GI Forum asks: 'Where was Mike?'

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — George Bush gained ground among Hispanics here at Michael Dukakis' expense, leaders of an influential veterans' and civil rights organization said.

"There's no question that Vice President Bush made some strong points with our people," Dr. Hector P. Garcia, founder of the American GI Forum said Thursday after Bush addressed the group's 40th annual national convention.

Garcia said Dukakis twice gave him the impression he would be there, and leaders of the organization were offended when the Democratic presidential candidate chose not to appear at the convention. The printed convention agenda lists Dukakis as the featured speaker today at a 2 p.m. general assembly.

"It was a severe political faux pas on the part of his staff," said Garcia. "This may lose him (Dukakis) the election."

Garcia, who described himself as a lifelong Democrat, said he remains undecided how he will vote in November.

"It was obviously George Bush's gain and Michael Dukakis' loss," said state Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi.

Bush's address Thursday lashed out at Dukakis' defense and foreign policy positions, describing them as dovish and deviating from the Democratic Party mainstream. Bush said Dukakis' positions would amount to an end of the U.S. role as a leader in world affairs.

GEORGE BUSH

Garcia said Bush touched on themes that appeal to members of the organization.

"A couple of weeks ago, you heard the phrase, 'Where is George,'" GI Forum National Chairman Mario B. Diaz said, in reference to delegates' chants at last month's Democratic National Convention, criticizing Bush's role in the Reagan administration.

"He's here at the American GI Forum convention," Diaz said while introducing Bush at the luncheon. "That's where George is. The question we have to ask is, 'Where is Mike?'"

In a news conference before the convention, Bush said he considers himself more in tune with Texans than "the liberal Democrat from Massachusetts."

Bush said Texans will not support "a man that stands for getting rid of guns, that is not the Texas viewpoint."

"Texans don't favor federal gun control, for example. Texans think it's OK to say the pledge of allegiance in the public schools of the United States."

He was greeted at the airport by Oscar Moran, immediate past national president of the League of United Latin American Citizens and by Republican Gov. Bill Clements, who said he was proud "to welcome the hometown boy home."

Bush, who maintains a residence in Maine, has called Texas his home state since 1948 and lists a Houston hotel as his voting address.

He said he does not need to speak Spanish, as Dukakis does fluently, to reach Hispanic voters.

"It isn't whether you speak Spanish," Bush said. "It's what's in your blood, what values you share."

He later told a convention crowd of about 1,200 that those values include "family, faith, freedom and opportunity."

Bush told reporters he does not think U.S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen Jr. of Texas will help Dukakis in the state because, "Texans are going to vote at the top of the ticket."

On energy policy, Bush said he favors deregulating natural gas, lowering taxes on producers and developing nuclear power.

Rep. Biaggi guilty in Wedtech case

NEW YORK (AP) — Rep. Mario Biaggi was convicted of racketeering in a far-reaching bribery and extortion scheme used to transform a tiny South Bronx machine shop into the multimillion-dollar defense contractor known as Wedtech.

After Biaggi's conviction by a federal jury Thursday, the leadership of the House of Representatives set Sept. 7 as the date for considering a recommendation from its Ethics Committee that it expel the 10-term Democrat.

"The overwhelming likelihood is that the recommendation will be followed," Rep. Ted Weiss, D-N.Y., said in Washington.

U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani called on Congress to expel Biaggi, who was convicted last year on an unrelated corruption charge.

Earlier this year, the Ethics Committee recommended Biaggi be expelled for the earlier conviction. But the committee held off sending the resolution to the House floor until after the Wedtech trial so Biaggi could defend himself in person.

After five days of deliberations, the jury found Biaggi and four co-defendants guilty of turning now-defunct Wedtech Corp. into an enterprise that paid millions in bribes to public officials.

Biaggi, a city policeman from 1942 to 1965 and at one time the most decorated police officer in the country, was also convicted of extortion and bribe-taking.

"We're obviously disappointed, and we're going to appeal," Biaggi, 70, said outside the courtroom.

It was the second legal blow of the week for Biaggi, whose 1987 conviction was upheld Monday by a federal appeals court.

U.S. District Judge Constance Baker Motley scheduled sentencing for Nov. 18. All six of the convicted defendants remained free on bail.

Biaggi's eldest son, Richard, 39, of Fort Lee, N.J., was acquitted of racketeering charges but convicted of bribe taking, mail fraud and tax charges.

Also convicted of racketeering and other charges were former Bronx Borough President Stanley Simon, 58; Wedtech founder John Mariotta, 58, of Scarsdale; former Small Business Administration regional head Peter Neglia, 40, of Armonk; and Biaggi's former law partner, Bernard Ehrlich, 59, of Bedford.

A seventh defendant, former city police officer Ronald Betso, 40, of Brooklyn, was acquitted on all counts.

Biaggi was convicted of all but one of the 16 counts against him, including conspiracy, extortion, tax evasion and receiving bribes.

He faces up to 20 years in prison on the racketeering counts, the most serious charges. He has been sentenced to 30 months in prison for the 1987 conviction in Brooklyn for obstructing justice and taking an illegal gratuity.

Prosecutors also sought forfeiture of millions of dollars in ill-gotten gains by the five convicted of racketeering. In addition, Biaggi, Mariotta and Ehrlich face fines of more than $7 million each.

Biaggi was convicted of extorting $50,000 in cash and stock once worth more than $3 million from Wedtech in exchange for his political clout. Biaggi also was convicted of filing false financial disclosure statements and tax returns to cover up his illegal profits.

More than 130 witnesses were called in the trial, which began March 11. Four former Wedtech executives who pleaded guilty to state and federal corruption charges and testified for the government in exchange for leniency.

At the heart of the Wedtech case was how Welbilt Electronic Die Corp., a tiny machine shop Mariotta started in 1965, became a multimillion-dollar defense contractor.

Mariotta was once hailed as a "hero for the '80s" by President Reagan for hiring ex-convicts and former drug addicts in the South Bronx, one of America's most economically depressed areas.

Prosecutors, however, charged that Wedtech was built on greed, and that Mariotta and others at Wedtech bribed Biaggi, Simon and Neglia for help with city and federal agencies.

Prosecutors charged that Ehrlich, the younger Biaggi and Betso helped those three receive or cover up the payoffs.

However, the defense contended that the corrupt Wedtech executives who testified had the ear of White House insiders like Attorney General Edwin Meese III and did not need to bribe Biaggi.

Odam testing AG candidacy

John Odam, Houston attorney and potential candidate for Attorney General of Texas in 1990, was in Hereford Thursday as part of a statewide tour to visit with courthouse officials and other Democratic leaders.

Odam has visited 161 counties to date and plans to make stops in every Texas county as he considers the possibility of seeking election to the Attorney General's office. County Democratic Chairman Helen Rose accompanied Odam on some of his stops in Hereford.

A graduate of Baylor Law School, Odam served as an assistant in the AG's office in 1973-76 and was the Governor's chief legislative counsel in 1985-86. He was chairman of the Harris County Democratic Party in 1982-84. He is currently a partner in the Houston law firm of Helm, Pletcher, Hogan, Bowen and Saunders.

Odam and his wife, the former Peggy Kurtz, have two children—Paige 15, and Matthew 12. Odam is a veteran and a deacon in the South Main Baptist Church of Houston.

Youths involved in burglary

Two 14-year-old boys confessed to theft of an automobile early this morning from Cano's Exxon, 615 East Park Avenue.

Hereford police officers on routine patrol discovered a break-in. Tony Cano was called to the station and told officers a 1977 Buick LeSabre was missing from one of the service bays.

Officers began searching for the vehicle and found it on a road in the San Jose area. Diesel had been poured all over the car, including the interior, but had not been ignited.

A few minutes later, the two boys were seen walking on U.S. Highway 60 and were stopped by officers. The boys had diesel fuel on them, and they were taken to the police department, where they confessed taking the car. They were released to the custody of their parents.

Other reports include children riding bicycles on the parking lot at Plains Insurance; theft of a mail box from the 300 block of Douglas; a woman in the 300 block of Star complained that her granddaughter was being rude to her, but no action was taken; a woman in the 400 block of Country Club Drive said someone had put a dead gopher in her mailbox;

Theft of service was reported by a dentist when a patient could not pay for work performed; $1,300 worth of tools were taken from a building project at the Church of the Nazarene; a woman in the 500 block of West Fifth reported hearing gunshots at 11:40 p.m. Thursday; a man in the 600 block of East Fifth reported the theft of $60 cash from his house;

Hereford Texas Federal Credit Union reported someone has been smearing animal waste on their door handles; the Dairy Queen reported someone had messed up the letters on its sign; a man reported finding an abandoned bicycle at La Mexicana restaurant; and a man at 13th and Avenue C reported his car stolen. While talking to an officer a friend drove up in the car and said the man gave him permission, but he must have been asleep when he asked.

Police issued four citations and covered three minor accidents Thursday.

Shultz says Soviets built Nicaraguastrips

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — Secretary of State George Shultz brought his Latin American tour to Brazil after accusing the Soviet Union of building airstrips in Nicaragua that threaten the United States.

Shultz arrived in the Brazilian capital Thursday night after a half-day visit to Uruguay, where he portrayed the leftist government in Nicaragua as a "cancer" in Central America.

"Nicaragua is a threat to the United States, not for what it might do, but because of the power of the Soviets who are building airstrips there which could pose a problem," he told a news conference in Montevideo, the Uruguayan capital. "There exists a cancer which we have to cut out and we are going to do everything possible to stop its growth," the secretary added.

Shultz did not elaborate on the airstrips. The Reagan administration repeatedly has ripped the pro-

Soviet government in Nicaragua and accused the Soviets of building airstrips there.

Hundreds of students and workers from leftist and union organizations marched in downtown Montevideo near the Foreign Ministry to protest Shultz's visit. No incidents were reported.

Nicaragua is again expected to be on the agenda during talks in Brazil, where Shultz planned to meet today with Foreign Minister Roberto de Abreu Sodre and President Jose Sarney.

Much of his visit is to focus on trade policy, a touchy topic here. Last month, the Washington announced its intention to impose sanctions on $200 million worth of Brazilian exports because this country refuses to recognize patents on U.S. drugs.

The Brazil stop is the fourth on Shultz' nine-nation Latin American tour.

Shultz began in Guatemala on Monday, where he failed to obtain a clear condemnation of Nicaragua and its Sandinista government.

Instead, Shultz and four Central American foreign ministers signed a declaration that called for "peace, democracy, security, social justice and economic development" in the region.

In Uruguay, Shultz issued yet another harsh denunciation of the Sandinistas, who are fighting the U.S.-supported Contra rebels trying to overthrow the government.

Uruguay backs efforts of the Contadora Group — comprised of Mexico, Colombia, Venezuela and Panama — for a peaceful solution to the conflict in Nicaragua.

Shultz presented the U.S. position in talks with President Julio Maria Sanguinetti and Foreign Minister Luis Barrios Tassano. The Uruguayan leaders issued no statement after the private meetings.

Dukakis pushes clean air, Bush uses Truman

By ROBERT GREENE
Associated Press Writer

Michael Dukakis is laying out his positions on environmental issues during a tour of the West, just as a poll indicated that region represents an untapped resource for Democrats. George Bush invoked the names of Kennedy and Truman to show Dukakis has veered "far outside the mainstream" on foreign policy.

As Bush tried to portray the Democratic presidential nominee as occupying the liberal extreme, his own Republican party's right wing was telling the vice president to avoid "establishment blue bloods" when choosing a running mate.

In another campaign matter, Bush chief of staff Craig Fuller confirmed Thursday that Treasury Secretary James A. Baker III would leave his post and become campaign chief before the Aug. 15 start of the Republican convention in New Orleans.

"We don't have to make the false choice, the fool's choice, between economic growth or environmental quality," Dukakis told students at the University of California at Los Angeles. "We can have both, and in fact we must have both."

Dukakis' West Coast foray followed a trip into Mississippi, a traditionally Democratic state that helped send President Reagan and Richard Nixon to the White House. Dukakis lost the state to Jesse Jackson in this year's Democratic primary.

Dukakis spoke at the Neshoba County fair near where the bodies of three slain civil rights workers were found 24 years ago Thursday. Reagan campaigned at the fair in 1980 for his first term.

Dukakis failed to mention the killings when addressing the almost entirely white crowd, and referred only once to civil rights. "I talked about economic opportunity because that's the most important single thing that concerns people," he explained.

Bush, speaking to a Hispanic veterans group in Corpus Christi, Texas, criticized Dukakis for his support for a nuclear freeze and opposition to a new MX missile, the Midgetman missile and the Reagan administration's proposed Star Wars nuclear defense system.

"His positions ... amount to a rejection of America's role as a world leader and a repudiation of the Truman doctrine and the vision of John Kennedy," Bush said, referring to bipartisan foreign policy that evolved after World War II and focused on containing communism.

Dukakis, when asked whether he still supports a nuclear freeze, said, "Sure, and a comprehensive test ban treaty."

Later aboard his plane, Dukakis said he originally supported a freeze "because we wanted to stop the administration from expanding the arsenal."

"Now, it's turned around and we're talking about reduction. I'm for reductions now," he said. "I favor the development of certain arms systems. I favor deep cuts in strategic weapons systems."

Deukmejian said he took himself out of consideration because Democrats would gain control of the Statehouse in California if he dropped out.

Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., who heads the conservative coalition urging Bush to choose someone from the right, said Thursday:

"The problem of the Bush campaign is that it is attracted to establishment blue-bloods. What the Bush ticket needs is a transfusion of red corpuscles from the conservative wing of our party."

He said Sen. Dan Quayle of Indiana, Rep. Jack Kemp of New York and Gov. John Sununu of New Hampshire would be acceptable.

A recent analysis by The Gallup Organization seems to give the Democratic ticket hope in formerly pro-Reagan Western states.

The analysis said Western voters are optimistic about their own financial future but dissatisfied with the general course of the nation, and they don't find in Bush the anti-establishment leader they found in Reagan.

For example, "traditionally anti-government voters in the Rocky Mountains are now calling for more government action on social issues than is the average American voter," wrote Andrew Kohut, head of the Gallup organization.

Kohut said the regional analyses he released were developed from 8,500 detailed interviews taken between May and July. The margin of error is just under 2 percentage points. The analysis was done for the Times-Mirror Co.

El Paso beggars: Don't pay them

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Billboards urging people not to give to panhandlers haven't driven beggars away from the Interstate 10 access road. Neither have mass arrests.

Mayor Jonathan Rogers worries that only the accidental death of a beggar will persuade others to stay away from a 2-mile-long stretch of access road east of downtown.

Some panhandlers, organized and determined, even "rent" children for $1 a day to elicit more sympathy and cash. And some police and Border Patrol officials suspect that some of the beggars belong to an organization that transports them to various intersections, then shares in the day's take.

"It's just a matter of time until someone gets killed," Rogers said Thursday. "We have to hope to God it's not one of these women with the rented kids. The only way people are going to stop giving is when the first death happens. When's that going to happen? This afternoon?"

On the busiest street corners, it's common to see two or three women walking past the stopped cars, rapping on windows and asking for change. Most of the women hold young children who appear to be sedated. Young men wipe windshield with dirty rags and demand payment.

"It's certainly annoying to a lot of the traveling public," said Mike Williams, deputy chief Border Patrol agent. "I know I don't like it when somebody pushes a dirty rag across my windshield or knocks on my car window asking for money."

But simple irritation isn't the only problem, said Williams, who worries that a beggar will be run over and that the children are neglected and abused.

"I've seen babies slumped in a heap under a stop sign in the hot sun," he said.

Most city leaders agree with Rogers that the only way to get rid of the beggars is to eliminate the supply of money that draws them across the border.

An anonymous group recently paid for four billboards that read: "Please don't give to beggars — they cause traffic problems."

City Councilman Ed Elsey, whose district includes the area where most panhandlers congregate, said Thursday that the beggars do more than tie up traffic. He said he has received hundreds of complaints from intimidated drivers.

Police spokesman J.R. Grijalva said people have complained that beggars "kick cars when they don't get enough money or any money.... They have spit on windshields so you'll have to get it cleaned."

Police cracked down Wednesday, when plainclothes officers arrested 36 people. Twenty-four beggars were turned over to the Border Patrol to be voluntarily returned to Mexico. Grijalva said the raids will continue periodically.

Plainclothes officers were used because whenever uniformed police try to approach the beggars, the panhandlers run away, sometimes onto Interstate 10. Because construction is being done on the interstate, lanes are narrow and traffic is heavy, making running out onto the highway extremely risky.

Williams said the Border Patrol has tried to arrest beggars, but that "our biggest concern is scaring them into traffic lanes."

The beggars probably would continue panhandling even if one died in an accident, Williams said.

"We're a border city," he said. "We've got border city problems."

Those problems include poverty and the ability of lawbreakers to elude authorities by slipping back and forth across the border with ease.

Most officials agreed that those who want to help needy people should give to reputable charities.

"As long as people are giving to (beggars), they're going to be there," Grijalva said. "There's many ways to give to bona fide charities. When you give to these people on the street, you don't know who they are."

Agent cried: 'Don't hit me anymore'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — An exhausted U.S. drug agent pleaded "don't hit me anymore" to his captors as he disclosed confidential government information in a futile effort to save his life, according to tapes played by prosecutors.

The muffled recordings, played Thursday in the trial of three Mexican nationals, captured the cries and moans of the late Enrique Camarena as he weakly disclosed the information in a monotone voice.

FAILING COMPANIES

NEW YORK (AP) — When a company seems doomed to failure because of economic factors beyond its control, it can adopt an orderly plan for liquidating its assets to pay off creditors or it can file a voluntary petition for bankruptcy reorganization, says Marvin A. Blumenfeld.

Blumenfeld is president of April-Marcus Inc., a firm which has helped many companies liquidate their assets. Blumenfeld says: "Corporate bankruptcy has become a common financial tactic. Before the liquidation of assets becomes unavoidable, Chapter 11 offers a form of bankruptcy which gives companies time to reorganize their affairs."

At one point, Camarena said, "With the beating you have given me ... do you think that I am going to lie to you?" The Drug Enforcement Administration agent also asked to have his ribs bandaged, but the request was ignored.

Camarena was abducted in Guadalajara Feb. 7, 1985. His body and that of his pilot, Alfredo Zavala Avelar, were found buried at a remote ranch in Mexico several weeks later. They were severely beaten and Camarena's skull was shattered.

Three Mexican men are on trial for the crimes, which the government claims were orchestrated by Mexican drug kingpin Rafael Caro Quintero, 33, who is imprisoned in Mexico where he and two others are being tried for the crimes.

In the tapes, Camarena's interrogators focused on the identity of DEA informants in Mexico. Camarena named two and told where they lived. He also gave directions to the home of another DEA agent in Mexico.

Camarena groans and cries out in pain throughout the recordings, which run nearly two hours. The prosecution says Camarena's actual torture was not recorded on the tapes.

"Don't hit me anymore," Camarena declares several times.

"No," the interrogator replies calmly. "No one will hit you."

But later in the tape, Camarena is heard moaning in pain.

In testimony after the tapes were played, DEA agent Dale Stinson identified the voices of Camarena's interrogators as Caro and Sergio Espinosa Verdin, a former Mexican federal police commander.

Rene Verdugo Urquidez, 36, and Raul Lopez Alvarez, 28, are charged with the murders of Camarena and Zavala. Jesus Felix Gutierrez, 38, is charged with helping Caro flee Mexico after Camarena's killing.

Only one defendant, Verdugo, was mentioned in passing on the tapes, which prosecutors say were made at an estate in Guadalajara. Mexican police seized the tapes at a defendant's home in Puerta Vallarta, the government said.

The recordings were played in a darkened courtroom with jurors watching a transcript of the words projected on a huge movie screen.

"Don't hurt my family please," Camarena is heard saying in a quiet voice.

"No one is going to hurt your family. Forget about that," the inter-rogator replied. "They are not to blame for anything. ... You just keep on remembering, that is all. ... I am not going to hit you or anything. OK?"

Much of the interrogation dealt with questions about how much Camarena knew about Caro's Mexican drug empire. Camarena claimed he knew little and that he didn't even know where Caro lived.

"Give me people that go around with Caro," the interrogator asks at one point.

"I don't know any, commander," replies Camarena. "If I knew I would tell you, sir. ... I tell you that I am here with fear."

Toward the end of the tape, Camarena is heard moaning and crying out in pain.

"I am not going to hit you," the interrogator assures him.

"No, it was that I am getting sharp pains," says the agent.

"Couldn't I ask you to have my ribs bandaged please?" Camarena asks. The request is ignored.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I know this piece (by Conrad S. Jensen) is long, but I hope you think it's worth printing. I came across it a while back and thought it was something a lot of people should see.

My husband recently retired after 34 years on the police force. I feel very fortunate that he retired in one pie, but now my son is on the force—more gray hairs.—Mrs. W.G., East Northport, N.Y.

DEAR MRS. G.: This heartwarming essay paints a truly realistic picture of some genuine heroes. It's sure to be clipped by thousands of readers who love a policeman. Here it is:

What Is a Cop?
Cops are human (believe it or not), just like the rest of us. They come in both sexes and in all sizes.

Cops are found everywhere. On land, on the sea, in the air, on horses, in cars, sometimes in your hair. In spite of the fact that "you can't find one when you want one," they are usually there when it counts most. The best way to get one is to pick up the phone.

Cops deliver lectures, babies and bad news. They are required to have the wisdom of Solomon, the disposition of a lamb and muscles of steel. They are the ones who ring the doorbell, swallow hard and tell you that a loved one is dead. They then spend the rest of the night wondering why they took such a crummy job.

On TV a cop is an oaf who couldn't find a bull fiddle in a phone booth. In real life he is expected to find a blond boy "about so high" in a crowd of half a million people. In fiction he gets help from private eyes, reporters and "whodunit fans." In real life most of what he gets from the public is "I didn't see nuttin'."

If he serves a summons, he's a monster. If he lets you go, he's a doll. To little kids, he's either a friend or a bogeyman, depending on how their parents feel about it. He works around the clock, split shifts, Sundays and holidays.

When a cop is good, "He's getting paid for it." When he makes a mistake, "He's a jerk, and that goes for the rest of them, too." When he shoots a stick-up man, he's a hero, except when the stick-up man is "only a kid, anybody coulda seen that."

Many of them have homes. Some of them are covered with ivy, but most of them are covered with mortgages. If he drives a big car, he's on the take. If he drive a little car, "Who's he kidding?"

A cop sees more misery, bloodshed and grief than almost anyone else. His uniform changes with the weather, but his outlook on life remains about the same, mostly upbeat and optimistic, hoping for a better world.

Cops like days off, vacations and coffee. They don't like auto horns, family fights and anonymous letters. They have unions, but they can't strike. They must be impartial and courteous and remember the slogan "at your service." This is sometimes hard, especially when a character reminds him, "I'm a taxpayer, I pay your salary."

Cops get medals for saving lives, stopping runaway horses and shooting it out with bandits. (Sometimes his widow gets the medal.) But the most rewarding moment comes when, after small kindness to an older person, he feels a warm hand clasp, looks into grateful eyes and hears, "Thank you and God bless you, son."

Take charge of your life and turn it around! Write for Ann Landers' new booklet, "How to Make Friends and Stop Being Lonely." Send a check or money order for $3.50 and a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

"There should be no embarrassment whatsoever about asking about prices for a funeral service."

"When you're my age, you usually have had to make funeral arrangements for someone who is near and dear to you. And I can tell you it's never an easy thing to do.

"You have so many decisions to make... the funeral services are involved in some of them. And most of the time you really aren't prepared to make those decisions, especially if it's an unexpected loss. In fact it's best to have a pre-need plan before you require these services."

The personnel at Rix can arrange the kind of service that you feel you can afford either at time of need or by having a Pre-need Plan before the inevitable happens.

Give Rix your ideas in this instance, ask for a price list and an explanation of services, then stay within the budget you set by selecting the services you want.

Pre-planning takes much of the pressure off you at the time when death does come to a member of your family. Let our professional counselors give you the experience that comes with years of service.

For more information on Pre-need funeral plans call us or fill in the coupon printed below and we'll be glad to answer any questions you may have.

Please send me information about your Pre-need funeral plans. I think this might be the answer of how to arrange a memorial service which would be in keeping with my personal desires.

Boxer Sugar Ray to fight Lalonde

Leonard says, 'I'll never retire again'

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Boxing Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — "I do what I feel," Sugar Ray Leonard says. Once again, he feels like fighting, and once again he'll fight for a lot of money.

The 32-year-old Leonard signed a contract Thursday for his third comeback fight since 1984. This time it will be against Donnie Lalonde for the World Boxing Council light heavyweight championship held by the Canadian and also for the vacant WBC super middleweight title.

The super middleweight division has a 168-pound limit, seven pounds less than the light heavyweight limit.

"This fight is kind of a continuation of my lifestyle," Leonard said during a news conference. "I told you guys some time ago I was going to try to retire. I tried. It didn't work.

Leonard's last retirement came after he upset Marvelous Marvin Hagler on a 12-round split decision April 6, 1987, and won his third title — the WBC middleweight championship.

"I'm going to say officially now I will never retire again," a grinning Leonard said.

The 28-year-old Lalonde called it "the opportunity of a lifetime."

A key to making the fight was the fact that Leonard will have the opportunity of winning at least pieces of five world titles.

Thomas Hearns, the only fighter to win four titles, is scheduled to try for a fifth sometime in late October when he challenges Fulgencio Obelmejias for the World Boxing Association super middleweight championship.

The scheduled 12-round bout will be held in the last week of October or the first two weeks of November, said Mike Trainer, Leonard's attorney.

A site has not been picked, but Las Vegas, Nev., apparently is the leading contender.

The fight will be shown on closed-circuit and pay-per-view television.

Trainer said he believes Leonard will top his previous best purse of $12 million, which he got for stopping Hearns for the undisputed welterweight title in 1981. He made a little under $12 million for fighting Hagler, Trainer said.

Trainer also said there is no question Lalonde's purse will top the record of $1.75 million for a light heavyweight title fight set by

Sherrill says Kickoff Classic important for rankings

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Football Writer

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Now that Texas A&M has become the dominant team in the Southwest Conference by winning three straight championships, Coach Jackie Sherrill would like to see the Aggies become a permanent fixture in the national rankings.

"Right now, you put Texas A&M up there (the Aggies have finished sixth, 13th and 10th in the Associated Press poll the last three years), but year after year, teams like Notre Dame, Southern Cal, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Penn State — you see them in the top echelon," Sherrill said Thursday.

Even though Notre Dame has not been very good lately, they're still considered in the top echelon. The same with Southern Cal. Pitt wasn't in the top echelon when it won the national championship in 1976 but got there by going 11-1, 11-1, 11-1 under Sherrill in 1979, 1980 and 1981 and by beating Georgia in the 1982 Sugar Bowl.

"If (defending national champion) Miami wins big this year and next year, they'll be there for 15-20 years; they'll be there forever."

Sherrill's desire to see Texas A&M reach what he termed "the next level" is the reason he agreed to play Nebraska in the sixth annual Kickoff Classic at Giants Stadium on Aug. 27.

"We had to do it because of where we're trying to go with our program," Sherrill said during a conference call from his office at College Station, Texas. "Nebraska didn't have to do it; we really didn't have a choice."

"It was a chance to get our team in front of the Eastern press and on national TV. We ended last season on national TV (a 35-10 victory over Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl) and we're opening this one on national TV."

Texas A&M's incoming freshmen began practice on Tuesday. The varsity — 12 starters, plus both kickers, among 45 lettermen — begins two-day workouts next Monday, the first three days with no pads and no contact, as per NCAA rules.

Giants' linebacker continues holdout

By The Associated Press

If Lawrence Taylor makes $1 million a year as a linebacker for the New York Giants, can Carl Banks be very far behind?

Banks doesn't think he should be—the Giants are apt to disagree.

Banks, the Giants' All-Pro linebacker, continued his contract holdout today as NFL teams geared up for a full exhibition schedule this weekend.

And he wasn't the only one on the outs with his team, even at this late date.

Among the others still holding out for bigger contracts are Banks' teammates, All-Pro tight end Mark Bavaro and Pro Bowl punter Sean Landeta. Other unsigned notables are wide receiver Mark Duper of the Miami Dolphins, cornerbacks Tim McKyer and Don Griffin of the San Francisco 49ers and linebacker Mike Merriweather of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

The Banks squabble revolves around the salary of Taylor, the Giants' other All-Pro linebacker, who will make $1 million this year.

"He is financially prepared to sit out the season," said Dr. Charles Tucker, Banks' agent.

Tucker said Banks also wants for $1 million a year. And he said Banks would rather be traded if the Giants don't meet his asking price.

Apparently Duper also would leave his team for a better contract. Dan Bakst, Duper's agent, said he wants the Dolphins to release his client unless they meet his demands for a four-year, $3.1-million deal.

"We've asked them to let him go somewhere else," Bakst said. "They said they have too much money invested in him and they can't do that."

Bakst said Dolphins owner Joe Robbie offered $2.55 million to Duper, just slightly more than the initial offer three months ago.

"Mr. Robbie will not go off of where he is," Bakst said. "There is no negotiation."

Meanwhile, 49ers owner Eddie DeBartolo Jr. said he is considering a lawsuit against McKyer and Griffin, who said Wednesday they were "retiring" to avoid the $1,000-a-day fines being assessed against them for holding out.

"We're not going to take it anymore," DeBartolo said of McKyer and Griffin, who are staging a joint holdout.

The two are covered by a contract the team agreed to re-negotiate after they became starters in their rookie season, 1986. Both have been offered more than $225,000 per season in a three-year deal.

"We will either get this issue resolved or we will take legal action. We are prepared to sue them and end their careers," DeBartolo said.

Merriweather's agent said the Steelers should trade the former Pro Bowl linebacker if they don't plan to give him more money.

"If the choice is to sit out all year or be traded, Mike would rather be traded," agent Mike Blatt said. "He wants to end his career in Pittsburgh, but given a choice, he'd rather be traded."

Homemade salad dressings complement fresh salads

There's no better way to complement a fresh tossed salad straight from the garden than with a freshly blended homemade salad dressing. Salad dressings can be made with a few basic ingredients found in many homes. Most dressings are either mayonnaise-based or a combination of oil, vinegar and seasonings.

- CREAMY DILL DRESSING (Low-Calorie)
- 1/4 cup skim milk
 - 3/4 cup low-fat cottage cheese
 - 2 tablespoons white wine vinegar
 - 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard
 - 1/4 teaspoon dill weed
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1 black peppercorn
- Put all ingredients in blender container. Process at a HIGH speed until smooth.

YIELD: 1 cup; 12 calories per tablespoon.

- HONEY-MUSTARD DRESSING
- 1/2 cup honey
 - 1/4 cup cider vinegar
 - 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 1 one-inch piece onion
 - 1 teaspoon poppy seeds
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1 cup vegetable oil

Put first seven ingredients and 1/4 cup oil into blender container. Cover and process at MID-HIGH. Immediately remove feeder cap and pour in the remaining oil in a steady stream. Cover and continue to process until well blended.
YIELD: 1 1/4 cup.

Hints from Heloise

BROWN SUGAR
Dear Heloise: How can I soften brown sugar that has gotten hard? I bought several sacks when it was on sale and when I went to use it, it was as hard as a rock. Any suggestions? — Alberta Hemperston, Bossier City, La.

There are many ways to soften brown sugar. Some of them are: Place a piece of apple or a slice of bread in the container of brown sugar or place it in the microwave oven for a couple seconds or in the regular oven for a few minutes. It can also be grated if it is called for in a recipe.

One of these methods should do the trick! — Heloise

LEMON WATER
Dear Heloise: I am on a diet and consequently I drink a lot of water. Our water is very hard and has a heavy mineral taste. To disguise this, I put the water in a glass with some ice cubes and put in a squeeze of lemon. It seems to be just enough to cover the mineral taste and make me feel like I have a "special" drink. Drinking more water and enjoying it more! — Judy Taylor, Salt Lake City, Utah.

COOKIE SHEET
Dear Heloise: Here is my favorite baking hint. When I bake cookies and need to quickly cool the cookie sheets between batches, I set them on a wet towel as they come out of the oven. This way my baking goes much faster. — A Daily Reader, Paragould, Ark.
