'POW' might be a fraud

ODESSA, Texas (AP) — A man claiming to be a former prisoner of war on a nationwide crusade for U.S. servicemen still held in Vietnam is actually an ex-con using an assumed name, the man's brother said.

Thomas Clift said Wednesday his brother, William George Clift, served in Vietnam but was never captured.

The brother, calling himself Thomas A. Clift, traveled through El Paso, Pecos and Odessa recently, telling veterans that he was walking across the country to bring attention to Americans still held captive in Vietnam.

The man has recounted wartime exploits to dozens of newspapers across the country.

Texas veterans groups put out the word Wednesday that the man posing as a former POW is a phony.

William Clift served five years in the Oregon State Penitentiary and has been out of touch with him for more than two years, his brother said.

"He's always one step ahead of me," Thomas Clift said. "I've been to lawyers, judges, mental health (officials), trying to get help."

Col. Howard Hill, an adviser to the Secretary of Defense on POW and MIA affairs, said William Clift is not on the Army's Vietnam casualty list.

"We're very confident of our records on this," Hill told the El Paso Times. "We got word of him a couple of months ago running around Alabama."

The traveler told veterans groups he was the only survivor of a 10-man patrol that was attacked by North Vietnamese soldiers in 1966.

Clift was in Hereford on Dec. 4, and gave an interview to Brand Managing Editor John Brooks which appeared in the Dec. 6 issue of the Brand.

Clift detailed his story about when his patrol was ambushed, horror stories about his years in a North Vietnamese prison, and his troubles since his return to the United States in 1973, when he said he was repatriated.

Clift claimed he was on patrol in Vietnam on April 9, 1966 with the Fifth Special Forces, and said he spent 7½ years in POW camps before being released.

He said he had been walking for over three years, over 5,000 miles, and didn't plan to end his walk until 1989, when he returned home to Oregon.

During the interview, he talked to Audie Mancillas of North Plains Printing, who served in Vietnam while in the U.S. Marine Corps.

Mancillas said he began to doubt Clift's story when he looked over a list of persons who left Vietnam at the time Clift claimed he was released. The list is long, detailed, and without Clift's name on it.

"I believed his story when I talked to him," Mancillas said this morning. "When it comes to POWs I am partial to them."

"At least part of what he said was true. I read PFC Robert Garwood's book on his release in the late 1970s, and he said he met French prisoners left from the war in 1954."

"If there were French prisoners still living in 1978, we have to have American POWs still over there."

W.T. Evans, quartermaster of Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 4372 in Odessa, said the man's story wasn't believable.

He asked for money, but the post turned him down, Evans said.

"He ... sure has solicited money," he said.

Evans said he reported the matter to VFW headquarters in Austin.

The Permian Basin chapter of Vietnam Veterans of America gave Clift $100 for traveling expenses, the Holiday Inn in Odessa gave him a free room and an American Legion post in El Paso gave him $100.

William Ruckman, the VFW's assistant state adjutant, said he alerted a VFW post in San Angelo after receiving information that the man was headed there.

"The only thing we can do is advise our local posts that this man is seemingly fraudulent and warn them about it," Ruckman said. "No one can put a finger on a law that's been broken," he said.

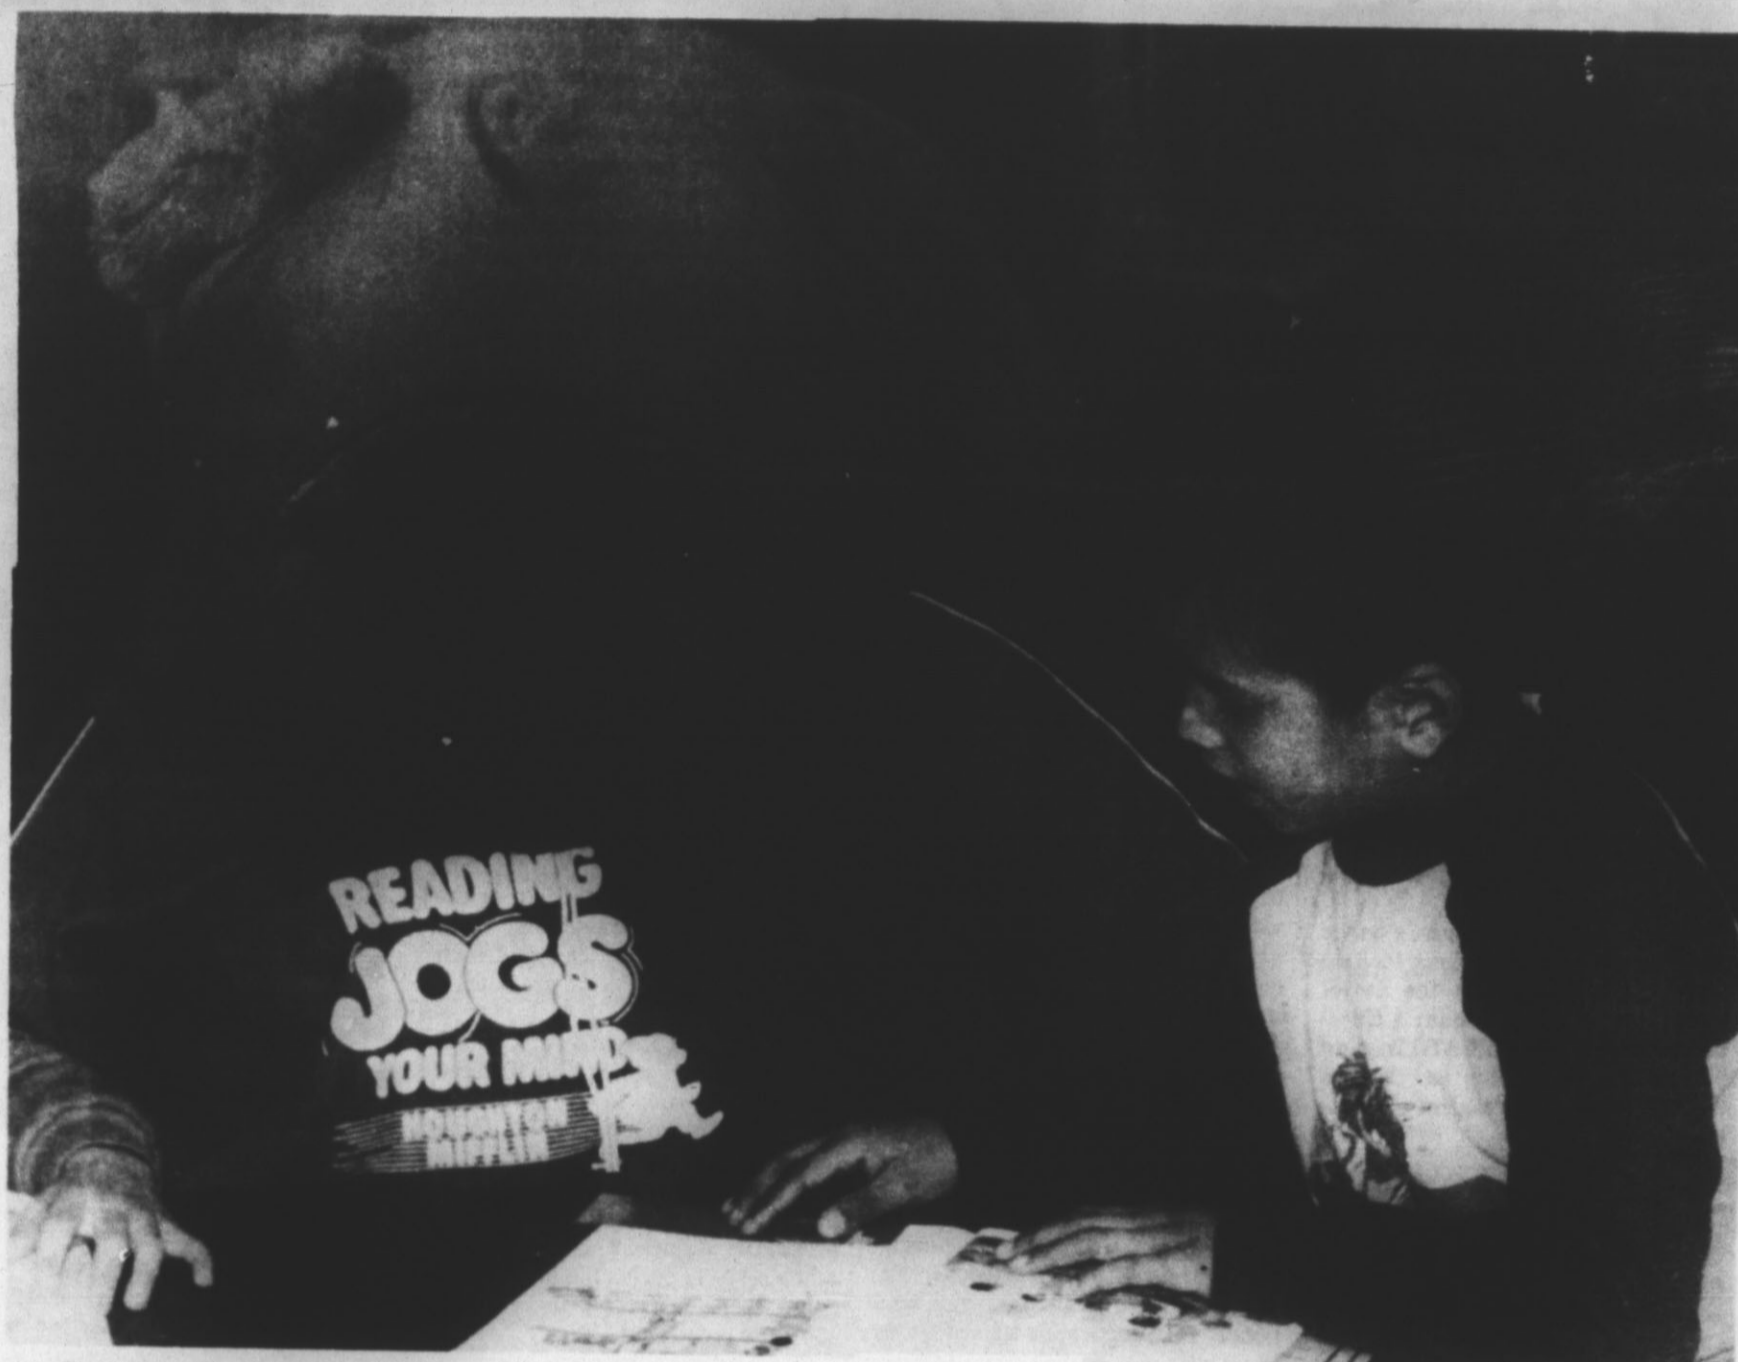

Rosemary Jersak, assistant regional coordinator for the national League of Families of American Prisoners of War and Missing in Action in Southeast Asia, said William Clift and others like him send out misinformation about MIAs and POWs and hurt government efforts to recover servicemen's remains.

"He's given a different story every place he's been," she said. "We really don't know where he's at."

Ms. Jersak recommended that veterans groups check with the League of Families when contacted for speaking engagements or fund solicitations by men who say they are former POWs.

But Connie Morrell, service representative for the Permian Basin chapter of the VVA, said Wednesday the group regularly gives traveling vets money.

A statement released Wednesday by the VVA said Clift presented "substantial proof of his personal mission of spreading the highly emotional and sensitive issue of POW-MIAs in Southeast Asia."

Hart finances questioned

By LAURA KING
Associated Press Writer

Gary Hart's presidential campaign reeled under allegations of possibly illegal campaign contributions, while his Democratic rivals sharpened their rhetoric on the budget and taxes at their second debate in a week.

On the Republican side, Bob Dole said George Bush "has to win in Iowa to be credible." Most polls put the Kansas senator well ahead of the vice president in the state, the site of Feb. 8 precinct caucuses that are considered a key early test for the candidates.

As the Democrats squared off in Des Moines, Rep. Richard Gephardt came under fire for voting in favor of the 1981 tax cut, a key part of President Reagan's economic program.

"Look at the record, not just speeches and commercials," said Sen. Paul Simon of Illinois. Although he did not mention Gephardt by name, Simon has been maintaining that the Missouri congressman's voting record doesn't match up with his ads and his stump speeches.

Simon was in turn attacked by former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt, who said Simon's proposals would amount to "widening the deficit with a gigantic public works program."

Hart, along with Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore, skipped the Iowa debate.

Some political observers suggested that the campaign finance questions, coming less than three weeks before the Iowa caucuses, could cripple the Hart campaign in the state.

"He might get buried by this," said Iowa Democratic Party spokesman Phil Roeder.

The former Colorado senator, campaigning in New Hampshire, faced a barrage of questions Wednesday about reports that Hollywood video producer Stuart Karl helped bankroll his campaign and paid a salary of $3,000 a month to Hart advance man Dennis Waito.

Some former Hart campaign staffers, speaking on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press that Hart's 1984 and 1988 campaigns had a history of accepting services and goods from people who did not expect to be paid for them, without reporting them as contributions.

Federal election law limits individual contributions to $1,000 and forbids corporations from making any contributions. The rules also prohibit an employer from assigning an employee to work on a candidate's behalf for more than an hour a week unless the work is reported as a "contribution in kind" subject to the same $1,000 limit.

"I will hold myself responsible for whatever happened and not shift the blame to anyone else," Hart said in Keene, N.H., adding that he was not familiar with the exact nature of Karl's financial involvement with the campaign.

"Obviously a candidate cannot know every detail," he said. Karl did not return a reporter's telephone calls on Wednesday.

Hart campaign manager Susan Casey said Karl billed the Hart campaign for $96,000 in services, a debt that is under settlement review by the Federal Election Commission for 10 cents on the dollar.

She said in a statement that Hart had asked the commission to review the arrangement with Karl, adding that "any contributions or any arrangements that appear to violate even the spirit of the law are unacceptable."

The allegations about Karl appeared in the Miami Herald, which also broke the story of Hart's involvement with model Donna Rice. Reports about the relationship led to Hart's withdrawal from the race last May.

Meanwhile, Dole, campaigning in Chicago, stressed the importance of a win in Iowa for Bush.

"That's where he got his start in 1980," said Dole, in a reference to Bush's unsuccessful bid for the presidency eight years ago. But Dole portrayed himself as the underdog nationally.

Dole sparred with another GOP rival, Jack Kemp, over Social Security. He defended the 1983 compromise aimed at saving the system from insolvency, which Kemp and others tried to block.

If they had succeeded, Dole said in Iowa, "I don't know what we'd be sending out in Social Security envelopes today."

Kemp, for his part, has been running ads saying the economic recovery, not the compromise, was responsible for saving Social Security.

One-parent homes way up

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nearly a quarter of all American children now live with just one parent, and the Census Bureau estimates that more than half will spend at least some time in single-parent households before reaching adulthood.

As recently as 1960 only one child in 10 was living in a single-parent household, a share that rose to 24 percent as of 1986, the Bureau reported.

The report, "Americans' Marital Status and Living Arrangements," also notes that more young adults are remaining in their parents' nests rather than setting up housekeeping immediately on their own.

But, of those who have gone off on their own, more than 2 million couples are now cohabiting without getting married.

Arlene F. Saluter of the bureau's Marriage and Family Statistics Branch said the findings about single-parent households are among the most striking in the report.

An estimated 14.8 million youngsters under 18 were living with only one parent in 1986, up from 5.8 million in 1960. During the same period the total number of

The Census Bureau says:

—Only one in 10 children lived in a single parent household in 1960; today it's doubled to over two in 10 children, a total of 14.8 million children;

—More young adults are living with their parents instead of setting up separate housekeeping, because people are waiting longer to get married, staying in college longer, and establishing careers.

Americans aged 18 and under dipped from 63.7 million to 62.7 million, the Census Bureau noted.

While one youngster in four was living in a one-parent household in 1986, the Census Bureau estimates that as many as 60 percent will spend at least some time in one-parent households, Saluter said.

She said the increases are largely due to rising divorce rates and the growing number of unmarried mothers in recent years, trends that have been widely reported.

Of the children in one-parent households, 89 percent lived with their mothers and 11 percent with their fathers, the study found.

The largest share, 42 percent, were children of divorced parents, while 27 percent were children of parents who had never married. An additional 24 percent had parents who were married but separated and 7 percent were offspring of a widowed parent.

Living arrangements of children varied widely by race and ethnic origin.

The report noted that among white children in 1986, 18 percent lived with one parent, compared with 30 percent of Hispanic children and 53 percent of black children.

While the under-18 group may increasingly have a single parent at home, the study noted that those 18-24 are more and more choosing to stay in their parents' homes.

Saluter said reasons for the development include "delays in first marriage, persons pursuing advanced educations and establishing careers prior to marriage, the high cost of housing."

Between 1960 and 1986, the proportion of women aged 18 to 24 living on their own or with husbands dropped from 53 percent to 40 percent, the report noted. For men in the same age group, the corresponding proportion fell from 34 percent to 27 percent.

More of those who have left the nest, however, are choosing to live together without marrying. The estimate of 2.2 million unmarried couples for 1986 is an increase from 1.9 million the year before, Saluter said.

The study was based on a survey of 57,000 households in March 1986.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like your opinion of the news coverage of family members when tragedy strikes. It seems that the moment something terrible happens - a murder, a horrible accident, a fire or a heinous crime - the cameras are rushed over to photograph the next of kin. I find this insensitivity appalling. It is also an invasion of privacy. It is bad enough to see photos of people who have been horribly injured or killed without training the cameras on members of the family as they sob, scream and go into hysterics. We saw too much of this sort of thing after the space shuttle disaster. The media also hounded the parents of little Jessica McClure in Midland, Texas. I could go on and on. Can't the press cover these stories without taking close-ups of distraught, grieving people? Please, Ann, share these thoughts with the rest of your readers and add a few of your own. -C.U. in Baraboo print this open letter to my nieces and nephews:

Having been a teenager myself, I know how busy your lives are. I realize it is difficult for you to write as often as you'd like, but it's hard for me too.

Even after I was divorced from your uncle, I managed to remember all seven of you on your birthdays and at Christmas. There were times when those simple gifts and checks were all I could afford, but they were sent with love.

It has now been three years since I have received a single thank-you note from any of the seven of you. From this time forward such negligence will not be tolerated.

I will no longer spend time and money to send gifts that do not rate a line of appreciation - Auntie from Lafayette, Ind.

DEAR AUNTIE: Bravo! I hope your letter will start a trend. For years I've been inundated with complaints about nieces, nephews, grandchildren and children who cannot stir themselves to acknowledge checks and gifts.

In my opinion, no excuse is good enough for such tacky behavior. In my book, after two consecutive failures to acknowledge a gift, the delinquent kid should be taken off the list. I urge all unthanked gift-givers to stop being chumps.

If the older fellow folks can take the time to shop for presents, often making personal sacrifices to pay for them, the younger ones should be able to find the time to say "thank you". And it would be nice if they reciprocated. Parents and grandparents and uncles and aunts like to be remembered on holidays and birthdays, too, you know.

Executive director speaks to club

Members of La Plata Study Club met Tuesday evening in the home of Betty Quillen with Lola Smalts serving as co-hostess.

Peggie Fox, office manager for Waste Deposit Impact Committee, introduced Phillip A. Niedzielski-Eichner, who is executive director of WDIC here.

He told the club that the WDIC will probably dissolve in Hereford the end of May. "But while we are still functioning, the entire committee would like to see Deaf Smith County back to what we want it to be," he said. If the community sets its goals, many volunteers will be needed in the process of reaching them, he believes. He would like for citizens to discover the vision for the 21st century.

Niedzielski-Eichner had high praise for Fox, and for his committee which is made up of people who were elected to various boards in the county. He said they are the most dedicated people he has ever worked with. The committee consists of Tom LeGate, John Fuston, Troy Don Moore, Frank Zinser, Dennis Brown and Troy Sublett.

It is his opinion that there are some challenges this community needs to address head on in order to move forward.

"We need to make our community a marketable community. We've got to deal with our prejudices and pull together if we plan to reach our goals for the future," the speaker told the club.

He said he and his family did not regret moving to Hereford, even though it doesn't look like they'll be here much longer. He explained they felt accepted here and also at Walcott where his wife teaches school. "We've had a wonderful experience in Hereford."

President Clara Brown conducted the business session and read several requests for donations from various projects and organizations. The club took no action but the finance and project committee is to recommend at the next club meeting what will be done.

Refreshments were served to Audine Dettman, Mildred Fuhrmann, Dorothy Mercer, Mozelle Neill, Lucy Rogers, Margaret Schroeter, Rose Mary Shook, Yvonne Simpson, Suzanne Stevens, Betty Taylor, Avis White, Lavon Nieman, Fox, and Brown.

'Texas' auditions to begin Jan. 23

Hundreds of talented singers, dancers and musicians compete for 140 coveted positions each season for the nationally acclaimed musical drama, "TEXAS."

No other summer production offers the opportunity for a cast to perform before full houses every night while drawing a salary.

Set beneath the towering cliffs of Palo Duro Canyon near Amarillo, the 23rd season of "TEXAS" is scheduled to begin June 15, 1988 and play nightly except Sundays at 8:30 p.m. through Aug. 27. Rehearsals begin May 22, 1988.

Anyone, 18 years or older, may tryout for "TEXAS." Auditions for the salaried positions with the Company are scheduled in January and February in six major cities in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Talents of actors, singers, dancers, technicians, musicians and hospitality are needed.

On Saturday, January 23, the first audition will be held at the University of Texas in Austin in the Ballet Room in the Drama Building, Room No. 1172, beginning at noon and continuing through 4 p.m. with dancers at 3 p.m.

Dallas is the setting for the next audition, scheduled for Sunday, January 24, on Southern Methodist University campus from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. with dancers at 2 p.m. in Room H-100 at the Owens Fine Arts Center.

The University of New Mexico is the site for auditions on Sunday, January 31, from noon to 3:30 p.m. with dancers at 2:30 in the Rodey Theatre located in the Department of Theatre Arts Drama Building.

And on Sunday, February 7, directors journey to Lubbock and the Texas Tech University to hold auditions in the Music Building, M.B. No. 1, from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. with dancers at 3 p.m.

The University of Oklahoma in Norman, Oklahoma auditions follow

Pro-Life rally, march scheduled

The annual Pro-Life Rally and March is planned for Saturday in Amarillo.

The rally will begin at 1 p.m. Saturday at the Bonham Junior High School and the march is planned for 2 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Social Security

People who failed to sign up for Medicare medical insurance, or who once had this protection but dropped it, will have a chance to get this important protection during the 1988 general enrollment period, January through March 31, Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo, Tx. said recently.

Medical insurance is that part of Medicare that helps pay for doctor bills, outpatient hospital services, and many other medical items and services not covered by hospital insurance.

Protection for people who sign up during the general enrollment period will start July 1, 1988.

Medical insurance is financed by monthly premiums paid by those who have the protection and the Federal Government from general revenues. Presently, the Federal Government pays three-fourths of the cost. The basic monthly premium in 1988 is $24.80.

Generally, people who sign up during a general enrollment period may pay a higher premium, Jim said. This is because the premium is increased by 10 percent for each full year a person could have had this protection but did not.

More information about the medical insurance general enrollment period can be obtained at the Amarillo Social Security office. Free publications are available there that give more information about medical insurance protection. The office is located at 3601 W. 15th, Amarillo, Tx. The telephone number is (806)376-2241.

Area auditions are last and held in Canyon on Sunday, February 21 from 1 p.m. through 5 p.m. with dancers at 4 p.m. in the Art Department Lecture Hall, Room No. 189, in Northern Hall at West Texas State University.

To audition, for "TEXAS," men and women must bring a picture, and dancers should wear appropriate workout clothing.

All voice ranges are required, and singers should bring one prepared number of their choice. An accompanist will be furnished or a singer may bring his own.

Since singers also fill minor speaking roles, each should also prepare a one to two minute memorized scene or monologue.

Actors and actresses are required to memorize any scene, not to exceed three minutes, that will accentuate outdoor voice and presence and also perform a short vocal number.

Men and women with ballet or modern dance training are desired.

Musicians are needed that are experienced in string bass, standard guitar, banjo, accordion and with concern training in violin.

"TEXAS" is a remarkable combination of a breathtaking background, a colorful historical story, spectacular sound and light, hundreds of unusual props and the talent of these 80 performers.

Indians perch on rocks, a real train crosses the prairie, a surrey brings guests to a dance and cowboys ride their horses in the background. A realistic storm sends shivers through the audience as thunder roars and lightning strikes.

Noted for its highest average attendance of any outdoor drama in the United States, "TEXAS" filled the theatre in 1987 with average nightly crowds of 1,600 persons.

Nearly 100,000 persons from all 50 states and 84 foreign countries attended in 1987 and over 1,780,000 people have enjoyed the production since its beginning in 1966.

Written by Pulitzer Prize winning author, Paul Green, the show is directed by Neil Hess, who offers expert instruction and valuable exposure to the gifted cast that come from all over the United States.

For an audition brochure, reservations or more information on "TEXAS", call 806-655-2181 or write P.O. Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015-0268.

Local AHA chapter topic of program

Rosie Wall, with the assistance of Wilma Bryan, presented a program on the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Heart Association and Region I when members of the Kingdom Seekers Sunday School Class of Avenue Baptist Church met recently in the home of Erma Bain.

Wall and Bryan are currently serving on the local AHA board with Jeff Brown serving as chairman. Region I chairman is Lynn Carroll of Amarillo who is the only paid staff member in the region with all other positions and services provided by volunteers.

The women reported that approximately 41 percent of all national deaths are caused by some form of heart disease. They stated that there are numerous educational programs available for public use concerning the heart including proper dieting and exercising programs.

They also listed the people who are in the high risk category for heart attacks and named various ways to reduce that risk. They named the many fundraisers for AHA including Heart Sunday, scheduled Feb. 7, in which volunteers will walk door-to-door for donations. There are also cookbooks for sale to the public.

Wall and Bryan emphasized that if anyone is interested in volunteering their services for AHA, the chapter meets at 7 p.m. on the third Tuesday of each month at the Hereford State Bank. Additional information may also be obtained by contacting Jeff Brown.

Before the close of their program, the women presented life members with copies of the AHA cookbooks entitled, "We're Fighting For Your Life," which contains recipes for controlled fat and low cholesterol meals.

President Luella Thomas presided over the business session of the meeting, and outreach chairman Bryan led the opening prayer. Roll call was answered with "old home remedies" and Bain read a poem, "A Sure Way To Have A Happy Day."

Nancy Duncan led the closing prayer and refreshments were served to Wall, Bryan, Thomas, Duncan, Bain, Trudie Gray, Juanita Houle, and Pauline Landers.

The next meeting will be held Feb. 9.

For Super Bowl Sunday

Create nutritional, easy dishes

With Super Bowl Sunday coming up Jan. 31, cooks everywhere are searching for easy yet nutritious dishes to serve throughout the day.

Put your pressure cooker to work and whip up a variation on baked beans and brown bread. Serve at a buffet party and or brown bag it for a different lunch. Or, use sardines to create pate along with dips. A nutritional plus can be gleaned from apple-based desserts.

STEAMED BROWN BREAD

- 1 cup cornmeal
- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 1/2 cup chopped dates
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup buttermilk
- 1/2 cup dark molasses
- 3 cups water

Combine cornmeal, flour, baking powder, soda and salt in a bowl; cut in shortening. Add dates, beaten egg, buttermilk and molasses. Stir mixture until flour is moistened. Pour into a greased 5-cup mold. Cover tightly with aluminum foil.

Place water and rack in a 6-quart pressure cooker. Set mold on rack in cooker. Close cover securely. Cook without pressure regulator for 30 minutes, allowing a small stream of steam to escape from vent pipe. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe. Cook for 30 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. Cool pressure cooker at once. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6-8 servings.

- 1 1/2 teaspoons soy sauce
- 1 1/2 teaspoons lemon juice
- Fresh parsley or dill for garnish
- Assorted breads, crackers and vegetables

Lightly mash sardines with a fork. Combine remaining ingredients; mix in sardines. Garnish with parsley or dill. Serve chilled or at room temperature as a dip for assorted crackers and fresh vegetables.

This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 1 cup pate.

DEVILED SARDINES

- 1/4 cup bread crumbs
- 1/4 cup sifted flour
- 2 teaspoons dry mustard
- 2 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoon cayenne pepper
- 2 cans (3 1/2 ounces each) sardines, thoroughly drained
- Juice of 1 lemon

Mix dry ingredients well. Sprinkle sardines with lemon juice, roll in bread-crumbs mixture, and broil on both sides until lightly browned. This kitchen-tested recipe makes about 4 dozen.

POTATO STICKS

- 1 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 1 1/2 cups mashed potatoes
- 1/4 cup butter or margarine
- 2 teaspoons salt
- Grated Parmesan cheese

Combine first four ingredients. Roll dough out very thin. Cut into 1-inch-by-5-inch sticks, sprinkle with cheese, and bake on a lightly greased cookie sheet in a 450-degree oven for 10 to 12 minutes. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 dozen.

LEMON-MUSTARD DIP

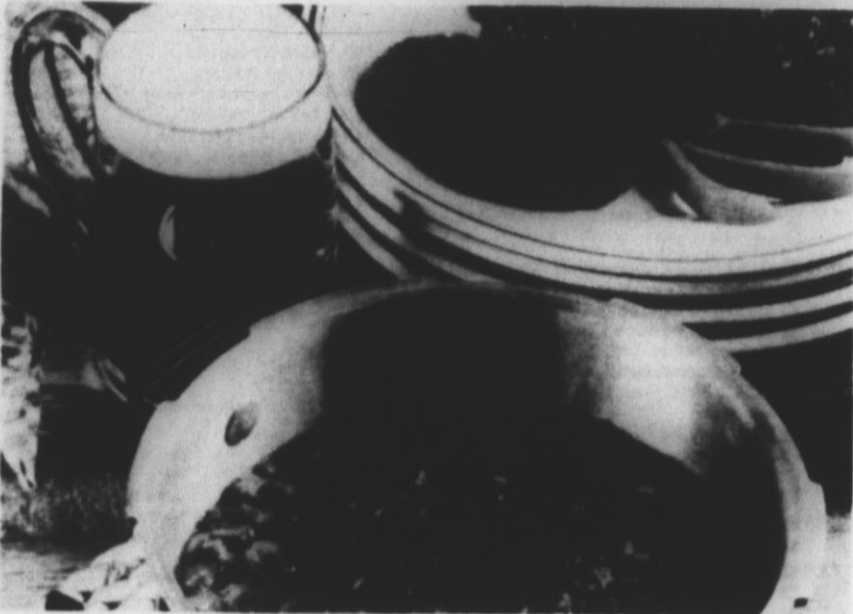

- 4 egg yolks, beaten
- 2 tablespoons mustard
- 2 teaspoons lemon juice
- Salt

Combine ingredients. Use as a dip for deviled sardines.

APPLE-SESAME COOKIES

- 1 1/2 cups rolled oats
- 3/4 cup each: all-purpose flour and whole-wheat flour
- 1/4 cup each: sesame seeds and sugar
- 1 teaspoon each: baking powder and ground cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon each: baking soda and ground nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups cored, chopped Golden Delicious apples
- 1/2 cup each: honey and vegetable oil
- 1 egg, beaten
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3/4 cup golden raisins (optional)

Combine oats, flours, sesame seeds, sugar, baking powder, cinnamon, baking soda, nutmeg and salt. Stir apples into dry ingredients. Combine remaining ingredients and add to apple mixture. Drop by spoonfuls onto ungreased cookie sheets. Bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 12 minutes, or until lightly browned. Remove to wire rack and cool. This kitchen-tested recipe makes approximately 2 1/2 to 3 dozen cookies.

PRESSURE cooker speeds preparation of beans and sausage and brown bread, a hearty winter combination.

Wilcox serves as hostess at recent women's luncheon

The Women of St. Thomas Episcopal Church were recently served a luncheon by Meredith Wilcox in her home.

Linda Gilbert entertained by playing favorite oldtime melodies on the piano and a business meeting followed which was opened with a prayer.

Claudia McBrayer, Jaime Neeper and Father Charles Threewit was appointed to select a new stove which will be bought for the kitchen by the women. Also, members were reminded that the cookbooks, "Cuisine, a la Mexicana" are still available at a reduced price at $5 each. The gatherings of United Thank offerings were discussed.

A program on needlepointing was presented by Wilcox. She stated this type of artwork dates back many centuries and Buddy McBrayer presented different pieces which the women have completed. These will be used on the kneelers at the church altar.

Officers and chairman of various committees were announced as follows: president, Meredith Wilcox; vice president, Mary Fraser; secretary, Jerre Clark; treasurer, Olivia Denning; UTO, Jaime Neeper; Christian social relations, Sherry Davis; church periodicals, Claudia McBrayer; altar guild, Vera Threewit; and public relations, Rachel Hine.

BEANS & SAUSAGE

- 1 pound dried pinto beans
- 1/4 cup cooking oil
- 1 tablespoon salt
- 1 pound bulk pork sausage
- 1 cup chopped onion
- 1/4 cup brown sugar
- 1/4 cup light molasses
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons dry mustard
- 1 tablespoon paprika
- 1 tablespoon chili powder
- 1 (8-ounce) can tomato sauce
- 3 cups water

Cover beans with water, cooking oil, tablespoon salt and soak overnight. Drain. Brown sausage in a 6-quart pressure cooker. Remove, reserving 1 tablespoon fat. Saute onion in fat until tender. Return sausage to cooker, add drained beans and remaining ingredients, stir to mix. Close pressure cooker cover securely. Place pressure regulator on vent pipe. Cook for 45 minutes at 15 pounds pressure. Let pressure drop of its own accord. Do not attempt to remove cover until pressure is completely reduced. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 servings.

NEW YORK (AP) — Industrialist Armand Hammer may be a man of the world, but when it comes to acting, he's as stage-struck as the next guy.

Hammer, the 89-year-old chairman of Occidental Petroleum Co. and of the President's Cancer Panel, admitted flubbing his lines this week as he taped a scene for an upcoming episode of "The Cosby Show."

"I had trouble remembering my lines, and I kept calling (Cosby) Bill, instead of Cliff," he said Friday in a telephone interview from Los Angeles. "Finally, they had to make these big signs for me to read off."

Hammer plays a philanthropist named Mr. Lindquist who badgers Cliff Huxtable, the obstetrician played by Bill Cosby, into writing a letter to his congressman urging more government funds for cancer research.

Cosby had said he would devote a program to cancer if Hammer agreed to appear.

PARIS (AP) — Italian director Federico Fellini has withdrawn his request for an order banning distribution of his latest film, "Intervista," because of what he considers its "heavy, vulgarized, degraded" translation.

Fellini reserved the right to ask for damages from the distributor, AMLF, the Tribunal of Grand Instance said in a written decision taking note of Fellini's withdrawal.

The move Friday came after the film was shown in court.

Fellini was quoted as saying in a recent interview that the French public "sees at this moment a heavy, vulgarized, degraded version, full of winks, that has nothing to do with my film."

Big Weekend planned at area university

Reservations are now being accepted from area high school students for Wayland Baptist University's annual Big Weekend, Feb. 26-28.

Sponsored by Wayland's Student Foundation for the past 17 years, Big Weekend provides an opportunity for prospective students to get to know the university.

"We believe the best way to judge a university is through a personal visit. Big Weekend is the opportunity for students to experience university life at Wayland to find out about college life," said Donna Danz, Student Foundation sponsor.

The Big Weekend calendar has been arranged so that students will not miss school, Ms. Danz noted. "Registration will begin at 4 p.m. Friday, Feb. 26, and will continue until 5:30 to allow students time to get here after school. We will also register on Saturday morning for those who cannot be here on Friday," she said.

Friday's schedule includes an "evening of entertainment," highlighted by a concert by vocalist Paul Smith of The Imperials. Slated for 8 p.m. in Harral Auditorium, the concert will also include a performance by Wayland's own music group "Tribute" and is open to the public at $5 per person.

Also on Friday's agenda is a get-acquainted party and midnight breakfast.

Saturday's schedule calls for departmental sessions with Wayland faculty, drawing for a $500 scholarship, campus tours, and music/drama auditions. Performances by other Wayland music groups and a late-night movie are also scheduled.

Cost for the entire weekend is $15 per student, and reservations are requested by Friday, Feb. 19. Students desiring additional information should contact Ms. Danz at (806)296-5521 as soon as possible.

Coffee, tea mug exchange highlight of club meeting

A visit to the country home of Margaret Zinser was enjoyed by members of Veleda Study Club when they held their first meeting of the new year recently.

The theme of the meeting, "Mugs and Mug Shots," proved to be very interesting as members tried to identify each other's baby picture. Each lady also brought a coffee or tea mug for an exchange game which was the highlight of the evening.

During the business meeting presided over by Suzanne Stevens, the normal order of business was covered. Members approved plans for the upcoming guest night to tour Deaf Smith County Museum and adjourn to a local restaurant for refreshments.

Members in attendance were Frances Crume, Norma Martin, Norma Walden, Audry Martin, Juanita Brown, Marjorie Lassiter, Joyce Ritter, Betty Gilbert, Stevens and the hostess.

McKay named to College Football Hall of Fame

LARCHMONT, N.Y. (AP) — John McKay, who coached Southern California to three national championships, and Doyt Perry, who compiled the third-best winning percentage while at Bowling Green, are among four persons elected to the National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame.

The others announced today are the late Jack Mollenkopf, who coached at Purdue from 1955-69, and the late Marty Below, an All-American tackle at Wisconsin from 1921-23.

McKay and Perry will be formally inducted into the Hall of Fame at the National Football Foundation's annual awards banquet Dec. 6, along with 11 players who will be announced this weekend.

Mollenkopf, who died in 1975, and Below, who died in 1984, will be inducted in special ceremonies at their respective schools this fall. All four will be enshrined in the Hall of Fame at Kings Island, Ohio.

McKay, the winningest coach in Southern Cal history, coached the Trojans to a 127-40-8 record from 1960-75 and won national championships in 1962, 1967 and 1972. After 16 years at Southern Cal, he resigned to become the first head coach of the NFL's Tampa Bay Buccaneers.

Perry spent four years as Woody Hayes' line coach at Ohio State before taking over at Bowling Green, where he compiled a record of 77-11-5 from 1955-64, including five Mid-American Conference championships. His winning percentage of .855 is topped only by Knute Rockne (.881) and Frank Leahy (.864) among those who coached at least 10 years.

Mollenkopf's record in his 14 years at Purdue was 84-39-9. No other head coach lasted more than nine years at Purdue and Mollenkopf doubled the number of victories posted by the school's next winningest coach.

Below served in the U.S. Army after his freshman year at Wisconsin and returned to win All-American honors as captain of the 1923 Badgers.

Not recovered from October injury

Willhite will miss Super Bowl

By JOHN MOSSMAN
AP Sports Writer

DENVER (AP) — Gerald Willhite has resigned himself to the fact that, despite a miraculous comeback from a serious leg injury, he won't be able to play in the Super Bowl for the Denver Broncos.

"I could play right now, but the doctors feel it would be too much of a risk," Willhite said Wednesday.

Willhite's leg tested out this week at 70 percent of its previous strength. "That's not nearly where it should be," Coach Dan Reeves said in dismissing Willhite's chance of playing against the Washington Redskins on Jan. 31 at San Diego.

A starting running back, a reliable receiver and a capable kick returner — Willhite is all that rolled into one. Or was, until his season came to an ugly end Oct. 26 when he was tackled from behind by Minnesota safety Joey Browner.

Willhite's right foot got caught in the Metrodome's artificial turf, and the force of Browner's tackle caused a multiple fracture of Willhite's lower leg as well as torn ankle ligaments and a bone chip.

He underwent surgery and was immediately ruled out for the remainder of the season. There was some speculation the injury could prove to be career-ending.

But before anyone realized it, Willhite was back on his feet, running and lifting weights.

"I've been running and cutting on it, and it feels good," Willhite said.

A recent conversation with former Redskins quarterback Joe Theismann, however, convinced Willhite to delay his return. Theismann's career was ended by a broken leg that rivaled Willhite's in stomach-wrenching severity.

"He said he thought it was crazy to come back and play this year," Willhite said.

So for now, Willhite plans to be the Broncos' "biggest cheerleader on the sidelines." To further his rehabilitation for the 1988 season, he will spend more time in Denver during the off-season, instead of in his native California.

With Willhite no longer even a possibility, Denver's main injury concern is with wide receiver Vance Johnson.

Johnson suffered a bruised groin in a playoff game Jan. 10 against Houston. Four days later he developed internal bleeding and was hospitalized, forcing him to miss the AFC championship game against Cleveland.

Released from the hospital on Monday, Johnson has been ordered to take it easy until doctors are satisfied the torn blood vessel has repaired itself.

Johnson, Denver's leading receiver, has been walking regularly and applying heat to the leg, but he hasn't been allowed to do any running.

Reeves indicated Johnson would be listed as "probable" for the Super Bowl.

The Broncos were to resume workouts today after a two-day layoff, but Johnson isn't expected back on the practice field until next week, when the team moves to San Diego.

The Broncos will be staying in La Jolla and will practice at nearby San Diego State University.

Anthony's Green versus Walcott, girls, 7:30 p.m.; and St. Anthony's Green versus Walcott, boys, 8:45 p.m.

To try to contain Broncos' Elway

Redskins plan on taking some risks

By DAVID GINSBURG
AP Sports Writer

HERNDON, Va. (AP) — The Washington Redskins plan to take a few risks in their effort to contain Denver quarterback John Elway in the Super Bowl.

While the players took Wednesday off, the Washington coaching staff worked on a game plan for the Jan. 31 game against the Broncos at San Diego. The players were to be briefed on the strategy today before participating in their first practice of the week.

Redskins linebacker coach Larry Peccatiello said Wednesday that the "key feature" of the Washington game plan, not surprisingly, deals with stopping Elway. The focus, he said, is to keep the quarterback guessing.

"You've got to take chances sometimes, and other times you lay back," Peccatiello said. "But you've got to mix it up when you play against a guy of his caliber."

Elway threw for 285 yards and one touchdown and ran for another score in the last meeting of the teams, a 31-30 Denver victory in December 1986. To stop the elusive quarterback from pulling off an encore, the Redskins plan to "add a few wrinkles," according to defensive line coach LaVern Torgeson.

"You can't be conservative against him," Torgeson said. "He's one of the great ones."

He said Elway's scrambling ability is the major reason he is so difficult to defend. Now you have him, now you don't — and once Elway gets away from the rush, he becomes even more dangerous.

"He makes things happen by coming out of the pocket," Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs said. "He makes those impromptu plays — like that 80-yard pass against Cleveland — by running all over the place."

Elway's talents are so profound that they often influence the opposition's offense.

"We have to get a good job from our offense so we can keep their offense off the field," Gibbs said. "If we can control the ball, we can keep it away from Elway."

The last time the Redskins played the Broncos, linebacker Rich Milot had a team-high eight tackles. But the nine-year veteran was placed on the inactive list for the NFC title game against the Minnesota Vikings and his role on the team is no longer clearly defined.

The Redskins didn't know whether injured cornerback Darrell Green could play the entire game against Minnesota, so they activated Tim Morrison just in case. To make room for Morrison on the roster, they put down Milot.

"We were put in an unfortunate situation," Peccatiello said. "We needed four healthy cornerbacks, and if you bring up somebody, you have to put somebody down."

Other linebackers with less experience than Milot were kept on the active roster, mostly because of their roles on the specialty units.

"Special teams was definitely a big factor," said Peccatiello, who claimed Milot will likely return after his one-week absence.

"I don't see any reason why he wouldn't be back," Peccatiello said. "Nothing's definite, but I would say it would be an upset if he wasn't."
