Mayors establish regional group

By ANDREA LAMB Staff Writer

Hereford Mayor Wes Fisher was one of 17 Panhandle city mayors who took a big step Thursday in chartering a Panhandle League of Mayorsa move to draw attention to the Panhandle area in the state legislature.

Representing the Texas Municipal League Region II (the Panhandle), the mayors adopted articles of association which will provide the foundation for the mayors league.

The articles say the league will, among other things, "conduct research in any area of concern to Region II cities" and "represent Region II cities' interests before legislative and administrative bodies."

The league eventually plans to incorporate cities in West Texas and the South Plains which are apparently feeling the same snub from the Texas legislature that the Panhandle area has been feeling.

According to the Texas Municipal League, the 104-county area covering El Paso to Abilene up through Amarillo represents 41 percent of Texas counties, yet it only represents 18 percent of the state House of Representatives and 19 percent of the Texas Senate.

But the Panhandle League of Mayors intends to concentrate on the Panhandle for now

One of the major concerns of the league will be hiring a lobbyist who will represent the region at Austin.

ED study shows area decline

By JOHN BROOKS Managing Editor

Deaf Smith County and Hereford should not have to work too terribly hard to regain the "boomtown" prosperity of the 1960s and early 1970s but could experience a steady decline in growth and prosperity if "nothing" is done, according to a study reviewed Thursday night by the Economic Development Strategy Council and its advisory committee.

The panels met together at the Deaf Smith County Library to review the study prepared by the Department of Rural Sociology at Texas A&M University. The study used historical trends, raw data from Hereford, the county, and the surrounding area, and a database model prepared by TAMU that presents economic scenarios that differ depending on community intervention.

"It looks grim for us if things stay the same, if there's no intervention," said Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner, the EDSC executive director. "If there is some intervention, good things are in store for the community."

The study compares Deaf Smith County with the other 24 counties in the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission, and mirrors Hereford's data with figures from Pampa, Borger, Levelland and Plainview (cities of similar size); Dalhart, Perryton and Tulia (because of their similarities to Hereford); and Canyon (because of its proximity and likely interconnections with Hereford).

Comparing the figures, the study indicates:

-The economy in all of the counties has declined, but Deaf Smith County's economy has declined the least:

-A steady loss of manurfacturing firms:

--Retail trade and service business has declined sharply; -- Deaf Smith County's per capita income is the lowest of all of the counties; --The level of education is among the lowest in the region;

-- The county has experienced a steady outmigration over the last two decades:

-The county has had rapid changes in its labor force, and in 1981, 1982, 1985 and 1987 Deaf Smith County had the highest average annual rate of unemployment of any county in the region, and Hereford had a higher unemployment rate in 1987 than any of the comparison cities;

-- Deaf Smith County and Hereford show wider fluctuations in gross sales than other areas.

Some of the data is supportive of economic development prospects, including the low per capita income and the availability of raw products that would support several industries. The study says, however, "The year-to-year fluctuation in agricultural income suggests the need to diversify the economic base of the region."

Study point

Rumaldo Garcia, left, listens as John Perrin makes a point while discussing the overall plan being considered during a Thursday meeting of the Economic Development Strategy Council and its advisory committee. The group examined a trend analysis compiled by Texas A&M University that showed what Hereford could become, dempending on economic development efforts.

"Perhaps the most negative aspect of the area generally low level of education in the population," the study says. That need should be addressed with the planned adult learning center in Hereford.

The study shows several changes in the county's population, including decline. The TAMU study and a similar survey by the Texas Water Development Board projects the county's population at around 20,500 in 1990 and 19,000 by the year 2000. The most pessimistic projection shows a Deaf Smith County population of only 16,000 in the vear 2000

About 50 percent of that population could be Hispanic, the TAMU study shows, based on historical

The most recent patterns of economic and demographic change (indicate) the need for additional development," the study concludes. "If these are projected to the turn of the century, it is evident that continuation of the economic trends of the 1980s would result in additional decline in the employment and population base of the area and would likely lead to related declines in the business and service structure of

There are, of course, alternative futures that would bring extensive growth to the area. In fact, if the area could return to levels of growth approximating those of the 1970s, its economic and service base could grow rapidly.

"Changing the present trends and enhancing the area's bases for growth is essential, if the area wishes to experience future economic growth and development. "This study gives us different scenarios," said EDSC member John Perrin. "If we intervene as a community, it shows where we can go-and we might do better than the best scenario indicates.

"Forty percent of our population is under the age of 18, and that says a lot about the needs of our education system. The only way to keep our young people is to provide jobs."

If the community does not invest in itself, the community can expect a decline in the business and service sectors," said Eichner. The community is not in the position of being able to stand still without experiencing a decline in the things that make a community a community

That study will be 'combined with data derived from a countywide survey, also conducted by TAMU. The survey was wrapped up a week ago, and the data learned from the survey will be divulged in a public meeting April 28 at 7 p.m. at the library.

The process is still evolving said Eichner. The goals and the jectives are still fairly raw. The community interest groups participated well in the process, and this plan is going to be a community-wide plan-a hasete-

"A lot of the things we have learned through the meetings we've held have reinforced. Dr. Stever Murdock's the TAMU expert who has headed the study and and survey conclusions, and there have been a lot of parallels between the interest armup the clusions and Mrudock's colorida

Jesse Jackson and Michael Dukakis, now in a one-on-one fight for the Democratic presidential nomination, worked to win labor support in the industrial states of Ohio and Pennsylvania. And both fired anew at embattled Attorney General Edwin Meese

Sen. Albert Gore Jr. abandoned his presidential bid on Thursday, vowing to do all he could to help put a Democrat in the White House

"The nominee is going to be Michael Dukakis or Jesse Jackson. I'm going to do everything I can to help them. ... The only man I want to stop is George Bush," Gore said at a Washington news conference, with his family at his side

The Tennessee senator suspended his campaign, technically remaining a candidate to permit his delegates to attend the Democratic National Convention. Gore, who had not won a primary or caucus since Super Tuesday, March 8, ended his effort more than $1.5 million in debt

On the Republican side, Bush was coping with the kind of scheduling glitch that either of his Democratic rivals would envy — it looked as if he would clinch the number of delegates needed to nominate a little sooner than his staff had thought.

Aides to the vice president had been planning to celebrate the big moment on May 3, the date of primaries in Ohio, Indiana and the District of Columbia. But they made it clear that the development would be more than welcome whenever it Minnesota Republicans were selecting 15 delegates this week: Nevada Republicans will choose another 20 on Saturday. And there are 78 delegates at stake in Tuesday's Pennsylvania primary.

"At this point it's pretty much concluded. ... The race is over," Robertson said Thursday in Nevada.

Even though he has given up on the nomination, the former television evangelist expressed determination to make his mark on the GOP. In Nevada, his supporters were dominating the state convention and bidding for top state party posts.

Jackson was campaigning today in Pennsylvania, where polls have suggested he is running well behind Dukakis. In Tuesday's primary, 178 delegates are at stake

'I always run against great odds, Jackson said.

Campaigning in the northwestern Pennsylvania city of Erie, Jackson courted blue-collar workers with a call for "economic justice.

Jackson also renewed his criticism of Meese, who is the target of a yearlong criminal investigation and under pressure from some quarters to quit. The attorney general said Thursday there is no factor he knows of tright now that would cause me to

"I want a Justice Department that stands for justice—an attorney general that goes back and forth to court as a prosecutor for the people and not as a defender for himself. Jackson said.

Dukakis slammed Meese as he campaigned in Cleveland on Thursday. Ohio's primary follows Pennsylvania's by a week, and offers 159

Like Jackson, Dukakis highlighted labor issues. He was visiting an auto plant in Ohio and a steel plant in Pennsylvania today

I have been scoped and lived to tell about it

I underwent arthroscopic day surgery Monday at Deaf Smith General Hospital to remove some torn cartilage from my left knee.

Heh, heh, heh--day surgery. They're not going to keep me here very long, so it must be a simple thing, eh?

Dr. James Herbertson, one of the biggest assets this area has ever had, explained to me how the surgery was going to be done. He pulled a rubber knee from his pocket and showed where the cartilage was in the knee, where the scope would go in through incisions to allow him to look around, then cut the bad cartilage free and suck it out of the knee.

Very simple procedure.

I showed up at the hospital at about 7 a.m. Monday and the nurses soon had an IV started on me. They gave. me a little shot of something that made me feel like a million dollars. and a few minutes later I was being wheeled toward the operating room.

'We're going to give you a little shot of pentothal," said CRNA Carolyn Kubacek. "You; ll feel a little burning

'How do you feel?" asked a nurse. "I need to go to the bathroom," I mumbled. To the amazement of all, I walked to the bathroom. 'Course, Dr. Herbertson had laced my knee with a little local anasthesia to block the pain, and that, I found out a few hours later, helped a LOT.

I hopped back from the restroom and into bed and waited for the good doctor to come back. He did, and they cut off a commercial or a public decided I'd see how his Monday morning humor was going.

"How do you feel?" asked Dr. Herbertson.

'Fine," I said. "But how long will it be before I regain feeling and mobility in my left foot?"

He doubled up his fist, then grinn-

He explained that I would feel a lit-and the local anasthesia were gone. My best friend used to be Joe Dean, but now it was codeine, as in Tylenol No. 3. I exceeded the prescribed dose a little. I knew Monday night I wasn't going to be reserving any tee times Tuesday or Wednesday

The worst part is the 90-minute "Courts" segment on Channel 10 from 4-5:30 p.m. It's Divorce Court followed by Superior Court followed

The People's Court is just fine, but Divorce and Superior courts are TERRIBLE. Superior Court is not much different than Judge Wapner, just more poorly done. Divorce Court, however, is terrible.

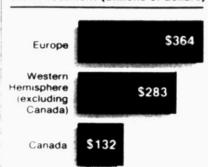

And too there is the difficulty Channel 10 has with starting and stopping the video tape machines. I counted seven times in each 90-minute block over three days that service spot in the middle. I mean they just stopped it. It's simple incompetence

It's enough to make you want to take another Tylenol No. 3.

Woman hides after alleged abduction and gang rape

SAN DIEGO, Texas (AP) - Indictments against 10 men will not repair the shattered life of a 19-year-old woman who remains in hiding with her family since she reported being abducted and gang raped last month, friends say

"They have to get out of San Diego," said Richard Yaeger, a friend of the victim and her 23-yearold husband. "They'll never be able to come back here.'

The couple and their two children, ages 16 months and four months. have lived in a secret location in Corpus Christi, since shortly after she reported the March 26 abduction and rape by as many as 20 men, Yaeger said.

A grand jury on Thursday indicted 10 men on charges of sexual assault and-or aggravated kidnapping.

The young mother returned to San Diego to testify before the grand jury Thursday, and was led out of the courthouse with her head and face covered by a black shawl.

Some of the defendants have said the victim was a willing participant.

"She enjoyed it," said one unidentified defendant in a report on Corpus Christi television station KIII.

The woman said the four-hour series of assaults began at a cockfight at a ranch. She said her attackers urged onlookers to join in the attack. Bystanders ignored her pleas for help and some did join her attackers, she said.

The woman said she was taken to two other locations and raped there.

"These people here are acting like (the victim and her family) are in the wrong," Yaeger said, adding they have been threatened several times since the incident.

But Dot Barnette of Crisis Services in Corpus Christi said more than $8,000 has been donated to the family, along with a job offer for the unemployed husband.

"I would say that the response from the community has been fantastic, particularly individuals," Ms. Barnette said.

Those testifying before the grand jury Thursday included the woman, her husband, some of the defendants and several witnesses, said Rodolfo Gutierrez, a Duval County assistant district attorney.

He said a 12-year-old boy was among the witnesses testifying.

"I believe the grand jury made the right decision, based on the evidence that was presented to them," Gutierrez said.

The grand jury handed up 12 indictments, Gutierrez said.

Charged with sexual assault are: Roel Torres, 24; Ruben Vela Jr., ?? and and Jose Carlos Briones, 29.

Charged with sexual assault and aggravated kidnapping are: Orlando Garza, 23; Corando Perez, 23; Alejandro Bear, 21; Roberto Garcia, 21 and Felipe Chew, 28.

Roberto Perez, 25, was charged with sexual assault and two aggravated kidnapping charges. because he is accused of taking the victim to a third location to rape her. Isidro Solis, 26, was charged only with kidnapping. Gutierrez said the 10 men probably would be rearrested today.

Reagan may veto new trade laws

WASHINGTON (AP) - Legislation overhauling America's trade laws is her ded for quick Senate action after rolling through the House with more than the two-thirds majority needed to override a threatened presidential veto.

"I sincerely hope that will not be necessary, that in the end the president will sign the bill," Senate Finance Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, said after the 312-107 House vote Thursday in favor of the measure plans to start debate today and shoot for final passage early next week.

Byrd again warned that an administration favorite — the pending free-trade agreement to phase out tariffs between the United States and Canada — could get entangled in any Reagan veto.

There has been talk in the Senate of a filibuster to stall the agreement. But Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont, said Thursday night that it "is clear that there are at least 60 votes to stop the filibuster.'

Reagan said Thursday that he will veto the bill if it arrives on his desk with a provision to require all but the smallest employers to give 60-day notice of plant closings and largescale layoffs.

Business groups have fought the plant-closings provision on grounds it would dry up capital for investment, frighten off customers and cause economic stagnation. Unions are calling for the measure, saying that notifying employees about to lose their jobs is the only humane thing to do.

In recent days the dispute over plant closings has overshadowed the centerpiece features of the bill, which would streamline the system under which the United States aids companies threatened by imports and retaliates against international trade violations.

Scores of other provisions range from repeal of the windfall oil profits tax to sizeable agricultural sub-

A key vote in the House came just before the roll call on final passage, when lawmakers voted 253-167 against a move by Minority Leader Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., to send the measure back to conference committee with orders to drop the plantclosings provision.

Justice official states Meese indict ment material

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a blunt face-to-face meeting with President Reagan, two departing Justice Department officials "laid out the facts" against Attorney General Edwin Meese, saving his behavior is hurting the department and that an aggressive prosecutor would seek his indictment, sources say.

Immediately after Wednesday's White House meeting, the embattled attorney general was summoned to a separate session with the president, the administration sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Thursday

During a 45-minute discussion called by the president, Deputy Attorney General Arnold Burns told Reagan, Vice President George Bush, White House chief of staff Howar. Baker and White House counsel A.B. Culvahouse that "Meese's behavior was hurting the Department of Justice," an administration source

Former Justice Department criminal division chief William Weld, meanwhile, "laid out the facts" in a hypothetical indictment he said he would have brought against Meese if he were the special prosecutor investigating the attorney general, said the source, speaking on condition of anonymity.

Burns told Reagan that Meese had violated the standards of ethical conduct for executive branch employees spelled out in a 1965 executive order and that if other Justice Department attorneys had acted as Meese has, "they would be bounced (fired)," the source added. The ethical standards, among other things, say that employees should avoid any action which could create the appearance of using public office for private gain, giving preferential treatment to any organization or person or making a government decision outside official

"The president was very attentive, listened to the story, got up and Meese came in" after Burns and Weld left, said the source.

Asked about the outcome of the meetings, another administration source familiar with the discussions said: "As you can see, there was no

Hasie vying for TX school board

Lubbock businessman Monte Hasie visited in Hereford Thursday to promote his candidacy for election to the State School Board of Education for District 15, which includes a large part of West Texas.

Hasie, a financial consultant, served as president of the Lubbock school board for 7 of his 12 years in the elected position. He was also an adviser to the State Board for two years. A West Texas native, Hasie will run on the Republican ticket.

District 15 includes much of the Panhandle and South Plains area. It is bordered on the southwest by Ector and Andrews counties and on the southeast by Mitchell, Scurry and Howard. Hasie is a graduate of Texas Tech, receiving a civil engineering degree in 1959. He served as an officer in the U.S. Army in 1959 and 1960. An active civic leader, Hasie is an advisory member of the board of Whisperwood National Bank, a director of the Red Raider Club, vice president of Lubbock Country Club, and chairman of the Basketball Congress International West Texas region.

Hasie classifies himself as a conservative and points to a record of helping trim fat from the Lubbock school budget. The Lubbock district has saved millions by cutting people from administrative staff and by privatizing bus, cafeteria and custodial services.

Hereford junior varsity baseball player J.T. Heaton races home for a run on a double by teammate Shane Kapka in the first inning of Thursday's game against Clovis. Later in the game, when Hereford trailed Clovis 8-6, Heaton hit a three-run double in the sixth for the game-winning hit. Hereford defeated Clovis 10-8. (Brand photo by Gary Christensen)

Heaton hits game-winning double

Herd JV rallies for 10-8 win

It was an "up and down" game at home Thursday for the Hereford High School junior varsity baseball team - leading 4-0, trailing 8-4, and finishing on an "up" to defeat Clovis

Hereford gained its 4-0 lead in the first inning. Clovis gained the lead for the first time, 5-4, in the fourth inning, and increased the lead to 8-4 in the fifth inning before Hereford rallied with two runs in the fifth inning and four runs in the sixth inning. The game-winning hit was a basesloaded double by J.T. Heaton, which erased an 8-6 Clovis lead and gave Hereford a 9-8 lead. Hereford loaded the bases on two walks and a hit batsman.

Shane Kapka drove home an insurance run with a sacrifice fly for the 10-8 lead.

The HHS defense achieved an unusual double play in the bottom of the seventh. A grounder was fielded near third base and the ball was thrown to second base for the first out of the inning. The throw to first base got past first baseman Fidel Ceballos.

Ceballos retrieved the ball, and noticing that the Clovis runner had started to second but changed his mind, outran the opponent to first base and tagged him out. The Clovis head coach was ejected after arguing the call.

Summer adult volleyball planned at 'Y'

Summer volleyball leagues for men and women are planned at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA.

Leagues will include "AA," "A," and "B" divisions. Entry fees are $9 for each YMCA member on a team and $17 for each YMCA non-member on a team. The registration deadline is April 28.

Game days will be Mondays, Tuesdays and possibly Thursdays for co-ed divisions. The league season will be eight matches plus a single-elimination tournament. League competition will start on May 2. For more information on the volleyball league and the league rules, contact the YMCA at 364-6990 or pick up a registration form at the YMCA.

plete game for Hereford, got the next batter to fly out into left center field and end the game. Cotten had two strikeouts, allowed six hits and walked eight batters. Hereford's Kyle Andrews led off the bottom of the first inning with a triple down the third base line, and later scored on a wild pitch.

With a runner on base on an error, Kapka hit an RBI double. Jared Victor hit what appeared to be a foul pop up, but the wind blew the ball into fair territory. As a result of the Clovis first baseman losing the ball in the wind, Victor had an RBI single.

Victor stole second base, and advanced the rest of the way on wild pitches to make Hereford's lead 4-0.

Clovis scored two runs in the second inning on a walk, double and triple. In the fourth inning, Clovis took the lead, scoring runs on a groundout and single. Clovis took the lead, 5-4, when a runner took off from third base when a pickoff throw was made to second base.

'Y' volleyball leagues for teenagers set

Six volleyball leagues for high school and junior high school students are being organized at the Hereford and Vicinity YMCA.

The leagues will be high school boys' league, high school girls' league, mixed high school league, junior high boys' league, junior high girls' league, and mixed junior high Playing days will be Mondays for boys' leagues, Tuesdays for girls' leagues, and Thursdays for mixed leagues. The season will be for six weeks, beginning on May 2-3 and 5.

Entry fees are $7 for each YMCA member on a team and $14 for each YMCA non-member on a team. Entry deadline is April 28.

Lots of dealing affects NFL 'grab bag'

By BARRY WILNER AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - For a draft supposedly lacking in just about everything, there sure has been a lot of action at the top.

Two trades already have affected the top 10 of Sunday's NFL grab bag, and more deals are being discussed. That's what happens when, as most scouts claim, there is little beyond the top 15 or so players.

"It's not one of those knockout drafts," according the George Young, general manager of the New York Giants. "But everybody should be able to find somebody to satisfy

ble in the fifth inning increased

Clovis' lead to 8-4.

The Atlanta Falcons already have. They selected and reached contract agreement with Auburn linebacker Aundray Bruce with the top pick.

Kansas City, apparently worried it would not get Nebraska defensive lineman Neil Smith with the No. 3 choice, was willing to surrender its second-round pick in order to swap places with Detroit in the opening round. The Chiefs feared the Los Angeles Raiders, their AFC West rival, were poised to deal with the Lions for the No. 2 pick.

On Thursday, the Raiders made a deal, sending defensive end Sean Jones to Houston for the No. 9 selection. That gives Raiders owner Al Davis two chances in the first nine, one of which he is expected to use for a game-breaking wide receiver.

He won't have any trouble finding one. Flanker and split end are considered the deepest spots in the draft, with the Raiders eyeing Heisman Trophy winner Tim Brown, Miami's Michael Irvin and South Carolina's Sterling Sharpe.

Picking sixth, the Raiders should get one of them.

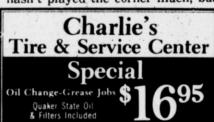

Other standout receivers are Anthony Miller of Tennessee, Marc. Zeno of Tulane, Brett Perriman of Miami, Wendell Davis of Louisiana State and Aaron Cox of Arizona State.

Tight end Keith Jackson of Oklahoma is another certain firstrounder in what shapes up as an offense-minded early draft.

Only Bruce, Smith and defensive back Bennie Blades of Miami and Rickey Dixon of Oklahoma figure to stem the tide of offensive selections in the top 15.

"Dixon and Blades should go real early," said Mike Hickey, player personnel director of the New York Jets. "Blades is a Ronnie Lott. We see him in the Pro Bowl as a safety in the first year if he wants it. He's a rough hombre.

"The only negative Dixon has is he hasn't played the corner much, but Hickey and several other personnel directors like what they see at running back. Most highly regarded are Lorenzo White of Michigan State, Brad Muster of Stanford, Gaston Green of UCLA and Craig Heyward of Pitt.

Heyward is an underclassman who was declared eligible for the draft by the league when he applied - and threatened to sue the NFL if he was denied entry.

Unlike the past few years, when at least one standout quarterback was available - beginning with the Elway-Marino-Kelly-Eason-O'Brien-Blackledge Class of '83 - none are likely to go in the opening round.

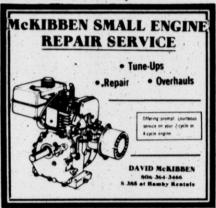

Kelly Stouffer, who was taken sixth overall last year by the Cardinals, who couldn't sign him, would be the first quarterback taken on Sunday if he hasn't signed with anyone. But Seattle was close to a deal with the Cardinals that would send Stouffer to the Seahawks.

The top-rated passers this year are Chris Chandler of Washington, Don McPherson of Syracuse, Mike Perez of San Jose State and Todd Santos of San Diego State.

Other than Bruce, the best linebackers appear to be Ken Harvey of California, Clifford Charlton of Florida, Ken Norton Jr. of UCLA and Chris Spielman of Ohio State.

The draft will be spread over two days, with ESPN televising the first seven hours on Sunday.

HOUSTON (AP) - Mike Mitchell season, the first time they have won the season series with Houston since the 1983-'84 season. The win snaps a nine-game losing streak in Houston dating back to Jan. 25, 1985.

> "To win a season series against a team like this means a lot," San Antonio coach Bob Weiss said. "How we play now is important to me. There are some things I want to work on before we get to LA."

Mitchell's game-winning shot came as the buzzer sounded and followed a blocked shot by Akeem Mitchell's hands.

Olajuwon had blocked a Rick Wilson layup as Wilson drove the

"Akeem went up and got it, and he blocked it right to me. I couldn't have asked for it any better," Mitchell said. "I felt like I had time to go up and shoot a good shot and not rush, and I did.'

"They got too much penetration," Houston coach Bill Fitch said. "Everybody watched Akeem make the play, but Mitchell still had to make a great shot.'

"He was in the right place at the right time," Olajuwon said. "I timed the play well, I just blocked the shot to the wrong side."

Houston was led by Olajuwon, who recorded the third triple-double of his career.

Olajuwon equaled his season scoring high with 38 points, pulled down 10 rebounds, and blocked a team season-high 10 shots.

San Antonio was led by Alvin Robertson with 24 points, Frank Brickowski with 19 and Petur Gudmundsson with 13 points and 11 re-

Houston played without starting forward Rodney McCray, who was suffering an allergic reaction.

"The problem tonight was that he broke out in hives. He ate some food Olajuwon that bounced into about noon and apparently there was an allergy problem," Fitch explain-

> San Antonio led 32-27 at the end of the first quarter, but the Rockets outscored the Spurs 10-2 to open the second quarter and moved ahead 37-34. The Spurs then went on a 9-0 spree to lead 43-37, but Houston came back to lead 62-56 at the half.

> Trailing 72-64 midway through the third quarter, the Spurs went on a 13-2 scoring run to take a 77-74 advantage. San Antonio was ahead 89-85 at the end of the third quarter.

How about some TV 'Monday Night Golf'?

By HAL BOCK AP Sports Writer

First there was Monday night football. Then there was Monday night baseball. Now America gets Monday night golf. The Desert Scramble, a pay-perview event, gives national television exposure to a popular golf club diversion next Monday night. It also matches four of the sport's most charismatic players.

Greg Norman and Ian Woosnam will be paired against Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino in the 18-hole, $300,000 event over the Cochise Golf Course at Desert Mountain in Scottsdale, Ariz. There are a couple of intriguing twists to the best-shot, stroke-play match.

First, there is the wrinkle that allows each team the option of playing its best ball for each shot, an innovation that greatly reduces the price of a slice.

That means if one of Trevino's drives drifts and Nicklaus puts the ball in the middle of the fairway, the team can ignore the wayward shot and concentrate on the good one. Nicklaus would then hit his second shot and Trevino would follow, playing his second shot from Nicklaus' best-ball position, rather than where his own ball landed.

That format favors the tapemeasure drivers, which means you should keep an eye on Norman, one of the game's best long hitters. You can expect Woosnam, a golfing shrimp at 5-foot-4, to be playing his partner's drives at almost every hole.

"We'll be well ahead of them," said Norman, winner of last weekend's Heritage Classic. "What will be important is the type of second shot we hit, where and how we

Norman and Woosnam are the visitors in this match. That's because Nicklaus has what amounts designed the 7,045-yard, par-72 Cochise layout, which sits in the Sonora Desert and is bordered on two sides by the Tonto National Forest.

"Jack likes it a lot," Norman said. "I haven't seen it yet. I'll play it Sunday. One time around is plenty to get the feel of a golf course. Your caddy has the yardage and the lines off the tee. That's not a worry.'

Norman likes the whole idea of this out-of-the-ordinary event.

"It should be interesting," he said. "We need injections of new things in golf now and then, things like the Skins Game and this. The public likes to see something different. Amateurs play scrambles all the time in club competitions.

"It'll be a lot of fun. But we're playing for $125,000 so we'll be serious at the right time."

That won't be all the time, of

"Oh, we'll stick the needle in when we can, I expect," Norman said.

When they do that, viewers will be able to hear it because the golfers will wear microphones. This will allow the fans to eavesdrop, almost like listening in when a pitcher and catcher talk over a bases-loaded situation in baseball. The mikes also will provide instant instruction as the players consider their options and strategies at each hole.

Nicklaus and Norman got the choice of partners for the Scramble. Nicklaus picked Trevino, one of golf's most familiar players and a man whose game was developed on desert courses, while Norman went with Woosnam, the 1987 world player of the year.

Each winning golfer in the Scramble earns $100,000 and each loser gets $25,000. There is also a bonus $50,000 prize for a one-hole match at No. 18.

The pay-per-view price is $12.95.

Knepper, Astros shut out Braves 8-0

HOUSTON (AP) - There seems to be no explanation to the turnabout in Houston pitcher Bob Knepper this season so Manager Hal Lanier doesn't try.

Knepper pitched six shut out innings Thursday night in helping the Astros blank Atlanta 8-0 in another solid performance for a Houston starting pitcher.

Knepper, who lost a career high 17 games last season, extended his record to 2-0, and lowred his earned run average to .095.

Houston pitchers have gone six or more innings in all 14 games this season.

"There is no explanation, he just had one of those off years in 1987," Lanier said. "He's an outstanding pitcher so we know he'll win a lot of games."

Alan Ashby hit a 2-run double in the fourth inning and Denny Walling got three hits and drove in two runs to support the combined six-hitter by Knepper and reliever Ernie Camacho.

"The way our stating pitchers are going you don't need that many runs but it was good to get some runs in the middle innings," Lanier said.

Houston's Mike Scott shut out the Braves 1-0 on a 4-hitter Wednesday

"I'm happy to have a 2-0 start in any season," Knepper said. "Last year was just one of those years."

The Astros got three runs in the fourth inning on Ashby's double and Walling's single off starter Kevin Coffman, 0-2.

Kevin Bass drove in another run in the fifth off reliever Jim Acker and three more runs scored in the sixth on Walling's triple, a sacrifice fly by Rafael Ramirez and Terry Puhl's steal of home plate.

Puhl's eighth inning double scored the final run.

The Braves didn't get a runner past second base. The Braves had three innings ended by double plays. "We hit the ball hard against Knepper," Braves Manager Chuck Tanner said. "We were driving the ball and swinging well, it was just at somebody."

Coffman held the Astros through three innings before erupting for three runs. "It's real frustrating to cruise for three innings and then give up one hit and it's all over," Coffman said.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a flight attendant who travels crosscountry. My routine duties are as follows: greet passengers, make sure luggage is properly stowed, count passengers, monitor catering to ensure that all meals, beverages, ice and supplies have been boarded. Count bottles of beer, wine and liquor. Check to make sure everyone's seat belt is fastened, trays and seats in upright position and see that no personal stereo headsets or TVs are

MANAGING MONEY

NEW YORK (AP) - More people are working with professional money managers than ever before, accor-

Frayser, who monitors the performance of money managers for Paine

Webber in New York, says the recent volatility of the stock market has made many people who previously made their own investment decisions

"We're going through a period in which most investors don't trust their own judgement and prefer to have someone with more experience orders such as kosher or vegetarian. I serve the meals and seconds on drinks, then pick up the trays, all the while dodging passengers who like to stand in the aisles.

A third run-through with the serving cart, offering ice-cream sundaes and mints, preparing and passing out hot towels, collecting headsets, picking up mountains of gabage that have accumulated, and responding to requests for blankets, pillows, more drinks, etc.

The trick is to get everything done before landing. The routine I described assumes that everything is normal. God forbid if there is turbulence or a medical emergency.

Most flights are full these days, with with discount fares and free travel miles. The airlines work as few cabin attendants as they can legally get away with, even though many passengers need extra attention. I refer to the elderly, the handicapped, non-English speaking, etc., not to mention unaccompanied children.

I have actually had parents tell me they were under the impression that the airlines provided a flight attendant to sit with children throughout the entire flight. Although I try to keep my eye on youngsters traveling alone, I have 150 other passengers to attend to, so baby-sitting is impossi-

I am appalled at how parents put their children on a plane with no reading material, no coloring books and no money for the movie. How do they think a child is going to entertain himself for five hours?

Your assumption that the flight attendants would be especially kind and attentive to a child traveling alone is unrealistic. No matter how kind and attentive we would like to be, time does not allow us to devote more than a few minutes to children traveling alone.

We try to make every child's flight a memorable one, but we can't be full-time sky-nannies .-- US Air Veteran of 20 Years

DEAR VETERAN: Flight attendants everywhere will be pleased at your description of the many duties you must perform during a flight. You've made it clear that it's not as glamorous as it looks.

You have also let the world know that flight attendants are not able to serve as sitters. Thank you
