Drugs cost you over $700 a year

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

If you are a typical Hereford Brand reader, you are reading this story on a weekend.

There is a good chance that drugs, alcohol or other substance will be abused by someone you know today or tonight.

Whether or not the situation touches you personally, it will affect you where it hurts the most. It will take dollars from your pocketbook.

It takes dollars from you because every arrested intoxicated driver can cause everyone's automobile insurance rate to rise.

It takes dollars from you because you have to pay for 23 officers on Hereford's police force. Police figure that if you were to take all drugs out of Hereford, that number would be cut in half overnight.

It takes dollars from you to pay to clean up parking lots littered with beer cans. Some of those dollars are tax dollars. Some dollars are higher prices for merchandise because of cleaning up or to repair vandalism.

It takes dollars because someone decided to abuse a substance to the point they needed hospitalization, assaulted a spouse or a child, or just needed help.

Those dollars aren't much for one day. About $2 is all it took from your household today. Over a year, that's over $700 from every household.

And despite our best efforts to teach our children better, to offer them alternatives, to give them an 'out', or institute a massive drug raid like the one here three years ago, the price is going up.

Drugs and other abused substances are not just breaking us up, they are breaking us.

They're not just breaking Hereford's bank: The whole state is suffering. A Texas Department of Corrections official said substance abuse (not just drugs or alcohol) is "the center of the wheel. Everything just spins around it. You name it, it's been done under the influence: shooting wives and the whole nine yards."

The Board of Pardons and Paroles says two of every three inmates have used drugs, and fears that continued drug abuse, once those prisoners are back on the street, is why so many are back in a TDC facility in a short time. The state of Texas is using millions of dollars to build new prisons this year in Gatesville, Snyder and Amarillo. Those facilities are paid for by funds from your pocket. Chances are more facilities will be needed to alleviate Texas' chronic prison overcrowding.

This is more than a bumper sticker on Hereford police cars: It will be an education program for Hereford students beginning in September.

The problem is seen daily in Hereford schools. That's why teachers, administrators, and community volunteers formed We Are The Caring Helpers (WATCH) last school year.

WATCH is more than just lip-service to the problem. The volunteers receive several hours of training, then deal counsel personally and confidentially with youngsters. While youngsters must make the first effort many times, they are reminded that counseling is available, from people they know, by signs around Hereford schools, from other students talking about the problem, and a hint or two from a concerned teacher, principal or counselor.

The WATCH program will enter its second year in September, but the Hereford school district will join with the Hereford police department to take substance abuse detriments to the kids this year.

The program is called DARE: Drug Abuse Resistance Education. It began in Los Angeles as a joint project of the Los Angeles Police Department and the Los Angeles Unified School District.

The schools and police will present the DARE program to all sixth graders this year as a part of the Education for Self Responsibility program. Hereford police officer Roy Rector has received special training to teach the DARE program and, working with the three intermediate school principals, will present lessons on a regular basis.

DARE emphasizes activity, not just listening. It's designed to get students to solve problems. Hereford school curriculum (See DRUGS, Page 2A)

Drugs in Hereford

MARIJUANA

$3 a joint, 2 joints for $5, for "regular" marijuana. By the ounce, it's $80-$110. For sensimilla, a seedless hybrid with more punch, it will cost you $1,500 a pound in Hereford.

CRACK

A crude cocaine derivative, good for a high of about 30 minutes. Available in Hereford for $25-$30 a "hit." Has been available in Hereford for about two years.

COCAINE

Cocaine is not as expensive as it once was, because of wider availability. It's a true supply-demand market. The per-ounce price for cocaine is about four times the per-ounce price of gold on the world market. It is usually purchased by the gram or by the ounce.

SPEED

Speed comes in various forms, from diet pills to stimulants manufactured in illicit laboratories. Price varies according to what you want. Simple prescription diet pills and over-the-counter caffeine pills can be relatively inexpensive. Illicitly manufactured stimulants can be as high as $5-$10 per dose.

HEROIN

Heroin-per-pound price in Hereford, or anywhere else, is usually 10 times the gold-per-ounce price. Police know that when there's heroin in town, a rash of burglaries is likely to follow. Has gone from about 7 percent pure two years ago to 50 percent pure today.

LSD PCP

LSD and PCP are only available from time-to-time in Hereford, authorities believe. The price: whatever the market will pay.

'This is real pornography'

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

The magazine features articles on music, electronics, travel tips for a vacation to the Far East, and how to make your garden grow.

It's all part of High Times, a 14-year-old publication available in a Hereford convenience store.

The music story is entitled "Heavy Metal - A Fan's Perspective." It traces the short history of the wilder, louder side of rock and roll from The Beatles to Led Zeppelin to Van Halen.

The electronics story is about electronic drugs. "Are chemical drugs obsolete?" the magazine asks. "No, but now they have competition." The story points out how equipment can be used to achieve mood, and mind, alteration.

The travel tips are for a trip to Thailand. "A visit to a Far Eastern paradise, where the pot is cheap and the livin' is easy," the magazine says.

How does your garden grow? The 100-page magazine is chock-full of ads about "The Ultimate Growing System", lighting, cultivation methods - all designed to make your marijuana grow better. And inside, out of sight of what one letter-writer called "(expletive) Ronald Wilson Reagan's goons."

And there are ads about caffeine-based stimulants, ordering cannabis seeds from Holland, and wiretap detectors, among other advertisements. All apparently legal.

"To me, this is real pornography," said Police Detective David Wagner of the Hereford Police Department.

HIGH TIMES: The magazine tells all, sells some, and it's available in Hereford.

Substance abuse means many things

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

When Hereford law enforcement and other officials discuss substance abuse, they don't always mean marijuana, cocaine, heroin, or alcohol, especially among very young students.

Abused substances can include common items like cinnamon oil, aspirin and salt, according to Detective David Wagner of the Hereford Police Department.

The problems start at the primary school level, and students are inventive to try either getting high or looking cool to their friends.

"A primary school principal told me that he caught a group of second grade students snorting lines of salt," Wagner said. "They were chopping up the salt very finely and snorting that."

Cinnamon oil-coated toothpicks have been around for years. They're warm to the taste. You can make your own, with cinnamon oil (easily available, not illegal) and toothpicks.

Some Hereford school students found a little secret about cinnamon oil during the 1987-88 school year.

"These were fourth, fifth and sixth graders," Wagner said. "They would buy a sack full of cinnamon oil and during recess they would take a full bottle and 'chug' it. It would take their breath away. One student passed (See ABUSE, Page 2A)

Let's celebrate!

Jubilee week kicks off Wednesday

Four days packed full of fun for everyone begins Wednesday for the 1988 Hereford Town and Country Jubilee.

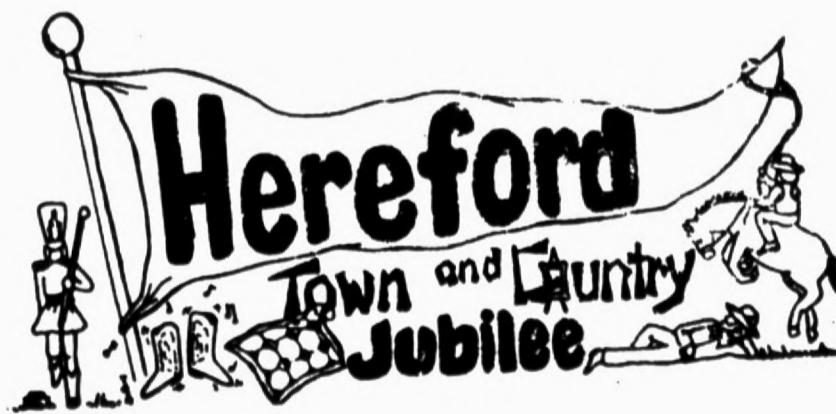

Activities will continue through Sunday, with most of them concentrated on Saturday.

The Jubilee begins Wednesday with an Open Team Roping at the Hereford Riders Club Arena at 8 p.m. Books will open at 7 p.m., and there is no charge for admission.

The first performance of the annual Hall of Fame All Girl Rodeo kicks off Friday at 7:30 p.m. at the Riders Club Arena. Other performances will be held at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and at 2 p.m. Sunday. The rodeo will feature many of America's top cowgirls competing in traditional rodeo events.

On Friday and Saturday at the Hereford Community Center, the Hereford Fine Arts Association will hold the annual Jubilee of Arts Bazaar. 60 booths featuring crafts and specialty items from Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico will be set up at the bazaar.

Saturday is the big day, beginning with the Greg Black Memorial 10-K Run, 2-Mile Fun Run and 2-Mile Walk, sponsored by the Hereford YMCA and Taco Villa, at 8 a.m. Runners and walkers can sign up by calling the YMCA at 364-6990.

The Jubilee Parade, sponsored by the Whiteface Kiwanis Club, winds through downtown at 10:30 a.m. Saturday. The parade will form at Hereford High School, and end at Hereford State Bank. Persons and organizations wishing to enter the parade should contact Jim Ward or Hawk Kreig.

The Jubilee Quilt Show will be held at the Hereford Community Center. Sponsored by Hereford Senior Citizens, the show will feature antique quilts and quilts made at the senior center for display and sale.

Jubilee Junction will open at Dameron Park (weather permitting) after the parade. The day-long activities will include game and food booths for everyone, and a variety of live entertainment. The Deaf Smith County 4-H will be open for children, and there will be a city-wide barbecue Saturday morning.

At the City Swimming Pool at Dameron Park, the Deaf Smith County Chapter of the American Red Cross will sponsor "Big Splash" from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. Events will include swimming races, penny dives, a river raft race, and other special events.

A new event this year is Jubilee Show and Shine just east of the pool at Dameron Park. At least 75 classic cars will be in Hereford for the day-long event. On display after leading the Jubilee Parade will be some of the area's, and nation's, top classic cars.

Jubilee Show and Shine Chairman Wayne White said special awards will be presented through a People's Choice Vote.

Saturday's events will conclude with a dance at the Hereford VFW Post from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. featuring the Clyde Logg Band.

Local Roundup

Republicans meet Thursday

Deaf Smith County Republicans will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Community Room at Hereford State Bank.

The meeting will include a summary of the state convention, a presentation of the Republican and Democratic platforms, a short presentation by local Republican candidates, and ticket sales for the upcoming Larry Combest Appreciation Dinner.

All interest persons are invited to attend the meeting.

County meets Monday

Deaf Smith County commissioners will meet Monday at 10 a.m. at the courthouse in Hereford.

The agenda includes bids for library bids; computer bids for the district attorney's office; a presentation by JoAnn Dwyer on the Rape Crisis/Domestic Violence Center; advertising for bids for and independent outside audit; consideration of policy updates on the county shooting range;

Discussion of insurance coverage for trustees and En-Terp Funds; extension of part-time help in the Juvenile Probation Office; payment of legal fees; and a recommendation from the computer committee on program software.

Motorcycles recovered

An Odessa couple is happier this morning after two motorcycles that had been stolen from their trailer were recovered by Hereford police and sheriff's deputies Friday night.

The couple had been eating at K-Bob's Steak House when someone stolen the motorcycles at about 8 p.m. At 11 p.m., a deputy saw two persons riding motorcycles matching the description of the missing bikes and gave chase. The suspects parked the motorcycles in a driveway in the 300 block of Lake Street and fled, on foot, into the darkness.

The suspects were not found, but the motorcycles were returned to the couple.

Other incidents included a woman in the 200 block of Whiteface complaining that a neighbor was throwing beer cans into her front yard; harassing phone calls; two VCR's, worth $730, stolen from a local store, while another store complained that a man had not returned a rented video; theft of a $100 bicycle in the 300 block of Cherokee;

A family disturbance in the 700 block of Ave. G; a six-year-old girl bitten by a dog in the 300 block of Ave. E; theft of a box of pancake mix by a child who entered a warehouse at Arrowhead Mills; $70 (See ROUNDUP, Page 2A)

Classic cars

This 1936 Ford Roadster owned by Ken Henson of Amarillo will be one of the cars on display at Jubilee Show and Shine at the Town and Country Jubilee at Dameron Park on Saturday. Over 75 cars will be on hand for the show.

Registration begins Aug. 15

Registration for the 1988-89 school year in the Hereford public schools will be held the week of August 15-19.

Hereford high school and junior high students may pick up their schedules that week at the school office between 8:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Registration for Kindergarten through sixth grade will be held at elementary schools August 18-19 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Parents who have Kindergarten or first grade students entering public schools for the first time should bring proof of age documents and immunization records.

Kindergarten will be held at these "paired" schools: Northwest and West Central; Aikman and Bluebonnet; and at Tierra Blanca. On the paired campuses, classes will be filled on a first-come basis. When the classes are filled, remaining students must attend the other school in the attendance zone.

Actual student assignment to teachers will be made by the building principal.

Pre-Kindergarten registration will be held August 18-19 at the Stanton Special Programs Center at 711 Park Avenue. The classes will be a half-day long with either morning or afternoon assignments made by the building administrator.

Transportation will be available for eligible bus riders (generally, students who live more than two miles from the Center). Parents are responsible for all other transportation, and neither breakfast nor lunch will be provided.

To be eligible for the pre-Kindergarten classes, the student's family must meet income or limited English proficiency guidelines.

Parents registering any student new to the district should bring all available educational records, proof of age and immunization records to the school.

Bus schedules will be available for all students at the time of registration.

Parents and students with registration questions should contact their assigned campuses with questions about registration.

Give me a 'P'

A worker cleans out a bird's nest from behind the 'P' of LaPlata Junior High's sign as he takes the letter from the sign that was on the south side of the building's gym. The letters came down to make way for the new name: Hereford Junior High.

ABUSE

out." Wagner believes the cinnamon oil craze has died out.

Wagner said that students at a local junior high school were crushing aspirin into a fine powder, putting that on their thumb, and snorting it.

"Those students felt that other students looked up to them because they were snorting aspirin," Wagner said.

Some are unable to afford marijuana, which goes for about $3 a "joint." Instead, Wagner says some people turned to a near-fatal alternative, combining crudely-chopped parsley with rat poison.

One day, an ambulance was called to a Hereford household where a juvenile was partially paralyzed and was experiencing breathing problems from smoking the toxic mixture.

Others have turned to inexpensive, widely-available caffeine stimulants as well as diphenhydramine, a substance used to test for nitric acid levels and to stabilize explosive, and ephedrine, which is used in hay fever and blood pressure medications and constricts the blood vessels, much like the caffeine pills.

Also available, often over the counter from just about any store in town, are inhalants.

Inhalants can range from gasoline and model glue to metallic paint and typewriter correction fluids.

"We have a few people who are doing inhalants," Wagner said. "They just burn up your brain cells. There's one guy in Hereford who is in his 30s who has been arrested over 40 times. He sniffs metallic paint.

"Another person was offered one month of rehabilitation at no cost to him. Instead, he settled for six months in jail."

Alcohol is not that hard for youngsters to obtain. "If they can't steal it, they can always find someone who will get it for them," Wagner said. "If they don't want to buy it, the big craze is for four or five to go into a store at the same time. They will distract the checker — usually there is only one employee in the store — and get a case of beer. They just steal it in broad daylight."

Usually, a youngster or group of youngsters will hide out to drink their beer. Some of their older counterparts — persons under 21 who can't legally consume alcoholic beverages — are a bit more blatant.

"It's not unusual to make the drag and see a beer keg in the back of someone's pickup," Wagner said. Parking lots, especially at the Hereford Community Center, are popular meeting and drinking places. Many mornings, the HCC parking lot is marred by empty six packs and broken bottles.

"If a child is between the ages of 17 and 21 we take them into the police department, and they can be jailed. If they are 17 and under we can cite or arrest them, but if they are under 17 we can't put them in jail.

"All we can do if they're under 17 is write a citation and call their parents to come get them. It's strange to see the reactions of some of the parents. Some are shocked to find out their child has been drinking. Some really overreact. Some really don't seem to care."

DRUGS

director Alice Lockmiller said an important element of DARE is the use of student leaders (who do not use drugs) as positive role models in influencing younger students not to use drugs.

The last of the 17 sessions will be an assembly for all sixth grade classes. The assembly will recognize peer leaders and all students and adults who participated in the program. Students will receive a special certificate for completing the program.

And, officials hope, will learn a message that will mean lower costs for you in the future.

Names in the News

NEW YORK (AP) — Actress Delta Burke may play the self-centered Suzanne Sugarbaker on the TV comedy "Designing Women," but she's taken on the real-life role of spokeswoman for the National Kidney Foundation.

"My grandmother has been on dialysis due to kidney failure," the 30-year-old former Miss Florida said in a statement from the foundation Tuesday. "As a result, I've developed a deep concern and hope that research will find a cure for kidney disease."

The actress will help promote the foundation's programs through television and radio public service announcements, print advertisements and personal appearances, the foundation said.

NEW YORK (AP) — When a congressman "fed up with crime" found a suspected burglar in his own house, he armed himself with a tree limb, threatened to break the man's legs and held him until police came.

"I don't recommend that people do this, but I guess it was just instinct," Rep. Edolphus Towns, D-N.Y., said after Tuesday's confrontation.

Towns, 54, said he was at his Brooklyn home when a man entered through a second-floor window.

"I heard the noise, went into the room and saw him, then I yelled," Towns said. The would-be burglar climbed back out the window as Towns tried to grab the man's leg.

Towns ran from the house and waited near his garage while the burglar jumped from the roof.

The congressman, holding the tree limb, told the man, "Don't get up, if you do I'm going to break your legs," he said. Towns' wife called police.

Hispanics happy with foot in the door

EDITOR'S NOTE — If the enlarging Hispanic vote should play an important, possibly decisive, role in this year's national election, it would be the first time that this population group has wielded influence proportionate to its numbers. This second of two articles considers why that potential has not been realized in the past.

By SCOTT McCARTNEY
Associated Press Writer

COCKRELL HILL, Texas (AP) — Tony Hinojosa capped a political revolution in this majority Hispanic town with a seven-vote runoff election victory over C.W. "Slim" Martin last May.

Supporters celebrated in the streets. Cockrell Hill, Anglo-run since its inception, not only had its first Hispanic representatives on the City Council, but also its first Hispanic majority.

The election in this Dallas suburb of 3,000 residents demonstrated the growing clout of Hispanics at the ballot box.

Political experts say Cockrell Hill is still the exception. More often than not, Hispanics don't exercise their vote. And Hispanic leaders say breaking down the barriers has been slow.

"There has been a wide awakening in the Hispanic community," Hinojosa says. "People are asking, 'How come we didn't do this before?'"

While attention in the presidential race is turning to the large numbers of Hispanic voters, some observers are wondering if the fall balloting won't just be more of the same in the barrios — low registration, low turnout, not much difference at all.

"The Hispanic population continues to increase every year yet it doesn't increase in political power," says Los Angeles City Councilwoman Gloria Molina.

In California, for example, Hispanics number 21 percent of the population, but only 7 percent of the voters in past elections. Registration and citizenship problems as well as a dearth of local Hispanic leaders to run the necessary political machinery are cited among the reasons.

"Hispanics don't feel like they're part of the political system," says Robert Brischetto, director of the Southwest Voter Research Institute in San Antonio, Texas.

Just a few years ago, an election in Cockrell Hill drew only 15 Hispanic voters, Hinojosa said.

But a voter education and registration program brought 400 more Hispanics to the rolls. Hinojosa won, 277 to 270.

Hispanic leaders, buoyed by successes like Hinojosa's, say this year may be different, that the Hispanic population has matured, that the barrios may be so energized this fall that they will turn out record numbers of voters and perhaps swing the election to either Michael Dukakis or George Bush.

"We have a foot inside the door," says Richard Martinez, California director of the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project. "We're now acquiring power and influence."

Hispanics point to a 100 percent increase over the past two decades in the number of Hispanic elected officials, now 3,317. Yet that number represents only one-half of one percent of the elected officials in the United States, while Hispanics are 8 percent of the population.

Across the country, Hispanics have found that the fastest way to political power on a local level is to go to court to change local election rules.

Hundreds of towns large and small elect local leaders through at-large elections. Hispanic groups have found success in litigation under the Voting Rights Act to force cities and school boards to draw up districts, each served by a single member.

Some 60 cities and school districts in Texas have changed to single-member status, resulting in a leap in Hispanic representation from 14.9 percent of elected officials to 29.1 percent, Brischetto said.

Studies by the Southwest Voter Registration Education Project (SVREP) also have found that Hispanics in local offices and Hispanic names on ballots raise traditionally low rates of voter turnout among Hispanics.

Hispanic voter registration in Texas has more than doubled from 488,000, or 9 percent of the electorate, in 1976 to more than 1 million now, or 13.4 percent of the state electorate.

In the last three Democratic primaries in Texas, Hispanic turnout has topped the statewide average. It still falls below average in general elections, however, often because local Hispanic candidates are out of the race.

Police arrest a man, 56, for DWI, and a man, 25, for second offense of no liability insurance. Police issued 13 citations Friday.

Crimestoppers

A $300 reward is being offered by Deaf Smith County Crimestoppers for information leading to the arrest and indictment of persons responsible for the Crime of the Week.

On July 30-31, a burglary occurred at Barrick Furniture in Hereford. Items taken included 10 RCA video tapes; a GE Walkman radio cassette player with headphones; a Sylvania 20-inch color television; a GE VCR; two RCA VCR's; and a Sylvania compact disk player.

Persons needing more details about the burglary may contact CRIMESTOPPERS and remain anonymous.

Anyone giving information on the crime that leads to the arrest and indictment of the persons involved will receive a $300 reward. Contact CRIMESTOPPERS by calling the CLUE LINE at 364-CLUE or 364-2563.

Any information regarding a crime may be given on the CLUE LINE. Anyone giving information leading to the arrest and indictment of persons involved in a felony case may be eligible for a reward of up to $300.

All callers may remain anonymous.

Hints from Heloise

LETTER OF LOVE

Dear Heloise: I recently had an addition to my household. With the arrival of our bundle of joy, I didn't want our other children to feel anger toward the baby.

I constantly told the children how much their new little sister loved them. When the baby would make a facial expression I would tell the children that she was smiling at them. When she would gurgle and coo, I would tell the children she was talking to them. When she would stretch, I would tell them she wanted them to hold her.

This worked wonders! Who couldn't love someone who they think adores them? — Susan Snapley, Los Angeles, Calif.

"USE" BIN

Dear Heloise: I have made a "use" bin for my refrigerator. When I have vegetables that are beginning to wilt, I place them in this bin.

When I start to cook supper in the evening, I look there first to see what I have. This saves wasting food.

I also place any leftovers there. With grocery prices going up, I am trying to use all the food and keep from tossing any out. It saves a few pennies! — Margaret Scott, Des Moines, Iowa

You know the saying: A penny saved is a penny earned. Keep up the good work! — Heloise

Send a money- or time-saving hint to Heloise, P.O. Box 795000, San Antonio, Texas 78279. I can't answer your letter personally but will use the best hints received in my column.

Nerves, Nerves, Nerves... Maybe That's Your Problem

BY DR. GERALD GLASSCOCK
Doctor of Chiropractic

"Your trouble is nerves, just nerves, that's all," many have been told.

But your nerves are too important to your body to be dismissed so easily.

Every function taking place in your body is under control of the nerve system.

A healthy nervous system gives you strength and energy for the day's work. It brushes aside sickness, it shrugs off ordinary aches and pains. It fights off the usual deterioration of "middle age." All in all, it gives you that "isn't-it-great-to-be-alive" feeling day after glorious day.

And an unhealthy nervous system? That's a different story, one that can be titled NERVOUSNESS.

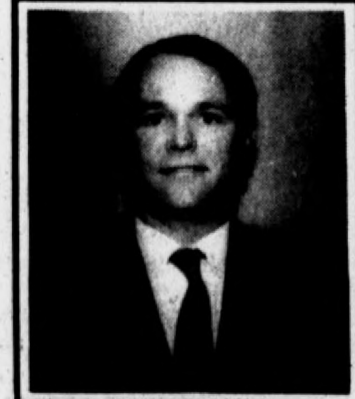

While patients may complain that they are easily upset, often they cannot put into words what they mean by feeling nervous.

To the patient, feeling nervous can be an unpleasant, sometimes frightening experience making it difficult to work or concentrate and causing anxiety and apprehension. Often they will be restless, fidgety, and easily startled. They may display mannerisms such as nailbiting, and be irritable, show worry or act bewildered.

Additionally, there can be palpitations of the heart, gastric distress, headaches, blurred vision and irregularity.

You must remember, however, nervousness is not a disease in itself. It is symptomatic or a series of symptoms of some physical problem in the body.

Dr. Gerald Glasscock

Left uncorrected, nervousness can cause a multitude of serious chronic conditions. And virtually all major psychotic disorders begin with the symptoms of nervousness.

I sincerely hope that those people who find a relationship between the problems I've described and their own condition will look to the Doctor of Chiropractic for help.

Hot prospects

Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce is currently working with two major industrial prospects—both in the food processing business—and success with just one of the prospects could signal the start of significant new economic growth for this community.

One of the most crucial interviews in many years for the chamber's industrial development committee will occur later this month when officials from one of the companies pays a visit to Hereford. Members of the committee have done their homework, and they are ready to present many advantages for locating a food processing plant in Hereford.

But, there is strong competition and some incentives—such as tax abatement and land—will probably be necessary for Hereford to be considered as a prime place. If the incentives are comparable, however, it appears this community could have a real chance at landing one, or more, of the industrial prospects.

Not much can be published about the industrial development work. First, the prospect companies demand that negotiations be kept secret for business and public relations reasons. Second, the local committee does not want to divulge its "sales pitch" to competing towns in the Panhandle. As an example, it was learned here this week that one city may be eliminated from consideration because the company's name was leaked to business leaders in that city. The company was miffed because individuals started calling and wanting to make appointments to talk with them.

Ken Rogers, chairman of the industrial development committee here, says the two prospects are major firms—representing a combined 475 to 550 jobs and capital investments near $25 million. In addition, the two would need in excess of 20,000 acres of crop production to supply the needs of the plants. And, Rogers reported Friday that another major firm had contacted the chamber just this week.

The chamber is carrying on this work with a minimum of funds and at a time when the Economic Development Council, to be funded by local tax dollars, is still in the formation stages. Community support is vital and there may come a time when public participation is needed to help fund an incentive package—such as the purchase of land for a plant site.

We don't mean to raise false hopes about locating new industry in Hereford. At the same time, opportunity is knocking at the door and the community needs to be ready to put out the welcome mat!

Raucy movie

Church people across the country are understandably aroused over a movie that has not yet been released but has a target date of November to come to theatre screens in this nation.

The movie is "The Last Temptation of Christ," and has brought out protesters, marchers, telephone campaigns, letter writing campaigns, and threat of an organized boycott if the producers of the film persist in showing it.

What about the film?

It is a film about Jesus Christ and of course there have been many Biblical films come out of Hollywood, some good and some not so good.

This film, however, is one that presents Jesus as a mentally unstable person who fights being the Son of God, a sinner who doesn't know who will pay for His sins, a person who lashes out at the sick and poor, a traitor to the Jews, one who lusts after Mary Magdalene and a bigamist. The movie also features nudity and sexual scenes.

Opponents say the film is blasphemous and has no basis in Scripture. To them it is completely offensive without any redeeming features whatsoever. They see no purpose in showing it to the public.

As might be expected, the chairman of the National Council of Churches defends the film, stating that it gives a message in that Jesus is seen as one with human traits and weaknesses and by overcoming these he leads the way for those who follow him.

Evelyn Dukovic, executive vice president of Morality in Media, said "There was nudity and in a dream sequence presenting Jesus as marrying Mary Magdalene, there is a sex scene. The film is not only objectionable but extremely offensive to any believing Christians."

The legal climate in the United States being what it is today, there is little doubt but that this film will be released.

It will be up to Christians to see that it does not get the patronage its producers expect.

Bootleg Philosopher

Editor's note: The Beetleg Philosopher on his joblessgrass farm on Tierra Blanca Creek examines a poll that claims political conventions are losing their TV audience.

Dear editor:

According to a public opinion poll—if you have faith in the accuracy of such polls, although I've never seen a poll on whether people believe polls are accurate—anyway, according to a recent poll, presidential nominating conventions are losing their appeal to television viewers.

The number of viewers is getting smaller and smaller, the poll found. "People are getting bored with four nights of the same old things, whether it's a Democratic or Republican convention," the poll showed.

You mean to say the networks and the newspapers go to all that trouble for nothing? The networks string a hundred miles of cable throughout the convention hall so high-priced commentators with outer-space headgear can roam the floor and talk to high-priced anchor men in glassed-in booths saying nothing you can remember 30 minutes later. Plus, 14,000 reporters show up to cover only 4200 delegates—that's 3 1/2 reporters per delegate—the nominees spend good money hiring people to write their speeches, several thousand cardboard signs are printed, five thousand balloons are blown up ready to be dropped when somebody is nominated, despite the fact everybody in the hall had pre-balloon knowledge of who it was going to be.

You mean they go to all that trouble to put on a show and the TV audience had rather tune in on a re-run of a 1956 movie?

This says something about conventions, but it says something also about TV audiences. I watched a re-run of an old movie one time and I'll take a convention any time, despite the fact you know ahead of time how both are going to turn out.

Yours faithfully,

The Penultimate Word

HUSH

The best way to produce a best selling book or a block-buster movie is to get the preachers upset. They will create enough fuss to guarantee success.

The latest effort at this is the soon-to-be-released movie "The Last Temptation of Christ." This movie deals with Christ as a human being having some fantasies about Mary Magdalene while he is dying. Granted, the movie is a farce. Granted, there is nothing anywhere to document any part of the idea. Granted, it is probably blasphemous. But, if we do not want folks to go see the thing we need to hush.

How many people would go see a movie about Christ if it did not become controversial? So far there has not been a great demand for such fare. By the time all of the preachers get through fussing about the thing we will all have to go see it. It will be necessary for some to see it so they can fuss about it. It will be necessary for others to see it so they can appear intellectual. It seems to me, the less said the better. If it is as bad as they say, it will die of its own bad taste.

One issue out of all of this controversy concerns me. Why is it every time we have concerns about anything in the media we are immediately hit with the old censorship charge? I am tired of being beaten about the head with the first amendment. When we were in the controversy with the Amarillo papers they nearly beat us to death with that one. I asked then, and I ask now, what is the proper course of action in these cases. If half-truths are told, if we are attacked unfairly, if the reporting is poor how do we demand truth or fairness without becoming censors? There must be a way to protest, or there is no control. I have asked media people this question on several occasions and received no answer. We are left with no recourse. They are free to do anything they please with no responsibility. All they have to do is hide behind the first amendment and holler censorship.

The last thing I plan to do is go see a movie that is dumb enough to think that a man, any man, could have sexual fantasies while being crucified. They can release it all they want to but my nickel they will not get. That is my stand, but on the other hand I was listening to the Holy Tube the other night and they were giving a detailed description of the movie, and, you know, well, a person should be informed.

Warm Fuzzies,
Doug Manning

Here is a sampling of editorial opinion from around Texas:

Integration of the Texas Rangers

That the Department of Public Safety has — after 165 years — finally appointed a black to the Texas Rangers unit is laudable. That the agency took so long, and that there are still so few minorities in the ranks of the Texas Rangers, is shameful. The situation should be rectified immediately. ...

The Rangers are the stuff of Texas mystique — always considered the best, the toughest of the toughest. That's quite admirable, but with nearly an all-white force, the Rangers will never penetrate into the depths of the Texas crime problem.

The officers' ranks must be fully integrated with qualified minorities. Of the 94 positions in the Texas Rangers, only five are filled by Hispanics — and now there is one black. ...

There is absolutely no reason that this highly prized Texas agency should not take steps to accelerate integration. As always, the results will only be good.

Casino Referendum: How Many Votes Are Necessary?

Galveston will soon be voting in a non-binding referendum on the issue of casino gambling. Again. The third such vote in four years.

It's not our intention to instruct another city on its affairs — even one as close and as entwined as Galveston is to Houston. We neither endorse nor oppose the creation of a casino gambling district in the Aug. 13 election. But, to be frank, this upcoming vote does seem to be belaboring the point. If casino gambling does get voted down once again, it's time to give the matter a long rest.

Cutting Back Television Coverage Of Political Conventions

... Some network television executives ... appear to believe that the only events worthy of broadcasting to the American public are those that have been orchestrated to produce sufficient drama and conflict to enhance their ratings.

They have complained that the Democratic convention in Atlanta was boring and indicated that they will consider cutting back on prime-time coverage of the ... conventions in 1992.

One network executive has even said that his network may devote less time to the Republican convention ... than it did to the Democratic gathering.

... Such changing of the rules in the middle of the game would be manifestly unfair, and it would probably backfire on that network in the ratings.

But even the talk of reduced coverage four years hence smacks of venality and hypocrisy. When the network executives complain about the conventions being staged entertainment events, their real complaint is that the conventions are not staged well enough for television's purposes.

... That amounts to an unconscionable attempt to superimpose entertainment and market values on occasions where public service and educational considerations should take precedence.

The networks have responsibilities to the public that transcend ratings. Indeed, they should be considering expanding prime time coverage of the conventions instead of shrinking it. ...

Fort Worth Star-Telegram, Aug. 1

Democrats Give Reagan Difficult Choice Over Plant-closing

When Congress sent the ... so-called plant-closing bill to the White House, it cynically presented President Reagan with a Hobson's choice.

The pernicious but politically popular bill would require companies to provide 60 days' notice for factory closings or large-scale layoffs. It was originally included in the trade legislation vetoed earlier this year by the President.

A veto of the separate plant-closing notification bill will be much more difficult, if not impossible, for the President and his congressional allies to sustain. ...

Even if the President can turn around enough Republican votes to sustain a veto, he risks giving Democrats a potent issue to use against Vice President Bush during the fall election campaign.

The president's two remaining choices are hardly options at all. He can sign a poorly drafted bill that he believes would place many American manufacturers in a straitjacket, or he can let it become law without his signature.

As a matter of common decency, businesses should let workers know in advance when they are about to lose their jobs. ... But (Reagan and Bush) ... believe such procedures should be in labor-management agreements, not in a statute designed to score political points.

Texas Beach Cleaners Recognized

The 17,500 volunteers who have helped keep Texas beaches clean can stick out their chests a little farther now. President Reagan gave the Adopt-A-Beach program a "Take Pride in America" award.

The program is the brainchild of Land Commissioner Garry Mauro, who accepted the award on behalf of the individuals, corporations and clubs that picked up 600 tons of trash — mostly plastic — from the beaches in the less than two years.

Congratulations.

Officers installed by local American Legion Auxiliary

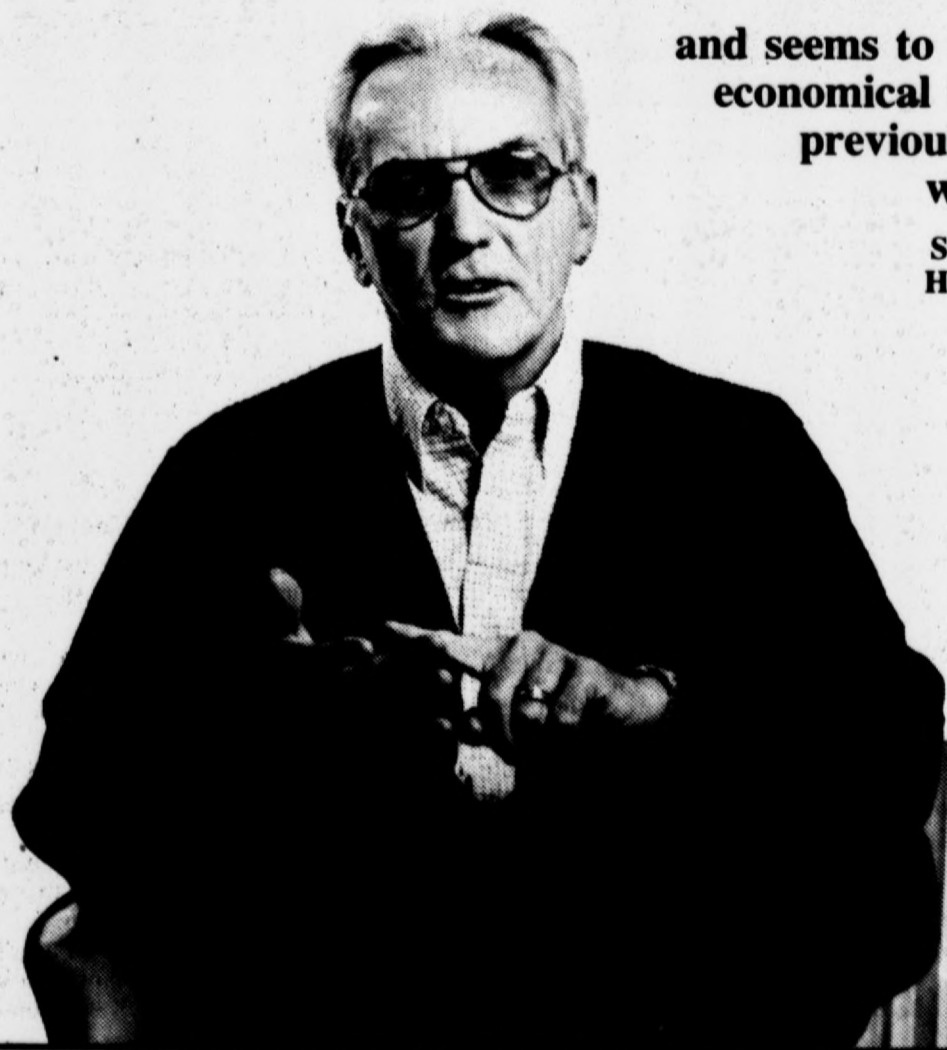

The American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 192 met Tuesday evening in the Legion Hall as a Mexican stack dinner was served to the Auxiliary and members of the Legion.

Following the dinner both organizations retired to the Legion Room and 18th District President Nina Swink gave a report of the Department Convention of ALA held recently in Corpus Christi. 18th District Commander Jim Swink reported to the Legion. The Swinks both of whom are from Shamrock, were installed to the office at the Department Convention.

Following the reports, Beverly Jesko called the unit meeting together and Swink installed the 1988-89 unit officers: Troyce Hanna, president; Betty Jo Carlson, 1st vice-president; Virginia Adams, 2nd vice-president; Clara Trowbridge, secretary-treasurer; Alice Gilleland, reporter; Ella Caudle, sergeant-at-arms; Irene Berger and Lela Kemerer, elected members-at-large; and Cozy Mae Shelley, chaplain. Following the installation the new officers assumed the office to which they were elected.

Plans were completed for a country lunch to be served at the Legion Hall on Tuesday, Aug. 16 from 11

Cowboys' franchise desperate for success

An AP Sports Analysis
By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer
THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Not since the uncertainty of the expansion years in the early 1960s has the Dallas Cowboys' franchise been so desperate for success.

Fan popularity of the guys with the stars on their helmets has dwindled to a two-decade low.

It's been a well-chronicled decline of bad draft choices, outdated coaching theory and players who couldn't handle the pressure without a miracle maker Roger Staubach around.

The arrogance of "America's Team" became the humbleness of America's chumps.

Cowboys' tickets, once the Sunday pastboard passes of Dallas high society, now go begging for lack of interest. It didn't help things several years ago when the Cowboys made themselves one of the most expensive tickets in the NFL at $23 per game.

The Dallas Mavericks of the NBA have become the "in" thing to do in Big D now. To be "seen" you go to Reunion Arena not Texas Stadium.

Owner Bum Bright can't even sell the team. It's been on the open marketplace a year but Bright can't get what he's asking — over $100 million.

If the Cowboys, who lost over $1 million last year, don't take off like a rocket this year, there could be a developing cash-flow problem.

"I can't think of any more important pre-season in our history," said club president Tex Schramm. "We've got to have an exciting product. We have to get the fans back in the stands, which means we have to win some games."

The Cowboys were hit with the lowest attendance in Texas Stadium history last year. Some of it was caused by the NFL strike but many fans are turning away from the Cowboys, who haven't made the playoffs since 1985.

"The fans are tired of seeing bland people and performances," Schramm said. "They wanted something to get pumped up about. They want us to light a fuse."

Schramm paused for a minute and added "We're going to get there. We're going to be exciting."

The 68-year-old Schramm said there will be no addition this year to the Ring of Honor, the select list of six Cowboy greats displayed in silver on the wall below the press box at Texas Stadium.

Schramm doesn't want to dwell in the past.

and the Houston Oilers.

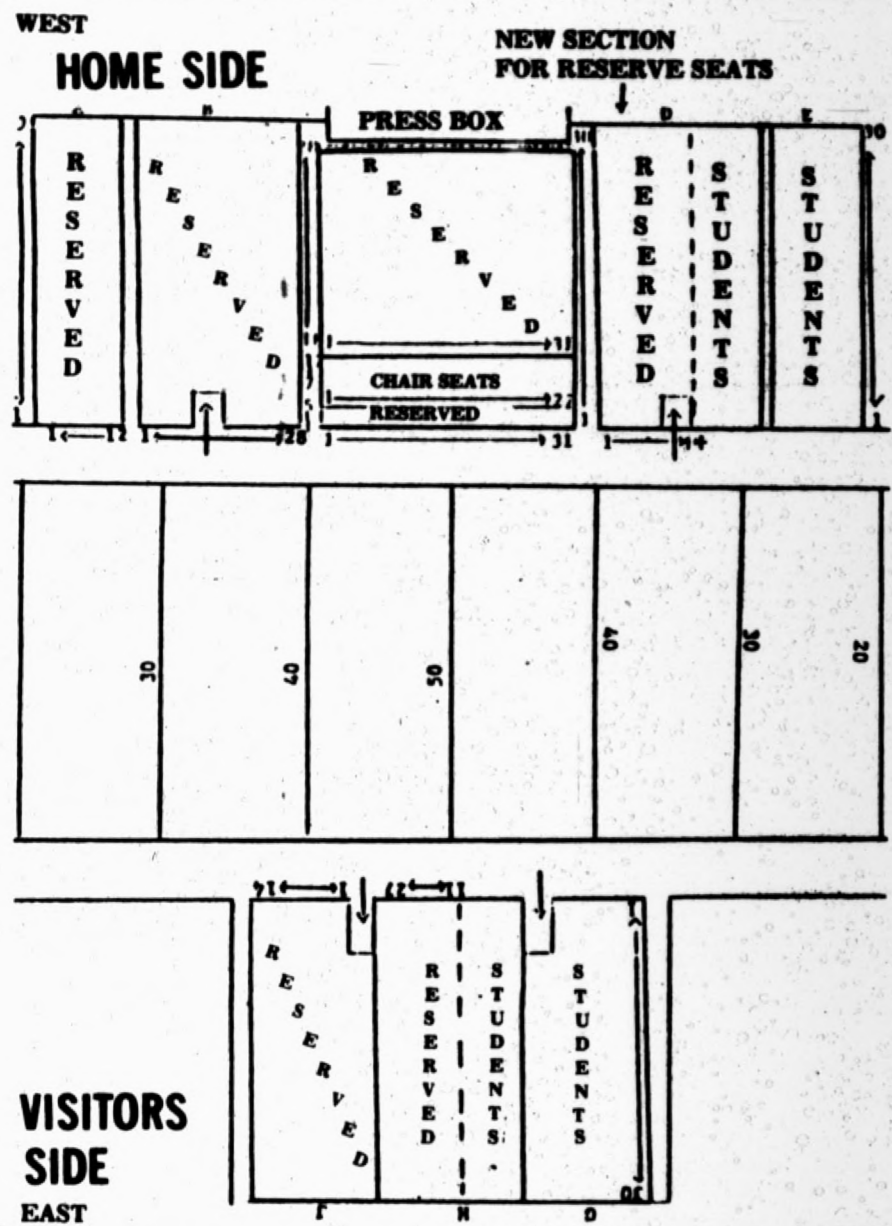

"The fans are there, waiting to come back if we just do our job," Schramm said. "There was a lot of excitement last year with our replacement team. It was like a college crowd. The fans were whipped up by the enthusiasm of the replacement players."

Schramm said many fans never accepted the returning veteran players after the strike ended.

"The air just kind of went out of them," Schramm said.

East defeats West 24-0 in Greenbelt Bowl

The East defeated the West 24-0 Friday night in the Greenbelt Bowl, an all-star football game in Childress featuring 1988 graduates from high schools within 175 miles of Childress.

East quarterback Doug Pittman of Stratford had nearly 130 yards total offense to lead his team to victory, and was named the game's outstanding offensive back.

Hereford High School graduate Derrell Page, who played defensive end for the Whitefaces three seasons, was named to Greenbelt Bowl rosters this year. Robin Jones of Hereford was one of the queen candidates.

Touchdowns for the East were a 45-yard interception return by Bo Miles of Palo Duro, a 10-yard run by Steve Goff of Vernon, and an 18-yard run by William Hendrick of Mangum, Okla. Pittman kicked a 24-yard field goal and all three PATs.

"We can no longer keep living on our past success," Schramm said. "We've played that record over and over again. We know all about the 1960s, the 1970s, and the great players. But the fact is, we haven't been in a Super Bowl in 10 years. Let's forget history. Let's make new history."

Heretofore meaningless exhibition games take on a new light with the Cowboys, who face the lowest pre-season ticket sales since 1974.

"Winning them would really help," said Schramm.

The word has filtered down to Coach Tom Landry, who normally does not attach any importance to the results of games that don't count in the standings.

"It's very important for us to win," Landry said. "Winning helps the confidence of the team and gets the fans enthused."

The Cowboys have pre-season dates with the San Diego Chargers, Los Angeles Raiders, the Chicago Bears

Football tickets go on sale Monday

Reserve seats for Hereford High School varsity football games will be offered beginning Monday on a first come, first serve basis at the Hereford schools administration building.

More than 400 additional reserve seats will be available in Section D of Whiteface Stadium for Whiteface football fans this fall.

The 420 reserve seats are possible because of the purchase of portable bleachers for the Whiteface band.

The seats before were for general admission students.

The student seats in Section D will now be the northern half of that section. A drawing is published above for fans to know the locations of reserve seats and student seats throughout the stadium.

Tickets will be available by visiting the Hereford Independent School District business office at 136 Avenue F. For more information on the reserve seat tickets, call 364-0606.

Football practice starts Monday

Practice begins Monday for Hereford High School sophomore, junior and senior football players. The practice sessions will be in shorts only until Friday, when the athletes start practicing in pads.

Hereford High School head Coach Don Cumpton said juniors and seniors will practice at 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. each weekday, and sophomores will practice at 4 p.m. Cumpton also said ninth graders need to report in on Wednesday at 1:30 p.m. at Stanton. Practice sessions for the ninth grade athletes begin on Aug. 15 at 1:30 p.m.

Preseason scrimmages are scheduled with Lubbock Monterey and Amarillo High. The scrimmages with Monterey will be in Hereford on Aug. 18 - sophomores at 3:30 p.m., junior varsity at 5:30 p.m., and varsity at 7:30 p.m.

On Aug. 25, the Hereford ninth grade and sophomore teams will scrimmage in Amarillo with Amarillo High. The Amarillo High junior varsity and varsity teams will come to Hereford on Aug. 26 for scrimmages.

The "Meet the Herd Night" is scheduled on Aug. 29. The season opener is scheduled Sept. 3 at Tascosa, a 2 p.m. Saturday contest. Hereford other non-district game will be at home vs. Palo Duro on Sept. 9 at 7:30 p.m.

10-kilometer, 2-mile runs, 2-mile walk set August 13

The Greg Black Memorial 10-Kilometer, 2-Mile Fun Run and 2-Mile Walk, annual YMCA events, are scheduled Aug. 13 at 8 a.m.

The races will begin on Fifteenth Street in Hereford at the YMCA building. Entry fees are $8 in advance and $10 on the day of the races. Late registration is scheduled 7 a.m. to 7:45 a.m. on Aug. 13.

There will be men's and women's divisions in the 10-kilometer run, in these age groups: 13 and under, 14 to 19, 20 to 29, 30 to 39, 40 to 49, 50 and older.

The two-mile run and two-mile walk will each have open men's and open women's divisions. An open wheelchair division is also planned for the 10-kilometer race.

The 1987 overall winners included Wilson Kiger of Plainview in the 10-kilometer run, Henry Galpin of Amarillo in the two-mile fun run, and Mike Moon of Hereford in the two-mile walk.

The two-mile walk was held for the first time last year.

Home of the Week

Country Porch Has Wood Rail

FEATURE HOMES

© By W. D. FARMER, A.I.B.D.

The approach through country front porch guides you to separate entry with view to commodious sunken activity room with double step entrance from central hall and step-up-to kitchen. A half partition is shown as a division and the rail to basement stair is visible. The effect is a larger appearance. A fireplace is shown with gas jet for log lighting. The kitchen is adjacent to a full formal dining room and breakfast room with offset. The kitchen contains all built-in appliances and generous cabinet and counter-top work surface. The laundry is contiguous and has rear access to double side-entry garage.

Three large bedrooms in line to the left are in complete privacy and the master bedroom has full exclusive bath with vanity. The alternate master bath includes garden tub and separate shower stall and a large vanity with matching lavatories. The remaining bath with vanity services two bedrooms and visitors. Clothes closets are large and the linen closet is in the central bath.

The exterior style is country, adorned by wood rail front porch, vertical siding and multi-light shuttered windows.

The plan number is 777-A. It includes 1,706 square feet of heated area. All W.D. Farmer plans include special construction details for energy efficiency and are drawn to meet FHA and VA requirements. For further information write W.D. Farmer, P.O. Box 450025, Atlanta, GA 30345.

SECURITY FEDERAL REFUSES TO PLAY BY THE RULES

Security Federal Savings & Loan has only one simple game plan: giving you the best checking account in town. Without a bunch of rules and restrictions.

For instance, there's no per-check charge. Ever.

If you keep just $200 in your Security Checking Account, or you're a senior citizen, you can avoid paying the low $4.00 monthly service charge.

Every dollar you deposit earns interest.

Plus, you can get a free Security PULSE 24-hour ATM card that works in thousands of machines nationwide — with no transaction fee.

That's it, clear and simple. No complicated rules, restrictions or run-arounds. The only thing that's hard to understand is why anyone would want a checking account from anywhere else.

Security Checking. Simply the best.

Women in Language Missions' holds coffee, mission study

Vice-president Helen Eades presided over the Women's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church during their coffee and mission study held in Kinsey Parlor of First Baptist Church Wednesday morning.

Eades led the prayer and announcement was made that one Backyard Bible Club needs a hostess. Costaline Lee, Mission Action Chairman, read a letter of appreciation from Rev. Wells for the monthly offering to the Bible Ministry at the port of Houston. An ice cream supper for King's Manor was set for Aug. 4 at 7 p.m. Lee also read a letter from Gene Brock expressing appreciation for support of the Camp Wigwam program.

The group voted unanimously to display the WMU Quilt at the Community Center during the Town and Country Jubilee. It was announced that the State Mission Goal was made for $5500.

"Women in Language Missions" was the program presented by Donnie Owen and Lolita Vinson. Owen recounted Marie Buhlmaier's voyage to America with her family, noting that she accepted Christ in Oct. 1873 and became a member of

The Second German Baptist Church of New York City. After witnessing to many others, she went to Baltimore as a missionary to the Germans and to the thousands of immigrants arriving at Immigration Pier.

Vinson told about Doris Diaz, language WMU consultant from Guatemala City, Guatemala. After teaching in Christian schools, she went to the United States and worked in the Spanish WMU office in the language mission department of Texas Baptist Convention. She then worked as an assistant editor for El Bautista Mexicano and in 1968 became managing editor of Spanish WMU Publications for the Home Mission Board in Atlanta. Many received a world vision of missions from her.

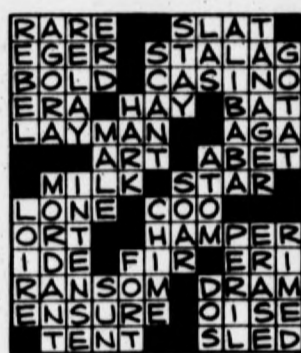

Della Stagner, Margaret Young, and Faye Brownlow were hostesses to Thelma Auten, Doris Hair, Alice Christman, Lillie Stagner, Lola Jewell, Louise Kinsey, Lucy Kirksey, Eades, Bibby Morgan, Jennie Terrell, Clovis Seago, Bea Hutson, Francis Crume, Gladys Miller, Vernis Parsons, Vinson, Theda Seiver, Lee, Grace Covington, Ella Oglesby, Owen, Jewell Hargrave, Leatrus Clark, and Blanche Mosley.

Accent on Agriculture

By DAVY VESTAL
County Extension Agent
SOIL ACIDITY REDUCES YIELD

Soil acidity is being blamed for gradual yield reductions across some of Oklahoma's best wheatland. What is soil acidity?

For a producer trying to grow a crop, soil becomes acid when acidic cations (pronounced Cat-i-ons), such as hydrogen and aluminum, become more abundant on soil particles than alkaline cations such as calcium, potassium magnesium and sodium, explains Gordon Johnson, Oklahoma State University Extension soils specialist.

Soil acidity is measured in pH values. A pH of 7.0 is considered neutral. Any pH higher than 7.0 is getting into the alkalinity range. As pH drops away from 7.0, it begins getting into the acidity range.

Production of wheat and most other grain crops is most efficient when soil pH remains in a range of 5.5 to 7.0. The best pH for alfalfa is in the range from 6.5 to 7.5.

The main effect of pH on crop production is the degree of solubility of nutrient elements and toxic elements and their availability for use by crops. Effects of toxic elements in low pH or acid soils are what hurts plant growth and yields.

Toxic elements such as aluminum and manganese are part of common soil compounds that are more water soluble in acid soils. So those toxic elements become more available to plant roots, Johnson explains.

High levels of aluminum are present in most Oklahoma soils because aluminum is part of all clay particles. That aluminum, which becomes more soluble in acid soils then affects plants in the form of aluminum toxicity. Level of tolerance to aluminum toxicity varies among different plant species.

"When soil pH is above about 5.5, aluminum remains in a solid combination with other elements and isn't harmful to plants. But as pH drops lower, the amount of aluminum dissolving in the soil increases," Johnson points out.

"In fact, the amount of dissolved aluminum in soil is 1,000 times greater at Ph 4.5 than at 5.5, and it's 1,000 times greater at 3.5 than at 4.5.

Effects on crops at different pH levels can be distinguished very clearly," he adds. "This is the reason a field may produce good crops for several years, and then crop failure can be triggered by a small change in soil pH.

"For example, wheat will seem to do well even at pH 5.0 if other growing conditions are favorable, but wheat usually will fail completely at pH 4.5."

Toxic elements such as aluminum and manganese hinder plant growth by "root pruning," Johnson says. A slightly higher than normal amount of the toxic elements in the soil solution causes roots of most plants either to deteriorate or stop growing. The result is that plants are unable to absorb water and nutrients normally. They will appear stunted and exhibit nutrient deficiency symptoms, especially for phosphorus.

The unthrifty condition of the crop usually means it will be more susceptible to weed competition and insect, disease or drought damage.

Raising soil pH with application of agricultural lime is the easiest and most economical way to counter prevalence of these toxic elements in the soil, Johnson points out. Lime should be incorporated into the soil so it reaches the root zone where the effects of nutrient elements and toxic elements are most important.

A liming program should be based on pH levels determined by soil tests. Regular soil testing to monitor changes in pH is recommended in planning a liming program to create favorable soil environment for future crops.

Japan still top U.S. customer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite trade tensions between the two countries, Japan remains the top consumer of U.S. agricultural exports and the Agriculture Department is offering tips on how to do business in that market.

"Carefully choose a partner or partners to work with in Japan," Suzanne Hale, U.S. agricultural trade officer in Tokyo, advised in an interview in the department-produced magazine Foreign Agriculture.

"Visit and study the market," she said. "Keep in touch with customers,

In 1743, Thomas Jefferson, the third president of the United States, was born in what is now Albemarle County, Va.

try to understand their needs and be flexible in meeting those needs. Above all, be flexible. Japan is a big market."

The Japanese imported $20 billion worth of agricultural commodities in 1987, $6.7 billion of that amount, or about 20 percent, from the United States. Chief competitors are Australia, Canada and Argentina for grains, France and Germany for wines, the entire European Community for processed foods, Thailand for chicken and Denmark and Taiwan for pork.

Hale said young Japanese are "becoming much more adventurous" in eating habits with Italian and Mexican restaurants burgeoning in Tokyo.

"There are a lot of opportunities in the market for traditional Western-style foods as well," she said.

She said health-consciousness is sharpening among Japanese food buyers and, because more women are working than ever before, there is greater interest in convenience foods that can be readily prepared.

She cited Japanese import quotas and food additive regulations as among some of the toughest problems that U.S. exporters face.

"Another difficulty for U.S. companies is that Japanese consumers are used to high-quality packaging," she said. "A few U.S. companies have developed special packaging for Japan, but much more could be done."

1988 cash income about same as 1987

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers collectively may wind up with about as much cash income in 1988 as last year's record level, according to Agriculture Department economists.

Some farmers have been hit hard by drought while others were only nudged or escaped altogether. Those are the farmers who were able to take advantage of higher commodity prices.

The result is a greater income disparity than usual among farmers and from one production region to another, depending on where the rain fell and when.

"Although little overall change is expected in income, regional disruptions are arising because income differs sharply among individual farmers from what it would have been with normal weather," the department's Economic Research Service said Wednesday.

Smaller, drought-withered crops and a sharp drawdown of grain held in storage have boosted commodity prices "usually by more than enough to offset reduced yields," the report said.

"This year's cash receipts (from sales) are up because of higher crop values and sales from past years' crops in storage at drought-increased prices," the report said.

"However, farmers hit hardest by the weather are expected to have much lower receipts."

Officials said the rise in commodity prices may boost farmers' gross cash income nationally to a range of $162 billion to $167 billion in 1988, about $4 billion higher than projected last month. Nationally, the gross was about $159 billion in 1987.

Gross cash income includes proceeds from marketings and direct government payments. When cash expenses are deducted, what is left is called net cash income, which was projected at $53 billion to $59 billion for 1988, compared with the record of $56 billion in 1987.

The agency also computes "net farm income" to include allowances for the value of goods consumed at home, dwellings and changes in the value of inventories held by farmers.

On that basis, this year's net farm income could be in the range of $40 billion to $45 billion, down from $42 billion to $48 billion forecast in June. Net farm income in 1987 was $46 billion.

Officials said the decline — $1 billion to $6 billion from last year — reflects the drop in 1988 production.

Laura Weingart feted with shower

A bridal shower honored Laura Weingart of Amarillo, Aug. 20 bride-elect of Douglas Rains, also of Amarillo, late Thursday afternoon in the home of JoAnn Burfield, 149 Ranger.

Mrs. Burfield, the honoree, and the mothers of the bridal couple, Elaine Rains and Hope Weingart of Amarillo, greeted guests who were registered by Elizabeth Lookingbill, the prospective bridegroom's sister.

Michele Peters of Amarillo and Georgia Sparks served refreshments from a table laid with a candlelight lace cloth over peach and centered with fresh peach and candlelight colored carnations and greenery. Peach napkins accented the table.

A cake, decorated with a picture of a bride and peach and green flowers, was served as was punch, nuts and mints.

Hostesses presented peach carnation corsages to the honoree and the couple's mothers and gave as a hostess gift to Miss Weingart, a microwave oven.

Welcomed as special guests were Adell Thompson, Nanetta Thompson, Nell Thompson and Denise Cook, all of Plainview; and Norma Dement of Amarillo.

Bride-elect honored

Laura Weingart of Amarillo was feted with a bridal shower Thursday afternoon in the home of JoAnn Burfield, 149 Ranger. The honoree and Douglas Rains, also of Amarillo, plan to wed Aug. 20 in that city. Greeting guests with Miss Weingart were (from left) her mother, Hope Weingart of Amarillo; the prospective groom's mother, Elaine Rains; and Mrs. Burfield.

Overweight kids may be obese adults

In years past a chubby baby was often viewed as a healthy baby. But a Texas Christian University physical education professor warns that 80 percent of obese school children will grow up to be obese adults.

It is not the amount of food consumed that makes the difference between an overweight child and one of normal weight, according to Dr. Alan Lacy. It is more a matter of how much activity they engage in.

"Research has shown that obese children eat the same amount or less than their lean playmates," Lacy said. "The main difference lies in their activity levels. The obese child becomes very efficient at doing nothing."

Lacy views obesity as a handicap that leads to a poor self-concept about activity. The additional weight also can set the child on the road to future coronary problems.

"Physicians and exercise physiologists have found that coronary heart disease factors such as hypertension and elevated blood lipids already are developing by the age of five and six," explained Lacy.

Exercise is the key to attacking weight problems in the young, Lacy said. If children work out regularly they will have a higher metabolic rate, allowing them to burn more calories.

"If a child engages in just 30 minutes of aerobic activity they will burn calories at a higher rate for several hours after exercising," Lacy noted. "Heredity is a factor in our metabolic rate but exercise will help."

Ruland, Kershen given special recognition

The Annual Westway Community Reunion was held Sunday, July 31, in the Westway Community Building with 65 residents and former students in attendance.

Andrew Kershen was named "Man of the Year" and Kee Ruland was selected as "Woman of the Year." Other award recipients included students, Cody Wilson, Jill Johnson, Wendy Connally, Kirby Kaul and Andrew Kaul, and most active club woman, Jerrye Jackson.

Also, recognized were John Harvey and Donnie Owen as the oldest man and oldest woman present; Megan Joyce of Tokoyuka, Japan, and Kelly Karnowski of Boise, Idaho, youngest present; and Margie Kershen Joyce of Tokosuka, Japan, the person who traveled the furthest distance.

The largest family recognized were descendants of the late G.C. Hartman with 15 present. The group was named as the "Family of the Year" and given a bag of red beans. Also, Oleta Houser of Friona was presented with the honorary mayor award.

The reunion began with a covered dish luncheon at noon. Forrest Ricketts gave the invocation which was followed by the birthday song. Vesta Mae Nunley provided an array of balloons and a decorated cake for the mutual birthdays of Joe Landers and Ann Kershen. Also, cards were signed for Grady Wilson and Nanette Little Reeves who could not be present.

President Howard Gore presided for the afternoon program in which he gave recognition to 90-year-old members: Virginia Patton of Golden Plains Care Center, 97; Grady Wilson of Sturgis, S.D., 96; Viola Gray of Westgate Nursing Home, 93; John Harvey of Crosbyton, 91; and Kee Ruland reported on weddings, anniversaries, babies and those who served in military service during the last year.

Nelda Guy Ricketts gave the necrology report which was followed by a scripture reading and prayer by Forrest Ricketts. Mary Jean Gore reported that 65 members had made news in The Hereford Brand, and Doris Wilson gave the school news including those excelling in sports and academic areas.

Leta Kaul announced the graduates for the year and introduced Chris Connally who will be spending a year in Denmark and Switzerland communicating for agriculture. Kaul also explained the service provided by the "Doomsday Tower", located east of Westway proper. She also reported that a Westway son, American astronaut Edgar Dean Mitchell, was the sixth person to walk on the moon.

During the business session, Ulys Pierce was elected to serve as president for the coming year; and Buddy Witherspoon of Albuquerque, N.M., vice president, and Jewell Hargrave, secretary.

Pierce reported on the condition of his brother-in-law, Claudell Skyes of Portales, N.M. who was seriously gored by a bull. His family built the house and lived west of the store where Joan Jesko now resides.

Pierce also reported that he had recently visited with W.A. Hendricks of Arkansas who had been a student at Westway in the 1920s.

Among those present at the reunion were 18 former Westway students: John Hunter, Ulys Pierce, Oleta, Myra and Nina Beth Hartman, Elvin Wilson, Florence Decker Shirley, Raymond Morrison, Ronald Kershen, Walter I. (Bussy) Kaul, Howard Gore, George Turrentine, Vernon Wilson and Butch Connally.

The meeting closed with the singing of "God Bless America."

TINTED CONTACT LENSES

Why do people want to wear contact lenses that change the color of their eyes?

Psychologists tell us that since ancient times, men and women have enjoyed experimenting with their appearance. They've colored their hair, used face makeup and changed the style of their dress. Sometimes these changes were made to attract the opposite sex. Other times, changes in physical appearance help change one's mood and provide a much needed emotional lift.

There are times in your life when changing the color of your eyes can make you look and feel better. Perhaps you've always felt that you'd be more attractive with blue eyes. Today's new, color contact lenses can make that possible. Or you may be partial to aqua, green or hazel eyes.

Safe, color contact lenses now give you the choice of enhancing the color of your eyes, or changing their color. Special toric contact lenses in color are also available for many astigmatic patients.

Ordination ceremonies set for Cloud

Jonny Cloud will be ordained a deacon in the Catholic Church Saturday, Aug. 13, seven years after his decision to make this lifetime commitment. He will be ordained in St. Anthony's Catholic Church by Bishop Leroy Mathiesen of Amarillo. The ritual is identical to that of the Ordination into the Priesthood within the Roman Catholic Church; it is also referred to as the Sacrament of Holy Orders, same as that conferred upon the priests.

Cloud says the idea originated in 1980 with a suggestion by Fr. Norman Boyd, former associate pastor of St. Anthony's and later the same idea was recommended by Owen Seamands of Hereford. "Although I wasn't immediately interested, the idea never left me; it was a call from God," he reflects.

Cloud began formal Integrated Ministries classes in 1982, one weekend each month for two years (four semesters) at St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. Here the students were taught by priests, nuns, brothers and other persons such as Rev. Jordan Grooms, former pastor of First United Methodist Church of Hereford, in areas of Scripture, moral theology, Church history, sacraments, prayer, etc. After completion of this series of study and after a delay in the program of one and one-half years, formal study began again.

At this time, in 1985, Clouds' wife, Judy and their two younger children, Melissa, now 14 and Stephen, now 9, accompanied him each month for the weekend of study and recreation at the Bishop DeFalco Retreat Center in Amarillo. For two and a half more years, Cloud and his wife joined about a dozen other couples in the Deaconate Formation Class, doing intensive studies in the aforementioned areas, with more depth into the sacraments and the laws of the Church, liturgy (ceremonies of the Church), Scripture, social justice to the poor, sick and aged, as well as learning to counsel others. Additionally, the group was counseled, sometimes by Protestant ministers, in dealing with possible problems for the married ministers' families. Classes came to a close a month ago as the local couple attended a weeklong session of daily classes in Canon (Church) Law.

The children also attended classes and participated in recreation and outings, readying them also for this family commitment or "journey." Cloud comments, "One of the things I found most interesting was the community building among all the families involved in the formation." Lifelong friendships were established. The ministers are striving to attend each other's ordination rites; so far, five of the 13 have taken place, sometimes two or three in one weekend.

The deacons' function is to assist the Bishop as he ministers to the people of God in the diocese; the Amarillo diocese encompasses the Panhandle area north of Lubbock. Cloud will be assigned to St. Anthony's parish to assist the priests of the parish, and a fellow classmate, Jessie Guerrero, will serve at San Jose Church here following his own ordination.

The word deacon derives from the Greek word, diakono, meaning "servant." The ministry had its origin in the early Church, recorded in the Book of Acts, in the days following Christ's death resurrection. The Apostles, chosen by Christ, went on to choose seven more assistants (diakonos) to help take care of the needy, so that they themselves could study and preach the Gospel. St. Stephen was one of those selected.

The ministry elapsed during the early centuries as the priesthood developed. Following the Vatican Council II in the early 1960's, the ministry was restored with intention to return it to the early ministry of Apostolic days. Once again, the priesthood was in need of assistants.

The program was introduced into the Amarillo diocese 10-12 years ago, this being the third class. Cloud will be among 33 men serving directly under Bishop Mathiesen.

The deacons can confer Baptism, preach the gospel, preside at marriages, funerals and public prayer and communion services, administer communion to the gravely ill, teach faith, work for social justice and assist the priests at the altar in the Liturgy (the Mass) services.

The married deacon holds a secular job in order to support his family, as there is no salary provided to the deacon. "The family and job have priority over our ministry," says Cloud.

He went on to say, "The early call I heard (God's call) became stronger as the program progressed. There are always doubts and discouragements along the way and they cause you to reflect and discern as to whether this is really God's call. So, as I persevered to the end I am convinced I am doing the right thing to serve God in an ordained ministry. All the while we were training, I had to give close consideration to how this ministry would affect my family due to all the additional time it will require. I cannot be ordained without Judy's written permission to the Bishop."

Mrs. Cloud's reply was, "I know God has called him (Jonny) to do this and He (God) will give us grace to handle whatever the ministry requires." Although the wives are not required to become actively involved in their husbands' ministry, they were considered very important throughout the years of study. The wives are free to decide their own amount of involvement in teaching, counseling, making sick calls, etc.

The couple have for several years been active together at St. Anthony's in choirs, prayer group, Eucharistic Ministers and other areas. The children have all attended St. Anthony's School where Stephen will be a fourth grader. Melissa will enter high school as a freshman, and an older son, Brad, 22, attends West Texas University in Canyon. The children were interviewed privately concerning their own positions of attitude about their father's ministry. "They told me recently that they were happy for me to be ordained; they are proud of the fact," Cloud said contentedly.

Mrs. Cloud will have an active part in the ordination rites Saturday as she "dresses" her husband in his priestly garb-robe and alb-to signify the family's role of support and assistance. cloud's mother, Avid (Mrs. Paul Cloud) of Dalhart, and his sister, Paula and her husband, David Seim, of Lubbock will attend the celebration.

Jonny Cloud came to Hereford in 1964 from his hometown of Dalhart. He had previously received his B.S. degree in business administration at the University of Corpus Christi. Following four years as a commissioned officer in the Marine Corps, serving in southeast Asia, Cloud began his career at the First National Bank of Hereford. He started in the installment loan department. In 1969, he graduated from the Southwestern Graduate School of Banking at SMU in Dallas and is now holding the position of senior vice president in commercial loan at the same bank.

The Clouds invite all friends and interested persons to attend the ordination ceremonies Saturday, Aug. 13, 2:30 p.m., at St. Anthony's Catholic Church, and the reception following in St. Anthony's School.

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

A. How do you substitute whole wheat flour for all-purpose? Mrs. V.B., Oklahoma City, OK

A. Because whole wheat flours vary from being very coarse to fine, there isn't a general guideline. Whole wheat flour absorbs liquid differently than all-purpose flour. For best results, use recipes designed for the flour you want to use.

Q. Sugar that I stored in a newly washed ceramic canister became too hard to remove. What can I do? Mrs. H.M., St. Mary's Pa

A. To soften hardened sugar wedged in a canister, soak the whole canister in a bowl of warm to hot water until sugar dissolves. If sugar still won't budget and you want to save the canister, pour hot water over sugar and discard the dissolved mixture.

All Girl Rodeo to feature rodeo queen

The Hall of Fame Rodeo Association is holding its annual All Girl Rodeo Aug. 12-14 at the Hereford Riders Club Arena. The 1988 Miss Texas High School Rodeo Queen, Shawna Johnson of Andrews, will be appearing Saturday and Sunday at the rodeo.

There will be nightly performances beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday along with a 2 p.m. Sunday performance.

The Hereford High School Rodeo

Team is sponsoring Jack Pot Barrel Races to be held Saturday at 10 a.m. A team penning competition will take place at 2 p.m. Saturday. The Clyde Logg Band will be performing at the VFW from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Saturday.

Johnson is the 17-year-old daughter of former Hereford residents, Berry and Shirley Johnson. She has been competing in girls' cutting contest since she was nine years old and has been to the Texas State High School Rodeo Finals for the past three years.

Her freshman year she placed 9th in girls cutting while she placed 4th her sophomore year. Such placement qualified her for the National High School Rodeo Finals held in Pueblo, Colo. While there, she placed 12th and was voted Cutest Texas Cowgirl. As a junior, Johnson placed 7th at the state finals; in 1987 she won Reserve Champion Cutter at the Texas State 4-H Show, placing 14th at the National finals this year in the Queen's contest. She also competes in pole bending and goat tying.

Now a senior at Andrews High School, Johnson is a member of the National High School Rodeo Association, High Plains Junior Rodeo Association, 4-H, National Honor Society, student council, "Say No to Drugs" program, and vice-president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

Summer social attended Thursday by club members

A summer social was held Thursday evening at the National Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center for members of La Madre Mia Study Club.

Members brought one of their favorite Mexican food dishes and a buffet meal was served from a table decorated with a Southwest motif.

Following a brief business meeting conducted by President Gladys Merritt, pecan cream pie and cheese cake, made by social chairman, Susan Robbins, were served. Sharing hostess duties were Lucy Rogers, Lavon Nieman, Betty Lady and Debbie Tardy.

Secret pal gifts were exchanged by members; Merritt, Robbins, Rogers, Nieman, Lady, Tardy, Joyce Allred, Carolyn Baxter, Francyn Bromlow, Merle Clark, Mary Herring, Beverly Lambert, Betty Owen, Nancy Paetzold, Mysedia Smith, Georgia

Sparks, Pat Walsh and Marline Watson.

Recognized as special guests were Susan Robbins' mother, Lillie Free of Newkirk, Okla., and Lucy Rogers' daughter, Mendy Wandling of Lexington, Ky.

Preparing picture display

Hereford residents are encouraged to visit Jubilee Junction which will be set-up during the Town 'n' Country Jubilee Saturday, Aug. 13, in Dameron Park. The all-day event will follow the parade which begins at 10 a.m. that day. Among the numerous booths at the park will include the Women's Division's Kid's Corner which will feature "We Grow the Best Kids" picture display. Children's pictures are still being accepted by the organization's Jubilee chairman, Teresa Munoz, at left, and Sue Malamen, Women's Division's president. They may also be brought to the Chamber of Commerce office. Division members will be on hand at the booth to help children work on rafts so their parents can browse. Cost will be 25 cents per child. Another picture display on various Women's Division committee projects will be exhibited during the Jubilee of Arts Bazaar Aug. 12-13 at the Community Center.

Notes from Golden Plains

By ELIZABETH HAYES

Golden Plains Care Center is happy to welcome our new residents to our family: Fred Arnold, Jeanie Buckner, Daisy Livesay, Norman Livesay, Prudence Jeffery, Willie Shreves, Jordan Vestell and W.L. Green.

Happy birthday to our residents also: Fred Arnold, Nora Harrison, Nola McCauley, Louise Stevens, Hobby Williams, Georgia Hendon, Mary Poarch and Jannell Ritchie.

Golden Plains Care Center employee of the month is Ann Mercer, who has been employed at the facility for one year. She is loved by all the residents; she also works in Friona as an LVN.

The resident of the month is Mrs. Nola Ralston. Ralston helps the other residents and she is always trying to get the nurse aides to smile. Mrs. Ralston is 90 years old and was born in Mills County of Texas.

The residents' favorite recipe for the month is Hominy Casserole, which follows: 2 no. 303 cans of Hominy, 1/2 stick of butter, 1/2 c. sour cream, 1/2 lb. grated cheese, 1 can green chilies.

Cook hominy in butter until liquid is all gone. Add green chilies, sour cream, and half of the grated cheese. Place in baking dish and cover with the remaining cheese. Bake at 350 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes.

Family Night will be held Aug. 18 at the Center's dining room. The entertainment will be provided by Eva McNight and Band. The celebration begins at 7 p.m.; refreshments will be served.

The activities department is seeking volunteers to help out with the residents. The purpose of a volunteer is to assist the facility with resident morale and to lend a helping hand to someone who is not able to do all the ADL's of life by themselves.

The activities for the month includes ball, exercise, singing, music, speech games, penny pitch, "42", bingo, drives, movies, residents' birthday party, arts, crafts, and popcorn parties. If anyone is interested on becoming a volunteer please contact Liz Hayes at the center from 8 a.m. - 5 p.m., 364-3815.

Family Council Meeting will be set for later this month. All family members are invited to attend. President of the Family Council is Ernest Brown, son of Mrs. Elzora Brown.

Golden Plains Care Center Administrator is Joeline Swanner.

Between the Covers

By REBECCA WALLS

Erich Segal, author of Love Story, Oliver's Story and Man, Woman, and Child, has written another funny, heartbreaking, and inspiring tale entitled Doctors.

It is a vibrant portrayal of a profession that culminates into a murder, a trial, and a miracle. The story centers around Barney Livingston and Laura Castellano who have grown up in different directions. Their relationship develops into passion, but even their devotion to each other, and their medical talents may not be enough to save the one they treasure most.

The Harvard Medical School class of 1962 make up the rest of the cast of characters in this unforgettable story. All but one are white, and all but five of the students are male. They are scared to death, because the vocation they have chosen will break some of them, while it forces others to confront their secrets, dreams and fears.

One student has played a cello concerto at Carnegie Hall, another has played a year of professional baseball. Barney watched as a physician turned is back on his dying father, and at that moment vowed to become a different kind of doctor.

As the moving story of the making of these doctors unfolds you learn what makes them tick, scheme, hurt, and love.

Missing Beauty A True Story of Murder and Obsession by Teresa Carpenter will be enjoyed by many mystery lovers. A distraught father seeks help from the Boston Herald in locating his missing daughter, a lovely commercial artist named Robin Benedict.

When her photograph appears in the paper, the resulting murder investigation leads to the arrest of a former lover. But something isn't quite right. Throughout the investigation it is learned that Robin is in reality a high-paid prostitute in Boston's Combat Zone.

Teresa Carpenter brilliantly reconstructs one of the most fascinating murder investigations as we watch the prosecutor put the puzzle pieces together. Is Robin Benedict really dead? If so, where is the boy, and was it Dr. Douglas? Who killed her? As the mystery unfolds we see the obsession of one man's involvement with a prostitute, and an entire city's fascination with dishonor, and the elusive search for beauty.

Dennis Smith traveled across the country collecting stories of the most dramatic and intense experiences of firefighters. Then compiling these stories in the firefighter's own words, the book Firefighters: Their Lives In Their Own Words was written. The voices of men and women who fight structure fires, battle sweeping forest fires, perform emergency rescues, and face extreme danger and risk daily; tell of the sometimes brave, funny and bittersweet experiences they have encountered.

One such experience by Capt. Ronald Baker of Baltimore, Maryland begins "I was on an aerial ladder. I looked in the window with my handlight-it was on the fourth floor. I got up to the ledge and looked inside. Then I took the light down, skidded in backwards, legs over the windowsill, and put my feet on the floor. Real good sound, it was nice and solid. I turned around, took two steps and I just started falling. It was pitch black."

After reading this and many other stories, I began to better understand why my husband likes being a volunteer firefighter, and the pride I feel because he is one.

The Hereford Senior Citizens will be sponsoring the Jubilee Quilt Show from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 13, at the Hereford Community Center in conjunction with the annual Town 'n' Country Jubilee Celebration. Two of the quilts which will be for sale are displayed by show co-chairman, Belmont Watson, at left, and 90-year-old Gertrude Evins, the "youngest" quilting volunteer at the Senior Citizens Center. Others assisting with the quilt show are Frank Watson and Lorene Grant. Anyone who would like to participate in the show may bring items to the Community Center from 1-4 p.m. Friday or to the Senior Citizens Center through Thursday.

Ann Landers

DEAR READERS: Gil Noble from Vista, Calif., the Army lieutenant who asked me to help him find the parents of Kevin Howard Dugan, an enlisted man who once served under Noble in Vietnam? Noble had just been to the Vietnam Memorial in Washington, and his fears about what had become of Dugan were confirmed when he saw Dugan's name. He wanted to let Kevin's folks know that their son was one of the nicest guys he had ever met—competent, admired and respected by all the men he served with.

A great many people write and ask me to help locate sons, daughters, sweethearts, first-grade teachers and college roommates. I respectfully decline, explaining that this is not what the column is for.

But this request was different. Here was an officer who wanted to tell the parents of a soldier who was killed when he was only 20 what a wonderful guy he was. I simply couldn't pass up the opportunity to bring some pleasure to a family that had suffered such a devastating loss.

I printed Lt. Gil Noble's letter and told him that I had phoned the long-distance operator and obtained the numbers of several Dugans in the area of Blue Point, N.Y., which Noble remembered as the young man's home, but none were related to nor did they know a Kevin Howard Dugan. I had done my best and wished him luck.

The morning the column appeared in print I was vacationing in Connecticut. My office phoned to tell me that Kevin's mother had read the column and was trying to reach me. She does indeed live in Blue Point, N.Y., but had been widowed and remarried. Her name is now Mrs. Anne Dugan Brown.

In a wonderfully excited voice, Anne Brown told me that she was still in bed when phone calls about the column started to come in.

Within half an hour she had heard from people in three states.

Anne and I spoke for a long time. She has a son, Terry, 10 years older than Kevin. Terry, like Kevin, is 6-foot-5 and both boys loved to play basketball. Anne also has three daughters, 14 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The missing link was Gil Noble. But not for long. Terry Dugan got Noble's phone number from information in Vista, Calif., and called him up. He ran into Gil Noble's answering machine. Noble, now a business teacher, and his family were vacationing in Hawaii. But a neighbor of Gil's was checking the machine periodically and relaying the messages. Within hours Terry Dugan received a call from Noble; friends in Vista had seen the paper and at least 20 excited pals had called to alert him to Ann Landers' column.

What excitement! Noble got Anne Brown's phone number and called her from Hawaii. Everyone was thrilled that the lieutenant had at long last located Kevin Dugan's mother. I confess that I was as thrilled as anybody.

What a privilege to have been able to brighten the life of this lovely woman, whose handsome son had been cut down at such a tender age. And I made the lieutenant happy, too. "He was walking on air," Anne told me. "We exchanged addresses and telephone numbers and I'm sure we will get together one day."

Stories like this one validate the goodness of people. It proves what I have known for a very long time—that most folks are pretty darned OK and if given the opportunity, they can be downright wonderful. What better evidence than this heartwarming story that came full circle after 20 years?

What are the signs of alcoholism? How can you tell if someone you love is an alcoholic? "Alcoholism: How to Recognize It, How to Deal With It, How to Conquer It" will give you the answers. To receive a copy, send $3 and a self-addressed, stamped business-size envelope (45 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

Boys Ranch Rodeo set Labor Day

More than 10,000 people are expected to attend the 44th Annual Boys Ranch Rodeo during Labor Day weekend performances at 2:30 p.m. Sept. 4-5.

Nearly half of the 400 boys at Cal Farley's Boys Ranch will ride calves, steers, bulls and bareback broncs. Girls from Girlstown, U.S.A., along with area riding clubs, will also participate in the Grand Entry.

Those boys who do not compete will sell barbecue beef plants, soft drinks and snow cones; provide musical entertainment; or work at one of the many jobs required for a successful rodeo.

The boys will compete for belt buckles and for the titles of Junior and Senior All-Around Cowboys. Specialty acts will include a wild steer race, FFA project parade, calf scramble and barrel races with 5- and 6-year-old boys and girls riding stick horses.

Many of the 4,000 boys who have called the Ranch home since 1939 will be among the spectators and will participate in the Annual Alumni Association Reunion activities.

Tickets for the performances are $4.50 for reserved box seats; $3.50 for covered, reserved bleacher seats; $2.50 for general admission; and, $1 for children ages 6 to 12. Barbecue beef plates will be served at noon each day for $3.50.

The Boys Ranch Rodeo is the only one of its kind in the nation with boys of all ages riding professional rodeo stock.

For reservations and further information, call 806/372-2341 or write to Post Office Box 1890, Amarillo, Texas 79174.

Girl Scouts helps girls build confidence, character

Growing up is tough! The changes and challenges young people face have always been difficult.

Girls today are no different from their counterparts of yesterday. They still worry about some of the same things girls have always worried about: Does he like me? am I going to be accepted?; will I be successful?; Will I be popular?

In addition to these concerns, girls of today have the problems of alcohol and drug abuse, teenage pregnancy, youth suicide, career choice, child abuse and peer pressure.

Girl Scouts, an agency partially funded by the United Way of Deaf Smith County, tries to work within a girl-adult partnership in such a way that girls from five years of age and up can have experiences that build self-confidence and self-esteem. Girl Scouts tries to help girls realize their individual worth so that they can be strong enough to say "no" when their friends are saying "yes."

Hereford girls have had an opportunity to grow and develop through the varied programs offered by Girl Scouts of the U.S.A. and Texas Plains Girl Scout Council. Many contemporary issues are addressed in ways that are appropriate for all age levels, whether the girl is a Daisy, Brownie, Junior, Cadette, or a Senior Girl Scout.

Some of today's programs include "Reaching Out", preventing youth suicide; "Tune In To Well-Being—Say No To Drugs", substance abuse; "Into the World of Today and Tomorrow", leading girls to mathematics, science and technology; "Staying Safe", preventing child abuse; and "Girls Are Great", growing up female.

Outdoor experiences have included troop core camping, individual troop camping, father-daughter camping and resident summer camping. Several girls from Hereford have participated in each of these opportunities.

As a Cadette Girl Scout member, 13-year-old Sherry Vermillion, daughter of Danny and Linda Vermillion, participated in a unique experience this summer. She was one of eight girls chosen from across the seven counties served by the Texas Plains Girl Scout Council to accompany two sponsors on a 12-day trip that culminated in three days of canoeing on the Buffalo River in Arkansas. Demonstrated skills in primitive camping, swimming, canoeing and interpersonal relationships were pre-requisites for the trip. One of the major surprises for Sherry was that the food the group prepared was much tastier than she anticipated. Progression in the Girl Scout program made each girl more self-sufficient than she thought she was.

Of course, the usual and the unusual can always be expected on an expedition such as this. Sherry thought it was her lucky day when she found a dollar bill on the river bottom while she was trying to retrieve a piece of clothing that had washed downstream from where a friend had accidentally lost it overboard. A small reward for her efforts! Needless to say, the greatest rewards were the friendships that were made and the feeling of accomplishment experienced by each girl as she realized the fulfillment of her dream of the trek.

Cadette/Senior interest patches, junior badges, and brownie try-its are tangible evidence of proficiency attained in special areas of interest to girls. Career education, travel, and community service are ways through which girls develop leadership skills that will help Hereford Girl Scouts "Take the Lead" as they seek to become tomorrow's leaders and participants in United Way campaigns as well as other civic involvements. Growing up will always be tough, but Girl Scouts are helping today's girls find ways to meet the modern challenges.

Exciting experience

As a member of the Cadette Girl Scout Troop in Hereford, Sherry Vermillion, 13-year-old daughter of Danny and Linda Vermillion, recently took a canoe trip on the Buffalo River in Arkansas. Hereford Girl Scouts is just one of the 12 agencies which benefits from the United Way of Deaf Smith County. During the UW Campaign, set Sept. 12-Oct. 24, residents will be given the opportunity to support UW which exists to serve thousands of children and adults in this community.

Ladies invited to luncheons

The E.B. Black Historical House will be the site of women's luncheons scheduled each Tuesday and Thursday during the month of April of 1989, according to Juanita Koetting, executive director of the Deaf Smith County Museum.

The noon meal will be served to groups of at least 20 and not more than 32. Cost per plate for the gourmet meal is $7. Reservations may be made by calling the museum at 364-4338.

Woman's Health

For thousands of years, a woman went through labor and delivery without knowing anything for certain about the baby she carried. Only after delivery did she know the health and sex of her constant companion for nine months.

Today's mothers and their physicians can learn quite a bit about the unborn baby through different methods that act as "windows on the womb." One of these windows is electronic fetal monitoring (EFM), which is used for women with high risk pregnancies—when medical problems are present. In healthy pregnancies, the doctor has a choice between using EFM or listening with a stethoscope to the baby's heartbeat.

EFM when attached to the mother can give information about the baby's heart rate and the mother's contractions, and how the baby is reacting to the contractions. EFM readings can reveal good news to your doctor—that your baby is healthy and reacting normally. If the readings show a break in healthy patterns, EFM could also alert your doctor to any problems.

EFM can be used either externally on the mother during pregnancy and labor, or internally on the baby during labor. When used externally, EFM uses two belts placed around the women's abdomen to hold two small instruments. One instrument uses ultrasound or sound waves to transmit the baby's heartbeat. The other instrument measures pressure changes from the mother's contractions.

An internal monitor is used only in labor and after the amniotic sac (bag of waters) surrounding the baby has broken. A very small wire is attached to the baby's scalp to record his or her heart rate, and a tube is inserted into the uterus to measure the pressure of the contractions.

Once upon a time, superstitious travelers who believed that they lost their way because of a fairy's spell would break it by turning a piece of their clothing inside out and burning it.

G.E.D. Testing

For adult residents of Texas, 17 years of age and up. Parent's permission for 17-year-olds required. I.D. required. Satisfactory scores qualify for Texas Education Agency Certificates of High School Equivalency. $25.00 Fee. Next test August 17th and 18th, 1988 at 6:00 p.m. at Hereford High School, Room 123.

Ask about a down payment and we whisper
just 3 little words.
"You keep it!"

That makes The Continental very different from other top-quality, full-service retirement communities.

Because the other guys answer with a staggering number. Anywhere from $10,000 to more than $100,000. And they require you to pay before you've spent a single night there.

Frankly, we couldn't sleep if we did that.

So when you retire in The Continental, you keep your hard-earned savings where it belongs.

You pay only a modest security deposit and the first month's rent. No "endowment." No entrance fee or down payment of any kind.

After that, your monthly rent covers your new apartment home as well as services from dining to travel, and activities from dancing to shopping.

For information and our free brochure, call us collect at 806-374-0142. Or come by and visit.

You'll find that three little words still mean a lot.

Drive-ins still 'doing OK' in Dallas

By THOMAS J. MEYER
The Dallas Morning News
DALLAS (AP) — On the hottest nights of summer, Richard Peterson sneaks onto the roof of the Astro 3 Drive-In snack bar, unfolds a lawn chair and sits alone in the darkness, watching movies.

"Drive-ins," says the man who runs the Astro, "are the way God meant for Texans to see movies."

From Peterson's perch, his theater reeks of things Texan: the big night sky, the flat prairie, row upon row of pickups and Chevy convertibles facing the towering faces of Eastwood or Stallone.

The drive-in is a fading American icon, slowly disappearing like a screen cowboy riding off into the sunset.

Twenty years ago, 23 outdoor theaters advertised in local newspapers under the heading, "Drive-In Theaters: There's one in your neighborhood."

Now — unless your tastes stray to the genre Peterson calls "cheerleaders in chains" — there's only one.

The monuments, once as familiar as downtown construction cranes, have fallen one by one — victims of real-estate development and air-conditioned multiplexes and the mighty VCR.

"For a dying breed, though," Peterson, 39, says of his theater, "we're doing OK."

Only the "A" and the "S" still burn in orange neon on the Astro's marquee on Kiest Boulevard in Oak Cliff, beckoning drivers on Loop 12. Every night, the sign and the three 55-foot-high screens attract a steady line of traffic.

On weekend nights — and Mondays, when a carload gets in for $3.50 — as many as 1,100 cars pull through the red and blue ticket booths and onto the asphalt, Peterson says.

"On big nights, it gets so if everyone doesn't park just perfectly, we get bottlenecks all over," says Jeff McCormick, general manager of the theater.

Heidi Thompson, 22, and her husband, James, 23, are some of the people who are keeping the Astro alive. Almost every Monday, they drive up to one of the three lots, where they hook up a pair of big stereo speakers on the roof of their Chevy pickup and sit on lawn chairs on the flatbed.

"We used to come when this place was new," Thompson says. "Our parents used to take us."

The couple remember a time before clumps of grass started growing in the cracks in the asphalt — before the swing sets were taken down and replaced with an arcade where kids now shuffle off with their parents' quarters to play Centipede and Donkey Kong.

Sharon and Frank Martinez come every Monday, too. They sit on a blanket on the hood of their gray Mustang with 18-month-old Ashley, who is too noisy and too fidgety to sit still at indoor theaters.

"As soon as summer starts, we start coming," Mrs. Martinez says.

"There's something about summer that everybody has to go to the drive-in."

That sentiment is shared by fewer and fewer moviegoers. As of last August, there were 2,084 drive-in screens in the United States, compared with more than 4,000 in 1958, according to the National Association of Theater Owners. Texas has 152 screens, second only to California, which has 206.

Despite the disappearance of many theaters, Peterson, who has worked in the business for 23 years, is determined to keep his screens afloat.

"I was born to run a drive-in," he says, looking from the roof to a lot full of cars. "It's all I know how to do."

He attributes the survival of the Astro to aggressive efforts to maintain the theater, upgrade the sound and bring in big-ticket and family films — the Astro is playing some of the summer's biggest hits, including "Crocodile Dundee II," "Rambo III" and Eddie Murphy's "Coming to America."

Moviegoers no longer string sound boxes from their car doors — the Astro offers sound by AM radio. Peterson is hoping that his will become the first drive-in in the country to use new technology to broadcast soundtracks in FM stereo.

And though the Astro looks every bit its age, Peterson says his 30 employees try to keep broken glass and other debris off the lots.

"It doesn't show, but we've done lots of maintenance," he says. "At the moment, there's only one big chuckhole out there. People appreciate that."

Peterson took over the Astro last October, after the McLendon Theater chain, for which he was an employee, decided to get out of the business. He leases the 30 acres from McLendon, which at its peak owned 70 drive-ins around the state.

As moviegoers pull into the theater on a Monday night, the results of Peterson's efforts are apparent. "Look at the cars coming in," he says. "We've got this back to a family business, like it was in the '60s."

The theater is neither a passion pit where couples neck in the back seats of vintage cars, nor an outpost for lonely lusty men. It's a family spot.

An El Camino passes with three people up front and seven in the back. A beat-up Datsun station wagon pulls up carrying no fewer than 12 people — a bargain at 29 cents a head.

"It's an entertainment value. You can't beat it," says Robert Evans of Grand Prairie, who sits with his wife and two children in mismatched lawn furniture every Monday night. The family comes every Monday "Unless I've got another engagement," he says.

Although the theater has seen good nights recently, its owner is not optimistic about the long term. Peterson says the Astro may well fade to black after his lease expires by the end of 1990.

By then, the McLendon family may want to sell the land for development — and even if not, growth in the area may bring enough light to diffuse the images on the three tall screens, Peterson says.

The carloads of moviegoers who stream into the Astro, week in, week out, are oblivious to that potential fate. Every night, they set up their lawn chairs, hook up their speakers, crack open their Budweisers and stare at the screens in the quiet corner of Dallas where nothing matters but being there.

As Peterson takes tickets at the front gate of the theater, a lone man pulls up in a green Ford pickup. "Which movie?" Peterson asks.

"It don't matter to me," says the man. "I just want to go to the drive-in."

Our Best Friends Are Cutting Us To Pieces.

Our best friends don't always give us the best treatment. Typically, they invite us into their homes, read us like a book, take what they need from us, and put us aside to use again at their convenience.

It's a tough existence, but we don't mind. In fact, we like it. The news, editorials, and advertising coupons clipped from our pages provide our readers with knowledge, enlightenment, even an occasional 30¢ off on breakfast cereal. We're kind of flattered that people enjoy hanging onto bits and pieces of us - sometimes for years. That's something no other local advertising medium can offer.

So, although our friends keep cutting us to pieces, we'll keep showing up at their homes. Our only request: sharp scissors and a steady hand.

The Hereford Brand
