Law enforcement officials were hoping for a break as early as this afternoon in the investigation of the murder of 15-year-old Johnny Martinez of Hereford.

Meanwhile, officials fear that rumors of retaliation could be carried out this weekend. There have been outright threats of retaliation from members of a loosely-knit "gang" that Martinez associated with.

Officials also said they fear there could be a confrontation over "hanging out" at the Hereford Community Center parking lot, a spot that has been favored by teens in the past. Two weeks ago, there was a report of shots fired at the community Center, but when Hereford police arrived no one would cooperate with police in any manner.

Investigators are looking into reports that Martinez may have been on the Community Center parking lot that night, but have not been able to confirm the story. If Martinez was there, it would have been just before he was likely taken to the rural farmhouse where he was killed.

Martinez was listed as missing with Hereford police on Sept. 2. Law enforcement agencies had the missing youth's description listed in all computers across the state for a week before the body was found by a young boy walking in the area, just southwest of Hereford.

Officials have determined Martinez was likely killed between midnight and 8 a.m. on Sept. 2. His body, which had been burned then left exposed to the elements, was found Sept. 9 near an abandoned farmhouse southwest of Hereford.

An autopsy by Amarillo pathologist Dr. Sparks Veasey indicated the boy died from one or more blows to the back of the head from a blunt object. The blow could have come from a hammer, a bat or similarlyrounded object.

The body was then burned, probably to try to hide the crime, after it had been hauled outside the Investigators have worked day and night since the boy's body was found Sept. 9 to try to find out who committed the murder. They have talked to many youths in Hereford and to others who may have information about the case.

There is a reward of $300 or more being offered by Deaf Smith County Crimestoppers for information leading to an arrest in the case. Persons with information are asked to call 364-CLUE (364-2583) if they have information. All callers may remain anonymous by using a code

Holly says Hats off to Hereford

Imperial Holly Sugar officials doff their caps to Hereford as they turn soil for groundbreaking ceren ies Thursday. The groundbreaking launched a $12 million e pansion project at the plant. Pictured, from left, are Roger Hill, Holly president; Bill Cleavinger, Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association president; I.H. Kempner II and Jim Kempner, leaders of the family which began Imperial Sugar in 1836; Mike Carr of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce; Holly Chairman Bob Hanna; Jim Witherspoon, who helped launch the sugar industry in Hereford; and Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher. Hereford citizens who turned out for the event also took their new Holly hats off the Holly at the groundbreaking.

Holly breaks ground

Holly Sugar Chairman Robert Hanna looked at the sign on the side of a large storage tank at Holly's Hereford plant on Thursday.

The sign said "Hustlin' Hereford." "I think we need a sign that says 'Hustlin' Holly,'" Hanna said.

With that, Hanna and others turned shovels-full of dirt to break ground for a $12 million expansion at Holly Sugar that will significantly increase the production at the Hereford

The addition is a high-tech processing system to glean sugar from molasses, the main processes of the beet sugar refining process. There will still be molasses, and the molasses will still be used in the area's huge cattle feeding industry. The protein content will be just as high, but they will be less sweet than

The $12 million expenditure is the largest made by Holly, a subsidiary of the Imperial Holly Corporation, since the Hereford plant was built in 1963-64. Construction will begin soon for the new building, on the east side of the current Holly complex. When the plant is completed in August 1991, the plant's production annually to about 2.2 million hundredweight.

At a gathering before the groundbreaking, Hanna told a crowd of Holly and Imperial officials and many local persons invited to attend the event that Thursday was "a milestone day for the company, for Hereford, and for the Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association."

The new facility, which will perform "ion exclusion" to separate sugar from the molasses, will allow the Hereford Holly facility to operate year-around. About 20 new employees will be hired to operate the hightech facility.

The new facility is free of debt: Imperial Holly will use assets on hand to construct the facility. It is part of a $60 million commitment by Holly to bring factories up to their We are building a better future, yours highest potential, Hanna said.

We're not relying on conventional wisdom," Hanna said. "We do want to build a better mousetrap, and put modern technology into practice. Technology holds the key to our future success.

"We can not stand still. It is onward and upward for Imperial Holly, not only for our shareholders and employees but to our communiwill increase from about 1.7 million ties. We will be even better partners hundredweight of sugar produced for our growers and our communities.

and ours."

Holly President Roger Hill said the project began a year ago with the separation of key employees in Hereford, Colorado Springs and Sugar Land to study sites, markets for the sugar and by-products, transportation, economics, feasibility and

Hill said Holly pointed to an excellent relationship with the Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association and a demonstrated ability to produce a stable supply; a strong market for refined sugar; the large cattle feeding industry, which would use the byproducts; and strong community

"Hereford was No. 1 on the list," Hill said.

Bill Cleavinger, president of the Texas Sugar Beet Growers Association, also announced that Holly and the TSBGA had signed a new fiveyear "working agreement" with Holly, setting the prices to be paid to the 400 growers in the region.

"Imperial Holly is making a sizeable investment, and we as growers are also making a big investment," Cleavinger said. "We will make our investments and do whatever it takes to provide the product the factory must have."

James Witherspoon, who helped secure acreage needed for the plant in the early 1960s, pointed out that many sugar plants have shut during the last 25 years, but Holly and Hereford are going strong.

Speaking from inside the same building at which the ribbon was cut to open the plant in 1964, Witherspoon said Holly had established a "base where we are going forward with greater opportunity than we had in the past. ... The future looks better than

New facility is high-tech

It's kind of like a still, a flour sifter, and two pole-repelling magnets all hooked together.

That is a low-tech description of the ion exclusion process to be used at Holly Sugar, beginning with the September 1991 sugar beet campaign. It's actually much more high tech. It's so high tech that it is operated by computers and other equipment. Labor demands are small, but dividends

When the process begins, gallons of beet molasses culled from the "regular" beet sugar refining process are pumped into a large cylinder filled with very, very small beads. The beads are resin, and they work in two distinct ways to separate sugar from other parts of molasses.

The resins are first electrically charged so they will act like non-sugar molecules. Because the charged molecules repel one another, the molecules pass through the cylinder unabsorbed by the resins.

The resins are high-tech in their own way: the pores in the skin of the resin are precisely the size that allow sugar molecules in and keep the larger, non-sugar, molecules out.

The molasses are pumped through the cylinder, along with water. When the layer of molasses passes through the resin, the concentration of sugar in the molasses is high, forcing the sugar into the resin. When the layer of water passes the resin, the concentration of sugar in the water is low. So the sugar is diffused: it goes to where the concentration is lowest, and is pushed out of the resigns and back into the stream being pumped through

While sugar is held up in the resin, non-sugar moves ahead. As the sugar is released from the resin, it follows the non-sugar. Instead of molasses and water, everything has changed to sugar and non-sugar.

At the bottom of the cylinder the two layers are separated, and the sugar is then processed in the same manner as the original sugar from beets. The non-sugar substance is concentrated and can be used for livestock feed. With the sugar removed and the protein concentrated, the feed is generally more desirable than molasses.

Nominee reveals himself to congress

Court nominee David Souter said today judges must "guard personal values for the law.

"We have not been placed upon the courts to impose our will," Souter said as he began his second day answering questions from members of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

A judge "has got to guard constantly against substituting his values for the values he is sworn to uphold," he told Scn. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, an anti-abortion lawmaker who quizzed the nominee about how far some judges have expanded concepts of constitutional rights.

As he had the opening day, Souter preferred to speak in general terms abortion, which he may have to rule

On Thursday, committee members said they were learning about David Souter the man, but far less than some had hoped about David Souter the potential Supreme Court justice.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Supreme Court," said Sen. Howard freshman adviser at Harvard. Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, who sought unsuccessfully to extract Souter's charges was pregnant and wanted to constantly" against substituting their : views on the 1973 ruling that legalized abortion.

As the committee's first day of hearings Thursday on President Bush's nominee, the 50-year-old bachelor took pains to describe he said. himself as a caring and understanding scholarly hermit.

He described the many types of cases he has handled, from volunteer work for indigents as a young lawyer fresh from Harvard to his handling of morally vexing disputes as an appeals judge.

In response to senators' questions, Souter shifted between legal jargon and personal tales, the latter and avoided talking about issues, like providing the most drama of the afternoon.

Metzenbaum told the nominee of testimony he heard from people who experienced the butchery of illegal abortions before the Supreme Court's Roe vs. Wade ruling.

Metzenbaum then challenged

> Before his confirmation hearings, Souter was counseled at length on how to handle himself. One goal was to make sure the committee didn't think he was another Robert Bork, the staunchly conservative nominee of President Reagan who was rejected by the Senate three years ago.

Souter sought to portray himself as less ideological in his approach to

Regarding the right to privacy, he acknowledged that in some cases, Souter to discuss his personal outlook such as dealings between a husband on the matter - and the nominee shot and wife, it could be considered a back with a story from nearly a fundamental right even though it is that will be before the Supreme quarter-century ago when he was a never explicitly mentioned in the

However, he diligently refused to endorse specific court rulings on the issue because the Roe vs. Wade decision hinges on the concept.

Souter's testimony was expected to last at least through today and the hearings were scheduled to continue next week. At the end of the hearings, the committee will vote on the nomination and give its recommendation to the full Senate for approval or rejection.

Souter's supporters seemed pleased with the opening session. Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, and Kenneth Duberstein, a lobbyist and former White House chief of staff who helped coach the nominee, nodded and smiled at each other toward the end.

Republicans on the committee posed easier questions to Souter than did the panel's majority Democrats. Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, the senior Republican on the panel, got satisfactory answers so quickly from the nominee that he began cutting Souter off.

RTC disposes of S&L waste

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Resolution Trust Corp. is still taking in more assets from failed financial institutions than it is selling, one of its leaders told the Senate Banking Committee.

But the official Thursday reported more sales in Texas, especially in Dallas and Houston where the market for single- and multiple-family housing is on the rebound.

The RTC had $164 billion in assets from failed financial institutions as of July 31, said Lamar Kelly, director of the agency's asset and real estate management division. The agency had about $106 billion in those assets a year ago, he said.

From its creation last year to July 31, the RTC had sold $31 billion in mortgages, $36 billion in securities and $8.5 billion in other loans, Kelly

The RTC and government officials who oversee it pay close attention to the Texas economy because about 70 percent of the assets the agency is selling are there.

"When you look at Texas, not only do you have to look at the types of real estate, but you have to look at geographic areas within Texas," Kelly said.

'For example, selling raw land or a large real estate development in Austin, Texas, is a very, very difficult proposition.

But residences in Dallas and Houston and some "Class A" commercial properties are moving quickly, Kelly said.

Problem loans account for the biggest chunk of the assets and they are the hardest to sell, he said. But the chairman of Texas' largest bank holding company urged the agency to renegotiate the loans instead of foreclosing on them.

We think restructuring loans with the individual who had the original dream and does not have the ability to repay due to the collapse of the economy is by far a very, very productive effort," said Timothy Hartman, chairman of Dallas-based NCNB Texas, in testimony to the committee.

The RTC has not tried to restructure problem loans but the practice is common to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp.

Since buying the former First Republic banks in 1988, NCNB Texas has been able to pull in more money on its problem loans by revising a payment plan or through other restructuring than it has through foreclosure, Hartman said.

The RTC may have the same success "since a very large number of the troubled assets owned by the RTC are loans to individuals and not properties to which the RTC has a title to naturally sell the property,"

Hartman said, RTC leaders are considering the idea, but Hartman said there are many layers of oversight for it to sift through before a decision is made.

A real estate expert told the committee that the RTC needs to cut some of the red tape private brokers face in helping sell its properties.

The average marketing time for properties in Texas cities is three to four months, said Martin Rueter, a senior vice president of Century 21 Real Estate Corp. But average marketing time for RTC-held properties is six to 10 months, he

One of the Century 21's Texas agents had to write a 30-page contract to sell a home owned by the RTC, Rueter said.

Survey serves up the scoop about ice cream

Do you prefer to eat ice cream out of a cone rather than a dish or carton? Do you enjoy savoring the creamy goodness of ice cream on its own instead of smothered in toppings? If so, then you are part of the latest trend in ice cream enjoyment. In a recent survey of hundreds of ice cream lovers across the country, Baskin-Robbins uncovered some frozen facts about ice cream preferences for the '90s.

With today's wide variety of ice cream and frozen dessert treats--from superpremium ice cream, deluxe ice cream, light ice cream to low-fat and non-fat frozen yogurt-- consumers remain loyal to frozen desserts, but not to just one type. An overwhelming majority of those surveyed said they enjoy a variety of ice cream products and frequently select different goodies on a whim.

And how do they enjoy their selections? The survey found that most consumers savour the flavor of ice cream on its own merits preferring ice cream without toppings or fruit. Only 25 percent opt for sauces, whipped cream, nuts and a cherry, while 10 percent want theirs in a banana split and a scant seven percent prefer to have their cake and ice construct a two-scoop sundae or a banana split like to be creative, according to the survey. With so many flavors to choose from, nearly three quarters of those surveyed prefer to select a variety of different flavors rather than two or three scoops of the same flavor.

The ice cream cone is by far the The ice cream cone is by far the most popular method for eating ice cream. Fully half of those questioned prefer to lick their favorite ice cream flavors from a cone. Since the cone's invention in 1904, Americans have been loyal to the sugar cone and they remain so today. More than half the respondents said they prefer the traditional sugar cone, with preferences for the baked waffle style and cake cone tied for second and third.

The results also showed that the vast majority (70 percent) of us lick an ice cream cone around the sides, while a small percentage of ice cream affectionados "take large bites and eat the cone fast" and some people (nine percent of those surveyed) "bite off the cone tip first and eat it from the bottom up.

What's in a name? Enough excitement to make a flavor selection according to almost one quarter of those surveyed who said they base their choice on the flavor name. But an ice cream's looks is what entices most ice cream lovers. Consumers choose ice cream flavors most often for their good looks, the survey revealed. Nearly half of those queried said they "inspect all the ice cream tubs and choose their flavor by looks." The rest, however, know their flavor favorites by heart and ask for the same flavors.

Where do ice cream lovers like to indulge? Half of them questioned prefer to enjoy ice cream in the cool comfort of the store followed by 25 percent who successfully manage to juggle a frozen treat "while driving."

And while a quarter of those surveyed are likely to eat ice cream at home, energy conservationists will be glad to know that only five percent will be eating "in front of an open freezer."

Tech, 51-35, to open SWC week LUBBOCK (AP) - Andre Ware big-play touchdowns. If you get left Houston for the NFL after three gracious it certainly will show up at years and David Klingler may be the end of the game.

Klingler, who took over the 18th-ranked Cougars' dizzying run-and-shoot offense from Ware this season, completed 29 of 54 passes for 435 yards and five touchdowns in a 51-35 Southwest Conference victory over Texas Tech (0-1, 0-2) Thursday

The Houston-Texas Tech game, moved to Thursday for television, was the only conference game scheduled this week.

'The sky is the limit for this man," Houston coach John Jenkins said of his junior quarterback. "He can do it all." Klingler, who also threw for five touchdowns in a 37-9 season opening victory over Nevada-Las Vegas, kept the Red Raiders defense off guard by throwing to eight different receivers. Klingler led Houston (1-0, 2-0) on three 80-yard touchdown drives, stunning Tech's defense with a 53-yard scoring pass to Verlond Brown only 1:03 into the first quarter. He capped another drive by picking up a blitz, calling an audible and releasing a 15-yard touchdown pass to Greg Alexander as he was Although he's posting numbers like Ware, last year's Heisman Trophy winner, Klingler says he must "My performance is still getting better," he said. "But the completion ratio was not very good. But it is just a matter of time. Tech coach Spike Dykes was impressed with the Cougars' offense, which piled up 538 yards. "Klinger's got a touch," Dykes said. "And I tell ya', the guy's protected well."

The Red Raiders seldom managed to disrupt the Cougars' wide-open passing attack, and when they did, running back Chuck Weatherspoon burned them with 121 yards on 18 carries and a touchdown. "It's disappointing to look up and see 51 points on the scoreboard." Dykes said. "We helped them early in the game by giving them some (See SWC, Page 5)

Texas Tech players said it's difficult to shut down Houston's run-and-shoot offense.

"With the run-and-shoot it's mass confusion out there," said Tech linebacker Charles Rowe. "We gave them too many big plays to stay in the game."

Cornerback Sammy Walker said, "I'm surprise by the number of mistakes we made. There are no excuses. We just got whipped. You can't give a big play team the big play.

Dykes gave all the credit to Houston.

"The run-and-shoot has always been potent and that's how they led the nation last year," Dykes said. We got off to a rotten start and couldn't come back.'

Anthony Lynn led Tech rushers with 135 yards and scored on runs of two and seven yards. Tech's Lin Elliott had field goals of 47 and 52

The Raiders scored two touchdowns late in the game as Jamie Gill hit Rodney Blackshear with a six-yard pass and redshirt freshman Robert Hall hit Chris Naughton with a 13-yarder on the final play.

Gill missed almost a quarter in the first half with a sprained ankle, but returned to keep the score respectable in the second half.

"I am sure glad to have Texas Tech out of the way instead of coming up here later in a blinding snow storm," Jenkins said. "We knew we would have to go down to the wire to beat them."

When Houston played at Tech in 1988, the Cougars came from behind in driving snow to win, 30-29.

Thursday's game, originally scheduled in November, was moved up to be televised nationally on ESPN. It marked Houston's first live television appearance since the 1988 Aloha Bowl due to NCAA probation.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) - The on Michigan quarterback Elvis Grbac, tason opener between top-ranked the 283-pound tackle doesn't mean season opener between top-ranked Notre Dame and No. 4 Michigan on Saturday brings an extra burden of worry for the already anxious coaches.

No so for the players.

"It's not a live-or-die type situation in the first game," says Michigan's Gary Moeller, "but as a new coach you want to get off on the right foot." Moeller, who replaced Bo

Schembechler after 18 years as an assistant, resumes his head coaching career against a team gunning to beat the Wolverines four games straight. Nobody's done that since Purdue in the early 1960s. For Notre Dame's Lou Holtz, ever the sideline pacer and fretter, there are anxieties over a new quarterback, a largely untried secondary and who knows what else wrong.

"In an opening ballgame, there's always so many mistakes that happen, in the kicking game, turnovers, missed assignments," he says.

It's simpler for the players.

They're just ready to knock heads.

When Notre Dame's George Williams talks about "putting a hat"

Moeller knows the translation: "They're going to try to knock your head off.'

Untested Notre Dame quarterback Rick Mirer will start his first college game passing into a superb Michigan secondary anchored by All-American Tripp Welborne.
"I expect him to be a fine quarterback," said Holtz. "But by the same token, my realistic objective for him in the first couple of ball games is just to get him to calm down and be himself.'

Grbac, unbeaten in four starts for Michigan, will be throwing into a Irish secondary of All-American Todd Lyght, who grabbed eight interceptions last season, and three

"They're going to try to exploit that because they think that's the weakness of our defense," Lyght

Grbac got little heat from the Irish defense last season when he came off the bench and passed for 134 yards and two touchdowns in a failed comeback effort. That may change.

"We think we can rattle him if we get pressure on him," Williams said.

Williams and All-American Chris Zorich will face a superb Michigan offensive line led by tackle Tom Dohring and guard Dean Dingman.

"They've always been billed as the best offensive line, but you've got to prove that on the field," Williams said. "You can't do it by press

Strawberry puts NY 1 1/2 games back

By BEN WALKER

AP Baseball Writer It happens all the time: A pitchers' duel turns into a showcase for Darryl Strawberry and Barry Bonds starred in a big game supposed to be dominated by Doug Drabek and Dwight Gooden, and once again the National League East race is tight.

Strawberry hit a three-run homer for his 100th RBI and threw out Bonds at the plate Thursday night as the New York Mets beat Pittsburgh 6-3 and cut the Pirates' lead to 1 1/2

Bonds went 4-for-4 with a double, drove in two runs and stole two bases. gave up three runs on 10 hits in 72-3

The Mets, the best home team in baseball, tied a team record with their 11th straight victory at Shea Stadium and improved to 50-22. A season-high crowd of 51,079 saw the Mets complete a two-game sweep.

"It was very important for us to win these games," Strawberry said. "But we have to keep it up and not let down against the Phillies or it won't mean anything."

Gooden (17-6) and Drabek (19-6) both were shaky.

Gooden overcame a tough start and

He also reached over the left-field innings. He still won for the 14th time in 15 decisions, and John Franco got his club-record 32nd save.

Drabek lasted only four innings in his shortest start of the season. He gave up four runs on five hits and failed in a bid to become Pittsburgh's first 20-game winner since John Candelaria in 1977.

"Some of the guys said Drabek didn't have it," Gooden said. "But I struggled all night and luckily Darryl was on my side.

In other games, Cincinnati beat Houston 7-5, St. Louis defeated Montreal 6-4 and Chicago downed Philadelphia 6-5.

The Mets, swept in a three-game series last week in Pittsburgh, fell behind 2-0 in the first inning when Andy Van Slyke doubled with two outs, Bobby Bonilla tripled and Bonds blooped a double.

Strawberry rallied New York in the fourth, hitting his 34th home run after Tom Herr singled and Dave Magadan walked. "When Drabek fell behind 2-0 on Darryl, we just felt he was going to hit it out," Jefferies said. In his last 21 games, Strawberry against Pittsburgh this year, but the Mets aren't so concerned about his average; they want big hits, and he has produced with eight homers and 18 RBIs runs versus the Pirates.

"Strawberry kills us," Bonilla said. "But we put him in situations where he can.

Reds 7, Astros 5

Barry Larkin hit a two-out homer in the bottom of the ninth inning. Bill Doran led off the ninth with his fourth hit and Larkin followed with his sixth home run off Brian drove in two runs and Pedro Guerrero had four hits.

Rookie Ray Lankford homered and

Lankford had an RBI single in the first inning, hit his second home run in the fifth and singled in the ninth.

Rookie Omar Olivares (1-0) pitched six innings for his first major league victory. Bill Sampen (10-6) took the loss.

Cubs 6, Phillies 5

Lenny Dykstra lost the league lead in batting for the first time since May Dykstra went 1-for-5, dropping his average to .33521. Willie McGee, traded to Oakland last month, has enough plate appearances to qualify for the title and has his average frozen at .33533. Mark Grace went 4-for-4 as the Cubs won their third straight game. Jerome Walton's RBI grounder with the bases loaded broke an eighth-inning tie.

Ivan Calderon found that by batting leadoff he can start rallies as well as finish them.

Occupying the leadoff spot for the first time in his career, Calderon doubled to start a tie-breaking three-run third inning and broke the game open with a three-run homer in the fourth as the Chicago White Sox beat the Boston Red Sox 9-6 Thursday night.

"He suggested it (batting leadoff) to me (Wednesday) in Cleveland,' Manager Jeff Torborg said. "I said OK, and we tried it. We decided to shake up the lineup, and it worked is the season-opener for the Razorbacks and the first as head coach for Jack Crowe, who took over when Ken Hatfield moved to Clemson.

"I've learned through coaching you do things in their time. I've always pushed being nervous back to game day. I'm not nervous at all right now," Crowe said. "Saturday I may be scared flat to death. But, I've been in situations where I thought I would be nervous and instead was unusually calm. It might be that way."

Tettleton singled and the throw from right fielder Junior Felix was right on target. But catcher Pat Borders caught the ball in front of the plate, giving Ripken room to slide in safely.

Twins 3, Athletics 1 Paul Sorrento hit Minnesota's first pinch-hit home run of the season, a two-run shot in the top of the 10th inning, and the Twins got three-hit pitching from Scott Erickson and Juan Berenguer.

Erickson allowed the three Oakland hits and an unearned run in eight innings and Berenguer (8-3) pitched two innings.

Brian Harper walked with one out in the 10th against Oakland reliever Gene Nelson (3-3) and Sorrento hit his fifth home run.

Yankees 7, Tigers 3 Rookie Kevin Maas hit a two-run homer in the first inning, his 18th home run in 200 at-bats, and Mike Witt (4-8) pitched a five-hitter.

One of the Detroit hits was a tape-measure home run in the ninth by Cecil Fielder, his 46th. Loser Walt Terrell (4-4) gave up four runs and six hits in 31-3 innings.

Angels 7, Mariners 1 Lee Stevens and Dick Schofield had two-run singles in a seven-run seventh inning that made a winner of Chuck Finley (18-6), who scattered nine hits. The outburst came after rookie Rich DeLucia pitched six scoreless innings in his second major league game. Seattle led 1-0 on Dave Valle's seventh homer in the second.

But Schofield singled to start the seventh and Devon White sacrificed. Keith Comstock (7-4) relieved and, after Luis Polonia walked, Johnny Ray's single tied the game.

Hints from Heloise

stop my young dog (under a year old) from chewing on my rose bushes? -Helen Ruff, Billings, Mont.

A. The safest suggestion would be to sprinkle some black pepper around the plant and hope your dog will sniff before he chews. If this doesn't discourage him, rub the leaves and stems of the plants with hot-pepper sauce. This will make any animal think twice before munching, unless it loves hot things like our macaw Rocky! -Heloise

GLASS SHOWER DOORS

Dear Heloise: We have a walk-in shower with sliding glass doors. Even though we used a squeegee on the doors after each shower, there came a time when the doors had to be cleaned and all the accumulation of gunk removed.

We solved the problem by installing an adjustable shower rod inside the shower, next to the doors, and then hanging a pretty shower curtain on the rod. Now the doors stay dry and the bathroom looks nicer, too. - Eleanor Lensner, Lakehurst, N.J.

MIRROR MIRROR

Q. We have mirrored closet doors in the dressing area of our bedroom that have been spotted by hair spray and styling spray. I have been unable to remove the spots. Can you help? -Karen Wilson, Cerritos, Calif.

A. Rubbing alcohol on a soft cloth will make those mirrored doors sparkle. To make your own glass cleaner, mix 2 ounces of rubbing alcohol, 2 ounces of non-sudsing ammonia and 12 ounces of water. Pour the solution into a spray bottle and mark the container clearly. -Heloise

PAINTING CORNERS

Dear Heloise: While doing some painting last week, I found a really ingenious way to get into some tight spots in corners. I have several corners where the door frames butt almost together leaving a very small area that most conventional paint brushes cannot reach. After trying several tools, I thought of my makeup sponge. I dampened it slightly, then dipped it in the paint. It worked great on those hard-to-get-at spots since it is soft and could be formed to fit in the tight

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: Technologies Corp. has from time to time run a series of messages. I hesitate to call them ads--they are far too classy. These essays by Harry J. Gray of Hartford, Conn., contain more common sense per square inch then anything I have ever read. The man is a genius. Here's one of my favorites.

Do You Remember Who Gave You Your First Break? Someone saw something in you

That's partly why you are where you are today.

It could have been a thoughtful parent, a perceptive teacher, a demanding drill sergeant, an appreciative employer or just a friend who dug down in his pocket and came up with a few bucks.

Whoever it was had the kindness and the foresight to bet on your

Those are two beautiful qualities that separate the human being from the orangutan.

In the next 24 hours, take 10 minutes to write a grateful note to the person who helped you. You'll keep a wonderful friendship alive.

Matter of fact, take another 10 minutes to give somebody else a

Who knows? Someday you might get a nice letter. It could be one of the most gratifying messages you ever

United DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was surprised that someone would take you to task for using the term "clergyman" but even more surprised that you accepted the criticism.

Appeasing the feminists is threatening to ruin the English language. It began with the acceptance of the term "Ms.," which is not an abbreviation and means nothing, not to mention those goofy hyphenat-ed last names. It has become so ridiculous that in Sacramento, the local government recently had a contest to rename "manhole covers." It is tiresome to read "he/she" or "he and she" when a simple "he," as it once was, conveyed the meaning perfectly.

I wish you had told Rev. Aleona to lighten up. She was out of line to demand that you come around to her way of thinking. The good reverend may have some support among other female members of the clergy, but I can assure you that the American public is on your side. This goes for "chairperson" and all the rest of that women's lib claptrap.

We depend on you to be the voice of reason. Please don't disappoint us by caving in to all this militant nonsense .-- C.D.R., Vacaville, Calif.

DEAR C.D.R.: I was amazed at how many readers rushed to my defense. I believe there is a place for "Ms." in the language, but we should leave phrases like "manhole covers" alone.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago I wrote for advice. I had started to go with a terrific guy and was terribly interested in making the relationship work. We are both in our 30s and tired of running around. I asked you if I should tell him about my past and you said, "Be honest, but it is not necessary to give him the names and numbers of all the

I took your advice. Everything was fine for a few weeks but after that he began to throw my "sexual history" back in my face. Last night he called me a tramp. The romance is definitely over. Did you give me the wrong advice?--L.A.

DEAR L.A.: My advise was good. It's the guy who wasn't so terrific. A person has the right to know whether or not there was a divorce, a child, or if the partner has a communicable disease. But beyond that it's nobody's business.

Children banking on college returning to elementary or high school, some children have their thoughts only on seeing friends and favorite teachers and beginning new classes. Other children-and their parents and relatives-have their focus on the future, on the day these "babies" will be entering college. Smart parentsand kids, too, know better than to wait until applying to colleges to address the financial need to support application fees, tuition and expenses. "These smart planners are buying College CDs," notes Georgette Bennett, senior vice president of the First New York Bank for Business. This bank's youngest branch, The First Children's Bank, is located in the world famous toy store, FAO Schwarz. "We also offer kids their own checking and savings accounts at The First Children's Bank, but most popular are our College CDs, which account for more than 80 percent of their deposits. "Years ago, when kids talked about money and savings, they meant their allowance and a piggy bank-until perhaps junior high school years. Not so today. Whether entering kindergarten or year as the depository for the first Annual National College Sweepstakes for Higher Education, sponsored by Hush Puppies Boys and Girlswear and Hush Puppies Children's Footwear. Entering was easy. Entry forms were available in children's apparel and shoe departments of participating stores nationwide. An independent judging organization drew the names of 20 winners, eight years old and younger. When the children turn 18, each of their Hush Puppies College CDs, will have matured to $10,000!

Thomas Gleason, chairman/CEO of Wolverine Worldwide, licensor of the Hush Puppies name, commented on the company's development of this scholarship program:

Children are the future of this country and we feel it is the responsibility of the private sector to invest in tomorrow's future. Costs of a college education are increasing steadily. Parents of a child born this year face staggering college cost 18 years from now-thus our decision to start some lucky children on their way to higher education.

"We plan to launch our second Annual Sweepstakes this summer and will increase our commitment to $250,000 in scholarship funds. And, these 25 winning children will have the fun of having their own account in New York City's First Children's
