Charting the enterprise zone

Fred Fox, chief appraiser for Deaf Smith County, is helping the Hereford Area Tax Abatement Board design a map for an enterprise zone — a zone encircling blighted areas that would offer extra incentives to prospective industry. Fox made his presentation Thursday to the Hereford Area Tax Abatement Board.

HATAB will consider remodel abatement

By ANDREA LAMB
Staff Writer

Along with deciding what amount of tax abatement to offer new and expanding businesses at its meeting Thursday, the Hereford Area Tax Abatement Board discussed tax abatement for local businesses wanting to remodel.

"This would be an excellent PR move," said County Judge Tom Simons, who also serves as a board member, concerning tax abatement for remodeled property. "We owe it to our existing businesses to give them this opportunity and I'd surely like to make it easier on these people to grow."

The proposed additional tax abatement would offer local tax abatement only for cosmetic improvements such as revamping store fronts or redecorating the interior of a building, and the abatement would only apply to the added value to the property.

For instance, if a store were assessed at $50,000 and refurbishing jacked the value to $75,000, taxes would be abated for the added $25,000 only.

"Getting the downtown area dressed up might give other businesses the incentive to build here. And sometimes when a building dresses up its store front, the neighboring businesses will too," stated Board Chairman Johnny Latham, who suggested the idea.

The board discussed offering a possible 100 percent tax abatement for two years for local remodeling, but the board has not yet voted on any plans.

The board also ironed out what percentage of tax abatement to offer new and expanding businesses.

The current plan, which hasn't been put to a vote yet, includes 100 percent abatement for construction period not to exceed two years; 50 percent abatement up to three years after construction; and 25 percent abatement for up to five years after that.

The maximum incentive period is to be 10 years or one-half the expected project life, whichever is less.

"I really like this form of tax abatement because it's not tied to an 'x' amount of dollars," said Latham. "I've seen other tax abatement programs based upon the business' capital cost and the number of employees they were going to hire. You can really tie your hands if you put restrictions like that on it."

However, the board did say it wanted new businesses to increase the property value by at least $500,000. For expanding businesses, the property value must be increased by $250,000 to receive tax abatement.

"I agree with that," said Raymond Schlabs, a board member representing the Hereford school district. "This will keep little ole bicycle shops or businesses like that from coming in and asking for tax abatement."

Steve Conaway, another board member representing the school district, voiced concern that a new business certainly would be beneficial for the county and city

State officials tour for ag knowledge

By JOHN BROOKS

Officials from the state governor's and speaker of the house's offices toured the Hereford area Thursday as part of a fact-finding tour on water conservation techniques and agriculture.

Cliff Johnson, an aide to Gov. Bill Clements, and Doc Arnold, chief of staff for Speaker Gib Lewis, visited the region during a tour sponsored by the Texas Farm Bureau and High Plains Underground Water Conservation District.

In the Hereford area, the group visited Panhandle Milling's flour mill at Dawn, Garrison Seed, Arrowhead Mills and Griffin and Brand. They were given an information packet about Holly sugar's operations during a luncheon at the Hereford Country Club.

Earlier Thursday, the group toured a farm south of Amarillo that showcased numerous water conservation techniques before touring the local agricultural industries.

"This area personifies agriculture in Texas as much as anywhere else," explained Joe Mailey of the Farm Bureau's state office in Austin. "Of the 150 House members, only 40 are from rural areas. Those are the only 40 persons in the House who really understand agriculture and water conservation."

"They know and see the impact of water districts like the High Plains Underground Water Conservation District, and they know a district like yours is one they can tailor water districts in other areas of the state.

"They are up here to see first-hand how water district work, to see they can and do work. We want to give them some ammunition to use to defend us when our opponents in Austin take shots at us. We also want them to know we are working with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and the Soil Conservation Service to promote the formation of more water districts like this one so we can have more control at the local level."

"These fellows (Johnson and Arnold) work hands-on with legislation that affects us so much," explained Jim Conkwright of Hereford, who serves on the HPUWCD board. "We feel that the more we do to educate legislators, officials and staff members in our operations and our problems, the better we will be represented."

At the luncheon, A. Wayne Wyatt, executive director of HPUWCD, praised Johnson and Clements for "their supporting us and participation in the nuclear waste fight. I commend you for your efforts for that. It was a very serious issue with us and we appreciate your help."

Wyatt also presented a resolution of appreciation to Troy Don Sublett, who represented HPUWCD on the Waste Deposit Impact Committee and on the Economic Development Strategy Council.

Dukakis hits the trail

ATLANTA (AP) — Michael Dukakis, promising victory-hungry Democrats a presidency that will make America "greater, better, stronger, prouder," embarks today on a cross-country trek to show that no region will be surrendered to Republican George Bush.

"The Reagan era is over and a new era is about to begin," Dukakis declared in accepting the party's presidential nomination at a tumultuous, confetti-strewn windup session of the Democratic National Convention. Thousands of delegates shouted back, "We're gonna win, we're gonna win."

Today, Dukakis attends a unity breakfast of the Democratic National Committee and then sets out with running mate Lloyd Bentsen for Bentsen's home state of Texas, a key battleground in the fall battle with Bush.

Over the next three days, stops also are planned in California, where many experts think the election will be settled; North Dakota, in the traditionally Republican Farm Belt where the Democrats hope to make inroads, and in the showdown states of Missouri and Pennsylvania.

"It's time to raise our sights — to look beyond the cramped ideals and limited ambitions of the past eight years," Dukakis told a jubilant convention crowd.

Beyond the rhetoric, there were other reasons for the Democrats to cheer. One was an ABC poll taken Wednesday that gave Dukakis a 53 to 41 percent lead over Bush, a sizable convention-week boost from a 46-45 Republican lead in a poll taken Sunday.

The jammed Omni coliseum — forced to close the gates for a third night because of overcrowding — never seemed smaller as flag-waving, hand-clapping delegates stood shoulder-to-shoulder to cheer Dukakis and Bentsen, clapping their hands high in triumph.

Accepting the vice presidential nomination, Bentsen made no bones about his differences with Dukakis on Contra aid, school prayer, a balanced budget amendment, the MX and B-1 and other policies.

"Of course we have differences of opinion," said the silver-haired Texan, who was put on the ticket to help crack the Republican grip on the South. "But on the basic issues of justice and opportunity, we stand united. Democrats agree that a good job at a fair wage is the passport to opportunity in America."

It was a night for old rivalries to be set aside.

Amid an explosion of cheers, onetime rival Jesse Jackson strode on stage to shake hands with Dukakis, the man he failed to defeat, and with Bentsen, whose job he wanted as a consolation prize.

Dukakis, the cool technocrat who rarely shows emotion, was stirred by the electricity of the evening and the shower of adulation. "I've never had a night quite like this one before," he said.

Delegates gave him rave reviews. "You got the idea he is real, he can feel," said Darrell Ringer, a Kansas farmer who had been pledged to Jackson. "He spoke our language," said Hartford, Conn., Mayor Carrie S. Perry, another Jackson delegate.

Betty Van Uum of St. Louis said that if Bush were watching the speech, "he was probably quaking in his little Gucci shoes."

"We're going to win because we are the party that believes in the American dream," declared Dukakis, the 54-year-old son of Greek immigrants. "I know because I am a product of that dream, and I'm proud of it."

His eyes glistened with tears and his voice caught in his throat as he spoke of his late father, Panos. "How I wish he were here tonight. He'd be very proud of his son and his adopted country."

He said the Nov. 8 election "isn't about ideology. It's about competence."

Bush predicts Demo squabble

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican George Bush says he "can't wait for the debates" in this presidential year, the debates he suggests will occur between Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis and his own running mate, Lloyd Bentsen.

Bush hinted in two campaign news conferences on Thursday that the Democratic ticket is ideologically out of balance, with Dukakis far more politically liberal than the Texas senator he chose as his vice presidential running mate.

Bush hurled the barbs at the Democrats even as he claimed to be trying to keep "a relatively low profile" as the rival party commanded the spotlight in Atlanta.

"I wouldn't call this real campaigning. I don't want to overdo it," Bush, who is certain to face Dukakis in November, told an airport news conference in Greenville, S.C.

Bush, who sandwiched two news conferences between private fundraising events in Greenville and in Charlotte, N.C., on Thursday, was appearing today at an Italian festival in Milwaukee and then flying to Bayhead, N.J., for a fund-raising event for the Republican National Committee.

Bush has all but spent the $27 million allowed to him under pre-convention federal campaign spending law, and is using a host of fundraising events for the national party to help finance much of his travel between now and the Republican convention next month in New Orleans.

He returned to Washington on Thursday night from the Carolinas and said he planned to watch Dukakis' acceptance speech on television at his residence at the U.S. Naval Observatory.

Bush said Dukakis struck him as "a very good man" but he suggested the Massachusetts governor seemed "more positive than the rest of the proceedings" in Atlanta.

He said the Democratic convention had produced its share of "the ploy, the old rhetorical shout" and that he did not intend to respond directly to criticism of him from a succession of Democratic speakers.

"I can't wait for the debates — Dukakis vs. Bentsen. It's going to be great," he quipped at an airport news conference in Charlotte.

Later, in Greenville, Bush said he didn't mind running against what he said amounted to three Democratic candidates.

Plans for opening the Hereford Learning Center in September are progressing rapidly, and it's a project we believe has tremendous potential for our community. Initially started as a system to update job-training skills, the program has blossomed into a concept for a total community education program.

Not only does the HLC provide a natural link to the community's Strategic Plan for Economic Development, it could be an important part of SPED. The HLC board has identified 10 areas in which there is an immediate need for further education or training, and a system would be in place to provide training skills for new industries.

Dr. Charles Greenawalt reported this week that the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission has given tentative approval for a $100,000 computer system to be used by the school district and HLC. It would be linked to the literacy program being conducted at Amarillo College. Courses are to be offered from both Amarillo College and Texas State Technical Institute.

As Greenawalt has stated at several meetings, "the program is limited only by the imagination — by the needs expressed to us by the community." Greenawalt has had previous experience with this type of program, and Hereford is fortunate to have a school superintendent with his knowledge and enthusiasm.

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

Due to an unfortunate change of vacation plans, I am going to be in town for my class reunion on August 13. I tried to get a plane out that day, but it seems every airline is completely booked on that Saturday, so Arizona will have to wait for another day — in this case, the next day.

Actually we (my sister, niece, and mother) could have gotten out on the night of the 13th, but we were going to be faced with a four-hour layover in Las Vegas.

The plane was going to land at 12:30 a.m.

"But Patty," I said to my sister, who hates it that she's going to have to miss church that Sunday, "that's when things are just beginning to pick up a little."

"No, Johnny (not even my MOTHER can call me by that name. That was what my DAD called me, and when he died, so did the "cute" little nickname). We are not going to spend any time in Las Vegas. I don't even want to fly over, much less land there."

"Not even if I can get tickets to see Eddie Murphy or Richard Pryor there."

I could feel her glare over the shallowwater-to-Hereford long-distance connection.

"Plus, we won't be able to buy any lottery tickets in Arizona if we don't get there before 9 p.m. Saturday."

When she called me back and my ears had recovered from the slamming, I found the best we could do was fly out on Sunday morning. The good thing about flying from here to Phoenix in the summer is that we leave from Lubbock at 11:45 a.m. and arrive in Phoenix at 11:45 a.m. Arizona, for reasons that should be obvious if you read about temperatures on the desert, does not go on Daylight Savings Time. When your average daily high in the summer is 106 or something, you don't want an extra hour of daylight for any reason.

Not even if you are a golfer. They have lighted courses so you can play at night when it cools off from that afternoon's 118 degrees. Sometimes in August it even gets down to 100 or so by midnight.

Anyway, thanks to all of this I guess I'll have to go to my high school reunion down in Big D. That's Dinnmitt, not Dallas. And I will probably be the star of the show, just like I was for the fifth- and tenth-year reunions.

It all goes back to the eighth grade. You see, back in those days I could sing. "Course, back then I was smart, too. It's amazing how things change over time.

I was asked to sing the theme song for our banquet. The banquet's theme was "Up, Up and Away." To this day, every time I hear that song I hunt for a barf bag.

Actually, I had it down pat. I had a great pianist, Debbe Hansen, the foxiest chick in the eighth grade. Even as an innocent 12-year-old (it seems we were all more innocent, no matter our age, in 1968) I looked forward to practice.

Everything was set for the banquet. We had a few preliminaries, had supper, then had a couple of other songs before it was time for the big finale.

The father of one of my classmates, the late Elvon Devaney, had a fancy film camera that had more lights on it than the National Christmas Tree. He had filmed some other things, and there had been no problems. 'Course, he hadn't filmed me and Debbe yet.

We were flying way up in the sky in my beautiful balloon when Elvon stuck the lights on Debbe. She looked up and smiled for the camera — and promptly lost her place.

When she lost her place, I couldn't find mine again. I lost my train of thought. I had the music right in front of me when Elvon decided it was my turn in the bright lights.

On August 13, I will be embarrassed by that film again. It will not show me smiling. Instead, it will show me holding one hand in front of my face while I frantically look through the music to find my place again.

It is not a pretty sight. Unfortunately, there will be about 60 classmates who will, again, have one big fit of laughter as we try to find that beautiful balloon.

Perhaps this will be the year that we find it. Perhaps it will be way up in the sky.

One good thing about our reunion this year is that miniskirts will be back in style. We're not so old that the ladies will not look absolutely dazzling in them, just like they were 15 years ago.

And I still have the same build I had in high school. How many of you can still wear the clothes you wore for your senior picture?

Some of my classmates will also be embarrassed because some of their "best" pictures from our school yearbooks are going to be significantly enlarged and used for table decorations.

Do you guys remember when you first saw The Beatles and decided, no matter how short your hair, you were going to wear "Beatles Bangs"? Do you girls remember the Bubble haircut. For my classmates that have kids, I would hope they don't drag those things out until the kids are at the babysitters for the night. It would lead to fewer questions at home.

It would also keep the kids from getting bad ideas in their heads.

Wedtech trial starts

Meese called 'sleaze'

NEW YORK (AP) — Both sides in the Wedtech corruption trial found a rare point of agreement when a federal prosecutor shocked the courtroom by calling his boss, outgoing U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese, "a sleaze."

The Justice Department response Thursday was swift and angry in calling for an in-house investigation. Meese's lawyer branded the remark as "beneath contempt."

Assistant U.S. Attorney Edward J. Little stunned spectators at the racketeering trial of Rep. Mario Biaggi, D-N.Y., and six others Thursday when he brought up the sleaze factor, adding in effect, that it didn't matter.

"These defendants can't get out of this case by pointing fingers at Meese. So what? Who cares? That's got nothing to do with what happened in this courtroom," said Little.

Biaggi and his co-defendants are charged with turning Wedtech Corp., a now-bankrupt defense contractor, into a racketeering enterprise that paid millions of dollars in bribes for government contracts and other favors.

The defense has maintained during the four-month trial that corrupt Wedtech executives who testified for the government had links to White House insiders like Meese and did not need to bribe Biaggi.

The soft-spoken Little said the answer to "this Meese defense" was, "Meese was a sleaze, too, also, in addition to these people." He also denied defense hints that prosecutors were shielding "Ed Meese, our boss."

Little's remarks came near the end of his final argument to the federal jury in Manhattan.

Dominic Amorosa, the first defense attorney to sum up, said he was glad the government "has conceded what we have been saying: Meese is a sleaze, indeed he is and indeed he was."

Final defense arguments were expected to continue into next week.

Meese attorney Nathan Lewin said Little's comment was "beneath contempt. It's ridiculous to make a statement like that. To — even as a matter of prosecution strategy — group the attorney general with these people is beneath contempt."

In Washington, Justice Department spokesman Patrick Korten said, "We have asked the U.S. attorney's office in New York to check to see whether Mr. Little is quoted accurately. If such remarks were made, we would consider them to be inappropriate, unprofessional and, not least, flatly wrong."

Korten declined to comment on whether Little might be subject to disciplinary action, saying, "The first thing we want to do is determine precisely what he said."

Meese has been under scrutiny for some time because of his Wedtech connections, but a special prosecutor in Washington, James C. McKay, determined there was insufficient evidence to charge Meese with wrongdoing. However, McKay questioned the attorney general's ethics on several issues.

Meese, claiming he was vindicated by the McKay report, has announced he will leave office later this summer.

U.S. District Judge Constance Baker Motley denied a defense request during the trial to call Meese as a witness, saying his actions had nothing to do with the guilt or innocence of those on trial.

Three men, including Meese's former personal lawyer, E. Robert Wallach, and his ex-financial adviser, W. Franklyn Chinn, are to go on trial Jan. 3 for allegedly extracting payoffs from Wedtech to influence Meese and others.

Meanwhile, the California State Bar said Wednesday it is investigating Wallach's activities involving Wedtech and Meese, as well as Meese himself.

Democrats head for Texas

McAllen, Houston first stopovers

ATLANTA (AP) — Democratic presidential candidate Michael Dukakis and running mate Lloyd Bentsen planned to head straight to Texas today for their first campaign stop since their nominations.

Dukakis and Bentsen scheduled appearances in McAllen and Houston to kick off their campaign in the vice presidential nominee's home state, which offers 29 crucial electoral votes in November and is home to GOP nominee-to-be George Bush.

The Texas Democratic Party left Atlanta a little short of the total unity its leaders say is needed to carry the state. Most of Jesse Jackson's Texas supporters are on board, but a few walked out Thursday night when Bentsen, a three-term Texas senator, was nominated by acclamation on the closing night of the Democratic National Convention.

The move was led by Dallas County Commissioner John Wiley Price, a Jackson floor leader who has upset many members of the Texas Jackson delegation. Edwards has complained that Bentsen's civil rights record is "nothing to write home about."

State Rep. Al Edwards of Houston, chairman of the Texas Jackson delegation, said, "When we get back to Texas we are going to have to work on it to pull this thing back together."

State Democratic Chairman Bob Slagle said he is not concerned about the handful of Jackson delegates who walked out.

"In a huge delegation like this you always have a few people who get their feelings hurt and can't quite adjust. They'll adjust. They'll be fine by the time we get back to Texas," Slagle predicted.

Indeed, for most Texans, Thursday night was party time on the convention floor. The nomination of Bentsen is viewed as a crucial move in the effort to carry Texas.

Texans on the convention floor waved a giant state flag. Texans on the podium praised Bentsen.

Former U.S. Rep. Barbara Jordan, in a seconding speech, called him a longtime advocate "for our most vulnerable citizens."

"He has not been a spectator in the United States Senate. He has been a doer, an action man and he sees to it that action takes place on behalf of those people who need it most," she said.

U.S. Rep. Mickey Leland, at the request of Jackson, seconded the Texas motion for acclamation approval of Bentsen's nomination. He said he spoke as a "gesture of unity." Leland was chairman of the Jackson campaign in Texas.

"Lloyd Bentsen can and will help move America forward toward equality and opportunity," Leland said.

In his acceptance speech, Bentsen reminded Democrats of the 1960 John Kennedy-Lyndon Johnson ticket, the last time the party teamed a Massachusetts man with a Texan.

Clements gives prisoners a break

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Bill Clements signed an executive order giving additional good time to eligible prisoners, the first time he has used the Prison Management Act this year.

The measure will enable the Texas Department of Corrections to avoid exceeding the 95 percent capacity limit mandated by a federal court order. TDC showed 38,839 prisoners, or 94.77 percent of capacity, at midnight Wednesday.

Clements, hospitalized since Tuesday after suffering a slight stroke, also signed proposals to transfer about $10.83 million within the state budget to relieve county jail crowding.

A proposal to shift another $9.17 million would be signed later, said Reggie Bashur, the governor's press secretary. The jails are crowded with prisoners awaiting transfer to TDC.

The prison management order by Clements awards 90 days of administrative good time to eligible inmates incarcerated for non-violent crimes.

"We are determined to keep violent criminals off the streets and in prisons where they belong. We have undertaken an historic prison construction program which will provide an additional 10,000 prison beds," Clements said in a statement.

The governor, who signed the order on the recommendation of the Board of Pardons and Paroles, used the Prison Management Act six times last year, Bashur said.

The jail crowding proposals would take advantage of budget execution authority, which allows for the transfer of funds within the budget between legislative sessions. The governor's proposals must be approved by the Legislative Budget Board before taking effect.

Clements announced the plan to relieve jail crowding this month with Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Gib Lewis.

The following transfers are proposed under documents signed by Clements:

— A total of $6.95 million — $2.05 million from his office, $3.34 million from the Board of Pardons and Paroles and $1.56 million from the Adult Probation Commission — for a proposal to use the vacated Bexar County jail facility for custody of up to 500 parole violators.

— $1.73 million within the Board of Pardons and Paroles for parole selection and supervision. This allows the board to carry unexpended money forward from fiscal year 1988 to 1989. Clements also proposes allowing the board to transfer up to 10 percent from other budget line items to intensive supervision.

Officials' goal of 170 prisoner releases a day is estimated to increase total paroles by 7,300 annually, according to a summary from the governor's office. The money transferred would be used for intensive supervision and other action to handle the paroles.

— $2 million within the Adult Probation Commission to pay for additional electronic monitoring and intensive supervision.

— $150,000 within the governor's office for a grant to the Texas Commission on Jail Standards. The commission is to use the money to offer technical assistance to counties in controlling their jail populations "through application of alternative techniques in sentencing, punishment and incarceration," said the proposal.

All the funds generally are being transferred from fiscal year 1988 to fiscal year 1989, which begins Sept. 1.

Another $9.17 million is to be shifted within the Texas Department of Corrections to build five trusty camps, Bashur said.

TAX

because of the generated sales tax, but the school would not see any of the sales tax money.

"But the school would be getting more taxes because there would be more houses built, more grocery stores built and pharmacies built — things like that," explained Schlabs.

The board also solidified a preliminary map for the enterprise zone — a blighted area implanted within the county-wide tax abatement that would offer more incentives than local tax abatement.

Fred Fox, chief appraiser for Deaf Smith County and one of the board's ex-officio members, altered the map slightly, but the map basically encircles north U.S. Highway 385, U.S. Highway 60 and the Santa Fe Railroad, the San Jose Labor Camp and the area by the Holly Sugar plant and the triangle formed by Avenue K, Highway 60 and 15th Street.

The board has until Aug. 15 to submit its application for the enterprise zone which can offer state sales tax refunds on equipment and building material purchased for use in the zone.

This refund would be based on $2,000 per new permanent job created with a maximum of $250,000 per year for the life of the zone.

Know the facts about telephone sales calls

Telephone customers have varying opinions about sales calls made over the phone, but telephone sales calls need not be a problem if customers keep a few important points in mind when answering them, says Gary Stevens, area manager of external affairs for Southwestern Bell Telephone.

Telephone sales calls, commonly known as telemarketing, are legal. The telephone is an effective marketing tool widely used by many companies and organizations.

Telephone customers, as consumers, have the right and responsibility to make their own judgment about each sales call received. Those judgments might include:

- Am I interested in, or do I want or need, the product or service offered?
- If I do, is the offer reasonable? Does it make sense?
- Am I being pushed to make a decision immediately? Is there a legitimate reason why I can't buy the same product or service tomorrow or next week just as well as today?

- Does the offer sound "too good to be true"? If it does, then it probably is.

You have the right to verify the information you have been told. Ask for a call-back number. Check with the Better Business Bureau or another appropriate neutral source.

Be careful about giving credit card numbers. Know who you are giving the number to and how they intend to use it.

The Public Utility Commission has established specific guidelines for Texas companies using a computer to make sales calls within the state:

- The message must state the nature of the call, and the name, address, and call-back number of the company or organization making the call.

- Any call from a computer is required to disconnect within 10 seconds after you hang up.

- Computerized calls may be made only during certain hours: Monday through Saturday, 9 a.m. to 9 p.m.; Sunday, 1:30 to 9 p.m.

- If calls from a computer are used for payment collection purposes, the calls have to be made within hours specified by federal law.

- If calls from a computer are used for payment collection purposes, the calls have to be made within hours specified by federal law.

- Southwestern Bell Telephone has the authority to disconnect or refuse service to any company or organization, operating within Texas, that violates these rules

- The PUC does not have any authority over sales calls originating outside Texas. Many sales calls are made from other states.

- If you want to reduce the number of sales calls received, provide your name, address and telephone number (including area code) to:

Telephone Preference Service
Direct Marketing Association
6 East 43rd Street
New York, N.Y., 10017.

- There is no guarantee that all sales calls will be eliminated, but the number of calls made from national telemarketing companies will be reduced.

- If you wish to report an abuse of Texas' telemarketing laws or file a complaint against a specific telemarketing organization, call the Southwestern Bell Telephone business office at the number printed in your telephone directory.

- If you want to file a complaint about a sales call with Southwestern Bell, it is essential to have the name of the company making the call.

It also will be helpful if you can give some information about the phone number or address of the company, the kind of sales offer, and the time the call was received.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am so tired of all those ignorant people who come up to my husband and ask him if his wife has a full-time job or is she "just a housewife."

Please print this letter and shed some light on this sorely undervalued occupation. Thank you. I'll sign "this-No, I'm Not Just a Housewife (California)

I am also a travel agent, speech therapist, plumber, and automobile maintenance and repair expert. During the course of my day, I am supposed to be cheerful, look radiant, and jump in the sack on a moment's notice.

From studies done, it would cost over $75,000 a year to replace me. I took time out of my busy day to write this letter, Ann, because there are still ignorant people who believe that a housewife is nothing more than a baby sitter who sits on her behind all day and looks at soap operas.

If I could afford to pay someone to do all the things that I do, I would be delighted to go back to working an eight-hour day with an hour for lunch and two 15-minute breaks.

What do I get out of my job in the absence of a salary? Joy, happiness, hugs, kisses, smiles, love, self-respect and pride in knowing that I have done a full day's work to ensure the physical and emotional well-being of those I love.

Now, if you still want to classify me as just a housewife, go ahead.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I have been employed in a number of homes for the aged. After 22 years of working with healthy, convalescing and ill elderly patients, I can predict with almost 100 percent accuracy which individuals will receive emotional support from family and friends.

The residents who smile, initiate conversations, enjoy the activities, listen attentively to others, read the newspaper, watch the news on TV and keep up with current events will receive mail daily and be visited often by friends and relatives.

Residents who are critical, negative, dominate conversations with details of their illnesses and their children's shortcomings, and engage in angry, loud telephone conversations seldom have visitors. I believe it is fair to say that those who have no friends on the inside didn't have any friends on the outside.

Thank you for letting me express an unscientific opinion. — Mary, RN/RNP in Richmond, Va., and a Faithful Reader

DEAR FAITHFUL READER: I appreciate your "unscientific" opinion. Often those are the best kind. In my opinion your observations and conclusions have a great deal of merit. Thanks for sharing.

August adds to Rangers' July woes, 6-1

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Rookie Don August wanted a shutout, but a complete-game victory backed by timely hitting was nearly as good.

"I would have liked the shutout, but I'm just happy to get the win. I expect to have a lot more starts," August said after the Brewers beat the Texas Rangers 6-1 Thursday night.

August allowed Texas nine hits but none were for extra bases as the right-hander pitched his fourth complete game, leading the Brewers to their ninth win in the last 11 games.

August, 5-3 since joining the Brewers from their Class AAA club at Denver June 2, lowered his earned run average to 2.42. But on a staff that leads the American League in ERA, August is just trying to keep up with the other pitchers.

"Our entire pitching staff has exceeded our expectations. Every guy out there has done more than we expected," Milwaukee manager Tom Trebelhorn said.

"Don had his good stuff tonight," Trebelhorn said. "He got some key outs early, then cruised for a while and then caught a couple of breaks. I'm just sorry he didn't get his shutout."

He lost the shutout when Pete Incaviglia and Pete O'Brien singled and Incaviglia scored on a fielder's choice in the ninth.

Kurt Stillwell made a mistake. So did Claudell Washington.

At least Stillwell got a chance to make up for his error. Washington never did.

The Kansas City Royals rallied for three runs with two outs in the ninth inning Thursday night for a dramatic 6-5 victory over the New York Yankees. The Royals, who once trailed 4-0, tied it on Washington's three-base error and Stillwell's run-scoring single.

"He let us get back in the game just like I'd done earlier," said Stillwell, whose two-out error in the fifth preceded Don Mattingly's two-run homer that made it 4-0. "It's not a good feeling."

After Bill Buckner's double in the ninth had scored Frank White, who singled, to make it 5-4, pinch hitter Pat Tabler faced Cecilio Guante. Tabler lined a shot to center field.

"At first I thought Tabler's ball would be in there for a hit," Royals manager John Wathan said, "and then I thought it would be caught. I think maybe the ball was acting like a knuckleball as it came out there. Those plays are not as easy as they might look."

Washington didn't make any excuses for letting the ball soar past his glove.

"It was just one of those things. It happens," he said. "I was running full speed in. I tried to slow down. I threw my glove up. It just sailed to the right."

"You could call it a misjudgment. I call it an error. It's over with now. You just come back and be ready to play tomorrow."

After Washington's error, Willie Wilson walked. Stillwell then got his

George Brett had a two-run homer for Kansas City. Rickey Henderson led off the game with a home run for New York, the 35th he has hit leading off a game in his career. That tied Bobby Bonds' major-league record.

Red Sox 6, White Sox 1

Dennis "Oil Can" Boyd was perfect for 6 1-3 innings as the Red Sox won their eighth straight since Joe Morgan was named manager.

Boyd, who had won just one of his last six starts and was 2-5 in his last seven decisions, tied his season high with six strikeouts. Steve Lyons, who once played for Boston, got the first hit, a single in the seventh.

The Red Sox clinched it with four runs in the eighth, two on a triple by Wade Boggs.

Mariners 6, Blue Jays 2

Steve Balboni had a three-run homer, while Jim Presley and Dave Valle hit solo shots to support Scott Bankhead and Mike Schooler. Toronto had only four hits, one of which was a two-run homer by George Bell.

Bankhead, 5-4, got his fourth win in his last five starts. The right-hander yielded two first-inning runs before holding the Blue Jays scoreless over the next six innings. He struck out six and walked three in seven innings before Schooler relieved and retired all six batters he faced, fanning three, for his seventh save.

Dave Stieb, 10-7, suffered his fourth straight loss.

Ryan Express leads to 2-0 win

By HILLEL ITALIE Associated Press Writer

Nolan Ryan is too modest to say it, but teammate Bill Doran doesn't hesitate: The 41-year old right-hander is something special.

"You always hear someone every game, whether it's an umpire or an opposing player, say that he is amazing," Doran said after Ryan pitched a three-hitter Thursday night to lead the Houston Astros to a 2-0 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies. "He is a remarkable person and a remarkable athlete."

Ryan achieved several milestones with the win. His 268 career victories tie him with Jim Palmer for 27th on the all-time list. The shutout was his first in more than four years and the 55th of his career, tying him with Bert Blyeven for second among active pitchers.

"The key tonight was getting ahead on the count. I had a good curve ball and I was getting it over," said Ryan, who walked three and struck out nine, giving him an NL-leading 142 for the season and a record 4,689 for his career.

Elsewhere, it was San Diego 3, Chicago 1; Montreal 3, Cincinnati 2; Pittsburgh 3, Los Angeles 2, and St. Louis 6, San Francisco 4. Atlanta at New York was rained out.

The Astros have won four straight games and nine of 11 to move into sole possession of second place in the National League West, five games behind the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"The veterans are going to have to lead this club," said Ryan, 7-7. "We've improved our position quite a bit and we're all excited about it."

Padres 3, Cubs 1

Ed Whitson won his sixth straight decision as San Diego snapped an eight-game losing streak at Wrigley Field.

Whitson, 9-5, allowed eight hits in eight innings-plus. He was relieved by Lance McCullers after giving up singles to Shawon Dunston and Damon Berryhill to start the ninth.

McCullers earned his seventh save by getting pinch hitter Jody Davis to ground into a double play and retiring Mitch Webster on a fly ball to right.

Clack is on track for Cowboys

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) - Remember Darryl Clack? You are, indeed, a Dallas Cowboys' fans if you do.

Clack, a second-round draft pick in 1986 out of Arizona State, didn't carry the ball a single time last season.

In two years of NFL play, he has four rushes for a grand total of 19 yards.

With the trade of Tony Dorsett to Denver, Clack suddenly becomes a big part of the Cowboys' 1988 plans as a backup to Herschel Walker.

"It's my big chance," he said. "It's what I've waited for since I got out of Arizona State."

Clack's reputation of always being hurt also has followed him from Arizona State.

He played sparingly his senior year for the Wildcats because of injury.

"It's time for Darryl to show us what he can do," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry. "I have confidence in his ability if we can just keep him on the field. We've never seen him in a very long stretch. We have to know if he can take some punishment."

Clack had the reputation of being an excellent receiver out of the backfield.

"He was one of the best in college football at catching the ball when he was playing," said Gil Brandt, the Cowboys' player personnel director.

Clack was used mostly on specialty teams last year.

This spring he was involved in an odd situation.

A pouting Dorsett refused to practice during a mini-camp and even sent Clack onto the field for himself.

"I didn't have any problem with doing that," Clack said. "I kind of appreciated how Tony felt."

Clack said he had been told by the Cowboys' coaches that he would get a heavy dose of action in the preseason.

"He can be a very versatile player," said backfield coach Al Lavan. "All Darryl needs to do is get confidence in himself that he can do it. He can run, he's fast, and he can catch the ball."

Clack said he is in the best condition of his career.

"At 228 pounds I was overweight last year but now I'm down to 213," Clack said. "It's nice to be my old self."

It's something the Cowboys have been waiting for since the 1986 draft.

Oilers' Johnson threatens to quit

SAN MARCOS, Texas (AP) - Houston Oiler cornerback Richard Johnson said Thursday he may retire after this season because neither he nor Oiler management have recovered from bitter contract negotiations three years ago.

"I'm going to play this year out and maybe retire or something, I'm serious," Johnson said following workouts on the Southwest Texas State University campus.

Johnson, who has been a backup to starting cornerbacks Steve Brown and Patrick Allen the past two seasons, sat out the entire training camp his rookie season in a contract dispute.

The feelings have lasted the last three seasons, Johnson said.

28 wins Booster Scramble

A foursome composed of James Salinas, Jimmy Bell, David McDonald and Dennis Newton scored a 28 to win the Whiteface Booster Club golf scramble Thursday at Pitman Municipal Golf Course.

Runnerup honors went to a team that included Jeff O'Rand, Cuby Kit-chens, Ken Roberts and Joy Stagner. Two teams carded a 30 with third place going to the team composed of Raymond Schroeder, Temple Abney, Don Clements and Waldo Baxter.

Fifteen teams and 63 players participated in the nine-hole scramble. Each first-place player won $20 in golf merchandise, while $12.50 and $10 each went to second and third-place team members.

Hot dogs and cold drinks were served after the tournament, and Athletic Director Don Cumpston spoke briefly on sporting events beginning in August—football, volleyball and cross-country. Booster Club president John Stagner presented the golf awards and introduced Cumpston.

"It just seemed like after the negotiations, there's been bad vibes here with Ladd (General Manager Herzog) and Jerry (head coach Glanville)," Johnson said.

"We don't communicate. I'm always trying to talk to those guys but they don't ever talk to me."

Perry enters center

PLATTEVILLE, Wis. (AP) - William "The Refrigerator" Perry, the huge defensive tackle who helped power the Chicago Bears to the 1986 Super Bowl title, is being treated for an eating disorder, the team announced.

The Bears issued a statement after Perry, 25, failed to appear for the first meeting of summer training camp Thursday.

"This is no laughing matter; it is very serious," said coach Mike Ditka, who said Perry weighed 358 pounds a couple of weeks ago.

"The Bears are in agreement with Perry that this is a medical matter and the Bears will have no further comment at this time," the statement said. Perry entered a treatment program voluntarily.

USOC okays payments

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (AP) — American athletes forced to balance their time and money between jobs and training should be getting some relief soon. The U.S. Olympic Committee said Thursday that it plans for the first time to make direct cash payments to top American athletes to help offset training costs. Previously, financial aid for top athletes came through their clubs.

"It would be a big help, words can't describe how much help," Connie Price, women's discus winner at the U.S. Olympic Trials, said of the proposal. "I had a job, but I quit in February because of the stress. We made enough to survive." "Right now, my husband is a coach at a junior college and we both have part-time jobs," said Ramona Pagel, another Olympian in the discus. "Between us, we have three jobs, and we're still on a poverty level. There's not a lot of money coming in. I get a little help from my club, but not a lot." That kind of hand-to-mouth existence is what the USOC proposes to alleviate. "It is simply no longer possible for a world class athlete to compete successfully and at the same time earn in a full-time job," USOC president Robert Helmick said. "Our ultimate goal is to provide our top-level athletes with sufficient support for living and training expenses so that they may spend the time necessary to train and compete internationally." The direct payments are part of a $25-million proposal that includes job and scholarship programs for athletes. Money would come from sales of 1988 Olympic coins.

The national governing bodies of individual sports would determine which top athletes receive the direct payments. But the payment itself would come directly from the USOC, spokesman Mike Moran said. "The (governing bodies) can stretch the money as far as they want," he said. "They can select 20 people or 200 people." Pagel said she would prefer having the money not spread too thin. "The more you spread the money, the less good it's going to do, but it's not for me to decide," she said. In the case of college competitors, payments would not be made if they conflicted with NCAA or other eligibility rules, Moran said. The USOC said it is working with college administrators on ways to assist scholarship athletes in need of additional support while competing in Olympic or Pan American sports. The program was approved in principle on Sunday by a USOC committee meeting in Indianapolis. The USOC executive board will vote on the proposal in November. If approved, the program would begin in 1989. In the past, some athletes — such as track stars — have received appearance fees from sponsors and subsidies from federations to help offset the cost of training.

"It is tough (training without adequate funding)," Olympic distance runner Mary Decker Slaney said. "This is the first year, really, that I've had any funding. This is a step in the right direction. The program will be a little broader. Even though you are allowed endorsements, track is not a glamor sport like tennis or basketball. So I think it's really needed." She said top USA athletes of world-class standing will benefit from this program. "It will have a dramatic impact on their chances to achieve success in competitions leading up to and including the 1992 Summer and Winter Olympic Games."

Father, son going to Seoul

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer
 The margin was slim — one centimeter, one-quarter of an inch — not even the length of your thumbnail. It was enough, however, to send Jim Doehring and his father to Seoul for the Olympic Games. Doehring finished third in the shot put in the U.S. Olympic Trials, with a toss of 67 feet, 8 1/4 inches, edging Ron Baches by that single centimeter for the final shot spot on the team behind Randy Barnes and Gregg Taffralis. Pretty close, huh?

Not when you consider what Doehring and his father have been through together. Close is when you're lying in a hospital bed with your back broken, your jaw wired shut and your face a maze of compound fractures. Close is when doctors don't know whether you'll walk again, much less toss the shot. Close is when you're out of commission for a year, when they operate on you four or five times, when they insert and then remove steel rods in your backbone. That's close. Six years ago, Jim Doehring won a national championship for Saddleback Junior College and seemed poised for a run at the 1984 Olympic team. Then, in July, 1982, he crashed his motorcycle and nearly was killed. For 14 days, Fred Doehring stayed on a cot in the hospital next to his son's bed, praying for Jim's life, trying to give him the will to fight back from his injuries. It was a payback, really. Years before, Fred Doehring's wife and daughter were killed in an auto accident that left him near death. As he lay in the hospital, it was his 11-year-old son who helped him through. "I wasn't too anxious to go on," Fred Doehring says now. "But seeing him really fired me up."

So they are close, this father and son, understandably closer than others might be, because of what they have been through together. Jim Doehring worked himself back from the motorcycle accident to the point where he could compete again. He resumed the shot at San Jose State and in 1986 had a personal-best heave of 69-10 1/4. The distance is significant because, two years earlier in the 1984 Olympics at Los Angeles — the Games Doehring missed — Italy's Alessandro Andrei won the shot put gold medal with a throw that was 1 1/4 inches shorter. Fred Doehring kept encouraging Jim and the payoff came in the Olympic Trials at Indianapolis where he squeezed by Baches by the narrowest of margins for the final 1988 berth. And when he made the Olympic team, Jim Doehring didn't have to think twice about who he would take with him to Seoul under the Send the Families program sponsored by Seagram's. It was no contest, really. "We're awfully good friends," Fred Doehring said of his relationship with his son. "It will help him (at the Olympics) to know I'm around. A dad can't ask for anything more." That's what Seagram's had in mind when it created the families program. It enables America's athletes to have friendly faces watching when they go for Seoul's gold. Two sports federations, gymnastics and basketball, turned down the offer. But the others enthusiastically embraced the idea.

So track star Carl Lewis' mom, Evelyn, will be there, rooting for him to capture more medals. Volleyball player Melissa McLinden is taking her husband Chris Kleepsies. Norman Bellingham, competing in three kayak races, will have his mother Lorraine there. Rower Kevin Still's wife Sonia will be cheering for him. Teammate Glenn Florio's stock-trader father Robert will take time off from Wall Street to be at the Games. Equestrienne Phyllis Dawson's mother Grace is going. And 100-meter hurdler Karen Cannon will be there, too, regardless of whether she qualifies for the competition. That's because her husband, triple jumper Robert Cannon, who beat defending gold medalist Al Joyner for his berth, is taking her along.

America's No. 1 shot put qualifier, Randy Barnes, will have his father Ralph in Seoul with him. Ralph Barnes will probably run into Fred Doehring at the competition site. They ought to have plenty to talk about.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:

After cleaning out my kitchen drawers I discovered I had knives everywhere. My husband came up with a clever idea for a knife holder so they're all in plain sight when I need them.

I sew quite a bit and save all my wooden spools. At the time I didn't have any idea why I was saving them, I just hated throwing them away. Now I'm glad I had them.

My husband took about 14 spools and put a long screw through each hole and screwed them to the wall under my cabinets. He put them together all in a row so the top and bottom edges touched.

The gaps between the spools hold the knife blades while the handles rest on the spools. They not only do the job but they look pretty good too.

— Mrs. Jack Thompson, Miami, Fla.
That is a great idea! I bet you can paint them to match the decor in your kitchen. Thanks for passing on your hint. — Heloise

PIZZA DOUGH

Dear Heloise: I'd like to pass on a pizza dough recipe that was handed down to me from my Italian aunt.

All you need are two packets of yeast, two cups of water and six cups of all-purpose flour (make sure it isn't self-rising flour), some oil, salt and a tiny bit of sugar. These ingredients make two nice-size pizzas.

Pour two cups of very warm (almost hot) water in a large bowl. Add a teaspoon of salt, a tablespoon of oil, one-half teaspoon sugar and two packets of yeast.

Mix until the yeast is dissolved. Add six cups of flour and mix together. Take the dough out and put it on the counter with a little flour. Knead the dough until it becomes smooth; form two balls.

Put oil on the bottom of the pans you will use for the pizzas; also rub some oil on the dough. Wet two dish towels in hot water and wring out thoroughly and place over the dough.

Put the pans in a warm place (if you have a gas oven, the pilot light is just right for helping the dough rise).

The dough takes about three hours to rise, so make sure you start early enough. — Patty D'Amico, Massapequa, N.Y.

FREEZE FOOD

Dear Heloise: If you freeze food in plastic bags, it's best to remove as much air as possible.

Place a straw inside the bag and push as much air out as you can, and then hold the bag closed around the straw.

Suck out all the remaining air, remove the straw and seal the bag. — Ann Romito, Chicago, Ill.

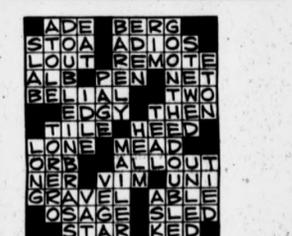

A good storage tip. I have collected a lot more in my pamphlet, How to Save at the Supermarket. Just send $2 and a stamped (45 cents), self-addressed, legal-sized envelope to Heloise/Supermarket, P.O. Box 19765, Irvine, Calif. 92713 — Heloise

In 1789, John Adams was sworn in as the first vice president of the United States.

Names in the News

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Actress Jane Fonda says her latest movie "Gringo Viejo" is an epic that "has everything."

The movie, inspired by Carlos Fuentes' book about the lives of two North Americans who find themselves in Mexico in 1913 during the Mexican Revolution, is directed by Luis Puenzo, who also directed the Oscar-winning Argentine film "The Official Story."

Fonda said the film, due to be released in the spring next year, was an ambitious project.

"It's a very big epic film that has everything: passion, action, intelligence, sexuality, and humor," she said Thursday.

Fonda co-produced the film, which co-stars Gregory Peck. She said she plans to return to the United States on Saturday to begin filming her next movie with Robert de Niro.

NEW YORK (AP) — George Meegan went out for a stroll and walked right into the Guinness Book of World Records.

Meegan appeared at the Guinness World of Records exhibit on Tuesday to receive a certificate honoring his walk through the Americas — a 19,017-mile jaunt that took seven years and four months and was completed in 1983.

Meegan, a resident of Kent, England, is the author of "The Longest Walk: An Odyssey of the Human Spirit." He walked from the tip of South America to the end of Prudhoe Bay in Alaska, crossing 14 countries.

While receiving the certificate, he also gave his boots to the Guinness exhibit. He then delighted the crowd by showing off the tattoo on his leg, a map of his route.

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Actress Barbara Stanwyck recently spent 2 1/2 weeks in the hospital for a back problem that has plagued her for the past 25 years, her publicist said.

Miss Stanwyck, who turned 81 on Saturday, was released earlier this month from St. John's Medical Center where she was admitted for treatment of the recurring back ailment, spokesman Larry Kleno said on Tuesday.

"She still has 10 fractured vertebrae which flare up from time to time," he said. "When the pain gets so excruciating, she goes to the hospital for heat pack treatment."

Miss Stanwyck originally injured her back while performing her own horse riding and other stunts in films and during the 1960s television show "The Big Valley."

Miss Stanwyck was nominated four times for Academy Awards and received an honorary Oscar in 1982 for the body of her work. She has won three television Emmy Awards.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Character actor Brian Dennehy was married to Australian costume designer Jennifer Anne Arnott aboard a yacht in Sydney, but work soon called the newlyweds to different continents, according to his publicist.

Dennehy, 50, and the former Miss Arnott, 31, were married Sunday aboard the American yacht Vim, publicist Nancy Seltzer said Tuesday.

After the wedding, Dennehy and his new wife sailed around Sydney Harbor.

But Dennehy then had to return to the United States to prepare for his role in the CBS television movie "Day One." Miss Arnott remained in Australia to work as costume designer for the Australian miniseries "Tana Mera," based on the fall of Singapore during World War II.

Dennehy has appeared mostly in television movies and miniseries. He played an American cop chasing murderers in Moscow in the 1983 movie "Gorky Park."

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Jonathan "Chico" DeBarge pleaded innocent to charges he was involved in a cocaine trafficking ring, a week after the pop singer was dropped from an anti-drug telethon.

DeBarge, 22, was arraigned Monday on the drug charges. If convicted, he faces a maximum of life imprisonment and a $4 million fine.

U.S. Magistrate Hugh W. Breneman Jr. allowed DeBarge to remain free on a $400,000 bond pending a pretrial conference in two weeks.

Jeffrey Kildow, head of the local U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration, said DeBarge, his brother, Robert, and five other men brought large quantities of cocaine from California to sell in Michigan.
