Committee passes moratorium bill

The House Interior Committee Wednesday approved a bill Wednesday that could institute an 18-month moratorium on siting a permanent nuclear waste repository in the United States.

A site in northern Deaf Smith county is one of three current candidates for the repository.

The committee voted unanimously to approve the bill authored by Chairman Mo Udall (D-Ariz.), who was also the author of the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982, the legislation which authorized the work that has been done to establish the repository.

Udall's new bill would set up a three-member commission to study several aspects of the work already done, determine whether the Department of Energy is the agency that should do the work, and look at ways to improve the process. The commission would have 12 months to do its study.

Congress could then have six months to study the commission's work before work could begin anew at any or all of the three sites being studied, which include Yucca Mountain, Nev., and Hanford, Wash.

Additional amendments added to the bill in the full committee include the establishment of a nuclear waste technical review board, which would advise Congress on the technical quality of future nuclear waste programs; and a bill that would prevent a state from offering a repository site without legislative approval.

New Mexico is currently offering a site in the Delaware Basin, in the same area as the Waste Isolation Pilot Plant, for the high-level repository in exchange for the Superconducting Super Collider.

Remaining intact were other amendments added to the bill in subcommittee, including a provision for affected local government to obtain impact mitigation funds during site characterization work. The amendment could provide Vega, Hereford and other local cities, counties and school districts with funds if they can prove they have been adversely impacted by site characterization activities.

Pummeled by pumpkins

This mailbox and at least 10 others have been destroyed by vandals in Hereford in the past week. Most of the vandalism has occurred in the city's northwest section, and value of the mailboxes has ranged from $15 to over $100. Police speculate that vandals have been throwing pumpkins from passing vehicles at the mailboxes. According to Hereford postmaster Charles Brittain, damaging and destroying mailboxes is a serious federal offense, with possible fines and imprisonment for the persons responsible for the damage. Federal statutes also state that, if the persons responsible are under 18 years of age, their parents may be held responsible, and could face fines and imprisonment for damage done by their children.

Sales could show Texas stock effects

AUSTIN (AP) — If the stock market plunge is adversely affecting the Texas economy, a solid indication will be a significant drop in Christmas retail sales, according to state Comptroller Bob Bullock.

"A slowdown in consumer spending will tell us that the fallout from the problems of the stock market has hit home," Bullock said Wednesday.

Falling stock prices on Wall Street in recent days, particularly the record 508-point plunge in the Dow Jones industrial average on Oct. 19, have sparked fears nationwide about the direction of the economy.

Bullock said any lack of confidence in the economy that translates into a steep drop in retail sales "could spell trouble for the state's budget."

Taxable retail sales in the fourth quarter last year in Texas totaled more than $16.3 billion. The comptroller's office said sales have been expected to grow slightly this year to about $16.9 billion.

The Legislature spent more than a year struggling to balance the state government's budget in the face of falling oil prices and a slumping economy.

Lawmakers finally hiked the state sales tax rate from 5 1/2 percent to 6 percent to raise the money needed to balance the budget.

"About 50 percent of all tax revenue comes from the state sales tax and a slump in sales will naturally drag down sales tax collections," Bullock said.

Bullock's most recent estimate of state revenues had predicted moderate economic growth in Texas over the next two years.

The comptroller said economists in his office are keeping a close watch on the stock market developments and the state's economy.

"We're hopeful that there's better than a 50-50 chance there won't be a national recession that will drag Texas back into the economic doldrums," he said.

GOP debate gets lively

HOUSTON (AP) — Republican presidential contenders emerged from their first debate with their differences highlighted by sharp exchanges questioning George Bush's leadership qualities and denouncing Pete du Pont's "nutty idea" of a private alternative to Social Security.

While each of the candidates and their supporters were quick to claim victory after Wednesday night's forum, backers of Vice President George Bush were clearly pleased that he gave as good as he got in exchanges with his rivals.

"Someone needed to beat George Bush and no one did," said Lee Alwater, the vice president's campaign manager.

During a brief appearance before cheering supporters at a nearby hotel, Bush said the debate "gave me a chance to make a few points that I wanted to make about leadership."

For two hours, Bush, Senate GOP leader Bob Dole of Kansas, Rep. Jack Kemp of New York, former Gov. Pete du Pont of Delaware, former Secretary of State Alexander M. Haig Jr. and evangelist Pat Robertson laid out their views under questioning from conservative columnist William F. Buckley Jr. and former Democratic Party chairman Robert Strauss.

"This is the first time I've had the opportunity to face off with the vice president and the other candidates," said Kemp after the forum. "I think we all gained on the vice president."

The first hour was gentlemanly to the point of being dull.

Then du Pont took out after Bush. "The question is in a Bush presidency where would he lead America," said du Pont, who was sitting on Bush's right on the stage. "So far we haven't seen any vision, any principles, any policy. We really haven't had it spelled out very successfully."

Many in the audience booed at this point.

Du Pont called the pending U.S.-Soviet treaty to eliminate medium range nuclear missiles "a great example of that. We're waiting for details and we're hearing generalities."

Bush has urged his GOP rivals to support the treaty which is in the final stages of negotiations.

Du Pont, Kemp, Haig and Robertson all have expressed varying degrees of opposition to the agreement.

Bush turned to du Pont and said, "Pierre — the former governor's full name is Pierre S. du Pont IV — let me help you on some of this. First, I think it's a nutty idea to fool around with the Social Security system and run the risk of the people who've been saving all their lives, we made this Social Security trust fund solvent and it's solvent. Mandatory test rejected

AUSTIN (AP) — Civil libertarians are hailing a unanimous Texas Supreme Court ruling that says mandatory lie detector tests of public employees are an unconstitutional invasion of their privacy.

"This case today, I think, is the death knell of polygraph testing of public employees. There's no doubt about that. They just buried polygraphs of public employees," said Jim Harrington, legal director of the Texas Civil Liberties Union.

Harrington called Wednesday's 9-0 opinion, authored by Chief Justice John Hill, "a resounding vindication" of the privacy rights of Texans.

"This case shows that the Texas courts are not willing to subject (state) employees to intrusive and humiliating techniques, which Sen. Sam Ervin had appropriately labeled 20th century witchcraft," Harrington said.

Harrington said that while the decision applied only to public employees, it may affect both drug and polygraph-testing of workers in private business as well.

"The question is going to be the extent to which this logic is really going to flow over into the private sector," he said.

Although the opinion doesn't speak to private employees, Harrington said, "I think this is the beginning of what we're going to see is a lot of private litigation."

The court ruled in a lawsuit filed against the Texas Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation. The court also ordered that the department pay $18,000 in legal fees and $800 in costs for the Texas State Employees Union, which had sued MHMR officials over the policy.

Jim Pearson, an official of the union, also praised the ruling.

"This decision today is a hallmark of building a Texas state employees' bill of rights," Pearson said.

The union and several of its members filed suit against the mental health department after it decided in 1983 to begin mandatory lie detector tests.

Under that policy, employees were subject to "adverse personnel action" if they refused to take the exam during an investigation of suspected patient abuse.

But the Supreme Court said such mandatory testing violated rights of privacy.

Although the Texas Constitution contains no specific guarantee of a right of privacy, it does include several provisions relating to an individual's privacy, the court said.

These include protections against arbitrary deprivation of life and liberty, the right to speak, write or publish freely, plus the right against self-incrimination.

"We do not doubt, therefore, that a right of individual privacy is implicit among those 'general, great and essential principles of liberty and free government' established by the Texas Bill of Rights," Hill wrote.

"This right to privacy should yield only when the government can demonstrate that an intrusion is reasonably warranted for the achievement of a compelling governmental objective that can be achieved by no less intrusive, more reasonable means," he added.

Although the mental health department argued that it was trying to maintain a safe environment for patients, the Supreme Court said mandatory polygraph examinations went too far.

It noted that such tests require "control questions" on subjects not related to the job to provide the examiner with an example of a lie.

"Control questions are not job-related and ordinarily require the disclosure of matters personal to the employee," the court said. "We hold that the department's polygraph policies impermissibly violate privacy rights protected by the Texas Constitution."

The decision prohibits the mental health department from taking disciplinary action against any employee for refusing to take the lie detector test.

The TCLU said the decision on both the lie detector tests and legal fees "are major breakthroughs in the area of Texas constitutional law."

Harrington said the awarding of legal fees to the TCLU was a significant for non-profit law offices such as that group and the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund.

Education Board, others report campaign spending

AUSTIN (AP) — A campaign to keep the State Board of Education an appointed body has raised only $61,445 and spent nearly $1 million since last month because it concentrated on voters, not fund-raising, says its campaign treasurer.

"We have really been devoting our energy to getting our message across the state," said Thomas Luce III, treasurer for Texans for Quality Education, on Wednesday. "We will continue fund-raising after the referendum."

The political action committee's contributions and expenditures were reported in records filed with the secretary of state.

Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot is leading the effort for Referendum 1 on the Nov. 3 election ballot, which would keep the board from reverting to an elected body in 1989.

The Texas Legislature changed the board to an appointed one in 1984 in what was to be a transitional part of a sweeping education reform package. But Perot has said it is necessary to keep the board appointed to maintain momentum for educational improvement.

Texans for Quality Education, in two reports filed with the Secretary of State for the period Sept. 4 to Oct. 24, said it raised $61,445 and spent $332,341.28.

The expenditures included $665,713.28 to Bosell, Jacobs, Kenyon & Eckhardt of Dallas for advertising services and $240,128 to Karl Rove + Co. of Austin for direct mail services.

The campaign has begun airing television commercials that include pleas by Perot and former U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan to vote for Referendum 1.

Luce said he does not know how much of the campaign's expenses will end up being paid by Perot.

For the second Nov. 3 referendum, which would legalize pari-mutuel betting on horse and greyhound racing in Texas, political action committees on both sides of the issue filed finance reports.

Texans for Economic Development, which favors pari-mutuel betting, reported contributions of $445,846.26 and expenditures of $377,833.21 in two reports filed for the period from July 16 to Oct. 24.

Separate political action committees for the pari-mutuel referendum also filed reports.

Among them were the Cameron County Greyhound Racing Task Force, reporting $52,446.60 in contributions and $24,788.26 in expenditures from June 18 to Oct. 2; and Texas Women for Pari-Mutuel, whose campaign treasurer is Chris Woody of Sabin, reporting contributions of $40,441.19 and expenditures of $29,501.29 from Jan. 1 to Oct. 3.

Texans Who Care, a group opposing the gambling proposal, reported contributions of $362,609.13 and expenditures of $290,161.41 in two reports filed for the period from July 1 to Oct. 24.

Other political action committees reporting are campaigning for all or part of the "Build Texas" economic development amendments on the ballot.

Among the Build Texas amendments are proposals to sell nearly $2 billion in state general obligation bonds.

The Build Texas Committee reported contributions of $194,682.75 and expenditures of $86,266.78 in two reports filed from Sept. 16 to Oct. 24.

Yes On Proposition 19, a group backing bonds for the superconducting super collider research project, reported contributions of $370,439.75 and expenditures of $336,392.99 in two reports filed from Sept. 4 to Oct. 24.

Proposed Constitutional Amendment 19 would allow the sale of $500 million in bonds for the super collider, if the state wins the federal research project.

To Oprah Winfrey Show

Phone lines jammed for tickets

MIDLAND (AP) — Millions of callers clogged phone lines for more than two hours in hopes of getting a seat at Friday's airing of The Oprah Winfrey show honoring Jessica McClure to be broadcast from Midland, a spokeswoman said.

The 19-month-old toddler who spent 58½ hours in a dry water well before being rescued also was being honored today with a parade. Gov.

Bill Clements declared today "Jessica McClure Day" statewide, saying those who helped Jessica showed Texans' sense of caring, compassion and concern.

More than 900,000 thousand calls were completed into the six telephone exchanges in Midland-Odessa between 9 and 11 a.m. Wednesday for 800 free tickets, Southwestern Bell officials said. The completed calls represent a half million more than the exchanges receive in an average day, KTPX-TV spokeswoman J.J. Davis said.

More than a million calls never made it through, Ms. Davis said.

When told about the calls, Ms. Winfrey said she was thrilled with the response.

"We have all shared in this story. I only wish we could accommodate all 900,000 callers in the Midland Center," she said. "But I hope they'll all be watching."

Because of the volume of calls coming into the two cities, callers in the Midland-Odessa area had up to a four-minute wait simply to get a dial tone, Ms. Davis said.

"Normally if you pick up a phone, a dial tone will come on in three seconds," she said. "It was just incredible."

Alice McGee, a publist with the show, said 400 tickets were offered to volunteers who helped get the Midland toddler out of the well before the tickets were made available to the public.

"We really wanted to get anyone associated with the rescue on the show," Ms. McGee said. "We thought we'd actually go through the event and focus on the rescue."

About 450 police officers, firefighters, utility employees and ordinary working people aided in Jessica's rescue in an effort that captured the attention of the nation and world. The volunteers controlled crowds, helped drill a rescue shaft and provided refreshments.

The Oprah Winfrey show will be carried live by NBC-affiliate KTPX-TV from the 1,200-seat Midland Center and will have the toddler's parents, Chip and Cissy McClure, on stage.

Joining the McClures will be Keisha Knight-Pullman, the young star of "The Cosby Show" who sent Jessica a teddy bear after her rescue.

Ms. McGee said a live videotape from Midland Memorial Hospital will allow Jessica to be seen during the show.

The toddler wasn't going to be in today's parade and festivities to commemorate her rescue.

Parade organizer Norma Webb says she doesn't know how many rescuers will march in the parade and noted that many of the volunteers initially were reluctant to participate for modesty's sake.

"A lot of those who expressed reluctance reconsidered after they were told their presence was requested by the McClures, and I expect a lot to appear," she said.

The parade was scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. CST at the hospital and was to end about 40 minutes later at Centennial Plaza downtown.

Local CAP cadets train for emergencies

Eleven cadets and four senior members of the Hereford Civil Air Patrol attended an emergency service course Oct. 17, hosted by the Amarillo Composite Squadron.

This course enables cadets and senior members to participate in all CAP air and ground operations for a specific mission either training or actual. Cadets and senior members attending were: Benny Dominguez, Kyle Hundley, Todd Hundley, Mike Kester, Jason Ford, Eugene McMories, Betsy Perez, Elisa Smithers, Audy Sciumbato, Rob McCarty, Captain Anne Clyde, Colonel David Clyde, Bill Dominguez and Linda Dominguez.

On Oct. 4, ten cadets and four senior members took a course directed by Maj. J. Richard Fox. He taught a Civil Air Patrol Communications course enabling members to obtain radio operator permits. Also included were classroom and field exercises for locating emergency location transmitters which are activated during an aircraft crash.

Civil Air Patrol is a nonprofit organization and we invite anyone who has completed the sixth grade or is twelve years of age or older to attend. Regular meetings are at the Hereford Community Center on Monday nights starting at 7:00 p.m.

Womble receives Lions award

Bennie Womble was presented the Master Key award at the Hereford Lions Club weekly luncheon meeting Wednesday at the Community Center. The award was for recruiting 12 members into the club.

Guest speaker for the program was Frank Belcher, HHS girls' basketball coach. The new coach outlined his philosophy and reviewed the prospects for the team this season.

The club announced a pledge of $2,500 to the United Way campaign in Deaf Smith County, and also reported donations of $750 to the Girlstown Coat & Shoe Fund and $100 to the Kings manor Founders Association.

Reasoner takes cold cuts at baloneygrams

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — CBS newsman Harry Reasoner knew he was dishing out a big load of baloney when he called the University of Texas-El Paso one of the most distinguished in the nation, but it was all in fun.

Reasoner, speaking Tuesday in a national radio broadcast, said he was testing the school's "Emergency Baloneygram System" by feeding his listeners a big bunch of baloney unsandwiched by truth.

Texas-El Paso officials cooked up the tongue-in-cheek Baloneygram idea last week to clear up misconceptions about the university. The school bites back at disseminators of incorrect information by ordering a Baloneygram to clear up the misconception.

Reasoner seemed to want a Baloneygram in the "worst" way Tuesday when he served a tall stack of baloney on CBS Newnotes.

"The ivy-and-cactus-covered campus of the University of Texas at El Paso is home to one of America's foremost and most respected academic institutions," Reasoner said. "UTEP's stringent admission policies rank second only to Harvard's."

"The distinguished UTEP faculty has hired twice as many Nobel prize winners as MIT and Cal Tech combined. And at the UTEP phys-ed department, the only scholar-athletes who didn't win Rhodes scholarships last year made do with Fulbrights."

The campus is not ivy-covered. School officials said Reasoner's comments didn't give them any indignation.

"It's just good baloney — I like it," interim President Diana Natalicio said Tuesday. "I've challenged (public information director) Dale Walker to come up with a Baloneygram that'll knock Harry Reasoner's socks off."

Boxcar survivor names culprit

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — The sole survivor of 18 illegal aliens who died after being locked in a railroad boxcar led authorities to the brother of notorious alien-smuggler "El Chapulin."

Arturo Hernandez Garcia "was arrested July 8 in Fort Worth based on information given by the survivor of the Sierra Blanca boxcar tragedy," U.S. Border Patrol spokesman Michael Wheat said Wednesday.

The 32-year-old man has been sentenced to 18 months in federal prison for smuggling three Peruvian Nationals from Ciudad Juarez, Mexico, to Fort Worth in a railroad boxcar, Wheat said.

Miguel Tostado Rodriguez was the lone survivor among 19 illegal aliens trying to sneak across the border in a locked, airtight boxcar. Authorities believe the still-missing "El Chapulin" is responsible for the Sierra Blanca railroad boxcar tragedy that took the lives of 18 illegals.

Enrique Hernandez Garcia, whose Spanish nickname translates to "The Grasshopper," is the brother of the sentenced man.

Rodriguez pointed out his cousin and a Fort Worth drop house where nine illegal aliens were found, Wheat said. The cousin directed agents to a second drop house, where authorities found Garcia, he said.

A U.S. Marshal picked up Garcia from an El Paso detention center and will determine in which federal penitentiary Garcia will serve his sentence.

a new idea but it's a dumb one.

On the question of the INF treaty, I told you all these European leaders are for it, if I'm for it, the president is for it, the joint chiefs are for it and I don't see why you can't say, hey, it's a good idea to get rid of 1,000 warheads from the Soviet Union for 400 of ours."

Haig was sitting on the other side of Bush and when his turn came he said he had talked to European leaders who were privately opposed to the agreement.

"You supported it in the spring of 1982," said Bush.

"I fought it like the bloody death," retorted Haig, who was then secretary of state. "and we never heard a wimp out of you."

"This debate is beginning to live up a little," quipped Dole.

Later in the debate, Kemp also criticized du Pont's position on Social Security.

"Frankly, Pete, we don't know exactly which libertarian or market-oriented solution you're going to come up with next," said the New York congressman.

After the debate, du Pont said, "I made distinctions between Pete du Pont and George Bush and Pete du Pont and Jack Kemp. I thought all of the distinctions were good ones. They were on the merits, they were on the INF treaty and Social Security and education."

Robertson emphasized his campaign theme that there is "a serious moral crisis in America."

Dole said the Republicans "have a problem with sensitivity. We're perceived as not caring about people."

Dole left the hall immediately after the debate but Secretary of Labor William Brock, who is leaving the Cabinet Nov. 1 to run the Kansas senator's presidential campaign, was quick to declare his candidate the winner.

"What he accomplished was to let people see what's inside the man," said Brock. "He sat there in the most intense pressure cooker you can possibly endure and maintained his sense of humor."

A former national party chairman, Brock said said confrontation between Bush and du Pont was "the moment of nervousness. That's where something could begin to deteriorate. I think the fact Bob Dole came in fairly quickly with a sense of humor saved the moment."

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: With all the talk about people's lack of knowledge regarding geography, I would like to add my two cents' worth.

I'm enclosing a clipping about Kellye Cash, who just stepped down as Miss America. She tells about the joys of her job and what she learned traveling around the country. The former Miss America said she was surprised to discover that people actually live in Nebraska.

I'm ashamed to think someone so uninformed spent a year touring the continent representing us as the pride of American womanhood. Will you please set this young woman straight? She is in need of educating. -Embarrassed in Omaha

DEAR OMAHA: The item you sent was picked up by several Cornhuskers. They were not pleased with Kellye's inadequate briefing.

Nebraska boasts a long list of distinguished natives. To name a few: Henry Fonda and son Peter, Fred Astaire, Marlon Brando, Gerald Ford, Gayle Sayers and Dorothy McGuire. Johnny Carson worked in Omaha. So did Floyd Kalber and Tom Brokaw.

Omaha has an honest-to-goodness billionaire. His initials are W.B. (He's so low-key and understated you'd never pick him out of a lineup of 50!)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: How does one express disgust and revulsion for a gift that the giver had no business giving? When I saw it I was absolutely speechless.

A woman I loathe appeared, uninvited, at the wedding of my daughter. This brassy wench had the unmitigated gall to bring a gift. Since I did not want either her presence or her present I instructed my daughter not to send a thank-you note.

Now I am wondering if the woman might think it was an oversight that she received no thank-you note. It is also possible (knowing what a mean mouth she has) that she will spread the word around town that my daughter has no manners because she did not write a thank-you note.

Please don't suggest that my daughter return the gift because she is already using it in her home. (It is very practical and quite expensive.)

I would appreciate your advice on how to deal with this woman. I cannot call her ill-bred because she was raised by the same parents who taught me good manners and gave me excellent training in all the social graces.

Please hurry your answer. I am - Seething in Buffalo

DEAR BUFF: It is apparent that the woman you loathe is your sister and that she appeared uninvited at your daughter's wedding.

Apparently you had an unfortunate lapse of good manners when you instructed your daughter not to acknowledge her aunt's gift even though you knew she was using it.

Your daughter must now write her aunt and express appreciation for the gift or wind up looking like a bit of a clod herself.

Abundant Life

THE UPSIDE OF LIFE

By Bob Wear

We know that the living experience is a mixture of joy and sorrow, of success and failure, of ups and downs, of good days and bad days; however, we do have the right and the power to keep ourselves on the 'upside of life'. Even when it seems that the circumstances are unfavorable we must realize that there is no law that requires us to be completely controlled by these unfavorable circumstances. We still have a choice between moving along the downside of life or the upside of life.

We are affected by circumstances, and we prefer that they be favorable. Nevertheless, if we are in control and we can be in control, circumstances will not dominate our lives. Circumstances may prevent us from doing some of the things we wish to do, but they cannot prevent us from building character, from establishing and maintaining a good value system, from continuing the work of improving ourselves, from being constructive in our thought and action, or from choosing to move along the upside of life.

There are burdens for all of us, and some of these burdens can become heavy to bear. We know that some folk are carrying heavier burdens than others, and there are ways in which we can often assist one another in bearing these burdens. When we can do so, we should do so for the sake of others and for our own good. When our burden is heavy, we may have to put forth more effort to move along the upside of life; and we have this kind of capability. We must never choose to permit the burden to drag us down.

"Anyone can carry his burden, however heavy, till nightfall. Anyone can do his work, however hard, for one day. Anyone can live sweetly, patiently, lovingly, purely till the sun goes down. And this is all that life ever really means."—Charles B. Newcomb.

The upside of life is a way that is open to all of us.

Social Security

By JIM TALBOT

Social Security Manager in Amarillo, Tx.

If you work in Social Security covered employment, your employer deducts Social Security, or FICA taxes from your paycheck. You know that FICA is a Social Security tax, and you expect that one day when you retire, you'll be able to get a Social Security check. But Social Security is much more than a retirement program. It's a package of protection for you and your family when your earnings stop or are reduced because of your retirement, disability, or death.

Social Security provides four types of insurance. Two of those—retirement and Medicare—are familiar to most people. But did you know that Social Security also provides disability and survivors insurance?

Social Security pays monthly checks to about 3 million disabled workers and 8 million members of deceased and disabled worker's families.

Family members receiving benefits include:

Widows and widowers, who are at least 60 disabled and 50-59, or any age and caring for children under 16 or disabled.

A spouse 6 or older or under 62 and caring for a child under 16 or disabled.

Unmarried children under 18, or 19 if in high school, or any age if disabled before 22.

In some cases, dependent parents receive checks when a child dies. And divorced spouses may receive checks in most cases if their marriage to worker lasted 10 years or more.

Like any insurance you carry, Social Security becomes valuable only when you need it. I hope you stay healthy and don't need to use the disability or survivors part of Social Security. But isn't it nice to know it's there if you need it?

Tournament planned

Toujours Amis study Club has set Tuesday, Nov. 17, as the date for the annual Benefit Bridge Tournament.

It will be held in the Banquet room at the Community Center beginning at 7 p.m. Tickets are $5 and can be purchased from any member or at the door. Coffee, tea, hors d'oeuvres, finger sandwiches, and dessert will be served.

Door prizes will be awarded, as will high and low prizes. All proceeds will go toward a Hereford High School scholarship in the amount of $300 to be given to a high school senior in the spring.

Any senior who is a candidate for graduation in 1988 is eligible and may apply in March through the senior counselor. A scholarship board will then select the recipient.

Various merchants in the community have supported the scholarship through donations of door prizes for the tournament.

If you are unable to attend the bridge competition, you may make a $5 donation to the scholarship fund which is tax deductible.

Senator Bill Sarpalius Reports

THE REFERENDA ALSO ON BALLOT

AUSTIN — We said at the outset of our five-part series on the Nov. 3 general election ballot that voters likely would be surprised to wade through the 25 proposed constitutional amendments on the ballot only to find two more issues they must decide. And, we predicted voters would find the two the most compelling of the lot.

In this, the last of our series, we'll examine those last two issues, commonly referred to as the non-constitutional referenda. One concerns the composition of the State Board of Education. The other deals with legalized gambling in Texas.

Referendum No. 1 gives Texas voters the opportunity to decide whether the State Board of Education will be appointed by the governor or elected directly by the people. A "yes" vote for Referendum No. 1 would be a vote for an appointed state board. A "no" vote would make the board an elected one.

You may recall the state board until 1984 was an elected body composed of 27 members. That year, the Legislature passed the sweeping education reforms in House Bill 72, and the state board's make-up was changed drastically. The board's size was reduced to 15 members who were appointed by the governor rather than elected by the people.

Almost everyone agreed at the time that the 27-member board was too large; its sheer size made it almost impossible for a meaningful consensus on education policy to be reached. Also, many argued only an appointed board would be able to withstand political pressure during the critical early days when education reform was being implemented.

Still, many of us were reluctant to do away with an elected board, so a compromise was reached. H.B. 72 called for the board to be appointed, but for four years only. Beginning in November 1988, the board once again would become an elected body.

Efforts were made in the Legislature this summer to make the change to an appointed board permanent. But, many of us resisted that notion and yet another compromise was reached. Voters would be allowed to decide the board's status this November.

No doubt you have seen in recent days many commercials regarding the State Board of Education. Proponents of Referendum No. 1 argue that only an appointed board can keep education reform moving in Texas. Opponents of the referendum say the Legislature should not back down on its promise to bring back state board elections. They also say voters should have a direct say in education policy since more than half the biennial state budget is spent on education.

We would leave you with this thought: Take Referendum No. 1 very seriously. Fifty-two cents of every tax dollar in Texas goes to education. As a taxpayer, you have a right to feel comfortable about the make-up of the board setting much of the state's education policy.

Referendum No. 2 allows voters to decide whether pari-mutuel wagering on horse and dog races would be legal in Texas. A "yes" vote on the referendum would legalize pari-mutuel wagering on a county-option basis; a "no" vote would continue the state's ban on such gambling.

The background on this referendum is familiar to almost everyone, as are the arguments on the issue. To review briefly:

Proponents say legalized gambling on horse races (statewide) and dog races (in three coastal counties only) would be an economic boon to the state. They estimate $100 million per year eventually would be raised for the state and that tourism dollars and racing-related industries would pump new life into the sagging state economy. Opponents argue that crime would soar if any form of gambling was legal in the state. They also point out that it would take years before racing would generate anything close to $100 million for the state and that the alleged economic benefits of racing are being blown out of proportion.

As a special note to Randall County residents, we would remind you that you will have a second pari-mutuel issue to decide. There will be a place on your ballot for you to indicate whether you would approve of legalized pari-mutuel gambling in the county should Referendum No. 2 be approved statewide.

As we conclude this five-part series, we once again would urge you to review all 25 proposed constitutional amendments — plus the two referenda — and then go to the polls and vote Nov. 3. A lot is riding on this election.

If you have any questions about the Nov. 3 election, or any other issues, please write us at P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas, 78711.

LAYAWAY: A CHRISTMAS SHOPPING STRATEGY

The frost is barely on the pumpkin and already we are seeing Christmas trees and yes even beginning to hear the Christmas shoppers advertisements. "Layaway" becomes a familiar term this early in the holiday shopping season.

Before credit cards became so common, layaway was a popular means of stretching out the costs of buying Christmas gifts. If you want to avoid mounting credit card bills and the interest on unpaid balances, layaway is still a good alternative.

The whole idea behind layaway is that you make a down payment, which is usually 10 percent of the price, and then make installment payments at agreed upon intervals until you've paid for the merchandise.

Unlike other types of transactions, you can't take the merchandise home right away. The retailer holds your intended purchase until the final payment is made. That may be ideal for gifts you's just have to hide anyway!

Before you put an item on layaway, request a written copy of the store's layaway policy. Find out if your intended purchase will be set aside or ordered, and will definitely be available when you finish the payments. Ask about the store's refund policy, in case you change your mind after making partial payment. Also consider extra costs such as penalties for late payments, or service or layaway fees.

When you buy an expensive item, such as jewelry, feel sure about the store's reputation or check with the Better Business Bureau before buying on layaway. If the store goes bankrupt before you finish making your payments, you lose the merchandise as well as the payments you've made so far, and there isn't much you can do about it.

Avoid problems or misunderstandings with your layaway by keeping your own record of all transactions. It will help you remember when payments are due and keep track of how much you have already paid toward the purchase.

One of the best things about layaway is knowing that your Christmas gifts are paid for and you won't be facing huge credit card bills in January. But do remember to shop by exercising consumer caution and resist the impulse to overspend or overbuy.

Against district leader Lubbock Estacado

Whitefaces play for team pride Friday

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whiteface varsity football team, knocked out of playoff contention by Canyon last week, will now play the rest of the season for pride and some fun.

The Whitefaces are 3-3 in District 1-4A, with four teams ahead of them in the standings — including Friday's opponent, Lubbock Estacado. Kickoff for the final home game of the 1987 season is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. at Whiteface Stadium.

"It's been a long time since there wasn't something riding about a game, a playoff spot," Whiteface Coach Don Cumpton said. "That's kind of a letdown, but for our program we want to win the last two games."

"We'd like to keep our home win streak going, and it would be fun to beat the first place team in the district."

Hereford has won 16 straight home games since suffering a 45-0 loss to Amarillo High on Sept. 28, 1984. One of those victories, however, was forfeited later because of the use of an ineligible player — this year's 37-8 win over Pampa.

But the fact remains that according to final scores, Hereford has outscored 16 straight opponents on its home field.

Lubbock Estacado is tied with Borger for first place in the district with a 5-0 record. The Matadors, who have long dominated District 1-4A, play Borger next week and close out the district schedule against Pampa.

"The fact that this is the last home game for our seniors, they'd like to win going out. And our team would like to finish the season on a high note," Coach Cumpton said.

"Pride's a big factor. When you get into this position, you play for the pride and for the fun of winning a game," he adds.

A win Friday night would mean defeating an Estacado offensive unit that is averaging 320 yards total offense per game and a Matador defense that is limiting opponents to 206 yards per game. Hereford is averaging 276 yards per game while allowing 201 yards per game.

"They're a real similar team to Canyon, a ball-control offensive team. They've got some good backs," Cumpton said about the Matadors.

"I think they're strength is the offensive line, and they play good on defense. I don't think they're bigger than Canyon, but they execute well," he continues.

Estacado's leading ball carrier is senior fullback Butch Smith with 649 yards in 129 carries, with eight touchdowns scored. Hereford counters with senior tailback Marcus Brown, who has totaled 692 yards in 96 carries, and seven touchdowns.

Other leading offensive players for Estacado include senior wingback Ronald Collins, senior tight end Steve Stewart, and senior split end Randy Luke. Quarterbacking the Matadors is senior Wesley Isaac. The offensive line includes offensive tackles Bernard Griffins and Elvis Klencio, both 220-pounders.

Coach Cumpton said the Whitefaces will need to avoid the critical mistakes that hurt the team in last week's loss to Canyon, 13-0: "We were real proud of the effort our team gave against Canyon. But we made too many mistakes to win that kind of a game."

Herd defensive players with more than 10 tackles last week were linebacker Lee Young and safety Rodney McCracken each with 15, linebacker Joe Medrano with 12, and tackle Edward Martinez with 11. Linebacker Michael Phibbs and cornerback Keith Brown each had two tackles for losses.

Hereford's leaders in tackles for the season so far are Young with 84, Phibbs with 75, Martinez with 68, Medrano with 52, and tackle Richard Castillo with 46.

Castillo and pass receiver Fidencio Cantu are two Whiteface players with injury problems or out for the season because of an injury. Cumpton reports that Castillo is still having some problems with a foot. Cantu had knee surgery last Saturday and will be out for the season.

Offensively for the Whitefaces, quarterback Jason Scott's season statistics are 46 completions in 89 attempts for 678 yards and nine touchdowns, with five interceptions. Rodney McCracken leads in receiving with 18 for 262 yards and five touchdowns.

Cumpton is a coach who believes in the importance of good fan support.

Concerning last week's game, he said, "I wasn't disappointed in our crowd. I'd like to thank our community for their tremendous support and spirit over at Canyon. I'm just sorry that the result wasn't different."

After this week's game with Estacado, Hereford has an open date on Nov. 6 before closing out the season at Borger on Nov. 13.

Here is a comparison of the final scores of games played by the common opponents of Hereford and Estacado so far this season:

Canyon 13, Hereford 0; Estacado 10, Canyon 7; Hereford 28, Levelland 6; Estacado 32, Levelland 7; Hereford 25, Lubbock Dunbar 13; Estacado 38, Lubbock Dunbar 0; Hereford 22, Dumas 6; Estacado 33, Dumas 12; Frenship 23, Hereford 7; Estacado 18, Frenship 7.

For 1987-88 boys' basketball season

Herd has just three returning lettermen

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

The Hereford Whiteface varsity boys' basketball team as a whole will have a new look this season, except for three returning lettermen who were starters last season.

Hereford Coach Mike Fields had 12 seniors on last year's team. As a result of so many varsity athletes gone because of graduation, he has many spots to fill on the roster.

The Whitefaces open the 1987-88 season on Friday, Nov. 20 at Muleshoe. The rest of the pre-district schedule for the HHS varsity is at Dimmitt on Nov. 24, at Amarillo High on Nov. 30, the El Paso tournament on Dec. 4-5, at home against Dimmitt on Dec. 8, and the Denver City tournament on Dec. 10-12.

The District 1-4A opener for Hereford is on Tuesday, Dec. 15 at Dumas.

The Whitefaces' returning starters are 6-1 senior Kevin Hansen, 6-4 senior Rodney McCracken, and 5-3 senior Marcus Brown. Coach Fields has just a few athletes practicing basketball right now, because of many players still competing in fall sports, particularly football.

"When we get through with the cross country and tennis seasons, we'll have a dozen players. The majority of our players play both football and basketball," he said.

Fields will have the football players into basketball earlier this season than last season, since Hereford has been eliminated from football playoff contention. He believes last year's extended football season did not hurt the basketball season.

"I don't think it hurt us at all. I think last year's football season helped us with the attitude our football players brought into the basketball season," Fields states.

"They last played football on a Saturday, and the next Tuesday we started district. And then we won our first three district games."

Quickness and more height are figured to be important factors for the Whitefaces going into this season. "Our overall height will probably be better than it has in the past," Fields said.

"Our point guards will be quick, Marcus Brown and Ross Torres. We might be a little quicker than last year," he continues.

Torres is a 5-7 senior. Other seniors who are already practicing basketball are 6-2 Bobby Robbins and 6-1 John Mark Streun.

"We'll have a lot of people competing for varsity positions, because we had a lot of good players on our sophomore team last year, and we also had a good junior varsity team last year," Coach Fields said.

"We could have as many as 11 or 12 seniors trying to make the varsity, and a large group of juniors. There will be a lot of competition to see who makes the varsity."

"We've got a big hole to fill with the lack of varsity experience. The players will have to get used to playing with each other, because they've played on different teams each year."

"We've also lost Bobby Baker, a three-year starter who was our leading scorer and rebounder for the last two years. We're going to have to make up for him as a team. No one player is going to make it up."

The HHS coach feels that he should be able to utilize the three-point goal, which is in Texas high school basketball for the first time this season.

"I think we have several players who can become good shooters out there. It will just take some getting used to."

"At first, I think the biggest impact of the three-point goal will be at the end of the games, until people get used to it.

"Our defense won't charge much, because we'd rather have people shoot the ball way out there than close. We'll still try to bother the outside shooter," he said.

A balanced district this season is seen by Fields, based upon the many contrasting preseason polls he has come across.

"I think our district is going to be wide open for the boys. There's going to be a lot of balance in this district. I think any team can beat another team on any given night in the district."

"It's just the way the graduation went. The lower teams in the district have most of their players back, while those who finished high lost most of their players."

"I saw one preseason poll with Borger picked eighth in the state. In another poll, they weren't even picked in the top four of our district."

Fields and his Whiteface squad last season suffered losses in many close games and also many losses in road games.

"I think the key for us in basketball this year is that we have to learn to win on the road and to win the close games. We lost a lot of games last year that could have gone either way."

"We've got a real tough preseason schedule and it's all on the road. We play at Dimmitt and at Amarillo High, and we play in an El Paso tournament against all class 5A schools."

"We're hoping to gain a lot of experience early to help us in our district," Fields continues.

"The way our district schedule is set up, we play our first three games on the road against teams that all best us on the road last year. We'll have to be ready to start district."

"Last year we beat every team once and every other team beat us once, except Borger and Estacado, the two playoff teams. Borger beat us in overtime, and Estacado beat us by three points and by four points."

"This could be a real exciting season for people to watch our team, because we won so many sophomore and junior varsity games last year. It will be nice to play in the remodeled La Plata gym."

"I think we've got our basketball program where we can be real competitive against anybody we play. We're trying to get some respect, and I think we are now, in basketball. For a long time, we weren't thought of as being that good."

Fields has seen a growth in the interest of athletes in basketball during his years as the HHS head coach. Last year 60 athletes tried out for basketball, to make three teams of about 15 per roster.

"The interest in basketball has gotten a lot better, and we're happy about that. Four or five years ago, there were not enough players to have a sophomore team."

Junior High Tennis Champions

Greg Copen, left, and Jake Head, right, both of Hereford, won the seventh grade boys' doubles championship last Saturday in the Lubbock Junior High Invitational Tournament. The match win was 6-3, 6-4, over a Matthews Junior High team. In singles competition, Copen beat Head in the finals, 6-7, 7-5, 6-4. This Saturday at 10 a.m., a team of tennis players from the Hereford junior high schools will play Levelland at the Hereford High School tennis courts.

Let's talk.

Information about your changing telephone service from Gary Stevens, Area Manager-Community Relations

Economic development. It's a big buzzword in Texas these days.

Partnership. It's a big deal with business today. Partners in economic development. That's how I would describe Southwestern Bell Telephone's relationship with the people of Texas. The two go hand-in-hand.

Our partnership on the community front is proof enough. On countless occasions, I have witnessed Southwestern Bell Telephone employees working with members of their communities to support civic projects ranging from seat-belt awareness or crime watch campaigns to a city's downtown beautification drive.

Today, as concerned partners, Southwestern Bell Telephone employees are rolling up their sleeves again — this time to help remedy the state's current economic crisis.

For instance, many employees are volunteering their time on the grassroots level as leaders and members of civic organizations. In this way, they are helping to shape their communities' economic future — both on and off the job.

But that's not all. Southwestern Bell Telephone also supports economic development efforts in many other ways:

- Southwestern Bell Telephone underwrote a major State Chamber of Commerce survey which questioned some 1,000 business executives to determine their concerns and opinions regarding the future of Texas.
- Among the issues covered by the survey were economic problems, taxation, business-related legislation and factors associated with attracting new businesses to Texas. Findings were distributed to the governor, legislators and other decision makers.
- The company has partially funded the Cities Analysis and Planning program operated by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service (part of the Texas A&M system) in several small Texas towns. By surveying community leaders and citizens, Extension Service planners identify a town's economic strengths and weaknesses, and then offer suggestions to improve civic services.
- As a strong supporter of the Texas educational system, Southwestern Bell Telephone knows that the state's future rests with an informed and educated labor pool. For that reason, the company is involved in "Communities in Schools," a program aimed at harnessing the serious dropout epidemic.
- Jim Adams, president of Southwestern Bell Telephone's Texas Division, co-chairs the governor's Business Development and Jobs Creation Task Force, comprised of 72 Texas business leaders. This task force proposed more than 30 recommendations aimed at stimulating job growth in the state.
- The 70th Texas Legislature passed several bills related to these recommendations. Perhaps the biggest victory was the establishment of the Department of Commerce which creates a single, statewide focus on economic development.
- As your involved and concerned partner, Southwestern Bell Telephone has a stake in Texas' future and is committed to finding lasting solutions to the state's current problems. One of the most basic — yet important — ways we can help is by providing efficient and reliable telecommunications service, thus setting the stage for economic development in hundreds of Texas communities.

Instruction On Offensive Plays

Hereford Lady Whiteface head Coach Frank Belcher, second from the left, gives some pointer about an offensive play at a high school girls' basketball practice session Wednesday afternoon. The Lady Whitefaces open their season on Nov. 16 at Tascosa. Their home opener is on Dec. 8 against Levelland. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

Girls' basketball practice is under way

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

A new era in girls' basketball is underway at Hereford High School, with a new coach, Frank Belcher, plus some teaching and training in strategies and techniques that are new to the athletes.

The Lady Whitefaces open the 1987 season at Tascosa on Monday, Nov. 16, and will play in three tournaments and have two more road dates before playing its first home game on Tuesday, Dec. 8.

The first home date will mark the beginning of the District 1-4A season. "So far I'm pleased with the girls' progress with learning everything that's new, especially the man-to-man defense. I'm pleased with their attitude. Their work habits have been real good," Coach Belcher said. Belcher said that "overall quickness" is a team strength, and adds, "We're going to be able to play a lot of girls and maybe press and run a lot. We're not tall out front, so we'll have to press. We're not blessed with a lot of overall height."

The tallest among the Lady Whitefaces' returning starters and returning letter winners is 6-1 junior Carmen Brockman. Others who started games last season are 5-4 senior Amy Coneway, 5-2 senior Tricia Kahlich, and 5-6 junior Brandi Binder.

Other returning letter winners who are out for basketball or are expected after the fall sports seasons end, are: 5-8 senior Kathy Banner, 5-9 senior Jeanette Mumau, 5-6 senior Kamille Martin, 5-4 senior Whitney Whitaker, and 5-8 junior Susan Gage.

Belcher said he has 23 girls out for basketball, not counting those who are still competing in fall sports. He figures 10 to 15 volleyball players will try out for basketball.

The new HHS girls' coach is coming off a successful four years at Groom High School, where he had a 68-32 overall record and directed Groom into the playoff all four years, with two bi-district titles.

Belcher's overall coaching experience, in basketball, football and track, is 11 years.

A new challenge facing high school basketball coaches in Texas this year is utilizing and defending against the three-point goal.

"If we can develop some kids who can hit it consistently, we'll use it. But we're not going to do anything special to make it a factor," Belcher states.

"We'll use it if we have some girls who can hit it. The biggest thing is that everybody will not be able to use the zone defense. You could set yourself with a zone against a good team, and you could be down 9-0 before you get started in a game," Belcher adds.

The tournaments on the HHS girls' basketball schedule are the Big Spring tournament on Nov. 20-21, the Amarillo tournament on Nov. 27-28, and the Clayton, N.M., tournament on Dec. 3-5.

In addition to the road game against Tascosa on Nov. 16, other road games before the District 1-4A season begins will be at Dimmitt on Nov. 24 and at Clovis, N.M., on Dec. 1.

The district schedule for Hereford begins with two straight home games, three straight road game, and then four straight home games.

Since New Year's Day is on a Friday, the district games for that week will be played on Saturday, Jan. 2. Pampa plays at Hereford that day.

Microwaving Halloween treats easy

BROWNIES and other goodies full of nutritious pecans and peanuts will make your children's Halloween party a big success.

(AUSTIN)—Boo. It's time for the Great Pumpkin to drop by, for things to go bump in the night, for ghosts to slip through the living room window.

Don't laugh. The ancient Celts took Oct. 31 seriously. To them it was the eve of Samhain, start of both a new year and one of their two main seasons. And because it welcomed the darkest, most barren time of year, it became a festival of fire rites, divinations, demons and masquerades.

By the Middle Ages, Christianity had turned the observance into All Hallows Eve, the night preceding All Saints' Day, a church holy day. Customs became frivolous but not entirely without meaning. Halloween was still considered a favorable time to forecast marriage, health and fortune.

Bobbing for apples, for example, meant a year of good luck for the person who could remove an apple from the tub without using his or her teeth.

Today the rituals of Halloween persist mainly in the form of costumes and trick-or-treating. It's a great time for a party, especially one for children. In-between bobbing for apples and telling ghost tales, they can enjoy a variety of treats without the house-to-house trek usually required to gather Halloween goodies.

Microwaving party sweets can be a real time and energy saver. "They're quick and easy to fix in a microwave," said Texas Department of Agriculture (TDA) home economist Carol Ware, "and there's very little mess to clean up afterwards."

Candy-making is greatly simplified because it does not require constant stirring. As a rule, stirring once or twice is all that will be necessary. Microwave candy in a heat-resistant glass bowl large enough for the mixture to expand when boiling.

Bar-shaped cookies also do well in a microwave. Cook doughs and batters uncovered to allow steam and moisture to escape. Test for doneness by inserting a toothpick in the center of the dough.

Ware suggests incorporating peanuts and pecans into recipes for their nutritional value. Peanuts paired with a glass of milk contain protein equal to that of meat. They are also a good source of niacin, thiamine, phosphorus and fiber. Pecans contain protein, phosphorus, potassium, thiamine, riboflavin and niacin.

Titanic show unveils little treasure

PARIS (AP) — A diamond-tipped pendant inscribed "May This Be Your Lucky Star" was among the jewelry and money raised from the unlucky Titanic after the oceanliner rested undisturbed on the ocean floor for 75 years.

The items were unveiled early today in Paris during a two-hour telecast that was broadcast in 20 countries. Because of the time difference, viewers in the United States saw the program Wednesday night.

The jewelry and cash were found inside a purser's safe and leather satchel raised from the Titanic wreck 350 miles southeast of Newfoundland.

The sponsors of last summer's salvage expedition said they hope the television show will help draw crowds to a Titanic exhibit that will tour the world next year.

The television program, "Return to the Titanic ... Live," also presented evidence that a fire in the oceanliner's coal bunker played a role in sinking the ship.

After the satchel and safe were opened, two experts from the jewelry firm of Van Cleef and Arpels examined the objects, including a gold pendant with a small diamond and the inscription, "May This Be Your Lucky Star," and a delicate bracelet with the name "Amy" spelled out in tiny diamonds.

George Tulloch, one of the investors in the project, said the artifacts had been insured for $10 million. He added, however, that none of them would be sold.

The total cost of the project — including the voyage, production of the television show and a traveling exhibition — was expected to reach $10 million.

The investors hoped to recoup about $5.5 million from television and home video rights. They were expected to make up the remainder, plus a handsome profit, from entrance fees to the exhibit.

Investor Carlos Piaget compared plans for the Titanic tour to the exhibit of Egyptian artifacts from the tomb of Tutankhamen that went on tour in the early 1980s, generating $58 million in 24 months.

The Titanic struck an iceberg and sank April 15, 1912 on its maiden voyage from Southampton, England, to New York.

More than 1,500 crew and passengers died in the icy waters of the north Atlantic. Surviving relatives of many of the victims have argued that the wreck should have been left alone as a memorial.

The wreck was found in September 1985 in a joint U.S.-French expedition.

The leather satchel from the Titanic yielded the pendant and diamond bracelet, a ring, a watch, wads of American currency, a jewelry box with fluted feet and a stickpin case engraved with the initials "R.L.B."

It apparently belonged to Richard L. Beckwith, a first-class passenger who escaped the sinking ship on a life boat with his wife. A razor-blade box bearing Beckwith's initials also was found. In the studio where the television program was filmed, uniformed guards with shotguns and automatic weapons stood watch over the objects while the black-tie audience of French and American scientists and investors watched the show.

Various factors cause failures

NEW YORK (AP) — Poor management in which store employees are often lazy and indifferent and rude to customers is one of the reasons why retail stores fail, according to a retailing consultant.

"Sales declines over a brief period are a fact of life in almost every store, but a pattern of declines over a period of months signals an erosion of business," says Marvin A. Blumenfeld, president of April-

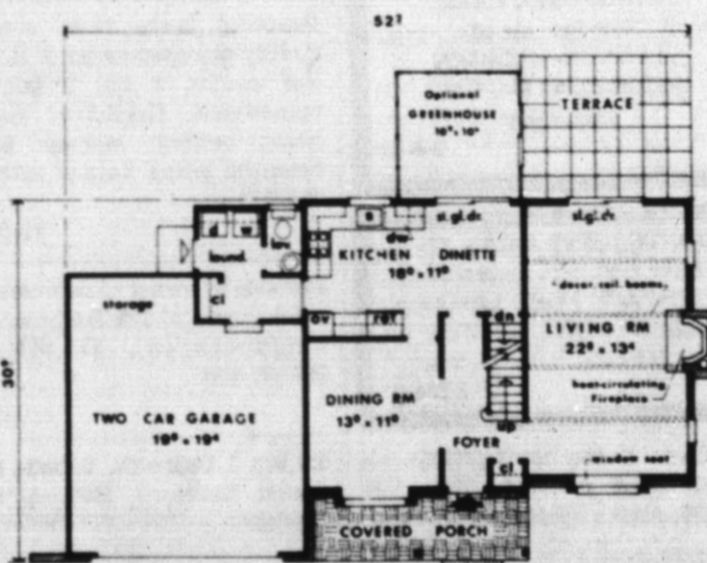

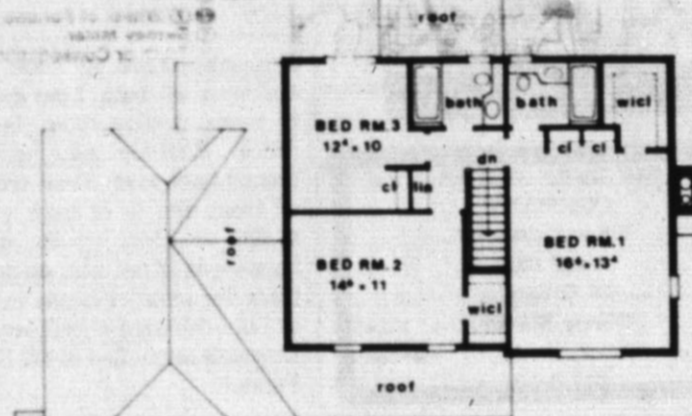

Marcus Inc., a firm which represents more than 250 mens' wear stores around the nation.

"The decline may be due to poor buying, sloppy merchandising or a change in the local market."

Other factors Blumenfeld says may account for store failures include creeping overhead which results in a steady rise of operating expenses and inability to pay bills on time.

IF IT OFFENDS YOU I WON'T DO IT!

Next is your question about eating food that has been sacrificed to idols. On this question everyone feels that only his answer is the right one! But although being a "know-it-all" makes us feel important, what is really needed to build the church is love.

If anyone thinks he knows all the answers, he is just showing his ignorance.

But the person who truly loves God is the one who is open to God's knowledge.

So now, what about it? Should we eat meat that has been sacrificed to idols? Well, we all know that an idol is not really a god, and that there is only one God and no other.

According to some people, there are a great many gods, both in heaven and on earth.

But we know that there is only one God, the Father, who created all things and made us to be His own; and one Lord Jesus Christ, who made everything and gives us life.

However, some Christians don't realize this. All their lives they have been used to thinking of idols as alive, and have believed that food offered to the idols is really being offered to actual gods. So when they eat such food it bothers them and hurts their tender consciences.

Just remember that God doesn't care whether we eat it or not. We are no worse off if we don't eat it, and no better off if we do.

But be careful not to use your freedom to eat it, lest you cause some Christian brother to sin whose conscience is weaker than yours.

You see, this is what may happen: Someone who thinks it is wrong to eat this food will see you eating at a temple restaurant, for you know there is no harm in it. Then he will become bold enough to do it too, although all the time he still feels it is wrong.

So because you "know it is all right to do it," you will be responsible for causing great spiritual damage to a brother with a tender conscience for whom Christ died.

And it is a sin against Christ to sin against your brother by encouraging him to do something he thinks is wrong.

So if eating meat offered to idols is going to make my brother sin, I'll not eat any of it as long as I live, because I don't want to do this to him.

I Corinthians 8:1-13
