Legislators search for new school consensus

AUSTIN (AP) - Senate Education Committee Chairman Carl Parker had a "prayer meeting" with House Democrats on school finance reform, but left without finding consensus on the issue.

"Maybe something good will come of it," Parker, D-Port Arthur, said Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Rep. Troy Fraser of Big Spring was working on a school finance reform plan that he hoped would be accepted by Democrats and his fellow Republicans.

The measure would cost a maximum $7 billion over the next five years, he said, compared to an estimated $13.9 billion in state and local money for a House-Senate conference committee measure rejected last week by the House.

The plan would guarantee school districts equal access to a lower funding level than the conference committee bill.

A state judge on Monday effectively gave the Legislature two more weeks to reform the school finance system, which twice has been ruled unconstitutional by a unanimous Texas Supreme Court.

Speaker Gib Lewis indicated the House wouldn't change its mind and approve the conference committee bill, although Gov. Ann Richards personally called opponents in a bid to switch votes.

The conference committee bill, which would have shifted hundreds of millions of dollars in local property tax revenue from wealthier to poorer school districts, passed the Senate but was rejected last week by the House.

"I think those votes were pretty much in concrete ... You're looking at an issue right here that can defeat probably anybody on the House floor at the next election, and you've got to take that into consideration," said Lewis, D-Fort Worth.

Bill Cryer, Richards' press secretary, said the governor also believed it would be hard to pass the bill.

But Rep. Greg Luna, D-San Antonio, said he had expected

Richards to take a stronger role in the school finance battle: "My dear governor has not done enough to help. That low-profile stuff was nothing that I expected from her candidacy."

In a procedural move, the House did vote to reconsider its rejection of the conference committee bill and left the measure as pending business.

If House conference committee members come up with a new compromise that senators accept, the plan then could be substituted for the conference committee bill, and the House and Senate could vote again, leaders said.

"What we're trying to do is keep ourselves in the posture that we can act when we come to agreement on the education finance bill," Lewis said.

The Supreme Court has twice unanimously ruled unconstitutional the current $14 billion-a-year school finance system, which relies on state aid, local property taxes and some federal money.

Deadline for DSGH is Thursday

Thursday at 5 p.m. is the filing deadline for persons seeking a place on the Deaf Smith County Hospital District board of directors.

As of Wednesday morning only Mal Manchee, a Hereford school administrator, had filed for one of the three available seats. The slots currently filled by Raymond Schroeder, Ralph Deuten and Dr. A.T. Mims are up for election on May 4.

Persons wishing to file for a spot on the at-large ballot may pick up forms at the county clerk's office at the courthouse.

Teenager conference is planned

The Hereford Independent School District and the Texas Department of Human Resources will sponsor a Teenaged Parent Conference on April 11-12 at the Hereford Community Center.

Persons who are teenagers and a parent should call Marilyn Leasure at 364-0606 for information registration for the free conference. The conference will include information on parenting, communication, stress management, baby wellness, nutrition and "Teachables from Trashables."

Special guest speakers will include Coco Medina of Amarillo and Dr. Guadalupe Quintanilla of the University of Houston. The Thursday meeting will be from 7 to 8:30 p.m. and child care will be provided. The Friday conference will begin at 8:30 a.m. and conclude at 3:45 p.m. Lunch and refreshments will be served Friday.

Persons who would like to attend the free conference should call 364-0606 by 5 p.m. Friday. Preregistration is required for attendance.

Enjoying an afternoon swing

Joseph Dennett, 10, Andrew De La Cruz, 6, and L.J. Vallejo, 8, enjoy a fun time on a tree swing on Tuesday in Hereford. Weather is expected to be good throughout the week, with temperatures in the mid 80's by the weekend.

Man jailed in MHMR rape

LUBBOCK, Texas (AP) - A Lubbock State School employee has been placed on emergency leave following his arrest for the rape of a 26-year-old mentally retarded resident.

The charge against Russell Alan Griffith is the latest development involving the sexual assaults of clients at Lubbock State School, one of 13 facilities for the mentally retarded.

Last year, another raped client at the school, Debra Lynn Thomas, gave birth to a son. Her brother-in-law, Jimmy Wooten, has been charged with the assault.

Griffith was arrested at his mother's home Tuesday after prosecutors received the results of a genetic paternity test. Investigators had collected blood samples from five state school employees who worked in dormitory of the victim, who is known only by the initials "T.S."

A release issued from the Texas Department of Mental Health-Mental Retardation late Tuesday stated Griffith was being placed on emergency leave following his arrest.

Lubbock State School President Lonnie Willis would not discuss the incident when contacted at his home by The Associated Press, Tuesday evening.

"I don't have all the information to comment on this at this time," Willis said.

Texas MHMR deputy Jaylon Fincannon reported in release his outrage concerning Griffith's arrest.

"It just shouldn't have happened," said Jaylon Fincannon, a Texas Department of Mental Health-Mental Retardation deputy commissioner, in the release. "Our department requested this investigation so we'll continue to work with the police."

Assistant Attorney General Dona Hamilton said earlier that school officials waited to report the incident because they believed the child was fathered by another resident.

"Obviously, if there is someone who is guilty of a crime like that, it's good not to have that person around clients," Ms. Hamilton said Tuesday. "But as for the specific facts for this case, I can't comment."

Bush, Kaifu to talk trade

TOKYO (AP) - A leading newspaper recently ran a political cartoon depicting President Bush as a pilot attacking Japan with bombs marked "semiconductors," "GATT" and "construction market" - all contentious trade issues.

While Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu may not come under such a savage attack when he meets Bush in California on Thursday, those festering trade problems are expected to be a main topic at the two-hour summit.

One of his jobs will be to de-emphasize those trade tensions, which have been aggravated by a widespread perception in the United States that Japanese support of the allied campaign against Iraq - nearly $11 billion but no personnel - was inadequate.

The prime minister is to appear with Bush at a news conference and be interviewed on public television to get the message across, Japanese officials say.

He'll be playing to a tough audience, however.

A recent Business Week magazine poll found two-thirds of 1,255 Americans surveyed would like Washington to take a tougher line on trade with Japan for its behavior during the war. Nearly the same percentage said they were less likely to buy Japanese products.

"We want to tame the anti-Japanese criticism and create a good atmosphere," said Tadamori Ohshima, a top aide to the prime minister.

Among the issues that could poison the atmosphere is Japan's ban on virtually all rice imports, which Washington sees as a roadblock to securing liberalized international trade rules through the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

The rice dispute was exacerbated last month when Japanese officials threatened to take legal action against a display of U.S. rice at a food exhibition near Tokyo.

Political analysts believe Kaifu is unlikely to make concessions on rice during the summit because it comes just three days before nationwide local elections. Farmers are among the most powerful constituencies backing his Liberal Democratic Party.

Instead, Japan has indicated it will address international criticism of the ban through GATT negotiations.

Bush administration sources have said the president is expected to raise long-running disputes on opening Japan wider to U.S. computer chip imports and on awarding public works contracts to American firms.

Adding fuel to the fire, the U.S. trade representative last week issued a report citing 32 items that remained shut out of Japanese markets.

While some Japanese are concerned those trade disputes could cause the summit to backfire, other analysts disagree.

"I think both of them will operate on a high enough level that they won't be shouting at each other," said Ezra Vogel, a Harvard professor and expert on Japan. "I don't see any reason why there should be serious problems."

Indeed, Kaifu likely will seek to emphasize broader issues of cooperation and to revive talk of a Japan-U.S. "global partnership," the catch-phrase of a year ago when the two leaders last met in the warm southern California sun.

Foreign Ministry spokesman Taizo Watanabe believes that partnership "will be confirmed in the summit talks."

Said another ministry official, speaking on condition of anonymity: "Without Japan's participation, there's not much you (the United States) can do in this world in peacetime."

Nonetheless, the Persian Gulf War battered the notion of equality on the world stage. Bush is enjoying a surge of prestige after the allied victory while Kaifu has had to endure intense criticism of Japan's tentative response to the crisis.

Time change comes Sunday

Be ready to "spring forward" Saturday night or Sunday morning when Daylight Savings Time takes effect for 1991.

You should set your clocks forward one hour Saturday night so you will be on time for church or other activities on Sunday.

Daylight Savings Time will be in effect through October, and will mean it will be a little darker when you wake up in the mornings, but there will be more light at the end of the day.

Daylight Savings Time was an idea of Benjamin Franklin and was used intermittently through the years. The Uniform Time Act of 1966 established permanent daylight savings time from the end of April through October. A few years ago, the Act was amended to move the beginning of DST to the first Sunday in April.

Customers love 'family' restroom

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) - The Montgomery Mall looks like any other in America. Department stores. Victoria's Secret. Cute little gadget shops. A music store where the guy plays "On A Clear Day" on the organ.

But back behind the food court, here known as the Boulevard Cafes, at the end of a freshly tiled corridor is something they're proud of. Customers gush with enthusiasm over it. A couple have even written letters to the editors of the local papers to praise it.

It's the toilet. Down the hall from the doorways marked "Men" and "Women" there's a third choice: "Family Restroom."

Not since Thomas Crapper put one in Queen Victoria's Sandringham Castle (Victoria's other secret), has porcelain and plumbing attracted such attention.

"This type of comprehensive facility hasn't been done anywhere in the country," explains Steven W. Nicklin, assistant general manager for marketing at the mall. "We've actually done some pretty good research on that."

Inside is a softly lit, three-room suite with piped-in music, cheery framed illustrations from children's stories and a park-style wooden bench for the weary to sit and pass the time.

In one room is an itty bitty toilet with a little sink and mirror. Everything is close to the floor. The room next door has grown-up-size stuff. Both have big doors that lock.

In the anteroom, where the bench is, there is also a changing table, a sink and a machine that dispenses diapers, moistened wipes and (mercifully) a plastic bag to dispose of the old one.

"They get all of this for 50 cents," Nicklin says.

The mall, located in this upper-crust suburb of Washington, D.C., is being renovated. In the process, someone got the idea of sparing parents the occasional awkward moment of a dad taking a little daughter into the men's room or a little boy going in there alone while his mom waits in the hallway biting her nails.

"Look at that. Isn't that cute?" said Norma Goodman of Rockville, Md., who was taking her 5-year-old granddaughter, Alyssa, into the kiddie potty.

"I think it's marvelous," said Mrs. Goodman, who at first was shocked to see a reporter and a handful of mall executives standing around in the bathroom as she came through the door.

Iraqi dissidents open DC sessions

WASHINGTON (AP) - Iraqi rebels hope to persuade the Bush administration to change its hands-off policy on their struggle against President Saddam Hussein's forces.

A Kurdish representative said in an interview Tuesday that U.S. policy may be based on such "unfounded fears" that the Kurds seek to set up an independent state or that Iranian-backed Shiite Muslims would take control of the country if Saddam were toppled.

"All we want is democracy and territorial integrity and respect for Kurdish rights within the borders of Iraq," said Najmaldin Karim, a Washington neurosurgeon. "That's what we want. The fear that Iraq is going to disintegrate is just unfounded."

Karim will represent both the Kurdistan Front and the Kurdish National Congress of North America in talks with Assistant Secretary of State John H. Kelly and other U.S. officials later in the week.

A cross-section of Shiite and Sunni Muslims opposed to Saddam's rule were expected to make a similar case at the State Department today. Talks will be held with a wide range of Iraqi dissidents over three days.

The likelihood of a shift in U.S. policy appears to be remote, however. "The fact that we will be meeting with an increased number of such individuals will, in part, be an occasion to reiterate our consistent policy regarding Iraq," the State Department said in a statement Tuesday.

Injured explorer stuck in rock rift

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) - Experts trying to free an explorer who broke her leg inside the nation's deepest known cave organized a bucket brigade of rescuers to carry her today through a treacherous passage known as The Rift.

Emily Davis Mobley, who was part of a mapping expedition into Lechuguilla Cave, was injured Sunday about two miles inside the cave.

On Tuesday, with her leg in a splint, she was hoisted on a stretcher up the 250-foot Great White Way, a rock wall with a series of ledges, said park Ranger Jeff Denny.

Rescuers talked to her by telephone after stringing a line into the cave, and she asked for a pizza and a hairbrush. Rescuers have been sending food and painkillers to Mobley, and a doctor was among several people with her.

"She told us everything was going well," Denny said. "She told us to be cool on top."

The rescue, which probably won't be completed before Thursday or Friday, has drawn top cave experts from all over the United States.

The giant step Tuesday placed her nearly halfway to open air, or 1 1/2 miles from the cave entrance, which has been rigged with ropes and pulleys to hoist her. She was 700 feet down, compared to about 1,000 feet when she was injured.

David Modisette and other rescuers today planned to use boulders wedged into the rift as stepping stones while inching Mobley through the L-shaped fracture by passing her on a stretcher from one person to the next.

"It's typical in something like this to try not to move when you're carrying somebody," Modisette said. "Once you pass her, you break out a line and go around the other rescuers" to the end of the line.

He said the relay would require "muscling her through the rough parts."

The cave, situated in a remote area of Carlsbad Caverns National Park, was discovered in 1986 and is not open to the public. The National Park Service allows only about 200 people in annually for exploration and mapping.

The cave is 1,565 feet deep. About 54 miles of passageways and rooms full of colorful, delicate rock formations have been mapped so far.

Donations received for Eagle project

Tommy Denton, of Boy Scout Troop 52 of Hereford, accepts donations from District Judge Wes Gully (above), president of the Hereford Rotary Club, and from Doug Crouch (below), worshipful master of the Hereford Masonic Lodge No. 849, to assist with his Eagle Scout project planned Saturday. Denton also received donations from the Hereford Kiwanis Club and Hereford Elks Lodge No. 2269.

Eagle Scout hosts bicycle seminar

A Bicycle Safety Seminar will be held Saturday in the parking lot at Sugarland Mall in Hereford.

The seminar, designed for all young bike riders, is the Eagle Scout project of Tommy Denton, a member of Boy Scout Troop 52 of Hereford. The seminar has been endorsed by the Health and Safety Committee of the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce, chaired by Sharon Pennington.

Terry Brown of the Hereford Police Department will assist Tommy in conducting the seminar, which has been divided into three parts:

- Preschool children from 9 to 10 a.m.
- K5 through third grade from 10 to 11 a.m.
- Grades four through six, 11 a.m. to noon.

A short safety quiz will be given and an obstacle course will be set up. Officer Brown will inspect bikes, etc. parents' driver's license numbers on the bicycle frames, and will review the "rules of the road" for bicycles.

All interested children are urged to attend. Parents should accompany their children to sign a permission/release form in order for the children to participate.

Door prizes will be given for the first 33 children registered in each age group.

Donations for the seminar have been made by the Hereford Kiwanis Club, Hereford Rotary Club, The Hereford Masonic Lodge No. 849 and the Hereford Elks Lodge No. 2269.

Vernon S&L owner gets short 5-year sentence

DALLAS (AP) - The short sentence given former Vernon Savings owner Donald R. Dixon on a 23-count bank fraud conviction shows how difficult it is to prosecute thrift figures, said authors of books about the case.

A federal judge Tuesday ordered Dixon to serve five years in prison and repay about $600,000 to the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. for Vernon Savings & Loan Association money he was convicted of misapplying. Dixon, who begins the sentence in three weeks, could be eligible for parole in 20 months.

U.S. District Judge A. Joe Fish said he could not punish Dixon for Vernon's 1987 failure, which cost taxpayers $1.3 billion, because he was not convicted of it at trial.

Dixon was convicted in December of illegally using depositors' money to pay for a California beach house and prostitutes.

"He once again beat the system," said James O'Shea, author of "The Daisy Chain," a book about Vernon's collapse.

Stephen Pizzo, co-author of "Inside Job," another book on the savings and loan crisis, said the trial did not focus on the "full breadth and scope of Don Dixon's crimes."

"The damages he caused the Treasury far exceed ... imagination," Pizzo said.

Vernon's excesses - including fine art, antique cars, a jet fleet and a yacht - have come to symbolize the fraud that contributed to its failure and the nation's savings and loan mess.

Dixon, 52, was the 11th person and eighth Vernon officer to be convicted of criminal wrongdoing. Several of them were given reduced sentences in exchange for testimony against Dixon.

The stiffest penalty given a thrift fraud figure was Vernon's former chief executive officer, Woody Lemons, sentenced a year ago to 30 years in prison.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Hauberg, who prosecuted both cases, said Lemons was convicted of receiving Vernon funds directly while Dixon was convicted of misusing them.

"It clearly was not as direct a dip for personal benefit as Mr. Lemons' case," he said.

The authors challenged the prosecutors' strategy of charging Dixon with a few specific crimes. Their books describe the intricate land swaps and other deals Dixon ordered that ultimately soured Vernon's loan base.

"What happened was organized looting, highly organized looting," Pizzo said.

"He never really was tried for what he did. He was tried for some of the fringe benefits," O'Shea said. The strategy did expose Dixon to a hefty penalty - up to 120 years in prison and a $5.75 million fine.

But O'Shea asked, "How many years in prison can you give a guy for hiring prostitutes?"

"The case that we brought against Don Dixon was a fairly narrow case, which does not cover in any respect all of the allegations that have been lodged against him in the press," Hauberg said.

But there was disappointment among prosecutors and investigators, who shook their heads and whispered quietly after Fish read the sentence.

In addition, Attorney General Dick Thornburgh, quick to issue lengthy statements after other thrift figures have been sentenced, was silent Tuesday.

His spokesman, Doug Tillett, said, "In the sentencing memo, we recommended substantial consecutive (prison) terms. It's up to the judge to do the sentencing."

Prosecutors had asked the judge to order Dixon to serve consecutive prison terms and pay $33 million in restitution.

Dixon, meanwhile, said the prison term will give him time to write his own book about Vernon's 1987 failure, which was the largest of its time.

"The story's got to be told. It has yet to be told. But I will tell it," Dixon said.

"I would like to read Don's book to see how someone can justify the unjustifiable," Pizzo said.

Futuristic nuclear rocket in the works

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Star Wars project wants to use a radically new propulsion system, a nuclear reactor, to boost anti-missile weapons into Earth orbit, according to an arms control group that opposes the idea.

The nuclear rocket, dubbed Project Timberwind, could be used to put "directed energy" weapons in orbit to attack incoming missiles with particle or radiation beams, Steven Aftergood of the Federation of American Scientists said Tuesday.

The short-notice launches of such weapons would need rockets of enormous power. A nuclear rocket - carrying no crew that would need heavy shielding - could probably triple the payloads of conventional rockets, Aftergood estimated.

"Any existing system could really be souped up," he said in a telephone interview.

But, he said, a nuclear rocket "would be a gross violation of safety standards the United States has endorsed" - that space reactors ought not to be started until a stable orbit or a path into deep space has been reached.

Aftergood said he believed political objections would kill the program.

The federation was formed by some nuclear scientists after World War II to advocate arms control. Aftergood, a senior research analyst for the group, has frequently argued against placing nuclear devices in space.

Project Timberwind "has gone beyond paper and pencil," he said.

"Some fuel has been fabricated. Some tests on the fuel have been made. A test site, at Saddle Mountain ... in the middle of the Nevada Test Site has been picked. A flight test has been proposed" for the reactor on an over-water course around Antarctica, he said.

Aftergood said the federation learned of the project through "interviews with a number of project participants" and plans a full exposition in its May newsletter.

He said he did not know the cost and what happens to the rocket after use.

Other details have not been decided, Aftergood said. "There are different scenarios. Should it power the second stage and later? Should it power the first stage, from the ground?" he said.

The rocket would use a particle bed reactor, whose fuel elements would be encased in tiny capsules about the size of grains through which the coolant would flow. The fuel would be uranium, "probably highly enriched" with the fissionable U-235 isotope like submarine reactor fuel, Aftergood said.

The coolant would be the propellant, probably liquid hydrogen, "which would be flash vaporized and ejected from a nozzle," he said.

The use of liquid hydrogen and tiny fuel elements and operation at close to the melting point of the fuel would maximize energy output, Aftergood said.

A Pentagon spokesman, Air Force Maj. Robert Magnuson, said Tuesday night that questions about the program would have to be directed to officials of the Strategic Defense Initiative Organization, which runs the Star Wars program.

The Washington Post and The New York Times said in today's editions they had seen government documents confirming the existence of the program.

The Post said it had also talked with administration officials who confirmed the existence of Project Timberwind.

The Times quoted Henry Cooper, director of the Defense Department's SDI office, as saying, "I won't be drawn into a discussion of that."

SPS plans seminar

Economic development organizations that think they have the site for a new industry lined up need to be aware of environmental restrictions that can surface and delay or cancel their projects.

That's the kind of disappointment a conference scheduled April 18 in Lubbock is designed to prevent.

The conference, "Environmental Issues and Economic Development," is sponsored by the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, the South Plains Council of Governments and Southwestern Public Service Company. Economic development professionals, chamber of commerce executives, government officials and community volunteers are invited.

"Soil contamination is just one of the issues ever economic developer should be aware of," said Cheryl Pink, economic development specialist with SPS. "The U.S. Small Business Administration, bankers and others are increasingly strict in making sure any problem is identified and taken care of before permitting a project to proceed."

Recognizing environmental issues, and responsibly dealing with them, will be covered at the conference.

Topics and speakers will include experts from several areas that deal with environmental aspects of development.

Registration fee for the conference, to be held at the Lubbock Plaza Inn, is $25. To register, contact the Economic Development Department of SPS at 378-2173 in Amarillo.

Keywanettes to attend district convention

Members of the Hereford High School Keywanette Club of the Texas-Oklahoma District Keywanettes will be attending the Annual Texas-Oklahoma District Convention April 5-7 at the Dallas-Fort Worth Marriott Hotel in Irving.

The Keywanettes are high school service organizations sponsored by the Kiwanis Clubs of Texas-Oklahoma District of Kiwanis International. The local club is sponsored by the Kiwanis Clubs of Hereford.

Local Keywanettes who plan to attend the convention include Kristen Jesko, Dusty Saul, Allison Farr, Hayley Lockmiller, Brook Weatherly, Lezly McWhorter, Jo Jo Lytal, Wendy Peabody, Misty Peabody, Traci Brush, Stacy Culpepper, Crista McNutt, Shambryn Wilson, Lee Harder, Lexi Sciumbato, Tonya Allen, Barbara Smith and Misty Dudley. They will be accompanied by their beau, Colby Fangman, and sponsors, Becky Weatherly and Linda Daniel.

Gina Alley is currently serving as president of the local Keywanettes; Sara Zinck, vice president; Brooke Seiver, secretary; and Brook Weatherly, treasurer. The club is advised by Becky Weatherly and Gayle Binder, faculty members of HHS, and the Kiwanis advisor is David Workman, a member of the Noon Kiwanis Club.

Locally, the Keywanettes have assisted with numerous service projects including the blood drive, King's Manor Methodist Home activities, American Cancer Society Annual Campaign Drive, American Heart Association Drive, Hereford Satellite and Work Training Center activities, coat drive for the American Red Cross and the Great American Smokeout.

This year's Friday night's convention theme will be "Fairy Tale Fantasy" with costumes to match. The Friday evening guest speaker will be Rob Bryant of Fort Worth. Saturday will consist of educational workshops and caucusing of officer candidates. The Saturday evening activities will be comprised of a fashion show of Keywanettes and the awards banquet.

The Texas-Oklahoma Kiwanis Foundation will present its annual scholarship winners at the awards banquet Saturday.

Sunday's activities include the House of Delegates meeting with the election of District officers for 1991-92 and then the district governor will host the Governor's Farewell Brunch at which time the announcement and the installation of the new district officers will take place.

Handicapped children can attend free summer camp

A summer camp designed for handicapped children is available for deaf, blind and physically handicapped youngsters from the Hereford area at no cost to their parents.

The Hereford Lions Club has information about the Texas Lions Camp for this summer. Visually impaired, hearing impaired and physically handicapped children between the ages of 7 and 16 are eligible for the camp. They must have an IQ of 70 or above and have normal bowel and kidney control. Some self-help skills in eating and dressing are also required.

Persons interested in obtaining applications for the camp may call Gary Billingsley at 364-2751 in Hereford.

The camp activities are well supervised by a trained staff at a ratio of one counselor for every three campers. All of the activities are adapted so every handicapped child will be able to participate. Every child will have the opportunity to go swimming, ride horses, study nature, go fishing, play tennis, participate in field sports and go on an overnight campout. The campers enjoy the fun and recreation in a safe environment, and the health care of the campers is the staff's major concern.

The Texas Lions Camp has provided 25,000 handicapped children with an opportunity to learn from and enjoy the outdoors since it began in 1953. The camp is a nonprofit organization funded by individuals interested in providing challenging programs for handicapped children.

Public invited to meeting

The public is invited to hear Cassandra Twitchell of Ashland, Ohio at the Hereford Flame Fellowship meeting set for Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Hereford Community Center.

Twitchell was born in Columbus, Ohio and attended Ohio State University. She is a former chapter president and international board member of Flame Fellowship and World-Wide Flame.

She and her husband Pete and son Adam have an outreach to the primitive Indians on the Mosquito Coast of Honduras. In addition to preaching, the Twitchells also share the Gospel by supporting school children in LaCaiba and flying supplies into Palacios to construct the first medical clinic on the Mosquito Coast.

The city of St. Louis was established in 1764.

NEW YORK (AP) - Paul Newman's food company is adding salsa and ranch dressing to its line of products.

Newman's Own, which gives its profits to charity, already makes spaghetti sauce, olive oil salad dressing and popcorn among 16 products sold worldwide.

"We always thought the people that would be on the other end of the checks would be the beneficiaries," the actor told 200 food distributors Tuesday. "But we were very wrong. We're the beneficiaries."

The company, based in Newman's hometown of Westport, Conn., has donated nearly $40 million since its founding in 1982 by Newman and author A.E. Hotchner.

"I'm beginning to think of myself more of an inventor than I am an actor," said Newman, who developed some of the recipes.

Public invited to concert

Herd opens district with loss at Borger

The Hereford varsity baseball team lost their delayed district opener 8-1 to Borger Tuesday in Borger.

The game was tied 1-1 going into the sixth inning, but the Bulldogs broke loose for seven runs in the bottom of the sixth.

Hereford starting pitcher Amado Lopez had held off the district-leading Bulldogs for five innings, but could get only one out in the sixth. Sammy Casarez relieved and got the final two outs, but it was too late.

"Amado ran out of gas and I didn't get him out quick enough," Coach T.R. Sartor said.

The inning featured an exciting play by the Herd. A ball was hit to center field, Sartor said, and the baserunners apparently didn't think center fielder Matt Bromlow could catch it.

When Bromlow made the running catch, it was a perfect opportunity for a double play. But his throw to first base skipped through to the fence.

Seeing this, the Borger runner tried to advance to second (after touching first base again), Sartor said. Catcher

George Jowell, backing up at first, played the ball off the wall and threw the runner out at second.

The Bulldogs scored first, getting one in the third on two singles placed around a botched pickoff play at first base.

But the Herd came back to tie in the fifth inning on Jowell's double and Tab Hathaway's RBI single.

With this win and a 5-4 decision over Randall Monday, Borger owns sole possession of first place in District 1-4A at 2-0. The Bulldogs are now 11-4 overall.

The Herd falls to 0-1 in district and 3-13 overall. They play Dumas at 4:30 p.m. Thursday at Whiteface Field in a make-up of Saturday's snowed-out game.

Dumas is 1-0 in district after beating Pampa 5-0 Tuesday. Dumas' overall record is 8-6.

Pampa and Randall are each 1-1 in the district. Pampa edged Caprock 12-11 Monday, then Randall beat Caprock 14-10 on Tuesday.

Pampa is 13-2 overall, Randall is 13-3 and Caprock is 5-9.

Sheriff Brown signs up for EMS tourney

Golf tournament to benefit EMS

A golf tournament benefitting Hereford Emergency Medical Services will be played April 27 at Pitman Municipal Golf Course in Hereford.

The proceeds will go to help Hereford EMS purchase the equipment it needs.

The tournament will be a four-man mixed scramble, with any combination of men or women. Entry fees are $30 per person, which includes green fees and a cart. Entry deadline is noon April 19.

Local businesses have donated $700 worth of prizes. EMS worker L.V. Watts said, but they are not necessarily for the winners of the tournament. Different prizes will be given in categories such as longest drive, closest to the pin and whitest legs.

To register or to get more information, contact Brent Warner at 364-2782.

Four veterans sign, Bo may join ChiSox

By The Associated Press

Mike Flanagan, Rick Dempsey, Willie Randolph and Candy Maldonado are major leaguers again, and Bo Jackson apparently will be. Kevin Hickey, Don Carman and Nelson Liriano are among those on the outside looking in.

Flanagan signed a one-year contract with his former team, the Baltimore Orioles, on Tuesday, while Dempsey, Randolph and Maldonado, all non-roster invitees, earned one-year deals with the Milwaukee Brewers.

Jackson, released by the Kansas City Royals last month when the team determined that his hip injury would keep him from playing this year, apparently will join the White Sox. Chicago called a "major" news conference for this morning and ESPN reported that the White Sox will announce Jackson's signing.

Hickey and John Mitchell of Baltimore, Edgar Diaz and Mike Felder of Milwaukee, Liriano of Minnesota, pitcher Jose Guzman of Texas and Carman of Houston all were placed on unconditional release waivers Tuesday, the last possible day to place a player on waivers without guaranteeing his entire 1991 salary.

For Flanagan, rejoining the Orioles was a source of satisfaction.

"It was nice to get the thing finalized," said Flanagan, the 1979 Cy Young Award winner with Baltimore's World Series champions. "I felt that I had a good spring and the numbers worked out for me."

Flanagan, released by Toronto last season, pitched three solid innings Tuesday in Baltimore's 10-5 victory over the Atlanta Braves at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Dempsey, 41, earned a spot as a backup catcher. Randolph will serve as a backup infielder and Maldonado will battle for an outfield job.

"We didn't bring Randolph, Dempsey and Maldonado in to waste their time in a situation where they didn't have a bona fide chance to make our ball club," Milwaukee manager Tom Trebelhorn said.

"They did nothing to make you say, 'Well, I'm not sure about this guy,'" The seven players let go Tuesday brought the total waived during spring training to 36. The three dozen, some of whom still may be claimed through Friday, will get a total of $4,798,510 in termination pay instead of $18,102,500 in salaries.

"I played good, so what can I do?" Liriano said, hinting that his $507,500 salary was part of the decision. "I have a good feeling on my part because I felt I played well for them. They know why they released me."

In other developments:

Athletics 10, Indians 7

At Tucson, Ariz., Jose Cansco hit a 450-foot home run and Willie Wilson had four of Oakland's 20 hits.

Dodgers 2, Astros 0

At Kissimmee, Fla., Mike Morgan allowed four hits in six innings as Los Angeles beat Houston.

White Sox 3, Rangers (ss) 2

At Sarasota, Fla., Jack McDowell struck out nine in seven shutout innings as the White Sox snapped a three-game losing streak by beating a split Texas squad.

AUSTIN (AP) - Reid Ryan came out second best to his future Hall of Famer father and learned a valuable lesson in the process.

"I don't think I'll ever be able to throw the ball as fast as he does," said the 19-year-old Reid after his much-ballyhood mound duel Tuesday night with 44-year-old pappy Nolan. "I realize now I have to become a pitcher not a thrower."

The Texas Rangers defeated the Texas Longhorns 12-5 in the highly-hyped exhibition game that drew a standing-room crowd of 8,234 fans, including Texas Gov. Ann Richards.

Reid, a freshman at the University of Texas, gave up four runs in two innings and trailed 4-1 to his dad when he left the game. Two of the runs came off broken bat hits and a pop fly single.

Nolan, who led 5-3 when he retired after throwing 111 pitches, went five innings giving up five hits and three runs. He walked three and struck out seven.

"I'm not happy with the way I pitched but I have to put it in perspective against who I was pitching against," Reid said. "It was fun and something I'll always remember. It was frustrating because of some of the cheap hits they got against me. They didn't rip the ball."

It was the first known pitching duel between a major leaguer and his son. The only father-son combination to appear in the big leagues at the same time is Ken Griffey Sr. and Jr.

Nolan was delighted with his oldest son and said it was difficult to concentrate while watching him pitch.

"I was pleased with the way Reid threw and I thought he pitched better than I did," the senior Ryan said. "He got some bad breaks on a couple of those hits. He did a good job."

"My intensity level was not there. I think I was probably distracted watching him. It's two different mind sets and I prefer competing to being a spectator."

Nolan was clocked at 92 miles an hour in the first inning while Reid's best was 84 mph on the radar gun.

"It was fun, a big thrill going against your son but I'm relieved it's over," Nolan said. "I thought Reid really kept his composure. But I'm not sure I want to do this again next year."

George W. Bush, a Rangers owner and son of President Bush, said he had empathy for Reid.

"I had mixed reactions when we decided to do the game because I'm also the son of a famous guy," Bush said shortly before the first pitch. "I was hesitant for Reid to find himself in the position of going against his famous father."

"It would be like me debating foreign policy with my old man. I'm overmatched."

Ruth Ryan, who fired the ceremonial first pitch low and into the dirt, said the duel between husband and son "was exciting but I'm relieved it's over."

The Ryan vs. Ryan matchup drew over 100 reporters from as far as Mexico and Japan, including 19 television crews.

"It was probably a bigger thrill for me than my dad," Reid said. "I enjoyed it and I'm sad it was over. But it will be nice to go to class without anybody following me around."

Nolan opens the season for the Rangers next Monday night against Milwaukee.

Lakers impact Pacific and Midwest races

By The Associated Press

The Los Angeles Lakers, caught in the middle of a three-team Pacific Division race, are making an impression on the close Midwest Division battle.

The San Antonio Spurs, despite David Robinson's 36 points and career-high 23 rebounds, couldn't overcome Magic Johnson's 30 points, 12 rebounds and 10 assists Tuesday night as the Lakers won 122-115 at HemisFair Arena.

The Lakers remained 2 1/2 games behind Portland and 1 1/2 ahead of Phoenix in the Pacific Division. San Antonio, after its first loss in 11 home games, is now a game ahead of Houston and Utah in the Midwest.

"We played a division leader and came out with a win," Johnson said. "We executed very well on the offensive end. Every possession was important to us."

Against the Lakers, the Spurs appeared to miss Paul Pressey, who sat out with a strained right calf.

"We like to use Paul on Magic because of his size," Robinson said. "We had to use a smaller man on him and he took advantage of it."

"They got great penetration and they executed down the stretch," Spurs coach Larry Brown said.

"David kept us in the game, but nobody helped him on the boards. We needed to stop Magic and we didn't."

The Lakers-Spurs game was close throughout, with neither team leading by more than eight points.

Suns 131, Jazz 117

Kevin Johnson had a season-high 20 assists and scored 12 of his 37 points in a span of 2:02 in the third quarter. Xavier McDaniel had 28 points and 12 rebounds for the Suns.

John Stockton scored a season-high 28 points, Karl Malone 25 and Jeff Malone 20 for Utah, which never led.

Trail Blazers 104, Timberwolves 93
Jerome Kersey scored 13 points and Terry Porter 10 in the decisive third quarter.

Kersey scored 25 points, Kevin Duckworth 24 points and Clyde Drexler 22 for the Trail Blazers, who outscored the Timberwolves 33-20 in the third period to break away from a 46-46 halftime tie.

Bulls 106, Magic 102

Michael Jordan scored a season-high 44 points, including the go-ahead basket on an alley-oop slam dunk with 1:12 remaining, as Chicago overcame a 100-97 deficit with 2:51 left.

Jordan came back with two free throws 12 seconds later, then took a perfect pass from Scottie Pippen for the go-ahead dunk.

Celtics 94, Nets 77

Boston got 22 points from Reggie Lewis and limited New Jersey to 32 percent shooting.

The Celtics took control with a 16-2 spurt early in the second quarter and a 15-2 run bridging the end of the second quarter and the start of the third.

Bucks 121, 76ers 104

Fred Roberts scored a career-high 32 points.

Roberts connected on 14 of 18 shots. Jack Sikma had 14 rebounds for Milwaukee, which outrebounded Philadelphia 52-39 and led by as many as 30 points in the second half.

Pistons 83, Hornets 78

Joe Dumars had 24 points and Mark Aguirre scored 17 of his 23 in the second half as Detroit won.

The Pistons took their biggest lead at 71-59 on Vinnie Johnson's 15-footer with 9:30 to play.

Bullets 101, Cavaliers 82

Washington held Cleveland without a basket for the first 7:50 of the fourth quarter while taking control with a 14-0 run.

Ledell Eackles scored 21 points for the Bullets, who blew a 15-point lead in the third quarter, but regained control when the Cavaliers missed 15 consecutive shots to start the final period.

Mavericks 133, Nuggets 126

Derek Harper had 24 points and James Donaldson and Rolando Blackman 23 apiece as Dallas handed Denver its 14th straight road loss.

The Mavericks snapped a four-game losing streak, overcoming 37 points by the Nuggets' Michael Adams and 30 by Chris Jackson.

Kings 96, Heat 90

Travis Mays, starting his first game in a month, scored 25 points as Sacramento handed Miami its eighth straight road loss.

Mays, who's missed 26 games with injuries this season, kept the Kings in front with four free throws in the final 1:48.

Tarpley's lawyer: police violated center's rights

DALLAS (AP) - Police officers violated the civil rights of Dallas Mavericks forward Roy Tarpley following his arrest on suspicion of drunken driving, his lawyer said.

The 7-foot, 250-pound Tarpley, who has twice violated the NBA's anti-drug policy, was arrested early Saturday on suspicion of DWI after he was clocked at 63 mph in a 35 mph zone. A driving while intoxicated charge was filed against him Monday.

The arrest outraged Tarpley's lawyer, who said his client was abused.

"In the last couple of days, the police department has issued statements that are unfounded," defense attorney Jay Ethington said Tuesday.

"They're trying to try this case in the newspapers. The information that they're disseminating is not true; it adversely affects the civil rights of Roy Tarpley."

Tarpley, who faces a May 6 probation revocation hearing, was sentenced to two years' probation in September as part of a plea bargain in an earlier DWI case. That case stemmed from a Nov. 15, 1989 arrest on a Dallas freeway.

Judge Mike Schwille at the time had warned Tarpley that if he failed to meet the terms of his probation, he would send him to jail for a year.

Tarpley, if convicted on the latest DWI charge, could face between 15 days and two years in prison and a maximum fine of $2,000.

Comparing Tarpley's arrest last November to a videotaped beating involving Los Angeles police officers, Ethington said: "They did just about everything that they did in Los Angeles to him except put a rope around his neck." He said Tarpley's nose was broken and he was put in a choke hold - all of which happened after he had been handcuffed.

Tarpley didn't complain about the abusive treatment at the time because "we didn't want to create a problem," Ethington said. "We didn't want to escalate any community unrest."

Ethington said he may file a complaint with the Police-Citizens Review Board and the police department's internal affairs division for the "insinuations and innuendos" made by police officials about Tarpley's arrest Saturday. He declined to discuss specific statements made by police officials.

In a statement issued Tuesday, Dallas Police Chief William Rathburn said: "We have filed this case with the district attorney's office. It is now appropriate to let the criminal justice process run its course. We have no intention of trying this case in the media."

On the latest DWI charge, Tarpley denied he was drunk and said he cooperated with police.

But police said Tarpley flunked all five sobriety tests. Tarpley said he did what was asked of him and said he was nervous and distracted because of the crowd watching the scene. He said that in one test he was standing solely on his injured leg, which caused him to wobble.

Tarpley was suspended for 33 games last season as a result of the 1989 DWI arrest, complicated by a battle in which it took six policemen to subdue him and take him to jail.

Norman Kinne, Dallas County first assistant district attorney, did not return several telephone messages from The Associated Press.

Rockets NBA's hottest team

HOUSTON (AP) - The Houston Rockets have the best record in the NBA since mid-season, a run that included a 13-game winning streak and a 14-1 March record, the 12th best one-month record in NBA history.

Now what does coach Don Chaney expect for April?

"I'd like to see us play four quarters the way we played in the first quarter in Miami," Chaney said.

"We had our game faces on and showed great teamwork and dedication. I saw an intensity there that was exceptional and we need to build on that right through the playoffs."

"I definitely feel we can get better."

Houston's 123-103 victory over Miami Sunday started a new streak after the Orlando Magic snapped their 13-game string 114-82 on Saturday.

Chaney expects the streak to continue tonight when the Rockets host the Dallas Mavericks in The Summit.

"We proved that we can play for a month," Chaney said. "It's not like they were all easy games either. There were a lot of tough ones. Now, I'd like to see if we can do it again."

"We'll find out if maybe that Orlando loss was another blessing in disguise."

The Rockets trail San Antonio and Utah in the Midwest Division with 11 games left in the season, including a showdown in the Summit Saturday night against Utah.

"I'm certainly proud and pleased with the way we played in March," Chaney said. "We had a 13-game winning streak, which was great."

"Then we got hammered in Orlando. But even then, we had a positive development. The team reacted to the loss by bouncing back strong in Miami. That's the mark of a team with character."

The Rockets blossomed while center Hakeem Olajuwon was recovering from surgery to repair his fractured right eye socket. When Olajuwon returned, he fit into the new team concept, sacrificing minutes and points for the good of the team.

"Hakeem's willingness to sacrifice was the big key in achieving that 14-1 record," Chaney said.

"Before he came back, I really enjoyed all the speculation. People said Hakeem wasn't unselfish enough to take us to the next level and he took it as a personal challenge."

The entire team has accepted the challenge and the Rockets have the best record in the NBA during the second half of the season to show for it. The Rockets are 25-5 since making the turn at 21-20 followed by Chicago at 24-6 and Phoenix at 22-8.

Elkington comes home to Houston

THE WOODLANDS, Texas (AP) - Steve Elkington is losing his Australian accent but his timing is impeccable.

Elkington coaxed in a 15-foot birdie putt on the 72nd hole at The Players Championship at Punta Vedra, Fla. Sunday to earn a $288,000 first prize and a hero's homecoming for this week's Independent Insurance Agent Open.

"Golf's a matter of timing," Elkington said.

He referred to his golf game but Elkington couldn't have produced his second PGA Tour victory at a better time.

He'll be at home this week, sleeping in his own bed, getting home-cooked meals and playing before the home crowd that now claims him as their own, despite his Australian heritage.

"He's not really a foreigner, he's even losing his Australian accent," fellow pro Paul Azinger said.

Elkington is a former University of Houston golfer who maintains a home in Houston, next door to former touring pro Jackie Burke.

Coming home a winner is the best part of all because it's been a slow start for Elkington this year.

Prior to last week's breakthrough, Elkington had missed five of nine cuts on the tour this year.

"As soon as you think you're playing well your game starts falling apart," Elkington said. "What happened earlier this year kind of helped because it made me re-evaluate what I was trying to do."

Elkington hopes now to resume the form that made him the PGA's most improved golfer in 1990 when he finished 18th on the money list with $548,564 and won his first tournament, the K mart Greater Greensboro Open.

This year, however, his best finish had been a tie for 13th at the Bob Hope Chrysler Classic in February.

Before winning at Punta Vedra, Elkington was aiming for home to give him Masters momentum.

"I like to play at The Woodlands and I'd like to go into the Masters with some momentum," he said.

He's got that already going into the first round, where he'll be competing against an international field also tuning up for next week's Masters over The Woodlands' par 72, 7,045-yard TPC course.

Defending British Open and Masters champion Nick Faldo is entered along with Jose-Maria Alazabal and Mark Calcavecchia. Curtis Strange and Azinger also are in the field.

Rocco Mediate, the tour's No. 1 money winner, withdrew.

Elkington was a two-time All-American player for retired Houston coach Dave Williams, playing on national championship teams in 1984 and 1985 before joining the tour in 1986.

Watching Elkington preparing for his tournament winning putt on Sunday gave Williams flashbacks of the first time he saw Elkington, playing in a junior tournament at Champions Golf Club.

"He could hardly hit a green but I could see that he was a good putter," Williams said. "He's a natural putter. All he needed was experience. He made our team the first year."

Duke team welcomed by 10,000 fans

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) - When Duke returned from the Final Four this time, there were no unspoken apologies and no held-back tears. But there was a trophy.

Seniors Greg Koubek and Clay Buckley held it aloft to 10,000 fans in Cameron Indoor Stadium could see a prize they'd chased through nine Final Four appearances and 53 years. "We did it!" Koubek shouted at Duke's homecoming celebration Tuesday. "Who believed we would win the tournament? We believed it. And you believed it. You guys are incredible."

Buckley, during the team's arrival at Raleigh-Durham International Airport, said the victory over Kansas meant a lot to everyone, including the fans.

"I know that they've been dealing with it the same as we have," he said. "They may have wanted this win as much as we did."

And Koubek said it meant a lot to coach Mike Krzyzewski, who engineered four straight Final Four appearances.

"No one deserves it more than Coach K," he said.

The trophy all but eliminated the bittersweet nature of earlier homecomings, where Krzyzewski recalled fighting back tears while confronting the Duke faithful.

"Excuse me, but I can't stop smiling," he told the crowd. "It feels damn good, doesn't it?"

Fans roared their approval. Krzyzewski said the fans deserved a lot of credit for Duke's streak of home victories.

"As happy as we are about winning, this makes it complete, sharing it with our sixth man," he said.

Krzyzewski reminisced about the contributions of each member of the team, how guard Bobby Hurley brought them back from a five-point deficit against UNLV; how freshman Grant Hill drove for key buckets; how Koubek scored Duke's first five points and Christian Laettner, "looking so nervous on the line," hit all 12 of his free throws in the final.

"My best memory, though, is of all these guys playing as tough a game of basketball for 80 minutes as any team has ever played to win a national championship," he said.

Krzyzewski and Duke players were generous with their time from the moment they returned to Raleigh-Durham International Airport, signing hundreds of autographs, slapping high fives and talking freely with fans. The return was greeted with giant cakes in the shape of basketball courts and full page ads in local newspapers, including an adidas ad that played on the spelling of Krzyzewski's name.

"Kongraczyulations, Mike," the ad said. "Now that Coach Krzyzewski and the Duke Blue Devils have just won the 1991 NCAA Championship, perhaps it's time we all did a little czelebrating."

In Cameron, the fans were attentive one moment, rowdy the next, chanting "Hurley, Hurley" and "Kooobbs," in reference to Hurley and Koubek.

Dignitaries not directly affiliated with Duke basketball spoke quickly and at their peril.

"Duke has had some exceptional teams and some exceptional coaches," said Duke president Keith Brodie. "But this is the team. And this is the coach."

And there's already talk that this may be the team of 1992 as well.

At the airport, Koubek said Duke was in a good position to repeat as national champion. Only Koubek and Buckley will be leaving the team.

"I think they're gonna be very talented," he said. "They're gonna have some great leaders in Brian Davis, Christian Laettner and Bobby Hurley."

Laettner said Duke has thrived on expectations that they reach the Final Four. But when pressed on the issue of a Duke dynasty, he said only, "I'll be able to answer that question better in the fall."

Indianapolis performs well as Final Four site

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) - The NCAA doesn't plan to have a permanent site for the Final Four anytime soon. But if it did, some say Indianapolis and the Hoosier Dome could top the list.

The day after Duke's Blue Devils claimed college basketball's biggest prize with their 72-65 win over Kansas, tournament organizers were saying that Indianapolis did nothing to hurt its standing as a sports town while playing host to the NCAA's annual basketball bash this past weekend.

NCAA officials and media members agreed that it would be hard to top Indianapolis as a Final Four site.

Bob Ryan, basketball writer for the Boston Globe, said the NCAA shouldn't consider holding the tournament anywhere else.

"Several people from the NCAA said, 'Wouldn't it be nice if it were (the permanent site)?' " said Maribeth Smith, executive director of the local organizing committee. "But there was no commitment on their part."

"I don't think they'll ever have a permanent site," said James W.

Shaffer, one of three local organizing committee co-chairmen. "But it's nice to know that if we had a permanent site, this would be it."

The only commitment from the NCAA so far is a recommendation from the Division I basketball committee that the Final Four return to Indianapolis in 1997.

The recommendation will be acted upon by the NCAA Executive Committee in May, said Tucker DiEdward, another co-chairman.

"We're very optimistic it will go through with no problem," he said. "I think we'll get an A-plus report."

Co-chairman David R. Frick said it was important for Indianapolis to put on high-profile events such as the Final Four.

"We're a branch town," Frick said, noting the absentee ownership of many of Indianapolis' major businesses. "You don't often have a chance to showcase your community nationally this way. For four weeks, all eyes were focused on us. You can't buy that kind of public relations."

The 80,000 fans bought just about everything else related to the Final Four, however.

Debbie Blackwell, who chaired the media assistance committee, said the organizing committee and the Indianapolis Convention & Visitors Association estimated the economic impact of the tournament at $32 million.

"The Indianapolis City Center (across the street from the Hoosier Dome) did more business in two days than it did all last year. (Monday) night, the staff slept on the floor to be here early," Blackwell said.

DiEdward said he ventured into Union Station following Saturday night's semifinal games in search of dinner at 1:30 a.m.

"I asked (a waiter), 'When do you close,' and he said, 'Midnight,'" DiEdward related. "But it was 1:30 and they were still serving."

If there was a concern on the NCAA's part, it would be the lack of an anti-ticket scalping ordinance in Indianapolis. Although 47,185 fans attended Monday night's championship game, some 288,000 people applied for the 24,000 tickets offered for public sale last summer.

Gebo's: more than a farm store

Retail chain known for top prices, quality

By ORVILLE HOWARD
Special Feature Writer

Thirty years ago, H.M. Gebo picked Hereford as the first link in a chain of Southwest farm stores--images of the past where one shopping stop did it all.

Though coal stoves and gas lanterns are missing, Gebo's still reflect oldtime traditions in merchandising, stockpiles of busy lifestyles.

Plow shares and handtools blend with racks of denim and calico. Scarfs and neckerchiefs are only a step away from bags of onion sets and garden seeds. The beloved "little red wagons" poise as sort of sentinels above walkways of the spacious store, stocked not only at Christmastime, but the year-around for the younger set.

There are also toys for the big boys--miniature replicas of farm implements dating back to the turn of the century. And a couple of turns to the right will bring these same shoppers face-to-face with an envious selection of high-quality pocketknives...a must for every country gentleman and desire of most city cousins.

"Though Gebo stores are generally regarded as farm stores, we stock as much, if not more, for city dwellers as those in the country," said Allen R. "Sonny" Evers, general manager of Gebo's of Hereford. "We carry an extensive inventory of items for the households, home shops and the backyard gardeners, along with a big selection of blue jeans and various colors of denims."

Located on 25-Mile Avenue where the city street becomes a highway artery for U.S. 385, Gebo's has one of the largest inventories of hardware items in town. Due to volume buying for the 14 stores across Texas and in New Mexico, the retail chain is known for its competitive prices and quality merchandise.

"You may see us come up with some pretty attractive prices but don't think for a minute that we every carry any discount merchandise," said Evers. "Every item in our store is quality stock."

Evers has displayed the massive inventory into a convenient pattern for emergency shopping trips--busted water lines or busted toolbars--where time takes priority. But for the conservative buyers, Gebo's has a selection numbering far more than 100,000 items, with not a single selling gimmick in the store. Everything is stocked wide-open where customers can feel it, squeeze it or, in some cases, pound it.

Funtime stuff is located more toward the front of the store--clothing, sweets, canned snacks, soft drinks and gardening supplies.

Then comes rows of automotive supplies, from a thousand-and-one gadgets for the dashboard to portable gas tanks and air tanks. Automotive electronics have become leading merchandise at Gebo's which features about every type of battery manufactured--from deep-cycle marine jobs to the compact units for motorcycles. Tractor and farm implement batteries are everywhere with emphasis on the industrial-quality units.

But where you find batteries, you find jump-cables and this farm store is where there's scores of those heavy-duty lines that can kick life into a cold diesel rig. All weights and grades of motor oils and gear lubricants fill another section of the store--from quart containers to 55-gallon drums. And there's a line of oilers, rust-breaking blends and oil additives by the score. Anti-freeze and coolants are year-around stock stuff.

Gebo's has a tire for every rim, from the one-of-a-kind sports job to the rugged bar-tread seldom seen nowadays even in specialized tire shops. Evers pointed out that these tough ones are generally purchased for pickup trucks far from the convenience of hard-surfaced roads... "These tires come in mighty handy when you're draggin' a loaded trailer out of a canyon somewhere out in the ranch country."

"In addition to our regular customers, we have a lot of browsers which we welcome whole-heartedly," said Evers. "It seems as though in recent months we've had a lot more of new people coming in...people who come in to see what we've got. Sometimes they buy and sometimes they don't but one thing is for sure and that is everyone is always welcome here at Gebo's."

"It used to be that we were for the most part a store of farm and ranch supplies, but we've been branching out in recent years to a lot of items for the household," Evers added. "For instance, we're now carrying the large 25-pound boxes of washing detergent or soaps. There is a real savings here over the smaller boxes commonly sold at supermarkets."

In the clothing lines, the Wrangler brand of blue jeans is the leader at Gebo's--and these denim sizes run from infant to about the biggest waistline manufactured. The clothing lines also included all sizes of Western shirts. As in the blue jean sizes, they carry from the smallest to a size 20 shirt for the husky customers.

Insulated underwear, coveralls, overshoes, moon boots and the high-top slip-on irrigation boots fill another clothing rack. Socks, socks and more socks...Gebo's has lots of socks, backstopped with large racks of gloves of every description. Blouses, scarfs, and bluejeans are about the only women clothing handled here.

Gebo's is sort of a gardener's department store. Commercial fertilizers and spreaders, garden and lawn grass seed and leading brands of herbicides and insecticides are among the leaders here in the garden center. Handtools, along with a large line of motorized rigs, are part of the garden inventory--push mowers, riding mowers and rear-tined rototillers are the higher-dollar items in the garden section, with hoes, rakes and shovels still the volume sellers.

Water hose, soakers and drip systems are top irrigation items for the backyard farmers, but on the big spreads outside of town, Gebo's has rows of bins loaded with galvanized and PVC pipe fittings and couplings. And right on down the aisle, nuts, bolts and washers can be bought by the pound.

Plow shares, plow points and sweeps have been a leader at Gebo's since day one here in farm retail sales. Toolbars and tool-bar makeup are main sellers with about any tool-bar makeup ordered on request.

The trailer department at Gebo's has become sort of a livestock hauler's supermarket -- hitch couplings of all sorts and sizes, ball-hitches, electrical lighting accessories, hitchstands jacks and fenders are stock items.

Fencing supplies are everywhere. On the inside, there's the old-style saddle pliers in the tool department, a full line of electric fence chargers and electrical fencing materials in another department while stacks of barbed-wire and steel T-posts are part of the outdoor arena at Gebo's.

HUSTLE HEREFORD

Portable corrals, portable chutes and portable gates fill the needs of cattlemen on the move. In an effort to supply the needs of the discerning livestock handlers, Gebo's carry two leading lines of portable livestock handling supplies. A spanking new motorized posthole digger will go on display here in a few days, side-by-side with the familiar two-handled jobs well-known for the creation of blisters and bad dispositions.

"These new motorized posthole diggers will be really handy things to own if you can keep your neighbors off of them," said Evers, with a knowing grin. "They'll drop a posthole in a matter of seconds."

Solar-powered items are beginning to crop up here around Southwest farm stores, with the latest coming to Gebo's being a solar-powered battery charger--energy straight from the sun to the battery.

"These solar units are hooked to the batteries through the cigarette lighter. Leave it for a few hours and the battery will be charged up again," said Evers. "We can get solar-powered gate-openers but they've been so high, we haven't started stocking them."

Livestock watering tanks come in all sizes and shapes at Gebo's--from plastic jobs to galvanized units holding more than 1300 gallons of water. The store stocks all the floats, heaters and couplings needed to keep a flow of well-water moving.

In addition to barbed-wire, the farm store also handles several gauges an lengths of woven field fencing and welded wire, a makeup a bit different than the common "weld-wire" makeup... "A lot of our town customers use this wire for kennels and pet pens."

The bolt and nail inventory takes on many aspects of the oldtime mercantile stores when most everything was sold by the pound or by the bushel. Round galvanized washtubs are still common inventory but the old double-tubs are missing, bowing out pressurized showers and plastic bathtubs.

Petfoods, wildbird seed and rabbit supplies are all big on Gebo's livestock supplies, along with salt, mineral and range blocks for the country folks.... "Our dog food is made right here in Hereford by Garth Merrick," said Evers, as he pointed to Gebo's own line brand. "We believe that Garth makes probably the best dog food around."

Evers noted that rabbit-raising is on an upswing in the Hereford area, showing where a new shipment of supplies sold in a matter of days-- "We've got another big order coming...there's getting to be a lot of rabbit-raisers around Hereford and wildbird seed is another big seller. We sell a lot of it."

Horse-handlers are also big customers of Gebo's. Tack of all descriptions fill a wall section where lede-ropes, halters, saddle-blankets, bridles, bits, quirts and brushes are numbered among the Gebo inventory. The livestock needs also include many vaccines and various sizes of hypodermic needles and bruise balms.

Back to the household items, Evers noted that the old-fashioned white dish towels have become a moving stock in recent times-- "I don't know why, but people come in here and buy them by the dozens...of course they're priced right." A few kitchen appliances and lots of electrical replacements are everyday stock items. And with summer just around the corner, rows of water coolers are now seasonal stock.

Gebo farm store chain had its beginning when H.M. Gebo came down to Texas from Minnesota in 1959 and opened his first store in Plainview in a rented building. Two years later in 1961, he opened his second store in downtown Hereford where the Hereford Volunteer Fire Department is now located. This was the beginning of the Gebo chain now located across much of Texas.

Reared on a farm 10 miles northwest of Canyon, Evers was one in a family of eight born to Mr. and Mrs. A.C. Evers. His father is deceased but his mother still resides on the family farm. Evers attended Canyon schools.

Evers joined the Gebo Hereford staff on Oct. 12, 1964, the year that Holly Sugar opened its processing plant in Hereford, and in 1977, he was named manager of the store.

He and his wife, Carolyn have five children--Carol Lynn, Shannon Marie, Richard, Richard, Russell and Randy.

Gebo's is open for business six days a week, a customer service that has been continuous since the initial opening in Hereford 30 years ago. The business moved from the downtown location to 25-Mile Avenue in April of 1969.

Mr. Gebo, who was a lover of airplanes and held a commercial pilot's license, died in a tragic accident in the early 1970s when a helicopter he was flying crashed at Brownfield. At one point in time he served as a pilot instructor. Mrs. Gebo still resides in Plainview and their son, Brent, now runs the family-owned stores from his headquarters in Plainview.

In addition to Plainview and Hereford, Gebo stores are located at Dalhart, Amarillo, Dumas, Littlefield, Levelland, Brownfield, Lamesa, Lubbock, Ennis, Hillsboro, McKinney and Clovis, N.M.

In addition to Evers, other employees of the Hereford operation include Assistant Manager Ramona Herbig, Tina Bretlour, Gayle Birmingham, Joe Soto and Shane Meason.

Though the Gebo image was built around the Southwest farmsteads, a stroll through the Hereford store also reflects lifestyles of most town folks--and some of the past in that No. 3 washtub.

Fashions of today

Many of the new fashions for this year may be seen during a mini-style show and dutch treat buffet at the Caisson House Restaurant at 6:45 p.m. Thursday. The style show is sponsored by the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce Women's Division. Any non-member wishing to attend may call Ruth Newsom, Women's Division president, at 364-0420 for reservations. Jana Green, shown above wearing an after dinner pants suit and straw hat, will be one of the ladies modeling for the show.

Seminar scheduled Thursday

A retirement seminar, sponsored jointly by the Hereford Retired School Employees Association and the Hereford Independent School District, will be held at the Hereford Community Center on Thursday beginning at 4:15 p.m. Don Cadenhead of the Teacher Retirement System will be the seminar leader.

All persons employed by a Texas school system are urged to attend the seminar which is designed to give important information about retirement benefits, including the TRS-Care hospitalization and disability coverage now available to all retirees. The emphasis is not only on persons' needs who are considering retirement within the next year or two but also to those who have recently begun to work as school employees and need to know about planning for their retirement, perhaps many years away.

The HRSEA, is hosting the seminar, will serve snacks and drinks, beginning at 4 p.m. in the east banquet room of the Hereford Community Center so that participants may come directly to the meeting from their schools and enjoy refreshments prior to the start of Cadenhead's presentation. HRSEA members are asked to bring their food to the center by 3:30 p.m. and stay to assist with hosting responsibilities.

Questions regarding the seminar may be directed to Betty Mercer, president of HRSEA (364-0289), or Margaret Bell, retirement planning chairman of HRSEA (364-3215). All interested school employees concerned with retirement benefits are urged to attend Thursday's seminar session.

Betty Crocker's Cooking Tips

Q. How can I substitute all-purpose flour for cake flour? D.C., Shannadoah, Iowa

A. Substitute all-purpose flour for cake flour by decreasing the flour measurement by two tablespoons per cup. There's no need to sift either cake flour or all-purpose flour as both are formulated to work in recipes without sifting first.

Tip: A stir-fried dinner can be fast. Do the chopping up to 24 hours before the meal. Then, refrigerate meat, vegetables and sauce ingredients in separate, airtight containers. At mealtime, heat wok or skillet and fry the meat and vegetables.

Brownd serves as hostess

Members of Los Ciboleros Chapter, NSDAR, met recently in the home of Mrs. Gid Brownd with Mrs. Burl Fish serving as co-hostess.

The opening ritual was led by Regent Mrs. Austin Rose Jr. Several national committee reports were read and proposed and the national by-laws were discussed.

Fish presented the National Defense report on "Free World Must Focus On Baltic."

Plans were finalized for the chapter's tea to be held April 14 to honor DAR Good Citizens and the DAR essay contest winners.

Program Chairman Mrs. Bob Sheffy introduced Mrs. Tom Draper who spoke on Mrs. Benjamin (Caroline) Harrison, the first president general of NSDAR.

Present were Mmes. Kathryn Ruga, Lois Gililand, Stan Knox, LeRoy Williamson, Arthur Clark, Herman Drake, Rose, Sheffy, Draper, Fish and Brownd.

Cards of Thanks

We wish to offer our sincere appreciation to Dr. Howard Johnson, the staff and employees of Westgate, Ron Cook, Lanny Wheeler, Jan Walser, Steve Paul and the people responsible for the delicious meals at First Baptist Church. A special thanks to all of our friends for the prayers, food, flowers, memorials, calls, cards, visits and concerns in the loss of our dear loved one.

Ask Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB: I am 26 years old and am very nearsighted. My eyes are 8.5 diopters nearsighted. My job as an actuarial assistant requires me to do excessive amounts of close work in the form of reading, studying and computer programming.

Am I exposing my eyesight to a significant risk by doing this kind of work? Will I go blind when I'm old? I sometimes feel I should work on a job that is easier on my eyes.

There is no history of blindness in my family. I am currently seeing a psychotherapist as a result of the anxiety I experience concerning this situation. Please help set my mind at ease.

DEAR READER: No, you are not going to go blind because of being nearsighted (myopia). The cause of myopia is simply that the chamber behind the lens of your eye is longer than it should be. When light rays enter the pupil they focus in front of the retina — the screen that visual images are projected on. When objects are too far from your eyes, and they don't focus on the retinal screen, they are blurred. But if you bring the object closer, they will focus and you can see quite clearly.

A corrective lens simply bends the light rays in such a manner to focus them on the retina, thereby greatly improving your ability to see at a distance. At your young age the shape of the lens can change, getting flatter or more globular. This is done by the internal mechanism in your eye. By using an appropriate lens your vision can be adjusted to see a normal range.

A farsighted person has just the opposite problem and the chamber behind the lens is too short, causing objects to focus behind the retina. That individual can see well at great distances but has trouble seeing things close.

As a person gets older, the lens no longer changes its shape and becomes fixed. That is when a farsighted person will need bifocals — usually not long after age 40. But a nearsighted person, like yourself, is not likely to need bifocals for many years later. I have explained the reasons for this in Special Issue 36-10, About Your Vision, which I am sending you.

Watson feted with shower

Tina Watson, June 8 bride-elect of John Marcus Perry III, was honored with a bridal shower March 28 in the home of Betty Taylor.

Welcoming guests with Miss Watson were Marlene Watson, the bride-elect's mother, and Betty Taylor, hostess.

Clovis Seago invited guests to register.

Merle Clark, Delores McCuistian, and Mysedia Smith served refreshments of cheese, crackers, fresh fruit, cookies, and lime sherbet punch from a table centered with an arrangement of spring flowers and crystal and silver appointments.

Hostesses presented Miss Watson with an ensemble of navy and white bedding. They included Delores McCuistian, Kay Matthews, Janet Schroeder, Carolyn Baxter, Gladys Merritt, Dolores Foster, Mary Beth White, Billie Landrum, June Owens, Clovis Seago, Kay Redwine, Vetha Strange, Betty Martin, Sue Cosper, Carol Gage, Mary Sue Hull, Phyllis Gerdson, Merle Clark, Betty Quillen, Mysedia Smith, Marie Stringer, Pat Manchee, Beitye Owen, Joan Latham, Betty Taylor, and Joyce Allred.

Are toxins poisoning you?

Are you someone with a toxic personality?

A new poster plastering walls across the country may get you thinking about the subtle effects of environmental toxins on your well-being.

How toxic are you? Do you often find it difficult to get excited about people and things? Have you felt fatigued now and then for no apparent reason? Do you sometimes get a feeling of lightheadedness or a feeling of being "spaced out"?

You can take the toxic test yourself and see how you rate by calling toll-free 1-800-334-LIFE.

Dr. Joseph Weisman of the UCLA School of Medicine has gone so far as to assert that the large scale of toxic assault on the immune system contributes to the spread of infectious diseases such as herpes and chronic fatigue syndrome, and suggests it may even be a factor in the development of AIDS.

Research now indicates that toxic environmental substances remain in the body and continue to affect you mentally years later. As these toxins build up in your system, life can become stressful and dull. Success and happiness can suffer. Toxins and drugs may even change your personality for the worse.

CLASSIFIED ADS

Classified advertising rates are based on 15 cents a word for first insertion ($3.00 minimum), and 11 cents for second publication and thereafter. Rates below are based on consecutive issues, no copy change, straight word ads.

TIMES	RATE	MIN.
1 day per word	15	3.00
2 days per word	26	5.20
3 days per word	37	7.40
4 days per word	48	9.60
5 days per word	59	11.80

CLASSIFIED DISPLAY

Classified display rates apply to all other ads not set in solid word lines—those with captions, bold or large type, special paragraphing, all capital letters. Rates are $4.15 per column inch; $3.45 an inch for consecutive additional insertions.

LEGALS

Ad rates for legal notices are same as for classified display.

ERRORS

Every effort is made to avoid errors in word ads and legal notices. Advertisers should call attention to any errors immediately after the first insertion. We will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion. In case of errors by the publishers, an additional insertion will be published.

Matthew Garza (interior design technology), Samuel Muniz (mechanical electrical technology), Hector Trevizo (computer science technology), and Charles Unlaub (professional truck operations), all of Hereford, were recently named to the Texas State Technical Institute-
Amarillo President's Honor Roll with 4.0 grade point averages for the winter quarter.
Paula Edwards (automated office technology), Ramon Long (electronics technology), Tim Long and Vanessa Marquez (both computer science technology), all of Hereford, were named to Texas State Technical Institute-Amarillo Dean of Instruc-tion's Honor Roll with 3.5 or better grade averages for the winter quarter.
Texas State Technical Institute-
Amarillo is a non-profit technical college, created in 1970 by the Texas Legislature. The school offers 16 technical programs ranging from laser electro-optics to welding.

District meeting discussed

Members of the Deaf Smith County Extension Homemakers Council discussed the District I meeting scheduled for April 16 at the Expo Center in Perryton recently when they met in the Heritage Room of the Deaf Smith County Library.
Maudette Smith, council chairman, called the meeting to order.
Ford Extension Homemakers Club presented the opening exercise with a reading "Little Things" by Mary Broman.
Visitors welcomed were Katherine
Manson and Willie Flippin from Ford Extension Club, Virgie Duncan and Jo Lee from Wyche Extension Club, and Edna Shulte from North Hereford
Extension Club.
Kate Bradley served as recording secretary and Delores Broman reported six clubs being represented with five having 100 percent attendance.
The next council meeting will be held Monday, April 22.

Kearns wins contest

Caroline Kearns, a junior at Methodist College in Fayetteville,
N.C., recently won a playwriting competition sponsored by the college chapter of Alpha Psi Omega, a national theatre honorary.
Kearns' entry was a one-act play entitled "Founding on the Door." It was judged the best of three original one-acts presented at the college's "Hail Dionysus!" celebration.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This is an open letter to the highway hopper.
Traffic was moving at 30 mph instead of 55. Rather than go with the flow, you saw the traffic pattern as a checkerboard to jump around in order to reach your destination sooner.
I first noticed you driving behind me. You must have mistaken the space in front of my car for an invitation, since you switched lanes, accelerated and then jumped in front of me. You were a few car lengths closer to your destination, but you still ended up traveling 30 mph.
Then I saw you hopping around some more. Passing on the left, on the right, with and without signaling.
Each time, you gained three or four car lengths. I was truly amazed at how you managed to use that entrance ramp as a means to pass traffic on the right -- that must have been good for 10 car lengths.
I suppose it was worth all the aggravation you caused, not to mention the potential for accidents.
You must have known that if traffic was averaging 30 mph you could save all of two minutes off you total travel time for every 264 car lengths that you gained. For those who need to have things spelled out for them, here it is -- Calculating on the L.I.E., Bellmore, N.Y.

the appropriate guidance we could let our elected representatives know exactly how we feel.
Ann, why don't you use your influence to get the newspapers to print the names and addresses of our representatives? The papers could also give us some directions regarding the proper salutation and the correct way to close a letter.
Please, Ann, give us a hand. Our elected officials wouldn't be getting away with so much if they knew we were keeping an eye on them. -- J.E. in Michigan.
DEAR MICHIGAN: Anyone who is interested in writing to an elected official need only call the public library and ask for the correct spelling and address.
You'd be surprised at how much attention these politicians pay to their mail. They realize that they serve at the discretion of the voters, and it is important that they keep their eyes and ears open to their constituents.
So write on, folks!

DEAR BELL: Thanks for a letter that should be taped to the dashboard of every asphalt jockey's car. Those lunatics who keep switching lanes, thinking they are going to save some time, need to see the cold, hard facts exactly as you have outlined them.
Bless you.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm writing in reference to a recent column in which you mentioned the $500 billion savings and loan debacle.
We Americans are well aware of this mess, as well as other messes in our government. We mean it when we say we want to call or write a letter to our representatives, but more often than not, we do nothing and continue to be part of the silent majority. Why is this?
I believe a great many citizens would break their silence if they knew whom to contact in local, state and national government. We care. With

Gem of the Day: My answer to someone who told me that I looked "so much better without my glasses," would be, "Thanks, So do you."

To win a bet for $40, Thomas Garson of Chicago ate 22 hamburgers and two quarts of ice cream in 25 minutes back in 1938.

Farmers & Ranchers, We Invite You To A Day of Festivities Held In Your Honor!

"We're honoring America's Providers Saturday, April 6, 11 a.m. - 2 p.m. with a hamburger cookout, car and implement show, and drawings for Hereford Beef Certificates to be given away. K-Bob's Steakhouse, C. Ramirez & Sons and R&R Refrigeration have generously contributed hamburger patties, corn chips and ice for the cookout.

Pick up your tickets at Hereford State Bank or any of these participating merchants!"
