Boulter encourages Bentsen

DALLAS (AP) — Republican senate nominee Beau Boulter says talk of putting Sen. Lloyd Bentsen on the Democratic presidential ticket headed by Michael Dukakis helps Beau Boulter.

"I believe that Dukakis' consideration of Lloyd Bentsen helps my campaign by highlighting something we've been talking about all along, and that's Bentsen's philosophical kinship with Michael Dukakis and with the party of George McGovern," Boulter said.

Boulter on Tuesday sent a letter to Dukakis urging the Massachusetts governor to pick Bentsen for the No. 2 job.

"The two of you make a perfect pair," said Boulter, adding, "Bentsen is, at heart, a Mike Dukakis Democrat."

Chris Peacock, a spokesman for Bentsen, said, "We don't have any comment on this tomfoolery."

Boulter also said that if Bentsen is tabbed as Dukakis' running mate, Bentsen should step down from the Senate race.

But under Texas law, Bentsen could leave his name on the Senate ballot even if he ran as vice president. The so-called "LBJ law" was initiated for Lyndon Johnson to run for both vice president and senator in 1960.

Boulter said that Bentsen should not take advantage of the law and run for both offices. "Even though it's legal, it's still wrong. It's a holdover from the LBJ days of backroom politics. It's flap-dab greedy to run for both offices," he said.

Although Bentsen has repeatedly said he is not interested in the vice presidency, Boulter said Bentsen wants it.

"Lloyd has made it clear by his actions that he's dying to be asked for this particular date. He's just playing hard to get," Boulter said.

Meese will leave Justice inexperienced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Resigning Attorney General Edwin Meese III will leave the Justice Department with inexperienced people in key posts and with numerous questions unanswered about his own conduct.

Meese's announcement Tuesday that he will quit this summer short-circuited a planned ethical review of his activities in his own department, where the Office of Professional Responsibility was prepared to examine possible improper conduct by the attorney general. The review could have resulted in a recommendation to President Reagan that Meese be fired.

Reagan, who has stood by Meese during a 14-month criminal investigation that is just now ending, issued a statement saying "Ed Meese has served the American people loyally and well."

The basis for a Justice Department ethics review would have been an 830-page report filed with a federal court Tuesday by independent counsel James McKay.

While the filing signified that McKay was unable to compile enough evidence to seek an indictment of Meese, sources have said the report would be highly critical of Meese's ethical conduct.

The independent counsel looked into Meese's ties to scandal-plagued Wedtech Corp., a $1 billion Iraqi oil pipeline and his meetings with regional Bell telephone executives when he held $14,000 in phone company stock.

McKay also investigated an arrangement in which members of a Washington real estate family arranged to pay a $40,000-a-year salary for Meese's wife and then won an office lease renewal with the Justice Department.

Meese decided to resign in part out of the realization that he faces a new and intense round of public criticism when the report by McKay is publicly issued in a few weeks, said Justice Department sources, speaking on condition of anonymity.

By resigning after it has become clear that he will escape indictment, but before the massive report details his activities, Meese is able to declare that he has been vindicated, said the sources.

Meese attempted to play down the importance of the massive document by McKay, saying that "anything that may be in the report is mere commentary and opinion."

Meese declared he had been vindicated at the news conference in California where he made his surprise announcement.

"The false allegations have been put to rest," he said. "I have stated that I would not resign under a cloud, or until I was completely vindicated."

Department spokesman Patrick Korten said the prospect of an ethical review, which could have dragged on for months, was not "a major factor" in Meese's decision to leave. He said Meese decided to quit "within the last week or so," after consulting with his wife and top aides, including counselor William Bradford Reynolds.

Each aspect of McKay's investigation involved Meese's relationship with longtime friend E. Robert Wallach, who is under indictment for alleged racketeering in the Wedtech scandal.

Wallach, interviewed Tuesday evening on CNN's "Larry King Live" program, said McKay "spoke to over 100 witnesses, reviewed thousands and thousands of documents and came up without a single scintilla of evidence of wrongdoing on Ed's part and, I submit, therefore, on my part."

The Justice Department personnel roster has been in a state of flux since the March 29 protest resignations of Deputy Attorney General Arnold Burns and criminal division head William Weld. They quit out of concern that Meese's continued tenure was hurting the department's operations and public image.

Debate steams over Gulf

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says the Iranian airliner shot down by a Navy ship in the Persian Gulf was broadcasting on a military channel, although officials privately acknowledge the jet was in commercial airspace at the time of the incident.

The Reagan administration said Tuesday that Capt. Will C. Rogers III of the cruiser USS Vincennes thought his ship was under attack in part because of conflicting identification signals sent from the Iran Air A-300 Airbus.

Pentagon spokesman Daniel Howard said some of the signals were on a military frequency identified with F-14 fighter jets.

But while the administration was defending the decision to fire on the airliner, sentiment grew for U.S. reparations to relatives of the disaster's victims and officials were being buffeted by calls for a speedy gesture of conciliation on the world stage.

On the record, administration officials said there had been no discussion of awarding reparations. But sources who spoke only on condition of anonymity said the idea was under active consideration at the State Department, the Pentagon and the White House.

Reagan did not rule out such reparations, saying it "is a matter that has to be discussed" once a U.S. investigative team dispatched to the gulf completes its work.

Iran has accused the United States of intentionally shooting down the wide-bodied jet which was flying over the Persian Gulf with 290 people aboard. President Reagan and other U.S. officials have described it as a tragic accident.

One congressional source said administration officials are recommending that Reagan quickly make an offer of compensation on a humanitarian basis, in part to differentiate the United States from the Soviet Union, which rebuffed all requests for reparations following its 1983 destruction of a Korean Air Lines jetliner with 269 people aboard.

Some U.S. officials, however, noted that the Iranian government has used the incident as an anti-American rallying point and said it might be reluctant to cooperate with any U.S. humanitarian effort.

Iran's military commander-in-chief, Parliament Speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani, continued the drumbeat of hostile rhetoric Tuesday, declaring on Tehran

Demos deprived of sleaze factor

An AP News Analysis
By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Edwin Meese III announced his resignation as attorney general, Vice President George Bush expressed the sentiments of a lot of Republican candidates when he said, "Ed did the right thing."

Meese had become a symbol of what Democrats loved to call the Reagan administration's "sleaze factor." The effectiveness of that claim was demonstrated by the growing pressure from Republicans for the attorney general to leave office before the fall campaign.

On Tuesday, Meese finally took that step. He told a news conference in California that a special counsel's investigation of his actions "fully vindicates me" and that he would leave office the end of July.

Independent counsel James McKay found no basis for an indictment of Meese, but his report — which could criticize Meese on ethical grounds — is still secret. It was filed Tuesday in Washington.

Asked if he expected to have a role in the Bush presidential campaign, Meese sounded a little surprised by the suggestion.

"In the Bush campaign?" he said. "I would think his campaign is already filled. If I can be of help to Vice President Bush in his campaign I certainly will."

Meese's resignation was as big a contribution as he could possibly make to the vice president's campaign — not that his departure was likely to eliminate ethics as an issue for the Democrats.

Michael Dukakis, the Democrat Bush will face in the fall presidential election, quickly responded to Meese's announcement by saying, "Mr. Meese's resignation is long overdue."

"I don't think he should have been appointed attorney general in the first place and he should have stepped down long ago," Dukakis added. "This administration's inability to set high standards for public service will not be solved by the Meese resignation."

For months, Bush saw polls that said voters favored Dukakis for the presidency and, at the same time, was asked daily whether he thought Meese should step down.

"You are consistently asked about Meese's problems," Bush aide Peter Teeley said two months ago. "Meese is a liability."

Bush disavowed that statement, but later that month he admitted that he had met with the attorney general and confirmed that Meese had promised not to do anything to hurt Bush's presidential campaign.

Four Republican candidates for Senate — Pete Dawkins in New Jersey, George Voinovich in Ohio, Slade Gorton of Washington and Bill Anderson of Tennessee — had called on Meese to resign and others had hinted broadly that they thought he was hurting the party politically.

Rep. Lynn Martin of Illinois, a national co-chairman of the Bush presidential campaign, made no effort to hide her pleasure at the Meese announcement.

"I had suggested that he resign a month ago and met with him about two weeks ago, so I'm not going to suddenly be hypocritical and say I'm shocked," she said.

County arrests three

The Deaf Smith County Sheriff's Office arrested a 61-year-old man on charges of theft by check; a man, 54, was jailed for a driving while intoxicated commitment and a 44-year-old man was charged with aggravated sexual assault of a child.

Enterprise zone to be probed

Camille Berry, enterprise zone manager for the Texas Department of Commerce, will speak on the intricacies of establishing an enterprise zone Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Deaf Smith County Library.

The enterprise zone, an economic development tool similar to tax abatement, is an area encompassing low-income areas which is offered to prospective or expanding companies for construction purposes.

The zone would offer local tax breaks and an added benefit of reimbursing a company's state sales tax on equipment up to $250,000.

The Tax Abatement Board, city commission, county commission, school board, representatives from the Chamber of Commerce and the Economic Development Council will attend the meeting.

The meeting also is open to the public.

A post-mortem on the Spinks-Tyson fight.

Friday night I was watching the Cubs-Dodgers game on WGN, and knew the fight was about to start on HBO.

Franklin Stubbs had just hit a double, and I decided to turn quickly to the fight. I turned just as the opening bell sounded.

91 seconds is FAST. I turned back to the ballgame in time to see Mike Marshall, the very next batter, hit a 2-0 pitch for a double.

In other words, it took Mike Tyson three pitches to knock out Michael Spinks.

Another thing: Just how stinking long are we going to have to put up with the Fight Before The Fight, Diet Pepsi vs. Diet Coke? I am already tired of these commercials.

And there's no variety. Tyson has the same answers for the same questions on the Diet Pepsi commercial, which, it seems, airs once every hour on every TV channel in America. I think it's even on PBS.

Meanwhile, Diet Coke is also on once every hour on every channel telling us that Diet Pepsi has changed its formula five times in five years.

They both beat each other in independent taste tests.

Just exactly who participates in these taste tests? Are they conducted in free cheese giveaways across the country? AA meetings? Lighthouse for the Blind? Among African tribes in Zimbabwe? I mean, tell us something about these tests.

I really don't like either one.

Another story about a Hereford boy done good.

Do any of you know Dick Combs? He's Hereford born-and-raised — his mother, Ann Combs, still lives here.

Dick, his wife Peggy, and three kids live in Denver, where he is president of Sink Combs Dethlefs, an architectural firm that does big things. If you're a sports fan, you've seen some of their work.

They did the 1986 renovation of Boston Garden, where the Celtics and Bruins play. They did the University of Las Vegas Special Events Center. They were the design consultants on the new home of the Detroit Pistons that will open later this year. They designed McNichols Sports Arena in Denver in 1975.

Now they're in their biggest project ever, a $100 million sports and entertainment facility in San Jose, California, that will seat 20,000 for entertainment events, 17,000 for sporting events. It covers 400,000 square feet in downtown San Jose.

Just thought you'd like to know.

Gee, is Wimbledon already over?

There is only one thing worse than tennis on television, and that's tennis on radio.

Even the Americas Cup races are more thrilling. But not much.

The thrilling part about the yacht races this year is that it is taking place this year instead of 1990, when they should be.

That's because the New Zealanders want early revenge, but we pulled out a new one. Instead of racing yachts, we're gonna be racing catamarans.

Now I haven't spent a lot of time around oceans, but from both days I can tell you that a sail-powered catamaran will go one heckuva lot faster than a sail-powered yacht.

And I am almost as thrilled about that as I am about the USA landing the World Cup games in 1994.

The World Cup is the world soccer tournament, and they're gonna be playing games from the Left Coast to the Right Coast for several months in 1994.

If you don't have anything planned for Thursday evening, you might want to go to a meeting at 7 p.m. in the Reddy Room at Southwestern Public Service.

A group calling itself the Christian Farm Movement will be conducting its first "jubilee" in Texas right here in Hereford.

"Dust Bowl Dean" McHard of Wray, Colo., believes that the drought in the U.S. and "the plague of locusts that are resistant to insecticides in North Africa result from Jesus Christ loosing the third horseman of the sixth chapter of Revelation."

For those of you not familiar, the third horseman is not going to be kind to your pocketbook. A loaf of bread will go for $20. McHard says famine will be the ultimate result of the activities of the third horseman, and the fourth horseman will follow up with more AIDS around the world. McHard says that after the Rapture, God will "recondition this eroded, polluted planet for the coming thousand years of great agricultural development."

How are other people taking this news?

"Reaction so far has been mixed," Dust Bowl Dean says. "Liberals don't think God has ever intervened in human affairs; fundamentalists don't think he will now; and few people want to hear that tribulation is upon us and we need to repent of our selfish ways."

"However, we do present an upbeat approach to farming and living in the end times."

If you want to check him out for yourself, you're invited. "The Hereford meeting is free and open to the public," McHard says, "but farmers, pastors and prophecy buffs are especially welcome."

One-egg omelet size

Jim Tidwell of Hereford shows off some of his hen fruit, compared with a store-bought "medium" egg. The brown egg measured almost three inches in length and over two inches in circumference. Tidwell said he doesn't know which of his hens is laying the giant eggs, but says he will keep closer watch.

Search goes on for vice president

By ROBERT GREENE
Associated Press Writer

Democrat Michael Dukakis wraps up another busy round in his search for a vice presidential running mate, meeting today with Rep. Lee Hamilton of Indiana. And the campaign of Vice President George Bush breathed a quiet sigh of relief with the resignation of Attorney General Edwin Meese III.

Dukakis' search for a running mate occurred against the backdrop of a budget crisis at home in Massachusetts. The money crunch forced him to agree to new taxes — an issue that was quickly seized upon by the Republicans.

Dukakis also came under criticism from President Reagan, who on Tuesday also gave the vice president his strongest vote of confidence yet.

Bush is "the kind of man I want to follow me," Reagan told a group of conservatives at the Old Executive Office Building.

Bush was traveling to his adopted home state of Texas today for a meeting of the League of United Latin-American Citizens, the largest Hispanic civil rights organization in the country.

Dukakis on Tuesday brought in Sen. Albert Gore Jr. of Tennessee and Rep. Richard Gephardt of Missouri for face-to-face talks in Boston, and today was meeting with Hamilton. Gephardt said he'd take the job if it were offered, but Gore would not comment.

The former Dukakis rivals treated him harshly during the heat of the primary campaign but both eventually endorsed the Massachusetts governor.

Jesse Jackson, who spent the July Fourth holiday with Dukakis, dismissed contenders other than himself.

Radio: "We cannot allow ourselves to refrain from taking revenge. The choice of timing is up to us, and not to America."

In other developments: —A man purporting to speak for Islamic Jihad claimed the pro-Iranian faction would kill one of two American hostages it was holding in Lebanon, but police in Beirut said the deadline passed without incident. It was not possible to authenticate the call.

—Peggy Say, sister of hostage Terry Anderson, said she had been told that he might be released over the July 4th weekend, but those hopes were dashed by Sunday's attack in the Persian Gulf. Anderson, 40, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, has been held the longest of 18 foreign captives in Lebanon.

Howard, the Pentagon's top spokesman, said the Iranian aircraft was broadcasting "in two modes" and that one of those had been "previously identified or associated with an F-14" jet fighter, the most potent attack plane in Iran's arsenal.

But other information that surfaced Tuesday cast doubt on initial Pentagon reports that the plane was outside commercial airspace and was descending toward the Vincennes, as an attacking warplane would do.

House Armed Services Chairman Les Aspin, D-Wis., said military officials told his panel during a closed-door briefing that the airliner never left a commercial air corridor. Officials also disclosed that another American ship in the area concluded the Iranian A-300 airbus maintained a steady altitude of 12,600 feet, rather than descending toward the Vincennes.

Senior members of Congress called on Reagan to make a humanitarian gesture by offering compensation to families that lost relatives aboard the jetliner. House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, said that if reparations "would assuage the grief of the other aggrieved party, surely we could do that. Congress would support that if it were requested."

Family reunion more sanitary than expected

ZAVALLA, Texas (AP) — Despite warnings that the Rainbow Family gathering could turn out to be a health hazard, local officials say the event was well organized and as sanitary as possible for so many people.

"It looked just like a normal camp ... a lot better than some of our deer camps do," Zavalla Mayor Larry Marshall said, referring to the camp's general cleanliness and trash collection.

The back-to-nature group endured a lengthy court battle with U.S. Forest Service officials to hold their annual July Fourth gathering in the Angelina National Forest in East Texas. About 4,400 people attended, officials said.

Many left camp Tuesday, but family members said several hundred will remain for at least 10 days, some even longer, to clean the Mud Flats site.

Forest officials were concerned about the number of people expected and health conditions. A federal judge imposed population and health guidelines.

No major health problems have been reported.

"We've seen some of the best conditions we could expect to find in an outpost situation such as this," said G.W. Foster, director of the Environmental Services for the Jasper-Newton County Health Department.

Foster, on temporary assignment to assist the Angelina County Health Department, said the latrines and kitchens he inspected were clearly within standards.

"We found a few violations early on, but they were corrected immediately," he said.

But U.S. Forest Service spokesman Carl Gidlund said Tuesday that, based on reports from federal health authorities, the service still contends that sanitation conditions remain barely acceptable at best.

Gidlund chafed at the suggestion from some East Texas officials that the Forest Service "cried wolf" about the Rainbow People, the Beaumont Enterprise reported Tuesday.

"We weren't crying wolf, we were crying diarrhea," said Gidlund.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read the letter from the teenager who talked about her girlfriends who had sex indiscriminately. She went on to say that they were foolish to give in to the pressure. Of course, she was right, but it's more complicated than that, Ann.

I am the mother of three boys and one girl (in that order). If you could see what goes on around here you'd have an entirely different picture.

All my sons began receiving mash notes at age 12 or 13. In every case the girls wrote in explicit language about their willingness to do anything "to prove their love." With the first son, I was shocked. By the time the third boy turned 13, I was accustomed to it.

My boys have always been very open with me. They made it plain that all the girls wanted to have sex. I counseled them on the importance of responsible behavior and the emotional toll that results from intimacy at such a young age. They listened to me for a while, but by the time they turned 17 the pressures became overwhelming.

When my daughter was 14, I would hear her on the phone pursuing a certain boy as relentlessly as some of the girls had pursued her brothers. We had several talks about respectability, morality and pregnancy. She was well-informed and I felt certain that I had gotten through to her.

At age 15 she lost her virginity. The fellow dropped her like a hot potato. That did more to keep her on the straight and narrow than anything I had said.

Please, Ann, be realistic. We can't fight TV, peer pressure, hormones and Mother Nature.—California Mom Who Tried everywhere. But parents must keep the doors of communication open. They must talk about morality, the importance of abstinence and at the same time make sure both boys and girls are knowledgeable about protection against pregnancy and venereal disease.

Parents who find it difficult or impossible to discuss sex with their children should be aware of my booklet, "Sex and the Teenager."

Please don't send for the booklet and shove it in the kid's face and say, "Here, read this." Hand this column to your teen and say, "Maybe this booklet is something you should read for." The price is $3 and requires a long, self-addressed, stamped No. 10 envelope (45 cents postage). The address is: Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562. Many teens have written to say it's the best thing they've read on the subject. I'm proud of it.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My brother Jeff was engaged to be married in July of 1987. In My there was an elaborate shower. Many expensive gifts were given.

In June Jeffrey died in a car accident. My grief-stricken parents went out of their way to comfort "Alice," his fiancée. But she seemed too consumed with her own feelings to realize that they were hurting, too. Three months after Jeff's funeral, Alice was dating someone else.

Shouldn't Alice offer to return the shower gifts? I can't see how she could consider using them with someone else when she knows they were meant for her and Jeff.—Heartsick Sister in Buffalo

DEAR SISTER: Give her a break. The poor girl lost her fiance a month before the wedding and now, a year later, you are worried about a few shower gifts. Wish her well.

DEAR MOM: It's true that the girls are much more aggressive today than they were 20 years ago. The pressures to engage in sex are

Egg industry process yields fat substitute

Hi-tech is changing the egg industry.

"For years, Americans have said, 'an egg is an egg.' Now new technologies being developed may make future questions key on 'what kind of eggs do you want?'" said Dr. David Mellor.

Mellor, a poultry marketing specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service, said a company has now developed a new low-calorie fat substitute that can be made from egg albumen or dairy whey. The company also is testing other agricultural products for this use.

"The egg protein or dairy protein particles are heated and blended until they are so small--so tiny--that the tongue perceives them as a fat taste," Mellor said.

Mellor said this fat substitute can be used in products like ice cream or table spreads but cannot be used in places of a fat that must be heated or cooked, such as in a cake or for frying.

"The new fat substitute can cause a major calorie reduction in adapted foods. The product contains less than one-fifth the calories of the fat it is replacing. Roughly, three grams of fat are being replaced with one gram of protein," Mellor said.

Another product that utilizes two new technologies may change the eggs served in many food service establishments, including schools and nursing homes as well as fast food chains, Mellor said.

"One process makes it possible to remove as much as 90 percent of the cholesterol from the egg yolk, researchers indicate. The other process, ultra high temperature pasteurization of the liquid egg, kills any harmful bacteria but does not cook the egg," Mellor explained.

This pasteurization process should soon make it possible to store the liquid egg products up to two month on store shelves, under refrigeration but not frozen, Mellor said.

"These new egg products would be used in the food products we buy in the grocery store," Mellor said.

"They are not expected to be sold to the consumer, but may be the basis of consumer products--frozen low-cholesterol omelets, for example--developed for specialized markets."

He said companies are developing these products for food manufacturers or restaurant, hotel and institutional trade.

Research was done at the University of Nebraska and the University of Wisconsin for the cholesterol reduction process. The pasteurization process was developed at North Carolina State University.

Defeat Astros, 4-3, in 11th inning Tuesday

Expos continue to win in extra innings

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

HOUSTON (AP) — The secret to the Montreal Expos' extra inning success is really no secret.

They have Andres Galarraga, the National League's leading hitter, a deep bull pen and Tuesday night they had Luis Rivera to deliver a game-winning triple in the 11th inning for a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros.

Montreal has won 23 of its last 28 extra-inning games and the Expos are 11-4 this season in extra innings. "We never give up," Rivera said. "We do what it takes. I think a lot of guys get into extra innings, and say 'we lose, let's get out of here.' But that's not the way with this team."

The Expos also have luck, Manager Buck Rodgers says.

"I guess it's a good bull pen and lost of luck," Rodgers said. "Any one can come in and win a game or save a game."

Tom Foley led off Montreal's 11th inning with a double to right field off loser Dave Smith, 3-5.

He was sacrificed to second base by Nelson Santovenia and scored the winner when Rivera delivered his third game-winner of the season to right field.

Trailing 3-1 in the ninth inning, the Astros forced the Expos into extra innings on a wild pitch by relief pitcher Tim Burke and a bases loaded walk by Jeff Parrett.

But the Expos held off the Astros until Rivera could win it in the 11th.

"They were playing in and I was just trying to make contact or hit a fly ball," Rivera said of his game winner. "I hit a fast ball away."

The Expos had to overcome four base runners being thrown out at home plate, three with catcher Craig Biggio blocking the plate and one by Alex Trevino.

"They made good plays at the plate," Rodgers said. "It took good throws to get those guys."

Galarraga continued his torrid hitting streak with two hits against the Astros. He has 18 hits in his last 25 at-bats. "I'm seeing the ball and I'm hitting up the middle and to right," Galarraga said. "I'm not swinging at too many bad pitches."

Montreal took a 2-0 lead off starter Joaquin Andujar, 0-5, in the first inning on singles by Galarraga and Foley.

Buddy Bell's single to left field gave the Astros one run in the fourth and Hubie Brooks' solo homer run for his 500th career run batted in, made it 3-1 in the seventh inning.

The loss dropped the Astros below .500 for the first time this season. Houston won seven of its first eight games this season and now has lost seven of its last eight.

In other NL games, it was Pittsburgh 3, San Diego 2; Cincinnati 3, New York 1; Atlanta 10, Philadelphia 5; Los Angeles 6, St. Louis 3; and San Francisco 9, Chicago 0.

Pirates 3, Padres 2
Andy Van Slyke, who enjoys making a great defensive play as much as hitting a homer, is even happier when he can have it both ways.

The Pittsburgh center fielder hit a tie-breaking homer in the seventh inning, then preserved the lead with a perfect throw in the ninth, lifting the Pirates to a 3-2 victory over San Diego Tuesday night.

"I enjoy every aspect of the game," Van Slyke said. "I like to do things offensively and defensively. To tell you the truth, I get a better kick out of throwing the guy out at the plate in that situation than hitting a home run."

"He's the best center fielder in the National League," Pirates manager Jim Leyland said. "What he does day-in and day-out, there's no question about it. There's some with more power and some with more speed. Some do other things, but day-in and day-out, he is the best."

"As far as I'm concerned, he's the Gold Glove center fielder in the National League," winning pitcher Bob Walk said.

After Van Slyke's two-out homer off Padres starter Jimmy Jones, 5-8, in the seventh, he clinched the game when he threw out John Kruk at home plate in the ninth after a one-out single by Benito Santiago. Kruk, trying to score from second, bowled over catcher Junior Ortiz, who held the ball.

Walk, 9-4, who had allowed only one run in 14 innings in his first two starts against San Diego, gave up two runs in the first, but then blanked the Padres until he was relieved with one out and two on base in the ninth.

Barry Jones got the last two outs for his second save, with the help of Van Slyke's throw home.

Dodgers 6, Cardinals 3

Los Angeles won for the 13th time in 17 games and handed St. Louis its eighth loss in 11 outings as Orel Hershiser won his sixth consecutive start and John Shelby and Mike Marshall drove in two runs apiece.

Hershiser, 13-3, allowed seven hits and all three St. Louis runs in seven innings. Tim Lincecum earned his fourth save by pitching the final two innings.

The Dodgers scored three runs in the first off Cardinals starter Danny Cox, 2-4.

Giants 3, Cubs 0

San Francisco crushed Chicago as Terry Mulholland pitched a six-hitter in his first major-league start since 1986.

Mulholland, 1-0, recalled from the Giants' AAA team in Phoenix when Mike Krukow was placed on the disabled list Sunday, also scored two runs en route to his first career complete game. He coasted after the Giants took a 4-0 first-inning lead off Cubs starter Calvin Schiraldi, 4-7.

Reds 3, Mets 1

Cincinnati held New York to one run for the second consecutive night as Tom Browning pitched a three-hitter through eight innings for his sixth consecutive victory.

Browning, 8-3, struck out five, walked one and hit a batter before being replaced at the start of the ninth by John Franco, who allowed one hit before picking up his 11th save.

The Mets, held to one hit through 6 2-3 innings, spoiled Browning's shutout when Darryl Strawberry doubled and scored on Kevin McReynolds' single in the seventh.

Braves 10, Phillies 5
Atlanta used a five-run sixth inning to overcome Philadelphia despite 17 hits by the Phillies.

With the score 4-4, Ron Gant opened the sixth with a double off reliever Bruce Ruffin, 5-7, and scored when Gerald Perry doubled, his third hit in the game. Bruce Benedict also had an RBI double in the inning for the Braves.

Dorsett practices for first time at Broncos' facility

DENVER (AP) — Running back Tony Dorsett has donned his Denver Broncos workout gear for the first time after selecting a new townhouse in nearby Aurora and learning his way around the metropolitan area.

"All I need to know is how to get to the airport, to practice and to the stadium," Dorsett said after practicing at the Denver Broncos facility for the first time Tuesday. "Everything else I need is right in the neighborhood."

Dorsett said he is ready to continue his career, as long as he doesn't get lost in the maze of metropolitan traffic.

He moved into his townhouse Friday, and found his way to a shopping mall and a local tavern.

The new Bronco spent part of Tuesday getting acquainted with some of his teammates, asking them what to expect in his new job.

"At least, I haven't felt any bad vibes yet," he said. "But I'm not going to worry about it. I'll worry about who likes me and who dislikes me as time goes on."

The former Dallas Cowboys running back who was traded to Denver last month will join other Broncos in Greeley next week for the start of training camp.

"I hear it's hot and dusty and flat," he said of the northern Colorado city. "From what I hear, it reminds me of Texas."

New York gains ground on Detroit

Yankees beat Rangers again, 5-3

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — New York Yankees manager Lou Piniella blamed Dave Righetti's latest failure to come through in a save situation to a lack of concentration, but Righetti had another idea.

"I stunk," the reliever said after he had to help to get the final out and clinch a 5-3 victory for the Yankees over the Texas Rangers Tuesday night.

New York pulled to within a game and a half of the division-leading Detroit Tigers but there was concern over Righetti's latest failure.

Yankee starter Tommy John scattered six hits over six innings and received support from five first-inning runs. New York seemed about to cruise to its fourth victory in its last six games when Righetti retired the first two Ranger hitters in the bottom of the ninth.

But Righetti walked Jeff Kunkel, then yielded back-to-back singles to pinch-hitters Barbaro Garbey and Mike Stanley, the latter producing a run.

When Righetti walked the next hitter, Bob Brower, Piniella was forced to go back to the bullpen for Tim Stoddard, who got Scott Fletcher on a fly ball for the final out. Stoddard collected his second save of the season.

It was the sixth time Righetti has failed to get a save in 17 situations so far this season.

"I've just got to stay positive, go out there and do the job. You shouldn't even be talking to me. You should be talking to Tim Stoddard. He's the guy who got the save."

Piniella offered Righetti a solid vote of confidence, emerging from the manager's office to give his left-hander a few encouraging words.

"The game turned into an adventure," Piniella said. "He got two easy outs, then he lost his concentration. He was overthrowing."

"But I guarantee you that if the situation arises, he'll be out there again tomorrow night. I want to use him often."

The 45-year-old John, 7-2, didn't walk a batter during his six-inning stint as he improved his lifetime record to 284-218. John, the oldest active player in the major leagues, moved into a tie with Ferguson Jenkins for 22nd on the all-time victory list.

Neil Allen relieved John to start the seventh.

"It was nice to get Tommy that big lead," Piniella said. "I'd just felt he'd thrown enough pitches (96) for six innings."

The Yankees jumped on Ranger starter Ray Hayward, 4-6, and sent nine men to the plate in the first inning. New York had scored six runs in the first two innings of Monday night's 13-2 victory over Texas.

The first five New York batters reached base, three by walks, and Hayward, who threw only four strikes among his 17 pitches, was lifted in favor of Craig McMurtry.

McMurtry pitched seven innings of four-hit relief, walking three and striking out five.

"It's disappointing to come in with the bases loaded and not do any better than I did," said McMurtry, who put in his longest major league stint since 1984 with Atlanta. "I really would have liked to have had a doubleplay ball."

Ranger pitching coach Tom House was unsure as to the cause of Hayward's troubles.

All five baserunners allowed by Hayward came around to score, two on bases-loaded walks. Hayward had missed his last turn in the rotation due to soreness in his left shoulder.

"Hayward felt great before the game," House said. "He just didn't have it between the lines. It's my job to find the right Ray Hayward and we'll do that."

The three-game series concludes tonight with Ron Guidry (0-1) starting for the Yankees against Jeff Russell (7-2).

In other American League action, it was Cleveland over Oakland in a double header 3-0 and 4-2; Minnesota 6, Boston 4; Milwaukee 3, Kansas City 1; Toronto 4, California 1; Baltimore 5, Chicago 1.

Indians 3-4, Athletics 0-2

Revenge is sweet. Just ask Seattle reliever Mike Schooler and all the Cleveland Indians.

The Indians remembered Monday's 4-2 loss to Oakland in 16 innings, a game that ended in a shouting match between Athletics reliever Dennis Eckersley and Cleveland shortstop Ron Washington, who struck out, and a brief bench clearing.

"The way Eckersley showed us up got a lot of us fired up," Cleveland pitcher Scott Bailes said. "These guys didn't care that they had played 16 innings. Everybody just wanted to go. It was a good day to go out there and pitch."

Bailes pitched a five-hit shutout and Rick Rodriguez posted his first victory of the season by yielding one run and six hits in 6 2-3 innings as the Indians swept Tuesday's twi-nighter from the A's 3-0 and 4-2.

Meanwhile, Schooler was in trouble after Detroit scored in the ninth on three singles to pull within a run of Seattle. The batter was Luis Salazar, who homered in the first inning.

"Salazar burned me twice in winter ball," Schooler said. "People said I should throw him sliders. I did, and twice he got hits to beat me (Schooler's only defeats in the Venezuelan League). Tonight, I decided to throw three fastballs at the knees and let him see what he could do."

What Salazar did was ground into a game-ending double play as the Mariners nipped the Tigers 5-4.

Mariners 5, Tigers 4

Dave Valle's two-run double keyed a three-run fourth inning as Seattle handed Walt Terrell a rare defeat at Tiger Stadium, where he is 33-9. Winner Steve Trout yielded three runs and seven hits in 5 2-3 innings.

After taking a 4-1 lead, Seattle scored the decisive run in the sixth. Glenn Wilson singled, continued to third when the ball got past center fielder Gary Pettis for an error and scored on Scott Bradley's sacrifice fly.

Twins 6, Red Sox 4

Lee Smith, hailed as Boston's bullpen savior after an off-season trade with the Chicago Cubs, has blown five saves in 16 opportunities, including two in the last three days.

With Boston leading 4-3, Kirby Puckett and Kent Hrbek singled with one out in the Minnesota eighth and Gary Gaetti hit his 18th home run of the season, a drive measured at 443 feet. Gaetti also singled twice and drove in a fourth-inning run as the Twins rallied from a 3-0 deficit.

Brewers 3, Royals 1

Mike Birkbeck, just recalled from the minors, blanked Kansas City until the ninth inning and Jeffrey Leonard homered. Birkbeck allowed five hits in 8 1-3 innings.

Kansas City scored in the ninth on Kurt Stillwell's double and Kevin Seitzer's single. Dan Plesac retired the last two batters for his 18th save.

Blue Jays 4, Angels 1

Jimmy Key scattered six hits in 8 1-3 innings and Rick Leach took advantage of a rare start by getting two hits and scoring twice. Key lost his shutout when Dick Schofield hit his fourth home run in the eighth.

In two appearances since he had bone chips removed from his elbow on May 4, Key has allowed two runs and 10 hits in 15 innings. Loser Mike Witt went the route, yielding nine hits.

Orioles 5, White Sox 1

Rookie Jose Bautista pitched a five-hitter for his first complete game in the majors and Cal Ripken drove in three runs with a homer and a bases-loaded walk. Bautista, making his 11th start, struck out six and didn't walk a batter.

Ripken also had two singles and scored in the first inning while his brother, Billy, had a pair of singles and drove in a run.

Cal Ripken's homer was his 13th of the season and capped a three-run sixth inning.

'The Nerd' to appear at theatre

The Country Squire Dinner Theatre celebrates its 12th anniversary with the opening of Larry Shue's THE NERD today, July 7, with dinner beginning at 6:15 p.m. followed by the show at 8 p.m.

Johnny Crawford will appear as Rick Steadman. Johnny is currently appearing in the CBN television adventure series, CROSSBOW which is filmed entirely on location in France.

He spends much of his time in New York City where he enjoys singing with Manhattan's most popular big band, Vince Giordano's 'Nighthawks'. He appeared in June on the Disney Channel's special broadcast of A Prairie Home Companion from New York City's Radio City Music Hall.

Crawford made his stage debut at the age of five years in a production of Mr. Belvedere. He was also one of the original Mouseketeers. He was nominated for an Emmy in his role with Chuck Connors on The Rifleman.

Nicholas Shaffer will appear as Willum. He was last seen on the Squire stage in Don't Drink the Water. Originally from Indiana, he resides in Los Angeles where he is active with commercials and has been seen on Hill Street Blues, General Hospital and The Fall Guy.

Axel Hammond will be played by Tony Reitano. Tony is from Los Angeles and audiences won't recognize him from film and television as the frog with Monty Hall for Texaco, and Vince the crash test Dummy in the seat belt commercials.

Kelli Clement as Tansy is making her first appearance on the Squire stage. Over a sixteen year stage career, she is currently a student at the University of Texas in Austin.

David Yirik as Warnock has been seen numerous times on the Square stage. He teaches theatre at Canyon High School.

Sue Long as Clelia is making her first appearance on the Squire Stage. She was last seen at the Amarillo Little Theatre in Streetcar Named Desire.

Angela Burrows as Thorenza is making her stage debut as the 10-year-old daughter of Warnock and Clelia.

MORALITY-OUR CHOICE

By Bob Wear

We do not have to be moral in personal and national thought and action, but we do have to pay the price for not being moral. We do have the right to choose for ourselves, but with this, we must fully understand and accept the fact that we must deal with the consequences of our choices. The most pressing problems of the present time have been created by immorality. We know this, but, it seems that we continue to try to deal with the consequences and find ways to escape them. We seem to want to do these things without admitting the cause. Of course, this will not work successfully.

Personally and nationally, the most dangerous threat to our well-being is moral decadence. The challenge we face today is moral and spiritual, more than physical. Historically, at the point where the challenge to a nation has become moral and spiritual rather than physical, we find the beginning of the decline of past civilizations. If we continue to underestimate the value of personal and national morality, we will be doing so to our own loss and decline. We cannot continue to sow the wind of immorality without reaping the whirlwind of deterioration and ruin. The proof of this is all around us today.

Everything that is desirable pertaining to personal and national life, the economy, taxation, orderly behavior, justice, safety, etc., is determined by the moral and spiritual level of the thoughts and actions of the people. We cannot sow bad seed and expect to reap a good harvest, because the harvest will always be according to the sowing.

"The true grandeur of humanity is in moral elevation, sustained, enlightened and decorated by the intellect of humankind."—C. Summers.

"Righteousness exalts a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." It is not too late for us to begin to make the wise and right choices, but the time for change is long overdue and some day might become the point of no return.

Golden Heart Run postponed

Accent on Health

If someone were to tell you that by wearing a Band-Aid, you could lose weight, quit smoking, or even avoid AIDS and other diseases, would you think the claim ridiculous? Or would you pay $30 or $40 for your first month's supply of the devices and urge your friends to do the same?

Unfortunately, the latter occurs every day, according to the Texas Department of Health (TDH). Sales of adhesive skin "patches", purported to contain non-standard drugs, alleged to be effective against a wide range of disorders, have boomed in Texas in recent months.

TDH has joined the federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA) and the Texas Attorney General in investigating the products, claims, and sales practices of some 30 skin patch manufacturers and their distributors known to be operating in the state.

Ken Davis, an inspector for the TDH Division of Food and Drugs, said that none of the products currently being sold without prescription as skin patch medications have been approved by the FDA, either as safe or as effective. By law, he said, any drugs manufactured in Texas must be registered and must under TDH inspection as well as be approved by FDA. A manufacturer's failure to comply with the law is a Class A misdemeanor.

"To date", Davis said, "all the over-the-counter skin patch remedies we have seen have not been in legal compliance. The patches and the literature or advertising for them that have come to our attention have consistently been misleading, and the products we have sampled have been misbranded and adulterated."

Davis said that the so-called active ingredients, usually supplied in a vial or tube with the adhesive strips, often contain mixtures of common herbs and chemicals, or water. The products may be harmless, but investigations are under way about

Cultured dairy foods provide many healthful benefits

If you're conscious of your health and you want people to know it, exercise...and add a carton of yogurt to your lunch sack.

Americans, in their intensified pursuit of healthfulness, are buying more cultured and culture-containing dairy products. According to the American Dairy Association and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, sales of yogurt have increased five-fold from 1970 to 1986.

Cultured dairy foods include milk products, such as yogurt, buttermilk, sour cream and cottage cheese, that have been fermented with lactic acid bacteria. Culture-containing milk products, such as acidophilus milk, are not fermented, but have lactic acid bacteria acid added. Lactic acid gives cultured products their characteristic tang; bacterial action on the milk proteins contributes thickness.

Some health benefits—easy digestibility, for example—are often attributed to cultured dairy products. Scientists say these benefits can vary depending on the type and strain of lactic starter organism and the fermentation and storage conditions. New research efforts are aimed at specifically identifying the attributes and their origins. Dairy Research Inc., a farmer-funded organization of the United Dairy Industry Association, is administering research in this area which will aid understanding in these areas:

Nutrient absorption. As you probably know, dairy products are a good source of protein, calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, riboflavin, vitamin B12 and niacin. The nutrient value of a fermented dairy food reflects the nutrient value of the milk from which it's made. Laboratory studies support the hypothesis that the protein and carbohydrates in fermented dairy products may be more easily digested than those in unfermented milk. Cultured products, because they're already partially broken down by bacterial cultures, require the body to work less in digesting them.

Improved lactose tolerance. For people with lactose intolerance (the difficulty or inability to digest lactose, the main carbohydrate in milk), certain fermented products appear to be better tolerated than unfermented milk, says Dennis Savaiano, associate professor of food science and nutrition at the University of Minnesota. These individuals may lack the enzyme lactase which breaks down the lactose in dairy products. Cultured dairy products, which contain lactase as a by-product of fermentation, actually provide the enzyme these persons lack.

Antibiotic effects. If you've ever experienced traveler's diarrhea, you'll be happy to know that the end products of fermentation appear to inhibit the growth of microorganisms in your intestine which cause this temporary problem. Savaiano says, "Cultured and culture-containing dairy products kill these pathogenic organisms in vitro (in the test tube)." More research will determine whether cultured products have the same effect in humans.

Reduced blood cholesterol levels. This theory originated from observations of African tribesmen. These people, though their diets included many high-cholesterol foods, had surprisingly low blood cholesterol levels. Since the original observation, similar interactions have been noted in laboratory animals fed in high cholesterol diet. According to Barry Goldin, associate professor of community health and medicine at Tufts University School of Medicine, "Studies are under way to determine the effect of lactic acid-producing organisms on the ratio of high-density-lipoprotein (HDL) cholesterol to low-density-lipoprotein (LDL) cholesterol. Preliminary findings show an increase in the HDL cholesterol (the so-called 'good' cholesterol)." Again, this theory requires more research to determine whether cultured dairy products have the same effect in human subjects.

Anticancer effects. Research suggests that cultured and culture-containing products reduce the risk of colon cancer. Whether the theory holds up in humans requires more research.

What Does a typical Brand Reader Look Like?

That's difficult to say because you are as different as your substantial number would imply! You are one of the 4,100 households we're invited to every evening. That's quite a few. According to the most recent census, our township has slightly less than 5000 households.

Your vocation is part of a broad spectrum as well — white collar, blue collar, owners, managers, cowboys, teachers, housewives, students and professional.

Yet, with all your individual complexities, your interest in local issues and news gives you and other readers a common bond which is separated only by your level of curiosity.

You are an informed, intelligent and often vocal audience, and we're happy to be a part of your household every evening!

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Years ago when I was taking journalism in high school, I learned to always use the five Ws—Who, What, When, Where and Why.

Applying this rule to genealogy, names alone are not enough information. The following example is more informative:

I am using a hypothetical photo of four women. Write or type on a separate piece of paper or a 3x5-inch card the following:
"The Smith sisters, left to right, are: Martha Wright, 87 years; Margaret Wilson, 83 years; Millie Burnes, 80 years; celebrating great-grandmother Mary White's 85th birthday on July 10, 1889. All were born in Ohio."

This information can be attached to the photo or put into an album below the photo.

Now the future genealogist has information to work with if further research is desired. — M. Lasley, Ventura, Calif.

It's so important to label photos. How many times have you looked through family pictures and wondered, "Who is this and how is he/she related?" — Heloise

SEND A GREAT HINT TO:
Heloise
P.O. Box 795000
San Antonio, Texas 78279

YOUR WAY
Dear Heloise: I've found a great new way to send letters! My brother is spending his junior year abroad in Paris and seems to be homesick.

Recently, I didn't have any stationery on hand that I felt was appropriate to use for him. He is very much into economy and politics, so I searched through recent issues of magazines that I know he likes for pictures, drawings, cartoons, headlines and advertisements that he would enjoy.

I then pasted them around a sheet of notebook paper and proceeded to write my letter. He enjoyed the touch of home and it was a great way for me to vent my creativity. Inexpensive, too! — Veronica Hugger, Houston, Texas

CURTAIN RODS
Dear Heloise: I recently ruined a new pair of sheers I was hanging on old curtain rods. I didn't realize how narrow the hem was at the top and also how rough the ends of the curtain rods were.

What can I do to prevent this from happening next time? — J. Schmidt, N.Y., N.Y.

Why not try putting masking tape or plastic wrap on the ends to prevent tearing your new curtains? This should solve the problem. — Heloise

DUSTING FIGURINES
Dear Heloise: One day I dropped by my sister's and my nephew was dusting. He had a medium-size paint brush and was cleaning her glass figurines. She said she first started using paint brushes to clean wrought iron. You can use them wet or dry. They work everywhere, from lamp shades to computers, all your hard-to-get-at areas. — Darlene Francone, Hammond, Ind.

FRESH PEAS
Dear Heloise: To make shelling fresh peas easier, first place them in boiling water. Let them sit for about six minutes, then drain and put them in cold water.

The shells will open easily, and they are ready to prepare the way you like them. — Ruth Meyer, West Linn, Ore.
