggestion in the training: "Put them on hold and then make faces while writing ugly words on your pad." That's what we call mature problem-solving.

The sessions include stress-reduction techniques where employees learn to roll their shoulders and stretch their fingers and necks while doing breathing exercises. In dealing with a person face to face, IRS employees are told to listen with their eyes. As expected, says McQueen, "Nowhere in the training manual did we find any evidence that the government employee has to have a heart."

Frostbite big concern

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

Though Dr. Tim Revell says his best advice for cold weather is "stay inside," he does offer some concrete health tips for those who must be outside.

"Keep well covered, wear mittens rather than gloves, and layer clothing to conserve body heat," he said.

Revell, who is a private practitioner as well as public health officer for Deaf Smith County, added that frostbite occurs the fastest on area of the body with reduced blood flow. "It affects ears and noses the quickest so keep them covered with scarves or muffs," he said.

Frostbite occurs in stages, according to Revell. "In the first stage the tissue turns red and then, as it gets colder, turns white. That is frostbite," he said.

Revell suggested that those who must be outside during cold weather should go inside and "thaw out" periodically.

Frostbite is treated much the same as a blister, he said. "Don't pop the bubble, keep the area clean and seek medical treatment," Revell said.

Right now the major medical problem is frostbite, but Revell said the next few days will change the problem to one of injuries. "Watch out as this stuff (snow) starts to melt during the day and refreeze at night because the ice will prove to be a major hazard in terms of injuries," he said.

For those lucky persons who wait out the winter weather inside, Revell suggested operating a humidifier is a good idea. "Heating dries out the air and can cause nose bleeds or sinus infections," he said. "A humidifier is helpful in preventing these problems."

Monday was almost cancelled due to the snow.

Many of those who ventured out Monday got stuck at one time or another, and motorists with 4-wheel drive vehicles were kept busy pulling other cars from the snow and ice, or taking people to and from their work places. We had 11 people make it to work at The Brand office Monday, but there were only three vehicles in the parking lot.

Probably like many other women, my wife didn't get out of the house Monday. It just took one day for her to get "cabin fever" and she didn't have any children under foot. If you don't think about the inconveniences, the scenery was beautiful as Hereford and the area was blanketed in a winter wonderland landscape. We really needed the moisture, but some folks would have preferred it to come in a different fashion.

DOE briefing scheduled

Stratigraphic boreholes will be the topic of a presentation by John Peck, geologist with Stone and Webster, at the Wednesday briefing by the Department of Energy.

Peck will outline how and where the holes will be drilled and what information they are expected to provide for site characterization work in Deaf Smith County.

In the absence of Robert Wunderlich, deputy manager for the Salt Repository Project, Linda McClain, also with DOE, will provide a brief overview of the current status of the program.

The briefing will be conducted at 9:30 a.m. in the Battelle North facility located on 25 Mile Ave.

Police arrest four

Four persons were arrested over the weekend by Hereford police, who also investigated 10 minor accidents, mostly weather-related, and issued 19 citations.

Arrests included a man, 20, for DWI; a man, 31, for driving while license suspended; and juvenile shoplifters at Winn's and Save 'n' Gain.

Reports included a firearm discharged in the 700 block of Blevins; two harassment reports; assaults in the 300 block of Lake and the 400 block of Bradley; theft reports in the 100 block of Beach, 200 block of Greenwood and 900 block of Plains; and a suspicious person reported at Fifth and McKinley.

Lions show will be held

"Big Tread and the Whitealls," a variety show featuring 50s and 60s music, will be held as scheduled tonight at 7:30 at the Hereford High School auditorium.

Hereford Lions, who are sponsoring the show, said the HHS parking lot had been cleared and the group was in Wichita Falls early this morning on its way to Hereford.

DSHB meets tonight

The Deaf Smith Hospital Board will meet at 7:30 tonight at the Deaf Smith General Hospital conference room.

The agenda includes a discussion of the HMP management proposal plus a look back at interviews with two administrator candidates; discussion of the status of the DSGH bond issue and approval of an official notice of bond sales; the medical staff report; and opening of bids for employee group health and life insurance.

The board will also hold an executive session to discuss "legal and personnel matters."

The big thaw

Tonight will be clear and very cold, with a low near seven above. North wind will be 5 to 15 mph.

Wednesday will be sunny and warmer, with a high of 38. South wind will be 5 to 10 mph.

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

Gee, it seems like only yesterday—actually, it was Thursday, that one of our Bettelle friends who had lived in Columbus, Ohio for a number of years remarked that he just couldn't get over how nice the weather had been.

I tried to warn him about what was coming.

It looks as if PCBAN is satisfied with what has been done in its "battle" with the Amarillo Globe-News.

PCBAN may be satisfied, but I dare say many of the people of Hereford who were dissatisfied in early November are still dissatisfied in mid-December.

Despite what PCBAN Chairman Paul Engler of Dumas said in his letter to the Globe-News which was published Sunday, not all of the original aims were met by the Globe-News—namely, an apology.

I'm talking an apology for beating a dead horse, an apology for needlessly offending readers, an apology for leading readers down a primrose path of inaccuracies, bias and lack of objectivity.

Is it hard to get a fair trial for a Hispanic in Hereford? You bet your sweet bippy it is. Not because of a prejudiced judge or district attorney (one of my favorites was Jesus Moya accusing former assistant D.A. Richard Burmeister, whose wife is Hispanic, of being prejudiced—it happened when Moya was in town beating his chest earlier this year), but because of an apparent lack of interest among many Hispanics in serving on juries.

Last week, Manuel Medeles was tried for aggravated assault on Hereford Police Detective Sammy Sanchez.

110 people were called for the jury panel. There were 65 persons with "Anglo" surnames and 45 persons with "Spanish" surnames.

Of the 45 with "Spanish" surnames, only 20 showed for the panel.

As defense attorney David Martinez said, "When those people didn't show up, the race was half over."

All 20 should probably have been disqualified, because they either knew Medeles well or had read or seen accounts of the case. However, a court ruling says there should be at least one Hispanic on the jury, so there was.

Wouldn't it have been more fair if there had been, say, four, or six, or even 12 Hispanics.

David Martinez thinks so.

It's not just a recent problem, either. The problem cropped up every time attorneys questioned jurors in all of those drug trials.

It's not a cure-all, but justice would be even better served if everyone, white, black, brown, red, purple and green, would show up when they're summoned for a jury.

You might not be selected, but you can't serve if you don't show up.

Anyway, dad-gummit, the people of Hereford who were offended before PCBAN are still offended. They don't believe all of the truth was told, and, as has been noted many times, a half-truth is worse than a lie.

Khomeini in coma

LONDON (AP) — A newspaper said today that Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini has fallen into a coma and a foreign medical team is treating him in Tehran.

The Times of London, quoting unidentified Iranian sources, said a medical team left Vienna on Sunday to tend to the Iranian leader.

But a member of Iran's delegation at an OPEC meeting in Vienna said late Monday that the 87-year-old Iranian fundamentalist was not ill.

"He's well and very healthy," Hossein Kazampour Ardabil, the No. 2 person in the delegation, said in a brief telephone conversation.

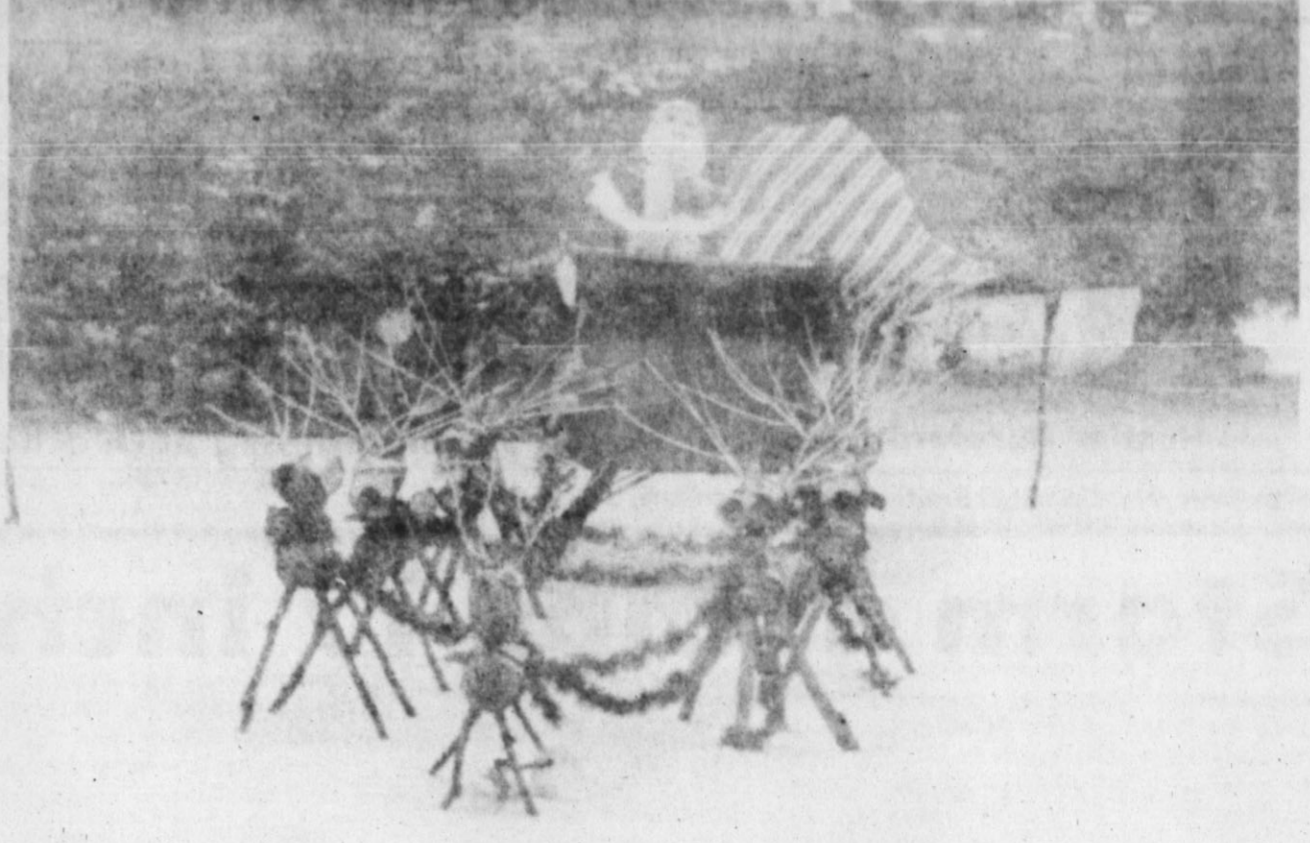

A report by the official Tehran radio on Thursday touched off rumors about Khomeini's health when it said the Islamic leader drew up a new "divine political will and testament." The will's contents were not disclosed.

The Times of London said sources in Vienna and Tehran reported Sunday that Ayatollah Khomeini was in a coma.

The paper said Khomeini had over the past two years been treated for a heart condition and was known to regularly use a kidney dialysis machine.

It also quoted an unidentified British neurosurgeon as saying the Iranian leader also suffered from minor neurological problems.

The paper quoted the doctor as saying a coma could easily have been caused by a burst blood vessel, but that Khomeini's chances of recovery were good.

Santa's kind of weather

Santa, who had needed a parasol last week in Hereford's unseasonably warm weather, had weather more like his natural North Pole environment Sunday.

Holiday yard scenes throughout the city had a more "realistic" look during the winter snow storm Sunday and Monday.

Stocking fund continues

Christmas is traditionally thought of as a time for family togetherness, and the warmth of the home.

Even during this holiday season, however, domestic violence can tragically rip homes asunder.

At least two families that have applied for assistance from Hereford's Christmas Stocking Fund this year are the victims of domestic violence and its rending aftermath.

One woman, age 33, was beaten by her husband and only recently left the Domestic Violence Center in Amarillo. Separated from her husband, she is currently without means, save those she can come up with from part-time jobs. She has lined up work that will begin in mid-January, but for now, she has no funds to provide food, clothing or shelter for her three children, ages 15, 14 and nine. This unfortunate woman has already had the utilities to her home shut off, and the outlook is indeed dark for this shattered family this Yule season.

A second woman, age 27, is a victim of very similar circumstances. She was also abused by her husband and is separated from him now. She has no job, and two daughters, age 8 and 1, who count on her to provide. While seeking work at this time, the woman's only means of supporting her family have been some food stamps and assistance from the local Social Services office.—Both women need help with food, clothing and utility bills.

The Christmas Stocking Fund's 1987 campaign is underway now to help the community reach out to such real cases of need during this season of sharing and goodwill.

"This marks our final full week of fundraising efforts aimed at easing some of the need and hunger among our community's less fortunate. It's a time to reflect on the need for us to share our own abundance with those who truly stand in need," said a CSF spokesman.

Last year the Stocking Fund raised over $10,000 in a campaign abbreviated by a reorganization effort. CSF got a more timely start this year and the anonymous volunteers who administer the program are hopeful last year's record total for contributions can be matched or exceeded.

Proceeds from CSF go to provide such basics as food baskets, blankets, warm clothing, and assistance with utility bills and medication bills in special cases of need.

The 1987 CSF committee is working against a Dec. 23 deadline, when assistance packages are scheduled to be delivered.

"There's a special joy that comes with sharing, and we hope the good folks of Deaf Smith County will come forward and share, to experience the true joy of Christmas, Gifts to CSF, however large or small, not only bless those in need who receive assistance, they bless the giver, too," said the CSF spokesman.

Cash contributions to the Stocking Fund may be left at the offices of The Hereford Brand, 313 North Lee, or mailed to: Christmas Stocking Fund, c/o The Hereford Brand, Box 673, Hereford, Texas.

As official collection agent for the CSF program, The Brand will run periodic listings of CSF contributors.

Couple find gifts in bottle on Texas beach

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — There was no genie in the bottle. Orlin and Bette Island found floating in the water off a South Texas beach, but the couple did get three gifts.

They cracked the bottle open and found papers informing them they had just won a trip to the Caribbean, including air fare, accommodations and a case of rum.

According to a message inside, the bottle was one of 12 released off the shores of Grand Cayman Island on June 13 as part of a promotional stunt.

The couple from Elk River, Minn., said they had arrived a week and a half earlier to spend the winter in Brownsville and went to nearby South Padre Island to stroll on the beach, where they could look for shells, sand dollars and rocks for their grandchildren.

"I saw the bottle and could see it had something inside," 62-year-old Bette Island said. "I got it from waters about two feet deep...but hesitated to open it at first."

She said she was afraid it might contain some kind of poisonous gas.

"But I decided that we had to open the bottle to see what was inside," said Orlin Island, a 66-year-old retiree from an ammunition company. "I noted it (the bottle) had been sealed like to make it last."

Unable to pry it open, he decided to break off the neck. They found several papers, including a label from a bottle of rum and congratulatory notes from a hotel and an airline company promising free air fare and accommodations.

"I got very excited," said Mrs. Island, 62, who once worked as a taxi driver in Minneapolis. "(Still) at the same time I found it hard to believe that it was a legitimate offer."

The bottled documents promised a free case of Tortuga Rum from Tortuga Rum Co. Ltd., free air tickets to the islands in the British West Indies, courtesy of Cayman Airways, and a room free of charge for four days and three nights at the Sunset House Hotel in Grand Cayman.

After calling a toll-free number listed on papers in the bottle, they learned the offer was indeed legitimate and that they were the first to respond to the offer.

"And who knows, maybe we should try our at the beach again...after all, there are still 11 more bottles out there," Orlin Island said.

The Islands said they will take the Caribbean trip after spending the winter in Brownsville.

Ideas can earn money

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Workers with ideas can turn them into dollars at companies that offer employee suggestion programs.

Designed to improve efficiency, boost morale and save money, it is estimated there are over 6,000 such programs offered at companies across the country. The programs reward employees with money, merchandise or stock for ideas that are adopted.

Phillips 66, which has had such a program for more than 50 years, recently awarded $112,934 for 247 suggestions it received in one month.

Court divided on abortion case

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Supreme Court awaiting its ninth member showed how closely divided it remains over some politically charged issues by voting 4-4 to strike down an Illinois abortion law.

The even vote, announced Monday in a decision unaccompanied by a written opinion, upheld a ruling that the Illinois law impermissibly interfered with the abortion rights of some teen-agers.

The law required some girls under 18 who seek abortions to wait 24 hours to have the operation after telling their parents or a judge about their decision.

About a dozen states have laws requiring some form of parental notification for minors seeking abortions but lower courts have ruled that most of those state laws are unenforceable.

The high court's even vote raises the possibility that it could reconsider the issue with nine members participating — underscoring the importance of President Reagan's attempt to fill the court's ninth seat.

Senate confirmation hearings are under way for Anthony M. Kennedy, the third person named by Reagan to fill the vacancy created when Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. retired last June.

Conservative and liberal interest groups agree that Kennedy, if confirmed, could cast the decisive vote in numerous future abortion-regulation cases.

The Illinois law, enacted by the state General Assembly over Gov. James R. Thompson's veto, required unmarried girls under 18 and still financially dependent on their parents notify both parents 24 hours before having an abortion.

The law allowed a girl to avoid notifying her parents if she could prove to a state judge that she was mature enough and well-informed enough to make the decision on her own and that notifying her parents would not be in her best interest.

Doctors who failed to comply with the law's requirement faced criminal prosecution.

Boy's Ranch clothing drive underway

The annual drive to provide new suits and clothing for the 396 young residents of Cal Farley's Boys Ranch is still in progress.

The gift is a new suit or a clothing package through the Christmas Suit Fund is something a boy will remember throughout the year. The suits or needed clothing such as jackets, trousers and shirts replace those that have been worn out or outgrown. In many cases, these are the first new suits some boys have ever known.

The purchase of new clothing for the boys has become a favorite way of Christmas giving among those who contribute $50.00 for this purpose. Special discounts by merchants and differences in clothing prices for younger and older boys make the average cost of $50.00 possible. Gifts of any amount are also necessary to ensure the Ranch's goal of providing for every youngster.

Boys Ranch President Roy E. Turner said, "The challenge of outfitting so many boys is tremendous, and so we are fortunate to have people who continue to share whatever they can at Christmastime." Mr. Turner added that boys ages four through 18 are now shopping for the clothes of their desires. Among them are members of the Boys Ranch Senior Class who will wear their new suits at graduation time.

Contributions to the Christmas Suit Fund may be mailed to Cal Farley's Boys Ranch, P.O. Box 1890, Amarillo, Tx. 79174.

Snowscape

Area landscape was turned into a winter wonderland by 17 inches of snow which fell over the weekend. A smaller front, with the possibility of more snow, is expected to move into the area on Friday.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I can understand a male having a fetish that involves women's breasts, but is it possible for a woman to have an obsession that compels her to display them?

My wife has pulled a number of stunts that are fairly transparent. She will stroll into the living room stripped to the waist when I have a business meeting and say, "Oh! I didn't know anyone was here!" She has sabotaged her bikini top on several occasions so it falls off at the beach. Her fake embarrassment fools nobody.

She denies that any of this is deliberate. They are all "accidents." When I suggest that she needs help, she just laughs. Perhaps you can persuade her to look into the problem. When she feigns embarrassment it is my face that is red.—Beet-Faced in New Jersey

DEAR FACE: People who get their jollies out of such antics are exhibitionists. The excitement they experience is far greater than the embarrassment of being told, "You are doing it on purpose."

This is, of course, disturbed behavior and I recommend counseling. Motherhood and age might cut down on her performances, but don't bet the rent.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: A good way to find out who your friends are is to get divorced.

I was married for 17 years to a man who loved parties. Three or four nights a week we entertained or were invited out. Most people would consider it exhausting, but we loved it.

Two years ago, out of the blue, my husband asked for a divorce. I was stunned. He insisted there was no other woman. He just wanted out.

Of course there was another woman. Where he found the time to cheat I will never know, but the relationship must have been well-established because they were married the week after our divorce.

Our friends dropped me like a hot rock. His new wife (a rich widow) has a beautiful home and their parties are far more lavish than the ones we used to give. I am finding it hard not to be bitter. Please help me sort this out.—Hurt in New York

DEAR NEW YORK: Those former friends were not friends at all. They were merely acquaintances who liked to go to parties. (Some people will go to the opening of a can of tuna.)

Write them off with the sure knowledge that you have lost nothing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When our grandson was born recently I noticed on his bassinet in the hospital that his last name was a combination of his mother's maiden name and our son's last name. We assumed this was a mistake made by the hospital, but we have since learned that it was by choice. Our son's wife insisted that the two names be used.

We are upset, Ann, because this puts an end to our family name. Will you give us your opinion in this matter?—Miami

DEAR MIAMI: Even though you are understandably disappointed that the family name will not be carried on, your son and his wife have the right to name their child whatever they wish.

Accept it with grace. To do otherwise will only put additional strain on a relationship that I suspect is somewhat fragile.

Christmas luncheon is held

Members of Westway Home Extension Club met recently in the home of Martha Rickman for their Christmas luncheon. The group also installed new officers and revealed secret pals.

County extension agent Beverly Harder installed Carolyn Evers as president; Gayle Carter, vice president; Helen Brown, secretary and reporter; Joyce Aycock, treasurer; and Grace Covington, council delegate. Harder used a chain to represent each new officer saying a chain is just as strong as each link.

Those present included Aycock, Brown, Covington, Elizabeth DeKoster, Terri Johnson, Leta Kaul, Joan Milton, Jeanette Ramey and hostess, Martha Rickman.

CALL BEFORE MAKING TRIP

It is a good idea for people in the Amarillo area to call Social Security before taking the time to visit the office. The reason is that most Social Security business can be taken care of by telephone, Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo, Tx. said recently.

Unless the person's business is urgent, it is best to call after the middle of the month and later in the week. Inquiries can be handled more quickly then, Jim said.

Even if a person needs to visit the office, it is a good idea to call for an appointment. This can help shorten

UNABLE TO FEEL COM-PASSION

NEW YORK (AP)—Psychopathic behavior is not limited to exceptionally brutal criminals, according to research presented by a doctor who has studied the subject for the past 20 years.

A psychopath is described by psychologists as anyone with an apparent incapacity to feel compassion or the pangs of conscience. Using this definition, some psychologists suggest that the law-breaking businessman who shows no signs of remorse is as callous as the most hardened criminal.

Mustang Invitational at Denver City

Whitefaces place second in tournament

Hereford High School's varsity boys' basketball team placed second in the Mustang Invitational Tournament in Denver City on Saturday, losing to Littlefield 61-45 in the championship game.

Earlier in the tournament, Hereford beat Snyder 60-53 on Thursday and defeated the Lubbock Coronado junior varsity 52-51.

The Whitefaces played without starter Kevin Hansen for most of the Coronado game and all of the championship game. Hansen suffered an arm injury in the first quarter of the Coronado game.

"We played pretty good until the finals," Hereford Coach Mike Fields said. "We played good on defense against Littlefield, but we were cold from the floor."

"Littlefield beat Big Spring by eight points and they beat Seminole by 30 points, so they have a good team this year."

In the tournament opener, Hereford had five players total at least nine points each in defeating Snyder, 60-53.

The Whitefaces trailed at halftime, 27-25, but moved into the lead in the third period, 41-38.

Scoring in double figures were Marcus Brown with 12 points, Rodney McCracken with 11 points, and Bobby Robbins with 10 points. Hansen and Pat Mercer each added nine points.

Hansen and Ross Torres each scored one three-point goal. Hansen led the Whitefaces with six steals.

In the rebound department, McCracken led the way with 13, Robbins grabbed nine, and Hansen and Mercer each had six rebounds.

Hereford had six players scoring six points or more in the 52-51 win over the Lubbock Coronado junior varsity.

McCracken had 10 points, Torres, Brad Smith, and Marcus Brown each had eight points, and Robbins and Mercer each scored six points. Torres hit a three-point goal attempt.

The score was tied 24-24 at halftime, and Coronado held a 39-37 lead going into the fourth quarter.

Rebound leaders for the Whitefaces were McCracken with 13 and Mercer with six. Mercer and Marcus Brown each had four assists, McCracken had six steals, and Torres had five steals.

Hereford trailed Littlefield by six points at halftime in the title game, 25-19. Littlefield increased its lead to 44-33 in the third period en route to its 61-45 win.

Smith and Robbins each had 10 points for Hereford, McCracken scored eight points, and Marcus Brown seven points. Brown scored a three-point goal.

Other statistical leaders for the Herd were Smith and McCracken each with seven rebounds, and Marcus Brown with six steals and four assists.

With the two victories and one defeat in the tournament, Hereford had a 4-6 season record.

Two HHS runners are all-state selections

Two Hereford High School athletes, Nancy Garza and Benny Carrasco, were named to the state class 4A all-state cross country team.

The all-state teams, with 15 boys and 15 girls honored from each high school classification, were announced this week by the Texas Track and Field News.

The all-state honor is the second for Garza, a senior who placed third at the state meet this year. Garza won the District 1-4A meet and also won the regional meet in helping Hereford to meet titles.

The Hereford girls' team placed fourth in the state meet.

Carrasco, a Hereford High School junior runner, placed fifth in the district meet, fifth in the regional meet, and 11th in the state meet.

Last year, Carrasco received special recognition for underclassmen from the Texas Track and Field News.

In the class 4A state meets in 1986, Carrasco was 14th in the boys' division and Garza placed 20th in the girls' division.

Hereford-Dumas basketball games reset

The District 1-4A basketball games between Hereford High School and Dumas High School, originally scheduled for today at Dumas, have been rescheduled for Saturday.

Saturday's schedule will have the varsity girls' game and the junior varsity boys' game at 4 p.m., and the varsity boys' game and the junior varsity girls' game at 6 p.m.

On Friday, Hereford High School is scheduled to play at Frenship, with starting times the same as those for the games at Dumas — except that the Hereford sophomore boys' team will play the Frenship junior varsity boys.

An announcement was expected later this week concerning the La Plata and Stanton junior high school basketball games that were called off on Monday.

The Baseball Hall of Fame was established in 1939 in Cooperstown, N.Y.

HHS sophomores place fourth in Berger tourney

The Hereford High School sophomore boys' basketball team placed fourth in a tournament at Berger last week.

Hereford defeated the Pampa sophomore team 61-38 on Thursday in a first-round game. On Friday, Hereford suffered a 66-44 loss to the Canyon junior varsity in the semifinals.

In the third place game on Saturday, Hereford lost to Sanford-Fritch, 54-44.

The snowstorm, coupled with the schools' shut down, resulted in the boxscores and team statistics being unavailable for today's issue of the Brand. The boxscores and statistics will be published in the Brand as soon as available.

Rice is NFL's hottest receiver this year

By STEVE WILSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Jerry Rice is so hot he's catching balls he can't see and making proud defensive backs whimper.

The tall, speedy wide receiver notched three more touchdowns Monday night in the San Francisco 49ers' 41-0 rout of the Chicago Bears, but shrugged off the two NFL records he tied as if they were mere footnotes.

Rice raced past cornerback Vestee Jackson, left safety Todd Bell in the dust, then padded stealthily into the night dressed in black turtleneck, black leather pants and black alligator shoes with silver tips on the toes and heels.

Rice stole the show again, even on a night when the 49ers' defense played its finest game of the year.

Quarterback Steve Young, who filled in admirably when Joe Montana hobbled off with a hamstring injury in the first quarter, called Rice "the fastest human in the world when the ball is in the air."

Young put the ball in the air often enough for Rice to tie Mark Clayton's league record of 18 touchdown catches in a season and a long-standing record of 11 consecutive games with touchdown catches.

All of which meant little to Rice, who said "there's only one thing on my mind and that's the Super Bowl."

Rice, who has played 10 games in this strike-shortened season, has two games left to break the record Clayton set in 15 games at Miami in 1984. Next Sunday against Atlanta, Rice can break the consecutive-game record held by Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch of the 1950-51 Los Angeles Rams and Buddy Dial of the 1959-60 Pittsburgh Steelers.

Rice's second touchdown was his most spectacular catch of the night, a 16-yarder in the corner of the end zone just over Jackson's head that the 6-foot-2, 200-pound receiver snared in his fingertips.

"I lost that football in the lights and it was a desperation catch," Rice said.

Rice's opponents can only groan. "This is an embarrassment," Jackson said. "Everything went wrong tonight. It's just terrible."

Rice has 19 touchdown catches in his streak, which began in the final game last season. He had consecutive three-touchdown games against Tampa Bay and Cleveland in late November. Over those 11 games, he has 61 receptions for 1,001 yards and 19 touchdowns.

Rice's first touchdown was the first completion of the game for Young and came three plays after Montana left.

On a second-down play from the Bears' 1-yard line, Young rolled to his right and hit Rice, who sprinted right and caught the ball just over the goal line. The touchdown, with 6:11 remaining in the quarter, gave San Francisco a 7-0 lead.

Rice's final touchdown was a simple slant out from the 2-yard line. Young lofted a soft pass that Rice caught with no defender within three yards of him.

"For some reason the defensive back didn't bump me and I was able to get a free release," said Rice, who added he was surprised at how little the Bears blitzed in the game.

Steve Young fills in for injured Joe Montana

49ers rout Chicago Bears, 41-0

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — When Steve Young stepped in to replace the injured Joe Montana after seven minutes of play, the San Francisco 49ers found themselves without a clear-cut quarterback advantage over the Chicago Bears.

Monday night's NFL game was scoreless and had become a matchup of No. 2 passers, Young and the Bears' Mike Tomczak. But it ended a 41-0 mismatch, giving the 49ers the league's best record, 11-2.

Young hit the sensational Jerry Rice on three touchdown passes and tossed another to Dwight Clark. The victory came before a record Candlestick Park crowd of 63,509.

"We'll make a run at it this year," Coach Bill Walsh said, meaning a third Super Bowl title for his team, which won it in 1982 and 1985.

The 49ers are sure of a playoff spot for the sixth time in seven years, but they're only a game ahead of New Orleans, 10-3, in the NFC West and might have to win their last two games to claim the division title.

Montana returned to the field on crutches with a pulled hamstring, the same thing that kept Chicago quarterback Jim McMahon out of the game.

"My job has been to watch Joe and be a better quarterback from watching him," Young said. "By watching Joe, I end up doing some of things Joe does."

"I was obviously pretty rusty. We moved the ball only in spurts. But the defense dominated the game. It was their game."

Young was 9-for-19 passing for 100 yards, and he ran for 43.

Chicago, which clinched a fourth consecutive NFC Central title a week earlier, dropped to 10-3 with the most one-sided defeat in six years under Coach Mike Ditka.

"We're at the bottom, but that's not where we came from," Ditka said. "We just hope we'll get Jim back soon and get back on track."

in the second half.

Harbaugh, throwing his first passes in an NFL game, was 8-for-11 for 62 yards with no interceptions.

Ray Wersching kicked a 20-yard field goal late in the first period after the 49ers recovered a fumble by Walter Payton.

In the second period, Griffin recovered a fumble, Todd Shell, Ronnie Lott and Mike Walter intercepted Bears' passes. Wersching kicked a 45-yard field goal and Young hit Clark on a 13-yard TD pass.

Carl Monroe of the 49ers opened the scoring in the second half with an 83-yard punt return, the team's first kick return for a touchdown this season.

Football tie-breaker survey planned in spring

DALLAS (AP) — High school coaches across Texas will be surveyed next spring concerning their feelings on the controversial tie-breakers used when football playoff games end in ties.

The Texas High School Coaches Association voted Sunday at its winter meeting to conduct the survey. Changes will be proposed if most coaches are against the system, the association said.

Under the current system, playoff games that end with the score tied are decided by the number of penetrations inside the opponents' 20-yard line. If that category is tied, the number of first downs becomes the deciding factor, then total yardage. If a tie remains, a coin flip decides which team advances.

Some coaches have argued that the present system works in favor of a team that grinds out long drives, in which they get several first downs, and against teams that feature potent runners who frequently break for long runs that produce touchdown drives with fewer first downs.

If the survey shows coaches are displeased with the present system, new proposals will be presented to the University Interscholastic League in the spring. The UIL executive committee could accept the proposal, refuse it or put it to a vote in a referendum among the state's school superintendents.

"The UIL is simply the governing body," said John Reddell, a member of the THSCA board of directors and football coach at Trinity High School in Fort Worth. "Therefore, they only wish to govern in a way that is just and in accordance to having the best possible program. If there is a consensus that there is a better way, then the governing body will give it deep consideration."

Texas is the only state that does not decide ties on the field.

The most popular tie-breaking system used by other states is the so-called "Kansas Plan." Under those rules, the ball is placed at the 10-yard line and each team has four chances to score.

Other tie-breaking ideas are sudden death, putting the ball at the 25 or midfield and giving each team four plays. The team that gains the most yardage in four plays wins the game.

"In my opinion, there is a better way to settle a tie," Reddell said. "I believe they will choose one. I think it is a step in the right direction and it has a favorable chance of being accepted."

Jets' coach Walton is not thinking about security

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — While fans and local columnists are calling for his job, New York Jets Coach Joe Walton isn't thinking about his security.

He doesn't need to, according to Jim Kensil, the team president. "I'm concerned with wins and losses, not my job," Walton said Monday. "We're just going to keep working for these two games left, try to get up off the canvas and come back and try to play hard.... We have had success and we will have success again."

Kensil agrees, and ignores the fans who complain on call-in sports shows and the newspaper columnists who write that Walton can't do the job.

"He's very efficient, he knows the game, he pays attention to detail and devotes every minute to the job," Kensil said of Walton. "He's a good coach, he does an excellent job."

But the Jets have not done much of a job the last two weeks. In position to take hold of the AFC East race with a pair of victories, the Jets instead were routed by Miami and New England. In those losses, New York was outscored 62-6 by halftime and allowed nine touchdowns on 12 opposition possessions.

"We've been beaten real good. The guys may be trying too hard," Walton said. "We get behind the 8-ball early in the game, taking us out of our rhythm of what we want to do."

Instead of coming down hard on the players, which he did after the loss to Miami, Walton told them to "relax and get back to having fun" on the field.

"Joe's attitude was different this week," Kurt Sohn said. "Joe is trying to get us playing with more confidence. If you don't think you can beat everybody, you can't beat anybody."

"Obviously, last week we weren't feeling good about ourselves. I don't think that's any way to take the football field, not feeling good about yourself."

Kensil feels good about Walton and the rest of the organization, despite the disappointing 6-7 record. He refused to criticize Mike Hickey and the personnel staff, which handles the drafts that have been relatively unproductive in recent years.

"I don't think there's a flaw in this organization," he said. "I don't see one."

Larry Bird and Danny Ainge of the Boston Celtics are both ambidextrous. In practice they frequently shoot three-pointers lefthanded although in a game they go with the right hand.

Superintendent follows pioneer spirit

ALLISON, Texas (AP) — When Dr. Nora Hutto took over as Allison school principal three years ago, she made it a point not to make the coffee.

But now that she is superintendent of the tiny school district in far north Wheeler County, she has no problem brewing a pot now and then.

Ms. Hutto, 35, is in her second year as Allison Independent School District superintendent, taking on the position after one year as a home economics teacher and one year as kindergarten teacher-principal at the school.

"It hardly seems possible," Ms. Hutto says of her rapid rise to the superintendent's office.

But there she is, overseeing a faculty of 11 teachers — eight of whom have masters' degrees — and a student body of 42 students in grades K-12.

Pioneer history is filled with stories of young women venturing into the country in the name of education. And Ms. Hutto, the only woman grade school and high school superintendent in the Panhandle, sees some similarity between those early day teachers and herself.

"Being a woman superintendent is forging a frontier," Ms. Hutto says. "It may be that you try harder. It shouldn't be that way. But you have to do more than just prove yourself. There's less freedom for error."

"But I'm a risk-taker," she says, pausing to add, "I guess that's why I pray so much."

Ms. Hutto says she encountered a little bit of resistance when she became a school administrator. Consequently, she was quick to put aside any "sexist duties."

"That's why when I became principal, I made a point not to make the coffee, even though my predecessor, a man, made it all the time," Ms. Hutto says. "You have to establish yourself."

She admits that when she first became school superintendent, she "didn't feel like one of the boys."

But that insecurity subsided when Ms. Hutto was named to the five member board of the Eastern Panhandle Co-op special education service.

"And the community has been supportive," Ms. Hutto says. "But I think part of that was because I taught here first."

Allison ISD is not the first frontier Ms. Hutto has crossed. While she was earning her doctorate at Texas Tech, Ms. Hutto was the first woman to chair the boys' discipline committee.

"The boys thought I would be easy," she says. "But before long, they got a different idea."

Ms. Hutto doesn't let anyone be fooled by her feminine touch and whisper-soft voice. She still has a paddle that members of the vocational agriculture program made for applying pressure to students' seats of learning.

"I learned quickly that when you paddle a high school boy, you take off your shoes because of the recoil," she says, adding that the school principal now handles all corporal punishment.

Ms. Hutto's interest in education has roots in her childhood, back when teaching was "women's work."

"Mom used to tell me I always had to have a teaching certificate so that I could have something to fall back on," Ms. Hutto says.

The Roswell, N.M., native received her bachelor's degree in home economics from New Mexico State University. She obtained her master's degree in sociology and family relations.

"That gave me a good foundation," Ms. Hutto says. "I can understand so much of the workings that go on."

She gained further insight from a job few people associate with children — writing federal grants for an office on aging. There, she helped set up senior citizens centers throughout the Panhandle.

"There are a lot of similarities between the aged and children," Ms. Hutto says. "They both are very aware of honest. They can tell if you like them. In the middle years, we often don't look for those things."

As superintendent of a tiny school, Ms. Hutto also handles the school's finances and major bookkeeping — jobs which she feels do not give her time to "plan for the important things."

Every school day, she sees to it that she breaks out of her office and visits the teachers and the students.

"I try to talk to the teachers and work with the principal," Ms. Hutto says, stressing that the principal is the "instructional leader" while she is the school administrator.

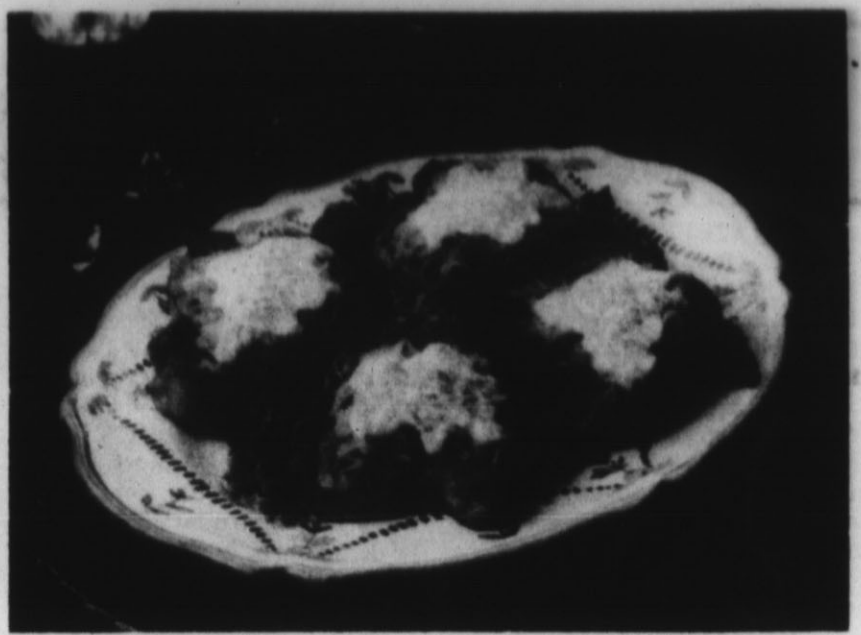

"I think the teacher is the one who really affects the students," she says. "That's why I think the selection of teachers is the highest priority of a school board. The school board establishes the school's philosophy."

Ms. Hutto believes the Allison school board's efforts to improve education have paid off.

Allison is one of 10 small Texas schools selected for a U.S. Department of Education program to develop "upper-level thinking skills." The program, which will begin in the district in November, is administered through the University of Texas and is intended to develop such skills as creative thinking, logic and reasoning.

Ms. Hutto says "younger students may be asked the question, 'Jack jumped over the candlestick, what else could he have done?'" It's up to the teachers to apply the program.

Another factor contributing to the quality of the system is the closeness of the farm community. As an example, Ms. Hutto points to colorful seaws on the playground.

PORK chops with sauerkraut and sour cream are a hearty dinner.

Pork hearty cool-weather dish

Pork and sauerkraut are a favorite cool-weather combination. Today pork is leaner, with less fat on the cuts. Broil chops, and top with sauerkraut and sour cream for a quick dinner, but be sure not to overcook.

HUNGARIAN PORK CHOPS

- 1 1/4 teaspoons paprika
- 1/4 teaspoon onion powder
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 4 pork loin chops, cut 1-inch thick
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup sauerkraut, rinsed and well-drained
- 1/4 cup dairy sour cream

Combine paprika, onion powder and pepper. Rub mixture evenly on both sides of chops. Place chops on rack in broiler pan so surface of meat is 3 to 5 inches from heat. Broil at low to moderate temperature for 13 to 15 minutes on each side.

Season with salt. Spread 1/4 table-spoon sauerkraut evenly over each pork chop; spread 1 table-spoon sour cream over sauerkraut. Sprinkle with additional paprika. Continue broiling 3 minutes or until sauerkraut is heated through. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

SAUCY SQUASH

- 2 acorn squash, uncut
- 1 15-ounce jar chunky apple sauce
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

Pierce each squash with fork. Place on microwave-proof plate. Cook on Full for 4 minutes, turning over after 2 minutes. Cut squash in half. Scoop out seeds, cut squash into half-inch slices and slice off peel.

Place sliced pulp in a 8-inch-by-12-inch glass casserole dish. Mix together remaining ingredients in small bowl. Pour over squash. Cover with microwave-safe plastic wrap. Cook, covered, on Full for 11 to 13 minutes, or until tender. Let stand 5 minutes before serving. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

BOSTON (AP) — When it comes to fires, the "It'll never happen to me" attitude is a killer, says a Boston insurance company.

To help people know what to do in case of fire, the firm is offering a free brochure entitled, "Escape" to those who send a No. 10 stamped, self-addressed envelope to Liberty Mutual, P.O. Box 777, AP-ESC, Boston 02116.

Military Muster

Airman 1st Class Steven C. Tohm, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin E. Tohm of 521 Ave. J, Hereford, has graduated from the U.S. Air Force electrician course at Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas.

During the course, students were taught the fundamentals of electricity with emphasis in the installation and maintenance of interior electrical systems and equipment. They also earned credits toward an associate degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

He received an associate degree in 1985 from Texas State Technical Institute, Amarillo.

Eating disorders on rise

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Eating disorders — mainly bulimia and anorexia nervosa — are on the increase among Americans, according to Internal Medicine News.

The medical journal says a recent report by the American College of Physicians indicates about 90 percent of those afflicted are female, with those at risk including models, dancers, actors, gymnasts and others who strive for unnaturally low body weight.

Bulimia is a syndrome characterized by secretive episodes of "binge" eating followed by self-induced purging. Health experts estimate up to 18 percent of adolescent and college-age females in the U.S. are affected.

Anorexia nervosa, a psychological and endocrine condition involving an inordinate fear of becoming overweight, affects roughly 10 percent of young American women, according to the report.

Stress and social pressures — the usual causes of morbid fear of obesity — are given as the sources of these eating disorders.

THE HEREFORD BRAND
 WANT ADS DO IT ALL!
 YOU WANT IT YOU GOT IT
CLASSIFIED
364-2030
 ADDRESS: 313 N. LEE

CLASSIFIED AD
 Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	.14	2.80
2 days per word	.24	4.80
3 days per word	.34	6.80
4 days per word	.44	8.80
5th day FREE

Ten days (2 free) is $15.80 minimum; 15 days (3 free) is $23.80 minimum; one month is $31.80 minimum.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
 Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALIS
 Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS
 Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR READERS:

Safe driving is a parental responsibility. You are your children's role model. If you drive without a seat belt, your children are very likely to do the same later on.

On each trip, no matter how short, infants and children need to be restrained in a properly installed seat restraint or by a seat belt.

When a driver is traveling alone with an infant, a rear-facing safety seat is appropriate.

The rear section of a station wagon is the cargo area and is not safe for transporting children.

Proper seat-belt fit requires the lap belt to run across the hip bones and come snugly across the chest. A booster seat may be necessary to raise the child up high enough that the belt does not contact the neck.

Ejection from a vehicle increases the chance of dying by 25 times. Locked doors and restraints keep passengers from being thrown to the ground.

Many thanks to the American Academy of Pediatrics for sharing this valuable information. Follow these tips and you just may save a life! — Heloise

CALENDAR COPY

Dear Heloise: I photocopy my calendar at the end of the month and send it to my daughter and her family who live in another state.

It's almost like a diary because I have the family activities in the little squares and sometimes even what we had for supper.

It makes her and the grandkids feel closer to us. Also helps to know what to ask about when we're on the phone between times. — Jeanette Pennell Doiron, Beaumont, Texas

CUTTING DATES

Dear Heloise: Have you ever tried cutting up dates when making date bars? It is no easy chore. It's messy even if you dip the scissors in water each time.

I found that if I used a pizza cutter, the dates were a lot easier to cut.

I unwrapped the package of pitted dates that were all stuck together and laid it on a cutting board. With my wheel-type pizza cutter I sliced strips off the chunk of dates without a lot of sticking. I didn't even dip the cutter in water.

This was so much easier and made making the date bars much more enjoyable. — Sharon, Leadville, Colo.

MUSCLE DEVELOPMENT

Testosterone stimulates muscular development, which requires additional protein intake.

© 1987 North America Syndicate Inc.

CRUDE OIL IN ROCK

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Crude oil is found in all major types of rock and in rock of all ages — some more than 500 million years old.

Scientists at Phillips Petroleum say they study rock characteristics to find out more about how crude oil accumulates. It is expected this knowledge will help locate prospective oil wells. However, some oil is in underground rock reservoirs too hard and too deep to be drilled economically.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I was interested in your column about childhood nutrition. I was most surprised and disappointed at your last paragraph, which contains purely sexist attitudes. To suggest that only boys need to concern themselves about protein intake because of athletic ability reinforces the attitude that boys are the true athletes. Besides, good health, not athletic ability, should be the goal. I believe you owe your public an explanation.

DEAR READER: It looks as though you totally missed the point of my remarks. In the column you were upset about I had just finished a paragraph on why young girls needed more calcium and good quality protein during the growing years — because it helps to protect them from osteoporosis later in life. In the next paragraph I gave a reason why boys also needed more protein during the growing years. There are many reasons why both boys and girls need adequate calcium and protein intake during the development years.

You do not have to have sexist attitudes to know there is a difference between boys and girls. For one thing, there is a matter of the difference between estrogen and testosterone. The sexist attitude you reference is based on a recommendation of the National Academy of Sciences that boys (age 15 through 18) need extra protein in these growing years. Why? Because testosterone causes boys, as a group, to grow bigger muscles than girls. To build those larger muscles, they do require more protein.

Estrogen stimulates the fat deposits characteristic of the female body, among other things, while testosterone stimulates the development of the male characteristics. Yes, dear reader, there is a difference between males and females. Your quarrel is not with me, but with Mother Nature.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have a question for you. How did the AIDS virus get started? Somewhere I read that it began over in Africa, among apes? If so, how could it have spread from apes to humans if the only means of its dissemination is via sexual contact or dirty needles? Did somebody (My God!) have sex with an ape in order for it to have spread to humans? Please set us all straight on that one.

DEAR READER: Don't let your imagination get the best of you. The human species is capable of a lot of things, but I don't think that ape-rape occurred in this case.

The truth is that we really do not know how the AIDS virus developed, although it appears to be a variant of less harmful viruses. The most widely accepted idea is that it was a virus that infected the green monkey — not an ape.

How did it get from the green monkey to man — if it did? Surely not sex. The idea is that it was passed by an infected monkey's bite. If the virus gets into the bloodstream, it can infect a person. The most likely ways for that to happen is from infected blood or blood products used in treating patients, or from infected needles or with sex, but a bite that breaks the skin is a possibility.

In view of more recent findings of infections in medical personnel, you would also need to consider that infected monkey blood may have gotten on the hands or body of a person who had a significant break in the skin. I'm sure you will want to read Special Report 61, Sex and AIDS, which I'm sending you. Others who want this report can send $1 and a long, self-addressed envelope with 39 cents postage to THE HEALTH LETTER, Dept. 61, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. Readers should know that this report is very explicit about sexual practices in case that should bother anyone.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am a 61-year-old woman who has a problem with considerable thinning of my hair. It has gotten worse over this last year. I first came to my attention about the same time I was going through the menopause, had breast surgery and developed high blood pressure. I take Dyazide and Minipress for my blood pressure.

I have told my doctor about this several times, but have not gotten any advice. Both sides of my family have had no problems with hair loss. I'm wondering if taking a vitamin supplement might help. I already take one multiple vitamin a day. If you could give me some advice and direction, I would appreciate it.

DEAR READER: A thinning of hair over the top and front of the scalp in females is rather common after the menopause. It is usually a form of male pattern baldness. The absence of estrogen may result in an increased production of male hormone from the adrenal cortex. That can contribute to the problem.

While it is less likely that you can regain your hair, the loss may be stopped. Hair loss can also follow surgery, but I gather that your surgery was long enough ago that surgery is not likely to be the cause of your problem. You should see a dermatologist, who can examine your hair loss.

More than one factor can be involved. A lotion of Minoxidil, called Loniten, has been used in some cases of male pattern baldness in women. Minoxidil is a medicine used to treat high blood pressure.

In the male, the male pattern baldness results in total loss of hair, causing a receding hairline or bald spot at the back of the head. In the female, marked thinning is the usual picture.

There are many different conditions that can affect hair loss. I have discussed these in Special Report 49, About Your Hair. I am sending you a free copy.

Others who want this report can send $1 and a long, self-addressed envelope with 39 cents postage to THE HEALTH LETTER, Dept. 49, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

If you are on a reasonable diet that includes an adequate amount of protein, and are taking a multiple vitamin supplement, I doubt very much that you will gain any benefit from taking additional vitamins.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My son-in-law began a diet about six months ago — not authorized by a doctor. He has lost 70 pounds. He looks great and exercises every day, but he seems to have had a definite personality change. He's extremely depressed and unpleasant. Could the diet have done this? We are all very worried about him.

DEAR READER: Family members will frequently testify that a person on a diet becomes irritable and hard to get along with. Similar reactions occur when people change other fundamental habits, such as stopping smoking. I would not doubt that such a large weight loss could cause a person to feel depressed. Depression is related to chemicals in the brain, and diet can affect brain chemistry.

But I don't think you should discourage his effort. Rather you should encourage him to see his doctor and have an evaluation. Unless he has a medical reason for losing weight, such as high blood pressure, perhaps he should at least try to stabilize for a time. A 70-pound weight loss in 26 weeks is too fast for most situations. It is better to lose weight slowly and safely, say a half-pound a week, from a health point of view.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My boyfriend takes two or three Roloids antacid tablets every day. He often overeats and has an upset stomach. In every other way he is very healthy and active. He is 23 years old, lifts weights three to four times a week, and is muscular. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 180 pounds. Can all these antacid tablets be harmful to him?

DEAR READER: I'm more concerned about why he has symptoms that lead to taking Roloids than I am about the tablets themselves. Anyone who requires antacids on a daily basis needs a medical examination to determine what is causing the trouble.

He should also consider the various things that cause the feeling of acid indigestion or heartburn. Does he drink coffee or colas? Are there specific foods that seem to cause the problem? Is he intolerant of chocolate? Many people who have "acid indigestion" really do not tolerate coffee — regular or decaffeinated. Smoking also causes such symptoms in some people.

Then there is the question of whether he has an ulcer or esophageal reflux. If he has either, he needs much better management than a few daily antacid tablets.

Antacid tablets are generally safe. But their effectiveness is limited. Almost all of them are associated with "rebound acidity." When the stomach acid is neutralized, the stomach simply produces more acid and the symptoms recur. That is why the new medicines, such as Zantac and Tagamet, that block the stomach's ability to produce acid, are superior to the antacids that simply neutralize the acid that has already been produced.

Some patients get diarrhea from taking antacid preparations available without a prescription. The aluminum compounds are constipating. So they are combined with magnesium compounds that have a laxative effect and which may cause bowel symptoms and diarrhea. Have your boyfriend read Special Report 45, Medicines for Acid Indigestion, which I am sending you. Others who want this report can send $1 and a long, self-addressed envelope with 39 cents postage to THE HEALTH LETTER, Dept. 45, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DYE IN THE WOOD

ROXIE, Miss. (AP) — Red maple is one of several tree species whose bark naturally dyes fabric, according to Georgia-Pacific Corp.

The forest products firm says the bark of red maple produces a dark blue dye, while hickory bark yields a tan shade. Apple tree bark creates a yellow tint and black birch produces a reddish-brown hue.

Inventory of items should be detailed

Try this test. Sit in your kitchen and make a list of everything in your living room. No peeking! Now, check on how many items you missed.

No one really expects to lose furniture or other belongings in a fire, burglary or tornado, but these things do happen. If disaster struck your home, would you be able to report exactly what you lost to the police, the Internal Revenue Service or your insurance company?

An up-to-date inventory of your household furnishings and personal belongings can help to:

—Determine the value of your belongings and your personal insurance needs.

—Establish the purchase dates and cost of major items in case of loss,
—Identify exactly what was lost,
—Settle your insurance claim quickly and efficiently.

—Verify losses for income tax deductions.

The Texas Insurance Advisory Association (TIAA) urges homeowners to start right away on compiling an inventory. A free leaflet with helpful hints and an inventory checklist is available by writing to the Insurance Information Institute at 800 Brazos, Suite 4220, Austin, 78701.

This checklist will help you itemize all your possessions for a more accurate assessment of your property before it is destroyed or you are under duress. There is also space to list purchase dates and prices for each item.

"The more thorough your inventory, the more valuable it will be in case of a loss," notes Harold Duble, chairman of TIAA, who recommends that homeowners back up written inventories with photographs and receipts.

"To back up your written inventory," says Duble, "photograph each wall of each room with closet or cabinet doors open. On the back of each picture, write the date, the general location and contents

Duble suggests that homeowners store their inventory and photographs in a safe place away from home.

As an alternative to photographs, Duble recommends using videocassette recorders in order to inventory the contents of the home. The homeowner is able to describe items and comment on their costs and current value as the tape is being made.

"An inventory won't reduce the insurance premium," said Duble, "but it certainly will help document the homeowner's claim in the event of a loss. An inventory also provides a system for the owner to figure out how much insurance he needs." Adds Duble, "It's wise to review insurance needs at least once a year. Add new items to the inventory as you acquire them and cross out any items you no longer own so that you are sufficiently covered without overspending."

TIAA is an advisory organization with membership consisting of 300 insurance companies writing property insurance policies in the Texas regulated market. It is licensed to advise the State Board of Insurance on matters involving property forms, rules and rates.

Over 65 percent of the world's population goes through the day without coming in contact with a newspaper, radio, television or telephone.
