Constitution enters its third century

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Constitution, fresh from its red, white and blue 200th birthday party across America, enters its third century today with a ceremony commemorating its first public reading and a look to the future.

"What we want to do now is focus on the ratification process," said former Chief Justice Warren Burger, who joined President Reagan in ceremonies Thursday near Independence Hall, where the Constitution was signed Sept. 17, 1787.

Philadelphia's $6 million bash was the centerpiece of hundreds across the nation as "We, the people ..." rang bells, paraded, saluted the flag, became citizens, and launched fireworks in tribute to the Constitution.

The commemoration in the birthplace of the Constitution began with a graveside ceremony and a parade, included a speech from President Reagan and hit a high note with a bell-ringing ceremony heard 'round the world.

Fireworks from seven barges painted the sky with rockets' red glare during a half-hour show over the Delaware River, and 1,600 guests at a star-studded black-tie affair paid tribute with songs, skits and speeches.

"In the Soviet Union under glasnost you have freedom of speech," said Soviet emigre comedian Yakov Smirnoff. "Here, you have freedom after you speak, also."

The Constitution became law when New Hampshire ratified it nine months after 39 of its framers signed it. The Bill of Rights, the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, was ratified Dec. 15, 1791.

"Four years from now, the 200th anniversary of the Bill of Rights will be an even bigger celebration," said Democratic presidential candidate Jesse Jackson. "It has given this Constitution soul and vitality."

Jackson, while noting the Constitution excluded women and blacks, called it "the envy of governments around the world because it has endured."

Today is the 200th anniversary of the first public reading of the Constitution, which was drafted in secret. The Pennsylvania Legislature, which heard that reading, planned to meet in ceremonial session today in Philadelphia.

At a town meeting tonight, Jackson, former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark and feminists Gloria Steinem and Eleanor Smeal were scheduled to address the state of civil rights today.

Elsewhere, every baby born Thursday in North Dakota was given a copy of the Constitution, courtesy of the state Bar Association.

Rhode Island — which was called Rogue Island because it boycotted the Constitution Convention and was the last of 13 states to ratify — paid homage to the document Thursday in the Supreme Court chambers with readings of the Constitution's preamble and Bill of Rights.

On the New York-New Jersey border, the largest free-flying flag in the country, 5,400 square feet, was unfurled on the George Washington Bridge.

In Philadelphia, Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger and Gov. Robert P. Casey placed a wreath at the Tomb of the Unknown Revolutionary War Hero. Then more than 20,000 marchers stepped off on a route lined by about 300,000 in a steady rain. Organizers had expected 750,000 spectators.

Speaking later near Independence Hall, Reagan called the world's first constitution "the triumph of human freedom."

Burger, whose 80th birthday coincided with the Constitution's 200th, rang a replica of the cracked and long-silent Liberty Bell at 4 p.m., the moment the Constitution was signed, signaling bells to echo throughout the land and on ships around the world. Looking on were descendants of the 39 signers.

Burger, head of the federal commission celebrating the bicentennial, likened the Constitution to a bride on a horse. "The government could pull but not push the people. It marked the beginning of the end of the idea of the divine right of kings," he said.

June Nolen, at podium, daughter of the pioneer Dameron family of Hereford, speaks about Hereford and the Constitution during ceremonies Thursday at the triangle at Fourth and 25 Mile Ave. Activities commemorating the Constitution's 200th birthday were held in Hereford and across the country Thursday.

The Branding Iron Devers enjoys role as community pastor

By DERE GRAVES
Staff Writer

"I've taught school, raised hogs, sold insurance, and now I'm a preacher. There isn't many jobs I haven't had," laughs Bill Devers.

It is the ministry which Devers says he loves. In the role of community pastor, Devers has headed up Operation Good Shepherd since 1984.

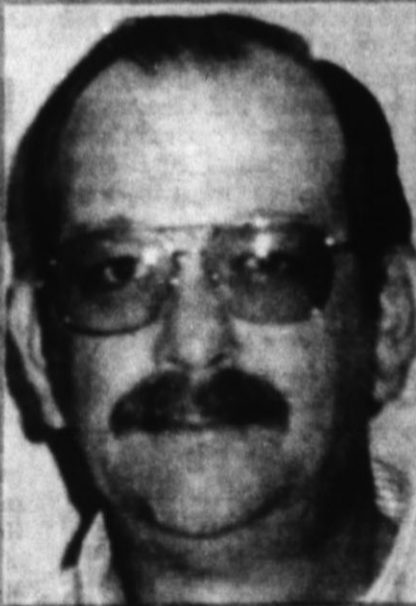

Though First Baptist Church and First Christian Church provide the greater portion of financial support for Devers' ministry, he says the concept of his ministry is well accepted by most Hereford churches.

"I was ordained in a service attended by pastors representing 10 different local churches," he says.

As executive director of Operation Good Shepherd, which receives funding that is separate from donations Devers receives, he oversees the clothes closet, food pantry, counseling and jail ministries the organization makes available for needy persons.

Devers explains that Eloise McDougall handles funds donated to Operation Good Shepherd and that many items such as clothing and food are donated by volunteers. Nickel, dime and quarter fees are charged for the clothing to help pay rent on the building which houses the operation. Devers said food, kept at FBC, is given away to the needy.

He adds that though counseling services are supposed to be charged, on a sliding scale basis, most people who receive the services do not pay.

BILL DEVERS

"Almost all of the counseling, any many of the clothes, and up being free because the people who are really in need cannot afford anything," Devers says.

Operating on faith, sometimes he earns only $350 in a month to help support his family which includes two daughters in college. Devers says the object of his ministry is simple. "Our aim is to meet people's physical needs as best as we can and move into their spiritual lives when we can," he says.

Devers was born in Shidler, Ok., and moved to Spearman when he was 14 years old. He graduated from high school in 1953 and attended West Texas State University, where he received his bachelor's degree in music education in 1958.

He taught school in Hereford Independent School District for 14 years and then returned to a brief career as a hog farmer and insurance salesman.

Throughout his years as an educator and entrepreneur, Devers worked in churches on a part-time basis. In 1984 his part-time avocation became his full-time job and his community pastor ministry was founded.

Devers says he is joined in his ministry by his wife, Elva, who is a counselor with HHS. They have three children. Diana and Monica are both students at WTSU and their son, Scott, is now a junior at HHS.

Devers' life is busy even when not answering calls from various agencies, including the police and sheriff's offices, to come assist someone in need. He was a founding member of the Hereford Chamber Singers, in 1974, and continues to direct the prestigious group which has won an honored spot to appear in the 1988 World Expo in Australia.

Devers serves on the Regional Advisory Committee of the Department of Human Services, the Child Welfare Board of Deaf Smith County and is President of Hereford Toastmasters.

His most recent project is as a new "Big Brother" in the Big Brothers-Big Sisters organization, and he continues to fill in for churches without ministers. He is currently serving as interim pastor at Union Congregational Church in Frisco.

In spite of financial strains, Devers says he is very happy in the ministry and adds, "I think Hereford is the greatest place in the world. I don't have any desire to live anywhere else."

Bork may be flip-flopping

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Bork says he's ready to accept legal doctrines he once denounced, but the concession led to accusations that he's flip-flopping to win confirmation to the Supreme Court.

"I don't want a confirmation conversion," Sen. Patrick J. Leahy, D-Vt., told Bork on Thursday, his roughest of three days before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Bork, who returns today for a third round of questions from each senator, endured sharp attacks not only from Leahy, an expected opponent, and Sen. Edward Kennedy, an announced opponent, but from Sen. Arlen Specter, who has said he is undecided.

Specter, R-Pa., accused Bork of a willingness to abandon his sacred legal principle of "original intent" — the theory that judges must follow the intent of the Constitution's framers.

To make matters worse for Bork, undecided Democrats Howell Heflin of Alabama and Dennis DeConcini of Arizona said during breaks in the hearing that they're also concerned by Bork's apparent changes in position, on issues such as equal protection for women and freedom of speech.

For his part, Bork shot back at Leahy that "I have a lot of positions in the past where I have not converted."

When Kennedy, D-Mass., accused him of advocating unlimited presidential power, Bork countered: "That is a most unfair characterization of my views."

The hearing turned poignant when it touched on the death of Bork's first wife, Claire, in 1980.

That happened after Leahy first criticized Bork for never providing free legal advice to the poor, and then pointed out that he earned about $600,000 in consulting fees from 1979 to 1981 while a Yale professor.

"Those are the only years I ever made any money in consulting," Bork said. "There was a reason I (needed) the money but I don't want to go into it here."

Bork supporter Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., refusing to let the matter rest there, asked, "But were those years in which you engaged in outside employment years which coincided with heavy medical bills in your family?"

Bork, his voice breaking, replied in one word: "Yeah."

In Specter's exchange with the nominee, the lawmaker said, "What troubles me is the very significant pronounced shifts" by Bork in areas such as free speech and sex discrimination.

Bork, for instance, said he now accepts as reality — but still disagrees with — a Supreme Court ruling that permits protesters to advocate lawbreaking, provided they don't actually cause or carry out criminal acts.

Bork told Specter he has "not shifted" his position.

And Specter said Bork is suddenly expressing the view that the 14th Amendment's guarantee of equal protection applies in sex discrimination. (See BORK, Page 2)

WDIC director in Washington

The role of the Waste Deposit Impact Committee of Deaf Smith County will be outlined to members of the House Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs today as the WDIC executive director presents testimony at the congressional hearing.

Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner said it was his intent to "introduce the WDIC, orient the committee as to Deaf Smith County being one of the most productive agricultural communities in the world, and direct their attention to the needs of the local community and affected landowners." Congressman Morris Udall is chairman of the House committee.

Eichner said he will also address the problem of impacts on the community during site characterization and ask for special consideration on land acquisition issues.

Weather

Hereford picked up .85 inch of rain from thunderstorms last night, and there is a slight chance for more rain tonight and tomorrow.

Tonight should be mostly cloudy and cooler with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms. The low will be a chilly 48 with light and variable winds.

Saturday will be partly sunny and warmer with a less than 20 percent chance of isolated afternoon thunderstorms. The high will be 78, and south wind will be 5 to 15 mph.

This morning's low at KPAN was 58 after a high Thursday of 85.

Borger pitches prison plastics

AUSTIN (AP) — A proposal for an inmate plastics-manufacturing operation that would be run with the cooperation of Phillips Petroleum Co. could help net Hutchinson County a regional prison, area officials say.

"Nobody else has come up with that very innovative idea," said Andy Hicks, president of Frank Phillips College in Borger. "We think that's a real plus."

Hicks and other representatives of the Hutchinson County Prison Task Force pitched their proposal for 2,250-inmate regional prison to Director Jim Lynaugh of the Texas Department of Corrections at a Thursday meeting that included Sen. Bill Sarpalius, D-Canyon.

Phillips Petroleum runs the nation's largest inland petrochemical complex in the Panhandle area.

Phillips spokesman D.V. Tadiello said in a letter to Lynaugh as part of a proposal packet that "the idea of a plastics process within the confines of a regional penal institution certainly is feasible and merits further evaluation."

Because the state buys large quantities of items such as plastic trash bags, trash cans, trays and cups, the plastics operation would be "a big asset to the state as a means of saving the state some money, as well as providing some training (to inmates)," Sarpalius said.

He said he was unable to immediately obtain a figure on how much the state spends on plastics. (See BORGER, Page 2)

Reagan administration blames cost for big Medicare premium hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration blames skyrocketing doctor bills for a projected 38.5 percent increase next year in the premiums paid by the nation's 31 million Medicare recipients. "We're looking at an increase of that magnitude, given the cost of doctor bills to the program," said Chuck Kline, a spokesman for the Department of Health and Human Services. The premium increase in the Medicare "Part B" program is calculated each year by HHS under a formula set by Congress, Kline said Monday. The calculated increase has not been approved formally by the department secretary, Otis R.

Bowen, of the Office of Management and Budget, but the projected figure "is probably very close to what the final one will be, if not the final one," Kline said. Kline said the final figure will be published in the Federal Register by Sept. 30. The Medicare program was created in 1965 and now provides insurance for about 31 million people, most of them elderly. Their monthly premiums would increase more than a third, from $17.80 to $24.80, beginning in January unless Congress alters the formula or makes an exception, Kline said. The annual cost to each individual would go from $214.80 to $297.60.

Bob Hardy, a spokesman for the Health Care Financing Administration, an arm of HHS, said the administration has no leeway in calculating the figure, which is based on the claims experience of the program. "These are tentative figures; they still have to go through OMB," Hardy said.

equal protection clause to all kinds of people other than racial groups is so settled and so many expectations have gone up around that... that's an interpretation that should not be overturned."

Specter: "Are you saying then that you will apply equal protection to women just as the court currently does?"

Bork: "Yes."

"But Judge Bork," Specter said at one point, "if you accept that, you're totally away from original intent."

Bork replied, "Anybody that tries to follow original intent must also have a respect for precedence because some things it's too late to change. Now, the application of the ing the government cannot afford the additional cost. "When you look at the multiples involved (in the existing programs), catastrophic would add another major increase on top of that," Kline said. Medicare recipients do not pay premiums under the other portion of Medicare, Part A, which pays for hospitalization, but they do pay a deductible for the first day of hospitalization. That amount is now $520 and Kline said he expects that to go up "a little bit."

The Washington Post said in today's editions the department planned to announce a $20 increase in the deductible. Kline said the Part A increase will not be close to the magnitude of the Part B premium hike. He said the increase in doctor bills paid under Part B has been the fastest growing burden on the Medicare program this year.

By law, premiums paid by Medicare beneficiaries must cover 25 percent of the Part B expenses, Kline said. "It is determined by the cost in the previous year," he said. "Using that formula, you come up with those numbers."

Kline said the calculated increase could affect a final decision on other proposals, including legislation that would create a new government insurance program covering the costs to treat catastrophic illnesses. The administration opposes a House-passed catastrophic illness bill, say-

The men allegedly pushed a number of bales of marijuana out of the aircraft as it flew between between Clovis and Lubbock, Conroy said.

600 pounds of marijuana carried on crashed plane

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) — A twin-engine airplane that crashed-landed in Lubbock was carrying 600 pounds of marijuana and two men, including a former employee of state Sen. Tati Santiesteban.

Robert T. Jenkins, 54, of El Paso, was in critical condition at Lubbock General Hospital. Jenkins maintains an office in Santiesteban's law firm. The other man, identified as James Bentley, 42, was in serious condition and is believed to be from Abilene.

Federal agents tracked the Cessna 340A from the U.S.-Mexican border across two states until it crash-landed in a cotton field near the Lubbock airport Thursday.

"We followed it to Clovis, N.M., where it landed," U.S. Customs Service spokesman Charles Conroy said. "They probably became aware they were being tracked there and immediately took off."

The pilot made a pass at Lubbock International Airport and went around in a second attempt at landing, but he came up short of the runway and had to make a crash landing, he said. While the airplane was still in Mexico, custom officials identified it as a target and intercepted it with airborne radar after it entered the United States near El Paso, Conroy said.

Curry County Sheriff's Department recovered a 13-pound bale of marijuana near a road in Clovis. Customs agents were continuing their investigation Thursday, Conroy said.

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas area lost 39,600 jobs in the last year to lead the nation in loss of employment base, while Los Angeles gained more jobs than any other city, a survey by a marketing research company found.

Dallas lost more of its employment base than any other major U.S. metropolitan area, including Houston, ending its reputation as one of the nation's fastest-growing cities, M-PF Research Inc. said Thursday.

Dallas and its suburbs lost 39,600 jobs during the past 12 months ending June 30, which is almost a 3 percent decline in the city's total employment base, the research firm reported.

During the 12-month period ending in June, Houston lost 37,500 jobs, or about 2.7 percent of its employment base, the second-highest rate in the M-PF survey. New Orleans was third with 12,500 jobs lost, Oklahoma City was fourth at 7,800 and Flint, Mich., was fifth with 5,800.

Los Angeles gained 107,000 jobs, while Philadelphia was No. 2 at 64,300 and Atlanta added 62,300. Washington, D.C., and New York tied for fourth at 56,000 jobs gained, M-PF found.

Analysts blame Dallas' record job loss on the area's weak economy, particularly the troubled real estate market. More than half of the jobs lost were in construction-related industries, and commercial and residential starts in the Dallas area have declined more than a third from a year ago.

The largest portion of job reductions occurred during the first half of 1987, analysts said. "Houston has bounced up a bit while Dallas has continued to decline," M-PF Research analyst Pam Eversole said. "The job loss in Houston is not as steep as it has been."

Together, Houston and Dallas accounted for more than 80 percent of the 94,300 jobs lost in Texas during the testing period. In 1986, over 13,000 jobs were lost in the Dallas area, while Houston lost 47,300. The last year Dallas and Houston saw job gains was in 1985, when Dallas' employment market grew by 32,200 jobs and Houston had 5,700 jobs created.

Specter said that while he personally wanted the language interpreted broadly, he had problems squaring Bork's now-expansive view "with your very forceful statement that you are going to carry out original intent."

Bork replied, "Anybody that tries to follow original intent must also have a respect for precedence because some things it's too late to change. Now, the application of the equal protection clause to all kinds of people other than racial groups is so settled and so many expectations have gone up around that... that's an interpretation that should not be overturned."

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I would like to say a big "THANK YOU" to Georgia Pinkerton and her staff that take care of our kids at the Norton Day Care Center. Grandmas are not easily pleased when someone else is taking care of our grandkids, but I cannot say enough for the Hereford Day Care Centers.

We have had four grandkids at the Norton Center at different times over the past five years and have three of them there now. All four of them were there during the summer. They love those kids and the kids love them. They teach them like their own and I appreciate the atmosphere of home.

If our Hereford people would look at other cities and the child care facilities they would appreciate it even more. We all need to support our day care centers and tell them what a good job they are doing.

'Party Animal' t-shirts banned

CARROLLTON, Texas (AP) — The world's best known party animal may be a beer-sale boon, but school officials in this Dallas suburb want the little doggie's T-shirts to get along home.

At Carrollton-Farmers Branch public schools, clothing that is distracting or advertises alcohol or illegal substances is not allowed on school premises, and Spuds MacKenzie clothing fits that description, officials say.

Students wearing the image of the English bull terrier — billed in beer commercials as "a party animal" who goes into "a party frenzy" after drinking Bud Light — are sent home or told to turn the shirts inside out, officials said.

"They very rarely wear it a second time," Carla McGee, a high school principal, said Wednesday. "And most of the time (they) will have another shirt in their locker."

School Superintendent Dan F. Long said the shirts that have become a new trend across the nation encourage alcohol abuse by teen-agers.

"Alcohol is a major problem with youth, and this is a boost for an alcoholic, mind-altering drug," Long said.

Michael J. Roarty, executive vice president of Anheuser-Busch Inc., the St. Louis-based makers of Bud Light, said the Spuds MacKenzie advertisements are not intended to influence minors. "Anheuser-Busch Inc. is in full agreement with any policy designed to prohibit the use of its beer promotional materials by anyone under the legal minimum age to consume beer products," Roarty said in a prepared statement.

But Long says the beer ads are targeted toward young people.

"It just doesn't appear to be logical that on one hand we're trying to warn teen-agers about the dangers of alcohol and yet on the other hand it is glamorized," Long told the Dallas Morning News. "They take an innocent animal and put him up as a symbol of this product to youth."

Other Dallas-area school districts have dress codes similar to that of Carrollton-Farmers' Branch, officials said.

Ed Stevens, superintendent of schools in Duncanville, another Dallas suburb, doesn't specifically ban Spuds MacKenzie T-shirts.

"But if the T-shirts make reference to the word 'beer,' then we don't allow them to wear it," he said. "It says Spuds MacKenzie had fun this summer, it's OK."

Rodney Davis, Dallas public schools spokesman, said principals of individual schools are allowed to determine their own dress codes.

"It's kind of a judgment call," Davis said. "What might be considered good taste in one area might not be considered good taste in another."

"An unopened briefcase was found at the site of the crash, and we are hopeful it will be a major part of the investigation," he said.

Santiesteban, D-El Paso, said he last saw Jenkins Tuesday or Wednesday. He said he hired Jenkins in the mid-1970s as a paralegal assistant for his law firm, Santiesteban, Kennedy and Martin.

"He had had a law license in Arizona, but he got into some kind of trouble in the early '70s and lost it," Santiesteban said. "But we hired him as a paralegal because he was real smart and could do research well."

Dallas: Nation's job loss capital

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas area lost 39,600 jobs in the last year to lead the nation in loss of employment base, while Los Angeles gained more jobs than any other city, a survey by a marketing research company found.

The last year Dallas and Houston saw job gains was in 1985, when Dallas' employment market grew by 32,200 jobs and Houston had 5,700 jobs created.

"Nationally, we have an economic boom going on — it's just hard to see that if you are sitting in Dallas," M-PF Research Chairman Oliver Mattingly said. "I feel positive that this job loss won't continue at this rate in Dallas."

PASTA IS A VERSATILE STAPLE
DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Pasta, in a variety of shapes and sizes, is one of the most versatile staples you can have on hand, Better Homes and Gardens says.

It says pasta may be used for hot or cold salads, casseroles, main dishes, soups and side dishes. In fact, you can even decorate your kitchen with it by storing your favorite pastas in airtight jars and glass canisters.

When it comes to cooking pasta, the Italians use the phrase "al dente" to describe pasta cooked to the just barely done stage. But the best person to determine if pasta is done is you. Simply taste the pasta and decide.

Mungia Hands Off To Brown

touchdowns — eight yards, 16 yards and 68 yards, and Mungia scored with a one-yard quarterback keeper. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

In ninth grade football game

Stanton is 28-16 winner

Running back Larry Brown scored three touchdowns Thursday to help the Stanton Junior High School ninth grade football team defeat Houston Junior High School of Amarillo, 28-16.

Quarterback Max Mungia scored the other Stanton touchdown as Stanton evened its season record at 1-1. Stanton plays at Clovis next Thursday, against Marshall at 4 p.m.

Houston Junior High School gained an 8-0 lead with 6:57 left in the second quarter, but Stanton tied it up at 8-8 with 2:19 left in the first half when Brown rushed eight yards for a touchdown and also scored the two-point conversion. In the play before the touchdown run, Brown rushed for a 15-yard gain.

Houston gained back the lead, 16-8, with a 70-yard touchdown run and a two-point conversion. But that was to be the last of the scoring by the visitors against the Stanton defense.

A 16-yard touchdown run by Brown in the third quarter cut Houston's lead to 16-14. Then, with 9:25 left in the fourth quarter, Brown raced 68 yards for a touchdown to put Stanton into the lead, 20-16.

Max Mungia completed a pass to Oscar Pesqueda for a two-point conversion and a 22-16 lead.

Less than half a minute later, Houston Junior High School fumbled and lost the ball at its own four-yard line. Carlos Carbajal caused the fumble, and Michael King recovered it for Stanton.

Mungia later scored from the one-yard line in a third down play with 8:28 left in the game. That gave Stanton what was to be its final margin, 28-16.

HHS sophomores lose

another close game, 8-6

Hereford High School's sophomore football team suffered its second straight close loss Thursday when it was edged by Clovis, 8-6, at Whiteface Stadium.

The loss dropped the HHS sophomores to 0-3 on the season. Hereford plays at Friona next Thursday against the Friona junior varsity at 7 p.m.

Hereford gained a 6-0 lead over Clovis in the first quarter by scoring in its first possession of the ball. Jim Hillwig carried the ball for a one-yard touchdown run. The extra-point kick attempt failed.

Clovis got its first points in the second quarter with a safety. The safety was scored when the ball was snapped over the Hereford punter's head and out of the end zone.

Clovis scored a touchdown in the third quarter for an 8-6 lead.

Turnovers hurt the Hereford sophomores in the final period. Fumbles were lost at midfield with 11:11 left and with 5:33 left.

Overall team effort

Herd JV scores 25-14 win

The rushing of Kelvin Brown and the passing of Carl DeLozier to Nick Kendall, coupled with the blocking of a punt by Moses Casas and the returning of the blocked punt by Richard Abalos for a touchdown, powered the Hereford High School junior varsity football team to a 25-14 victory at Lubbock Monterey Thursday.

La Plata ninth grade boys defeat Bowie

The La Plata Junior High School ninth grade football team evened its season record at 1-1 by defeating Bowie Junior High School 20-8 Thursday in Amarillo.

La Plata plays at home next Thursday against Gattis of Clovis at 4 p.m.

La Plata trailed Bowie 8-0 at halftime. But in the third quarter, La Plata moved into the lead, 12-8.

The first La Plata touchdown was scored by Greg Urbanczyk, who rushed one yard for the touchdown. Cody Pages passed to Garrett McPherson for a 10-yard scoring play for the second touchdown.

A two-yard touchdown run by T.J. Head increased the lead to 18-8, and a two-point conversion was successful to make it 20-8. Head passed to Matt Bromlow for the two-point conversion.

La Plata Coach Ed Coplen said his outstanding players on offense in the game included Urbanczyk, Head, Amado Lopez, and Trey Patterson, and that the outstanding players on defense included Cody Page, Brian Bentley, Oscar Garcia, and Chris Tardy.

Hereford is now 2-1 for the season, and will play at home next Thursday against Frenship at 7 p.m.

Hereford gained a 7-0 lead over Monterey in the first quarter with the return of the blocked punt, and an extra-point kick by J.T. Heaton. Monterey tied up the game at 7-7 later in the first quarter.

Brown dashed 70 yards for a second quarter touchdown for Hereford and a 13-7 lead. The extra-point attempt failed.

In the third quarter, Monterey gained the lead, 14-13. But Hereford gained the lead right back, 19-14, later in that quarter when Kendall caught a 22-yard pass from DeLozier.

That touchdown was the end result of a 60-yard drive after Anthony Gonzales intercepted a Monterey pass.

The DeLozier-Kendall connection came about again in the fourth quarter for a 15-yard touchdown pass and the 25-14 margin. That touchdown was set up by another blocked punt — blocked by Casas.

Hereford offensive Coach Craig

Yenzer said, "Carl DeLozier had an excellent ball game, both throwing the ball and in being a leader on the field."

Kelvin Brown rushed for 110 yards in 10 carries. Brown also had an 80-yard touchdown run that was called back because of a penalty.

Another touchdown was called back because of a penalty — a 25-yard pass from DeLozier to Jared Victor.

Hereford defensive Coach Bill Bridge said, "Our defensive line did a good job of pass rushing. It was a total victory."

Sanderson, Fernandez lead

La Plata 7th grade to win

Richard Sanderson scored three touchdowns, and Ricky Fernandez scored one touchdown and three two-point conversions to help lead the La Plata seventh grade football team to a 30-26 victory over Friona Thursday in Hereford.

In the other half of a football doubleheader, the La Plata eighth grade team was shut out by Friona, 30-0.

Thursday's games were the season openers for both La Plata teams. Next Tuesday, the La Plata seventh grade "A" and "B" teams both play Plainview Red at Plainview, with the first game beginning at 4 p.m.

The La Plata eighth graders play at home next Thursday against Gattis of Clovis, at 5:30 p.m.

The touchdown runs by La Plata seventh grader Richard Sanderson were 65 yards in the first quarter, 70 yards in the third quarter, and 46 yards in the fourth quarter.

Ricky Fernandez scored with a 5-yard run in the fourth quarter, before the 46-yard touchdown run by Sanderson.

La Plata seventh grade Coach Greg Hazelwood said, "Our first team defense played great," noting that a punt was blocked in the first quarter and that Cory Newton recovered a Friona fumble to set up the third quarter touchdown.

"The second team offense, even though they didn't score, and the second defense, both put out great efforts," Hazelwood adds.
