County takes drug dog, delays ED fund

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office can expect a new narcotics specialist in the next few weeks, but finding a uniform for the four-legged creature might be a beastly task.

The County Commissioners approved, at their meeting Monday, Garth Merrick's donation of a $2,500 narcotics dog trained to work with the sheriff's office to sniff out drugs.

"I've just been hearing generally from law enforcement officials that the drugs are bad in Hereford and I thought the dog would help alleviate some of the frustration the officer's get when searching for the drugs," stated Merrick.

Merrick, who owns Hereford Bi-Products, also volunteered the dog's food.

The Labrador retriever will be manned by sheriff's deputy reserve Mark Hardt who will train for one week in Newton, Kan., in how to work with the drug dog.

The county plans to pay for Hardt's training expenses.

"This dog will be great for finding hidden drugs we could never find," stated Sheriff Joe Brown. "Several weeks ago I looked through a drawer in a suspect's house and didn't see any drugs, and then another officer came along and looked in the same drawer and saw the drugs. The dog will be able to smell what we can't see."

A representative with the Organized Crime Task Force Unit said the Amarillo Police Department uses three narcotic dogs, and one dog paid for itself rather quickly.

"One $5,000 dog helped us confiscate $7,500 in cash, 30 pounds of marijuana, two ounces of hashish and a Cadillac two weeks after we got him," stated the representative.

Brown said the dog will speed the process of obtaining search warrants for suspected drug users or dealers because many times officers cannot prove probable cause.

Brown stated that a dog may be ready for delivery as soon as June 27.

The commissioners also approved Southwestern Bell's installation of six telephones in the county jail strictly for the inmates' use.

Wanda Mattheus, Southwestern Bell representative, said the inmates will be able to make only collect phone calls so no phone conversations will be charged to the county.

In fact, Mattheus said, the county could reap as much as $5,000 a year as commission on the phone calls.

"The jailers spend two to three hours a day allowing inmates to call on our current phones," stated jail administrator David Castillo. "It will be less of a headache now. Plus, with our current telephones, we have to keep a log on the inmates' calls to make sure they get a fair chance to call their lawyers or whoever. With the new phones, they can't say we didn't let them have their calls."

Mattheus said the phone lines will be installed June 28.

The commission never approved its proposed 40 percent share (or $48,000 per year) of the funding for the Economic Development Council due to the commission's inability to iron out the proposed budget for the next fiscal year.

"We're still working on the county budget and until we work that out there's no way we can tell if we'll be able to fund it or not," said Commissioner Johnny Latham. "If we did fund the council, we would probably be looking at a tax increase, and I can't say I'm totally for that."

In a chart issued by EDSC executive director Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner, a one-cent tax increase based on an appraised tax base of $489,800,000 would generate the needed $48,000.

The county's current tax rate is 45 cents per $100 valuation.

The city's 40 percent portion of the funding was approved at the city commission's last meeting, and the school's 20 percent will be discussed

SIMONS

... Cut services or increase tax base at a special meeting on Thursday.

"I've talked to people who don't want to spend the tax dollars on economic development, and we don't want to spend them unnecessarily. But we can't continue to tax individuals as we do now. Either we cut services or we increase the tax base and economic development is the only way to do that," said County Judge Tom Simons.

County commissioners also approved the North Acres Subdivision, an 80 acre tract one mile north of 15th Street, which will be targeted to veterans, said county surveyor Kenny Hagar.

Work on the road will begin in June, stated Hagar.

In addition, the county voted to accept bids on new evaporative coolers for the Bull Barn.

—approved crossing a county road south of Farm-to-Market Road 1412 with a water line.

—reinstated Section 8 in the personnel policy which was mistakenly deleted as stated in the Dec. 8, 1986, meeting's minutes.

—tabled the adoption of a county septic tank order until June.

Celebration dogpile

Hereford's varsity baseball team leaps atop right fielder Michael Phibbs (buried somewhere) after Phibbs made a circus catch to preserve the Herd's 4-3 win over Pecos in a bi-district playoff game in Lubbock. The win tied the series at 1-1, and Hereford claimed a 10-4 win in Saturday's second game to win the bi-district series and earn a spot against Everman tonight in Snyder. Identifiable players, from left, are Rodney McCracken (14), Keith Brown, Darrell Page and Jared Victor (4). See story, Page 4.

Community EDSC meet is tonight

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The community-at-large will have an opportunity to comment on the draft Strategic Plan for Economic Development at a meeting at 7 p.m. today at the Hereford Community Center.

The meeting is being called by the Economic Development Strategy Council to glean more input from the community on the preliminary SPED, which is proposed to map the local economic and community development needs for the next dozen years—through the end of the 20th Century.

Last week, EDSC mailed a four-page overview of the SPED to every household and business in the county. The newsletter includes the proposed "vision statement," a short summary of a recently completed county-wide survey by the Department of Rural Sociology at Texas A&M University showing local needs and wishes, how the SPED has been developed, and reasons behind setting up the EDSC and the need for the development plan.

All interested area residents are urged to attend the meeting to provide input for the plan.

Cars vandalized

The Hereford Police Department reported that nine vehicles' windows were broken Saturday and Sunday and one pickup's taillights were broken.
Police Chief Caydon Brush said police have no suspects.
Other incidents include family violence in the 300 block of Avenue A; a car was spray painted in the 800 block of Union Avenue; trespassing was reported at the Blue Water Garden Apartments; a child welfare concern was reported in the 200 block of Avenue J.

Reagan officially vetoes trade bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan is vetoing a major trade bill, but White House aides say his veto message today will show he's willing to work with Congress on a less-contentious version.

Reagan's veto of the 1,000-page bill seemed likely to be sustained in the Senate, if narrowly. The House, where the trade bill has wider support than in the Senate, was expected to take up the veto immediately after receiving it today.

The veto-destined measure includes a requirement that employers at large companies give workers 60-day advance notice of plant closings and layoffs, the provision that generated the most recent opposition.

White House aides, who spoke on the condition of anonymity, said Reagan's objections to the plant-closing feature and provisions restricting the export of Alaskan oil will be highlighted in the veto message.

At the same time, the veto message will express a desire to work with Congress on a pure trade bill, the aides said.

"We want a bill. Once the message goes up and the veto is sustained, we will work with the Congress to come up with a new bill," one White House official said.

Congressional leaders, however, have thus far expressed little enthusiasm for working on a stripped-down trade bill.

A 83-36 Senate vote approving the compromise legislation last month was short of the two-thirds margin needed to override a veto, suggesting the veto is likely to be sustained.

In 1986 Congress upheld Reagan's veto of another major trade bill, one that would have slapped stiff quotas on textile imports.

A vote to override was expected to succeed this time in the House. However, a presidential veto can only be overridden if both chambers vote to do it by the needed two-thirds margins.

Reagan announced his intention to veto the measure during his radio address on May 14, saying "It is unfortunate, but I have no choice but to send this back to Congress." He said the measure "threatens to destroy jobs."

On Monday, Reagan told a group of manufacturing and export leaders in a "World Trade Week" ceremony in the Rose Garden that "I have no doubts that the Yankee trading spirit is alive and well."

He said recent trade statistics showing a $4 billion improvement in the U.S. merchandise trade deficit between February and March reflected "a genuine boom in exports."

Administration officials have cited recent improvements in the trade deficit, particularly on the export side of the ledger, as a reason for not enacting restrictive trade measures.

The trade bill is a compromise between separate versions that passed both chambers last year — a strongly worded House measure that called for mandatory retaliation against foreign countries and a milder Senate version.

In addition to the provisions on plant closings and Alaska oil, the administration opposes provisions to increase some farm subsidies, expand a program for aiding dislocated workers and requiring an unfair-trading investigation of Japan for failing to open its public works projects to U.S. construction companies.

Senate still defeating amendments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate continues to defeat by lopsided margins attempts to amend the superpower medium-range nuclear missile treaty, but a small band of opponents shows no signs of allowing the pact to be approved before President Reagan's meeting next week with Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz went to Capitol Hill on Monday to deliver the message that the Moscow summit, which starts in just five days, will be diminished if Reagan is deprived of the vote of confidence that positive Senate action on the treaty would give him.

"There is a time to inquire and there is also a time to vote," Shultz told reporters after a meeting with 17 Republican senators. "It would be a good thing to have it."

The chief opponent of the treaty banning intermediate-range nuclear weapons, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., was invited to the Shultz session but did not show up. And when Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., asked Helms how many amendments he would offer to the treaty, Helms declined to say.

Dole said he would explore on Tuesday the possibility of filing a cloture motion to limit debate on the treaty and cut off the series of amendment attempts. "I hope we can still get it done, get it over to the president," he said.

Three amendments offered by treaty opponents were defeated on Monday, bringing to nine the number of attempts to change the document's language that have been beaten back by the Senate since it was brought up for consideration a week ago.

First, the lawmakers voted 81-13 to kill a Helms amendment that would have required the president to certify as accurate a Soviet report on the number of triple-warhead SS-20 missiles to be destroyed before the treaty could take effect.

The Senate then voted 68-26 against an amendment by Sen. Malcolm Wallop, R-Wyo., that would have required a change in the treaty's text to eliminate what he said was a

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

I was desperately in need of a weekend away from here, so I decided to take off for one of the big sports weekends in Arlington-Fort Worth last weekend.

The PGA Tour was playing golf at Colonial in Fort Worth, and the Rangers were playing the Minnesota Twins in Arlington. I could hear the sirens singing from the Metroplex—I had to go.

Outside of last year's charter-bus onslaught of Herefordites to the PCBAN rally in Amarillo, I had not been on a bus in years. I decided, on a lark, to take the bus to Amarillo last Friday.

I am one of the surgeon general's cigarette addicts, and I wanted to make my way to the smoking area in the back of the bus. My way was blocked, however, by two sleeping passengers who had lain their bodies across the seats on each side of the bus.

I don't understand human physics, but I can't imagine how they were able to balance their misdeeds across aisle. 'Course, they had been on the bus since San Diego, Calif., and I'm sure their backsides needed the rest.

They awoke a few miles down the road when our bus driver, Bernie Kneivel, attempted to jump U.S. 87 with our Greyhound. The two sleeping beauties explained they were riding all the way to Philadelphia.

Why ride a bus all the way from San Diego to Philadelphia?

"To see the country," they said, rubbing the sleep from their eyes.

bb

Ernie says he's the best cabbie in Amarillo.

I had my doubts when I remembered the phone book listed only four cab companies in Amarillo. Usually, when you need a cab you're in some place like Foat Wuth, where there are eight cab companies listed, or Dallas, where you'll find 14 cab companies in the Yellow Pages.

I had more doubts about Ernie when he had to turn his head to talk to me. Real cabbies don't turn their heads. A "medium" cabbie will look at you through the rear view mirror or the corner of his eyes. Being a "medium," he'll also read your horoscope. A good cabbie just looks straight down the road and says "Yeh" at the appropriate times.

Ernie added more doubt when he almost bought one of those metal light poles along Interstate 40 on the way to Amarillo International Airport.

bb

If tarmacking is not a major sport, it should be.

You cannot fly into D-FW International Airport without doing time on the tarmac.

My flight left Amarillo on time, and it landed at D-FW on time. We landed at 9:55 p.m. Friday. We pulled into the gate at 10:40 p.m.—45 minutes on the tarmac.

That's not my record time on the tarmac at D-FW. One Wednesday night I was on my way to Austin, and we were being farried on a DC-10. We had the privilege of watching every second of Dynasty on the plane's TV. Every second is about 3,600 seconds. 60 minutes. One hour. Over four percent of one day.

If you want even more of the high life, spend two hours in the Amarillo airport. The video games are bad, the pinball machines are broken, and if you don't drink there's nothing else to do.

The Hereford Airport is better. It doesn't charge you 65 cents plus tax for an eight-ounce cup of coffee.

bb

I don't play golf very well, and I don't play very often. I try to kill every shot, and it usually results in the ball going 50 yards towards the tee and 150 yards off to the right. It's not a slice, it's a major fault. I'm golf's version of the San Andreas.

You don't see many faults when you see the guys on the PGA Tour. They can, almost at will, cause the ball to fade, go straight, have backspin, topspin, or no spin.

What's most disgusting is they take the club away from the ball more slowly than granny sets up her tennis backhand, come slowly through the ball, and hit it about 300 yards.

Not always do they do everything right. You must be good, and you must be lucky.

Anyone can have luck on the golf course—even me. I've holed out a chip from 40 yards, I've sunk some 50-foot sidehill putts, all kinds of freaky things. 'Course, I'm not that lucky all of the time, or I'd be writing in the Las Vegas Sun instead of the Hereford Brand.

I had a great view of the golf course. I was on a hill behind the 18th green. I could see all of 18, most of 10, parts of about 14, and about two-thirds of 9. The only person with a better view was Pat Summerall, and he was perched in the CBS tower about 20 feet above me.

I didn't see any miracle shots, but I saw one of the best saves-for-par you'll see in a while.

I don't even remember who the golfer was last Saturday, but he hit his tee shot way off to his left. His second shot went way to the right, landing just below the lip of a bunker off the green.

He calmly hit his third shot out of the bunker. The ball went pop in the rough, and we all thought we were looking at a double bogey. The ball then took a funny hop and took off for the hole, coming up about a foot short of the hole. It was a heck of a golf shot.

bb

I have no way of knowing how many baseball games I've seen in my life. If you count spring training games when I was growing up in Arizona, the games I played in when I was a kid, the games I've seen, the games I've umpired, I'm sure it's several thousand.

I've seen almost everything. I've seen—from behind the plate—two no-hitters. I've seen a kid hit a grand slam home run for the third out. I've seen just about everything, but I've never seen a perfect game thrown by a pitcher at any time, anywhere, at any level.

I almost saw one Saturday night.

Paul Kilgus is a 26-year-old left-hander for the Rangers who had toiled for 3½ years in the minors before getting a shot with the rangers last year. He went 2-7 in his half-year, giving up over four earned runs a game.

Last year, the Minnesota Twins won the World Series.

So Kilgus goes out and gets the first 21 batters with barely a whisper of a whimper from the Twins.

Kilgus faced Kirby Puckett, the only man in baseball to get more than 430 hits over the last two seasons combined. Puckett gets a lazy fly ball to left, two grounders and a pop-up. Kilgus faced Kent Hrbek, who leads the world in home runs. Hrbek hit two weak grounders and struck out.

Kilgus faced 21 batters in seven innings. None of them soiled first base. I was seated in the plaza, high above home plate, sweating out every pitch.

Gary Gaetti broke things up with a sharp double to left to open the eighth. I, like the 31,000 others at Arlington Stadium, stood and applauded Kilgus' seven innings of perfect pitching.

Gaetti's hit was the lone bingle for the Twins. The Rangers won the game 3-0, scratching hits in the first inning for two runs. Pete Incaviglia, who threatens modern strikeout records with each at-bat, didn't strike out all night and hit a solo home run late in the game to give the Rangers a 3-0 win.

It was close enough to perfect for me.

loophole could have permitted construction of some Soviet missiles.

And it rejected, 81-5, an amendment by Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., that would have put the INF treaty on hold until the United States and the Soviet Union agreed on a more far-reaching pact providing 50 percent cuts in each side's arsenals of intercontinental atomic weapons.

Sen. William Cohen, R-Maine, said the issues raised by treaty opponents "have been raised and resolved" during long consideration by the Senate committees on Foreign Relations, Armed Services and Intelligence.

"It's legitimate to raise them for public debate again, but it's necessary to resolve them," Cohen said. He said Shultz had warned that failure of the Senate to act would "diminish the luster" of the summit and saddle Reagan with the image of a president who "can't deliver the Senate" on matters he believes strongly in.

Ratification, which requires a two-thirds vote of the Senate, ultimately appears assured.

Events set for wheat field day

Activities for the annual wheat field day at the USDA Conservation and Production Research Laboratory at Bushland will start at 1 p.m. Thursday, according to Dr. B.A. Stewart, director of the laboratory.

Both dryland and irrigated small grain nurseries will be featured. Dr.

Kenneth Porter, Texas Agricultural Experiment Station wheat breeder, says several new varieties and hybrids are being evaluated. Yields from Small Grain Trials for several years, including 1987, will be available.

In addition to small grain breeding, research with livestock grazing, limited tillage, wheat streak mosaic, fertility, as well as control of Russian aphid and greenbug will be discussed.

Drs. Stewart and Porter invite everyone interested in agricultural research to the field day. "Our research is most valuable to the area when people see and adopt new varieties or practices," Stewart said.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers:

Teenage suicide was virtually unheard of 25 years ago. Today it is the second most common cause of death among those under 25. (Accidents are first.) Every 90 minutes a teenager somewhere in America will kill himself.

While some people attempt suicide several times before they succeed, there are those who, when they take their own lives, shock everyone. Friends and family say they can't believe it. There were no clues. If only we had known.

I have enclosed a poem by Edward Arlington Robinson that tells this story better than anything I have ever read. It is called "Richard Cory." I'm hoping you will print it. In a rather strange way it might be a comfort to those who had no clue and therefore could not help. Thank you, Ann. — One of the Group (Amherst, Mass.)

DEAR AMHERST: Here's the poem. I know it well. Thank you for sending it on.

RICHARD CORY
Whenever Richard Cory went downtown,

We people on the pavement looked at him:

He was a gentleman from sole to crown,

Clean favored, and imperially slim.

And he was always quietly arrayed,

And he was always human when he talked;

But still he fluttered pulses when he said,

"Good morning," and he glittered when he walked.

And he was rich—yes, richer than a king—

And admirably schooled in every grace:

In fine, we thought he was everything

To make us wish that we were in his place.

So on we worked, and waited for the light,

And went without the meat, and cursed the bread;

And Richard Cory, one calm summer night,

Went home and put a bullet through his head.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am tired of purchasing everything from cookies to cosmetics only to find when I get home that, due to trick packaging, I've been gypped.

I buy a package of cookies that looks twice as full as the package next to it on the shelf, and when I open it I discover that the tray holding the cookies takes up more room in the box than the cookies.

I am frustrated every time I buy a bottle of something and find that half the weight is due to extra-thick glass on the bottom and a "top" that goes way down into the bottle.

Please tell the manufacturers that this is not the way to build product acceptance. When customers discover they've been fooled they buy a competing brand.

Does anyone else out there get this steamed? What can be done about it?—Mad in Virginia

DEAR MAD: The cereal buyers of America raised Cain and they got results. Packagers are now putting in more cereal.

My advice is write to the manufacturer. The customer is king, and when the customers speak they get results.

ERROR

A thank you advertisement, which was recently placed by Juan Jackson (past write-in candidate for district III of the Hereford School Board), incorrectly portrayed Jackson as a winner in that race. The Hereford Brand Adv. Department regrets the error.

Thank You

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation & gratitude to all my friends and supporters who helped me during the recent school board election as a write-in candidate.

Thank you for your time and effort!

Hereford wins doubleheader Saturday, 4-3, 10-4

Whitefaces beat Pecos in bi-district series

By GARY CHRISTENSEN
Sports Editor

Outstanding pitching efforts by James Hernandez and Clint Cotten, coupled with the hitting that Hereford Whiteface fans have grown accustomed to, helped propel Hereford to two victories over Pecos Saturday at Lubbock for the bi-district title.

Hernandez had six strikeouts and Roger McCracken hit a two-run homer to help lead Hereford to a 4-3 victory in game two of the series. Michael Phibbs hit an RBI triple, and Derrell Page hit an RBI single.

In game three, Cotten allowed only one hit for 4 2-3 innings before giving up two straight hits in the fifth inning, and Rodney McCracken pitched 2 1-3 innings of no-hit relief as Hereford beat Pecos 10-4.

Hereford had 13 hits in game three, including seven extra-base hits. Rodney McCracken drove in four runs with a two-run homer and a pair of RBI singles.

Roger McCracken hit a pair of RBI doubles and also had an RBI groundout. Also, James Hernandez hit a two-run triple.

Hereford, by winning the doubleheader Saturday at Chaparral Field at Lubbock Christian University, advances to the regional playoffs against Everman. Everman won two games over Burk Burnett on Saturday, after losing to Burk Burnett on May 17, in a best-of-three series.

Game one is scheduled for 8 p.m. today at Snyder on Saturday, game two is scheduled at 2 p.m. at Hunter Field at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, and game three, if necessary, will be played immediately after game two.

"I was particularly proud of our pitching Saturday. James, Clint and Rodney all did fine jobs. They threw strikes and we played the ball well on defense," Hereford Coach T.R. Sartor said.

"That was pretty much the key of the game, but we came around with our hitting. Our pitching and our fielding are on the par that we need them to be for the playoffs.

"Roger and Rodney hit the ball well. James had an excellent series," Coach Sartor continues.

About Everman, Sartor said, "They're a lot like us. They're pretty big, they swing the bat well, have good pitching, and they have a catcher who absolutely crushes the ball. We'll have to be in top form to beat them."

The Whitefaces entered Saturday's play having lost game one of the series, 6-4, on Friday night. Pecos gained a 1-0 lead right away in the top of the first inning in game two, on a pair of singles.

But the Herd came back in the bottom of the first with three runs. Michael Phibbs tripled to drive home Robby Collier who had walked, and Roger McCracken blasted a two-run homer over the right field fence to put Hereford in the lead, 3-1.

In the next four innings, Hereford had a tough time driving in baserunners, stranding eight runners on base — leaving the bases loaded in both the second and fifth innings.

The Whitefaces loaded the bases on two walks and a single in the second inning. The single was a bunt single by Bill Ruckman.

Hereford did get one runner home in the fifth inning. The McCracken brothers each hit a single, and Derrell Page hit an RBI single. A walk loaded the bases with one out, but a strikeout and a fly out ended the inning.

Meanwhile, pitcher James Hernandez was making Hereford's first-inning lead stand up. Pecos scored a run on an error in the fourth inning which cut the Herd lead to 3-2 at the time.

Hernandez later survived a shaky seventh inning for Hereford. Two errors put a pair of Pecos players on base. A sacrifice fly, the second out of the inning, moved Pecos within one run, 4-3.

The make-or-break point for the Eagles came moments later, when a fly ball was hit deep into right field. Whiteface outfielder Phibbs misjudged the ball, but ran it down, catching it with his arm outstretched behind his head.

No catch would have undoubtedly meant a tie game, 4-4, with Pecos having a chance to take the lead. Phibbs was "mobbed" by his teammates after making the game-saving, game-winning catch.

"I misjudged it bad," Phibbs said. "Rodney kept saying, 'Back, back.' I just turned around, running backwards, watching it, and reached out and got it."

Coach Sartor said, "That play Michael made was huge. It preserved the win, but it had to be real deflating for Pecos, because I'm sure they were looking for a tie there in the seventh."

Hernandez pitched a complete game, striking out six Eagle batters while scattering five hits and walking two batters. The victory gave Hernandez an 8-0 season record.

"It was the best pitching I've done all year. I did what I had to do," Hernandez said.

Hereford had seven hits in the game, including singles by Collier and Phibbs. Catcher Collier threw out a runner attempting to steal second base in the third inning.

The Whitefaces went into the bi-district series with a team batting average of .363. Their bats caught on fire in game three, starting out with a 4-0 lead in the top of the first inning.

Hereford's first two batters, Collier and Phibbs, both walked. Collier went to second base on a wild pitch. Ball four to Phibbs was a wild pitch, and Collier advanced to third base.

Rodney McCracken followed with an RBI single for the first Herd run. After the Pecos starting pitcher Louis Cerna had a 1-and-0 count on the next Hereford batter, Hernandez, the Eagle coaches replaced Cerna with Lance Love who had pitched the entire game Friday night.

Hernandez hit a two-run triple deep into the right field corner for a 3-0 lead, and Roger McCracken stroked an RBI double into center field for the 4-0 lead. A mental error by Hereford in running the bases, plus a double play by Pecos, ended what may have been a much bigger inning for the Whitefaces.

Hereford stranded two baserunners in the top of the second inning — one of them Collier who hit a double. Pecos scored one run in the second on a walk, stolen base, error and sacrifice fly.

The Whitefaces turned a double play in the third inning. Second baseman Ross Torres caught a fly ball. A Pecos runner at first, figuring the ball would not be caught because of the strong wind, drifted too far off the base. Torres threw to first baseman Page to achieve the double play.

Hereford increased its lead to 6-1 in the top of the fifth inning. The inning began with Rodney McCracken walking and Hernandez hitting a ground-rule double.

The runs were driven in on a groundout by Roger McCracken and a double by Bill Ruckman. What could have been a big inning ended when Torres, who had reached base on an error, ran into the path of a ball hit by a teammate — with the ball hitting Torres for the third out.

Hereford pitcher Clint Cotten gave up only a single in the first four innings and got the first two Pecos batters of the fifth inning to fly out to the outfield. But a walk, an RBI triple and an RBI single enabled Pecos to cut Hereford's lead to 6-3.

Coach Sartor had Cotten and center fielder Rodney McCracken changes places on defense. McCracken got the first batter he faced to hit a grounder back to him, and the throw to first baseman Page ended the Pecos inning.

McCracken came up to bat in the top of the sixth inning with Collier on base on a walk. McCracken belted a two-run homer over the right field fence to increase the Whiteface lead to 8-3.

Roger McCracken provided Hereford with another insurance run, doubling to drive home Hernandez who had singled.

Pecos loaded the bases in the sixth inning on a walk and two errors, but could get only one run — on a groundout — against Rodney McCracken's pitching.

Rodney drove in the final Hereford run of the game in the top of the seventh with a single, scoring Phibbs who doubled. Rodney allowed no hits, recorded two strikeouts, and walked one batter in his 2 1-3 innings of relief pitching, recording a save.

Cotten allowed three hits, walked three batters and struck out one in 4 2-3 innings.

"Throwing strikes was the main thing for me. I was throwing strikes real good. That helped me mentally," Cotten said.

Rodney said, "I consider it an honor to pitch. I'll pitch in the playoffs if they need me and I'll throw hard."

The Whitefaces enter the regional playoffs with a .357 team batting average. Robby Collier leads the team with a .544 average, with 43 hits in 79 at-bats.

Collier says concentration is a major factor in his batting success this year. "Concentration's the biggest part. I go up to the plate with a good attitude, feeling I'm going to hit the ball," he said.

The probable starting pitcher for tonight's game is Jason Scott, who lost game one to Pecos, 6-4, on Friday, allowing three earned runs.

Pecos scored four runs in the fourth inning of Friday's game for a 6-3 lead over Hereford. "I lost the game that one inning, but after that, I got my rhythm going," Scott said.

Scott said mental preparation is important for a pitcher, but "not too much": "When you go out there just to outsmart them, you might outsmart yourself."

Perhaps one of the defensive players often overlooked on a successful baseball team is the first baseman.

But a first baseman has to make many plays on the ball during a game, with all the throws coming from other infielders for outs.

"You just have to be ready to stop anything. You don't know where or when the ball may be coming, but you have to at least knock it down," Herd first baseman Derrell Page said.

Page and second baseman Ross Torres expressed the confidence that has been evident all season on the Whiteface team.

Page said, "We just don't ever give up. We never will."

Torres declared, "We're awesome, and we're going to get better."

Hereford-Everman regional playoff series begins today

The Hereford Whiteface varsity baseball team meets Everman in the class 4A regional playoffs this week, with games to be played at two sites.

Today at 8 p.m., game one is scheduled in Snyder. Game two is scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday at Hunter Field at Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene, and game three, if necessary, will be played immediately after game two.

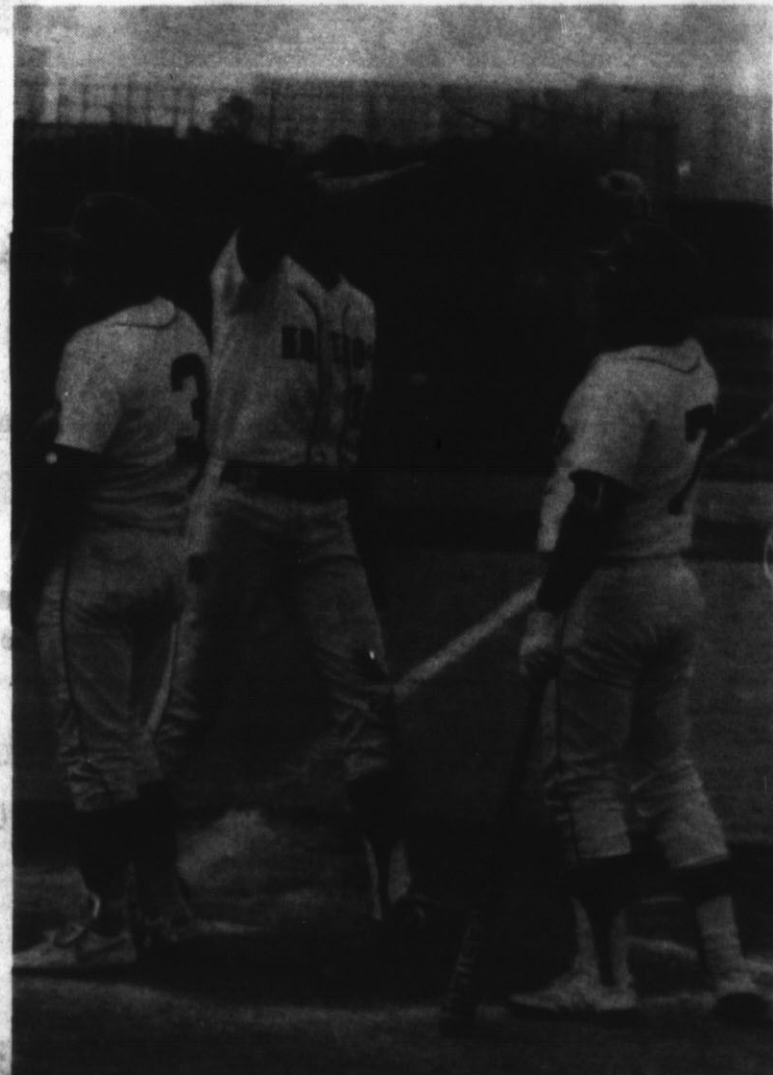

Hereford, the District 1-4A champions, have a 23-3 record after defeating Pecos in the bi-district playoffs two games to one, at Lubbock. Pecos won game one on Friday night, 6-4, but Hereford came back to win a doubleheader on Saturday, 4-3 and 10-4.

Everman is the second place team from District 4-4A. Everman, 20-9 for the season, won a doubleheader over Burk Burnett Saturday, 10-6 and 5-2, after losing to Burk Burnett on Tuesday last week.

Hereford schools Athletic Director Don Cumpston said admission for Saturday's game at Abilene will be $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Hunter Field is located in the northwest part of the Hardin-Simmons University campus, on Vogler Street. One way to get to Hunter Field is to exit off Interstate 20 at Grape Street and go east on Vogler Street.

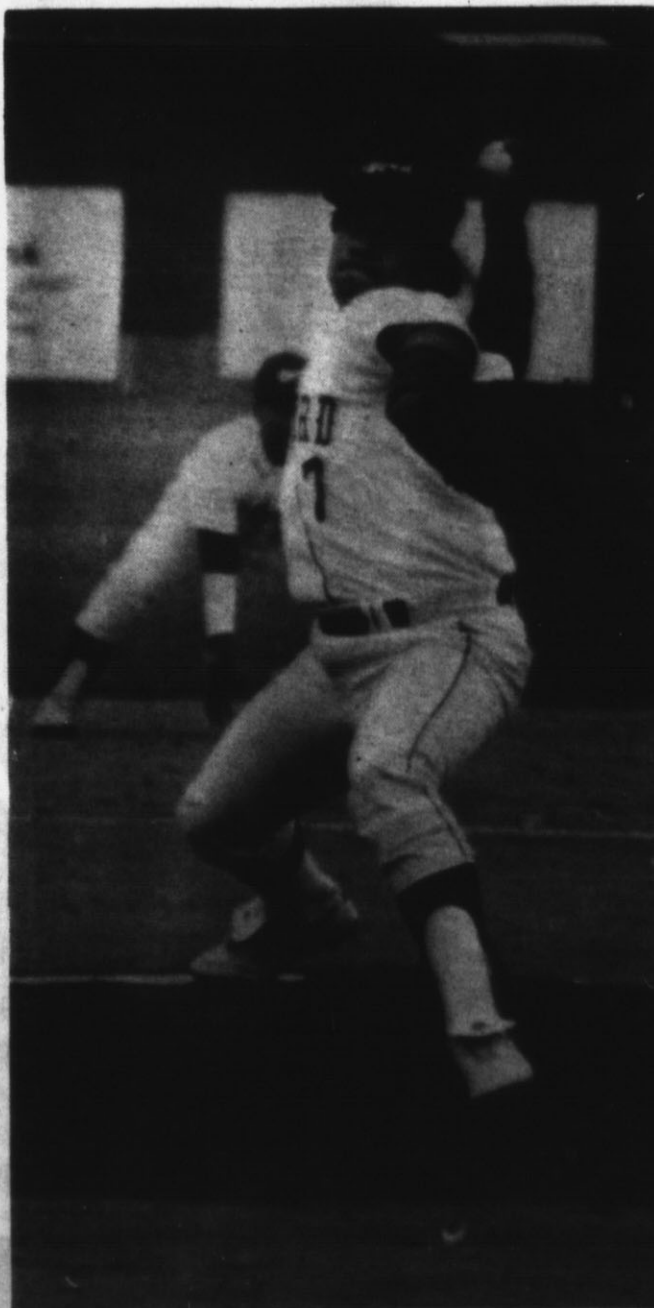

Another way would be to exit Interstate 20 at Pine Street and go west on Vogler Street.

Lewis is all-around cowgirl at rodeo

Hereford High School rodeo club member Regina Lewis won the all-around cowgirl title at the House, N.M., Tri-State Rodeo last weekend. Lewis totaled 17 points to claim the title and the trophy saddle that is awarded to all-around winners. She placed second in pole bending in 20.846 seconds, second in goat tying in 12.989 seconds, and sixth in barrel racing in 18.121 seconds.

Other placings by Hereford rodeo club members were Kirby Kaul, second in steer wrestling, 8.349 seconds; Marcie Smith, third in pole bending, 20.852 seconds and fourth in breakaway roping, 16.269 seconds; and Chris Northcutt, seventh in team roping with Gary Clements of Stratford, 9.509 seconds.

The Tri-State High School Rodeo Association finals are scheduled June 9-12 at Dumas. On May 14, the Adrian Tri-State Rodeo was held at Vega. Kaul won the steer wrestling event in 5.647 seconds. Lewis won goat tying in 9.180 seconds. Chris Burrus was first in bull riding with a 60-point effort. Billy Stephens of Hereford and Cory Koontz of Armerst won the team roping event in 7.404 seconds. The rest of the Hereford placings in the Adrian rodeo were: Shawn McCormick, second in steer wrestling, 8.043 seconds; Smith, second in breakaway roping, 5.222 seconds and eighth in goat tying, 14.401 seconds; Toby Hill, fourth in calf roping, 12.275 seconds; Burt Noland, fourth in steer wrestling, 13.929 seconds; and Allison Lookingbill, seventh in breakaway roping in 17.331 seconds.

'88 YOU applications being accepted

Applications are still being accepted for the 1988 Youth Opportunities Unlimited summer work-study program that gives economically disadvantaged 14 and 15-year-olds a preview of college life.

More than 1,800 Texas students will have an opportunity to spend two months this summer on a public college campus where they can take classes for high school credit and can earn up to $600 while working at a part-time campus job.

Entering its fifth summer, Texas' YOU program is hosted by 16 public universities and two campuses of the Texas State Technical Institute and administered by the Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board.

Most host campuses are offering academic scholarships to qualified YOU participants who complete high school and return to the host campus to attend college.

Participating campuses are East

Texas State University, Commerce; Lamar University, Beaumont; Midwestern State University, Wichita Falls; University of North Texas, Denton; Pan American University, Edinburg; Prairie View A&M University, Prairie View; Sam Houston State University, Huntsville; Southwest Texas State University, San Marcos; and Stephen F. Austin State University, Nacogdoches.

Other host campuses are Texas A&I University, Kingsville; Texas A&M University, College Station; Texas A&M University, Galveston; Texas Tech University, Lubbock; the University of Texas at Austin and El Paso; and West Texas State University, Canyon. Texas State Technical Institute campuses in Harlingen and Waco are also participating.

Thirty of the state's 34 Private Industry Councils are providing $5.9 million in federal Job Training Partnership Act funds to sponsor YOU participants.

Of the 240 students who graduated from the first year of the YOU program (1984), 90 percent have graduated from high school. Each year since the program's inception, every YOU participant has returned to high school after completing the summer work-study program.

"Texas' YOU program has received national recognition. Five states—Kentucky, Louisiana, Colorado, Arkansas and Washington—have implemented our YOU model and other states have expressed interest in the program," said Commissioner of Higher Education Kenneth H. Ashworth.

"One of the largest obstacles to bringing more blacks and Hispanics into higher education is the high dropout rate before they finish high school. YOU is helping to seal the leaks in the education pipeline that leads from kindergarten to college," Ashworth said.

For more information about YOU, contact your local Private Industry Council or Daisy Diaz-Alemanly at the Coordinating Board at (512)462-6405.

4-H Firsthand

By DAVY VESTAL
County Extension Agent
4-H Is For Families

4-H is a youth development program for youth through the involvement of parents, other adults and volunteers who organize and conduct learning experiences for youth in a community setting. It is important for the parents to participate, because successful 4-H'ers have the interest and support of their parents, says Davy Vestal, county 4-H program coordinator with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

Parents can help by assisting their sons and their daughters in choosing 4-H projects. They can provide transportation to local meetings and county activities, provide refreshments for functions, and attend 4-H meetings and other activities with their children. Additionally, they can keep informed about 4-H through 4-H newsletters.

Parents can become 4-H boosters and support their local 4-H leaders and get acquainted with them. Above all, parents can let 4-H leaders know how much their efforts are appreciated, says Vestal.

Parents also can become 4-H leaders. 4-H leaders can be organization leaders, project leaders, activity leaders, teen advisors, recruiters, organizers, resource persons and so on.

Any parent can become a leader. All it takes is an interest in young people, emphasizes Vestal. If you like young people and are willing to learn from experiences, and if you want to share your talents, skills and hobbies, you have the qualities of becoming a 4-H leader. You, the parent, are needed to help youth become better citizens.

For more information on 4-H and becoming a 4-H leader, contact the County Extension Office, says Vestal.

Traffic to increase Memorial Day

Major W.J. Cawthon, Commander of the Texas Department of Public Safety, Region 5, said, "In Texas, Memorial Day weekend signals the start of the summer time season for vacationers. There will be more dangers to motorists because many people are eager to get away from it all. Each of us should remember that the potential of having a traffic accident on any given holiday weekend is greater than a regular weekend; therefore, we should adjust our driving habits to fit with the extra crowded highways this Memorial Day."

A maximum component of state troopers will be on the alert for any hazardous violations this Memorial Day weekend, May 28-30, in order to help prevent these death dealing disasters which occur upon Texas highways. They will not relax their efforts to confront and arrest the drunken drivers, speeders and those who are not using their seat belts.

It is hoped that the Texas motorists will stay 12 hours from the bottle to the throttle, because almost 60% of all fatal accidents involve the misuse of alcohol. Remember, people who kill other people drinking while intoxicated can be charged with Involuntary Manslaughter, which is a 3rd degree felony, punishable with a maximum of five years in the Penitentiary, a $2,000 fine and suspension of their drivers license for two years. It's not worth it!

Bryan serves as hostess to Bud to Blossom Garden Club

The Bud to Blossom Garden Club met Thursday at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center with Wilma Bryan serving as hostess.

Members showed a picture of their favorite wildflower for roll call. Mildred Fuhrmann presented the conservation series on "Vegetables in a Pot." Members were given useful hints on how to obtain a large quantity of vegetables grown in containers.

recently. It was noted that Patricia Robinson and Ursalee Jacobsen of Hereford attended. Robinson showed the group pictures of the trip and an arrangement was won as a door-prize.

The group discussed Garden Week, June 5-11, and discussed ways to implement an Adopt An Alley Program in Hereford.

Members will also make arrangements for the Pioneer Day Celebrations set for Saturday.

Jo Anne Blackwell was welcomed as a new member into the group. Member present included Bryan, Brown, White, Fuhrmann, and Robinson.

At the conclusion of the meeting Robinson gave a program on free form in design and Wilma Bryan presented some ideas in abstract design.

Consumers confused over salmonella in eggs

COLLEGE STATION — Recent reports of salmonella in eggs are causing confusion for consumers, says a poultry marketing specialist with Texas A&M University's Agricultural Extension Service.

According to Dr. David Mellor, the Center for Disease Control (CDC) first reported a correlation between eggs and increased incidence of salmonella enteritidis in 1987. Concern about salmonella in eggs was voiced again at a New England Poultry Health Conference in late March.

What's new about the CDC report is that it points the finger at salmonella bacteria within the egg, not just on the shell, he said.

"Egg-washing has been shown to be effective in removing egg exteriors of salmonella enteritidis," explained Mellor. "Most eggs are clean, but are still run through machines which wash them with a detergent, sanitize and then dry the eggs both for market appearance and as a safety measure."

"There have been no serious outbreaks of salmonella enteritidis since September of 1987. Researchers at Cornell University tested eggs from producers providing 80% of the New York state supply and found no evidence of salmonella enteritidis," he remarked.

Mellor said that in inoculation studies conducted at Cornell last summer, chickens which received salmonella bacteria isolated from a human outbreak quickly spread the bacteria throughout their own system, but there was no evidence that it spread to egg interiors.

Although Mellor conducted similar inoculation studies with the same negative results in the 1980's, he said further research is needed.

"The poultry industry is supporting more testing, including some with different strains of salmonella and immuno-suppressed chickens. But as it stands now, the evidence is incomplete."

"We still don't know if salmonella enteritidis outbreaks can be attributed to eggs or food containing eggs," he emphasized.

Marilyn Haggard, a food safety expert and nutritionist, also with Texas A&M's Extension Service, said that the possibilities of contracting a food-borne illness from salmonella in eggs is remote.

"As with any food-borne illness, the very young, the elderly and people whose immune systems are compromised due to illness are most vulnerable," Haggard noted.

"But none of this means people have to stop eating eggs. Both the CDC and the Egg Board recommend that eggs be thoroughly cooked," she said. "That means a hard yolk rather than soft-boiled or sunny-side up eggs."

She also advises taking the same precautions with eggs as other perishable foods; keep them refrigerated before preparation and don't let them sit out at room temperature for more than two hours, before or after cooking.

Phyllis Brown gave a financial report of the District I Spring Convention which was held in Hereford in March.

Jane White gave highlights of the group's recent trip to Crosbyton to visit Casa De Sol, a solar home.

The Texas Garden Clubs' Spring Convention and the National Convention were both held in Houston

Senator Bill Sarpalius reports

AUSTIN — Texas' sunset process, which requires the Legislature to renew or abolish state agencies every twelve years, appears to be setting the stage for several dramatic battles during the next legislative session.

Thirty-one agencies currently are being reviewed by the Sunset Advisory Commission, which is comprised of four senators, four House members, and two public members. A handful of the most influential state agencies are included on that list and must be renewed next session or they will be abolished automatically. Of course, it is unlikely any of those high-profile agencies will be abolished, but it is likely the sunset process will be used to change significantly the way those agencies operate or to change the laws governing the agencies.

There is little doubt the Texas Education Agency and the State Board of Education will head the list of those agencies legislators will try to change. In fact, the sunset legislation renewing the two almost certainly will serve as a forum to debate the successes and failures of the education reforms of 1984.

Under normal circumstances, a legislator who wanted to change the no-pass, no-play rule or the career ladder rules would have to file a separate bill to make those changes. If those proposed changes were not to the liking of the leadership in either house, the bill likely would be killed in committee and never get a hearing before the full House or Senate.

But, the sunset bills for TEA and the state board have to pass if the two are to be renewed and thus are guaranteed floor debate in both houses. Those legislators wishing to make changes in the education reform laws can skip the committee process entirely and offer their proposed changes on the floor in the form of an amendment to the sunset legislation. They still might not win, but they will have the satisfaction of getting a complete hearing on their proposals.

Debate over education won't be limited to the 1984 public school reforms, either. The Texas Higher Education Coordinating Board, which oversees all of the state's colleges and universities, also is undergoing sunset review at this time. The Coordinating Board's sunset legislation could be used as a vehicle to change or expand the higher education reforms of 1987.

Those reforms weren't as dramatic or controversial as the 1984 reforms. They also have been in place for a shorter length of time, so little solid evidence has been raised to promote change or defend against it. Still, bet on someone at least questioning the Legislature's 1987 decision to abolish teaching degrees at the undergraduate level.

One other agency guaranteed to generate controversy during the sunset process is the Texas Department of Agriculture. Critics have charged the agency with becoming too political in recent years and almost certainly will use the sunset legislation to try to change the way TDA operates.

Other agencies that may see their sunset legislation used as a vehicle for change are the Texas Animal Health Commission, the Natural Fibers and Food Protein Commission, the State Property Tax Board and the State Textbook Commission.

There also, of course, are some agencies that may have to fight for their lives. For a variety of reasons, the Sunset Advisory Commission does not recommend abolishing too many agencies during an interim, and the Legislature rarely votes to abolish agencies either. Most agencies are renewed because they perform vital functions or could not have their functions easily merged into other agencies. A few, regrettably, are renewed strictly for political reasons.

Still, some major agencies are abolished from time to time. The most recent case in point would be the Texas Health Facilities Commission, which used to determine whether new hospitals or other health facilities could be constructed in the state. The Legislature in 1985 decided the commission was performing a function that wasn't really necessary and "sunset" it.

That was but another example of the vital, if sometimes underpublicized, role the sunset process plays in our state government. If you have additional questions about the sunset process or other issues, please write us as P.O. Box 12068, Austin, Texas, 78711.

Quit smoking without gaining extra weight

Keep smoking or quit and gain weight? Many smokers believe they have to choose between the two, when they don't.

Not everyone who stops smoking gains weight, according to Dr. Alice Hunt, a nutrition specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

"Research studies show that only about a third of the people who stop smoking actually put on and keep extra pounds," she said.

The specialist said physiological change brought on by stopping smoking have been shown to account for only three to four pounds of the weight people gain once they quit.

"People who gain more than a few pounds have probably changed their eating habits as a way of coping with the physical and psychological symptoms of withdrawal from tobacco," she said.

For example, the craving for tobacco is often confused with a hunger pang, which leads to overeating.

Other withdrawal symptoms, such as depression, fatigue, tension and insomnia can be sources of stress, Hunts aid. Many people overeat as a way of dealing with their stress.

The nutritionist said that overeating may also be the result of something as simple as ex-smokers not knowing what to do with their hands. Eating often becomes a substitute for holding a cigarette.

"To ease the urge to overeat, the new nonsmoker can keep low-calorie snacks around, get more exercise or find new activities that require use of the hands," she said.

"Don't make the mistake of many former smokers who panic at gaining weight and start smoking before giving their bodies a chance to get back to normal," said the nutritionist.

"Giving up cigarettes is far healthier than adding a few pounds. You would have to gain 75-100 pounds to offset the health benefits a normal smoker gains by quitting."

Ginn hosts Wyche club

Wyche Extension Homemakers Club met in the home of Marcie Ginn, 117 Kingwood Street, Thursday.

President Audrey Rusher conducted the business meeting as club members recited the TEHA prayer and pledge to the U.S. and Texas flags. Ginn gave the opening exercise and hostess report.

Eleven club members answered roll call by telling of an incident that happened to their grandparents or parents. Visitors recognized were Maude Carter and Brandy Rusher.

Reports of committees were given. Pet Ott introduced Nancy Kochsmeier, who gave the program on the life of Dorothy Mills Howard. "Dorothy's world" was narrated via tape and slides depicting pioneer life.

Club members wore dresses similar to the dresses worn around the turn of the century and pictures were taken.

Other members present were Louise Axe, Argen Draper, Virgie Duncan, Ethel Logan, Carol Odom, Coreen Odom, Brenda Rusher, and Clara Trowbridge.

The next meeting will be held Sept. 1 in the home of Brenda Rusher, 717 Ave. G.

MARKETING MOTOR OIL

BARTLESVILLE, Okla. (AP) — Until recently motor oil was not aggressively marketed as a consumer-oriented product.

Now, according to a Phillips 66 study, attractive containers are used to help the product get shelf space in stores as well as to catch a consumer's eye.

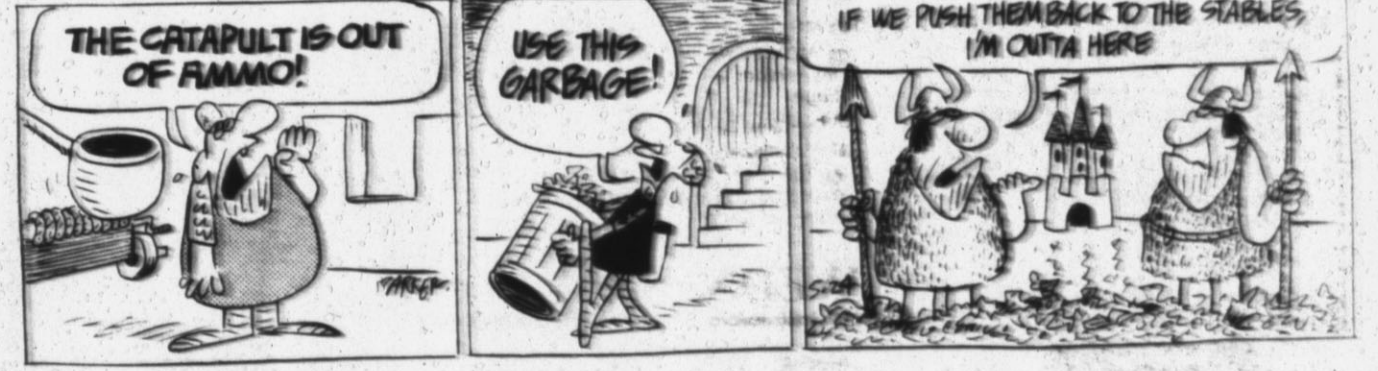

Customers now can select plastic bottles with rectangular shapes, off-center funnel spouts and flat offset necks, that prevent the "glug" effect when pouring.

CLASSIFIED
ADDRESS: 313 N. LEE

CLASSIFIED ADS
Classified advertising rates are based on 14 cents a word for first insertion ($2.00 minimum), and 10 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	14	2.00
2 days per word	24	4.00
3 days per word	34	6.00
4 days per word	44	8.00
5th day FREE

Ten days (2 free) is $16.00 minimum; 15 days (3 free) is $24.00 minimum; one month is $32.00 minimum.

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY
Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines—those with captions, bold or larger type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $1.95 per column inch; $3.25 an inch for additional insertions.

LEGALIS
Ad rates for legal notices are 14 cents per word first insertion, 10 cents per word for additional insertions.

ERRORS
Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Dreams are what life is made of Young Kirk Ashby stands on the pitcher's mound at Chaparral Field in Lubbock on Saturday after the Hereford-Pecos bi-district series ended. Kirk, son of David and Nanette Ashby of Hereford, appears to have dreams of becoming a baseball player, as he imagines himself making a pitch all the way to home plate where his father was bending down as a catcher. Second games are little scarier for Los Angeles

Lakers win over Dallas, 113-98

By BERNIE WILSON

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers have been virtually invincible in opening games of playoff series. But all of a sudden, they find second games a little scarier.

"Our objective is not to get full of our ourselves because we won Game 1 like we did against Utah," Lakers coach Pat Riley said Monday night after Los Angeles beat the Dallas Mavericks 113-98 in Game 1 of the NBA Western Conference final.

"Dallas will be better in Game 2," Riley said. "I want my players to get some rest and then to be disciplined and only think about Dallas. It's easy to get distracted."

"We can't assume it will be easy at home. We really have to take care of business on our own floor."

Game 2 is Wednesday night at the Forum. The series then shifts to Dallas for Games 3 and 4 Friday and Sunday. The winner will meet the Boston-Detroit winner. Those teams open the Eastern Conference final series Wednesday night in Boston.

Monday night's victory marked the 10th consecutive time the Lakers have won the first game of a playoff series.

James Worthy scored 28 points, Byron Scott 23, Kareem Abdul-Jabbar 17 and A.C. Green 14 for the Lakers, who are trying to become the first team to repeat as NBA champion since the 1969 Boston Celtics.

For the Mavericks, making their first appearance in the conference final, Roy Tarpley had 18 points and 20 rebounds, and Mark Aguirre and Rolando Blackman had 18 points apiece. Derek Harper added 17 points.

The Mavericks know what adjustments need to be made. The Lakers, who led 52-49 at halftime, got their fast break going in the third quarter.

Worthy, Scott and Green had three baskets each — and two of Scott's were 3-pointers — as they built a 76-63 lead. Los Angeles led 80-69 at the end of the quarter.

"We wanted to come out and make a statement to start the second half but instead we came out lax and allowed them to dictate the action," Blackman said.

"We hit our first shot (a hook by James Donaldson) to start the second half and thought we were in good shape," Tarpley said. "But then they took advantage of all our mistakes."

Abdul-Jabbar, who made five hook shots in the first half, including four skyhooks from the same spot on the baseline, hit the Lakers' first basket of the third quarter.

"We stayed on top of them until they couldn't get back in the game," Abdul-Jabbar said. "I don't think we surprised them with anything. They had time to prepare for us."

Dallas had three days off after beating Denver on Thursday night to clinch that semifinal series 4-2. The Lakers, though, were stretched to seven games by Utah and didn't wrap up the series until Saturday afternoon.

The Lakers took a 41-32 lead on Michael Cooper's 3-point shot with 9:45 to play before halftime, but Dallas went on a 15-1 run capped by Blackman's long jumper at 4:22 to take a 47-42 lead.

The Lakers had missed nine straight field goals before Abdul-Jabbar hit a sky hook at 3:53 to start an 8-0 run that gave the Lakers a 50-47 lead.
