County eyes jail repairs

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

Repairs for the Deaf Smith County Jail have been escaping action, according to jail administrator David Castillo in a letter to the Deaf Smith Commissioners Court Monday.

Castillo mentioned in his letter that someone (either the county or the builder--Smith Construction in Amarillo) has fallen behind in an agreement to repair the jail which currently needs some sealant on an exterior cinder block which was to have been repaired in 1985. The stucco ceiling in the main hall has suffered leak damage, and the heating and cooling units are not properly set.

"We made a deal with a guy to do it (repairs)," said Commissioner Austin Rose, Jr. "He has called back here to say he'd do the repairs, but we've just missed each other. I guess we can write a letter to the builder and get him on the repairs, but all our warranties are gone, so you won't get anything out of him."

The county also was to have written guidelines for inmates' tuberculosis screenings and indigency health so that House Bill 2308 can be implemented regarding medical expenses. The commissioners decided that District Attorney Roland Saul should speak with county health officer Dr. Tim Revell about the matter.

Apparently the county and builder aren't the only parties slacking--the jail's architect Wayne Gondeck promised to send a representative to familiarize jail personnel with equipment and never followed through.

Also, County Sheriff Joe Brown said the locks at the jail have given problems which no one at the jail knows how to fix.

"We've had to call a guy from Borger twice to fix the locks, and he charges $10 an hour," said Brown.

To correct the problem, the commissioners plan to send Jack Nunley, jail maintenance supervisor, to lock school in San Antonio but will first check the school's cost.

In other action, the commissioners court awarded its insurance bid to the La Plata Agency for $45,898-$5,693 less than Lone Star Agency's competing bid of $51,591. Even though the county signed on with La Plata, County Judge Tom Simons stated that the court was "most appreciative of the service and cooperation we've received from Lone Star Agency in the past."

The new insurance policy will take effect Feb. 21.

The commissioners also voted to extend a grant of $5,000 to the Rape Crisis-Domestic Violence Center until Sept. 30. The current grant expires at the end of March. The county and the city of Hereford each give $5,000 through the Justice Assistance Act to match a $10,000 state grant.

In lengthy discussion, the commissioners reviewed each precinct's equipment needs and all departments' purchase lists for the next five years, warning of the forthcoming county budget talks in February.

"We put down the things where we knew there were repairs staring us in the face," said Rose, in reference to his Pct. 2 list of equipment needing

Sales tax rebate dips

The January sales tax rebate in Hereford for January, reflecting sales in November, was almost $2,000 lower than the January 1987 rebate, according to figures released Monday by State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Sales tax rebates were mixed throughout the area.

Hereford's rebate this month is $32,899.26, down 5.7 percent from last year's $34,893.53.

Area cities showing increases include Dimmitt, $8,458, up 8.7 percent; Friona, $5,308, up four percent; Vega, $999.63, up 15 percent; Canyon, $23,742, up eight percent; Lubbock, $883,861, up a whopping 20 percent; Plainview, $73,795, up 19 percent; Levelland, $39,549, up two percent; Dumas, up 35 percent to $39,270; and Pampa, $75,214, up two percent.

Showing decreases were Amarillo, $737,790, down less than one percent; Littlefield, $13,553, down 10.5 percent; Snyder, $45,532, off one percent; and Borger, $53,027, down seven percent.

Statewide, the sales tax allocations were up, after corrections, about 5.6 percent, or $2.8 billion to $53.7 million.

"This year's statewide increase is due to the wider tax base enacted by the Legislature and the slow but steady healing of our state's economy," Bullock said in a press release. January checks represent taxes collected last November and reported by Dec. 20. October was the first month that the broadened tax base went into effect, bringing more items under the sales tax in Texas.

Does Deaf Smith County still have to worry about a proposed nuclear waste repository, or has it been eliminated for good?

No one knows but there is plenty of speculation either way. At a news conference in Amarillo last Friday, nuke-dump opponents warned that it is possible for DOE to return to Deaf Smith County.

Their belief is that DOE will find the Yucca Mountain site in Nevada unfit and will return to previous states—Texas or Washington. The new legislation provided that DOE will return to Congress for instructions if the Nevada site is unsuitable.

Linda McLain, an official with the local DOE staff, thinks it is unlikely that the site selection process would return to Deaf Smith County. Speaking to a Kiwanis Club audience last week, she said the project would probably windup at an "invited" location if Nevada is unsuitable.

Bruce Coleman, former Deaf Smith County commissioner, believes there is a possibility of DOE returning to the local county site. "I don't think you could find two worse sites, technically speaking, than Yucca Mountain or Hanford." If those two are eliminated, the selection process could return to Deaf Smith County for several reasons, believes Coleman.

Among those factors are the preferred salt beds, the location—as related to transportation issues, and

World military spending: $930,000,000,000 in '87

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nations of the world spent $1.8 billion a minute last year on the military, or about $930 billion overall, with the United States in first place, according to an annual study.

Global military spending increased $50 billion over 1986. There were more wars last year — 22 — than ever before. The death toll from those conflicts so far is 2.2 million, with civilians accounting for 84 percent, Ruth Leger Sivard reported Monday.

But the former U.S. Arms Control Agency official also found some hopeful signs, especially last month's Washington summit and the policies of Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev and President Reagan.

The summit produced a treaty to abolish all U.S. and Soviet intermediate-range nuclear missiles. Mrs. Sivard said national priorities could shift as a result of attempts by Gorbachev to ease the military burden on the Soviet economy and Reagan's search for "a personal and popular triumph" in his last year in the White House.

But in the meantime, the United States and the Soviet Union both increased their military spending in 1987, she reported. U.S. spending went from $280 billion to $293 billion, while the Soviets' rose from $245 billion to $260 billion.

Overall, the developed countries spent $790 billion on the military in 1987, with the two superpowers accounting for 59 percent. The developing countries spent $140 billion, a drop of $5 billion from 1986.

Mrs. Sivard is a former chief of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency's economics division. She received financial help for her study from the Rockefeller Foundation, the Arms Control Association, which is a Washington-based arms control group, the British Council of Churches and other private groups.

She ranked the United States first in military expenditures, technology, bases, training foreign forces, aid to foreign countries, naval fleet, combat aircraft, nuclear reactors, nuclear warheads and bombs, nuclear tests and arms exports.

She said the United States also ranked first among 142 countries in the percentage of people with safe water, fifth in literacy, eighth in life expectancy, 18th in population per physician and 20th in school-age population per teacher.

The Soviet Union, which has spent an estimated $4.6 trillion for military purposes since 1960, was 23rd in economic-social standing based on a composite ranking of such statistics, Mrs. Sivard said. The United States ranked fourth in the overall comparison, behind No. 1 Iceland, No. 2

Norway and No. 3 Canada.

In 1987, she reported, 26.6 million men and women were in armed forces around the world, an increase over 25.8 million in 1986. The Middle Eastern countries reached a peak of 3 million, while there were decreases in China and Africa.

The United States trimmed its forces to 2.16 million from 2.4 million, while the Soviet military increased to 3.8 million from 3.66 million.

Gee, I can't imagine why anyone would want to do any physical harm to State Sen. Bill Sarpalius.

If you haven't heard, Big Bill was celebrating his fortieth birthday by dancing—no drinking—at the Caravan Club in Amarillo last Friday when a fan approached him on the dance floor. The fan hit him in the jaw and, when Bill went down, the fan kicked Bill in the chin.

Bill now will have his jaw wired shut for the next six weeks, meaning it's going to be a little tough for Bill on the campaign trail as the race for U.S. Representative in District 13 heats up.

While I don't want to condone the violent attack on Sarpalius, the idea of wiring the jaws of political candidates shut may not be a bad idea.

If nothing else, it would cut down the noise pollution we are sure to hear from now until early November.

It would also be a good idea for what Texas Monthly calls "furniture" in the legislature. Furniture is a legislator that does nothing, and Texas Monthly runs a critique of the furniture after each session of the legislature.

The editors of the magazine could also choose furniture on the national level. It would probably be a great thing to do now while we celebrate the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution.

U.S. Rep. Beau Boulter might prefer a kick in the chin to what he got—the denial of his candidacy for the U.S. Senate from many of his friends and supporters in Amarillo.

It's Republicans and Independents for Lloyd Bentsen, and it's headed by people like Jim Simms and Jerry Hodge and includes some of the Whitlenburgs and Wares and Pickens.

That's right, even ol' T. Boone, who has been mentioned as a possible future GOP gubernatorial nominee, has jumped ship and is a Bentsen backer.

This is, of course, plum ridiculous. I mean, Beau probly doesn't have the chance of our old friend the snowball, but I think I would rather fight than switch.

This ain't original with the Babler, but ain't it amazing how most of us will go with the front-runner all of the time, then jump with joy when the underdog wins?

For some reason, I would like to see how Troy Martin in Canyon and the late H.M. Baggary of Tulia would respond to this. Maybe we can get something just as good, and get responses from Martin and B.M. Nelson, the former publisher of The Castro County News.

Personally, I would like to start "The Democrats and Independents for Boulter." Bentsen has done only a fair job considering all of the power he could have. He's in a position in the Senate now like the late George Mahon had in the House, but I don't hear much about string-pulling by Lloyd. Maybe it's more behind-the-scenes. I know that when George was in office he got things done and you knew about, and he wasn't abusive with his power. He just made sure all of our best interests were protected at all times. He also remembered his friends, which included most of the state of Texas and our region in particular.

It may be time for a fresh face in there, and Boulter's is the prettiest among the candidates now available.

Each commissioner itemized the cost of repairs needed with estimates ranging from $19,000 to $29,700 for some precincts, not including the cost of equipment needing to be replaced.

Commissioner Troy Don Moore stated, "One mistake we've made has been not buying Caterpillars. Galion has offered the cheaper bids in the past, but they've always ended up costing us more in repairs."

The county purchased two Caterpillar motor graders for $105,000

It probably wasn't a first, but the Dimmitt-Paducah boys' basketball game last Friday was called because of rain.

Yes, they played the game inside the Paducah gym. That was part of the problem. There was so much moisture in the air and so many people in the gym to watch the game between two of the state's small-school basketball powers (Paducah is No. 1 in Class A, Dimmitt is No. 3 in Class 3A), that the air became saturated from all those people being in the gym.

It had something to do with all of those breathing, and the gym being cold. All of the vapor eventually settled on the floor and turned into puddles.

The girls' game was played to completion, but probably shouldn't have been. One player slipped and banged her head, resulting in a concussion. The girls' game was stopped several times so the floor could be mopped, but the situation was out of hand by halftime of the boys' game, so they just called it off.

It was probably a good thing for the Dragons that they couldn't finish up. Last year, the Dragons lost two games all season—both to Dimmitt during the home-and-home series. Paducah went all the way in Class A, while beating up on competition from all classes—everybody but Dimmitt.

Paducah has one of those once-in-a-lifetime groups going through high school A town the size of Paducah, around 1,000, usually doesn't have seven or eight superior athletes all at once, but the Dragons have been blessed by some super athletes.

Because they're so dad-gummed good, Paducah's games are broadcast by a radio station in Childress, with George Moore at the mike.

I'm an old play-by-play man, which is something I really miss and would love to have the opportunity to do some more basketball. While I was in Dimmitt, I had the opportunity to do play-by-play for teams that won three state basketball championships, and the last game I broadcast was a state championship, capping a 38-0 season. Play-by-play on any level is not easy, and you need some semi-sophisticated equipment to make it sound good, no matter how lousy you're doing on that particular night.

To do play-by-play, you usually have some kind of machine that includes an amplification system that makes it sound a little better than talking into a telephone. Sometimes these devices have inputs for several microphones so you have a mike for yourself, a mike for your color man, a mike for the crowd noise, and mikes for no telling what else.

Not George. He uses a plain old telephone. Very plain, very old. It's an old black telephone, the kind everyone used to have. George just plugs that baby in and does the play-by-play of the team that, this year, could probably win championships in all high school divisions and one or two college conferences.

To do play-by-play, George just speaks into the telephone. If he interviews someone, he just sticks the mouthpiece up to their mouth and has a big time. If George wants to pick up crowd noise, he just raises the phone high into the air.

George does cheerleading, too. One of the state tournament pictures I cherish is George holding up that old black telephone in one hand and doing hand signals to fire up the crowd with the other.

under a buy-back agreement in 1984 in which Caterpillar would repurchase the motor graders for $81,000 each after five years or 10,000 hours of use. The county would like to set up a similar plan for its remaining 11 motor graders.

"Before we jump into this, we need to go in and figure exactly the repairs on all the vehicles and get Tony (Rhodes of West Texas Equipment in Amarillo) to appraise the equipment," said Commissioner Moore.

Aside from precinct equipment, the Bull Barn, county jail, courthouse and library are needing repairs.

packaging of the radioactive waste at the repository facility," says Coleman. While robotics would be used for re-packaging, an emission of radioactive elements would be released into the atmosphere. The plan allows for an "acceptable level" of emissions but Coleman sees a danger of those deadly elements concentrating in playa lakes and Lake Meredith.

He specifically mentions Lake Meredith because of the prevailing southwesterly winds, and says the

Reagan dismisses recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is turning criticism of his economic policy topsy-turvy, contending that the trade deficit may be "a sign of strength" and that his tax cuts didn't leave the budget awash in red ink.

Reagan used an appearance before the Cleveland City Club on Monday to brush aside concerns about a possible recession and to voice unabashed confidence in America's economic future.

"We're going to continue to expand," Reagan predicted, pointing to 62 months of uninterrupted growth. "I don't think the signs of recession are there."

On other subjects, Reagan said: —He has seen no evidence of criminal wrongdoing in the Iran-Contra affair by anyone who was in his administration. He said it would be too early to say whether he would grant a pardon to anyone, because an independent counsel is still investigating the affair.

—He could not analyze the intentions of Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev in seeking a summit with the leaders of China.

—On the value of the dollar, "what we want is stability."

—Sandinista government leaders in Nicaragua are proving "that they have no intention of completely accepting the proposed peace agreement" for Central America. "We have and we think that could be a solution."

The president's speech came in the midst of continued volatility on Wall Street, where worries about the nation's budget and trade deficits, as well as the falling dollar and interest rates, have been cited as partial causes for recent market declines.

Last Friday, the Dow Jones industrial average dropped 140 points, bringing back memories of the Oct. 19 crash of 508 points.

Reagan said he was concerned that pessimistic stories in the media possibly were affecting the economy, and argued that such reports could prompt consumers to halt spending.

"These 17- and 18-year-old kids who don't go to school or have a job can help with some of the repairs such as repairing the roof and painting the wall at the Bull Barn," stated Simons. "Rather than just sitting in jail, they can help out with some of the work."

Commissioner Johnny Latham said he saw no problem with granting each department's five-year purchase lists with the exception of high-dollar items requiring more consideration, such as the precinct equipment and a large copier for the county that would cost about $23,712.

concentration of elements could result from rainfall. "I see a real danger in radioactive elements seeping down to the aquifer," said Coleman.

Coleman is quick to point out that he, like many others, is only speculating at this time. Only time will tell if an underground repository is ever constructed anywhere, and if Deaf Smith County will again be considered for the site.

"That could bring on bad times and a recession," he said. "I don't anticipate a recession unless some of those doom-cryers scare the people into one."

Reagan said America has a trade deficit with the rest of the world because its expanding economy allows U.S. citizens to buy foreign goods, and that foreigners invest here because they have confidence in our system.

He said "one might argue" that building up such external debt was "a sign of strength."

Many economists disagree with Reagan's argument, suggesting instead that the trade imbalance reflects a troubled economy.

The president did acknowledge that both the trade and budget deficits "should be reduced," calling the budget imbalance "an embarrassment and a shame."

But he insisted that the tax cuts he piloted through Congress in the early days of his administration were not to blame for the budget shortfall, which has more than tripled under his administration.

"The president of the United States can't spend a dime; only Congress can do that," he said. He added that revenues from taxes have increased despite lower rates.

Referring to the stock market's "Black Monday" on Oct. 19, Reagan said, "I don't believe that the dollar or anything outside of Wall Street and the markets had anything to do with the great debacle." Instead, he pointed out that a presidential task force blamed the fall on computerized trading by about 15 large firms.

The president offered two solutions for the trade deficit, which ran about $170 billion last year.

"We can raise taxes, re-regulate our economy and adopt protectionist legislation of the kind now being considered in Congress," he said.

The other solution is for other nations "to become more like us, to adopt low-tax, pro-growth policies, to encourage trade, not discourage it, to make it freer and fairer and more plentiful."

Dole & Bush still bickering

Vice President George Bush sets out today on his second campaign swing of the year after answering questions from Iran-Contra investigators, while one Democrat derided the escalating fight between Bush and chief rival Bob Dole as "juvenile bickering."

Four of the Democrats, meanwhile, debated Monday night in Sioux City, Iowa, where they traded familiar jabs. Former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt zeroed in on an absent rival, making a reference to "Gary Hart, wherever you are."

Babbitt attacked Hart's decision to skip the debate to campaign instead in New Hampshire. Sen. Albert Gore of Tennessee and Jesse Jackson also skipped Monday night's debate.

The gathering in Sioux City was something of a warmup for the Democrats' first big debate of the year, set for Friday in Des Moines. All seven candidates are expected, and it will mark the first time Hart shares a stage with the rest of the Democrats since rejoining the race last month.

Bush was traveling to New Hampshire today to kick off a five-day campaign swing.

Spokesman Stephen Hart said Bush answered all questions "completely, fully and under oath" in the session Monday with representatives of independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh. Bush has said he is a witness, not a target of the criminal probe.

Dole, joined by Rep. Jack Kemp of New York and former Secretary of State Alexander Haig, has been needing Bush about his role in the Iran-Contra affair.

Dole also likes to draw comparisons between his own humble upbringing and Bush's silver-spoon background, and there were signs that Bush might be getting ready to strike back by pointing out that Dole isn't poor any more.

Bush on Monday distributed 14 years worth of tax records, all of which had already been made public, and is calling on the other candidates to do the same. Sen. Charles Grassley of Iowa, a Dole backer, said he suspected Bush re-released the records to put pressure on Dole, and also to deflect attention from his session with the Iran-Contra investigators.

Former television evangelist Pat Robertson, campaigning in Nashville on Monday, sought to downplay the GOP discord. "These are two strong people and undoubtedly some tempers will flare," he said of Bush and Dole.

"There's not much bickering going on," Dole told high school students in Claremont, N.H.

But he couldn't resist hinting that Bush can't take the heat, saying: "We're less than 30 days away from a big, big contest and less than 40 days away from a second big contest."

... There's some panic in some areas."

The Iowa precinct caucuses are Feb. 8 and the New Hampshire primary is Feb. 16.

Farm group names leader at convention

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A 44-year-old rice and soybean farmer from Arkansas who has been an American Agriculture Movement member since its birth in 1977 has been elected president of the activist farm organization.

Harvey Joe Sanner of Des Arc, Ark., was elected as AAM Inc. closed its three-day national convention Sunday.

Marion Garland of Sunray, Texas, was elected vice president; Don Murphy of Nelson, Calif., was chosen as secretary; and Joyce Jobgen of Seenic, S.D., was elected treasurer.

The convention featured as speakers two congressmen, agriculture commissioners from Texas and Minnesota, and representatives of the National Organization for Raw Materials and the American Corn Growers Association. Workshops were staged on farm borrowers' rights and recent federal legislation to assist the Farm Credit System.

Sanner said during 1988 AAM will focus on federal legislation to enhance crop prices. He said the group also will work to elect political candidates who support higher prices for raw agricultural commodities.

At a Sunday business session, AAM convention participants decided to continue to seek ties with urban, church and other farm groups and with producer groups in North America, Japan and Europe interested in working for fair prices worldwide.

Positions adopted by the group in resolution form included:

— Opposition to the marketing loan concept for wheat and feed grains.

— Support of a moratorium on the patenting of animals.

— Backing of a safe and practical groundwater policy.

— Opposition to excise tax increases.

— The reinstatement of the investment tax credit and income averaging for personal income tax purposes.

Sanner said he wasn't sure how many members belong to AAM nationwide or how many participated in the convention. Fewer than 200 people attended most of the sessions that were staffed by news reporters.

Sanner said the organization is emphasizing the quality of members rather than numbers.

by Democrat Michael Dukakis, who said the two were "throwing mud pies at each other like a couple of little boys in the back yard."

"I suggest they end this juvenile bickering and join with the Democrats in Congress and the nation's governors to do something about welfare dependency," the Massachusetts governor said.

Dukakis and Gore were involved in a bit of jostling for their own over the support of Kentucky Gov. Wallace Wilkinson.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I hope you will print this letter. My message is important and I would like as many people to see it as possible.

Dear American Taxpayer: I want to say thank you for the food, shelter, dentures, hospitalization and the training as a computer operator that you have given me, off and on, since 1969 during those terrible times when I suffered from depression and mental illness.

I am feeling wonderfully well now and am able to take care of myself. This would not have been possible had I not received government assistance.

Our American system really does work, and I want to say God bless all of you who made it possible.—A Grateful Recipient in Michigan

DEAR RECIPIENT: Thank you for a gracious letter. It's one that I hope will be seen by all those folks who resent people on welfare.

Your mention of the training you received gives me an opportunity to say that the way to get off the dole is to learn a useful skill. How true is that old Chinese proverb, "Give a man a fish, and you feed him for a day. Teach a man to fish, and you feed him for a lifetime."

DEAR ANN LANDERS: You are my last resort outside of professional counseling. Please don't fail me.

My husband and I have been married a few months short of a year and we get along very well together. The only serious arguments we've had are about his mother. The woman has a tendency to look for fights and her letters are full of insults. When we talk on the phone I am a nervous wreck, trying to defend myself against her outrageous accusations.

I hardly know this woman, Ann. I've met her only twice. She lives alone in another state. "Fred" says I should deal directly with her because he doesn't want to be in the middle. I appreciate his need to remain neutral, but every time she calls up I start to shake and want to hand the phone to him.

He says, "You handle it," which makes me think that he is afraid of her too. His mother is a very combative person, and we be it onto anyone who crosses her.

I would give anything to get along with my mother-in-law, but I am beginning to believe it is impossible. Please tell me how to handle the problem with tact and respect. Fred is a wonderful person and I know he is as unhappy as I am about my inability to have a good relationship with his mother.—Struggling in California

DEAR CALIFORNIA: Since you have seen Fred's mother only twice in nearly a year, it is apparent that the principal mode of communication is the telephone.

I suggest that you tell your mother-in-law that you do not like to talk on the phone and would prefer to exchange letters. In that way you can be more careful about what you say. Also, you will be able to write as frequently or as infrequently as you like.

When you and your mother-in-law do get together, let Fred do most of the talking. Be pleasant but adamant in your refusal to respond if she appears to be baiting you. It's virtually impossible to battle with a person who simply refuses to fight. Remember, too, that silence can be an extremely effective response.

What are the signs of alcoholism? How can you tell if someone you love is an alcoholic? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. To receive a copy, send $2.50 and a No. 10, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

Accidents may happen...and they often do. To help prepare for home medical emergencies and deal with accidents, the American College of Emergency Physicians (ACEP) has prepared the Home Organizer for Medical Emergencies (HOME), a folder containing:

- Medical History Forms
- Consent-to-Treat Forms
- Checklist of Medical Items to Take on Vacations
- Information on Sports Injuries
- Poisoning and Medical Tips for Babysitters

The folder also contains four identification tags (cellophane-covered paper tags to be placed in the sole of the shoe) to identify children in case of an emergency. The parent can record a child's name, allergies, telephone number and two emergency telephone numbers, and affix the tag inside the child's shoe. Many children do not carry identification, according to ACEP. The identification tag in a shoe clears the way for immediate treatment by emergency medical personnel.

ACEP is making the HOME folder available to our readers. All you have to do to obtain a free copy is send a postcard only to: HOME Folder, Communications Department, McNeil Consumer Products Company, Camp Hill Road, Fort Washington, Pa. 19034. — Clare Goepfert, New York, N.Y.

Our thanks to Clare Goepfert and to the American College of Emergency Physicians for making this valuable information available to consumers. — Heloise

PILLOWCASE

Dear Heloise: I was having a lot of trouble finding sheets to fit my new cradle when my mother suggested trying a king-sized pillowcase.

It was just right! The mattress slips inside, then I just tuck the open end under. These are also less expensive than fitted cradle sheets and can be purchased in a number of colors. I got white ones and stenciled them with teddy bears to match the nursery. — Connie Taylor, Grottoes, Va.

Hereford is now 2-4 in district

Herd edges Estacado, 69-68

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whiteface varsity basketball team of the 1986-87 season had some problems in losing several close ball games, but the 1987-88 edition of the Herd is turning things around — such as Monday night's 69-68 victory over the Lubbock Estacado Matadors.

Hereford trailed the visitors from Estacado 63-59 with 3:17 left in the game. Clint Cotten scored a fast break layup with 2:52 left, and Pat Mercer scored a layup with 2:07 left, after stealing the ball from Estacado, to tie up the game at 63-63.

Kevin Hansen then made a pair of free throws with 1:46 left to put Hereford ahead, 65-63. Estacado quickly tied it up again, 65-65, with 1:38 left.

Two more free throws by Hansen gave Hereford a 67-65 lead with 1:29 left, but Estacado again responded quickly with a basket to tie the game, 67-67, with 1:10 left.

Mercer hit a layup shot with 48 seconds left, and the Whitefaces had a 69-67 lead. Estacado made the first free throw in a one-and-one, but missed the second one, with 34 seconds left.

Hansen was fouled with 20 seconds left, but his first free throw in a one-and-one rolled off the rim. Mercer grabbed the rebound, but lost the ball out of bounds.

Estacado raced downcourt after inbounding the ball. A Matador player attempted a bounce pass through the key, and the ball bounced on the out-of-bounds line for a turnover with seven seconds left.

Hereford began to run out the clock — but not quite — before a foul was called on Estacado player. The clock read zero seconds, but the buzzer had not yet gone off when the whistle blew for the foul.

Rodney McCracken was the Herd player fouled. The free throw was missed, and only a fraction of a second was not enough for Estacado to get a pass downcourt for a shot.

"We're averaging 58 points a game this season, and our opponents are averaging 60. We've been through a lot of close games like this," Hereford Coach Mike Fields said.

"I'm proud of our players coming back in the last three minutes and winning. A lot of bad stuff has happened at the end of games for us this year. The players should show some character and hustle to win it," he adds.

The score was tied 51-51 at the end of the third quarter, one of 16 tie scores in the game. The lead changed hands 14 times.

Six HHS players each scored at least eight points, led by Mercer with 13. Hansen scored 12 points, Marcus Brown had 11 points, Cotten totaled 10 points, Bobby Robbins added nine points, and Brad Smith scored eight points.

The Whitefaces were 28 for 67 from the field and 12 for 15 from the free throw line.

In a balanced team rebounding effort, Smith had eight rebounds; McCracken, Cotten, and Mercer each had seven, and Robbins had six.

Hansen led the Whitefaces with six steals and five assists.

The victory puts Hereford at 2-4 in District 1-4A games and 7-12 overall. Hereford plays at Borger Friday at 8 p.m. Other boys' games on Friday will be a sophomore contest at 5 p.m. and junior varsity game at 6:30 p.m.

The Herd junior varsity suffered a 62-57 loss to Estacado. Estacado held a 33-25 halftime lead and a 49-45 lead after three quarters of play.

Leading scorers for Hereford were Roger McCracken with 13 points, Todd Schroeder with 12 points, and Keith Brown with 11 points.

Other statistical leaders included Brown with nine steals, McCracken with eight rebounds, and Stuart Mitts with four assists.

The HHS junior varsity team has a 9-4 season record.

That's difficult to say because you are as different as your substantial number would imply! You are one of the 4,100 households we're invited to every evening. That's quite a few. According to the most recent census, our township has slightly less than 5000 households.

Your vocation is part of a broad spectrum as well — white collar, blue collar, owners, managers, cowboys, teachers, housewives, students and professional.

Yet, with all your individual complexities, your interest in local issues and news gives you and other readers a common bond which is separated only by your level of curiosity.

Second straight District 1-4A win

Lady Whitefaces score 60-48 victory

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

The Hereford Lady Whitefaces survived some foul trouble in the second half Monday against Lubbock Estacado, and defeated Estacado 60-48 for their second straight District 1-4A victory.

Hereford is now 2-6 in the district and 7-14 overall, and will play at Borger at 6:30 p.m. Friday.

The HHS junior varsity girls made it a sweep over Estacado with a 58-46 victory, and now have a 5-9 season record. It was the junior varsity team's third straight win and fourth victory in its last six games.

The Hereford varsity girls led all the way in defeating Estacado 60-48. After Hereford had an 18-9 lead with 1:07 left in the first quarter, the closest that Estacado could close the gap the rest of the game was four points late in the first half, 32-28, and early in the second half, 34-30.

Hereford then scored eight straight points for a 42-30 lead. Hereford's biggest lead was 49-35 with 2:22 left in the third quarter.

"I thought that we played real well at different times in each quarter, good basketball at both ends," Hereford Coach Frank Belcher said.

"I felt like we could have played better defensively, man-to-man, but we scored better offensively and did some things better offensively. We didn't go any long periods offensively without doing anything," he added.

Cande Robbins was the high scorer for Hereford with 19 points. Carmen Brockman scored 13 points, including six in the second quarter, and Shea McGinty added nine points — seven in the first quarter.

Late in the third quarter, Brockman and McGinty, two of the Lady Whitefaces' tallest players, both were called for their fourth fouls. McGinty played almost half of the final period before fouling out, and Brockman played the rest of the game after that.

Susan Bell, who scored eight points, led Hereford with five assists. Stacy White and Tricia Kahlich each had four assists.

Brockman pulled down 16 rebounds, and Robbins had nine rebounds.

The junior varsity game saw Hereford hold a 23-13 lead at halftime. Estacado outscored Hereford 26-14 in the third quarter to gain a 39-37 lead.

Hereford had a hot fourth period, outscoring Estacado 21-7 for the 58-46 win.

Players who scored in double figures for Hereford were Jill West with 12 points, Jessica Dearing with 11 points, and Krystal Sims with 10 points.

Dearing and Sims were also in double figures in rebounding. Dearing had 19 rebounds, including 13 on defense, and Sims had 10 rebounds.

Brianna Townsend led Hereford with six assists, and also grabbed eight rebounds.

Both are NFL playoff losers

Oilers, 49ers are in same fraternity

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Oilers won 10 games this season and the San Francisco 49ers won 13 but they're members of a common fraternity today, Oiler Coach Jerry Glanville says.

They are both losers in the NFL playoffs.

"The commissioner (Pete Rozelle) has set this up so that there's only going to be one happy team," Glanville said Monday following Sunday's 34-10 loss to Denver in an AFC semifinal playoff game.

"You talk about the best team in football and everybody's consensus is San Francisco," Glanville said. "You can win 13 games like they did and they lost one game and they are as sick as we are."

The Oilers were eliminated by the Broncos Sunday following turnovers by the Oilers on their first two possessions.

"The farther along you go in the playoffs, the deeper the wound when you are knocked out so it's a good experience for our young football team."

The bad news continued on Monday. Glanville announced that rookie fullback Alonzo Highsmith would undergo arthroscopic knee surgery Tuesday.

Highsmith suffered the injury in the AFC wild card playoff game against Seattle. He was the Oilers leading rusher in that game but gained 13 yards on 5 carries against the Broncos.

Glanville said the week's rest that went to the divisional champion Broncos and quarterback John Elway were key factors in the Oilers' season-ending loss.

"If we were playing any other quarterback we would have gotten four or five sacks," Glanville said. "He just runs to the sidelines and throws a pass."

Elway suffered one sack against the Oilers, threw two touchdown passes and ran for another score.

La Plata wins consolation in 7th grade boys' tourney

The La Plata seventh grade boys' basketball team suffered a defeat in its first game of the Canyon tournament on Friday, but came back on Saturday to win the consolation game.

La Plata lost to Canyon White 43-42 on Friday, defeated Valley View Silver 48-33 on Saturday morning, and then won the consolation game on Saturday afternoon, 40-26 over Valley View Blue.

In the narrow loss to Canyon White, Richard Sanderson led La Plata with 22 points, including a pair of three-point goals. Kyle Hansen and Greg Coplen each added six points.

Sanderson was high scorer for the Mavericks in the 48-33 win over Valley View Silver. Hansen totaled 10 points and Coplen had eight points for La Plata, which led 24-15 at halftime and 40-19 after three quarters of play.

Coplen led La Plata with 10 points, and Hansen scored nine points, in the 40-26 victory over Valley View Blue. Sanderson added six points. La Plata outscored Valley View Blue 24-6 in the third quarter.

LA PLATA SEVENTH GRADE: Richard Sanderson 9 2-2 22; Greg Coplen 2 0-4 6; Kyle Hansen 3 0-2 6; Jason Paetzold 1 0-2 2; Nathan Henderson 1 0-2 2; Jake Head 1 0-2 2; Jarritt Edwards 1 0-2 2. Totals: 19 2-4 42.

LA PLATA SEVENTH GRADE: Richard Sanderson 6 2-4 14; Kyle Hansen 4 2-4 8; Greg Coplen 4 0-4 8; Jason Paetzold 2 0-1 4; Jarritt Ed-

The Broncos defended their AFC Western Division title with a 10-4-1 record and were awarded an open date while the wild card games were played.

The Oilers had to go to overtime to beat Seattle 23-20 while the Broncos rested.

"We came up against a team that was quicker than it looked on film," Glanville said. "They had a week's rest, too, and they came back with fresh legs."

Glanville saw no reason to second guess running the "Stagger Lee" play on the Oilers second offensive play of the game.

Running back Mike Rozier fumbled a lateral pass and Denver recovered at the Oiler 1-yard line, setting up the Broncos' first score and launching them to a 24-3 halftime lead.

"If we catch the ball, a 30-yard gain is not out of the question," Glanville said. "It was the poorest defense we've had on that play this season."

The Oilers, who finished 5-11 last season, closed out their first playoff trip in seven seasons with a 10-7 record.

Glanville said it was too early to assess the season's high point.

Romantic man helps with bridge repair

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The first time Robert Abascal saw the bridge, he was inspired to stand on it and propose marriage.

When he saw it again recently — this time without "the lump in my throat" — he was inspired to rebuild it.

Thus it was that Abascal, 27, and his wife, Lynn, 31, found themselves at the Fort Worth Botanical Garden on New Year's Eve, fitting railroad ties onto a pair of steel rails so that a special moment in their lives could be preserved.

"Well," said Abascal, a computer scientist at Bell Helicopter, "my wife kind of expects me to do weird things like this."

Now, thanks to Abascal's romantic inclinations, the small, 3-by-7-foot structure spanning a creek in the oldest section of the park is as sturdy as it was when it was built nearly 50 years ago.

Abascal, a Hurst resident, first spotted the bridge in a moment of desperation on the night of May 1, 1985.

"I had always heard it was supposed to be good luck to propose on a bridge," he said.

"But we were in a real secluded area of the park, and I was getting more and more nervous every moment. You might say desperation was setting in ... I had a big lump in my throat."

Then he spotted the bridge, steered Lynn onto it, and popped the question. She said yes, and they were married about two months later on June 29.

Since the Abascal figures the small, rickety bridge has indeed brought the couple good luck. They have a 6-month-old daughter, Kelley (Lynn has a son, Benton, 10, from a previous marriage) and the union has been a happy success.

He was therefore dismayed to discover, on a recent visit, that the span seemed ready to collapse.

"It's really old — I think they told me it was built in 1939 — and I'm sure it was in bad shape the night I proposed," he said. "I just didn't notice."

Immediately, he called the park office and offered to pay for having the bridge restored — or do it himself. Park officials, less acquainted than his wife with Abascal's train of thought, at first were nonplussed.

Although the bridge is only 20 feet from a main walkway leading from the Rose Garden fountain past the large reflecting pond, it is nearly obscured from view by thick brush and is seldom used. Abascal was told that fixing it was a low-priority project.

He was persistent, however, and eventually was put in touch with Park Supervisor Mark Woolsey.

"He told me they had plans to fix that bridge and another small one on the other side of the pond," Abascal said, "but that if I wanted it done sooner, the best thing would be to come out and do it myself."

"It sounded like a great idea, so they bought the materials and we went out to fix it. They had a couple of workmen help me, and they seemed real happy to do it."

"It was a lot of work — we had to cut each of the ties down to fit, and while we were at it we widened the bridge a little bit."

"I was real happy to do it because it's such a great park and all. There were a couple of guys standing around looking at me like I was an idiot, but I really had fun. Besides, donating my time was cheaper than paying to have it rebuilt."

In four hours, Abascal created a sturdy platform, suitable for creek crossings and moonlight proposals.

"That's a special spot for us, and I just wanted to make sure it was taken care of," he said. "We kept one of the original ties and brought it home as a souvenir."

Mission accomplished, Abascal said the project was worth the effort.

"I really think it would be a great idea if more people got involved with the park that way," he said.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: Two weeks ago, after dinner, I developed a severe pressure feeling in the center of my chest. I felt like I was choking in the center of my breast bone. Finally I got worried about it being a heart attack and called an ambulance. They took me to the emergency room.

They did an electrocardiogram and did some blood tests and then put me in coronary care. They monitored me all night and part of the next day. Then that afternoon they told me they were certain I did not have a heart attack. They said I had esophageal spasm and it was the contraction of my esophagus in the center of my chest that caused the pressure.

I'm still concerned that this might be my heart. Can you explain esophageal spasm? What can I do to avoid another attack?

DEAR READER: You are only one of many who have esophageal pain and go to the doctor thinking they're having a heart attack. It is estimated that over 100,000 people in the United States see their doctor each year for pain they think is a heart attack but is really esophageal spasm.

The esophagus is a long, muscular tube that connects your throat to your stomach. The muscles can contract or cramp, causing a cramping pain or sensation of pressure. It may resemble a heart attack in all respects. You did the right thing. Anyone who has such pain should seek help, as it is not possible to know whether it is a heart attack or not.

The immediate studies in the hospital are to be sure it is not a heart attack. If it is not, additional studies can be done to determine the real cause of the pain. In some cases a balloon is placed inside the esophagus and the muscular contractions are measured. The pain is frequently associated with excessively forceful contractions, rather than a persistent spasm.

The cause of esophageal spasm or "nutcracker" esophagus is not known. Factors may include too much acidity, certain foods, or beverages such as coffee, tea and cola. Smoking seems to aggravate the condition.

This is a complex but frequent problem. I have discussed it in greater detail in Esophagus Pain, Not Heart Pain in THE HEALTH LETTER, 31-02. I'm sending you a free copy. Others who want this issue can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to THE HEALTH LETTER, Dept 31-02, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I would like to grow my hair. I was wondering if there are any vitamins, drugs or foods that will speed up the process.

I've heard that vitamin B-12 and eating peanut butter help. Is this true? Also, do the hair lotions that advertise longer, stronger, thicker hair in 5 to 10 days work, or do they damage hair?

DEAR READER: The hair shaft is composed of dead cells, like the tips of your fingernails. Each hair follicle has a cycle — it sheds the shaft and then rests. The "growing season" determines how long your hair will be; it is an individual characteristic. Poor nutrition can affect the hair, but if your nutrition is already adequate, additional vitamins or foods will not help. That includes B-12 and peanut butter.

Any advertisement that claims your hair will be longer after using it for 5 to 10 days is misrepresenting the product. Some lotions make the hair thicker by absorbing protein and various substances into the dead hair shaft. That's about the most you can expect. I doubt they will harm your hair, only your pocketbook.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 50 years old and for the past year I have had prostatitis. I had very severe discomfort a year ago and have never fully recovered. I have been to three different doctors and they all tell me I may never fully recover.

I seem to get an uncomfortable feeling which lasts for about three weeks after having an ejaculation. What causes this and is there anything that might help to correct it?

DEAR READER: Prostatitis is different from the common form of chronic prostate enlargement. The later is caused by small benign tumors that grow inside the prostate gland, causing compression of the urethra that drains the bladder. Prostatitis refers to an inflammation — usually by some bacteria — but a chronic form does exist which may not be caused by bacteria.

The acute form of prostatitis is more severe than your letter seems to indicate, often causing severe pain between the legs, painful urination and even chills and fever. This form is more apt to occur in young men. When the organism causing it is identified, a short course of the appropriate antibiotic usually cures the condition. A chronic form of prostatitis caused by bacteria causes less severe symptoms, but is more difficult to treat. A frequent cause for treatment failure is not taking the appropriate antibiotic long enough.

Some cases require treatment for three months or longer.

The "non-infectious" form of prostatitis is a controversial area. The exact cause is not certain and the treatment is not very satisfactory.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Because of asthma, I have been on large daily doses of prednisone (35 to 80 mg) for the past three years. For the last six months, however, I have been able to lower the doses each month until I am now currently on only seven mg a day. My question is, with my adrenal gland atrophied and not able to produce adrenal hormones, how can one discontinue the use of this drug? I believe that I can now stop taking prednisone entirely, but am reluctant to do so because of serious damage that may result.

DEAR READER: You have reason to be concerned. The adrenal cortex may become sluggish or not produce corticosteroid hormones if large doses of prednisone or related corticosteroids are used. This may also affect the pituitary gland that stimulates the adrenal gland and even hormones produced by the brain. Gradual tapering off as you have done is the right approach. In some cases, your doctor can stimulate the adrenal gland by giving pituitary hormones that normally stimulate the adrenal cortex.

It is not a good idea for anyone taking prednisone or other corticosteroid hormones to stop them on their own. It must be done under your doctor's supervision to avoid complications and the failure of your adrenal gland to respond.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I've let myself go and am in poor shape. I know that eating and drinking and not exercising is a sure road to a heart attack.

At age 52, that is an important consideration. My wife has encouraged me to lose weight and exercise. Since men my age are more likely to have heart attacks than women, I would like some advice on how risky this really is. Should I lose weight by diet before I start exercising vigorously? What are the chances of having a heart attack if I start a jogging program?

I'm confused because I know you can have a heart attack from exercise, but I also know that you need to exercise to keep from having a heart attack. I'm not interested in having a heart attack while exercising to avoid having one!

DEAR READER: Exercise is like many other things. The right amount is good for you and the wrong amount or the wrong way can be harmful. You need oxygen to live, but too much oxygen will kill you.

The greater awareness about the value of physical fitness has helped to change the idea that exercise is dangerous for your heart. The fear is rekindled periodically when some well known personality has a heart attack while exercising. It is to be expected that some heart attacks will occur while people are doing something — just as heart attacks occur while people are sleeping or watching TV.

Many people who have a heart attack during or immediately after exercise already had serious coronary artery disease. There are very few individuals who have normal coronaries and then have a heart attack during exertion. It is so rare that such cases are reported in the medical literature.

But you must approach an exercise program sensibly. That means starting slowly, usually with a walking program, and building up to a higher level. Avoid doing too much too soon. You can safely start a comfortable walking program while you are cutting back on calories to help lose weight. Then you will be in better shape to increase your exercise program.

It is a good idea to be sure your risk factors, such as your total cholesterol, are normal before engaging in vigorous exercise. A mild exercise program with weight reduction will help you improve these.

DEAR DR. LAMB: My friend had a "tarsal tunnel" done on her feet. She says the insteps of her feet still hurt and she has ridges. Other parts of her feet hurt, like needles. Is there, I have never heard of such a thing? Would you please explain it to me? Do only Chinese doctors do this procedure?

DEAR READER: The nerves that pass to the foot must pass through a narrow space composed of the ankle bones, called the tarsal tunnel. The space is called the tarsal tunnel. Since the compartment is fixed in size, if there is any swelling of the tissues in the area, the nerve to the foot can be compressed. That can cause needle-like pains in the foot. It is analogous to the better known carpal tunnel syndrome, involving the nerves that must pass through the carpal tunnel of the wrist.

Social Security

By JIM TALBOT

Social Security Manager

It seems that lately I've been getting more and more calls from people who receive mail warning them of the downfall of Social Security and urging them to contribute towards saving it. Or the letter offers to perform some service, such as finding out what your Social Security benefits will be, for a fee.

To those who receive warnings of doom for Social Security, I refer to the latest reports of the program which show that the Social Security trust funds are growing and that its future is brighter than ever. These include the 1987 Report of the Board Trustee and the 1987 Annual Report to the Congress. Both reports are available from the Superintendent of Documents in Washington, D.C.

To those who are considering paying for a benefit estimate, I remind them that Social Security provides such estimates free of charge. And they are based on the earnings credited to their record. That's the information their solicitor would have to get from us in order to make such an estimate.

This type of mail plays on the fears and ignorance of the public, in this case a particularly vulnerable part of the public. The elderly are understandably concerned about any threat to Social Security. It's the sole source of income for a substantial number and the primary source for most. Many would willingly pay up to help prevent disaster.

In addition, people often do not take the time to find out what they've got coming from Social Security and when informed that they can get certain services for a minimal fee, may consider it a bargain. But the services usually offered are provided free by more than 1,300 Social Security offices around the country. All you have to do is pick up the phone.

These services include providing Social Security cards, responding to general questions about Social Security, or questions about a specific claim, or providing benefit estimates and statements of earnings credited to your record. These are in addition to taking applications for retirement, survivors, disability, and Medicare benefits.

The best thing you can do if you receive such a letter is to call your nearest Social Security office and get the facts. You will save yourself money and a great deal of anguish.
