WDIC optimistic about re-funding from state NWPO

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

Waste Deposit Impact Committee members are optimistic that they will receive reapproval of at least a $470,000 contract from the State Governor's Office before their current contract ends Nov. 13.

At a regular WDIC board meeting Thursday night, executive director Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner, chairman Troy Don Moore, and members Frank Zinser, Dennis Brown and John Fuston recapped their Wednesday meeting with members of the governor's staff in an effort to secure renewal of their contract.

The contract, and accompanying monies, was cancelled earlier this month and will expire in two weeks. The cancellation came from a "logistics move" that changed the state Nuclear Waste Programs Office from the Division of Emergency Management in the Department of Public Safety to the governor's office. All contracts from the NWPO were cancelled so they could be reviewed and, possibly, renewed or cancelled by the new staff.

In the Wednesday meeting, WDIC members recounted WDIC's history, reviewed the WDIC work plan for 1988, and discussed the future of the NWPO.

"The governor's staff was simply several hard-nosed, simple guys that wanted everything explained in simple terms," Zinser said.

WDIC also approved formal comment on the Department of Energy's Draft Land Acquisition Plan currently being reviewed.

The comments were derived from several meetings of the Site Characterization Issues Council and work done by Dianne Pierson, WDIC assistant director for socioeconomic assessment.

Among issues included in the WDIC comments are:
—Any purchases or leases should begin with a baseline value substantially greater than market value;

—Property owners and lessors should be made whole for lost or foregone income, buildings, and disruption of farming operation;

—Any monetary allocations should be greater than the monetary amounts of the Uniform Relocation Assistance and Real Property Acquisition Policies Act;

—DOE should wait until reports and studies are issued by several agencies, including the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, before acquiring land;

—12 month notice should be given before termination of the lease, and land should be reclaimed during the term of the lease, with reclamation work to be completed before the end of the lease term.

The comments will be given to DOE for consideration with other comments on the Draft LAP.

Band readies for regional

They are polishing the brass and tuning the tubas at the high school band hall today as Hereford High's Mighty Maroon Marching Band prepares to compete in the Region A contest this weekend.

A bus load of parents will follow the band bus to Wichita Falls on Saturday to root for the 175 member band as they perform in Memorial Stadium at Midwestern University.

The HHS band will compete against 4A bands from Snyder, Canyon, Crowley and Graham and will present the same program of big band tunes with which they recently swept the University Interscholastic League Marching Contest in Amarillo.

The band will open with Sing, Sing, Singthen swing into Tuxedo Junction, followed by a medley of Pennsylvania 6-5000, Opus 1 and Jumpin' at the Woodside. They will close with Stormy Weather.

This is the second trip to regional contest for the band, according to director James Macleskey. The HHS band will march at 4 p.m. Saturday. The ratings which will name the 4A representative band to the state marching contest will be announced at 5 p.m. Saturday.

Stabbing victim is hospitalized

A fight between two employees of Hereford Bi-Products ended in a stabbing Thursday.

Santiago Franco, who was also known as Adam Polanco to his co-workers, is listed in critical condition at Deaf Smith General Hospital.

Juan Gutierrez is in Deaf Smith County Jail where has been charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

Witnesses say that the men had been arguing for a couple of months but no one knew what precipitated Thursday's fight. Two co-workers stated that the man they know as Polanco had left the work area briefly to get some boxes from a storeroom.

They say the man was gone a few minutes and then returned holding his hand over the left side of his chest and bleeding.

Another witness said he could see blood running down the left side of Polanco's shirt and then saw Gutierrez running after him with a knife in his right hand.

Two of the witnesses mentioned the presence of a piece of steel pipe which they believe Polanco used to threaten Gutierrez.

While co-workers assisted Polanco, Gutierrez fled from the scene. He was later discovered hiding in some tall weeds behind the company-owned house he lives in on the same property as the plant.

Gutierrez offered no resistance to the officers and led them to a freezer storage area at the plant where he had stored the knife.

When ambulance personnel arrived at the scene, a hospital spokesperson said that 25-year-old Franco (See STABBING, Page 2)

Change passes budget bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — To the boos and jeers of Republicans, House Speaker Jim Wright held open the vote on his big deficit-reduction bill long after the clock ran to zero. He was losing, 205-206, and looking for help.

Rep. Jim Chapman, a Democratic colleague from Texas, was back in his office across the street, watching the scene on television. He'd already voted against the bill.

Just as Wright had given up, and was starting to announce the final, losing tally, Chapman marched down the aisle and changed his vote to "yea."

"I just did not want to be the member of Congress to derail deficit reduction, and I think that's what would have happened if (the budget bill) would fail," he said in a telephone interview later Thursday evening.

"I have a lot of problems with a lot of provisions of this bill, from the standpoint of the parochial interests of the first district of Texas," he said. "I think the national interest of deficit reduction was more important."

At the beginning of the tally, Chapman said, Wright asked him for his vote. But it wasn't arm-twisting, or anything like that, said the 42-year-old, East Texas lawmaker who is in his first full term in the House.

"The speaker made a casual comment to me early in the vote... 'Be with me Jim, if you can, or something like that,'" Chapman said.

Chapman said he didn't like the appearance given by having changed his vote, but the comments he received from fellow Democrats were supportive. "One or two made some comments that it was a courageous thing."

Rep. Richard K. Arney, R-Texas, told reporters that Chapman "virtually guaranteed his defeat in the next election" with his vote.

"There are an awful lot of people who fell on their sword for Mr. Wright tonight," he said.

But Texas Democratic colleague Marvin Frost interjected that he thought Chapman to be "a very able, able member of our delegation." Frost said he, too, had urged Chapman to support the bill. "This was a very important vote," he said.

Wright said he told Chapman he "thought he should vote for it."

Senate looks at Ginsburg

WASHINGTON (AP) — Groups that helped defeat Robert H. Bork say they're uneasy with new Supreme Court nominee Douglas H. Ginsburg, and they're weighing another confirmation fight to deny President Reagan his choice.

As he did July 1 when he nominated Bork, Reagan on Thursday selected a candidate over others who likely would have faced an easier confirmation battle.

Reagan's selection resolved a dramatic, internal struggle between Ginsburg's supporters and those who fought for U.S. Circuit Judge Anthony M. Kennedy of Sacramento, Calif. When the smoke cleared, Attorney General Edwin Meese III had won. Chief of staff Howard H. Baker Jr. lost.

The bearded Ginsburg, described by friends as low-key, witty and maybe even shy, is a judicial conservative who sits with Bork on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

At 41, Ginsburg would be one of the youngest justices to sit on the high court. He would be the first Jewish member of the court in 18 years.

He is a former Harvard Law School professor and Justice Department antitrust chief, but has served as a judge for only a year.

The Democratic senators and liberal organizations that opposed Bork said they're embarking on an exhaustive review of Ginsburg's record.

Art Kropp of the liberal People for the American Way said "there is enough there to make us feel uncomfortable."

"I have no doubt if we feel strongly enough that the nomination should be opposed, we will be able to oppose it. If the issues are the same, absolutely, we would win," Kropp said.

While many senators expressed private concerns, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., publicly listed the reasons for a potential firestorm against Ginsburg.

Kennedy said he's suspicious because Meese, an ideological conservative, apparently persuaded Reagan to choose Ginsburg. He also cited Ginsburg's relative lack of judicial experience, and asked, rhetorically, if Ginsburg is "an ideological clone of Judge Bork — a Judge Bork without a paper trail."

Senate Judiciary Chairman Joseph R. Biden, D-Del., whose panel will conduct confirmation hearings for Ginsburg, had warned the White House that Ginsburg would be controversial.

It became clear Thursday that Reagan's announcement of his choice followed intense, last-minute conservative lobbying for Ginsburg.

The pro-Ginsburg campaign by Meese's Justice Department and conservative Republican senators reportedly plucked the nomination from the grasp of Kennedy, who encountered little opposition from either party when Baker reviewed a list of candidates earlier this week with senators. Baker reportedly favored Kennedy.

The Hereford Whitefaces are involved in another pivotal game in District 1-4A tonight when they host the Lubbock Estacado Matadors. Estacado is undefeated in district action, while Hereford will have a lot of pride on the line. The Herd has recorded 16 straight victories on the home turf, and it will be last home appearance for seniors on the squad. It should be a great game!

The HHS sophomore class will sponsor a chili supper prior to the game, and it will be at the high school cafeteria. The supper offers a chance to free Mom from the kitchen and to see other friends before the game!

The first big event to launch the holiday season comes Sunday afternoon when the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage conducts its annual "Glitz." Festivities are scheduled from 5 to 8 p.m. and include exhibitions of artists and a dinner. Tickets to the event are $12.50 each.

Tuesday's General Election in Texas contains a record number of proposed amendments to the Texas Constitution. A total of 25 amendments will be on the ballot. And for the first time in Texas history, two statewide referenda will be presented to voters.

35,000 honor rescue workers in Midland

MIDLAND, Texas (AP) — The Tall City is standing a little taller today after more than 35,000 people jammed streets in a jubilant celebration honoring Jessica McClure's rescuers.

The 19-month-old sat on her mother's shoulders Thursday in her hospital room and watched about 800 paraders take to streets lined with spectators, many of them dressed in toddler-honoring pink.

That pink motif was everywhere: pink ribbons and bows were tied to trees and light poles; the Hispanic Chamber of Commerce served pieces of a 96-square-foot pink angel-food cake; and hundreds of people carried pink balloons or wore pink ribbons in their hair or around their arms.

"We put this (fete) together in nine days," Chamber of Commerce Chairman Charles Spence said. "A lot of us have had a lot of pride in our people and just a sigh of relief that everything has turned out as well as it has."

Two weeks ago, Jessica was pulled out of an abandoned well, 58 hours after she fell in. About 400 people volunteered time and equipment to help drill a rescue shaft, control crowds and dispense refreshments.

Jessica's parents, Chip and Cissy McClure, had asked the city and chamber to organize the parade to honor the rescuers, and after the parade ended at Centennial Plaza downtown, Chip McClure expressed his thanks to the 2,000 people gathered there.

"Nobody can imagine the intensity of the people who worked out there," said McClure, 18. "For those who were there and those who weren't, we want to thank you from the bottom of our hearts. I want you to remember one thing: Jessica loves all of you."

Emotions ran deep among the spectators, who cheered loudly when a huge, green drilling machine rumbled by — the machine that dug the first few feet of the rescue shaft. The crowd thundered even louder when they saw the flatbed trailer on which the volunteer drillers stood.

"This is a celebration of life," said Robert O'Donnell, the fire department paramedic who freed Jessica from the shaft. "None of us could have done it alone. It took every one of us."

The festivities were to continue this morning, when television talk show hostess Oprah Winfrey broadcasts live from Jessica's room at Midland Memorial Hospital.

Also in Thursday's parade was a flat-bed trailer piled high with stuffed toys and a sign that read, "We're tickled pink."

The toys, sent to Jessica from all over the country, were handed out to rescuers to give to their children. Jessica's parents have said they had to give away the toys because she received more than she could ever play with.

Even telephone operators got into the act, riding in the back of a pickup truck that carried a sign saying, "Directory assistance operators kept the world in touch with Jessica."

Court offices and some downtown businesses in this West Texas town nicknamed the "Tall City" closed an hour early so their employees could view the parade that started at 4 p.m.

"Everybody's here," said Midland resident Ubelia Tucker, who staked out a prime viewing spot two hours before the start of the parade. "As we were getting in our car to leave, our neighbors were leaving and we knew where they were going."

Thursday morning, Jessica appeared at a news conference clad in an orange Halloween jumper. The little girl smiled and gurgled for the cameras and her mother, who told her, "Trick or treat."

Doctors said the child is scheduled today for what they hope will be the final "cleaning" surgery to scrape dead tissue from the foot, which was wedged alongside her head while she was trapped in the well.

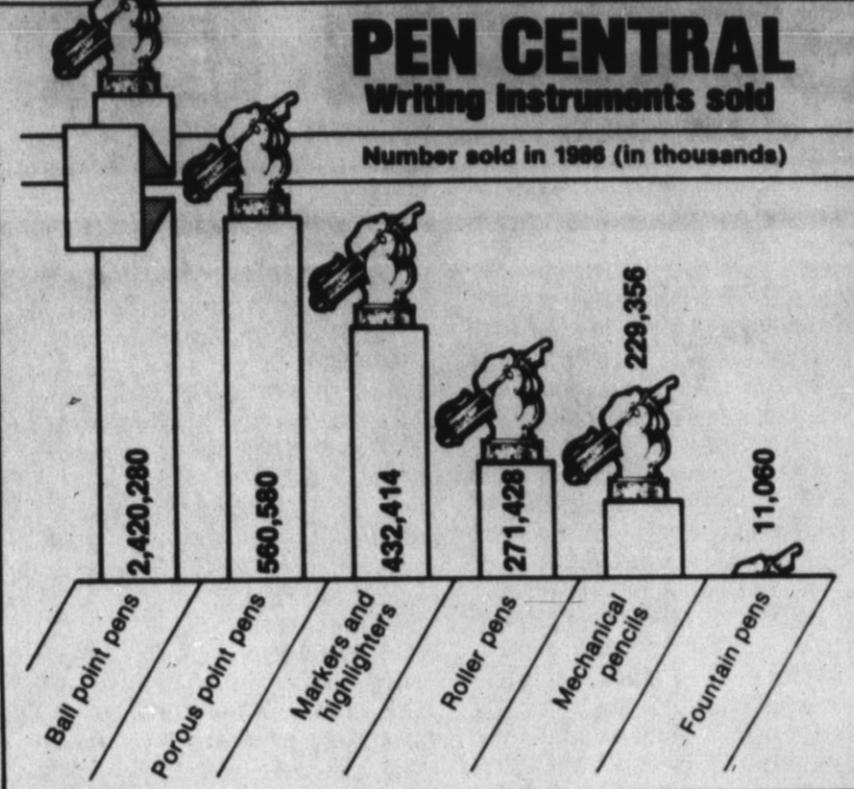

Orthopedist Charles Younger said it is certain Jessica will lose part of her heel, her small toe and a portion of her big toe.

"She has no feeling at all in the foot from about the ankle down," he said, adding that only time will tell whether the foot will grow normally after the vise-like crush that held it for nearly three days. "She'll have a foot, but how good a foot, we just don't know."

Earlier this week, Gov. Bill Clements declared Thursday "Jessica McClure Day" statewide, saying those who saved the child showed Texans' sense of caring, compassion and concern.

Meanwhile, Southwestern Bell officials said thousands of callers had phoned in for tickets to today's Oprah Winfrey Show. Show officials had set up a television hookup between the studio downtown and Jessica's hospital room.

The show will feature Jessica's parents and "Cosby" television star Keshia Knight Pulliam, who was among the first of thousands of well-wishers worldwide to send gifts to the toddler.

In Texas town

Devilish rumors frighten residents

LEVELLAND, Texas (AP) — Police are reassuring townspeople worried about reports of devil worshippers that Halloween will be no more dangerous than any other night.

For weeks, rumors have circulated about a group of devil worshippers who held satanic rituals that included the sacrificing of animals.

Authorities even found an abandoned farmhouse where the satanists purportedly met. But there was nary a drop of blood at the scene — only red paint and empty beer cans, said police investigator Tom McCain.

He said the walls were splattered with hand prints, upside-down crosses, pentagrams and 666, a biblical symbol for the Antichrist. McCain said phrases such as "Satan will forever be your savior" also adorned the walls.

But no dead animals or blood were found at the house, he said.

"The house had been shot up with guns and there were beer cans everywhere, but that's about the extent of it," McCain said.

He said the fire department later burned down the house at the request of the owner, who was concerned about liability problems.

McCain said that if the group is meeting somewhere else now, police have not heard where. He said the group has done nothing illegal that would warrant arrest.

"We are trying to stay abreast in this whole situation. We can't ignore it because if something were to happen, we would be blamed for not taking precautions or looking into it," he said Thursday.

A Levelland High School teacher said the rumors apparently began in September when a transfer student brought a book to school and told other students that it was a satanic bible.

She said the boy, who liked heavy metal music, had several friends who were also "punk rockers." The group then began telling their classmates that they were devil worshippers.

"They even convinced the kids that they were going to sacrifice a cheerleader or twirler on Halloween," she said.

She said rumors have grown to include stories about devil worshippers from Dallas, Houston, Albuquerque, N.M., and California coming to Levelland for a big "convention."

Hockley County Sheriff Leroy Schulle said the situation has been "blown completely out of proportion."

The sheriff's office has checked into some of the rumors and talked with the youths supposedly involved, but have found nothing to substantiate the stories, Schulle said.

To try to put the people at ease somewhat on Halloween, Schulle said there will be two officers at each of the school carnivals and extra police on patrol throughout town.

Muleshoe hospital reopens

MULESHOE, Texas (AP) — About 200 residents in this small Panhandle community gave up a weekend afternoon to doctor their abandoned hospital into a working facility once again.

Volunteers worked on the roof, windows, emergency generators and other parts of West Plains Medical Center, which will allow Muleshoe residents to get treatment without having to travel 25 miles to Amherst, hospital administrator Jim Swanner said Thursday.

"All of last Saturday we had around 200 people inside, outside, all around the place," Swanner said.

And three days after reopening its doors, the town's rural 31-bed hospital is already treating seven patients, he said.

Currently, 15 volunteer nurses are helping to run the hospital, but Swanner says they will be replaced with paid employees later.

"This is just a period of getting started, and we're starting to hire nurses to take care of nursing services," said Bruce Purdy, a

Muleshoe doctor and member of the hospital's board of trustees. "It's running as smoothly as it can with volunteer help."

The hospital closed its doors last November because the California-based West World Community Health Care leasing the facility said it wasn't profitable to operate in Muleshoe, Swanner said.

But profits didn't concern Muleshoe residents, who wanted a convenient place to go for medical care.

Purdy said it was important to get the work done by Nov. 13 because a state law says if a hospital is closed more than a year, it must adapt to new standards. A failure to complete work by that deadline would have meant costly alterations to the building.

Rural hospitals such as the West Plains Medical Center have suffered financially from tighter Medicare and Medicaid requirements and a lack of doctors.

In January, the Texas Hospital Association found that 27 community hospitals in the state, mostly small and rural facilities, had closed in the previous two years.

The hospital is community owned and has no tax base, Swanner said. Operations will be paid for by the revenues it generates.

"It's difficult for small rural hospitals," Swanner said. "We feel like community support is going to help keep us in operation."

Elected Board advocates confident of victory

AUSTIN (AP) — Proponents of an elected State Board of Education predict a ballot-box victory despite the big-money campaign of H. Ross Perot, who favors continuation of the appointed board now in place.

"We feel that the voice of the voters should be heard on the state level as well as on the local (school board) level," said Janis Petronis, a Copperas Cove school board member and president of the Texas Association of School Boards.

TASB was among several education groups that gathered for a Thursday news conference in support of voting "no" Tuesday on the State Board of Education question.

Texas decide Nov. 3 whether to maintain the appointed State Board of Education in place since the HB72 school reforms of 1984 or return to an elected board.

A "yes" vote on Referendum 1 is a vote for keeping the appointed board that is selected by the governor, working from nominees forwarded by legislative leaders.

"We do expect to win. We have a million people. We don't have a million dollars," said Sandy Kibby, legislative action chairman of the Texas PTA.

Perot, the Dallas billionaire who shepherded the HB72 reforms through the Legislature, is mounting a well-financed campaign, complete with television ads, in favor of keeping the appointed board. He has said a return to the elected board would BULL members trespassed into the Nevada Test Site inside the newly-created Bullfrog County.

The new county was created by legislative fiat earlier this year, according to the article, as a way of milking more money from the federal government for the proposed nuclear waste repository program. Yucca Mountain is one of the prime candidates for the repository, and the 144 square miles of the new county completely enclose the possible repository site.

The protestors believe they can reach the federal court system with their trespassing cases from Bullfrog County because there is no law enforcement or judicial system in the zero-population county.

But the Department of Energy, which operates the 3-million-acre test site, did not cooperate with the protestors' wishes to be arrested. A DOE spokesman said officials were aware the protestors were on the test site, but said she could not comment on why the test site's security guards did not arrest the demonstrators.

undo much of the good done by the school reforms.

But "we have faith that the voters of Texas are capable of electing responsible representatives to the State Board of Education who will continue to strive for a quality educational system," Ms. Kibby said.

Also represented at the news conference were the Texas State Teachers Association, Texas Association of School Administrators, Texas High School Coaches Association and several other education groups.

Ms. Kibby said the appointed board now in place has done a good job, "but now the time has come to put the responsibility back in the hands of the voters."

"We want a State Board of Education that is accountable to the voters and not just to a small group of individuals who are responsible for their appointments," she said.

Jim Butler of TSTA acknowledged that the state's education system suffered under the old elected board.

"I think the problem was that a lot of people in the education community probably did not pay enough attention to the races. We're not going to let that happen again."

Iranian missile strikes Baghdad

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — The military said an Iranian missile slammed into a residential area of the city early today, killing an unspecified number of civilians. Iran said the missile was aimed at Iraq's air force command.

An Iraqi military spokesman said "a number of citizens were martyred and another number wounded" when the missile hit Baghdad.

The spokesman, who was not identified, also said the missile demolished a number of civilian residences and damaged others. The statement was carried by state-run Baghdad radio, monitored in Cyprus.

"Iraq will not let these crimes pass without a severe punishment at the appropriate time," said the spokesman. He did not elaborate.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency, also monitored in Cyprus, reported the surface-to-surface missile was fired at 1:07 a.m. at a building housing the air force command in central Baghdad.

The report did not say where the missile was fired from, but the nearest Iranian border is 78 miles east of Baghdad.

The one-paragraph IRNA report gave no other details.

The missile attack is the fifth by Iran against Baghdad since Oct. 4, heightening fears that a new round has begun in the so-called "war of the cities" between Iran and Iraq.

The attack came after Iran vowed retaliation for the death of 18 civilians in Iraqi air raids Wednesday on the southwestern Fars province.

The missile strike also came hours before Iran and Iraq were scheduled to give U.N. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar their response to a U.N. peace plan aimed at ending the 7-year-old Persian Gulf war.

But U.N. officials, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said if the nations' envoys do respond later today, their comments will not be revealed. The secretary-general is in Spain, and he is not expected to make an official statement about the response to the peace plan until next week, they said.

U.N. Security Council Resolution 598 calls for a cease-fire, withdrawal from occupied territory and an inquiry into who started the war. Iran says Iraq began the war by invading Iran in September 1980. Iraq says the conflict started weeks earlier when Iranian artillery shelled border towns.

Also today, a U.S. warship and refueled Kuwaiti tanker steamed south through the Persian Gulf.

Halloween Safety Tips

Most adults recall when Halloween was the official "kids' night out" of the year, when children roamed free, garbed in hand-stitched costumes after dark. Adults were fair game for pranks, and the homemade cookies, fruit and other treats they parceled out were almost always safe. The biggest hazard most kids encountered was a bellyache on the morning after.

In recent years though, a growing number of accidents and crimes involving children have signaled parents to be more cautious in how their children enjoy Halloween.

According to the Texas Department of Health (TDH), parents can help this year's trick-or-treaters have a safe and fun Halloween by taking some simple precautions.

Dan Sowards, chief of TDH's Product Safety program said, "For practical purposes, home or school supervised parties are safer for children. Activities can be planned for safety, and should there be an accident, help is available," Sowards said.

He said however, that if children go trick-or-treating, parents should take the following steps to reduce the number of hazards:

-First, children should not eat any treats before bringing them home for examination by an adult. In many cities, hospitals offer free X-raying of candy and other treats.

-Costumes should be made of brightly colored, fire-resistant material. If a costume is dark, however, it should have some fluorescent or reflective tape on it. Make-up, instead of masks, is recommended for clear vision. Hats should be securely attached, and shoes should fit well to prevent stumbles.

-An adult or older child should always go with small children and should carry a flashlight to show the way and to make the children more visible to motorists.

-The children should not enter the home of anyone they do not know, and they should stop only at homes with outside lighting.

-Children should stay out of the street, and never run between parked cars. They should not run through yards, or even on sidewalks. Hard-to-see objects often are lying in the grass, and slick surfaces may not be visible in the dark.

Sowards added that homeowners who expect trick-or-treaters should turn on a porchlight, or other outside light, and be sure the lawn is cleared of any objects a trick-or-treater could trip over. They should keep jack-o-lanterns and candles away from doorsteps to prevent igniting a costume.

Anyone wishing further information about Halloween safety can call the TDH Product Safety Program at (512)458-7519, or the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission's toll-free hotline at 1-800-638-CPSC.

Halloween observed by Lodge

Halloween was observed with a costume party during the regular meeting of Hereford Rebekah Lodge No. 228 Tuesday evening.

Reports were made on the sick with 29 visits and 22 cheer cards for the week. A sing along was held for members present.

Finger foods were served to Anna Conklin, Lydia Hopson, Verna Sowell, Thama Pearson, Leona Sowell, Erma Loving, Jo Irlbeck, Sadie Shaw, Shirley Brown, Irene Merritt, Faye Brownlow, Ursalee Jacobson, Dorothy Laundry, Peggy Lemons, Susie Curtsinger, Marie Harris, Jim Loving, and Ben Conklin.

Christmas Bazaar set

The Hereford Community Center will be the location of the Country Christmas Bazaar Nov. 14 from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

A few booths are still available for the annual event which is sponsored by the Westway Extension Homemakers Club. For booth information, call Carolyn Evers at 364-4739 or Gayle Carter at 276-5516. Proceeds from the event will benefit 4-H projects.

Halloween celebrated by Club

Mildred Lewis was hostess to the recent Cultural Extension Homemakers Club meeting and Halloween party held at the Community Center.

Members dressed in costume, with Byrdie Fellers winning first place for her costume. Games were played and prizes awarded. Jewell Hargrave presented a reading about Halloween.

Following the festivities, President Edith Hunter called the meeting to order with Virginia Sumner serving as secretary in the absence of Bertha Dettman.

Carrie Mae Doak gave the treasurer's report. It was decided that the club would have a Thanksgiving Supper for members and their families on Nov. 10 in the Flame Room. A nominating committee was selected and the next meeting will be hosted by Virginia Sumner Nov. 13. Others in attendance were S.T. Walton and Neil Pope.

Ann Landers — Women cry more

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I read the letter in your column from "Cry Baby in Birmingham," who described herself as "a crier" (she said she cried last week at the opening of a K mart), I knew I had to send on this article by Andy Siering. It appeared last year in the Alumni News of Washington University in St. Louis.

There is so much interesting (and new) information in this article that I hope you will share it with your readers.—Cecilia G., White Bear Lake, Minn.

DEAR CECILIA: I know of William Frey II's work and am pleased to print excerpts from the piece. Thank you for sending it on.

"William Frey II is the director of the Psychiatry Research Laboratories at the St. Paul-Ramsey Medical Center. He is probably the world's foremost authority on tears and has written extensively on the subject. When his mother asked him some questions about tears (he was studying for his doctorate at Case Western Reserve University at the time) he went to the library in search of answers. He was astonished at how little information could be found on the subject and decided to do some research on it himself.

"Among his findings are the following facts:

"Emotional tears are chemically different from irritant tears, containing 20 percent higher concentrations of protein in the form of three chemicals known to be related to stress. Sorrow is the most common cause of emotional tears, followed by joy, anger, sympathy, anxiety and fear.

"Women, on average, cry five times as often as men. The difference, says Frey, is only partly attributable to social conditioning. Research has shown that the hormone prolactin, which stimulates lactation, also stimulates the tear glands. Women have 60 percent more prolactin in their blood than men do.

"It is Frey's theory that weeping is the body's way of excreting substances produced by the body in response to stress. But he says confirmation of his theory will have to wait for the development of better measuring techniques.

"Frey, who has also done research on Alzheimer's disease, says the biochemistry of emotion is a great unexplored frontier of science. There is almost nothing known about what happens biochemically when humans are happy or sad or angry." End of piece. This is Ann talking.

The most fascinating aspect of the subject to me, at least, is the closeness between laughter and tears. The most wonderful feeling in the world is to laugh until you cry. This has happened to me very few times in my life, and it's an incredibly exhilarating experience.

Ready For The Carnival

These children are anxiously awaiting for the Fall Carnival at First Christian Church planned from 5:30-8:30 p.m. Oct. 31, at the church. A meal of hamburgers, hot dogs, chips, dips and desserts will be served from $1-$2 and tickets for a variety of games are priced at $5 and $2.50.

Halloween traditions abound

Did you know that Halloween was once actually a New Year celebration and that trick-or-treating is based on an ancient custom?

The ancient Druids celebrated an important feast, Samhain, on the last day of October.

Celebrated after the harvest, Samhain marked the beginning of a new growing season and a new year.

An important rite was the lighting of great bonfires to frighten away evil spirits, as it was thought that ghosts and witches feared fire. Children were sent out to beg for alms and material to light the fires—hence, the custom of trick-or-treating began. The tradition of Halloween pranks resulted from the belief that ghosts, witches and other visiting spirits created mischief on this night. Therefore, the Druids assumed any practical joke could be blamed on these supernatural forces.

Rev. Steigleder received his A.B. degree at Point Loma Nazarene College (Pasadena College). He also studied at Northwest Nazarene College and at Sacramento State College, as well as spending four years in the Marines. His wife, Mary Lou, also received an A.B. degree at Point Loma Nazarene College and earned her R.N. degree at Samaritan Hospital.

Before their missionary assignment the couple pastored in Northern California. They have three children: Judy, Steve, and Robert. Rev. and Mrs. Steigleder will make their furlough home in California.

Their deputation services may include a message and slides concerning the work of the Church of the Nazarene on the Trans South Africa field (formerly known as the Coloured and Indian Districts).

PAT WELLMAN

A Ladies Retreat will be held Nov. 6-7 at High Plains Campground and will feature Pat Wellman, a pastor's wife, as speaker. Cost is $17.50 per person; tickets must be purchased by Wednesday. The group will leave the church on Friday at 6:15 p.m.

Mrs. Wellman is the wife of Dr. W. Donald Wellman, pastor of Denver First Church of the Nazarene, in Colorado. She is a retreat and convention speaker, well-versed in scripture and particularly knowledgeable in her study of the book of Revelation.

She is the author of two books, "Mirror, Mirror...Please Lie!" and "You Can Bet the Ranch!"

During the upcoming retreat, she will discuss such topics as self-esteem, real dimensions of love, the family of God, the parsonage woman, component parts of God's peace, and many other subjects.

Dr. Waylon B. Moore will lead a spiritual growth weekend Nov. 6-9 at the First Christian church.

Dr. Moore, who lives in Tampa,

Fla., and who ministers to persons from skid-row to pastoral and leadership conferences around the world, will lead seven studies during his four days here.

The studies will be held Nov. 6 at 7 p.m.; Nov. 7 at 10 a.m. and 7 p.m.; during Sunday School and worship services on Nov. 8, as well as at 8 p.m. that evening; a men's breakfast at 6:30 a.m., and a Bible study and lunch from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Nov. 9.

The public is invited to attend any and all of the studies with Dr. Moore.

This week's sermon will be on "How to find Forgiveness," based on Mark 11:25-26.

The Scripture for Lunch Bunch will meet Wednesday at noon at the church.

Meaningful game is strike-torn season

NFL has 'Battle of the Bays'

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

It's the Battle of the Bays and when was the last time this game held any significance?

In this strike-torn NFL season, not much of anything is surprising. So the Green Bay Packers and Tampa Bay Buccaneers playing a meaningful game in November is no shock.

The Packers and Buccaneers have not had winning records since 1982, the last season marred by a players' strike. But the Pack is 3-2-1, including a 1-1-1 record with the regulars, and they come off a 34-33 road victory against Detroit.

"We'd rather be in first (in the NFC Central) but we're not, so we have to be satisfied with second right now. We want to maintain that position and gain ground," Packers Coach Forrest Gregg said.

The Bucs, 3-3, led Chicago 20-0 last Sunday, only to see Jim McMahon lead the Bears back to a 27-26 triumph.

"It was a tough loss," Ray Perkins, in his first year coaching the Bucs, said. "This should teach us two things. One, it takes 60 minutes of concentration. But two, if we get that 60 minutes, we have a chance with any team."

Tampa Bay is fifth in defense, allowing only 95.2 yards on the ground each game. Green Bay is seventh in rushing, and Kenneth Davis had 129 yards and two long touchdowns against Detroit.

The Packers have won the last five

Battle of the Bays, but Gregg said "we're not playing the same team we've played the last three or four years."

Elsewhere Sunday, the Bears are at home to Kansas City; Cleveland is at San Diego; Minnesota is in Seattle; Detroit at Denver; Houston at Cincinnati; Indianapolis at the New York Jets; the Los Angeles Raiders at New England; New Orleans at Atlanta; Philadelphia at St. Louis; Pittsburgh at Miami; Washington at Buffalo; and San Francisco at the Los Angeles Rams.

On Monday night, the New York Giants are at Dallas.

It's a little early for the Packers and Buccaneers to think the playoffs, but they are in their best position in five years for a run at the postseason.

"They're a lot like us, a young team that is rebuilding and trying to put itself in position for something — a playoff or to improve or to show progress," Gregg said of the Bucs. "We sort of fall in the same boat."

As do the Bears and Chargers — they're both 5-1, the best record in the league.

The Bears were expected to be up there. With McMahon apparently fully recovered from shoulder surgery, they look like a power.

But the Chargers, like Green Bay and Tampa Bay, hasn't made the playoffs or had a winning record since 1982. They were 3-0 in replacement games and their regulars routed Kansas City 42-21 in their first game back last week.

San Diego's improvement this season can be attributed to a defense which ranks 10th in the league. It is the first time this decade that the Chargers have been solid defensively.

La Plata wins district title

La Plata Junior High School clinched the ninth grade football district championship Thursday by defeating Yucca 9-6 in Clovis.

La Plata has an overall record of 7-1, which includes a seven-game winning streak and six victories against district opponents from Plainview and Clovis.

Next Thursday, La Plata plays a non-district game at home against Levelland at 4:30 p.m. The 1987 season concludes on Thursday, Nov. 12 against Stanton at 7:30 p.m.

In the other half of a doubleheader Thursday, Yucca shut out La Plata 22-0 in the eighth grade game. La Plata's eighth grade squad has a 1-6 season record and will play Levelland next Thursday at 4 p.m.

The La Plata versus Stanton eighth grade game on Nov. 12 is scheduled for 5:30 p.m.

The ninth grade Mavericks fell behind Yucca 6-0 in the first quarter. Yucca scored with a 25-yard pass.

In the second quarter, La Plata's

Mark Daniel tackled the Yucca quarterback in the end zone for a safety, cutting Yucca's lead to 7-2.

La Plata gained the lead, 9-6, in the third quarter. Greg Urbanczyk scored with a five-yard run. The touchdown was set up by a 57-yard run by Urbanczyk. Amado Lopez kicked the extra point following Urbanczyk's touchdown.

La Plata Coach Ed Coplen praised his entire defensive team for its play in the victory.

Met three times before as high school mentors

McWilliams, Dykes are duelers, friends

By BILL HART
Abilene Reporter-News
ABILENE, Texas (AP) — David McWilliams is in his second year as a college head coach and Spike Dykes is in his first. But Saturday, when Texas hosts Texas Tech in Austin, it won't be the first time they've opposed each other. They went head-to-head three times as high school head coaches from 1967 to 1969 when McWilliams was at Abilene High and Dykes was at Big Spring. And Big Spring won each time. McWilliams is now in his first year as Texas head coach after being at Tech last year. When he left, Dykes moved up.

Big Spring won the 1967 game, 25-20, the first time the Steers had beaten the Eagles in Abilene since 1939 and only the fourth time in the 40-year history. To make it worse for AHS, it came at homecoming.

The next year, Big Spring won at home 13-0. The most memorable thing about that contest was the free-for-all — not only between players, but fans as well.

The Steers won in 1969, 21-6, virtually dominating the clock, thanks to quarterback Gary Hinds.

Dykes would prefer that the games be forgotten because "it's ancient history."

"The thing I remember the most about that first game was the fair (West Texas Fair) was going on at the same time," Dykes recalled of the 1967 game. "There was a big van near the stadium, and I told the players the coaches' furniture was in that truck. If we won, it would return to Big Spring. If we lost, it was going east."

McWilliams has a different memory. His Eagles were leading 14-13 in the second half and Big Spring had the ball. An Eagle intercepted a pass, but two penalties were called on AHS and one against Big Spring on the play.

One of the Eagles' penalties came on a dead-ball foul. McWilliams argued that AHS should be penalized 15 yards but should have the football. He lost.

But officials ruled offsetting penalties and gave the ball back to Big Spring, which marched downfield, scored to take the lead and eventually built it to 25-14 before the Eagles got a late touchdown.

"When I got home that night, the official called and said he blew the call, and apologized," McWilliams said. "That didn't make me feel any better. I told him he needed to apologize to the kids, not me. I tried to tell him at the time he was making a mistake, but he wouldn't listen."

Neither McWilliams nor Dykes know what caused the melee the second year. Maybe it was frustration.

"All I remember is it started with two players and everyone got involved," McWilliams said. "The coaches and officials tried to break it up, but it lasted for quite awhile. Then it broke out in the stands."

"We had this kid move in and he wasn't eligible to play, so he was the ball boy," Dykes said. "He was wearing a Big Spring jacket and was on the Abilene side. He was in the wrong place because he got his fanny whipped."

The next year when the teams met in Abilene, Dykes had his Steers wearing STP stickers on their helmets. It stood for Steer Team Power, Dykes said.

"One of our cheerleaders got them free at an auto parts store. We used them that night for the first time," Dykes said. It paid off, especially for Hinds who ran the Eagles ragged, scoring all three touchdowns, one a 57-yard run.

"Hinds was a good quarterback and was good at hiding the football," Dykes said. "He went to the University of Houston and played quite a bit, I think, before he got hurt."

Again, McWilliams had a different memory.

"In those days, we had a rule that you had to use a certain football," he said. "We had a small quarterback who had small hands. Spike accused us of using a smaller football and said it wasn't aired up right so it would fit better in the kid's hands."

"When we were coaching to gether at Texas, Spike would bring that up a lot and I'd mention the officials' goof," McWilliams said. "Spike would accuse me of coaching pee-wee football because of the small quarterback. We had lots of fun remembering those years."

McWilliams said he learned a lot of fundamental football those years coaching in the district because he faced some outstanding coaches — Dykes, Emory Bellard of San Angelo, Gene Mayfield of Permian, Dick Mabry of Midland High, Bob Burris of Midland Lee and Don Means of Odessa.

"Spike and I developed a good friendship then and we would always sit together at district meetings," McWilliams said. "All the coaches got along well and we had good, friendly rivalries."

The friendship between McWilliams and Dykes became closer when they were assistants at Texas for seven years. When McWilliams went to Texas Tech last year as head coach, he was happy that Dykes, already on the Raider staff, decided to stay with him.

But when Texas called McWilliams "home" last December, no one was pleased more than McWilliams when Dykes got the Tech position.

"Not only are we close friends, but our families are close as well," McWilliams said. "Our son's first pair of boots were a gift from Rick, Spike's son."

Regardless which team wins Saturday, that friendship won't be affected.

HHS junior varsity loses to Lubbock Estacado, 18-7

Hereford High School's junior varsity football team saw a winning streak dating back to Sept. 17 snapped Thursday when the Whitefaces fell at Lubbock Estacado 18-7.

The loss was the second of the season for Hereford, which has seven victories. Hereford's final game of the season will be at home next Thursday at 7 p.m. against Canyon.

Lubbock Estacado gained an 18-0 lead over Hereford Thursday with touchdowns in the first, second and fourth quarters.

Shane Kapka scored for Hereford in the final period with a 60-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Carl DeLozier. J.T. Heaton kicked the extra point.

Estacado received the game-opening kickoff. Hereford's Hud Edwards intercepted a pass in Estacado's first possession. But Hereford's first possession ended when Estacado intercepted a pass.

"Estacado was probably the best team, talent wise, that we've played all year," Hereford offensive Coach Craig Yenzler said.

Defensive Coach Bill Bridge said, "The kids were real disappointed, but they played as hard as they could. You can't fault them for their effort. We're proud of them because they battled to the bitter end and scored a touchdown."

Bridge noted that Edwards knocked down an Estacado pass to prevent a possible touchdown. Anthony Gonzales recovered an Estacado fumble.
