Buckner's to help with juvenile center

Deaf Smith County will need to raise $450,000 to construct the facility, but costs could be quickly recovered after center opens.

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

Buckner's Children's Home in Dallas will pay $36,000 of the anticipated $96,000-per-year operating cost for Deaf Smith County's proposed juvenile emergency shelter, local officials learned at a steering committee meeting Thursday.

Along with the extra $60,000 the county must pay for yearly operating expenses, County

Judge Tom Simons said the county must raise $450,000 to build the 12-bed shelter.

"We've already had the Department of Human Resources commit to renting two beds at the shelter which will offset the cost by $18,000 per year," said Simons. Simons said that the remaining cost will probably be consumed by neighboring counties and the Texas Youth Commission which have expressed interest in renting beds at the facility.

In a study submitted by Weldon McElreath, administrator of Buckner's Children's Home in Lubbock, 12 surrounding counties, including Deaf Smith County, placed 105 juveniles in shelters in 1987.

"This is a significant amount of money needed to put this many juveniles in these shelters at $30-to-$40 per juvenile, per day," said Simons.

Simons said the county spent $14,000 last year just renting three beds at one of the juvenile emergency shelters in the area. The county is forced to pay those costs to keep a place reserved, whether it is occupied or not.

A juvenile's stay in the shelter can range from 30 to 90 days,

Simons said, depending on the time needed to complete adjudicatory processes.

Hereford attorney Terry Langehenning and committee members are now working on incorporating the 15-member board to gain tax-exempt status, said Simons.

Simons stated that funds could be in hand by next summer, when the county will either construct a facility or will renovate a building.

"We're looking at some places right now that might be renovation possibilities, but they might be too big for just a 12-bed facility," said Simons.

Committee members elected as officers Thursday were the Rev. Charles Threewit, chairman; the Rev. Ron Cook, vice chairman; and Aurora Dominguez, secretary-treasurer.

The committee will meet March 3, but no time has been set, said Simons.

Campaign questioning

Bullock assaults tax system

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock says the state's tax system is not keeping pace with the changing economy but is tied to a past where oil and gas were top revenue producers.

But oil and gas have gone from being among the top three state revenue sources to fifth and sixth, falling behind cigarette taxes and motor vehicle sales taxes, Bullock said in an address to the Rotary Club of Houston.

"Now while the tax system that supports state government is tied to an economy of the past, the spending side of the budget has stayed very much in step with a growing Texas — our population," he said Thursday.

"Fortunately the population and the economy have a way of getting in step with each other. But unfortunately, as things now stand, state government and financing of it does not."

The answer to modernizing Texas taxes rests with a Select Committee on Tax Equity created by the Legislature, he said. The 13-member panel, of which he is a member, has held hearings around the state and will continue to do so before lawmakers convene next January.

"At this time, it's hard for me to tell what direction the committee might take," he said. "Hopefully, they'll come forth to bring some sanity and equity to a tax system that does not."

Bullock said so far nothing radically new has been presented to the committee.

"They're hearing for the first time Texas really has more taxes than any other state except income taxes," he said. "They're hearing for the first time about our economy."

"Let's put it this way, if they're not hearing it for the first time, they're finally believing it."

It would be unwise, he said, to keep raising the rates of the existing taxes and he said he doubted that the answer is to shift more of the tax burden to local governments "because property taxes are bordering on the rebellion level."

Despite the tax woes, Bullock said the worst of Texas' economic problems has passed.

"The future looks better," he said. "Texas is on the move."

Demoslook for new plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Both the White House and congressional Democrats are scrambling to fill the policy vacuum left by the defeat of President Reagan's proposal for new aid to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

A day after the House dealt the administration policy of supplying the rebels with military aid a fatal blow, the White House salvaged a purely symbolic victory when the Senate voted, 51-48, in favor of the $36.2 million plan. The earlier House vote meant the measure already was dead, and the Senate action Thursday had no practical effect.

But with just over three weeks left before all aid to the rebels runs out, Democrats are now grappling with the same problem the Reagan administration had faced and failed to solve: how to construct a delicately balanced aid package that can win a majority in a sharply divided Congress.

The Senate vote was an illustration of just how difficult it will be to piece together legislation that is acceptable to both sides.

For the administration, it also took some of the sting out of the previous day's loss, and sent a message to Nicaragua that the prospect of renewed lethal aid for the rebels lies just below the surface, should the Sandinista regime commit a misstep.

"This vote sends an important signal to the Sandinista government that American leaders remain concerned about the peace process and will be watching its progress very carefully," the White House said in a statement after the vote.

House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, said an alternative aid package, limited strictly to humanitarian aid — would be put together with bipartisan support over the next three weeks.

In addition to opposing the renewed lethal aid in Reagan's plan, some Democrats also said the so-called "non-lethal" portion of that package was deceptive because it included money for helicopters, jeeps and field radios.

Wright said the alternative will provide "an ample amount" of food, clothing, medicine and shelter for the Contras, but no lethal aid.

At the White House, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said any humanitarian aid bill "has to be more than a thinly veiled plan of surrender. It has to be more than a refugee aid package. It has to be serious and significant."

Fitzwater also expressed the president's "deep disappointment" at the 219-211 rejection of his aid plan by the House on Wednesday night. In a statement, Reagan asserted: "My commitment to peace and democracy in Central America is undiminished."

The outlines of the new Democratic aid package remained vague. House Majority Whip Tony Coelho, D-Calif., said it is likely to reach beyond the short-term needs of the rebels, whose U.S. aid runs out Feb. 29, to encompass a long-term economic development package for the region.

In addition, Coelho said the legislation may address the issue of whether private American citizens should be permitted to raise third-party contributions as a way of keeping military aid flowing to the rebels — an action seen by anti-Contra forces as potentially undermining the peace process.

After meeting with Secretary of State George Shultz at the State Department, Contra political leader Adolfo Calero said he planned to approach foreign countries in an effort to solicit replacements for U.S. aid.

Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega, reacting to the defeat of the aid package in the House a day earlier, said the peace process was strengthened, but not assured.

"If President Reagan reaches the conclusion that it's time for a change of policy, to halt the war ... the situation would take another course," he said. "But such a miracle would be difficult, in which the president of the United States would be willing to become a man of peace. Surely he will keep trying new ways to continue the war against Nicaragua."

Rumble on Ramses gets hot

DALLAS (AP) — Museums in Dallas and Houston say they'd treasure the chance to host an exhibit of the riches of Egyptian Pharaoh Ramses II.

Egyptian officials have received requests from several cities for the "Ramses the Great" exhibit, which has been drawing capacity crowds in Canada and the United States for the past 3½ years.

"Both Dallas and Houston would like to have it," said Zahi Hawass, archaeology adviser to Egypt's Culture Ministry. "We'll be studying all proposals."

The exhibit features 72 objects from the life of the pharaoh who lived more than 3,000 years ago and has as its centerpiece a giant statue of Ramses unearthed in 1986.

The Science Place in Dallas and the Houston Museum of Fine Arts both are trying to raise money to get the tour.

"It's so expensive and needs so much support," said Peter Mazzi, the Houston museum's director. "It needs an entire region to make it work."

The Houston museum has joined with the Houston Museum of Natural Sciences and the International Houston Festival in efforts to get the Ramses exhibit next spring, Mazzi said.

"We will probably know if we can go after it in two or three weeks," he said. "We've had unofficial signals from the Egyptians, and they've all been positive."

Richard Coyne, The Science Place's president, said Dallas officials are lining up $1 million in corporate and individual donations to bring the exhibit to Fair Park sometime next year, but they don't want to steal any thunder from a current $11.5 million fund drive.

"The $1 million figure is just what it would take to satisfy the Egyptians and to promote and set up the exhibit," said Coyne, noting that a depressed economy has made underwriting more difficult.

"Before it's over, the budget could be $3 million," he said. "But none of the museums the exhibit has been at so far have lost money."

Two-year Army AIDS screening nets 5,890

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two years after launching the world's most extensive AIDS screening program, the Pentagon has tested nearly 4 million people and identified 5,890 carrying the deadly virus.

The testing has cost $43.1 million so far and is projected to cost another $25.5 million this fiscal year.

The latest statistics, released Thursday, include test results not only for recruit applicants — those men and women trying to join the military — but also for those on active duty and those serving in the National Guard and reserves.

They are the first statistics to provide a complete picture of test results through fiscal 1987, which ended last Sept. 30.

If all the groups are combined, the Pentagon has tested the blood of 3.96 million individuals since October 1985, when it launched the AIDS screening effort. Of that total, roughly 1.5 cases of AIDS infection have been detected out of every 1,000 individuals screened — or 5,890 all together.

On the active-duty side, the Pentagon said it had screened 2.18 million individuals over the past two years, of whom 3,336 tested positively for exposure.

Among the Army National Guard and Air National Guard members tested to date, there have been 387 positives out of 300,702 screened.

AIDS — acquired immune deficiency syndrome — is an incurable disease caused by a virus that attacks the body's immune system and its ability to resist infection. It is most frequently spread through sexual intercourse or the sharing of drug needles. According to the Centers for Disease Control, 51,916 Americans had been diagnosed as having AIDS as of Jan. 25, and an unknown but much greater number of people have been exposed to the virus.

The Defense Department decided in the fall of 1985 to begin testing all recruit applicants as well as all active-duty personnel, citing the need to protect military blood supplies.

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

I realize there are not just a whole lot of you who watch PBS on a very regular basis.

I also hope you know by now I am warped.

I don't watch much network television. I watch NBC on Thursday nights after 8 p.m., and I watch just about any sports. I watch Dallas, and I catch 60 Minutes.

Everything else is either ESPN, PBS, A&E, CNN or C-SPAN. A little USA every now and then, and sometimes Showtime.

PBS started this mini-series Monday called "Television." It's something of a history of the medium, with Edwin Newman, who has been in the business just about since Day One, serving as narrator. He recounted some of the early years of TV, about how some of history's greatest events happened right before the world's eyes—this generation's eyes—for the first time in the recorded history of man.

He said to think about what we were doing when certain events happened. Most of them almost everyone can remember.

JFK's assassination—I was at my grandmother's watching As The World Turns. My father had died just a few days before, and I was staying with my granny while Mom went to Phoenix to start the Social Security and VA processes. All of a sudden, Walter Cronkite cuts off Eileen Fulton and brings us the bad news, starting four days of non-stop programming.

Bobby Kennedy's assassination—I was helping my sister babysit some kids across the street, and the coverage of the California primary was the only thing on TV, so we were watching as Bobby came through the kitchen after accepting his hard-earned victory in California, paving the way to the presidency for him.

First step on the moon—I was visiting with a friend that later got about 900 years for selling dope to kids in Amarillo. Neither one of us was doing dope at the time, but we, for some reason, wondered whether or not they were really on the moon. I don't know if I'm convinced today. I think they landed at Sunset Crater in Arizona, or anywhere in Utah.

The Beatles on Ed Sullivan—I played sick and got to stay home from church that night. Gosh, I was only about eight years old, but I sure knew who the Beatles were, and I sure wanted to stay home and see them on TV. Watched the Beatles, but didn't get a Beatles haircut, with the bangs and all, for another two years.

Richard Nixon resigned—I was playing poker in college. I went to Hardin-Simmons, a renowned Baptist college, so we had to be discreet, right? We played in the middle of the lobby, and we used real money, no chips. That was almost as risky as dancing.

We had the TV on, and Abilene had one of these 24-hour cable channels that printed the Associated Press wire on the screen. One of the guys playing with us had this old-fashioned microphone in his room, and he went and got it and we sat there playing five-card stud and passing the mike around. We were reading whatever it said about Nixon and throwing in our own little asides. We stayed up all night making fun of one of the darkest moments in our nation's history.

Jane Fonda's little Hanoi speech—I had just gotten through putting an "America—Love It or Leave It" bumper sticker on my bicycle seat. I thought Jane was a crock then, and I still do today.

Carlton Fisk's 12th Inning Homer in 1975 World Series, Game Six—I was doing what I have done to every World Series since I was born, sitting their glued to the television. Mom tells me I saw Don Larsen's perfect game in 1956, but I don't remember it at all. 'Course, I was nine months old when he pitched it. Daddy got me off to a good start there.

Dan Rather ask George Bush a few questions—I was sitting there yelling, "Get him, Dan! Get him!"

It remains to be seen which, if any, of these will be the most important thing we've ever seen.

What is amazing is how this relatively recent invention so affects each of our lives. Can you imagine a day, a week, or even a month without TV?

I don't have to imagine. One of the best vacations I ever took was a 10-day trout fishing expedition up to Colorado with some cousins and friends. We were camped at 11,300 feet, and trout were thick. We didn't have to wet a hook sometimes—they literally jumped into the net we were holding outside the boat, that's how thick they were. We were without electricity, much less TV.

I can gladly say I missed every sugary moment of Chuck and Di's wedding, and have never regretted it.

But I sure did miss those preseason football games.

The more Mecham speaks, the more the public says 'impeach'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — The votes are there to impeach Evan Mecham, say lawmakers who note that the more the embattled governor speaks in his own defense, the more secretaries are flooded with calls urging his impeachment.

"About 50 percent are saying impeach him. The other 50 percent are saying hang him," House Minority Whip Debbie McCune, a Democrat, said Thursday after three days of testimony by Mecham over an undisclosed $350,000 campaign loan.

The Republican governor planned to testify again today before a select House committee, and lawmakers later were to meet in private caucuses before going to the House floor to vote on an impeachment resolution.

If that is approved, the House was expected to vote on a bill of particulars stating the specific reasons for impeachment.

"Before midnight tonight, if it's going to the Senate it will be gone," House Majority Leader Jim Ratliff said.

Speaker Joe Lane and House select committee chairman Jim Skelly, both Republicans, said they believed there were enough votes to impeach the first-term governor, although Lane said his opinion was "just speculation." Other lawmakers said privately they were convinced there would be enough votes.

It takes 31 votes in the 60-member House to impeach the governor, or vote to put him on trial, and 20 votes to convict in the 30-member Senate.

On Thursday, Mecham testified before the House committee that he did not try to hide the campaign loan, contending it was lumped with other funds on campaign finance statements as a "time-saving matter" by his brother and 1986 campaign treasurer Willard Mecham.

"It was listed in an aggregate form but there was nothing done to hide it," said the governor, who began drawing criticism shortly after he took office just over a year ago when he canceled a Martin Luther King holiday created by his predecessor.

Mecham also faces a recall election May 17 and a March 9 criminal trial on charges of concealing the $350,000 loan. His brother faces criminal charges as well.

Mecham press secretary Ken Smith said Wednesday he had "gut instincts" that Mecham will be impeached. He later backtracked, contending an impeachment was not inevitable.

Republican and Democratic lawmakers alike reported that the balance of the phone calls they received had been leaning further and further towards impeachment during Mecham's first three days of testimony.

If the governor is impeached, the constitution requires Secretary of State Rose Mofford, a Democrat, to take over as acting governor while Mecham stands trial in the Senate.

A House special counsel has accused Mecham of concealing the $350,000 campaign loan, misusing $80,000 from the governor's protocol fund by borrowing it for his auto dealership, and trying to thwart an investigation of an alleged death threat by a state official.

Mattox urges panel to include measures on bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Texas Attorney General Jim Mattox urged members of a Senate panel to include measures on birth control, enforced child support and flexible job training in an upcoming welfare reform bill.

The Texas Democrat was one of several officials from across the country testifying at a Finance Committee hearing Thursday on welfare reform chaired by Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas.

Bentsen said the panel is "looking for ways to help" children and indicated he is committed to making some welfare changes before the 100th Congress adjourns later this year.

"This committee is going to make children its No. 1 objective this year," Bentsen said.

Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan, D-N.Y., has introduced a five-year, $2.3 billion bill that would require states to make greater efforts to establish paternity and to institute automatic wage withholding when child support orders are issued.

The "Family Security Act" also would require states to set up education, training and work programs for welfare recipients and to see that child care is available to participants who need it.

"We will never gain such control unless we come to grips with the numbers of unplanned children or children born to those who cannot afford the costs of raising them," Mattox said in prepared testimony.

He called for establishment of experimental child care programs in elementary schools that would be operated before and after classes, but did not offer any means for funding such a program.

Regarding child support, the attorney general had several specific recommendations that he suggested should be added to the Senate bill.

"We need to shift the burden for collecting child support from the custodial parent to the state," he said. "My No. 1 recommendation would be to require the state to collect child support payments. We do this now in Texas."

He suggested a national "wage assignment" program similar to the system currently used in Texas as a mechanism to ensure payment of child support.

Mattox also took the opportunity to scold the Texas legislature, which he said had seized $13 million of the earned revenues and federal bonuses received for welfare programs and used it to help cover the state's general debts.

"If the state legislature had reinvested that money in child support programs, the $13 million would have helped us qualify for a higher federal match," he said.

Dole & Bush still sparring

By LAURA KING
Associated Press Writer

The battle between Republican presidential rivals Bob Dole and George Bush boiled over from the campaign trail to the Capitol, and Pat Robertson scored a landslide victory in a straw poll in Hawaii just days before the Iowa caucuses.

On the Democratic side, Gary Hart launched an advertising blitz in Iowa, including a television spot in which he gazes into the camera at close range and says: "Character is the test."

Hart, who dropped out of the race for seven months amid reports of his relationship with Miami model Donna Rice, says in the ad that "there's been a lot of casual talk about character this year.... They use that word as a smokescreen because they don't like someone who is different, who doesn't play by their political rules."

Bush campaign chairman Lee Atwater denounced Dole as a "schoolyard bully" after he strode up to the vice president on the Senate floor Thursday and demanded to know whether Bush had approved an aide's harsh statement the previous day.

After the confrontation, Dole accused the Bush campaign of "groveling in the mud" in its statement from George Wittgraf, Bush's Iowa campaign chairman.

In the statement issued Wednesday, Wittgraf attacked Dole's "cronyism and mean-spiritedness," made reference to the "posh" lifestyle of Dole and his wife Elizabeth, raised questions about Mrs. Dole's blind trust, and implied that Dole accepts favors from the wealthy in exchange for political influence.

"It doesn't have to be this nasty, mean, personal and vindictive," Dole said of the statement. "It's below the belt."

Dole demanded an apology, at least for his wife, but Atwater said none was forthcoming. He said although Bush had not approved Wittgraf's statement in advance, "We are not going to condemn it."

"Senator Dole seems to be like a typical schoolyard bully. He can dish it out... but if someone hits him back, he starts whining," Atwater said in a telephone interview.

Four top 10 teams win Thursday night

Stanford upsets No. 1 Arizona, 82-74

By The Associated Press

The Arizona Wildcats are one of the best teams in nation, except when they're ranked No. 1 and playing at Stanford.

Todd Lichti scored 23 points and Howard Wright 21 Thursday night as Stanford upset top-ranked Arizona 82-74.

It marked the second time this season Arizona has lost while holding the No. 1 rating. It also was the fourth straight year the Wildcats have lost at Stanford.

"They kicked our tails in every which way — boards, shooting, free throws," Arizona Coach Lute Olson said.

Stanford joined New Mexico as the teams that have ambushed the No. 1 Wildcats, now 20-2. The Cardinal, 14-7, did it by scoring the final 10 points in the last five minutes.

The standing-room only crowd of 7,500 at Maple's Pavilion was warned early in the game to stop stomping on the floor when Arizona was shooting free throws. But the Wildcats still seemed rattled by the crowd, which swarmed onto the court when the game ended.

"The crowd came in and really made a difference," Stanford Coach Mike Montgomery said. "That put us over the edge."

In other Top Twenty games, No. 2 Nevada-Las Vegas beat Cal-Irvine 99-77, No. 3 Brigham Young defeated Utah 82-64, No. 5 Temple trounced Duquesne 110-70, No. 8 North Carolina stopped Clemson 88-64 and Ohio State toppled No. 17 Illinois 64-60.

Stanford outrebounded Arizona 32-26 and outshot the Wildcats from the free-throw line. For the fourth straight year, Arizona ran into foul trouble at Stanford and the result was the Cardinal made 22 of 30 free throws, compared to 11-for-16 for the Wildcats.

Sean Elliott led the Wildcats with 22 points.

No. 2 UNLV 99, Cal-Irvine 77

Karl James scored 26 points and sparked a first-half spree that sent UNLV past Cal-Irvine in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association.

James had seven points during an 11-0 streak that gave the visiting Runnin' Rebels a 44-28 lead. Jarvis Basnight and Anthony Todd each added 13 points for UNLV.

UNLV made 25 of 26 free throws. Wayne Englestad scored 25 points for the Anteaters.

No. 3 Brigham Young 82, Utah 64

Michael Smith scored 21 points as Brigham Young beat Utah and remained the only unbeaten major college team.

The Cougars went on a 14-6 run for a 74-60 lead with five minutes left.

Reserve guard Brian Taylor had 15 points for host BYU. The Cougars, leading the nation in field-goal percentage, shot 67 percent for the game.

Watkins Singletary scored 14 for the Utes.

No. 5 Temple 110, Duquesne 70

Mark Macon scored 26 points and Mike Vreeswyk 21 as Temple broke its home-court scoring record by routing Duquesne.

The Owls scored the first eight points and used a 23-8 burst for a 36-19 lead. Macon scored 11 points during the spurt, and the freshman has reached double figures in every game.

Temple's previous scoring mark at McGonigle Hall was 105 against Point Park in 1980.

Darrell White scored 17 for the Dukes.

No. 8 North Carolina 88, Clemson 64

J.R. Reid and Jeff Lebo scored 17 points each as North Carolina pulled away from Clemson late in the second half.

The visiting Tar Heels led 66-62 with 4:42 left when Clemson's Elden Campbell, who scored 20 points, fouled out. North Carolina outscored the Tigers 22-2 the rest of the way for its 17th victory in 18 games against Clemson.

Reid also had 10 rebounds for the Tar Heels.

Ohio State 64, No. 17 Illinois 60

Jay Burson scored 20 points and made two clinching foul shots with 17 seconds left as Ohio State held off Illinois.

Illinois led 41-30 with 16:11 remaining before Ohio State rallied for a tie at 51. Grady Mateen's three-point play gave the Buckeyes the lead for good at 56-53 with 2:23 left.

Tony White scored 12 points for Ohio State, which shot 21-for-27 from the foul line. Nick Anderson had 17 points for Illinois, which was 8-for-16 on foul shots and missed the front end of three one-and-ones in the final five minutes.

Rockets go into All-Star break with bit of harmony

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Rockets are going into the NBA All-Star break with a bit of harmony following a tumultuous first half of the season.

Purvis Short scored 24 points and sank 9 of 9 free throws as the Rockets hit 28 of 29 free throws en route to a 115-87 victory over New Jersey Thursday night for third consecutive victory.

"You always want to leave on a good note," Short said. "I was getting a pretty good look at the basket tonight. We moved the ball well and played good defense."

The Rockets traded Ralph Sampson to the Golden State Warriors on Dec. 12 for Sleepy Floyd and Joe Barry Carroll and the team has been trying to regroup with the new lineup.

Reserve Cedric Maxwell thinks it has.

"I've played on championship teams and on almost championship teams but from one to 12 this is the best team I've ever played on," Maxwell said.

"We're starting to hit a groove and play with saavy. We need to take this break and get ready for Boston."

The Rockets resume their schedule in the Summit Tuesday against the Celtics.

The Rockets hit a club record 26 free throws in a row until Lester Conner failed to convert a free throw with 37 seconds left in the game. The Rockets hit 18 of 18 against Boston on Oct. 21, 1978.

The Rockets broke from a 22-22 first quarter deadlock on a basket by Rodney McCray and never trailed again, leading 62-42 at the half and 86-61 to start the fourth quarter.

Buck Williams scored 23 points and got 14 rebounds for the Nets but his effort gave him little consolation.

"It was a nightmare tonight," Williams said. "A lot of times we have had trouble with our shooting. Tonight our offense beat us.

"We played poorly in the first quarter but we were still in it. We had a lot of turnovers on the break."

The game started to get out of hand early, Nets Coach Bob MacKinnon said.

"Tonight was poor," he said. "The second quarter was a disaster for us. At the end of the first quarter we missed some easy opportunities and it all went downhill."

Short, also obtained from Golden State, says he's settling into his role as an instant offensive threat off the bench.

"I feel real comfortable with my role," Short said. "I've played it before. I always take my shots whenever they are there."

The Rockets had 26 turnovers against the Nets, led by Rodney McCray and Joe Barry Carroll with five each.

"In the first quarter we threw the ball away too much," McCray said. "When I got back in there I wanted to stay and we had to run to be effective."

Rocky Marciano won the heavyweight title in September of 1952 and made six successful defenses of the crown before retiring in 1956.

About Super Bowl champs trying to repeat

Carson not freely giving advice

By KEN PETERS
AP Sports Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — Harry Carson knows first-hand how difficult it is for a Super Bowl team to repeat, but he's not freely dispensing advice about the hazards.

The New York Giants linebacker, asked what he might tell the Super Bowl champion Washington Redskins to expect next season, shot back with a rather wicked grin: "Not a thing. We have to play those guys."

The Giants followed up their Super Bowl campaign of 1986 with a dismal 6-9 regular-season showing this season.

Carson, who'll be playing in his seventh consecutive Pro Bowl on Sunday, said there were a number of reasons for the Giants' downfall.

"For one thing, everybody played us like it was a playoff game for them," he said. "There is a lot of pressure on the Super Bowl champion."

"It was a real learning experience. Since we won't have so much pressure on us next season, I hope we'll be good enough to get back to the Super Bowl."

Carson said that, in addition to being a marked team, the Giants simply made too many errors this season.

"We had a lot of interceptions, a lot of fumbles and other things, and it's hard to win games when you make mistakes like that."

Reminder given on Elks free throw shooting contest

This is a final reminder to boys and girls ages eight to 13, that the 16th annual Elks Hoop Shoot, a national free throw shooting contest will be held Saturday at the Hereford High School gym.

The local competition in the Elks four shot contest starts at 9 a.m., R.D. Holmes and Ray Redding of the Hereford Lodge No. 2269 remind youth.

IS SEC THE BEST?

MISSION, KAN. (AP) — Take it from a referee in the Southeastern Conference, the college football atmosphere in the SEC is the best there is.

"There's nothing to compare with it," Jimmy Harper, a conference referee said. "Nobody enjoys football more than an SEC fan. I think Southeastern fans are very knowledgeable and I grew up with that. In my eyes, there is no greater sporting event than a Southeastern Conference football game."

Some critics claimed that success went to the Giants' heads, and pointed to the number of books the players cranked out following the Super Bowl victory over Denver in 1987.

"I know a lot of people were saying that," Carson said. "They were using the books and things like that as kind of a scapegoat. I wrote a book, but it was no distraction."

"I think anytime you have success, people like to point their finger at you and find reasons why you'll fail."

Although Carson was voted to the NFC Pro Bowl team for the ninth time by his fellow players, he humbly questioned whether he really deserved it this year.

"I personally don't think I had a All-Pro year," he said. "I had a sort of up-and-down year in the same way that the team did."

"It wasn't that I didn't try, but I don't think I got the job done all the time. It certainly wasn't one of my best years."

Still, having played in the Pro Bowl so many times before, Carson said he felt good about being at the All-Star game.

"It's a fun game. There shouldn't be any pressure on anyone here," he said.

"But with the quality of all the people here, and the pride involved, you certainly don't want to go out there and slop around.

"I think all the players feel they need to show the other guys, the guys who voted for them, that they deserve to be here."

Nuggets rally to defeat San Antonio Spurs, 129-123

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — Denver Nuggets coach Doug Moe says his team put the San Antonio Spurs to sleep in the first half and put them out of the game in the fourth period.

Moe made the comment Thursday night after the Nuggets roared from behind to take a 129-123 NBA victory over San Antonio.

As late as the end of the third quarter, the Spurs held a 95-87 lead, but Moe said his team worked a little magic for the victory.

"We gave them a case of sleeping sickness," Moe said. "We really put them to sleep. Then we got aggressive and made things happen."

San Antonio held a 68-56 halftime lead and had led by as many as 17, at 59-42, in the second period.

But Denver outscored the Spurs, 42-28, in the fourth period.

With San Antonio leading 106-102, Lafayette Lever took over. His 12-footer pulled Denver within two points with 7:22 remaining in the game. Lever then grabbed a rebound and put in a layup to knot the game. His five-foot jumper with 6:25 remaining put Denver on top for good, 108-106.

San Antonio coach Bob Weiss said it appeared that the Spurs just stopped playing hard after halftime.

"We looked like we thought it was over at the half," Weiss said.

"I know particularly with the younger players, when they are voted into the Pro Bowl, they want to do well, want to show that they're really All-Pro."

"Denver played much better in the second half, but we didn't execute well at all."

Weiss said he attempted to stop the Nuggets in the fourth period by slowing them down by frequently calling for timeouts, but it didn't work.

"Denver was playing so well and making so many runs at us that I had to use all of our timeouts," Weiss said. "The purpose was to stop their runs. It did not work."

Moe said it was a game Denver will long remember.

"It's one of those games you look on at the end of the season and say, 'You were really fortunate to win that one,'" Moe said. "The Spurs couldn't hit the outside shots and once we stopped their layups, we took control of the game."

Alex English led the Nuggets with 30 points.

Alvin Robertson had 29 for the Spurs.

Forward Walter Berry and guard Johnny Dawkins each added 19 points for the Spurs who lost for the first time in last three games.

San Antonio's defense smothered the Nuggets in the first half, blocking seven shots and holding Denver to 46.4 percent shooting from the floor.

Meanwhile, the Spurs passing attack nearly ran the Nuggets off the floor. San Antonio shot 58.3 percent from the field and connected on many easy layups.

Hungry Sacramento Kings defeat Mavericks, 118-101

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Dallas Mavericks coach John MacLeod could see his team's 118-101 NBA loss to the Sacramento Kings coming.

"This didn't surprise me at all," MacLeod said after the Thursday night loss. "Sacramento has been getting a lot of flack lately and they just came off of a real bad (123-91) loss to Utah last night. They were hungry. They haven't won two back-to-back games in 10 outings."

Reggie Theus led the Kings, at the bottom of the Midwest Division, with 23 points, while Otis Thorpe added 20 and Derek Smith 19.

Mark Aguirre scored a game high 35 points - including 13 for 15 at the free throw line - to lead the Midwest Division leading Mavericks. Rolando Blackman added 16 points for Dallas.

MacLeod said Sacramento's intensity hurt in the final quarter.

"We tried to shut them down but we couldn't," MacLeod said. "It's as simple as that."

The win snapped Sacramento's six game losing streak. The loss was the fourth straight for the Mavericks.

The Kings are 7-8 so far in 1988 after going 7-21 before the first of the year.

Sacramento's Mike McGee scored

11 of his 18 points in the final quarter.

"I score in streaks an awful lot," McGee said. "I can hit 10 points in three minutes and then score nothing in the next 10."

McGee said the Kings "are like any other team coming back from a bad loss - you want to win."

"I don't know how you explain it," Theus said. "I could say we're playing better basketball as a team and I could say we're playing better defense but it's really hard to tell."

Theus managed a game-high 15 assists including an Arco Arena record first quarter eight.

Sacramento tallied 11 blocked shots including three by Jawann Oldham. He now has 41 blocked shots for the season.

"We are looking forward to the (All-Star Game) break so we can get a chance to regroup and analyze what we need to do to get back on track," Dallas' Derek Harper said. "We are not as confident as we were early in the season. The league is funny that way. Earlier we won seven straight and now we lost four straight and we need to get our confidence back."

Thorpe had a game-high 14 rebounds while Sam Perkins led Dallas with 11 rebounds.

By The Associated Press

Bulls 113, Suns 101
Michael Jordan got his points and John Paxson hit two 3-point goals late in the game. But it was Chicago's defense and lack of the same by the Suns that finally gave the Bulls a victory in Phoenix.

Chicago hadn't won at the Arizona Veterans Memorial Coliseum since March 2, 1977, dropping 14 straight games.

Thursday night, that streak came to an end.

"We got the lead, but we let them back in it. Then we found ourselves in a game," said Jordan, who scored 37 points. "We got into our rhythm and we had to play some defense on them."

"Finally, in the third quarter, we put our defenses on them. Then we outscored them 23-5 to get the lead back and controlled the game from then on."

Phoenix led 80-64 with 6:53 remaining in the third quarter, but the Bulls went on a 23-5 run to close out the quarter, taking an 87-85 lead on Charles Oakley's jumper with three seconds left.

The Suns fought back and tied the score at 97 in the fourth quarter before Chicago reeled off 10 straight points with Paxson hitting his pair of 3-pointers for a 107-97 lead with 3:13 to play.

Larry Nance paced the Suns with 21 points.

Lakers 117, Clippers 86
Byron Scott scored 21 points and Magic Johnson recorded his sixth triple-double of the season for the Lakers.

Johnson had 18 points, 10 rebounds and 10 assists. The Clippers were led by Michael Cage with 16 points.

Jazz 126, Trail Blazers 123

Kelly Tripuck's 3-point shot at the buzzer gave Utah its fourth straight victory.

"I could see it coming a mile away," said Utah's Karl Malone, who scored a career-high 41 points and had a career-high 19 rebounds.

Kevin Duckworth led Portland with a career-high 28 points.

Hawks 119, Sonics 109

Doc Rivers scored a career-high 37 points and Dominique Wilkins had 33 as Atlanta snapped a four-game losing streak. Rivers hit his last six shots and scored nine straight points as the Hawks handed the Super-Sonics their fourth straight loss.

Seattle was led by Dale Ellis with 36 points and Tom Chambers with 22.

Bucks 111, Celtics 101
Terry Cummings scored 22 of his 30 points in the first half and Milwaukee held on in the second. Jack Sikma added 20 points and reserve forward Larry Krystkowiak had a season-high 18 for the Bucks.

Kevin McHale led the Celtics with 25 points and Larry Bird had 21.

Down 62-50 at the half, Boston closed within 72-69 with 3:45 to go in the third quarter as Robert Parish scored nine points in a 15-4 run. Boston never got closer than four points in the final period.

Knicks 106, Pistons 93

Gerald Wilkins scored 19 points, including six during a 12-2 spurt in the fourth quarter to snap a tie, and Patrick Ewing had 25 as New York won its sixth straight home game.

With the score tied at 74, New York spurted to an 86-76 lead with 5:15 left in the game.

Isiah Thomas had 29 points for Detroit and Adrian Dantley added 21. Former Piston Sidney Green grabbed a team-high 18 rebounds and added 13 points for the Knicks.

Warriors 96, Cavaliers 90

Chris Mullin scored 22 points, including two free throws to snap an 88-88 tie in overtime, and Golden State scored only its second road victory of the season in snapping Cleveland's five-game winning streak.

Golden State's Winston Garland banked in a 10-footer with five seconds left to force the extra period. Mullin's two free throws put the Warriors ahead for good at 90-88 with 2:14 to play.

Ron Harper led Cleveland with 22 points.

Pacers 109, 76ers 95

Wayman Tisdale scored a season-high 26 points to lead Indiana. Tisdale made his first five shots and was 11 of 13, including a basket in a six-point spurt that put Indiana ahead to stay 91-85.

Philadelphia tied the score at 85 with a seven-point spurt. Steve Stipanovich put Indiana ahead to stay 87-85 with a jumper from the free throw line with 6:48 to go.

Charles Barkley led Philadelphia with 30 points.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last July my brother died of a stroke. He was in his mid-50s. "Joe" had lived with "Liz" for 15 years. I'll be honest and tell you the family didn't like her much. She was a boozier and when she was drunk, which was often, she was mean as a snake. Every week or so she would beat up on Joe, scratch his face and rip his shirt off. He would go to his daughter's house and stay for a few days, then he'd go back to Liz.

When Joe had the stroke, his daughter took care of him in her home until he died. The following day Liz produced his will. We couldn't believe it. He left everything to her. She immediately started to act like the widow. The minister was ordered to take Joe's suit off after the funeral and give it to her. He said he had never heard of such a request, but Liz insisted and he had to do it. Now for the clincher: Liz refuses to pay the funeral bill. Our lawyer tells us that his daughter (next of kin) is responsible. It's not a lot of money, but it sure hurts to know that Joe never left his daughter a dime and now she is stuck with his funeral bill. There's a moral to this story. Please print it.—North Carolinian am the one with the problem. If you print my letter and say I am right about this, all hell will break loose, but I am willing to take my sister's abuse because I want to help the boy.—Asking in Georgia

DEAR N.C.: The immorality here is a lot more obvious than the moral, but I'll do my best. People should have wills that are well thought out and do justice to all concerned. Joe did not do right by his daughter. He left her a legacy of pain that she will have to live with forever. She has my sympathy.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I need your opinion about a situation that I find appalling. My sister, who is divorced, still gives baths to her son though he is almost 14 years old. I don't mean to suggest that there is anything improper going on. She simply doesn't understand that a boy that age needs privacy. I know because our aunt, who raised us, did the same thing with me until I left for boarding school at age 15 and I hated it. I think my nephew hates it, too, but he is so mother-dominated that he would never say a word. I spoke to my sister about this and she jumped down my throat. According to her, there is nothing wrong with being open about nudity and I

DEAR GEORGIA: A 14-year-old lad who is still being bathed by his mother needs all the help he can get. Can you tip off the family doctor? Are you able to talk in confidence to your nephew? Something should be done to help this boy escape from his mother's clutches. Privacy is the least of his problems. There are bound to be some erotic notions to this kid's head when his mother bathes him. Unless this is stopped soon he's going to be plenty messed up. I hope you are able to build a relationship with this young fellow. He needs the wholesome good sense and balance that you can bring to his life. Stick around. What are the signs of alcoholism? How can you tell if someone you love is an alcoholic? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. To receive a copy, send $2.50 and a No. 10, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Extension News

By BEVERLY HARDER County Extension Agent Check for "Select" Beef. A new name for a grade of beef has just gone into effect this past November. The new grade name, "USDA Select," replaces "USDA Good." It will be the same cut of beef, only the grade name is changed.

The name change, which was endorsed by national health organizations and the beef industry, is designed to promote this lower fat, less expensive grade of beef to consumers. The "Good" name suggested less desirable cuts, even though this grade generally has less fat than "Prime" or "Choice"—and that's a plus for anyone on a diet.

enhance juiciness. Consumers now have three choices of grade: "Prime" has abundant marbling and the highest degree of fat. This grade is frequently served in restaurants. "Choice" has slightly less marbling, but is still quite juicy. It's the grade found most commonly in the grocery store meat case. "Select" is relatively tender, but because it has less marbling, it lacks some juiciness. It's best suited for moist cooking methods, marinating or tenderizing and stir-fry. When you shop for meat, be aware that names have changed, and check for "select," if you're looking for beef that tastes good, with less fat. Educational programs conducted by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service serve people of all ages regardless of socio-economic levels, race, color, sex, religion, handicap, or national origin.

This Diet May Be Unbalanced! BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB: I have been eating only seed foods for over a month: fruits, grains, nuts, tomatoes, peppers, onions, corn, beans and the like. I limit or exclude cabbage, lettuce, celery and carrots. I eat no meat, fish, poultry, eggs, dairy products or any oils. I use only rock salt and drink large amounts of water. I take no medication, no alcohol and don't smoke. Should I continue this for a long period, or do you feel it will create health problems? What warnings should I be on the look out for? I am 65 years old, weight 165 and do moderate exercise daily: walk, swim and jog. I have noticed no loss of energy and no weight loss or gain. DEAR READER: That may have been all right for one month, but it is not a balanced diet. The good thing is that you have not lost weight and have had no loss of energy. Those two things suggest that you are getting enough calories.

I suspect your diet is deficient in vitamin B-12 and perhaps other vitamins. B-12 is an animal product. You may not have any ill effects from this for quite some time, as the body stores large amounts. In time, you could develop pernicious anemia and even damage to the nerves that affect your ability to walk. I would encourage you to follow a balanced diet. I'm sending you a free copy of my new Special Report 90, Balance Your Diet for Health. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to THE HEALTH LETTER, Dept. 90, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713. DEAR DR. LAMB: About a year ago I started having a weight problem. I was diagnosed as being hypothyroid. My doctor put me on Synthroid. I was told I need to take medication the rest of my life. Now I'm five months pregnant and was told I can continue taking my medication throughout my pregnancy without harming my baby. Is it safe to take Synthroid during my pregnancy? Will my baby be born without a thyroid problem? DEAR READER: If a person is hypothyroid and needs thyroid replacement, it is important that it be continued during pregnancy. The danger is in not having an adequate replacement of thyroid. An inadequate amount of thyroid replacement may adversely affect the mental and physical development of the baby. A blood test to measure the free thyroxine (the thyroid hormone that is not bound to blood protein) can be used to monitor whether or not adequate thyroid replacement is being provided. In some thyroid conditions (endemic goiter) iodine is also prescribed to reduce the risk of problems in the baby.

You are most likely deficient in calcium. Since you are a male, that may not be as serious as in a woman of your age, but a significant calcium deficiency, in your age group particularly, can set the stage for bone loss. It is a mistake to think that men do not need calcium because they do not have a menopause. Older men also are subject to osteoporosis. It is likely that your diet is not providing enough iron. Red meats are an excellent source of heme iron, the form that can be absorbed directly from your stomach.
