Joining 'Up With People'

Andrea Wall of Hereford will begin five weeks of intense orientation and staging on July 26 in Tucson, Ariz., as she begins a year's activities with "Up With People."

Wall to join 'Up With People'

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

If you were a college student majoring in International Trade, you would probably give your eye teeth for an opportunity, before you started your career, to have a chance to travel to several foreign countries, have close ties to a large, international mix of people, and get to experience some new, different and exciting challenges.

Andrea Wall isn't literally giving her eye teeth, but she is sacrificing some of her college money — about $7,600 worth — to join Up With People for a year beginning July 26.

"I'm really excited about being with so many people from around the world," said Wall, 19, a 1987 graduate of Hereford High School who will postpone her sophomore year at Texas Tech. "It is so exciting."

What's not exciting is having to miss her family and friends in Hereford. "I'll be gone for six months, get to come home for two weeks, then be gone again for six months. I'll be away from everybody, my family and friends. I'll have to write a lot of letters."

"But all of the people I'll be able to meet, and all of their backgrounds — that's exciting."

Up With People was in Hereford in June, and Andrea interviewed with Up With People staff and cast members after their show. "I had seen them in Lubbock, then I saw them again in Hereford, and I interviewed with them after the show. I really didn't know if they'd take me, and I really didn't think it would be this quick. I found out I was accepted July 8, so that only gave me about three weeks to get ready to go to Tucson."

Tucson is where Up With People's international headquarters are located, and Andrea will start five weeks of work in Tucson on July 26 with orientation and staging for the "Time For The Music" show — the same basic show which was performed in Hereford.

After orientation and staging are complete, the group will begin traveling. "They said each cast will get to go to Europe, and probably Mexico and Brazil, plus they're working on tours in Japan and Australia."

"And my dad (Billy Joe) is jealous because we're probably going to the Super Bowl. Up With People has performed at the last four Super Bowls, and we'll probably be there again next year."

The performing part of it also excites Andrea. "I've done a lot of singing. I was in a music group at Tech, and I was in choir in high school, but I've never done anything like this."

But even more than the chance to perform, Andrea likes her chances to learn and enhance her probable career field. "When we get to go overseas I'll have a chance to visit some of our embassies, and if we go to Washington, D.C., I might visit the FBI. The folks from Up With People were telling me about one of their former members that visited with the FBI while they were in Washington, and they picked him immediately to put in the FBI's junior program. They paid for all of his college, his training, everything."

"I'm nervous about everything because I would have liked a little time to prepare, but I'm also very excited about the whole thing."

TAB begins setting limits

The Hereford Area Tax Abatement Board, the official name of the tax abatement board, began setting boundaries at its meeting Thursday for what kind of tax abatement to offer new or expanding industry.

The seven-member board, to which the Deaf Smith General Hospital District hasn't named a representative, compiled tax abatement plans from several entities in Texas, particularly from Wharton, and is tailor-making a tax abatement plan to suit the Hereford area.

The portion of the tax abatement rousing the most discussion was the value and term of abatement.

In the plan being discussed, the tax abatement included a 100 percent tax abatement for eligible properties during the construction phase up to two years and five years thereafter.

"This is a tough call," stated County Judge Tom Simons, a committee member. "We want to have the flexibility to do what we want to do, yet we don't want to lay all our cards on the table. I think if there's a $10 million project interested in us, we should give 100 percent abatement on construction, but we've gotta have some kind of formula for offering the 100 percent."

Simons suggested that the board establish a formula whereby the number of jobs created, construction costs and impact on the community were figured before offering the 100 percent abatement.

Johnny Latham, the board's chairman, stated, "Phil (Niedzielski-Eichner, executive director of the Economic Development Strategy Council) said we need to keep this very vague and flexible. We need to put a bottom on it, though, to keep all the mom-and-pop organizations from wanting in."

The board decided to stop discussion of the tax abatement at this point until its meeting next Thursday at 2 p.m., in the Commissioners Courtroom.

The board also canvassed a preliminary drawing for the county's enterprise zone — a zone encircling blighted areas which would offer industry refunds on state sales taxes for equipment and building material up to $250,000 per year.

Some of the areas the current map includes are the defunct Swift Independent Packing Company's plant, the San Jose Labor Camp, U.S. Highway 60 and the Santa Fe Railroad, part of U.S. Highway 385, and the area surrounded by 15th Street, Highway 60 and Avenue K.

Mike Carr, executive director of the Hereford Chamber of Commerce, and Fred Fox, chief appraiser of the Deaf Smith County Appraisal District, both ex-officio members, were appointed to design the enterprise zone map because of their knowledge of the county.

Sen. Bentsen joined ticket after study

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Lloyd Bentsen says he decided to join Michael Dukakis on the Democratic ticket for president after he studied the "character of the man, not diagrams and charts" and was sure Dukakis wanted a trusted adviser in the White House.

"That was my major question — was I really going to be able to communicate, counsel and advise," Bentsen said Thursday. "I kept checking and studying ... and became convinced it could be a meaningful job."

Bentsen said he talked with Dukakis' former lieutenant governor in Massachusetts, John Kerry, and said that helped sway his mind to accept the job when Dukakis called Tuesday with the offer.

Dukakis has assured Bentsen "he very much wants to have my input," the three-term senator from Texas told a group of Texas reporters. "People told me that was his nature."

But Bentsen said it's up to Dukakis to ease tensions with Jesse Jackson, who was passed over for vice president and who learned of the selection Tuesday from reporters.

Bentsen, who once said the office of vice president was an empty job, believes he was chosen Dukakis' running mate because of his legislative experience "which exposes you to so many facets of this country of ours," his proven ability to work with Congress, and his exposure through the years to various heads of state.

"Really being able to communicate with Congress is terribly important," said Bentsen, who as chairman of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee has steered through the Senate this year a major trade bill, catastrophic illness legislation and welfare reform.

"If I didn't think I could be more effective for Texas and the country, I wouldn't have done it," said Bentsen, who had given up hope that the offer would be his just last Friday, when he and Dukakis campaigned together in Texarkana, Texas.

Bentsen, a conservative Democrat whose positions differ greatly from those of the more liberal Dukakis on such issues as an oil import fee, aid to the Nicaraguan contras, and the death penalty, said he is "looking for a good exchange of communication" with the Massachusetts governor.

"Obviously, he was not looking for a clone of himself," Bentsen said. But, "We're in accord on job creation, education, child care, health care, having babies born with sound minds and bodies. These are the things we share."

The senator created a stir last year when he invited Washington lobbyists to join his $10,000-a-person Chairman's Council, but disbanded the breakfast meetings for trade discussions after just one session.

But he doesn't think Republicans will have too much to say about it because he returned the money. But most of it has been returned to his reelection campaign through contributions.

Bentsen said he'll campaign on both sides of the Mason-Dixon line but will separate his campaign for reelection to the Senate with his vice presidential race, he said.

Rep. Beau Boulter, a two-term Republican congressman from Amarillo, is challenging the 67-year-old senator's bid for a fourth term, but polls show him trailing Bentsen by a wide margin.

While legal, Boulter says Bentsen's decision to run in both races is unfair and unethical and will raise questions throughout the campaign.

"They tell me it's been done before in Texas," Bentsen said.

The two-race campaign is allowed under a 1959 state law written for then-Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, who wanted it to run for both reelection and the White House in 1960. His presidential bid failed, but he became John Kennedy's vice president and later became president after Kennedy was assassinated.

Texas Secretary of State Jack Rains, the state's chief election officer, says withdrawal by Bentsen now would give the Senate race to Boulter. Bentsen could remove his name from the Senate ballot before Sept. 6, but the Democrats could not replace him.

That part of the law became effective in 1983, after Republicans would switch candidates in the middle of a campaign if support faltered and they thought they could mount someone better.

"Frankly, I don't have a choice (on whether to withdraw)," he said.

Tax rebates dip slightly

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

For the first time in several months, the monthly sales tax rebate for the City of Hereford dipped below the year-ago rebate, but rebates for the first seven months of 1988 remain well ahead of the year-ago total.

Hereford will receive a rebate check this month of $36,655, down four percent from last July's $38,201. For the year, Hereford has received $329,665, compared to $310,084 for the first seven months of 1987.

Some area cities continued their whopping upward trend in May, according to the figures which represent collections in May and reported to State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

The leaders included: —Plainview, with a rebate of $119,203, compared to last July's $71,445. For the year, Plainview has received $905,779, a 41.5 percent increase;

—Borger. Borger's check is for $73,895, up $38,000 from the July 1987 check. For the year, Borger has received $574,851, a 15 percent increase;

—Dimmitt. Dimmitt's check this July is 59 percent higher than last year's — it's for $15,083, compared to $9,476. For the year, Dimmitt has received $114,915, a 39 percent increase.

Other area cities' monthly rebates include: Vega, $1,494, down $7 from last July; Canyon, $25,274, up $1,000; Amarillo, $818,680, an 8.8 percent increase; Lubbock, $903,304, up $85,000; Levelland, $49,892, up $5,000; Pampa, $85,555, a 12 percent increase.

"The gaining strength in our state economy is being reflected on a local level, and local governments can continue to expect a steady increase in their share of sales tax collections," Bullock said. Statewide, payments are up 10.8 percent for the year.

Criminal trespassing was reported in the 200 block of Brevard; neighbor problems were reported in the 100 block of Avenue H; criminal mischief was reported in the 400 block of Avenue G; attempted theft was reported in the 100 block of south Lawton Avenue; and a child sustained minor abrasions when he grabbed onto a moving vehicle traveling down an alley in the 100 block of Avenue H.

Babbling Brooks

By JOHN BROOKS

And now it's time to babble into the future, as we wave our hand over the crystal ball and play solitaire with a deck of 49 cards and three we borrowed from President Reagan's Ouija board to see what the future has in store for us.

We couldn't figure out what year some of these events are going to take place. After all, the President got his Ouija board for Christmas when he was just a kid—that was early in this century.

—Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner, executive director of the Waste Deposit Impact Committee and the Economic Development Strategy Council in Hereford in 1987-88, was sworn in today as the 47th president of the United States. In his inaugural speech, Niedzielski-Eichner, the first president with a hyphenated last name, called for a nationwide economic development program and told a worldwide visionphone audience that Troy Don Moore would chair a committee to oversee the program.

"I'm familiar with Troy Don's work," Eichner said. "I think together we can get this thing going — if the country's willing to pay the price and do what it takes to spur economic development."

Eichner's speech fell on the deaf ears of a few picketers who were protesting at the inaugural ceremony. "This will just add another layer of bureaucracy to the government," moaned a protestor, who said the picketers represented a group called People Opposing Widespread Economic Rehabilitation.

Standing beside Niedzielski-Eichner was former President Jesse Jackson, who won the election four years ago when nobody else ran for the office due to lack of interest.

—Former game show hostess Vanna White, who went into a deep depression over "one too many stories in the Enquirer" and began a life of gluttony, checked herself in to the Dick Gregory Center for the Grossly Obese today.

People Magazine ran a nude picture of Vanna next to a picture of the magazine ran in 1988 of a man that weighed over 1,200 pounds. You couldn't have determined which was which without the captions at the bottom.

Vanna also tried to recreate one of the poses which was featured in a pictorial in Playboy in 1987, but the bed broke and the cat that had been laying across White's stomach became hopelessly lost in a mountain of lard and is thought to have been smothered to death.

—Texas school athletics suffered another blow today when Eric Perot, grandson of H. Ross Perot, recommended to a blue-ribbon panel appointed by Gov. Jesus Moya that athletes must make at least a 90 in all classes or be barred to the Moon for life.

"My granddaddy didn't go far enough back in the 1980s," Eric said. "It's not enough for an athlete to be very adequate in schoolwork. They should be close to perfect. Good isn't good enough."

Coaches began passing out bumper stickers that said "Will Rogers never met any of the Perots," and Jim Wood, son of legendary football coach Gordon Wood, and Alan Wartes began lobbying for Moya's impeachment in behalf of the Texas High School Coaches and Sixth Street in Austin Preservation Association.

"They don't have a leg to stand on," said Attorney General Bill Beardall. Moya's press secretary, Jane Grandolfo, said the governor was "busy out picketing onion fields and will have no comment."

—"What's good for Pantex is good for the area," eight-term U.S. Sen. Beau Boulter (R-Amarillo) said today as he broke a bottle of champagne over the guardshack at the plant's front entrance. The plant once made nuclear weapons, but, since the late 1990's, has been used to make "Child-proof" fireworks.

"Have you ever tried to light one of these things?" Boulter asked as he tried to start the display to commemorate the plant's anniversary. "I can't light it, but my great-great-grandson can. He's three years old."

—A cure for AIDS was discovered today.

It is a vaccine that was manufactured for "swine flu," which was determined to be a figment of the imagination of former President Gerald Ford in 1975.

"We knew this stuff had to be good for something," said Billy Grabarczewicz, a former major league baseball player who was better known by the way his name appeared in box scores, "Grbrwcz." Grabarczewicz has been the watchman in the warehouse where the 200 million doses of swine flu vaccine that were ordered by Ford for mass vaccination of the U.S. population were kept.

Ford, who was playing golf with Bob Hope, was elated. "I'm so happy I was able to do some good," Ford said before he fell over backwards into a sand trap.

"This is the second good thing Gerald has done in his life," said former President Richard Nixon, who was still trying to remember what he said in the missing 18 minutes so he could write another book.

Baby stuffed under sink

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (AP)

—A woman who gave birth in an airliner restroom, then left her newborn daughter stuffed beneath a sink is "very remorseful" and wants the child back, the woman's lawyer said.

Christina Marie Locasto, 24, surrendered to authorities early Thursday and pleaded innocent to felony child endangerment charges. She left the San Mateo County jail arm-in-arm with her husband after posting bail of $50,000.

Locasto, a New York City resident and the mother of two toddlers, faces up to six years in prison if convicted.

The blue-eyed, brown-haired baby was in good condition at Mills Memorial Hospital in San Mateo, which has received hundreds of calls from people offering to adopt the 8-pound, 9-ounce infant, spokeswoman Traci Ward said.

Mother says she wants her back

San Mateo County officials took temporary custody of the child, dubbed Elizabeth by a hospital nurse, after the infant was found swathed in bloody towels, crying beneath a sink on the United Airlines DC-10 on Wednesday.

The jetliner had just completed Flight 35 from Newark, N.J., to San Francisco. The child was believed to have been under the sink for six hours.

Louis Lacasto, 26, was unaware his wife was pregnant or had given birth aboard the plane, investigators said.

Flight attendants told investigators that as the jetliner crew was preparing for takeoff from Newark, a female passenger asked to use the bathroom. The flight was delayed for a half-hour as flight attendants knocked on the restroom door, urging the woman to come out so the trip could begin.

The woman finally emerged and joined her husband and their two children, investigators said. Flight attendants found the bathroom splattered with blood, but sealed it off in the belief the woman had an extreme case of diarrhea. It remained locked until after the plane landed.

About 20 minutes after the plane landed Wednesday morning at San Francisco International Airport, a cleaning crew found the infant crying amid a pile of blood-soaked towels under the sink. The Locastos left the airplane with other passengers.

After the flight, blood was found on one of the Locastos' airplane seats.

Using a passenger list, sheriff's detectives contacted the Locastos' relatives on the East Coast, and they in turn called relatives the couple were visiting in Los Altos, 25 miles south of San Francisco.

Locasto surrendered Thursday after her husband called sheriff's detectives.

None of the relatives were aware the woman was pregnant, said sheriff's Lt. Mike Dow.

"I am confident she did not plan to have the child on the plane," her attorney, John L. Williams, said after she appeared in court in an orange jail jumpsuit.

Williams described his client as "very remorseful, very distraught," adding she told him she wants to keep the baby. He refused to discuss the case further or reveal details of Locasto's background.

Assistant District Attorney Stephen Wagstaffe said he did not know why she left the child on the airplane, and would not say whether Locasto has a criminal record or a history of mental or other problems.

Dukakis says Jackson still friendly

By EVANS WITT
AP Political Writer

Democratic nominee-to-be Michael Dukakis insists he has a good relationship with Jesse Jackson even as his remaining rival asked former President Carter help resolve "the creative tensions" between them.

Four days before the Democratic National Convention opens, Jackson was on the road again, winding his way to Atlanta and threatening challenges until the final convention session.

"We will exercise all of our rights," Jackson said in Chicago before joining a seven-bus motor-cade. "It is an open convention. ... We are prepared to deliberate and debate, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday."

Jackson remained indignant over the handling of the selection of Texas Sen. Lloyd Bentsen as Dukakis's running mate.

"The Boston-Austin connection leaves Chicago out of the equation," he said. But he also spoke of reconciliation.

"We hope in the next three or four days that matters will be resolved," Jackson said at an Indianapolis news conference. He added that he expected a meeting with Dukakis at "some appropriate time."

Meanwhile, a new state poll suggested the choice of Bentsen had helped the Democratic ticket in Texas, adopted home state of Republican George Bush.

And Bush took advantage of his status as vice president, going to the United Nations to defend U.S. actions surrounding the downing of an Iranian airliner.

"I will not dignify with a response the charge that we deliberately destroyed Iran Air 655," Bush told the Security Council. "The foreign minister of Iran knows better. He knows that this tragedy was an accident."

Jackson spent the night in Indianapolis, and his bus caravan was taking him today to Louisville, Ky., and Nashville, Tenn.

Dukakis was spending today focusing on state government business in Boston.

The Massachusetts governor avoided public questioning on Jackson, but repeated in a CBS News interview that he had apologized to Jackson for failing to reach him before news of the choice of Lloyd Bentsen of Texas as his running mate.

Asked if he expects that television viewers will see Jackson on the podium for a unity picture on the last night of the convention next week, Dukakis was optimistic: "I expect that you will."

Jackson raised new possibilities as he began his bus trip, revealing that he had called Carter early Thursday morning to ask him to mediate.

"He has earned respect of all of us," Jackson said of the former president.

A Carter spokeswoman, Carrie Harmon, confirmed that Carter had spoken with Jackson by telephone, but said he would not comment on the conversation or whether he would get involved in any Jackson-Dukakis dispute.

Jackson said he had received an apology on Thursday from Dukakis campaign chairman Paul Brontas about the problems Tuesday. Bentsen called Jackson as well.

A Dukakis spokesman refused to comment directly on the Carter idea.

"Our campaigns have been talking throughout this process and we are confident they will continue to talk and that we are going to have a unified convention," said spokesman Mark Gearan.

Jackson insisted he was not simply angered about learning of Bentsen's choice from a reporter's question, although he did not spell out what his complaints are in detail.

"The issue for my constituency is not about the time of the call," Jackson said. "I simply want the respect and responsibility."

15-member council resumes debate

Iran slams US before Security Council

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Iran told the Security Council a U.S. warship deliberately shot down an Iranian airliner and killed all 290 people aboard, but Vice President George Bush said it fired in self-defense and that Iran bears responsibility.

The 15-member council was to resume debate today. Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar planned to meet President Reagan in Washington speak with Bush and U.N. Ambassador Vernon Walters.

U.N. officials said debate and consultations could continue through the weekend.

The Vincennes shot down the Iran Air Airbus A300 over the Persian Gulf on July 3. The United States maintains the crew mistook the plane for an F-14 fighter jet.

Iran requested the council meeting to seek condemnation of the U.S. action and demand withdrawal of all American forces from the gulf, but it was not expected to be able to muster the votes for a resolution of condemnation.

Debate adjourned Thursday after Bush and Iranian Foreign Minister Ali-Akbar Velayati accused each other's nations of responsibility for the tragedy.

Velayati called the destruction of the airliner and passengers "the most inhumane military attack in the history of civilian aviation ... a barbaric massacre."

Bush said the underlying cause of the airline disaster was Iran's refusal to accept a cease-fire in its 8-year-old war with Iraq.

Iraq says it will accept a year-old Security Council cease-fire resolution if Iran does, but the Iranians say no truce is possible until Iraq is branded the aggressor.

The vice president called the downing of the airliner a "terrible human tragedy" but said the United States has a legal right to protect Middle East shipping lanes.

The Vincennes and the USS Elmer Montgomery had skirmished with Iranian attack boats just before the jetliner entered the area.

The United States says the airliner did not respond to repeated questioning by the Vincennes about its identity, and the cruiser's captain believed it was an F-14 transmitting ambiguous signals and descending in attack pattern.

"After seven unanswered warnings," Bush said, the captain "did what he had to do to protect his ship and the lives of his crew."

Velayati read what he said was a transcript of a communication between Iran Air Flight 655, flying from a military-civilian airport at Bandar Abbas, Iran, across the Strait of Hormuz to Dubai in the United Arab Emirates, and the Bandar Abbas control tower just before the attack.

He said the tower told the pilot "Have a nice day," that the pilot replied, "Thank you. Good day," and that the controller answered, "Good day." The transcript contained no warnings from the Vincennes or communications with it.

"One question is whether the captain of the Vincennes actually warned the target that it intended to shoot ... or whether it simply decided to shoot on a target which was admittedly unidentified at the very least," he said.

Another question, Velayati said, "is why a warship had positioned itself right at the center of a civilian airway." He also said the plane was climbing, not descending toward the Vincennes.

"The shooting down of an Iranian civil airliner, flying on a scheduled flight known to the U.S. warships, and using an internationally established and published civilian airway and transmitting signals identifying itself as a civilian airliner could not have been a mistake," he said.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband and I have been together for 14 years. We are victims of infertility.

Every day I open the newspaper and read about someone leaving a newborn baby in a paper bag, in an abandoned car or in a trash can. I cry my eyes out. To go through a pregnancy and then jeopardize the life of a child is a cruel thing to do, especially when there are people who desperately want to adopt.

I once took a baby and mother home from the hospital where I worked because they had no place to stay. She had been sleeping in a park. The girl left the baby with me for several weeks and never even phoned to check on him. I fell in love with that child.

I called every agency I could think of to protect the baby from a mother who didn't want him. I got no assurances.

Finally the mother came to my door and asked for the child. I felt as though my son was being taken from me. It broke my heart, but I knew I had to give the child up. I couldn't eat or sleep for three months and lost 28 pounds. My doctor put me on tranquilizers.

Six months later, I received a call from the police. The mother had stabbed the girlfriend of the baby's father and was in jail. She wanted to see me. She told me that she had put the baby in a trash can in a certain park. I informed the police. They called back within four hours to say they had found the child. He had cigarette burns all over his body and needle marks on his legs and buttocks. The mother had injected him with medicine to make him sleep because she worked nights.

I was dying to take the baby, but the maternal grandmother said she wanted him. The disappointment broke my heart. I can't eat or sleep and life doesn't seem worth living.

My plea is to every mother who does not want her child. Please give him or her to a woman like me. Your child will have a loving home and a chance in life and you will feel good about yourself.—California Heart-break a suitable home for the child, not to satisfy the yearning of women who can't have their own. Good luck to you, dear.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I recently married. I have asked my mother to move my ex-husband's photos from the living room to the bedroom because neither my new husband nor I enjoy looking at them. She has three 8-by-10 color photographs of "Bill" in a very small living room. Wherever I sit, I see Bill staring at me.

I tried to explain in a nice way that I was not asking her to hate my former husband or to disassociate from him, I was only asking that she put the photos in the bedroom. She flatly refused, saying that nobody was going to tell her what to do in her own home. I find all this odd because Mother was never crazy about Bill when I was married to him.

Tell me, Ann, do I have the right to ask my mother to put Bill's photos in another room?—Iowa Reader

DEAR READER: You have the right to ask, and your mother has the right to refuse. It's her house.

You say she wasn't crazy about your former husband? I suspect she doesn't like this one, either. Displaying the ex's photos is probably a barb for both of you.

Hints from Heloise

COMPUTER TIP

Dear Heloise: I read your column on computer hints and thought I'd pass mine along.

I used to get eye strain and headaches from working on my computer all day. It made working a little uncomfortable.

When I went to my eye doctor for a regular eye checkup, I asked his advice on this. Since I needed reading glasses (to be also used with the computer), my doctor had them tinted brown because I work with green text. If you work on a computer with amber text, get your glasses tinted blue.

This has greatly minimized the eye strain that I felt. Hope this helps other people who work with computers.—A Software Engineer, Ash Fork, Ariz.

EARRING HOLDER

Dear Heloise: I was recently in a craft store and saw some of the plastic grid that is so popular. I bought a small sheet and use it to keep my pierced earrings organized. The earrings go through the holes and the backs hold them in place. This way I can see at a glance what I have to choose from.—J.J. Holmes, Hot Springs, Ark.

Extra Terrestrial Endeavor

Auxiliary meets for supper

Members of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 4818 served dinner of salads, strawberry shortcake and peach cobbler when they met Monday evening.

Following the meal, President Marta Williams presided over the regular business meeting when she asked members to bring toilet articles to the next meeting, Aug. 1. The items will be picked up by District President Anita Vardell and given to the patients at the V.A. Hospital in Amarillo.

Welcomed as guests were Bob Morris, Tommy Goheen and Earl and Homer Yokum.

Members present included Williams, Erma Murphey, Darlene Carroll, Terrye Rhyne, Mabel Yokum, Doris Wilson, Ruth Morris, Martha Bridges, Marie Goheen and Leone Buckley.

After Charles Lindbergh made history with the first solo flight across the Atlantic, he came home by ship.

Two Texas League teams are scores in 25 innings

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — After more than seven hours, 21 hits and 25 innings, the Jackson Mets and San Antonio Missions were where they were when the Texas League game started.

The score was 0-0 at 2:30 a.m. Friday when Texas League President Carl Sawatski suspended the game out of fear that players could be injured.

The game will resume at 8 p.m. Saturday before their regularly scheduled game. Team managers decided after the game was suspended that it would put a great strain on their pitching staff to resume before tonight's regular game.

When the game resumes, San Antonio will have only one player on the bench who will be eligible to enter the game and Jackson will not have any substitute available.

The 0-0 tie has already surpassed the Texas League record of 6:39 set in Tulsa's 11-7 win over Jackson on July 6, 1982. It was the first Texas League game ever to go over the seven-hour mark.

The deadlock also surpassed the longest scoreless league game between Cleburne and Fort Worth on July 23, 1966.

The 25 innings tied a league mark established by Austin and Dallas on June 17, 1965.

Only about 300 of the original 3,792 fans, a season high, were around when the game was finally called.

Eleven hurlers kept stringing up zeros on the scoreboard with the Missions managing 11 hits and the Mets 10 over the 25 innings.

Brian Givens, Rich Rodriguez, Jose Ramon, Virgil Conley and Kevin Tapani were the pitchers for Jackson. Greg LaFever, Mike Munoz, Mike Hartley, Phil Torres, Jim Hickey and Barry Wohler hurried for the Missions.

If there were any bright spots for the Missions offensively, it was the fact that Walt McConnell stretched his hitting string to a team season high 13 games and Domingo Michel increased his hitting streak to nine games.

McConnell also starred defensively, helping the Missions work around four errors by throwing out two runners at home.

The third baseman saved a run in the 24th inning by throwing out Rick Lundblade at the plate for the inning's second out. Lundblade had advanced to third from first after a routine fly ball to right field was dropped.

Jackson had the best chance to score in regulation in the fifth inning.

Mike DeButch singled and advanced to second on an outfield error in the fifth. Chris Jelic walked, and both runners advanced on a LaFever balk.

Givens, however, struck out, DeButch was nailed at the plate by McConnell on Alan Hayden's infield grounder and Jelic was picked off third on an errant double steal attempt.

The Mets loaded the bases with two outs in the 13th inning off Hartley, but Jeff Gardner's grounder provided the third out.

In the 14th, DeButch had an infield single and stole second. Two outs later, Hayden beat out an infield hit, advancing DeButch to third. After Hayden stole second, Torres made a brilliant stab of Garner's grounder to end the threat.

San Antonio had its first runner reach second with two outs in the seventh inning. McConnell singled and Luiz Lopez reached first on an error. Mike Batesole flied to center to end the inning.

In the eighth inning, Manny Francois of San Antonio singled and advanced to second on Juan Bustabad's sacrifice. Francois stole third and pinchhitter struck out for the second out. He was stranded on third when Miguel Santana grounded out to second.

Francois was the only San Antonio player to reach third base in regulation.

Bustabad doubled with one out off Ramon in the bottom of the 13th and Ramon settled down to get Wayne Kirby on an infield fly and Santana on a weak liner to shortstop.

The Deaf Smith County Kids Inc. Babe Ruth League all-stars lost to Plainview 9-6 Wednesday night, and the Tulia all-stars lost to Plainview 22-8 Thursday night.

Plainview's David Juarez hit a grand slam home run and batted in seven runs to lead his team to victory over Tulia.

The championship game between today's winner and Plainview is scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday. If a second championship game is necessary, it will be played right after the first championship game.

In U.S. tae kwon do tournament in Florida

Hereford girl places second in nation

A 10-year-old girl from Hereford won a silver medal in the U.S. National Tae Kwon Do Tournament last week in Tampa, Fla.

Marie Crox finished in second place by just one half point — 20½ to 20 — in the championship fight of the brown belt lightweight division.

She was also voted the national all-around female for scoring more points in all her tournament rounds than any other female in the eight-year history of the national tournament.

Crox totaled 71 points in six fights. Her first five fights were two-round matches, and the championship fight was three rounds.

Five other youth from Hereford, all boys, also went to Florida for the national tournament. One of them, Ralph Claudio, brought home a gold medal but suffered the disappointment of not having any competitors in the 10-year-old black belt division.

Claudio's opponents for his first four scheduled matches were no-shows, and the only individual who was at the tournament in the division forfeited the championship fight.

Victor Diaz, Brian Torres and Danny Eberly each placed fifth in their divisions. Diaz competed in the 13-year-old black belt lightweight division, Torres was in the 10-year-old black belt lightweight division, and Eberly competed in the 14-year-old green belt lightweight division.

Hereford's other national qualifier, Wade McPherson, suffered from an illness at the tournament and finished in 11th place in the 10-year-old black belt lightweight division.

Their instructor and coach, Loopy

Crox, reported that 3,800 individuals were entered in the national tournament. The 1989 national tournament will be held in Rochester, Minn.

"These kids are among the best competitors in the whole world," instructor Crox said. "Now Hereford is known throughout the United States for these outstanding competitors."

"We are competing against the biggest tae kwon do schools in the United States."

Marie Crox qualified for the national tournament by placing third in the Texas State Junior Tae Kwon Do Championships at Dallas in May.

Also at the state tournament, Diaz had a pair of second place finishes. Torres and McPherson also placed second in their divisions, and Eberly placed third.

Claudio qualified for nationals by placing second in a Junior Olympic tournament in Tulsa late last year.

BOTTLED WATER COSTS

LODI, N.J. (AP) — Bottled water continues to grow in popularity, but for the most part it is a blind item to the average consumer, says Charles Norris, president of Deer Park Spring Water.

Norris says, "Most people buy it because it tastes better than tap water but many don't know if they are overpaying and exactly what they are getting for their money."

Norris says the price of bottled water can range from 59 cents to $1.29 a gallon, with the average about 89 cents.

Deli foods prompt safety concerns

The combination of summer heat, uninsulated containers and prepared deli foods can add up to an unwelcome bout of food-borne illness.

There's no doubt that supermarket delis are the latest fast food phenomenon. Industry figures show that almost 62 percent of supermarkets now have delis with salad bars and prepared foods for a quick lunch, completely prepared dinner or instant picnic.

It's not the deli food itself that has food safety experts concerned, but how people handle the food once they buy it.

"In-store delis and salad bars have to meet health department standards in keeping hot foods at 140 degrees and cold foods below 40 degrees. In both cases that inhibits the growth of bacteria in the food," said Dr. Dymple Cooksey, a nutrition specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"But if you buy a carton of cold food, take it out to a hot car and then run a few errands before you eat it, the food may become warm enough for rapid growth of bacteria," she said.

"Protein foods, such as those containing meat, eggs, poultry and milk are most susceptible to the growth of salmonella bacteria when not handled properly," said the specialist.

"Many of the most popular deli items, like smoked meats, potato or macaroni salads and puddings fit in this category," she said.

The specialist said that when planning a picnic of deli foods, it's safest to buy hot foods as close to your destination as possible so they can be eaten right away.

"Carry an insulated cooler with ice for cold deli foods. Cardboard or styrofoam containers do not provide adequate insulation," she said.

"If you buy prepared foods for dinner, be sure to take them right home and serve immediately. After the meal, promptly refrigerate the cartons of leftovers," said Cooksey.

Whenever cartons of food have been sitting out for more than two hours, the specialist said they should be discarded.

"With a few precautions, consumers can enjoy the convenience of supermarket delis without the discomfort of flu-like symptoms from a food-borne illness," she said.

ASK DR. LAMB

DEAR DR. LAMB: Our son is 15 years old. He is trying to gain weight. He is 6 feet tall and weighs 140 pounds. He plays basketball every day, does weight lifting and runs a mile every day. He eats like a horse and drinks milk shakes for extra calories, yet he has a difficult time gaining. Any suggestions would be appreciated.

DEAR READER: I have mentioned several times — usually in relation to losing weight — that the brain has a significant role in controlling how much people weigh. That is equally true in terms of gaining weight. We consume energy as calories. Our brain controls our appetite. We lose most of our calories through our skin, from the control of circulation through the skin and such mechanisms as sweating, which is also controlled by the brain. If you try to weigh more than you should, your brain turns on the heat-loss mechanism and out go the calories. If you try to weigh less than you should, the brain shuts down the heat-loss mechanism and you conserve calories.

Your son may weigh exactly what he is supposed to weigh in terms of body fat. But he can grow muscles. Muscle growth is stimulated through strength exercises, and if he does weight lifting properly, he can develop increased muscle size and strength. He is just now at the age when his increased production of male hormones will help with this. Testosterone does stimulate muscular development.

Muscular development also depends on proper nutrition. That means enough protein to grow new muscle and enough calories for his body's needs so that the protein is not used for energy instead of muscle growth. I have discussed nutrition in this regard in my new Special Report 92, Strength Training for Health, which I'm sending you. Have your son read it. Others who want this report can send $1 with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to THE HEALTH LETTER/92, P.O. Box 19622, Irvine, CA 92713.

Bell hits grand slam, Astros beat Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Buddy Bell picked the right spot to hit his first home run of the season.

The Houston third baseman capped a five-run first inning with a grand slam as the Astros won their fourth straight, 7-5, over the Philadelphia Phillies.

"It was a long time coming," said Bell, of the seventh slam of his 18-year career. "I've hit some balls better in the Astrodome, but let's be honest, the Dome's too big for me."

Bell was used sparingly at Cincinnati before being acquired by Houston June 18.

"Because I'd hardly played, my timing was off," Bell said. "I'm finally starting to feel good at the plate. I've been doing an awful lot of hitting (batting practice), but there's nothing like batting in real games."

The Phillies pecked away at the Houston lead, aided by home runs by Juan Samuel and Mike Schmidt. Schmidt's was the 537th of his career and moved him past Mickey Mantle into seventh on the all-time list.

Reggie Jackson is sixth, with 503. The Phillies finally tied the score in the seventh when Samuel tripled in Greg Gross and scored on Schmidt's infield single.

Houston rallied for two runs in the ninth. Rafael Ramirez singled off loser Kent Tekulve, 2-6, scoring Billy Hatcher, who had doubled. Bill Dorhan's bases-loaded walk off Steve Bedrosian gave Houston an insurance run.

The Astros stranded 10 runners during the first four innings and left a total of 14 on base.

"We had a lot of chances to score, but couldn't do it," said Houston Manager Hal Lanier. "Usually, you lose games like that. So it was great to come back like we did."

Mike Scott, just off the 21-day disabled list with a pulled left hamstring, pitched six strong innings for the Astros, while Juan Agosto, 7-0, was the winner, with Dave Smith gaining his 15th save.

Wegman, with relief help, leads Brewers over Rangers

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Milwaukee Brewers right-hander Bill Wegman may be one of the hottest pitchers in the American League, but he couldn't handle the Texas heat.

Wegman, who scattered five hits over six innings and got support from Robin Yount's 3-for-4, needed relief from Paul Mirabella and Chuck Crim as the Brewers won their fourth straight and improved their record to 6-1 on the current road trip, 6-2 over the Texas Rangers Thursday night.

"I don't like to say I ran out of gas because I keep myself in pretty good shape, but I did," Wegman said. "The heat caught up to me. I could really feel myself start to lose it."

Wegman, 9-6, improved to 5-1 and over his last eight starts and won his third in a row since coming off the disabled list on June 7. Wegman is 3-0 in six career starts against Texas.

Crim pitched two innings of perfect relief for his fifth save.

"I don't know if it's that I'm on a roll or what," Wegman said. "We straightened out some things. I went on the DL because I was throwing across my body and my mechanics were bad. I was straining my elbow. Since then I've changed some things and they've helped."

Milwaukee manager Tom

Trebelhorn removed Wegman after one batter in the seventh.

"He was out of gas," Trebelhorn said. "If he's out of gas, he's out of gas."

"To come back from the DL and pitch as effectively as he has is amazing. What's really amazing is that he's pitched his best after coming back."

Rangers starter Charlie Hough, 8-10, dropped his ninth straight career decision to Milwaukee and saw his lifetime record against the Brewers fall to 1-9.

Texas lost its third straight and sixth in its last eight games.

The Brewers grabbed a 3-0 lead in the second when Jim Adduci drove in one run with a ground-out and Charlie O'Brien chased home two more with a single.

Milwaukee, which has six players on the disabled list, had two rookies and Billy Jo Robidoux, who hadn't driven in a run all season, in the starting lineup. Robidoux drove in two runs after failing to get an RBI in 70 consecutive at-bats.

Hough got into major problems in the sixth, walking two after two were out to load the bases. Dale Mohoric came on in relief and hit Paul Molitor with his first, and only, pitch, to force in a run before Ed Vande Berg came on to retire the side.
