Just a Taste

Sampling good food and wine was only a part of the fun for singles attending a progressive dinner — friendly conversation was the main attraction. Here, Linda Mc-Clain gives Jenny Cassels a taste of pasta. Twenty-eight singles turned out for the dinner which was organized by a newly formed singles group.

Singles seek out fun

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

If one wants to avoid the bars, where, in Hereford, can a single person go to meet with other singles and have fun without the pressures inherent with modern dating?

Friendships and fun are the goals of a newly formed singles-only organization in Hereford. The group began enlisting membership in September, as the result of a private party where 40 singles met and decided they had had so much fun they wanted to get together again.

An executive committee was formed to make plans for the group and soon they were having so much fun their married friends wanted to come along. But the group insists that no couples be allowed. "No marrieds are allowed because we want to guard the reputation of the organization," Julia Davis, treasurer, said. "This is not a mating and dating service. It is an opportunity for single people to meet others with similar interests, a chance for a group of friends to get together." The executive committee consists of nine members they are Davis, Jon Maxon, Joan Coupe, Bob Lincoln, Gene Zinser, Lloyd Ames, Cathy Bodie, Linda McClain and Eddie Reinauer. Among other events, this group has carried out plans for a cookout in Palo Duro Canyon, a dance, and a progressive dinner and wine tasting.

"We had at least 40 people show up for the dance, at the country club," Davis said. "We want to support the club but not all of our activities are centered there because many members of our organization are not members of the club."

A very dirty dozen singles returned to Hereford following the October hamburger cook-out in Palo Duro Canyon. After eating supper the group sat around a fire and listened to music. Contented conversation flowed and time flew as the murmur of voices gently competed with the sounds of night. Then one bright member said, "Let's play hide-n-seek," and the race was on.

Davis laughingly recalls adults playing the child's game with a competitive furor. "People would literally slide into base as if their life depended on it," she said. "When I first heard of the Palo Duro idea, I remembered going there in high school and I thought the evening would be boring, but it turned out to be great fun."

Committee members mailed letters and phoned singles in November for a progressive dinner. Twenty-eight singles turned out for the event which began with hors d'oeuvres at Davis' house followed by a salad course served at Joan McPherson's, lasagne as a main course at Coupe's downtown apartment, and finished with dessert at Reinauer's home.

Time was allowed at each stop for conversation and sampling various wines furnished by two Amarillo representatives of American Wine and singles member David Hutchens.

Membership continues to grow as word-of-mouth travels about the group. The only membership fee is an occasional $5 charge to cover postage and incidental costs incurred by those putting together the activities.

Amendment could bar dump in Texas

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House subcommittee hearing was sidetracked by a Texas congressman's plan to submit an amendment barring the nation's first nuclear waste dump from being put in the Lone Star state.

The energy and power subcommittee of the House Energy and Commerce Committee had been scheduled to consider legislation Tuesday that would put the search for a site for the underground repository on hold while an independent commission reviewed the Department of Energy's efforts to date.

But the meeting was called off minutes before it was to start after the subcommittee chairman and other members learned of an amendment that Rep. Jack Fields was prepared to offer, fearing they didn't have the votes to stop it.

The Houston Republican's amendment is similar to one pending on the Senate floor directing the DOE to probe the three potential dump sites sequentially rather than simultaneously.

Fields' amendment would add language that drops Texas from the three-state competition and virtually assures that Nevada will be chosen.

He admitted the measure had little chance of passage, but said if it gets through subcommittee, it would send a message that the House is open to more than one avenue of action on the nuclear waste issue.

The Interior Committee has already passed a bill submitted by its chairman — Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz. — that calls for an 18-month moratorium on the search for a repository site for a "mid-course correction."

"What concerns me with the Udall approach is it creates a commission and that commission could make any kind of recommendation. They could start the whole process all over again," Fields said.

His proposal would prohibit the Energy Department from locating a waste site under farmland or beneath an aquifer, both of which would apply to the Texas site in Deaf Smith County.

The aquifer criterion would also rule out the site at Washington's Hanford nuclear reservation, which lies near the Columbia River, leaving the Yucca Mountain, Nev., site the only viable choice, Fields said.

Rep. Al Swift, D-Wash., a subcommittee member, agreed that Fields' amendment appears to make Yucca Mountain the preferred site for further study, but warned that doesn't mean it will be chosen.

"It sends it to Nevada, but there is no guarantee it stays there," said Swift. "If you stuff Nevada in a barrel and they get out, who gets stuffed next?"

In addition to the land and water provisions, Fields' amendment prohibits waste to be transported from more than 400 miles from waste site. This is designed to keep the waste from going through Houston and other Texas ports, he said.

A final line of defense for Texas in the measure prohibits any land acquisition by the Energy Department, through leases or purchases. The Deaf Smith site is the only one which is not on federally owned land.

"With these major modifications this would basically exclude Texas," Fields said.

SPS seeks refund

Southwestern Public Service Company filed a refund request Tuesday with the Public Utility Commission of Texas that would give residential customers a refund of about $10 on a future electric bill.

SPS Texas customers will receive an $11 million credit for fuel-cost savings by SPS, and the $10 is based on a "typical" residential usage of about 600 kilowatt hours a month.

The proposed refund, which must be approved by the PUC, includes interest at an annual rate of 11.7 percent.

If the PUC acts soon, most SPS consumers will receive the one-time credit on their December bills. The remainder would receive the credit in January, according to Sam Hunter, SPS vice president for rates and economic research.

"Several factors made this credit possible," Hunter said. "We bought coal and natural gas, which are major costs in generating electricity, at lower prices.

"The mild summer allowed us to operate only our most efficient power plants, and SPS has continued to improve the efficiency of its generating units."

Reagan won't speak on Iran-Contra report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, taking advantage of dissenting views in the Iran-Contra report from Congress, is avoiding making a direct response to criticism and arguing that President Reagan already has given his comments.

The report says Reagan flirted with constitutional crisis by creating an atmosphere in the White House that encouraged evasion of the law and flouting of proper procedures for reaching foreign policy goals, according to congressional sources.

However, presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Tuesday that the conclusions are far from unanimous.

He maintained that there are "two or three reports: a minority report, a majority report and dissenting views, all fairly ... subjective." He said it was "unlikely we'll get involved in any specific discussions of the conclusions."

Offering support for the White House position, Republicans on the congressional Iran-Contra panel dismissed the majority report as a partisan indictment of the president that ignores foreign policy questions raised by the secret sale of U.S. arms to Iran and the diversion of proceeds to the Nicaraguan Contras.

Fitzwater said Reagan, in televised speeches and news conferences,

"has already responded two or three times" to the Iran-Contra revelations.

He said the only White House comment now would be "a general response."

Meanwhile, Fitzwater disclosed that Reagan is preparing written answers to questions submitted by Iran-Contra independent counsel Lawrence E. Walsh. He said the replies would have "the legal force" of sworn testimony.

He emphasized that Reagan was not a target of the investigation but was trying to cooperate with Walsh's inquiry.

Hereford Bull

By SPEEDY NIEMAN

That feller on Tierra Blanca Creek says it's always easy to see both sides of an issue we are not particularly concerned about.

Running a business is about 95 percent people and 5 percent economics.—Bits & Pieces

We lost some good citizens this past week. I knew one of them personally. Lloyd Sharp was a gentleman and he was a gentle man.

Lloyd was well liked in the community and one of his friends gave a good example of the respect people had for him. "Lloyd had been a used-car dealer, loan officer in a bank, a city commissioner and a real estate and insurance salesman, and still you couldn't find anyone who had a bad word to say about him."

I guess I first became acquainted with Lloyd when he came to my office to get addresses of congressmen. He was concerned about issues, especially those which affected his community, and he wrote letters to government officials to express his opinion and to criticize or praise their actions. As a city commissioner, Lloyd's only goal was to serve his community and try to help make it a better place.

He was a good'un and we'll miss his smiling face.

In case you missed it, or don't subscribe, there was a personal opinion column in The Amarillo Globe-Times last Friday afternoon which probably sets the tone for the paper's response to charges it treated Hereford unfairly in a series of articles.

"As long as there have been free newspapers, there have been boycotts—or worse—aimed at newspapers for reporting stories some people would rather not have reported," writes Bill Cox.

In the column, Cox has some nice things to say about Hereford, but points out that other newspapers have done pieces on the Hereford Hispanics. He also gives examples of Amarillo, and other newspapers, do-

Group makes rally plans

Local plans were formulated here Tuesday to boost Hereford's support of a rally in Amarillo Monday by the Panhandle Citizens for a Better Amarillo Newspaper (PCBAN).

Dr. Hap Cavness, local rally chairman, and Mayor Wes Fisher met with the Hereford Hustlers to discuss plans for encouraging Hereford citizens to attend the rally. The Hustlers are a support group in the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce.

Cavness said interested citizens will be asked to call the chamber office (364-3333) if they want a free bus ride to the rally, which is scheduled to start at 5:30 p.m. Monday at the Amarillo Civic Center. The rally is expected to last about an hour, said Cavness.

"We are no longer in this alone," Fisher told the Hustlers Tuesday. "I have visited with mayors throughout the Panhandle and they have indicated their support of the project."

The PCBAN is a regional group formed after the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce protested a series of articles about Hereford in The Globe-News. The group, com-

98-year-old gets INS card

HARLINGEN, Texas (AP) — Federal officials hope the oldest person to obtain amnesty under the new immigration law will help alleviate some of the mistrust undocumented aliens hold for the legalization program.

Clara Escobedo de Martinez, 98, picked up her legal residency card Tuesday at the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service's Harlingen Legalization Center, 60 years after first coming to this country.

"If a 98-year-old lady, if folks like that can come and not be afraid, then maybe it's a good thing," said Stephen H. Martin, commissioner of the INS' 13-state Southern Region.

Martin said the agency is still combatting fear and a traditional suspicion of the agency known for apprehending and deporting illegal aliens.

Babbling Brooks

And now, it's time for "Letters to Babbling."

Dear Babs:
Where did you get those orange shorts you wore at the football games this season?

Even though you have nice legs, that particular shade of orange is pathetic, and we have started a fund to help you buy some other color.

Sincerely,
N. Aggey

Dear N. Aggey:

Thank you for your support. I am allergic to some colors. Especially "South Texas Maroon." I am also against spending any more money than necessary. Those orange shorts were free, and that's the main reason why I wear them.

Dear Babbermouth:

I saw this story on the news the other night that had some lady sayin' that if you did your job, the Amaretto newspaper wouldn't have had to do its job.

Any thoughts?

Sincerely,
Jess Asken

Dear Jess:

Yes, I saw that. Actually, when the story should have been done, about two years ago, I was working in Dimmitt. Doing a story like that in Dimmitt would have been the pot calling the kettle polka-dot.

We would have been considered blind for not taking a look at our own problems and fixing those before we went off on a grand crusade on some other town.

I don't think any newspaper worth its salt should go off doing crusades without looking under its unmade bed first and making sure the cobwebs are gone.

Of course, those stories dealt with something that happened almost three years ago. As grandma always said, "Freshness means quality."

Dear Brooks:

We hear rumors that T. Boone Pickens and Speedy Nieman are going to take over the Amarillo newspapers. Is that true?

Fretfully,
Parish Thethought

Dear icy:

There is only one problem: T. Boone and the Amarillo publisher, Billy Morris, who is a great human being (we'll have more on Billy later, but you'd swear his last name was Carter), are on the Fortune 500.

Mr. Nieman would not be interviewed, but did issue a statement saying that just as soon as he was on the Fortune 500, he'd go for it.

Right now, he is less than 200 million away.

Nieman also said he would do two things: reinstate Dick Tracy, but stop the color comics on Sunday.

(Two good things about the Lubbock paper: You get Dick Tracy, and don't get Putt Powell. However, Norval Pollard may be worse than Powell or Calvin and Hobbes.)

Dear Babb:

How are things going over at WT? Signed,
Roach Motel

Dear Roach Motel:

Where were you when we needed you? Roach Motel, you are badly needed at WT. If we had just one Roach Motel at WT, every problem would solve itself. Please, hurry over to Canyon and do what you do best.

Now would be a good time. I think we have the attention of the Chairman of the Board of Regents diverted elsewhere for a moment.

Dear editor:

Wren doves pheasant season open? Thank ewe,
Blowem Aweigh

Dear Blowem:

Pheasant season opens Dec. 12—same day as cattle season.

Dear B.B.:

Why do they fill sugar beet trucks so high?

Faithfully
B.T. Dodger

Dear B.T.:

They're filled that high for two reasons. One, with that many beets, they can go through town more quickly because it builds up so much momentum. Second, and more important, it takes a certain amount of sugar beets to keep several businesses in town going—like front end alignment shops.

It also gives the license and weight people justification for keeping their jobs.

Don't worry, B.T., that's just a necessary evil of part of the only profitable ag enterprise around, so shaduppa yo' face.

Dear Babb:

Since you are a sports freak, what are some of the best school nicknames in Texas?

Frankly,
U.R. Nutts

Dear Frank:

I believe the best has to be the Knippa Purple Rock Crushers, although the Itasca Wampus Cats ain't bad.

I always thought some of the best names, though, are for places that no longer have schools: Easter Eggs, Flagg Poles, Umbarger And Fries (think about it), Bootleg Whiskies, etc. Hart should change to the Beats, and Earth to the Worms.

"The minimum age limit is 21, but there is not a limit for older people," Davis said. Currently the age of members ranges from 21 to the late 50s.

Current members emphasize that while some people bring dates to events, many others do not. "Pressures on single people are frightening; for instance, just because this is Hereford we are not immune to AIDS," Davis said. She added that the singles group allows people to know each other as friends before entering a dating relationship.

"In a group situation, you can form and sustain friendships you might not be able to have in a one-on-one situation and some of these people will remain friends without ever dating one another," Davis said.

Though many of the friendships formed involve people who have just moved to Hereford, many are between people who have known one another on-sight for years but never spent time together. "There are smaller groups of friends who now informally get together for ball games, dances or supper," Davis said.

"Our group is not all Anglo," she said. "The color of skin doesn't make any difference and, unlike good 'ol Amarillo says, there are things to do in Hereford besides drugs."

Some upcoming plans for the singles group (they are undecided on a formal name) include a hay ride Saturday. Members have been told to dress warm and come equipped with their favorite ghost stories for the scenic tour of the countryside via a horse-pulled trailer.

"Any single who is interested in joining us should contact me, or any member of the executive committee, for a reservation because we need a headcount for the cookout before the hayride," Davis said.

Other plans include a Dec. 11 Christmas dance at the K.C. Hall. "Tickets will be sold to singles to cover the expense of renting the hall and hiring a disc jockey," Davis said. The dance will be followed by a New Year's Eve party being planned to take place at a member's house and the executive committee is taking suggestions for events for 1988. "We are checking into group rates for cruises and ski trips," Davis hints.

Two members are planning to spin-off a single parent's group which will focus on family activities such as picnics and ball games, Davis adds.

What's the Punch Line

Julia Davis and Gary Yosten share a laugh during the dessert phase of a recent progressive supper sponsored by a newly formed group for Hereford singles.

Guests brought or borrowed swimsuits for the evening which ended with dessert and hot tub conversation at Eddie Reinauer's home.

BULL

ing stories that some people didn't like, but they won newspaper awards.

Whether or not the management of The Globe-News realizes it, or just refuses to recognize it, the issues is not a case of the paper printing some bad news about Hereford. What the majority of Hereford citizens—Anglo and Hispanic—are mad about is a massive dose of slanted articles which did not portray the true picture of Hereford and its Hispanics.

There have been stories in the Amarillo paper before that some people would rather not have reported. There have been some stories in The Hereford Brand that some people here had rather not have reported. But those stories didn't draw the ire of most of the community, nor did they draw the sympathy and support of other Panhandle towns.

I don't like the idea of a boycott against the Amarillo newspaper, but as a citizen of Hereford I can understand why the chamber of commerce chose to pursue this action. To put it bluntly, many citizens believe that a group of reporters, with preconceived ideas gleaned from a few dissidents who blame discrimination for every failure, came to Hereford to do a hatchet-job on the community. In addition, they feel that the entire series was based primarily on a drug bust that benefitted the quality of life in Hereford—not an action that affected racial matters.

"A newspaper that kowtows under pressure, whether it be political, economic or just plain tyrannical,

REAGAN

Reagan's statements could be crucial to the defense mounted by former White House aides John M. Poindexter and Oliver L. North if they are indicted. North, who served on the National Security Council staff, has said he told Poindexter about the diversion of Iran arms sale money to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

Poindexter, who was the president's national security adviser, has said he did not tell Reagan about the diversion but felt the president would have approved it if asked. Reagan has steadfastly insisted he did not know about the diversion. However, he authorized the arms sales to Iran and, according to congressional testimony, directed that Congress and administration officials be kept in the dark about it.

The president also has acknowledged knowing that third countries and private groups in the United States were providing funds to the Contras.

Fitzwater disclosed that Walsh had submitted written questions to the White House on Oct. 10. He said Reagan was preparing the answers, with assistance from counsel A.B. Culvahouse, and the replies would be ready in "a couple of weeks."

Asked why it was taking so long for Reagan to respond, Fitzwater said, "We're just doing it the best we can.

WOMAN

Under the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, a one-year amnesty period began May 5 for undocumented aliens able to show they have lived in the United States illegally since Jan. 1, 1982.

Mrs. Escobedo said she may apply for permanent residence 18 months from the date she submitted her original amnesty application.

WOMAN

The oldest amnesty recipient, who will be eligible for citizenship at the age of 104, said she will pursue that next step "so I can die here as a citizen."

She also said she's ready to go on a trip.

"I never got tired of traveling since I was little," said Mrs. Escobedo, who first came to the United States from Mexico in 1927.

"Clara is a national treasure, something to behold," Martin said at a ceremony Tuesday morning.

The Brownsville resident, who has lived in this country both legally and illegally, was accompanied by her Baptist minister and members of three other generations of her family at the Harlingen center.

The INS presented her a cake inscribed with "Congratulations on a New Beginning," to commemorate her legalization and her Sept. 12 birthday.

Mrs. Escobedo said she never remarried after her husband was killed in a Mexican Revolution battle against Pancho Villa's men in 1914.

Local bridge journey a success

The Benefit Bridge Tournament sponsored by Toujours Amis Study Club Tuesday night yielded several winners and secured a scholarship for some Hereford High School senior.

Winners Alma Pittenger and Lucille Posey won a $50 savings bond and a set of six crystal goblets, respectively. Bridge runners-up were Claudia Roundtree and Dorothy Berend. Low winners were Hattie Gallagher and Christine Jesko.

Betty Bagley won a card table and chairs as a door prize. Several other door prizes, donated by local merchants, were also awarded.

The annual bridge tournament, now in its fourth year, was termed a success by club finance chairman Becky Reinart. "We had a good turnout as 120 tickets were sold," she said. "Our success was due to the many generous Hereford merchants who donated prizes for this event."

Proceeds of the tournament will go toward a $300 scholarship which will be presented to a Hereford senior in the spring. Any senior who is a candidate for graduation in 1988 is eligible and may apply in March through the senior counselor for this scholarship.

Letter to the Editor

Dear editor:

I just had the privilege of spending five days with the Hereford team of Future Farmers of America to their National Convention in Kansas City, Mo., at which time there were over 24,000 young women and men in attendance.

I was amazed how courteous and well-mannered these young men and women were. No matter what part of the United States they were from they were eager to learn more about you and the area from which you came.

When addressed, they answered with a yes m'eam or no m'eam and asked to be excused when they bumped into you, which happened often with so many in attendance.

Hints from Heloise

BEDSPREAD

Dear Heloise: It is a good idea to keep an old bedspread or blanket in the trunk of your car. During the summer, it can be used to wrap suitcases so they won't get scratched or it can make a quick but practical picnic table cover or a spread for a picnic on the ground.

In the winter, the blanket or spread could be used for traction in case you get stuck in snow. Spread it under the back wheels to help you get out. Also, if you are caught in a bad storm or are snowbound in your car, it can be used to keep you and one or more passengers warm until help arrives. — Frances Clark, Nashville, Tenn.

VACUUM CLEANER

Dear Heloise: I recently read an article in your column from a new mom who keeps a cordless vacuum cleaner nearby to clean up messes under the baby's eating place.

I, too, am a new mom and here is my solution for helping with the mess under baby's eating space. I fold out a page or two of the newspaper and place it under the highchair. The paper catches everything that falls and it can be easily wrapped up and thrown away. — D.Y., Bozeman, Mont.

Social Security

"People who intend to list dependents age 5 and older on their 1987 Federal tax returns must show Social Security numbers for those dependents," Jim Talbot, Social Security manager in Amarillo, Tx. said. This is required by the Tax Reform Act of 1986.

"We urge people to apply now for these numbers while there is more than ample time," Jim said. "If they were to wait until 1988, they may find that the process takes longer due to heavier workloads, and they would be unable to file their tax returns early."

A person can apply for a Social Security number at any Social Security office. If a person is 18 or older, he or she must apply for a Social Security number in person.

"But, parents applying for children can do so by mail," Jim said. "In fact, they can start the application process by phone."

"When a person applies, he or she will need evidence of age, U.S. Citizenship or lawful alien status, and identity," Jim stated.

Congress authorized the Women's Army Corps in 1942.

CHILDREN
NEW YORK (AP)—Children have special needs when a friend or relative dies and should be helped to face the loss rather than be shut off from the reality.
 "Children feel responsible when someone dies," says Dr. T. Berry Brazelton in Family Circle magazine. Brazelton, an associate professor of pediatrics at Harvard Medical School, says "parents should reassure them that the loss is not their responsibility, that it does not result from a child's bad deeds or wishes."
 A child's sense of death is more primitive than an adult's, Brazelton says. He'll tend to equate it with being left alone, which brings on the fear of desertion. If parents simply withdraw without explaining what has happened or how they feel about it, the child's worst fears will be confirmed.

Texas linebacker from Hereford intercepted two passes

Brockman is SWC defensive player of week

Brand Staff, AP reports
University of Texas junior linebacker Lee Brockman, who intercepted two passes and returned one 43 yards for a touchdown in a 24-21 victory over TCU, was chosen by the Associated Press as the Southwest Conference defensive player of the week.

Brockman, 6-2 and 221, started only three games last season before a shoulder injury that required surgery forced him out for the season. It was not until the Oklahoma game this year that the 1985 graduate of Hereford High School really impressed Longhorn coaches.

"Everything he does is by pure heart, full speed," Texas head coach David McWilliams said. "He's real good at meeting the blocker. He's a great technique-type player, and he's showing some quickness — he's increased his speed and quickness by off-season weight work."

"He's just a football player that always seems to be around the ball. He's got great football sense."

Saturday was an exciting day for the rest of the Brockman family as well. The Longhorn linebacker's mother, Donna Brockman, and his four brothers, Don, Greg, Paul and Walter, were at the game.

"We were all excited. I was elated for Lee. It's every linebacker's dream to make an interception and return it for a touchdown," Mrs. Brockman said.

"I was happy to be at the game. The boys and I were all jumping up and down. We picked an excellent game to go to," she adds.

At the close of his high school athletic career, Lee Brockman was named the Hereford High School boys' athlete of the year. In his senior football season, he was named an all-District 3-5A linebacker and the district's defensive player of the year.

A two-year starter in football, Brockman was a starter in basketball his junior year. An injury kept Brockman out of the basketball lineup his senior year.

In track and field, Brockman was a regional qualifier in the shot put his senior year. He placed first at the District 3-5A meet with a distance of 51 feet, one inch, and his best effort that season was 52 feet, 10 inches.

Brockman, also named the Hereford High School outstanding athlete in track and field his senior year, ran on sprint relay and mile relay teams.

Brockman had a 94.67 grade-point average in high school. In his sophomore year at Texas, he was one of two Longhorn football players to receive the G.T.E. honor based on achievements in both academics and athletics.

The Brockman family has always been an athletic family, and the family is still represented in Hereford High School sports — by Carmen, a junior on the Lady Whiteface varsity basketball team.

Tailback Eric Metcalf is on schedule to become the Longhorns' first 1,000-yard rusher since 1982, and he has the bruises to prove it.

Metcalf, only 5-foot-9 and 178 pounds, has rushed 178 times for 946 yards, including a career-high 36 carries for 206 yards in Texas' victory over TCU, a performance that earned him recognition by The Associated Press as the Southwest Conference offensive player of the week.

"To me the thing is how tough he is, because he really gets hit. He takes a lot of tough hits," said McWilliams. "It's kind of like he's made of rubber. He gets the strains and bruises and all, but he's able to come back."

Metcalf, the son of former pro star Terry Metcalf, had 280 all-purpose yards as he also returned punts for 66 yards and caught a pass for 8 yards. He also had scoring runs of 3 and 57 yards in combining with Brockman for all three of Texas' touchdowns Saturday.

"Eric is a superman," said Texas quarterback Shannon Kelley. "He's just a better athlete than anyone out there."

For his career at Texas, Metcalf has 3,829 all-purpose yards, and this year averages 180.3 yards a game, trailing only Eric Wilkerson of Kent

State and the highly publicized Tim Brown of Notre Dame, who averages 182.2 yards.

"He's just a great football player, and every time you give him the football, whether it be in the running game or the throwing game or the return game, he's got a chance to break one," McWilliams said.

McWilliams was asked if Metcalf's 1987 junior season might lay the groundwork for a Heisman push next year, and he said, "I hope so. I think he deserves to be considered."

Royal praises McWilliams

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — University of Texas Coach David McWilliams "should be elected king of Texas" if the Longhorns make it to the Cotton Bowl this season, former UT coach Darrell Royal says.

Royal made the remark Tuesday while in San Antonio to play in the Moe Bandy Pro-Celebrity Golf Classic.

Royal, former running back Earl Campbell and former Texas defensive tackle Doug English discussed the 1987 Longhorns, the UT-Texas A&M rivalry and the general state of the university's football program.

Royal said McWilliams would deserve special credit for winning the Southwest Conference championship with a team short on talent.

"I think David McWilliams and his staff have done a great job," Royal said. "It's been an up-and-down season for them, but if they miraculously wind up in the Cotton Bowl, I think David should be elected king of Texas."

"I second that emotion," Campbell said. "This team special to me because Coach McWilliams was coaching at Texas when I was there. There are some good young kids on that team."

UT, which closes out its home schedule against Baylor Saturday, needs only a victory over A&M to get the Cotton Bowl bid. The Longhorns could also get the Cotton bid by beating Baylor and tying the Aggies.

"I'm just real proud of them (the '87 Longhorns)," English said. "We had some real poor recruiting years for a while and it's hurt us, but this year's team is a classic example of what teamwork can do."

Campbell, who capped his four-year collegiate career by winning the Heisman Trophy in 1977, now works at UT as an assistant to the vice president.

Royal was head coach at Texas from 1957 through 1976, compiling a 167-47-5 record and leading the Longhorns to two national championships.

English, an All-America defensive tackle at Texas in 1974, played with the Detroit Lions 10 years before retiring after the 1985 season.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to comment on the letter from the woman who had fallen in love with four alcoholics and was flirting with No. 5.

She asked why she keeps doing this same stupid thing. You told her it could be one of many reasons; a messiah complex, low self-esteem (some women think so little of themselves they don't believe they deserve a decent partner) and the notion that love conquers all and she will make her sweetheart so happy he won't want to drink anymore.

I was in that woman's shoes several years ago. It took me a long time before I figured it out. The scenario goes like this. It's such fun to drink together. You feel so bright and witty. You are comfortable with the lush because he doesn't look at you funny when you order your fourth double vodka martini. He is nonjudgmental and you're sure he is the perfect mate.

A wise and wonderful woman I worked with invited me to go to a meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous. It was there that I came to terms with my problem.

Next week I celebrate my fifth year of sobriety. Pass the word, Ann. It takes one to know one.—I'm Any Woman, U.S.A.

DEAR U.S.A.: Thanks for a candid response. I received hundreds of letters that sounded a great deal like the one below. Read on:

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll bet the woman who was flirting with her fifth alcoholic comes from a family of problem drinkers.

Children from alcoholic families try to duplicate that unfulfilling environment so they can try once more for the love and support they didn't get at home. They want another chance to "win." Of course, they don't get it.

That woman needs to get with a group called Adult Children of Alcoholics. There are more than 1,000 chapters throughout the country. Look in the phone book. ACoA will help her recover and get on with her life.—J.M.A., Ph.D., Lombard, Ill.

DEAR J.M.A.: Thanks for a better response than mine.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been reading you for years and have never come across the problem I am about to lay on you. This is no joke.

My husband who is normal in every way insists on shaving his legs—three or four times a year. He says he enjoys the clean feeling and that it turns him on sexually.

I consider this perverted and get very upset when he does it. Needless to say, we have spent countless hours fighting about it. May I have your opinion?—"Hairrem" in Dayton Woman, U.S.A.

DEAR DAYTON: Long ago I took the position that women should be free to do anything they wish about the hair on their legs. I am prepared to offer men the same option.

Please stop fighting with your husband about this. It's about as harmless a turn-on as I have heard of. Consider yourself lucky.
