County eyes juvenile home

By ANDREA LAMB
Deaf Smith County and Buckner's Childrens Home want to provide the county with a juvenile emergency shelter. A board selected to steer those plans will discuss them today at 4 p.m.

County Judge Tom Simons said the 15-member board will work on organizing the board and will talk in general terms about how the county will fund the facility which will cost $90,000 per year to operate.

In an October meeting with the county and the Dallas-based Buckner's, Buckner's agreed to pay half of the $90,000 and staff the 12-bed emergency shelter in Deaf Smith County if the county would provide the remaining half of the funds.

"We hope that most of our half of the payment will generate from the Texas Youth Commission, the Department of Human Resources and outlying counties such as Oldham, Castro and Bailey which have expressed interest in using the facility," said Simons.

Simons said that the county currently pays $25 per day to house juveniles in either Amarillo or Lubbock.

"I'm a juvenile judge, and I see a lot of kids that need help. When we get this (juvenile emergency shelter) done, perhaps we can organize a foster home program where the kids can grow up in a good atmosphere," said Simons.

Buckner's Childrens Home will meet with the 15-member board sometime in February to further discuss plans. Those on the board are Rocky Lee, Wes Fisher, Terry Langehennig, Ted Taylor, Alva Lee Peeler, Ruben Flores, Rev. Charles Threewit, Glen Nelson, Dr. Ron Cook, Hilda Garza, Ruben Vargas, Joe Garcia, Sister Mary Jean, Dr. Howard Johnson and Aurora Dominquez.

WDIC meets tonight

The Waste Deposit Impact Committee will hold what could be one of its last meetings tonight at 7:30 at the WDIC offices at Park and Ave. A in Hereford.

WDIC, like other agencies affected by an amendment in the Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987 passed in late December, will be phasing out and changing the focus of its operations, but, unlike the Department of Energy or affiliated contractors, is not on a strict timetable for a phase out.

Instead, WDIC is concentrating on a "Community Economic Stabilization, Transition and Development Plan," which could help the community during and after the DOE pull-out.

At the meeting tonight, WDIC Executive Director Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner and WDIC Chairman Troy Don Moore will report on trying to secure funding for the plan, which, according to Eichner, could be completed within five months at a cost of $155,000.

That money will be sought from DOE through continuance of the contract WDIC has with the State of Texas.

Also at tonight's meeting, WDIC is expected to approve the necessary steps to phase out its contracts with the state and others, and will review DOE's plans for withdrawal of the Salt Repository Program.

Reagan signs credit bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan signed legislation Wednesday financing a bailout of the indebted Farm Credit System, saying the bill "should help alleviate" farmers' financial woes.

But even as he signed the legislation, Reagan said he wanted Congress "to work with us to amend or remove" some provisions he considers too costly in a time of high federal budget deficits.

On Dec. 19, the Senate, on an 85-2 vote, approved a bailout of up to $4 billion in federally guaranteed bonds for the red-ink-plagued agricultural credit system.

Concern about a possible presidential veto had slowed progress on the bill. But before the Senate voted on it, Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., predicted that Reagan likely would sign the legislation anyway.

Boren joined several other members of Congress, including U.S. Rep. Larry Combest (R-Lubbock) along with Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III and Agriculture Secretary Richard Lyng, in witnessing Reagan's signature Wednesday during a ceremony in the Roosevelt Room at the White House.

The measure had been a year in the making, and its supporters pushed hard for a resolution of differences so as to ensure continuing federal aid to the Farm Belt.

"This signing of the Farm Credit

Act should help alleviate some of those woes," Reagan said. "The act ensures that the farm credit system will continue as a principal source of private credit to America's farmers while at the same time implementing many needed reforms to the system to ensure its longterm viability."

Reagan, however, said he had some lingering quarrels with some aspects of the legislation.

"Unfortunately the Congress declined to require the system to provide as much self help as we believe was appropriate, and created new and potentially expensive federal support mechanisms ...," he said. "The Congress also added other costly provisions that were not necessary to the health of the farm credit system."

The bill is expected to cost taxpayers up to $1.5 billion over five years. The Treasury eventually could have to pay the whole $4 billion plus interest if the system folded despite the rescue effort — but that is considered unlikely. Two backup systems are built into the bill to prevent that.

The veto threat had dogged the bill because of a provision creating a secondary market, under which farm mortgage loans would be pooled and used to back securities sold to investors. Reagan singled out this provision for criticism today.

President searching for savings

WASHINGTON (AP) — As the administration firms up a record $1.1 trillion spending plan for fiscal 1989, it may have to reach beyond a budget pact with Congress "for more savings," President Reagan's budget director says.

But House Budget Chairman William H. Gray III, D-Pa., says any major departure from the Nov. 20 deficit-reduction agreement between Congress and the White House could touch off a new confrontation with Capitol Hill.

"The spirit of the budget summit called for reductions in defense and domestic spending and new revenues," Gray said. He said any additional "savings" proposed by the White House should "be along the same ratios."

Federal department heads got their first glimpse on Wednesday of Reagan's new budget proposal as drafted by the Office of Management and Budget and approved by the president.

The next step is for the officials either to accept the OMB spending levels for their agencies or appeal to the White House. Even with the deficit cutting, the Reagan administration's 1989 budget proposal will represent an increase in spending from the $1.05 trillion of this year.

The final budget plan will go to Congress in mid-February.

White House Budget Director James C. Miller III said Wednesday that he isn't certain a reduction of the annual federal deficit to the $136 billion required for 1989 by the Gramm-Rudman budget-balancing law can be achieved solely by the levels outlined in the Reagan-Congress agreement.

"If we cannot hit the $136 billion ... we'll have to go outside the agreement for more savings," Miller said. "But we would achieve those additional savings consistent with the spirit of the new agreement."

Miller added, however, that there was still a good chance that the deficit target could be reached without going beyond the spending limits outlined in the agreement.

That pact calls for a $46 billion deficit reduction in fiscal 1989, which begins Oct. 1. Of that total, $14 billion would come from new taxes and $3.5 billion from the sale of federal assets.

Gray, in an interview, said he had learned the administration was considering proposing additional reductions in Medicare spending of as much as $1.2 billion and in farm programs of up to $100 million beyond the agreement, claiming the original tabulations didn't provide enough savings.

Senior administration officials "sat in at the time the items were written," Gray said. "They approved the levels of funding for Medicare and agriculture in December. The president signed it, didn't he? Why, now, in January, are we hearing that Congress didn't quite do what they expected?"

According to administration officials speaking only on condition they not be named, the 1989 budget draft:

—Recycles a variety of former Reagan proposals, including sale to the private sector of Amtrak rail passenger service, the government's naval petroleum reserves and some regional power authorities.

—Calls for a restructuring of the Legal Services Corp., including lower levels of funding, but does not repeat earlier Reagan budget proposals calling for its complete elimination.

Thousands still stranded by storm

DALLAS (AP) — A winter storm that turned roads into skating rinks and snarled rush-hour traffic proved a boon for hotels who put up stranded travelers and commuters.

At least one downtown Dallas hotel offered a special storm rate of half what it usually charges for a room.

"We're doing it so that people would be able to afford staying downtown and not have to chance getting home," said Krista Hall of the Sheraton, whose 350 rooms were full Wednesday night.

"I bought a razor and a brush — that's all I've got," said C.D. Lively, 54, of Garland, whose company elected to put him and five co-workers up at the Sheraton.

"Sure, we'd rather be home, but the company needs somebody at work tomorrow," Lively said. "And we'll be here tomorrow night if we have to."

Dallas-area schools closed early

DALLAS (AP) — A federal plan for restructuring Texas' savings and loans has been only partially completed and may not be finished until the end of January, regulators say.

M. Danny Wall, chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, said in November that officials wanted to complete the study, as well as several government-assisted buyouts, by the end of 1987.

But so far, regulators have completed only the Dec. 16 acquisition of Mount Pleasant Savings and Loan Association by Sulphur Springs Loan and Building Association, in which $3.9 million in federal assistance was provided.

David Colgren, a spokesman for the Federal Home Loan Bank of Dallas, said Wednesday that officials would not comment on the study until it is finished. He said the end of January is only a target date and the study could take even longer.

While regulators formulate the Texas strategy, industry sources close to the Dallas bank said officials are trying to expedite a plan to merge four to six troubled S&Ls into First Texas Savings Association, a $3.5 billion Dallas thrift.

Another plan to merge troubled Alamo Savings Association of San Antonio into a healthier thrift also is under consideration, the Dallas Morning News on Wednesday quoted sources as saying.

S&L executives, many of whom have submitted proposals to acquire troubled thrifts, are becoming increasingly anxious about when federal regulators will act.

"Everybody is anticipating when the problems will be confronted and the resolutions will begin," said C. Todd Miller, vice chairman of the Dallas bank and chairman, president and chief executive officer of Southwest Savings Association of Dallas.

The Texas study is being conducted by the Dallas bank under the direction of consultant Ellis T. "Bud" Gravette.

Gravette completed a study in 1982 for the New York superintendent of banks dealing with the structure of the savings bank industry in New York City. During that period, he was chairman and chief executive of Bowers Savings Bank in New York, which he restructured.

Sources close to the Dallas bank told the Morning News that there have been numerous computer analyses examining how the most troubled Texas S&Ls could be merged with healthier thrifts using financial assistance from the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corp.

In recent weeks, industry sources said Gravette and H. Joe Selby, a Dallas bank executive vice president, toured the state, calling on top managers of healthier thrifts to solicit their interest in participating in assisted acquisitions of S&Ls.

Regulators also conducted a survey of S&Ls to examine their branch networks so that duplicating facilities could be eliminated with mergers, sources close to the bank said.

Local Roundup

Merchandise stolen from residence

A burglar entering through a window screen at 203 Jowell St. stole $931 worth of merchandise between 10:30 p.m. Tuesday and 1:45 p.m. Wednesday, reported the Hereford police.

Other offenses reported were assault on S. Main in which no charges were filed; charges were filed for assault at the 800 block of Irving Street; and a terroristic threat occurred in the 600 block of Irving Street.

Police also reported three minor accidents and two citations were issued.

Electricity restored

Through joint efforts of Southwestern Public Service and Deaf Smith Electric Cooperative, most Hereford-area residents now have electricity after power was off for an hour in Hereford's northwestern quarter and in some rural areas served by DSEC.

SPS manager Troy Waddell said this morning that a 69KV line broke north of Hereford at 6:20, and, after locating the break, the crews were able to get most of the Hereford customers back on line at 7:12 a.m.

Most REC customers also had power restored this morning.

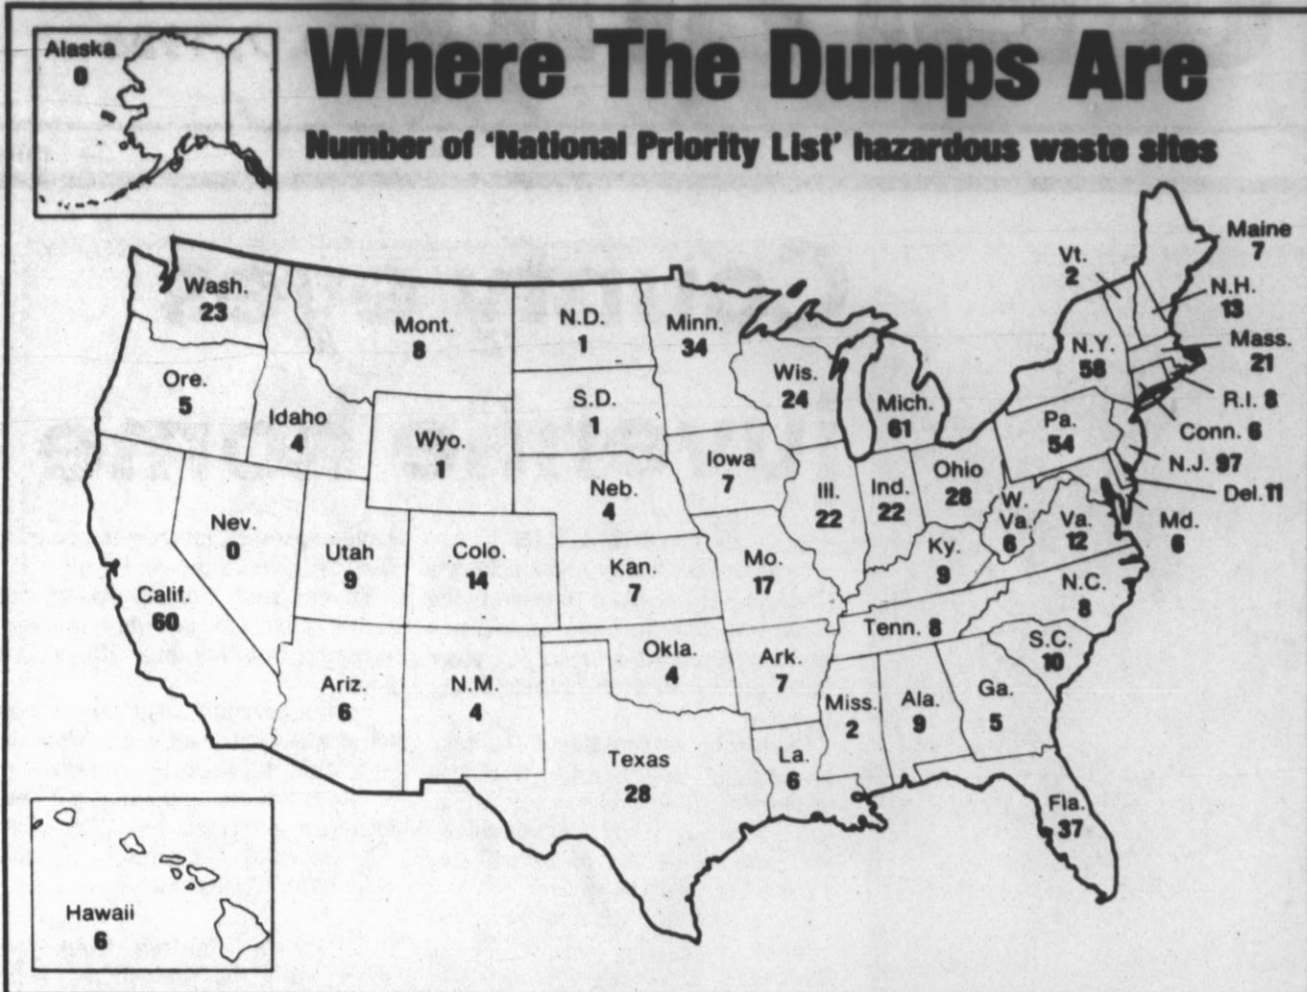

Come on, warmth

Tonight will be partly cloudy, with a low near five above. Winds will be light and variable.

Friday will be partly cloudy and not so cold, with a high of 28. Southwest wind will be 10 to 15 mph, turning to the north by noon.

This morning's low at KPAN was two above after a high Wednesday of 17.

More than 800 hazardous waste sites are considered priorities for cleanup. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency has estimated that it will cost an average of $8.8 million to clean up each of these sites where toxic chemicals have been dumped or buried.

Airlines scrutinized for performance

WASHINGTON (AP) — American Airlines and Southwest Airlines are the leaders in on-time performance after three months of government scrutiny, while Northwest and Delta are at the bottom of the latest rankings.

The Transportation Department's consumer scorecard for November, which was released Wednesday, showed American and Southwest as the only airlines landing more than 80 percent of their flights within 15 minutes of schedule. The two carriers were first and second in September and October as well.

Overall, the 14 airlines checked by the department reported that 76 percent of their flights arrived on time during November, about the same as in September but somewhat lower than October's 80.6 percent.

In the three months the ratings have been compiled, Northwest has been among the tardiest carriers. The airline, which also has ranked among the carriers with the most passenger complaints, was next to last in September, moved to 11th in October and dipped back to second from the bottom in November.

Delta Air Lines consistently ranks among the carriers with the fewest complaints against it by passengers (fifth best among 19 airlines during 1987), but its on-time record took a nose dive to the bottom in November, trailing the other 13 airlines.

Delta flights arrived on time 70.1 percent of the time during November. The airline has ranked among the half-dozen tardiest airlines in each of the three months and in November also had the highest percentage of chronically late flights that arrived late at least 80 percent of the time.

USAir and Pacific Southwest Airlines, which earlier this year was purchased by USAir but operates independently, also have fared poorly in the on-time competition. USAir was last in September, PSA was last in October and neither has moved higher than 10th.

Piedmont Airlines was among the top five carriers in both September and October but dropped to 12th in November. Its on-time performance fell from better than 80 percent to 73.2 percent.

Continental Airlines dropped from third behind American and Southwest with a better than 81 percent on-time record during the first two months to 9th in November with 74.5 percent of its flights arriving promptly.

Meanwhile, the number of chronically late flights declined from 150 flights in September to 71 in November.

Nevertheless, 13 flights during November were still late nine out of 10 times and one flight — Delta 943 from Cincinnati to Jackson, Miss. — arrived late each of the 28 times it flew.

One out of every four flights arrived late at the 27 airports for which airport-by-airport statistics were reported.

The best on-time performance was reported by the Charlotte, N.C., airport, Chicago's O'Hare and Hartford's T. F. Green International Airport, all with arrival rates of just over 80 percent.

The airport with the worst arrival record in November was New York's John F. Kennedy International, where flights arrived on time only 59.7 percent of the time. San Francisco International Airport, which had the worst record in October, with just over half its flights arriving on time, moved up a notch to 26th. It had 67.5 percent of its flights on time in November.

During November, the airlines reported 7.88 mishandled baggage complaints per 1,000 passengers compared with 6.94 complaints the previous month. United Airlines had the worst baggage record with 10.2 complaints per 1,000 passengers carried followed by Trans World Airlines with 10 per 1,000.

Also Wednesday, the department reported that consumer complaints against airlines to its consumer affairs office increased in December after declining for three months.

As it has during much of the year, Continental Airlines had the worst complaint record with 18.7 complaints per 100,000 passengers flown. Northwest Airlines followed with 15.78 and Eastern Airlines with 14.28.

During all of 1987, the consumer affairs office received 44,845 complaints about airline service, compared with 12,752 in 1986, according to the department.

Streetman executed at TDC

HUNTSVILLE, Texas (AP) — A Texas man who repeatedly said he wanted to die after he was convicted of killing a woman during a $1 burglary of her home got his wish when he was executed early today following delays caused by confusion over stay requests.

Robert Streetman, 27, of Silsbee, was pronounced dead at 3:26 a.m., seven minutes after the lethal drugs began flowing through his arms.

He had no final statement, replying only, "No, sir," when asked if he wished to make a statement.

The execution came only after cautious state officials, concerned that an unprecedented middle-of-the-night second appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court may have been pending, halted the execution about 2:10 a.m. as Streetman was being strapped to the death chamber gurney.

Less than 30 minutes earlier, the high court had deadlocked 4-4 on a request for a stay, apparently clearing the way for the nation's first execution this year.

A high court spokeswoman, Suzanne Ward, however, said no such second appeal was filed.

"We're willing to take as much time as possible," J. Kirk Brown, Texas Department of Corrections legal counsel, said.

Brown said once the Texas attorney general's office and the governor's office were certain no appeals were pending, the execution went ahead.

Brown said he understood Streetman was annoyed at the last-minute confusion.

"He was prepared to go forward with the process and had readied himself," Brown said.

According to department spokesman Charles Brown, "When they had the delay and they (officers) went to take him off the gurney, he said he wanted to get it over with."

Streetman was convicted of the December 1982 slaying of Christine Baker, 44, of Kountze, who died when a single shot was fired at her through a window while she sat knitting and watching television in the living room of her home, her dog lying at her side.

Streetman was among four men who planned to rob the house because they believed a large amount of money was kept there. Trial testimony, however, showed the only item taken was Mrs. Baker's purse, which contained $1.

They unknowingly missed $64,000 in cash and checks hidden in the house. It wasn't until more than a month after her death that relatives accidentally found the envelope with the money.

"It was a stupid thing," the slain woman's husband, Nyle, said this week of her death. "There was no purpose, no reason. Streetman to me was just a foul kid who went crazy — a total waste. His death won't correct anything."

Of the three others involved in the burglary, one received probation, another was granted immunity and the third is serving a 45-year prison term.

Streetman refused requests for interviews in recent months, but said in the past that he had been ready to die since the day he arrived on death row in 1983.

"Why stay here 10 years and still have the same thing happen in the end?" he said. "It's going to happen anyway."

Last week, he had a change of heart, and the Capital Punishment Clinic at the University of Texas Law School took over his case. On his final day, he changed his mind again, asking he be executed. Appeals continued, however, and federal judges in Beaumont and New Orleans denied his attorneys' requests for a reprieve, sending the case to the Supreme Court.

Streetman spent his final day in his cell, writing in a notebook and reading, and visited for 90 minutes with his three sisters. He also visited briefly with his mother before a final meal of scrambled eggs, flour tortillas and french fries.

Streetman, who came within 30 hours of execution two years ago, was a 9th-grade dropout who worked as an oil derrick hand. Records show he started using drugs when he was 8 and was in and out of trouble with the law since then.

R.F. "Bo" Horka, the Hardin County district attorney who prosecuted him, labeled Streetman a danger to society.

"I was there when he made his confession, and I couldn't believe how cold he was," Horka said. "He described how he just knelt down and calmly blew her brains out. It was like describing how he went hunting and shot a deer."

Streetman's execution was the first of the year in Texas, where 27 inmates have been put to death — more than any other state — since the U.S. Supreme Court allowed capital punishment to resume in 1976.

His death leaves 264 convicted killers on death row, including 10 with dates pending.

One of them is Ruben Cantu, who faced death early Friday for the 1984 slaying of a Bexar County man during a burglary. Cantu, who was the youngest person on death row when he arrived there in 1985 at age 18, lost a bid for a stay Wednesday when a state district judge in San Antonio refused his request. State attorneys, however, have said they expect the stay to be issued by an appeals court.

Doggett favors election

AUSTIN (AP) — Democrat Lloyd Doggett, seeking a political comeback as a candidate for the Texas Supreme Court, says he doesn't favor a system of appointing judges, a reform that has been urged for the high court.

"I have a great deal of confidence in the electorate," Doggett said Tuesday. "I believe that the people are going to select judges better, as a whole, rather than turning it over to some elite to select judges. I just don't believe that the people are too stupid to select their own judges."

Doggett, who surprised many Democrats by filing as a candidate in the March 8 primary for Place 1 on the Supreme Court, said the wave of negative attention the court has attracted in recent months was partially responsible for his decision.

"I don't think that anyone who watched the '60 Minutes' program ... could come away from that not concerned about what was presented," he said.

The Supreme Court in the past year has seen two justices publicly rebuked by the State Commission on Judicial Conduct. It has received criticism nationally for refusing to hear the appeal of Texaco Inc. in its multibillion-dollar legal battle with Pennzoil Co.

The court was the subject of a recent segment on the CBS-TV "60 Minutes" program, which examined the role campaign contributions have played in the election of judges. In addition, Chief Justice John Hill, a Democrat, stepped down Monday to campaign for a system of appointing judges.

"There have been all kinds of calls for reform," Doggett said. "There've been various warring factions talking about doing this or that with the future of this court — a good bit of negative publicity."

"It seems to me in all of this talk about reform and change that's necessary in the court, all the factions involved, that maybe the people need someone who can be involved on their behalf," he said.

Doggett, 41, an Austin lawyer, served in the Texas Senate from 1973 to 1984. The Democrat's U.S. Senate nominee in 1984, he was defeated by Republican Phil Gramm.

In the primary, Doggett will face former Congressman Jack Hightower and state District Judge Marsha Anthony of Kingswood.

Texas Republicans, led by newly appointed Chief Justice Thomas Phillips, are running what party officials call a "reform" slate for three of the four Supreme Court seats up for election this year.

Doggett said he was unimpressed by that effort.

"It's somewhat ironic to see them adopt a reform position when a number of the things that the court has done are really meaningful reforms to bring our laws into the 20th century," Doggett said.

"I've never really seen, in the course of my past work, Republicans taking up a mantle of reform on much of anything around here."

Bush questioned about Iran-Contra Affair on first campaign trip in '88

Vice President George Bush, on his first campaign trip of the new year, faced a drumbeat of questions about the Iran-Contra affair, while the Democratic presidential contenders turned their fire on one another.

Former Arizona Gov. Bruce Babbitt derided Illinois Sen. Paul Simon's budget plan as "laughable," and Jesse Jackson criticized Simon, Missouri Rep. Richard Gephardt and Tennessee Sen. Albert Gore Jr. for "abandoning the needy."

Bush, in Iowa, told reporters he expects more questions from Iran-Contra investigators, but said neither he nor President Reagan is the target of any probe.

"I will answer any question put to me by the special prosecutor," he said Wednesday. "It has been made clear to me I am not a target of any investigation, nor is the president."

Bush said he has not yet been contacted by special prosecutor Lawrence E. Walsh or any of his aides, "but I will be."

Earlier, in Goffstown, N.H., Bush refused to say whether he had been contacted by Walsh, telling reporters: "We don't discuss what happens at a grand jury."

The Washington Post reported today it had obtained classified notes from Bush's Dec. 18, 1986, interview with the Tower commission, a panel appointed by Reagan to investigate the Iran-Contra affair.

Notes of the Bush interview say he "did have a general knowledge of arms sales to Iran as a result of attendance at various briefings on the hostages and ... with the president," the newspaper said.

Bush told the Tower commission that if only half the allegations about Lt. Col. Oliver L. North were true, "he has run amok," the Post said. Bush told reporters Wednesday he considers North a hero, although the fired national security aide "clearly made some mistakes."

The Post said it obtained the Tower commission notes from someone who is not connected with any of the other presidential campaigns, Republican or Democratic.

Bush has consistently downplayed his role in the Iran-Contra affair, saying he was "out of the loop" on details and decision-making.

However, the committees last month released a White House memo dated from February 1986, which described Bush as supporting arms shipments to Iran.

Bush said earlier this week he would not reveal his private advice to the president on the arms sales. Bush has said he expressed "reservations" to the president about the affair but has declined to say exactly what he told Reagan.

Bush was campaigning today in Iowa, where a poll of registered Republicans indicated he was trailing Dole.

The same poll indicated Gary Hart has a 2-to-1 lead in Iowa over his closest Democratic rival. But Hart said it "doesn't mean a thing."

Jackson, campaigning in frigid northern Iowa, said Gore, Simon and Gephardt, along with the rest of Congress, had "surrendered to Reaganomics."

As a result of federal budget cuts, he said, 50,000 homes will not be weatherized this year.

"Today, one of the coldest days of the year, when you need heat ... they bring you a record of abandoning the needy," Jackson said.

Babbitt, meanwhile, accused Simon of "deliberate doubletalk" in a budget-balancing plan the Illinois senator unveiled Tuesday.

Babbitt, who has proposed a national sales tax, also ridiculed Simon's suggestion that, if necessary, the wealthiest 1 percent of taxpayers could pay an income tax surcharge.

"Soaking the rich and telling 99 out of 100 Americans they can get something for nothing is not a hard choice," Babbitt said.

Simon, campaigning in Fairfax, Va., said he hoped the surcharge would not be needed.

"It's a last resort, not a first resort," he said. "We're going to have a balanced budget."

After Taiwan shed the name Formosa, the strait that lies between it and the Chinese mainland was officially recognized as the Taiwan Strait, although it still appears on some maps as the Formosa Strait.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is a plea for compassion for the 71-year-old bore who turns every conversation into an opportunity to talk about World War II. He deserved better than you gave him.

I am not obsessed with the subject but I feel as he does. Nothing in my life was as important as my participation in that war. Although I have raised a fine family and owed a successful business, my service in that war was my only lasting contribution to the country that I love.

I talk about World War II, but only with those who were there. They are the only people who would understand. Forty years later, when I knelt among the crosses in Normandy, tears streaming down my face, people asked, "Did you know him?" I replied, "Yes, I knew them all."

Be patient with us, Ann. Our ranks are becoming thinner every day. Soon there will be none left of a generation that thought freedom was worth dying for.

If you print my letter, please withhold my name. I am — A Veteran in-Rockport, Tex.

DEAR FRIEND: Your gentle message was received and duly recorded. I'm sure I'll be more patient with World War II stories from now on. Thank you for a lesson in compassion and understanding.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We enjoy your column and often discuss it at dinner with our children, ages 17 and 9.

The problem is this: Our 17-year-old son has been asking for permission to invite his 16-year-old girlfriend to the house after school so they can study together.

I don't get home until 5:30 and my husband arrives about 30 minutes

SWEET POTATO PECAN PIE

- 4 eggs, divided
- 1 1/4 C. brown sugar, divided
- 2 C. cooked, mashed sweet potatoes
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. cinnamon
- 1/2 tsp. ginger
- 1/2 tsp. nutmeg
- 1/4 tsp. ground cloves
- 1 1/2 C. evaporated milk
- 2 (9-in.) unbaked pastry shells
- 3 T. butter or margarine
- 1 C. dark corn syrup
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 2 C. pecan halves

Beat 2 eggs slightly in large bowl. Add 3/4 cup brown sugar, sweet potato, salt and spices; mix well. Stir in evaporated milk. Pour mixture evenly into pastry shells. Bake at 425 degrees F. 15 minutes, reduce temperature to 375 degrees F. and bake additional 15-20 minutes. Meanwhile melt butter in saucepan over low heat. Remove from heat and stir in remaining brown sugar, corn syrup and vanilla until blended. Gradually beat in remaining eggs; set aside. Remove pies from oven. Carefully arrange single layer of pecan halves in circular pattern over sweet potato mixture. Pour sugar mixture over pecans, being careful not to disturb them. Return pies to 375 degree F. oven until knife inserted 1 inch from edge comes out clean, 15-25 minutes. Cool pies completely on wire racks. Refrigerate until serving time. Makes 2 pies.

later. "Tom" thinks we are old-fashioned because we have told him to study at the library.

Are we being too untrusting? Are we square? We will discuss your advice at the dinner table and let you know the results.—Santa Barbara Mother

DEAR MOTHER: I agree that "Tom" and his girlfriend should not be permitted to study in the house when there is no parent present. I do feel, however, that he deserves credit for asking. Some teenagers wouldn't have.

Although there may be no hidden agenda, it is unwise to overload the circuits. The male reaches his peak of sexual potency at age 17. I found this difficult to believe but Kinsey made his discovery years ago and his documentation has held up. All 16-year-old girls should know that 17-year-old boys can be hazardous to their health.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was deeply disappointed with your answer to the mother whose son's dog died and he wanted to know if he would see his pet in heaven.

With all the fine theologians around why did you go to a lay person who happens to be on the board of Notre Dame to ask if pets and masters are reunited in heaven? Would you go to a hardware store for information about a heart transplant?

We don't know much about the next world but people who believe that "heaven is whatever you want it to be" perpetuate the notion that heaven is nothing.

You are going to get a lot of critical mail on this, Ann. While your batting average is phenomenal you really struck out this time.—Rev. Ned W. Hawbecker, First United Methodist Church, Beardstown, Ill.

DEAR RED, NED: I thought Andy McKenna's response was comforting but the clergy didn't care for it.

I tapped one of the country's most distinguished theologians, Dr. Martin Marty of the University of Chicago, and this is what he said:

"No one knows what heaven is like but you must believe that what God has in store for you include everything you love. Trust Him. He will not fail you."

Feeling pressured to go "all the way" because everyone else is doing it? You're not alone. For answers to your questions about sex, and to learn how your peers really feel about it, write for Ann Landers' newly revised booklet, "Sex and the Teenager." Telephone information service to begin soon

HOPELINE is a new toll-free telephone information service of The Don and Sybil Harrington Cancer Center. The service provides residents of the Texas Panhandle and surrounding states with a direct link to the information and resources they need for state of the art cancer care close to home.

The service begins Monday, Jan. 18, and will operate Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. - 4:00 p.m. An answering machine will record caller inquiries during other hours.

The HOPELINE may be called to answer questions about advances in cancer treatment, research updates, and cancer prevention and early detection. The service is tied to national information sources, and literature from the National Cancer Institute and the American Cancer Society are provided free of charge. The focus of HOPELINE, however, is on resources available locally.

"The HOPELINE will bring a greater awareness of where cancer information is available. So many times cancer patients don't know where to go for help, especially if they have just been diagnosed," explains Kelly Hilton, Cancer Information Specialist. "Above and beyond cancer information, the HOPELINE also provides resources in the local and outlying areas for a number of needs the cancer patient or family may have."

Hilton will direct the HOPELINE and answer most of the inquiries personally.

She spent months gathering resource information locally and throughout the region which may assist cancer patients and their families. Any organization or group which has not been contacted, but has services available, is urged to contact Hilton at the HOPELINE.

"The real strength of HOPELINE is support from staff and physicians at the Cancer Center. Because the staff is involved, callers get the most current information," says Hilton. If answers are not readily available for a caller, Hilton conducts research and works with experts at the Harrington Cancer Center to find the information quickly.

"Faith has been succinctly defined as 'the look of the heart towards Christ crucified,' and gratitude as 'the memory of the heart.'" But no man can have the gratitude without the faith, nor the faith without the gratitude."

Leadership seminar set Jan. 16 in Canyon

Members of the Texas PTA Districts 8 and 14 will meet Jan. 16 at Canyon Junior High, Canyon, for a Leadership Mini-Seminar.

The workshop, led by State PTA President Kathryn Whitfill and her Executive staff, is one of seven being held throughout the state during January as part of the organization's continuing emphasis on training PTA members in their work with schools and communities.

"The mini-seminars will offer a unique opportunity to show many of the less populated areas of the state what the PTA is about and what the Association can do for its members," Mrs. Whitfill said.

Texas PTA has 750,000 members in its 18 statewide PTA Districts.

Any interested PTA members, regardless of district affiliation, may attend any of the scheduled seminars.

Registration costs will be $3.00 for those pre-registering. On-site registration is $3.50. Participants must be members of Texas PTA, unless otherwise approved by President Whitfill.

Following registration from 9:30 to 10 a.m., participants will attend workshops from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Those attending should bring a sack lunch; the Districts will provide coffee.

Topics for the workshops include procedures in conducting elections, handling PTA money and keeping records, and other duties of PTA positions. State and National PTA publications that supplement the workshop materials will be on sale. For more information, PTAs should contact the presidents of District 8, Sandy Crawford, 4708 Buffalo, Amarillo 79109 (806/356-4140); District 14, Sandy Summers, 4412 45th Street, Lubbock 79414 (806/795-3990); or the State PTA Office, 406 West 11th, Austin 78701 (512/476-6769).

Counties in PTA District 8 include Armstrong, Briscoe, Carson, Childress, Collingsworth, Dallam, Deaf Smith, Donley, Gray, Hall, Hansford, Hartley, Hemphill, Hutchinson, Lipscomb, Moore, Ochiltree, Oldham, Potter, Randall, Roberts, Sherman and Wheeler.

PTA District 14 counties are Bailey, Borden, Castro, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Floyd, Gaines, Garza, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock, Lynn, Motley, Parmer, Swisher, Terry and Yoakum.

Similar workshops will be held on the same date in Brownwood (Districts 6 and 18) and in Baytown (Districts 4 and 11).

Workshop presenters include Mrs. Whitfill; Mary Short, first vice president, Richardson; and Shirley Igo, second vice president, Plainview; and leaders from the host PTA Districts.

Other mini-seminars were held January 9 in Baytown (Districts 4 and 11), in Brownwood (Districts 6 and 18) and at Northwest High (near Justin, Tx. for Districts 1, 2 and 13). Also meeting January 16 were Districts 3 and 12 in Kilgore.

Mini-seminars will be held January 23 in Huntsville (Districts 4, 9, 11 and 12) and in Victoria (Districts 5 and 16).

Social Security

Have you a question about Social Security? Address it to Jim Talbot, Manager, Social Security Office, Suite 16, 3601 W. 15th, Amarillo, Texas 79102. You will receive an answer in this column or by mail.

Question: My Social Security check almost always gets here by the 3rd of the month. Today is the 5th and my check still hasn't come. It has never been this late. What should I do?

Answer: It doesn't happen often, but once in a while checks are late. If your check isn't delivered by the 6th of the month, get in touch with any Social Security office. The people there will help you find out what happened and see that you get your money as soon as possible.

Question: My county job is covered by Social Security. At retirement, I'll get a county pension and I'll also be eligible for a wife's benefit on my husband's Social Security record. How will the government pension offset affect my situation?

Answer: The government pension offset only applies to Social Security dependent's and survivors' benefits, so your county pension will not affect any benefit you get on your own Social Security record. Also, it will not affect any benefit you receive based on your husband's Social Security record because your government employment is covered by Social Security. The offset only applies to government employment not covered by Social Security.

Question: I retired earlier this year. I also worked part time all year. I understand that I may have to pay taxes on half of my Social Security benefits. Will Social Security send me a statement of my benefits for the year without my contacting them? If so, when?

Answer: Yes. You will receive a statement of earnings sometime in February 1988. It is Social Security Benefit Statement Form SSA-1099. It will show the total amount of your benefits for 1987 as well as any deductions for things like Medicare premiums.

Question: Are the SSI resource limits going up in 1988?

Answer: Yes. The limit for a single person will rise from $1,800 to $1,900; the limit for a couple will go up to $2,850, from $2,700.

Question: My father gets SSI and is on a waiting list for a Federally subsidized apartment. Will the subsidy count as income against his SSI payment?

Answer: Probably not. Most housing assistance from Federal housing programs run by State and local subdivisions is not counted in determining the amount of an SSI recipient's income.

Question: I've been getting SSI checks for about 5 years. Every so often the Social Security office calls me in to fill out what seems to be the same papers asking the same information about my income and resources. Is that really necessary?

Answer: Yes, it's necessary. Since SSI is a program based on need, your case must be reviewed from time to time to be sure that you're still eligible and being paid correctly.

Question: I'm suppose to get physical therapy, but I'm not well enough to travel to a hospital. Will Medicare pay for it if I receive the therapy at home?

Answer: As long as you are confined to your home and a doctor determines that you require physical therapy, Medicare may help pay the expense of care provided by a participating home health agency. For more information, call any Social Security office.

Question: I got out of the hospital last month, and now I've got to go back in for additional treatment. Will I have to pay the $520 hospital insurance deductible again?

Answer: No. The hospital insurance deductible is charged only for your first admission to a hospital in each benefit period. If you are discharged from a hospital and then readmitted before the benefit period ends, you do not have to pay the deductible again. A benefit period ends when you have been out of a hospital or skilled nursing facility for 60 days in a row.

Question: My husband had major surgery recently and has to go to see his doctor next week for a post-operative check-up. I'm worried about his making the trip in our car. Will Medicare pay for an ambulance from our house to the doctor's office?

Answer: No. Medicare's medical insurance does not pay for ambulance transportation from your house to a doctor's office. Under certain circumstances, medical insurance will help pay for ambulance travel from the scene of an accident to a hospital, from your house to a hospital or skilled nursing facility, between hospital and skilled nursing facilities or from a hospital or skilled nursing facility to your house.

Question: I didn't sign up for Medicare medical insurance when I got Medicare hospital insurance. How can I sign up for it now?

Answer: You may sign up for it during any "general enrollment period." A general enrollment period is held from January 1 through March 31 each year. However, your monthly premium will be 10 percent higher than the basic premium for each 12-month period you could have had medical insurance but were not enrolled. Moreover, your protection will not begin until July 1 of the year you enroll.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

This year I saved my Mother's Day and birthday cards and added them to the Christmas display over the holidays.

I taped mine to the banisters and that way my family and I enjoyed all of the cards.

After the season I bundled them up and sent them to an organization that asked for them. — Luclea E. Weslugh, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Would my readers please let me know which organizations they send their cards to? I'd love to pass it along. — Heloise

HELPFUL SPONGE

Dear Heloise: When I am transplanting plants into new pots, I place a small piece of sponge over the drain hole. Sometimes I cut it round so it will fit snugly in the bottom of the pot.

The sponge keeps the soil from filtering out but still lets the water drain. It has proved to be an easy solution instead of searching for small rocks. — Bernice Thomas, Minneapolis, Minn.

LEG WARMERS

Dear Heloise: I was bundling up my 2-year-old to go out and she wanted some leg warmers like her big sister had.

I got the idea to take a "worn in the toe" pair of my knee socks, cut off the foot part and they worked great on her little legs. She was thrilled to look just like "Sissy."

She is 4 now and still wears them for her dance class or when she needs to stay extra warm. — Jan Borage, Fulton, Miss.

LAUNDRY HELP

Dear Readers: With all the kids home on vacation, do you feel up to your ears in laundry? If so, I have a handy pamphlet, Heloise's Rules of Laundry, that could save the day. Send $1 and a self-addressed, stamped, legal-sized envelope to Heloise/Laundry, P.O. Box 19765, Irvine, Calif. 92713 and get out from under. — Heloise

CRISPY LETTUCE

Dear Heloise: I accidentally made a money-saving discovery recently.

I placed a head of lettuce in the crisper in a brown paper bag. One week later it was still crisp and fresh as the day I bought it. The brown bag absorbs the moisture and keeps it away from the lettuce.

I have continued to do this and the results are the same. No more trimming off brown spots or waste, even after weeks in the bag. — Darleen Williams, Canon City, Colo.

WISH THEY WOULD

Dear Heloise: I wish they would put ketchup in jars so that it could be spooned out. Also salad dressing such as blue cheese and Thousand Island dressing. Why must they be in narrow-neck bottles?

Now that they have helped us with paper cups and holders for our bathrooms, how about paper guest towels and holders? I know I would be more comfortable using a disposable paper towel rather than soiling a pretty guest towel. And how great if you're busy and forget to check to see if there are clean guest towels at all times. — A Reader, San Diego, Calif.

I agree with you, especially about having pretty, disposable hand towels in a guest bathroom. — Heloise

SEWING BADGES

Dear Heloise: My son belongs to a Cub Scout pack. I had much trouble sewing on his little patches until I found this helper.

I slip a piece of cardboard into the pocket to keep from sewing the pocket to the shirt.

Sure has proved helpful to me. — A Faithful Reader, Memphis, Tenn.

LETTER WRITING

Dear Heloise: My sister and I are both busy with several young children, housekeeping, church and civic jobs and found that it was getting harder to keep up with our letters all year. So, we give them wrapped up at Christmas as a record of the year's events.

It gives us incentive to write because we're keeping a diary at the same time! — Polly Willardson, Ephraim, Utah

EXTRA GRAVY

Dear Heloise: When I am cooking a turkey or roast, there are usually enough pan drippings to make double gravy, pour the excess in a plastic margarine tub and store it in the freezer.

Then whenever I need the gravy — as a base or as a rich addition to soups and stews — it's handy. — Zelda Nordlinger, Richmond, Va.

SWEAT CLOTHES

Dear Heloise: When I do laundry I always tie the strings together on sweatshirts and sweatpants before putting them in the washer or dryer.

This will keep them from pulling out of the garment. — Ronnie Schultz, Jersey City, N.J.

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, P.O. Box 795000, San Antonio, Texas 78279. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

Weather to be factor in Chicago-Washington game

By PHYLLIS MENSING

AP Sports Writer
SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — The Chicago Bears practiced indoors while the Washington Redskins practiced outdoors, but both coaches hope the Midwestern cold won't chill their game plans for Sunday's NFL playoff meeting in Chicago.

"The weather is the weather. Both teams are outdoor teams," Redskins Coach Joe Gibbs said in a conference call Wednesday. But Bears Coach Mike Ditka said wind and subzero temperatures could change the game.

"If it's as cold as it's been, it's going to be a problem holding on to the football, period," Ditka said.

The Bears practiced indoors this week at Notre Dame, the Redskins outdoors in Herndon, Va., where temperatures were in the teens.

If the cold spell continues, Ditka said, "It's going to be a problem kicking the football, and it's probably going to be a problem catching the football."

"If it's a bad cold factor and a wind, I think the team that can effectively control the ball and not turn it over is going to be the team with the best chance of winning."

The Redskins beat the Bears 27-13 in the playoffs last year, and Ditka said turnovers and big plays made the difference. Both clubs enter Sunday's game 11-4.

"Washington is a big-play team," he said. "Basically what they've done is make the big plays when they've had to make them."

But Ditka expects the Bears to have some big-play potential of their own Sunday. Speedy Willie Gault, who scored the Bears' only touchdown against the Redskins last year, will be used on kickoff returns along with Dennis Gentry. Ditka said. Quarterback Jim McMahon and wide receiver Dennis McKinnon, who were injured last year, will be ready.

The Bears will be without running back Neal Anderson, who has a knee injury. Ditka said Mark Rodenhauser, who has snapped ball for special teams in the past two games, is questionable with a bruised shoulder.

Gibbs said he's seen no letup in the Chicago defense, even though the Bears made several lineup changes before their last regular-season game against the Los Angeles Raiders.

"I think every time we've gone against the Bears defense I have nothing but respect for them," Gibbs said.

"I think the fact that they were able to put other players in there and do so well is because they're deeper than most people," Gibbs said.

For Houston Oilers

Highsmith emerges as offensive force

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — Alonzo Highsmith's sudden emergence as an offensive force for the Houston Oilers has not gone unnoticed by Denver Broncos Coach Dan Reeves.

"I think personally, he's the best true fullback to come out of the draft since I've been in pro football," said Reeves, who has played or coached in the NFL 22 years.

After a lengthy contract holdout and an adjustment period this season, Highsmith started his fourth game against Seattle in the AFC wild card game last Sunday.

He led the Oilers in rushing with 74 yards on 12 carries for the first time and could figure in an expanded running game when the Broncos host the Oilers in this Sunday's AFC semifinal playoff game at Mile High Stadium.

"There have been an awful lot of good running backs that came out and played halfback and tailback," Reeves said. "But he's the best fullback and that's a dimension that really causes you a problem.

"He has the speed to go outside, the strength to run inside and he's a tremendous blocker for (Mike)

49ers outplayed Vikings in 1985, 1986 playoffs, but lost

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP) — For the last two years, the San Francisco 49ers have played like gangbusters against the Minnesota Vikings. They outgained them and generally wrought havoc upon them.

What they didn't do was win. "It shows two things: You haven't won it until the game is over, and the Vikings are among the most resourceful teams in football," 49ers Coach Bill Walsh said just a few days before his team meets the Vikings in the NFC divisional playoff game.

In 1985, the defending Super Bowl champions carried a 12-game winning streak into their opening game with the Vikings. The 49ers went on to outgain the Vikings by 221 yards — and still lost, 28-21.

In 1986, the 49ers again met the Vikings and proceeded to take a 413-306 yardage advantage when kicker Ray Werschling lined up a 38-yard field goal try on the last play of regulation time to break a 24-24 tie.

The kick hit the left upright, the 49ers lost the coin toss in overtime, and the Vikings went on to a 27-24 victory on a Chuck Nelson field goal.

Although both losses were tough, the first one hurt the most, and the Vikings 3-13 season the previous year added more sting for the 49ers.

"We were Super Bowl champs and that sort of popped our bubble," linebacker Riki Ellison said.

"It was tough because all of a sudden everybody was jumping on us. 'What's wrong with the 49ers?'" linebacker Mike Walter said. The 49ers, who had pounded the Miami Dolphins in the Super Bowl just seven months earlier, were favored by 11 points that day.

Rozier. And with his size, there's no linebacker he can't block." Highsmith, 6-1, 235, appreciates Reeves' compliments, but he's not going to start reading his press clippings.

"That's a great compliment coming from someone like Dan Reeves," Highsmith said. "But I'm not going to let that take my mind off this game. Sometimes, if you hear a lot of comments and you read about yourself before a game, then you get out and mess up."

Highsmith "messed up" in his first pro appearance. He carried twice, gained 1 yard and lost a fumble.

Highsmith then retreated to the sidelines and Coach Jerry Glanville brought him along slowly. He's started producing at playoff time.

The Oilers, 10-6, reached the playoffs with a wide-open passing attack featuring 4-wide receivers on many downs.

Highsmith wouldn't be bothered if the Oilers chose to play the clock against the Broncos, keeping quarterback John Elway on the sidelines.

"I think it's imperative that our offense control the ball for a large amount of the game and keep Elway off the field," Highsmith said. "Instead of giving him 70 plays, give him 50 and keep the ball out of his hands."

The Oilers defeated Seattle 23-20 in overtime in last Sunday's wild card game, when they controlled the ball 47 minutes, 44 seconds.

The Oilers worked out in 40-degree temperatures Wednesday with a deafening roar of crowd noise in the background, simulating the hostile crowd they'll face on Sunday.

But Glanville wants his team ready.

"The crowd can take away what you do in a game," Glanville said. "This gives us a chance to work on audibles and signals."

It had another side effect for receiver Drew Hill: "It gave me a headache."

ASK DR. LAMB

Breasts on Men?

BY LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB: I have a problem that is very embarrassing to me. Because of it, I am careful not to get in any situation where I will have to take off my shirt in front of other people. In the summer, I avoid the swimming pool or just catching a few rays for fear someone will see me. It doesn't bother my wife, but it bothers me a lot. It doesn't seem to affect my sex life, but I really wonder why I have such large breasts that I could wear my wife's bra?

Otherwise I feel fine. I have a good beard, am muscular and in good health. I am a little overweight. What could be the cause of this change? What can I do about it?

DEAR READER: Enlargement of male breasts, gynecomastia, is not all that rare. Young men often have enlargement of breast tissue related to puberty. That disappears. But men past 50, and some younger, are again prone to such enlargement.

It makes some difference whether it is enlargement because of fat deposits or real breast tissue. If it is fat, it is called false gynecomastia.

Breast development is dependent upon the balance of testosterone (male hormone) and estrogen (female hormone). Males and females form both hormones. When a man is overweight, some of his testosterone is converted to estrogen, and that contributes to the development of true gynecomastia. So losing excess body fat helps to control both true and false gynecomastia.

There are some important medical conditions that will cause breast enlargement in the male. There are also some medicines that will do it, including the popular Tagamet used to treat stomach acidity and ulcers. Excess alcohol can also be a factor. I do think it is worth reviewing with your doctor. In most cases it is not a serious problem and may be just one more manifestation of obesity in the male.

For more details on this condition, read THE HEALTH LETTER 31-01. I'm sending you a free copy. Others who want this issue can send $1 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to THE HEALTH LETTER, Dept 31-01, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Will you please tell me what causes yeast? And is it catching? What is yeast?

DEAR READER: Our world is populated with living organisms that we cannot see with the naked eye. This includes viruses, such as cold viruses; rickettsiae carried by ticks, lice and the like that cause diseases such as Rocky Mountain spotted fever; bacteria and fungi. Many of these are not harmful to man. Yeast belongs to the fungi group, which also includes the fungi that cause athlete's foot.

You cannot escape exposure to yeast. Most people have some yeast organisms in the body, on the body and in body cavities. Their presence usually does not cause any symptoms or adverse effects. Only when they multiply enormously, as in yeast infections of the vagina, do they cause a problem. Controlling the yeast population eliminates the symptoms. Or yeast organisms may cause white patches in the mouth — thrush — in babies.

Repeated exposure to yeast organisms might cause a yeast infection in susceptible individuals. But the hysteria over yeast organisms in the bowel and elsewhere is unwarranted.

DEAR DR. LAMB: Eight months ago I took a glucose tolerance test that revealed I have reactive hypoglycemia. My fasting glucose level was 63. At 30 minutes it was 150. At 1 hour it was below my fasting level — only 58. The next four hourly readings fluctuated between 70 and 80.

I have maintained a high protein diet with a little carbohydrate and eat six small meals a day. I still do not feel alert and energetic as I had hoped. I have trouble with my memory and feel tired at the end of the day.

DEAR READER: The values you have quoted for your glucose levels are not compatible with a diagnosis of low blood glucose (reactive hypoglycemia). It is quite normal for one reading after ingesting glucose to be lower than your fasting level. I cannot overemphasize the point that the diagnosis of hypoglycemia is abused.

I note from the rest of your letter that you are an intelligent, educated woman and you can easily understand what affects your glucose levels. I'm sending you my new Special Report 88, Your Blood Glucose Level and Hypoglycemia, which will explain what your blood glucose levels should be and what is and is not abnormal. Others who want this report should send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to THE HEALTH LETTER, Dept 88, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

The diagnosis of reactive hypoglycemia requires that you have symptoms at the time you have abnormally low glucose levels and that these symptoms disappear when you are given glucose. Additional tests are often required as well, including measuring your insulin level at the time of symptoms.

Part 3 of series

A review of sports in Hereford in 1987

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles reviewing the sports in Hereford in 1987. Part 3 includes the months of August through October.

AUGUST

Mark Artho, a 1987 Hereford High School graduate, was selected to play in the Greenbelt Bowl. A running back and kicker on the 1986 Whiteface team that went to the state semifinals, Artho was one of 47 football players from 35 communities chosen for the game.

Artho scored with a 10-yard touchdown run in the West team's 29-7 win over the East. Artho also kicked two extra points.

First place finishers in the Cowgirl Hall of Fame All-Girl Rodeo were Jan Youren in bareback riding, Gayle Brittain in calf roping, Nancy Hill in barrel racing, Jan Burns in steer unloading, Tammi Matteri in bull riding, and Brittain and Margaret Swain in team roping.

The Harris Rating System's preseason rankings put Canyon and Jasper in a tie for first place, with Hereford in third place, in class 4A high school football.

A former Hereford Whiteface football player, Lee Brockman, was named to the GTE-Southwest Conference All-Academic team. Brockman would be a junior linebacker for the Texas Longhorns in the 1987 season.

Winners in the annual Greg Black Memorial 10-Kilometer and Two-Mile Fun Runs, organized by the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA, were Wilson Kiger of Plainview in the 10-kilometer run and Henry Galpin of Amarillo in the two-mile run.

The first tournament organized by the Hereford Men's Golf Association was held in August. Frankie Bezner and Bernie Orel won a two-man, three-club scramble.

The all-around titles, for all of the Hereford Riders Club junior rodeos in the summer, were won by Jana Johnson of Hereford and Mark Eakin of Spearman.

As the high school football season was about to begin, Hereford High School was highly rated in another poll, third in the state in the Associated Press poll.

The Hereford High School junior varsity volleyball team won a tournament in Lubbock, scoring wins over three Lubbock teams - Coronado, Estacado, and Monterey.

Kelby Hagar, Melissa Grijalva, Kevin Kelso, Jayson Mines, and Scott Burkhalter won championships in the Hereford City Junior Golf Tournament.

James Salinas claimed his seventh title in nine years in the Hereford City Men's Golf Championship. Salinas fired a two-round score of 133. Paul Hubbard was first in the net standings.

The Casa Ramirez & Sons team won the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA men's softball summer league championship.

SEPTEMBER

Hereford High School's varsity football team opened the 1987 season with a 26-0 victory over Andrews - a win that later would be forfeited because of the use of an ineligible player. A District 1-4A win over Pampa, 37-8, the first district game of the season, would also be forfeited for the same reason.

Steve Nieman and Ron Rogers won the Hereford Country Club Member-Guest Tournament, edging the team of Ken Hagar and Tom Simons by one stroke. John Stagner and Gary Stagner won the first flight by two strokes over Scott Keeling and Lin Cope.

James Bischof and Robin Madison won the Couples Scramble at Pitman Municipal Golf Course, four strokes ahead of the second place team, Jackie Coffey and Sandie Coffey. Buddy Lamberson and Alma Lamberson won the first flight.

A big blow to the Hereford Whitefaces was suffered on Sept. 25 when they lost a District 1-4A football game to Frenship, 23-7 at Wolfforth. The game was interrupted for nearly an hour and a half by a power outage at the stadium.

Four days later, the news of the football ineligibility came forth when Hereford High School officials found an error in an athlete's record of credits. The athlete, listed on the roster as a senior, was not a starter on the Whiteface team and had played late in the game in the wins over Andrews and Pampa.

The error in the athlete's credits showed him one credit short of senior status. The forfeit of the district win over Pampa would end up as a factor in the class 4A playoffs chase, since Hereford would later beat Borger and would have gone into the playoffs because of a second place tie in the district standings.

Late in September, the Hereford High School varsity girls' volleyball team moved into second place in the District 1-4A standings, after defeating Levelland, 15-11, 15-3.

OCTOBER

The Whiteface football team, faced with a must-win situation in each district game the rest of the season, started over against Lubbock Dunbar. The Herd bounced back from adversity with a 25-13 win over the Panthers, and then wiped out Levelland 28-0 in the first half en route to a 28-6 victory.

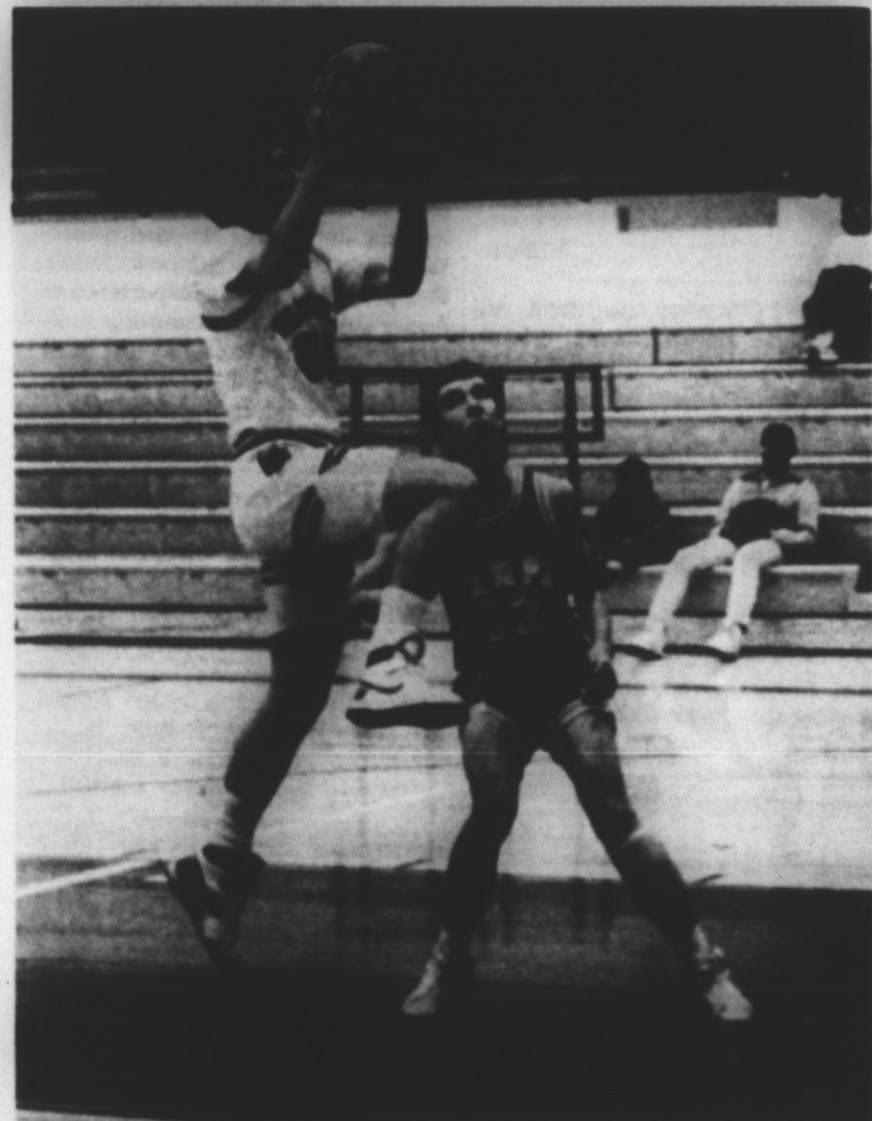

The La Plata Junior High School eighth grade girls' volleyball team won the Dumas tournament and also the Clovis tournament during the month of October.

A heartbreaking loss was suffered by the HHS varsity volleyball team to Dumas, dropping Hereford out of second place in the district standings. Hereford lost game one of the match, 15-13, came back to win game two, 15-11, and then held a 12-10 lead in game three before losing 15-12.

Tom Simons carded a gross score of 72 to win the Hereford Men's Golf Association Fall Classic. Bob Baker placed first in the net standings with a 66.

Hereford High School won the District 1-4A tennis championship for the second year in a row. In a battle of district unbeaten on Tuesday, Oct. 13, Hereford beat Canyon 10-8.

The match was tied 8-8 with two boys' singles still being played. Brian Thomas and Brad Barrett won their matches to give Hereford the two-match edge over Canyon.

A 20-Point Effort

Jason Scott (24) lays up two of his 20 points for the Hereford High School junior varsity boys' basketball team in a 74-49 victory over Pampa on Saturday. Scott and teammate Todd Schroeder both had 20-point efforts, and each made one three-point goal. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen) no losses in district play. At that point, La Plata had a 7-1 overall record.

The Hereford Whiteface football team played like a playoff-bound team when they upset the Lubbock Estacado Matadors, 7-6, on Friday, Oct. 30. Many Hereford team members accomplished big plays in the game, particularly on defense.

Another District 1-4A championship for Hereford High School was achieved by the girls' cross country team. Hereford was paced to the victory by first place finisher Nancy Garza, and also by Alina Benitez, third place; Yvonne Padilla, sixth place; Sally Garza, 10th place; and Carolyn Rieves, 11th place. The district title qualified Hereford for the regional meet, along with a member of the boys' team, Benny Carrasco, who placed fifth in the 1-4A meet.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Bill Cosby has donated a total of $1.3 million to Florida A&M University and three other historically black colleges, a university spokesman announced.

Cosby presented a $325,000 check to Florida A&M President Frederick Humphries after dinner at the actor's New York City townhouse, university spokesman Eddie Jackson said Tuesday.

Cosby and his wife, Camille, also gave $325,000 each to Howard University in Washington, D.C., Shaw University in Raleigh, N.C., and Central State University in Wilberforce, Ohio, according to Jackson.

Humphries said Cosby made the gift last month but asked that an announcement be delayed.

"It was a wonderful evening," said Humphries, who was not told in advance what Cosby would donate to the university.

Cosby gave $1.2 million last year to Fisk University.

The star of "The Cosby Show" holds a bachelor's degree from Temple University and a doctorate in education from the University of Massachusetts.

NEW YORK (AP) — A newfound ability to express anger has left Ann-Margret feeling better about herself, the actress says in the current issue of "W" magazine.

"A few years ago, I woke up extremely angry. There were a bunch of reasons, personal things," the 46-year-old actress said. "I finally started speaking my mind."

"If I was angry, I talked about it, instead of keeping it inside," she said. "I can't live with that any more. I just talk to the person I'm angry with, and then it's over."

"I'm a hundred times better now than I was," she added.

The actress was interviewed in Toronto, where she is filming "A New Life," a movie starring, directed and written by Alan Alda.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Gary Shandling's hit show is moving to network television in March, Fox Broadcasting says.

The award-winning "It's Garry

Shandling's Show," which was rejected by the major networks before it became a hit on the Showtime cable channel, will join Fox's Sunday night lineup on March 6, Fox announced Tuesday.

The shows will be repeats of those presented on the Showtime pay network, which will retain exclusive rights to the fresh Shandling programs, said Showtime spokeswoman Lauren Loff.

Like the old "Jack Benny Show," it features the star talking to the audience about his show.

The show was turned down by the networks before its 1986 debut on Showtime.

It has been honored by the International Film and Television Festival of New York for outstanding programming and voted the best comedy series of 1987 by the Television Critics Association.

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — "Crocodile Dundee" star Paul Hogan drew criticism today from aborigines for a remark he made about Australia's native people during a television program marking the country's bicentennial.

Hogan, interviewed on "Australia Live — A Celebration of a Nation," said Australians would become so fed up with bicentennial celebrations that "we might as well give the land back to the abos."

The four-hour program was broadcast live around the world.

"People just have to learn in this country that the term 'abos' is offensive and they shouldn't use it when talking about aborigines," said Gary Foley, an aboriginal activist.

Aboriginal Affairs Minister Gerry Hand agreed Hogan's remark was offensive.

"I don't go much on Mr. Hogan. I don't think he's done much for the aboriginal people, so I don't have anything good to say about him," said Hand.

Hogan was not available for comment.

HOUSTON (AP) — Dr. Denton Cooley, who in 1969 performed the world's first artificial heart implant, has filed for protection under federal bankruptcy laws.

Cooley, 67, claims to owe about $100 million through his local real estate businesses and Cardiovascular Associates, his medical partnership. He sought protection from his creditors Monday under Chapter 11 of the U.S. Bankruptcy Code.

Real estate developers in Houston and other Texas cities have been plagued by building vacancies, partly because of the depressed oil industry.

A year before the artificial heart implant, the Houston native performed the nation's first heart transplant. He also founded and heads the Texas Heart Institute at the Texas Medical Center in Houston.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Margaux Hemingway "has never felt better" since her stay at the Betty Ford Center during the Christmas holiday to overcome an alcohol problem, her agent says.

"We are very proud of her," said Bill Barnes, a longtime friend and agent of the model and actress, who is the granddaughter of author Ernest Hemingway. "She had a very wonderful stay there."

Miss Hemingway, 32, entered the center in Rancho Mirage on Dec. 4 and was released during the weekend, said Barnes. She went directly to her family home in rural Idaho, he said.

Her sisters — actress Mariel Hemingway, 25, and Muffet, 36 — were with her at the home in rural Ketchikan and are proud of Margaux's decision to face her drinking problem, said Barnes.

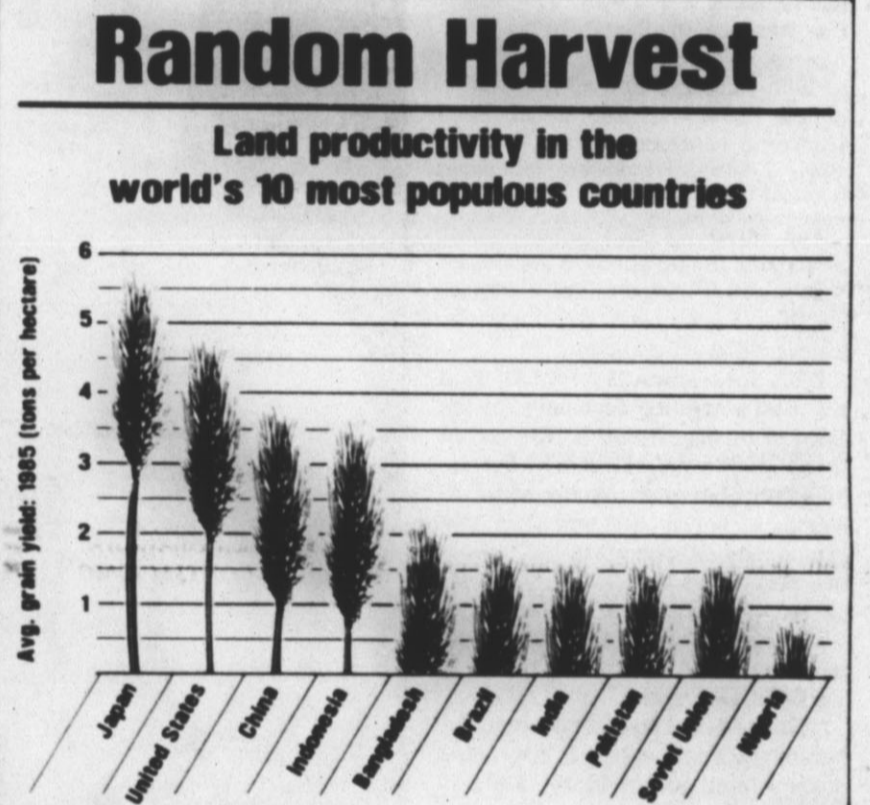

"She has never felt better. It is all extremely positive," he said.

LONDON (AP) — Timothy Dalton, the latest actor to star as James Bond, will set aside secret-agent antics to team with actress Vanessa Redgrave on the British stage.

Dalton, 41, first appeared as Agent 007 in last year's "The Living Daylights." His new role is as tavern owner Cornelius Melody in Eugene O'Neill's "A Touch of the Poet," opening Jan. 28 at London's Young Vic Theater.

The tale of strife and romance following the American Revolution will run three weeks at the Young Vic before moving to Brighton and later to London's West End.

Exploratory work on a new Bond film is under way, Dalton has said, and his involvement is "highly probable."

Abundant Life

OUR PERSONAL STRENGTH
By Bob Wear

We do not want to overcome by the strain and stress of life, nevertheless these are realities with which all of us must cope. We do not want to be constantly fearful, we do not want to exist in a continuing state of discouragement, and we do not want to feel inadequate; because all of these are very uncomfortable feelings and interfere with our sense of well being. We want to live with courage, in the strength of hope and with a justified sense of satisfaction; and all of these are worthy and possible.

place for some of these, in moderation, but they do not enable us to become courageous, strong and adequate persons.

It is impossible for us to run from everything unpleasant, and if we try to do so we will spend a whole lifetime running. We cannot hide from all dangers and troubles. If we try to hide, we will spend our life in hiding and this is not living. What shall we do? The troubles, dangers, strife and difficulties are all around us, and they are not going away. How can we cope with them, and live with dignity and true purpose? The answer depends upon what is happening inside of us. We are capable of great inner strength, and this potential can be carefully and wisely developed.

There seems to be a constant threat of being reduced to the level of miserable, wretched and hopeless existence; and we can see this happening to people. This is a reality that we must admit, without permitting it to overwhelm us. Some people, recognizing the disturbing challenges to personal well-being, use a variety of escape mechanisms. Some of these are justified; however, we must be very wise in choosing those we use, because many of them are self-destructive. There may be a

"If that which is within us is not stronger than that which is outside of us, we will be overcome by that which is around us." —Aron. This inner strength is not that of stoicism or foolishness or cruelty; it is wholesome self-discipline, devotion to duty, accepting the best known value system, and full appreciation of all that is moral, and decent and honorable.

Q. What's wrong with a cake that rises in the middle and then cracks? P.B. Butte, Mt.

A. Several factors could cause cakes to crack. If the oven is too hot, the crust sets too fast and the remaining batter rises causing cracking. Secondly, imbalance of the flour-liquid ratio makes the batter too thick. Finally, a pan that is too small makes the batter deeper which may cause cracking.

Primaries: Lots at stake, little sizzle

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the next few weeks, the presidential contenders hope to make big impressions at little events where they stand to gain few, if any, of the delegates they need to win their parties' nominations.

At stake is momentum for the bigger battles to come. In the coming early contests, candidates can brag about how their campaign is picking up steam, or how they're doing better than expected — but not about how many delegates they won.

Between now and Super Tuesday, March 8, the Democrats will hold primaries and caucuses in which 184 delegates are at stake. That's only about 4 percent of the 4,160 delegates who will attend the national convention in July.

During that same time, the Republicans will be deciding how to allocate 219 delegates, or less than 10 percent of the 2,277 delegates to their convention in August.

Michigan, which chooses its 77 national convention delegates on Jan. 29 and 30, is the Republicans' leadoff event.

Much of the early attention has been focused on Iowa's Feb. 8 caucuses, which for the Republicans could be a case of all sizzle and no steak.

Two days earlier, Kansas Republicans plan to begin handing over most, if not all, of the state's 34 delegates to favorite son Bob Dole. And Pennsylvania's GOP leaders will meet to pick 18 of their 96 delegates.

Iowa Republicans will conduct a presidential straw poll, which will allow at least one candidate to claim victory and give the news media some numbers to report. But in terms of national convention delegates, it means nothing. They won't be picked until June.

Iowa's Democrats will decide who will get 52 of their national convention delegates on Feb. 8, but the mathematical formulas needed to arrive at that number consumed eight pages in a helpful instruction booklet issued by the state party. And the number could change by the time the delegates finally are picked in June.

Eight days after the dust settles on Iowa, voters in New Hampshire go to the polls to decide how the state's 18

Democratic and 23 Republican delegates will be divided.

As the numbers now stand, the New Hampshire delegation will rank 45th among the 56 states and territories represented at the Democratic National Convention. Among Republicans, New Hampshire ranks 38th.

A week after New Hampshire, Minnesota Democrats and Republicans hold precinct caucuses, neither of which may yield much in the way of delegate numbers.

In neighboring South Dakota, the Republicans will decide in their Feb. 23 primary how their 18 delegates should be divided among the candidates. The Democrats' primary will be a non-binding "beauty contest."

Republicans in Maine are to wrap up their town caucuses on Feb. 28, as are the state's Democrats. The GOP events will yield no immediate delegate totals, while the Democrats will allocate 23 delegates.

All but overlooked among the early states is Hawaii, where Republicans hold precinct caucuses on Jan. 27.

Texas border highest in drug seizures

HOUSTON (AP) — More than half of the 1987 seizures of illegal drugs along the U.S.-Mexico border were made in Texas, the Drug Enforcement Agency says.

And the seizures along the southern border more than doubled in 1987, the federal agency said Tuesday.

The U.S. Border Patrol reported that its arrests of illegal aliens attempting to enter this country across the Texas and New Mexico borders dropped by 38 percent from 1986 to 1987, reversing a trend that dated back several years.

The DEA said an intensified law enforcement effort was credited for the increase in drug seizures. The figures covered January through July 1987 compared to the same period of 1986, but officials said they believe the trend continued throughout the year.

The threat of stiff penalties for employing illegal aliens in the United States was a major factor in reducing illegal alien entries and arrests, immigration officials say.

DEA spokesman Robert Dey said the most alarming trend noted by the DEA in its report was a 163 percent increase in a potent form of heroin, Mexican black tar heroin. About 36 pounds of heroin was seized in 1986 compared to 95 pounds in 1987. Sixty-two percent of the 1987 seizures occurred along the Texas border.

The seizures reflect a renewed interest in the drug, most popular in the 1970s, Dey said.

"This is a real re-emergence of the heroin traffic. The drug is appearing more throughout the United States," he said.

The heroin being seized today is 60 to 70 percent pure, whereas the heroin in the 1970s was typically about 20 to 40 percent pure, he said.

A similar increase was seen in seizures of marijuana — an increase of 163 percent, to 196,948 pounds in 1987 from 74,833 pounds in 1986.

Cocaine seizures increased 115 percent to 10,126 pounds in 1987 from 4,701 pounds in 1986.

The seizure of other dangerous drugs, including methamphetamine, LSD, so-called "designer drugs," and cancer drugs illegal in the United States, increased by 44 percent in 1987. All but 2 percent of those seizures occurred in Texas, Dey said.

He said 58 percent of marijuana seizures, and 37 percent of the cocaine seizures, were made along the Texas border in 1987.

Dey attributed the increased drug seizures to more effective enforcement efforts such as "Operation Alliance," a five-agency task force formed in 1986 to fight drug traffic along the border.

However, an increase in the number of drugs crossing the Texas border could be a contributing factor to the increased seizures, he said.

Texas has become a more popular alternative as a drug smuggling route as policing efforts have increased in Florida — the most popular trafficking area, he said.

FUTURE PHOTO FIXING

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A fifth of all pictures taken by amateur photographers are blurred, but a new technology being developed by a University of Rochester electrical engineer may "deblur" those fuzzy images.

Image restoration corrects blurred photos by reducing the picture to digital signals that are reassembled within a computer. According to researcher A. Murat Tekalp, the computer restores the image to its proper perspective and definition.

Besides fixing photos, this process could also emphasize particular details within an image, such as locating a tumor in a medical scan. While the technology is not yet commercially available, image restoration promises perfect pictures for future photographers.
