New member

membership blitz. To Cavin's right are blitz co-chairman Cecil Oglesby and Chamber president Larry Malamen.

Chamber drive underway

The Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce will hold a membership "blitz" through March 3 in a coordinated effort to promote membership in the Chamber and in the Women's Division.

Membership co-chairmen Bill Bankston and Cecil Oglesby said over 50 people will be working with citizens throughout the county to garner their support for the Chamber.

"It is the objective of the Chamber to focus membership growth in all areas of our economy," said Oglesby. "We want to make a very strong effort to increase the agricultural and farming sector. It is up to the entire community to join hands in full support to help reach the goals that are necessary for us to be the Hustlin' Hereford we want us to be."

The drive will focus on agricultural, retail, professional, educational and retired persons. However, anyone in the community is eligible to become a Chamber member.

Executive vice president Mike Carr said the Chamber depends almost entirely upon the financial support of the membership. The dues, $120 for a business and $60 for an individual each year, are used to maintain office operations and to carry out the work program established by the Chamber board and committees.

Persons not contacted for membership may call the Chamber at 364-3333.

Simnacher honored

Al Simnacher of Hereford has received the Silver Beaver Award from the Boy Scouts of America.

The award is made each year to persons for distinguished service in the Boy Scouts and in the community.

Simnacher has served in virtually every area of scouting, from Cubmaster to assisting with numerous district projects. His troop has received several National Camping Awards.

Simnacher received the award Feb. 13 at a council banquet in Pampa.

DALLAS (AP) — GOP presidential hopefuls Bob Dole and Pat Robertson have damaged their chances in the Super Tuesday Texas primary because they snubbed a Republican debate at the last minute, party members say.

Their absence turned the Friday night debate into a one-on-one between Vice President George Bush and New York Rep. Jack Kemp, and observers said the two who attended stood to gain ground in Texas.

"It's a definite minus for Dole and

New signals are planned

Five Hereford traffic signals will be improved in the next five years as a result of a new five-year program approved in January by the State Dept. of Highways and Public Transportation.

Signals on Loop 211 (East Park) at intersections with Avenues K, F and B, at Park and U.S. 385, and at Main and U.S. 60 will be modernized between now and 1992.

The lights at K, F, and B and at 60 and Main operate on timers 24 hours a day regardless of traffic flow. Those signals will be updated, using sensors buried just under the pavement to gauge traffic flow at all times and adjust the signals accordingly.

Left-turn signals may be added but are not anticipated, according to preliminary SDHPT plans.

The signals at U.S. 385 and Park will be modernized to aid visibility of the signals.

Specific costs of the local project were not available, but the statewide project to update signals on 55 state roads and 151 city streets in Texas will cost about $93 million.

"This program gives smaller Texas cities the opportunity to answer some local traffic needs," said Roger Welsch, highway department deputy director. "We are pleased to cooperate with cities because it is a big benefit to the state highway system and to city streets. Improved street reduce the number of short trips on state highways. The city benefits, the highway system benefits, and the public benefits."

The bidding process for signal construction should be later this year.

Man stabbed to death

A 22-year-old Hereford man was stabbed to death early Saturday morning during a fight at 410 Ave. B. Juan Jose Mendez was pronounced dead at Deaf Smith General Hospital, where he was taken by friends who were with him when the fight broke out.

Abram Nunez, 20, of 401 Ave. C, was arrested about five hours later at his residence after a warrant was issued for his arrest by Justice of the Peace Johnnie Turrentine. He was taken to Deaf Smith County Jail, where he is awaiting formal arraignment.

Mendez died from several stab wounds to the chest and abdomen. He was pronounced dead by Turrentine at 3 a.m. Saturday.

According to several witnesses, the fight broke out following an argument between the two at a party. The two went out into the street to fight, according to witnesses.

The murder weapon had not been located by police Saturday morning. Funeral arrangements for Mendez are pending at Gilliland-Watson Funeral Home.

Kemp, Dole hash issues

By MERRILL HARTSON
Associated Press Writer

Republican Jack Kemp used a rare one-on-one confrontation with GOP presidential rival George Bush to claim he is best qualified to continue "the Reagan revolution," while Democratic candidates debated bitterly despite a plea to tone down their family feud.

Relishing the limelight relinquished by Sen. Bob Dole and Pat Robertson, who boycotted the GOP debate Friday night in Dallas, Kemp assailed Bush's stance on a nuclear missile defense and called the vice president's budget-balancing plan unworkable.

The candidates in both parties kept up heavy-duty rhetorical fire as they sought to gain momentum going into upcoming primaries and caucuses, especially the Super Tuesday contests in 20 states on March 8.

While Bush suggested that Dole was "angry and bitter" over his second-place finish in New Hampshire, the vice president's aides acknowledged that he was withdrawing from competition in Tuesday's South Dakota primary. Bush wants to devote more attention to the southern and border states holding contests on Super Tuesday, they said.

Dole, meanwhile, appearing in Lexington, Ky., said he was not shaken by his runner-up showing in New Hampshire and that he will do well in South Dakota and Minnesota.

"We're ready for the next round in South Dakota and Minnesota and we'll see who wins those two. We'll see who's spirited Wednesday morning next week," the Kansas senator said.

In their second caustic debate in as many days, three Democratic candidates played catch-the-leader in turning their criticism toward front-runners Michael Dukakis and Richard Gephardt.

Jesse Jackson drew hoots from the crowd in St. Paul, Minn., when he asked Gephardt if he was "proud of your vote for the Reagan tax cut in 1981." The Missouri congressman defended his overall tax voting record. Most of that tax cut "went to ordinary people," he said. (See DEMOS, Page 2)

Swaggart faces investigation

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — TV evangelist Jimmy Swaggart is being investigated by the Assemblies of God church amid reports of accusations similar to the ones he made against Jim Bakker, the ousted PTL leader.

The denomination's 13-member Executive Presbytery met with Swaggart at its headquarters here for nearly 10 hours Thursday "to discuss matters that could affect his credentials with the church," church spokeswoman Juleen Turnage said Friday. Mrs. Turnage would not give details of the investigation, but said it is a "critical situation" and that Swaggart is cooperating. The Assemblies of God last year stripped Bakker of his credentials.

ABC's "Nightline," citing sources it did not identify, reported early today that church officials at the meeting were shown photographs purported to show Swaggart and a known prostitute going into and out of a motel room.

Swaggart did not deny to church officials that he had been with a prostitute, ABC reported. ABC said New Orleans preacher Marvin Gorman was believed to have provided the photos to church officials.

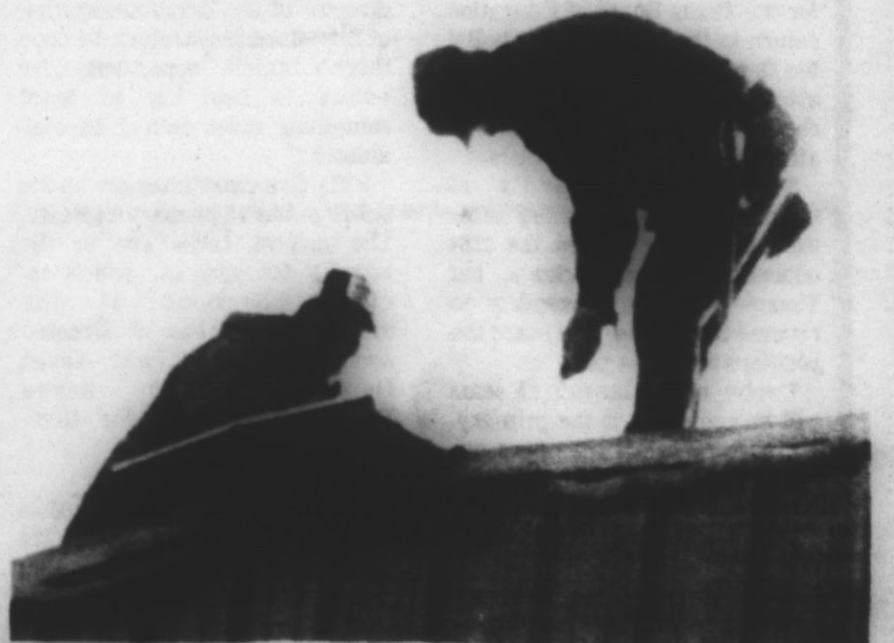

The Assemblies of God defrocked Gorman in 1986 for "immorality and conduct unbecoming to a minister," an unidentified church official told The Washington Post.

The Assemblies of God did not comment on the nature of its investigation. Swaggart spokeswoman Barbara Klein said late Friday: "At this point, we don't have a statement."

Bakker, who was stripped of his credentials as a minister in the church following allegations of homosexuality and an extramarital sexual encounter in 1980 with Jessica Hahn, said Friday night that the reports about Swaggart were "most confusing and hurtful."

"I'm shocked," he added. "What we've gone through no one on earth should have to go through."

Deadline

Trying to beat sundown, a work crew fastens metal atop the roof of the new Vasek Heating and Air Conditioning building on the north edge of Hereford. Just across the street, work is underway on the new Higginbotham-Bartlett Lumber Co. store.

Local Roundup

Commissioners meet Monday

Deaf Smith County commissioners will consider a 12-item agenda at their meeting Monday at 10 a.m. at the courthouse in Hereford. The agenda includes an appointment to the salary grievance committee; liability insurance; computer bids for the district attorney's office; weed problems on county right-of-ways; need for another jailer; and a preliminary 1988-89 budget.

Medical fund established

A medical fund to benefit Joe Hamilton has been established at Hereford State Bank and First National Bank of Hereford.

Band boosters meet Tuesday

The Hereford Band and Orchestra Booster Club will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Hereford High School band hall. Boosters will discuss the upcoming band and orchestra banquet and select a nominating committee. All boosters are urged to attend.

Volunteers to meet

Panhandle Community Services will hold an orientation session on Tuesday for the upcoming commodity distribution. Volunteers are asked to meet at the PCS office at 603 E. Park at 10 a.m. on Tuesday.

Two arrested

A 22-year-old man was arrested at his home Friday when Hereford police received a report that the man had assaulted his wife. Police said the woman had a small facial injury, but treatment was not needed.

Police also arrested a woman, 23, for running a stop sign, second offense of no liability insurance, and an outstanding city warrant for assault.

Offenses included a break-in at Frames by Lorraine, 101 Ave. E, where several items were taken and the business was ransacked; a CB radio and a radar detector stolen from a pickup at 206 Ave. E; a girl, 12, who said she was assaulted by a male juvenile near the Blue Water Gardens complex; a woman at 619 Ave. G reported that someone had taken her son's bike and left another in its place; and a barking dog report from 435 N. Ranger.

Police issued five citations Friday.

Super Sunday

Sunday should be fair with a high of 65. West-southwest wind will be 5 to 15 mph.

Saturday's low at KPAN was 18 after a high Friday of 61. The extended forecast is calling for cooler-than-normal temperatures Tuesday and Wednesday, but no precipitation is expected. Monday's high should be in the 50s.

Chamber plans March 3 salute

"A Salute to Hereford" will be the theme of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce banquet March 3 at the Deaf Smith County Bull Barn.

The banquet will include a review of the Chamber's work program and introduction of the new directors, officers and committee chairmen.

The Citizen of the Year, as chosen by the Hereford Lions Club, will be announced at the banquet, and the Hereford Chamber Singers will present their all-new program at the banquet.

The program will be a part of the presentation the Singers will make on their Australian tour in June.

"The Chamber is very proud of the many assets that Hereford has and we want to give our city a special salute," said President Larry Malamen. "The Hereford Chamber Singers are one of Hereford's strongest ambassadors and we are very happy to be able to have them join with us to share this evening."

The banquet is open to everyone, and tickets will go on sale Monday at the Chamber office at 701 N. Main. Tickets may also be purchased from any of the Hereford Boosters or from a Chamber board member.

Hance unopposed in GOP primary

AUSTIN (AP) — Two Railroad Commission seats are up for grabs in the Texas primaries, one with unopposed candidates in each party and the second featuring a long-time incumbent, a perennial candidate and the son of a former commissioner.

Republican incumbent Kent Hance, appointed when Commissioner Mack Wallace quit last year, is unopposed in the March 8 GOP primary. State Rep. Clint Hackney of Houston is unopposed to become Hance's Democratic opponent in the November general election.

Hance, 45, and Hackney 35, already are sparring with each other in preparation for their November battle.

Hance says Hackney's legislative experience is not a solid background for a member of the Railroad Commission, which regulates the state's oil, gas and transportation industries.

Hackney, meanwhile, says Hance only wants to keep the commission job long enough to set himself up for a race for higher office, possibly governor. A former congressman and unsuccessful U.S. Senate candidate, Hance lost the 1986 GOP gubernatorial nomination after jumping from the Democratic Party.

The winner of the Hance-Hackney election will serve through 1990, completing Wallace's term.

In the contested primaries, six candidates hope to unseat incumbent Democrat Jim Nugent, 65, a commissioner since 1979.

Nugent's Democratic primary opponents are John Thomas Henderson, 81, an Austin real estate broker who has lost four previous Railroad Commission races, and Jerry Langdon, 36, a Midland oil and gas consultant.

Seeking the GOP nomination are Ed Emmett, 38, of Round Rock, executive director of TexAID, a coalition of companies that ship goods; P.S. "Sam" Ervin, 73, a Dallas oil and gas consultant; Ralph Hoelscher, 44, a San Angelo-area farmer and rancher; and Dale W. Steffes, 54, a Houston energy consultant.

Nugent is offering an energy recovery program that includes decontrol of natural gas, repeal of the windfall profits tax and partial reinstatement of the oil depletion allowance.

Nugent also has pushed to enforce truck weight limits and directed efforts to improve the safety of natural gas and hazardous liquids pipelines.

Langdon, whose father, Jim, served on the commission from 1963 to 1978, said Nugent has lost general election.

KENT HANCE

touch with state energy needs. Langdon called for an oil import fee and said deliverability problems must be solved to avert a natural gas shortage.

Henderson, who refuses campaign contributions, ran as a Democrat in 1978 and as a Republican in 1982, 1984 and 1986. He said if elected, he would work to increase U.S. oil production by promoting methods such as federal tax incentives.

"It makes as much sense as helping the farmers," Henderson said.

Emmett, a former state representative from Kingwood who lost last year's GOP primary for the Railroad Commission seat won by Democrat John Sharp, said the commission should make it easier for trucking companies to locate in Texas and should search for new natural gas markets.

Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower "has gone out and really promoted Texas agriculture products. I intend to do the same thing for Texas energy products," Emmett said. Hoelscher, who also lost in the 1986 GOP primary, favors trucking deregulation and efforts to prevent pollution from oil exploration, development and production. He also supports state involvement in developing a national energy policy.

Republican Ervin, who in 1986 ran as a Democrat, has attracted attention for the name he took from a man he says was his cousin. The other Sam Ervin, now dead, was a U.S. senator from North Carolina who led the Senate Watergate investigation.

"I just picked it as a gimmick, sort of, to get a little publicity... I don't see that using a name is any worse than using money," Ervin said. He legally changed his name when the Democratic Party refused to let him use the self-imposed nickname on the 1986 primary runoff ballot.

Ervin is pushing a plan to promote secondary recovery of oil in fields.

Steffes said he wants to revive the petroleum industry by promoting a plan to limit foreign imports and stimulate domestic production. He has said he would keep Texans informed of regulatory decisions.

Also vying for Railroad Commission seats in the Libertarian Party's caucus system are Trinidad Aguirre of Austin for the seat held by Hance and Chloe "Jack" Daniel of Farmers Branch and Richard Draheim of Austin for the seat held by Nugent.

Here are sample ballots

Below are sample ballots for the March 8 primary elections provided by County Clerk David Ruland. The actual ballots will include candidates for precinct chairmen in each precinct. The actual ballots for voters in County Commissioner Precincts One and Three will also include only the candidates involved in each particular party. The ballots are provided as a public service by the Brand to assist county voters. Absentee voting is now underway at the county clerk's office on the second floor of the Deaf Smith County Courthouse in Hereford.

15 seats up for grabs in SBOE races

DALLAS (AP) — Candidates for the Texas Board of Education return to the bottom of the ballot for the March 8 primary, a non-attention-getting spot that worries many educators who will be affected by the board's decisions.

The present board's 15 members were appointed after the Legislature passed the 1984 education reform package, but Texans voted in November to reverse the process and make the positions elective again.

Twelve of the board's 15 seats will be contested in the primary. Six current board members are running for election and three are involved in a primary contest.

Voters will have to take a long look at the ballot to find the education board candidates. They will be found below those running for Congress, Legislature, state courts and Texas Railroad Commission.

With education reform and school financing issues still pressing, educators are concerned about voters who will overlook the education board decision or, worse, vote for a candidate about whom they know nothing.

"This could be the most important vote of the primary," said

Dr. Johnny Veselka, executive director of the Texas Association of School Administrators. "I hope there's ample opportunity for voters to find out at least something about each of the candidates."

Fifty-five candidates are on the ballot in the 18 primary contests. The largest races are in the board's 5th district, which includes portions of the metropolitan areas of Houston and San Antonio, with seven Democrats and seven Republicans vying for their party's nomination.

Dallas billionaire and education reformer H. Ross Perot led the battle against the November referendum of an elected board and blames himself for the defeat. Perot said people motivated by self-interest are already busy trying to take control of the board again.

"The tragic thing is next November, our state board will be determined by region, in terms of whether or not that region goes Democrat or Republican for President," Perot told a group of Texas publishers recently. "It won't have anything to do with who's running."

The chance that voters may bypass the education vote prompted at least one teacher's organization to make endorsements of primary candidates.

"We endorsed all the incumbent board members," said Annette Cootes, spokeswoman for the Texas State Teachers Association. "We felt the current board did a good job of implementing a bad (reform) law."

Ms. Cootes said TSTA members interviewed all the candidates, but did not endorse candidates who are former superintendents or appear to have attachments to special interest groups.

She said TSTA members support most of the 1984 education reforms with the notable exception of teacher competency testing, which they say is handled inequitably.

"The appraisal system has got to be fair and teachers have got to believe in it," Ms. Cootes said. "It (appraisal) is handled differently from school to school, even within a district. Instead of improving morale, it's hurting."

DEBATE

Dallas Morning News, KERA-TV and Texas Monthly magazine — strenuously denied those charges, and moderator Roger Mudd said Friday night the questions were prepared just hours before the debate.

Kemp said after the debate that Dole and Robertson were unwise to cancel.

"They've trivialized the state of Texas, they've trivialized the Southern primaries," Kemp said. "They've really trivialized the primary process, particularly in Texas and the South, for them to be divvying up the South."

He said he would have told the Dole people to "bug off" if they had tried to persuade him not to appear.

"I have played a lot of stadiums

(where) I didn't particularly appreciate the response," Kemp said. "But if you're competitive, you play where the action is. And Dallas is where the action is."

Other Texas Republicans also said they believe Bush solidified his Texas support by appearing at the debate, televised by the Public Broadcasting Service from Southern Methodist University.

"There is no way George Bush could have backed out of a debate in Texas. The fact Pat Robertson and Bob Dole did shows they expect that Texas is George Bush's home turf," said Dallas County Judge Lee Jackson, a Bush supporter.

"They can't have it both ways. They say it's not his turf, but then they're afraid to come in on his home turf," Jackson said.

Bush calls Texas home when he's in Texas, and has been criticized by other candidates for telling voters in New Hampshire he was one of them. He was born in Connecticut, has a home in Maine, went to school in Massachusetts, worked in California and came to Odessa in 1948 to work in the oil business.

He represented Texas in Congress for four years, lists his address as the Houstonian Hotel and votes in Houston.

"I have a Texas hunting license, a Texas driver's license, and my voter registration (in Houston)," he told the cheering post-debate party after his introduction by former Dallas Cowboys quarterback Roger Staubach.

DEMOS

retorted: "That was the trigger of this whole deficit crisis."

Dukakis, the winner of the New Hampshire primary this week, took a direct shot at Gephardt's trade policies, warning during the Friday debate that "we've got to do more than wave a fist at our foreign competitors."

"Why is everyone defending unfair trade practices?" Gephardt said. Toward the end of a turbulent campaign week that saw the withdrawals of Republicans Alexander M. Haig Jr. and Pete du Pont and Democrat Bruce Babbitt, there were these other developments:

—Democrat Paul Simon said in South Dakota that he would remain in the presidential race, despite saying just days earlier he would drop out if he didn't win in South Dakota or Minnesota's contests next Tuesday.

"I'm in it until the finish line in Atlanta," he said, contending he had received an "outpouring of encouragement" and money since his disappointing third-place finish in New Hampshire.

—Robertson, holding a rally with supporters at the same posh Dallas hotel where Bush and his entourage had stayed, said he backed out of the debate because he didn't get enough tickets for his supporters, "and I'd rather be with you here."

In an exchange between Kemp and Bush that provoked laughter, debate moderator Roger Mudd asked if their appearance might suggest a GOP ticket for 1988. Kemp responded, "I don't think George Bush wants to serve another eight years as vice president."

LABELING MEAT AND
POULTRY PRODUCTS

Have you ever looked at a packaged dinner or frozen entree in the grocery store and wondered exactly what was inside? Well if it contains a poultry or meat product, all you have to do is read the label.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture must approve the labels on any products containing at least 3 percent meat or 2 percent poultry. The food may contain more meat or poultry than these percentages, but no less. If a product contains less than these minimum amounts, it must be called something else.

The USDA has standards for over 200 poultry and meat products, and limits the amount of fat, moisture and other ingredients that can be added to these products.

The following examples of various meat and poultry products has been compiled by the USDA to give you an idea of what their labels mean.

- Beef with Gravy-must contain at least 50 percent cooked beef.
- Gravy with Beef - must contain at least 35 percent cooked beef.
- Beef stew - must contain at least 25 percent beef.
- Chili con Carne - must contain at least 40 percent meat.
- Chicken Soup - (Ready to eat) must contain at least 2 percent chicken meat.
- Chicken Soup - (Condensed) must contain at least 4 percent chicken meat.
- Pizza with Sausage - must contain at least 12 percent cooked sausage or

- 10 percent dry sausage.
- Turkey pie - must contain at least 14 percent cooked turkey meat.
- Turkey Ham - is cured thigh meat.

Pictures on approved labels honestly depict the product in the package. If an item is pictured on the label to enhance the product, but is not included in the package, it must be identified as a "suggested serving." These labels truly tell what's inside if we the consumer will take the time to read labels carefully.

Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socioeconomic level, race, color, sex, religion, handicap or national origin.

Red Cross Update

The Uniformed Volunteers will meet Tuesday, Feb. 23 at noon at the Red Cross office. The covered dish luncheon will be the regular meeting for February. Anyone interested in joining this group is invited to attend this luncheon.

The Disaster Committee will meet Thursday, Feb. 25 to plan training sessions to be held this spring. The meeting will begin at 7:30 at the Red Cross office.

A blood pressure screening will be held Saturday, Feb. 27 beginning at 10:00 am. Volunteers are needed to assist with this clinic.

Special thanks to Ruth and Karl King for helping to shape up our Disaster Relief Room. We have been able to help immediately in several cases because we do have storage room for furniture, household goods and clothing. Thanks also to Mattie Beasley, Leta Eubanks and others for helping in the clothing room.

The Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross is a United Way Agency.

Author to speak at library

Wildlife enthusiast, Dan True of Amarillo, will be speaking during the Friends of the Library's annual meeting at 7 p.m. Monday in the Deaf Smith County Library Heritage Room. The public is invited to attend.

Another highlight of the meeting will be the naming of the library's Family of the Year. The organization's bylaws will also be approved and new officers will be elected.

For more information, call the library at 364-1206.

Receiving Funds

Pilot Club holds meeting

Pilot Club of Hereford met recently for their regular 7 a.m. meeting in the Community Center.

It was decided by the club to donate $100 to Hereford Day Care Center to aid in the center's renovations. Wanda Cobb, vice-president, presented the check to Patricia Workman, vice-chairman of Hereford Day Care Center.

Other business matters were discussed. It was decided that a Mexican Stack Supper would be held March 11, tentatively, serving as a fund-raiser for the club.

Texas has had free public schools for generations. Texas school children have been provided physical facilities and teachers and for years school children have received free textbooks.

In this community, perhaps most people believe that learning to read and write is something done by everybody. We have never really been alarmed by the problems of illiteracy because we are not likely to come across illiterates very often.

Yet it might come as a shock to learn that Texas ranks 49th in the 50 states in the matter of literacy. That's right, one in five Texans cannot read well enough to function in this society.

There is a high correlation between reducing functional illiteracy and reducing unemployment. A skilled and educated work force is essential if Texas is to achieve its goal of economic diversification.

According to the Texas Education Agency, 36 percent of Texans have not completed high school. Of household heads receiving Aid for Dependent Children, 63 percent are high school dropouts. And 91 percent of the inmates in the Texas Department of Corrections are high school dropouts.

A Texas Literacy Council, funded with a $100,000 Gannett Foundation grant, held its first meeting on February 8 to discuss how to cure illiteracy in Texas. It is a big challenge and hopefully something concrete will come out of this new Council because obviously Texas is way behind in the race to cure illiteracy.

Many things have contributed to the illiteracy problem. The pressure to achieve racial integration has resulted in lowering the standards in some instances, with students being moved along regardless of their achievement levels. Many Mexican immigrants cannot yet speak English and are regarded as illiterate in English.

There is work to be done if Texas is to get off the bottom of the national literacy heap. It is quite a challenge.

From Blooey To Woocce

Texas is peeking out of the financial hole into which it tumbled when the petroleum industry went blooey. State Treasurer Ann Richards, who has been regularly bearing bad news lately, now has something good to say about state finances. The cash flow has improved to the point where "the state should have a sizable cash balance when the biennium ends on Aug. 31, 1989," she reported. ...

And while part of the improvement is due to new taxes, there has been an upsurge in the economy as well. Maybe Texas will never get back to the days when its surpluses were an embarrassment, but it's nice to see some color other than red on the ledger.

- Corpus Christi Caller-Times, Feb. 13

Clements Building Bridges

One of the strengths of the Clements administration — both terms — has been the governor's determination to strengthen relations between Texas and neighboring Mexican states ... Another product of this effect was announced (Feb. 11) — an unprecedented agreement between Nuevo Leon and Texas to strengthen economic ties.

Also, the governor pledged his support for building a Rio Grande bridge immediately northwest of Laredo. The documents signed by Clements and Gov. Jorge A. Trevino Martinez outlined commitments to exchange transportation and highway research and to enhance industrial relations between the two states.

- Austin American-Statesman, Feb. 15

Big Contributions Mar Court System

The Texas Research League released a study this week which finds that costly election campaigns and large contributions impair the integrity of the Texas judicial system. The study recommends contributions be limited to $5,000 from any one source.

The recommendation is solid as far as it goes. If contributions were limited to $1,000, or even $500 per individual or law firm, the state's high courts would have a better chance of regaining public confidence. ...

The proliferation of judges, courts and spending provides no assurance that the best qualified judge will be elected. On the contrary, the judge who receives the most votes is likely to be the judge who collected and spent the most money to get his name before the public. ...

Whether Texas voters are ready for judges on statewide courts to be chosen by this (appointive) method remains to be seen. But as long as the system of electing all judges prevails, the Legislature should impose limits on contributions to prevent a total buyout of the judicial system.

Soviet 'Visits' On U.S. Island Prompt Concern

It's still not clear whether Soviet military personnel have been sneaking on to St. Lawrence Island, a desolate chunk of U.S. soil in the Bering Sea, but the possibility of these surreptitious visits cannot be discounted either.

St. Lawrence Island is about 50 miles off the coast of mainland Alaska, but it's only 37 miles off the mainland of the Soviet Union.

It is inhabited by 650 Eskimos, and recently some islanders have been finding Soviet-made items on the island such as beer cans, batteries, a gas mask, buoys with explosive charges, pieces of Soviet uniforms, etc. Island residents also report seeing mysterious strangers — some clad in wet suits and scuba gear — who run off when encountered.

The "official" Pentagon response is that the material is flotsam and jetsam washed ashore by ocean currents, but that doesn't explain how some of it was found far inland or why it included items which don't float, such as batteries.

The Reagan administration should send a firm note to the Soviet Union stating that such adventures — if they are occurring — should cease immediately.

- Port Arthur News, Feb. 12

Junkies on Parole

As if there were not enough problems associated with the Texas Department of Corrections' revolving-door policy, a new study by the state parole board indicates that an alarming number of parolees are using illegal drugs.

Urinalyses were conducted on parolees in Dallas and Houston, and two-thirds of those tested were found to be using some type of illicit drug. ... Those figures provide at least one clear reason for the recidivism rate in Texas being so high. The link between drug use and crime is well-established. ...

The long-term answer is establishment of an effective drug-counseling program within the TDC. The Legislature has labored toward that goal in the past, recommending the construction of regional minimum-security units that include such programs.

When the Legislature comes to grips with the prison-overcrowding problems, it should ensure that such units receive a high priority. Whatever the cost, it will be less than the amount society is currently paying because of drug-related crimes.

Bootleg Philosopher

Editor's note: The Bootleg Philosopher on his Johnsongrass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek discusses progress this week, somewhat.

ooo

Dear editor:

I heard a man say "I saw it on television so it must be true."

This is like saying "I heard it in Washington so it must be true."

Anyway, things can be learned from television. For example, the other day the TV camera showed a new gadget used at a tennis match that may change the nature of sports umpiring.

Because the umpire at a tennis match can't always tell accurately whether a ball landed in or out of the court's boundaries, a new system was being tested. Some sort of electronic device or electric eye was planted in the white lines marking the court's boundaries. A similar device was implanted in the tennis balls. If the hit ball landed on the white line, even just barely, the electronic system's electric eye, rather than the umpire's human eye, gave the unarguable evidence, leaving McEnroe with his mouth hanging open.

This opens up great possibilities. Why leave it up to some over-weight umpire at home plate, wondering if he's going to get hit by a wild pitch, to decide if the ball was in the strike zone? Install an electric eye system outlining the strike zone, use electronic-impregnated baseballs, and get rid of all the arguing.

Did the football cross the goal line when fifteen or twenty players on top of the ball carrier kept the line judge from seeing anything? An electronic eye beam and a doctored football will give the accurate call.

And why use a chain to tell if it was a first down when eye-beamed 10-yard markers will tell you automatically?

To some people all this is progress, but there's a drawback to it.

For some people, the highlight of a professional baseball game is the sight of a manager storming out on the field and badgering an umpire, kicking dirt and flailing out with his arms. Who'd care to see a manager badgering an electric eye machine?

And what about Little League games? What about a parent's fury at what clearly from his viewpoint was an outrageous mis-called third strike when his son was at bat? You gonna do away with that?

Sometimes what's called progress isn't progress. Real progress for the human race has included such elementary things as running hot and cold water, door hinges, air-conditioning, freezers instead of smokehouses, indoor plumbing, and the remote control button that'll shut off a political speech on your TV screen.

Yours faithfully,
J.A.

"Inertiative" or "Finishitive"?

"Some people are noted for their inertiative."

—Maury Democrat, Columbia, Tenn., Oct. 25, 1944.

"Many people have initiative, but many seem to lack finishitive."

—Roy E. Gibson, Nephi Times-News, Nephi, Utah, Oct. 14, 1976.

TODAY'S INSIGHT: Getting things done is important in experiencing success, whether at work, at home, in personal endeavors, or in the spiritual life. The initiative to start working on important tasks at hand is a necessary quality.

Once a person exercises that initiative, the question is whether he has more "finishitive" than "inertiative," or more self-inflicted obstacles than the perseverance necessary to finish what needs to be done.

Timing, then, is important in exercising initiative, as H.S. Mobley pointed out: "Initiative is using something you know at the right time and in the right way." (Ochiltree County Herald, Perryton, Texas, March 22, 1928.)

"Inertiative" is another name for procrastination. W.E. "Bill" Hawkins said, "Procrastination is not only the thief of time, but it's the thief of the soul." (Panhandle Herald, Panhandle, Texas, Aug. 24, 1928.) Procrastination is the thief of the soul's "finishitive," and the more work and responsibilities that are procrastinated, the more likely one finds his soul bogged down with worries over how he will ever get all his important or necessary work done.

A NEW SPIRIT

Two weeks ago I was ready to move from Hereford. I had allowed myself one too many visits to the Shot Bull Cafe and heard one too many prophets of doom tell how we are going to dry up and blow away. I don't want to live in a town that does not believe in itself. I do not want to be the last one to leave and be responsible for turning off the lights.

Today I feel good again. I have been too busy to go to the cafe and I got myself off and did some talking to me. We have had some blows of course, but we aren't really any worse off than we were before we ever heard of D.O.E. We now have some folks ready to work to make us a better place, folks who have not been involved before. I am encouraged. The W.D.I.C. is doing a study and helping us get some long term goals. P.O.W.E.R. has promised to turn their expertise and energy in this direction. Things are stirring around the old corral.

I want to put in my two cents worth. We need new industry, of course. I hope we can find several to locate in this area. We also need a strong base of retail business. Sometimes we look so hard for industry we fail to see the value of the businesses already operating in our city. These businesses are a base we can build on. If they do not prosper we do not have much chance of attracting industry. Retail stores provide jobs, pay taxes, and make a town a good place to live.

I do not know how to attract industry. I do know how we can build a strong retail base. We need to be sure we support the stores we have with our business. I recognize it is sort of a chicken or the egg sort of deal. The stores must have customers in order to have stock, and they must have stock in order to attract customers, but we have to start somewhere. If we will make a renewed effort at supporting local business two things will happen. First, the stores will dare become more aggressive and have more to sell. Second, more stores will locate here. We have a good trade territory. We have a trade territory that has not been tapped. There is no reason we cannot have strong and prosperous retail stores right here in our city.

In addition to supporting local stores we can sell our city as a place for stores to locate. I have been working on one good prospect. I found it easy to convince him of the advantages of putting a branch in our town. I think he will come. I think others will join him. Now, if I can just keep these new prospects out of the Shot Bull Cafe we may win.

U.S. Chamber

WASHINGTON — In recent years, the liability crisis has forced up the price of American goods and services, hurt our international competitiveness and forced many viable businesses to close their doors.

The rapid increase in the number of damage lawsuits and the skyrocketing cost of verdicts and settlements have been due, to a large extent, to the absence of uniform federal standards for product liability. State laws and court precedents comprise a crazy patchwork of contradictory provisions that are lawyer's dream—and a business's nightmare. A claimant could win a suit in one state, lose an identical suit in another state and be prohibited from even bringing the suit in another state. Since the vast majority of products are shipped across state lines, lawyers are free to shop around for the venue most likely to lead to large awards.

Congress has ducked this issue for years, but now there is hope on the horizon. A compromise bill currently before the House Energy and Commerce Committee is a good first step toward reforming this costly unpredictable and time-consuming system.

It is not a perfect bill by a long shot and fails totally to address many key issues of critical interest to business. Nevertheless there is enough good in this bill to warrant broad business support.

If adopted, the bill would reduce legal costs and ensure more money goes to injured parties. Today, a victim gets only about half the money paid in a liability suit.

The bill would also put in place strong incentives for safety for manufacturers and product sellers. Most important, it would be fair to everyone—consumers, manufacturers and sellers.

Unfortunately, the bill does not address the flagrant injustice of the "joint and severable liability" doctrine under which a party only partially at fault for an injury can be held liable for the entire claim. We must continue to seek elimination of that absurd perversion of our justice system on a state-by-state basis.

In the meantime, the bill in the House represents at least a timid step forward. Under the circumstances, it is the best we can get. Let's go for it.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I have not written any paper complaining but I have to say this: We have taxes raised on everything until I wonder if the time will come when the people who do the raising will learn money really does not grow on trees.

the one thing I am angry about is the $5 fee the commissioners felt they had to add on the registration fee for each vehicle registered for the county road and bridge fund. What bridge? Not in this county, I don't think.

Then they decided to put the money in "another" fund but they didn't say what fund, or what for. There are 72 counties that do not collect that fee. Why us?

When those young people who think up all these things get on Social Security they will now how such things effect the elderly. We paid for years into the Social Security fund and now the government, when it goes broke every once in a while and can't pay the government workers on the first of the month, borrows from the Social Security fund. That helps the President send more money to fight a war we have no business being involved in.

I know there will be many people who will not agree with me but there are many hungry and sick people in the United States who need help. The President said we did not have hungry people in this country. How would he know? He's never been hungry.

Mrs. A.H. Brown

Dear editor:

I believe that sports and academics are major parts of the Hereford schools. This year academic groups from Hereford have become more active and competitive. Recently, seven Hereford students participated in the Texas Academic Decathlon Regional Contest in Lubbock, Texas, and did very well. I was lucky to be a part of that first-place team. Hereford High School is also home to a great orator team. Office Education Associations students have recently participated in competition with one student advancing to state competition in computer programming.

I feel that all students should receive recognition for their accomplishments. These students are just as vital to Hereford's establishing an outstanding reputation as are participants in football, basketball, baseball, and other sports.

Hereford is fortunate to have more than great athletic teams—it also has great academic teams. Hereford's support of the academic teams of its high school will establish a stronger community-school relationship.

Sincerely,
Adrian Castillo

Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter makes donation

Members of Xi Epsilon Alpha Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority met recently in the Southwest Public Service's Reddy Room for their regular 7:30 p.m. meeting.

Thirteen members were present as the meeting was called to order by President Connie Matthews. Minutes from the Feb. 2 meeting were read and approved with Teresa Peiffer filling in as recording secretary. Leaves of absence requested by Kay Williams and Melinda White were discussed. It was decided that Gaye Reily will replace White as recording secretary for the remainder of the year. Holly Bixler will be chairman of the Rosebud Committee, also replacing White.

Committee reports were given. It was noted that a silent auction and salad supper will be held March 29 with all three local chapters participating. Marge Bell will act as auctioneer for the event which will begin at 6:30 p.m. Gifts to be auctioned off should be wrapped or placed in a brown paper sack with a clue attached pertaining to the contents, or a member may make a $5 donation. Sponsoring the event is the Beta Sigma Phi city council, which will meet March 14 in Matthew's home.

An evening in Amarillo with spouses is tentatively set for March 4 as playing miniature golf and eating at a restaurant is planned. The evening will last from 7-10 p.m. tentatively.

A thank-you note was received from Operation Good Shepherd and the Pantry workers for the chapter's recent donation of baby food.

The next meeting is scheduled for March 1 with Donna Grady presenting a program on "Diet." Marge Bell will serve as hostess and Peiffer the co-hostess. The next pledge training session will be held Feb. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in Peggy Hyer's home.

Linda Arellano presented a program on "A Beautiful Example," focusing on accessorizing with scarves and jewelry. She demonstrated various ways to wear scarves in a fashionable manner and introduced various types of jewelry. Arellano also discussed color analysis briefly. Hostesses Peiffer and Jimmie Middleton served refreshments and the meeting adjourned.

Members in attendance included Arellano, Matthew, Peiffer, Middleton, Grady, Bixler, Susan Shaw, Susan Cardinal, Sharon Bodner, Bell, Pene Coplen, Reily, and Hyer.

Game Night Scheduled

Board members for the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Heart Association are finalizing plans for their annual Game Night set for 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Community Center. Tickets are priced at $5 per person and are available from any AHA board member or at the door. Games planned include dominoes, 42, Skip-bo and bridge. Refreshments will be served during the event. Publicizing the annual fundraiser are (from left) Donna Gooch, local AHA secretary, and Jean Patty, publicity chairman.

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

Q. How can I prevent meringue on cream pies from becoming watery? Mrs. F.H., Mercersburg, PA

A. The secret to moist, not weepy, meringues lies in dissolving sugar thoroughly and baking meringue completely. Add sugar gradually as soon as egg whites are frothy. Then, beat until meringue holds stiff peaks. Place meringue on a hot filling and bake at 400 degrees for 8 to 10 minutes.

Q. Is there a test to determine if baking powder is still active? A.S., Northrup, MN

A. Stir one teaspoon of baking powder into 1/2 cup of hot water. Baking powder is fit to use if it bubbles abundantly.

Q. What's the secret to stop cookies from spreading too much? Mrs. J.G., Evergreen Park, IL

A. You may need to add more flour to batter. If recipe calls for solid shortening, don't substitute butter or margarine because they have more water than shortening and may make dough too soft.

Cookies may spread because the oven isn't hot enough.

Lifestyles Policies

The Hereford Brand welcomes new articles of interest from local residents, groups and organizations. Because this is a daily publication, certain guidelines should be followed when submitting news items.

-The Brand reserves the right to edit any and all copy submitted to the Lifestyles department.

-Photos of club officers, donation presentations, etc., can be made at The Brand office, preferably after 2 p.m. Appointments for such photos must be made at least 24 hours in advance.

-Lifestyles reporters do not take photos for engagements, weddings, anniversaries or showers.

-On-location photos can be made, on approval, providing The Brand has at least TWO DAYS notice.

-No polaroid pictures are acceptable under any circumstances.

-New items or changes for the Lifestyles calendar of events must be submitted one week BEFORE the Wednesday or Sunday publications.

-General news items for the Lifestyles section must be submitted by 1 p.m. the day before publication and by noon on Friday for Sunday's publication.

-The Brand has forms available upon request in preparing engagement announcements and wedding stories. Neither will be taken by phone.

-Engagements should be announced six weeks BEFORE the wedding to ensure publication. Couples submitting engagement announcements after that deadline must choose to have either the engagement or the wedding photo published. Photos should be in black and white. A color photo may be used if the contrast is suitable for reproduction.

-Wedding and anniversary writeups must be submitted at least five days prior to the ceremony. Wedding notices submitted late will be edited considerably.

-Birth announcements are obtained from Deaf Smith General Hospital. Information on local babies born elsewhere, or who have grandparents in Hereford, must be reported to The Brand within two weeks.

-Club reports must be submitted within THREE DAYS, of the meeting or will be subject to considerable editing or omission.

-Brief items of interest about former residents or children of Hereford residents are welcome when they concern degrees earned, academic honors, college news, career promotions, etc.

-Birthday celebrations will only be written for those Hereford residents who are 80 years old and up. All other birthday wishes, including Quinceaneras, may be submitted to the advertising department.

-Photos may be picked up from The Brand after 3 p.m. of the publication date. Published photos taken by Brand staffers may be purchased for $1. Reprints are available at $3.50 for 5x7 photos and at $5.00 for 8x10 prints.

-Obituary information, with or without accompanying photo, must be submitted to the office by 11 a.m. for that day's publication.

To submit an article or obtain more information, contact Sandy Stagner, or Gaye Reily at 364-2030 from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. After 5 p.m., stories may be placed in the night drop located at the front door of the office. We take no responsibility for articles left in the night drop which may be lost.

Wedding planned

MaryBeth Gottschlich of Canyon will become the bride of Roy Dale Messer of Hereford March 12 during an evening wedding set at the West Texas State University President's Home.

Parents of the bride-elect are Mr. and Mrs. Henry P. Gottschlich of Shorewood, Wis. Parents of the prospective bridegroom are Mrs. Victoria Messer of Hereford and the late J.F. Messer.

Miss Gottschlich is employed as catering director for Professional Food Service Management at WTSU. Messer is assistant manager of Rafter 3 Feed Yard in Dimmitt.

Including varsity squad's 77-72 win

Whiteface boys' teams all beat Borger

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

The 1987-88 season for the Hereford High School boys' basketball program ended Friday night in fine Hostile Herd fashion with three victories over Borger.

Final scores for the season finales, played at the La Plata gym, were: varsity, 77-72; junior varsity, 74-63; and sophomores, 81-39. The Whiteface varsity team's win evened its District 1-4A record at 8-8, with an overall record of 13-16. Hereford's district wins included two over Borger and two over district champion Levelland.

Four Herd varsity players scored in double figures to help their defeat of Borger. Rodney McCracken led the way with 23 points, Pat Mercer scored 18 points, Kevin Hansen totaled 17 points, and Clint Cotten added 11 points.

Hereford held a 36-30 halftime lead, and increased the lead to 14 points, 57-43, in the third quarter before Borger used the three-point shot to rally and close the gap to five points with 35 seconds left.

Hereford grabbed the rebound, and Hansen fouled with 21 seconds left. Hansen made both shots in a one-and-one to put Hereford ahead by seven points, 77-70. Borger then failed again in a three-point attempt with 15 seconds left.

"I was real happy for our season to go out this way for our seniors. Beating Borger twice this season is something our players can be proud of for a long time," Hereford Coach Mike Fields said.

"I thought all the seniors played well. We're really going to miss our seniors, because they've given us a good effort all season.

"Kevin Hansen and Rodney McCracken have been three-year varsity players. Our other starters, Bobby Robbins and Marcus Brown, along with the rest of the seniors, will leave a big hole next season," Fields continues.

"Our juniors on the varsity have played well toward the end of the season — Brad Smith, Clint Cotten, and Pat Mercer — so we're looking for a bunch of big things from those young men next season.

"Our junior varsity team finished 18-6 and ended up with the best record in the district, so we have some good players coming up next year, if they'll continue to work hard and improve," Coach Fields said.

"Our sophomore team has also improved a great deal through the season, and they helped us sweep Borger," he adds.

Fields is a coach who believes in the importance of fan support. "We really appreciate all the fan support we've received all season, both at home and on the road. Our fans have been super all year, and it means a lot to our players."

The Whiteface-Bulldog varsity clash began as a game of streaks. After Borger had gained a 4-0 lead, Hereford scored 12 straight points in a three-minute period, with the 12th point being scored with 2:10 left in the first quarter.

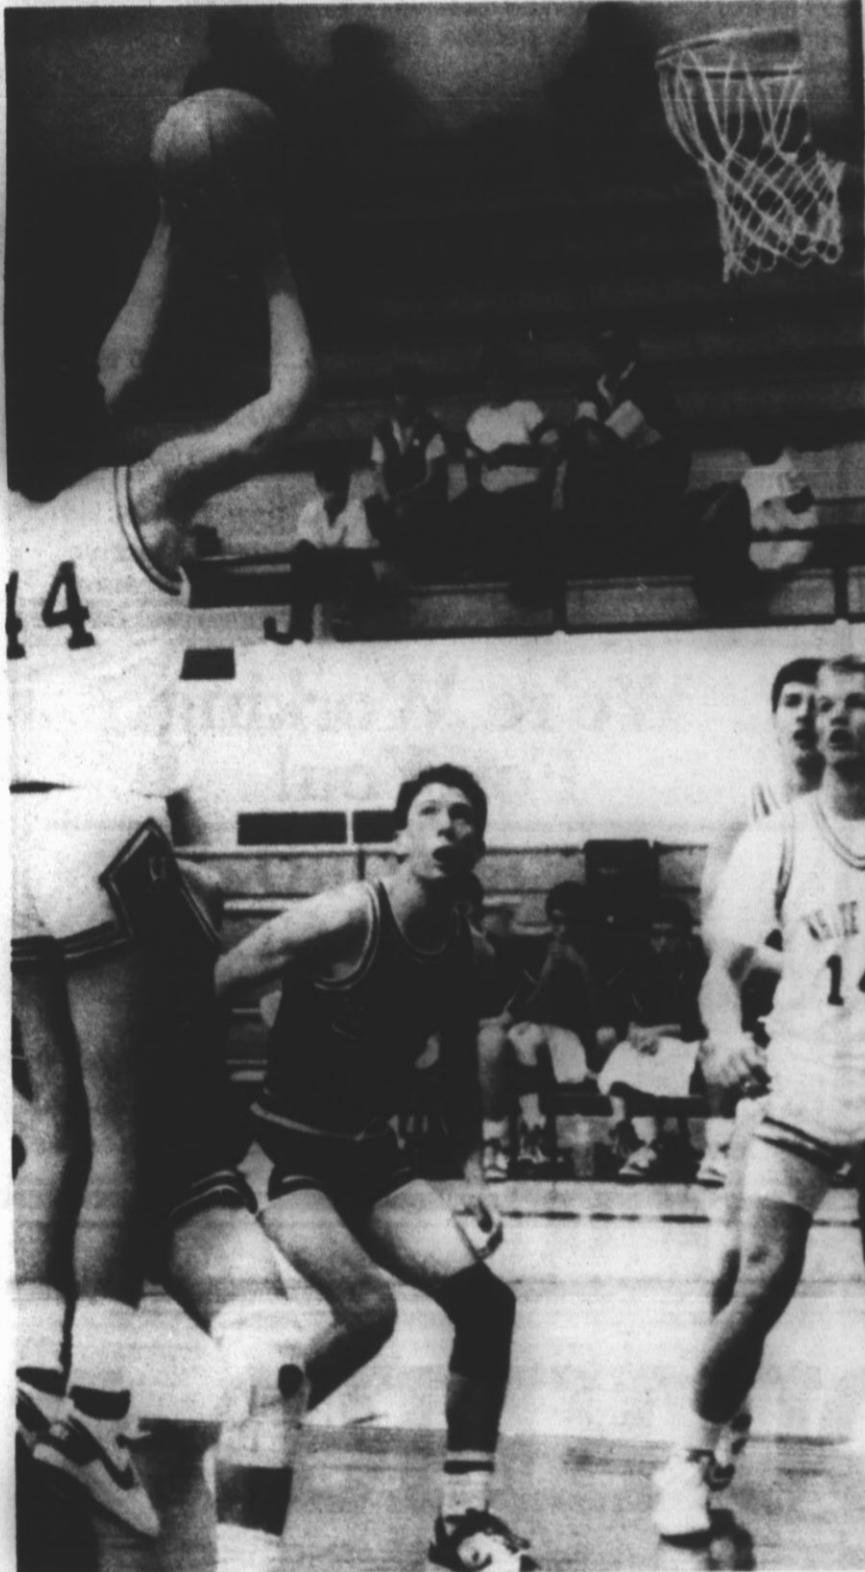

Borger then scored seven straight points before Hereford's Cotten scored with 46 seconds left in the quarter. Mercer scored a layup off a Borger turnover just before the quarter ended to give Hereford a 16-14 lead.

McCracken had a hot second quarter, scoring 12 points to help the Whitefaces get ahead by six at halftime, 36-30. Mercer had the hot hand in the second half, scoring six points in the third period and eight more in the fourth period.

Hereford, beginning the fourth quarter with a 57-43 lead, led by 15 points with 5:49 left, 67-52 on a pair of foul shots by Mercer.

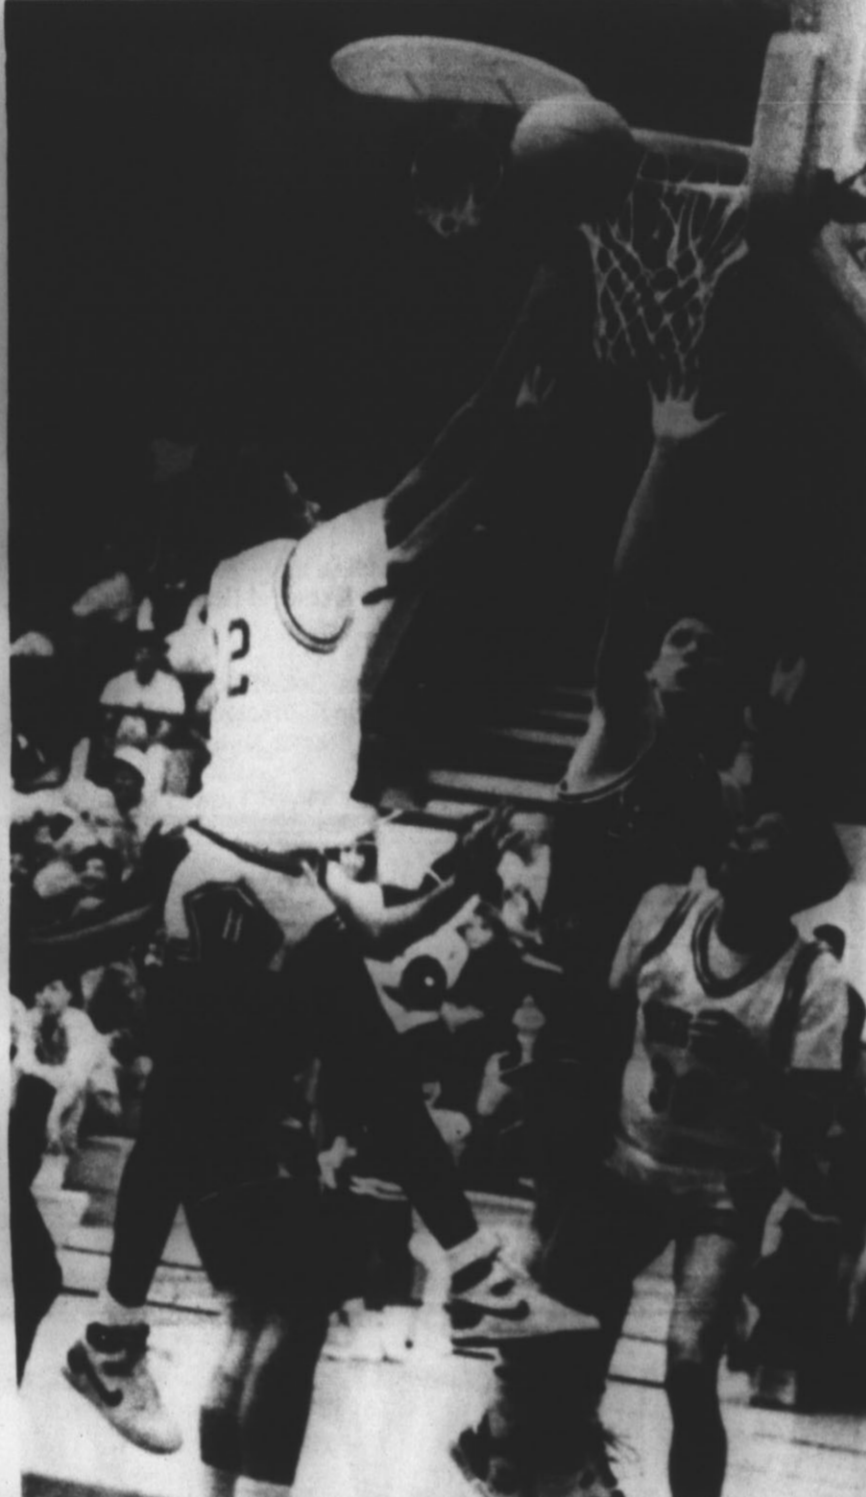

Borger then scored two baskets in the next half minute, and a free throw with 4:11 left put Borger within 10 points, 67-57.

First Herd Basket Of The Game

Bobby Robbins (44) of the Hereford Whitefaces lays up the first basket for his team Friday in a District 1-4A game against Borger. Hereford beat Borger 77-72 to make its final district record even at 8-8, also dropping Borger to 8-8 in district play. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

Opening Of The Fourth Quarter

Pat Mercer (12) opens the fourth quarter Friday with a successful layup to give the Hereford Whiteface varsity boys a 59-43 lead over Borger. Mercer performed some clutch free throw shooting, hitting 10 of 12 attempts, and scored 18 points as Hereford defeated Borger 77-72 in the final game of the season. WHITEFACES

2:15 left with McCracken was fouled on the rebound.

McCracken broke a three-minute scoring drought for Hereford by hitting his free throws. Half a minute later, Marcus Brown made two foul shots to put Hereford ahead by 10 again at 71-61.

Mercer and Hansen each made a pair of clutch free throws, because Berger proceeded to hit three-point shots in its next three possessions - the last one coming with 35 seconds left to bring the Bulldogs within five points, 75-70.

That led to desperation fouling and shooting by Berger, and the visitors did not have enough time left to overcome the Whitefaces.

In addition to having four players scoring in double figures, Hereford had four individuals with six or more rebounds each. McCracken led the Herd with 16 rebounds, Mercer had nine, Cotten had eight, and Hansen had six.

If Hansen had just four more rebounds, it would have meant a "triple double," since he had 10 assists to go along with his 17 points.

The Hereford junior varsity boys trailed Berger at halftime, 32-29. The score was tied four times in the third quarter - 33-33, 36-36, 42-42, and 46-46

- before Hereford gained the lead for good, 48-46 on a basket by Adolfo Martinez.

Baskets by Kyle Andrews and Stuart Mitts enabled Hereford to hold a 52-47 lead going into the final quarter.

Each team scored a basket to start the fourth quarter, but Hereford scored 10 straight points for a 64-49 lead. The closest Berger could get the rest of the way was seven points.

Kyle Andrews fired in 23 points, including 17 in the second half. He had eight steals, scoring several baskets directly after taking the ball away from Berger.

Mitts and Todd Schroeder were also in double figures, each with 10 points. Other HHS scorers included Darren Nikkel with nine points and Martinez with eight points.

Andrews was also the rebound leader with seven. Nikkel and Jason Scott each had five rebounds.

The Hereford sophomore boys began their game on a 100-point pace by outscoring Berger 25-4 in the first quarter. Hereford held a 42-20 halftime lead and a 60-30 lead after three quarters of play en route to the 81-39 victory.

Just like the other HHS teams, the sophomores had a balanced scoring attack against Berger. Those in double figures were Russell Backus with 13 points, Nate Williamson with 12 points, Chuck Lemons with 11 points, and Tate Smith with 10 points.

Jim Hillwig had nine points, and Dee Nall added six points for the Hereford sophomores, whose final season record is 8-13.

Holly promotes pair

Ralph Barndt has been named maintenance supervisor of Hereford's Holly Sugar plant, while Brian Baum, former maintenance supervisor here, has been promoted to assistant factory maintenance manager at Holly's Worland, Wyo. factory. Barndt is a native of Billings, Mont., has been with Holly for seven years, and was president of the Holly Sugar Tramps in Worland, where he also served on the local school board.

Baum, a longtime Hereford resident, has worked for Holly since 1970. A US Army veteran, Baum had been maintenance supervisor here since October 1979.

Chemigation meet is Monday

DIMITT — A workshop to help farmers with center pivot irrigation systems learn more about their potential for applying fertilizers and insecticide will be held here Monday at the Expo Building.

Many High Plains producers have invested in center pivot systems due to their greater water efficiency and labor saving, said Dr. Allen Knutson, Castro County Extension entomologist. "Some pesticides and fertilizers can be effectively applied through center pivots," he notes.

This practice, termed chemigation, can reduce application costs and allow greater flexibility in application timing, Knutson said.

The workshop, to be conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, will emphasize safe and effective use of center pivots for chemigation. It will begin at 8:30 a.m. and end at 3:30 p.m. A dutch treat catered lunch will be available.

The program will begin with a comparison of the economics of center pivot versus furrow irrigation by Dr. Steve Amosson, Extension agricultural economist at Amarillo. Application of fertilizers by center pivot systems will be discussed by Dr. Michael Hickey, Extension soil chemist at Lubbock.

Fungicides for chemigation will be covered by Dr. Harold Kaufman, Extension plant pathologist, Lubbock. New regulations by the Environmental Protection Agency regarding chemigation and human safety will be reviewed by Dr. W. Pat Morrison, Extension entomologist, Lubbock.

Insecticides for chemigation will be discussed by Knutson. Chemigation with low energy precision application (LEPA) center pivot systems will be explained by Dr. Carl Patrick, Extension entomologist, Amarillo.

Herbicides for center pivot application will be the topic of Dr. Brent Bean, Extension agronomist, Amarillo. Chemigation equipment and calibration will be explained by Leon New, Extension agricultural engineer and irrigation specialist, Amarillo.

S. Korea look-see underway

WASHINGTON (AP) — A meat industry group has asked the government to investigate whether South Korea has violated international trade practices by its three-year-old ban on imports of U.S. beef.

The American Meat Institute said it filed a complaint Tuesday with the Office of the U.S. Trade Representative, contending South Korea's import ban is "unjustifiable, unreasonable and burden(s) or restrict(s) United States Commerce."

Manly Molpus, president of AMI, said that historically the United States was the major supplier of high-quality beef to South Korea, a market that averaged about $5 million a year.

Molpus said South Korea was in violation of obligations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) and under tariff concessions agreed to in the Tokyo Round of multilateral trade negotiations.

Higher feeding hikes corn prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Corn prices have been edging higher this winter partly because farmers are feeding more to livestock, the Agriculture Department says.

Also, more corn is in government storage, which effectively keeps the grain off the market.

For example, the department's Commodity Credit Corp. is estimated to have around 1.75 billion bushels of corn in its inventory for 1987-88, compared with 1.44 billion bushels last season.

In addition, farmers have large quantities of corn still under price support loan. That corn cannot be sold on the market or used until the loans are settled. If the loans aren't repaid, the grain winds up in CCC inventories.

Grain also is held in storage under the "farmer-owned reserve" program, or FOR, and cannot be released until prices rise to specified levels.

"A key factor in this year's stronger corn and sorghum prices is the commitment of a larger share of the 1987-88 supply to CCC inventory, FOR and regular CCC crop loans, and shrinking uncommitted stocks," the department's Economic Research Service said Wednesday in an outlook report.

"Corn prices have been edging upward. ... Prices received by farmers are expected to average $1.65 to $1.85 a bushel, up from $1.50 in 1986-87," the report said.

Sorghum prices are projected at $1.50 to $1.70 per bushel, compared with an average of $1.37 in the 1986-87 season.

Here are some other observations in the report:

—Barley supplies are down 8 percent this season because of a sharp drop in last year's harvest. Also, exports last summer and fall were up from the year-earlier pace.

—The oats supply is down 10 percent from last year. Farm prices have averaged 40 cents per bushel higher than a year ago.

—Hay supplies showed a 21 percent increase in carrying inventories at the beginning of the 1987-88 season. However, a smaller crop more than offset the gain in the hay stockpile, resulting in a 1 percent decline in the total supply to 181.5 million tons.

—Feed demand is expected to be up this year, with the largest increase in the first half. Hog, poultry and cattle feeding are all increasing, while dairy and beef cow herds are down.

—Food and industrial use of corn may increase only 3 percent to 4 percent this year, in contrast to an average annual growth of 11 percent from 1981 through 1986.

Ford-Hightower to highlight TCGA meet

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

A confrontation between former Deputy Secretary of Agriculture John Ford and Texas ag commissioner Jim Hightower is expected Tuesday at the 15th annual Texas Corn Growers meeting at the Expo Building in Dimmitt.

Also scheduled for the 9:30 a.m. meeting are U.S. Rep. Beau Boulter, several Extension Service specialists, and Hereford attorney James Witherspoon to report on energy matters.

Hightower may incur the wrath of most, if not all, of the 300-plus persons expected at the meeting for his department's backing away from obtaining an emergency clearance of the pesticide Azodrin last summer after seven consecutive years of Section 18 emergency clearances for the pesticide.

Azodrin is proven to be the most effective chemical to deter spider mites in corn, but has never been given permanent approval by the Environmental Protection Agency for use on corn despite approval for use on some other crops.

Last year, Hightower's staff failed to back efforts to get an emergency clearance for Azodrin, and EPA did not grant the clearance.

TCGA President Carl King has pointed out before that other chemicals can partially deter spider mites, but must be applied several times early in the season for any sort of control.

Azodrin usually needs only one application, and does not need to be applied unless it is economically feasible to do so. Most other pesticides must be applied whether an outbreak of spider mites is expected or not.

"We want to make Jim Hightower answer for not supporting our efforts," King said.

Ford, now the head of Ford Communications in Washington, is expected to outline plans for the American Corn Growers Association, an outreach of TCGA which will push for a supply-management corn program for which he and King have lobbied for three years.

King said Ford will also detail how efforts to get a clearance for Azodrin "failed largely because of lack of support from TDA."

The meeting may become an exhumation of the hatchet Hightower and Ford buried at the 1984 TCGA meeting after a similar running battle—that time over the 1981 farm program.

Boulter, a candidate for the U.S. Senate, is expected to focus on trade and farm issues.

King said other political candidates are also expected to be at the meeting "but won't be allowed to address the meeting."

A free lunch will be served by Panhandle AgriWomen, the Castro County chapter of WIFE.

Food-Fiber processing could get bumper profits

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — West Texas farmers and ranchers can reap bumper profits from processing food and fiber, a top agriculture official says.

Mike Moeller, deputy commissioner of the Texas Department of Agriculture says that Texas still ships out of state more than 50 percent of its raw food and fiber materials for processing.

The state also consumes as much as it produces because Texans end up paying for the value-added end of the product.

Moeller, who was in Odessa Tuesday as part of statewide marketing sweep, said if Texans processed 1 percent more food and fiber, the economy would be $3 billion richer annually.

Ethnic food markets, third-generation plastic packaging, food plant computerization and aseptic packaging offer the greatest potential for Texas, according to the Texas Agriculture Department.

"Texas wants to be in the forefront of these industries," Moeller said.

While Texas is the nation's second leading agricultural producer, food processing in the state accounts for only 6 percent of the U.S. total, he said.

A recent analysis by Clemson University found that processing contributes $9 to the economy for every $1 from raw agriculture products.

Beef processing could add meat to an industry hard hit in recent years by declining prices and rising imports, officials said.

Moeller said the state's industry can help feed demand for light beef and other low-cholesterol meats.

The state also would like to ship more beef products overseas to offset the effects of Argentine and Australian imports.

Moeller cited cause for optimism in that the state's food-processing industry has increased total sales every year for the past decade at an annual value-added rate of 450 million per year.

"The potential is unlimited," said Moeller. "We feel this is a terrific opportunity for Texas."

Computers now in fields

COLLEGE STATION, Texas (AP) — Computers are making their way into the fields as researchers develop program systems to help farmers make decisions about their work.

"These days there are so many things to consider in producing and marketing a crop and in keeping up with farm policy that it's almost impossible for farmers to rely on their own judgment," Robert Coulson, of the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Texas A&M University, said Monday.

"Farmers can no longer just buy the seeds, plant them and then expect enough profit to plan for things in advance such as sending their children to college. More and more, they will need the assistance of computer programs," said Coulson, an entomologist at the station's Knowledge Engineering Laboratory.

The concept of agricultural computer programs incorporates the best thinking of an array of authorities, technical knowledge based on experience and research and simulation models that can be used for projecting results.

To help farmers, researchers are developing "artificial intelligence" systems that mimic thought processes people use in solving problems, Coulson said.

The systems might help farmers determine what mix of crops to plant, the best marketing alternatives or even when to spray pesticides and how much and what kind to spray.

"We're developing systems that are simple and easy to use with microcomputers that farmers can afford," Coulson said.

"Such systems can be tailor-made for farmers or foresters or anyone who manages natural resources by involving people who will use them, something that has rarely been considered in the past," he said.

Once computer expert systems are developed, they can be combined to establish integrated expert systems to help farmers in making more complex decisions, Coulson said.

Much of the research work, he said, is being done at laboratories on Texas A&M's College Station campus.

Information in the systems can be used for projecting things such as crop yields and the impact insects may have, he said. The more complex system considers a number of variables, such as weather, soil conditions, insects, alternative pesticides, market conditions or even new research findings.

"We feel that there's a lot more learned from research than is delivered to farmers and one way to deliver the information is through these integrated expert systems," Coulson said.

Coulson says similar systems also are being developed for rice and cotton farmers.

Less may add up to more. Experts believe advancements made in the next 15 years in biotechnology and information technology will revolutionize plant and animal production to such an extent that less cropland will be needed to produce more food for the world. The U.S.D.A. has released figures that indicate this new technology will enable yields for feedgrains, wheat and soybeans to double and livestock production to increase 50 to 70%. At the same time, they are projecting nearly 1.3 million acres of non-federal agricultural land will be converted annually to non-agricultural uses. They believe water usage will decrease as irrigation efficiency increases. Economic factors should make conservation tillage nearly universal by year 2000. With this nearly total usage of conservation tillage, total soil erosion on cropland should decline from 1.8 billion tons to less than 800 million tons by 2000. All of this adds up to the fact that agricultural resources are more than adequate to meet our needs well for quite a while. This doesn't surprise those who know what the American producer can do.

Private exports are 18.3 million bushels to USSR

WASHINGTON (AP) — Private exporters have sold an additional 500,000 metric tons of subsidized U.S. wheat to the Soviet Union under the Agriculture Department's Export Enhancement Program.

The sales, reported Wednesday, were equal to about 18.3 million bushels. They were handled by Art-fer Inc., 150,000 tons; Union Equity Cooperative Exchange, 150,000 tons; and Cargill Inc., 200,000 tons.

At recent prices averaging $2.82 per bushel, the wheat would have a farm value of about $52 million.

Nearly 5.7 million tons of subsidized wheat has been sold to the Soviet Union under the Export Enhancement Program, or EEP, for delivery in the year that began last Oct. 1.

Melvin E. Sims, general sales manager for the department's Foreign Agricultural Service, said an additional 1.2 million tons of wheat are still available to the Soviet Union under current EEP authorization.

Under EEP, private exporters are given surplus commodities owned by the department's Commodity Credit Corp. so they can sell a foreign buyer wheat or other authorized commodity at competitive world prices.

Some People Like To Fly

Some basketball players like to take off for field goal attempts, such as Nate Williamson (10) in the photo at the far left, and Jason Walterscheid (4) in the other photo. They are members of the Hereford High School sophomore basketball team. Williamson scored 12 points and Walterscheid five points in Hereford's 81-39 victory over Borger on Friday. Other players pictured in the photos are: Jim Hillwig (32), Anthony Tijerina (52), and Daniel Garcia (50). (Brand photos by Gary Christensen)

Friday's scores: Hereford 77, Borger 72; Levelland 84, Pampa 39; Canyon 84, Frenship 63; Dumas 65, Lubbock Dunbar 56; Lubbock Estacado, open.

Card of Thanks

Just a note to acknowledge the love, prayers, flowers, and donations given for Ruben Scott through his surgery and subsequent hospital stay. The employees and management at Siron Stockade and personal gifts as well as the fund set up at Hereford State Bank is very helpful. We appreciate everyone of you so much, THANK YOU seems so inadequate.

Seven women nominated for award

The Extension Homemaker Club Woman of the Year will be announced Monday at the annual Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council Appreciation Luncheon, which begins at noon in the Banquet Room of the Hereford Community Center.

Each E.H. Club has the option of one nominee and the submitted nominee resumes are judged by a District II county extension agent for home economics.

The Hereford Brand has sponsored this award since 1952 when Mrs. Opal Norton of the Dawn E.H. Club received the first award. Johnnie Messer of the Draper E.H. Club was last year's Woman of the Year.

The Appreciation Luncheon will honor extension homemaker members who have perfect attendance in 1987 at the month E.H. Council meetings and those who have perfect attendance at the E.H. Club meetings. Two special awards will be given to Vernis Parsons of the Cultural Club and Leta Kaul of the Westway E.H. Club for 50 years of membership. Special honor will be given to Pet Ott for 57 years of E.H. membership.

The club women use this luncheon as a way of expressing thanks to the Commissioners Court and the local media for their support during the year. The program will conclude with the seven Woman of the Year nominees being honored and the presentation of the Woman of the Year award by the Hereford Brand representative.

SEVEN CANDIDATES NAMED

SHERRIE BLACKWELL Draper Club

Draper E.H. Club nominee for Club Woman of the Year in extension work is Sherrie Blackwell. Sherrie served her club as president for the last year. She was one of seven members instrumental in forming the Draper Club in 1980. Serving her club in all offices, Sherrie continues the 1988 year as vice-president of her club and serves the E.H. Council as corresponding secretary. Sherrie is a new member on the Extension Program Council's Family Living Subcommittee.

The mother of three sons keeps Sherrie busy and yet she serves as a distributor of the Amarillo Globe News, is an active member of the First Christian Church and active in her extension work. Sherrie states that "Extension work has helped me in so many ways you just can not list them all." Continuing education and development of leadership abilities are just two of the highlights that Sherrie attributes to her extension work.

CAROLYN EVERS Westway Club

Westway E.H. Club presents Carolyn Evers as their Club Woman of the Year. A member of Westway Club for 19 years has given Carolyn the opportunity to serve her club members as president for the 1987 club year. Being chairman of the Country Christmas Bazaar occupied many hours of Carolyn's time. This project is undertaken to provide for the financial donation given to assist in 4-H work. Carolyn is a mother of five children, assists Boy Scout Troop 51, serves as church organist for St. Anthony's Catholic Church, and is a member of St. Anthony's Women's Organization. She is also a member of the Merry Mixers and Silhouettes Square and Round Dance Club.

Carolyn states that "Extension club has given me so much more than I could ever give back and I hope to continue for many years to come." Citing leadership development, organizational skills, home conservation and development of skills for leisure time and to help others are just some of the benefits Carolyn has learned in E.H. club.

MARIELLEN HOMFELD Bippus Club

Mariellen Homfeld has been nominated by the Bippus Extension Homemakers Club for the Woman of the Year honor. Completing a term as president of Bippus Club for 1987, Mariellen was elected for this office again in 1988 by her club members. Active in 4-H events in Oldham County where her two children attend school has been an extension of Mariellen's own learning process in E.H. Club. Learning through extension programs ranging from canning to estate planning, fun through tours, suppers, and the socializing with country neighbors have all been a part of the E.H. club experience for Mariellen.

JUNE MCCABE Dawn Club

June McCabe has been chosen by the Dawn Extension Homemakers Club as their candidate for Woman of the Year. June served her E.H. club as vice-president for the 1987 year and is presently serving the club as treasurer.

Moving 15 miles from town as a new bride, and being without a car and phone, June joined the Dawn E.H. Club to become acquainted with a new set of friends. From this early friendship has grown community involvement. Serving as secretary-treasurer for the Dawn Community Association for three years, assisting with the clothing room within her church and assisting and preparing many community type dinners keeps June very active within the community.

Combining community service with continued service within the Dawn E.H. Club June has assisted with King's Manor projects, given lessons and demonstrations, and used information learned through extension programs 'to help others.' June is currently assuming a new role as she is pursuing an education at Amarillo College.

NELL POPE

Nell Pope represents the Cultural E.H. Club as the candidate of their choice for Woman of the Year. A mother of four children and six grandchildren and working with her husband in hog production, has found Nell using information gained from her E.H. club work. Giving programs, supporting the youth in 4-H work, sharing skills and talents for community projects all keep Nell very busy. Leadership skills have helped her share the many talents that she has perfected ranging from gardening, canning, crocheting, knitting, sewing and cake decorating.

While finding time to share, Nell serves her club and Council in the roles of assistant reporter, program committee and recreation committee, supporting all Council projects and serving on the Extension Program Council Family Living Subcommittee. 'Serving, supporting and sharing Extension' sum up Nell's E.H. club experience.

AUDREY RUSHER

Wyche Club

Audrey Rusher is the Wyche E.H. Club honoree for Woman of the Year. Five years ago, a friend invited Audrey to visit the Wyche Club. Impressed with the educational program that were being presented, the close ties that the members had for each other, the fellowship that they enjoyed found Audrey joining the Wyche E.H. Club. Audrey's willingness to serve others has found her serving in an official capacity every year in both her club and E.H. Council. This same willingness to serve others finds Audrey active in assisting the club's community work.

Every spring on Christmas Island, 120 million red crabs swarm on a spectacularly colorful migration from an inland forest plateau to the Indian Ocean.

Audrey feels that extension work has helped her to gain confidence to undertake any job that may present itself, has given her new ideas, new friendships and has enhanced her life. Using this enhancement, Audrey has freely given of her time to others, to her family, and serving on the board for the Order of Rainbow for Girls and currently serving the office of Martha. Audrey serves the Wyche Club as president for the 1988 year.

MAUDETTE SMITH Ford Club

Maudette Smith is presented as the Woman of the Year nominee by the Ford E.H. Club. "Home, Family, Community with Co-operative Extension Service"—are the words surrounding the Extension Homemakers symbol and sum up the most important parts of my life", states Maudette. An E.H. Club member for 28 years has found Maudette serving in many leadership positions—all serving to boost self-confidence and developing the ability to serve in impromptu situations. The self confidence learned has overcome a lifelong shyness and enriched Maudette's life to help her serve others to the fullest.

Maudette has been offered the opportunity to travel outside her rural community and to have the opportunity to meet those of many walks of life through E.H. Club work. Meeting a naturalized citizen who expressed the joy of being an American and having the love and support of family and friends made a lasting impression on Maudette and increased her determination to make life better for those in her association through her E.H. club, 4-H work, church and her community.

WE HELP . . . WHEN HELP IS MOST NEEDED

The day a member of your family dies is the day you will need help of a special kind. Regardless of your grief there are a hundred details to face and decisions to make.

Suddenly you have many questions about such things as which funeral director to call, the cost of funeral services, which cemetery you should use. More questions about the time and place of services, flowers, pallbearers, newspaper notices, insurance. Anything more? Yes, much more.

It's the day when a funeral director from Rix can give you the answers you must have: Answers based on experience patiently repeated as many times as you need to hear them to make wise decisions. You will find that you may arrange all details at our office or in the privacy of your home.

When death comes to your family, as it does to every family, or when you know death is imminent, call us for any information you need. This creates no obligation. We will give you answers to your questions, and you may make your decisions based on facts.

We invite your call before the need arises when you can examine the facts calmly and make unemotional decisions.

Remember, we want to help you.

Production tryouts scheduled

Tryouts for the community-wide "Joy In The Morning" production will be Feb. 28 in the First Baptist Church's music rooms, said Archie Coplen, director of the musical.

Those wanting to audition for singing parts need to be there at 2 p.m., and those wanting to tryout for the speaking parts need to be at the church at 3 p.m.

"Joy in the Morning" is a musical-theater production depicting Jesus Christ's resurrection and the events leading to that resurrection. The production, incorporating a 25-member orchestra, will be presented March 27 at 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. at the Hereford High School auditorium.

Tickets for the program, led by David Danner, will be priced at $3 per person; $5 a couple; and $10 for a family.

The program will feature a large choir selected from local talent and a live orchestra composed of the Amarillo Symphony. The choir is expected to approach last year's number of 105 singers.

Christian Church. "The overall concept behind this program is to unify local churches through music, reaching out with musical talent by those who wish to participate, if only for one performance." Wright can be contacted for more information on the program, as can Archie Coplen;

Mark Mayer, First United Methodist Church; Jeff Love, Church of the Nazarene; Sharon Cramer, St. Anthony's Catholic Church; Linda Gilbert, St. Thomas Episcopal Church; and representatives of Community Church, Avenue Baptist Church and Temple Baptist Church.

Special Observance Planned

Today is the first day of Big Brothers/Big Sisters Appreciation Week (Feb. 21-27) in Hereford. Mayor Wes Fisher declared the observance in a proclamation ceremony Thursday afternoon. Volunteers will celebrate with a salad supper Monday

Appreciation Week to be observed

Mayor Wes Fisher has designated Feb. 21-27 as Big Brothers/Big Sisters Appreciation Week here in Hereford. The volunteers will celebrate their involvement with the local program by a "Salad Supper" Monday night at the Community Center as a part of National celebration of Big Brothers/Big Sisters Appreciation Week.

"Throughout the year volunteers give unselfishly of their time as Big Brothers and Big Sisters. The lives of boys and girls in this community are enriched by their caring," said Alva Lee Peeler, executive director.

Big Brothers/Big Sisters Appreciation Week is celebrated annually throughout the United States. Nationally there are more than 460 Big Brothers/Big Sisters affiliated agencies in 49 states. Locally, Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Hereford, Inc. provides services to more than 60 children in Deaf Smith County through the involvement of more than 50 volunteers. Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Hereford has maintained an average of over 45 matches for the last two years.

"We are grateful for our current volunteers, but we need even more men and women to join us," said Peeler. "As the number of single-parent households rises, there are more children from homes who need the friendship of a Big Brother or a Big Sister. Currently, our agency has eight children who are waiting to be matched with volunteers."

Big Brothers/Big Sisters of Hereford was founded in 1975 and has offices located at 500 E. 15th St. in the YMCA Building. The telephone number is 364-6171.

Peg Hoff serves as hostess

Beverly Harder, county extension agent, presented a program on the importance of fiber in the diet when members of North Hereford Extension Club met Thursday in the home of Peg Hoff.

Harder explained that fiber such as dried fruit, nuts, cereal, fresh fruit, etc. is important in the diet as it helps eliminate certain health problems.

Naomi Brisendine presided over the business meeting when the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved and extension club council recommendations were read.

Those present included Hoff, Martha Lueb, Evelyn Crofford, Brisendine, Bell Reid, Marcella Hoffman and Edith Higgins.

Harder and Jo Ann Blackwell were recognized as visitors.

Board Member Honored

The president of the Deaf Smith County Unit of the American Cancer Society, Kee Ruland, recently presented the Rev. C.W. Allen with a certificate of appreciation for his dedicated service to the ACS. Rev. Allen has served on the local ACS board for over 15 years. The presentation was made during a recent luncheon when plans were made for the annual Cancer Crusade set for April 24-31. The door-to-door campaign is planned from 2-5 p.m. Sunday, April 24. Local residents will be given the opportunity to donate to the ACS and will receive information packets.

McClain guest speaker at study club meeting

Linda McClain, geologist with the nuclear waste repository, spoke to members of Hereford Study Club recently in the home of Gladys Setliff with Bessie Story serving as co-hostess.

McClain remarked that it was only a year ago that she made plans to move to Texas with an expectation of staying 10 years. She was surprised by the announcement made by Congress to stop the DOE in Hereford. She told of the circumstances that happened when the announcement was made, such as anger, and frustration. She also stated that she had been made to feel welcome in Hereford from the first week and that she would be leaving with regret. She felt the local school system was a fine one as her daughter had never worked harder.

McClain said Congress gave 90 days to stop the project which will end March 1. Letters of termination have been sent out. Eighteen of DOE people have jobs already and the government has helped find jobs in offices around the country. Some technical people will be going to Nevada. McClain has accepted a job in the Chicago, Ill. area. At a recent farewell party, she was given a Texas Pioneer Award because she was the first of DOE personnel to come to Texas.

Members attending included Barbara Allen, Jean Ballard, Willie Braddy, Doris Bryant, Morgan Cain, Elizabeth Cesar, Addie Cunningham, Mildred Garrison, Betty Gilbert, Helen Spinks, Bessie story, Mary Stoy, Virginia Winget, Inez Witherspoon, Joan Yarbrow, Leta Kaul and Gladys Setliff.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been married to a man for more than a year and have seen his feet only twice, when he was getting out of the shower.

"George" wears his socks everywhere, even to bed. Try to imagine making love to a man with his socks on. Oh, brother, what a turn-off.

Last summer I bought George a pair of sandals, thinking I might get to see his feet for a change, but he fooled me. He wears socks with his sandals. Ever hear of anything so weird? What do you make of this, Ann?—Stumped in Dothan, Ala.

DEAR DOTHAN: Let's just say it's "different." George's hang-up is inconsequential compared to some I've heard of. Read the next letter and you will never complain again.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 27. My husband is 33. We have been married for three years and I am going crazy trying to figure out what to do. "Joe" was never the neatest guy in the world, but now things have come to the point where I need some answers from an outsider. The man has not taken a shower in over a year. He gets mad when I am unresponsive and says I'm a "cold fish," but there is no way I can make love to a man who comes to bed smelling like a goat.

He refuses to wear the clean socks and shorts I put out for him. The only way I can get him into fresh things is to hide the ones he is wearing.

Joe works in an office and I keep wondering what the people who sit near him think. I can smell him before he walks into the room.

I am so completely turned off by this man that I am seriously considering divorce. My mother says she wouldn't blame me. Please print this letter. I promise to put it on the pillow next to him when I move to the couch, which will be any minute.—Clothespin Please, Beaumont, Texas

DEAR C.P.: Joe has a geranium in his cranium, and I am not kidding. There is a big difference between being careless about hygiene and not bathing for a year. What you are dealing with is sick behavior.

Since you are putting this column where Joe can see it, it will come as no surprise when you tell him to get professional help and clean himself up or you are calling it a day. Sounds harsh? Not really. These cases get worse unless there is intervention and we have just intervened. Good luck.

DEAR ANN LANDES: Recently you told a woman whose boyfriend talked incessantly that he was insecure and the reason he talked all the time was because he was afraid people would think he couldn't think of anything to say.

You are wrong, Ann, I am a 20-year-old guy who is very quiet and the reason I don't talk is because I honestly can't think of anything to say.

Once in a while when I do think of something it seems so dumb that I figure I am better off to keep my mouth shut. By the time I get up the nerve to make a comment the conversation has switched to something else.

I'm not bad-looking and I would love to have a steady girl, but I feel as if I am terrible company. I hate to inflict myself on a date. I'd appreciate any suggestions you might have.—A Reader in Detroit

DEAR READER: I can give you the solution to the problem in two words, Ask questions.

People love to talk about themselves. They will go on and on, and when the evening is over they will tell you what a fascinating conversationalist you are when all you did was listen.

High blood pressure adds to the workload of the heart and arteries, which may contribute to stroke, heart attack, kidney failure, and congestive heart failure. There is accumulating evidence that lowering blood pressure reduces the risk of stroke and coronary heart disease, according to the American Heart Association.

NO BATHING ALLOWED HERE

ESSEX, Conn. (AP) — Until the Crusades, the use of cosmetics as well as bathing in Northern Europe was frowned upon by the church. It viewed personal grooming habits as a reminder of the corrupt and decadent Roman Empire that had occupied their lands for years, says the E.E. Dickinson Witch Hazel Co.

Skin lotions and perfumes were among the exotic things brought back to Northern Europe by the knights who had gone off to fight in the Crusades.

During the years between when the Romans left, until the Crusades, the only lotions available were brewed by witches to be used as poisons or love potions.

Angela Barron McBride has written a book entitled The Secret of A Good Life With Your Teenager. This book offers a parent an insight into the teenager's mind as well as the experiences they as parents of teens are exploring.

Dr. McBride recognizes and helps the parent deal with their own unresolved midlife problems as they deal with their child's rebellion. She discusses the psychology of both parent and child as well as specific developmental themes during these years.

One of the common problems incurred by parents and teens is: parents are often too concerned with helping their children avoid mistakes, while the teenager is more concerned that the parent will not stand by them when a mistake is made. The book offers wisdom, intelligence, tact, humor, and insight that will make it easier for both parent and child to develop through the teenage years.

In Judy Collins Trust Your Heart, Judy Collins, performer, introduces us to Judy Collins the artist, mother, activist and lover. Judy adored her blind father and began to study classical piano at the age of five. When 13 years of age, she performed a Mozart piano concerto with a Denver symphony orchestra.

While still in her teens Miss Collins became involved in folk music and guitar. Her natural talent and clear voice seemed to captivate all who heard her sing. This autobiography, written in journal form, tells of her early childhood, her marriage at the age of 19, the birth of her son, divorce, and her struggle for success. Judy Collins has done a wonderful job of telling her story of the hope and strength she has found in her present life.

Arthur Miller, son of a barely literate coat manufacturer, author of All My Sons, Death of a Salesman, and A View From the Bridge has written Timebends, his autobiography. His mother, an avid reader taught Arthur to love literature at an early age. In the 1920's before the Depression hurled the family into economic distress, Arthur worked in an auto parts warehouse to earn his tuition for college.

While attending the University of Michigan, during the Spanish Civil War, he discovered his vocation as a playwright. In this autobiography, Arthur tells of his notorious marriage to Marilyn Monroe, the wondrous woman whose drive toward self destruction nearly carried him to disaster as well.

We have many other books of interest out this week, but before I discuss them I would like to remind all of you of the Friends of the Library's annual business meeting. Dan True, the well known Panhandle weather man and wildlife enthusiast will be the guest speaker that evening. He will be speaking on his experiences while observing an eagle family. After the death of the female eagle Dan takes the eagle eggs that are left in the nest and successfully incubates one. As the eaglet hatches Dan becomes responsible for the care and education of this wondrous bird.

Although it was thought that an eagle raised in captivity would never be able to provide for itself a life wild and free, Dan took the challenge and proved man's theory to be false. In his book Flying Free he tells this success story. Please mark Feb. 22, on your calendars as an evening to spend at the Deaf Smith County Library. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the library's Heritage Room. Everyone is invited to come and bring a friend.

Other books of interest are:

Kingdoms of Conflict by Charles Colson;
Sally Field by Jason Bonderoff;
Deeds by Joseph Amiel author of Birthright;

Pleasing Facade Accented by Stone & Circular Top Windows

Home of the Week

The offset main entrance to this plan is to a foyer from which basement stair, bedroom wing, kitchen area and great room are easily accessible. The great room boasts a symmetrical arrangement with centered fireplace, slope ceiling and double windows with glass above on either side of the fireplace. Traffic flow to the dual dining room-breakfast room and kitchen is exceptional, and the master bedroom suite is directly adjacent to the main hub of the plan. The master bedroom suite boasts a luxury bath with garden tub, two lavatories and a separate shower. The large walk-in closet will accommodate a large wardrobe. The bedroom includes a tray ceiling and glass doors to the sun deck.

The spacious kitchen and dining room offer all the amenities and the dining room is also accessible to the deck by glass doors.

There are two additional bedrooms isolated at the other end of the plan, both of which are serviced by a central bath which also services daytime use. A laundry area is included in this wing and attic fan and disappearing stair are shown from the hall as well as access to the garage and stairs to the basement.

The traditional exterior is accented by ornate windows, stone chimney, circular-top windows, cupola and combined hip and gable roof design.

This is a computer plan. Some changes may be made from the plan stored in the CADD memory at less cost to you. Direct inquiries about CADD plan changes to the address below.

The plan is Number 683. It includes 1,673 square feet of heated area. All W.D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. For further information on this plan write, W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

By ANDY LANG

Houses, driveway dividers, retaining walls and anything else made of brick generally rate high for strength and durability when compared with wood. But brick requires maintenance or it can deteriorate as well as lose its pleasing appearance.

Most of the time the trouble occurs when the mortar between the bricks starts to crumble and permits water to enter the joints. Discovering what is happening before the actual leakage takes place and repairing the joints immediately can prevent major damage at a later time. No special skill is needed to make this discovery. Inspect the side of your brick house or wall periodically and you will be able to find out what is wrong very easily. If the mortar seems to be in poor condition, it is.

Another cause of seeping water through brick is that the material is porous and, after a period of years of being exposed to the weather, permits the passage of water. One way to prevent this is to seal the brick with a colorless liquid. An application holds for many years. It can be done after the original installation or after mortar repair.

There are times when the mortar between the bricks has crumbled to such an extent that it is better to replace a few bricks in that vicinity. This is especially true if one or more bricks have been damaged. While somebody occasionally will fill in the part where the brick is broken with mortar, it makes a messy repair. Using a cape chisel and a hammer, you should chip away at the mortar slowly and carefully, wearing gloves and safety goggles. When the mortar has been removed and the damaged brick removed, use a hose to wash out the cavity.

A new brick should be soaked in water before it is installed. After a short drying period to permit the mortar to adhere properly, use a trowel to butter mortar on the top and both ends of the brick, being careful not to get any on the face of it. Keep a damp cloth ready so if any mortar gets on the face of the brick it can be wiped off instantly. Waiting even a few minutes may make removal difficult. After the brick is installed, try to duplicate the shape of the old joints with a small jointer or piece of pipe or anything that will do the trick. The objective is to shape the joint so rainwater rolls off it quickly.

Wait about 10 or 12 hours, then wet down the new brick and the ones around it. Keep the area moist for a few days to prevent the new brick from drying out too quickly.

If you see a whitish substance on your bricks, it is salt that has been washed to the surface. While it occasionally can be removed with a scrubbing brush and water, it usually requires the use of muriatic acid, which should only be handled by someone who can work with great care. Use a solution of 8 parts of water to one of the acid. Wear old clothes, rubber gloves and glasses.

Apply the solution to the top of the damaged area and work down. Use a scrubbing brush — the kind made with wire bristles. Rub firmly but not so vigorously as to cause splashing. Flush off any acid residue with a hose, doing it twice to make sure. Incidentally, remember the truism about working with acid: Add the acid to the water, not the other way around.

Taylor says 40 little different from 20

James Taylor faces 40 without deep soul-searching, he says in his laid-back way. "Just another decade ticks over. I've been doing this for 20 years."

Half his life ago, the singer-songwriter-guitarist became the first "outside act" signed to Apple Records and made his first album, "James Taylor," which included "Carolina in My Mind." "Fire and Rain" was on his second album, on Warner Brothers.

Now, shortly before he turns 40 on March 12, he has his 12th album released, "Never Die Young," his fifth for Columbia Records. On his birthday evening, a two-hour James Taylor concert is scheduled to be broadcast in stereo on PBS.

Comparing himself at 20 and 40, Taylor says, "I think very little is different. It is just that I think a lot was unknown at that point. A lot of empty spaces have been filled in now. At the age of 20 you don't know what your life's work will be, where you're going to live, who your friends or associates are going to be. There is a lot of openness to it."

"By the time you're 40, a lot of those questions are answered. It may change further. But a lot of stuff is finite and has been identified."

The first single from the new album is the title tune.

Taylor says that the 1981 "Heron Town, Too," co-written with J.D.

Souther, "is the most recent song of mine that did anything really significant on the charts. But I got a certificate from BMI for a certain number of plays of 'Only One' off the last album." The last album was "That's Why I'm Here" in 1985.

"I never heard 'Only One' but there must have been places where it was played a lot. Don Henley and Joni Mitchell sang on it. It was an anthem-sounding kind of thing. I wrote it in the automobile, driving out of New York."

Taylor had songs in the 1985 movie "Smooth Talk." The 1978 Broadway show "Working" included two Taylor songs, "Millworker" and "Brother Trucker."

Asked whether he has written for the theater since his 1986 marriage to actress Kathryn Walker, he says, "Not really. I don't know if I have the discipline. Sooner or later I plan to give it a try. I have no idea what form it would take."

His two children, Sally, 13, and Ben, 10, born during his 1973 to 1981 marriage to Carly Simon, live in Massachusetts with their mother. Taylor says, "I see them on vacations and whenever I can get up there and visit them or bring them out on the road."

His wife travels with him sometimes, during her acting lulls, and he has joined her on location.

JAMES TAYLOR

The Taylors live in Connecticut, have a small summer house on Cape Cod and an apartment in an old building in Manhattan. They were in Manhattan recently for his appearance on "Saturday Night Live" and for her to shoot a TV miniseries. Guitars propped against a couch and a piano furnish the apartment's front parlor. He practices in there, Taylor says, but doesn't compose. "I don't think there are any songs in that room."

Taylor toured in America last fall with the band on his new album—guitarist Bob Mann, bassist Leland Sklar, keyboardist Don Grolnick and drummer Carlos Vega. They'll go to Europe and Australia and then tour in the United States next summer.

Last year's Dec. 11 and 12 concerts in Boston were taped by station WGBH to show on March 12 during PBS' fund-raising drive. "That's most of my musical life, touring and performing. It is nice to put it on film and present it."

"I did two songs from this album on that show, 'Never Die Young' and 'Sweet Potato Pie.' It's not a song about food; it's a song about a girl. It's fun to perform live. I do it with Arnold McCuller and Rosemary Butler singing on it, too."

Taylor met guitarist Danny Kortchmar in 1963 and he and "Kootch" with before on "Never Die Young." Taylor says he needs "quiet time" in order to write. "I try to carry a tape recorder and notebook with me if I'm going on a long drive, like into New York, so I'm able to put ideas down when they occur to me."

As to songs' origins, he says, "I don't know how these things develop. The process is mysterious to me. I can't really trace it back that accurately."

"Billy Payne and I started to work on 'T-Bone' four years ago. He brought me this kind of a verse and some music. I worked on it pretty much by myself after that."

"You sit down and run them by and they develop a life of their own after awhile and you start thinking about them all the time. The rest of it sort of fills itself in."

"I had this melody and a beginning of a lyric I'd started down in Rio; we played five or six towns in Brazil a year ago October. I think of the chords as Brazilian. I'm very influenced by where I go. I brought it home and played it for Zach Wiesner. We got together a couple of times and hammered out a lyric to 'Baby Boom Baby.'

"Timmy Mayer brought me the 'Home by Another Way' lyric and I supplied the music." It was for an epiphany play directed by a friend, George Trow, in an upstate New York church, Taylor says. "We later expanded the song to be a bit more general. It's religious at its root. The melody isn't particularly religious."

Taylor writes with a guitar in his hands. "The music always comes through the medium of the guitar for me," he says. "The lyrics develop at the same time as the melody. They come in dribs and drabs. Usually I have to finish lyrics at the end."

Clavell looks at modern Hong Kong

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Author James Clavell believes that "Noble House," his novel of intrigue and power struggles set in Hong Kong, is particularly pertinent now that Great Britain is preparing to give up its Asian colony.

The British will turn over Hong Kong to the People's Republic of China when its lease expires in 1997.

"Noble House" has been turned into a four-part miniseries which NBC will televise on four consecutive nights, Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday.

An earlier Clavell book, "Tai-Pan," told of the founding of Hong Kong in 1841. The tai-pan is the leader of the largest trading house.

"The People's Republic is already buying up so much already," says Clavell. "The real tai-pan today is a man with strong connections to the mainland."

Pierce Brosnan stars in the miniseries as Ian Dunross, who takes over as tai-pan of Hong Kong's oldest and most powerful trading house. It also stars Deborah Raffin, Ben Masters, John Houseman, Denholm Elliott, Gordon Jackson, Julia Nickson, John Rhys-Davies, Nancy Kwan, Bert Kwouk and Khig Dhiagh.

The "Noble House" novel was set in 1963, but the miniseries was made contemporary so that it could deal with the issue of the upcoming takeover by the Chinese. Writer-producer Eric Bercovici and director Gary Nelson also found that Hong Kong has changed enormously in the past 25 years and it would have been difficult to find locations for a 1963 setting.

Bercovici also adapted Clavell's "Shogun" as a miniseries. It was telecast in 1980 and is still the highest-rated miniseries ever on NBC.

"This is the age of the Pacific," Clavell says. "California, Vancouver, Hong Kong, Korea, Japan and Singapore, all on the Pacific rim, represent an enormous amount of wealth. The political weight of the world is there. The untapped markets of the world are there."

The British-born Clavell now writes mainly about Asia. His last book, "Whirlwind," was the fifth volume in what he calls his "Asian Saga." With five more books in the planning stage, he now makes his home in Europe because he says most of the research material he needs is there.

Clavell's Asian connection began when he was a child. His father, a naval officer, told him stories of the gunboats on the Yangtze River. In December 1941 he arrived in Singapore as a newly commissioned lieutenant in the British Army. When Singapore fell to the Japanese he escaped to Java and hid out for about six months. He was captured and sent to Changi prisoner-of-war camp in Singapore.

Clavell survived the next 2½ years on a quarter-pound of rice a day. He came out of the camp weighing 130 pounds. Fourteen out of every 15 prisoners died.

After the war he became a screenwriter in Los Angeles. During a strike he wrote "King Rat," loosely based on his experiences as a POW. When it sold as a movie he had the money he needed to move his wife and two children to Hong Kong in 1963.

"James Michener's 'Hawaii' had just come out and I suggested to my publisher that I do James Clavell's 'Hong Kong,'" he says. "Then I asked for some money. They told me to go and write the book first."

"The movie sale gave me my 'drop dead' money. I started my research."

CLASSIFIED ADS
Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.80 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	.14	2.80
2 days per word	.24	4.80
3 days per word	.34	6.80
4 days per word	.44	8.80
5th day FREE

Ten days (2 free) is $16.80 minimum; 15 days (3 free) is $24.80 minimum; one month is $32.80 minimum.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid-word lines-those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $3.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALS
Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS
Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Toastmasters Club convenes

Hereford Toastmasters Club met Thursday with Larry Bronselle serving as general evaluator and Bill Devers chosen as best evaluator of the day and introduced his father, Milton, who spoke on "No, Not There." The talk concerned the Washington, Nevada, and Texas sites nominated for a nuclear waste dump and served as a No. 8 manual speech.

Larry Leon for his presentation of a No. 10 manual speech entitled "Let's Don't Disappoint," an example on communicating. Leon is the second member to achieve his CTM award in this organization in 1988.

Joe Weaver and Rick Auckermann were welcomed into the club and will soon be participating in the speech assignments. Dr. Adams gave a reading entitled "Blessings of Liberty," a report on the U.S. Constitution.

Chamber Singers To Perform

For six weeks, the Hereford Chamber Singers have been performing "Praise Fest," a praise and worship service in song and response. For their final concert, the group will be singing at 6 p.m. today at the First Church of the Nazarene. A love offering will be taken to help the singers with traveling expenses to perform at World Expo '88 in Brisbane, Australia, in June. The local musical group has been chosen as one out of 100 groups from the United States and Canada and one of four groups from Texas to attend World Expo.

Junior, senior preview scheduled at WT March 4

High school juniors and seniors are invited to preview West Texas State University Friday, March 4, and Saturday, March 5.

"Junior/Senior Preview," billed as "a great opportunity to take a look at WTSU firsthand," will contain a healthy blend of vital information and fun.

Students who arrive Friday will sample non-academic aspects of campus life. They can "hang ten" at a Beach Party/Dinner, view movies, dance the night away or observe spirited competition between campus organizations at the All University Sing.

Saturday programs, which will culminate with a luncheon, will acquaint high school students with the campus layout, campus life, admissions procedures, special programs for incoming freshmen, financial aid options and academic departments.

WTSU personnel will communicate the information to guests "firsthand." Speakers include Director of Admissions Lila Vars, Assistant Director of Admissions Bob Graves and Director of Residential Living Doug James.

High school juniors and seniors who arrive Friday can spend the night in a campus dormitory and visit with dorm staff. A $5 fee will take care of all activities, board and lodging.

The art of weaving by tying knots probably began in the 1200's by Arabians but it wasn't called macrame until about the 1400's. That's an Arabic or Turkish word meaning fringe.
