Mighty M Band In Fair Parade

After a week's preparation the Muleshoe "Mighty M" Marching Band is ready to journey to Lubbock to march in the Lubbock Fair Parade. The parade will be held Monday morning, September 28, in downtown Lubbock. After a two or three mile parade the "Mighty M", along with many other visiting bands will go to the fair. Among the many things to see at the fair is the "Ice Capades". This is a show in which many talented ice skaters perform their skills in a variety of colorful performances. Students who do not wish to attend the Ice Capades may either attend a movie with their parents or enjoy the many other events of the fair.

The band will probably start home about 6:30 or 7:00 that afternoon. Tuesday starts another week of school and the band has to begin work on the next marching show which is October 9, at Denver City.

District F. F. A Officers Elected

The annual September meeting of the Littlefield District of the F. F. A. was held last Thursday in Sudan.

The meeting was called to order at 4:30 by District President Johnny Atkinson of Farwell. They discussed the district banquet and sweetheart contest held each year in Littlefield, then proceeded with the election of officers. It was a very hotly contested election for the office of president. After an hour and a half of speeches and balloting the following officers were elected.

President, Stanley Black, Muleshoe; Vice President, Mike Camp, Farwell; Secretary, Johnny Norwood Amherst; Treasurer, Bob Coker, Spring Lake; Reporter, Haynes Melton Littlefield; Sentinel, Danny Miller, Lazbuddie; Parliamentarian, Kenneth Conley, Sudan; Advisor, Bill Bickel Muleshoe.

Also attending from Muleshoe were District voting delegates Bill Harbin and Glenn Clark.

Goldwater Lauded In Amarillo

By Rene Hutton
A well-tanned and smiling Arizona couple arrived in Amarillo Tuesday on their thirtieth anniversary and was accorded a welcome suitable for any presidential candidate by a crowd of over five thousand eager serious-minded citizens of this area.

The inevitable bouquet of red roses was presented to the hat-tired in a navy silk suit with a matching blouse of blue floral and white gloves. She seems charming self-possessed and well-preserved.

The cavalcade soon got underway with the Senator and his wife riding in a red convertible down Polk street.

Impressions at the ball park: a skinny legged middle-aged woman jumping up and down and clapping wildly, a marching group of children carrying placards and chanting "Barry, Barry, he's our man. If Barry can't do it, no one can." over and over the Bluebonnet Belles very eye-catching, the sedate and sober pleasant but sincerity and singleness of purpose of the crowd; activity of the men and women whose business is news media, and the lack of many children in the crowd.

Senator Goldwater's official press secretary is a charming man, very relaxed and rested even though he said that when on tour they each averaged about 3 to 5 hours a day of sleep.

Dan Darnon the official photographer for Senator Goldwater is from Los Angeles and is also a delegate of the Republican party and on the Republican State Control Commission and he is also very bald.

Except for a few grin-getting remarks about the opposition, Senator Goldwater's speech was political and it was rousing; it was thought-provoking and it was all so very heartening. Where else but in a free country could a rival candidate for the highest office in the land make accusations against the "Top brass" and get away with it?

It was announced that Muleshoe will soon have a coin-operated car wash. Paul Whitecotton stated he will install the equipment in a building being built at the present by A. J. Lenderson.

"SUCH A TIME AS THIS"

We find these words recorded in the 4th chapter of Esther and verse 14. "For if thou altogether holdest thy peace at this time, then shall there enlargement and deliverance arise to the Jews from another place; but thou and thy father's house shall be destroyed; and who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?"

These words have left an indelible impression on the hearts and minds of mankind all down through the swinging centuries of time.

These words were recorded in an hour when the Jewish people were at the very point of being annihilated; a burdened man with a compassion to see deliverance come to his people.

I feel if we would take a close look at the conditions that are prevailing in this troubled world in which we live; surely we could see the need of being moved with compassion for the countless thousands that are dying without hope and the threats of a greater devastation looming near.

Perhaps this world and the inhabitants thereof have always been troubled with dark hours and perplexing problems; but allow me to say that we are facing an hour perhaps such as the world has never known.

There are many places recorded in the Bible that tell us know we are living near the end-time, and in the light of this it should move us to be concerned about the many today that are outside of the fold. Primarily this is the reason for the existence of the church in the world today and that is to reach the lost and dying.

For this reason Jesus left the Ivory palaces of a celestial glory, came to a sin-cursed world; incarnated himself with human flesh; laboured in the midst of a fallen humanity, and on to Golgotha's hillside; bled out every drop of his sin-cleansing blood to purchase salvation for the never-dying soul of man.

And uttered these words; "As my father has sent me so I send you. We have that commission today, may we arise and meet the challenge of this hour.

For who knoweth whether we are called to the kingdom for 'just such a time as this.'

Today's Meditation

AND LIFE OF MAN

Why is man innately religious? Why do all men around the world believe in God and a life after death? Dr. George W. Frazier, who some years ago toured the world, found that all peoples—even the ignorant and untutored savages—believed in a Supreme Being and a life after death. Dr. Frazier tells the findings of his travels in his book, "The Golden Bough. Why is it that all peoples believe in God and life after death. It appears that such beliefs are innate and instinctive in the very nature of man.

It is interesting to observe that only the so-called highly educated people of the West doubt the existence of God and deny the existence of the soul after death. Not all educated people are skeptics and atheists, by any means, but certain so-called educated people are skeptics. Why do such people reach the conclusion that there is no personal God, and also no personal immortality of the soul? In the first place, they have been taught that God did not create man and life on this earth, but rather that all of life evolved, and that man is the highest form of such evolved life. Millions of educated ministers and teachers and scientists today believe in the theory of evolution—Organic Evolution—which has never been proven by the scientists. Charles Darwin, who wrote "The Origin of the Species," offered his finding as theory and not as a fact. Yet, the theory as we know it today looks or appears to be an undisputed fact. The conclusions reached by the evolutionists appear to be results of one-track minds who are not able to see that there is another and better explanation for life on this earth and for the existence of man. The Bible is not an obsolete and outmoded book. It still can teach the scientists many lessons.

Young Farmers Get Helping Hand

One of the major endeavors of the Farmers Home Administration in 1964 is to assist young farmers in accomplishing the extremely difficult task of acquiring the capital and the skill needed to take over the farms of their retiring elders.

In Bailey County, approximately 50 percent of the operating loans made this year were made to young farmers, according to John C. Kennedy, "Over 1,000 young farmers less than 35 years of age have received the financial and technical assistance of the Farmers Home Administration in Texas this year," stated L. J. Cappelman, State Director.

In discussing the difficulty of young men becoming established in the farming business, Joe Wheeler, President of the local Young Farmers Organization, said, "I know a number of young men who would not have been able to get started in farming without an FHA loan."

Mr. Kennedy stated that over the past three years many young farmers who received the assistance of the Farmers Home Administration have been formally recognized as outstanding young farmers in the State by various publications and farm organizations. The County Supervisor advised that this financial assistance is available to young farm families who are unable to ob-

Earlybird With Mechanical Picker Awaits Dry Cotton

COLLEGE STATION. — Drink an extra cup of coffee and make money. This may not sound reasonable, yet it makes a lot of sense to Texans who use mechanical pickers to harvest their cotton and explains why they're in no great rush to start their pickers early in the morning.

Wise farmers wait for cotton moisture to drop to a reasonable picking level, says Beverly G. Reeves, cotton ginning and mechanization specialist. This waiting can get them a full grade or more at the gin.

Regardless of how dry the weather cotton should never be harvested at night nor in the early morning or late evening, explains the specialist. Even on the driest day, cotton will probably never be dry enough for machine harvest until 8 a. m. or later.

Moisture in seed cotton from humidity may not be seen or felt says Reeves, but it is there. And, it limits the kind of job the ginner can do. Excess moisture in cotton usually results in the loss of grade and quality and this can cost the grower $10 or more per bale, the specialist points out.

Heat must be increased in gin dryers to try to get desirable grades from high moisture cotton. This increases the danger of fiber quality damage on dry portions of the bale being ginned and the dry bale that may follow, explains Reeves. Over drying can result making for the kind of cotton that mills don't want.

When should you start your mechanical pickers? Delay harvesting, advises Reeves, until the relative humidity in the field at boll height is 60 percent or less. Normally, 60 percent relative humidity is correlated with eight percent lint moisture.

If a hygrometer or cotton moisture meter is not available, Reeves says to pick a handful of cotton, squeeze it tight in your hand and release it quickly. If the cotton fluffs out when released, it is dry enough for mechanical picking. Otherwise wait and make another test later. Also make the test at several different locations in the field advises the specialist.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I am sending two folders which tell a little about a book I have just had published by Naylor's Pub. Co. of San Antonio. I suppose you will soon be hearing from this company as I sent in your name with several other papers to receive a review on it.

The book, "One Corner of Heaven" is based on the history of Harmony Community in S. W. Floyd County, where I grew up. However, it contains much history of other places and is typical of all the great Plains region. Anyone who likes to read of the covered wagon cow-chip days on up to the present time with changes pointed out will enjoy this page book of easy reading even changing style. So far as I know, the book is all facts.

I taught school at West Camp in Bailey County in 1923 - 24 and 1924 - 25; those were my first two years to teach. I should have a number of pupils around there who will be interested in the book. Thank you for any publicity.

Mrs. Blanche Scott Rutherford, Plainview.

Boll Weevils Being Controlled

The Boll Weevil Control Program is going as planned — and weevil control to date is excellent. This is the report from County Agent J. K. Adams. Adams continues by pointing out that field checks show 80 - 98 per cent mortality on exposed weevils within 24 hours after the chemical is applied.

Counties in the control zone where spray applications are being made include: Garza, Briscoe, Floyd, Crosby, Motley, Dickens and part of Hall.

Adams says control with the chemical being used — malathion — is not at its peak until about 24 hours after application. Kill of weevils contacted with the chemical at application is highest at this time. After 24 hours effectiveness of the chemical shows a downward trend.

Accidents ---

result of these accidents and their consequences are very alarming. However they are increasing and more people are being killed or injured each year as a result of someone's inadequate driving procedures. In addition crimes of all kinds including murder, rape, armed robbery and burglaries are increasing at an alarming rate nationally as well as in our own state of Texas.

In order to try and save some of the lives lost each year and help combat the increasing crime rate the Patrol Sergeant requests everyone to encourage eligible young men to inquire about a position with the D P S as a law enforcement officer.

Sorghum Midge Damage Light on High Plains

Research studies conducted by James Harding, Entomologist, and Shelby Newman, Agronomist, at the South Plains Research and Extension Center at Lubbock and Norris E. Daniels, Entomologist at the Southwestern Great Plains Field Station at Bush, and show that damage from sorghum midge will be relatively light on grain sorghum in the 1964 crop.

Sorghum midge research is underway to determine the complete life cycle, including habitats, host plants, migration, nature of build ups of damaging infestations, overwintering and methods of cultural and chemical control. The research studies were made possible by cooperation and support provided by the Grain Sorghum Producers Association.

SURVEY FINDINGS

Surveys conducted throughout the High Plains counties by use of sticky "traps" and systematic collections of head samples of 63 native grass species and grain sorghum show adult midge emergence was too late to seriously affect the yield of grain sorghum.

Infestations from overwintered midge were present in the Lubbock area by mid May in Johnson Grass and other grass plants, reports Harding. However, significant increases in the midge population did not occur until late July. Populations did not reach damaging levels until the last week in August. Harding says due to the short life cycle of the midge, the number of midge that actually overwinter may not be of great importance. Research indicates that factors favorable for rapid reproduction during the month of June are of chief importance in the sorghum midge buildup. Since the life span of the female midge is approximately one day, evidently says Harding most of the overwintering midge population this season died before mating. This accounts for the slow build-up in midge populations. Damaging infestation levels were not reached until the midge populations became concentrated enough for rapid reproduction in grain sorghum fields. Midge migration appears to be of minor importance in the development of damaging infestations.

Harding has additional research underway to determine what part host plant, other than grain sorghum, play in midge overwintering. At present, no information is available from the Plains area as to midge overwintering in Johnson grass and other wild host plants.

Results of present studies comparing midge emergence from infested grain sorghum heads subjected to different cultural practices indicate that midge emergence took place

DATE OF PLANTING

Long time studies conducted at the South Plains Research and Extension Center have shown that grain sorghum planted to bloom prior to the first meek in August will largely escape serious midge damage. This is the most effective and economic method known today to avoid midge damage.

Chemical control tests involving 3 different chemicals, 11 combinations of chemicals, 13 spreader - stickers 3 gallonage rates, 3 dates of application, and 2 systemic insecticides applied in 4 different ways have been compared. Final evaluations will not be available until yields have been taken to verify midge emergence. Test are also underway to determine the activity of adult midge at different times of the day and at right length of life cycle, evaluation of attractants, and comparison of varieties for midge tolerance or preference.

not only from those infested heads left on the soil surface, but also from those disked and plowed under. Land preparation methods compared were moldboarding sorghum residues 8 to 10 inches deep, disking 3 to 4 inches deep and leaving the sorghum heads on top of the ground.

Harding's experiments took place under natural field conditions. Sorghum heads left on the surface and those buried, were undisturbed throughout the winter. Cages were placed over the different land preparation sites in early May to trap early emerging midge. Midge started emerging from sorghum heads at each of the cage sites in June. Small traps on each of the cages "caught" the midge and offered Harding a means of determining midge emergence. Most of the midge emergence took place between June 3 and 25.

When sorghum heads known to contain midge larva were plowed under to a depth of 8 to 10 inches, emergence — on a per acre basis — was 10,219-176. Where disked in up to 3 to 4 inches deep, the per acre count was 9,552,708. And where the infested sorghum heads were left on the surface, the per acre emergence count was 14, 884,452.

In addition, the Texas A&M University entomologist also conducted a series of tests under various laboratory conditions to compare midge emergence. He used sorghum heads collected from various land ghum heads left on the ground, disked in, and plowed under were studied. Emergence was determined from all the sorghum heads but results were highly erratic and much less reliable than those obtained under natural field conditions. More information concerning the laboratory technique used is needed before it can be effectively employed, says Harding.

"What we have so far is only one year's data with these tests," says Harding. He pointed out that these tests are being conducted to learn what affect different cultural practices heads. "Under farm conditions might have on overwintering of the midge in grain sorghum he high per acre midge emergence noted in these carefully conducted tests would not exist," he says.
